When the service speaks of this observance as the 'Birth-day of the World,' it tells us that renewal, change and evolution are possible on all levels."

Mrs. Smith Sees Herself Best Able To Collect Taxes

Marie Smith, Democratic candidate for the office of tax-collector stated recently to a group of women workers who gathered to kick off her campaign that she is the best qualified candidate for the office.

Mrs. Smith pointed out that she has been working in the Springfield tax office for six years, and has been deputy tax collector for the past five years. She declared to her supporters that she is the only person connected with the tax office capable of running the entire office.

"My opponent," she stated, cannot perform all of the duties and obligations conducted by the office.

"What the township of Springfield needs in the tax collector's office is a working tax collector, who is capable of handling all phases of tax work. No job should be too great or too small. We do not need an executive in this job; we need a full time employee who will, and can work." "This," she said, "I can do and intend to do when elected."

Mrs. Smith said that she was "sincerely sorry that my opponent was ill for the past five weeks, having been hospitalized and then convalescing at home. However, this has given me the opportunity of proving to the people of Springfield that I can do the whole job, and that the tax collector's office is in good hands with Marie Smith at the helm."

She concluded, "When I am elected, I intend to bring more efficiency to the tax collector's office. These efficiency and tax saving suggestions I intend to bring before the people of Springfield in the weeks before election."

He stressed that the state agency is not seeking any land in Springfield.

LEADER PROFILE

SIDNEY PILLER

"The Northern New Jersey B'nai B'rith is not only the strongest B'nai B'rith region of District 3, but it is probably the strongest in the entire country," said Sidney Piller, president of the Springfield Lodge of B'nai B'rith. "And one of the big strongholds of B'nai B'rith is right here in Springfield." The fraternal order is the oldest and largest Jewish organization in the country.

Piller, a friendly, loquacious businessman (he is proprietor of Elkay Products Co., Inc., 35 Brown Ave., Springfield, with his brother, Sam, a vice-president), is one of the more active members of the Springfield community. He hails from the Bronx, Brooklyn and Manhattan, and came to Springfield seven years ago — business and all.

"Here in Springfield we've built up our B'nai B'rith Lodge. It's a large group — strongest in numbers in the township. We have (considering all the groups — men, women, boys and girls), close to 400 people."

"We're planning a strong membership drive," he said, "and hope to . . . I mean expect to increase it by 100 members."

"I believe our group has the most popular programs in our town — many of which are open to the public. Not only for Jewish people," Piller said, "but for the entire community."

"LAST YEAR, during a civic affair program, we got together with our women's chapter, and we invited all local organizations to participate. It was a successful interfaith program, and the leaders of many local groups came in great numbers. We were honoring the people who have done wonderful work for this community through the many years, and giving them a chance to meet each other."

"Our programs in the past," Piller declared, "as they will continue in the future, included entertainers, psychologists, vocational guidance experts — and we've invited parents and teachers from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School to attend."

Piller discussed the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith award program last year. "We offered an academic-athletic award to the best qualified student selected for us by the local high school — a student who ranked high both academically and athletically. And we signed a prominent athlete to speak to the boys."

"THIS YEAR," Piller said, "we will have a choir from Rutgers to entertain us during one of our affairs, arranged through Rabbi Julius Funk, Hillel director at Rutgers. We also brought in a well-known hypnotist, John Kolish at our first meeting at Temple Beth Ahm. This is all free. And it is all sponsored by the Men's Lodge of B'nai B'rith."

Piller explained that "a good part of the money from B'nai B'rith goes toward the benefit of youngsters. We will have 10 or 11 programs, featuring a variety of B'nai B'rith subjects from hypnotism to comedy to reports from our committee people on separate functions. It's all very exciting and worthwhile."

The Springfield prexy mentioned that his brother, Sam, is a trustee of the local group and membership chairman. "We have the same interests and are equally active, just as our families are."

The Piller brothers, who were born in the Bronx, discovered that they had much in common from boyhood on.

"I lived all my life in New York," Piller said. He attended New York University, then took a pre-dentistry course in NYU's School of Dentistry. "I completed the first year and seven months of the second year. At that particular time," Piller recalled, "I discovered I couldn't have continued because I was financially unable to do so."

"DURING THAT TIME, I worked and I went to City College. I decided that it was business I was best suited for. And from that point on I continued."

Piller went into business with Elkay Products Co., Inc., 29 years ago with his brother, Sam. "We were in a six-story building in Manhattan — a multiple lot building — but due to the nature of our business, our quarters were not conducive to the facilities necessary to grow. We were cramped; there was little room for parking, loading and unloading. So we began looking for additional quarters. The firm makes pads and other equipment for moving vans."

After an extensive search, the Pillers came to Springfield, "a place we had never heard of before. That is, until I had met Seymour Cohan of Jefferson Terrace, an active resident, and also a supply mover, at a movers' convention. He sold me on Springfield. It's a good town in which to locate," he said. So, now he's our neighbor. Cohan is a former chairman of the industrial committee.

Nonfarm wage and salary employment in New Jersey continued to expand more than seasonally in August, reaching a record 2,256,700, according to estimates prepared by the N. J. Jews To Observe 10-Day Penitential Period

By Rabbi ISRAEL N. DRESNER, Temple Sharey Shalom

Jews all over the world will usher in the Jewish new year of 5726 at Rosh Hashana (literally, Head of the Year) services this Sunday evening. Rosh Hashana begins a 10-day penitential period for Jews which reaches its climax on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement which begins this year at sundown on Tuesday, Oct. 5. Orthodox and Conservative Jews observe Rosh Hashana for two days, while most American Reform Jews observe it for one day.

The Bible commands the observance of Rosh Hashana in the following manner: "In the first day of the month shall be a solemn rest unto you, and memorial proclaimed with the blast of horns, a holy convocation; ye shall do no manner of servile work." (Leviticus 23:24-25). The shofar (ram's horn) is sounded in the synagogue during Rosh Hashana services, and is the major symbol of the Holy Day. Over the centuries, the piercing and powerful sound of the shofar has symbolized many things to Jews ancient and modern—a call to battle, the tearing away of the old year and the past through repentance and forgiveness, a plea to God that he remember man, and an alarm to the man from his moral indolence to an awareness of his responsibilities toward God and his fellow man.

Rosh Hashana is referred to in Jewish tradition as the Yom Hadin, the Day of Judgment, for on this day the Jew must stand accountable before God for his deeds of the previous year. Only through true repentance can he be forgiven his sins, so the mood of Rosh Hashana services is solemn and introspective. Every Jew is bidden engage in self-examination so as to see himself as he really is, rather than as he would like to appear before others.

Sins must be repented and corrected so that they will never be committed again. Rosh Hashana informs every Jew that he can not hide from God, and so must not hide from himself and from his fellow man. Sins can not be coated over by a public relations approach; they must be brought out in the open and must not be repeated. It is so unbecoming one's transgressions by denying them or explaining them away. God commands us to be honest with Him and with ourselves.

