Fire Department Uses Pump Unit For Mutual Help

A crew of the Springfield Fire Department was assigned Monday to cover for units that were occupied in fighting fires on Saturday afternoon. It was reported by Fire Chief Raymond W. Fessler that the crew, including Fireman James Brannigan, with two men and a pump truck, started in Middletown at 1:15 p.m. on Saturday, until the emergency there was over. The assignment was made as part of the Fire Department's (Continued on Page 3)

New House Total Could Reach 100 In Year To Come

Developers To Build On Top Of Mountain, In Lower Township

Springfield's rapidly dwindling supply of land available for one-family homes will be the scene of a substantial amount of construction activity in the months to come, according to Otto Fessler, township building inspector. Although this is still very early in the spring building season, and the picture may change as builders find the Springfield home market better or worse than anticipated, there could very well be eight or less than 100 new houses erected during the coming season. The major center of activity will probably be in the Highlands area, where a new year's day has been approved for construction. This land should accommodate some 50 to 60 new houses. The building inspector (Continued on Page 3)

Top Of Mountain

Also on the top of the mountain the home construction is well under way on Parkway at a new road leading from Vista way. This development should provide for a new house. Of these, Fessler disclosed, six are under construction and three lots remain to be sold.

The major area for new home construction in the low-lands portion of the township is expected to be between Mountain and West, between south of Edgewood ave. Plans for a development which would consist of 23 one-family homes are now awaiting final approval by municipal officials. Fessler expects this project to be substantially completed before next winter.

Nearing Completion

The builders have nearly finished at Glad. This project of 23 homes, plus about Mountain ave., just south of Houshew ave. Virtually all of these homes have been sold.

The building inspector noted that all seven homes have been sold on Shadowlawn in which runs off Meisel ave., just north of S. Springfield ave. Construction work on this development is progressing at full speed. He noted that all but one of the homes have plaster wall construction, a rare feature in the present building market.

Fadum Farm

As for Fadum Farm, where future has been the subject of much discussion for the past several years, Fessler said that he knows of no specific plans for development. The farm, at the corner of Mountain ave. and Spenoke rd. is in a residential zone.

He did report, however, on the recent sale of a large tract of Springfield industrial property. This land, just over 10 acres, and located on the corner of the 22nd and 23rd streets, will be developed by the Bobson building interests in Union.

The tract is adjacent to Diamond rd. This entire area of the township is zoned for industrial use.

WINTRY BLASTS on Saturday morning did not prevent several hundred boys from trying out at Meisel Field for team assignments in the Springfield Youth Leagues and Babe Ruth Leagues. The chilly youngsters above are, from left, Billy Nevius, Matthew Levine, David Mantel, Raymond Jones and Scott Margules, demonstrating the proper swing. The man in the iron mask is Rick Gleitsman. The Youth Minor Leagues have been expanded this year to provide every boy with an opportunity to play. League officials also stressed that older boys who were not required to try out must register and pay the $2 insurance fee before they can be assigned to teams.

Springfield residents are becoming more and more aware of the opportunities for culture, creative activities and advanced education — simply by being exposed to organizations, big and small, that emphasize these needs.

One such small organization (an affiliate of a large national organization) is the Polish National Alliance of Springfield, a social and fraternal organization, offering plans of insurance and other aids, particularly in the procurement of scholarships.

The Springfield chapter is presided over by a local resident and merchant, Wesley Lewandowski.

Lewandowski, a quiet, unobtrusive, soft-spoken man (he is proprietor of Wesley's Jewelers on Mountain ave.), who appears to exude a great deal of inner light when he discusses the organization, has in fact, been president of the Springfield branch for the past two years.

"I have been a member of the national organization for over 25 years," Lewandowski says. "And I used to attend all of its meetings in Newark. Actually, it was my wife, Genevieve, who also is a member of the national group, who organized the local chapter 10 years ago.

"WE THOUGHT it would be more convenient for Springfield's Polish residents and for us to meet right here in town.

"So — we started with 37 members, and we conducted our meetings at each other's homes. Today, we have about 50 members — the majority of all Polish Springfield residents."

Lewandowski says that the local group has art exhibits every six months — "Polish art, created by members. Our aim you see, is to enlighten people in Polish culture.

"Once or twice a year, we conduct card parties. The proceeds go toward the promotion of education among our young members, or the youngsters of our members — a high school graduate, or son or daughter — will receive $25 or $50 to get them started on purchasing college text books. But first they have to show that they're approved by a college.

"We give two annual awards, one an English award — the other a composition award, to one student at the Florence Gaudner School and to an eighth grader at St. James School," Lewandowski continues.

"WE LIKE TO SEE our youth getting as much education as possible. We know the need for it. And we stress the need for higher education for young people today."

Lewandowski mentioned the fact that the National Alliance has its own fully accredited college, the Alliance College in Cambridge Springs, Pa. The organization has been in existence 75 years, and it is the largest fraternal organization for Americans of Polish descent.

Lewandowski, himself, was not cognizant of such help in finding opportunities when he was a youth.

Born in Jersey City, he was taken to Poland by his parents when he was three years old. He spent 15 years there and was educated in Polish schools.

When he returned to the United States, Lewandowski attended Dickinson High School in Jersey City, and upon his graduation, enrolled in Stinson School of Aviation.

"I went to the aviation school for a year and a half. At the same time, I was employed by Westinghouse in Jersey City as an inspector," he recalls.

FROM 1942 to 1945, Lewandowski served in the U.S. Air Corps as "an instrumental specialist. I was part of a group that flew supplies in the United States."

Following his service career, he joined a brother in the jewelry business in Jersey City. "He's still there," Lewandowski notes.

"Evenings I attended Columbia University. I studied gemology (the science of stones) for one year.

"Then, with my brother, I jointly purchased a jewelry store in Newark, which we both managed for 12 years."

Lewandowski, his wife, Genevieve who hails from Pittsburgh, and their two children, Raymond and Marie, came to Springfield in 1955. A year later the jeweler relinquished his management of two stores (one in Newark and one in Springfield) and decided to concentrate on his jewelry business in Springfield at 173 Mountain ave.

In addition to his business and his activities in the local chapter of the Polish alliance, Lewandowski devoted his time to local organizations.

HE IS A MEMBER of the National Retail Jewelers Association, a member of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, and for the past six years has been a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Delegate Reports On Opening Of Convention

By JAMES M. CAWLEY
Second of a Series

The first meeting of the 1966 constitutional convention, held at Rutgers University Gymnasium on Monday, March 21, was a day full of surprises. The news media anticipated a day of great controversy, but they were soon to be disappointed. The program of the day ran very smoothly in public, after the opening was delayed from 10 a.m. to noon.

Finally the election of president was held. The Democrats nominated Adrian Foley, a Newark attorney. The Republicans had suggested before the convention opening that they would like to have either Dr. Mason Gross, president of Rutgers, a Democratic delegate from Monmouth County, or Dr. Peter Sammartino, president of Fairleigh Dickinson, a Republican delegate from Bergen County.

