Easy Braun Victory In Primary Election

Fred L. Braun defeated John A. Grife by a wide margin for the Republican nomination for municipal tax collector in the one-year contest to eliven the primary election in Springfield on Tuesday.

Robert G. Planer and Robert D. Hardgrove easily beat incumbent Henry S. Wright for the two GOP nominations for Township Committee. The day was a bad one for Wright, all around, as he lost his district leadership in the Fourth District to Paul Roman. Wright also trailed the candidates for the freholder nominations, on a local level, and in the county totals.

PHILIP DEL VECCHIO

Springfield Democrats, with no contests at the local level, and no apparent effort to run up a vote, showed 125 votes for Henry Grabarz and 122 for George Merrill. Township Committee nominees, and 112 for Mrs. Marie Smith for tax collector.

Philip Del Vecchio, giving up his post on the Township Committee to seek election to the State Assembly, received 844 votes to lead all Assembly contenders within the township, as he went on to win party nomination.

In the statewide contest, Wayne Dumont edged Charles W. Sandman, 483 to 457, as Springfield choice to bear Republican colors against incumbent Gov. Richard J. Hughes in November. Hughes, without real opposition, received votes from 166 Springfield Democrats.

Top Republican on the local ballot was State Sen. Nelson Stauter, in his effort to win (Continued on Page 23)

Minister Attacks Planners On Ban Of Church Traffic

Pastor Dewart Hits Master Plan's Idea Of Pedestrian Mall

The Rev. James Dewart, pastor of the Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church, this week strongly criticized the concept of a pedestrian mall along Main st., as envisioned in the new master plan for the township's future development.

Pastor Dewart, who had expressed his opposition to the mall idea at the public hearing held last Thursday on the Master plan, detailed the reasons for his stand in a statement issued this week.

He stressed that the plan would limit vehicular access to his church and to the Presbyterian Parish House and would "seriously hamper the services and activities of these institutions that sustain the spiritual climate of the community."

The text of the statement follows: "Almost two months ago, in an atmosphere that generated a great deal of heat and very little light, our Township Committee accepted a 'One Nation Under God' pennant to be flown on the municipal flagpole. This action was taken, according to one of our committeemen, to combat the 'growing religion of secularism which would be intolerable.'"

"We may now rest secure in the knowledge that God is properly revered in our township, and that the foreign elements that pass through Springfield will be fully cognizant of how we feel about this issue.

"Time marches on and religious zeal diminishes, despite the daily reminder that we are 'One Nation Under God'."

"No Assurances" "Last Thursday the official public hearing was held concerning the Springfield master plan. Notwithstanding letters of protest from the Presbyterian and Methodist churches concerning the proposed pedestrian mall for what is presently Main (Continued on Page 23)

PLAYGROUND SUPERVISORS

Youthful Teachers Veterans In Crafts

Judy Sienkiewicz and Karen Bruder, who are supervisors of the Springfield Recreation Department arts and crafts program planned for town playgrounds this summer, are majoring in fine arts at Newark State College Union, have completed three years of schooling and hope to become employed as school teachers next year.

Both Judy and Karen are 20 years of age. They have been employed by the Springfield Recreation Department for two years as arts and crafts supervisors.

These young ladies will plan and organize the crafts program at all 10 playgrounds, including are facilities at Irwin, Sandoler, Woodside, Riverside, Regional, Denham, Henshaw, Smithfield and High Point.

Some of the crafts are candle-making, clay crafts, beading, ceramic clay, water coloring, weaving, copper wire jewelry, leathercraft, basket weaving and woodcraft, with the hope that a course in ceramics might be instituted this summer.

During the winter months, both girls supervised recreation arts and crafts on Wednesday afternoons and Saturday mornings. The winter program was attended by 75 youngsters of various ages, with the summer program regularly drawing more than 300. This summer more crafts than arts will be stressed, with the cultural arts being stressed in the winter months.

Mrs. Sienkiewicz and Miss Bruder also plan an exhibit to climax the summer activity. This hobby development has frequently been prescribed as a good occupational therapy. Many youngsters are heading towards careers in specialties in which they have become proficient through these programs.

The main purpose of this activity is to help the youngsters develop their latent abilities, and, with the help of experienced and skilled supervision, to provide a beneficial and healthful diversion, the Recreation Department stated.

Women's Softball Set For Summer

A women's softball league is planned for this summer, it was announced this week by the Springfield Recreation Department. Play will begin as soon as a sufficient number of players have registered.

The league is open to all interested high school girls. Details are available from the Recreation Department at Town Hall or from Mrs. Martha Worswick, DR 6-4760.

Central Location Seen Basic Need

By ABNER GOLD

Repeated suggestions that the Springfield Public Library be moved to a "more central location" than the present site on Main st. was the principal feature of the public hearing on the new master plan conducted by the Planning Board last Thursday night at the Florence Gaudineer School.

Donald Rotwein, Planning Board chairman, told the audience of some 50 persons, that the board will "revisit carefully" all comments made at the meeting before proceeding with final adoption of the master plan. The plan is designed as a guide for development of the township over the next two decades.

He also stressed, "This master plan does not affect any of the zoning ordinances now on the books. Each change to implement the master plan with new amendments and ordinances will require study by the Planning Board and full hearings by the Township Committee."

Statements urging that the library be moved to a site more accessible to the younger generation of readers were presented in behalf of the Springfield New Library Committee, the Board of Education and the League of Women Voters.

New Library Spokesman Mrs. Bernard Schwartz, chairman of the New Library Committee, a citizens' group which has been pressing for a change for more than a year, stated that her organization "agrees" with the master plan that the present building is "overcrowded and heavily used," but does not agree with its reasons for keeping the library on its present site.

She also cited the dangers to children of crossing heavily traveled Morris Ave. problems, of a location for a library at one end of the township and difficulty of children in reaching a site far removed from most of the schools and the bulk of the population.

