Town gave record sum for UNICEF

Mothers' group reports on Halloween collection

Springfield children raised a record total of $1,416.68 in their Halloween Trick or Treat campaign for UNICEF, according to a final accounting announced this week by the UNICEF committee of mothers from all local schools.

In terms of support to the United Nations Children's Fund, the report declared, "this can mean a glass of milk every day for a month for more than 28,300 hungry children, or the antibiotics to treat 14,160 young victims of trachoma."

The announcement went on to say, "The UNICEF committee would like to express its most sincere gratitude to all adults who gave so generously, to the children who rang doorbells and to the many volunteers who helped them."

"The committee would also like to thank the principals and teachers for their wonderful help in teaching about UNICEF and distributing the milk cartons, and to express its appreciation to the men of the National State Bank of Elizabethtown (Springfield Branch), who took on the mammoth task of counting the coins."

The local group was composed of the international relations chairmen of the various Parent-Teacher Associations, headed by Mrs. Irwin Kosnett. Assisting her were Mrs. Joseph Repka, Edward Walton School; Mrs. Abner Gold, Temple Beth Ahim School; Mrs. Paul Studer, Raymond Chisholm School; Mrs. Robert Day, James Caldwell School; Mrs. Morton Panish, Florence Gaudineer School; and Mrs. Wilfred Murphy, St. James School.

ERIC KRUEGER

Youth selected as unit nominee to study abroad

The Springfield selection committee of the Americans Abroad Program, a division of the American Field Service, has recommended Eric Krueger of 227 Lelak Ave. to participate in the program. The program offers to young Americans the opportunity to live abroad with a foreign family and thereby promote a mutual understanding and respect for other cultures and nations.

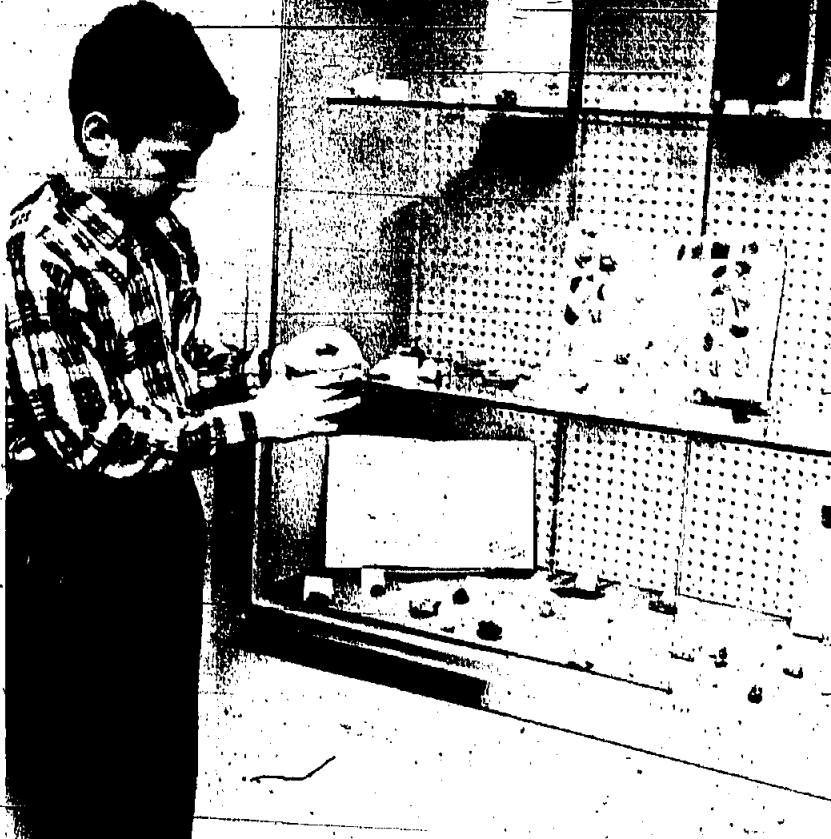

The Springfield selection committee reviewed a number of applications and, after a study of the applications, interviews and other evaluations, Krueger was recommended for the program. The final determination will be made by the national American Field Service program between March 1 and July 15, 1967. In the event he is selected, he will be assigned to live with a family abroad and participate in the local school program.

Krueger is 16 years old and a junior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. He received extremely high recommendations from his teachers and his classmates, the report stated. He was president of his class during his freshman and sophomore years and was president of the American Field Service Study Club.

Ask support for program to aid school

'Quality education' seen group's 'main concern'

Officers of the Parent-Teacher Association of Jonathan Dayton Regional High are expected to outline dissatisfaction with some policies of the Regional Board of Education at a PTA meeting tonight at 8 at the high school.

An announcement sent to all PTA members by Mrs. Leonard Waldt, president, declared, "The executive board of your PTA has noted several issues of importance which we will present to the Regional Board of Education at their December meeting (Dec. 20). We believe you should be made aware of them."

"Our main concern is quality education at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. We ask the support of you, the parents, in attaining these goals."

The announcement declared, "As you know, February is budget time. To insure the quality education that we want for our children, we must have quality teachers. With today's competitive market, our teachers' salaries should be equal to those of the neighboring communities."

According to a recent publication of the N.J. Education Association, the salary range for teachers in the Regional system with bachelor's degrees is $5,500 to $9,400, attainable in 16 years. Teachers in the Springfield school system with the same education are paid $5,000 to $9,600, reaching the maximum in 16 years.

Regional teachers with master's degrees can go from $5,800 to $9,950 in 17 years. Springfield faculty members in the same category can go from $5,900 to $10,100 in 15 years.

With 10 years of training, Regional teachers go from $6,100 to $10,750 in 19 years. Springfield teachers in this range go from $6,200 to $10,400 in 15 years.

With doctorates, Regional teachers can go from $6,400 to $11,050 in 19 years. Springfield teachers with doctor's degrees can go from $6,200 to $10,300 in 17 years.

By way of comparison, the following is the scale in Scotch Plains-Fanwood, tops in Union County: bachelor's, $5,650 to $10,000 in 16 years; master's, $6,100 to $11,100 in 18 years; six years of training, $6,700 to $12,000 in 19 years; doctor's, $7,400 to $13,100 in 20 years.

The NJEA report stated that the average teacher in New Jersey received a pay increase last year, including an increment for added service as well as for a new pay scale of $500. The average increase for Regional teachers was listed as $400; for Springfield teachers, $570; for Scotch Plains teachers, $615.

ANOTHER PORTION of the PTA notice sent out by Mrs. Waldt declared:

"The furniture in some of the classrooms in Jonathan Dayton Regional High School dates back to the original date of the building — 1937. This needs replacing.

"The lighting in the halls dates back to 1937 and is completely inadequate in 1966."

The bulletin also discussed several problems which affect the guidance department at Dayton Regional. It stated:

"Our guidance department is composed of very able personnel. However, a good portion

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

FAMILIES APPRECIATE ROUTINE. Are you concerned because Johnnie or Clara seem to cry without any cause? Does your husband stare at you when you least expect it? By encouraging daily routine activities for all family members, common basic habits and values pertaining to health and happiness can be achieved.

Routines involving personal cleanliness, eating the proper amounts of food at appropriate times, resting and play may not seem to be stimulating to you, however, such activities do contribute to your family's maintaining good health.

For your children these daily activities are the beginning of useful lifelong habits. Unless you encourage daily practices, you and your children, too, may brush teeth, wash face, eat and sleep irregularly, perhaps only when reminded by specific discomfort.

Develop those habits which provide for the special needs of your children. You can thus avoid children's temper tantrums and unhappy husbands often caused by inadequate food and rest.

Activities of the day become a pattern. As your children learn the pattern, their special world becomes more certain. When children as well as adults know what to expect, they act and feel more secure.

Author will lecture at Hebrew school

On Saturday mornings, Dec. 3, the eighth, ninth and 10th grades of the religious school of Temple Sharey Shalom, Springfield, will visit Temple Israel in South Orange to meet Rabbi Sylvan D. Schwartzman, professor in the department of Jewish religious education at Hebrew Union College - Jewish Institute of Religion, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Rabbi Schwartzman is author of many textbooks used in the religious schools. His most recent book, "Our Religion and Our Neighbors" was written in conjunction with the late Rabbi Milton Miller of Temple Beth El, Elizabeth.

The young people of the various religious schools that will be attending the "Meet the Author" session will have an opportunity to meet Rabbi Schwartzman and discuss his motivation and his objectives in writing his books. A discussion period following this will permit the students to question him and to present their reactions to his texts. Afterwards, the visitors will participate in the junior congregation services commemorating the sabbath and the coming festival of Hanukkah.

'Urban explosion' in 1966 greetings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Christmas is "coming to town" more than ever this year as the background for greeting cards.

Country landscapes with white fields, horse-drawn sleighs on snow-covered roads, little churches and other rural scenes are popular, but big city skylines, lights and parks are cropping up more and more in card illustrations.

It's all part of the "urban explosion" that by 1980 will see the nation's city population twice that of 1950, according to the American Artists Group, whose hundreds of painters, illustrators and designers keep tabs on such trends.

Scenes of a quiet park surrounded by skyscrapers, huge Christmas trees in city centers, the open doors of a big cathedral, bright lights of tall buildings in the winter night and a moonlit meadow rival the countryside in capturing the hushed joy of the season," according to the group.

