YES group reports work of half-year

New Town Hall office for teen job placement

The Springfield Youth Employment Service, which's new operating from its summer office in the Planning Board Room of the Municipal Building, this week issued a report on its work during the first six months of this year.

The YES office is now open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays only, from 10 a.m. to noon. Calls to the office at other times, to 379-2567, will be received by the answering service.

The semi-annual report stated: "Since the beginning of 1966, YES has received approximately 200 job requests from prospective employers - and is happy to report that they have filled about 85 percent. In addition to previous registrations, almost an additional hundred names have been added, of whom about 30 percent are either attending college or will start this fall.

"The staff of YES is pleased to report that it has placed many students in a variety of summer jobs: snack bar attendants, boys to wax floors, girls to help serve and clean up at private parties, soda-vending attendants, tutors, drill press operators, maintenance men at motels, girls for home ironing, waitresses, office personnel for varied duties, installers for car seat covers, draftsman, sales clerks and, of course, baby sitters, mother's helpers, and boys for lawn maintenance.

"Along with usual lines, the office reports having supplied a magician for a children's party, boys to deliver telephone books and a typist for a college student's term paper.

"While most jobs are filled promptly, there are always additional calls being received for baby-sitters and lawn maintenance workers. At present the office has an open order for boys to paint a house, as well as permanent full-time jobs for a truck driver and a young man to assemble store fixtures. New registrants may always apply to fill in applications during regular office hours.

"The board of trustees for YES would like to thank the many women who have given their time to serve the office throughout the year. The following is a list of those who have volunteered their services since the beginning of this year:

Miriam Garshwin, Margie McClatchey, Jane Mendelsohn, Ruth Miller, Katherine Porter, Beesie Kirs, Frances Kriegman, Marlon Klein, Irene Horvitz, Jerry Bryman, Jean Lesack, Vera Feldman, Frances Chalmers, Marie Polcarpio, Madeline Tritz, Laura Rosenbaum, Hazel Hartgrove, Alice Cosgrove, Pauline Miller, Claire Parkin, Lucille Purk-

Book desk opens for summer fare at municipal pool

A new service has been started by the Springfield Public Library in order to meet the summer reading demands of the people of Springfield. It was announced this week. Every Thursday afternoon from two to four, the library will make available at the Municipal Pool a small collection of books for young people and adults.

"No one needs a library card to take a book out of the pool. Prospective borrowers need only their names and addresses, and they may borrow the pool books, as books borrowed in this way may be kept for as long as a month.

"Pool books may be returned at the Municipal Pool on any Thursday when the library tables are set up, or to the main library at any time within the borrowing period. If it should rain on Thursday, the book collection will be set up at the pool on the following day, Friday, instead.

The selection of books available at the pool will include some current best-sellers in paper back, as well as best-sellers from other years. The pool library will also have non-fiction titles of interest to the swimmer, such as decorating books and cookbooks. Light fiction reading for youth and back issues of juvenile magazines for the younger set.

Although non-library members are free to borrow the pool books without becoming members of the public library, they may if they wish fill out library card applications while at the pool. They may present their new library cards up later at the main library.

Teen-ager asks return of bicycle taken at pool

Don Cumberly, 16, of 19 Rose ave., Springfield, this week appealed to the person who took his bicycle from the parking lot of the municipal swimming pool on Saturday.

The teen-ager needs his bike particularly to get to his lawnmower jobs throughout the town. He said there will be no charges made if the bike is returned to him or to the pool, or if anyone can call to tell him where it is. His telephone is 376-6274.

Crossing guard

A crossing guard will be on duty four hours every weekday to help children and other pedestrians going to the Springfield Public Library. It was announced by Police Chief Wilbur C. Schneider. The guard will be stationed at the corner of Main st. and Morris ave. from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. every weekday, Monday through Friday, he added.

Township celebrates July 4 with traditional observances

"The largest crowd of spectators in our history gathered for the July Fourth Celebration," Frank E. Harlow, Jr., president of the Springfield Fourth of July Committee, reported on Tuesday. He continued, "I am very grateful to all of the members of this committee and to the organizations and to the individuals who helped make the event enjoyable as well as a safe and sane holiday."

The baseball game at Edward J. Ruby Park attracted a large number of fans in spite of the broiling sun and record thermometer readings. The Springfield Babe Ruth All-Stars won a close game from the Irvington Babe Ruth All-Stars, by a score of 5-4. The huge traveling trophy was relinquished by the Irvington team and will be on display at the Springfield Municipal Building during the coming year.

The Springfield boys, under the management of John Jankovic, and the Irvington players, managed by Jack Krill, held a tie score of 4-4 until the bottom of the eighth inning when the Springfield team drove in one more run. The electric piano and Wayne Masiello on drums and percussion. "Happy the Clown" (Springfield's own Harry Gregory), hurried about the field distributing special toys and candy to the children.

"The announcing of the master of ceremonies, Alfred E. Bowman, next presented the Rev. Kenneth J. Stump, pastor of Holy Cross Lutheran Church; who offered the invocation; Benjamin Colandrea, Raymond Daudelin, and Alfred Rutz of American Legion Continental East No. 228 presented the colors in full dress. Mrs. John W. Kuntze, accompanied by the Springfield Singers, sang the national anthem."

Report by library outlines increases in service offered

The annual report of the Springfield Public Library, which has just been released, shows a marked increase in services over the past year.

In 1965 the library extended its evening hours by being open six days a week instead of two. The children's department still opens two evenings per week, while most libraries in the area are open for only one evening. Pre-school story hours for four-year-old children grew from 30 sessions to 44 sessions throughout the year and attendance rose from 600 boys and girls to almost 900 youngsters.

Adult services also expanded. The adult book discussions, which covered a wide range of popular reading from classical books to present-day best sellers, met 15 times as compared with a dozen meetings the previous year. In addition there were two special investment seminars conducted by a representative from Donan and Co. of Springfield. Also a weekly book review column was inaugurated in the Springfield Leader to keep people informed of new books added to the collection. This column listed books of interest to adults, students and children.

The book collection has grown to 52,045 books, compared with 49,563 the previous year. Throughout the year, 4,308 new books were added to the shelves while 1,616 old and worn-out books were discarded.