Mrs. Schwartz praised the theory of a road north of the stores on Morris Ave., as well as that of a pedestrian mall on Main st. She added, however, "We cannot knowingly discuss the practical feasibility of (Continued on Page 23)

Englishman Writes On First Aid Squad

The Springfield First Aid Squad has received a letter from England praising the splendid voluntary work in meeting local emergencies.

The letter was written by Dr. de Nabrega of 18 Tisbury St., Aylesbury, Bucks, England, and was a recent visitor in Springfield.

The text of the letter follows: "While visiting Springfield recently, I was afforded the opportunity of meeting members of your Town's First Aid Ambulance Squad and of acquainting myself with the splendid voluntary work being done by the organization."

"As a resident citizen of Trinidad and Tobago in the West Indies, I was greatly impressed by the commendable service offered by the First Aid Squad, which, I believe, is an organization of which not only you and your members should be justly proud but also the people of your town. I trust the squad will continue to receive the necessary support, not only financial but otherwise in the form of increased membership, which it so rightly deserves from the entire community."

LEADER PROFILE

MRS. HENRY HUNEKE

Mrs. Henry Huneke of 518 Mountain ave., Springfield, one of the busier women in town, has been at her "busiest" these past few months.

"Actually," she said the other afternoon, "we did a great deal of studying before we prepared the report. We began by reading and discussing different books on planning. We delved into its background and history. Then we evaluated Springfield's proposed Master Plan. Actually," Mrs. Huneke explained, "we endorsed the long range planning. We were delighted with the idea of a Master Plan.

"Our Planning Board chairman, Donald Rowlein, and Mrs. Christine Ungeman, secretary of the planning board, arranged for the aid of Candace and Fleissig, their consultants, who provided us with information and were very cooperative in our many months of study.

They answered any question we asked, were very patient with our queries, and I must say their assistance was very valuable. Without their cooperation, we feel that it would have been impossible to succeed."

At the hearing, Mrs. Huneke presented the statement of the Springfield League of Woman Voters.

She said: "We would like to comment first on the plan in general, then go into some specific points.

"THE MEMBERS of the league believe that in order to properly evaluate the proposals in the plan, a complete financial report is necessary. The plan fails to forecast the capital expenditures needed to carry out its objective and fails to establish the relative priority of individual expenditures. It does not program these expenditures in accordance with a projection of the town's ability to pay.

"All the following comments are conditional because of this important lack of data.

"We feel," she continued, "that the plan fails to explore desirable or undesirable development where other communities border on Springfield. These developments might be the subject of joint planning and agreement with neighboring towns.

"The league had hoped that more specific recommendations would be made regarding the methods of improving and controlling the aesthetics of the community.

WE WOULD now like to deal with some of the specific proposals in the plan.

"I. Land Use Area. A further clarification of medium density is needed. The introduction of two family homes or apartments with two or more bedrooms would have a great impact on the school and recreational facilities in the Caldwell School district. The planners make note of the unfavorable expansion possibilities in this area.

"B. Planned Development Groups. The league feels that this concept, whereby large undeveloped tracts of land must be dealt with as entities is to the best advantage of the community. However, we feel that a list of minimum standards in addition to those present in the zoning ordinance, would protect this type of area from unscrupulous exploitation.

"II. The Downtown Area Plan. In this area, as well, the possible expenditures must be considered to properly evaluate the advisability of an historical mall as well as extensive parking facilities in the downtown area.

"THE LEAGUE endorses the objectives listed in the plan for this area.

"III. Traffic Control. More attention should be directed toward neighborhood shopping centers other than the downtown area. The blossoming of these areas is already creating parking and traffic flow problems on Mountain ave. in the neighborhoods of Henshaw ave. and Edgewood ave.

"IV. The league endorses the erection of an additional firehouse on Hunsick ave. B. Recreation. Some notice should be taken of the building on Caldwell pl. now in use by the recreation department, which our members feel is unsafe, unattractive and completely unsuitable.

"C. Library. The league endorses the site requirements set by the planners with the exception of the one requirement of accessibility for business use. We feel such use in this community is negligible. "Expansion of the library on its present site does not meet the planners' or our criteria. For example, the present site does not fulfill the planners' requirement.

THE PUBLIC COLLEGE CRUSH

Who, What, Where Affects Your Chances

EDITOR'S NOTE: New Jersey's public colleges have sent 25,000 letters of rejection to qualified high school seniors seeking admission in September. This six-part series from the New Jersey Education Assn. discusses the space crisis at the public colleges.

Who you are, what you want to study, and where you want to enroll all affect your chances for admission at a public college in New Jersey.

What you want to study is important because the six State Colleges—Glassboro, Trenton, Newark, Montclair, Jersey City and Paterson S. C.—still concentrate exclusively on preparing teachers. If a student doesn't want to teach, he must look elsewhere.

And, when a student applies to a New Jersey public college, he competes against only those trying to enter the same curriculum. Some programs at the six State Colleges—such as industrial arts—attract relatively few applications per opening. But those who want to teach social studies or English compete with a large number of applicants for very few openings.

Some applicants rejected for social studies would have been accepted had they applied for industrial arts. Some applicants accepted for industrial arts would have been rejected had they applied for social studies.

This is also the case at Rutgers—the State University. At the Men's College in New Brunswick, for example, the stiffest competition for admission was for the science curriculum, the easiest for the school of agriculture.

Gender is another admissions factor.

Boys are at a disadvantage in the competition for admission at the six State Colleges, which attract for more female applicants.

And girls generally outnumber boys among the most qualified of the applicants, because of the heavy weight the admissions formulas give to high-school grades.

Girls have two general advantages over boys in high school: they're more mature when they enter, and they're more willing to spend free time grinding away for grades.