"Even a huge towering city becomes toy-like when compared to the heavens," comments Viktor Schreckengost, Professor at the Cleveland Institute of Art. "There is a quality of magic and expectation in the frosty, white light of the moon as it bathes everything in a quieting kind of beauty."

UJC aide to meet with guidance staff of Dayton Regional Anatole K. Colbert, counseling officer of Union Junior College, Cranford, will visit Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, on Monday at 2 p.m. to meet with members of the guidance staff.

Colbert also will meet with students interested in attending Union Junior College, and will discuss with them the tuition aid plan, which provides annual grants of $480 to all Union County residents who are admitted to the Day Session as fulltime students.

Union Junior College, a "two-year community college of the academic disciplines," offers majors in liberal arts, engineering, science, and business administration. An enrollment of 1,400 is about evenly divided between the day and evening sessions. UJC is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and is authorized by the State Board of Education to confer the associate in arts degree.

The course at Union Junior College parallels the freshman and sophomore programs at four-year colleges and universities. About 85 percent of UJC's graduates transfer each year to four-year colleges and universities with advanced standing as junior — one of the highest transfer records in the nation.

Hebrew teachers will attend confab

Teachers of Temple Sharey Shalom's Religious School will attend the Annual Teachers' Practicum, Sunday at Temple Emanuel-El in Livingston. The practicum is planned to give teachers in the religious schools an opportunity to add to their professional growth by hearing speakers, exchanging ideas, and viewing the latest in teachers' aids.

This year the speaker will be Rabbi Sylvan D. Schwartzman, Professor in the Department of Jewish Religious Education, Hebrew Union College - Jewish Institute of Religion, Cincinnati, Ohio. He will talk on "Teaching the Concept of the Peoplehood of Israel."

Two special features will highlight this year's program. One will be a workshop for every grade from kindergarten through high school. An experienced teacher, skilled in leading discussion, will lead each group. The second will be an exhibit of educational materials. This will include unusual projects prepared and used by classes and classroom teachers.

Presbyterian men to hear discussion of touring in Spain

"A Look at Spain" will be the feature attraction of the December meeting of the Men's Club of the Springfield Presbyterian Church next Monday evening in the Presbyterian Parish House. Walter C. Taylor, a member of the church and associate professor of Spanish at Upsala College, will share his experiences of last summer on an extended visit to Spain, and will show colored slides of that country.

Taylor spent two months in Spain on a summer grant from Upsala College. The first half of his trip was spent on conducted bus tours with local guides. Then he travelled on his own to all sections of the country using an Eurail pass. By visiting most of the famous historical and cultural points of interest, he was able to study the regional variations of the country. His main purpose was to become as familiar as possible with the country, since he was teaching its language to college students.

Taylor was born in Mexico City, Mexico. He is a graduate of Whitier College in California and did graduate work at Columbia and New York Universities. He has been on the staff of Upsala College for 19 years. He and Mrs. Taylor, the former Ruth Thomas, reside in Maplewood and have two children.

'Y' planning for holidays

The Summit YWCA's annual Christmas program will be held on Sunday from 6 to 7 p.m. YWCA members and the public were invited to join with the YWCA family for an hour of music, a fellowship around the wassail bowl, hanging of the greens, and decorating the Christmas tree.

Group singing of carols will be led by Miss Capitola Dickerson, and the New Providence High School Ensemble will present a medley of Christmas music.

Small children will make their own Christmas tree decorations with the help of senior high school girls who are members of the YWCA's Tri-Epsilon club, and will have favors to take home with them. Two representatives from each Tri-Ep club will also join with Mrs. Harold S. Renne, president of the board of trustees, and members of the board as hostesses for the occasion.

Localite awarded auto show prize

Lessons to remember on Pearl Harbor Day

Not too many years ago, we heard of a radio disc jockey who announced that the day was the anniversary of the dropping of the first atom bomb on Hiroshima. With that introduction, he then played a recording of "Happy Birthday to You." We were happy to learn that he lost his job.

The incident serves to illustrate the callousness and failure to learn which have caused humanity to repeat the same painful lessons over and over. A little homework for us all might well be in order, with next Wednesday marking the passage of a quarter-century since the attack on Pearl Harbor which launched this nation into World War II.

One lesson, which may finally have been learned in this era of intercontinental missiles and long-range mass destruction, is that of constant vigilance. To an extent, that remains the responsibility of the armed forces, which should be capable of meeting that challenge.

The other lesson, which is infinitely harder, is that mankind must now find a way to achieve lasting peace, or perish. We realize that ever since the invention of the bow and arrow, men have said that new refinements in the arts of war have made warfare inconceivable.

Unfortunately, while we are all waiting uneasily for the Cold War to dissolve, at some distant time, into a secure and lasting peace, there remain all sorts of nasty little conflicts, just a little too nasty to sweep under the carpet. There is also the reality of the Communist regime in China, which refuses to fit into any of the pigeon-holes—except, perhaps, the one marked both nasty and unpredictable.

The one basic thought which all Americans, and all our fellow inhabitants on this planet, must never forget in dealing with Vietnam is that it cannot possibly be permitted to develop into a global holocaust. The sad reality is that we can deal with local holocausts, but we must keep them local.

Within that one limitation, we feel, national policy is now to exert all possible military strength while seeking a workable peace. It must be one in which no one is a winner, and one which the Vietnamese can maintain by themselves.

Just how to negotiate such a peace with an enemy which imposes impossible preconditions before agreeing to negotiate, and with an ally on whom we cannot rely, does get somewhat complicated. Still, while supporting our government and the United Nations in their short-range project of healing the wounds in Vietnam, we must never forget the long-range goal of healing the chronic sickness in mankind which leads to war. We can be sure that we will not find the final answers; perhaps our children, or theirs, might be able to. If we do not hold firm to this belief, then there is no hope at all.

Yes, how long is a minute when you are waiting for the school bus to load its passengers or to discharge them?

How long is a minute when you are asked to stop to let pupils cross at the crosswalk.

How long is a minute when you need it to stop when youngsters are chasing each other from side-walk to street and back again in the distance?

How long is a minute when you have the urge to drive faster to make up for those minutes you lost?

Yes, how long is a minute when you cut out of line into the path of another car.

Federal Tax Facts

COMPUTERS TRIP TAXPAYERS
More than 75,000 federal income taxpayers, in the six-state region served by Internal Revenue's Mid-Atlantic Service Center, recently received bills for additional tax payments. Approximately 15,000 of these bills went to New Jersey residents.

These bills, according to Joseph M. Shetz, district director of Internal Revenue for New Jersey, were for penalties for failing to make required quarterly payments of estimated 1965 income taxes.

Taxpayers, who receive a substantial portion of their income from sources other than salaries and wages, have been required by law since 1943 to file declarations of estimated income tax with their income tax return for the previous year and to make quarterly payments on their estimated tax.

Until Internal Revenue completed its conversion to automatic data processing, it was impossible to check every individual return for compliance with estimated tax requirements. Now, however, each return is checked by computers in the regional service center which is located in suburban Philadelphia. Bills for estimated tax penalties are automatically issued to taxpayers whose returns indicate that declarations of estimated tax were not filed or whose quarterly tax payments were too low.

Penalties amount to six percent per year for the amount of underpayment. They are figured from each separate quarterly due date. Income taxes for taxpayers whose principal income is from wages and salaries are on a "pay as you go" basis as a result of withholding.

Income received from interest, dividends, pensions, capital gains, professional fees, business proprietorship and other forms of self employment is not covered by withholding. Individuals who receive a substantial part of their income from such sources must file declarations of estimated income tax and pay their tax payment on a "pay as you go" basis through quarterly payments.

Any taxpayer who receives more than $200 per year not covered by withholding must file a declaration, unless the estimated tax liability on the additional income is less than $40. Instructions for preparing declarations of estimated income tax will be included with the tax form packet which will be mailed to taxpayers in late December.

Complete information on the requirements for filing declarations of estimated income tax is in Document 5111, available free at any Internal Revenue Service office.

CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN
An unusual venture of a very high calibre, in which I was privileged to participate along with many others, has recently been concluded. I am referring to the campaign waged by Dr. Robert Allen, professor of psychology and education at Newark State College, for Congress from the 12th Congressional District.

Although Dr. Allen lost by an expected large margin against an entrenched Republican holdover in a heavy Republican district, I still believe it was a victory in many ways, and a battle well worth waging.

In the first place, it was a display of political alternatives in Vietnam, equal opportunities for all Americans, the moral use of White Power, and the extension of the program of the New Frontier and the Great Society were squarely met and presented to the people of our district.

Secondly, many outstanding people as well as ordinary people from all walks of life, including faculty members from colleges throughout New Jersey, scientists, writers, lawyers, artists and the trade unionists welcomed the opportunity to support this outstanding and courageous candidate.

Thirdly, I believe a start has been made in stirring up liberal currents in Democratic Party circles, a movement which shows there is room in the party for people with conscience and liberal principles who are not afraid to disagree with the leadership on vital issues.

The campaign is over, but the melody of the issues lingers on. I am grateful to Dr. Allen for his courageous presentation of the problems which confront us here in our district, and our nation, and to those who made it possible for him to run for office. I think we can be sure that there will be a continuity of action by his many friends both on a day to day basis and in future election campaigns.