Periodical subscriptions rose from 152 to 157, and almost 300 rolls of film were added to the microfilm collection. At the present time the library has 24 years of the New York Times newspaper on microfilm. The total number of registered borrowers has risen to 7,042, or almost half of the population of Springfield. This figure represents an increase of approximately 800 applications.

Two outstanding accomplishments listed for the year 1965 were the approval of the bond ordinance to build a new library and the naming of the library museum for Donald B. Palmer. Construction of the new library is expected to begin in October, with completion anticipated by October, 1967.

Courses in art slated to cover wide spectrum

Classes are filling rapidly for the diversified art instruction, in oils, water colors and sculpture, which is being offered for various age groups by the Springfield Association of Creative Arts. It was announced this week.

According to Mrs. Leo Johnson, SACA chairman, "Registrants are still being enrolled. Please call me at DR 6-4139 or Mr. Martin M. Novich, co-chairman at DR 9-3071."

The classes are as follows:
Children's class (age 7-12) to feature experiments in many media will be taught by Mrs. Johnson on Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to noon, or Thursdays from 10 a.m. to noon at the Springfield municipal pool.

A teen class in various media will be instructed by Patrick Boyd on Wednesday afternoons from 1-3 at the pool.

Creative painting for adult beginners and advanced students will be taught by Prof. Carl Burger from 1-3 p.m. at the pool.

A sculpture class creating sculptural forms with clay, plaster, wood, aluminum and lead will start this Wednesday night from 8-10:30 at the Springfield Recreation House, 59 Caldwell Place. Because of the many requests to the teacher, Mrs. Johnson, for an afternoon class of this type, another class might be offered. Prospective students were urged to contact Mrs. Johnson.

Starting on July 25 for three times per week, a quick sketch class will be instructed.

Local United Fund joins Essex County area unit; campaign chief assigned Assignment of a professional director to guide the Springfield United Fund through its first campaign next fall was disclosed this week, along with the announcement of an agreement between the Springfield steering committee and the United Community Fund and Council of Essex and West Hudson.

The Springfield campaign director will be Mrs. Donald Swayze, a staff member of the Essex-West Hudson organization. Jack H. Stiffelman, Springfield United Fund chairman, reported that Mrs. Swayze was assigned to the local campaign by Ray L. Guy, director of suburban operations of the United Community Fund and Council of Essex and West Hudson.

He added, "Mrs. Swayze will provide all the executive services required to inaugurate and administer the initial campaign of the Springfield United Fund. Mr. Guy has also agreed to place the services of his office manager and other personnel of the Orange office at the disposal of the Springfield United Fund."

Mrs. Swayze will spend two days a week on the Springfield campaign from now until the end of the year. She will use the office facilities donated by William Koonz of Wilpat Associates, 191 Mountain ave. The agreement with the United Community Fund group, Stiffelman commented, also includes part-time clerical assistance to be provided by the central agency.

Mrs. Swayze, who is a resident of Elizabeth, has been affiliated with various health and welfare agencies in the Elizabeth area starting as a volunteer. She has since obtained a master's degree in social work from Rutgers University.

She is the mother of two children, a daughter who will enter college this fall and a son who will be a high school senior. Mrs. Swayze has been a full-time executive for the past year with the United Community Fund and Council of Essex and West Hudson.

Koonz to retire; leaders of GOP seek candidate

Township Committeeman William F. Koonz this week announced that he will not seek another three-year term at the general election next November.

The Republican municipal committee was scheduled to meet last night to select a candidate as replacement for Koonz. Koonz is completing a three-year term on the governing body. He was mayor throughout 1965. "I really regret the decision not to run," he declared, "but as a result of business pressures, it is really impossible to carry on doing the type of job I feel the people of Springfield are entitled to receive, and which a Township Committeeman has an obligation to do."

"I have appreciated and enjoyed the opportunity to serve the town and the people of Springfield, greatly appreciate the help and cooperation I have received from all the officials I have served with, members of the Township Committee, town employees and, of course, the wonderful help we have gotten from the press. I do hope I will be able to continue to be helpful, in some way, to the community."

A native of Springfield, Koonz was educated in the local schools and at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. He holds a degree in business administration from Seton Hall University. He served with the Army in Germany and then returned home. Koonz was formerly sales manager for the Dugger-Ryan Co., dealing with lawn supplies and equipment. He now heads his own firm, Wilpat Associates, in the same field.

Only 34, Koonz has at times in the past year indicated that the pressures of raising a family and operating a rapidly growing business were in conflict with the demands of his elected office. He resides at 110 Baltusrol way with his wife, the former Marlene Derrick, and their three children: Patricia Ann, William F. Jr. and Barbara Jane.

Opening of pool

Official opening ceremonies were held on Monday at the municipal swimming pool, with participation by a number of civic leaders. Township Committeeman Jay Bloom held this newspaper that he was unable to attend, because he had not been informed of the ceremonies until that morning.

Fishing for wheelchair vets State constructs special facility

New Jersey wheelchair veterans will soon have an opportunity to enjoy fishing, thanks to completion of special facilities at the first of several sites planned by the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Commissioner Robert A. Roe announced this week that a fishing pier has been constructed on a new state-owned lake at Prosperstown, Ocean County. A macadam runway connects the pier to a parking lot for the veterans' specially-equipped cars. A nearby picnic area will serve their families.

Largemouth bass and other fish recommended by state biologists will be stocked this fall as soon as water conditions are suitable. A waiting period is necessary for water chemistry to stabilize following construction.

Director Anthony J. Volpe of the Division of Veterans Services believes that New Jersey is the first state to institute this type of recreational program for wheelchair veterans. It was conceived as a result of a request from the New Jersey Paraplegic Association. The veterans regard fishing as one of the most enjoyable and therapeutic pastimes available to them. Access to most fishing areas is difficult and hazardous for wheelchairs, due to mud and obstructions.

Following a conference with representatives of the Paraplegic Association, Roe worked out a joint program with Volpe and Lester G. MacNamara of the Division of Fish and Game to develop recreational facilities. They consulted veterans regarding desirable facilities and reviewed sites that would be suitable.