Dr. Gross refused the offer of nomination. The vote was 56 for Foley and 55 for Sammartino. Dr. Sammartino then moved to make the election of Foley unanimous.

Dr. Sammartino and Patrick McGann Jr., of Monmouth County, were elected vice-presidents, and John Dimon of Burlington County was elected secretary.

The Republican rules committee, under the leadership of Alfred Clapp, former Superior Court Judge, senator and educator, was able to get some concessions on the convention rules. In fact one concession obtained, having co-chairmen of all committees, originated with our Republican-Union County delegation.

Following the session, the delegates and their wives were guests of the governor at a luncheon in honor of the newly-appointed officers.

Passover, Ancient Jewish Festival, Recalls Struggle For Man's Freedom

By RABBI ISRAEL S. DRESNER
Temple Sharey Shalom

Passover, the greatest and most ancient of all the Jewish festivals will be celebrated by Jews all over the world beginning at sundown on Monday. It is observed for seven days by all Israeli Jews, including the Orthodox, and by Reform Jews the world over, and for eight days by Orthodox and Conservative Jews outside the land of Israel.

For more than two thousand years, Passover (Pesah) has been considered by Jews everywhere to be the great holiday; the festival of redemption. It is also the Jewish holiday which is richest in symbolism for no other holiday in the Jewish calendar abounds in so many ancient and meaningful ritualistic objects, foods and ceremonies.

All of these are intimately bound up with the nomadic origins of the Jewish people and their later development as a people very early in human history, transformed the ancient nature festivals into holidays with deep moral and religious significance.

Passover was originally a spring festival of the dawn of history, when Jews were still nomadic shepherds in the wilderness. As time went by, however, it became an historic and national holiday, commemorating the deliverance of the Jewish people from their bondage in Egypt.

FOR JEWS TODAY it mirrors a hope for freedom and equality for all who are enslaved and persecuted, for the captive peoples behind the Iron Curtain, for the black Africans of South Africa, for Negroes right here in our own country.

This particular holiday abounds, too, in traditional ritual which is highly dramatic in content; in remote parts of the world, such as the Caucasus and Morocco, the departure from Egypt is actually re-enacted at one point in the ceremony.

Jews everywhere celebrate Passover with a ceremonial meal called the Seder (which means "Order of Services") which takes place in most homes and in some synagogues. During the Seder, the story of the Exodus in recited, songs and ceremonial prayers are performed, and the symbolic foods of Passover are eaten.

The most important Passover food is the matzah, unleavened bread, eaten as a reminder of the haste with which the Jewish people fled from Egypt (there was no time to allow the bread to rise). Its thinness, too, is a reminder of the meagerness of the fare of the dispossessed, the poor and the outcasts of society.

DURING THE CEREMONY, Jews also eat "bitter herbs," which recall the bitterness of the years of oppression under Pharaoh. A sprig of parsley on the table is a survival of the pre-historic days when Passover was a festival of spring.

A roasted shank bone serves as an emblem of the paschal lamb, and the "Haggadah," a mixture of apples, nuts, raisins, cinnamon and wine, is a symbol of the mortar from which the Israelites made bricks for the Egyptian Pharaohs during their slavery.

Area Realty School To Start On Monday

School will be in session Monday morning at 9:30 at the office of the Board of Realtors of the Orange and Maplewood, Livingston, Millburn, Short Hills and Springfield. The students will be 23 new associate salesmen members of the Board, who will be taught the fine points of the real estate business during the coming six weeks.

Realtor Georgia McMillen of Springfield is chairman of the study program, which covers mortgage financing, listing procedure, legal aspects of real estate, neighborhood relations and the opportunities and responsibilities of the field. Bi-weekly classes meet at the Board headquarters at 2101 Millburn ave., Maplewood.

Attendance at the lectures is required of all new sales members of the board, according to Frank Bedford of Livingston, president. Now in its fourth year, the course is the only compulsory one for real estate salesmen in New Jersey and is one of the few of its kind in the country.

Speakers from the board will include Herbert Connolly and Julian Brunner, both of South Orange; George DiMartino of Livingston; Harriet L. Moore and Harry Lenu, both of Millburn; Peter Degnan of West Orange; Harold Hudson of Maplewood; and Harry A. Taylor Jr. of East Orange. Taylor is president of the New Jersey Association of Real Estate Boards.

Westfield realtor Nancy Reynolds will discuss advertising real property. Other guest speakers will be Arthur Greenbaum, Newark attorney, builder Larry Paragano of Short Hills; and Victor Neumark, president of the Crestmont Savings & Loan Association.

Realtors assisting Mrs. McMullen with plans for the course are Sargent Dumper, of Short Hills, committee vice-chairman, and Connolly, DiMartino, Harry Hartford of Maplewood and Gladys Sands of South Orange.

Among the students is Springfield resident Jane Ossman, an associate of Locke Realty of Millburn. Also enrolled are Mary Gerardo, of Short Hills, with Alexander S. Gerardo of Springfield; and Maxine Wolin of Short Hills, with Anne Sylvester's Realty Corner of Springfield.

THE CEREMONY is one which strongly emphasizes the participation of young children in Jewish ceremonial and communal life, for it is the youngest child who asks the Four Questions, the answers to which explain the difference between Passover night and all other nights; and the meaning of this holiday for the Jewish people.

The Seder has survived in the Jewish home through every exigency of history. It was practiced in secret by the Marranos of Spain during the Inquisition, despite the unrelenting persecution, and it persists down to the present as an emblem and promise of freedom.

property will amount to $522. I might add that the number of homes in Springfield today with a fair market value of $17,000 or less are few and far between. Something should be done; something must be done to check the inflated tax rate. I foresee within the next five years a tax rate of $7 to $7.50, unless greater efficiency and economies are put into effect in our municipal budget.

AIDED-BY POLICE. Some weeks ago, I arrived in Springfield from New York, by bus, and was taken to Overlook Hospital in Summit by members of the Springfield Police Force. I would like you and the members of your community to know how very courteously I was treated. The police were very kind in all respects. Being a former PBA member myself, I know that this is a policeman's job, but I want you to know what a fine force you have.

I am deeply concerned about the financial burden being placed on all of us Springfielders who have reached the point in its growth whereby the elected officials administer revenues of $4,700,018, as authorized in the budget. This, therefore, requires more than the part-time employees of the Township Committee.

I firmly believe in and advocate the information of a Taxpayers' Association and, secondly, a full-time salaried mayor and a part-time, four-member council. This could be done under Plan "A" Article 13 or Plan "C" Article 15, for small municipalities as authorized in the N. J. municipal charter law.

This change-over from our present form of government can be enacted by referendum. JOHN A. GRIFO 53 Mountain ave. Summit BUDGET OBJECTOR. In the March 10 issue of the Springfield Leader, the front page headline stated that one citizen objected to the passing of the municipal portion of the budget. As the news article indicated, the one objector was the writer of this letter.

CALENDAR LISTS EVENTS PLANNED IN COMING WEEK Tomorrow — 7 p.m., Springfield Lions Club, civic award dinner, Mountaineer Inn.

