Dayton eleven set to close schedule on Thanksgiving

BY MYRON MEISEL

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team will complete its 1966 fall season this Thursday when the Bulldogs will travel to Rahway High School, the traditional rival of Dayton, at 11 a.m. The Bulldogs have an 8-6 record, the Rahway Indians, 3-5. Both teams have lacked the strength of previous years.

Head coach Jim Horner this week appraised the opposition: "Rahway is, to begin with, much stronger than their record indicates. Defensively, in particular, they are quite strong. I would say that they are the hardest-hitting team in the entire Watchung Conference."

As for Dayton, aside from the many problems that have beset the team all season, a severe pinch is being felt from injuries. End Richard Bromberg was lost early in the year, and the star running back, quarterback sophomore Steve Jupp, is benched. Both star defensive men Bob Bartland and Big tackle Greg Baskin are large question-marks at this writing.

Rahway has a few people worth watching this Thanksgiving. The big defensive threat to the Bulldog attack lies in Albert Alton, a huge tackle. Another keyman on the Indians' defense is end Gary Ervich, a potent player also on offense.

The Indian offense is rather weak, but half-back Lester Danchez could cause trouble. Rahway, despite its offensive weakness does offer a variety of formations ranging from the Westfield "off-balance" and slot T to the spread and double-slot formations. However, the Bulldogs are accustomed to such variations during play, and this should not be an important factor.

RAHWAY STARTED this season off rather well with two victories over Hillside and the new school at Kenilworth. However, neither of the teams it defeated was very strong. The small David Brearley High School's squad only lost by one point, 7-6. There followed for the Indians a long string of defeats at the hands of many of the teams that also downed Springfield: Linden, 13-7; Cranford, 18-0; Westfield, 28-13; and Berkeley Heights, 14-0.

Then came the one victory that probably will place Rahway slightly ahead in the eyes of the forecasters: a 12-0 triumph over Scotch Plains the week following the Raiders' 28-6 victory over Dayton.

However, the events of the last Indian football game tend to even up the odds. Clark, which beat the Bulldogs 26-13, trounced the Indians by a score of 20-0. It was an upset victory that few expected, but Clark played good football that day, and Rahway could not even manage to gain any momentum.

The inconsistency in Rahway's play might again become evident on Thursday, especially if the Bulldogs mount a spirited attack for their final encounter and last chance to avoid a winless autumn. The intangibles involved make the contest seem much much.

COACH JIM HORNER

Chairman lists early receipts for United Fund

Jack H. Steifman, chairman of the United Fund of Springfield, this week announced that the first returns from the volunteer workers of the United Fund of Springfield indicated extremely high interest in the "one gift" concept of fund raising.

At the first report meeting of the campaign, four area captains made residential returns showing $875 for 52 per cent of one area, and $787 for 62 per cent coverage of another area. Partial returns from two other areas came to $321. The professional division reported contributions of $60 from nine donors.

Steifman stated: "I am indeed heartened by these initial returns. Our campaign has been late in starting because of the tremendous work involved in sorting up pledges cards and other organizational details. While the figures reported to date are fragmentary and represent a very small segment of Springfield, we rejoice for collected a total of $7,043 in pledges and cash."

"This is 17 per cent of our goal of $39,750. We have a long way to go to attain 100 per cent, and I urge all workers in all divisions to intensify their efforts so that we might be able in the very near future to report to the residents of Springfield that the first fundraising campaign of the United Fund of Springfield surpassed its original goal."

Steifman reported the following breakdown in funds received to date: residential division, $1,988; professional division, $50; special gifts, $80; advance cash donations, $3,750.

Aid Squad selects four new members

William Barrett, Martin Brummer, Mrs. Mildred Humphries, and Robert McCormack were elected to regular membership of the Springfield First Aid Squad at the squad's recent monthly meeting. These four members have successfully completed both the standard first aid course given by the Red Cross and the squad's own initial training program for new members.

They are now eligible to drive the ambulance while it is on call, and they now assume crew member responsibilities while on duty. They are also eligible to vote in squad elections.

The Springfield First Aid Squad declared that it is, as always, anxious to receive further membership applications for both the day and night crews. All crews now have three riding members; few crews have the full complement of four members. No training or experience is necessary, as the squad conducts its own year-long training sessions.

AT THE SCENE -- Looking over problems involved in the Rt. 78 construction area along relocated Balmoral way are, left to right, William T. Kirciner, district engineer for the State Highway Department; Mrs. Bert Goldberg, who has embarked on a letter-writing campaign to correct flaws in the project, and Melvin Schechtman, office engineer for the work in Springfield.

District engineer, housewife survey highway hazards

Several new signs along Balmoral way, in peril spots caused by relocation of the road under Rt. 78, are the first fruits of a meeting at the scene between a determined Springfield housewife and a senior engineer of the State Highway Department.

Mrs. Bert Goldberg of 232 Lelak ave, this month embarked on a letter-writing campaign, sending descriptions of the new road hazards and appeals for help to everyone from President Johnson on down.

As a result of her messages, William T. Kirciner, district engineer supervising North Jersey construction for the Highway Department, met her last Thursday to go over the area in detail. He was accompanied by Melvin Schechtman, office engineer for the work going on in Springfield.

As the conference began, Mrs. Goldberg declared, "The people of Springfield help to pay for all this construction through their taxes. We are entitled to courtesy and safety from the Highway Department. Until now, we have been getting neither." Kirciner laid down the ground rules for the inspection session: "You will show me the conditions which have caused your complaints. I will then take what action I can. I am responsible for the construction work, not the planning."

Police official offers warning on dangers of drug addiction

A warning on the dangers of drug addiction was issued this week by Det. Sam Calabrese, who is in charge of narcotics investigations for the Springfield Police Department. Calabrese commented that drugs have presented few problems in the community recently, but that constant vigilance is required.

He released the text of a statement on narcotics issued by the New York Police Department. The text of the statement follows:

"Coward is the word for addict. He is on the run, trying to escape the world of reality. He avoids social obligations. He doesn't live school. He can't hold a job. He shirks responsibility. Yet he plunges himself into a cruel, pain-wracked world of despair and self-destruction."

"He's almost like a child who pulls the blanket over his head when a strange sound frightens him. But the addict needs more than a blanket. His fears are greater. He pulls a cloud over his mind and yields to the fog of addiction, a slave to his overpowering habit."

"It began when he took his first step; a step he could have avoided. He couldn't refuse a dare. He had to show that he was not 'chicken.' It was glue-smitting at first. Then cough medicine. And goof balls. Then the 'pot' party -- marijuana. Then there was this other guy who had something better. A shot. It was free, in the spirit of the party. And it was not going to happen to him. He couldn't get 'hooked.'"

"But he had taken the dare. He had left himself open for destruction. He did not resist and

Statement reviews incident at bus stop

A statement taking exception to charges presented before the Board of Education last week, and reported in this newspaper, was issued this week by the resident who had been the subject of the charges. The board had been told that she had struck a child who was waiting in front of her house for a school bus. The woman against whom the charges had been made, who was not named in the comments before the Board of Education, declared that the incident had been discussed at an informal, closed-door hearing before the local magistrate. She also stated that she had apologized to the complainants for whatever her part in the incident may have been.

Senator HARRISON A. WILLIAMS Reports

THE ECONOMY IS OUT OF SHAPE

WASHINGTON—A popular song of a generation ago had a refrain which went: "Where, oh, where has my little dog gone, with his ears cut short and his tail cut long."

The song writer might have been describing the mishapen American economy of 1966. We are in the midst of a booming prosperity, but many of the benefits of prosperity, somehow, seem to be beyond our grasp. High prices and tight money are two of the most serious problems.

To illustrate, I recently received a letter from a constituent. He wrote: "I have five children and am now resorting to powdered milk to have meat on the table every night."

Another writer enclosing a notice accompanying a bill from her doctor, it read: "Inflationary trends compel us against our wishes to adjust our fees at this time."

Another constituent made me wince when he pointed out that while the Republican party has been called the rich man's party, it was under a Democratic administration that home loan interest rates broke through the six per cent mark.

That hurt, even though I know that the biggest jump in mortgage rates came during the Eisenhower Administration.

Perhaps the hardest hit segment of the economy is the home-building industry. Home building is at its lowest ebb since it began to pick up after World War Two, in 1946.

"This is not for lack of demand. Our population has increased more than 25 per cent since then. It is not for lack of disposable income. Per capita real income is at an all-time high. It is, solely and simply, the result of the tight money market.

What can we do about high prices and high interest rates? A number of things. The most drastic, of course, is to clamp controls on prices and wages. The situation does not warrant this, at this stage, and I am certain there is no substantial sentiment for this in the Congress.

One serious step which is under consideration is a tax increase. In theory—and believe in practice as well—this would damp down the inflationary trend by taking billions of dollars out of the over-heated economy.

As a matter of fact, we have already enacted a form of tax increase by rescinding the seven per cent tax depreciation allowance for business expansion.

One relatively simple step we took was to raise the federal deposit insurance limit for accounts in Savings and Loan Association from $10,000 to $15,000 in order to encourage larger accounts.

We also injected desperately needed new funds into the mortgage market by providing $4.75 billion to the Federal National Mortgage Association. Fannie Mae has already put $3.75 billion of this money into the secondary mortgage market and I wrote President Johnson this week, urging him to use his authority to release an additional billion dollars in special assistance for the mortgage market authorized by the Congress.

We also attempted to put the Savings and Loan Associations on a more even footing in their competition with commercial banks for deposits by regulating interest and dividend rates.

There are some signs that the steps taken so far are having an effect. For instance, John Horne, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Board told me recently that S&L deposits show a net gain for the first time in recent months.

The Wall Street Journal has found signs in the business community that indicate some of the heat is coming out of the economy, also. So far, these indicators have not been translated into lower prices or easier credit for you and me.

Whether and how fast that happens will determine, in good part, what action, if any, President Johnson and the Congress take early next year.

Student takes part in work program

Lynne Feuerstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Feuerstein, of 148 Briarhills Circle, Springfield, is now working at Altman's Department Store, New York City, in a special six week co-operative work program, as part of her course of study at the Laboratory Institute of Merchandising of New York City. Miss Feuerstein graduated from Dayton Regional High School and is enrolled in LIM's two-year program.

The Laboratory Institute of Merchandising, with a current enrollment of almost 300 students in its own building at 12 E. 53rd St., New York, is a 28-year-old school which trains young women for executive careers in fashion merchandising. The course includes art, advertising, selling, display, administration, buying, speech, executive development, store operation, fabrics and merchandising.

The students have two work projects a year, the current one being a course of study at Altman's. The students who continue until Christmas and the other just before Easter. In which students are placed in salaried jobs in various department stores, and are rated by the stores on their performance and executive potential.

2 representatives at NJEA seminar

William Hannah of the mathematics department and Joseph Blanda of the English department in the Springfield public schools attended a New Jersey Education Association seminar Thursday on teacher-education negotiations last Thursday. Blanda is a member of the salary committee of the Springfield Teachers Association and Hannah is the committee chairman.

The meeting, held at the Montclair High School Annex, was one of a series of regional NJEA workshops for local teacher groups in Essex, Union, Morris and Sussex counties. The seminars were initiated to develop effective approaches in securing improvements for teachers and students to raise the quality of education.

Student elected officer of college honor group

LANCASTER, Pa.—Richard H. Arcadis, a Springfield student attending Franklin and Marshall College, was elected treasurer of the Black Pyramid Senior Honor Society at the college.

Arcadis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Arcadis of 33 Bryant ave. He is majoring in economics at the college.

Days for mailing grow fewer as Christmas season nears

Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio has reminded residents of Springfield that there are only 30 mailing days before Christmas. "While that may seem like a long time to most people, it is frighteningly short to those of us in the postal service," he said. "Postmaster General

Lawrence F. O'Brien has predicted that well over eight billion pieces of mail will be delivered throughout the nation between now and Christmas Eve, a new all-time record.

"We are asking everyone to start thinking about Christmas shopping and mailing now. If all the holiday mail were to hit the postal system at one time, it is obvious that we'd have difficulty delivering every piece on time."

The Springfield post office expects to handle two and one half million pieces of mail during the holiday period, the postmaster said. He added that mailing early and spreading the mail flow out along the entire pre-Christmas season is the key to better mail service at this time of the year.

Last year the public cooperation was "tremendous," according to Del Vecchio. "Virtually every piece of holiday mail was delivered before Christmas Day. This year, with increased volume because of the continuing strength of the economy, we are hoping to see that fine cooperative spirit once again."

Postmaster Del Vecchio offered the following mailing tips:

"Use ZIP Codes on all mail. If there are some ZIP Codes that you still need, please send the Forms 3759, which we delivered to your homes some time ago, to the Post Office, and we will give you the proper ZIP Codes."

"Prepare your gift lists right away. The earlier you do your shopping the better chance you have to get exactly what you want while the stores are still full of merchandise. Thus, you can mail earlier also."