The lake at Prosperstown is a 100-acre impoundment built with federal Accelerated Public Works funds and State Fish and Game monies on land donated to the Division of Fish and Game by Stanley Switlik of New Egypt. Construction was completed this spring and it will be officially dedicated next month.

Similar facilities will be developed at another impoundment being constructed at Stafford Forge, Ocean County. It will be located on a tract recently assigned to the Division of Fish and Game under the Green Acres Program. Plans are being formulated for other areas.

A more ambitious project is conceived for the Spruce Run-Round Valley recreational complex. Efforts will be made to design a launching ramp for specially-equipped veterans to use boats, and a fishing pier and picnic facilities with barbecue pits will be built. Initially, utilization will be restricted to the most severely disabled veterans, Director Volpe said. As more facilities are completed and utilization is determined, recreational opportunities will be extended to additional handicapped veterans and other afflicted New Jersey citizens.

Over 800 children register in 1st week for playgrounds

More than 800 children registered during the first week of activity of the Springfield summer playgrounds, the township's Recreation Department reported this week. Recreation Director Edward J. Ruby said that, because of intense heat, play was restricted to "quiet games, story telling and getting acquainted."

Ruby said that attendance at the playgrounds in the mornings exceeded that of the afternoons, when many children went swimming in the Springfield Municipal Pool.

Tennis lessons will be given at 9:35 a.m.

on the following schedule: Tuesday, Irwin Playground; Wednesday, Sandmeier Playground; Thursday, Woodside Playground; and Friday, Henshaw Playground. Jack Appar, a member of the Montclair State College tennis team, will instruct the classes.

Arts and crafts instructors will visit each playground twice weekly on a schedule to be announced at the individual fields. Handicraft done by the children will be placed on exhibit during the first week of the playground season.

A parade on wheels was scheduled to be held at all the playgrounds yesterday, and a pot show is planned for each play area next Wednesday, Ruby said that all Springfield children and visitors may participate in playground activities.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

One of America's most beloved citizens, Will Rogers, often said, "I never met a man I didn't like."

How many of us can say the same? Stop for a moment, if you will, and see how many fingers it takes to count the people that you do not like for some reason or another. If we are to believe Will Rogers was sincere in his observations, as history leads us to believe, why was his attitude different from ours? How could he like EVERYBODY?

We must conclude that the answer lies in the fact that the great American humorist never said, "I LIKE EVERYTHING about EVERYBODY." Will Rogers was a wise man, with a deep insight into human nature. Certainly, from time to time, people did things, said things, or acted in a manner Will Rogers found distasteful. He must have forgiven them for their human failings and looked for the "little bit of good" that is within every individual.

Long live King George

Perhaps the British really did win the Battle of Springfield. That might well be the only way to interpret recurring efforts to adaptate the proposed clean, 20th Century design for Springfield's new library with a false face of "Colonial" greasewood.

less demanding customs of their forefathers. Just so does the harrided technocrat of 1966 dream of living in the era of indentured apprentices, hand-crafted slide rules--and Colonial facades on his library.

Senator CLIFFORD P. CASE Reports

From remarks by Senator Clifford P. Case on proposed extension of U.S. Capitol, at Vineland on Monday.

As we celebrate the 190th Anniversary of our nation's independence, it is unfortunate that this day should be marred by the knowledge that one of our great landmarks is in danger of permanent disfigurement.

As introduced, the Administration Bill forbids discrimination because of race, color, religion or national origin (but not sex) in the sale or rental of any house or housing building lot.

The bill provides for enforcement by a variety of methods: Suit in a federal court by the aggrieved party; A prohibition against banks and other financial institutions carrying on discriminatory practices in making home loans.

Letters to Editor

DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN In the June 30, 1966, issue of the Leader, an article appeared on the front page concerning selection of Gerard Zezza as the choice of the Democratic organization as candidate for the Township Committee.

Under the plan, the extra space would be devoted to dining rooms, committee and sub-committee meeting rooms and offices for Members of Congress. In addition, familiar terraces, noble staircases and other well-known features of the Capitol would disappear or be radically changed.

The bill prohibits discrimination in the selection of juries and provides for appointment of federal jury commissioners or civil action in federal court by the Attorney General.

Further, local and state governments would be made civilly liable for interference with the rights of others, whereas they have previously escaped liability by invoking the doctrine of "governmental immunity."

Springfield Leader

with which has been merged the Springfield Sun 16 Center St., Springfield, N.J. 07081

One hundred and fifteen years ago today, at a cornerstone laying ceremony for extensions to the Capitol, Daniel Webster, then Secretary of State, placed in the ground a manuscript containing the following words:

The department prepares reports and resolutions for the departments of roads and bridges, prepares agreements with municipalities for the receipt of bids and award of contracts, supervises construction, furnishes lines and grades. In addition, the department inspects materials and operations for the improvements being carried out, prepares monthly and fiscal estimates for payments to contractors, and certifies to the Board of Freeholders as to the satisfactory completion of projects.

The United County engineer's office is the focal point of road management. In it lies the responsibility for carrying out the policy decisions of the Board of Freeholders, for keeping records and for providing all necessary information. To do this effectively, the office must be staffed with sufficiently trained personnel, and must also be provided with adequate supplies and equipment.

Union Junior professor discusses redistricting

Union Junior College Professor Saul Orkin of Plainfield, chairman of the Social Sciences Department, told the Board of Trustees of Union Junior College last week the recently-concluded Constitutional Convention on Legislative Reapportionment "will no doubt have a major repercussion on the politics of this state because it changed the power balance."

Orkin, who was a Democratic delegate to the convention from Union County, said the rural counties will no longer dominate the Legislature, and the power will shift to the urban and suburban areas.

"The convention also will change the political balance of the two major parties," Orkin said. "My first impression is that there will be a gain for the Democrats in the short run, but in the long run I doubt if there will be any important advantage to either party. The realignment of legislative seats also will bring about a change in the relationships between the governor, the county leaders and the legislators."

The UJC professor said the convention from the very beginning was controlled by the legislators who held all the key positions and "ran the show."

"The convention was conducted in a partisan atmosphere throughout, and we were not permitted to forget we represented a party," Orkin said.

"I think it is a sad commentary on New Jersey democracy that the people didn't care about this very fundamental problem. I suppose it was too technical," the UJC professor said.

