Del Vecchio regains Township Committee post

GOP candidates lead all contests

GOP pleased, not surprised, by easy Del Vecchio triumph

The atmosphere in local Republican headquarters Tuesday night after Philip Del Vecchio defeated his Democratic opponent, Gerard J. Vezza, by 519 votes for election to the Township Committee, was reminiscent of the New York Yankees' dressing room, back when the Yankees were still the Yankees.

The champion had kept his title, he had turned back a worthy challenger, that was the prevailing attitude, but no one was at all surprised. The master builder of the present administration had worked carefully to construct this latest victory, but, at least to the party faithful, this was all as expected.

The kind words, and the stimulating beverages, flowed generously, but no tears of joy were shed, and there was not one campaigner acclaimed, without whom this glorious victory could not have been won.

With the polls having closed at 8, Del Vecchio was able to make his victory speech before 8:30. He kept it brief, expressing thanks to all my friends and campaign workers," and adding a pledge to "work even harder in the three years ahead."

"It was a hard-fought, clean campaign," he said later, "Jerry is to be commended; he fought hard and cleanly." This could well be interpreted as a reference to other campaigns in recent years, when personal criticism and private animosity sometimes overshadowed the issues.

Del Vecchio also noted that the 519-vote margin was somewhat larger than he had anticipated. He said that at the start of the campaign, he had expected to win by perhaps 250 or 300 votes. On the morning of Election Day, he added, he had drawn a district-by-district projection which indicated a margin of 440 votes. He was not at all sorry to be wrong.

At 8:40, Democrat Vezza came in to offer his congratulations. He was accompanied by Donald Mantel, party chairman and campaign manager, and Jay Bloom, the sole Democratic Township Committeeman.

FOR THE REPUBLICANS, kind words were plentiful. Mayor Robert G. Planer declared, "I just couldn't be happier. There's nothing more to say."

Fred Beneker, campaign chairman, commented, "It all proves that qualifications win out over noise. The people in this town are still pretty discerning. It was a good, clean campaign."

William Koehn, whose retirement from the Township Committee enabled Del Vecchio to run for the post, termed his successor, "the greatest guy that ever came down the pike in Springfield. I am thrilled over his victory. I have a whole lot of faith in the voters of Springfield, and they have chosen a great man."

Committeeman Arthur Falkin described the vote as a "fitting tribute to the efforts the members of this administration have put forth."

over the past five years. The committee as a whole will work with renewed zeal to keep Springfield the best town anywhere in which to live."

Henry Bultman, GOP municipal chairman, declared, "The town picked the man who had done and will do the best job. He has the experience to serve the people of Springfield."

Robert Hardgrove, out of town on business, was the only Republican Township Committeeman not present for the celebration. He telephoned his congratulations from Pennsylvania, however. Over the phone, he stated, "I am very pleased. My faith in the voters of Springfield is vindicated."

Robert L. Walter of Springfield, an aviation navigator on one of six sailors who recently received official commendation from the Navy for their part in preventing a major disaster when an unattended vessel went adrift last spring at the Naval Shipyard in Long Beach, Calif.

For Walter, the commendation represented the latest milestone in a long road which began in 1953, when he was left severely paralyzed after an attack of bulbar polio. Now 20, he entered the Navy just two years ago, after attending Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. He left last week for his second tour of duty in Vietnam aboard the aircraft carrier Bonington.

His commendation was signed by Capt. Willy B. Howell, commanding officer of the Bonington. The captain declared, "It is gratifying to know that USS Bonington is in the capable hands of such outstanding members of the crew."

The report of the incident was submitted by Lt. H.S. Buehler, who had been on duty at the time, last April 15 and was also commended for his action. He reported that a YC, an open lighter used for harbor work, "apparently broke its mooring during a period of high winds, a high tide and a heavy fog. The YC struck the counter at the stern of the Bonington. The situation was called to my attention as the YC was drifting up the ship's port side.

"I had the rescue and assistance detail called away. Six men responded immediately. The YC had struck the USS Prarie and was drifting rapidly toward the No. 2 drydock. I took charge of the six men and we ran to the head of No. 2 drydock. Two men boarded the YC as it struck the caisson.

Philip Del Vecchio won election to the Township Committee easily on Tuesday as Springfield voters joined the nation-wide swing to the Republican side. He defeated Democrat Gerard J. Vezza, 3,383 votes to 2,864, without figuring the absentee ballots, a margin of 519 votes.

A former mayor, Del Vecchio had campaigned on the basis of his four years of experience on the governing body until he retired from office a year ago, and he had been favored throughout the campaign.

The other Republican candidates swept to even larger margins throughout the township, as Sen. Clifford P. Case and Rep. Florence P. Dwyer both carried all of the community's 13 election districts. Sen. Case, on route to an easy reelection, outpolled Democrat Warren Wilentz in Springfield, 4,390 to 1,676. Mrs. Dwyer, coasting to an even easier triumph over Democrat Robert Allen, locally by 4,404 votes to 1,703. A total of 6,347 citizens voted, out of 8,413 registered.

Republican Walter G. Halpin, elected as county clerk, had a local margin of 3,368 to 2,307 over Democrat John V. Donohue.

The three GOP incumbents who were returned to the Board of Freeholders also were winners on the local scene. Their vote totals were: Harry V. Osborne Jr., 3,374; Walter E. Ulrich, 3,359; and Edward J. Tiller, 3,327. Local totals for their Democratic opponents were: John F. Crellin, 2,401; Harold Hoffman, 2,392; and Richard W. Kochanski, 2,313.

The amendment to the state constitution for reappointment of the legislature carried Springfield, but by a smaller margin than it did for the entire state. There were 2,607 local voters in favor and 2,076 opposed. The public question on approval for night horse racing was favored by 2,815 voters and opposed by 1,846.

Minor party candidates also drew a number of votes in Springfield. For the Conservative Party, Robert L. Schlachter received 169 votes for the Senate, and J. Serrano, 117 for the House, and Monica Crowley, 139 for county clerk. Julius Levin, Socialist Labor candidate for the Senate, received 129 votes.

Votes for the Conservative candidates for freeholder were: Harry R. Edward, 147; Robert J. Eckart, 145; and Peter J. Szymoniak, 145.

HENRY S. WRIGHT, the township's perennial seeker for office, received one write-in vote for freeholder. It was cast in his own district, the fourth. There were also three write-in votes for David Frost, a peace candidate who was defeated in the Democratic Senatorial primary election. They were cast in the seventh district.

One other write-in vote was recorded, but whether it was for peace or for poetry is unknown. It was cast in the 10th district for "Robert Frost."

In winning local office, Del Vecchio carried eight of the town's 13 election districts. He won in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 9th and 13th. Vezza won in districts 7, 8, 10, 11 and 12, all of which normally tend to support Democrats.

Del Vecchio's margin of 519 votes was larger than the 444-vote edge held last year by Republican Robert D. Hardgrove over Democrat Donald Mantel. Hardgrove was second and Mantel third in a four-man race for two seats.

In a district-by-district comparison with last year, Del Vecchio won in the 1st by 77 votes, compared with a 98-vote margin for Hardgrove. He improved in the 2nd slightly, 55 to 51. In the 3rd, Hardgrove's home District, Del Vecchio was behind by 84 to 134.

In the 4th, always a GOP stronghold, Del Vecchio was also behind last year, 101 to 173. He also trailed in the 5th, 139 to 170. In the 6th, which provided the largest Republican margin both years, he was barely behind, 207 to 214.

Del Vecchio's biggest gains came in the Democratic districts, where he cut shares by 122 year's deficits. He lost in the 7th, Vezza's home district, but by only 46 votes instead of 70. In the 8th, Del Vecchio cut Democratic margins by 46 votes, he was barely behind, 207 to 214.

Gift to hospital aids campaign for $8 million

The Women's Auxiliary of Overlook Hospital this week opened the final phase of the hospital's $8,000,000 "Progress Program" with the announcement of a gift of $250,000. Adding $50,000 to its original pledge of $200,000, made when the campaign opened two years ago, the Women's Auxiliary was the first to respond to this year's major campaign theme: "Extend your pledge one more year over the top for Overlook!"

Overlook's now wing is right on schedule with an early spring opening planned, the hospital announced. $3,000,000 has been raised so far in the campaign, which is the largest expansion program in the hospital's history.

"This final $1,000,000 is critical for solid financing of Overlook's new wing," commented Howard F. Casselman of 57 Park Lane, Springfield special gifts chairman and Overlook trustee. "The $3,000,000 already raised is a fine tribute to community support, but we are asking one final vote of trust in Overlook's program to bring the latest and finest of medical facilities to its communities."

A one-year extension of pledge from friends of the hospital, or an added gift if only one was made, should meet our goal. If your pledge was $1,500 over three years, add another $500 for a fourth year, or whatever scale applies," Casselman explained. He added that the question each resident of this area should ask is: "If I need hospital care, do I want to be sure every medical advance is available at my community hospital?"

Work important, do I want to be sure there is bed space available if I need it?"

Overlook has been running 100 percent occupancy in its medical-surgical floors, postponing elective surgery for months.

"We are fortunate to live in one of the highest community levels in the United States. Hospitals, like schools and churches, are built upon community interest and contribution by individuals who realize the vital importance of their hospital. We expect the best in this area. There is only one way to be sure we get it - active participation," Casselman pointed out.

OVERLOOK WILL PROVIDE an entirely new and expanded emergency department, staffed with four full-time, experienced doctors. An enlarged out-patient department will

Housewife sending petition to officials on roadway perils

Continuing her campaign against what she regards as "death trap" conditions along Balmoral way, a determined Springfield housewife this week sent copies of a petition, calling for prompt action to save lives, to President Johnson, Gov. Richard J. Hughes, Acting State Highway Commissioner Russell H. Muller, federal and state legislators and other public officials.

The petition, signed by approximately 150 township residents, calls for adequate signs of warning to alert drivers to the perils of the sharp curves which were created by relocation of the road under the new Rt. 78. "We are paying taxes," the message declared. "Our taxes are going for these highways, and the signs placed there are horrible. Recent government announcements have discussed new highways to provide for safety. Where does the safety start?"

The message was sent by Mrs. Bert Goldberg of 232 Lelak ave. She declared this week, "If people are aware they have a voice in our government, let them complain. The more people complain, the sooner things will be done. Whenever you call or write to, someone passes the buck; nobody wants to take responsibility."

A Highway Department engineer last week told me that if there is an accident at this dangerous spot, let the victims sue the contractor and the state. That's not an answer."

Discussing another aspect of the highway construction traffic problem, Mrs. Goldberg reported that signs have been posted on Shunpike rd., going from Summit into Springfield, to say "No through road to Springfield," even though there is a detour along W. Bryant ave.

As a result, she added, many drivers have been making U-turns in the face of oncoming traffic, providing a safety hazard.

On Balmoral way, Mrs. Goldberg also commented, there are no adequate signs to indicate Troy dr., or Balmoral way. She reported that a heavy cement truck last week apparently missed its turn, and was backing up against a heavy flow of traffic. At night, she commented, the signs which are there cannot be seen at all. Mrs. Goldberg concluded, "The accident should have been anticipated, and avoided by a little planning before the highway was built."

Democratic workers gather to hear Election Day results

As reports started to come in Tuesday night at Democratic headquarters, a large body of supporters of Jerry Vezza focused their attention on the facts and figures of the election. A sign on the wall reading, "The magic number is 4,207" had probably been hanging there for a long time, but now it was the one thing on everyone's mind: 4,207 represented half the registered voters in Springfield, plus one, a number by which Vezza could not lose.

As the Second District results, first to reach headquarters, were reported in favor of Republican Del Vecchio, anticipation grew in the room, as well as disappointment. As the voice reading off the figures dropped, other voices in the room rose with "lets go, fellows," and "Quiet."

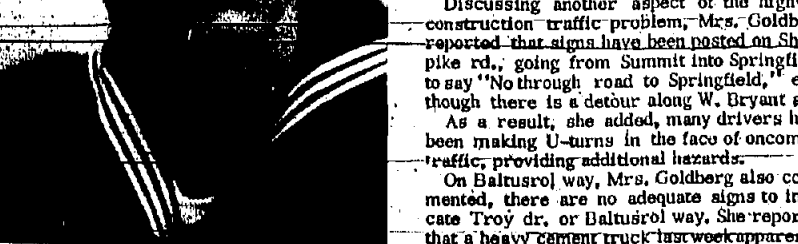

Actually, no one really needed to call for quiet. The atmosphere was both smoky and businesslike, broken only by a short round of applause every time a district reported in favor of Vezza. Then it was back to figuring how many more votes were needed and by how much Del Vecchio was ahead. Comments were made calmly, such as "close" and "this is disappointing" and "It's the Sixth again." When that session reported two to one in favor of Del Vecchio, giving Vezza his greatest blow.

Others were less restrained and found themselves guessing the vote as carriers came in the door. "Is she happy?" and "She looks happy," followed each trip to the desk. "This is worse than having a baby," someone noted. Vezza lost the election, 3,383 to 2,864, and although it was clear that he had lost long before all districts had reported, the interest in the figures was strong until the end. Township Committeeman Jay Bloom voiced as well as anyone the feeling that accompanied the final tally. "We couldn't beat Case and Dwyer," he said.

Vezza was both disappointed at his loss and

'Klansman' speaks for teens at temple

An apparent member of the Ku Klux Klan, complete with robe and hood, was the surprise guest speaker last week for the United Synagogue Youth group of Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield. He presented the Klan's views on Judaism, civil rights and Catholicism, reportedly stirring many of the teenagers to a high pitch of resentment.

At the end of the program, however, he unmasked, and revealed himself as Bernard Mollen, a member of the local synagogue. Mollen told the USY members that he had presented his talk to encourage them "not only to believe in Judaism, but to practice it as well." A USY spokesman declared that the "dramatic and sobering words he spoke will long distinguish this meeting" as one of the highlights of the organization's year.

Genetics expert finds technique

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Cecil B. Jacobson, a genetics counselor at George Washington University Hospital, in Washington, D.C., has developed a technique that can detect mongolism and other severe defects as early as the 15th week of pregnancy.

But having developed the technique, the doctor finds preventing the birth of these deformed infants impossible today because of existing abortion laws, according to a report in "Medical World News."

Dr. Jacobson would offer the mother carrying a defective fetus the option of a therapeutic abortion — theoretically, at least, that would be the practical application of the discovery. "But only in theory. In practice, abortions on the grounds of genetic abnormality are illegal in all states."

REV. BRUCE EVANS

Clergymen select group president at Overlook Hospital

The new president of the Overlook Hospital Protestant Chaplaincy Service is the Rev. Bruce Evans, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield.

The Overlook Chaplaincy Service, sponsored by 56 area churches, provides a full-time hospital chaplain, the Rev. David Wyatt, who is available for spiritual counsel for patients in need. Last year, in addition to visiting 2,500 Protestant patients who were without church affiliation, the chaplain visited seriously ill patients or their families daily, along with patients who had traumatic surgery or other acute stress.

The chaplaincy office also notifies local clergy when their parishioners are patients, and kept records on over 6,500 patients with local Protestant church affiliations last year.

In addition to ministering directly to the spiritual needs of the sick, the Chaplaincy Service plays an important educational role in better understanding between doctors, nurses, and the clergy by presenting special seminars of interest. Dr. Norman Murray, spoke on "Diabetes, Physical and Psychological Implications" at the annual meeting last week.

Clergymen of all Springfield churches and synagogues have been active in visiting patients at Overlook.

After the vote is over, the problems linger on

Now that the elections are over, and the winners and losers have retired to dress their wounds and get started on distribution of the spoils, we hope the municipal fathers will be able to get back to the proper business of government. There are numerous problems to be solved, of greater and lesser importance.

Among the latter, we suggest prompt attention to the following:

This community sorely needs cushions for spectators who do their civic duty by attending municipal meetings. We cast no aspersions, but the seats of government should be padded, even when the seats belong only to common citizens.

While we are on the subject of meetings, permission to smoke during the proceedings might add a little flavor to the sanitized surroundings. Of course, where there's smoke, someone might get fired, and that violates all the principles of local government.

Then, there's the perennial question about why the police don't do something about all the speeders who make our streets into a raceway. The trouble is that too many of the speeders live right here, and many police commissioners are understandably hesitant about tagging motorists who have voting privileges.

and long memories to go with them.

Another chronic problem, most acute in the summer but deserving of attention all year, is the one about our neighbors who play their TV sets at top volume and keep everyone awake. The other half of this problem concerns the neighbors who argue all the time, but so softly we can't tell what it's about.

Civic meetings have also been aroused by complaints about those habitual offenders who let their dogs run at large. We might suggest to several of our neighbors that if they tie up their children, we won't complain about the dogs.

Above all, we strongly urge upon civic leaders a firm course of action against all those citizens who suffer from public vocal intoxication. These are the ones who begin to talk at all the various meetings, then continue and continue and continue, just because they enjoy their own glorious tones. They might even have something to say when they start, but they have usually made their points completely before the fifth time around the course. The only cure for this affliction is a loud gavel, applied promptly and firmly.

Having offered our urgently unsolicited advice, we are confident that the governing bodies can now take care of such minor matters as taxes, roads and variances from the zoning code. After all, there's another election coming in 51 more weeks.

Negro churchmen issue statement, ask 'change in nation's priorities'

The following statement, entitled "Racism and the Elections: The American Dilemma of 1966," was issued at the Statue of Liberty last week in anticipation of the general election, by the National Committee of Negro Churchmen.

A few days ago the 80th anniversary of the Statue of Liberty was celebrated here on Liberty Island. On Nov. 8, a so-called "white backlash" will confront the American people with a fateful choice in the November elections across the country. We, an informal group of Negro churchmen, assembled from the four corners of the land-gather here today before the Statue of Liberty order to highlight the critical moral issues which confront the American people in these elections — issues symbolized here in the Statue of Liberty.