"Be sure to have enough boxes, tape, string and wrapping paper on hand."

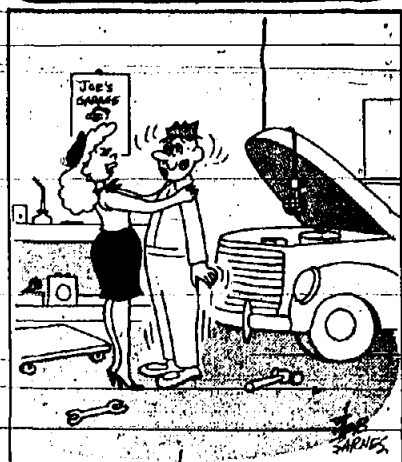

"Wrap your parcels well. Include sufficient padding. Remember that your parcel may be shipped in a mail sack with a set of heavy books or other heavy parcels riding on top."

"Include a card or piece of paper inside the package with your name and address and that of the person you are sending the parcel to, just in case the wrapping should come off. In this way, you can be assured your gift will not wind up in the dead parcel office. Also, insert a list of the package's contents."

"Address your gifts and greeting cards clearly. Use first class postage on the greeting cards. This assures their being forwarded if the recipient has moved. Cards mailed at the first class rate of postage, if undeliverable, will be returned to you when you include a return address on the envelope. The Post Office Department has issued a special five-cent Christmas stamp which will help decorate your holiday mail."

"Most important of all — mail early!"

LAFF OF THE WEEK

Law student helps team take honors in moot court event

Bernard D. Pearl, of 22 W. Bryant ave., Springfield, a senior at the Rutgers School of Law, was a member of the three-man state university team which placed first last week in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania area moot court competition in Philadelphia.

Pearl and his teammates are now eligible to enter the national moot court competition in December in New York City. Over 100 law schools throughout the country participate in the national competition which is sponsored by the young lawyers' committee of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. The purpose of the competition is to enable law students to compete in their courtroom abilities.

The students argued a case involving the constitutionality of electronic eavesdropping by state law enforcement officials pursuant to a state statute. The competition was judged by jurists from the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas, the United States District Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

LWV will discuss water, air pollution at group's meeting

The Springfield League of Women Voters will hold its next meeting on water and air pollution on Tuesday, at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Leonard Kriegman, 182 Hawthorne ave.

Mrs. Irwin Rosen, chairman of the committee, stated there will be a short review of local and state water situations, and the group will then "discuss the main problem that faces us now - pollution." Federal financing of municipal sewage treatment will be explained, and industrial pollution examined.

Some of the questions to be covered are: "Should the federal government provide the principal incentive to private industry to reduce their water pollution?" "Should help be given to all companies or should companies be helped only under special circumstances?" "What general criteria might be used?" "What other ways might there be to motivate industry to reduce pollution?"

A PARENT would be horrified to discover that his child's school did not hold fire drills. Yet a child is 200 times more likely to be trapped in fire at a home than at school. Most of them could walk swiftly away from death if they were given the most elementary fire instructions. The most important life-saving command to impress upon children is: Escape immediately. Also, map out, with the children helping, two separate escape routes from each room. More than 2,000 children die annually in home fires, reports the American Medical Association.

PERSONAL ATTITUDES toward smoking, as indicated by the children, are by no means good. Howard School of Public Health, tend to be formed before boys and girls reach the age of 15. The researchers suggest that programs seeking to discourage and prevent cigarette smoking among teen-agers might be more effective if the programs were started before the youths reached that age.

Federal Tax Facts

TAX ACCOUNT NUMBERS

Taxpayers who receive dividend or interest income are required by law to give their tax account numbers to the organizations that pay the income, according to Joseph M. Shetz, District Director of Internal Revenue for New Jersey. An individual's tax account number is his Social Security number.

Although most taxpayers have already given their social security numbers to banks, insurance companies and corporations in which they hold stocks or bonds, a substantial number have not done so.

All business firms are required to report to Internal Revenue all payments of interest or dividends amounting to $10 or more during a calendar year. Taxpayers are required to report all dividend or interest income on their tax returns even if it is less than this amount.

The information returns, Forms 1099, used by paying organizations to report the income to Internal Revenue are compared with individual tax returns to be sure that the income is reported and that the full amount is included.

The law provides penalties for both business firms and individuals who fail to provide tax account numbers when they are requested.

14th century pin sales pinned down to 2 days

WATERBURY, Conn. (UPI)—Twenty-one billion pins are produced in the United States each year—well by five companies—in Connecticut. No one ever complains, seriously, about a pin shortage.

This was not always the case, according to researchers at the largest U.S. producer (Scovill Manufacturing Co.). They report that in the 14th century the English parliament passed an act restricting pin-makers to selling their products "in open shops only on the first and second days in January." Hence, on those two days, women were provided with money to buy their whole year's supply of pins, giving rise to the term "pin money."

Former soldiers taking advantage of 'Cold War Bill'

Richard Evans III of 42 Redwood rd., and Edgar J. Pittenger of 119 S. Maple ave., both of Springfield, are among 153 students attending Union Junior College this semester under provisions of the so-called "Cold War G.I. Bill." It was announced this week by Dorthea Wiersma, Registrar.

Under the measure signed by President Johnson on March 3, honorably discharged veterans with more than 180 days active military service since Jan. 31, 1955, are eligible for educational, housing and other benefits. The new law amounts to an extension of the World War II and Korean War benefits, but on a reduced scale.

Miss Wiersma said the total includes 55 in the day session as fulltime students, and 79 part-time students in the evening session. The Veterans Administration reported recently it mailed out 210,000 benefit checks in October, and had 35,000 applications still to process. Officials said they expect the figure to level off at about 240,000 this academic year, but could zoom upward if the Vietnam war were to be settled.

Miss Wiersma attributed the large number of veterans attending Union Junior College to a policy adopted by the faculty and administration to permit servicemen returning to civilian status to file applications even though the deadline had passed for all other applicants. Evans is a science major, while Pittenger is enrolled as a liberal arts major. They are day session students.

Marines complete training program

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. -- Marine Private Donald N. Cardinal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cardinal of 23 Woodside rd., Springfield, and Marine Private Herman Lee Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lee of 47 Meckes st., Springfield, were graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

Under the supervision of veteran non-commissioned officer drill instructors, they learned small arms marksmanship, bayonet fighting, and methods of self-protection. They also received instruction in military drill, history and traditions of the Marine Corps, and other academic subjects.

They will now undergo four weeks of individual combat training and four weeks of basic specialist training in their military job field before being assigned to a permanent unit.

Members of Civil Air Patrol aid emergency search work

The Civil Air Patrol, N. J. Wing, was alerted by Conac from Robbins Air Force Base, Georgia, on a search mission for a 48-hour period which started Nov. 12. The search was to attempt recovery of a static line and chute pack of a paratrooper who was on a joint exercise of Air Force and Army maneuver units at the Lakehurst Naval Air Station, drop zone, to determine failure of static line and chute releases.

The Springfield Squadron participated in the ground search through thick pine growth, heavy brush growth and bogs. Maj. Paul S. Wertlake, squadron commander, alerted the group, which joined the force gathered for the mission at Lakehurst. They were under direction of Maj. Dougherty of Willow Grove AFB, Pa., disaster control officer.

Maj. Wertlake, S/Sgt. Eugene Boehm and Cadets John Shaffrey, Wayne Witkowski, Danny Williams, Robert Blansfield, Carl Booth, Fred Yunker, Ed Finan and Charles Kish, from this area were a tired group who returned to their home station after an intensive ground search which included many miles of walking.

The emergency chute and other debris were located. The main object of search is still to be found. The Air Force considers this a vital step to conclude its investigation of the mishap, to eliminate any repetition of this nature.

The Springfield Squadron's ambulance was pressed into emergency service to transport a cadet who was taken suddenly ill and, after receiving emergency treatment, was transported from Lakehurst to Newark.

CADETS OF THE SPRINGFIELD Squadron are now engaged in a course of study in their phase II program leading them into the realm of Aerospace education. A spokesman said they are in an "active program which challenges their minds as well as physical powers through an organized plan of progressive studies."

Maj. Wertlake, commander of the Springfield Squadron is undertaking the teaching period on Wednesday evenings of the Phase II program. He will be using "Problems of Aerospace Power" for the subject of study. A rated pilot, he has participated in many search and rescue missions. Active with the Springfield Squadron for nine years, he has served in cadet summer encampments at McGuire Air Force Base as commandant of cadets and deputy commander.

S/Sgt. Boehm, commandant of cadets, is undertaking the teaching of Phase I, "Introduction to Aerospace." He has come up through the cadet program and has mastered many of the basic cadet techniques.

There is still time to be enrolled in either the Phase I or Phase II part of the program. Boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 17 may call S/Sgt. Eugene Boehm at DR 9-2780 for more information.

Gets Army commission

FT. GORDON, GA. -- Marvin A. Sternberg, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Sternberg, 42 Janet Lane, Springfield, N. J., was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation from the Signal Officer Candidate School here recently.

During the 23-week course, he was trained in use and maintenance of signal equipment, with emphasis on communications and leadership. He also received instruction in squad tactics and firing light weapons.

Editorial Opinion

Let us all give thanks for our private world

Thanksgiving Day, 1967, should be a day of mixed feelings for many of us. There are many aspects of our lives for which all of us, or nearly all, should be thankful.

First, of course, we can give thanks that we have remained for another year, such as it has been. For most of us, it has been a normally easy year, one of substantial luxury when compared to the year just completed by a tenant farmer in Mississippi, a homeless peasant in Vietnam, an undernourished tribesman in the Congo or any one of the faceless numbers behind the curtains, iron and bamboo.

We can all give thanks for our freedom. Most of us, by definition, voted for the winning candidates in the recent elections. Those of us who did not, still had the right to campaign for the losers, as we are still free to complain, with or without justification, about the winners. Compulsory unanimity is a way of life in most of the world, including many nations which are our friends, as well as our foes.

Our sons may face a draft, and perhaps a campaign in some remote archipelago. Still, most of our children will receive an education, and a generally good one, as their birthright -- and they can look forward to giving their children the same start in life. For these, and many other blessings, we should certainly give thanks. Most of these advantages were not earned, at least, not by us. We were lucky enough to have ancestors who did have the foresight to make the right choice.

There are also many aspects of our world about which we should be somewhat less than thankful. We belong to the generation which gave birth to atomic power, but has been unable to discipline its development. At every fork in the road of progress, today, the wrong choice could well lead to a mushroom-shaped cloud.

We live in a world where the vast majority of people are under-fed, under-educated and under-trained for the job of creating a free society.

We live in a country where too many people pay only lip service to the ideal of freedom. If everyone who disagrees with me is either a communist, on the one side, or a fascist, on the other, then my life must be pretty lonely.

We live in the richest and freest country in the world -- where many of our fellow citizens are still effectively barred from equality in education and employment, and even from equality in buying a home in the suburbs.

While we give thanks, and while we eat too much at the traditional holiday dinner, we might do well to remember that some day, somehow, someone is going to start balancing the books.

Medical group seeking to stamp out headaches

DETROIT (UPI) -- Can medical science stamp out headaches? The American Association for the Study of Headache is seeking the answer. American and European schools both have their educational ideals

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Are European schools better than American schools -- or is the opposite true? In fact, both have their pluses and minuses, and exact comparisons are difficult.

The roots of European schools reach back to feudal times and spring from aristocratic ideas. This background has presupposed, and relatively recently, a chasm between those who rule and those who are ruled. The American educational ideal, on the other hand, developed in the spirit of the enlightenment of the 18th century. America, without the background of medieval feudalism, was less affected by aristocratic traditions, and its schools have tended to stress equality of opportunity, in theory if not always in practice.

The European traditional approach -- under heavy challenge since World War II -- was based upon the assumption that education has as a major function the sorting out at a very early age of those who would govern, direct, guide and "think" for society from those who would be governed, directed and guided, and who would do the work.

IN ESSENCE, the European educational ideal, now under rapid change, was that those who use their minds should command those who use their hands. The American approach to education has from the beginning been a reflection of very different ideals -- education for all, equal opportunities for all.

The European tradition still suggests in some instances that by the age of 12 the child has exhibited his capabilities. Either he has shown promise of proceeding up the rungs of the ladder, or he has not, and is relegated to some variety of "terminal" education.

In contrast, elementary and secondary education in America are available to all, and programs of study after the age of 12 or so do not erect insurmountable obstacles to a child's later admission to advanced or higher education. In European education, according to one study for the National Education Association, the general administration pattern is one of a high degree of centralization and uniformity. Courses of study, schedules, textbooks, examinations, certification of teachers and numerous other administrative details are prescribed by a central educational authority.

In contrast, as a result of the American heritage, education in the United States is decentralized, and represents a great variety of school systems, authorities, and organizational patterns with no central body in the position of specifying requirements to all schools, directly or indirectly.

As more and more of the European countries are adopting the American educational pattern, the differences between the two systems are becoming less and less.

