Politicos Predict —For Opposition!

Springfield politics took an unusual turn this week, with high Democratic and Republican leaders declining to comment on the identity of their own candidates for the two Township Committee seats which will be filled in November, but gladly predicting who will constitute the opposition.

The pressure is intensified by the fact that next Thursday is the deadline for the filing of petitions to run in the June 1 primary elections. Recent developments in Trenton, where a deadlock over reapportionment of the State Senate now appears to have been surmounted, now greatly increase chances of maintaining the June 1 primary, and the April 22 filing deadline.

Springfield Democrats were scheduled to meet last night at the home of Wallace Callen for at least preliminary talks on the choice of candidates. The Republicans will deliberate Monday evening at the Little House, behind the Springfield Steak House on Rt. 22.

The two Township Committees whose terms expire are both Republicans: Robert G. Ploner and Phillip Del Vecchio, who is also GOP municipal chairman. Ploner has indicated that business pressures may prevent him from seeking reelection. Del Vecchio has declined all comment on his own plans.

Dayton Principal Named To Board On Scholarships

Robert E. LaVanture, principal of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, has been appointed to a four-year term as a member of the scholarship board of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, according to Ellsworth Tompkins, executive secretary of the organization.

The annual meeting of the scholarship board will be held in Princeton, April 25-27. This year the scholarship board will provide scholarships to some 170 honor students from all over the country, to amounts totaling $131,000.

The administration of the scholarship program is placed in the hands of a five-man board composed of Tompkins and four principals representing all sections of the country: LaVanture from Springfield; Kenneth F. Hick of Jonesville, Wis.; Richard F. Stauffer from La Due, Mo.; and Woodrow Watts from Houston, Tex.

Expanded Business Area Seen With Focus In Pedestrian Mall

A detailed outline for redevelopment of an enlarged downtown business area is a major portion of the Master Plan for Springfield's growth for the next 20 years which was announced recently by the Planning Board.

The board will hold a public hearing on the Master Plan May 27 at the Florence Grudiner School, with less formal "seminars" scheduled at Town Hall on April 22 and 29 and May 13 and 20.

Extending from S. Maple ave. to Rt. 78 at Keeler ave., the proposed business area would have as its center a pedestrian mall where the present Main st. would end at the new super-highway.

Along the mall would be the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, an expanded library and possibly a relocated Cannonball House. A commercial zone would stretch along Morris ave. — an expanded medium density residential zone of garden apartments and two-family houses, as a buffer zone abutting the low density residential areas.

Primary objectives of the Master Plan proposals are the following:

Primary Objectives

- "to develop a compact core of business and office uses, developed in depth, so as to supplement shopping facilities;
- "to permit the orderly expansion of a growing downtown area which will be integrated with the re-

Officials Fear 'Divisive' Effect

After more than two hours of heated and emotional, but rarely intemperate public discussion, the Township Committee voted, three to two, to accept a "One Nation under God" pennant which had been offered last week by a group of local organizations led by the Continental American Legion Post. An overflow crowd of 150 persons took part in the meeting.

Committee member Robert G. Ploner, with some misgivings over the divisive atmosphere here and expressing "hope that this not become a permanent barrier among the people of our community," moved for acceptance of the offer. He termed his motion "by far the most difficult I have ever had to make."

With Mayor William C. Koonz and Committee member Phillip Del Vecchio joining in support of the motion, a vote of 3-2 was achieved. Committee members Jay B. Bloom and Arthur M. Falkin were opposed.

Bloom expressed concern over the strongly emotional aspects of the entire issue, as did all his colleagues. He declared that the American flag "stands for much more than the pledge of allegiance, and particularly the one phrase quoted here. The pennant will not have the religious effect intended by its sponsors here."

"It was first conceived as a protest against the Supreme Court decision" on state-sponsored prayers in the public schools, and "although this purpose is vehemently denied by the proponents here, our approval will be widely interpreted as a protest."

Objective Decision

Del Vecchio outlined the reasons for his yes vote by reading a lengthy statement which he had prepared in his search for an "objective decision." He termed his vote directed against a growing "religion of secularism."

LATE HOURS SET FOR NEW VOTERS' PARTY HOPEFULS

Mrs. Elmore Worthington, township clerk, this week announced that her office will stay open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and next Thursday to register new voters for the June 1 primary elections.

She announced she will also accept petitions filed by candidates who plan to run in the primaries. The deadline for voter registration is set at 9 p.m. next Thursday, April 22. Candidates must file their petitions by 3 p.m. next Thursday.

Hubcap Bandits Take Advantage Of PTA Members

Several parents and teachers who attended a PTA meeting at the Pethin Sandmeier School Monday night to hear a talk on emotional problems given by Dr. Albert Bromberg, psychiatrist, encountered their own stress situations when they returned to their cars in the school parking lot and found them vandalized.

Police said vandals, who took caps, floor mats, a battery and articles of clothing from minivans while their owners were attending the meeting. A number of cars were damaged.

The following items were listed as missing:

NELSON STAMLER WITHDRAWS BID FOR GOVERNOR

State Senator Nelson E. Stamler of Union Township has withdrawn from the Republican gubernatorial nomination race and thrown his support to Warren County Senator Wayne Dumont Jr.

Stamler said today that he and Union County Republican Chairman Jay A. Stehmer of Clark would back Dumont despite their misgivings over the Warren County lawmaker's stand favoring a broad-based tax.

Stamler is expected to run for another term as state senator.

Expanded Sunrise Service Easter Morning

Springfield's annual combined Easter morning sunrise service will be held Sunday at 8 a.m. in the Presbyterian Cemetery on Main st., under the joint sponsorship of the youth groups of the Antioch Baptist, Emanuel Methodist and First Presbyterian churches.

The Rev. Donald C. Weber, associate minister of the Presbyterian Church, will speak on "Sunset and Sunrise." A chorus of young people from the three churches will sing "In the Garden," accompanied by Howard Mason of the Methodist Church. The Rev. Clarence Aiston, pastor of Antioch Baptist, will pronounce the benediction.

Young people taking part will be Judy Baldwin, Cheryl Boyle, Nancy Mumford and Ricky Eskin. Ushers will be the presidents of the three youth groups, Rick Moore, Edward Andrews and Darrell Brooks. In the event of rain, the service will be held in the Presbyterian Parish House, 37 Main st.

Exhibits At Library For Two Holy Days

In the Children's Department of the Springfield Public Library, several colorful exhibits herald the Easter and Passover seasons, says Mrs. Helen S. Keller, children's librarian.

On the main bulletin board we find the traditional Easter bunny has become a most interesting person, explains Mrs. Keller. "He sits reading, surrounded by books of Easter legends such as 'Easter Kitten,' 'Whiskers of Ho-Ho,' 'Piccolina and the Easter Bell' and 'Peter Cottontail.'"

The name for Easter in some languages comes from the Hebrew Pessah or Passover, according to Mrs. Keller. She explains that in Italian, Easter is Pasqua, in Spanish it is Pascua and in French it is Pasquet.

Jews celebrate the Passover festival about the same time of year as Easter. The celebration commemorates the Israel exodus from Egypt and the feast which users in the festival is called the Seder.

An exhibit with children's books about Passover has been arranged in the picture book corner of the Children's Room. There is a chart describing the order of the Passover Seder. Two new books written by Hyman and Alice Chanover have been added. They are Pesach is Coming and Pesach is Here.

Diane Ogonowsky, Judy Steinhardt and Jackie Krasser have placed an Easter egg tree on display, and Mrs. Keller says, "It is so artistic and so creative that a detailed description is impossible."

"Colorful Easter eggs symbolize the new life that begins in the springtime of the year. Rabbits have been the symbol of birth and new life for many thousands of years," she explains.

MRS. HENRY GEORGE

"It's really a pleasure to see people getting along so well together — people living in the same neighborhood," exclaimed Mrs. Henry George of Springfield the other day. Mrs. George was referring, of course, to the more than 50 members who comprise one of the town's oldest civic associations, the Country Oaks Association.