He said he received only one telephone call and several "airmail" letters, which were of no help in reaching a decision, "so I voted my conscience."

"Our task was to change the system of representation, which is a fundamental problem of democracy, and we received almost no word from the public. We were operating in a vacuum," he commented.

Orkin said he still feels the 40-seat Senate and the 80-seat Assembly plan adopted by the convention "is not in the best interests of Union County, because we are under-represented." He said the plan which will appear on the November general election ballot for approval or rejection by the voters faces a court test.

Three major issues developed during the 14-week convention held in the gymnasium of Rutgers - the State University in New Brunswick, Orkin said: 1. single-member versus multi-member districts; 2. the size of the legislature, and 3. a unicameral (one-house) versus a bi-cameral (two-house) legislature.

Orkin, who favored unicameral legislature, said unicameralism became a rallying point for those who wanted substantial change as opposed to those who wanted to maintain the status quo.

Non-white employment rises at faster rate than for whites

Washington, D. C. -- Non-white employment, increasing by 2.3 million to 7.7 million, showed "a substantially faster rate of growth" than that of white workers between 1955 and 1965, according to a U.S. Department of Labor report this week.

But, because of the changing occupational picture in the U.S., the occupations in which nonwhite workers are now concentrated will grow more slowly than other occupations. These are major conclusions drawn in an article entitled "Changing Patterns of Employment of Nonwhite Workers" in the May issue of the Labor Department's Monthly Labor Review.

To realize further improvements in employment, nonwhite workers must "gain a larger proportion of the white-collar and skilled occupations even faster than heretofore," the article states. The only rapidly-growing major occupational group where nonwhites are concentrated, it adds, is service (except private household). Even here, the jobs held by nonwhites usually have limited growth prospects.

In 1965, the article reports: "More than one-fourth of employed non-white men were in semiskilled occupations, such as drivers and factory operatives, compared with one-fifth of employed white men. More than one-fifth of the nonwhite males were nonfarm laborers, contrasted with about one-fifteenth of the white males."

Over half of all employed nonwhite women worked either in private household occupations or in other service jobs such as attendant, chambermaid, cleaner, cook and dish washer, compared with only one-fifth of the employed white women.

Less than one-fourth of the employed nonwhite women were in white-collar jobs, compared with three-fifths of their white counterparts.

Less than one-fifth of all employed nonwhites are in white-collar jobs, compared with almost half of all employed whites. Nevertheless, over the past decade, nonwhites workers have made important progress in many occupational areas.

Educators attend Raubinger dinner

Several staff members of the Springfield school system attended a "tribute dinner" held last week in Newark to honor Dr. Frederick S. Raubinger, who is resigning as state commissioner of education. The 2,000-person taking part presented Dr. Raubinger with an autograph.

Among those at the dinner from Springfield were: John O. Berwick, superintendent of schools; Joseph Anderson, assistant superintendent; Andrew Allen, principal, Edward Walton School; Robert Black, principal, Raymond Chisholm School; William Fallon, principal, Thelma Sandmeier School; Mrs. Mary Edna Sabin, president, Springfield Teachers Association; and Mrs. Helen Ryder, treasurer, Springfield Teachers Association.

President of realtors sees faster sales for real estate

"Faster sales at the best price" were foreseen this week for commercial and investment real estate properties in the Oranges and Maplewood area by Frank Bedford, president of the Board of Realtors of the Oranges and Maplewood, Livingston, Millburn, Short Hills and Springfield.

Bedford made the prediction in announcing that the Board has extended its multiple listing service to include large apartment houses, stores and office buildings. The 41-year-old service, the first in New Jersey, has heretofore handled primarily residential property.

Bedford noted that only a relatively small number of real estate boards in the United States, multiple listing commercial and investment properties. The Board's 87 member offices invite immediate listings under the new arrangement, Bedford said. He added that the group has proved its ability to sell real estate through multiple listing, topping previous sales records annually for the past 10 years. Last year, the board sold over $30,000,000 worth of real estate, representing 1,149 homes.

Multiple listing affords many advantages to owners with commercial or investment property to sell in the board area, Bedford noted. "The seller will enlist in his service the sales know-how of our 87 proprietor brokers and their 280 sales associates," Bedford observed. "And he will pay only the usual rate of commission, the same that he would for a so-called exclusive listing, with one broker."

Competition among brokers and the use of merchandising skills insure maximum exposure for the multiple listing property and the probability of quick sale at a fair price, the realtor pointed out. He noted also that the often busy owners of investment and commercial properties will find multiple listing the easiest and least time-consuming way to sell real estate.

Local communities will benefit from the broadened service, Bedford commented. "Multiple listing, often called the stock market of real estate, maintains a fluid market," he explained. "Potential commercial and investment buyers know that the availability of a multiple listing service in the area adds value to a property."

Bedford said that board multiple listing regulations have been adjusted for commercial and investment properties to conform to existing custom. Commission rates will be those prevailing in the field.

Another change lies in the 50-50 split established for this commission between the listing and selling brokers. For residential property, the amount is split 70-30, with the selling broker earning the larger share, Bedford explained that the 50-50 division recognizes the extensive services required of the listing broker in the sale of commercial and investment properties.

Housing bill amendment sought by Rep. Dwyer

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-6th Dist. N.J.) said this week she will carry to the House floor her fight to amend the Administration's housing program to require a public referendum for all urban renewal projects in communities of 150,000 or less population.

Her amendment would limit the referendum requirement to communities with populations of 150,000 or less, Mrs. Dwyer explained, "because many of the most serious urban renewal problems have occurred in small cities and it is in such communities that a project would affect the people as a whole and thus the vote in a referendum would be most meaningful."

A FEMININE LOOK

(Commentary on a National Newspaper Association Study Mission)

By TRUDINA HOWARD

Thirteenth of a Series

TWO OPINIONS—ONE ISLAND

There is a saying that the light is so clear and penetrating in Athens that it made men think clearly and with penetration and that is why Greece had so many wise scholars and philosophers.

Nowhere in the world, the Greeks will tell you, is the light, particularly the daylight, so clear and brilliant as it is in Greece. There is the white, shimmering light of morning—the pink and coral light of sunrise, the colorless, sudden light just before dark, and the man-made light of night cut fine and shimmering like diamonds in the lustrous air.