If the 15 to 20 people who contacted me on the streets or by telephone are not taken into consideration, then apparently I was the lone dissenter.

Monday — 8 p.m., Springfield Elks Lodge, installation officers, Elks Club. Sunday — Palm Sunday. Monday — sundown, eve of Passover. Tuesday — 9:30 a.m., PTA Council meeting.

One member heatedly replied that he would meet me on the street or anywhere and resort to fistfights. Is this the culture of officials that we elected to office to administer and govern the affairs of our township?

There are immediate job openings in Springfield in support of the Southeast Asian Contract Administration Services Region, New York, Defense Supply Agency announced this week.

The fact still remains that $280,000 of the surplus fund is to be utilized in the current budget. This does not indicate dishonesty, but it clearly shows this amount is required to offset a deficit in the general appropriations.

Representing jobs are quality assurance, representative, contract administrator, price analyst and industrial specialist. Salaries begin at $8,268, $7,478 and $8,961 a year. In addition, clerical accounting, card punch operator and some clerk-typist and clerk-stenographer jobs exist primarily in New York City.

I cannot reconcile an increase of $420,608 (for the current year) from only six years ago as being an act of prudence or economy as we are repeatedly informed.

Interested applicants may send written resumes or telephone the Industrial Relations Office, Defense Contract Administration Services Region, New York, 311 East 16th St., New York, N.Y. 10003. The telephone is DR-4030, Ext. 583. Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., or on Saturdays during month of April between 8:30 a.m. and noon.

Program On Indians Planned At Summit. Mrs. William Gaskow and Mrs. Peter Haviland, members of the Summit YWCA's Thoughtfuls Club, will present a program on the American Indian at the Wednesday morning Kaffeeklatsch program on April 6, from 10 to 11:30. They will discuss the current problem and its historical causes, the situation on reservations and in the cities, and the possibilities for the future.

Organizations wishing to have their meetings and other events listed may send their schedules to Chamber of Commerce, Post Office Box 25, Springfield, N. J. 07081. Details are available from the Chamber office at 373-3610.

A half-hour coffee and get-acquainted time from 10-10:30 a.m. precedes the hour-long program. Babysitting is available for infants 18 months and over, and dance and rhythm classes are provided for three to five years old. All women in the area are invited to attend Kaffeeklatsch, and they need make no previous reservations.

The April 6 program is the last of the current Kaffeeklatsch series. Programs will be resumed in the fall.

From Your Congresswoman FLORENCE P. DWYER (6th District, N.J.)

(Editor's note: This week's column is a statement by Rep. Dwyer before the N.J. Public Utilities Commission hearing on the proposed discontinuance of Erie-Lackawanna Railroad commuter passenger service. The statement was made Monday.)

In view of the extensive record which has already been made in these hearings, I shall try to be brief and highlight what seem to me are the principal factors which weigh against approval of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad's application for discontinuance of its New Jersey commuter service.

First, the carrier's strikingly improved financial position in 1965 as compared with 1964, and its increased passenger revenues on certain of the branches including the Gladstone branch which serves part of Union County, suggest that there is no immediate or urgent need to discontinue the railroad's entire commuter service. To do so would be analogous to throwing out the baby with the bath water.

Second, if service should be abandoned, the impact of up to 37,000 new commuters on the highways of New Jersey, and the trans-Hudson approaches to New York, and the streets of the City itself would be catastrophic. The relatively small amount the Erie-Lackawanna would have would be compounded many times over in additional costs to commuters and the general public.

Drastic Step

Third, such a drastic step as the discontinuance of service for approximately one-half of all the State's commuters by railroad seems highly premature in the light of genuinely hopeful developments leading toward a sounder financial basis for commuter railroads. These include: the increasing commitment of the State of New Jersey to the support of rail commuter service; growing concern in Congress and the Executive Branch about the consequences of deteriorating commuter service; the added knowledge obtained through demonstration projects under the Mass Transportation Act; recent technological improvements in rail equipment and the related stimulus given to research in this field by approval of a high-speed ground transportation program by Congress late last year; and, of more immediate significance, the application of the State Highway Department for a federal mass transportation demonstration grant for the Erie-Lackawanna and the comprehensive service and equipment improvements such a grant would finance.

These factors, it seems to me, summarize the compelling case against approving the railroad's application to discontinue commuter service. Despite its negative, do-nothing and essentially irresponsible attitude, the railroad's management should be compelled—as a public utility—to accept its obligation to provide essential passenger service and to cooperate in an honest effort to make such service more self-sufficient by means of improved schedules, equipment and maintenance.

If the Erie-Lackawanna ran its freight operations the way it runs its passenger service, the system would long since have gone into bankruptcy. It should be emphasized that the railroad operates both services, under basically the same kind of public grant of authority. It has an equal responsibility to manage both in the public interest. Yet, in contrast to the tens of millions of dollars it has spent to modernize freight service, it has done nothing to improve passenger service. The railroad has not, as it claims, "lost" passengers and passenger revenues; it has deliberately thrown them away.

Since New York City is the destination of a substantial percentage of Erie-Lackawanna commuters, it is necessary to consider the effect of the proposed discontinuance on the users of existing traffic transportation services. Here are some statistics, for example, which were developed by the Regional Plan Association and which demonstrate conclusively that only at exorbitant expense in money and in destruction of built-up areas and badly-needed parks could additional highway capacity be provided to take care of abandoned commuters.

Tiny Area

The Central Business District of Manhattan comprises only 2.6 square miles out of a total of 7,000 square miles in the New York Metropolitan Region, which includes Union County, New Jersey. However, no less than 38 percent of the Region's entire labor force works in and commutes to this tiny area of concentrated economic activity.

Although only 9 percent of these 3 1/2 million commuters enter by cab or private automobile, there is no more room for cars, since all "approach roads" are filled to capacity during rush periods.

Even if all the highways to Manhattan, all the bridges and tunnels, all the entry streets, the East River and West Side Drives, and the downtown avenues were doubled in capacity or duplicated, these would only be room for 22 percent of commuters to travel by car.

Even the relatively modest proposal of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority to widen the Henry Hudson Parkway, build a third tube to the Queens-Midtown Tunnel and link it with two expressway approaches would cost $350 million and allow only 8,000 additional peak-hour commuters by car—an average cost of about $22,000 per person.

The pattern of concentrated business activity in Manhattan and spreading residential suburbs in New Jersey and elsewhere—which accounts for the commuter problem—continues to increase. In the past 25 years, the Central Business District, which is one-fourth of the country, has had about the same amount of office space built and occupied as the rest of the country combined.

With substantially less than two passengers utilizing each automobile commuting to New York, several thousand additional vehicles could be expected to compete for unavailable space if the Erie-Lackawanna's application were approved. This could, of course, be the breaking point.

Factors

On the other hand, in determining the validity of the carrier's application to discontinue its commuter service, I would urge you to consider these additional relevant factors bearing upon the company's ability to continue service:

(1) For the 12 months ending December 31, 1965, the Erie-Lackawanna increased total operating revenues $17.5 million above those for the preceding year. In the same period, net railway operating income rose from a minus $500,000 in 1964 to above $412.2 million. The rail-position has improved steadily since 1961, the first year of its merger, when it suffered its largest deficit.