PROFILE--Mrs. Fred Blumenfeld

By BEA SMITH
"Springfield is a very forward thinking community," stated Mrs. Fred (Blanche) Blumenfeld the other afternoon during a reporter's visit to her unusual-looking classroom in the Thelma Sandmeier School.

Mrs. Blumenfeld, a teacher-counselor for children with learning disabilities in Springfield, expressed her feelings on how "the community tries to help children in every way they know how."

"We have a new program here," said the amiable young woman, who possesses a B.A. degree in child psychology and biology, and a double master's degree in childhood education and child psychology.

"The program was started in September, and everyone from the administrative level on has been most considerate, most cooperative. It's really a pleasure to work here."

"The program, she went on to explain, is one in which "we approach the problems of children from a developmental point of view, not a remedial one. We have eight children in the program, one of whom comes from a remedial group, where remedial processes were unable to solve his problem."

"BEFORE A CHILD comes to us, we try to find out everything about the child—meet his parents—his teachers—then meet the child himself. The children were originally selected following some individual tests. Twenty children had been initially selected, and of the 20, eight have been appointed to my class. They are two other teachers in this remedial program, but my class is of a specific nature."

Mrs. Blumenfeld explained that this is the third or fourth school system in the Union County area which participates in a program of this type. She also pointed out the various equipment, symbols and elements which helped to make her "learning classroom" different from the other classrooms in the school.

She gestured toward three 12-foot boards of various widths which stood inches from the floor. "These are for the youngsters to learn balance and sense of direction."

She brought forth what looked like game boxes, puzzles, crayons, drawings—each had its own specific usefulness.

"You see," she said, "some children are confused and will tend to read in the opposite direction. Others may have malfunction of perception."

"It is important to attempt to help these youngsters while they're very young. Some have previously been on teachers' observation lists, or have been in remedial programs which have not been successful for them."

"We work with the youngsters individually. We help them to feel, hear, know sound and picture."

Mrs. Blumenfeld displayed squares with letters raised and imprinted on them.

"WE LET THE CHILD look at a letter. He feels the design of the letter, makes the sound of it, puts his hand on his mouth and feels the muscles he can use in pronouncing the letter. He runs his finger over it, traces its contours, in other words," she said, "he learns through as many senses as possible."

"And when he has done this with enough letters, and then enough words, he can read sentences. If he's a first grader, we will put in more time on this part of the program so that the child can be with his regular reading group in school."

"We start from the concrete, you see. Then we go to the semi-abstract (picture) and then the abstract (symbol)."

"In our program we have a physical education phase to help the child work with his large muscles, to help him work with perception coordination. There really is so much to this program," Mrs. Blumenfeld said, "that it would take hours and hours just to explain the fundamentals."

Children come to Mrs. Blumenfeld part of the day. She has children visiting her one or two hours, from the first grades through the fifth and even junior high school grades. After they've had an hour or two with her, they return to their regular classes in the school.

"Because we live in an orderly world," Mrs. Blumenfeld said, "children have to learn that there is an orderly manner of attacking a problem. Among the important ingredients are success and affection. The work we give them is at a level that they can be successful with."

"IN READING, children must have definite sequence, too. They must develop a structured, orderly way of reading. And we give them work in which they can succeed. They must know how to structure — to build these habits on them, and incidentally," she smiled, "they have

ARCHAEOLOGISTS SAY GREEKS DID WANDER LEGIONS about wanderings of Greek heroes after the Trojan War have been confirmed by archaeologists of Harvard-Cornell expedition at Sardis in western Turkey. The expedition found traces of buildings and Greek pottery decorated in styles of the 11th and 12th centuries before Christ. This was the time when the great civilization of Bronze Age Greece fell to invaders and bands of warriors driven from Greece roamed the eastern Mediterranean. The Greek historian Herodotus said that these Greeks then seized Sardis. The find confirms Herodotus' report.

EVIDENCE is mounting that virus infections and live-virus vaccinations during pregnancy may cause abnormalities, still births and infertility. Veterinary scientists at the Pennsylvania State University have discovered that enteroviruses, previously believed harmless to man and animals, cause embryonic death in swine. Other types of viral vaccines injected into pregnant sows have also been found to cause malformation and absorption of embryos through all stages of pregnancy. The findings add support to the theory that any viral infection, either "normal" or induced, can produce harmful effects during pregnancy.

AERIAL SPIDERS of glaciers in northwestern North America have revealed a spectacular number of surges, reports the U.S. Geological Survey. The surges are sudden movements of glaciers at speeds 10 to 100 times faster than the normal glacial flow of about one or two feet per year. The cause of the surges is not completely understood but appears to be related to some occurrence within the glacier.

MRS. FRED BLUMENFELD

all shown marvelous growth. They will spend anywhere from one hour twice a week to two hours a day with me. It really depends on the individual child.

"As far as we're concerned, the child always comes first. Our program fits the child. And to them, their visits to us provide a sometime — during the day, place, where they can go, a safe and secure place, without distractions. If they do have difficulties, at least they can talk to someone about them. But they must be with their peers a good part of the day. This is most important; this is so they do not feel that they are different from the other children."

Mrs. Blumenfeld pointed to a small red ball, hanging on a string from a fixture above. "We use this ball as part of our eye training techniques," she said. "A child will follow the direction of the ball as we gently swing it." She went on to explain the intricate details involved in this type of exercise.

What constitutes a child's need to be a part of this program?

"A child," she said patiently, "shows perceptual disabilities. Or he's a late developer, mentally or socially. Some do have neurological problems. If we feel the child could benefit from being with us, then we accept him for the program. Ours, however," she smiled, "is a very flexible program."

"AS FAR AS the length of time they are to be with us," Mrs. Blumenfeld said, "well, this depends upon the individual. Some may mature and begin doing these things on their own. Others must remain with us for a lengthier period."

Again Mrs. Blumenfeld displayed her instruments of learning—through boxes and blocks and puzzles. "One child learns to write her numbers through a game using colorful magic markers. We have 10 plates with which the youngsters work during an individualized session. This also develops their writing muscles. We use the approach that suits the child best."

The children like to read, wanted and liked to read. Mrs. Blumenfeld chuckled, "they know I like them, whether they're angry, or sad, or upset, or happy. I like them whether they make a mistake or not. They have a tendency to feel that if they make a mistake, they're guilty. I make them understand that making mistakes is one of the ways of learning."

The program, it was explained, saw the light of day about five years ago when a psychologist in Glen Rock became interested in the field. Not long ago, it was reported, has about 50 such classes.

"It is almost like a computer. Sometimes we have to retrain the children and their developing concepts."

Mrs. Blumenfeld lives in Millburn with her husband, Fred, a biology teacher in Millburn High School, and a biology teacher in Temple Sinai, Summit, and their two children, Daniel, 6, who is a first grade pupil and Karen, 4, who attends Montessori School in South Orange. She was born Blanche Thorne in Chatham Township, and educated in New York University, Washington Square College of Arts and Sciences, where she received a Ph.D. degree, and the N.Y.U. Graduate School of Education, where she earned her master's degree.

SHE ALSO TOOK special courses at Newark State College and Indiana University, and many service courses provided by the schools. She has attended seminars, workshops and programs designed for special education.

"I also am a certified teacher in religious education," Mrs. Blumenfeld said. "I received a certificate last year from Hebrew Union College in South Orange. I am certified in the areas of special education and working with children."

She has taught in schools in Orange, Summit and Short Hills. She taught kindergarten at Temple Sinai. "I still teach there on Sunday mornings for two-and-a-half hours."

Mrs. Blumenfeld taught for nine years before coming to Springfield. She said she is "now attending additional classes at Newark State."

She tries to "spend as much time as possible with my own children. I do try to arrange our schedule so that we can be together a good deal of the time, and so that we are always involved in some project or other; something creative and happy."

"And," she added happily, "it all has worked out beautifully."

Expo 67 making plans to minimize visitors gripes Motorist gets fines for traffic offense, contempt of court

MONTEAL (UPI)—The Canadians are trying to make sure that the millions of Americans and other visitors who come to the World Fair next year go home happy.

The planners of Expo 67, which will be the largest world exposition in history, started out by studying the public's gripes at previous world fairs. These experts boiled down the major gripes to waiting, walking, orientation, food, information and costs.

Then the big brass sat down to map strategy to eliminate sources of complaint from the bored, footsore, confused, hungry, uninformed and the broke.

A new rubber-tired subway will whisk fairgoers in less than 10 minutes, at a cost of 18 cents, from downtown Montreal to the starting point of the Expo express. The express, which will carry up to 30,000 persons per hour in each direction, will take you free to all the major areas of the fair, located on two largely man-made islands in the St. Lawrence River.

Americans arriving by car will find two huge parking lots near the two main entrances. Cost: $2 per day with free bus service to the Expo express.

To get up close to the pavilions of the 78 exhibiting nations, other exhibits and amusement rides, the Montreal Fair has a suspended transit system which will cost 25 cents per leg or 50 cents complete round trip.

In addition, there will be water transport: sampans, dhows and gondola on the canals dividing the islands.