In 1961 when I first saw Athens all this seemed a beautiful truth, but in 1956 when the National Newspaper Association Study Mission visited Athens again, there was a murky difference.

There was smog.

Which may be what is the matter with Cyprus.

The Athenians of course, said it was early morning haze—but sadly, it looked exactly like Grade A Smog.

Into this surprising atmosphere then the 1966 Study Mission Group flew one morning in January from Tunis. The first thing we did was climb the Acropolis to see the Parthenon and that is beautiful whether you have haze or smog or what have you—his floor is not level and its columns are not straight, but it is so extremely beautiful. Actually, the "imperfections" were done quite purposefully. The architects leaned the columns inward and curved the floor convexly just exactly right to give the proper pleasing impression to the eye when viewing the building. When you consider that the columns are four-and-a-half people around at the base, arms outstretched, that is some leaning. AND some figuring.

BUT WHILE THE PARTHENON is beautiful despite the unclear air, the Cyprus problem certainly is showing the signs of smog. One of the first things we wanted to hear about was the Greek-Turkish situation, and at a meeting with the Prime Minister of Greece, Stephanos Stephanou, and other Greek officials, and the American Ambassador, Phillips Falbot, and his staff, we received some answers. Some a little hazy too.

"Here is the dilemma of the American role," the Ambassador said. Two countries are at loggerheads but both are friendly to the United States. Greece says why is the United States so pro-Turkish? Turkey says why are you so pro-Greek? The only thing we can say is we are even-handed."

All, among the even-handed things we do is give military aid to both Greece and Turkey, and that sounds pretty smoggy too.

At any rate, the biggest crisis at the time of our visit was the threat of Greeks being turned out of Turkey, particularly in Istanbul. Greek nationalists in Turkey who were not Turkish citizens were told that they would not be able to get their visas renewed and would have to leave Turkey as they expired.

When the Prime Minister was asked about the subject he replied that he "saw it in the press" and hoped it would not happen. "There are 110,000 Turks in Greece, and they do not have difficulty," he said, "and Greece does not threaten them now." He said he did not feel that individuals should suffer because of national politics.

If the Greeks really were expelled from Istanbul, we asked, would the Turks be expelled from Athens? "Turks, while claiming they want a peaceful settlement, use threats such as this, and have actually done it in Constantinople (Istanbul); but Greece will not take a counter action," was the answer. "Greece hopes the threats will only be threats," he added, "and that Turkey will soon follow Greece in peaceful steps. The wish for peace by Greece is absolutely honest and it will do anything in order to establish full peace in the area."

But, it was added, it cannot be foretold what Greece will do if Turkey decides to carry out expulsion or applies other means of pressure on Greek nationals living in Constantinople.

"The problem of Cyprus is reasonably simple," the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs Elias Tsalmoukas said, "but it has become complicated during its development."

Greece wants Cyprus to be really independent and decide its own future by majority rule. Yet it doesn't seem to want Turkey to have it under any circumstances.

"Greece says Turkey wants one part of the island to be Turkish and one part Greek. The Greeks, however, greet this as unthinkable and believe the two communities could live together. Only apparently not under Turkish rule."

THEN IN TURKEY we heard this all over again, only a little different. In the case of the expulsions, yes, when the Greek national's visas expire, they will have to go, Turkey gave notice that she would no longer honor the treaty which allowed Greeks to live in Turkey and vice versa, when the Cyprus problem erupted.

In Turkey we heard that only 18 per cent of the Cyprus population is Turkish while 79 per cent is Greek (the remainder is British) so the Turks do not want to vote by majority rule.

"In Turkey we heard that Cyprus is 590 miles from Greece and 40 miles from Turkey—so the Turks are fearful who might get Cyprus. They were agreeable to taking one quarter of the island, with Greece getting the remainder, but Greece would not agree. And Turkey apparently does not want Greece to have it all.

From places other than Greek or Turkish we heard that "an awful lot of people would like to see a tidal wave just wash the island into the sea. It is causing more trouble than it's worth. It has only 400,000 people which doesn't amount to much and has embittered the thousands of people of the Mediterranean. It does not even have a safe nor a viable economy—just a little oil, which doesn't amount to much either."

But anyway, Turkey doesn't seem to want Greece to have it either.

And so the hazy thoughts hang heavy over Cyprus.

350 children scheduled to enjoy camp vacations

Summer began officially last Tuesday for a group of eight to 10-year-olds from Union, Linden, Springfield, Roselle Park and other Union County communities.

It was the first day of the first of four 10-day camp periods set for this season at Camp Endeavor on Johnson Dr. in the Watchung Mountains at Watchung.

A total of 350 children will have vacations without charge this summer at the camp, founded in 1911 by the Christian Endeavor Societies of Union County and supported by funds devised by county residents, organizations and churches.

Youngsters are selected for stays at the camp by municipal and school nurses, welfare agencies and churches. They are offered a program that includes swimming, other recreation, handicrafts, religious services conducted by clergymen from surrounding communities, and evening entertainment provided by interested groups and individuals.

Mrs. M. Vincent Traylor of Clark, camp director, and Miss Kathlyna McDonald of Elizabeth, assistant director, are supervising a staff of high school and college student counselors.

Mrs. Traylor is a member of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church of Clark.

Fewer mosquitoes buzzing Drier weather assists control

Drier weather has resulted in a decrease in the mosquito population in Union County during the past week, according to the Mosquito Extermination Commission. The commission reported that the mosquito control index (the average number of mosquitoes caught in one trap in one night) showed a drop in all five areas of the agency.

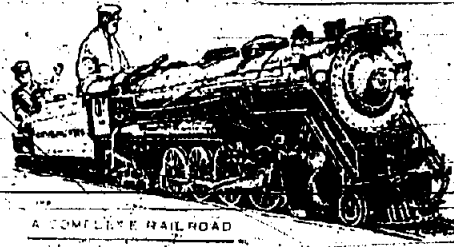

The area including Elizabeth, Linden, Rahway, and Winfield remained the most popular with the mosquitoes. The index for that area last week was 5.9 as compared with 7.7 for the previous week. The Berkeley Heights, New Providence and Summit section had the second highest index, 3.5, a slight increase from the previous week's 3.4.