(2) Assuming a successful conclusion to the carrier's present attempt to join a merger with the Norfolk & Western Railroad, it should be in a far stronger financial position which should permit more aggressive efforts to strengthen its commuter passenger operations in New Jersey.

(3) The disparity between the railroad's own estimate of its passenger losses and the much lower estimate of the State Division of Railroad Transportation, coupled with the apparent inability of the railroad to produce accurate details of its New Jersey commuter revenues and expenses, suggests that there is considerable merit to the proposal of Professor Danielson, the Governor's consultant on commuter transportation, that passenger losses be computed on the basis of costs which would not be incurred without commuter service.

(4) In addition to the approximately $12 million the railroad has received in commuter subsidies from New Jersey since 1964, it has also been the beneficiary of substantial indirect subsidies resulting from the arbitrarily low rate at which much of its real estate is taxed.

(5) Between 1959 and 1964, according to the railroad itself, freight and passenger revenues both declined approximately 30 percent, despite the sizable investment in freight cars and diesel engines which, in 1964 alone, totaled about $20 million. Little, if any, money was invested in its commuter service during this period.

(6) The railroad's contention that passenger revenues decline force it to discontinue commuter service should be viewed in the context of a series of steps in recent years involving discontinuance of individual commuter trains, increasing fares and reduced spending for maintenance and service, combined with a complete failure to institute improvements designed to attract new patronage.

(7) The railroad's contention that passenger revenues decline force it to discontinue commuter service should be viewed in the context of a series of steps in recent years involving discontinuance of individual commuter trains, increasing fares and reduced spending for maintenance and service, combined with a complete failure to institute improvements designed to attract new patronage.

It is obvious, I think, that the Erie-Lackawanna has not made a good-faith effort to fulfill its responsibility to the public for provision of adequate commuter service, and until it makes such an effort it has no moral basis for discontinuing this service.

While the railroad's application to discontinue commuter service is the sole issue before the Public Utilities Commission, it is not enough in the perspective of the public interest to deny the application. Positive steps must be taken by the railroad, by the State and by the Federal Government to encourage a resurgence in commuter railroad service sufficient to place such service on a financially stable long-range basis.

A vicious cycle is presently working against the public interest. Declining service, discontinuance of trains, increasing fares, and inadequate schedules are forcing more and more commuters on to the highways, thereby increasing pressures to build new roads, bridges, tunnels and parking spaces which, in turn, lead to even greater railroad passenger losses and more severe traffic jams.

We need to reverse this trend and begin a new cycle in which improved service will attract more passengers, assure financial stability for carriers, and ease the pressure on highway users. Several things can, and are being done.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
What can be done about relatives who think gift-giving must be something very expensive or else you are classified as a cheapskate?
Of course, some of these same relations look for bargains to buy others themselves. I have gotten to the point where I feel like telling them to take us off their lists and we shall do the same with them. I'm too soft-hearted or I would tell them off, period. I have tried in a nice way but it doesn't do any good. I don't feel it is all worth the heartache it causes. Life is so short; we should be looking for happiness, NOT heartache. I am sure there are a lot of others who feel the way I do and would appreciate your opinion on this ticklish subject.
Heart Sick

Dear Heart Sick:
The day that relatives dictate to you how much to spend for a gift is the day to cut out the gift giving. It is better to be classified as a cheap-skate by not giving than to stand for abuse from unappreciative relations who measure your value in dollars and cents.

Dear Amy:
A few days ago I asked a girl for a date. She said that she would give me her answer the next day, and she did; the answer was NO. Now get this, she said her parents won't let her go out with me. I've known this girl for a year and a half. I also met her parents and I think they are nice.
But a day later, another boy asked her for a date and she accepted. This guy never met her parents before in his whole cotton-pickin' life.
When I first met her mother, I just about went out of my mind. I actually mistook her for my girl friend's sister. But the point is: Why can she go out with other boys and not with me? Also, do you think that it would be wise to take out other girls although she is the jealous type? What To Do?

Dear Amy:
I read your column every week and hope you can answer a problem for me.
How much should a person charge to take care of several little children while the mother is in the hospital? Besides caring for the children, there is washing, ironing, and regular house chores to do. For five days — hours from 1:30 in the afternoon till 12:30 in the morning — I received $10.00. Could you please tell me about how much would be the right price to charge? I feel I did not get paid enough for all the work I had to do. The nine days included Saturday and Sunday, and I paid my own transportation.
Mrs. J. J.

Dear Mrs. J. J.:
You didn't work for wages, you worked for nothing. Considering the mammoth job you do, charge whatever the traffic will allow. Under no circumstances less than $1.00 per hour.
Unless you can afford to work for nothing (and who can profit) for nothing, an honest day's work deserves an honest day's pay. Address all letters to: AMY ADAMS c/o THIS NEWSPAPER For a personal reply enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Failure To Establish Clinic Deplored

Failure of the Democratic Freeholder majority to make provision for a county narcotics clinic will eventually cost taxpayers many thousands of dollars. Freeholders Harry V. Osborne, Tiller and Ulrich pointed out. However, the Democratic Majority turned down the project which the Narcotic Commission proposed. They could have secured $28,000 from the State as its share of the cost. The narcotics traffic obviously is on the increase. Newspapers carry daily accounts of marijuana smoking and glue sniffing. The clinic would have been the traditional ounce of prevention which would have cut down on potential crime and helped young people out of their difficulties.

The trio of Republican freeholders said the present procedure of treating addicts for a few months at the county jail has not proved satisfactory. They pointed out that a clinic would have enabled a judge to impose one-year probation for offenders and enable them to receive outpatient treatment at the clinic. continuation of their efforts to obtain a county narcotics clinic. "This opportunity to help young people was thrown away by the Democrats merely to save $19,000, a very poor bargain," Freeholders Osborne, Tiller and Ulrich said.

Proof Of Age Can Be Obtained From Social Security Offices

"As in years past, the Social Security Administration is ready, willing, and able to help you obtain proof of your age," said Ralph W. Jones, social security district manager in Elizabeth, this week.

In answer to recent questions about his agency's proof of age requirements, Jones reported that several weeks ago social security offices all over the country started asking over for better proof of age.

"Social Security's proof of age requirements will not prevent anyone from qualifying for retirement benefits or Medicare, and may actually enable a person to get benefits he did not know about," said Jones. "We ask for a person's birth or baptismal record if he has one. If he does not, we want the best evidence he has or can easily obtain. Ordinarily, the oldest evidence is the best, though there are many cases where this is not so. When there is no old record easily obtainable, a person can establish his age on the basis of more recent evidence.

"The primary reason for the assurance that every person receives the right benefit at the right time. Because of large sums that can be paid out in cash benefits and in reimbursement for hospital and medical expenses, it is important that the determination of a person's age be accurate," he said. "In the vast majority of cases, a person knows his correct date of birth, but occasionally we find someone who is younger, or more often, older than he thought. The proof of age requirement is a provision of the Social Security Act."