Our purpose here is neither to beg nor borrow, but to state the determination of black men in America to exact from this nation not one whit less than the full manhood rights. We will not be cowed nor intimidated in the land of our birth. We intend that the truth of this country, as experienced by black men, will be heard. We shall state this truth from the perspective of the Christian faith and in the light of our experience with the Lord of us all in the bleakness of this racially intolerant land.

THIS POEM FOCUSES on the linked problems of identity and power which have been so tragically played out on the stage of this nation's history. "Mother of Exiles" and "The New Colossus" — these symbols capture both the variety of groups and experiences out of which this nation has been hammered, and the fervent hope of many early Americans that in this land the world would see a new and more human use of power, dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

But, let us try to be very clear about one thing. America, Black Americans are determined to have all of their full human and constitutional rights. We will not cease to agitate this issue with every means available to men of faith and dignity until justice is done.

There is, to be sure, a continuing dilemma of "crisis and commitment" in our country. But, it is not the quarrels among the civil rights leaders, nor is it the debate about Black Power, nor is it the controversy surrounding the riots in our cities. The crisis is what it has always been since shortly after the first Black American set foot upon these shores. It is not a crisis rooted in the Negro community. It is a crisis of commitment among white Americans who have consistently taken two steps forward toward becoming mature men on race and one-and-a-half steps backward at the same time. The power of "The New Colossus" has never been fully committed to eliminating this monstrous racism from the life of this American people.

"free to hunger; free to the winter and rains of heaven...free without roofs to cover them or bread to eat or land to cultivate... We gave them freedom and famine at the same time. The marvel is that they still live."

FREDERICK DOUGLASS is indeed correct when he suggests that "the marvel is that Negroes are still alive." Not to mention sane. Look at the record. We submit that to pass a Civil Rights Bill as this nation did in 1875 and then refuse to enforce it; to pass another Civil Rights Bill (weaker this time) in 1954 and then refuse to enforce it; to begin an anti-poverty program with insufficient funds in the first place and then to put the lion's share of this minuscule budget into Head Start programs when unemployment among Negro men continues to sky-rocket; to declare segregation unconstitutional in 1954 and then refuse to end it forthwith; to set up guidelines for desegregating hospitals and then refuse to appropriate money for the enforcement of these guidelines; to insist on civil rights legislation aimed at the South and then to defeat the first pieces of such legislation relevant to areas outside the South; to preach "law and order" into the anguish of Negro slums in full view of the contributions of policemen to that anguish and then to insist that policemen be their own judges; to hear suburban politicians declaim against open occupancy in one breath and in the very next breath insist that they are not racists; these are the crimes which stare us in the face and make it all but impossible to talk about how much "progress" has been made.

Therefore, we will not be intimidated by the so-called "white backlash," for white America has been "backslashing" on the fundamental human and constitutional rights of Negro Americans since the 18th century. The election of racists in November will merely be a continuation of this pattern.

we are dealing at bottom with a question of relationship between black and white, between rich and poor, ultimately between believers in different gods. We support all of our civil rights leaders, for we believe that they all have important insights to share with this critical question. For our part, we submit that our basic goal in this struggle is to make it possible for all persons and groups to participate with power at all levels of our society. Integration is not an aesthetic goal designed to add token bits of color to institutions controlled entirely by whites. Integration is a political goal with the objective of making it possible for Negroes and other Americans to live the vitality of their personal and group life in institutions which fundamentally belong to all Americans.

Finally, we say to the American people,

PROFILE -- Rev. Donald Weber

The Rev. Donald Weber, who shares the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church, Springfield, with the Rev. Bruce Evans, has contributed a great deal toward the understanding of youth in the township.

REV. DONALD WEBER

"During my seven years here at the church," the young pastor explains, "my major work with the high school's teen-agers has been in connection with giving them the opportunity to express themselves, to make them understand and be understood by their parents—and the adult world in general."

"I've discovered a very interesting thing this past summer. We (the pastor, his wife and three children) spent our vacation in the lower Catskills on a farm. Three teen-age youngsters there were talking to me about what they do up there for recreation, social activities. And their problem is the same as our kids' problem. If I didn't know I was in the Catskills, I'd think I was in Springfield. Their major concern was 'there's not much here for us. We want to do something! We're up against a brick wall.'"

"I've discovered," Mr. Weber said, "that there's something about young people that seems to scare adults—to keep us from working with them, to keep us from understanding them. The adults seem to evade their kids' questions, such as, 'What was my father like when he was my age? This I never hear.' We're afraid to really share and open up about what it was like when we were kids."

"Our kids are living in a highly technological and scientific age. They don't understand the society in which they live. If we can understand the society better, perhaps we can feel what our young people are facing and know what they're like."

Another important factor, the pastor pointed out, is that "frankly, kids don't want chaperones. We try to have eight chaperones for our dances. And those adults always seem to have such a good time. At the same time, they have a taste of what the kids are like. They become caught up in the teen-agers' world and culture and get to know how really fabulous it is."

"We adults must make some beginning. The pace of life in the Metropolitan area—throughout the country, in fact," Mr. Weber declared, "is so fast that we don't take the time to consider the most important part of being a parent, I guess." He said thoughtfully, "It's easier to sit back and complain about the wild teen-agers, the dope, the sex—than to sit down and find out about what the kids are really like. We've got to get with them—to plan with them—to work with them."

"My philosophy is flexibility for the teen-agers. I don't mean a completely free hand, the kids wouldn't be able to handle it. I feel kids have to learn how to make mistakes; they've got to learn how to fall and how to cope with their problems. And I must teach them not to make the same mistakes again. I'm trying to get an extra and to think about it—as we adults share and as we adults work."

The pastor told of the local church group's weekend retreat every Memorial Day weekend. "That's when we go off to New York State for three days. It takes us completely out of this area. And the kids let go completely—away from responsibilities, and are really themselves. They find out how they can live with each other. They also have an opportunity to really say anything they want to say. So they begin to find out what they're like individually."

"The trouble is," he continued, "they sometimes feel trapped within the confines of the limits of society."

"WITH OUR PROGRAM here in the church," Mr. Weber said, "we have a type of structural program, but it must be flexible so that we can work with it. Ninety percent of the kids who went on our last retreat, said that they never had an experience like this; it was an experimental living life, and they want one in the winter. There just isn't enough time in the year to do all that we could," he smiled.

Pastor Weber, who was born in Newark and raised in Irvington, was graduated from Irvington High School. He attended the College of Wooster in Ohio, and transferred to Ursula College. "I think," he grinned, "I was the only one in Ursula to get a bachelor of science degree in religious education."

He was graduated from Theological Seminary, did graduate work in Holy Trinity School, received a master's of sacred theology degree from the Theological Seminary in New York City.

"While getting my master's degree," Mr. Weber said, "I was an instructor of religion at Lafayette College in Easton for five years. I came here from Lafayette."

Mr. Weber is married to the former Helen Mary Duguid of Springfield, and they have three daughters, Sally, 12, Meredith, 9, and Allison, 7.

PLAN SNACKS FOR GOOD HABITS

By ANNE L. SHEELON
County Home Economist

Good snack habits begin at home. After school or after-play, most children are anxious for a food treat. The wise mother plans the food treats she will offer her children, keeping in mind nutritional value, ease of serving, budget limitations, and appetite appeal.

Nutritionally, a snack food should supply quick energy without taking away the appetite for regular meals. Fresh fruit and fruit juices, milk, cookies, raw vegetables, and ice cream are just a few suggestions.

Avoid soft drinks, potato chips, pretzels and other foods which supply very few nutrients. Such habits instilled in childhood should remain throughout life.

Ease of serving is also important. Snack time is the time when very often you are involved in other activities. Depending on the ages of the children, plan a food that they can serve themselves. They should also be responsible for cleaning up when they have finished.

Planning what snacks to serve is the best way to stay within your budget

When a snack is not planned, many times a food that was purchased for another purpose is used. When this does happen, organized menu plans will suffer. Informing the child which are the snack foods is important for these plans to work.

Appetite appeal is also of great importance in order to satisfy the child's desire. Many times finger foods that can be taken outside to eat while walking to a friend's house will be the most successful.

Thursday, Nov. 10, 1966

The Union County Figure Skating Club has officially opened its 1966-1967 season at the Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center. Sessions will continue on Wednesday and Sunday evenings from 7 to 8:30 p.m. are welcome. Beginners will find the use of club time ice especially inductive to progress, since the number of people on the ice are limited to club members, and there is more freedom to practice forward and backward skating. Time is allotted for "patch" when members practice skating figures in their own reserved areas. Time is given also for free style skating and for ice dancing, a spokes-man said.

Those wishing to learn to correctly move on ice can join the "stroking" class. There will also be group instruction in dancing, he added.

THE CLUB is a member Club of the USFSA and dance and figure tests are given each year under USFSA sanctions. Certificates are issued for each test passed. Last year, three tests were offered - two dance and one figure test.

A highlight of the year is the Annual Festival which is held in conjunction with the Union County Park Commissioner-Recreation Department. Members' skating skills are exhibited and outstanding guest skaters from the area participate in the show.

New policy provides early acceptance

A new policy providing for earlier acceptance for highly-qualified high school seniors has been adopted by Union Junior College's faculty committee on Admissions and Counseling. It was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, dean.

The earlier acceptance plan will be based on a student's first three years of high school work, College Board scores, and principal's recommendations. George P. Lynes, admissions officer, said.

"The new policy will enable outstanding high school seniors to avoid the anxiety about gaining admission to a college of their choice," Lynes said. "Previously, these students were forced to wait until they had completed at least the first half of work in their senior year in high school before learning if they would be accepted or not."

Lynes said the new plan will go into effect immediately, and will apply to current high school seniors seeking admission to Union Junior College for the fall semester of 1967.

Club to see Utah finds

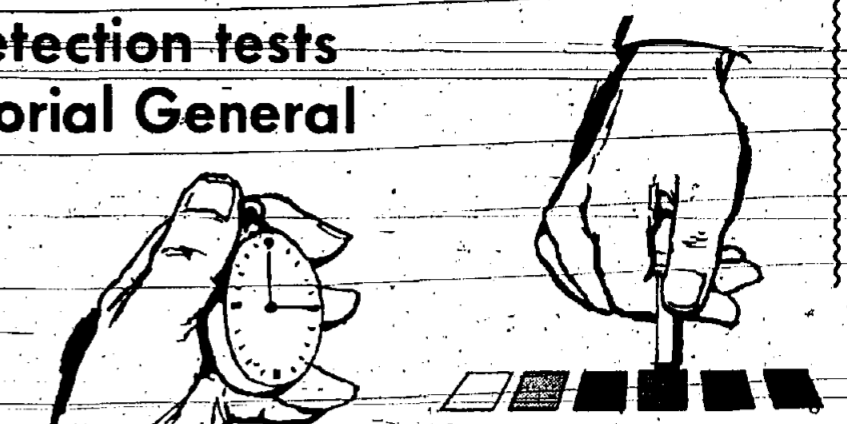

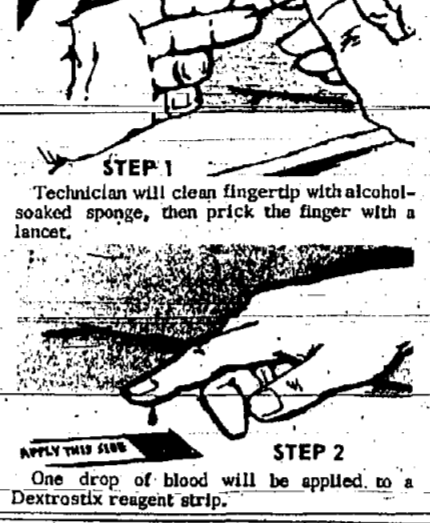

The Trailside Mineral Club will hold its regular monthly meeting today, at 8 p.m., in the auditorium of the Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Wachung Reservation. Principal speaker will be Frank B. Jockle who will discuss "Dinosaur Bones in Utah." Jockle lives in Berkeley Heights and is vice-president of the Summit-Elizabeth Trust Company in Summit.

Dinosaurs were the dominant land animal of the Mesozoic era; they form two orders of reptiles related to the crocodilians and the ancestors of the birds. The dinosaur bones found in the Utah formation are from the Upper Jurassic period, about 157 million years ago. Jockle will discuss the areas where the bones are found, how to find them, and the types which are found.

Diabetes detection tests set at Memorial General

All residents of Union County were urged this week to participate in the diabetes detection program which will be conducted at Memorial General Hospital, Union, beginning Sunday and running through Saturday, Nov. 19. Hours for testing, which will be performed free of charge, will be 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Sunday, and 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Unlike the blood tests years ago, this modern technique is painless and requires only one drop of blood.

Following is the step by step procedure of the testing program:

STEP 3

Blood will be allowed to permeate for exactly one minute.

STEP 4

Blood will then be washed from the strip with a sharp stream of water.

STEP 5

Blood will change the color of the reagent strip. This color will be compared to a chart for preliminary diagnosis. Should the supervising physician feel there is a possibility of diabetes he will make arrangements with the person tested for a free venous specimen.

Kremsmuenster, Austria, claims the oldest skyscraper

KREMSMUESTER, Austria (UPI) - The United States may have the tallest skyscrapers in the world but what inhabitants claim is the oldest "skyscraper" is located in this little town about 90 miles west of Vienna. Built in 1758, it is said to be the oldest building in the world. It is a baroque building, called "The Mathematics Tower," also is an astronomical observatory, containing instruments dating from 1570. In charge of the "skyscraper" is an Austrian professor, Father August Rabenalt, locally known as "The American" because of his many years of teaching in the United States. In 1777, the Benedictine Order founded a monastery near the little river of Krems in upper Austria. In 1748, Father Anselm was made plans for a new tower for the

Cable car crashes 'freaks' Number of accidents called low

LONDON (UPI) - It's almost time for the skiing season and another crop of stories about broken leg accidents on the ski slopes. But it's not coming down that scares some people - it's the going up. Perhaps it's the publicity about cable car accidents. In France alone, eight accidents in the last 10 years have claimed 15 lives and injured 105 persons. Rugged skiing in Europe's major tourist attraction for years and tourism officials are ready with figures to show a low proportion of accidents to the numbers of people involved. In France, for instance, they diagnose most recent accidents as "freaks." They have yet to determine why the axle of a steel supporting tower broke off the 12,467 foot Aiguille du Midi (Noon Needle) peak in Mont Blanc massif, sending three cars crashing 150 feet below. Four persons were killed and 15 injured, a toll that might have been higher but for a thick layer of fresh, powdery snow. Officials are not sure whether that crash was due to a slight flaw inside the broken axle or whether the axle was damaged five years earlier when a French military plane hit the cable line, killing six persons as two cable cars plummeted into the valley. Hit by "Copter" The same cable line was also struck by the rotors of a helicopter, which caused one of its cars to carry four persons to their deaths. An investigatory committee also blamed "unforeseeable circumstances" for the 1965 Christmas-Day crash on the 6,600-foot Mont Dore in the central massif which killed six and injured 14. They said ferocious winds made the car slide back and hit a steel-and-concrete tower, cutting the car open and ejecting passengers to the ground. Strictly even-land, with more cable cars than any other nation, has the best safety record. Its history shows no fatal accidents, though oldtimers vaguely remember that some 20 years ago, a cabin of the Mt. Saentis cable way got stuck halfway across in a blizzard and some of the passengers got stuck before they were brought to safety a few hours later. This year, however, six persons were injured when the steel rope of a private cable group under construction came loose and hit a group of tourists in the Bernese Oberland. Experts believe Switzerland's good record is at least partly due to the fact that all cable cars under construction are subject to strict security controls by the Federal Office of Transport. Once a year, usually in the off-season in November, the cars are grounded and the entire installations "overhauled" and checked by the government office. The biggest worry for Swiss tourism officials is that soon there will be more cable cars than the tourist traffic can possibly use. One government-sponsored organization recently warned that "the peak of demand for new cable car facilities appeared to have passed" and pointed out that a number of

MAXWELL CHAYAT

Art work acquired as permanent part for national exhibit

A bronze by sculptor Maxwell Chayat of Springfield was recently acquired by the B'nai B'rith Exhibition Hall in Washington, D.C., for its permanent collection. Titled "Victims of the Holocaust," the sculpture was originally in the private collection of Dr. and Mrs. Abram Kanof of Brooklyn. Dr. Kanof, a trustee of the Jewish Museum of New York City, has donated the Chayat sculpture, along with a number of other works of art, to B'nai B'rith. "Victims of the Holocaust" depicts six shafts bound together by flames and rising out of them to symbolize the six million martyrs killed by the Nazis. The shafts are broken at the tops to signify the unfulfilled lives of those who died. Chayat, whose work has been widely exhibited, has executed many commissions in various parts of the country. Sculpture by Chayat was the subject of the feature article in the October issue of Architects Bulletin. Forthcoming exhibitions of Chayat's work will be at St. Rose of Lima Church in Short Hills during the Thanksgiving holidays, Temple Emanuel of Westfield in the early part of December and Temple Israel of Maplewood and South Orange the rest of December.

Democrats

(Continued from page 1) really to express my feelings," then, "Maybe the next time out," he added, although he refused to be definite about a next time. Donald Mantel, party chairman, congratulated Veza for putting on "a campaign that this town has not seen in a long time." Bloom later found the words to express concisely what seemed to be the opinions of Veza supporters. "I think there is absolutely no disgrace in the showing that Jerry made," he said. "It is noteworthy that he ran at least 1,200 votes ahead of our Senatorial candidate. I think that in the brief campaign of only two months, and running against a man with four years of exposure on the Township Committee, he made a very commendable showing. His biggest handicap was Case and Dwyer on the Republican ticket, and the consequent fact that a lot of Democrats just couldn't get excited about Election Day. I think that the Democratic organization and the individuals in it, a very substantial number of whom are new people on the political scene, did a very excellent job."