If mankind is to save itself from the abyss in these dangerous times, then we must hearken to the call of the Rosh Hashana shofar. We must cease trying to conceal our sins by rationalizing them away with such remarks as "I don't have the problem" or "don't be a gloom and doomer" or "let's look at the brighter side."

The world will not survive half emancipated and half free. America will not long endure when forty million of her citizens live under conditions of grinding poverty, and this in the midst of the greatest affluence in the history of man. We must feed the poor, and clothe the naked and give shelter to the homeless rather than avert our face and so make believe that Harlem, Watts, Appalachia, Mississippi and the Central Ward of Newark don't exist. The poor and the exploited minority groups, the Negro, the Mexican, the Puerto Rican, the American Indian, must no longer be the invisible men of America.

How long can the middle classes hide behind their white suburban lawns, before the flood waters of discontent in our urban jungles engulf them? We must make war on poverty, not on the poor. In the words of the Rosh Hashana prayer: "In the Jubilee year when liberty was proclaimed throughout the land, our fathers hearkened to the tones of the ram's horn and recalled their obligation to serve the Lord with all their heart and with all their strength. Thus do we their children, prepare to hearken now to the solemn sound of the shofar."

"May it summon us to struggle against the forces of evil within our hearts and in the world. Let it arouse within us the will to righteousness and strengthen our trust in God's justice and love. May it direct our thoughts to the day when the shofar will sound for the redemption of mankind. Amen."

CALL TO WORSHIP—Cantor Mark J. Biedelman of Temple Sharey Shalom, Springfield, blows a blast on the shofar, ram's horn used since Biblical days as a signal to call Jews to prayer or to battle. The shofar plays an important part in the observance of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, which will begin Sunday evening. In the background are two scrolls of the Torah, each of which contains the first five books of the Bible.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MORE ON POOL
I'd like to thank you for printing my letter of last week. It's a wonderful thing when people of the community have the chance to express their feelings on public issues.

Last Thursday I received a call from Mayor Koonz to inform me that I had made an unfair attack on our recreational director, Mr. Ruby. My comments on the pool were meant as a political issue only. I don't see how the Republican candidates can campaign again on the pool, when it's already two years old.

But since you've brought it up, Mayor Koonz, there must be a lot more people who are unhappy with the pool situation. If there were plenty of memberships available this year, as you told me, then there can't be the interest there should be. A well-run pool would have brought back nearly everyone who joined the first year, plus most of the people they talked to.

The Knights of Columbus in Union have a pool that costs $60 a family per year; is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and permits eight guests a season. If a private pool can provide longer hours at the same price, why can't a municipal pool? I still think something should be changed.

THE Golden Years

WIDOW WITH $159 A MONTH FINDS A GOOD RETIREMENT

Mrs. Nonetta Gephart is retired on an income of $159 a month. It is quite happy with things, and is managing so well she doesn't bother to spend the interest she makes on her savings.

Which is going to upset a lot of wives who are yelling "Poverty!" When their husbands come home with $300 pensions. Mrs. Gephart retired in 1961. She got Social Security of $80 a month and a pension of $80. "I own my own home," she says. "I live downstairs where I have four rooms and a bath. Upstairs I have an apartment and two sleeping rooms. Right now I have one room rented out and ask only $8 a month for it. I would keep the other rooms rented if I had a hard time. But I don't..."

Mrs. Gephart spends $285 a year for taxes on her home, and $33 for insurance. She says she spends money about the same as she spent it before she retired and travels about the same. She has two grandchildren and buys things for them about as before.

"I had planned a trip earlier this year and it was to cost $300. I saved for it. But when the time came I decided to use the money instead to install new kitchen cabinets which I've wanted for years. If I had taken the trip, at the end of it I would have had nothing to show. But the kitchen cabinets—I will enjoy as long as I live in this house."

She does her own decorating on the house, filling the plaster cracks and "scraping" the walls and ceilings before painting them. "I like the work," she says. She also takes care of a large lawn. This spring she rented a spreader from a nearby hardware store to reseed and fertilize it.

"I have never owned a car," she continues. "Always, though I couldn't afford it. People say that if you don't need a car to get back and forth to work it is a luxury. I lived, and still do, about half a block from where I worked.

"I certainly don't feel I am in the poverty class, even though I live on the $159 a month, plus the $8. I don't need to rush to the grocery to get my checks cashed. Sometimes I have on hand as many as four checks I haven't needed to cash. I earn interest of about $63 a year on savings I have. I don't need it and just add it to the savings."

Last Thanksgiving Mrs. Gephart took a trip to visit her brother and his wife. The fare was $30, by bus. On Christmas she made a trip to see her grandchildren, again for about $30, and again by bus.

"I don't see any difference in my way of life since I retired."

To live happily in retirement on a $159 income, single women must have a concept of life that bypasses the Jones and the neighbor, and must know how to manage. Many people now retiring don't have the first and never learned the second.

HALF-PAST TEEN

FUTURE WOULD BE BRIGHTER

Youths Urged To Quit Summer Jobs; Go To School

Thousands of young people who have summer jobs in New Jersey were urged this week to return to school this month, even if it means leaving their current jobs.

John A. Hughes, Chairman of the U. S. Labor Department's Regional Staff Committee in Region II, said that youngsters should forsake their immediate paychecks for better job prospects in the future by resuming their education or training.

Hughes issued his call as part of President Johnson's return-to-school campaign.

The purpose of the campaign, which was inaugurated on Aug. 12 by President Johnson before the Youth Opportunities Council, is to try to prevent an estimated 750,000 youngsters from dropping out of school during the coming year, Hughes said. The Youth Opportunities Council is chaired by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

"Admittedly, it is difficult to exchange money in your pocket today for the prospect of making more money in the future," Hughes said. But, he added, statistics confirm that in general, "the more education or training one has, the higher his earnings will be in the future."

An elementary school graduate can expect to earn about $207,000 during his lifetime, whereas a high school graduate will, on the average, receive $243,000, and a college graduate will average about $417,000, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Recognizing that not all young people wish to attend college, Hughes urged that such youths go to training schools to learn new skills or improve what skills they have.

"Some of the more highly skilled workers will earn as much or more than the average college graduate, and be engaged in work that is personally satisfying," he noted.

Chairman Hughes stressed the fact that the job opportunities for the uneducated, undereducated and unskilled workers have been steadily shrinking. He said that unemployment rates are higher for those with less education. Persons 18 years old and older who completed five to seven years of school had an unemployment rate of 8.4 percent in March, 1964. The rate was only 4.7 percent for high school graduates.

Concerning youngsters who cannot return to school because of serious financial considerations, Hughes said, "The Labor Department has programs for those people." He mentioned the Neighborhood Youth Corps, which encourages youth from low income families to stay in school or return to school by providing them with the chance to earn needed money in community service jobs. With the money earned outside of school hours, the youth are enabled to stay in school.

"But if your work is keeping you away from an education," Hughes cautioned, "give up the job, or enroll in the Neighborhood Youth Corps, or try to get some other part-time job."