Jones suggested that "anyone applying for retirement benefits or for Medicare insurance should bring in his birth or baptismal record if he has one. If he does not have either of these, he should bring the best evidence he has. However, no one should delay applying for these benefits simply because he does not have proof of his age. Delay could mean loss of benefits.

"When a person applies, we will be happy to assist him in proving his age. He need only visit the social security office at 288 N. Broad St. or telephone 351-3200.

UJC Offers To Aid June's Graduates

Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, dean, announced this week that Union Junior College, Cranford, will offer a College Readiness Program this summer designed to help prospective college freshmen adjust to college.

The four-week program will open on Thursday, June 30, and will continue through Wednesday, July 27. Classes will meet daily Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

Dr. Iversen said the College Readiness Program will carry no college credit, and will be limited to high school graduates who are college bound.

The UJC dean said the program will feature an orientation to college life, including tips on how to study, how to take examinations, how to use the college library, how to take notes, and how to budget time. The program also provides a quick review of the basic skills—reading, English composition, and problem solving—to supplement what the high schools have done in those areas.

Dr. Iversen said the College Readiness Program is open to all high school graduates who have gained admission to college, including students who will attend Union Junior College, and those who will attend other colleges and universities.

Additional information on the College Readiness Program can be obtained by writing to: Director, College Readiness Program, Union Junior College, Cranford.

Medicare Deadline Is Today, 65-Year-Old Seniors Warned

If you were 65 years of age or older by January 1, 1966 you have only today, March 31 to sign up for Medicare benefits beginning July 1, Ralph W. Jones, Social Security District Manager in Elizabeth, reminded Union-Somerset County area residents this week.

"If you take no action, you will have to wait until the last three months of 1967 to enroll. And you will have no medical insurance protection before July 1968 which is more than two years in the future," he said. "The cost of the doctor's bill insurance is $3 a month beginning in July. It will be deducted from your benefit check if you are receiving social security or railroad retirement benefits. If you are not receiving social security checks each month, the people at the social security office will show you a convenient way to make the monthly payment. The $3 you pay will be matched by a $3 payment by the Federal Government to meet the total cost of the plan," Jones said.

"It is to our advantage to take prompt action," he said. "The cost of the doctor's bill insurance is $3 a month beginning

Entries must be delivered to the chairman of the English departments of each school by April 20. A committee of three judges will select the winners.

Benefits Of Mosquito Control Discussed By Rutgers Dean

Let no one assume that progress in mosquito control is only nuisance or health-associated. The direct economic benefits of mosquito control are vastly underestimated by most people.

So declared Dr. Leland G. Merrill Jr., dean of agriculture at Rutgers University, in a speech at the opening session of the New Jersey Mosquito Exterminating Association convention at Hotel Haddon Hall in Atlantic City.

The agricultural experiment station has a strong responsibility to furnish the county commissions with the best possible scientific information and operational assistance," he said.

WEEDER'S DIGEST

This is in keeping with the addition of the "winds" environmental science" to the name of the college, he pointed out. "We are in fact in a position of a great many outdoor matters lie within our competence and interest, not the least of which is mosquito control."

Michael P. Shinkoff of the College Entomology Department described plans for launching a greatly expanded program of mosquito surveillance throughout the state in order to anticipate possible trouble spots and the possibility of "dancer" from mosquito-borne diseases. Funds for this program are being provided by the State Mosquito Control Commission, he said.

Problems encountered in protecting the health of American troops in Viet Nam by controlling the mosquitoes, flies and fleas that spread disease, were discussed by David L. Hayden, civilian entomologist for the Disease Vector Control Center at U. S. Naval Air Station at Jacksonville, Florida.

Malaria, which caused so many casualties in World War II is a real threat in many areas, he said. Other diseases being guarded against are dysentery spread by flies, encephalitis, plague and filariasis.

"At the present time," he declared, "we have sufficient equipment, supplies and personnel to combat any major outbreak of disease or serious pest problem."

Progress being made on studies of encephalitis in New Jersey were reported by Dr. Martin Goldfield of the State Department of Health, Trenton.

Raubinger Asks More Support For School Districts In State

THE PEOPLE of New Jersey must sooner or later come to the realization that more revenue must be made available to local school districts from State sources, Education Commissioner Frederick M. Raubinger told a banquet session of the New Jersey Association of Public School Business Officials.

The Commissioner pointed out that the local districts with a substantial contribution to the more than one billion dollars in the current year—were evidently doing their utmost to meet their obligations. However, the real fact is that unequal educational opportunities between communities and sections of the state exist and can only be eliminated by State Aid.

He pointed out that the State Aid must provide relief from the payer of local property taxes, but also must be obligated to provide improvement in the local educational program.

Raubinger hinted at a need to renovate the procedures for determining the local tax costs for education by pointing out the antiquated statutes governing the means of these determinations. He said the further objective of State Aid must be in relieving the local school boards from the pressures of municipal governments which has resulted in deep cuts in the school budgets. So deep, he said, that in many cases the remaining amounts to be certified for school support are no consistent with the Constitutional mandate to maintain a "thorough and efficient" system of public education in this day of rising costs of operation and finance.

The Commissioner added that he believes we will continue to have Federal assistance in one form or another, but it is necessary to find a simpler means of administering and distributing the funds, based on a greater trust of State and local government to do the right thing.

Educators To Study Vocational Program

TRENTON — More than 400 of New Jersey's vocational educators will gather in Asbury Park today to examine the expanding role of vocational education in the state's schools.

County school superintendents, local vocational directors, program administrators and teachers will meet at the Berkeley-Carter Hotel to take part in the three-day annual conference of the New Jersey Vocational and Arts Education Association. The theme of the conference is "New Dimensions in Vocational and Arts Education."

PREPARATION FOR SUCCESSFUL GARDENING

This is the time of year when gardens flourish in dreams as they rarely do in reality. After a long winter of fretful hibernation, house-bound gardeners now turn enthusiastically to the pursuit of seed and nursery catalogues. They plan plantings, look over their gardening equipment, and take inventory of their stocks of soil conditioners and fertilizers, all in anticipation of the arrival of the soft spring weather that will permit them to go to work outdoors again.

This is the time of year when, as part of your overall preparations, as a wise gardener you will also think of the effectiveness of your immunity against tetanus, the deadly disease to which your outdoor work will expose you. If you have been basically immunized, check now to be sure that a booster shot against tetanus is not due. If it is due, see your physician to get the necessary added protection.

Dream gardens are impossible of realization without active gardeners to tend them. Make sure that tetanus won't destroy your hopes and plans. Safeguard yourself against it. Do it now!

THREE EXAM DATES SET Students To Take Draft Deferment Tests

A Bulletin of Information concerning the Selective Service College Qualification Test will be available at all New Jersey Selective Service Local Boards beginning tomorrow, according to Col. Joseph T. Avella, state director. The Selective Service System, Col. Avella advised, has established this testing program to provide local boards with evidence of the relative qualifications of registrants for college study. The test score, he said, will also provide evidence of the registrants aptitude for continued college work.