Election

(Continued from page 1) his loss to 129 from 141. He won in the 9th, but by 8 instead of last year's 45. He dropped in the 10th, to a loss of 101, from 97. His biggest gain was in the strongly Democratic 11th, which was Mantel's home district last year. Del Vecchio cut his loss there from 142 to 32, a gain of 110 votes. He dropped sharply in the 12th, from a loss of 39 to a loss of 121. In the 13th, his own home district, he increased his margin from 38 to 67. PLUMBERS, ATTENTION! Navy honor

(Continued from page 1) the concrete support of the catson, damaging both the catson and support. By sheer determination, the men physically moved the YC west about 20 feet, clearing the catson and support. Loose line, wood, leathers, and tires were found, and the YC was secured to the pier with makeshift fenders rigged to prevent further damage. Only upon the arrival of the shipyard duty officer with ship personnel did we relax our vigil and turn the YC over to the shipyard. The quick and professional action of these men could very well be responsible for the saving of the catson of drydock No. 2, the two destroyers in the drydock and the personnel on the destroyers. With complete disregard for their own personal safety, these men quickly, quietly and in a most professional manner took all necessary action to prevent a dangerous situation from becoming critical.

Hospital campaign

(Continued from page 1) meet the steadily growing need for post-hospital treatments and other out-patient services. Laboratory and X-ray units will move into spacious new quarters, termed adequate for their greatly increased number of patient tests and therapy. A new short-term psychiatric unit will offer treatment of the mentally ill and emotionally disturbed - close to home in the secure environment of the neighborhood hospital, the hospital stated. Overlook's electronically monitored coronary care unit, which has already demonstrated its life-saving value, will be located in the new wing, increased in size from two to six beds. In bed capacity, the hospital will jump from 342 beds to 425, providing accommodation for an added 3,700 patients a year. A major addition to Overlook's original program will be complete renovation of the 1953 wing. Air conditioning, modernization of patient rooms and treatment areas, installation of modern lighting and lowering of ceilings will combine to make the 1953 wing as attractive and efficient as the newer wings of the hospital, the announcement added. Financing of the triple-deck parking garage and the nurses' residence apartments is also included in the $8,000,000 program. These projects will be self-liquidating over a long-term period, but meanwhile must be financed by mortgaging.

'TWIN OTTER' — Members of the Springfield Civil Air Patrol Composite Squadron were airlifted from Linden Airport to Pier 26 in Manhattan last Saturday in this Canadian "Twin Otter" STOL (short landing and takeoff) aircraft during "Operation Metro Air Support 66." The Federal Aviation Agency-sponsored project proved that planes and helicopters would be a vital means of transportation should New York City be stricken by a disaster.

'Metro Support 66' project is aided by Springfield CAP

By TOM MICHAELS
Members of the Springfield Civil Air Patrol Composite Squadron last weekend participated in a two-day Federal Aviation Agency-sponsored project, proving that planes and helicopters can mean the difference between death and survival should New York City be stricken by a disaster.

"Operation Metro Air Support 66" started Saturday morning when planes and choppers of every size and description converged upon New York City, landing on anything that was long enough for an aircraft to set down. Members of the Springfield CAP unit as well as others from New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, were airlifted from various airports in STOL planes to Pier 26, a former Navy dock, in downtown Manhattan.

"The project was a big success," said Fred Feldman, pilot of WOR Radio's "Helicopter 710" traffic chopper, and coordinator of the project who was in charge of operations at Kennedy Airport during the two-day stint.

At Linden Airport, CAP members filed into the main lobby at about 7:30 a.m., Saturday to await instructions from FAA supervisors and CAP officials. Outside, CAP and civilian aircraft were landing and taking off every few minutes transporting personnel and supplies from one destination to another.

"At about 9:15 a.m., the 'Twin Otter' Canadian STOL (short landing and takeoff) aircraft left Linden Airport with a contingent of CAP men bound for New York City. About ten minutes later the giant plane landed on the 800-foot Pier 26 in the Hudson River.

From there, personnel were loaded on an Army bus and transported to Roosevelt Park where a high twin-engine "Buffalo" transport, also a STOL, landed in a football field. Helicopters, private planes and other short landing and takeoff aircraft participated in the operation. The Springfield group were returned to Linden Airport later in the day by an Army VTOL "Chinook" chopper like the one presently being used in Vietnam.

The next day members of the CAP, as well as other pilots, flew shuttle flights out of Linden Airport to complete the mission which was a joint effort of the New York City and New Jersey Federal Aviation Agency and the Office of Emergency Planning.

Springfield squadron members participating in the project were Maj. Paul S. Wertlake and Capt. Joshua J. Ward, who flew shuttle routes from Linden to Morristown Airport.

Double visit to City slated this Sunday

All upper classes of the Religious School of Temple Shalom will visit the Jewish Museum in New York City on Sunday. They will view the exhibit entitled "The Lower East Side: a Portal to American Life."

The exhibit includes photographs, paintings, and films depicting the wave of immigration to the East Side between 1870 and 1920. The ways in which these immigrants were instrumental in rigging the death knell for the great shops and bringing about fair-labor practices are also illustrated.

The classes will also tour the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, Congregation Shearith Israel, on W. 70th St. The congregation, which has been in existence since 1655, was given permission to erect a synagogue in 1728. The first building was destroyed by fire in 1817, a spokesman for the school pointed out.

The purpose of the two visits is to "graphically illustrate the difference between the Western European and Eastern European cultures," the spokesman added.

CARAVELLE is made like an expensive watch

yet it's only $10.95

Bulova waited years until they could make a good $10.95 watch. One with a jeweled-lever movement, unbreakable mainspring, precision fitted parts. A watch that's shock-resistant, and waterproof, too. The result is the Caravelle by Bulova. A very expensive watch for only $10.95.

Five Stanley-Warner Theaters are filming 'Santa Claus' this weekend as matinee attractions. Sellers goes 'longhair' in Ormont comedy film

Peter Sellers is going "longhair" for the second time in recent memory, the famed comedian is decked out in shoulder-length hair, and has added a bulbous false nose for good measure for his comic role of Dr. Pratt in "The Wrong Box," madcap comedy in color which began its fourth week at the Ormont Theater, East Orange, yesterday.

Sellers wore his hair in long curls for his appearance as the psychotic psychiatrist in "What's New, Pussycat?" The Ormont Theater is opening Wednesday with Bertold Brecht's "Shameless Old Lady," which received an ovation at the New York Film Festival. The picture was made by the same company that produced "The Shop on Main Street."

Two new musicals to bow at NSC

Two new one-act musicals slated for performance at the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts this winter will have their premiere performances at the Newark State College Theater for the Performing Arts in Union. The first production is scheduled for 8:30 p.m., Nov. 17, 18 and 19.

The musicals, "A Bullet for Billy the Kid" and "Total Sweet Success," will be produced by special permission from the authors, William Goldstein and Marvin Schofer, both of New York City, by the NSC Theater Guild. Director is J. Laurence Lowenstein, a professional director and actors agent and a member of the English Department faculty.

The date has not yet been set for the Lincoln Center event, but the place will be the Vivian Beaumont's 299-seat Forum Theater, where the Music Theater of Lincoln Center presents experimental Sunday evening performances before an invited audience of critics and Broadway professionals.

The leading roles in both plays, as they will be performed at Newark State, will be played by Glenn Lewis of Rahway, a freshman, and Claire Deaman of Elizabeth, a junior.

Faculty members at work on the Newark State production are William Craycraft, technical director; Elman Anderson, music director; W. Ciri-Burger, art supervisor; and Julie Hurd, choreographer. The authors are currently under contract to Sam Fox Music Corp., of New York City, which published "Brigadoon" and "Man from La Mancha." Schofer has worked on the production staffs of NBC Opera and the St. Louis Municipal Opera and contributed to numerous musical productions as both writer and director.

Coldstein has written for films, television and off-Broadway plays. His music has been performed on programs of the National Association of American Composers and Conductors.

The plays are written to be performed on a nearly bare stage with a minimum of props that are moved on and off by the actors.

Lowenstein, who lectures on the development of musical comedy in the United States, has termed the one-act musical a "new form" in the theater. He is director of the Community Theater of Deal as well as of the NSC Theater Guild.

"Dead Heat," "Big Hand" held over at Millburn "Dead Heat on a Merry-Go-Round," film comedy of a charming rogue, who can always find a girl to help him rob a bank, is being held over for a second week at the Millburn Theater in Millburn.

The picture in Eastman color, which stars James Coburn, Camilla Sparv, Aldo Ray, Nina Wayne, Robert Webber and Todd Armstrong, was written and directed by Bernard Girard.

"Big Hand for the Little Lady," starring Henry Fonda, Joanne Woodward and Jason Robards, in color, also is being held over at the Millburn.

Machines make snow Six special snow-making machines were purchased by MGM in France and shipped to Spain for David Lean's film of "Doctor Zhivago," film spectacular continuing for a 17th week at the Claridge Theater, Upper Montclair. The machines, valued at $12,000 each, were capable of turning out a continuous supply of photogenic "snow" from either ice blocks or Foamite.

BLUE CROSS WORKS FOR NOTHING. IF YOU CALL THIS NOTHING.

We took in over 3 billion dollars last year, and didn't make a dime. But business has never been better. Because we profited where it really counts. Over 8 million of our members were able to enter hospitals last year and say, "here's my Blue Cross card." We think when somebody enters a hospital, the last thing he should have to worry about is money. So we got together and started Blue Cross. Now there are 62 million of us. About a third of America. And we contribute to pools of money, which are ready to be drawn on when we need to pay hospital bills. It's not very complicated. And of course, it's completely nonprofit. Like your local library, university, or church. We're just not in it for the money. After all, Blue Cross is us. And you don't make money on yourself. And if you joined us, we wouldn't make money on you. Because then you would be us.

BLUE CROSS

Modern air conditioning costs less

New types of equipment is efficient

The cost of home air conditioning has been reduced substantially with the recent introduction of new types of equipment that can be installed quickly and more efficiently.

Some authorities in the field say that these costs have been cut by as much as a third to a half.

One of the biggest improvements has been the introduction of systems that are charged with refrigerant at the factory instead of at the place of installation.

There was a time—and it wasn't very long ago—that the contractor had to perform this operation at the site. It was a time-consuming chore and therefore a costly one.

While field charging is still necessary with certain installations, more and more factory charged units are being used.

This one factor—probably more than any other—has brought the cost of whole-house air conditioning within the means of thousands of families who would not have been able to afford it a few years ago.

Meanwhile, new devices have become available that combine heating and cooling in a single compact cabinet.

These devices which utilize all the popular heating fuels, can be mounted completely outdoors on a slab or even on the roof—a valuable saving of indoor space normally taken up with heating equipment and the chimney.

There is also air conditioning equipment that can be quickly connected with existing warm air furnaces, employing the same ducts that carry warm air during the winter to carry cool air in the summer.

The reverse cycle air conditioner, more commonly known as the heat pump, has become an increasingly popular way to supply heating and cooling.

The advantage of these devices is that they provide air conditioning during the warm months and heating during the winter without the need for any other form of heating equipment.

The up-to-date central air conditioning unit or heat pump can be installed in a variety of ways.

For example, single package units, which contain both evaporator and condenser sections, can be mounted entirely within the attic or entirely within the basement. Other types of single package units can be installed outside the home, on the roof, or through-the-wall of the home.

Another installation technique is by means of the split system in which the evaporator and condenser coils are separated. Here, quick coupling devices and factory charging have contributed significantly to faster and less costly installations.

In the split system, the condenser section normally rests on a slab outside the home. The evaporator section—the unit that delivers cool air for distribution through the duct work—is installed in the home.

Recently developed evaporator sections can be located in a variety of positions in a horizontal or vertical position in a closet; suspended horizontally from the basement ceiling or installed directly on the floor of the basement or attic.

Traditional idea returns

Every once in a while what was regarded as an old-fashioned idea makes a strong comeback.

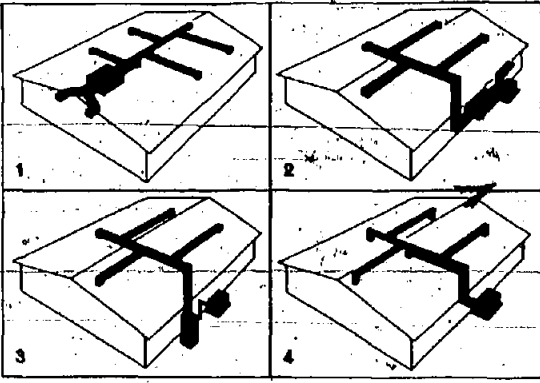

A case in point is the idea of installing a lavatory in the bedroom. Grandmother's bedroom had a wooden washstand with a pitcher and a bowl, but gave them up in favor of the bathroom.

Now the idea of having washing facilities in the bedroom is back in favor and gaining popularity every day, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Installed in a bedroom, a vanity lavatory enables a woman to spend as long as she pleases at personal grooming without tying up the main bathroom.

It is the most convenient arrangement, short of a private bathroom for every bedroom.

A lavatory sunk in a countertop provides an opportunity to combine a vanity table with running water in one fixture.

MODERN AIR CONDITIONING SYSTEMS provide heating as well as cooling. Units in sections (1) and (2) can operate as heat pumps for year-round heating and air conditioning. Section (3) shows air conditioning unit connected with gas furnace. Unit in (4) is a combination gas furnace and air conditioning system, placed completely outdoors. This saves interior space normally devoted to heating equipment. Diagram from Fedders Corporation.

Booklets, pamphlets spark redecorating projects

For the homeowner in search of ideas to spark a remodeling or redecorating project, there is help. Many firms offer booklets, and in some cases even building plans, designed to provide both ideas and assistance.

The following are some of the helps available, either free or at nominal cost:

"Tips on Towels" is a booklet offered free of charge by Morgan-Jones, Inc., 104 West 40th St., New York, N.Y. 10018. It gives homemakers hints on coordinating towels for decorative uses in the bathroom, kitchen and out-of-doors.

The many correct uses of light in every room of the house are discussed in a brochure, "Lighting Ideas by Lightolier," available for 25 cents by writing to Lightolier, Jersey City, New Jersey 07305.

"Vacation Homes Plans and Products Guide" booklet is offered by the Simpson Timber Company, 2183 Washington Building, Seattle 1, Wash. for 50 cents in coin, check or money order.

The booklet contains new vacation home designs plus the latest information on new building products and helpful hints to the buyer or builder.

Blueprints of the original vacation homes created for this publication by architect Robert Martin Engelbrecht are available.

A series of plans for "Quick Build" weekend projects has been published by Filon Corp. Each plan tells how much lumber, hardware and translucent fiberglass will be needed for the project, and includes detailed diagrams, pictures and step-by-step instructions.

The plans are available free from lumber dealers or, for a complete series of plans, send 25 cents to Consumer Services, Filon Corp., 12333 South Van Ness ave., Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

Legislators named as panel members in taxpayers' talks

Four members of the New Jersey Legislature will participate in a panel discussion of "Streamlining the Third Branch of State Government" at the 36th annual meeting of the New Jersey Taxpayers Association at Hotel Robert Treat, Newark, on Nov. 22.

Participants will include State Sen. J. Edward Crabell (D., Milltown 7th District); State Sen. Frederick J. Scholz (R., Cherry Hill 14th District); Assemblyman Francis J. McDermott (R., Union County). They will discuss legislative organization, procedures and services.

The panel will be among several features of an afternoon program keyed to the theme "Steps to Governmental Excellence" and exploring areas of state, local and school government. At the evening banquet session, the speakers will be United States Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana on the topic "A Federal Policy for a Healthy Economy." Hartke will open the discussion to questions from the audience following his formal remarks.

The Taxpayers Association's annual business meeting at which members elect directors and adopt a platform program for 1967 will open at 7:15 p.m. and precede the afternoon discussion program.

Wallpaper offers aid to remodelers; many patterns easy do-it-yourself

Ready to remodel—but the budget isn't? Wallpaper can be the answer.

Quality colors and patterns are now available for as low as 50 Cents a roll, and many patterns are factory trimmed and pasted for quick, easy "do-it-yourself" application.

For those who have never put up wallpaper before, local dealers will be happy to give simple directions. However, many wallpapers on the market today include hanging instructions in each roll.

There's variety, too, in the ways to remodel with wallpaper. For instance, many older homes—and some newer ones—have bad walls. No amount of plastering will hide cracks, and with dry-wall construction, seams are bound to show.

Wallpaper is one way to disguise these faults.

Since most modern wallpapers are washable, and colors won't fade, the decorating is done for—as long as the family likes to keep a pattern.

When plaster walls are rough and uneven, one solution is to use a heavier paper, such as a paper-backed vinyl or a plastic-coated paper.

These papers come in a wide variety of patterns especially designed for bathrooms and kitchens. In a bath, the choice might be a design with butterflies, fish, mermaids, zodiac signs or even one with pool tiles.

For a kitchen, there are herb patterns, and others with tiles, trivets, stained glass bottles and spice shelves.

Florals this year come in bright, clear colors and tone-on-tone effects that can be used in any room in the house. They are found in modern, traditional or provincial patterns.

If walls of living or dining room have a one-color effect, consider a complete change of background color, with a scenic wallpaper to give added dimension to one of these rooms.

Irvington resident joins WAC group

Miss Barbara Hess of Irvington became a member of the Garden State Chapter, WAC-Veterans Association, at a meeting held recently at the American Legion Post in Roselle Park.