Mrs. George, one of the earliest members of the group, who served in many official capacities, is presently secretary of the Country Oaks Association.

"A very interesting thing about our group," she declared, "is the fact that our members come from every walk of life. They are of all faiths, all ages, all businesses and professions. This is one of the reasons the association is endeared to me," she said.

"And it is for the same reason I like the Red Cross," she added.

"Our organization has contributed to the safety and growth of Springfield, and it has grown amazingly with the town.

"WE HAVE JUST had our 204th consecutive meeting," Mrs. George said. "We had started in the early 1940s as a neighborhood association, so that people could protect their own existence."

"As far as politics were concerned," she went on, "we would have neutral presentations by all candidates seeking office and never allow any to become partisan. We were very fortunate to have a president who was very wise. Our members weren't all Democrats, or all Republicans."

"In helping to contribute to the safety of neighbors, some years ago, our members pressed for installation of overhead traffic lights at the corner of Milltown rd. and Meisel ave."

"It seems," she said, "that there were accidents there every week. Well, we pushed so hard, we managed to get those traffic lights. And believe me," she asserted, "it reduced accidents to a great degree."

"When we discovered that wasn't quite enough — for the safety of our youngsters," Mrs. George said, "we then pushed to have a school guard stationed there. Youngsters used to cross that street alone and we called attention to this particular danger."

"We have a guard there now," she said, "and I believe the guard we have there now is one of the first school guards in town."

A SIMILAR SITUATION, Mrs. George pointed out, "was the problem facing the residents on Evergreen and South Springfield avenues. During the rush hour, it takes about 15 minutes for one to get across that dangerous street. We're working toward some safety measures in that direction."

"We really have some interesting programs at our meetings," Mrs. George said. "Very recently, we had Richard Coia, chief administrator of Sandy Hook State Park, as a guest speaker."

"And we're planning to have an old-fashion auction next month. You see," she laughed, "we believe in keeping fun in our organization."

"And it's been proven, too. It just seems as if some compelling force has held us together all these years. We have such a variety of people in our group."

"Take Fred Colatruglio... he's a farmer in Springfield."

"And there's a former movie queen in our organization, Anna (Held) Speicher, along with her husband, Harry Speicher, who is an engineer."

"OUR PRESIDENT, Richard Schmitter, is an advertising man, and we have two men who are in the petroleum business — Fred Boisinger and William Valois."

"Carl Ledig is in the drug manufacturing business and his wife, who also is one of the original members, serves as our treasurer. Henry Kiegl is in the railroad business, and William McLeonard is in the insurance business."

"We also have Mrs. Amy Handomer — a well known politician and a splendid human being."

"Let's not forget my husband, Henry George. He's in the hospital supply business, and he's business manager for the Newark Eye and Ear Hospital."

"That's just to mention a few," she said.

Mrs. George also cited the fact that when the group was first organized it was a "nebulous group. We used to meet now and then. We were like a shifting group. A few of us have more or less been the backbone of it, however. Marian Haubold, for example, was secretary; she does publicity for the organization now."

"WE'RE CONSIDERED the old guard now. In 1948," Mrs. George said, "we

BASEBALL PROGRAM

An article in your April 8 issue quoted Coach John Swedisch of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School as saying that most of the players on his freshman baseball squad "are in the Springfield Recreation Commission Babe Ruth program."

Coach Swedisch obviously is appreciative of what the township Recreation Commission and the Babe Ruth program are doing for the youth of Springfield. And rightfully so.

However, he, like so many other citizens, errs when he couples the names of the Recreation Commission and the Babe Ruth League.

Neither the Springfield Rec-recreation Commission nor any other township department has any direct connection with the Babe Ruth League or its younger brother, the Springfield Youth League.

Not a penny of tax money is used in direct support of any part of these two youth baseball programs. The two leagues are operated by Springfield Junior Baseball Leagues, Inc., a non-profit volunteer organization which is entirely dependent for its operating funds upon contributions from the business firms and private citizens of Springfield.

Our youth baseball programs in Springfield have been privileged with the support of township officials from the beginning. This year Mayor Koonz, Commissioner Falkin and Recreation Commissioner Ruby and Assistant Commissioner Donington have been especially helpful.

However, this official help has been confined to playing fields, to the provision and maintenance of the township-owned fields on which some of the league-sanctioned games will be played.

There will be no township help in raising the money nor in providing the administration required for successful operation of the program. These matters will be handled by the volunteers in Springfield Junior Baseball Leagues, Inc.

On April 24, the Springfield boys who benefit from this program will solicit contributions on a door-to-door, neighbor-to-neighbor fund-raising campaign. Business firms will be invited to contribute by mail. We hope the citizens and businesses of Springfield will remember that their generosity is the only financial support the boys can count on to maintain these activities.

We are very much in favor of flying the "Under God" pennant from the municipal flag poles in Springfield. The whole discussion is rather insane. God does reign and rule whether anyone likes it or not.

Brief Comments On 'Peace Week'

With Mayor William E. Koonz having proclaimed "Peace Week" for Springfield, to start on Easter Sunday, this might be a good time to try to define what kind of peace the world wants, and then how it can be achieved or at least approximated.

Most Americans seek a world dedicated to the enjoyment of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The Russians want liberty (as they define it) and the pursuit of the goals of the super-state. The Chinese want a world-wide concentration camp, where everyone will be equally wretched.

No sane person wants the alternative of a nuclear holocaust, even though the Chinese, with more lives and less liberty, can contemplate the ultimate disaster with a little less horror.

Before we can even dream about world peace, however, we have to reach some sort of an answer to the problems of a remote, backward patch of jungle where no one has any business being except the few surviving Vietnamese.

At the same time, no American negotiator can dream of giving the Chinese a gold-plated key to all of Southeast Asia. No Chinese leader can risk a loss of face, giving his own wretched millions a glimpse of freedom. The Russians might like to see both sides dragged into the bottomless pit, but they, too, realize that there are too many fingers poised at too many missile control buttons.

Our major hope is the United Nations, where the world's best talents seek continuation of the civilized world.

To sum up the problem, a settlement in Viet Nam will certainly not insure world survival. Failure in Viet Nam, however, would sketch mushroom-shaped clouds in too many skies. Someone, somewhere, must know the answer. We don't.

Easter Offers Mankind Eternity Of Forgiveness

By PASTOR LESTER F. MESSERSCHMIDT, Holy Cross Lutheran Church

Psychologists tell us that men have three great fears — poverty, insanity and death. Death is the most feared of all. From earliest times people have been haunted by the impending and awful finality of death and their utter helplessness to do anything about it.

The hearts of men have always cried out for a life that is unending. The age-old question, "If a man dies, shall he live again?" remained a riddle, except for those who found an answer in faith. Then came the Son of God, the Redeemer. He took on a human body. His enemies killed him. His friends put him into the grave.

On Easter morning, God restored Him to life. Christ had remained in the tomb the question of immortality would have been answered with a shocking "no." "If a man dies, he shall not live again."

Easter is the anniversary of Christ's resurrection. Unfortunately, we have a way of celebrating Easter that is secondary in importance that the real purpose of the celebration is almost lost. What good is Easter, if our faith is not clined to give more serious strengthened in the resurrection and eternal life?

Easter commemorates one of the greatest facts and miracles of all history, and yet many are in thought to their matters. Now, that, a family dinner, the Sunday newspaper, walking in the Easter parade or on the boardwalk, the problems of our times, a drive in the country, a visit with friends.

It is easy to observe Easter in an enthusiastic yet superficial way, so that the true message of Easter does not get through to the soul. May God help us to catch the thrilling joy of the angel's message at the empty tomb of Christ. "The Lord is risen!"

May God help us rightly to understand and to embrace that supreme truth set forth by Christ in His comforting assurance to Martha at the death of her brother Lazarus: "I am the Resurrection, and the Life; he who believes in Me, though he die, yet shall he live; and whosoever lives and believes in Me, shall never die." (John 11:25-26) Easter is our promise from God Himself that in Christ we can live forever.