Expo 67 came up with something new in the information and orientation fields. The site will be dotted with 200 rings about the size of manhole covers. The visitor, armed with a walkie-talkie type teleguide unit he has rented for $1, steps inside the circle to activate the unit. The area about him will be described. Step out of the circle: silence.

In addition, eight huge information boards will keep a running review of daily events and every employee from gardeners to policemen will carry a listing too.

The toughest problem, according to Philippe de Gaspé Beaulieu, Expo's director of operations, was those waiting lines at the pavilions. A phone system was devised to help solve it. By picking up specially-marked phones scattered around the site visitors will be able to find out approximate waiting times at the pavilions.

Also, to make waiting as pleasant as possible, Expo 67 will have roving groups of troubadours. There also will be free shows—films and so on—with reserved tickets which become invalid if holders are not seated five minutes before show time to let the standbys have a chance.

Food? Scores of restaurants will offer varieties of food, from nearly 80 cuisines, but the top price, exclusive of wines and drinks, will be $5. And there are large park areas where families can picnic.

Costs? Expo 67 tickets are called and look like passports. Bought at the fair, beginning April 28, the single-day passport will cost adults $2.50, children 2-12 $1.25. Passport for seven consecutive days will cost $12 and $6, with a special "youth" classification (13 to 21 years) at $10.

Many U.S. organizations—including American Express and AAA—now are offering passports at pre-opening discount prices. For example, single day $1.99 for adults, 95 cents for children.

Admission to all pavilions will be free and most of the entertainment also will be free.

John Geigle of Hackettstown was fined a total of $60 for vehicular violations Monday night in Springfield Municipal Court by Magistrate Max Sherman.

Geigle was charged with an illegal turn and received a $25 fine. An additional $10 for contempt of court was lodged against him, and another $25 for telling lies in court.

In other matters, Lafayette P. Bowman of East Orange was fined $55 for disorderly conduct; Albert S. St. Louis Jr. of Union, speeding, 50 mph in a 35 mph zone, $20; Jeffrey A. King, driving a car without the permission of the owner, $25; Joseph Trivisono of Old Bridge, 44 mph in a 25 mph zone, $20; George L. Loneragan of Union, speeding, 51 mph in a 25 mph zone, $40; Thaddeus Harza of Union, improper turn, $20; Norman F. Schaefer of Staten Island, obstructing traffic, $25, and Gerard Carbone of New Providence, careless driving, $25.

B'nai B'rith Lodge distributes baskets to needy on holiday

Rudy Banberger, social service chairman of Springfield Lodge of B'nai B'rith, has announced the "successful conclusion" of the annual drive to provide Thanksgiving Day baskets for Springfield's needy families. As the result of the efforts of the local lodge, 10 local families received baskets. Banberger expressed his thanks to all of the lodge members and other residents of the community who had participated in the drive.

He stated, "Once again, B'nai B'rith has demonstrated its ideals and principles of community service. As the result of our efforts, the needy families in town were able to partake of a traditional Thanksgiving Day meal. We intend to continue to provide this service as long as the need for it exists."

In the B'nai B'rith news, Arthur Minniman, Hillel chairman, announced that on Sunday, Dec. 11, the Rutgers-Douglass Hillel Building Corporation will hold the formal groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Hillel building to be erected to serve the students at Rutgers University and Douglass College. The ceremonies will start at 12:30 p.m. at the site, which is on Ryders lane, New Brunswick, and all B'nai B'rith members have been invited to attend.

Church survey reveals rights drive resistance
PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A survey of 8,554 persons who attend 151 local congregations of the United Church of Christ shows resistance to the pace of the civil rights movement comes from affluent, educated white church members as well as from lower-income groups, according to Rev. Dr. Yoshio Fukuyama, director of research of the church's Board for Homeless Ministries.
About half the survey covered small town and rural churches in the Great Plains area, the rest churches in metropolitan centers. Dr. Fukuyama said approximately half the United Church members in both areas agreed that the Negro is right in demanding his full civil rights now but 45 percent in the Great Plains and 62 percent in the metropolitan churches believe Negroes are trying to move too fast to obtain justice and equality.

Local resident will take part in concert at Christ Church

A performance of Bach's cantata, "Sleepers Wake," and Vivaldi's "Gloria" conducted by Vladimir Hevsky will take place at Christ Church, Highland Ave. and Forest Dr., Short Hills, on Sunday at 4:30. Mrs. John Box of Springfield will take part in the concert. The cantata, which includes members from many surrounding communities, has prepared under the direction of Hevsky, chief choirmaster and organist. As in past performances their number is augmented by a group of experienced musicians who are friends of the choir and share their interest in this beautiful music and their enthusiasm for a faithfully executed performance by adding their voices to the choir. These include members of the Madrigal Singers, Summit Choral and Friends of Early Music. The orchestra of 20 players has been chosen from the New Jersey Symphony. The violin solo obligato in the Bach Duet aria for soprano and bass will be played by Pat Pasterick, a gifted young instrumentalist who has played at Tanglewood under Eric Leinsdorf and now studies at Juilliard. The organ continuo part will be played by Charlotte Hays. Vocal soloists will be soprano—Mary Claire White; contralto—Gail Moritz; tenor—William Asprey; bass—Cyrus flynn.
The Bach Cantata is considered the most beloved of his almost 200 cantatas. Sung in English on this occasion it is a setting of the Biblical Parable of the Ten Virgins (Matthew 25 Verses 1-12). The familiar melody which found the basis of three of its sections is the hymn, "Wake, awake for night is flying" in the Vivaldi "Gloria" the Episcopal organ master of music for strings provides an instrumental setting for the choir and soloists as they sing in Latin this vital part of the Church's liturgy which has to do with joyous praise. For centuries this has been a part of Christian worship, in the Roman Catholic Mass and at the close of the Episcopal communion or in some other form in all Protestant services.
It has long been a plan of Christ Church to give all who wish to, an opportunity to hear

Hardgrove also commented that the Board of Education plans no major capital improvements in the next five years. He stressed that all plans projected over the next five years are subject to amendment and approval by the Township Committee over this period.

The committee authorized installation of new and improved street lights, particularly in the vicinity of new highway construction. The lights were recommended by the Jersey Central Power and Light Co. along Baltusrol way, Bryant ave., Shunpike rd. and Salter st. The increased cost to the township will be $550 per year.

The committee formally acknowledged a request from the trustees of the Springfield Public Library for an additional $92,300 for the new library building, of which $67,300 will be covered by a federal grant. The funds are needed to cover increased costs of land acquisition and construction. Formal acknowledgment was required before the Township Committee can act on the request.

On a motion by Hardgrove, the committee authorized investment of $75,000 in township funds in U. S. securities, at an interest rate of 6.05 percent.
 Mayor Planer announced plans for a meeting of local officials and representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers with residents affected by chronic flood conditions along the Railway River. The meeting will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at Town Hall, and invitations are being sent to all concerned.

 of their time is spent attending to petty clerical duties. Paid clerical help is desperately needed. Although many of you have volunteered to help, work of this type cannot be handled by volunteers, due to the privacy of the records involved.
 In connection with the shortage of help in the guidance department, we would like the Board of Education to explain the merits of the six-week report card system now in use, over the more common eight-week system.
 We understand that the guidance department spends much time sending home failure notices, time which could be better utilized in actual guidance work. Also, the teachers are compelled to spend more time testing rather than teaching, to prepare for the extra report cards each year.
 Mrs. Wald will preside at tonight's PTA meeting. Paul Karish of the Regional faculty will speak on "What Our School Has to Offer the College-Oriented Child."

Six attend course on injection work

Union County Technical Institute, a public institution, last month sponsored an intramuscular course for the practical nurses of the Workman's Circle Home in Elizabeth. The course was conducted from Nov. 7 to 19. Six practical nurses participated: Mrs. Susan Argast, Mrs. Sandra Kramer, Mrs. Valerie McCarroll, Mrs. Eleanor Merrill, Mr. Michael Morris, Mrs. Eve Wilcox. This course allows nurses to comply with a recent law and a regulation of the New Jersey State Board of Nursing which permits nurses to administer intramuscular injections. The instructor for this course was Mrs. Erma E. Clarke, teacher-coordinator of the practical nursing course at Union County Technical Institute.

Sigma Theta Chi slates double bill

The Tymes, a rock and roll group, and the Chatham Trio, folk-singers, will be heard in a double bill at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Newark State College Theatre for the Performing Arts. The event, which is sponsored by Sigma Theta Chi, a Newark State fraternity, will benefit the John F. Kennedy Scholarship fund. Tickets are available at the door. The Chatham Trio also appears Saturdays at the Cranford Hotel, Cranford. Its members, Ruddy O'Brien of Chatham and Cheryl Day of Middletown, both students at Newark State, and John Cramer of Madison, a student at Fairleigh Dickinson, have been together three years. They sang last summer at Jerry Lynch's, a night spot in Belmar.

Area scouts attend council jamboree

Six Boy Scouts and Explorers have been approved to attend the 12th World Jamboree as representatives of the Union County, Boy Scouts of America, Henry J. Gruss, chairman of the Council World Jamboree committee, announced today. Gruss is the manager of the Tool Division, Thomas & Betts Co., and resides in Mendham.

The World Jamboree will be held at Fargus State Park, Idaho, from Aug. 1 to 9, 1967—the first time that the Scouts will serve as host to this type of worldwide encampment.