The group began preparing Christmas cards for New Jersey servicemen now stationed in Vietnam. Members were assisted in the project by guests at the meeting, including Mrs. Hervey Parulis of Linden.

Mrs. Anne Percival of Elizabeth, chapter president, announced that supplies are still being collected for a school in Yen Bac, Vietnam, which is being operated with the assistance of U.S. Marines as part of the "people-to-people" program.

It was announced that the next meeting of the chapter will be held Nov. 17 at the VFW Hall in Edison.

Shower in the round

Variety of panel door designs available on entrance doors

Ancient craftsmen thought the entrance door was so important they competed with one another to develop ornate — and often symbolic — designs. This evolved the many different panel door designs.

The best of these designs are still part of architectural tradition today. The modern homeowner, however, can select a wood panel door in one of these traditional designs for his home with more aplomb than his ancestor.

Although the ancient panel doors were often works of art, they sometimes left much to be desired in operation, whereas modern panel doors of ponderosa pine are precision-made and preservative-treated in factories for sure fit, easy operation and long life.

The modern homeowner also has a wide choice of panel door designs and, unlike his predecessor, he can order them in stock sizes through lumber dealers to fit all standard-size door openings.

Among the many traditional designs available in ponderosa pine panel doors stock sizes today are:

1. Six-panel Colonial door. Also known as the "Cross and Bible Door" because the upper four panels form a cross and the lower two panels represent the open pages of a Bible, it is available with variations that include glass sash or "lights" on top.
2. Eight-panel Colonial door. This door has two groupings of panels each of which represent a scene.
3. Panel door with fan lights. A series of spaced lights in the upper part of the door resembles an open fan.
4. Panel door with cathedral lights. Shaped lights on top are reminiscent of church windows.
5. Dutch door. This door consists of two operating halves, the upper half glass and the lower half wood panels. Within this basic scheme, there are many design variations.
6. Three-panel door. This is a traditional design which has been widely adapted to contemporary home designs. In pairs, three-panel doors particularly lend themselves to use as double entries.
7. Nine-light panel door. This door is identified by the use of nine glass lights set in three rows of three each, in the upper portion of the door. The lower part contains one or more wood panels.
8. Multi-paneled doors of various types, including 15-panel Tudor and eight-panel Florence designs, available in stock units.

Adequate insulation brings return through fuel savings, living comfort

Probably number one improvement, vitally affecting both comfort and economy, is the home's insulation efficiency.

Research has demonstrated thoroughly the problems inherent in poorly insulated homes as being critical in physical discomfort—drafts, and uneven room heat distribution in winter; in summer, heat that is "absorbed" into the house rather than repelled.

Savings are a major factor to consider, as well. Heating costs can mount up to surprisingly higher fuel bills in winter, with corresponding extra expense for air-conditioning operation in summer, in inadequately insulated homes.

Either factor justifies the homeowner's checkup on his own home's wall insulation.

One report says the majority of American homes are inadequately insulated, or not insulated at all.

Technological advances have produced many types of wall-insulating materials which may be applied to the home without formidable cost. In any case it's been amply demonstrated that resulting savings can exceed costs of the job in a short period of time.

As a starter, direct explanation of wall splicing—particularly in attics, crawlways and other exposed walls—can give the owner some idea of his insulating problem, if any.

An even better indication of home insulation efficiency may be clues in terms of fuel and electric bills.

Paint furnishes springlike color to brighten room

Golden daffodils, irises, crocuses and other delightful bulbs unrolling in gardens across the land signal the arrival of spring. And what could be nicer — or more economical — than bringing spring beauty and freshness indoors with paint.

The cost, usually well under ten dollars to change the entire décor of a room with paint.

Latex or water-base paints dry rapidly, with little or no odor. They are easy to apply and give cleaner, brighter colors, according to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

The factor is especially true in the pastels and light tints which create a feeling of airiness in even the smallest room. These shades of paint reflect more light, making objects seem farther away.

Even a low ceiling will look higher if it is painted white or in a light tint.

Alkyd or oil base paints have better hiding power and washability. They are ideally suited for woodwork and trim because of their abrasion resistance.

The two combine well — latex paint for walls and alkyd paint for doors and woodwork.

They can be matched, co-ordinated or contrasted, depending on the effect desired. Matching wall color and trim in a light or pastel color will convey an even greater illusion of brightness.

Coordinating a pastel wall color with a slightly deeper hue in the same color family lends interest to a large room; highlights trim and woodwork.

For a striking contrast, try painting the walls a light color and using a deep, rich or bright tone for painting shelving, a piece of furniture, a waste basket or similar item.

Contrasting colors should be used with the same care as adding accessories. Dark or bright colors make objects appear to come forward.

Local paint dealers or painting contractors can provide a large selection of color chips or books, plus helpful hints.

Do-it-yourselfers: With some projects don't do it yourself!

It's home improvement season, and projects ranging from painting to plastering are claiming the attention of growing numbers of home handymen. For do-it-yourself improvements alone, the expenditure this year will be, it is estimated, two billion dollars.

In addition to installing roofing and siding, jobs whose sheer size should discourage most do-it-yourselfers, there are several other projects that should be done only by an expert.

As a general rule, homeowners should avoid tampering with the home's electrical system. Unless he is fully qualified to do electrical work, a homeowner runs the risk of serious electric shock or burn and may create a fire hazard if improperly installed wiring is put into use.

Another area in which the expert should reign is in the matter of plumbing and installation of bathroom and kitchen fixtures.

New pipes must integrate well with the rest of the plumbing system. If they do not, it can affect the entire system.

Even some seemingly simple remodeling jobs can have serious consequences. For instance, widening an archway or removing a wall between two rooms could significantly weaken the entire structure of the house if improperly done.

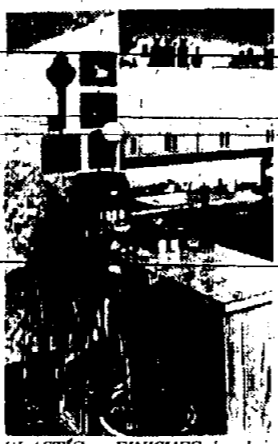

The do-it-yourself aspect of jobs like these should be restricted to the proper choice of a contractor to do the work. Here are some guidelines on selecting and working with a good contractor.

Friends and neighbors who have had experience with contractors will often supply the best leads. It is a wise practice to deal only with established firms in the community.

If there is any question about a contractor's reliability, check with the local Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, or trade organization.

Enamelware care tips

Care for enamelware as you would glassware. Do not use metal pot scrapers or abrasives. Wash with mild detergent. Burned-on food should be removed by soaking the utensil in water or a solution of detergent and water, or boiling a solution of 2 teaspoons of baking soda in 1 quart of water. Avoid high heat, rapid cooling, chipping and scratching.

"LASTIC-FINISHED" hard-board covers walls, counters, built-ins of kitchen — but a free copy of plan for building his combination room, send postcard to Handyman Plans, P.O. Box 250, Dover, Ohio 44622. Ask for Plan 106M. By Marlite.

New siding adds to look

If you think a new dress can do wonders for a woman who's not growing older, you'd be amazed what it can do for a middle-aged house.

A woman dressed by 1936 standards would look drab today — just as many fine and structurally sound houses look drab now.

Many owners of older homes have turned to re-siding as the surest way to strip years from their homes' appearance. In the process, they've eliminated burdensome maintenance chores.

A new exterior of mineral fiber siding for example, will add a bright, fresh appearance to a dull-looking home that will last many years.

Mineral fiber textured surface is pre-finished with a long-lasting plastic-acrylic color coating that can be restored periodically simply by washing it down.

Mineral fiber is a tough, permanent-type material, like brick or marble, that will not rot, dent or burn and cannot provide food for termites.

When installed over an insulating backer, it provides an extra-husky shadowline and additional insulation for exterior walls — especially important for homes built before wall insulation was standard practice.

Re-siding makes real economic sense for many homeowners. By adding up the estimated costs of painting (most houses need repainting every three to five years), and comparing with cost of residing, it can be shown that the "expense" is a savings.

Boy Scouts lend a hand

When faucets drip, drip, drip and lamps blink, blink, blink and innumerable other things around the house insist on going wrong, wrong, wrong, proud parents may well have good reason to remember and be thankful that "a Boy Scout is helpful."

The "Home-Repairs" Merit Badge manual for Boy Scouts proclaims, "Welcome to the do-it-yourself club." And Dad can echo the sentiment heartily, for he well knows the truth of another statement in the manual, "A home repairman's job is never done."

Now that Boy Scouts are qualifying for Home Repairs Merit Badges at the rate of 65,000 a year, there's immediate home repair and maintenance help on tap for thousands of Dads — as well as fulfillment for the longer range aim of helping Scouts build good habits for their adult years.

Proficiency requirements for the badge range widely — from painting and repairing furniture to waterproofing a basement, from cleaning out a sink trap to mending china.

Paperdolly aids busy housewives

For housewives who budget time and space as well as money there's a new "paperdolly" made to fit between wall and base cabinets.

The dolly, by Neutelis Industries, serves as a chrome framed blackboard with convenient chalk for jotting down household messages.

When the blackboard is lowered, it becomes a trippack kitchen dispenser, holding a large-size paper towel roll, plus full size rolls of wax paper, foil or plastic wrap.

Painted fireplace

An attractive fireplace will show up better if its wall is painted with a color which differs from that used on the other walls in the room.

ALL ABOUT PEOPLE

by GENE ROSERFELD

ELGEN TIRE CO.

Two weeks ago the stadium was jammed as the West Coast football fans waited for the opening kick-off.... The sports writers and newscasters predicted that it would be a Bang-Up Game, and it really was.

The game was three minutes and eighteen seconds into the first quarter when his team got the ball for the first time. He took the handoff from center...faded back...and threw...the pass was a good one...traveling about 55 yards...and completed...the receiver ran the remaining distance to the goal-line...play covering 87 yards.

In the second quarter he hit the same receiver with a seventeen yard pass for another touchdown. It was on the last play of the third quarter however, that he will probably remember more than any other of his star-studded career. Leading back once again he passed, but this one was not as perfect as the other two...it was a different receiver...but a good one that leaped up to pull it in with a circus catch...The pass was completed to Raymond Berry for 31 yards and gained his team completed passing yardage to 28,353 passing the yardage record of 28,339 held previously by V.A. Tittle. Who was the passer that set the new record?...None other than the Colts Johnny Unitas.

We'll go on record as being able to provide you with the NEW and RETREAD TIRES you need, at prices you can afford. Stop in at ELGEN TIRE on Milltown Road (Between Route 22 and Morris Ave.) Opposite Farcher's Grove. We'll be looking for you.

FOR THE BIRDS

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER, professor, Union Junior College

One of the most vivid memories of my early years is the summers I spent on my grandmother's farm. Her farmhouse was quite modern beside its neighbors. It had the hand pump used to raise water from the well in the kitchen. Other houses had it outside at the well-head. There was a Chic Sale near the kitchen door and a big barn with an ample hay-mow. Cooking was done on a wood-burning stove and one of my chores was to split the kindling each day.

I got up with the chickens so usually my grandmother insisted on a nap after lunch. My bedroom was on the first floor just to the left of the front door as you came into the house. At one time it had been the front parlor. My bed was along the front wall and its foot alongside a window looking out over the front yard. If I was sleepy, I lay with my feet toward the window and dozed but if I was wide awake, I lay at the foot of the bed and passed the time by looking out the window.

Near the front porch where I could see it from the window was a big trumpet vine. Ruby-throated hummingbirds all day sucking the honey from the bright red flowers. I never ceased to wonder at their ability to hover motionless in front of a blossom and then back out and go on to the next flower.

The old folks didn't have time to bird-watch and I wasn't very competent so I never thought to follow the tiny nits and try to locate their nest.

WHERE I LIVE now several of the neighbors have trumpet vines and other red flowers growing in the yard but I've never seen a hummingbird near them. A few ruby-throats do fly through now in spring and fall but none of them spend the summer. This also seems to be true of many towns nearby. Only out in the rural areas do they still visit and raise a family. For some reason they don't seem to have adapted completely to civilization as have many song birds.

I've often mentioned my love for the tiny birds to my wife so it wasn't too surprising when on Christmas six years ago she gave me a copy of "Hummingbirds" by Crawford H. Greenwalt. As a chemist by profession, I was even more intrigued by the book since its author was then president of the Du Pont Company.

Greenwalt photographed his first hummer in 1933. It was, of course, a ruby-throat since this is the only member of the family that comes east of the Mississippi River. He had read of the extremely rapid-beat of the birds wings and was interested to see if a photographic system could be developed to stop their action. Some of his first pictures were successful and he caught hummingbird fever.

The next step was a trip to the American Museum of Natural History to see if they were interested in a complete set of hummingbird color photos and accompanying text. They were and Greenwalt's fever went into an advanced state.

Seven years, one hundred thousand miles and a half a dozen countries later, the book appeared. It's an excellent Christmas gift for your favorite bird-watcher.

75 student journalists warned of cigarette smoking hazards

"Stopping cigarette smoking among adults is probably a lost cause, but helping young people not to start smoking could be the only way to decrease the toll that this habit is taking not only in lives but also in long term illnesses," Dr. William F. Westlin of Ciba Pharmaceutical Co. told a group of 75 student journalists attending a School Press Conference held by the Union County Tuberculosis and Health League, Dr. Westlin is a league board member.

George Schott, president of the league, presided at the Conference which launched the 1966 School Press Project for junior and senior high schools in Union County. There were 15 schools represented at the meeting, held at Merck and Co., Rahway.

Miss Barbara Curran, editor of the Rahway News-Record, talked to the students on some of their responsibilities as journalists.

Frank Flower, specialist in Environmental Science of Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, stressed the need for clean air in order to sustain life. He showed slides to illustrate how man is polluting his environment by open burning, automobile exhaust fumes, improper combustion of industrial wastes and by cigarette smoking. He extended an invitation to interested school groups to visit the campus and learn more about the control of air pollution.

Those attending from Abraham Clark High School, Roselle, included: David Miller, Ralph Vigoda and Charles Laspari.

Those attending from David Broarty Regional High School, Kenilworth, were: Donald Knott, Kathy Cooley, Janice Bedota, Janet Boscgaard and MetaHie Krupa.

Boning up on the new art All-meat gobblers available

By JEANNE LEMSE
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — You can stop boning up on the art of carving turkeys for the holidays.

While plenty of whole birds still are around for traditionalists, about one-third of the total crop being marketed this year for home consumption is in forms that are easier to carve and serve.

Spokesmen for the turkey industry expect the trend to processed products to continue and the record consumption to increase still more as the number of new processed products grows. This year's turkey crop of almost 116 million birds is the highest in United States history.

These facts and forecasts were revealed by the National Turkey Federation (NTF).

and the Poultry and Egg National Board (PENB) at their annual pre-holiday meeting here for food editors and extension, school and public service representatives.

They said that about 26 percent of the turkeys sold for home consumption are either boned, cooked rolls or boned racks. Another five to seven per cent is marketed as cut-up turkeys — in quarters or pieces such as drumsticks, wings and breasts — or in such heat and serve forms as sliced turkey frozen in gravy and aluminum tray packed frozen roasts with or without dressing.

Eugene Brown, marketing specialist for a distributing agency and Northeast Turkey Growers Assn., quoted one Detroit retailer as saying he expected Thanksgiving sales of boned turkey rolls and roasts at his chain this year to be twice as great as total turkey sales by his firm since its founding.

The turkey specialists also said that the cost of holiday birds is expected to remain about the same as last year instead of following the current upward trend of food prices.

Cooking tips from the growers:

For a well-browned, crisp-skinned bird; use a shallow, uncovered roasting pan and a rack high enough to let the underside of the turkey brown.

In planning cooking time, remember that a whole stuffed turkey continues to cook for up to 45 minutes after it is removed from the oven, and its internal temperature in that time rises from seven to 11 degrees.

Turkey will carve better and easier if it is allowed to set in a warm spot for about 20 minutes after it comes from the oven.

Sage cornbread stuffing for turkey is easy to make. Combine in the test kitchen of the American Spice Trade Assn., makes enough stuffing for a 15-pound bird.

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

FAMILY RESPONSIBILITIES MUST BE SHARED

By MABEL C. STOLTE
CANTON, OHIO ECONOMIST

Have you ever thought what it would be like if no one assumed responsibility for helping their fellow men? There would be no community police force, no religious organizations and no education facilities. Each child and adult would travel their own separate path with "survival of the fittest" being the rule of the day. It is essential, therefore, that parents start early to develop within their child a sense of responsibility towards others.

Your child can be taught to assume responsibility as a family member at an early age. Training for responsibility lies in performing duties regularly. An occasional request made by you as a parent is not a wise procedure. This fails to help your child realize that carrying his share of the daily household chores is one of the things he does in recognition of what other family members do for him.

Children must have a good reason for doing chores. The best incentive is family spirit. The home is, therefore, the best place for your child to learn to enjoy joining in a common activity and helping everyone for the common good of all concerned. When everyone has a certain chore to do they find pride in achievement and the sense of importance and being needed. This keeps your home and family organization running smoothly.

But, remember, you as parents must agree as to who should assume what responsibilities. Do you ever complain that your child will do nothing around the house? Remember, your youngster should have certain tasks assigned. Then, it should be clearly understood by everyone concerned that he is responsible for those tasks. Your child may object because he does not understand that he should do the task and feels he is being dictated to. Like an adult, your child wishes to feel independent. So to get your child to cooperate in doing assigned tasks, help him to feel independent.

REMEMBER, TOO, THE tasks should be within your child's capabilities. It may be all right for an 11-year old to be responsible for keeping the living room clean. But it is too much for a seven-year old.

Share the planning of your family's chores. Have family council meetings to assign chores. It's a good idea to have a list of chores drawn up. You, as the mother, may be best qualified to make the list. But each family member should have the opportunity to say what he wants to do. They divide up the unwanted tasks.