You can have complete confidence that the Easter story is true. No event in history has been so clearly substantiated as this one. In the case of our Lord's resurrection, the story was written by eyewitnesses themselves. This is primary source material of the highest credibility, written by men who never had any idea before that first Easter morning of spending their whole lives telling a story like this one.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ assures Christians all over the world of the truth of their religion. The forgiveness of sins is real because of His resurrection, and eternal life is no longer a mere possibility, or even a future probability, but a present actuality. Christ's resurrection is the ultimate fact of the Gospel the Church of Christ preaches and the faith it professes.

SERVICE WORKERS — Active in service phases of the American Cancer Society in Springfield are, from left, Mrs. John Moore, Mrs. Edward Schubert, the chairman, and Mrs. John Canley. Current Cancer Crusade in Springfield seeks to raise $3,800.

Check-Ups Can Defeat Cancer Donations Needed To Help Research

"The best way to fight cancer is with regular medical examinations," said Mrs. Edward Schubert, chairman of the Springfield cancer dressing unit. "In my own case, the examination caught the disease early enough so that I am still here today, as an arrested case."

"The one other vital action we can take is with our contributions to the 1965 Cancer Crusade. I feel that donations to the American Cancer Society and its research program will eventually find the solution for cancer—and put our local dressing unit out of business."

Mrs. Schubert heads a group of 15 women who meet each month at her home, 284 Northview ter., to make dressings which are distributed through the headquarters in Elizabeth.

"If anyone should need cancer dressings," Mrs. Schubert stressed, "he should speak to me. Our service is available at any time, in case of emergency."

SHE RECALLED that "we lost my mother-in-law to cancer four years ago. I had the job of trying to get dressings for her during her illness, and it involved a great deal of traveling. This was in another community, but it gave me the idea that a dressing unit would be useful in Springfield."

"So far, we have not had any call for dressings within the township, but we always keep a supply on hand should a local need arise."

Mrs. Schubert is a past president and is now public welfare chairman of the Springfield Woman's Club, and the members of her dressing unit are all club members.

Beside the Woman's Club and the Cancer Society project, Mrs. Schubert is active in the PTA at the Florence Gaudinier School, where her daughter, Margaret, is a student, and in the Holy Cross Lutheran Church. Her husband is plant manager of Duralee Chemical Corp., Newark.

Summing up her work with the dressing unit, Mrs. Schubert commented, "Our greatest satisfaction is the knowledge that we are helping someone who is much less fortunate than we are—someone who would have no other place to get cancer dressings in this vicinity if our small unit did not exist."

Popovers that can't fail

- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon melted butter or oil
- 1 electric range

WITHOUT A FEAR of failure go right ahead and combine the ingredients in the order given. Then confidently beat them together with an electric beater. Grease six custard cups and fill halfway with the blended ingredients. Now comes the reassuring part. Put in the preheated electric oven and bake at 375° for 45 to 50 minutes. If you've mixed everything correctly, you can't fail. The reason why popovers often don't pop is that the oven temperature is not steady. That can't happen here. Because it's flameless, the electric oven can be sealed-in with insulation all around, top and bottom. Heat won't fluctuate.

THE FEMININE LOOK

Commentary on a recent National Editorial Association Study Mission Around South America

By TRUDINA HOWARD

ONE OF THE LOOKS of the city of Buenos Aires — the Hotel Plaza in the Florida street area of town. A large city park is opposite the hotel and a Scandinavian shop is at the right which is part of Florida st., the "in" place to shop in Buenos Aires on a beautiful day. According to our beautiful guide who was very appropriately named "Gloria," the "in" place to go at night was the Zum Zum Club located on a side street similar to that on the right of the hotel. There, Gloria said, you could dance — discotheque style — in style.

Seventh of a Series ARGENTINA'S B. A.

Rio de Janeiro is a water city. The accent is on the harbor and the beaches and the views of them, and no matter where you are in the city you take somehow aware of the water.

Buenos Aires on the other hand, is a land-lubber. Yet it also is on the water, and as a matter of fact, it is at the mouth of the very large River Plate or Rio de la Plata. But its closest good swimming beach is some hundred miles away, and no one really goes out of the way to look at the waterfront as a view. In Buenos Aires one looks at the Avenue of July Ninth, which claims to be the widest street in the world, and one looks at the City, which claims to be the largest in the southern hemisphere and the seventh largest in the world.

One of the first things we saw though were "Person" signs scribbled in white paint on walls of buildings and other surfaces. It made us wonder about Argentina, but we were told more about that later.

Buenos Aires, meaning "Good Air," and called "B. A." by some, was the next stop after Rio de Janeiro for our National Editorial Association Study Mission Group, and it was a two-hour, 45 minute flight on a DC-8 jet from Rio.

BA is a clean looking city although some people in our group felt that some sidewalks, some streets and some buildings needed up-keep. One man was particularly disturbed over one sign that was more than a year old and had simply never been removed. It said, "Zankke go home."

Nevertheless, outside of its unauthorized signs, BA did look neat. It has a great many wide avenues, parks, trees, flamboyant lights at night, large office buildings, night clubs, subways and confiterias. And Calle Florida.

A confiteria is not a misspelling for cafeteria as you might suspect, but a pastry shop. There is, however, an added quality. Sandwiches and cocktails as well as tea and pastries, are served in them. It is an established Buenos Aires habit to snack at a confiteria at dusk. It is also a custom to go walking on Calle Florida (Florida street) at 6 p.m., where some of the best leather and jewelry shops are located as well as clothing shops. But you do not go to purchase anything, you go to look at people and have them look at you.

Being a tourist, I broke the rules and bought something. I became the owner of a cocktail dress, custom made, and at a summer sale price (it was January!) of 3,000 pesos. Sounds terribly impressive, sir, but it was only $40!

I also found an excellent champagne for 40 U.S.-cents-a-bottle. (In a super market and not on Florida st.) but bottled water at the hotel was one dollar!

IT WAS HOT in Buenos Aires, and on a Sunday morning we went into the country to a small river town called "Tigre" where little boats go up and down a small river and little houses are scattered all along the river front. We went on one of the little boats and while we were brooding the river, a man in one of the little houses cried, "God Bless America!" which should have made up for the other sign. From there we went further out to an old hacienda which was a restaurant and had a gaucho style barbecue called "asado". The meat is cooked vertically over a blazing wood fire and is basted with fat running down its length.

It was so hot, however, and the fire so thick, we were rather glad to return to our air-conditioned hotel in B.A.

The food in Argentina was good. One night we had tournados that were exceptional. Chicken ala King was delicious but lamb chops were thin and tiny and very well done. Pork was available too, but of course, beef was the main meat and it was generally done the same as in the United States. Most of our members thought the U. S. beef was better. The hotel menu was in French and they offered an Italian style antipasto with

Dr. Russell Kirk Backs Position Of Conservative

Dr. Russell Kirk, chief philosopher of the new American conservatism, spoke at Newark State College, Union, Monday, on "The Future of American Conservatism."

Defending the conservative position, Dr. Kirk remarked that "there must be a balance between the forces of permanence and those of change." He went on to say that in the U.S. today there is a great deal of change going on and it will continue to go on. "It is the duty and responsibility of the conservative to exert some check on the progression of this change and reconcile it with the standing norms—the first principle that our society was founded on," he said.

Political and social change, Dr. Kirk continued, is absolutely necessary to our preservation as a society; when old systems are no longer functional and become detrimental to our growth, we must change or die. The conservative, then, must see that this change does not "break the great continuity and essence of our civilization."

Dr. Kirk went on to say that many people have the mistaken idea that "the conservative is the person who is merely in favor of the status quo." However, if the status quo means a system of domination, a destruction of justice and freedom, then the conservative takes what would be called a liberal position. Therefore, Dr. Kirk continued, the definition of the conservative position is always relative to the circumstances of society at any given time.