COMMENT ON EDITORIAL

I thank your newspaper for the support it has given my efforts in your editorial of November 7. You have indicated in that editorial, as I have always believed that it is the proper function of a local newspaper (particularly when it is the only local newspaper) to crusade for necessary and significant projects and purposes in the municipality. I feel that each of the issues referred to in the editorial, about which I have been trying vainly to do something since the spring of this year, deserves feature story treatment in your newspaper.

FIRST AID SQUAD

As chairman of the 1966 Springfield First Aid Squad fund drive, I would like to take this opportunity to extend my thanks and appreciation to you and your newspaper for the excellent coverage and publicity given to our 1966 fund drive.

I would also like to extend my thanks to the businessmen and residents of Springfield for their generous support of this year's drive. It is this type of generous support and cooperation that enables the squad to provide our township with the best possible service and equipment.

EDWARD STREET Fund Drive Chairman Springfield First Aid Squad Inc.

PROFILE -- Dr. Randolph T. Jacobsen

By BEA SMITH

Among his many duties as assistant superintendent of the regional schools, Dr. Randolph T. Jacobsen is in charge of personnel for the regional schools. "My responsibilities," he says "are to interview, with the help of our coordinators and principals, all candidates for teaching positions and to make recommendations for appointments, by the board of course."

He maintains offices in the Board of Education headquarters in Springfield, and also interviews clerical and maintenance applicants -- in fact, "the whole set-up."

In interviewing people for various positions, Dr. Jacobsen looks for not only the basic requirements -- and specializations -- but strong personal characteristics. And perhaps one of the reasons for his success in his work (he has served as assistant superintendent for the past four years), is that Dr. Jacobsen, himself, has a bright, magnetic personality of his own, and an interviewee is instantly aware of the characteristic upon entering his office.

Dr. Jacobsen meets a wide variety of people during his search for personnel. "I make several recruiting trips to colleges in the course of a year," he says. "My search starts in December and ends in March. We also have a number of people who write in for applications and for appointments here."

"THE SCHOOLS MAY be closed during the Christmas and Easter vacation weeks," he muses, "but these holiday weeks are actually my busiest times. I have as many as 10 appointments a day."

Actually, Dr. Jacobsen indicates, the four regional schools employ as many as 288 teachers in the district, "not counting the administrative staff."

"And Jonathan Dayton has 79 teachers, including all the specials, such as the librarians and guidance counselors, people including an additional principal, an assistant principal, including an additional principal and an assistant principal for the schools. And next year, we're going to need additional teachers for the district because of the growing enrollments."

In interviewing prospective teachers, Dr. Jacobsen, the school principal and the coordinator of the particular department in which the recruit specializes, fill out an interview record. Each writes in his own check marks against such titles as (under professional characteristics), training, experience, knowledge of subject, use of English and professional attitude; and (under personal characteristics), appearance, voice, health, emotional stability, tact, poise, enthusiasm, sincerity and ability to discipline. There are boxes on the form for "Excellent," "Above Average," "Average," and "Below Average." And at the end of the form there is a section for written comments about the strengths and weaknesses of each applicant. "We look for background in college, and we note their marks, although that phase of it is not necessarily a main factor."

"ONE OF THE IMPORTANT things," Dr. Jacobsen continues, "is in trying to size them up -- and this is a matter of judgment as to what they say, how they act. For a person who is going to fill a position in a specialized subject of course, we want to see a greater skill in his other particular background. These people need a good solid background for, to use an example, math."

"In any case, we look for a person, preferably an experienced teacher, who has worked well in a particular school and has a certain amount of ability to get along with students, and who has fine personality traits."

Dr. Jacobsen continues: "Then, of course, we check their references -- sometimes by form and sometimes by personal telephone calls."

"I have established good rapport with certain colleges, and I've gotten to know some of the people by their first names. Naturally, if they like you and get along with you, they will give you a certain break, especially when they have a good prospective staffer in mind. "We also deal with teacher agencies, and we deal with teachers. We like to get people with several years of good experience."

Dr. Jacobsen explains that in addition to personnel work as assistant superintendent, he does everything the superintendent asks him to. "For example, if he's away then I'm in charge. I attend meetings, and sit in his place."

"Reports on financial matters automatically pass over to me," he says. "I have to prepare the budget including the salaries for all employees. And I attend two committee meetings a week, on the average."

DR. JACOBSEN SAYS that he works on a 12-month basis. "In the summer, I never take more than one week of vacation at a time. And when emergencies come up, I have to fill in."

Dr. Jacobsen, who was born in Manassas, was graduated from Pleasant Beach High School in 1928, Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pa., with an A.B. degree in 1932; and Rutgers University in 1937 with an M. Ed. degree, and he earned an Ed. D. degree from Rutgers in 1955.

He taught in Ft. Lenoix Borough public school in 1933, Somerville High School from 1933 to 1945, and served as the school's principal from 1945 to 1956. He came to Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield as principal in 1956 serving until 1962.

Mrs. Jacobsen, the former Lois Griggs of Short Hills, died last winter. He has a married daughter, Mrs. Barbara J. Allen, who lives in Rutherford and teaches at Fairleigh Dickinson University, and a son, Thomas, who is a student at Salem College in West Virginia.

Dr. Jacobsen has been a member of the New Jersey Association of Secondary School Administrators since 1945; on the executive committee of the N.J.A.S.S.A. for five years and has served as its third, second and first vice-president, and its president.

He has served on numerous evaluation committees of the Middle States Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges and has acted as chairman for the past 12 years. He has also been chairman, leader and presenter at conventions of the National Secondary School Principals Association; is a member of the Educational Advisory Board of Union Junior College; is a past member of the board of governors of the New Jersey Schoolmasters Club and has served as a deacon and elder in the Springfield Presbyterian Church.

He has been a Springfield resident for 11 years, and presently lives on Short Hills Ave.

Dr. Jacobsen manages to find some recreation time for several of his hobbies. "I enjoy steel swimming and surf fishing, and I've gotten to know some of the people by their first names. Naturally, if they like you and get along with you, they will give you a certain break, especially when they have a good prospective staffer in mind. "We also deal with teacher agencies, and

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

EXCELLENCE IN GOVERNMENT Promotion of excellence in government coupled with prudent use of tax resources will be major objectives of New Jersey's organized taxpayers in 1967.

A wide-ranging program providing for study, evaluation and reports of proposals and activities of various levels of government in the interest of "all citizens of New Jersey" was presented for approval by the membership of the New Jersey Taxpayers Association at its 36th annual meeting in Newark last week.

"The complexity of public affairs in this most densely populated state of the nation coupled with the diversity of its economic composition places marked demands on the public servant and the citizen taxpayer alike," declares the preamble to the Association's 1967 Platform and Program.

"The public servant, whether elected or appointed, is allotted the task to provide a sweeping complement of services that will maximize the opportunities for individual and business growth and development. The citizen taxpayer has the responsibility both to finance these services and to actively participate in the affairs of his local, state and national government through the constructive expression of his views and opinions. NJTA serves both groups by concentrating its resources of time, money and people in a continuing evaluation of public affairs."

In addition to its customary analysis of various aspects of existing government organization, operation, finance and taxation, the program outlined specific areas toward which the Association's research skills and reports would be directed in 1967. It will provide the facts to its membership and the public as well as to legislators and officials -- often at their request. Areas listed include improvement of legislative operations, evaluation of policies in higher education, development of standards in state aids and school district size, further exploration of means of assuring an adequate water supply in New Jersey's future, improvement in municipal and county government and evaluation of programs involving interdependence of Federal, State and local government.

Christmas stamps will feature replica of Renaissance art

"Every envelope bearing the 1966 Christmas postage stamp will be a masterpiece," Springfield Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio said this week.

The special Christmas stamp is a replica of a painting by Hans Memling, Flemish master of the Renaissance era, now hanging in the National Art Gallery in Washington, D.C.

Postmaster Del Vecchio noted that use of the stamp for the mailing of greeting cards assures first-class handling. That means the cards will be forwarded if the addressee has moved, or will be returned if there is a return address. The current Christmas stamp is the fifth in a series of holiday stamps, and the Post Office Department expects it to be another best seller. The initial print order was for one billion, two hundred million stamps.

Postmaster Del Vecchio estimated that one quarter million of these stamps will be sold locally. The stamp design was unanimously recommended to Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien by the Citizen's Stamp Advisory Committee which passes on all stamps.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

The class on "How to Housebreak a Retired Husband" will now come to order. Your first step, about a week before your husband comes home in retirement, is to secretly appoint yourself Chairman of the Board — your husband is going to be pretty bored for a few months. Then, as Chairman, set the policy for your house.

This policy should include — but not be confined to — the following:

"My Beloved Husband —

"As of 24 hours following your retirement, the policies stated below will be in effect:

"1. You will wear your shoes at all times except when you are in bed. Occasionally, you may kick them off at 10 p.m. while watching television.

"2. You yourself will empty all ashtrays dirtied in the daytime. I will continue emptying them in the evening and on weekends.

"3. You will not — repeat NOT — ever appear in the living room in your under-shirt.

"4. You will stay out of my kitchen (as I will stay out of your workshop) unless invited, or unless you have chores there that have been previously agreed on.

"5. You may try to cook from time to time, and I will clean up your messes. But under no condition will you cook within two hours before or after mealtime.

"6. You will help me make the bed daily. Not once a week, but three-fourths of the time. So efficient is four-hand bed-making that two people can do it in a fourth of the time it takes one.

"7. You will shave daily, except in exceptional cases.

"8. You will stop any dirty job you are doing at least 30 minutes before my meal, and make yourself presentable to come to the table. One night each week you will wear a shirt, tie, and jacket at dinner. Once each month you will take me out to dinner — if only to a drive-in hamburger stand.

"9. You will be allowed to complain only

'Right to Read' unit will hear president of libraries' group

Another program sponsored by the New Jersey Committee for the Right to Read will be held on Monday evening at 8 at Unity House, 67 Church st., Montclair. The NJCRR this week invited the public to hear address this week by Harold L. Roth, president of the New Jersey Library Association, entitled "Are You the Disadvantaged?"

Roth, whose principal concern is the promotion of better library service in New Jersey, will relate this concern to his contention that a large segment of our society, living in some of our wealthiest communities, is truly disadvantaged in terms of facilities and services necessary for effective and responsible participation in society.

Roth, director of the East Orange Public Library, was consultant on plans for the new Springfield Library. He is actively engaged in promoting library development and "know-ledge for All". He was graduated cum laude from New York University in 1950. He was editorial reference librarian for The New York Times from 1949 to 1952. Roth has also served as instructor at Montclair State College, Drexel Institute and Columbia University Library Schools.

World famous artist to exhibit at local spot

Clro's Restaurant in the Echo Shopping Plaza, Springfield will be exhibiting the works of the internationally known artist Enzo Paolino from now until Dec. 31, under the sponsorship of Gallery 9 in Clifton.

The show, which encompasses the better known works of Paolino, features his distinctive burlap paintings and a group of prize-winning watercolors.

Paolino, a native of Italy, graduated with honors and a masters degree from art school. He studied design under Louis Ateller in Switzerland and has exhibited his work throughout Europe.

Trained in the restoration of masterpieces, Paolino's varied talent led him to decorate interiors of leading Roman supper clubs and his art has been exhibited extensively in many U.S. galleries since his arrival here in 1964.

Nonfarm employment rise of 6,900 establishes new high of 2,365,000

Nonfarm wage and salary employment in New Jersey increased more than seasonally by 6,900 between September and October to a new record level. According to estimates prepared by the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, and released this week, October employment was 2,365,000, excluding farm, domestic, self-employed and unpaid family workers. This was 67,300, or 2.9 percent, above the level for October 1965.

Manufacturing employment climbed to its highest level since World War II. An increase of 300 in September was counter to seasonal expectations, as gains in the durable goods sector were only partially offset by anticipated seasonal layoffs in the nondurable goods sector.

Settlement of a strike involving 1,700 workers in instruments and the pre-Christmas hiring of 1,400 workers in toy manufacturing were the most significant factors in a 3,100 gain in durable goods employment. Employment in nondurable goods dropped by 2,600, primarily due to a seasonal decline of 3,400 in the food industry. A gain of 500 in printing and publishing was also recorded, but changes in most other manufacturing industries were small.

Nonmanufacturing employment increased seasonally by 6,400. Employment rose by 2,500 in trade and hiring by public schools was reflected in a gain of 5,600 in government. Employment was down by 1,800 in services, but jobholding in construction held at September's high level.

Average weekly earnings of factory production workers increased by $0.70 to a new record of $118.53. Average weekly hours were up one-tenth of an hour to 41.3 hours and average hourly earnings rose by one cent to $2.87. The workweek was the same as last October, but somewhat below the very high level reached earlier this year.

Need pingpong players for Table Tennis Club

The New Jersey Table Tennis Club is currently in need of pingpong players for its Monday or Wednesday night leagues. The club is located at 12-126 Colt st., Irvington.