As a result of these factors, some of the State Colleges have four girls for every boy in the student body.

ELECTION COMMENTS

To the Editor: Now that the June 1 primary election is past, I want to thank the Leader for giving me fair coverage in a very hectic and unique campaign. I want to thank each and every one of the many voters who cast their ballot for me on the "A-line" at location 15, 30 and 36. As I told my public during the campaign, I'd rather be r-i-g-h-t (correct) than elected, as are some politicians who promise what their conscience cannot keep.

Although I do not plan to be on the ballot in November, I do

Report From Trenton

By State Senator Nelson F. Stamler (R-10)

REPORT FROM TRENTON

On May 24 the State Legislature closed up shop for the summer.

It is possible that the State Senate may be called into session—but only for the purpose of confirming nominations which the Governor might make between now and that date of special session.

According to my records 102 bills passed the State Senate the day of May 24. A great number of them were bills which were rushed through under a practice known as "emergency resolution." At one point it was physically impossible to keep up with the rapid fire call of the bills, and I asked the Acting President several times for the right to at least examine again the bill upon which I was being called to vote.

Some very important legislation passed that night—and incidentally we sat through until after 10:30 p.m.—and some very unimportant legislation passed under that "emergency resolution" which surely could have waited until the Legislature reconvened in the fall.

One bill which I sponsored, SR-4, is a Senate Resolution which drew a great deal of controversy in its discussion. I offered this resolution in the middle of this hectic session. SR-4 calls for the set-up of an eight-man commission of Senators to study the practicability and advisability of setting up some sort of State agency or authority to run the commuter railroads, and if necessary, to even take over the freight responsibilities.

I do not recall the idea of New Jersey running either the freight-end of a railway system, or for that matter, transporting passengers on commuter trains. One thing seems to remain sure and certain, and that is in the next few months it is essential that the railroads of our State, and particularly the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Erie Lackawanna get together with the Division of Rail Transportation and find out why it is necessary to constantly use "scarce" tactics with the commuters and the legislators at the last minute.

I was overwhelmed with mail from Union County citizens who were frightened by the railroads' threat of bankruptcy. I do not believe that the Central Railroad of the Erie Lackawanna will allow it to go bankrupt—but I do think that a study of the situation is essential—and the sooner the better.

Despite all of the urgent pro and con on the bill it passed, 18 to 0, so that it is obvious that everyone in the Senate realized the seriousness of the problem.

 election to the post for the third time. He received 888 Springfield votes.
 Braun, the incumbent tax collector, defeated Grifo by almost a two to one margin, 601 to 335. Braun carried every voting district but two: the Third, where Grifo resides, centering about Gen. Greene Village, and the Eighth, the Woodside area where Republicans are seldom found. Grifo carried the Third, 47-39, and the Eighth, 10-7.
 Planer, incumbent Township Committee member seeking his first full term, led his running mate, former Mayor Hardgrove, by a slim margin, 840 to 821, for the two nominations open. Wright, strongly opposed by the local party organization, trailed badly, with 143 votes. He received 35 of those in his home district, the Fourth.
 In his contest to retain district leadership in the Fourth, Wright was swamped by the organization-backed candidate Paul Roman, 127 to 87.

 Braun, the only local candidate to have a real contest, was also the only one to issue any sort of a victory statement. He expressed his thanks "to all the people who took the time to go out and vote for me."
 With a total registration of 8,573 voters, 1,183 took part in the primaries. There were 978 Republican voters and 204 Democrats.

Returning Thief Hits On 2nd Try, Town Police Say

Springfield police said this week that the thief who left empty-handed on May 24 after breaking into the Sandmeier School was probably the same one who broke into the school last Friday and made off with two typewriters and a slide projector.
 In both cases, police said, they were called by the school custodian who arrived at the school to find malicious damage done to several of the offices.
 Investigations revealed that in the first case, entrance to the building was gained through a window on the north side of the building, while in last Friday's break, a glass in a rear door was broken and the door was forced open.
 The typewriters and slide projector were recovered by police a short time after the theft was reported. Local authorities said they are continuing their investigation.

Students Oppose Wider Viet War, Far East Boycott

Sixty high school students have registered opposition to a widening of the war in Viet Nam and a proposal to impose an economic boycott on Asian nations. On a third issue, the students voted to support a lottery to be run by the State of New Jersey.
 The action came at a student congress at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield. Delegates from Livingston, West Orange and Seton Hall Preparatory schools joined the host school in the sessions as members of the National Forensic League.
 Members of the student House and Congress argued the merits of the issues in speeches limited to three minutes. A two-thirds majority was needed to decide the position of the Congress.
 Steve Fisher and David Yuckman of Dayton shared the presidency of the Senate, and Sam Gershwin and Eric Krueger were Speakers of the House at the evening session May 19.
 Other Dayton students participating were: Robert Cohen, Scott Hammen, Sue Mass, Myron Miesel, Robert Waldman and Robert Wuertz.

West Orange to Dr. Henry Huneke, a dentist.
 He maintains his present office at home in Springfield. They came to Springfield "about 11 years ago." The Hunekes have two children, Howard, 18, who attends Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, and Holly, 9, who attends Walton.
 Does her husband have any objections to all of Mrs. Huneke's outside activities?
 "He has no objections," she said. "In fact, he feels pretty much as most husbands do in this area—who have no time to do the research that we do. Families are more informed as to what is going on in the communities, and they can discuss the pros and cons of different proposals when they get together."
 No matter how busy Mrs. Huneke can be, when Dr. Huneke can take a day or a week off, the family gets together for some "fun recreation"—camping and trailer trips. "There are no pros and cons on this sort of thing," she grinned.