The two areas of Westfield, Cranford, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountaineer and Clark, which registered 3.4 two weeks ago, and Plainfield, Fanwood, Scotch Plains and Clark, which had 2.4 at that time, dropped to 3.3. The area of Union, Hillside, Roselle, Roselle Park and Springfield, had the lowest index, 1.6, last week as compared with 2.4 for the previous week.

Mackay, president of Union Junior College; Richard Bachman, special agent in charge of the Newark office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; Leo Culla, executive secretary of the State Police Training Commission; and Chief William Siskier of Springfield. The invocation was given by the Rev. John Dexheimer, pastor of the Cranford Methodist Church, and the benediction by the Rev. Edward Bitter of St. John the Apostle Church, Clark.

The Union County Police Training Academy, which is sponsored by the Union County Police Chiefs' Association, is accredited by the New Jersey Police Training Council. New patrolmen who successfully complete the program can qualify for full appointment as patrolmen. Swackhammer, chairman of the Chemistry Department of Union Junior College, and Chief Robert Wimmer of the Union County SPCA.

Areas covered during the program were: police duties, organization, uniform, criminal law, and discipline; persons, firearms, motor-vehicle laws, defensive tactics, arrests, search and seizure; first aid, investigative procedures, patrol practices; community relations, justice system, narcotics and safe driving practices.

Exams set for full-time P. O. jobs

The executive secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U.S. Post Office, Elizabeth 10, in connection with postmasters of Union County, announced that there is an urgent need of qualified personnel for full-time employment in clerk, carrier and mail handler positions in most post offices in the county. Starting salary for the clerk and carrier is $4,57 per hour. Mail handlers start at $2.37 per hour.

Next scheduled examinations are set for July 25 at 23 for the Elizabeth 10 office and on July 20 and 21 at the Plainfield Post Office. All applicants will be notified one week in advance of the exact date and time of the test. The mail handler test will be held in September at Elizabeth Post Office only.

Postal employees are entitled to many benefits including paid vacations of 13 to 26 days, depending on length of service; sick leave, 15 days per year for all employees, with accumulation permitted without limit; eight paid holidays, low cost life insurance, health benefits, incentive awards, and a retirement system for career employees.

Federal legislation insures that all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color, sex, national origin, politics, or any other non-merit factor, the secretary said. Further information on the examination and the necessary forms for applying may be obtained at all post offices or in the mail post office, 310 N. Broad St., Elizabeth, N. J.

A 25th Anniversary Salute to the 500,000 star-spangled Americans who work for this country's security without pay

Now pay 4.15% when held to maturity

The U. S. Treasury Department sells about $4½ billion worth of Savings Bonds every year.

Yet no one ever tries to sell you Bonds on the phone. No one ever knocks on your front door.

Though you rarely see them, there are about ½ million patriotic Americans who will help you buy Bonds. Have been, since the first Series E Savings Bond was issued 25 years ago.

Your banker, for instance. He'll give you folders and facts, issue your Bonds, make certain they're properly registered, cash them when the time comes. There are about 30,000 banking and other financial leaders in the U. S. on this team.

Your employer and thousands of other employers who have set up the Payroll Savings Plan are also on the team. So are the officials of your union who have endorsed the Bond program, as well as invested in it.

There are many others. Like your neighbor, the advertising man, and the radio, TV, poster, magazine and newspaper people he works with to tell you about Bonds through ads like this one.

All of these volunteers work for the Bond program without pay. Even the advertising, which adds up to many millions of dollars in space and time, runs without cost to the taxpayer.

Through their good work, these volunteers have helped give Americans a safe and sound way to save for their own future, and for the future of free men everywhere.

You can do your part, too. Buy and hold U. S. Savings Bonds.

The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is presented as a public service in cooperation with the Treasury Department and The Advertising Council.

Organ plays special role in jazz area

Every so often a jazz buff will hear an exceptionally fine jazz organist and think he has discovered something new and different. The technique may be new and different such as the "fresh" sounds made by the young artist, Freddie Roach, but the organ as a jazz instrument is not new at all.

The history of the jazz organ dates back to the early 1920's when the late "Papa" Weller studied it as a child. In 1926 he recorded "St. Louis Blues" and "Swing Avenue Blues" playing a pipe organ. Then, the invention of the electric organ by Laurens Hammond in 1935 created a whole new area of musical exploration.

Waller was enthusiastic and made a series of recordings on the Hammond organ during the three years before his death. One was his famous composition, "The Jitterbug Waltz."

In the 1930's Count Basie released an organ recording of "Nobody Knows and Milt Herz" was heard in series of jazz organ recordings.

Toward the end of the war years, Bill Davis, who was with Louis Jordan's Tympany Five, developed a pedal technique which attracted the attention of Duke Ellington. Together, Ellington and Davis produced a recording with Davis on the organ and Ellington on the piano.

Another Davis, Jackie, who worked as accompanist for Ella Fitzgerald, Louis Jordan and Dinah Washington, claims to have been the first jazz pianist to switch to organ and make a name for himself as a jazz organist. Later, the spotlight turned to a young Pennsylvania pianist, popular Jimmy Smith. Jimmy had won a Major Bowen talent contest as a nine-year-old prodigy. By the time he was 29, he had formed his own organ trio.

ALL ABOUT PEOPLE by GENE ROSENFELD EL GENE TIRE CO. WHAT'S IN A NAME? ... A rose by any other name would smell as sweet. Runnells approved as Medicare unit

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has notified John E. Runnells Hospital for Chest Diseases, Berkeley Heights, that it has been accepted as a participating hospital under Title 18 of the Social Security Act (Medicare). Dr. Eugene Nargiello, superintendent and medical director, announced. A Representative of the Social Security Administration presented Dr. Nargiello with a plaque indicating Runnells Hospital as an approved hospital for Medicare.

Citing Runnells as the first county hospital approved, Dr. Nargiello said these currently accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals are essentially deemed to meet all the conditions of participation except the requirement for utilization review. A hospital must have a utilization review committee to qualify for Medicare participation. A utilization committee is composed of doctors and hospital personnel who review the care of each patient periodically with the aim of determining whether the patient is occupying a hospital bed longer than necessary.