Open play and league competition are available for men, women and children of all ages. Further information may be received by calling Al Schwartz, 389-7062 on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday nights between 5:30 and 7 p.m. or by sending a postcard to Al Schwartz, 415 Cherry st., Elizabeth.

Two days about any ailment you have, after which you go to a doctor:

"10. You will be allowed to act like a juvenile-out-of-school for two weeks after you retire, then fall into deep gloom for three weeks thereafter. Then, you snap out of it and start living.

"Your Devoted Wife"

Within the framework of this policy, your wives should lure your retired husbands into sharing the housework. Because it's fair, but also because they will actually like it, you should let them subscribe to two newspapers, so they'll have something to talk about except themselves, and watch daytime TV so they'll stay out of your hair. You should take afternoon naps with them... for a while... if they want to. You should use all your social wiles to help them make friends because they're going to need some. You should demand that both husband and wife have three hours a day free of each other, to pursue personal affairs.

MAGIC FOR MENUS
Cream your own assorted vegetables or use frozen or canned mixtures, some of which come with a sauce. Place in one large or individual casseroles with an edging of buttered crumbs and bake 10 minutes or long enough to keep warm.

Add your own seasoning touches to canned baked beans (brown sugar, chili sauce and onion). Place in a casserole and top with whole browned pork sausage or overlapping slices of salmon. Bake to heat.

Last of the chicken or turkey can go into a cream sauce with mushrooms and pimiento. Heat and serve in bread cups which have been toasted in muffin pans.

Make Spanish rice and add to it some cooked or canned shrimp. Serve with a tossed green salad.

Cinnamon apple rings look and taste good when served with omelet.

Pipe cream cheese on two-inch slices of peeled cucumber. Top with strips of pimento and green pepper. Serve with desired dressing.

HELEN'S FAVORITE
Chef's Dressing (Makes 1 1/2 cups)
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/4 cup salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 teaspoons worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
1/2 cup vinegar
Combine milk and oil and beat thoroughly. Mix dry ingredients and add to milk mixture. Blend in worcestershire sauce and catsup. Add vinegar slowly, beating thoroughly. If dressing separates while standing, place in jar and shake to mix. Good with vegetables, greens or fish.

AN ACID RULING
LONDON (UPI)—Bad news for British acid workers. Erosion on their teeth by acid no longer will be considered an industrial injury. This was announced by the Industrial Injuries Advisory Council, which concluded that "The condition is trivial. It only affects the front teeth." The Council studied picklers, workers in galvanizing shops, makers of sanitary cleanser and soft drinks, and chrome platers—all of whom are constantly exposed to acid.

Offering a unique course in testing

By HART MERSON
A unique course, tentatively titled "How to Pass Tests," will be offered free of charge by the Roselle Adult School during its second semester, starting March 7, it was announced this week by Dr. Joseph S. Bushinger, assistant superintendent of Roselle schools. The course has been designed to explore all of the facets of testing.

Dr. Bushinger said the course, to be given on 10 Monday nights in Abraham Clark High School, Roselle, will present a wealth of materials concerning Civil Service tests as well as those given by the nation's armed forces. The courses will include talks by persons experienced in the field of testing, including Barton H. Lewis, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Bushinger, who supervised the course in the past at the Roselle Park area for five years.

Superintendent of Schools Lewis provided the leadership in the effort to establish the course and volunteered to speak about testing since he has had experience in that field. Cooperation of Superintendent Lewis and Dr. Bushinger enabled the school to offer the course to the public. Mrs. Evelyn W. Rung, president of the Roselle Board of Education, voiced her approval of the proposed course when told about its goals.

Dr. Bushinger said the course is designed to provide information to students, their parents and any other interested persons about an area in which it is difficult for the public to obtain information. In his work to organize the course, Dr. Bushinger obtained the assistance of Civil Service offices in Trenton and Newark to obtain data about state and federal positions. Dr. Bushinger said the information received from the offices includes the types of positions available, samples of tests and the range of the tests as well as an explanation of how tests are scored and how successful an applicant must be in taking the tests.

The range of positions available in the federal Civil Service runs from common laborer to holders of doctor of philosophy degrees, Dr. Bushinger pointed out. A great amount of the data on federal positions was obtained from Dr. James R. Watson, assistant to Dr. Nathan W. Gross, president of Rutgers University. Dr. Watson taught a course, taken by Dr. Bushinger, concerning the executive branch of the federal government in which Dr. Watson has held positions.

David August, Federal Civil Service representative in Newark, will present data about the positions open to high school seniors and also will tell about the changes in the Civil Service field. August will speak at the Adult School on March 13 and 20.

The course, scheduled to start on March 6, will present an introduction to testing, the types of tests, the length of tests and what to do to pass tests at the initial session. Sleep, mental attitude and the time factor also will be considered. Types of tests to be discussed include true-false, multiple choice and completion. August will speak at the next two sessions, on March 13 and 20.

An Air Force representative will talk about the Airman Qualifying Examination at the March 27 session. An Air Force film has been scheduled for the following week. The Navy will send a representative to the April 10 session and the Army will be represented the following week. The dates of April 24 and May 1 and 8 have been left open for the present.

New amendments ease conditions of social security law

Ralph W. Jones, social security district manager in Elizabeth, noted this week that recent amendments to the social security law liberalize the conditions under which benefits are paid to people who continue working after age 65.

Here are the new rules for taxable years after 1965. Jones said, "If you earn $1,500 or less in a year, you get all the benefits. If you earn more than $1,500 in a year while you are under 72, the general rule is that $1 in benefits to you (and your family) will be withheld for each $2 you earn from $1,500 to $2,700. In addition, $1 in benefits will be withheld for each $1 of earnings over $2,700."

"There is an exception," Jones explained, "regardless of total earnings in a year, benefits are payable for any month in which you neither earn wages of more than $125 nor perform substantial services in self-employment. Benefits are also payable for all months in which you are 72 or older, regardless of the amount of your earnings in months after you reach 72."

Jones said, "The decision as to whether you are performing substantial services depends on the time you devote to your business, the kind of services you perform, how services compare with those you performed in past years, and other circumstances of your particular case."

Jones added that earnings from work of any kind, whether or not covered by social security must be counted (except tips of less than $20 a month with any one employer). This means total wages (not just take-home pay) and all net earnings from self-employment must be added together in figuring earnings for the year. Income from savings, investments, pensions, insurance and certain royalties received after age 65 are not counted. Jones stated, "For more information about how working after applying for benefits affects your retirement or survivors insurance payments, you should ask your local social security office for Booklet No. 23... The Elizabeth social security office at 268 North Broad st. will be glad to send you one of these booklets free. The office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., and 5 to 9 p.m., on Thursdays."

Ward says more money is needed for elementary, secondary schools

More money, alone, has not solved state school aid problems. No real progress has been made since 1954 on the basic problems of unequal wealth among local districts, of limited state commitment to public elementary and secondary education, and of a rigid state education aid formula.

This statement by Avery Ward, member of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, and chairman of the Educational Finance Committee of the State Federation of District Boards of Education, is one of many pressing arguments presented Tuesday in Trenton at public hearings conducted by the State Aid to School Districts Study Commission.

The Study Commission, chaired by Essex County Senator Nicholas J. Ferocola, heard Ward explain that the state foundation program (currently $400 per pupil) is the amount of money the state considers sufficient to provide adequate minimum educational programs for every child in the state. This sum, however, becomes inadequate soon after its adoption, and the state formula commits no provision to keep the state's contribution in any relationship to the actual cost of minimum-adequate education, Ward explained. Ward, speaking on behalf of the State Federation of District Boards of Education, recommended a number of specific steps aimed at establishing what he termed a "dynamic relationship" in the state and local partnership for financing education.

He urged state assumption of a constant 40 percent of the cost of public elementary and secondary education, with greater aid provided at the more expensive high-school level. He also requested consideration for setting the local district's share of the foundation program at the level required for the wealthiest large district, in order to relieve overburdened areas.

Ward applauded the Legislature's recognition of the special educational problems of large urban centers and advocated flat grants, based on district wealth and population density, for all districts with large numbers of disadvantaged children. He also urged the establishment of an Educational Facilities Substandard Buildings and to assist rapidly growing areas in providing new school facilities.

Other recommendations included: a complete re-study and updating of transportation aid, including a definition of "hazardous conditions"; provision for matching funds needed to acquire all federal money available for vocational education; substantial aid to driver education; higher minimum state aid and other financial incentives for quality educational programs; thorough study of school district organizations and of the fiscal independence of local school boards.

Ward suggested that revenues required to meet this program could be obtained through a "one-cent" increase in the sales tax and small increases in other state levies. He added that local school boards were willing to provide their fair share of the cost of improving educational quality if the Legislature would "provide them with the necessary increased fiscal authority."

Hiking Club to hold 3 weekend jaunts

The Program Committee of the Union County Hiking Club has scheduled three hikes for this weekend.

On Saturday, Robert Gasser of Amiantale will lead a 10-mile hike in the area of Hardscrabble Lake in the Cronon Aqueduct area of Westchester County, New York. The hikers will meet at the Administration Building of the Union County Park Commission, Warinanco Park, Elizabethtown, at 8:30 a.m.

Also on Saturday, Robert Denning of Elizabethtown will lead a ramble in the Watchung Reservation. The group will meet at the parking area above Lake Surprise at 10 a.m. On Sunday, Henry Keiner of Irvington will conduct a hike in the area of Schanenuck Mountain in New Jersey. This group will meet at the Administration Building of the Park Commission, Warinanco Park, Elizabethtown, at 8:30 a.m.

For further information contact the recreation department of the Union County Park Commission.

Watching to offer Deserted Village, Telstar programs

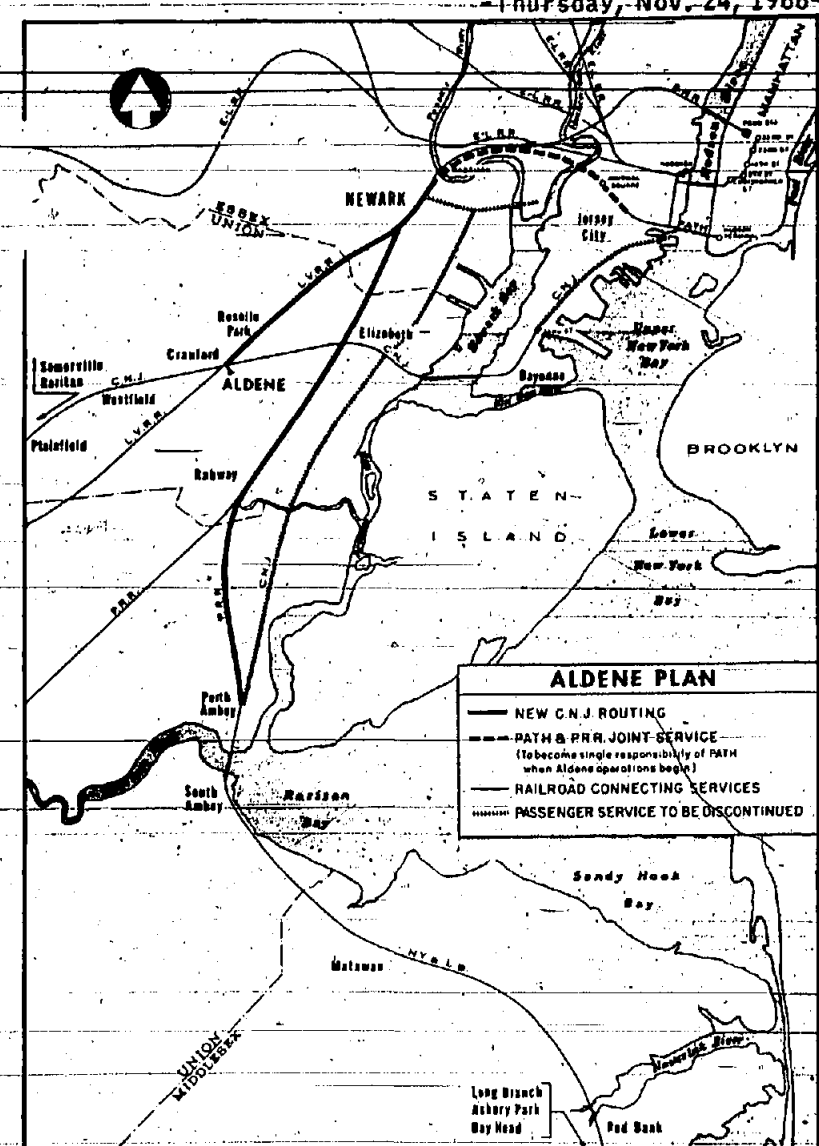

Sunday afternoon visitors to the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, will have a choice of two programs being offered.