Zoners Refer Case To Planning Board

At a special meeting Tuesday night at the Municipal Building, the Springfield Board of Adjustment moved for further consideration on the application by Joseph Caruso for a special exception use permit to construct a restaurant and bar at the Echo Plaza Shopping Center, Mountain ave. and Rt. 22.

The zoning body referred the application to the Planning Board for an advisory report. Robert C. Miller, Board of Adjustment chairman, noted that this procedure is mandatory in all cases involving a special exception use.

Miller also disclosed that the board is formally notifying the United Singers of Newark, the applicants, of the need for new hearings on their bid for a variance to erect a singing shell and washroom facilities at Evergreen Lodge.

The board had recommended approval of the variance to the Township Committee. The governing body last week, however, remanded the case to the board for further testimony on specific technical matters.

Miller said he expected the new hearings to take place in July, but said the timing depended on the speed with which the applicants acted. He stressed that testimony would be confined strictly to the information asked by the Township Committee.

The best way to learn about a school subject or a program is to sit in on an active class, blend into the atmosphere of activity and snatch several moments of the teacher's time to ask questions and jot down notes.

That is exactly what this reporter did the other day in order to find out something about the home economics plan in the local unit form.

Visiting Mrs. Olive Hann's eighth grade home economics class at the Florence Gaudin School in Springfield proved to be enlightening, informative and, occasionally, amusing.

While the eighth grade girls were busily preparing square patches of material to be pasted on a piece of paper, and then identified by scanning an accompanying textbook, Mrs. Hann managed to explain the sixth to eighth grade economics program—a compulsory course for the more than 400 girls in the school.

Occasionally the conversation was interrupted with "Where is the glue, Mrs. Hann?" or "May I have a pair of scissors?" or "I can't find this material in the book anywhere—can you?" or "I know this is a bone material, but I can't think of the whole name." ("Herringbone," Mrs. Hann suggested.)

"WE FOLLOW the three year state plan in unit form," which was introduced to the school systems five years ago," Mrs. Hann explained. "Of course it's optional. We can teach home economics singularly as some schools do, but the unit form has proved to be most successful in the general home economics program.

Beginning with the sixth grade girls, she indicated, the program consists of classes divided into two categories: clothing and food. Mrs. Hann is in charge of clothing; Mrs. Zimmerman in food.

"There are four weeks of clothing at a time, and four weeks of foods classes." First, she indicated, in the clothing unit is the introduction of the program, the description of basic stitches (Each girl makes a sample by the end of the four weeks) and the demonstration and learning of the threading and stitching of the sewing machine. Then there are four weeks of rules and regulations on cooking. There are safety factors to be covered, cooking terms, equivalents, abbreviations, small equipment and utensils, measuring techniques, table setting and table manners.

There are 12 weeks of construction in clothing: A review of threading and stitching on the stitching machine, construction of a night gown and the simple stitches used on a night gown.

Four concluding weeks of classes in this category follow under the heading of good grooming, such as the study and care of the body, demonstration of hair shampooing and care of nails; and the study of posture and cleanliness.

THE 12 WEEKS in the food unit, under the heading of breakfast, include introducing the breakfast pattern and the basic steps in preparing foods ("which students do themselves") table setting, table manners, time study, recipe variations, and nutrition.

The final four weeks are concentrated on the subject of entertaining, such as invitations, introductions, table setting, planning and preparing for teas and giving teas for the mothers of pupils.

Seventh grade girls, during the first four weeks, become involved in home nursing. Their course includes the study of the sick-room, bed making, changing linen, bathing in bed, the care of the patient and safety and care in the home.

They learn how to make beds with the patients in the beds," Mrs. Hann said, "and they make their own bed rests. One little girl, whose mother was ill for a time, took excellent care of her bed-ridden mother. In fact, the school was commended for the type of a useful training received by the youngsters."

Four weeks in table service and flower arranging techniques follow; then 12 weeks of luncheon patterns. "The students," Mrs. Hann said, "prepare foods during the unit, including soups, salads, breads, main course and dessert."

THEY LEARN nutrition, food costs—we take them to 3 local supermarkets on shopping tours, the management is extremely cooperative—time study, recipe variations, balanced meals, menus, and table-manners.

The 12 weeks of clothing classes are devoted to the construction of a shift, pattern study for size, pinning pattern on fabric, the construction of the garment, the reading of the guide sheet, the stitches and the finished garment.

The girls provide their own fabrics, do their own work. I always tell mothers," Mrs. Hann said, "not to judge the child's outfit on the adult level. There are some grandmothers, who frown on the stitching of a hem, pull the hem out and sew it themselves. "Really," she exclaimed, that doesn't give the girls much confidence in themselves, does it? The mothers, however have been very cooperative. The amount of money they spend to provide the fabrics for their daughters to work on certainly means that they are putting their confidence in the daughters and in me."

The next four weeks are filled with learning about laundry—and stain removal. "The girls learn how to launder sweaters, socks and general clothing. Each girl is required to remove a stain from a fabric and report her findings to class."

The concluding four weeks bring the girls to the themes and decorations world. They plan a class party all by themselves and they prepare the part for the class.

IN THE EIGHTH GRADE, Mrs. Hann reported, "there are four weeks of classes in careers." There are the two-week break-down of careers in home economics, individual reports of careers, description of position and qualifications for each position; and two weeks of line and color where the classes discuss colors and types-adapted to various color schemes; lines for types, and view films on garments and colors. They discuss the garment to be constructed in the following 12-week unit.

In the 12-week unit, there is the construction of the garment, with pattern fitting, layout, guide sheet, study, the process of learning about seams, stitching, hemming and finally, the finishing of a garment.

The concluding four weeks take the girls into the world of textiles, where they study modern fabrics, the care and testing of fabrics and label reading and its importance. They must complete a garment by the end of these classes. They can't have unfinished work left before the graduate. And," Mrs. Hann said, "I won't let them fall; they must get their diplomas."