However, Col. Avella pointed out, the scores on the test will not themselves alone determine eligibility for deferments.

The test was prepared and will be administered by Science Research Associates. It will be given on Saturday, May 14, Saturday, May 21, and Friday, June 2, to registrants who plan to request occupational deferments as college students.

Testing centers for New Jersey include Newark State College, Union; Newark College of Engineering; Rutgers Newark Campus; Seton Hall University, Newark Campus; Seton Hall University, South Orange; and Union Junior College, Cranford.

Other testing centers in the state are:

Rutgers Camden Campus; Upsala College, East Orange; Glassboro State College; Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken; Jersey City State College; St. Peter's College, Jersey City; Drew University, Madison; Fairleigh Dickinson University, Madison; Montclair State College; Rutgers, the State University, New Brunswick; Seton Hall University, Paterson Campus; Princeton University; Fairleigh Dickinson University, Rutherford; Fairleigh Dickinson University, Teaneck; Rider College, Trenton; Trenton State College; Paterson State College, Wayne; and Monmouth College, West Long Branch.

To be eligible to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test, an applicant on the testing date must be a Selective Service registrant who intends to request occupational deferment as a college student and one who has not previously taken the test.

All eligible registrants who wish to take the test, should go to any Selective Service System Local Board to obtain a bulletin, an application card (SSS Form 106), a ticket of admission (SSS Form 107) and a mailing envelope.

On the application the registrant must designate in the spaces provided an examination center and its code number for each examination date. The Science Research Associates will then assign the center requested or to the closest possible alternative center. Assignment to a center other than that selected will be made only when the designated center is not available.

Col. Avella said that all applications for the test must be postmarked no later than Saturday, April 23, and that the test may be taken only once.

Tips for TODAY'S HOMEMAKER

From Carolyn Yuknus, County Home Economist

Plentiful foods for April are suited to a variety of dishes to help you prepare for Easter and Passover festivities.

Although the production of honey is less than it has been in recent years, there is still a good supply on the market. Include this sweetener in your holiday cakes and pastries for longer-lasting freshness; or, use it for glazing an Easter ham, Honey buns and honey-butter spread for rolls, pancakes, or French toast, will add good variety to your breakfast menus.

Raisins also head the list of plentiful foods at your market. The 1965 production of raisins was larger than it had been in previous years, with resulting economical prices. Use raisins for snacks and in carried lunches as well as in puddings, sauces, stuffings, fruit salads, pies, pastries and other baked goods.

Grape juice, also in good supply, is another popular snack-time item. Combine grape juice with other fruit juices for tasty and colorful punches during your holiday entertaining. Peanuts and peanut products are a holdover from the March plentiful food list. The 1965 peanut crop amounted to 2.5 million pounds, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture, which is the highest production of peanuts on record. Use peanuts and peanut butter often in your menu plans. They are one of our most economical sources of protein.

Thus, if you have a child who refuses to eat anything but peanut butter sandwiches for lunch, you can be assured that he is receiving some of the valuable nutrients needed for good health.

Use these plentiful foods often while they are available to add variety to your day-to-day menu plans.

When mama changes to the Passover dishes, Barton's changes to Passover candy.

Passover Favorites: pancake mix and butter (with chocolate chips, filled with cream, truffles, nuts, exotic cordials, 1 lb. assortment, $2.39. Plus other wonderful Passover candies and cookies.

What mama does, Barton's does. But Barton's does it on a much larger scale. And a little earlier.

For 7 days and 7 nights, all baking and candy-making stops. Leavening agents, non-Passover candy and cake and unused ingredients are cleared out of the Barton's kitchens.

As are the pots, vats, scoops, ladles, baking pans, all the machinery that isn't nailed down. What is nailed down is scoured by blowtorches. And the walls, ceilings and floors are hosed down with live steam.

When all is immaculate, the Passover utensils are taken out of their special place.

And the raw chocolate, fruits, nuts, honey, etc. that are Kosher for Passover are brought in. Barton's makes these Passover preparations under the careful scrutiny of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America.

Even mama doesn't go that far. BARTON'S

How to make perfect Baked Alaska

1 9" round layer cake
1 large egg whites
(at room temperature)
1 quart strawberry ice cream
1/2 cup sugar
1 electric range

PACK ICE CREAM in a round 8" bowl, and place in freezer. Cool layer cake in refrigerator. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Beat in sugar gradually. Continue beating until you have a stiff, glossy meringue. Place layer cake on a board on a baking sheet. Loosen ice cream from bowl with spatula. Invert bowl over cake so that ice cream bits centered on the cake. Cover cake and ice cream completely with meringue, sealing meringue to the board. Place in preheated 500° oven for 8 to 6 minutes—until meringue is a delicate brown. Serve 10. The meringue seal and the steady, even heat that you get in an electric oven assure that the ice cream won't melt. The fact is you can regulate electricity a lot more accurately than you can regulate flame. You get a precise, constant cooking temperature. Nothing's left to guesswork.

Want more successful electric range recipes—free? Drop a postcard to: Recipes, Post Office Box 55, Morristown, N.J. Jersey Central Power & Light/New Jersey Power & Light.

Good cooking is a lot easier on a flameless electric range.

TERMITES FLYING

It is a recognized fact that as speed (and fuel) increases, the rate of tire wear also increases. The motorist who drives 40 m.p.h. over normal road speed will wear his tires 41 percent faster than one who drives 30 m.p.h. over normal road speed. Normal road speed is 50 m.p.h.

These should also be checked frequently for foreign particles such as nails, stones, etc. and unless or cuts. These irregularities should be corrected immediately before they cause serious damage.

Bad driving habits can also shorten the life of tires. Speeding, fast stops and starts, squealing around corners and not avoiding holes in the road will cause excessive tire wear. Mechanical irregularities such as wheels out of balance, excessive camber, toe-in, or rubbing brakes and bad shock absorbers can also be detrimental to a tire's life.

Jersey's petroleum refining activity in 1965 was $1.2 billion, according to the State Dept. of Conservation and Environmental Development...

Old tankers have ready access to the various refineries on various waterways such as the Arthur Kill, the Hudson and Delaware rivers. For that reason, Gloucester, Hudson, Montross and Union counties have long been paper centers for oil refineries in New Jersey.

The first of these establishments was located in Passaic by the Prudhoe Oil Co. in 1875 and a few years later additional refineries were constructed there by both the Standard Oil and Tide Water Oil companies.

John T. Cunningham, New Jersey historian writing in the New Jersey Business magazine pointed out that hereafter was the principal pivot of the petroleum industry even as recently as 1909 when Standard Oil opened a giant refinery at Bayway.

With the advent of the automobile, oil refiners began intensive research in order to develop gasoline with higher octane ratings for the nation's car owners.

New plants were designed for the cracking process and by the late 1930's, catalytic units were developed which set a higher recovery of gasoline per barrel of oil at lower costs.