Dr. Harold N. Moldenke, director of the Trailside Nature and Science Center, will conduct a tour of the historic "Deserted Village," located in the valley between the first and second ridge of the Watchung Range. The guided tour, open to the public, will start from Trailside at 2 p.m. and proceed to the site of the "village," a short distance away. Dr. Moldenke will discuss the 300-year history and tradition of the area from the time of the Indians and earliest settlers to its present state as a unit of the Union County Park System. He will point out historic features and identify both the native and exotic plant and animal life that exists in the area.

Also on Sunday, at 3 p.m., a color, sound film entitled "Telstar" will be shown in the auditorium at Trailside. The film is a dramatic on-the-scene story of the development and launching of Telstar and the successful transmission of signals by the experimental satellite.

During the week, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 1, at 4 p.m. each day, Dr. Moldenke will conduct one-half hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the four days is "Ants." Dr. Moldenke's lectures will be illustrated with color slides. Admission is free.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature Center, view the thousands of indoor exhibits and participate in the scheduled programs.

Awards presented to Cranford Elks

Stove Cymbaluk and Raymond VanJaekel of the Cranford Elks have been presented with awards for their outstanding work in scouting by the N. J. Association for Retarded Children commemorating National Retarded Children's week.

Cub Scout Pack 206 is a pilot project and a new concept in scouting since it is the first pack set up in the United States for educable retarded and physically handicapped children. Since its beginning three years ago there have been 13 other such packs started across the country.

The pack meets at the Cranford Elks Building, 951 N. Lincoln ave., Cranford, every Saturday morning.

Membership in the troop is open to all boys in surrounding communities and interested persons should contact Raymond Van Jaekel at 276-3318.

State tax bite hardest on U.S. highway users

NEW YORK (UPI)—More than 24 percent of all state taxes collected in the United States is paid by highway users, according to Oil Facts, publication of the American Petroleum Institute.

In fiscal 1965, the publication says, the states collected $26 billion in taxes, of which $6.3 billion came from taxes on motor fuel and motor vehicles and from drivers' license fees. Motor fuel taxes alone totaled $4.3 billion, Oil Facts says.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jim J. Doyle of Cleveland was the first pinch hitter ever used in a major league baseball game. He singled in a pinch hit role on June 7, 1892.

The sunroof works even when there isn't any sun.

When you slide back the sunroof on a Volkswagen Station Wagon, the sky's the limit.

That's because odd-shaped loads you'd have trouble fitting into an ordinary station wagon can stick up out of a VW like a tree. Or a refrigerator. (In fact, you never know what might pop up.)

And even when the sunroof's closed, the Volkswagen still gives you almost twice as much space as other wagons. And a 4' by 4' door that lets you get right at all the room inside. (You don't have to be an engineer to move big, bulky loads in and out.)

And whenever you don't want to put big things inside your VW, you can use it for big people instead. It seats 9 of them and holds 13 pieces of luggage. All at once.

Other wagons only hold about half as much as a VW. Even if you hit the calling. But after the VW's all filled up, you can still go through the roof.

Harvest time in peace

Vietnamese farmers in the vicinity of Tuy Hoa, Vietnam, are harvesting their rice in peace this year.

For this they can thank Private First Class George D. Freeman, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Freeman of 995 Chancellor ave., Irvington, and the other members of the 238th Field Artillery Radar Detachment who participated in "Operation Seward."

"Seward," which lasted nearly the entire month of October, was an operation with a dual mission: to insure the Vietnamese protection as they reaped their crops, and to deny the rice to the Viet Cong.

A radar mechanic in the detachment stationed at Dong Bu Thin, Pvt. Freeman aided in 12,000 aerial "sorties" that pushed the VC farther away from farmers who harvested 25,000 tons of rice, which they will keep this year.

Pvt. Freeman entered the Army in March 1965 and was stationed at Ft. Hood, Tex., before arriving overseas this past June.

He attended Irvington High School. His wife, Kathleen, lives at 437-21st st., Irvington.

Mrs. Fred Schenkel, 51, registered nurse

Services for Mrs. Fred Schenkel, 51, of 236 Lincoln pl., Irvington, were held last Thursday at Haberle & Barth Home for Funerals, 971 Clinton ave., Irvington.

Mrs. Schenkel, the former Lillian Balmforth, died last Monday in Irvington General Hospital. A 1931 graduate of East Orange General Hospital School of Nursing, she was a registered nurse for the Irvington Nursing Home, Newark, the last three years.

She had previously worked at Irvington General Hospital and East Orange General Hospital, and had done private duty.

Born in Bloomfield, Mrs. Schenkel also lived in Massachusetts and Newark before moving to Irvington in 1956.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons,

Lt. James F. Schenkel, with the U.S. Air Force at Truxax Air Field, Madison, Wis., and Richard D., at home; her parents, James and Anna Balmforth of Bloomfield, and a sister.

Prof at Bloomfield

Miss Linda Goode of 35 Florence ave., Irvington, is a member of the faculty at Bloomfield College. A mathematics teacher there, Miss Goode was formerly with the N.J. Bell Telephone Laboratories in Holmdel. She was graduated from Bloomfield College in 1965 and is obtaining her masters degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University.

If you're just looking for looks, you won't give us a second glance. But then if you're looking for a station wagon in the first place, maybe you're more interested in how much it can hold. In which case you ought to take a look at ours. Admittedly, the Volkswagen isn't beautiful. It's tall, it's plain, and it's boxy. Which is why it holds about twice as much as hand-somer wagons do. Nine passengers instead of the usual six. 170 cu. ft. of carrying space as opposed to as little as 70 cu. ft. or perhaps 107 if you're lucky. Which makes us look pretty good after all.

Area men scheduled for competition for appointments to four academies

Rep. Florence Dwyer (R.-Dist. 1) today announced her nomination of 40 Union County young men to compete for appointments to the U.S. Military, Naval, Air Force and Merchant Marine Academies in the classes entering in 1967.

Mrs. Dwyer based her nominations, she explained, exclusively on the results of a competitive Civil Service Commission examination which was given at her request on three occasions during the past summer and on the results of preliminary physical examinations. All candidates were required to take these examinations.

Area men nominated to compete were: Joseph Salta of 324 Walnut st., Roselle Park, and John G. Ingram of 170 Locust ave., Mountainside.

For entrance into the Naval Academy at Annapolis -- Joseph Salta of 324 Walnut st., Roselle Park, and John G. Ingram of 170 Locust ave., Mountainside.

FOR ENTRANCE INTO the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs -- Robert J. Maher of 12 E. Lincoln ave., Roselle Park; William A. Rankin Jr. of 125 Mabel ave., Springfield; Frank J. Gasser of 1704 Edmund ter., Union; and Robert J. Smigelsky of 140 E. Morris ave., Linden.

Aid for the Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, Long Island -- Dennis J. McCabe of 112 Bender ave., Roselle Park.

County ball club slates annual hot stove dinner

The Union County Baseball Association announced this week that the 31st Annual Hot Stove Baseball Dinner will be held Jan. 17 at the Singer Co. Recreation Hall, Elizabeth. One of the highlights of this annual affair is the induction of new members into the Union County Baseball Hall of Fame. Anyone wishing to suggest candidates for this honor may send the name and baseball background to the Recreation Department, Union County Park Commission, Elizabeth, a spokesman said.

Mrs. Dwyer utilizes a competitive merit system for making appointments to the service academies, she said. This system, she has emphasized, assures equal consideration to all Union County applicants, encourages maximum competition for appointments, and enables the academies to obtain the best qualified young men.

Beginning next year, for classes entering the academies in 1968, Congresswoman Dwyer's nominations and subsequent appointments will be limited to residents of the new 12th District which includes all of Union County, except for Elizabeth, Linden, and Rahway, together with the following eight West Essex County communities: Millburn - Short Hills, Livingston, Roseland, Caldwell, West Caldwell, North Caldwell, Essex Fells, and Fairfield. Residents of Elizabeth, Linden and Rahway may apply through the new 13th Congressional District.

MANY SPLENDORED PLATES -- SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) -- The old game of counting different license plates is a chore in California -- the state issues 34 varieties. The different plates identify the vehicle, owner or driver and type of business and service using the vehicle. The most common plate, of course, is for passenger cars.

Polish club hears talk -- A talk on "The Origin of Ancient Coinage" by Ken Morse, club secretary, was featured at the last meeting of the club, in the Polish National Hall in Linden.

There were thirty-six members and one guest present. The following committee was appointed by president Ed Kutcharski to arrange for additional speakers for the coming fall-winter meetings: Saul Parker, Ken Morrison and Ken Morse. Nomination of officers for next year will highlight the November meeting. Meetings are held on the fourth Tuesday of every month.

As an example, one company (Phillips Petroleum), through its plastics products subsidiary, produces more than 3,000 plastic items.

YMCA to present gymnastic session for grades 7 to 9

Henry Kratz of Union will be instructor of a free gymnastic clinic for boys and girls in seventh through ninth grades at the Five Points YMCA in Union at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Kratz, an instructor at the Y for the past two and a half years, will be assisted by John Hennigan, president of the New Jersey Gymnastic Association.

Plans for the junior high school gymnastic clinic were announced by Dr. Joseph Errington and Robert Thwaites, co-chairman of the Y's Adult-Youth Committee.

They said the program is being presented because "the tremendous growth of interest in physical fitness during the past decade has sparked new enthusiasm for such infrequently used devices as parallel bars, vaulting buck, tumbling, trampoline and rolled mats." The purpose of the clinic is "to introduce to youth the YMCA gymnastic program," they said.

Springfield church to observe Advent at service Sunday

The first Sunday in Advent will be observed in the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield Sunday, The Rev. Donald C. Weber, associate minister, will preach at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. Special music by Betty Burt will be presented at the 9:30 service. At the 11 o'clock service the senior choir will sing "A Hymn For Thanksgiving" by David Williams. Mrs. William McLaughlin Jr. will be at the organ.
 Advent, the season of preparation for Christmas, is being observed in the Church School by the distribution of Advent wreaths for use as a worship center in the homes, according to Harold W. Jones, superintendent.
 A devotional guide giving the worship services for the four Sundays in Advent and Christmas Eve, is also being provided each family. Children and parents will gather around the Advent wreaths, lighting a candle each week and conducting the family devotions. On Christmas Eve, the "Christ Candle" will be lit in the concluding service, celebrating the birthday of Christ.

Thanksgiving Day message stresses needs of the spirit

With the approach of Thanksgiving Day, the Rev. Robert B. Mignard, pastor of the Mountainside Union Chapel (which draws its membership from Mountainside and Springfield) has the following comments on the manner in which the national holiday should be experienced:

Student aid helps equip Viet school

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) - A letter from an old grad now in Vietnam prompted a drive by students at Hofstra University here to help equip a school in Vietnam.
 The letter came from Marine Lt. Col. Donald F. Pierce, a 1964 Hofstra graduate, who, as Civil Affairs officer of Marines Aircraft Group 12 in Chu Lai is helping the Vietnamese people to complete and equip the seven-room Ly-Tin District High School.
 Pierce, from Flushing, N.Y., wrote Hofstra President Dr. Clifford Lord that the nearly completed school had no supplies, and added: "This school is being built with material purchased by the Marine Corps. All of the labor involved comes from the Vietnamese. They receive no compensation. It is hard, slow work; tools are scarce and often homemade tools must suffice."
 Students who headed the drive said it was one way of answering demonstrations by some young people against the United States effort in Vietnam.

Record turnout for diabetes tests at Union hospital

A record number of persons were tested for diabetes during National Diabetes Detection Week at Memorial General Hospital, Union, reported this week by Township Health Officer Frank Corone. The health officer, who was in charge of the program, said more than 2,000 persons were tested during a seven-day period ending Saturday.

Corone also revealed that more than 70 persons were found to have tested positive. The persons, who may have diabetes, were referred to their personal physicians for more definite tests.

The number of persons tested far exceeded the 1,500 who took the examinations last year, when 15 possible diabetics were detected. The tests were administered free of charge under the supervision of hospital staff members, Dr. John Ferrara of Westfield was chairman of the staff members participating in the program.

Dr. Ferrara, hospital administrator, said he was "highly gratified" by the record turnout. The administrator also said testing afforded the hospital an opportunity to be of additional service to residents of the area. "We regard the detection of diabetes as a significant contribution to the care of good health, and we were delighted to be able to cooperate in this worthwhile program."

Move to strengthen outdoor education in Union County

Moves to strengthen the Federally financed Outdoor Education Program in Union County were made last week by Emanuel Bedrick, Linden Superintendent of Education, and the Linden Board of Education. The Linden education officials are administrators of the program for the county.

Superintendent Bedrick informed the Linden board at its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday night that he had requested the Union County Park Commission for an extension of time for using the facilities at the Deserreted Village for the Union County Outdoor Education Program. "The Deserreted Village site is in the Watchung Reservation."

Bedrick noted that the Federal grant for the project ends on Feb. 28, 1967. He said he had requested Rudolph Krstan, executive director of the Union County Park Commission, for use of the Deserreted Village site until that date.