Allow choice. You may find your child enjoys being domestic when he can do things according to his own ideas. Too often parents insist on chores being done a special way. Remember, what should make the difference is the results. If your child is doing his share of responsibilities in your child for doing chores around the home, you have scored an important point towards making your child a valuable United States citizen.

For more ideas of how and when children should be given the responsibility of making their own decisions, attend the parent education Extension Service meeting, Monday, Nov. 14, from 1 to 2:45 p.m. at 7 Bridge St. Elizabeth.

Give room a new look

A new room arrangement is often a very inexpensive and practical way to give a living room a new look, reports Carolyn F. Yukus, senior County Home economist.

The old joke about the wife rearranging the furniture and the husband thinking he is in the wrong house has more truth than fiction. However, a new arrangement needs some thinking and planning before any furniture is actually moved.

The basic requirement of a living room is to fill the needs of all the family members who make use of the living room. If this room is truly to be a living room, then there must be an arrangement to suit various activities of family members.

Many people disregard the important fact a floor plan drawn to scale can play a big role in a successful arrangement. Instead, the trial and error method is often used and usually at a very inopportune time.

With a floor plan and furniture pieces in scale, various arrangements can be tried without physical exertion. The one problem with a floor plan is that the planner often forgets to scale and fit in space as well as fitting in furniture pieces. If space is not arranged on, then a planned arrangement may not work out so successfully in reality.

Cheers to ring out around the world

Rutgers alumni all over the world are getting ready for a birthday party.

The party will be observed under widely varying circumstances — from a gala black-tie affair at the New York Hilton to a small picnic on the bank of the Hudson River. Rutgers men and their wives, including graduates, will drink a toast. The unifying theme of "Rutgers Night Around the World," to be celebrated Nov. 10, will be to wish a happy birthday to Rutgers.

The "Night" will be the last major event of the Bicentennial Year proclaimed by New Jersey Governor Richard J. Hughes at the beginning of 1966. The parties will commemorate the birth of Rutgers on Nov. 10, 1783, when William Franklin, last royal governor of New Jersey, granted a charter for Queen's College in the name of King George III of England.

According to Bicentennial Coordinators Van Wie Ingham and Miss Elizabeth Durham, 73 parties are scheduled, and it is expected that "On the Banks of the Old Raritan" will be sung at all of them.

At many gatherings a 20-minute film strip will be shown. The film includes greetings from Dr. Mason W. Gross, Rutgers president, and scenes of the Bicentennial Convocation, Sept. 22, at which Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was principal speaker and was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Many of the larger parties in the East will be at dinner-dances where several hundred people are expected. Whatever their size, however, the spirit is the same. In Peoria, Ill., for example, the Rev. Canon Douglas J. Wade, chairman of a "Rutgers Night" party, reports that "our numbers may be few, but our loyalty to Rutgers will be as faithful and vigorous as any of the larger dinners in the East."

The spirit will also be present in Las Cruces, N.M., where two Rutgers graduates and their wives will have dinner together.

About 400 persons are expected at the New York party, at which many guests will bring individual gifts for Rutgers. I. Robert Krieger, 1936 graduate and president of the "21" Club, played a major part in the planning but will be absent. A lieutenant-colonel in the Marine Corps Reserve, he has just gone on a military tour of the Pacific. New Jersey Senator Clifford P. Case and Charles H. Brower, president of the Rutgers Board of Trustees and president of the advertising firm of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne, both Rutgers graduates, will be speakers.

Chicago's dinner-dance will be visited by Albert W. Twitchell, Rutgers director of physical education. In Phoenix, Dr. Leslie Marchand, who graduated from Rutgers in June after a 30-year stay, will be guest speaker. Dr. Marchand, now visiting professor at Arizona State University, is an English literature scholar and author of a biography of Lord Byron.

The party in Tokyo will have an added significance. It will mark the 190th anniversary of the arrival of the first Japanese students at Rutgers, the first American institution to establish a relationship with Japan. One of the largest overseas parties will be held at Gakushi Kaikan, the graduate house near the main campus of the University of Tokyo.

Somerset-Middlesex and Bergen-Passaic-Rockland (N.Y.).

Members of the Rutgers family, staff and faculty will hold a family party at the Commons on the College Avenue Campus here. The bell in Old Queens donated by Colonel Henry Rutgers, now rung only on special occasions, will toll the beginning of the third century in the history of Rutgers.

Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University, and Sir Patrick Dean, British ambassador to the United States, will address the New Brunswick gathering. Dr. Gross will preside.

Don't forget to increase insurance as improvements raise home value

Like love and marriage, home improvement and insurance improvement go together.

In other words, if you're increasing the value of your home, you should increase the insurance on it, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

Even without improvements, many homes are underinsured simply because increased costs have raised their value.

How much insurance do you need on your home?

Suppose an appraisal shows that your home would cost $30,000 to replace at today's prices. Under a homeowner's policy—a "package" of coverages that is becoming increasingly popular—you should insure your dwelling for at least 80 per cent of its replacement value, $16,000 in this case.

The homeowner's policy provides various types of coverages, with the convenience of just one policy and one premium to pay. Still more important, the homeowner saves from 20 to 30 per cent of what it would cost for separately purchased coverages.

There's a choice of three forms of the homeowners package policy—the Standard, Broad and Comprehensive forms.

The Standard form protects against 11 perils, from fire and lightning, windstorm or hail, and explosion to theft, vandalism and rioting, machine, aircraft, and smoke, or smudge caused by sudden, unusually or faulty operations of a cooking or heating unit.

The Broad form, which is the most popular, increases to 19 the number of perils against which the homeowner is insured. The additional coverages include such things as falling objects, weight of ice, snow or sleet, and freezing of plumbing, heating and air-conditioning systems.

The Comprehensive form is sometimes called an "all-risks" policy because it lists the perils the homeowner is not insured against, rather than those he is insured against.

For more detailed information on types and costs of homeowner's policies available, homeowners should get in touch with their local insurance agents or brokers, the Institute advises.

Hallway cabinets solve problems of overhead shelves

Tired of reaching over the kitchen counter to high overhead shelves every time you want a can of corn or peaches?

Look around the kitchen, family room or nearby hallways and see if there's a bit of wasted wall that can be converted to a canned goods cupboard. The space needs to be only two to four feet wide and as little as a six-inch depth will serve for the cupboard interior.

For height, make the top shelf a comfortable tip-toe reach — about the same height as the top of a door. Interior vertical space will divide into a half dozen or more shelves.

Consider using adjustable shelving to allow shelves of varied heights for tall juice cans, salt and sauce cans, and standard sizes.

Handsome is as handsome does, but the cupboard can be a beauty if built with solid lumber panel boards in a rich wood such as straight-grained Western hemlock or ponderosa pine.

Flush-joint or V-joint boards can be used for the door fronts, fastened to horizontal bracing, bottom and center on the back side. Screws do the job best. Concealed piano-type hinges and touch latches give the cabinet a sleek look.

If there's some exposed wall space around the cabinet, panel that, too, with matching hemlock or pine boards for a really outstanding job.

Then finish all the wood with a clear lacquer or varnish to capitalize on its natural coloring and grain. Sealer coat first, light sanding, then the lacquer or varnish are the steps to take.

30-year employee presented emblem

William A. Rowe of 613 Locust st., Roselle Park, was recently honored at the Bayonne Plant of Humble Oil & Refining Company upon reaching 30 years service. Manager Edward T. DiCorcia presented him with an inscribed gold watch and a diamond-studded service emblem, marking the occasion.

All of Rowe's Esso career was spent in Wax Manufacturing, where he is now engaged in wax moulding and packaging operations. A native of Mt. Vernon, N.Y., he moved to Bayonne as a boy, attending Horace Mann School. He later graduated from Bayonne Vocational High School where he studied electricity. He and his wife, the former Harriet Cooper, have a son and daughter. The family have been residents of Roselle Park for almost 10 years.

Improvements may add to resale value

While the first aim of improving the home is to increase its beauty and livability for present and future enjoyment, adding to the resale value of the property must also be a practical consideration.

Inexpensive touches can add considerably to house value, a recent survey shows.

Alliance Manufacturing Co., makers of "Genie" automatic garage door operators, surveyed real estate brokers to determine how much installation of their product might enhance home resale value.

In addition, they asked about "other items" that might serve to increase resale price with these results:

In the kitchen, a new refrigerator-freezer that makes ice cubes, costing little more than one that doesn't, is sure to impress. Cracked concrete sections near the front door: Replace them. They immediately depress value on first impression.

Because home-buying prospects look out windows at the view, blinds ought to be fresh-looking and stilted, and frames in attractive condition.

Large patios heighten the impression of luxury living. In most cases, they should add to house value than they cost.

In lighting, noiseless switches, inexpensive dinner switches in appropriate locations and a modern chandelier are sound resale investments.

Replacing worn doorknobs and new hardware on the front door are other inexpensive touches that can help.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

On November 11, 1918, an Armistice was signed, putting an end to the First World War — the war to end wars. Three years later, America paid tribute to the thousands who fought and died in the conflict when the "Unknown Soldier" was buried in Arlington Cemetery.

There has been no end to war. The United States has called upon citizen-soldiers for service in World War II, Korea, and in Vietnam.

The observance of Armistice Day, or Veterans Day, on November 11, will be a day filled with memories for Americans of all races and creeds... men who served their country in Africa, Italy, France, on Pacific Islands, in Korea, and in Vietnam.

With 34 wives, even a king has to cut a few corners.

Big, fast, expensive cars have always been a passion with royalty. But a family man like King Njiri of Kenya probably doesn't have very much passion to spare. Or very much money. (Things have been kind of slow lately in the king business.) Which makes him the kind of king that a Volkswagen is really fit for.

The price of a brand-new one—$1639—isn't much higher than the price of a brand-new wife. And a VW is a lot cheaper to support.

About 40,000 miles on a lot of tires. A Volkswagen also comes apart very easily. It only takes about ten minutes to take off a fender, or 45 minutes to take out the whole engine. That makes repairing it easy. And quite inexpensive.

But when it's not being taken apart, a VW holds together very nicely. So even though old ones cost a good deal, they're still a good deal.

Especially if you're lucky enough to get one that was owned by an elderly king who only used it to go to court.

A LOOK AT THE UNITED NATIONS with Trudina Howard

Viet? A real big Nothing

The current situation of Vietnam at the United Nations is nothing.

The 15-member Security Council is charged with discussing the problem, but WHEN it will be discussed is anybody's guess.

On the morning of Feb. 1 of this year, the Security Council began discussion of a U.S. request that it consider the situation in Vietnam, and by the afternoon of Feb. 2 it had only—and hardly—agreed to inscribe the question of Vietnam on its agenda and then adjourned "until a time to be decided."

But that time has not yet come, and there are no other decisions on the matter at the United Nations.

It even seems to be a case of arched surprise when Vietnam is mentioned at the UN. It is almost as though no one ever heard of Vietnam. No one, apparently, expects a meeting to be called soon. There are those who believe that the right conclusions could only be reached by hearing the views of the other parties concerned—meaning the People's Republic of China, the National Liberation Front and North and South Vietnam. But none of these are members of the United Nations, and their appearance could be difficult to achieve.

only meeting on Vietnam this year, and after some debate on even deciding to put it on the agenda, the Council did vote "to inscribe on its agenda the question of Vietnam as requested by the U.S." The vote was nine in favor: Argentina, China, Japan, Jordan, Netherlands, New Zealand, United Kingdom, United States and Uruguay; two against: Bulgaria and the Soviet Union; and four abstentions: France, Mali, Nigeria and Uganda. According to an account from the UN, "following the adoption of the agenda, the Council president, Akira Matsui of Japan, suggested that informal and private consultations be held 'to consider the most appropriate manner of conducting the debate.'"

"The Council agreed without objection to his suggestion that the Council adjourn until a time to be decided later."

"At the start of the meeting, Waleed M. Sadi of Jordan said that the adoption of the agenda, in his delegation's view, would not prejudice substantive action on this question."

"Examination of the matter by the Council would," he said, "provide the United Nations with the opportunity to resolve the issue of the facts which are the roots of the case." He would, therefore, vote in favor of the adoption of the agenda.

"Nikolai T. Fedorenko of the Soviet Union said his delegation had to state once more its objection to the inclusion of this item in the agenda. The United States, he asserted, was trying by these 'diversionary tactics' to draw attention away from its 'aggression' in Vietnam and its violation of the Geneva Accords. The United States did not want peace, he said."

ARTHUR J. GOLDBERG of the United States rejected the Soviet assertions and said that the United States sought to uphold the Geneva Accords. He declared that the International Control Commission had reported in 1957 "that North and South Vietnam in violation of those Accords."

And so the Vietnam question rests. Some problems which have been discussed at the Security Council in recent weeks are the Israel-Syria problem, the Congo-Portugal problem and the South West Africa mandate problem.

Prescribe annual check-ups to keep pace with house ills

Paint-up, fix-up, clean-up time again looms large on homeowners' agendas. Many may be found making notes on what points in and around the house should receive a check-up for annual care.

Authorities on the subject list areas in which homes most likely require attention. Careful, over-all inspection should be a matter of policy.

FOUNDATIONS may show cracks as a result of a year's weather damage, especially through ground holes at the foundation line. Masonry cracks are best filled with a pitch-based water-proofing cement.

The ground holes should be filled with sand or gravel and topped with soil or sod, as protection against future rains and more cracks in the foundations.

SIDING should be scrutinized for peeling paint, spitting, and general decay. A complete re-siding job may be indicated, in some cases, however, alternatives of re-painting, touch-up painting and replacement of damaged portions of siding will be adequate.

ROOFING inspection may show loose or warped panels or shingles, which should be replaced, or re-nailed.

CHIMNEYS should be filled in where necessary. Loose bricks or stones should be secured. Flashing around chimneys may need replacement, if cracked or corroded.

GUTTERS and downspouts may easily become loose and weather-worn in a year's time. Re-nail loose parts and repair where indicated. Clogged passages should be cleared.

WINDOWS, DOORS — Frames should be checked for possible air leakage. Re-caulking will keep weather out.

LAWN, GARDEN inspection and care may vary with individual taste and the green thumb talent available. In general, holes may be filled in with sand or gravel and covered with turf.

PLANS may be laid for reseeding, fertilizing lawns, replanting gardens.

DRIVEWAYS may reveal cracks in paving to be filled, or replacement of lost gravel, conveying the driveway surface for drainage, to permit water to drain onto the lawn, rather than the street.

TRIM, SHUBS are sure to need a tidying trim. Check dead tree branches, withering shrubbery and hedges.

HEATING EQUIPMENT should be cleaned, adjusted and, if necessary, repaired by an experienced serviceman, at least once a year. If yours is an older furnace or burner, re-modeling, up-dating or complete replacement may be in order.

WALLS, CEILING may show cracks or bulges which may call for professional attention. If these are not too extensive, they can be cured by the enterprising amateur with plaster, pointing tool and paint.

FLOORS may need partial replacement or complete room re-flooring. Refinishing, in some rooms at least, is usually in order.

'Save Rain' tips for trees, plants

To save rains, it is suggested that you plant the greatest land area of your property possible with trees and shrubs and grasses. This allows water to seep into the ground, rather than running down the street.

The less watering will be required in dry weather.

Where watering is necessary, unless it causes flooding, grade it so the water runs back on your property, where it can sink into the ground — then that run off into storm sewers.

In areas where drought is far more of a problem than flood, water can be diverted from house gutters onto the property, by use of the drainage, or even into storage tanks for later use.

How one waters his trees and shrubs can result in savings. Light watering every day in dry weather is wasteful; a thorough saturation of the soil every two weeks is economical.

Mineral ceilings now on market

Mineral ceiling products, once available only through special contractors, can now be purchased by homeowners from their local lumber dealers.

The principal feature of mineral ceilings is that they are incumbrable and comply with building codes when such products are required in hazardous occupancies or exitways.

In appearance, mineral ceilings have distinctive beauty that has made them a favorite for years in prestige office buildings, schools, hospitals, as well as homes. Surfaces are satin-smooth. Patterns, such as fluted designs, are sharp and rich-looking.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

RETIREMENT IS WHAT YOU DO, NOT WHERE YOU GO TO DO IT.

You can move once after you retire from a snowbank to sunshine or from a sick city to a town — and things may work out fine.

But move twice, as a growing number of retired people are doing, and you'd better have a talk with yourself.

A fellow named Bagley, and his wife, packed up and took off this week — for a town about 200 miles away. They told friends and neighbors they had friends there, along with some special interests, and if it weren't for these they would never dream of swapping this lovely place for that one. But they told each other that the garbage service was bad, the people were provincial, the taxes were high, the church was indifferent, and the town was unfriendly.

Neither of these stories was true. They were moving because they had not been accepted here in a manner they thought fitting, had not been patronized, and after nearly two years they knew only a few people and had only a few places to go.

The new town would be better, or so they thought. And this was the tragedy that rode along in the van with their furniture. The new town wouldn't be better. Because this was their second move. And they would surely repeat there the miscalculation they had made here.

A clergyman who knew the Bagleys sized them up:

"They were so like many retired people I see moving into town now that they get their pensions. They are groping. But if they really want off they are proud of their past lives and are carrying their good habits with them. They want, and expect, attention."

"Mr. Bagley was offered an ushering job at the church. He thought he should be on the governing board. Mrs. Bagley also was invited to work. She too found the status of the work too low. In other activities around they took the same attitudes. Not arrogant, you understand, just not interested in community roles less elevated than they had during Mr. Bagley's career.