The conservative is always against ideology, ideology being defined as "political fanaticism." The ideology, stated Dr. Kirk, is the person who says, "I follow the earthy paradise." The conservative recognizes that there is no earthly paradise and that man is not perfectable and neither is his society. Therefore, the conservative tries to undo the effect of the fanatic ideologue, and this is why at times he may seem like a radical.

Dr. Kirk emphasized that Americans are the most conservative people of modern times. We are attached very strongly to a number of things such as political freedom, religious foundation, etc., and conservatism in this country is not a matter of one political party, but rather it permeates all parties.

He predicted that conservative interest and opinion will increase in the next few years in this country because of the challenges that face us right now. The first challenge is one of the "armed doctrine," or Communism. The natural defense to take against this "armed doctrine" or ideology is one of conservatism, or a liberal defense of the principles on which this country was founded.

The second challenge that faces us is the internal one of a "drift to a mass society," Dr.

Theresa Gargalowitz' Family Seeks Patterning' Information

The parents of Theresa Gargalowitz, the 20-year-old Union girl who has remained in a coma for over a year from injuries sustained in an automobile accident, are looking for a hospital that will provide new techniques in treatment or a nursing-home that will care for her for less money than the family is now spending.

Four Admit Guilt In Diner Charge

Four Summit men who became slightly rambunctious March 27 at Rene's Diner on Morris ave. pleaded guilty to disorderly persons charges Monday night in Springfield Municipal Court.

The men, William Barman, Samuel Fusco, Charles Hartoonian and Kenneth Miller, each reported a 30-day suspended sentence on the provision that they stay away from the diner in the future. Magistrate Max Sherman also imposed fines on the men. Barman and Fusco were fined $75 each, and Hartoonian and Miller were assessed fines of $25 each.

Shopper Armed, Store Loses $150

An armed bandit took $150 in cash Saturday night from the manager of the 7-11 store, 365 Morris ave., Springfield police reported this week.

Authorities said the hold-up man, dressed in a blue trench coat and white hat, walked into the store at 10:30 p.m., picked up a tube of toothpaste, walked to the counter and aimed a .38 calibre pistol at James Savary, the store manager.

After relieving Savary of the cash, the bandit fled through a rear door, police said. They did not indicate whether the bandit also took the tube of toothpaste.

Kirk went on to say that America is fast becoming a "democratic despotism," a collectivized society in which individualism is thwarted and men are being denied the opportunity to really grow up. "Since conservatism is against dogmatism of any kind," the conservative attitude is gaining increasing support in our society.

Warning against complacency and smugness in our society or any society, Dr. Kirk cited the examples of ancient cultures which fell because they had "forgotten the inner order of the soul and the outer order of society. Conservatism becomes a bad thing, and a destructive force, when it becomes complacent. We need conservatism with high imagination and courage, otherwise our society will fall," he added.

Bandit Holds Up Station Attendant

An armed bandit held up the operator of a Rt. 22 gas station early Tuesday morning and escaped with $40 in cash, police reported.

Authorities said Warren Schroppe, 81, of Linden, was alone in the Value Service Station when a man entered the station office at 2 a.m., pointed a gun at him and demanded money. Schroppe said the bandit escaped in a late-model car.

He described the bandit as being about 25 years old, six feet tall, weighing 150 lbs. and having bushy black hair, police said.

Former Dayton Star Union Navy Pilot Still Missing

There is still no word on the safety of Lt. Cmdr. Raymond A. Vohden, 34-year-old Navy pilot, who was reported missing in action last week in the first aerial combat of the Viet Nam conflict. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Vohden of 321 Minute Arms rd., Union.

Mrs. Vohden has declined to comment on her son's situation or on any aspect of his Naval career for fear her statements might hurt him in some way.

A former football and wrestling star at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, and Rutgers University, Cmdr. Vohden was listed as lost in an encounter with Russian-made MIGs, bearing North Vietnamese markings intercepting a suspension bridge and power station at Thanh Hoa. His supersonic jet was shot down in the first clash between U.S. and Red planes.

A native of Springfield, Cmdr. Vohden has been described as a good and outstanding athlete during his high school and college career. He was awarded the Outstanding Senior Student Award for athletic ability, character and scholarship at Rutgers graduation exercises in 1952. He was listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Health Commissioner Scores 'Fad Diets'

Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, New Jersey State Commissioner of Health, this week added his voice to those who deplore the misrepresentations made by promoters of fad diets.

"We have seen promotional material of crackpot diets that claims people can drink all the alcoholic beverages they want to, or lose weight by adhering to a diet containing an inordinate amount of eggs and bacon, or ignoring calories completely except for restricting carbohydrate intake to 60 grams a day," Dr. Kandle said.

"The Mayo Clinic of Rochester, Minnesota has discredited the high egg, bacon, grapefruit diet attributed to it," Dr. Kandle noted.

In another money-making scheme, promoters of a fad diet tell gullible persons they can drink all the alcoholic beverages they want to if they hold carbohydrate intake to 60 grams a day. The truth is that soon after alcohol is consumed, it is metabolized on the liver. One end product is sugar, a carbohydrate. Three full-size glasses of wine could result in 60 grams of carbohydrate all by themselves. If this is not used by the body as energy, it will be stored as fat.

For most people, there is no easy way to weight reduction," Dr. Kandle said. "It is accomplished over a period of time by consistently taking in fewer calories per day than the body consumes. For most people, it involves sacrifice, will power, and calorie counting. It ought to be done under medical supervision because no two persons are alike. Their nutritional needs differ; the amount they should lose nor week may differ; some may need appetite depressants and others not. For most, the daily menu should be representative of the four groups of foods: bread and cereals; dairy products; meats, including poultry and fish; and vegetables and fruits.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
My son, Frank, age 13, dates many girls. And to each one he dates, he gives names. For instance, Barbara who is overly affectionate, he calls "Passion Flower," Carol who orders him around, he calls "Sarge," Susan he calls "Cleopatra," Betty is the "Glam-One," and so on.
Now it has come back to me thru the grapevine that the girls' parents don't like these names and blame it on me. I am annoyed and hurt at my son—and the others—as I have nothing to do with this name bit.
This is a small community and I don't want to get involved with the parents of these girls because of my son. He thinks it's all very funny, but it is backfiring on me!
Just sign me
"mom, Mom, MOM!"

Dear "MOM!":
Friendly "Teen Teasing" is practiced by the young and not to be taken seriously. Ask your funny Frank to tell his mother he is enjoyed by some (me) and misunderstood by most!

HALF-PAST TEEN

Dear Amy:
I would like to have your opinion on what to do with our problem. My husband has an older brother who was married late in life to a girl from a foreign country. They have a little girl almost five years old whom they do not discipline. She has always been like this. My husband loves her as she is his only niece so he puts up with her by telling her to be a good girl (which helps), but her mother blows up and tells him her little girl is good and she doesn't like him to say this to her. His brother wants to keep visiting us—occasionally—and wants my husband to put up with it.
When they come to our house, the child tracks mud in on the rugs, tears up our cheserfields and on an on and on. Her parents don't say a word!

Dear E. R.:
If your husband wants to put up with his niece, you can only grin and bear it. But if he would like to do his brother a favor, and the child also, he should continue to teach and correct her. Somebody has to open the parents' eyes. Your husband is the most likely person to do so.

Dear Amy:
You are a most wonderful lady for the reply you gave me. I was very excited to hear from you. And now I thank you along with my mother who very dearly likes you for helping us. We followed your advice concerning my grandmother and she is finally settled.

Dear Vera:
No one could be happier than I. If I can be of any help to you in the future, be sure to let me know.

Dear Amy:
My problem concerns an age old subject: Religion.

I am presently in the Air Force and plan to be married when I get out. I have been going with a girl for two years now. She is 20 and I am 18. But I really don't think that age matters.