The Runnells Hospital utilization committee plan has been accepted by the State Health Department. Other phases of the hospital program has been approved by the nation-wide Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, Dr. Nargiello said.

Union County Trust Co. cited for annual report

Bauer, president of the bank. Richard J. Anderson, editor and publisher of "Financial World", said the award was made "in recognition of the over-all excellence of the report" and was selected on the basis of content, design and typography from among 5,000 entries.

DRIVE CAREFULLY!

SCHOOLS OUT

You literally "bet your life" every time you drive too fast, try to beat a light, cut in and out of traffic, pass another car on a hill or curve! With the stakes so high and the odds so steep, does this kind of gamble make sense to you? Isn't it a lot better to drive with care... take a little longer to get where you're going... and ARRIVE ALIVE?

Ironically, on summer's happiest occasions (week-ends and holidays), the tragic toll of highway accidents zooms to the highest totals! Traffic is congested. Driving strain increases. Millions of good, bad and indifferent drivers are on the road, speeding, cutting in, weaving, challenging traffic controls. These are the times, above all to drive with EXTRA care... keep your temper... watch the other driver and bring your family home ALIVE!

Early Rutgers graduate had numerous careers

(This is another in a series of articles about Rutgers University which is celebrating its Bicentennial year this year.)

In this age when the specialist reigns supreme, the careers of some of our many-sided forefathers seem astonishing. Such a man was Simeon DeWitt, one of the earliest graduates of Rutgers, then known as Queen's College. DeWitt is perhaps best known today as the man who laid out the land system in upstate New York. But DeWitt did far more than that. He was a youthful Revolutionary War minuteman, and then a geographer, astronomer, friend of the Indians, advisor to generals and governors, classical scholar of language and literature, and educator of note.

One of the early believers in scientific agriculture, DeWitt in 1819 suggested that New York State establish a college for the Offer tennis lessons

The Springfield Recreation Department announced this week that it will offer tennis instructions Tuesdays through Fridays at the following fields: Tuesday, Irwin Playground; Wednesday, Sandmeter Playground; Thursday, Woodside Playground; and Friday, Henshaw Playground. The lessons will begin each day at 9:45 a.m. Instructor is Jack Appar. Admission to lessons is free.

teaching of improved methods of farming, an idea which more than 20 years later was adopted on a nationwide basis in the Federal legislation establishing the system of land-grant colleges. DeWitt's alma mater became the land-grant college of New Jersey in 1864.

DeWitt was one of Rutgers' most distinguished graduates, and inevitably the many facets of his career remind us of the careers of Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin. DeWitt was among the Rutgers students who were forced to flee in November, 1776, when Gen. George Washington's troops fell back before the pursuing British, across the Hudson and through New Jersey.

DeWitt's son, Richard Varick DeWitt, recalled the episode years later in a letter. "The eruption of the British troops broke up the college," the younger DeWitt wrote, "and my father had but time to take his knapsack and musket and retreat to Hackensack. He lost his clothes and books which were in the college." DeWitt eventually returned to his native state of New York and enlisted in the militia.

"The black thick brewing storm was spent in harmless thunder," he wrote of the defeat of Burgoyne at Saratoga to a friend at Rutgers, which by 1778 had resumed classes a few miles from New Brunswick in Raritan. "I wish my friend you had been at Saratoga. When they surrendered, the most glorious sight America ever beheld or perhaps ever shall was there to be seen."

By 1778, DeWitt was appointed assistant geographer of the army under Gen. Washington and two years later was named chief geographer of the army, at the age of 24. His job consisted principally of "perfecting maps for the army," an assignment that caused him to survey Washington's route in 1781 from New Jersey to Yorktown and the end of the war.

Toward the close of 1783, DeWitt requested his discharge and accepted the civilian post of surveyor-general of New York State. One of his first tasks was laying out bounty lands for allotment to soldiers. In time he mapped out more than 25 townships in Oneida, Cayuga, Seneca, Cortland, and parts of Oswego, Wayne, Schuyler and Tompkins counties.

The confusing boundary between New York and Pennsylvania was of even more concern. In 1785-87, DeWitt headed a New York commission that met with a similar group, led by David Rittenhouse, the famous Philadelphia astronomer, to "divide the matter, Indians, whom DeWitt had befriended on earlier excursions, served as guides and hunters.

DeWitt during the same period was commissioned to draw up a definitive map of the state, a job it took him until 1802 to finish. Several years later he helped develop "a satisfactory plan" for roads and streets in part of New York City.

Recognition of his accomplishments began as early as 1790, when he was elected to the famed American Philosophical Society, founded by Franklin. He was a charter member of the Society for the Promotion of Agriculture, Arts and Manufactures and also a member of the Society of the Cincinnati.

For all of DeWitt's urbanity, his letters reveal him as a man intensely interested in scientific agriculture. In 1819, he addressed the New York legislature on "Considerations on the Necessity of Establishing an Agricultural College," and thus anticipated the land-grant colleges.

This plea was directed at the legislature to urge the establishment of a school to teach farming, "a vocation that needed both systematic study and practice for its proper development."

DeWitt helped chart the route of the Erie Canal and is credited with founding the city of Ithaca. He served on the board of regents of Columbia College, and was named vice-chancellor of the University of the State of New York in 1817 and chancellor in 1829. He died in Ithaca in 1834 at the age of 79.

Legion nine to visit Westfield; game ends regular schedule

The American Legion baseball team, representing Springfield Continental Post, will close out its regular season this evening at Westfield. The Continentals, however, also face a replay of a 5-5 tie against Railway, played last week.

In the first of two Railway games, George Mea pitched the Springfield athletes to a 9-5 victory at Railway. The Springfield team jumped off to a quick lead in the opening inning. Young Steve Jupa singled but was erased on a double play. Joe Jupa then singled and straggled home on a long home run by Bob Gartlan. Springfield scored twice in the fifth on singles by Don Fabrizio, Mea and Steve Jupa and once in the sixth on singles by Dennis Swick and Stu Falkin. The Springfield nine led the game with four runs in the seventh, with a single by Frank Hayda, the only legitimate hit among a series of Railway walks and errors.