The World Jamboree Scouts were interviewed locally, and their applications were reviewed by a special committee representing Region 2 before being approved.

Those selected and approved are: Frederick W. Hiller, II, Life Scout, 15, Cranford; Charles Joseph, Eagle Scout, 15, Linden; Daniel G. Olsin, Eagle Scout, 13, Springfield; Donald B. Giegerich, Eagle Scout, 14, Cranford; William Moritz, Eagle Scout, 15, Roselle Park; and Stephen M. Dole, Eagle Scout, 15, Cranford.

Gruss said that in addition to meeting age and Scout rank requirements, the World Jamboree Scouts are proficient in campcraft, have a general knowledge of world conditions and the history of the United States, and are able to state clearly the fundamental principles on which the United States was founded.

Don't let heart go downhill

If your heart yearns for the highlands of the flutter of the first snowflake, you are not alone. Almost three million Americans took to the ski slopes last season, and the sport's popularity is growing by leaps and bounds. Dr. Harold Wasserman of Westfield, president of the Union County Heart Association, noted this week.

While he would not recommend skiing for persons with a serious heart condition, Dr. Wasserman does advocate an enthusiastic approach to the sport. "Using literature, physically fit helps protect against heart disease."

In fact, Dr. Wasserman said he wondered whether, if everyone started skiing in early childhood, and continued with skiing or some other strenuous exercise on a year-round basis, there might not be a dramatic drop in the incidence of heart attacks.

The key word here is year-round. The year-round sedentary male who goes in for strenuous exercise on his vacation can get into trouble, the Heart Association president pointed out, emphasizing that no one should undertake a strenuous sport like skiing in middle life without first getting an okay from his doctor.

Make a date for a physical examination; it's a good idea even if you change your mind about venturing onto the ski slopes. And remember, your doctor may give you a green light even if you do have some type of heart trouble, provided it is under good control, he said.

DR. WASSERMAN SUGGESTED that would-be skiers get themselves in shape through a conditioning program, best continued year-round. Get suitable equipment and learn how to adjust it, sign up for instruction—and you're set to go.

If you go from near sea-level to a high altitude ski lodge, take it easy at first—for a few days if possible—to acclimate yourself to the thin air and adjust to the high altitude, he advised. You will be calling on your heart to work harder than usual supplying oxygen to meet the heavy demands of strenuous exercise. Skiers who leap too abruptly from their sea-level swivel chairs to high altitude ski trails run the risk of developing acute and even dangerous respiratory conditions, Dr. Wasserman asserted.

Above all, Dr. Wasserman declared, don't over-do it. Skiing, particularly on difficult terrain, when fatigue has impaired timing and coordination; may cause trouble even for the young and vigorous in body and spirit. A recent survey of skiing accidents near Anchorage, Alaska, showed that the highest percentage of injuries occurred in the late afternoon, and that the most "accident-prone" were men under 20. It's wise to forestall afternoon fatigue by a midday lunch and rest period, he concluded.

Pilgrims will visit Holy Land

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (UPI)—Pilgrims from around the world will come to the Holy Land again this Christmas season, despite Arab-Israeli border tension that threatens the area's peace.

Bethlehem, birthplace of Christ, and the holy city of Jerusalem are the goal of most pilgrims. "Orders will cross into Israel for Christmas celebrations at Nazareth, where Jesus grew up."

Some pilgrims will walk in procession along the route taken by Jesus from Jerusalem to Bethlehem—10 miles of hilly country that looks much as it did 2,000 years ago.

On the site of Christ's birth, near the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem, a large Christmas tree has been erected. "Christmas services in the church begin at noon on Christmas Eve and the bells of Bethlehem will peal the joyful message of the birth of Jesus at midnight."

Mgr. Alberto Gorri, Roman Catholic bishop of Jerusalem, will celebrate the pontifical High Mass in the Chapel of the Manger in the Grotto of the Church.

Thousands of Christians living in Israel will cross through the Mandelbaum Gate in Jerusalem to visit relatives and celebrate Christmas at the holy places in Jordan.

Only permanent Christian residents of Israel can cross no man's land at the Gate and return to Israel.

In Israel itself, Christmas makes little impact except at Nazareth. In the Israeli sector of Jerusalem the lights on the YMCA Tower are almost the only visible reminders of festivity.

Meanwhile, Arabs and Israelis who control their sectors of Jerusalem watch each other day and night, Christmas season or no.

Ask Amy

Dear Amy: My husband doesn't trust me at all. He says he knows I have been unfaithful even before (and after) our marriage, but I know I haven't. No matter what I say, he says he is right.

Dear ALL Four: You can't I am... and there are 120 million others like me!

Dear Amy: We girls are all 13-14 years old and in the 8th grade at a Catholic school. There is one boy in our class whom we will call 'Dick.'

Dear Girls: Of course ignore him! A proper young man wouldn't make offensive remarks much less 'sock' a young lady.

PERSONAL TO LIL: It's true, only famous men get their heads on paper money. But women don't mind, they would rather get their hands on it!

TRINIDAD CARNIVAL: NEW YORK (UPI) - The Trinidad and Tobago Tourist Board says Trinidadians already have made elaborate plans for the annual 'Carnival,' although it is still four months off.

Many countries are levying taxes on U.S. tourists Station Breaks

NEW YORK (UPI) -- A growing number of foreign countries no longer require passports of American tourists. And some have even done away with visas or tourist cards or issue stamps.

At the same time, however, more countries are levying arrival and/or departure taxes on foreign visitors for using their air or sea port terminal facilities.

These special use taxes generally are earmarked for maintaining or expanding transportation terminals and other facilities or for the development of tourism.

The U.N. Conference on International Travel and Tourism held in Rome three years ago deplored the "proliferation of taxes, fees and charges" slapped on visitors and urged they all be abolished.

Other popular tourist countries which impose such fees on visitors, according to the Travel Weekly survey, include: Australia $1.20; Bahamas $2; Belgium $1; Bermuda $2.85; Denmark $2.90; Greece $1.50; Ireland $1.40; Israel $1.70; Norway $3; Spain 85 cents; Sweden $2; and Turkey, $1.

Musical, children plays continue at Paper Mill

'Take Me Along,' the stage musical adaptation of Eugene O'Neill's 'Ah Wilderness,' continues at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn, through Dec. 11.

'The Paper Mill is continuing with its Saturday matinees of "Children's Theater" productions.

'New Eyes' group plans sale To offer jewelry, silver items

New Eyes for the Needy, Inc. will hold its annual jewelry sale tomorrow and Saturday at the organization's headquarters, 549 Millburn ave., Short Hills. Sale hours will be 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Friday, and 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday. The items to be sold, which include silver pieces, antique, costume and time jewelry, were donated to New Eyes to aid in its work of providing better vision for the medically indigent in this country and abroad.

Many of the items are thought too valuable to melt down for cash, and it is these which will be available for sale, a spokesman said. The annual event has attracted many dealers and individuals from a wide area. In operation since 1952, New Eyes has helped more than a half-million needy persons throughout the United States by providing them with new prescription glasses, and in some cases artificial eyes. In addition, the organization has sent many thousands of reusable plastic framed glasses to missions and hospitals in far distant points of the world.

The latter are sorted and graded from the hundreds of thousands (800,000 last year) donated to New Eyes from all over the country. New Eyes has never conducted a fund drive, its income is derived solely from reclamation of discarded eyeglasses, the jewelry sale and precious metal scrap. The organization is comprised of about 300 volunteers from Short Hills and surrounding communities.

World's Fair minitrains still in use

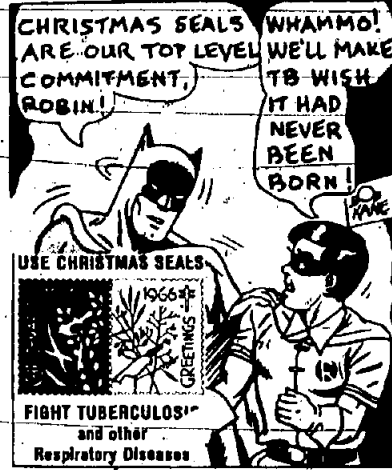

Cabbies dislike Washington tours

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Constitution Avenue used to be an open sewer and the stench sometimes forced President Lincoln to ride to the suburbs to get a night's sleep... The Plan American Union is the oldest international organization in existence... The White House has 122 rooms and 20 baths... The Hope Diamond is on display at the Smithsonian Institution... These are a few of the things one learns if he takes a ride on the capital's newest tourist attraction—National Park Service minitrains... The minitrains will be familiar to tourists who visited the New York World's Fair. Park Service has acquired seven of them for an experiment in improving tourist services in Washington, which attracts more visitors each year than any other place in the nation... The Capital offers such a bewildering number and variety of attractions that the visitor is often overwhelmed. But a great many of the sites, fortunately, are along the Mall stretching from the Capitol building to the Lincoln Memorial. A great many others are along the transit arm of a giant cross, bisecting the mall and leading from the White House to the Jefferson Memorial... The minitrains permit a tourist to take a short (about an hour and a half) orientation trip along both arms of the cross. Park Service guides indicate points of interest. They deliver their monologues with such earnest bits of information as the fact that the Bureau of Engraving prints $30 million worth of currency a day and a dollar bill has a 16-month life expectancy...