Secretary of Commerce Joseph P. Connor asked businessmen to provide part-time jobs for youth during the school year, "especially in those cases where such a job might make the difference between finishing school or dropping out."

Applications for the Neighborhood Youth Corps may be obtained at the New York State Employment Service.

Repeating the motto of the back-to-school campaign, Hughes said, "Don't gamble with your future; Youth Opportunity depends on education."

The World Of Outer Space

From the Sperry Memorial Observatory
Union Junior College; Cranford
Amateur Astronomers, Inc.

By SAMUEL G. MELLOR, published some of his own. Amateur Astronomers, Inc. Kepler had been for a number of years assistant to Tycho Brahe who died in 1601. For many years Brahe had made thousands of very accurate observations solely for the purpose of proving that the earth was the center of the universe. Curiously the data which had been so carefully compiled for the purpose of proving Ptolemy's Copernicus and others wrong - was later used to prove them right. It was Kepler who did just this.

He studied the data Brahe had compiled. He found in calculating planetary orbits and periods that each planet had in its motion some things in common with the motions of other planets. His conclusions were boiled down into the three laws of planetary motion. All planets travel elliptical orbits. The sun is at one end of the ellipse at one of the two foci. He discovered a planet gains in speed traveling toward the sun and loses speed traveling away from it.

His calculations showed that each planet has its own period (year) with those closest to the sun having the shortest while those farthest from the sun have the longest. The laws of planetary motion stated by Kepler were recognized as facts with no explanation. Mathematics was not advanced sufficiently to prove his laws. Fifty years went by when Isaac Newton proved the truth of Kepler's laws with one slight change. He found that the period of Jupiter (11.86 years) for instance, is actually about two days shorter than it would be if calculated from Kepler's third law as Kepler stated it. Such a small error could not be detected by the instruments used at that time. Moreover, before Newton no thought was given to universal gravitation.

He found that the masses of the bodies considered have an effect on their relative motions. This was something unknown to Kepler. To sum up, in our solar system we have the sun at its center, with the planets at various distances from the sun and all revolving in the same direction. In general, the moons of those planets have their primary revolves around the sun. In the same direction that the primary revolves around the sun.

The younger children go two mornings per week and the older boys and girls go three mornings per week. There was such interest shown in this older preschool group that it necessitated our developing an afternoon session. DiGiovanni said that programs are developed on a 10-week basis and there will be three 10-week series during the school year and he has encouraged families to take part in registering for these fall programs and to follow through for the entire year. All classes are limited to a specific number so those participating will receive the best benefit and the quality of the program will play at a very high level in helping people develop in "mind-body-spirit."

Interested persons were asked to contact Harry Caldwell, physical director of the YMCA.

ORIENTATION AT UJC

Students Told They Owe Debt, Obligation To Learn

"The mere fact that you're a college student in mid-century America imposes upon you, both a debt and an obligation," Prof. Saul Orkin, chairman of the Social Sciences Department, told 500 first-year students at Union College, Cranford, at the second of a three-day orientation program last week in the theater of the Campus Center. "Your debt is owed to society for this opportunity to educate yourself. It is available to you because people who have gone before labored and saved and improved and created all the things you take for granted: your home, the automobile you drive, the books you read, the food you eat, this room, this building. You did nothing to bring all this about. You are enjoying what economists call 'unearned increment.' You are standing on the shoulders of all past generations, and you are better than they for it."

"Your obligation is to make the most of your time here: to develop your skills, your awareness, your sensitivity, your discrimination, your style, so that when your children ask where you are they might have it better because of what you do over the next quarter-century. And what you do in the next 25 years will be determined in large measure by what becomes of you in the next four," Prof. Orkin said. The UJC professor told the freshmen they were selected to attend Union Junior College because their records indicated that "you have promise of making a contribution not only to yourselves, but to the society at large."

"All of us know that we live in an imperfect and menacing world fraught with danger arising from atomic war to petty thievery on the city streets. We see on all sides ignorance, bigotry, stupidity, and fear. We see mediocrity applauded, and excellence derided. The world ought to be a better place. And as mature, intelligent men and women we want the best for ourselves, our families, the communities in which we live. Whether it be education, a government, a program on television, we should have the best. But to choose the best, one must have taste, and taste is a derivative of education. Going to college guarantees nothing, certainly not an education. Some of the most narrow-minded, short-sighted, uneducated scoundrels at large have gone to college. They lack understanding and compassion, judgment and discretion; they have no taste," Prof. Orkin said.

"Perhaps we should stop saying 'study hard, budget your time, organize your notes, and so on, and simply say, Look! After 18 or 19 years of living you ought to know what the score is. You ought to know why you're here and what you want. We're offering you an educational opportunity, but it's up to you to take it. We provide everything you need to learn—but only you can convert our efforts and facilities into the magic of a true learning experience," the speaker said.

For the Birds
By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER
Instructor, Union Junior College Institute, Cranford, N. J.

The early ornithological writers like Wilson and Audubon wrote of seeing "flocks" and "vast numbers" of birds along the eastern seaboard. No actual counts were made, however, and it is impossible to tell what the trend of bird population has been. Only in recent years has any reliable data been gathered. Audubon Field Notes, published bimonthly, contains breeding bird population and winter bird population studies. Other publications contain data gathered through the use of mist nets to trap birds for banding. What are the most abundant birds in New Jersey and how many birds live in the state are frequently asked questions. Of course, there are several answers, depending on when a count is made. Fewer birds spend the winter here than breed and tremendous numbers travel through the state on their way north. A partial answer to the question has been provided by the work of Dr. Jeff Swineboard of Douglass College reported in a paper presented to the annual meeting of the N.J. Audubon Society at Cape May on October 1, 1964. It was included in the recent issue of "New Jersey Nature News." In 1958, David Faber, Jr., of the Union Junior College faculty authored an annotated list of New Jersey birds. Three hundred seventy birds were recorded as seen in the state. Of these, about 112 were said to breed here. Species are added to the list every year and by now, Dr. Swineboard estimates, the number has reached 120. Bull, in his recent book, lists 101 species observable in the New York metropolitan area at 42. Most bird watchers, both professional and amateur, tend to place more emphasis on rare species than common ones. A tentative list of 48 states' most common birds includes the ring-necked pheasant, laughing gull, rock dove (common pigeon), crested flycatcher, tree swallow, catbird, robin, wood thrush, red-eyed vireo, black and white warbler, yellow warbler, ovenbird, red-winged blackbird, common grackle, brown-headed cowbird, starling, rufous-sided towhee, and chipping, swamp and song sparrows. Three areas in the state have been intensively studied in recent years. One is in the pine barrens of South Jersey, the second in the Troy Meadows in North Jersey and the third in the vicinity of New Brunswick at Hutcheson Memorial Forest and University Heights Woods. Because of diverse habitats in these three spots, variations in species lists exist. But together, they present a good picture of the state's feathered population. In these areas mist nets were used to capture birds without harm to them. Bands were placed on their legs, records made and the tiny fellows were released. In the wooded part of Central Jersey, the density was found to be 19 to 18 birds per acre in the pine barrens the figure was 10 to 15. This calculates out to 26 to 35.4 million birds for the 48 percent of the state that is forested. Dr. Swineboard says, "When adequate samples are taken I suspect our breeding bird population will be about 40 to 50,000,000 birds!" His paper concludes, "If the next 300 years, housing projects permitting, we will have a chance to study, measure and know our avifauna better. We'll be better for having done it."