My problem is that she is Catholic and I, not only am a Protestant, but my father is a Protestant minister. The way have been raised, I don't feel it would be right for me to change. And according to the Catholic religion, if she were to change, she would be kicked out of her church and her faith.

We have talked this over many times and haven't come to any conclusion. What should we do?

Troubled
The clergy have been trying to resolve this age old problem.

But to date, nothing! It takes a real and deep love and understanding—a baby-son, and if it's a boy, he wants it named after him. This is our problem. My husband's father was a senior and my husband is a junior. My father-in-law is dead now. Would our baby be a junior or the III or what?
I would appreciate your answer very much.

Dear Mrs. J. K.:
Because the original center is deceased, the child would become junior, and your husband would become the new senior. Congratulations!

Drug Problems Topic Tuesday For Sprachschule

Narcotics will be the topic of the discussion at the monthly meeting of the Deutsche Sprachschule Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Montgomery Hall, Irvington.

Capt. Donald J. Ebert of the Union Police Department will speak on "Narcotics Trafficking and Its Destructiveness." He will point out the causes and symptoms of dope addiction, particularly among teenagers. Vice-president Otto Zoller of the Union has arranged a discussion period at which Capt. Ebert will answer questions from the audience.

Hans J. Ludscheidt of Valhalla, president of the German language school, invited all members and friends of the school to attend.

"Dope addiction," Ludscheidt said, "is a widespread undercover plague on our society which respects neither race, nor creed, nor social standing. It is as pressing a problem in our affluent suburbs as it is in our worst slums. Unfortunately, many parents are not aware of the facts and do not recognize the signs of addiction. Therefore, we are glad to do our part in combating this scourge by making public the warning signs and we urge all parents of school-age children to attend this important lecture."

Schedule Card Party
The sixth annual card party of the Parents Guild of East Orange Catholic High School, will be held at 8 p.m., April 30 at the school, 139 Glenwood Ave., East Orange. Members of the senior class will model fashions. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Connell of South Orange, are chairmen. The affair is open to the public.

Narcotics Traffic To Be Discussed By Police Officer

Captain Donald J. Ebert of the Union Police Department will discuss narcotics at a meeting of the Deutsche Sprachschule Inc. Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Montgomery Hall, 123 Montgomery Ave., Irvington.

Ebert will stress the particular dangers of narcotics addiction among teen-agers, according to Otto Zoller of Union, chapter vice-president.

Hans J. Ludscheidt of Valhalla, president of the German language school, said all members of the school and friends are invited to the lecture.

"Dope addiction is a widespread undercover plague on our society," Ludscheidt said. "It respects neither race, creed nor social standing. It is as pressing a problem in our affluent suburbs as it is in our worst slums."

Rep. Dwyer Tells Examination Date For 4 Academies

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-6th Dist.) announced today that a competitive civil service examination will be held in Plainfield on Monday, July 12, for Union County candidates who seek appointments to the Military, Naval, Air Force and Merchant Marine Academies in 1965.

There will be separate examinations on August 9, 1965, and September 13, 1965, for those candidates who cannot report for the July examination.

Mrs. Dwyer urged interested high school students and other young men not yet 21, who reside in Union County, to submit applications to her office as soon as possible. She also asked public and private secondary school principals to help her inform their students about the opportunity to compete for appointments to the service academies.

She explained that in 1966, Union County (the 6th Congressional District of New Jersey) will be entitled to two appointments to the Military Academy at West Point, two to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and one to the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. For the Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, ten nominees from Union County will compete statewide for the ten appointments allotted to New Jersey.

Under her competitive merit system of making appointments, Mrs. Dwyer emphasized that applicants must take the civil service examination. The successful nominees — the six top candidates for each appointment at West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy, and the top ten for the Merchant Marine Academy — must be eligible further among themselves for an appointment by means of the academics, entrance and physical examinations and their overall evaluation of candidates' potential as officers.

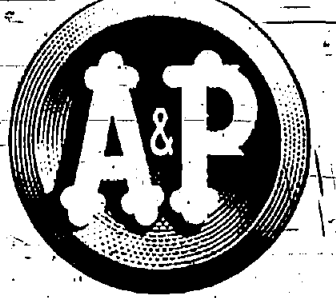

"In this way," the Union County congresswoman said, "all boys have an equal opportunity to compete. No favoritism of any kind is possible. And the academies are assured of obtaining the young men best qualified for future military careers."

For further information about the academies and details of her appointing procedure, Mrs. Dwyer invited interested young men to write to her Washington office, 2421 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515, or to consult guidance directors at local secondary schools.

Vocational Center To Provide Schooling For 3,560 Students

The three-building vocational center to be constructed by the Union County Vocational Board of Education at its Scotch Plains site will be used by day, extended day, evening and summer classes. It was revealed this week by Leonard W. Simmons, of Roselle, board president.

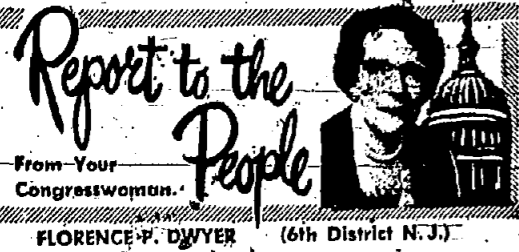

Simmons said the proposed facilities will provide vocational education at the secondary level for 870 students, technical education at the institute level for 498, adult education on a part-time basis for 2,000 and a summer program to accommodate 400 students. He said this breaks down to 1,305 full-time students and 3,560 students attending full-time or summer. Programs will be for two years.

Cost of the project, totaling $3,750,000, includes: building construction, $2,400,000; site development, $190,000; equipment, $940,000; architect's and consultant's fees including legal, $142,000; and contingencies, $43,600. The board president reported.

Provision has been made for classes in electronics technology, chemical technology, mechanical technology, data processing, civil technology, dental assistant, dental technician, medical technician, practical nursing and technical secretary.

The board president explained the vocational center will function in cooperation with vocational high schools. As a result, students will attend the center for half a day and will take necessary academic subjects the remainder of the day at their high schools. Grade levels will be the 11th and 12th, he reported.

The three buildings planned for the complex will be available for part-time instruction at nights and in some instances for late afternoons and Saturdays.

FLORENCE P. DWYER (6th District N.J.)

Report to the People
 From Your Congresswoman

AN ASSESSMENT
 The speed with which legislation has been moving through Congress this year has been cause for satisfaction on the part of those who support the Administration's program, as well as considerable concern by those who oppose it.

More objective observers view it with mixed feelings, and wonder how long it will last. Everyone however welcomes the prospect of adjournment before the summer is over.

Already, with the Easter recess just now beginning, the Appalachia program and the bill lowering gold reserve requirements have become law. The school aid bill has been passed by both houses and awaits the President's signature, while legislation to improve the Manpower Training and Development Act is ready for final action. In addition, either the House or the Senate has passed such important bills as the Water Pollution Control Act, the International Coffee Agreement, the Presidential Continuity Act, and the Drug Control bill. And consideration is well underway on the voting rights bill, immigration reform, air pollution control, housing and urban renewal, foreign aid, and the new farm program. Finally, just around the corner, waiting for their turn on stage, are matters like area redevelopment, accelerated public works, excise tax reduction, and others.

IMPRESSIVE, BUT
 By any standards, this is an impressive record—especially for the first year of a two-year Congress when election pressures are largely absent. The legislative pace has sometimes seemed so swift, in fact, that between Presidential messages, committee hearings, and floor debate some Members of Congress have complained there isn't enough time fully to master the meaning of what we're doing—a cogent bit of criticism which underlines the twin needs here for better scheduling and better staffing.

Credit for the record—or blame, as the case may be—is usually given to the President. Supporters invoke the image of the master legislative strategist riding high on the strength of a huge election mandate—and a better than two-to-one majority in both houses of Congress. There is certainly some truth in the opposing view of a President treating Congress much like a strong-willed parent treats a child and determined to use his prestige to write a record of dramatic success and thereby help counter-balance his Administration's foreign policy difficulties.