The tourist can jump off the train anywhere he pleases and get the full course, say at the Freer Gallery of oriental art, or the aerospace museum, where Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis dangles from the ceiling like a chandelier... The minitrains have not met with universal favor. Washington cab drivers hate them, and frequently yell unseemly epithets when encountering 10-cent-a-ride open-air vehicles. The hackers have even picketed the White House in protest... The Park Service says it is only conducting an "experiment" with the minitrains this fall. But if the service meets with general acceptance, it probably will license concessionaires to operate them next year. From the response so far, this seems very likely to happen... Departure point for the trains is the Washington Monument, the 555-foot obelisk dominating the Washington skyline. One route leads up the Mall to the Capitol building. On the right is the mammoth Department of Agriculture. (The building is so long, the guide says, because Theodore Roosevelt wanted a long building; Congress wanted a short one and refused to appropriate money for a long one; Roosevelt took the money and built two wings, leaving a vast open space in the center.) The minitrains pass the Freer Gallery, the Aircraft Building, Arts and Industries Building, Army Medical Museum and the original Smithsonian buildings erected in 1879. Continuing up the Mall, the minitrains pass the Botanical Gardens, with the most costly office building in the world—the $120 million Rayburn House Office building—looming in the near distance...

On the left of this leg the minitrain goes by the National Archives building (where the original drafts of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence are displayed), the National Gallery of Art and the Smithsonian's Museums of Natural History and History and Technology. Visible also are the vast complexes of the Federal Triangle—the Departments of Labor, Post Office, Commerce, HEW, Justice; the Internal Revenue Service, the Federal Trade Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission... The other route weaves through the Washington Monument grounds past the Sylvan Theater, The Tidal Basin, which catches the slight tide in the Potomac estuary and keeps the Washington Ship Channel at a constant level, appears on the right... The basin grounds are planted with more than 700 Japanese cherry trees. Across the basin, the train stops briefly at the Jefferson Memorial before recrossing the basin onto a drive flanked by the Potomac on one side and West Potomac Park on the other. (The park, originally a cavalry polo field, was the landing site in 1922 of the first airmail plane from New York to Washington, British diplomats now use it for a cricket field.) The guide tells the riders about the Erickson statue and the Monitor as the minitrain approaches the Lincoln Memorial. The Lincoln Memorial Bridge to the left leads to Arlington National Cemetery across the river. ("The bridge symbolizes the union of the North and the South after the Civil War," the guide says.) All eyes turn to catch the magnificence of the Lincoln Memorial as the minitrain circles the vast stone edifice. Abruptly, however, the train is in front of the monument and the guide directs attention to the grandest view in the city—over a reflecting pool up the mall past the Washington Monument to the Capitol. From the point up Constitution Avenue to the Monument terminal the tour is mostly anti-climax. But if one pays attention to the guide, he will learn the avenue was once a canal carrying sewage; get a view of Constitution Hall and American Red Cross headquarters; see statues of Simon Bolivar and Jose Artigas, Uruguay's national hero. Just before the trip ends, the south lawn of the presidential mansion and the White House itself sweep into sight. It's the best ride in town for a dime.

C-C joins drive to aid Colts

Initiated with contributions from members of the board of directors of the Irvington Chamber of Commerce, the Chamber has approached its membership of several hundred to share in the program to transport 35 boys of the Colt football team to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to play in the Gold Coast Bowl game. It was announced by Douglas F. Miller, Chamber president, C. Stewart Hausmann, Chamber vice-president, made the appeal to the Chamber board, resulting in spontaneous giving to cover expenses of more than one boy at cost of $100 each. It was also disclosed that two directors are underwriting one boy each, individually... Results of the appeal to the membership of the Chamber is as yet undetermined, but it is anticipated that the sum total of returns could conceivably add support of several more... The appeal was by both Miller and Hausmann that "it is rare for a community to have such honors heaped upon it by so youthful a group and that business men should wholeheartedly support the program."

If you're just looking for looks, you won't give us a second glance. But then if you're looking for a station wagon in the first place, maybe you're more interested in how much it can hold. In which case you ought to take a look at ours. Admittedly, the Volkswagen isn't beautiful. It's tall, it's plain, and it's boxy. Which is why it holds about twice as much as hand-somer wagons do. Nine passengers instead of the usual six. 170 cu. ft. of carrying space as opposed to as little as 70 cu. ft. or perhaps 107 if you're lucky. Which makes us look pretty good after all.

350 expected at registration for basketball

More than 350 boys in the nine-through-14 age group are expected to register for the 1967 Springfield Recreation Youth Basketball program, which gets under way this Saturday afternoon at two sites. The program is open to any boy who is a resident of Springfield. Boys who are 9 to 10 years of age are to report to the James Caldwell School gymnasium, and boys who are 11 to 14 years of age are to report to the Florence Gaudreiner School gymnasium. The time of the informal workouts will be 1 until 3 p.m.

The Springfield Recreation Department will have men in attendance at both gymnasiums, and will help register and assign boys to various leagues after two weeks of fundamental drills and screening. Forms may be obtained from the various schools in the township or at the registration centers.

There are three classifications: the Springfield Small-Fry League (9 to 10), the Springfield State League (11 to 12), and the Springfield Jay League (13 to 14). After several weeks of organized drills, the three leagues will be formed. Players will receive team jerseys and league schedules. All games will be played on Saturday afternoons.

Fathers who are willing to serve as coaches in any of the three leagues were requested to attend this Saturday's registration-workout. All boys are required to wear basketball shorts, white socks and have their own sneakers.

The Springfield Youth Basketball program is sponsored and supervised by the Recreation Department. For additional information, individuals were asked to contact the Recreation Department, DR 6-5800.

The leagues provide baseball competition for boys aged nine to 15. Wednesday's meeting is open to all managers, coaches and others who are interested in participating.

The slate of officers prepared by the nominating committee includes: Robert Fielding, director of business administration; Jack Welner, secretary; David Brown, treasurer; Bill Alexy, equipment manager; Abner Gold, publicity director.

It is expected that the nominating committee will have a meeting with all managers and coaches who will have uniforms or other equipment left from last season bring the items with them to the meeting on Wednesday.

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheoln County Home Economist

CARE AND USE OF CHESTNUTS

Chestnuts, first used to provide food for squirrels, now are eaten and enjoyed by many humans.

Several recipes featured during the holiday season include chestnuts for their unique texture and flavor. Care must be given to chestnuts after they are gathered is one clue to their quality and ease of handling. When chestnuts are left at room temperature they become hardened and dried out. Once dried out they cannot be softened. The reason why chestnuts dry out so quickly is because they have a high-water, low-oil content. They contain more moisture than any other nut.

To hold chestnuts for future use, they can be frozen. Simply place the fresh chestnuts in a moisture vapor resistant container and freeze.

Frequently homemakers report problems in preparing chestnuts in the home, mainly that they are hard to open and difficult to peel also.

One method that has proved to eliminate these preparation problems to some extent includes: Prick each chestnut with a fork; place in a shallow pan; roast in a 450 degree oven for 20 minutes; remove from oven and cool.

Using this technique, the chestnuts are easy to open with the inner skin coming off with the hull.

For variety and a flavor treat, try the following Chestnut Soup recipe:

CHESTNUT SOUP
Prepare: One lb. chestnuts, wash and beat them until smooth in: two cups milk
Melt: 1/4 cup butter, add and simmer until soft and golden; one minced onion
Sprinkle with: one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon salt, one eighth teaspoon each nutmeg and pepper, one half cup chopped celery leaves
Stir and slowly add the chestnut and milk mixture. Simmer for about 10 minutes.
Pour in: one cup cream.
Heat but do not boil and serve immediately garnished with parsley and crotons.

Many players to return for next year from youthful Regional varsity squad

By MYRON MEISEL

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team completed its fall season last Thursday with a 27-7 defeat at the hands of the Rahway High School Indians, giving the Bulldogs their worst record in recent memory, 0-9. Nevertheless, the game at Rahway did represent a come-back of sorts following poor showings against Cranford and Roselle.

Chief among the improvements was the new starting quarterback, Nathan Edelman, a junior who had played at wingback most of the season. Edelman in particular proved to be a strong passer. Dayton's defense did rather well, although not nearly so well as the Indians'. Finishing off their high school careers with fine performances were Bill Burnett, Doug Jayne, Tom Brownie, Howard Rubenstein, Greg Baskin, and Brian Sheehan. Larry Stewart and Jim Robinson, underclassmen placed in the halfback slots to fill gaps created by injuries. Edelman and Jayne showed considerable promise. Lee Rothler, Ken Ruffolo and Brian Zabelski also contributed well, and Mike Glasco proved to be invaluable on defense.

It had been a long season of missed chances for the Bulldogs, and Thanksgiving Day at Veterans' Field in Rahway was no exception. Once again—several prime opportunities were lost, failed to bring any change to the Dayton tally.

It started off very badly, but fortunately events got better. In the meantime, right halfback Paul Grice of Rahway crashed through a weak Dayton center, left for gain after gain of six and more yards. It was very nearly a one-man touchdown, and Grice scored from the two to give Rahway a 7-0 lead on its first bid for the end zone.