Finally, the eighth grade girls learn about buffets and smorgasbords. In four weeks, they report on countries and choose a menu for a buffet or smorgasbord, then plan and prepare the buffet or smorgasbord.

For five more weeks, they have lessons in preparing pies, tarts—with a variety of fillings—bake cakes, make frostings, and bake cookies, muffins and breads.

ONE GIRL'S MOTHER, Mrs. Hann mused, "came to me out of desperation and gasped, 'I love popovers, but my daughter's been making popovers every weekend for I don't know how long and I realize it's her favorite pastry. But I don't want to look another popover in the face. . . . We give them extra credit for the things they do at home," she laughed.

The girls have two weeks of classes in china and silverware. "Mrs. Zimmerman was able to borrow sets of china and silverware for our study classes."

There are five additional weeks of child care. This category includes baby sitting, demonstrations in bathing the baby—"The girls bring in dolls to work on"—the planning of a child care party—

"Little ones aged two or three come to the girl parties and then evaluate the party," Mrs. Hann said. "The final subject in the food-care is—covered in four weeks. This includes the food costs—we take them to weeks. This includes the meat lesson, planning dinner and preparing dinner. "Naturally, the girls are tested on individual units."

A few moments before the class was terminated, a boy rushed in—holding out a pair of pants to Mrs. Hann. "One of the boys ripped these pants in the gym," he said, "and I've washed them covering his face."

The girls, without so much as a giggle, set to work. One immediately set up the sewing machine, another reached through spools of thread to match the color of the pants, and the third examined the damage. In ten minutes the class was bustling with activity.

HOME-MAKING PANORAMA—Eighth grade girls of Mrs. Olive Hann's class in general home economics at the Florence Gaudin School, Springfield, demonstrate their various skills during a class session. The girls are completing the two-year course. # Utility Services Study Report Published

A comprehensive study of utility services in New Jersey has been completed by the Division of State and Regional Planning of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The 82-page report contains an analysis of water distribution, sewerage systems, gas, electric and telephone service and underground utilities as well as a section on the aesthetic ramifications of utilities. The study describes the basic problems of providing utility services as they relate to State-wide development. An inventory of the types and extent of utility services found in the State is shown on the 18 maps contained in the report.

The study concludes that in general, electric, gas and telephone utility services have been and will be able to keep pace with the state's growth. The study notes, however, that sewerage systems are becoming a serious problem because of rapid development occurring in areas without adequate facilities for sewage treatment. It calls for improvements in the distribution of water in certain parts of the state.

The report recommends that intermunicipal cooperation is the best method of resolving problems of utility services since it is becoming virtually impossible for the local municipality to solve many types of utility problems alone. Through intermunicipal cooperation, as well as state and county technical and financial assistance, the utility service problems of the future can be solved.

The study is a part of the New Jersey Statewide Planning Program, the object of which is the formulation of a statewide development plan. Copies of this report are available at a charge of $2. They may be obtained by contacting the New Jersey Division of State and Regional Planning, Post Office, Box 1976, Trenton.

Fight Fan Now Sour On 'Fight'

Springfield Man Joined 'Fake' Chorus

While most residents were at home listening to the Liston-Clay-Murphy fight on radio or watching it in a local theater, at least one Springfield man was right at ringside. Phil Yellin of 48

Christy Lane was at the St. Dominic's Youth Center in Lewiston, Me., and had just settled into his seat to watch a championship fight. One minute later, he was on his feet leading the crowd in chants of "Fake! Fake! Fake!" "Liston and Clay should get an Emmy," said Yellin. "The whole performance was like a school show. The arena was a big gymnasium, with cardboard markers to show the seat locations. It was as if the high had made the scenery and the ring. Robert Goulet even forgot the words to the 'Star Spangled Banner.' Yellin was taken to Lewiston with a group of 80 auto dealers by J & J Automotive Distributors of Newark and Soundex Radio Corp. of Brockton. With the group were former fighters Rocky Marciano, Charley Fusari, and Willie Pep.

At a dinner party before the fight, Marciano was guest speaker. He predicted an early knockout by Clay. "Six or seven dealers immediately ran out to phone bets in to New York," Yellin smiled. "Sizangely, echoing Clay's earlier remarks, Marciano said that everyone was in for 'a big surprise.'"

ARRIVING at the Youth Center by bus at 9:45, the group found the Center almost humorously disorganized. Of the reported 250 police, they saw only 15 Maine troopers wearing Western-style hats. There was no one collecting tickets, and local townspeople were coming in free to fill the empty $100 seats. "It looked more like a TV studio than an arena," Yellin commented. "Eight buses were parked outside with TV equipment, and the center was filled. At the pre-fight introductions, there were portable TV cameras in the ring, and during the fight they were only a foot-and-a-half away."

"When the fight began, Liston came out with his hands down, as if daring Clay to hit him." As the two just danced around, Yellin thought to himself, "I hope they don't call the fight; there's no dancing allowed after 11 p.m." And suddenly it was all over. In one minute the atmosphere had changed completely and everyone in the audience was stunned. As what had happened dawned on them, they rose to their feet and began trying "Fake" and "Fix!" Heavyweight hopeful George Chuvalo was in the ring trying to fight Clay right there. "Singer Billy Daniels, who had begun to open his camera to take some pictures, sat there with his camera in his hand."

FEW CLAIMED to have seen the knockout punch. Charlie Fusari said he saw a "right-left flick," but that it seemed almost impossible to be a knockout. Joe Louis said he didn't see anything. Floyd Paterson, at ringside, was the only one who said he saw a solid punch.