Although confident that the Federal government will extend its grant to the county, Bedrick said after the meeting last Wednesday night that he is prepared in the event the funding is terminated.

Bedrick stated that he would then urge each board of education in the county to contribute to the Outdoor Education Program. Currently, the program is operating under a $28,000 Federal grant.

EARLY THIS fall the Linden Board of Education hired Charles Holtzer, veteran outdoor educator, as the director of the program. Holtzer explained the outdoor education movement as an extension of the school curriculum into the outdoor environment.

Holtzer came to Union County from the faculty of New York University where he taught graduate courses in outdoor education and was the director of a year-round conference center and camp for the university. He is also the author of "The Role of Outdoor Education" which is distributed nationally to school administrators as a guide to outdoor education.

At last Wednesday's meeting of the Linden Board of Education, James M. Kenny Jr., a teacher in the Linden elementary school system, was appointed as Holtzer's assistant.

The Linden County program is not a mandatory one but all school districts may take advantage of it. Holtzer said at its outset this fall that he hoped the program would "eventually become an integral part of the education of the children of Union County."

Acting for the entire county system of schools, the Linden Board of Education administrators the Federal funds for the Outdoor Education Program under the Title III section of the Elementary-Secondary Education Act.

Soloists to enhance 'Messiah' chorus

Four professional soloists will join the 100-voice Festival Chorus of Newark State College, Union, for a performance at the college of Handel's "Messiah" at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 2. The event will be held in the new semi-circular theater located on the campus.

The soloists will be Louise Vane, soprano at Riverside Church, New York City, soprano; Louise Armstrong, soloist at Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and former soloist at Radio City Music Hall, contraalto; Benjamin Wilkes, chairman of the Music Department at Montclair State College, formerly with the Metropolitan Opera Co., tenor, and Fred Jones, soloist at St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City, and member of the Metropolitan Opera Studio.

"This is the ninth year for the traditional event by the Music Department of the college. Jack E. Platt, chairman of the department, is the director.

The chorus will consist of students, staff and faculty members of the college and students from five other colleges (St. Peter's College in Jersey City, Montclair State College, Paterson State College, Caldwell College for Women and Ursula College). There will also be 50 high school students from Union, Roselle, Cranford and Hillside, and alumni from communities throughout the state. They will be accompanied by a 25-piece orchestra.

TICKETS WILL COST $1.50 each and will be available at the door. Proceeds will be used to pay for a Hammond concert organ purchased for the theater.

Jones has appeared on Broadway in Menotti's "The Saint of Bloeker Street" and Bernstein's "Candide." He played at the Phoenix Theater in "The Life" and sang in the NBC-TV production of "The Merchant of Venice." He has toured the United States, Canada and Mexico under the management of Columbia Concerts, appearing in some 300 cities and towns, and performed recently in a recital in Town Hall, New York City.

Miss Armstrong's performances at Radio City Music Hall have included a solo role in the traditional Easter stage show. She has also sung solo roles with the Harrisburg Symphony Orchestra and numerous choral groups and in a concert at the Montclair Art Museum, a resident of Westfield and a former music teacher in the Westfield Public Schools, she studied voice with Frank La Farro at New York City. She sings regularly at Temple B'nai Abraham in Newark.

WILKES SANG FOR six years with the Metropolitan Opera Co. before joining the music faculty at Montclair State College in 1958. He has performed in a Mike Todd production of "A Night in Venice" at Jones Beach and in musical productions at Barnard College, the Cloisters (under the auspices of the Metropolitan Museum of Art), at the Library of Congress, Vassar College and the Cleveland Municipal Auditorium. After receiving bachelor's and master's degrees from the Juillard School of Music, he studied in Italy at the Santa Cecilia Conservatory in Rome and the Giuseppe Verdi Conservatory in Milan as a Fulbright Award recipient.

Miss Natale, also a graduate of the Juillard School of Music, has sung with the New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia, Hartford, St. Louis, Rochester and New Jersey Symphony Orchestras. Last year she sang the "Messiah" at the Naval Academy in Annapolis. She is soprano soloist at Riverside Church, New York City.

British universities face increase in enrollments

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's universities, like their American counterparts, are suffering growing pains. Fulltime staff has increased nearly 50 per cent and students more than 30 per cent between 1960 and 1965.

The greatest increase is in the number of students studying the arts and social sciences, less so in medicine, dentistry, agriculture and veterinary science.

State university offers CD workers' classes

To insure the best use of existing and projected fall at protection in Union County, many shelter managers and CD workers must be trained, according to William J. McBride, County CD Coordinator.

An opportunity to secure such training will be available during the first and second weeks of December, according to him, when the Rutgers University Extension Civil Defense program conducts a CIVIL DEFENSE Management course at the County Court House Building, 2 Broad St., Elizabeth.

Classes meet on Dec. 3-4 and 10-11, 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The instruction, which is tuition-free, covers the CD program, weapons effects, protection against weapons effects,

Christmas tree sale planned as benefit for Five Points 'Y'

The Father and Son Indian Guides will sell Christmas trees at the local Five Points YMCA on Salem rd., Union. The tree sale will benefit the YMCA.

EDMUND JOHANSEN, chief of the local Indian Guide Longhouse, said Anthony Padovano is the chairman for the sale. The signs and publicity for the affair are being handled by the Adventure Club, under the leadership of James Panos. The lot will be set up by the Lenape Tribe with Chief Robert Glaser. Ticket sales will be handled by Edmund Johansen. Light on the lot will be taken care of by the Fox Tribe, with Bill Cole as chief. Scheduling of manpower coverage for the sale will be handled by Roy Trupiano. Tags to price the trees will be made by the Navajo Tribe, under the leadership of Bill Reinbolt.

The trees will be arriving at the local YMCA the week of Dec. 5. The balsams will be coming from the "Y" Men's Club of Saint John, New Brunswick, Canada, and the Scotch Pines are being cut in West Virginia.

Tickets with $1 toward the purchase of a tree are being sold by the boys in Indian Guides. The tree sale will start Dec. 5, through Dec. 8 for "ticket holders" only, and on Dec. 9 the sale will then be open to all.

Mrs. Emil Neroda; active in church

Mrs. Margaret Collins Neroda, 42, wife of Emil Neroda, of 1526 Brookside dr., died Saturday following a long illness. Mrs. Neroda, active in the affairs of Holy Spirit Church, was a member and past president of the Rosary Society of the church and a past vice-president of the Rosary Society of Christ the King Church, Hillsdale.

She also was president of the Union-Elizabeth District, Newark Archdiocesan Council, National Council of Catholic Women, and a charter member and past treasurer of the Dominican Guild, Caldwell.

Mrs. Neroda also is survived by four sons, Daniel E., Lawrence J., Thomas R., and James G. Neroda, all at home; two daughters, Miss "Margaret" A. Neroda and Miss Sally J. Neroda, also at home; and a brother, Daniel Collins of Levittown, L.I.

Funeral services were held this Wednesday morning at McCracken Funeral Home, 1500 Morris ave., with a solemn high mass in Holy Spirit Church.

Set Vivaldi, Bach music

Bach's cantata 140, "Sleepers Wake," will be performed at a Baroque music concert at the Church on High at 7:30 p.m. in the Theatre-in-the-Round on Seton Hall University's South Orange campus. The piece, a setting of the parable of the Ten Virgins, will be sung in an English translation by Henry S. Drinkwater. The chorale tune appears in hymnals of many denominations and has been arranged in many different ways, including an organ version, which may be familiar to listeners. At the concert it will be performed in its original form by the choir, a 20-piece orchestra and organ continuo, featuring violin and oboe solos. Vivaldi's "Gloria" shares the program and will follow the Bach piece. There will be no charge for admission and the public has been invited to attend. Church choir master and organist Vladimir Havsky is director of the program.

Women last

UNIVERSITY-PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Certain social and psychological factors may help determine who lives to a ripe old age. A survey of a rural Pennsylvania community by Joseph and Jean Tritton, a husband and wife research team at Pennsylvania State University, indicated that women live longer than men because apparently the attitudes of women holds, and general feelings of satisfaction and morale are more importantly related to her survival than the activities she carries out.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

GRATITUDE
If you find yourself faced with a momentary disappointment, count your blessings. Think of all the things you have to be happy about. Remember, if you can, the many times that fortune has smiled upon you and things have gone your way. Do this, and you will find some reason to be thankful. You will realize that you have seldom -- or never -- offered a prayer of thanks and appreciation. Be grateful for your many blessings. Count them, think about them, and you will not have so much time to brood over a few little things that turn out wrong. Do not expect too much of God. Do not look for miracles, for instant solutions to problems. Remember only that God does not forsake you, and, no matter how difficult things may seem to be, they will only become worse if you forsake God.

Office work makes own set of stains

If you work in an office, Carolyn L. Yuknus, Senior County Home economist, reports, you are apt to get some clothing stains that are not too common, and in some instances, not too easy to remove.

Along with the usual carbon paper, correction fluid and various kinds of ink, office work stains can be hard on working clothes.

Any stain should be treated promptly, and if not while on the job, as soon as possible. The longer a spot remains, the less chance there is of removing it.

If possible, keep a small stain removal kit in your desk which might contain small labeled bottles of liquid detergent, grease solvent, rubbing alcohol, and acetone, along with an absorbent cloth or sponge.

When stains occur, work from the outside of the spot toward the center to prevent the stain from spreading.

Apply stain remover to the wrong side of the garment so that the stain washes out of the fabric rather than through it.

When using a grease solvent, work in a well ventilated area and avoid inhaling the fumes.

To remove carbon paper stains, work liquid detergent into the area and rinse well. If stain remains, apply a few drops of ammonia and repeat detergent process.

Correction fluid can be impossible to remove if not treated promptly. For most fabrics sponge the stain with acetone, but test the acetone on a bit of seam allowance first to determine if the acetone will damage the fabric.

Plastic glue must be treated before it has hardened. Wash with acetone with detergent and water. If the glue has hardened, some success may be achieved by using a ten percent hot vinegar solution.

Ballpoint pen ink is difficult to remove. But if the fabric is washable, hand scrub the spot with hot water and liquid detergent. After rinsing, sponge the spot with alcohol. For non-washable materials, use a grease solvent.

Minograph ink will respond in washable garments to rubbing the spot with liquid detergent, rinsing well, and applying grease solvent. For non-washable garments, use grease solvent several times.

Pencil marks can often be removed with a soft eraser. For heavier marks, use the liquid detergent, rinse and apply a few drops of ammonia.

Photocopy fluid can eat holes in clothes so sponge any stains immediately with cool water.

Lipstick and rouge can be removed by softening the stain with petroleum jelly or cold cream. Apply liquid detergent to washable fabrics and rinse. For non-washable fabrics use grease solvent to remove stain.

Crying due to growing pains

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some babies cry a great deal more than others in the first few months of an apparently healthy life.

The reason, a team of Child investigators finds, is that they are almost literally suffering from "growing pains." "Medical World News," a publication for doctors, reporting on the development noted that normal bone growth at that age can cause a painful swelling of "flesh," especially in plump infants.

MRS. BERNARD E. VREELAND

Miss Patricia Delmont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Delmont of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., was married Saturday afternoon to Bernard Edward Vreeland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Vreeland of 2016 Kay ave., Union.

Rev. Paul Manning officiated at the 3 p.m. nuptial ceremony in St. Michael's Catholic Church, Union. A reception followed at the Local Union Hall No. 595.

Miss Arlene Zito of Union served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Frederick Karge of Jackson; Miss Barbara Ann Cocchia of Hillside and Miss Barbara Scheffer of Bloomfield. Miss Marcy Rispoli of Hillside served as flower girl.

Frederick Siano of Union served as best man. Ushers included George Delmont of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Frederick Karge Jr. of Jackson and Robert J. Vreeland Jr. of Union. Frederick Karge III of Jackson was ring bearer.

Mrs. Vreeland, who was graduated from St. Thomas Aquinas High School, Ft. Lauderdale, and Seton Hall University College, Newark, is a teacher at Wilson Ave. School, Newark.

Her husband, who attended Colonial Dust Control, Newark, served four years in the U.S. Marine Corps. He is employed by Colonial Dust Control Co., Newark.

Following a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, the couple will reside in Roselle Park.

Harvest dance set Saturday night by Park-Union Guild

The Park-Union Guild of Deborah will hold its harvest dance Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Machinist Hall, Union. It has been announced by Mrs. Warren Cohen (686-3036) and Mrs. Philip Kopp (688-1549), chairmen. Refreshments will be included in the price of the ticket.

The guild heard Capt. Donald Ebert of the Union Police Department lecture on the "Problems of Narcotics Today" at its regular meeting Monday evening. Capt. Ebert is vice-president of the Narcotic Enforcement Association.

The guild's caravan to the Deborah Hospital in Browns Mills took place Nov. 6. Approximately 60 members and friends were greeted by Mrs. Betty Kuzur, regional chairman of Jersey City. The group was guided through the hospital and its surrounding areas. A luncheon was served and the guests held conversations with hospital patients and visited the new heart pavilion.