A more objective estimate, while acknowledging the elements of truth in both partisan evaluations, would stress two additional factors, often overlooked but highly significant: the fact that in the case of much of the more important legislation the path to final approval has been smoothed during many years of discussion and consideration going back to the Kennedy and Eisenhower Administrations, and the fact that Congress—frequently independent even though highly partisan—has often insisted on rewriting Administration proposals to reflect its own views of what the law should be.

CASE IN POINT
 Last week's one-sided victory for the health care for the elderly bill in the House was a good case in point. Probably the most important single legislative triumph in the four years-plus of the Kennedy-Johnson Administrations, final passage of the health care, or "medicare," bill came almost as an anti-climax. After years of controversy, the bill sailed through by a vote of 313 to 115 with almost half the Republican members voting for the bill.

Two good reasons, among others, account for this. First, Medicare's time had come; to a large extent, it had ceased to be controversial in the minds of many Americans, the majority of whom had come to recognize the need for special assistance to older people in meeting their higher-than-average costs of health care. Certainly, this has been true in Union County where, for several years now, higher and higher proportions of our people have voted for a health care program under social security on my annual Congressional Questionnaires.

The second reason boils down to the fact that the bill reported by the House Ways and Means Committee bore a little resemblance to the Administration's proposal this year or to any of the earlier versions of the Ford and King-Anderson bills. It was part of a much broader revision of the social security program which included such attractive features as a general increase in social security cash benefits, an increase in the earnings limit, earlier retirement for widows, continued benefits for dependent children who stay in school from 18 to 21, minimum benefits for persons over 62 who previously have not qualified, and improvement of the Kerr-Mills program of medical care for older people receiving public assistance—features included in legislation I have long sponsored and strongly supported.

A REAL GOVERNMENT
 As it concerned medicare specifically, the committee bill was a genuinely compromise measure. One of its two major provisions—payment of doctors' bills and related costs—was patterned after the Republican Byrnes Bill, with participation voluntary and the financing shared by participants and the Government. Even the financing of the hospital-nursing home program was all but totally divorced from social security, with coverage open to all over 65 and premiums going into a completely separate trust fund, thereby eliminating any danger that medicare might jeopardize future cash benefits under social security.

Easter And Passover Foods Plentiful, Prunes, Eggs Equal To Big Demand

A well rounded assortment of foods, with emphasis on Easter and Passover, will be plentiful in April, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. Top of the list of abundant foods will be eggs and prunes.

Egg production has been up from a year ago, mostly because of increased egg production per hen, but also because of the greater number of laying birds. Eggs, always in demand for April holidays, find favor when used in festive foods, for decorative purposes and featured in a traditional children's sport, reports Mary W. Armstrong, county home economist.

Supplies of dried prunes also remain plentiful, the result of the huge plum-prune crop of last summer. Prunes contribute some valuable nutrients, notably minerals, but they also can provide much good eating. Prune whip, Norwegian prune pudding, prune upside-down cake, prune nut bread, prune coffee cake, or cheese or nut-stuffed prune salad are a few of the prune dishes most frequently enjoyed.

Plenty of broiler-fryers are in prospect throughout April at economical prices. There'll be lots of honey and canned pears, too. Among the vegetables, there's promise of abundant supplies of cabbage, carrots, onions and dry peas.

Cabbage is not only versatile, but high in food value. Raw, as in cole slaw, cabbage is an excellent source of vitamin C at a thrift price. Carrots, too, are a vegetable known for high vitamin content as well as versatility. Carrots are an excellent and economical source of vitamin A, and also well-liked either raw or cooked, and contribute through their never-fading orange color to the aesthetic appeal of the menu.

Canned pink salmon, another item featured on the April plentiful list, gives good protein and flavor value almost any time. Pink salmon, though less attractive as a salad than its red relative, serves quite as well when prepared in croquettes, as salmon loaf or scalloped "salmon" or even creamed with peas. Canned pink salmon is especially for some time because of a pack last season of nearly two million cases.

Sewing Machine Choice Depends On User Needs

With interest in home sewing for spring at an all time peak, many women are considering buying a sewing machine.

The first step in this direction is to decide between a straight sewing machine with the zigzag feature, or the fully automatic. The automatic machine does many decorative stitches and makes buttonholes without attachments, said Carolyn F. Yukus, county home economist.

After deciding which type of machine you want, visit the reliable sewing machine dealers near your home.

See a demonstration on the type of machine you are considering. Ask to operate the particular machine yourself, she said.

This will answer many questions that you may have. Is the bobbin easy to wind and insert? Is the machine easy to thread? Is the foot or knee control easy to control?

Do some stitching on the machine yourself. Are the stitches even in length? Is the tension adjusted properly?

If it is an automatic machine, ask the demonstrator to show you how to make some decorative stitches. Make several types of stitches and a button hole yourself, and examine the quality of your sample carefully, she said.

Usually a cabinet machine does not vibrate as much as a portable, but the choice between a portable or a cabinet machine is up to the individual.

Before you make a final decision about a machine, find out what is included in the way of future service and sewing lessons. Any extras should be in writing.

Understand the guarantee. How long does the guarantee last, and what does it include? Does it include the cabinet or case, motor, or other working parts?

Don't be tempted by some ridiculous come-on offer or door-to-door sales. Reliable brands of sewing machines are proud of their name, service, and reputation.

After purchasing a sewing machine, learn how to use it. The best way to start this learning process is to use the direction book, to familiarize yourself with the parts of the machine, she added.

Continue the learning process by making some simple garments to utilize some of the features in the direction book.

Man Awaits Trial In Contempt Case

Albert G. Kershen, 58, of Irvington, was released in his own recognizance last week after being committed for five days to the county jail awaiting trial on a contempt of court charge. The trial has been set for April 21.

Kershen was committed to jail April 1 in default of $1,000 bail set by Union Magistrate Daniel G. Covino. Five days later, Magistrate Covino dropped the bail requirement and Kershen was released.

The Irvington man, who was issued a summons by Union Motorcycle Patrolman Robert Foster for passing a stopped school bus, was charged with contempt after Magistrate Covino received an allegedly "contemptuous" letter.

Podiatrists Plan Yearly Convention

Dr. Albert G. Heller, of Elizabeth, chairman of the scientific program of the American Podiatry Association's Region Three convention, has revealed plans for the annual meeting to be held at the Deauville, Atlantic City, from April 29 to May 2.

Opti-Mrs. Club To Hold Mother-Daughter Outing

Plans are currently being made by the Union Opti-Mrs. Club for a mother-daughter outing next month, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Vincent Lauria and Mrs. Joseph McNanna. A tour of the R.C.A. building and dinner at the Taft Hotel are planned thus far, but no date has been set.

The group is making plans for a picnic meeting to be held May 5 at the home of Mrs. Lauria, 1081 Burnett ave.

A food package has been sent to the club's foster child in Greece and a birthday gift will be sent to the child in June.

Donations have been made by the club to the Theresa Garkalowitz Fund, Callmen Squad, Memorial General Hospital, Willow School, Sadie Sacks Club, Care Center and Optimist Club for the club's work with boys.

Local members who attended a recent district dinner in Irvington include the president, Mrs.

Publicity chairman and individuals are urged to observe the Friday deadline of this newspaper for other than spot news. Thursday is even better; include your name, address and phone number.

Craftsmen Taking Wage Cuts To Teach High School

The teaching profession is getting an unexpected boost from 200 highly skilled craftsmen in New Jersey.

These tradesmen, who have taken the time to obtain a diploma or a limited teaching certificate.

These vocational teachers have to be especially dedicated and motivated to enter the teaching profession at pay cuts sometimes as high as $2,500 a year.

Matey, who has earned 22 credits at Rutgers, spent 19 years rising through the range from an apprentice machinist to a project engineer.

Both of the vocational teachers said they had no regrets about their job changes.

Wilmot F. Oliver, director of the Rutgers program, pointed out.