"I'm no expert," said Yellin, "but I would say it was a fake, a real big fiasco. Liston just rolled over. Some said he had been drugged, or hypnotized, earlier in the day. Then, just at the right word, he keeled over!" "Disappointed?" commented Yellin. "Well, we were pleased to be at a history-making event. Maybe it was pleasurable and maybe it left a bad taste, but it was an event to go down in history." At any rate the odd and disorganized circumstances surrounding the fight continued even after the knockout. As some 40 newsmen rushed to the only two public phones in the center, on either side of the exit, the doors were completely blocked.

Present Building

The statement by the New Library group urged that the present library building be retained to provide such "library services" as materials, lists, displays, films and other library materials related to group programs, story telling groups, film showings, discussion groups, special subject programs, film forums, lectures and music programs.

Mrs. Schwartz declared that these activities will constitute the "library uses" specified in the will of the late Mrs. Sarah Bailey, who left the building to the township for only such a purpose.

Many of the same criticisms were expressed in a statement of the Springfield League of Women Voters read by its president, Mrs. Henry J. Huenke.

"Expansion of the library on its present site," she declared, "does not meet the planners' own criteria" on proximity to schools and central location to the bulk of the community's population.

Women Voters' Stand

The LWV statement added, "We recommend that an expanded library facility be built on a site more favorably located."

In other areas of the master plan, Mrs. Huenke commented, "A complete financial report is necessary. The plan fails to forecast the capital expenditures needed to carry out its objectives, and fails to establish the relative priority of individual expenditures."

"It does not program these expenditures in accordance with a projection of the town's ability to pay." She also declared, "We feel that the plan fails to explore desirable or undesirable developments where other communities border on Springfield. These developments might be the subject of joint planning and agreement with neighboring towns."

"The league had hoped that more specific recommendations would be made regarding the methods of improving and controlling the aesthetics of the community."

Board Urges

A new, more centrally located site for the library was also recommended in a statement presented by Paul Weinman in behalf of the Springfield Board of Education.

In all, nine speakers from the audience objected to the present library site, and one supported expansion at the present location. Ten speakers discussed other topics.

Following the meeting, Rotwein disclosed that the library site was discussed to some extent at the start of the planning process, and was considered adequate. Thereafter, the matter of a new location was not investigated in relation to any other parcels of land in the township. Most of the other questions directed to the planning board were concerned with the designation of the Main st. area as a "pedestrian mall."

Access To Church
The Rev. James Dewart, pastor of Springfield's Emanuel Methodist Church, and a number of church leaders strongly attacked plans on traffic in the church. Pastor Dewart called for "assurances of complete vehicular access to the church."

The other speakers on the subject commented that the church must have free access for fire engines, police cars, other emergency vehicles, delivery of supplies, vehicles for funerals, autos for church members who are ill or elderly and parking for church members.

Rotwein stated that the master plan expressed "no intent to limit proper access to proper buildings."

Malcolm Kasler, who had outlined details of the master plan as a representative for the consultants, Candeb and Fleissig of Newark, commented that Academy green would remain as a connector for traffic from the church to Black's lane, although it is not shown on the map, which are a part of the master plan. Kasler said, "The map is just one artist's concept of the town's future development. He (Continued from Page 1) at. They were so assurances from the Planning Board or the Township Committee that vehicular access to these churches would not be denied their members and constituents.

"Some rather hazy thinking was exhibited by those who sought to explain the schematic development plan for downtown Springfield, and in particular the pedestrian mall."

"The mall was defined as a place where pedestrians could walk in safety. I know of no street where pedestrians can walk in safety, and thus it would appear that upon completion of Route 78 and the relocation of Main st., the present pedestrian mall extending from Morris ave. to the Methodist parsonage (48 Main st.) will be closed to automobiles."

Neither the Methodist Church nor the Presbyterian Parish Hall will have direct access to their main entrances should the master plan take effect.

To Restrict Use
When questioned concerning the future of Academy green, the representative of the planning consultants and the Planning Board chairman indicated the master plan would restrict the use of Black's lane, Academy green (which does not appear on the map), and Main st. in order to secure better traffic control as if any man in his right mind traveling east or west on Morris ave. would use these streets that obviously go nowhere, and that would only serve the institutions and private dwellings located in their environs.

"It is time for our political leaders, who have given us 'our pennant' and for the Planning Board, which has given us 'Our Master Plan,' to either enter into direct negotiations with the churches involved, or to make a public statement retracting this aspect of the master plan, which would seriously hamper the services and activities of these institutions, that restrain the natural climate of the community."

If there is a growing spirit of secularism, it is not in the minds of those who believe that 'acts speak louder than pennants' but in the minds of those who do not give serious consideration to the needs of the churches and synagogues of the community.

left Academy green out of the map to discourage access to the road by through traffic." A comment outside of the mainstream of suburban culture came from Lee Valber of 15 Evergreen ave. He complained, "All the discussion about the library centers on accessibility to children."

"There are adults who use the library. Lots of us adults still do read a book once in a while." He suggested that the town could possibly use two libraries to serve all areas of population.

Nobody ever thinks about a water heater... until it runs out.

Quick recovery electric water heaters never get thought about.
They just work away unnoticed, unsung, producing hot water that goes on and on and on. If you owned one, you wouldn't even know it was there. As you use the hot water, it heats up more in a big hurry. And it works without flame, needs no vents or flues, never makes a sound, or even a speck of mess, and can be installed anywhere in the house. If you don't own one, it might be worth a little thought.

CANDY by Tom Dorr

United Nations 20 Years Old On June 26

I got into the taxi and said, "United Nations, please." The driver smiled and nodded and as he started edging through the traffic he began a discourse on the beauty of the United Nations, and then, as he waited for a traffic signal to change, he turned around to me and staring at me with big baby blue eyes, he said, "But what do they do in there?"

At that point I figured if he hadn't heard in 20 years, he wouldn't hear in 30 minutes, and so I only sighed in disappointment. Actually that is how many years he has had to learn for the United Nations will be 20 years old in June.