"So they failed to make a foundation from which they could make new friends here. And in the meantime, it seems, they sat at home waiting for people to call on them first. Well, people don't do that anymore. New people in town, and especially retired new people, have to forget the old Emily Post rules and go out and scratch to make a place for themselves...."

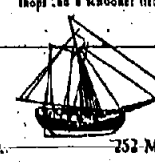

"Too many retired people nowadays are placing too high a value on their past careers, their titles, their past accomplishments, or their money. Nobody is very interested in them. Only in who and what they are now."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A plan to use railroad Pullman cars as overnight accommodations for visitors arriving by train during the Olympic Games in 1968 is being considered by the Mexican Government, says the American Automobile Association.

The cars would be grouped in an iron called "Pullman City" and plans also call for a shopping center and space for 3,000 house trailers, according to the AAA.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:

Being 40 and still single, I'm the butt of much scorn from friends and relatives. I personally don't think that it matters much being single or not because I'm very happy in my own apartment (I don't have to share the shower or my bed with anyone) and I have many hobbies to keep me occupied.

I work and draw a good salary which I can spend as I see fit. I go where I please and do as I please and don't have to account to anyone for anything.

I could go on and on but the point of this letter is: Why should I get married?

Still Single.

Dear Single:

For the simple reason you'll never know what you're missing!

Dear Amy:

Occasionally I invite my father-in-law over for dinner along with other guests. He embarrasses me terribly because he drinks his soup directly from the plate, sans spoon. Everybody at the table sees it, and I'm mortified.

I have asked my husband to speak to his Dad and to get him to stop. My husband doesn't have the nerve to say anything to him, but instead, tells me that since I find it so annoying, I should speak to Dad. It's his father, and I don't want to be the one to hurt him.

What should I do?

G.B.

Dear G.B.:

So that no one's feelings will be hurt, next time you invite Dad, OMIT the soup!

Dear Amy:

I'm a young married woman and I drive my own car. One of my relatives, about my own age and with whom I'm fairly close, never seems to have transportation to our various family functions (her husband never wants to go). I always felt sorry for her and would invite her to come along with me even though at times it meant that I would have to travel out of town.

She lives in a large apartment building that has its own driveway and a beautiful lobby, but every time I take to pick her up, I have to park the car, take the elevator to the 16th floor to her apartment, and there I find her, fully dressed, watching TV.

I don't know what to do since I'm doing her a favor. She should be waiting in the lobby when I arrive instead of inconveniencing me further by making me go to the 16th floor?

Good Samaritan

Dear Samaritan:

Yes, she should, but everybody does not do what they should. Be thankful for elevators!

Dear Amy:

I would like you to tell me if there is something wrong with me. When a situation arises, I never seem to know what to say. Later on, or the next day, I realize what I should have said and didn't. This always happens even when I talk to my good friend who is supposed to be a good listener. Does anyone else have this trouble that you know of?

Phil

Dear Phil:

If there is something wrong with you, then we're all suffering from the same trouble. This is very normal and tomorrow, I'll probably think of a better answer for you than I have today.

Dear Amy:

I'm going with a very nice young man. He's considerate, good company, has a fine personality and is liked by everyone. His only fault is that he hasn't a good education, while I have gone through college. He makes a lot of mistakes in grammar, and my friends tease me about it. We are quite serious about each other and I certainly don't want a difference in education to ruin my love life. Is there any way to resolve this problem?

College Grad

Dear Grad:

Don't worry. If dates his only fault, marry da guy and let him some good words to make widd!

PLAN SNACKS FOR GOOD HABITS

By ANNE L. SHEELAN
County Home Economist

Good snack habits begin at home. After school or after play, most children are anxious for a food treat. The wise mother plans the food treats she will offer her children, keeping in mind nutritional value, ease of serving, budget limitations, and appetite appeal.

Nutritionally, a snack food should supply quick energy without taking away the appetite for regular meals. Fresh fruit and fruit juices, milk, cookies, raw vegetables, and ice cream are just a few suggestions.

Avoid soft drinks, potato chips, pretzels and other foods which supply very few nutrients. Such habits instilled in childhood should remain throughout life.

Ease of serving is also important. Snack time is the time when very often you are involved in other activities. Depending on the age of the children, plan a food that they can serve themselves. They should also be responsible for cleaning up when they have finished.

Planning what snacks to serve is the best way to stay within your budget. When a snack is not planned, many times a food that was purchased for another purpose is used. When this does happen, organized menu plans will suffer, informing the child which are the snack foods is important for these plans to work.

Appetite appeal is also of great importance in order to satisfy the child's desire. Many times finger foods that can be taken out side to eat while walking to a friend's house will be the most successful.

Try the recipe for Butterscotch Snaps that follows:

BUTTERSCOTCH SNAPS

1/2 cup sugar
1/3 cup butter or shortening
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
1 egg

1/4 teaspoon salt

Melt butterscotch flavored morsels over hot (not boiling water) water. Remove pan from water. Cream together sugar, butter and corn syrup; beat in egg. Stir in melted butterscotch. Sift together flour, baking soda and salt; gradually stir into butterscotch mixture. Form into 1-inch balls and roll in granulated sugar. Place on greased cookie sheet and bake in 350 degree oven for 10 minutes. Yield: About five dozen cookies.

Note: To keep crisp, store in tightly covered container.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT SECTION

BETTER LIVING
What's New
For The Home This Fall!

Home improvements boost comforts, values

"Repair, renovate, remodel — and expand!" In more and more homes, that's the slogan nowadays, as homeowners prepare to embark on home improvement activities that range from modernizing the kitchen and bath to adding a bedroom or a family room, from replanting the lawn and garden to re-roofing and re-siding the house.

Naturally enough, the first goal of all these projects is to enhance family comfort, convenience and pleasure. But increasingly, a bonus benefit in getting attention to the house in property values that stems from home improvement.

For owners of older homes, this increased value may well be the deciding factor when the question is, "Should we move or should we improve?" To families cramped for space or impatient with antiquated facilities, moving often seems the only solution. Yet in many instances they would really prefer to remain in their present homes and neighborhoods. When, by improving comfort, they can also improve the ultimate resale value of the property, investment in improvement becomes an attractive alternative.

Even relatively new homes are candidates for improvements, too. Living in a new home, for a few months or years, often reveals family needs that were not apparent at the time of purchase. Changing trends in home life are another factor. The more elegant family room, for instance, is gaining in importance and often calls for additional space. Growing use of king-size or queen-size beds points up the need for larger bedrooms or more bedrooms. Outdoor improvements, from patios to swimming pools, attract the interest of many homeowners, whether the home be almost-new or almost-old.

In both newer and older homes, more space is likely to be the immediate improvement objective, to be achieved in one — or both — of two ways: remodeling and modernizing existing space, or expanding space with room additions. A survey conducted for the National Home Improvement Council reveals that, among homeowners intending to solve their space problems with additions, family rooms and bedrooms are first on the "most wanted" list. For those who plan to remodel existing space, kitchens and bathrooms take priority. Better storage facilities are stated as specific space needs for kitchens and bathrooms, and new appliances and plumbing fixtures play a significant role in expanding both the space and the convenience of these rooms.

As indoor family rooms grow more elegant, so does the outdoor or garden-living room. Homeowners surveyed include a high proportion who intend to build a patio, for informal entertaining and to provide a play area for the children.

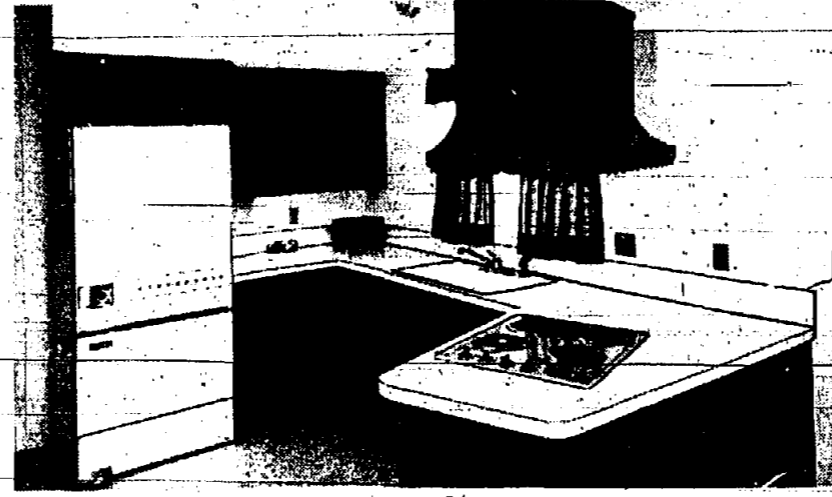

Comfort and practicality play a strong role in home improvement plans, as evidenced by the Council survey. Some features preferred by 69 percent of the responders were: insulation added to walls, sound-conditioned ceilings in the recreation room and wall-to-wall carpeting over wood floors.

Man-made and other materials still face strong competition from wood, the survey shows. Sixty percent preferred wood paneling as opposed to plaster and other types of wall coverings for interior walls, while 86 percent voted for wood as the favorite material for kitchen cabinets. And local craftsmen can have cause for pride, since the survey indicates that 59 percent of those questioned choose locally-built wood cabinets over the factory-built variety.

While interiors to be remodeled and additions to be built seem to get the most attention, the present great interest in home improvement covers virtually every area. Along with landscaping the lawn and garden, improving the home's exterior appeals to pride of ownership.

"Best job forward" is not the only objective for exterior improvements, however. Protecting as well as increasing the value of the property is a powerful motive for the many siding, roofing, painting, guttering and related projects.

Yet in many instances they would really prefer to remain in their present homes and neighborhoods. EFFICIENT 'WORK TRIANGLE' in the kitchen can save time, steps and energy in meal preparation and kitchen clean-ups. In this modernized all-electric kitchen, the sink, range and refrigerator-freezer are located within easy reach of one another, with work areas situated in between. Conveniently located cabinets provided abundant storage space, and the efficiency of the U-shaped layout is enhanced by a 'pass-through' between cooking — eating areas.

Connect three main centers to form ideal kitchen triangle

Is happiness in your home being treated by a triangle? Then maybe you ought to do something about it.

The triangle that most often ripples the waters of domestic tranquility is not caused by "another woman," but by an inefficient work pattern in the kitchen that can make a woman tired and cranky from sheer overwork, and ready to fight with her husband when he comes home.

The man to solve this family's problem is not a marriage counselor but an understanding kitchen designer who knows that a motion-saving "work triangle" can conserve time, steps and energy in meal preparation and kitchen cleanups.

FOR EFFICIENCY

The points of the "work triangle" are formed by the kitchen sink and dishwasher area, range and refrigerator-freezer — the three main work centers of the kitchen.

The sum of the three legs of this triangle should be at least 15 feet (less than that will result in an overcrowded work pattern) and no more than 22 feet (more than that will cause the homemaker unnecessary motion and effort).

U-shaped and L-shaped kitchens are the most efficient, because appliances, cabinets and work areas can all be located within easy reach. One-wall layouts or "corridor" plans (where two facing walls are used) are less efficient, but circumstances sometimes dictate their use.

Logically, kitchen remodeling time is an appropriate time to make needed replacements of major appliances — and to take advantage of some of the new developments in these appliances. Even though appliances are not outworn, they may be outdated.

New developments include, for space-saver home owners, space-saving designs.

Hodor Dinette, described by Samuel Potash, general manager, as America's largest chain of dinette stores, serves the New Jersey and Metropolitan New York area with 22 stores. In Union, Hodor Dinette is located at 2234 Morris Ave.

"Our slogan, 'Better Buys Because We Build Them' is more than just a slogan," he said. "It's a rigid standard which is resolutely applied to each and every set we produce. We custom-build to the customer's specifications."

This week Hodor Dinette will have a special sale on classic Danish Copenhagen dinette sets which sell regularly for $120.00 for only $69.99.

"Hodor Dinette is noted for its discounts of up to 30% and dinette sets starting as low as $34.95," said Potash. "Each and every Dinette is guaranteed that our prices are the lowest anywhere," Potash added.

Wanted: kitchens with more room for eating and working

Home owners are getting ready to launch their own space program — and the favored site is the kitchen.

A recent survey conducted for the National Home Improvement Council reveals that the kitchen is the center of attraction for most families planning home improvements. It's the room they would most like to do something about — and "more space" is at the head of the most-wanted list.

NEED APPLIANCES

While the survey brings out the need for more electrical outlets, better lighting, new sinks and new floor coverings, greater priority goes to improvements aimed at providing more cabinet and counter space, more space for better working arrangements, more space for built-ins, more space for eating, more space for activities such as kitchen desk-work and ironing.

Whether the kitchen space program calls for an all-out, all-over remodeling job or stop-by-step changes within the framework of the existing floor plan, major appliances are likely to play a large part in the modernization.

Logically, kitchen remodeling time is an appropriate time to make needed replacements of major appliances — and to take advantage of some of the new developments in these appliances. Even though appliances are not outworn, they may be outdated.

If the kitchen has a window, you'll probably want the sink located beneath it. Most women prefer this arrangement, because while working at the sink they can watch the children at play or watch anything, but the wall.

The automatic dishwasher should be positioned next to the sink, near the plumbing and within easy reach. The experts suggest that whether the homemaker is right or left handed, the dishwasher can be placed to the left or right of the sink, whichever position she prefers and the one that makes it easier for her to load the dishwasher.

OFFER VARIETY

Next consider the refrigerator-freezer. First, this appliance should be large enough to accommodate the family's needs now and in the near future without excessive trips to the market.

If the doors to your refrigerator-freezer open to the right, it should be placed to the right of the sink. If they open to the left, you'll want it to the left of the sink. Otherwise you'll be walking around the refrigerator and freezer doors all the time.

For most efficiency, provide five to five-and-a-half feet of counter space between refrigerator-freezer and sink.

The third leg of the triangle is formed by the range. Preferably it should be located near the dining area.

The new electric ranges are available in a wide variety of styles — free standing, eye-level consoles, high-low double-oven ranges, separate cooktops and compact, one-piece built-in ranges — to suit any need.

A little carpeting can go a long way

Remodel a porch or turn a section of the basement into a family room — with carpeting. This "remodeling through redecorating" suggestion comes from the makers of Ozite, Tug and Terrace Outdoor-Indoor carpet.

Since the carpet is water-repellent, its many uses include carpeting a patio or swimming pool apron, say Ozite decorating experts. In polypropylene olefin fiber from the Vectra Company, the carpet is said to be stain and soil resistant, with excellent cleanability.

Ozite Outdoor-Indoor carpet is available in a variety of decorator colors and retails for about $5.40 per square yard.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT SECTION

What's New For The Home This Fall!

Finance home modernizing and make amazing changes

If buying a new home with a more functional kitchen, gleaming baths and added bedrooms seems too far into your future, don't fret. With today's material and techniques, you can work amazing changes in your present home at prices well within your budget.

Modernizing your own home will not only add ease and comfort to your daily living, it will also add solid value that can be translated into dollars again when you finally do decide to sell.

Of course you can't finance a new bathroom from the savings in your cookie jar, but banks stand ready and willing to lend the necessary cash. They view home improvements as a first class reason for borrowing and offer several different types of loans to cover a variety of needs.

Here is a brief rundown on the six main ways to finance home improvements today: ONE: Title Loans - You can borrow up to $3,500 with five years to repay this short-term loan insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

TWO: Bank Home-Improvement Loan - At first glance, it will look almost the same to you as a Title I loan. You can borrow up to $350 and take five years to repay. But interest varies from five to seven dollars discount per $100 a year.

These loans cost slightly more, but they are more flexible. Banks make these loans entirely on their own. Thus, they are not subject to FHA regulations. For example, you can use the money for many improvements considered non-essential and thus not approved under Title I.

THREE: Open End Mortgage Loan - Take a look at the mortgage paper on your home. Does it contain an "open-end" provision? Then you may be able to borrow more money. Usually you must have already paid in a substantial equity. Then, you will be able to borrow an amount equal to what you've already paid off. To handle the added debt, your monthly payments may be increased slightly. Or the time of repayment extended.

FOUR: FHA Long - Term Loan - Under Section 203K of the Federal Housing Act, you may be able to borrow up to $10,000 for as long as 20 years. If your home is less than 10 years old, you must use the loan to make major structural changes like adding a new wing to your house.

FIVE: Refinancing Present Mortgage - If you have a conventional mortgage without an open-end mortgage clause, see if you can re-tire your existing mortgage. Then, get a new one in a larger amount to include the money for improvements.

SIX: Personal Bank Loan - Consider a personal bank loan if your home-improvement projects are small.

KITCHENS ARE HOMEOWNERS' PRIME TARGETS for improvements through remodeling, a recent survey shows. The kitchen suggested here is a model of efficiency featuring an island arrangement for the clean-up center, an open, airy look with touches of cheerful color and lots of storage space provided by steel cabinets that combine utility with beauty. Pots and pans are uniquely available via overhead rack.

Laundry closed off by doors can be easy on space, budget

There's a space race going on today—inside the house. Sometimes in the hustle for living and working space, it's difficult to add that complete home laundry, particularly when so much room is needed for the young family and its many activities.

One solution to this problem is a laundry center that can be closed off by shuttered bi-fold doors added at the end of a family room. With this arrangement, mother can join in the family fun while doing the laundry.

This type of laundry not only saves on space, but may be easy on the budget, too. It can be finished with a minimum of expense if the man of the house can complete most of the carpentry work himself.

One plan of this type calls for shuttered doors that close off the work area when not in use, providing an attractive wall.

When open, however, the bi-fold doors reveal a compact center equipped to handle everything from sorting and stain removal to clean clothes storage.

A small sink should be provided convenient to the automatic washer and dryer for pre-treating heavily soiled areas on clothes, starching and removing stains. The sink will come in handy, too, for such activities as washing any dishes used in the family room or removing fingerprint from small hands.