Mrs. Ailyn Pickler (686-0537) and Mrs. Murray Egan (683-4613) are in the process of taking reservations for a Deborah weekend, Jan. 27 through Jan. 29, 1967, to Kitcher's Country Club in Monticello, N. Y.

Annual auction sale set by B'nai B'rith

A regular meeting of B'nai B'rith Women of Union will be held at Congregation Beth Shalom, Vauxhall rd., Monday at 8:15 p.m. with Mrs. George Scavron presiding.

After the business portion of the meeting, Mrs. Joseph Barnett, program vice-president will announce the date and time for the auction sale of all new merchandise. Mrs. Teddy High is chairman of the project, and the public is invited to attend. The sale will start at 9:30 p.m., and refreshments will be served by the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Jack Jacobs and Mrs. Theodore Kovalas.

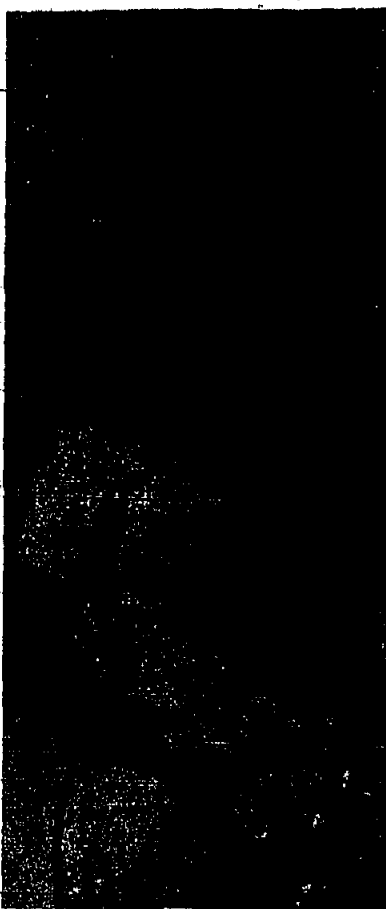

Tough carpet for hotels now ready for home use

NEW YORK (UPI)—A special type of carpet developed for heavy-duty use in hotels and theatres now is used in homes. The Latex Foam Rubber Council reports the carpet has a backing of high density latex foam rubber which gives it special properties.

This latex foam is not like the familiar foam used on the backs of throw rugs. The high density product is heavier, thicker, more resilient, and will not come off. The carpets also have a low pile to make walking and cleaning easier.

Voyage booked in Union Center

The Union Theater in Union Center is playing an all-German show Wednesday and Thursday Nov. 23 and 24. The touring picture is "Die Grosse Kuer."

"Fantastic Voyage," a science fiction picture concerning a secret process which enables doctors in a submarine to be reduced to microbe size and to journey into human blood stream for a delicate operation, is filmed in color.

"What a Way to Go," lavish comedy in color about a five-time widow, has Shirley MacLaine, Dean Martin, Paul Newman, Bob Cummings, Robert Mitchum and Dick Van Dyke in stellar roles.

SWEATER CARE After each wearing, air a sweater thoroughly, then fold and put in a drawer. Never hang a sweater on a hanger between wearings.

Steal A Million now at Sanford

"How to Steal a Million" color comedy about a Parisian art forger, his pretty daughter, and a sleuth involved in humorous antics, including a million-dollar caper.

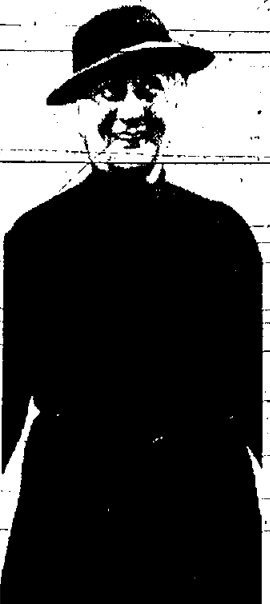

The picture has Audrey Hepburn, Peter O'Toole, Marcello Mastroianni, Charles Bronson in leading roles, William Wyler directed the movie.

An associate feature with the comedy at the Sanford is "Stagecoach," filmed at the 1939 classic Western. A mixture of characters share a stagecoach to Chelyenne through dangerous Indian territory.

This version has Ann Murray and Alex Cord, Michael Cummins, Eddy Cummings and Van Heflin, Gordon Douglas directed the picture in color.

La Dolce Vita shown at Art in Irvington

"La Dolce Vita" is being shown at the Art Theater, Irvington, in its original version. The picture, a morality play of epic proportions, is set in modern Rome. It gives a glimpse of scandal, sin, sex, greed and selfishness in its picture-drama of two. Federico Fellini directed the movie, which stars Marcello Mastroianni, Agneta Ekberg, Yvonne Fourneau and Amook Amice.

IN THE TITLE ROLE - Sylvia, the 84-year-old Grand Dame of the French Theater, portrays Madame Berthe, an aristocrat, who, after years of drudgery, discovers a new life in "The Shameless Old Lady," which has started its second week at the Ormont Theater, East Orange.

Per capita sales, retail buying up

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Total retail sales in the United States jumped 9 per cent in 1965 from 1964, from $263 billion to $284 billion, according to the Census Bureau's recent annual report on retail trade.

PROMISE HER ANYTHING in New Plaza Theater

"Promise Her Anything" movie comedy about a husband-seeking widow with a child, who tries to choose between the child psychiatrist and a director of stag films, is the holiday attraction this week at the New Plaza Theater in Linden. Leslie Caron shares stellar billing with Warren Beatty, Bob Cummings, Hermione Gingold, Cathleen Nesbitt and Keenan Wynn. Arthur Hiller directed the picture in color.

Texas, 'Idol' now on Millburn screen

"Texas Across the River," is booked with "The Idol" at the Millburn Theater in Millburn this week.

A Look at the United Nations with Trudina Howard UNICEF greeting helps children around world

"Twas the month before Christmas
And all through the town
Every creature was stirring
And hurrying, and scurrying to the United Nations or the outer in their hometown to get UNICEF Christmas cards.

With the holidays in the offing, it is good to remember the UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) sale of Christmas cards for the benefit of the world's children. Every box of cards sold helps a child somewhere in the world.

Each box contains ten cards and is sold for $1.25 and that alone will buy enough antibiotics to cure five children of trachoma and project 50 children against tuberculosis. Five boxes will provide five months supply of sulfadiazole as anti-bacterial agents. Ten boxes will provide enough small fish to stock three village fishponds for local supply of valuable proteins, and 20 boxes will give a two-week accelerated training course for an elementary school teacher.

Some of the cards have a religious theme, others have a peace theme and still others are simply pleasant scenes. They all come with a "Season's Greetings" message in the five official languages of the UN: English, Russian, French, Spanish and Chinese. All art work is donated by the various artists.

Titling for this year's cards, for instance, are "Santa Claus" by an Argentine artist, "Village in the Snow" by a Canadian, "Nadiyiti" by a Haitian, "Festive Candles" by a Lebanese, "The Endless Chain" by an American, "Hungarian Carollers" by a Hungarian, "Deep Winter" by a Japanese, "Christmas Star" by a German, "Dancing Children" by a Dane, "Maternity" by a Vietnamese, "Winter Fair" by a French woman and a series of five (two of each in a box) called "Joy of Sharing" by an American. The special edition card (the only one at ten for $2.50) is called "Bird of Peace" and is by a Frenchman.

For its splendid help to mothers-to-be and children of the world, UNICEF was honored last year with a distinguished award—the Nobel Prize for Peace. In addition, this year is its 20th birthday, so UNICEF has quite a special Christmas coming up. In the presentation speech in Oslo for the Peace award, it was stated that UNICEF, "through its work benefiting the children of the world, has fulfilled the conviction of Nobel's will, the promotion of brotherhood among nations."

Cards may be obtained in the visitor's section of the United Nations building near the book shop and souvenir area, at Bamberger's Newark and some local outlets.

months session that it sets up the business for the year.) you may be admitted to the plenary and/or committee sessions. Visitors are also admitted to the periodic meetings of the Security Council which may be at any time during the year, and to the regular meetings of various other commissions and committees. A limited number of tickets are available and must be applied for in person at the admissions desk in the public lobby, First ave. near 45th st., no earlier than 30 minutes before the start of each meeting. Meetings usually convene at 10:30 a.m. or 11 and at 2:30 p.m. or 3, Mondays through Fridays. The Security Council may meet at any time but generally follows that same rule. The public lobby is open from 9 to 6 daily including Sundays (but not Dec. 23, 24, 25, 31 and Jan. 1) and hour-long tours in various languages leave the lobby every 10 minutes or so from 9 to 4:45 daily.

Luncheon may be taken in the Delegate's Dining room before 12 and after 2 during the session of the General Assembly and from 11:30 to 2 during the rest of the year, but this is also limited by capacity and must be applied for at the lobby admissions desk. Inquiries about reservations may be made by telephone.

BUT ALL THROUGH THE YEAR, and not only at holiday time, it is also wonderful to know that there is a group close by which works for the benefit of the UN.

We New Jerseyans feel fairly close to the UN for we are, after all, the neighboring state to the location of its headquarters, but we have still an even closer touch. We have the United Nations Association of the U.S., New Jersey Branch, with offices located in Newark.

Early this month the Association looked at another brand of art when it held a gala, formal fund-raising preview and dinner at Bamberger's in Newark and the Down Town Club, but it was all for the benefit of the educational programs of the New Jersey Branch of the United Nations Association.

In cooperation with Bamberger's and with Harry W. Weckstein of South Orange as president and Mrs. Robert Meyer, newspaper columnist and TV personality and the wife of the former New Jersey governor, as vice-president, the association members attended the special premier opening of Bamberger's holiday "GALLERY of the Masters" and dined in grand style at the Down Town Club at a buffet prepared by Alitalia, the Italian airline.

The art exhibit itself is claimed to be a five million dollar show and contains such art treasures as paintings by Goya, Picasso, Rodin and Renoir. Contributing museums include the Prado in Madrid and the Louvre in Paris.

The preview was attended by 300 of the state's most distinguished leaders in business and government and those who contributed $25, or perhaps more, received an original lithograph, commissioned by Bamberger's.

So it would seem, from tiny boxes to tiny lithographs, the United Nations gets help to help those who need it.

TASTY TURKEY LEFTOVERS
BY ANNE L. SHEELAN
County Home Economist

Turkey club sandwiches, main course turkey salads, a variety of turkey casserole combinations, and turkey midnight snacks are all in the offing once the Thanksgiving feast is served. For safety and enjoyment, however, proper care of the cooked turkey meat is essential. As soon as possible after serving, remove every bit of stuffing from the wishbone and body cavities. Wrap tightly and refrigerate. Always heat the cooked stuffing thoroughly before eating. Cooked stuffing should be used within three to four days.

The turkey meat should be removed from the boned, tightly covered to prevent drying out, and placed in the refrigerator. Use cooked turkey meat two to three days after serving. The gravy should be placed in a covered container and stored in the refrigerator also. Always bring the gravy to the boiling point before serving.

Small meal-size packages of turkey meat may be wrapped in moisture-vapor resistant paper and be frozen for use up to one month. Try one of the tasty cooked turkey recipes that follow.

- TURKEY AU GRATIN
10 1/2 ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup cubed Cheddar cheese
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/8 teaspoon basil
1/4 cup finely crushed cracker crumbs
- Combine turkey, soup, water, cheese, and seasoning in a 1 1/2 quart casserole. Top with cracker crumbs. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes, or until bubbly. Serve with Chinese Noodles.
- TURKEY GUMBO
2 small onions, sliced
2 tablespoons fat
4 cups turkey broth
2 cups canned tomatoes
4 cups cooked okra
2 cups bits of cooked turkey
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon paprika
2 cups cooked rice
- Cook onion in fat until it's tender but not brown. Add broth, tomatoes, okra, turkey, parsley, and paprika. Heat and simmer 10 minutes. Taste for seasoning. Add cooked rice. Heat and serve. Makes four to six servings.
- HEARTY TURKEY SANDWICH
8 slices rye bread
8 slices Swiss cheese

Parkway Authority initiates emphatic keep right program

The New Jersey Highway Authority has set out to speed drivers and their vehicles to the right on the Garden State Parkway.

The Authority, which operates the toll road, this week announced a special person-to-person program on top of law enforcement and posted information along the Parkway to drive home the message to keep right.

Authority Executive Director D. Louis Tonti said the practice of lingering in the left or center lane has been so prevalent on the Parkway despite strict enforcement of the law to keep right except when passing that an extensive educational effort was felt necessary.