The big birthday celebrations will be held in San Francisco for that is where the birth certificate, or in this case, the United Nations charter, was filed out. The big day will be June 26 and practically all of the New York

United Nations family will be represented to one degree or another.

One of the members of this UN family, for the taxi cab driver's edification, the United Nations Postal Administration, which along with most of the others, has prepared a special program for the birthday. The administration, which sells and cancels UN stamps only at the United Nations headquarters in New York, has a stamp exhibit in a trailer-truck unit which is traveling across the United States with 12 stopovers of route, to reach San Francisco at the time of the anniversary celebrations. After ceremonies in New York, the mobile unit left on May 14 and currently is in Minneapolis.

For the first time in United Nations postal history, UN stamps and postal stationery will be sold elsewhere than at their NYC headquarters, and that will be at the Public Library, Civic Center, San Francisco. All current UN postal items will be on sale there beginning June 7, and the International Co-operation Year Stamp, honoring the 20th anniversary, will be sold June 26.

In the 14 years of existence UN Postal Administration (UNPA) has printed more than 380 million UN stamps and items of postal stationery. UN stamps usually are valid for postage only when mailed within the building, but philatelists all over the world are interested in collecting them. There are two issues: the regular which is changed from time to time and the commemorative, which designs are approved by a special committee and appear annually.

The UNPA was initiated in 1950 when the UN General Assembly decided unanimously that the United Nations should issue and use its own stamps. A United Nations Postal Administration was established by an agreement signed in 1951 between the UNPA and the United States Post Office, and since then the United States Post Office has operated two United Nations Post Offices at Headquarters in New York. The UN stamps usually may be purchased by mail from the UNPA, United Nations, N. Y., or in person at the sales counter in the General Assembly concourse. However, during the anniversary celebrations they can be purchased in San Francisco and UNPA personnel will be in attendance with the mobile unit to give instructions for purchase to those who wish to collect UN stamps.

Among the things the mobile unit will show (are the stamps and postal stationery issued from the establishing of the UNPA to the present, as well as some unusual material from the UNPA archives which never has been exhibited before. A duplicate exhibit will be on display at the New York World's Fair, and a triplicate is touring the capitals of the world. And if that taxi-cab driver isn't a philatelist - he'll never hear this either.

A real worrier

What do you think of when you come around to buying the Tire for Worriers? That you'll replace one or two tires? Because they're worn? Or have plugs in them? Or tubes? And you wouldn't trust them on a hot day's driving or a rough road? So far, so good. Would a real worrier replace just one or two? He would not. A real worrier knows that somewhere on the road there's a nail with his name on it. And that if he's going to be protected against sudden flats by this tire's new inner liner, he'd better be protected all the way. A real worrier knows it'll rain on the Sunday he's with his family, and he'll have to tip-toe all the way home on slippery curves. So he'd want the new tread that rubs a wet road dry under his car. Under all four wheels. A real worrier can't forget what a blowout can do to a car. So he's got to have the carcass that makes the chance of a blowout practically nil. (If he has four tires.) What it boils down to is this. He figures that if one Tire for Worriers would cut his worrying, then four would cut it altogether. U.S. Royal Master®

No more tip-toeing in the rain.
His name's not out there.

What'll he worry about now? Cars that don't have the Tire for Worriers.

BREEZE HEAD SUGGESTS TRIP

For That 'Inexpensive' Vacation Try A Safari To Mozambique

You don't have to be a millionaire to go on safari for big game in Africa nowadays. That's the considered opinion of J. J. Masouch, inventor-sportsman of Millburn, who has shot all the African big five — elephant, rhinoceros, lion, Cape water buffalo and leopard — on several safaris in Kenya, Tanganyika and Portuguese East Africa. Masouch is president of Breeze-Corporations, Inc., 700 Liberty ave., Union.

licenses for the big five beasts; $250 for extra mileage charge (almost inevitable); $800 for shipping baggage and trophies; $150 for ammunition; $100 for hotel expenses; and $100 for safari trips. Total $7,650.

SAFARI STORIES — J. J. Masouch of Millburn, who is president of Breeze-Corporations, Inc., Union, checks over big game he caught on a recent African safari. The inventor-sportsman claims that the cost of a safari is now within the reach of many people.

Professional white hunters on salary have virtually no incentive to cut rates or accept small-change bookings from America.

But in Angola and Mozambique where game is just as plentiful, safari hunting is not so well developed as a business. There aren't so many famous hunters, and the governments are more interested in encouraging the safari business. Single hunters there will be more apt to work for 21 days or even shorter periods, Masouch explained.

The most important step in planning a low cost safari is finding a congenial hunting companion to pay half the expenses, said Masouch. "Remember, you are going to share everything, and take alternate shots. No matter how hard he tries to be scrupulously fair, your professional white hunter cannot guarantee you both equal luck. So each partner in the safari must be the kind of chap who can take either good or bad luck with a shrug.

Sills Will Receive 1st Safety Award Of Tri-County Unit

Robert Planer, Springfield Police Commissioner, is chairman of the committee awarding a dinner Sept. 23 at which time the first annual safety award of the Essex-Union-Sherburne Traffic Council will be presented to State Attorney General Arthur J. Sills.

More recently, Planer said Sills has stepped up his campaign to combat the high death rate by calling on the state to take action against the "unsafe" level of highways.

A polo victim at the age of four, Sills had been active in the March of Dimes and is a director of the New Jersey Society for Crippled Children.