Rinaldo Suggests Study To Extend Police 'Hot Line'

Matthew J. Rinaldo of Union, Republican candidate for freeholder, this week urged the undertaking of a feasibility study of extending a proposed police "hot line" in the county to encompass all law enforcement agencies active in the county.

Under a plan of the Board of Freeholders, all 21 police departments in the county, the Sheriff's office, and the prosecutor would be linked by a central radio communications system.

Rinaldo said he favored, also being in the state police, the Parkway police and Turnpike police with those agencies already stated to be involved.

"With today's high-speed traffic and highways," he asserted, "the criminal has far more mobility than in the past. Union County is bisected by both the Garden State Parkway and the New Jersey Turnpike, as well as several major highways. To assure maximum effectiveness of our war on crime and criminals, we must seek the aid and cooperation of all law enforcement agencies active in the county. Once the system is operative, the cost of tying in the other agencies would be minimal, and it's a wise investment."

Rinaldo noted that a police "hot line" could have several important added benefits. He said that a radio network could help speed medical and fire-fighting services to the scenes of emergencies anywhere in the county.

Rinaldo is running for a three-year term on the county board along with incumbents Raymond A. Moore of Scotch Plains and Jay A. Stemmer of Clark.

Police License Plates Suggested By Collins

The New Jersey Legislature may consider a bill next year to permit policemen to carry distinguishing license plates on their private autos—similar to those now used by doctors.

Assemblyman Loree Rip Collins (R-Union) announced this week that he will introduce in the next session such a bill, whose aim would be to advise the presence of off-duty police officers in public places.

Cancer Blamed For 972 Deaths In County In '64

Cancer killed 972 residents of Union County in 1964, the American Cancer Society reported this week.

"Many of the people who died last year from cancer could have been saved," said Andrew A. Klepachick, president of the Union County Chapter of the ACS. "If they had heeded the danger signals of cancer, had annual health examinations and received treatment during the early stages of the disease when most cancers are curable."

The 972 deaths represented only a slight increase over the 965 deaths in 1963. The number of deaths in 1962 was 890.

The figures were released to the Cancer Society by the Vital Statistics Section of the New Jersey Department of Health.

Klepachick urged all clubs and organizations to arrange a free cancer education program so that the membership will have an opportunity to learn how to guard themselves from being a cancer fatality.

Speakers and films are provided free by the Union County Chapter, 512 Westminister Ave., Elizabeth, N. J. The phone number is 354-7373.

Candidate Says GOP Is 'Callous' Toward Children

Assemblywoman Mrs. Mildred Barry Hughes of Union, Democratic candidate for the N. J. Senate in Union County, this week accused the Republican Party of "callousness and poor judgment" in voting for a bill, which she said would permit prosecution of children for murder with execution the punishment.

She asked that Senator Wayne Dumont, GOP nominee for governor, explain his vote for the bill "to the mothers and children of New Jersey."

"If this bill was designed to combat juvenile delinquency, it seems poorly conceived," Mrs. Hughes said. "Electrocuting children does not prevent broken homes, poverty and poor education, the real causes of juvenile delinquency," she said.

"The inability of the Republican party to understand and meet the needs of the people is most evident in this type of legislation," she added.

The clause about capital punishment for children was stricken in the Assembly, and the Senate has not acted on the amended measure, she said.

Machinists' Course Offered To Seniors

Dr. George H. Baxel, superintendent of the Union County Technical-Vocational Schools, announced this week that a new pilot program for pre-apprentice machinists has been made possible by a state grant of $93,500.

The new one-year course of study will open to 12th year high school students offered to the new Vocational & Retraining Center by their high school guidance officers and will be admitted on the basis of potential success in the program.

Participating students will continue in their high school on a half-day program and spend half a day at the Center, 6,000 square feet of newly-completed industrial space located at 971-Bell Ave., Union.

Graduates will receive a certificate from the Union County Board of Vocational Technical Education as well as a high school diploma, and it is expected that they will qualify for advanced standing in formal apprenticeship programs, Dr. Baxel said.

Although such programs have had success in the past, this is the first one instituted in New Jersey and represents the culmination of 15 years of effort, Dr. Baxel added.

The new building, representing a 4 percent increase in facilities footage, will offer a similar program for welding including training in the standard gas, stick, electric, and plasma methods and many of the newer welding techniques. A total of 80 students from all over Union County is expected to participate.

Details of the Machinist plan were worked out with the cooperation of the New Jersey Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association. The balance of the space available will be utilized for a Manpower Retraining Program under the Manpower Training and Development Act initiated by the late President John F. Kennedy, Dr. Baxel said.

The new Vocational and Retraining Center, as are the Technical Institute Center in Mountainside and the Medical-Dental Center in Scotch Plains, will be utilized extensively for adult evening training programs, he said.

Lightners Teach 'Y' Dance Club

The Social Dance Club of the YWCA of Elizabeth announced this week that Paul and Gloria Lightner will teach and direct the Tuesday night dance program at the YWCA, 1131 East Jersey St., starting Tuesday, at 8:30.

The program for the evening will include group dance instruction in the latest steps, dancing and refreshments until 11:30.

Lightner, licensee for the Arthur Murray Studio in Elizabeth, has been teaching dancing for the last 312 years. He is an executive member of the Eastern Regional Dance Board and a member of the civic groups in the community.

Miss Lightner has been teaching for the last four years and is schooled in social, international and Latin dances. She has won first place in several Eastern United States Dance-O-Ramas.

New members are being accepted by the Dance Club.

The committeeman has served as chairman of "Citizens for Dwyer" which worked for the election of U. S. Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, (R-Sixth Dist.)

Secretaries Tell Scholarship Plan

The Union County Chapter of the National Secretaries Association has voted to award two scholarships this year instead of one, it has been announced by a group spokesman.

The scholarships are given to high school graduates of a Union County school who continue their studies at a secretarial and scholarship preparatory college.

Members of the chapter are Miss Jean Chmiele and Mrs. Dora Klausner of Linden and Miss Barbara Mildrum of Summit. Funds for the scholarship are raised through an annual fashion show.

At a recent meeting, the chapter president, Miss Tess Keelin, proposed that the group be represented at the association's northeast district convention in Toronto in October. Miss Keelin proposed that the group be represented at the association's study course for certified professional secretaries is planned for this year.

Two secretaries from the First State Bank of Union, Miss Judy Jo Pipela and Mrs. Irene Garvey, attended as guests and were introduced by Mrs. Ruth Hallock, membership chairman.