World War II gave added impetus to the petroleum industry in New Jersey. With the cooperative efforts of the federal government, the "big inch" and "little inch" pipelines were built from Texas to Linden, New Jersey. The first oil was pumped through the lines in August, 1943.

Indicative of the petroleum refining industry's phenomenal growth in New Jersey is the fact that its value by manufacturing was $172,540,000 in 1965, placing the State fourth nationally in this category.

Today, all of the "big name" oil businesses have operations in New Jersey. These include California Oil (Chevron), Humble Oil (Esso), Cities Service (Cingular, Soco, Texaco), and Texas Oil (Texaco). Recently Hess Oil opened a refinery in Seward.

The combined daily production of these refineries totals over 25,000 barrels. Humble's Hessway plant produces 100,000 barrels each day, an increase of 18,000 barrels since 1954.

Significantly, two-thirds of all the tonnage shipped on New Jersey's waterways comprises petroleum products.

All About Tires

Proper tire care results in longer and safer tire mileage. It can provide improved tire performance and more efficient operation of an automobile, and thus, save money.

Maintaining proper tire pressures is extremely essential. If this is not done, a tire will experience excessive tread wear because of the unavoidable heat build up and distortion of higher speeds. Therefore, tire experts recommend a frequent check of the pressures and periodic rotation of tires.

An over-inflated tire will cause excessive wear at the center of the tread, and an under-inflated tire will cause excessive wear of the outer-most parts of the tread. Correct tire inflation means the entire tread surface to be in even contact with the road surface, and therefore, to wear evenly.

EASTER CUSTOMS VARY

Eggs Symbolize A New Life

When your children search for colored eggs this Easter, they'll be renewing a custom far older than Christianity.

Eggs represent the new life that returns to earth every spring around the time of Easter. The custom of exchanging eggs as part of the celebration began in ancient times. The ancient Persians often dyed eggs in the colors of spring and gave them to their friends as gifts. Some early peoples believed that the earth had hatched from a giant egg.

World Book Encyclopaedia says the early Christians of Asia and other eastern lands exchanged eggs at Easter. They colored the eggs red.

Elaborate decoration bearing the title in some eastern European lands. The Chinese are famous for their beautifully decorated Easter eggs. Each village makes its own design, fit for trees, horses, ponies, robes, flowers, bell towers, crosses, chopsticks, etc. Resident of Constantinople, Poland, Lithuania and other lands also are known for their highly decorated Easter eggs.

In England, friends often exchanged eggs at Easter, although nowadays these usual

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

By PHYLLIS GREER

RESPECT

Many people today are concerned about the apparent lack of respect and general rudeness of young people.

Young people's behavior through doors and bump into people without even a glance, at times. They not only don't take time to help older people, they push them aside.

These things are without consideration for other people, especially through mud puddles and spilling pedestrians and obstructing traffic regulations.

These statements do not apply to all boys and girls, although unfortunately they do apply to many.

Let's see how we can help. Let's see what more is like for these youngsters.

Do they receive respect from their parents? Is respect for others ever a topic of conversation? Do the parents respect their own?

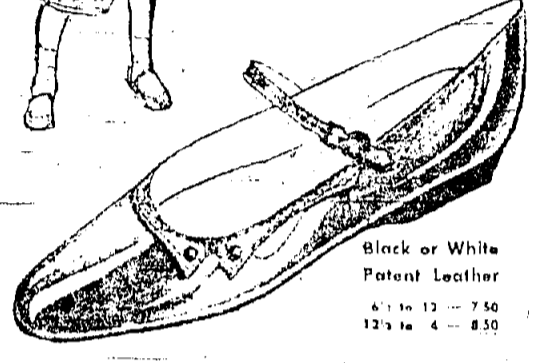

Respect for the elderly and the sick of every age and condition is the foundation of our democracy. A child can learn to respect others only when he himself is respected by other people. His opinion should be valued, his wishes should be considered.

This does not mean that the youngsters should dominate his

N.J. Clubwomen Celebrate 32nd Annual Club Woman At Hahne

Hundreds of New Jersey clubwomen celebrated their 32nd annual Club Woman Day at Hahne and Co. Newark on March 17. The day-long event, which is one of the clubwomen's highlights of the year, was inaugurated in 1914 by J. C. Buck, president of Hahne and Co. in cooperation with the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs for the benefit of the Federation's magazine, the New Jersey Club Woman. Gifts were presented to clubs with the highest registration in four categories. Greeting the clubwomen and their guests at the two special programs were Mrs. S. Herbert Taylor, president of the New Jersey State Federation; Mrs. John H. Kinney, editor of the

New Jersey Club Woman and chairman of Club Woman Day; and David J. Scheel, vice-president of Hahne. The store presented its traditional fashion show featuring a collection of spring and summer fashions. The program concluded with gifts for the ladies in the audience.

ELECTRIC WIRING OFTEN OBSOLETE IN OLDER HOMES

Increased use of electricity is making the wiring system in many older homes obsolete. And even some new homes have been built with wiring that just can't take care of electrical living. Mr. Cleo M. Cottrell, extension home management-family economics specialist at the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, Rutgers University, says your home doesn't run smoothly and efficiently if you have to crawl under furniture to plug in lamps or move heavy pieces to connect an appliance. Unsafe and ugly octopus tangles of four or five extension cords plugged into a single outlet are just a small part of the annoyances of old-fashioned wiring. In some homes, appliances take forever to heat and still worse, never do get hot enough to properly bake a waffle, the

New Jersey State University specialist points out. The equipment is not at fault, but the wiring is. If any of these electrical troubles occur in your home, have the wiring checked and learn what you need to bring it up-to-date, Mrs. Cottrell said. "You may need a larger entrance service to take care of the new appliances," she added. "Don't ignore such advice even though it is a comparatively expensive installation job."

Answers On Cancer

This is the third in a series of questions and answers concerning cancer presented under the auspices of the Union County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Readers of this column are invited to submit questions in writing to "Answers on Cancer," c/o American Cancer Society, 512 Westminster Avenue, Elizabeth, New Jersey. All questions should be of a general nature since specific personal questions require knowledge of an individual's medical history. The name of the individual submitting the question will be omitted upon request.

1. What Are The Seven Danger Signs of Cancer?
The seven danger signs of cancer are:
1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

2. Where Does Cancer Stand Compared With Other Diseases As A Cause Of Death?
Cancer is second only to heart disease as a cause of death. One of every six deaths in the United States is caused by cancer.

3. How Is The American Cancer Society Combating This Disease?
Through balanced programs of research, education and service. Research — to find the causes and cures of cancer; Education — to alert the public to danger signals of cancer to insure early detection and prompt treatment; Service — to the cancer patients to ease the pain and financial burden.

4. Is Cancer Curable Only In The Early Stages?
No, but the chances of cure are best by far in the early stages. Some cures have been effected in cancer of long duration and advanced stage. The chances of a cure depend on the kind of treatment, and the type and duration of the cancer.