DAYTON DID LITTLE on its first set of downs. There was a lot of passing, but the receivers were not in position and the Indian pass defense was very good. The fourth-down play never was kicked as Rahway rushed, fumbled the attempt. Rahway had the ball, with a first down on the Dayton 32. That was all they needed. Charlie Counts, a second-string halfback, began what was to be a three-TD field day with a 32-yard run, taking a pitch-out around the left side.

Charms now lead bowling standings for township girls

After three weeks of competitive bowling in the Tuesday Afternoon Girls' Bowling League, the Charms have moved into undisputed possession of first place. The Charms swept to a pair of victories last week to move in front of all other teams in the league. The Girls' League is sponsored by the Recreation Department. The girls roll at the Springfield Bowling Club.

The Charms moved into the top spot in the league standings by tripping the Wildcats in two games last Tuesday. Barbara Owens paced the Charms' double victory by posting a 190 total in the two games. Owens' partner, Virginia Vogt, rolled a 147 series for the girls.

David Zarecki, skipper of the girls, said the Wildcats, as they rolled a 140 series total. The Alley Cats dropped into second place as they split a two-game series with the Strikers. Diane Ogonowsky once again paced all bowlers for the afternoon, as she paced the Alley Cats with a 263 series. Diane posted a 147 game, reaching her series total. This game was the highest of the year in the Girls' Bowling League. Karen Luber with a 207 two-game total also rolled well for the Cats in this match. Virginia Vogt and Lisa Brown were the pace setters for the Strikers. Ginny rolled a 228 series, while Lisa hit a 205 total for the two games.

The Stars received their best bowling in a year as they downed the Rockin' Bowlers in two games last week. Ellen Alexy returned to bowl for the Stars and paced the double victory with a 252 series. Ellen rolled games of 128 and 124 to pace the Stars. Eileen Francis of the Stars regained her form of last season as she rolled a 217 series to help pace the Stars. Dawn Panckerl was the top bowler for the Rockin' Bowlers as she rolled a 191 series.

Diane Ogonowsky continues to pace all bowlers in the Girls' League in the race for high individual average. Diane is maintaining a 124 average for the young season. Karen Luber is in second place with a 105 season mark. Virginia Vogt moved into third place on the strength of her good series last week. Ginny is rolling at a 103 average.

Fourth place belongs to Donnie Raskin. Bonnie has a 102 average. Barbara Owens, with a 101 season average, is the fifth-place bowler among the high scorers. The remaining girls in the top 10 are: Cathie Tanko, 98; Linda Mutschler, 100; Lisa Brown, 98; Eileen Francis, 95; and Mureen Weiten, 90.

Rahway next had possession on its own 32, and that was when the Bulldogs started to roar on defense. Burnett and Schoch threw the first play back three yards and held the second attempt to a gain of one. Halting the long bomb and a sure touchdown, Rothfeld broke up an almost-winning combination. The desperate Indians set up to punt, but Henry Klenzie became a hero when he blocked the kick.

Now in possession on the Rahway 23, Dayton began a strong push for the end zone. Stewart drove hard behind good blocking and went for four. He then carried for nine before being jarred by a hard tackle, fumbling but into the easy grasp of Schoch, who recovered the ball even further downfield. Stewart went again for two and the ball lay on the Rahway eight. The Bulldogs don't shifted their line slightly, making their tackle an eligible player, and like an end. The tackle, Brian Zabelski received a lob from Edelman, over the heads of the Indian rushers who were taken thoroughly by surprise. Zabelski went for the touchdown unchallenged. Edelman then ran over for the extra point and the score stood at 14-7.

FOR THE REMAINDER of the eventual first quarter, little happened, but the previously weak Dayton center grew much tighter, and badly-shaken Indian runners avoided that area in future plays.

Dayton led off the second quarter with a nice set of downs which, unfortunately, were not followed up. Edelman went for five, in a time display of broken field running around some six separate blocks. A pitchout to Robinson gained three yards but the drive was soon cut short.

Rahway next had the ball on the Bulldog 48, and Counts in a tight sweep went nearly the 10-yard distance for a first down. But the Indians fumbled their chance, and Zabelski, the scoring tackle, recovered. Dayton did well, with Edelman and Robinson combining for another first down, but a fumble gave Rahway the ball again on the Dayton 44.

The Indians tried for the center again and gained seven. They tried to repeat and were stopped cold by some keen defense by Burnett, who also held the Indians on third down. But Rahway just managed to push over for the first down, and on the next play, Counts caught a long pass in the end zone, good for some 40 yards to extend Rahway's lead to 21-7.

Dayton, after the kickoff, lost another chance. End Brownie caught a 19-yard pass and dashed for additional 10 to the Rahway 35. On the next play, Rahway intercepted. Dayton on the next play struck back. Baskin rushed the quarterback hard and forced him to toss the ball to Counts, but Schoch also was in, and caught Counts for a 17-yard loss. But Rahway returned with a fine run of 20 yards, stepped finally by the readiness of Glasco.

NEAR THE CLOSE of a rather dull third quarter, Dayton began to move again. Rothfeld intercepted a pass on a key Indian down and the Bulldogs were on the Rahway 40. Rothfeld also took a very well-executed screen pass. Then Stewart drove for a few needed yards, and Edelman sneaked through for the first down. On the Rahway 30, Edelman was trapped behind a total absence of blocking. A near-touchdown pass to Brownie was broken up, and Dayton fumbled away possession. But Rahway immediately regained the favor and Burnett accepted for the Bulldogs.

Brownie took a pass for a four-yard gain but Rahway once again got the ball and again fumbled. Don Young of Springfield recovered on the Rahway 20. Dayton, however, fumbled again in turn and the Indians recovered in the firm exchange of a set of sloppy plays by both squads. Counts went for 10 to his own 27. Then he broke clear of all defenders and dashed for his third TD.

Dayton came back once more in its longest sustained drive of the contest, but it was not sufficient. Brownie caught a bullet for 15, and a Rahway pass interference call (one of the few penalties of the game) set the Bulldogs on a total two-yard loss. The next play saw another interception, but Zabelski was on hand to recover the inevitable fumble on the next one. By that time the clock had nearly run out, and Dayton's last-chance of the season, for a TD rapidly faded.

Then on one play that seemed the height of the sloppiness of both squads, Rahway intercepted, fumbled, and Dayton recovered with a total two-yard loss. The next play saw another interception, but Zabelski was on hand to recover the inevitable fumble on the next one. By that time the clock had nearly run out, and Dayton's last-chance of the season, for a TD rapidly faded.

SO ENDS a year that will hopefully be soon forgotten. The basic problem this year was in the composition of the team itself. It simply did not have the talent to beat the other teams in its schedule. The leadership of Jim Horner, in his first season as head coach, did manage most of the time to exact the very best possible from the team, and sometimes that was pretty good. It was a young team; almost everyone will be back next season, and the experience will certainly be a big boost. Yet there is still no overriding reason for optimism. There still may be more lean years ahead, but certainly they will all move Springfield upward.

Yet this year will be remembered, not only as the season without a victory, but as a season when the Bulldogs, despite all opposition, went out each week to a probable loss with a strong spirit and fighting disposition.

In this case one could ask no more. It was quite a fair order to demand, but the Dayton men were more than equal to this test: that of sportsmanship and determined spirit.

Accurate bank balance avoids embarrassment

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—Asking the bank to pay out more money than you paid in is embarrassing and can affect your credit rating.

Avoid overdrafts by making sure you have an accurate record of your bank balance, urges Mrs. Clara Leopold, extension home management specialist at the University of Nebraska. When writing checks, she suggests filling out the stub first. Another tip: simple signatures are less apt to be forged. Sign your name plainly.

Village cool spot moves on campus

House of jazz at Rutgers Newark Library

Devotees of jazz soon will be losing one of their Greenwich Village shrines, the room at 108 Waverly pl. The room houses the Institute of Jazz Studies, the result of a labor of love by a handful of jazz buffs, which in a few months will be the focal point of a happy marriage between the cool world of jazz and the inquiring world of the academician.

The Institute recently was acquired by Rutgers University and will be relocated in the John Cotton Dana Library on the State University's Newark Campus. One result of this will be to restore to the city of Newark a significant role in jazz, which it once played as a stopping off place in the 1920's for jazz musicians from the South en route to New York. The Institute's archives harbor the most diverse collection of jazz material in the world. It includes more than 25,000 records and transcriptions; 1,500 books, manuscripts and theses; hundreds of piano rolls; 100 photographs of jazz greats and great jazz events; 500 copies of magazines devoted to jazz or containing articles about jazz, and some 250 copies of jazz sheet music.

Heading the group which founded the Institute is Dr. Marshall Stearns, a professor of medieval literature at Hunter College and author of "The Story of Jazz." The room which it now occupies is part of Dr. Stearns' former residence.

It is a fascinating room. Strung from the ceiling and scattered on shelves is a colorful array of instruments, ranging from Lester Young's original saxophone to Haitian drums and an African wooden xylophone. For really dedicated jazz enthusiasts, there is Stearns'

Smith's marriage certificate and a piece of wallpaper from a New Orleans house of ill repute which served as an early center of jazz.