Wuensch Plaza East Orange's Mayor James W. Kelly, Jr. has proclaimed the Halsted st. and Brick Church block Wuensch Plaza in honor of the opening and in tribute to the Wuensch family—for their many years of civic and business leadership to the city.

The Mayor, in making his proclamation, said: "Robert H. Wuensch during his pacesetting lifetime was one of the foremost merchants in East Orange, a leader in building up the Brick Church area and a staunch supporter of all civic enterprises."

"Mrs. Robert H. Wuensch, in addition to being wife, mother, and manager of the store's foundation department, is also a well-known civic leader."

Herbert C. Whensch, in expressing appreciation for the Wuensch Plaza designation, said: "Our new building is intended as an expression of faith and confidence in the business community and its growth. Our plans for the future are designed to keep pace with the forward-looking community of which we are proud to be a part."

FASHION SHOE PARADES will highlight the opening next week of Wuensch's East Orange greatly expanded store at 33 Halsted st., East Orange. Opening festivities will feature celebrities on Monday. Schedule of the parade is: Tuesday, 4 p.m., women and children styles; Wednesday, 4 p.m., teen and college styles, and next Thursday, 7:30 p.m., men's business, dress and campus wear. Pictured preparing for these events is Mrs. Raymond Gardner of Roselle.

WEEDER'S DIGEST

By Your Rutgers Garden Reporter

"Nothing Like A Good Rain"
Which does your lawn and garden more good, water from a cloud or water from a pipe? Was Uncle Joe right when he used to say: "I tell you there's nothing like a good rain!" In this summer of water headlines I tried to check out Uncle Joe's statement with Rutgers soils scientists. The men I talked with go with Joe with exceptions and a footnote or two. First of all, as one of the scientists pointed out, rainwater is free, and that's a big score for Joe. Fennies From Heaven Second, it's true that rain washes impurities from the sky such as nitrogen and sulfur that have value as fertilizers. How much value? Rutgers scientists collected rainwater to find out. They decided that rain may bring down 10 to 15 pounds of nitrogen and 10 pounds of sulfur on an acre in a year. That much wouldn't keep your lawn green, by a long shot, or grow a crop of corn. Possibly not as well as water from the tap, whether it comes from underground or from surface runoff—in either case containing minerals that growing plants need. There's likely to be more fertilizer from heaven in an industrial area than, say, in Wombling, because there's more sky nitrogen to be washed out of the sky, thanks to industrial smoke. But, says one scientist, the nitrogen and sulfur that we get from Pennsylvania or some other state. There's a pretty good chance that much of the sky-borne fertilizer produced abundantly in New Jersey is blown out to sea. As you can see, if Uncle Joe is talking about plant food falling from the sky on a rainy day he may or may not be right. And if he is in mind a gentle all-day rain, he's absolutely right when he says there's nothing like it. Such a rain doesn't puddle and pack the soil as overhead irrigation often does. Soils men say that most of us are in such a hurry to finish the irrigation job that we run the water too fast, putting on maybe half an inch of water an hour. That could make the soil suffer a little every time. On the whole, Uncle Joe would seem to be right. There's nothing like a good rain. But water from a pipe is a lot better than rain when there's no rain.

Pool Cover Keeps Water Usable Year After Year

Even a drought, such as the one experienced this year, causes no hardships for the swimming pool owner who has equipped his pool with a cover that keeps his water usable year after year.

In fact, pool owners who have been using a Sylvan pool cover for as many as five years report that they are still using the same water. You can, too, with no danger whatsoever to health.

You'll save money, too, because filling a pool each spring costs money — money that you could be saving, because employing a swimming pool in the winter is unnecessary with a Sylvan pool cover.

Not to mention the conveniences. No more leaves, insects, and dirt falling into your pool, particularly at this time of year when this problem is most prevalent. No more clogged filters and drains. And you'll save time on maintenance, because a pool that is kept covered in the fall and winter is a snap to start up in the spring.

And don't forget the safety factor. With a covered pool you enjoy absolute peace of mind, even when you are away from home.

Now is the time to buy your Sylvan pool cover, not only because you need it most right now, but also because you'll save 10% if you buy it from Sylvan Pools before October 1st.

A Sylvan pool cover is lightweight for easy handling, won't react to pool chemicals, won't fade, won't rot. It's the nicest, and the safest thing you can put over your pool.

For more information, before this special sale ends, call Sylvan Pools at 376-4500 or visit our local showroom at 252 Mountain Ave., Springfield, N. J.

FOR PUBLICITY CHAIRMEN

Tips On Preparing News Releases

The following "Tips On Submitting News Releases" is published for the mutual benefit of publicity chairmen and this newspaper. It should be especially useful for newly appointed publicity chairmen or individuals who submit news releases to newspapers. The article should be clipped and filed for future use by interested readers.

A "news release" is just what the words imply - news, released to a newspaper. The writer of a news release, usually the publicity or public relations chairman of a group, simplifies the job for himself and the paper by preparing a "model news story" about the subject or event he wants to publicize. The publicity chairman can't expect it to appear exactly as written, but course. But a properly prepared release SHOULD be able to be used "as is".

Your news release, therefore, should "sound" like a news story and not like the secretary's minutes of a club meeting. This isn't as tricky as it sounds. It's mostly a matter of putting the most important "things" first in your story (the five W's of journalism - who, what, where, when, why - avoiding the use of flowery, personalized descriptions (editorializing, we call it)).

You don't have to take a course in journalism to write a good release; anyone who ever learned to write a business letter can learn to write a news release.

Let's begin with lesson one, the FORM of a "news release."

FORM
1. Release must be TYPE-WRITTEN. If you can't type yours, have it typed for you. The reason for this is the need for accuracy. Newspapers don't want to risk misspelling people's names in print, which is likely if the names are submitted in handwritten-serial or even in bold block printing. We'd much prefer a sloppy typing job to even the prettiest display of penmanship. Some papers won't accept any handwritten release, and no paper will accept them regularly from the same source.

2. Use a plain sheet of paper, not letterhead, stationery cluttered up with a lot of printing. Type on one side of the paper only. Double spaces, leave plenty of room at the top, sides and bottom for editing by the newspaper staff. DO NOT WRITE IN CAPITAL LETTERS, LIKE THIS. The newspaper doesn't print stories in all capital letters so why submit them that way?
IDENTIFY YOURSELF
Type your name, the name and address of your organization, and the phone number at which you can be reached in the sheet. Be sure to include the upper left hand corner of both home and business phones so that the newspaper can reach you if it has any questions.

YOUR "STORY"
Put the most important facts in order of their importance. In the first paragraph, and lesser facts in later paragraphs. In order of their importance. A release should be written with this sort of note at the top:
Editor: This meeting will take place Monday night, November 15.
Of course, if anything happens and the expected falls to happen YOU MUST PHONE THE NEWSPAPER IMMEDIATELY.