In the new effort to emphasize, educate and eliminate left-lane blockers and back State Police and Parkway signposting KEEP RIGHT-PASS LEFT, the Authority will take the following steps:

1. enlist the help of its staff members and other Parkway regulars in spotting offenders along the road when troopers are not around, towards dispatching letters home to the registered owners of the vehicles.
 2. start issuing prompter cards from Parkway toll booths to alert motorists to the problems of traffic safety and disorder created by failure to keep right when the right lane is open has also contributed to traffic congestion by deterring the proper movement of wary motorists behind with a resulting waste of the road's capacity.
 3. As noted in the basic letter which the Authority will address to those registered owners of vehicles reported failing to keep right.
 4. "Regardless of the speed at which your vehicle is being driven in the left lane whether 60 mph or less, it should be moved over to the right as soon as possible after entering the lane or passing another vehicle—unless of course there is no safe room on the right."
- "Please remember," it adds, "that the left lane is considered the passing lane and should not be used for steady driving."
- The letter further advises that the center of a three-lane Parkway roadway is also placed to be if the extreme right lane is available for use, noting "Center-lane driving, like left-lane use, can impede traffic movement and 'push' others to pass you unsafely on the right."
- The letter-writing program is strictly for education, and while it may be addressed to the person who was not driving at the time or may even be based on an erroneous report the Authority felt the effort would serve to spread the word on the need to drive in the Parkway's right lanes. The letter itself explains.
- However, strict enforcement of the law by State Police will continue throughout the program aimed at overcoming "this serious traffic and safety problem on the Parkway."

Former stewardesses slate Christmas bazaar

The Eastern Airlines Silverliners, an organization made up of former stewardesses, has scheduled a Christmas bazaar for Thursday, Dec. 1, at the Public Service Building, 80 Park pl., Newark, beginning at 11 a.m. Mrs. Thomas Dozier, chairman, has announced that a Santa's workshop will be featured.

Board chairman at PS lists dividend increases

Watson F. Teit Jr., chairman of the board of Public Service Electric and Gas Co., announced this week that in addition to dividends of the preferred and $1.40 dividend preference common stocks, the board of directors has declared a dividend of 38.5 cents per share on the common stock payable on or before Dec. 21, to holders of record Nov. 28.

This is an increase of two cents per share per quarter over the 36.5 cents per share dividend paid quarterly on the common stock in and since the fourth quarter of 1965, and is the seventh consecutive year in which the common stock dividend has been increased.

War on poverty weekly renewed for next year

TRENTON—The New Jersey Office of Economic Opportunity announced today that its weekly radio program, "Opportunity Report," has been renewed for the present fiscal year. John C. Bullitt, NJOEO director, said the five-minute weekly program is broadcast by 20 AM and FM stations throughout New Jersey.

Twins most likely after fifth attempt

NEW YORK (UPI)—A woman's chances of having twins increases sharply after her fifth pregnancy and after she is 35 years of age, according to Drs. W.V. Subbarao and M. L. Gupta, of the Medical College of Jajpur, India, Women's Medical News service reports.

"If this age factor can be impressed upon women they may agree not to have any more pregnancies for fear of twins which add an extra burden on the husband's purse," the scientists observed.

PAPER MILL PLAYHOUSE

'Take Me Along,' a gracious voyage

BY WILLIAM H. BRUCKER Get next to your Moxie, dig up your stereoscope and sashay over to the Paper Mill Playhouse, where "Take Me Along" is providing a graceful and gracious voyage into nostalgia and an era of innocence.

When the script with the heraldic slogan "Man the Pump" pulls away and discloses a stage full of volunteers, a brassy new fire pump, lovely ladies and prominent citizens frozen in a tintype of 4th of July frivolity, period of 1910, you are immediately involved in a full blown vintage musical with exuberant people, more than adequate voices, imaginative dances, fine acting, and cheerful and positive attitudes.

Joseph Stein and Robert Russell have created this pleasantly maintained period piece from Eugene O'Neill's interrupted play "Ah Wilderness". They have captured the independence and expectancy of a pre-Freudian Quaker Day in the Hill of Nat Miller and his family in Centerville, Connecticut.

O'Neill's only comedy has often been referred to as his hymn to his own young manhood. Yet if his posthumous plays present the well known O'Neill family disasters, "Ah Wilderness" could have been only a mild reflection on his family life, and rather a sort of literary recess to soften the recesses of "Mourning Becomes Electra" and "Strange Interlude" and the following "The Iceman Cometh".

BOB MERRILL's score has lift and a down East endearment to it. His music quotes from the unnumbered, generally happy life of the time, and is uninvolved, traditional and refreshing, but, better yet, it restores confidence in this present-day of non-memorable musical scores.

Lanny Ross, looking Norfolk and trim as the crusading editor, Nat Miller, is gentle and tolerant towards his family and friends, yet hopeful as to the future of his adolescent rebel son. He accepts his reading of Bernard Shaw, but watch out for that Oscar Wilde. Isn't he in jail for bigamy or something like that? Ross could have satisfied me with a reprise of "Moonlight and Roses," but instead offered a wholesome "Staying Young."

Tom Dossy takes his place with the more able Sid's of our time. He did not have the deep despair that Wallace Beery suffered, who would have been more to O'Neill's intention, nor the dazed, incoherence of Jackie Gleason. Yet, he does know his character well, and is a light and ingratiating total actor in his "I Get Embarrassed" duet with Aunt Lilly, touchingly played and sung by Louise Kirtland. The musical version treats Sid a little more kindly. His disoluteness does find resolve.

Miss Kirtland is a kittenish and patient Lilly. For Sid's proposal, enforced by the immundo of the day, she reveals shock and delight at the same time, she is both proud and overcome by her naughtiness. It is to be expected from a girl who has been waiting 16 years for someone to make up his mind.

"Sunday in New York" is surprisingly good as Richard Miller, 16, and eager to live life. He intoxicates himself with the burning verses of Swinburne, the lurid Aubrey Beardsley drawings for Salome, the transvestite George Sands and the consumptive Camille. A very humorous dream ballet uses many of these characters along with Lystrata and puts into focus a logical, perspicacious flight of fancy for the young O'Neill. Mr. Sands sings best his songs "I Would Die" and "Nine O'Clock," and will certainly have placed another step.

Chamber music series opens next Wednesday. The 23rd Chamber Music Series, co-sponsored by the YM-YWHA of Essex County and the New Jersey Chamber Music Society, opens next Wednesday, 8:40 p.m., at 255 Chancellor Ave., with a performance by the Hungarian Quartet. The program will include: Quartet in G Major, Op. 77, No. 1 Haydn; Quartet in C Sharp Minor, Op. 131, Beethoven; and Quartet No. 2, Opus 10, Kodaly. Following on this series will be the Quartetto Italiano on Jan. 26; Sidney Harth, violinist, and Brooks Smith at the piano on March 15, and the Guarneri String Quartet on April 19.

in his ladder marked up with this performance. Robert T. Williams sets were once more masterful. He might have been tempted to be more sardonic. That would not have served O'Neill well, nor even the present collaborators, for the musical is not a sardonic one. Robert Ennis Turoff's direction is brisk. William Guske's choreography is always exciting. Sara Brook's costumes are well researched. A completely capital performance by all concerned. A better holiday show would be impossible to conceive. This is plus entertainment for everyone.

Unpublished book tells of soldiers, cattlemen
FOOT LYON, Colo. (UPI) - An unpublished manuscript and notes written by a 19th Century soldier and cattlemen have shown that 1868-69 winter campaign pitted an all-star lineup of Indian fighters against the Cheyenne, Comanche and Arapaho tribes.
But there is no indication that Kit Carson, Wild Bill Hickock, Buffalo Bill Cody and Gen. George Custer ever met that year.
Notes left by the late Luke Cahill say the campaign was the idea of Gen. Kit Carson, Cahill said Carson convinced President Andrew Johnson and a reluctant U. S. Gen. G. Grant that a winter hunt like the one he used to defeat the all-star lineup of Indian fighters against the Cheyenne, Comanche and Arapaho tribes.
Cahill said Buffalo Bill was a scout for Carr's column; Hickock was a scout for Brevet Brig. Gen. Penrose, who commanded Carr's advance regiment.
Cahill's manuscript, that deals only with Carr's column, Cahill said he knows what happened to Wild Bill Hickock. Cahill theorized Hickock either stayed with Penrose or was transferred to another command. There have been indications that some of the civilian scouts who were killed without collecting their pay and returned to civilization where there were stories.
Although there was little actual Indian contact with the three columns, Cahill said he thought his friend had three parties started in beginning to seek peace terms that spring.
Wrong way of driving tots to class
Parents chauffeuring their children to and from school all too frequently unwittingly create hazardous conditions.
George G. Traver, Executive Vice President of the New Jersey State Safety Council, says parent-chauffeurs are frequently guilty of:
Loading or unloading children across the street from the school. This encourages them to open the door on the street side and wander across or dart around the car back to the curb.
Stopping too close to the crosswalk, where there are no sidewalks, curbs or lights.
Double and triple parking. This obstructs the vision of walking children, encourages the parent's own child to walk from between parked cars, and creates a hazardous area of dis-regard for the law.
Stopping too close to the crosswalk. This is unfair both to the pupils using the cross-walk and to the safety patrols trying to do their job.
Strapping in areas designated for school-bus-loading-unloading, and blocking service driveways. This not only creates hazards for the children but also contributes to traffic jams.
Disregarding traffic control signs, signals, signs and making "U" turns. This makes for traffic foul-ups and general confusion.
School authorities, Traver said, are agreed that without parental cooperation no expenditure of money, no new facilities, no added traffic-control devices can be effective in reducing the traffic hazards around New Jersey.
Many parents, Traver added, drive their children to school in the mistaken belief that it is safer to ride than to walk.
"Far from it. Actually, more children are injured on the way to school-in cars than on foot. Let 'em walk," Traver advises parents.
Accidents strike young holiday
CHICAGO (UPI) - Accidents cause more deaths among persons 15 to 24 years old than any other cause, according to reports of the National Safety Council.
Seven times as many youths died from accidents in 1964 than from cancer, the death-most frequent cause of death.

Regional junior varsity team shows promise for next year Coach praises work and spirit of Dayton frosh

BY MYRON MEISEL
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School junior varsity football team, despite a weak record, holds out great promise for future varsity teams. The Bulldogs JV's produced many fine ball-players, most of whom have already seen some varsity action.

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School freshman football team did not win a game this season, but the squad did record a few important accomplishments.

Three teams hold shares of 1st place in league standings

A five-way tie in the Thursday Afternoon Boys' Bowling League was reduced to a three-way tie at the conclusion of play two weeks ago. After play was concluded last Thursday afternoon the Hurricanes, Jets and Rockets were atop the league standings. Each had an identical record of six and two.

In addition, Juniors Ron Wittich and Willie Rutz, as ends and flankers, did fine jobs. There was an especially strong contingent of sophomores: Gary Ginzburg at guard, Henry Klaczka at tackle, Richard Moskowitz at end, and Jim Robinson and Larry Stewart at back.

The Hurricanes protected their position of first place by dumping the tough Atoms twice last week. Craig Nowinski paced the Hurricane sweep, as he posted a fine series effort of 306. Todd Herzig, with 278, was the second effort also added the triumph. Jay Silverman with a series score of 267 paced the Atoms.

The over-all performance of the Dayton JV defense was top-notch, something that was reflected in their quality of play on the varsity. However, the team had difficulties on offense.

Despite the losing season, nearly every boy who began the season also completed it, and in addition, improved considerably. Coach Mike Iannelli put it: "They worked hard, and improved with each game. As the end of the season came, the boys grew tougher to beat. They still have a long way to go, but their attitude is excellent, and they could provide a great deal of talent for future varsity teams in two or three years."

closer, but the onus lies on the Bulldogs themselves. They have shown the ability, at times, that could defeat Rahway. If they can mobilize it and sustain it for most of the game (perhaps the hardest part) then they can win. Springfield looked good enough against Berkeley Heights, and for isolated moments against Hillside, Clark, and Scotch Plains. The Bulldogs will need more moments, but nonetheless the potential for saving this season is there.

Slater stars in boys' bowling with 312 mark for two games

The Hawks continue to run away and hide from the rest of the boys' bowling league, as they rolled to their eighth consecutive victory last week without a defeat. The Hawks are undefeated in four weeks of play in early competition in the Friday Afternoon Boys' Bowling League. League play is sponsored by the Recreation Department. The boys roll at the Springfield Bowl.

The Jets continued to bounce all competition, as they trounced the Bullets in two games last week. Billy Schwab once again paced the Jet sweep as he topped all bowlers for the day with a 314 series. Billy's two-game effort kept the Jets at the top of the standings.

Spare Ribs in lead in Skittler bowling

The Spare Ribs stood out last week in Springfield Skittlers' bowling at Springfield Bowl, holding first place with a record of 22-11. The Spare Ribs were second at 19-14, followed by the Alley Cats, with a record of 17-16.

Competition is close with 3 quintets tied in sub-deb bowling

The Rockin' Bowlers moved into a three-way tie with the Charms and the Alley Cats in their conclusion of competition in the Girls Bowling League last week. The Girls Bowling League meets each Tuesday afternoon at the Springfield Bowl and is sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department.