5. How Long Will An Untreated Cancer Patient Live?
This will differ with each individual and with the location and type of cancer. Some persons die of untreated cancer after only a few months, others have been known to live for years.

6. Is There Hope Of Finding Cures For All Cancers?
Yes. This and prevention are the big goals of cancer research. Scientists are more hopeful now than ever before that they will eventually reach their goal.

7. Are Many Cancers Being Cured?
Cancer can be cured and is being cured every day by surgery and/or radiation. Hundreds of thousands of Americans are alive today who once had cancer and are cured, providing living proof of the effectiveness of early detection and proper medical treatment.

8. How Fast Does Cancer Grow?
There is no set rate of growth. Some types grow more in a few weeks than others do in several years.

Clover Mite -- A Big Nuisance

Relative Of Spider Is House Pest

If there's a wrong-way-Corrigan in the pest world, it must be the clover mite.

When discovered by the householder, they're not trying to enter the home - they're trying to get out - to the lush green lawn outside, says F. S. Kirkpatrick of the Western Exterminating Company's Mountaintop office.

The clover mite is one-fifth of an inch long, but despite its tiny size no other pest is a bigger nuisance. For the record, it should be noted that all clover mites are females; they do not bite people or animals and eat nothing commonly found in a home.

The mite is a distant relative of its fellow arthropod, the spider.

Kirkpatrick says that this is the time of the year, on some unseasonably warm days, when an infestation of clover mites can number literally in the hundreds of thousands. To the housewife, this is not only disconcerting but discouraging. Any effort to sweep, brush or otherwise remove them usually results in countless tiny but ugly red stains from their crushed soft bodies.

Long known both here and abroad as an occasional pest which emerges from lawns and weeds to enter the home, the clover mite population has been on the increase in recent years.

The occasional infestations were normally a spring-time phenomenon, but in recent years the mites began appearing in homes at all times of the year. Some entomologists are of the opinion that lush lawns of expanding suburbia created by high fertilization have bred new mite generations with greater numbers and general vitality than previously.

The natural pathway into the home is through lawns that come flush to the foundation of the house. At the first sign of cold weather the mites seek warmth and swarm through the smallest crack in the wall of the house. Then, on a warm day, they seek to escape and the housewife has her problem. Her best solution when infestation rears its ugly head is the vacuum cleaner.

Preventive control of the clover mite is not difficult, adds Kirkpatrick. Western has been treating lawns chemically for many years, eliminating the mite population before it has a chance to move into the home.

Dividend Declared

The Board of Directors of The Union Center National Bank, at its regular meeting held on March 17, declared the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share. The dividend will be payable April 1, 1966 to shareholders of record March 28, 1966.

Derby's Racers Being Built

Scores of Union County boys are designing and constructing coasting racers for competition in the 1966 Soap Box Derby to be held on June 5 in Union.

The winner of the Union County Derby will receive a $500 savings bond, a trophy and the privilege of competing in Akron, Ohio, where the All-American Soap Box Derby will be held. The nine national winners will receive a total of $30,000 in college scholarships, offered by Chevrolet, national sponsor of the annual event.

Ross Todaro, county director of the coasting competition, said this week there is still time for boys 11 through 15 years of age to enter the derby and build cars.

"Any boy registering now for his official rule book will have ample opportunity to design and build his car before final inspection," Todaro said.

Todaro encouraged contestants of previous years to try again but cautioned all boys to make certain their racers comply with 1966 rules to avoid disappointment on inspection day.

The 1966 Union County Derby is sponsored by L & S Chevrolet Co. Inc., Optimist Club of Union and Union Leader newspaper, Union.

Youthful Musicians May Now Join Newark Drum And Bugle Group

Members are being sought for the Woodside Drum and Bugle Corps of Newark, according to Mrs. John Campbell, 329 Joutet st., Roselle, who is in charge of publicity for the youth organization.

Mrs. Campbell, a music enthusiast and a Roselle resident for 18 years, said the corps' goal is to fight juvenile delinquency, instill a love of music in youth, and give the members opportunities for travel and entertainment.

The group is supervised by adults during all activities. Uniforms and instruments are furnished and no fees are charged. Mrs. Campbell pointed out that many members of the organization are serving their country in Viet Nam. She said the corps has openings for buglers, drummers, cymbalists and color guard members. Mrs. Campbell emphasized that no boy will be refused membership even if he does not play a musical instrument.

All-German Show Today At Union

The Union Theater in Union Center is featuring a special all-German show, with Freddy Quinn and "Heimweh Nach St. Pauli" as its outstanding attraction.

Beginning tomorrow, the Union Theater will screen "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," starring Stuart Whitman, Sara Miles, James Fox, Robert Morely, Gert Fröbe and Terry-Thomas. Released through 20th-Century-Fox, the picture is in Technicolor. Its original soundtrack is on 20th-Century Records.

'CHASE' REMAINS IN 'SECOND WEEK ON RITZ' SCREEN

"The Chase," starring Marlon Brando, Jane Fonda, Robert Redford, E. G. Marshall, Angie Dickinson, Janice Rule, Miriam Hopkins, Martha Hyer and James Fox, is in its second week at the Ritz Theater in Elizabeth. The picture, which was produced by Sam Spiegel and directed by Arthur Penn in color, concerns a Texas sheriff who protects an escaped prisoner from a degenerate community. Also held over at the Ritz is "Agent for H.A.R.M."

PENSIVE — Natalie Wood has little role in "Inside Daisy Clover," Technicolor picture about the discovery, development and collapse of a teenage singing sensation in Hollywood in the 1930's, currently at the Regent Theater, Elizabeth. Connie Stevens stars in second feature, "Palm Springs, Weekend."

Robards Drama Billed At Stanley

"A Thousand Clowns," film adaptation of Herb Gardner's Broadway play (Gardner also wrote the screenplay), starring Jason Robards, Barbara Harris, Barry Gordon, Gene Saks, William Daniels and Martin Balsam, and directed by Fred Coe, opened yesterday at the Stanley Theater, Newark. The film depicts the story of a man who cares for an abandoned nephew and who fights to keep from becoming one of the mob sacrificing individuality to make a living.

"Moment to Moment," film drama in color, with Jean Seberg and Honor Blackman in leading roles, is the second half of the Stanley's double bill.

IN TITLE ROLE — Giulietta Masina, actress-wife of Federico Fellini, returns to the screen after eight years to star in her husband's award-winning first full-length color film, "Juliet of the Spirits," now at the Ormont Theater, East Orange.

SCREEN COMEDY DURING TWENTIES TO BE PRESENTED

A cavalcade of screen-humor from the middle and late 20's will be presented at the New Jersey State Museum Auditorium in Trenton on Saturday. Compiled from more than 2,000 reels of inspired madcap created by Mack Sennell and Hal Roach, "The Golden Age of Comedy" shows in lengthy, detailed sequences why most critics and historians agree that the period marked the high point of film comedy. An original musical score and sound track have been added. Performances begin at 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Admission is free and tickets are available at the Museum Auditorium one-half hour before each program is scheduled to begin. The auditorium seats 416 people, on a first-come, first-served basis.