Another space saving feature of the plan is a cabinet that holds the sink and provides a tilt-out bin with three sections for sorting soiled laundry. Though one load of clothes is laundered at a time, such bins will come in handy for storing future wash loads—all pre-sorted.

The wall space above the sink and laundry equipment may be utilized as storage space by the addition of a pegboard and attached shelves.

The shelves come in handy for holding detergent, bleach and other laundry aids, as well as a complete stain removal kit well put of the reach of small children.

Enough shelf room can be provided, too, for temporary storage of the folded clean clothes and linens after they come from the dryer.

Stamp-sized clip is secret to installing Plankweld panels

Home-owners with an urge to do something which will lend a note of luxury to their living rooms have a ready-made answer in a special kind of do-it-yourself wood paneling called Plankweld.

Plankweld panels are 16 inches wide and come completely prefinished with three-lacquer coats — as on only the best furniture. Secret of easy installation on Plankweld panels is a small clip not much bigger than a postage stamp. Fitted into the grooved edge of the easily-handled "planks," these clips allow invisible nailing to studs or furring strips.

Descriptive literature on paneling for do-it-yourselfers may be obtained by writing Reisen Lumber & Millwork, 1070 Morris Ave., Union.

COOKING CENTER convenience comes with versatile new ranges, modern cookware and well-planned storage space. Here, roll-out shelves provide storage, near countertop oven and separate cooktop, for complete set of aluminum cookware — some with non-stick coatings.

According to Clarence Reisen of Reisen Lumber, here's how one New Jersey homeowner put a 13-foot wood feature wall in one weekend (with only a hammer and a hand saw):

First, he nailed seven 1 inch by 2 inches furring strips horizontally over the old plaster wall at 16 inch intervals making sure where possible that the nails hit the wall studs. This allowed him a firm nailing base for the Plankweld clips. In some instances, where a dry interior wall has sufficient nail-holding power, furring strips may be omitted.

Next, individual panels were arranged along the wall for best grain and color sequence. Panel backs were numbered in desired order and stacked nearby.

After the first panel was face-nailed to the furring strips with small finishing nails, the Plankweld metal clips were slipped into the grooved edge of the panel every 16 inches and nailed.

From here on it was merely a matter of slipping the tongued edge of each succeeding panel into place in the preceding groove over the clips and repeating the simple clip nailing. A woodwork hardwood molding in appropriate matching wood at the ceiling and base topped off the job.

Time consumed including coffee breaks and a few miscellaneous hours for eating, sleeping and showing Junior and Sis how not to use a hammer came to slightly under a standard two-day weekend.

Outdoor furniture tasks

Checking, cleaning, repairing and painting outdoor furniture that's still stored indoors is a job that can be done now.

Windows for comfort

One home improvement that adds considerably to both living comfort and the sales potential of a house is the installation of self-storing combination storm and screen windows and doors.

Since aluminum storm and screen windows and doors should be capable of withstanding all kinds of weather for many years with little or no maintenance, they should be chosen with care. The Insect Wire Screen Bureau suggests that home owners use the following checklist when choosing storms — and screens.

1. Examine cutaway sections of the frames in the dealer's showroom to be sure construction is sturdy.
2. Look out for poor fits, open mitres and dirt-catching corners. Glass in storm panels should seal tightly all around and should be heavy, with no distorting flaws.
3. Since the screening must stand up for years in all kinds of weather, choose it carefully. Aluminum screening doesn't rust, rot, fade or sag and is made under U.S. Commerce Department standards.
4. Choose a design and color that blends well with the exterior of the house.
5. Test display models to make sure self-storing panels open and close easily.

Doctor talks turkey: watch that meal

That Thanksgiving turkey dinner you're contemplating for later this month may well be as dangerous as a loaded gun — aimed at your heart — Dr. Harold Waspehman, president of the Union County Heart Association warned this week.

"The better food looks, smells and tastes, the more you're tempted to overeat," the Westfield physician declared. "If a heaping plate loaded with stuffed turkey basking in a pool of rich gravy, cuddling up to a mound of candied sweets and surrounded by a dozen hot buttered biscuits isn't there, you aren't going to eat it. But let a well-meaning wife or hostess mount such a production for your benefit and you're helpless.

"Once a year won't hurt you, of course. It's the long-running reject performances, three times a day, every day, that add menacing pounds to the other burdens we carry, Wasserman points out.

While the Union County Heart Association doesn't suggest taking the meal away from the man, it does propose taking some of the calories away from the meal. This requires forethought, some knowledge of caloric and nutritional values, and a few cooking tricks. The results can be just as palatable as the fattening feast described above.

LET'S TAKE that Thanksgiving menu for a starter. Turkey is fine for a main course (duck or goose are too fat). But try basting it with custome instead of fat. And the Heart Association suggests using fat-free bouillon to moisten the stuffing.

Try acorn or butternut squash instead of candied sweet potatoes. Baked with a light glaze of brown sugar and cinnamon, they're in the holiday spirit of half the price. In calories, the Union County Heart Association reports.

Mushrooms, which are low in calories, can add glamour as well as savor to the main course. Toss the salad with lemon juice or low-calorie dressings spiked with herbs. And for the sweet touch to top off the feast, there is a variety of fruit or whipped gelatin desserts to take the place of rich pie or pastry.

One basic rule for this, and every meal you serve, be it for two or a crowd: don't push calories down. Moderate portions will help.

Other basic principles the Union County Heart Association urges you to keep in mind for family meals the year round are:

Eating patterns are established in early childhood. The meals you serve can carry children on the road to good health and longer life.

CALORIE CUTTING BEGINS at the supermarket. Buy only lean cuts of meat (avoid fat-larded prime steaks and rib roasts); plan more meals around fish and poultry.

Back in the kitchen, your cooking methods should be calorie- and cholesterol-conscious. Use skim milk in recipes calling for milk; broil, rather than fry or saute; use polyunsaturated cooking oil and special margarines wherever possible. Prepare soups and stews a day ahead, and refrigerate, skim the congealed fat from the top before heating and serving the next day.

And if, at the same time, you can promote a program of greater physical activity, you and your family will really have something to be thankful about when the holiday season rolls around next year: good health and good looks.

Disneyland theme planned for party at ice skating rink

Colorful pennants and Disneyland decorations will set the theme "Disneyland Comes to Warinanco" at the second annual costume ice-skating party given by the Union County Figure Skating Club on Sunday (rain date Nov. 20) from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center.

Donald Dick, Mickey Mouse and others of Disney fame will be on hand to greet the guests who are asked to come in costume. Entrance to a make-believe rink castle will be over a moat and under turret towers. The Grand March, skating games and dances will be in charge of Vincent Faganotti, Somerville, club dance and music chairman. Prizes will be awarded for the most original, the prettiest and the funniest costumes.

A star feature of the evening will be the home-baked goodies and hot drinks that will be served to guests around the open hearth fire in the warming shelter. Chairman of the party is Mrs. Pete Guss of Halloway.

The club is a member of the United States Figure Skating Club and the program is USESA sanctioned. Admission is by ticket and may be purchased from members of the club. Proceeds will be used for a scholarship skating project.

Catholic group to hold retreat this weekend

The Marions of Kearny, an organization composed of Catholic women of the Western Electric Company, Inc., will hold its annual "Open" retreat at Carmel, Oakland, tomorrow through Sunday. Miss Helen Maszkowska of North Arlington, chairman for the weekend event, stated.

Miss Elise D. Johnson of Westfield is president of the group; Rev. Edward J. McHugh of Catholic Charities serves as moderator.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"See you've overcome that nasty slice!"

Age-60 payments in Social Security

Many widows may be unaware of a change in the Social Security law and still think they have to wait until they become 62 to receive social security-widow's benefits, Ralph W. Jones, district manager of the Elizabeth Social Security office, said this week.

Until the change in the law, effective September, 1965, the widow of a man who had worked under social security could not qualify for monthly widow's benefits until she reached 62. Now, she can elect to have her payments start as early as her 60th birthday, but in smaller installments to take account of the longer time that benefits will be paid.

Jones pointed out that generally women who choose to take those reduced benefits will collect about the same value in benefits over the years. He says widows who must have been waiting for their 62nd birthday, to call or visit their local social security office to find out how the age-60 benefits would work out in their particular cases. The Elizabeth Social Security office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Thursday evenings until 9 p.m.

Asks employment of the handicapped

With the annual observance of "National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" this month, Gov. Hughes has appealed for statewide support of the annual effort to focus attention on the need to provide meaningful employment opportunities for the handicapped wage-earners of New Jersey.

"Despite the currently high level of employment, more than 6,600 handicapped workers are now seeking jobs through our state employment offices," the governor said. "Included among them are an increasing number of wounded veterans who are coming home from Vietnam," he further noted.

During the past year, the state offices developed job openings for 5,828 disabled wage-earners, as against 5,169 during the previous year.

Convicts get outside jobs

SEAGOVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — At 7 a.m. each workday morning, a prison bus leaves Seagoville's Federal Correctional Institution to take a specially selected group of convicts to jobs in the Dallas area.

The men include electricians, welders, carpenters and even cooks and bakers. They are part of a work-release program being tried at 13 federal prisons over the nation. Associate warden C. J. Hughes explains that normally there are more job prospects than inmates qualified to leave.

The program is for prisoners who less than six months to serve on their sentence and for those not imprisoned for violent or sex crimes, racketeering or organized crime.

Most of the men are engaged in day-labor work and are paid the same scale as other employees. Usually this money goes to the convict's family or to pay debts.

Minister urges church to continue rights drive

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Church members should not use Negro militancy and differences among Negro leaders as an excuse for withdrawing from civil rights effort, the Rev. Dr. Ben Molar Herberster, president of the United Church of Christ, told an open meeting here.

"Perhaps there has never been a time when our help was so needed," Dr. Herberster said. "This is one of the areas where the Church can continue to make its influence felt for justice, for righteousness, for compassion and for reconciliation. Unless we are able to stand here we will not be worthy of standing any place else."

Hospitals plan meeting

The annual fall meeting and election of officers of the N.J. Conference of Catholic Hospitals will be held on Tuesday at the Brunswick Inn, East Brunswick. Approximately 200 representatives of the 17 Catholic Hospitals in the state will be in attendance.

133 UJC students on 'Cold War Bill'

There are 133 students attending Union Junior College this semester under provisions of the so-called "Cold War G. J. Bill" it was announced this week by Mrs. Dorothea Wiersma, registrar.

Under the measure signed by President Lyndon B. Johnson on March 3, honorably discharged veterans with more than 180 days active military service since Jan. 31, 1955, are eligible for educational, housing and other benefits. The new law amounts to an extension of the World War II and Korean War benefits, but on a reduced scale.

Miss Wiersma said the total includes 55 in the Day Session as fulltime students, and 79 parttime students in the Evening Session. The Veterans Administration reported last week it mailed out 210,000 benefit checks in October, and had 35,000 applications still to process. Officials said they expect the figure to level off at about 240,000 this academic year, but could zoom upward if the Vietnam War were to be settled.

Scout exec set to speak

Dr. Gunnar H. Berg, former national director of professional training for the Boy Scouts of America will be the featured speaker at the Union County Council's Annual Recognition and Fellowship Dinner to be held at the Singer Recreation Center, Elizabethtown, on Saturday, Nov. 19.

Born in Norway, Dr. Berg came to the United States as a youth. After graduation from the University of Washington in 1922, Dr. Berg did graduate work at Columbia University where he received his doctor of education degree in 1946.

In 1927 he was selected as national director of volunteer training, and in 1936 was given the responsibility for the training of both volunteer and professional Scouters. It is estimated that Dr. Berg has spoken to over 400,000 people in 36 of the 500 councils of the Boy Scouts of America following his retirement from Scouting in 1962.

The council annual dinner will honor the 3,000 volunteers who have been active in Scouting during 1966. The council's highest award, the Silver Beaver, will be presented to several men who will not know of their selection for this honor until the night of the dinner.

New packaged nail system solves problem of searching

"For want of a nail the shoe was lost, for want of a shoe the horse was lost." For want of a nail many a householder is lost when it comes to a simple handyman job around the house.

Nails were one of man's first fastening devices. They are basic to any home modernizing or maintenance job.

It's not from a lack of nail availability that the home handyman suffers. Many types of nails in countless sizes are available at every hardware store. It just seems like a lot of trouble to stand around while a clerk fishes them out of the bin—and weighs them out.

Even the householder who is foresighted enough to stock up on nails is frequently frustrated. The nails are easily lost, and when found the paper sacks may have split, spilling their contents.

All this can be a thing of the past with a new packaged-nail system from U.S. Steel.

Nails are packed in sturdy, reusable one-pound and five pound boxes with charts on the back that take the mystery out of nail sizes. The packages contain a total of 32 sizes of 12 basic nail types that will cover 93 per cent of the homeowner's needs.

The nails in the boxes come in parallel rows, instead of being jumbled together. If all the nails are not used at one time, the top flaps of the boxes can be tucked in and the packages stacked for orderly storage and quick identification on a shelf or in a drawer.

Packaged nails are as easy to buy as they are to use. All the nail packages fit on one rack. A display over the rack shows the 12 basic nail types in 32 sizes. The nail types are coded in 12 colors.

To find his one pound or five pound package the customer looks for the corresponding colored shelf marker in the rack.

A nail-selector brochure is available which identifies nail uses through application drawings and helps the customer choose the right nail.

WOOD BEAM EFFECT can be achieved in remodeling projects through "Vinylfold," vinyl-surfaced hardboard that folds into the shape of a beam. Complementary to wall paneling, the beams come in lengths of 12, 14 and 16 feet. Apply to ceilings of plaster, drywall or ceiling tile by nailing to furring strips.

Open classes Saturday in obedience training

The Dog Obedience Group will conduct obedience training classes beginning Saturday morning at the American Legion, Post 35, rear of the Municipal building in Union.

The classes will be conducted for all breeds. There will be special emphasis placed on small dogs and individual attention so that the minimum can be derived for both handler and dog. Obedience classes are intended to develop the dog's natural ability and make him a much more desirable companion and friend. Classes are now forming. For information, call MU 8-6152 in the evening.

Working off taxes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Until 1960, road improvement in the United States depended mainly on farmers, who contributed their labor in payment of a road tax, according to highway building researchers at Allied Chemical.

Government awards new contracts to Essex and Union County firms

Prime government contracts provided added impetus to New Jersey's advancing economy during September with awards totaling $200,847,374 to 196 business firms throughout the State, Robert A. Roe, Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development announced this week. Commissioner Roe said an additional 23 contracts with the dollar amounts "indefinite" went to 21 New Jersey concerns.

Bergen led the 17 counties represented on the award list with contracts aggregating $81,598,048 for a wide range of manufactured products and research services. These include 13 contracts ($45,332,366) to Curtiss-Wright's Aeronautical Div. of Wood-Ridge for aircraft engine parts; two contracts ($18,973,084) to the Federal Electric Corp. of Paramus for management of aircraft operations and maintenance of a communications system; and a $7,800,000 contract to Fairchild Camera & Instrument Corporation's Space & Defense Systems Div. of Paramus for a modulator transmitter.

The list of prime government contracts awarded to New Jersey firms each month is prepared by the Research and Statistics Section of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Home pools add family fun; can be ready in only 3 days

If the memory of summer weekends captures you fighting traffic jams to and from crowded beaches, you can still provide your family with the health, recreation and relaxation that swimming affords and stay comfortably at home. In three days you can be taking a dip in your own pool.

Last year 56,700 residential pools were installed across the U.S., according to the Swimming Pool Industry Market Report, and if the present trend continues, by 1970, one out of every 32 homeowners will have a backyard pool. In 1968, there were only 2,500 residential pools in the nation.

You can have a pool installed in your backyard in three days, thanks to the development of a prefabricated in-the-ground steel swimming pool with a vinyl liner. A 16 by 32 foot pool—complete with filter—is available for less than $1500. Other sizes range from 8 1/2 by 17 feet to 25 1/2 by 50 feet.

Here's how it's installed.

An excavation is dug, usually with a power shovel. Walls of corrosion-resistant galvanized steel are set in place. The bottom is leveled with the floor with fine tamped-down sand two inches thick.

A pre-shaped vinyl liner is then fastened to the corners of the pool walls and carefully spread out. A vacuum pump exhausts the air between the liner and the sand bottom to insure a snug tight fit.

When the pipes to and from the pool and filter system have been installed, landscaping completed and the pool filled, you're all set.

Also available for the home installation are stainless steel pools with porcelain enamel— which is the same glass-smooth material used in household appliances. They too require minimum surface maintenance. Of course, porcelain enamel provides permanent glossing color.

Besides the enjoyment your family will derive from a swimming pool, residential pools are regarded as home improvements and most banks will lend money to build them. In fact, statistics show that installing a swimming pool has frequently helped the sale of a home.

Local ordinances often require fencing around a pool. The barrier should be of sufficient height to prevent trespassing by small children and prevent non-swimmers from accidentally falling into an unattended pool.

One of the least expensive and most practical types of pool protection is steel link fencing. Available in all heights, gauges, patterns, colors, and price ranges, steel fencing requires little maintenance and can be extremely attractive as well.

Floor insulation boards reduce noise under foot

Adding a room? Finishing an attic? Noise through floors can be reduced by installing a sound deadening insulation board below the rough or sub-flooring, prior to the tile installation.

This product, available from the manufacturer—members of The Insulation Board Institute, absorbs noise and results in a much quieter floor.

This zoologist out for blood

LAWRENCE, Kim (UPI)—Anyone have a smidgen of panda blood available? See Dr. Charles A. Leone, a professor of zoology at the University of Kansas.

Leone is engaged on a 10-year project of collecting blood samples from as many species of meat-eating animals as he can find. His object is to establish family trees of the seal, lion, dog and walrus. And, he says, this involves comparing them with as many other animals as possible, for which he needs blood samples.