Dr. Ernest L. Wynder, world-renowned authority on cigarette smoking and lung cancer and a leader in the field of epidemiology, will be the guest speaker at the Third Annual Special Gifts Dinner of the Union County Chapter of the American Cancer Society Tuesday at the Park Hotel in Plainfield.

Born in Hordford, Germany, Dr. Wynder received his B.A. degree from New York University and his M.D. degree in medical science from Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., where he received the Borden Undergraduate Research Award in Medicine.

In 1952, Dr. Wynder became affiliated with the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research as an assistant and in 1956, he served as associate professor of preventive medicine at the Sloan-Kettering Division of Cornell University Medical College. BUILDING SECURITY AT HOME

Does security mean adequate worldly goods such as money in the bank? Does it mean being surrounded by your own possessions? Does it mean physical safety (shelter from danger) or having everything you want (never having to tolerate privation)? Does it mean a feeling of being wanted by the group, of belonging?

Security means all these things—and more too—to different people. Everyone needs and wants security, adults as well as children.

Everyone needs to feel that he belongs; that he is important as an individual—that there is a place for him.

The real threats to security are individual feelings of inadequacy and inferiority. A secure home is one where where the members of the family are protected from these feelings.

Because childhood experiences are carried into adulthood it is particularly important for children to feel secure at home.

Parents try especially hard to provide security. Yet, adults often do not realize how inadequate children can feel when expected to hang a coat on a hook that is too high. The youngster's feeling of inferiority is not helped when parents remark about sloppiness and how "older brother hangs up his coat."

The feeling of security comes from personal experiences not parental explanations.

COME INTO THE GARDEN

This is the time of year when people start working to make their winter dreams of summer gardens come true. After a sustained period of inaction such as winter imposes upon most of us, there is danger—especially for people in their middle years—in suddenly undertaking work of a strenuous physical character. Amateur gardeners should keep this in mind. The aim is to dig flower beds, not graves; the result should be a summer of flowery pleasure, not an eternity of repose.

Heart specialists give terse and sage advice to all who are old enough to be candidates for impairment of heart action. They say simply, "act your age," implying that with increasing years—and weight—we should leave intense and swift-paced activity to the younger people who are physically conditioned to sustain it.

In gardening as in all living, for most of us the adage is "easy does it." "A garden is a love-time thing," as the poet says. Be wise—pace your activities to that you may live to enjoy its serenity.

Sonnet (?) To The Bonnet

By THE EASTER HEN

(Bob Baxter, our photographer, with the plastic face) gave the hats on Easter morn.
What wonders to behold;
Lovely ladies they adorn
In colors fine and bold.

Some ladies with these wondrous hats
Looked like they'd been dragged by cats:
One had spring upon her head;
Another, a plastic flower-bed.

Hats dripped daisies drooping down
And daffodils emmeshed around;
Others with forget-me-nots
Were really upturned flower pots.

There were some of wicker and some of cane
And others with hair from a horse's mane.
Some of fluff and filmy stuff
And others to make a peacock puff.

There were some for a Garbo, demure, discreet,
And some permitting no retreat;
Yet out of all this color and tulle
Were price tags that made a man a fool.

Tips for TODAY'S HOMEMAKER

From MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Economist

SERVE EGGS AT EASTER AND KEEP ON SERVING THEM

Of course, you'll have eggs for Easter. But wouldn't you like to serve them in a very special way? Eggs in nests will provide a delightful surprise at breakfast time or be equally enjoyable at a later brunch.

These are the directions: Beat egg whites until stiff. Season with salt and pepper. Drop from a teaspoon—just as you would frosting—on a greased baking sheet. Insert the center of each dab of egg white and slip a yolk into the nest. Cover generously with crispy bacon crumbles. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until the yolks are set.

In some homes, an egg omelet is traditional Easter Morning fare. Each family has its omelet preference. It may be French or plain omelet; poultry omelet; mushroom cheese omelet. If you are an omelet fancier, you might like to try a vegetable omelet with a Mexican hot sauce as a main meal dish before Easter. You can use any mixture of cut-up vegetables including le-mover vegetables in the omelet. For the sauce, tomatoes, onions and green peppers, as for Spanish omelet, spiced with hot sauce, make a good topping for vegetable omelet.

Eggs are not just an Easter favorite with families, good cooks or food shoppers. Year in and year out they are an indispensable item to have on hand in the kitchen.

Good News From The Nests—There's good news from the nests this year. There'll be more people and more hens in the country. So the U.S. Department of Agriculture expects a drop in the price of eggs in 1965. This—with eggs already a bargain in most places during 1964, large Grade A eggs averaged 54 cents a dozen. In 1960 they cost 37 cents; in the early 1950's, 66 cents.

Naturally the price of eggs varies with their size which should not be confused with grade.

YOUR WANT AD is easy to place. Phone 684-7700.

To help you tell which size is the best buy, the U.S. Department of Agriculture offers this easy-to-remember gauge. Medium eggs—to be as good a buy as large eggs—should be priced 1/8 less. Small eggs should be 1/4 less than large.

If the price spread is greater than this, buy the smaller eggs. You'll get more for your money.

Mushroom-Cheese Omelet
1 tablespoon butter, margarine or oil
1/4 pound process American cheese, diced
1/2 cup milk
1/8 teaspoon pepper
4 eggs, separated
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
2 (tablespoons) butter, margarine or oil

While mixing omelet ingredients, heat 1-tablespoon butter or margarine in covered 10-inch electric skillet with temperature control set at 325° F. Heat cheese and milk in saucepan over low heat until cheese is melted and free of lumps, stirring constantly. Add pepper to yolks and beat until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually pour cheese sauce into yolks, stirring constantly. Add salt to whites and beat until stiff but not dry. Fold yolk mixture into whites, gently but thoroughly. Tip skillet to spread butter evenly over bottom; pour in omelet mixture; level surface gently and cover. Reduce heat to 240° F. and cook until surface is "dry" (touch lightly with fingertip) and knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 20 minutes. Meanwhile cook sliced mushrooms in butter about five minutes and spoon over the omelet. Fold and serve immediately. Makes three to four servings.

Baseball Meeting To Vote On Rules, Plan Fund Drive

Proposed rule changes for the Springfield Youth Baseball League and Babe Ruth League are scheduled for a final vote at a general meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Recreation House on Colgate St.

The meeting will also consider plans for the fund drive and drive throughout the season scheduled for Saturday, April 24.

"No tax money is to be used for the operating expenses of the four leagues which make up the organization," it was stressed in a statement by the league officers.

The league is a voluntary organization, they added, in which all adults who manage or coach teams are unpaid volunteers. The league activities are supported by contributions from fans and individuals in the town and most of that amount is collected in the April 24 fund drive.

Bob Fielding, league treasurer, who heads the annual fund drive, declared, "People of Springfield mistakenly think that their tax money goes toward supporting this program. As a result, many people do not contribute when boys come to the door requesting a contribution."

In recent years, the fund drive collections have produced an average of less than 10 cents per person. This has brought on a financial crisis that saw us unable to pay all 1964 bills out of last year's contributions. If we can't increase our income in 1965,

"THAR-SHE BLOWS" — No whales were sighted as the fishing season opened Saturday morning for three sportsmen along the Rahway River between Union and Springfield. Dayton Nine Faces Games Against Hillside And Linden

The Dayton Baseball Bulldogs again behind the plate as they meet Linden High tomorrow for what promises to be an evenly matched struggle. The game will be played at Linden.

The Bulldogs dropped their third game of the new season this week by a score of 5-1 to Rahway High. Dayton had hoped to gain its first victory after a tie and a loss last week, but lost Friday's Hillside game was rained out and the Rahway game played in high winds.

The Bulldogs were to face Johnson Regional of Clark yesterday, but the results of that game were too late to be reported in this week's paper.

The Hillside- Dayton tilt has been rescheduled for today.

Bob Jester pitched for Dayton in the Hillside game. He was troubled by the cold winds, Jester gave up eight hits and five runs. Only one of the runs was earned, however, as costly errors again hurt the Bulldogs.