View From The State House

By GOV. RICHARD J. HUGHES

A short time ago, I felt it my solemn responsibility to conditionally veto Senate Bill No. 81, the so-called Conflicts of Interest Bill. The alleged purpose of this Bill was to undertake to define and prohibit conflicts between the official obligations and the private interests of the members, officers and employees of the legislative and executive branches of government. This measure was merely a repetition of an earlier Senate bill which would have reserved to each House of the Legislature the exclusive power to hear and determine all charges of impropriety against its own members. It constituted a nullification of the basic intent of the law, and I was constrained to return the bill to the Senate with recommendations designed to provide the assurance of a full and fair hearing on such charges by an impartial body. It is my hope that the conscience of the Senate will move it to pass a realistic conflicts measure. To accept Senate Bill No. 81 as a "first step" or as a "half loaf" would, I fear, remove from public view the foreseeable future the question of a meaningful conflicts of interest law. I think it is to the advantage of the people of this State that public insistence be maintained on behalf of a law that has meaning and effect. I have proposed that the State House Commission be empowered, as an appropriate independent tribunal composed of responsible members of the executive and legislative branches, to adjudicate all complaints involving alleged violations by members, officers and employees of both branches. This suggestion was offered as a possible compromise between the criminal sanctions preferred by the Assembly and the illusory deterrent of secret self-examination long advocated by the Senate. The proposal deferred to the ultimate right of each House to judge the qualifications of its own members, for it would have constituted the State House Commission only as a fact-finding body with no authority to impose any penalties upon members and employees of the Legislature. The paramount aim of such an approach is not to punish the Legislature but to maintain public confidence in the governmental process by assuring certain and impartial enforcement of a conflicts law in broad daylight. I strongly feel that to sign any conflicts law without such an assurance would be to deceive the people of New Jersey and to fall in my responsibilities as Governor.

I am quite sure, in reconciling the differences between the House and Senate versions. And I feel certain the President will sign the bill. But appropriation bills are less predictable and it's possible we won't get the full amount authorized. I am a co-sponsor of the Older Americans Act. And I believe it to be social legislation of major significance. We have done a great deal at the federal level to meet some of the severe problems of the elderly. But we have done little on the positive side of the ledger toward making the so-called "golden years" really golden. This legislation will help us to develop programs to make the retirement years more meaningful, productive and pleasant. It will help provide opportunities for suitable employment and volunteer community work. Development of recreation programs and facilities suited to older persons will be stimulated. It will help our senior citizens to enjoy their retirement years free of besetting financial worries, in good housing and in good physical and mental health. And it will contribute to the freedom, independence and exorcism of initiative which mature people find essential to a happy life.

Senator Williams Reports

By Sen. Harrison A. Williams

WASHINGTON — Senate passage last week of the "Older Americans Act" will mean a real shot in the arm to the New Jersey Division on Aging. The Division has attempted to establish and operate a meaningful program for the senior citizens in our state on a pathetically small budget. This year's budget is less than $120,000. The Older Americans Act authorizes a total of $18 million in grants to the states over the next two years for community planning and coordination, demonstration programs and training of special personnel. New Jersey's share of this money would amount to $120,400 in fiscal 1966 and $207,900 in fiscal 1967, more than doubling the financial resources available to the Division on Aging.

The Older Americans Act also authorizes $4.5 million in grants over the next two years to public or private non-profit agencies for demonstration and evaluation projects relating to the needs of older persons and for training of personnel to carry out these projects. And private groups in New Jersey would be eligible for some of this money. The bill also provides for creation of an Administration on Aging within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and for establishment of a 16-member Advisory Committee on Older Americans at the federal level. What all this means is that new national attention will be focused on realizing the potential of the retirement years for millions of Americans and renewed vigor will be brought to state programs.

Under the new plan, the tuition for all fulltime students from Union County attending Union Junior College will be reduced by $200 per semester, a 50 percent reduction from the present tuition of $400 a semester. Dr. Kenneth C. Mc Kay, UJC president, said the new plan will go into effect in September. Between 300 and 400 students are expected to benefit from the new program this fall. The Union County Board of Freeholders appropriated $80,000 in April to institute the tuition aid plan, which was recommended by an Advisory Committee appointed by the freeholders. The freeholders made the appropriation under provisions of New Jersey's County College legislation adopted in 1962. This plan will mark the first implementation of this legislation, Dr. McKay reported. "This plan has the effect of providing a $400 a year scholarship for each Union County student attending Union Junior College on a fulltime basis. We are confident this program will make a college education possible for hundreds of Union County residents who otherwise would be denied the benefits of higher education," Dr. McKay said. The UJC president said the tuition aid plan is the most economical and most efficient way for Union County "to help alleviate the critical shortage of college facilities for Union County residents." Union Junior College, which was founded in 1933, is a two-year community college, annually transfers 85 per cent of its graduates to more than 300 colleges and universities throughout the county. An independent, non-profit, non-denominational institution, UJC is accredited by the New Jersey State Board of Education and the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The college offers curriculums in liberal arts, engineering, science, and business administration. offer - recur!

Cut UJC Tuition 50% For County Students

All this is assuming that we are successful in ironing out slight differences between the Senate and House versions of the bill, and that the President signs the legislation — and that the full amount authorized is appropriated. There will be little difficulty.

The Rev. Dr. Milton A. Galamison, New York civil rights leader, will speak on integrated quality education today at 8:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church, 201 Lincoln ave., Cranford. The talk will be sponsored by the New Jersey Teachers for Integrated Quality Education, TIQUE. Proceeds will be used in voter registration and freedom school projects in the North and South this summer. Advance ticket sales are being handled by Mrs. Elaine Allen of 1383 Brookfield ave., Union, MU 8-6165, and Mrs. Elizabeth Zepkin of 24 Calif Manor, Roselle Park, CH 1-0660.

A $48,800 contract has been awarded to S-F-D Laboratories, Inc., 800 Rahway ave., Union, by the Defense Supply Agency electronic supply center in Dayton, Ohio. The ceramic and metal envelope — magnetron electron tubes will be manufactured at the Union plant for the Navy Department.