LOCAL NEWS ONLY
News is local when it happens here, involves local people or groups or when it specifically concerns the readers. If John Featherworth, of Irvington, N. J., is elected president of your group, and Jacob Farnsby, who lives in town, is appointed to the executive committee, your story is about Farnsby, not Featherworth. Farnsby's neighbors care about him, but who ever heard of Featherworth. If your charity group is conducting a two-month clothing drive in Northern New Jersey, your story to the local paper should be that the week-long campaign in town, will be held Monday to Friday. The readers want to know when they should have THEIR discards ready. The local paper wants to know, for example, how the local March of Dimes campaign is going, but isn't much interested in the results of a national telephone drive. It wants biographical backgrounds of the local volunteers, not the national campaign chairman. It wants to know who the charity goes to, local people, not the millions here (USA) and abroad.

POINTS TO PONDER
1. The newspaper WANTS your publicity.
2. The newspaper is the final judge of the material it accepts and rejects and the fashion in which the material will appear.
3. Keep your release short and to the point.
4. If you know of somebody or something that would make a good feature story, let the editor know about it.
5. The newspaper staff will be very happy to talk with you about publicity plans or problems of your group. Weekly journalists have more time for you on Thursday and Friday than any other time in the week. Check by phone, first.

A tip, perhaps, but tried and true guide for importance is the "Five W's of Journalism" - What, When, Where, Who and Why (or How). All five W's should be answered in the first paragraph, though not necessarily in any particular order. Here are some examples:
Dr. James Smith, child psychiatrist at Newark State College, (WHO) will discuss X. Q. testing (WHAT) next Thursday at 8 p.m. (WHEN) in Hamilton School (WHERE) as members of the PTA assemble for their first meeting of the new term (WHY).
In itself, that paragraph is a complete story. The reader knows all he needs to know if he wants to attend. If the publicity chairman wishes, however, he or she may add other paragraphs giving more details.

The second paragraph might offer more information about Dr. Smith:
Member of the Newark State Faculty for 10 years, Dr. Smith has also served as a testing consultant in the

NOTHING BUT THE FACTS
You've probably concluded that our fictional Dr. Smith is an "expert" in his field, though nowhere in the release did it say he was. His accomplishments, which are FACTS, speak for themselves. Your releases should, too.
Leave the fancy description and personal opinions out of your release. Never say a meeting was "interesting." Tell what the topic was and let the reader decide for himself. Don't say that a singer was "a good voice," report instead that she was applauded for five minutes and called for ten encores. The hall was not "beautifully decorated" but rather decorated in shades of violet and lavender.

ALL THE FACTS
Your release should not send the newspaper staff scurrying for the phone or the city directory to get the information you forgot to include. Give complete details. Make sure that names and addresses are accurate and complete.

HERE ARE SOME POINTERS:
FULL NAMES: Use full names in the case of a woman, always identify her as Miss or Mrs. You may use either the first name or TWO initials, never one (John Smith or J. E. Smith, but NEVER J. Smith). Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. J. E. Smith, but NEVER just plain Mary Smith or Mrs. J. Smith. It's best, of course, to submit a name the way the person usually uses it - J. Edgar Hoover, rather than John E. Hoover.

AGE: It isn't necessary to give a person's age unless it's vital to the story. If John Smith is honored as your oldest member, naturally you should mention that he's 88 years old. When writing about children, always mention their ages, and possibly the grades they are in.
ADDRESS: When writing about local people, include their addresses. If the paper doesn't want the address, it can always cross it out. If the address is wanted and you haven't given it - then someone must look it up for you. When writing about buildings where meetings will be held, the address is imperative. Use a number such as "855 Colonial avenue" not "Colonial avenue" or "Colonial avenue near Morris avenue" or "corner of Colonial and Morris avenues."

NAME YOUR ORGANIZATION so that the readers know what it is. You may know that N. O. M. A. means National Office Machine Association, but we don't and neither will our readers. Use the full title in your release. Don't identify troops, branches and units by numbers or the names of their founders. Call your group the Springfield branch (Irvington, Vauxhall, Essex, New Jersey or whatever) of the National Fish Fanciers Association - not unit No. 29457, or Jerome S. Smith, Memorial chapter.

Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops should be identified by the name of the school in which they meet, the neighborhood they serve or the organization that sponsors them - not by long, meaningless numbers. Personal organizations should be identified by the name of the town - NOT the council number.

QUOTES AND OPINIONS
The only place for opinions is inside quotation marks. Your release should not say that a new branch library is needed, but rather that Mrs. John Smith, president of the James Caldwell School PTA, said that "A branch library serving the western section is a definite necessity."
In other words, all opinions should be attributed to somebody, preferably in a direct quotation. When you quote someone directly, make sure that he is willing to be quoted with the words you ascribe to him.

AGES OF GROWTH
"The books all say that a child should walk at 15 months, but my Johnny is only one-year old, and he is walking all the time. He seems so bright too; I'm sure he is a genius!" says a proud mother.
Another mother listens with concern. She worries because her son is 16 months old and hasn't walked. She hadn't been bothered before, but now she is wondering - is he mentally all right?
The key to the whole development of youngsters lies in two facts. First, every child is an individual and develops according to his own rate of growth. Second, there are certain behavior and growth stages through which every youngster passes. Walking is a stage of growth that both youngsters will reach. Also it is quite likely they will reach that stage at different times according to their own pattern of growth. It is quite true that there are "average" ages for walking and other stages of development, such as talking, toilet training, and the "no" stage.
Being aware of the stages of development helps parents know what to expect next.
And knowing behavior patterns will help parents understand how long to expect a particular form of behavior. If a mother did not know all youngsters go through a "no" stage, she might be concerned about what kind of adult her child would become.

Overheard

By EFFIE

In answer to a query by his father as to whether or not he had enough money a young freshman replied, "Dear Dad, I have plenty of cash and it is holding out real good but please send me some 5 cent stamps, a letter and razor blades." And this was written after he had made two phone calls "collect."

My neighbor said "My niece was telling me that her four-year-old son after saying the usual 'God bless Mommy, God bless Daddy, and others' always ended with 'Good-night God.'"

A friend of Larry's mother was rather pleasantly plump. While visiting Larry's family at the lake they all went swimming today. Coming out of the water, this friend remarked, "I can't seem to swim as fast as I'd like to." To which Larry replied, "Well, Miss S, you see you aren't just built for speed!"

Ask Amy

by AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
I have been going out with this boy for about a year. He went into the navy about 11 weeks ago. Here's my problem: When he went away he told me he would write to me. Well he does and I write to him almost every night. In the letters I write to him, I ask him a lot of questions. Some of the questions mean a lot to me but some of them are just ordinary and I wouldn't ask them if I didn't want him to answer them. But he doesn't answer them! Why? That's my silly sob story, and I hope you won't think it's too stupid to answer.

Cindy

Dear Cindy:
He probably doesn't answer your questions because your letters look like military questionnaires. Keep them newsworthy not nosy. He's more interested in hearing what you're doing, news-of-home-and-his-friends. Send him newspaper clippings that would amuse him (and, for kicks, send along this reply).