Bob Gartlan, Carl Varas was slated earlier in the season as first-string catcher, but according to Coach Ed Janski, Gartlan has proven so capable as catcher that Varas has been switched to the outfield.

"Bob has one of the finest throwing arms we've ever had in Springfield," Janski said.

Another personnel change saw Leroy Mathis start at first. The move seemed profitable as Mathis collected two hits in three trips to the plate. Senior Hal Blythe also saw action for the first time in the outfield.

Dayton grabbed a quick lead in the opening inning against Rahway. After Joe Jupp's field single, third baseman Ted Levitt walked. Then a long single to left by Gartlan scored Jupp. The run proved the key.

Weiss Sets Record In Boys' Bowling

Terrific bowling highlighted activities in the Boy's Bowling League last week at Springfield Bowl. No less than three boys topped the all-time high for two-game performances during league play.

Danny Weiss of the Jets team established a new league high series of 351, while Jan Szepkin rolled a 324 series. Mitch Wolff rolled a 332 series.

All of these performances surpassed the old mark of 331 held by David Epstein before this onslaught.

While this terrific bowling was again divided into a first-place tie with the determining Bullets team. The two teams will meet next week in a show-down for the league championship. The two top teams will meet in a head-to-head match on the last day of the season, April 23.

Softball Meeting Set For Tonight; Show Scheduled

The Springfield Recreation Department's Adult Softball League will hold its final organization meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Recreation House, with $100 entry fees and player lists to be submitted by all interested teams.

Also on the agenda tonight will be a final reading of the Adult Softball League constitution, along with the evaluation of softball umpires of last season. The league plans to pay $1 per game for official scores.

The league held an informal meeting two weeks ago, with 12 clubs represented. No additional teams will be accepted after tonight's meeting.

Any umpires who have not registered for assignments are requested to contact the Recreation Department.

Softball Show

The Recreation Department in response to the need for better officiating and organization in softball league play, will conduct a softball show on Thursday evening, April 22, at the Florence Gaudineer School.

The show will feature both fast-pitch and slow-pitch exhibitions, with many softball personalities demonstrating the proper techniques.

The National Office of the Amateur Softball Association will furnish information on player and team eligibility for participation in county, state, regional and World ASA softball play. Information will also be made available on insurance coverage for players, managers and umpires.

The two-hour program will conclude with the showing of the World ASA women's softball championship film.

Okrasinski Honored As Collegiate Athlete

MEADVILLE, PA.—Dick Okrasinski of Springfield, N.J., received a certificate recently as a member of the all-star baseball team last year in the President's Athletic Conference. He was honored at the annual sports award dinner at Allegheny College.

A catcher, Okrasinski honored in an extra-inning game last year against Wayne University at Detroit to clinch Allegheny's fifth consecutive diamond title. He is an alumnus of Seton Hall Preparatory School.

On Varsity Golf Team

Robert J. Costanza of 97 Hawthorn ave., Springfield, is among 14 candidates for the Union Junior College varsity golf team, which opened its season last week against Newark State College at Gallop Hill in Kenilworth.

Costanza, a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, is a liberal arts major in Union Junior College's day session. A freshman, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Costanza.

Tells Of Admission

BUCKHAMTON, Pa. — William C. Royal, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Royal of 5 Berkeley St., Springfield, has been accepted for admission to West Virginia University College.

The Hamilton Dayton Regional High School senior plans to make business administration his major study. Royal is a member of his school's honor roll. He attends the Saint James Roman Catholic church.

OPEN THURSDAY TO 9 P.M.

TO RESTORE LIFE—Doctors at Overlook Hospital demonstrate how they apply a defibrillator to the patient's chest to give an electric shock and jolt the heart back into its normal rhythm. This equipment is part of the new intensive coronary care unit at the hospital in Summit.

ANNOUNCED AT OVERLOOK

Coronary Unit Aims To Reduce Mortality Rate By 30 Percent

Overlook Hospital, Summit, is moving into the forefront of modern cardiac care with an intensive coronary care unit, believed by hospital authorities to be the first of its kind in New Jersey and one of perhaps a dozen specialized units in the country.

This new unit means that 30 percent more coronary patients at Overlook will survive, according to statistics from pioneer cardiac care centers in metropolitan hospitals where such units have proven their value in the battle against coronary disease—the leading cause of death in the United States.

The heart attack patient is automatically taken to his community hospital, Overlook believes that it is imperative to move ahead with every significant advance in the critical field of coronary care, commented Robert E. Heinlein, Overlook's director.

An intensive coronary care unit is a specialized installation where individual electronic units monitor every heartbeat of the patient, where a specially-trained cardiac nursing team is constantly alert, ready-to-go-into-immediate-action.

SHOULD THE HEART stop beating in cardiac arrest or serious arrhythmia (a wild, erratic or quivering, falling heart muscle), an immediate alarm signals the nurse. The nurse, in turn, flashes the "Code Blue" alarm through the hospital switchboard, where it is instantly relayed through the hospital, bringing house doctors and physicians on the run. The alarm system is named "Code-Blue" for the blue color a patient develops when deprived of essential oxygen, which depends on the regular pumping of the heart.

The cardiac arrest patient has just four minutes to live or undergo irreparable damage to his brain if he survives. Lifesaving measures must be put into instant play. "All the monitoring and alarm systems in the world won't help if a highly geared and knowledgeable staff isn't on duty to go into immediate action," comments Dr. W. Austin Tansey, chairman of the coronary care committee at Overlook.

All emergency equipment is immediately at hand in the unit. Pacemaker, defibrillator, drugs, oxygen and suction, resuscitator—all are standing by the patient's bed.

Not a moment of precious time is wasted. The nurses begin resuscitation and external chest massage at once to keep the patient alive until doctors arrive.

Next, the defibrillator goes into action—or the pacemaker—or whatever means is indicated to restore the heart to its normal rhythm.

Research has shown that 50 percent of coronary patients develop a serious (but not always fatal) arrhythmia in the first three days after the initial attack. Many of these arrhythmias correct themselves—but many of them result in fatalities.

It is estimated that 50 percent of sudden deaths are potentially reversible if appropriate personnel and equipment are immediately available.

ONE-REGENT-PATIENT at Overlook was "clinically" dead 14 times—all vital signs gone. He was revived each time by defibrillation. The defibrillator was kept at his bedside, as it will be in the new unit, and a team of doctors and nurses stayed with him throughout the day and night. "Today he is alive and well, life sustained by an internal pacemaker surgically placed within his chest wall to regulate the heartbeat."

Extensive research has gone into Overlook's new coronary care unit. Cardiologists on the medical staff, members of administration, nursing supervisors, have all visited pilot installations to investigate their experience, equipment, techniques, and training requirements. The most recent similar unit in this area is at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

A special two-week, all-day training course with lectures and demonstrations by cardiologists and other related specialists has prepared 26 interested RNs-on-Overlook's staff, five of whom have been recruited specially to staff the new unit. Temporarily, the coronary care unit will be located in a two-bed room in the intensive care unit, where costly monitoring equipment has been installed and a special communications-alarm system set up.

"We hope that this pilot two-bed unit will at least give the idea until we have both the space and financial support of Overlook's new wing to expand it," commented Heinlein.

WHEN THE CORONARY CARE UNIT is moved to the new wing and new monitoring equipment is installed, the hospital plans to use its present equipment as mobile units to meet emergencies or unexpected needs in other areas of the hospital.

In the new wing, plans call for a four-bed unit, each in a separate room and all visible from a special nursing station equipped with duplicate oculo-scope panels for the nurses' constant supervision of all patients.

Coronary needs of this area should be met by a four-bed unit—the size of the unit recently established at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Of 18,386 inpatients at Overlook last year, 3,288 were medical cases, rather than compared to maternity, pediatrics or surgery. Of these, some 300 patients were coronary cases—or 9.3 percent—a substantial proportion of the hospital's total census.