Collection of samples is almost done, with only a few but crucial exceptions, including the sea otter and panda bear. Such animals are available in zoos, but Leone said they are so valuable the owners don't want any tampering with them, even to take a small sample of blood.

Most of his samples so far have come from zoo animals which have been injured and are losing blood or needing medical attention anyway.

Roselle to visit as Regional Bulldogs seek 1st victory

Dayton griders beaten by undefeated Westfield

By MYRON MEISEL

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team will entertain Abraham Clark High School of Roselle this Saturday in the final home encounter of the 1966 season. The Bulldogs have yet to win a game, dropping their seventh contest last weekend to the top-notch Westfield High School grid squad, 42-6.

Westfield, one of five undefeated Group IV schools in New Jersey, maintained its streak against a rather weak Dayton squad; however, Westfield found, as did other teams, that Dayton can certainly put up a struggle. For instance, the Blue Devil quarterback complained about the game that his personal rushing yardage had been kept the lowest of the season. Westfield's well-known running game proved ineffective, but with the passing, it was another story.

Once again, the Bulldogs missed several scoring opportunities. This, coupled with a complete collapse in the final six minutes of the first half, when the Bulldogs permitted three Blue Devil touchdowns, was decisive in determining the magnitude of the Westfield score.

But head coach Jim Horner could still find a few Bulldogs worthy of mention. Kevin Keller and Brian Sheehan, a junior and senior respectively, both played very good ball; Keller, at tackle, was a particular stand-out. He played both ways, offense and defense, all the way.

Hurricanes sweep two-game series, lead bowling league

The Thursday Afternoon Boys' Bowling League moved into its second week of competition last week with only the Hurricanes remaining undefeated. The 40 boys and regular subs who make up the Recreation Department-sponsored bowling league meet each Thursday afternoon at the Springfield Bowl.

Last Thursday, the Hurricanes topped the Raiders twice in their two-game series. This double victory enabled the Hurricanes to reach the top of the league standings after two weeks of play. Hurricane captain Todd Herman once again led his team to victory as he turned in games of 144 and 138 for a series total of 282. Craig Nowinski with a 257 effort for two games paced the Raiders. Ronnie Silverman of the Hurricanes with a series effort of 237, and Mike Donner of the Raiders with a two game total of 245 were effective.

The Jets moved into second place with a sweep of two games over the Bombers last week. The Jets now have a record of 3 and 1 for the young season. Steve Gray with a 283 series and Billy Schwab with a 263 effort for two games, were the top scorers. Wasserman with a 218 series total topped the Bombers.

The Hornets and the Aims split their two-game series. Both teams are even on the season. Steve Gray topped the Hornets with a 273 series, while Jay Silverman with a 259 series topped the Aims.

The final match of the day saw the Rockets rebound to sweep a series from the Bulldogs. Mitch Wolff rolled the highest series of the campaign to pace the Rocket sweep. Mitch rolled games of 143 and 133 for a 276 total. Mark Hollander with a 268 series effort and Ed Grasselle with a series total of 265 also helped to pace the Rocket victories. Kenny Baroff with a 230 total was the top scorer for the Bulldogs.

Steve Gray with a 142 season average continues to be the league's top average bowler. Steve Glover at 135 is in second place, and Mark Hollander with a 131 average follows closely. A trio of youthful bowlers are tied with 133 season averages. Those boys are: Mike Braun, Todd Herman and Mitch Wolff. The remaining boys in the top 10 are: Jay Silverman, 132; Mike Donner, 129; Craig Nowinski, 129, and Ed Grasselle, 126.

Three are leaders in league bowling

High scorers in Springfield Municipal League bowling at the Springfield Bowl last week were Vince Pollicarpio, 204-231-506; Anthony Truncate, 213-213-568; and Robert Anderson, 236-595.

Others who rolled 200 games were Robert Shreve, 230; Robert Bunnell Jr., 212; Ted Hatus, 200; Art Mutschler, 199; Martin Lafferty, 206; Robert Block, 204; and Rex Schuman, 202. Andrea-Driveways is in first place with a 17 1/2-9 1/2 record and Bunnell Bros. is second with 16-11. Tied for third are Springfield Market, Cardinal Garden Center and Pollicarpio Bros., all 15-12.

Electric autos to make comeback soon

DETROIT (UPI) -- Revolution by Ford Motor Company of details of its new battery power source follows the possibility of a comeback for the electric automobile.

But for the foreseeable future, at least, it won't take the place of the conventional family car in this country.

It could in Europe and other parts of the world, however, and that's the reason European carmakers have been so interested in finding out what Ford has got.

The new battery source of electric power is aimed primarily at the small car with limited range and speeds at or below 60 miles an hour. It's not sufficient to move a two-ton vehicle on cross-country trips over superhighways at superhighway speeds.

in addition, Bob Gartlan and Nathan Edelman shone on the Bulldog attack, which in the main consisted of two hard drives, one of which was successful.

A NOTE on the attendance is relevant. It was an away game, but nevertheless the visitors' stands were packed to capacity, with cheering and loyal Westfield partisans. While hardly a factor in the game, the lack of support certainly did not help when, as at the half, Bulldog spirits flagged. Dayton, despite its record, has played some strong football that merits watching. On Saturday, the last home game and final contest before the holiday finale with Railway, the Dayton gridiron squad certainly deserves better.

The game started badly, Springfield leading off, lost the ball on a third-down interception. Westfield consequently took possession on the Dayton 40. Three more downs saw the first Blue Devil touchdown. Substitute Craig Stein caught a 40-yard pass from the Westfield quarterback, Bob Brewster, in the end zone. Shortly afterward, Westfield had the piskin on the Bulldog 42, when a powerful fullback, Mike Murphy, gave the Blue Devils impetus with an 18-yard run to the Dayton 28. The Blue Devils made it official with a 20-yard scoring run.

The three TD blitz was on. It was a bad day for the Bulldogs as the first bad snap of the season in a fourth-down situation set up another Blue Devil score. Westfield had some trouble with this one, taking four downs to gain a first down on the Dayton 11, and then another four to push over the goal line. But Dayton had barely had the ball for three downs when another interception ensued. This occurred right at the line of scrimmage, and the lineman who grabbed it on the Dayton 21 and ran it to the three made one of the finest steals that one can remember.

There was one more yet to come in that fatal half. Westfield got the ball on its own 25 with only two minutes left. The fullback pushed 11 yards to the 36, and another first down followed that brought the Blue Devils to their own 49. With little time remaining, Brewster tossed the long bomb to Stein, and completed all 51 yards of it. Score at the half-time whistle: 35-0.

THE SECOND HALF saw the Bulldogs settle down and finally form a viable attack. Gartlan did a fine job at quarterback and he and Edelman at times took on the appearance of a duet. It started with Gartlan tossing a pass to Edelman for 15 yards, from the Dayton 30 to the 45. Lee Rothfield then went 12 yards to the 47, and Gartlan took it solo for a big gain of 22 yards that placed the Bulldogs in scoring position on the Westfield nine. The touchdown failed to materialize, and Dayton lost this chance. The two teams stumbled through the remainder of the quarter, with Westfield having its punt blocked, Dayton then fumbling, and Westfield having its pass intercepted. The Bulldogs this time managed to reach the Blue Devil 39.

In the final quarter, Westfield scored for the sixth and final time on a 40-yard pass; Dayton, however, was quick to recover, starting out on the Dayton 40. Gartlan hit Edelman for 25 yards. Now on the Westfield 45, the situation became third down, with five to go. Gartlan and Edelman went for five and the first down. Gartlan took the next two plays alone. Then, varying the pattern somewhat, he threw to Rothfield for 20 yards to the Westfield four. Gartlan finished the job himself, scoring the only tally seen on the Dayton side of the scoreboard.

Roselle has a quarterback, Bob McLeod, whom Horner describes as being "most of the Roselle offense. He's fancy, skilled, and has a lot of tricks and traps. But I feel that we can hold him, and that can make it close. We certainly have a chance to win. We have to be up there day, but we could do it."

Two quintets tied for lead in bowling

The Hi Jinks and Try Hards shared the first place in the St. James Rosarians' bowling league following last week's actions at the 4 seasons. Both teams had records of 13-5.

Leading ladies for the week included: Gen Ammanno, 179-444; Helen Kepler, 176-173-482; Dolores Litzebauer, 174-171-471-471; Marie Keon, 169-150-451; Anna Schaffert, 164-413; Martha Latak, 163-421; Nancy O'Grady, 155-153-151-459; Ann Grasselle, 154-430; Helen Stecke, 153-413; and Lucille Fuchs, 153-150-414.

Sweeps were made by the Hi Jinks over the Swingers, Try Hards over the Go Go Girls, Holy Rollers over Hopeloffs, Marginals over Alley Cats and Toppers over the Stinkors.

League honors go to Mrs. Mutschler

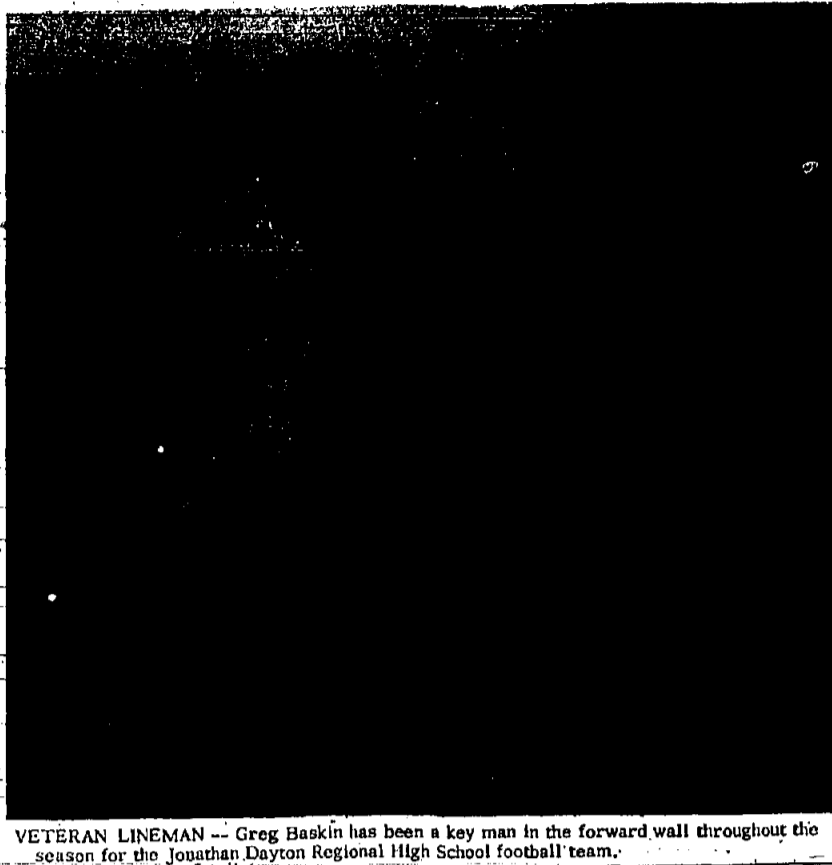

Clare Mutschler became the newest member of the 200 Club in the Springfield Skelters when she bowled a 212 game in league competition last week at Springfield Bowl.

Hawks still undefeated, lead Afternoon Bowling League

At the conclusion of two weeks of bowling competition in the Boys' Friday Afternoon Bowling League, the Hawks are alone at the top of the standings with a record of four victories and no defeats. The Friday league is the second of two boys' leagues sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department. The boys meet each week at the Springfield Bowl.

The Hawks swept a pair of games last Friday from the Chargers to become the league's only undefeated team. They were paced by the fine bowling of Myles Harmon, who rolled a 252 series. Steve Blumenkrantz with a 231 series and Tommy Lowy with a 222 effort for two games were also effective for the winning Hawks. Neil Elliot paced the Chargers with a 260 series. His effort topped both teams in the match.

The Falcons received a good performance from their captain, Stuart Leibschin, and a top team effort from the supporting cast to move into second place in the league standings with a sweep of two games from the Rangers. Stuart paced both teams with a 277 series effort. Scott Prussing with a two-game total of 233 paced the losing Rangers.

The Tigers posted an upset sweep over the previously unbeaten Warriors in another match last week. Howie Levine rolled a 249 series to lead the Tigers to their win. Roy Greenberg was the Warriors' top performer with a 238 series effort.

The final match of the day saw the Chiefs' Gary Neifeld roll the top series of the day to lead his club to a two-game sweep of the Royals. Gary rolled a fine 310 series to pace all bowlers last Friday.

Gary Neifeld's top effort enabled him to take the individual average lead over Scott Prussing. Gary is first with 155, while Scott is a close second at 151. Stuart Leibschin is third with a 139 average. Neil Elliot holds the fourth spot with a 130 average, and Howie Levine is fifth.

Federal Tax Facts

REPORTING CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES Taxpayers who sold their homes during 1966 must file more records and Federal tax forms than when they filed their 1965 income tax returns.

Joseph M. Stotz, IRS district director for New Jersey said that a taxpayer with a gain or loss on the sale of property should have adequate records to substantiate the sale price, cost of the property and deductible expenses of the sale. Stotz noted that losses on the sale of a personal residence, are not deductible.

The tax form for use in reporting gains or losses on property sales is Schedule D, which may be obtained from any Internal Revenue Service office.

Stotz advised taxpayers who sold homes or completed property transactions through an early start on their 1966 return. Property transactions can be complicated and it takes time to get records together, he said. Taxpayers can get details on reporting property sales from Document No. 5048, "Sale and Exchange of Assets". It is free and is available from any IRS office.

Senator HARRISON A. WILLIAMS Reports

THE REALITIES OF INTERNATIONAL LIFE WASHINGTON--Without question the most immediately serious problem facing this nation today is the war in Vietnam.

And it is interesting that this criticism has come from the most ardent of both the believers and the non-believers in the United Nations. The non-believers point to the UN's failure to settle the war in Vietnam and say: "See, I told you the UN was useless."

THE BELIEVERS POINT to the past successes of the UN in putting out the flames of international conflict and say: "I can't understand why the UN doesn't do something this time."

And, frequently, they add a corollary: "The fault must be ours. We are not making a sincere attempt to use the UN to settle the war in Vietnam."

Both are ignoring the realities. The UN is not a world government. It is an assemblage of sovereign powers who use the UN as a meeting place and instrument for the accomplishment of their national goals.

Moreover, the major powers have an overwhelming influence on the course the UN will take in any given crisis because of the power given to the Security Council.

Dayton tops area teams with 23 schools in meet

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School cross-country team, the brightest spot in an otherwise disappointing fall season of Bulldog sports, wraps up a spectacularly successful second season today in the Dayton Area Cross-Country League. The team, coached by Livingston Regional High School of Berkeley Heights at Warmanco Park, in a meet originally postponed because of rain. Coach Marty Taglienti's harriers, who at this writing has compiled an impressive record of 10-1, added more laurels to their list by soundly defeating Cranford High School, 45-1, and placing fourth out of 23 competing schools in the Varsity B classification in "Turkey Trot" Saturday under the sponsorship of Roselle Catholic High School.

The "Turkey Trot" placing is significant because Dayton out-ran every other competing public school from this area. The closest local contender was Union High School, which placed eighth. Depford, a school in Southern Jersey, placed first, and two parochial schools, Seton Hall and Queen of Peace, ran second and third.

Despite the toughness of the competition, and the fact that one key runner was absent, the Bulldogs showed quite well. Ken Shatten led with an 18th place, Howie George placed eighth, Depford, a school in Southern Jersey, placed first, and two parochial schools, Seton Hall and Queen of Peace, ran second and third.

The cross-country team, having finished its season, showed a record of 10-1, adding more laurels to their list by soundly defeating Cranford High School, 45-1, and placing fourth out of 23 competing schools in the Varsity B classification in "Turkey Trot" Saturday under the sponsorship of Roselle Catholic High School.

Newark, N.J. -- All Internal Revenue Service Offices in New Jersey will be closed on Armed Forces Day, tomorrow.

It has also developed a new lightweight power electric motor to be used with it. And it is building more efficient controls. Several cars will be built, some tested in London and at least one will be brought to this country to be tested in traffic patterns in the Detroit area.

its second year, showed amazing prowess despite its youth. Fry and Shatten were the lead runners, but runners like Aggar, Bucci, Tadros, and in recent weeks, freshman Walsh and George, captured critical meet-winning points by exerting the extra effort required to win the higher placing.

Next season, only Shatten, Tadros, Walsh and George will remain, but still the promise is strong. This year's cross-country squad certainly provided unhappy Springfield partisans with something to be proud.

Soccer varsity reaches finale of '66 season

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School soccer squad has now completed its season. At this writing, the team record stands at 3-4-2, with the Hillside High School and Kentwood Park Regional High School of Kendallville games excluded.

The Dayton booters dropped two more last week, to Edison Technical High School of Elizabeth, 7-0 and to Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School, 2-0.

The Scotch Plains encounter was a very tight contest. Head coach Jack Palfr commented, "The team played very well. It was a good game, with each team constantly stopping the other. Our boys displayed a great deal of hustle and quite a bit of skill. It was the best game we'd played in the past few weeks." The squad played with determination and could have won. But the game just did not go our way.

"Bill Murphy and Dave Hollander both were excellent in the game. Gene Zorn did a good job at fullback, as did Ty Chu at forward."

Edison Tech simply outclassed the Dayton booters. The team was the one that had broken the marathon Friday winning streak. Edison has two very fine inside, both of whom scored three goals in the contest, and one of whom has amassed over 25 goals this season. Dayton did not display its best combinations against this formidable opposition.

Brearley contest, scheduled for last Thursday was postponed until this week, thanks to field conditions.