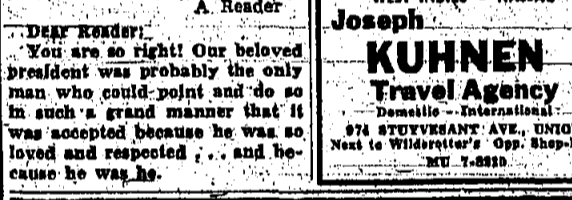

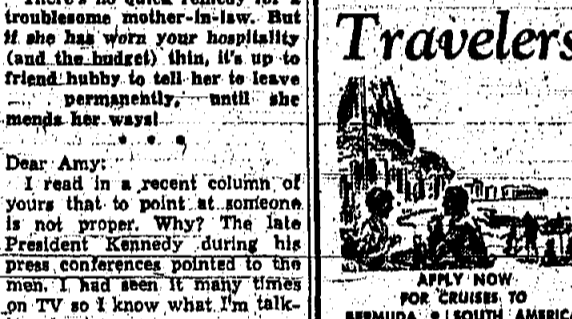

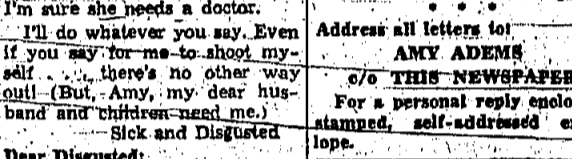

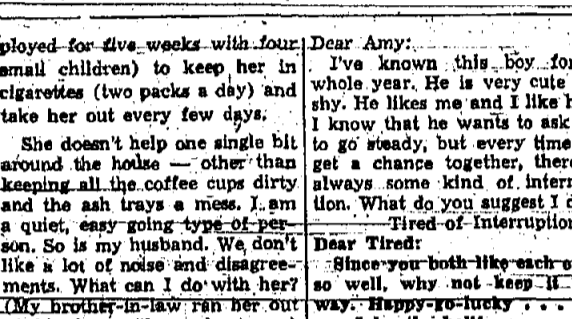

Dear Amy:
I'm 12 years old and in the seventh grade. I have a girlfriend who has a bad habit of taking things. One day she and I went to the store together. The owner of the store was talking to me and he didn't see my girlfriend take some candy, but I did. I didn't say anything because it might have hurt her feelings.

She has taken wallets and money, too. Two of the wallets were mine, but she gave them back. Should I still be friends with her?

Dear Helpless:
A friendship with one who steals is anything but desirable. You should have told the storekeeper right then and there. Her feelings are not nearly as important as the embarrassment she would have suffered which might have cured her. Her parents should be told. If you can't tell them, the guidance counselor at school will do it for you. If she doesn't know right from wrong, it's time she learned!

Dear Amy:
My problem is the oldest of all times... my mother-in-law. When I was married 16 years ago, she was a lovely person. Now she is a trouble maker. She visits all four of her children without being invited. These visits last for three to four weeks. And she stays all the time. When she's in my house, she never stops degrading the others. She expects us (unem-

STORM TOLL SINCE 1900: 11,628 DEATHS

If A Hurricane Hits, Here Are 10 Ways To Play It Safe

The hurricane season is coming up. One may be heading for you. Do you know what to do in such an emergency? For those directly in the path of a hurricane, the safest course is early evacuation to prepared shelters inland, according to the Red Cross.

The Red Cross has 10 safety tips which can save lives and protect property with a minimum of discomfort to the families concerned:

1. Watch your newspapers and television for official weather bureau reports and listen for them on radio. A battery-operated radio set is a wise precaution in the event of power failure.
2. Store garbage cans, garden-furniture and tools, awnings and such objects in a safe place. Driven by winds, these can become dangerous weapons.
3. Put storm shutters in place or board up windows.
4. If you are told to evacuate — do not delay. Get out quickly and follow instructions.
5. If you live in a low-lying area, do not risk being swamped or marooned. Get away from beaches and all low areas likely to be swept by the hurricane tide surge and high winds.
6. Do not go outside during the storm. Stay indoors, preferably in a brick or concrete building.
7. Keep away from windows.
8. Should the "eye" of the hurricane pass directly overhead, there will be a deceptive period of calm that may last a half-hour or longer. Do not be misled, stay where you are. The other side of the storm will return with winds from the opposite direction.

9. Fill bottles and utensils with drinking water and fill the bathtub. Keep on hand a supply of extra food which requires no cooking. Be sure to have a supply of candles and flashlights, and before the storm hits, turn up your refrigerator to the coldest setting to preserve food as long as possible in case of a power failure later on.

10. Do not touch fallen wires. Report the damage to the police or power company. Records show that an estimated 9,866 persons died in 55 hurricanes between 1900 and 1952, while in '65 hurricanes reaching the U. S. between 1932 and 1964 the death toll dropped to 2,322 — and some of these deaths were caused by tornadoes and flooding which occurred coincidental with the hurricane.

Four important factors combine to reduce hurricane injuries and fatalities. First, the constantly improving accuracy and detail of weather information made available by the U. S. Weather Bureau. Second, the cooperation of the press and broadcasters in piping this information through the nation's vastly enlarged general communications system has provided more effective early warning to people likely to be affected.

Third, the early warning system has made possible the mass evacuation of families from danger areas through the combined efforts of the Red Cross, Civil Defense, and government agencies to safe shelters inland from the coasts.

Fourth, the creation several years ago of the Red Cross Hurricane Watch Plan. Under this plan all Atlantic and Gulf coastal areas have been divided into districts and when the U. S. Weather Bureau announces a Hurricane Watch, each district headquarters concerned is alerted and manned by Red Cross disaster workers.

In New Jersey there are two such district headquarters: Town River and Newark. These offices are prepared to go on instant alert to coordinate housing, feeding, and care of storm refugees in coastal communities. They will also serve as staging points for disaster staff workers brought in to assist volunteers in New Jersey Red Cross chapters with long-term relief work.

School Lunches At Home: Make Them Nutritious

ANNE L. SHEETAN
County Home Economist

For the fortunate mother whose children come home for lunch from school greet them at noon with an appealing and nutritious menu.

After a morning in school, the child looks forward to a good and enjoyable meal where he has the opportunity to share his experiences with his mother. Such an atmosphere will revitalize him for his afternoon activities.

Let the following outline serve as a guide when planning this important meal for children.

L-an appealing lunch "Looks" good to eat and is served attractively. If the children are young, keep the portion small. Too much food on the plate tends to dull the appetite when the child first sees it.

U-Use "finger" foods wisely. They are usually met with more enthusiasm when they are featured in a new way, rather than warmed up version of their first appearance.

N-"Nutrients" are important in a menu that includes a dish high in protein, a fruit or a vegetable, a bread or roll, and milk is essential if the child is to receive the nutrients necessary for health and energy.

C-"Cake, Cookies or Candy" or another sweet will offer added energy and appeal. Such foods have definite value in the menu as long as they are not used as a substitute for one of the essentials mentioned above.