The tie with Railway, with a score of 5-5, resulted when the game at Springfield was halted by rain in the fifth inning. Nick Passomero was on the mound, making his first start of the season for the home team.

Springfield scored three runs in the first on singles by Steve Jupa, Stu Falkin and Larry Fabrizio and a double by Gartlan. Two more runs came in the third on singles by Joe Jupa and Gartlan. Other hits for Springfield were by Falkin and Hayda.

The Springfield forces were defeated by Union, 3-2, here last Friday. Mea was charged with the defeat, even though he yielded only one earned run in the pitching duel against Union's Don Skarot. The two Springfield runs were driven in by singles by Gartlan in the first inning and Mea in the second. Other hits for the home team were singles by Larry Fabrizio and Dennis Swick. Mea gave up six hits and struck out five men.

Victories scored by Somerset Bus, Marech last week

Somerset Bus and Marech Advertising won their games in the Springfield Adult Softball League last week. The two games were the only contests played during the week.

Somerset Bus overcame a 3-0 deficit in the fifth inning of its game with Best Pharmacy. The winners scored five runs on two hits, a walk and three errors by the usually dependable Best infield. Al Pruden and Leon Breiden, first and second in the Somerset Bus batting order, had three hits apiece to pace the highly improved Somerset nine which is managed by Pat Kenney. Skip Bechtold, Jack Appar, Dennis Francis and John Koncency obtained eight of the nine hits made by the losers.

Marech Advertising, behind 3-0 to Charles Remlinger, rallied to win, 15-11, Remlinger scored seven runs in the first inning and one in the second and seemed headed for a lopsided victory. Marech, however, scored four runs in third inning, four in the fourth inning and three in the fifth. With the score tied at 11-11, Marech put four runners across the plate in the seventh and final inning. A double and a home run by Artie Drucks sparked the winners. Manager Dennis Kosowicz and Charlie Haas were the leading hitters for the Remlinger nine.

"It's a shame, in a country as progressive as ours, that we've been so backward about mental retardation."

Dr. R. M. Spock

At any time, mental retardation could happen in your family—a good reason why you should share Dr. Spock's concern about this neglected health problem.

Right now, there are six million children and adults in our country whose minds are retarded.

This year, 125,000 babies will be born who will become mentally retarded. Yet, if all that is known about the prevention of mental retardation were applied, mental retardation could be cut in half.

Here, then, are five things you can do to help prevent this affliction and give most of the retarded a chance to live normally and usefully:

1. If you expect a baby, stay under the care of a doctor or a clinic. Urge all expectant mothers to do so.
2. Visit local schools; urge them to provide special teachers and special classes to identify and help mentally retarded children early in their lives. For 80% of the mentally retarded in our country there are no educational or training programs.
3. Urge your community to establish workshops where the retarded who are capable of employment can be trained. At least 85% of the retarded can help support themselves.
4. Select jobs in your company that the retarded can fill, and hire them. Many of the retarded have worked for years in offices, factories and homes to the satisfaction of their employers.
5. To learn more about the entire problem of mental retardation, write for the free booklet, Address: The President's Committee on Mental Retardation, Washington, D.C.

FRONT END—These steel beams connect a $1 million Science Building to Union Junior College's Nomahegan Building. The Science Building will be the fourth on the UJC campus in Cranford. The Nomahegan Building, containing classrooms, science laboratories, library, dining hall, cafeteria and other facilities, was the first on the new campus when it was opened in 1959. The Science Building is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1967. It will be completely air-conditioned and electrically heated and ready just in time for next year's Summer Session.

Highway contracts for past 2½ months reach $50 million

The New Jersey State Highway Department announced this week that it has awarded contracts or asked for bids on more than $50 million worth of State highway construction work in the past two and half months.

Deputy Commissioner Russell H. Mullen said the department's performance exceeded an estimate furnished to the Associated General Contractors of New Jersey by Gov. Richard J. Hughes at its annual meeting in mid-April. "At that time," Mullen said, "the governor predicted the department would advertise more than $40 million worth of work prior to July 1."

The Highway Department noted that the number and value of construction projects awarded or advertised during this period represents significant acceleration of progress on the Interstate System, particularly Interstate Route 78. With the awards of four more contracts on Route 78, which are scheduled to be advertised before the end of 1966, all of Interstate Route 78 between Still Valley in Hunterdon County and Springfield in Union County will either be under construction or open to traffic.

Polio protection for children urged by state health official

TRENTON—Parents and guardians who have not had their children adequately protected against polio should do so promptly, Dr. Roscoe O. Kandle, State Commissioner of Health, urged this week.

"New Jersey has been blessed so far in 1966 without a case of polio being reported to the State Department of Health. We want to keep it that way," Dr. Kandle said. "Over the years, August and September have generally been the months of high incidence. It is important that unprotected children be protected now."

"In 1965, there were three cases of polio reported to the Department, none of them fatal, but all having some paralysis. This year, we should like to have none reported."

The health Commissioner said that most susceptible groups are the infants over six months and preschoolers. The State Health Department made the following dosage recommendations to physicians earlier in the year:

"Infants whose immunization against polio was begun before six months of age should receive three doses of trivalent (oral) vaccine at 6 to 8 week intervals; a fourth dose is recommended when the infant is between 12 and 15 months old."

Family camp club of Five Points 'Y' elects new officers

Members of the Family Camping Club of the Five Points YMCA recently held a week-end camp-out at Voorhees State Park, and conducted a business meeting for the election of new officers for the 1966-67 season at the outing. The new officers, who were elected are: Stanley W. Sipe of Union, president; Richard McBroy of Union, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Amiel of Elizabeth, secretary; Frank Amiel of Elizabeth, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Twiltes, program director and George Frasier, wagon master, both of Kentworth.

The purpose of the Five Points YMCA Camping Club is to promote interest in camping and trailer travel, to exchange ideas on vacation travel, and to gain support for the development of more sights for tent and trailer travel.

Dr. Kandle said that personnel of the State Health Department's Vaccination Assistance Program undertook to visit every local health officer this year to urge them to screen their populations for unprotected persons and to do their utmost to assure that these persons received the vaccine.

"As a result of this effort, several thousand additional school children have been pro-