H-"Hot" food, especially during colder weather, will offer added fortification. If the main dish is cold, serve either soup or a hot beverage such as cocoa.

A-Lunch at home should "Always" be ready when the child comes in from school.

T-"Take time" to sit and "Talk" with children while they eat.

H-"Happy" atmosphere is essential for digestion. Meal time should not be discipline time.

O-"Occasionally Offer" the child the opportunity to suggest what he would like to eat for lunch. This should be done ahead of time, when planning menus for the week.

M-"Manage" time, energy, and work methods efficiently so that this meal can be prepared and served correctly without taking unnecessary time from a busy schedule.

E-"Excellent" will be the grade you receive from children when a little more emphasis is placed on planning this meal.

MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC - Several of the members of the Union County PTA Chorus gather around the piano to sound their "A's" for director Aden Lewis, coordinator of music in Mountaineer schools. Pictured are, in the usual order, Mrs. Morton M. Reich of Mountaineer, Mrs. Ludwig Boegaard of Kenilworth, Mrs. Henry G. Nijlon of Hillside, Mrs. Thomas Cerillo of Kenilworth, Mrs. Joseph Williams of Linden and Mrs. Truman Toland of Mountaineer. The chorus will sing at next month's conference of the State PTA Congress and has been invited to perform at the national PTA conference next spring.

Connecticut Farms PTA Slates Film For Children

Connecticut Farms PTA Union, will present a full length feature movie film at the Connecticut Farms School auditorium, Oct. 7 at 3:30 p.m. for all-school age children.

Tickets will go on sale Oct. 4 in the cafeteria during lunch hour.

The first executive board meeting was held Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Mrs. Warren MacDonald, president, welcomed the executive board back from their summer vacation.

A tea for the room representatives and teachers has been planned for Sept. 30 at 3:15 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Chairman for the occasion will be Mrs. L. W. Kubin, and co-chairman, Mrs. Eugene Sommer.

The 1965-66 budget and recommended changes of by-laws were approved by the executive board and will be presented for final approval to the membership at large at an open house meeting, Oct. 25.

PAINT FURNITURE CLASSES SLATED IN UNION COUNTY

How to "Paint Furniture" will be the topic for two area Extension Service classes open to interested men and women in Union County.

One class will be on Monday afternoons, Oct. 24, 31, 19, 26, 1:15 to 2:45 p.m. in the Home Economics auditorium, 7 Bridge St., Elizabeth.

The other class will be Tuesday mornings, Oct. 5, 12, 19, 26, 9:45 to 11:45 a.m. in the South Side Fire House, Raritan rd., Scotch Plains.

Both classes will be taught by qualified volunteer leaders trained by the Extension Service. Class members will learn how to apply a durable painted finish to furniture and how to apply the popular "antique" glass over paint.

There is no fee for either class but registration is required by calling the Home Economics office at EL-3-5900.

Class members should bring the piece of furniture they want to paint to the first session.

Rummage Sale Slated By Suburban Women

The Suburban Woman's Club of Union will hold a rummage sale tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 1904 Morris Ave., Union. Club members are requested to bring items tomorrow and Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. It was announced by Mrs. John Gonda, chairman, and Mrs. Christine Ellis, co-chairman.

SEWING AT HOME ENTICES WOMEN FOR FALL SEASON

Fall fabrics and patterns are so enticing and many home sewers are starting now to make clothes for fall, says Carolyn F. Yukius, County Home Economist. This is the time to set up and organize your sewing center so that you can save time and energy in sewing.

The first step is to select a spot with enough room for the basic essentials—where you can have room to leave the sewing machine open and set up a card table for a working area, as well as a spot for the iron and pressing equipment.

The first essential of a sewing center should be that it is out of the main traffic of the family. This eliminates the dining room or the kitchen table, where much time is lost if everything has to be set up or taken down to allow for family activity.

Another important essential for a sewing center is source of both natural and artificial light and convenience to electrical outlets. A combination of natural and artificial light provides the best sewing comfort whether you sew during day or evening hours.

'PRAY AND WAIT'

Gargalowitz Fund Low; Appeal Issued

Ten dollars was added to the dwindling Theresa Gargalowitz Fund this week by two Springfield children. Jo Wendy Ames and Linda Schwartz of Archbridge lane, held a carnival on their block for all the neighborhood children.

Philip Portnoy, head of the Fund, issued a statement to all residents appealing to them to donate anything they can, not only to help Theresa, but the Gargalowitz family. The Fund, which climbed to $14,000, is down to almost $4,000, Portnoy said.

Theresa was critically injured in April, 1964, when her small foreign car slammed head-on into the front of a Public Service Coordinated Transport Bus from Irvington on Morris Ave., Springfield, reports said. It was reported that she skidded on unused trolley tracks.

She has spent the last 17 months in a coma in Overlook Hospital, Summit, where her condition remains "critical-poor," said a hospital spokesman.

"Theresa is fighting her second bout with pneumonia and these attacks are seriously delaying any attempts to move her to Morristown Memorial Hospital to undergo "patterned treatment." They are also costing great sums of money," said Portnoy, "because we have to have intensive care nurses on full time."

"Mr. and Mrs. Gargalowitz have exhausted their money supply and are unable to raise any more. The father has a heart condition and the mother is suffering from diabetes. They can do nothing now but pray and wait," said Portnoy.

"We need something big, something that will keep us going, something that will put hope back into the family," said Portnoy in his appeal.

"All the donations have certainly helped, but it isn't enough, unfortunately. The hospital bills are so high, the medicine, costly and the nursing care fees are tremendous," he said.

Contributions may be sent to the Theresa Gargalowitz Fund, Box 4, Union, N.J.

McDonough Lists
7-Point Platform
In Senate Drive

Assemblyman Peter J. McDonough of Plainfield this week presented a program for legislative action in seven key areas as his platform in support of his candidacy for the State Senate.

"I believe it is important for the voters of Union County to know where I stand on issues and what I propose to do in the State Senate," McDonough said.

"All too often candidates for important public posts fail to state their views, relying on their past efforts more than on their current views to get elected."

McDonough, a Republican, offered the following program:

- Education - Increased state aid for handicapped children through amending the current formula for distribution of funds. Equitable aid to all communities to cover bussing costs required by Supreme Court rulings on desegregation.

- Youth - Passage of the Drop-Out study committee recommendations (one recommendation is already law); Study and revision of the child labor laws.
- Narcotics - Legislation to increase penalties for those convicted of narcotics violations.

- Transportation - Construction of better highways between Union County and shore points. Opposition to all mixed freight and commuter train proposals to maintain maximum passenger safety. Seek a National Transportation Policy for optimum use of available funds.

- Labor - Implement plans for constantly upholding the quality of our work force through better facilities for trade and technical education.
- Fiscal Responsibility - Establish a "Hoover Commission" with full support of the legislature, to establish a solid foundation for a tax convention. Immediate repeal of the inventory law.
- Consumer - Legislation to plug current loopholes in consumer protection laws which allow sale of goods without adequate labeling and encourage misrepresentation.