Among the books is a recent Soviet publication, which contains a chapter on jazz, remarkable in light of the Russian attitude towards the western art form until a couple of years ago. The author, in fact, wrote to the Institute asking for as much information as possible, especially on Paul Whiteman, whom the author apparently viewed as the king of jazz.

"We sent an emergency letter back," recalls Sheldon Harris, an advertising man who is secretary of the Institute, "to tell him that there was a little more to American jazz than Paul Whiteman."

The heart of the archives is the record collection, which, because of the many rare and irreplaceable items it contains, has an incalculable value. Some rare phonographs also are included, including two made into lamps, with the turntable in the base and the horn in the lampshade.

Rutgers to present jazz sextet, music from Renaissance

Music of the Renaissance and jazz will be featured in two concerts at Rutgers in Newark, next Wednesday.

The Early Music Quartet, a group specializing in music of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, will perform the second program in the Conklin Concert Series at 12:30 p.m. The Randy Weston Sextet, a jazz group, will perform at 8 p.m.

Both events, which are free and open to the public, will be held at the State University's Campus Center, 350 High St., Newark.

The Early Music Quartet performs vocal and instrumental music ranging from songs of the French troubadours and German minnesingers to the madrigals of Elizabethan England and the songs of Sixteenth Century Spain.

This music had to be reconstructed from a complex set of symbols without indication of pitch from manuscripts without staff lines. Many of the instruments the quartet uses, such as the sackbut, a forerunner of the trombone; the krumphorn, a medieval bagpipe; and the rebec, a mandolin-shaped bow instrument with three strings, are almost obsolete.

KNOWN IN OTHER parts of the world as the Studio Der Fruhen Musik, the quartet has performed on four continents. This is their first transcontinental American tour. The Randy Weston Sextet is the second of four concerts appearing through the cooperation of the Rutgers Institute of Jazz Studies and the Carnegie Hall Corporation.

Weston, named New-Star Pianist in "Down Beat's" International Critic's Poll in 1955, has appeared in clubs throughout the country and was the first modern jazz musician to perform in the Berkshires at Lenox, Mass.

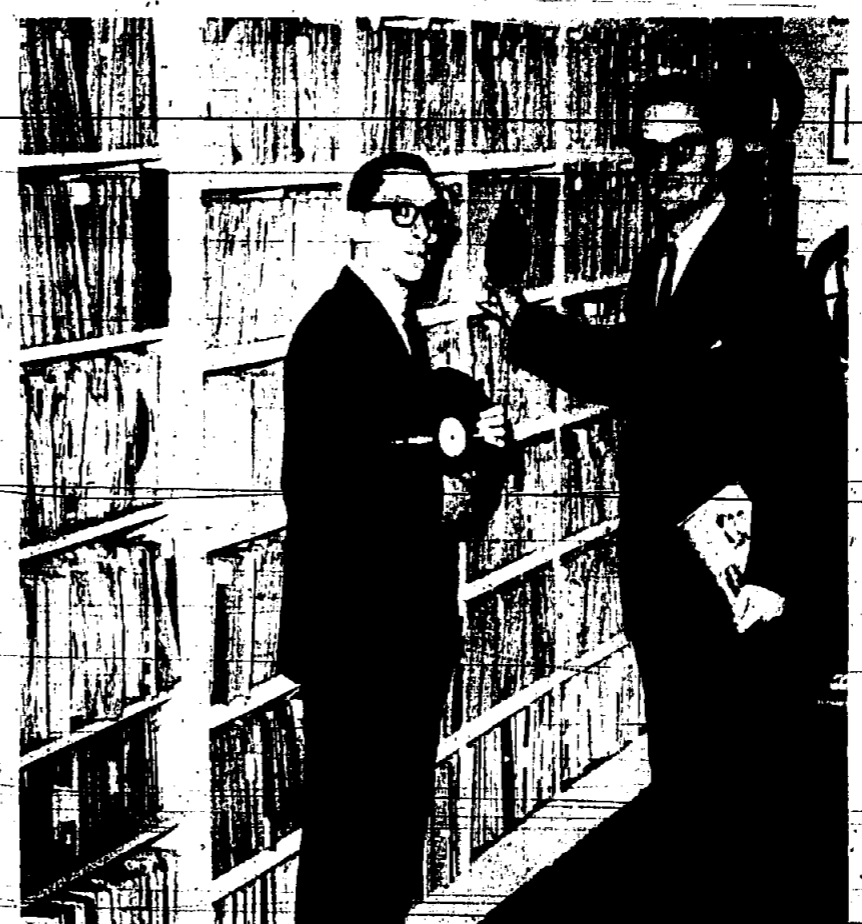

He has performed at Town Hall, the "Jazz in the Garden" series at the Museum of Modern Art, Carnegie Recital Hall, the United Nations Jazz Society and at the Newport and Monterey Jazz Festivals.

At his Rutgers Newark concert Weston will play "Bagdad," variations on "Hi-Fi," "Niger Mambo," a medley of "Papa's Waltz" and "Little Niles," "Sad Beauty Blues" and "African Cookbook." Weston wrote all the compositions with the exception of "Niger Mambo."

AMONG JAZZ GREATS who have helped develop the Institute are Louis Armstrong, Dave Brubeck, Duke Ellington, Dizzy Gillespie, Benny Goodman, Woody Herman and Artie Shaw.

A number of universities had expressed interest in acquiring the Institute, but, according to Dr. Stearns, only Rutgers agreed to meet the conditions of allowing it to remain as a separate entity, having the opportunity to grow and be accessible to those who want to use it.

Dr. Mason W. Gross, president of the State University, has indicated that the University will use the collection to encourage both the scholarly and creative aspects of jazz. Among projects being considered are the establishment of a jazz center and the tapping of memoirs of significant musicians in an effort to develop an oral history of the art form.

JAZZ ON THE MOVE—Officials of the Institute of Jazz Studies, soon to be moved from its Greenwich Village home to new quarters on the Rutgers University campus in Newark, look over some of the Institute's 25,000 jazz records. Dr. Marshall Stearns (right), professor of medieval literature at Hunter College, heads up the Institute, and Sheldon Harris, a New York advertising man, is its secretary.

New book outlines sales tax revenue and where it goes

How the State of New Jersey is spending the $168.3 million dollars in sales tax revenue it expects this year is outlined in a new booklet just released by the Sales Tax Bureau in response to taxpayers' questions. The booklet is entitled, "The Sales Tax... Where the Money is Going."

Seventy-seven per cent of the sales tax funds, the booklet states, are returned directly to consumers in their communities in the form of increased state aid to local school districts and for county and municipal road construction.

The booklet also provides a county-by-county breakdown in these two important areas, showing how much state aid they were to receive and how much additional revenue they will receive as a result of the sales tax.

APPROXIMATELY 57 CENTS out of each sales tax dollar collected, the book says, will be used this year to lower local taxes and to meet local school district budget needs. Twenty cents of each dollar collected is earmarked for local and county roads. In addition, varying amounts have been set aside for programs such as expansion of the State University, Newark College of Engineering and the state colleges. This aid will total $10.8 million, or about six cents from each sales tax dollar. State highway construction will also benefit by $12 million. Health services and a state sewerage fund will require another $5.3 million.

Other areas receiving sales tax funds include aid to railroads, $7.5 million; institutions and agencies, $1.2 million; for construction planning; and assistance to municipalities that might be affected by recent changes in the state's business tax structure under Chapter 51, $2.5 million.

Copies of the booklet are available free from the N.J. Sales Tax Bureau, 363 West State St., Trenton, N.J., 08625.

Off-season dress called 'dreadful' by the Bahamians

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI)—The trouble with visiting Nassau in the off season is that those dreadful looking tourists still pour off the cruise ships wearing clothes that would send Beau Brummel spinning in his grave.

It is not really necessary to dress that badly. The main offenders are those who wear a sloppy looking sports shirt, a pair of baggy shorts and with it their black shoes and black ankle socks they wear to work at home.

It doesn't take much to look respectable or at least avoid looking ludicrous. Just lay off the black shoes and socks. Anything else would be better — sneakers, brown loafers, Mexican huaraches, white loafers, Japanese sandals, Roman sandals, espadrilles. Anything but black.

The working class (white collar, that is) in Nassau realizes it is Fall even if the temperature is in the 80s and they wear suits, shirts and ties. But even in the off season there are enough of the idle rich around to give an idea of how to do it.

The socialite types wear pretty much what they wear in Palm Beach and Southampton in the summer, and it would be a good idea to manufacture a pair of "off-season" tassel loafers and no socks, white mocs and no socks, and a pair of beach sandals and no socks.

Over on Paradise Island, which the affluent residents living there still call Hog Island, the attire isn't much better.

Issues of education to be parley theme

How can schools help children acquire the personal competence to cope with the realities of today and tomorrow's world? Can we achieve a balance between technological and humanistic man? How can clinical knowledge best be used to produce changes in educational institutions that will eliminate some of the factors interfering with effective learning?

These and other vital issues in education will be carefully examined at the 44th annual meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association to be held Mar. 20 through 23, 1967, in Washington, D.C.

Approximately 9000 mental health specialists, educators, political scientists and other professionals from all parts of the country and abroad will convene at the Washington Hilton to participate in 16 sessions, 14 workshops and eight panels devoted to the 1967 theme: The Impact of Schools on Human Development — A Critical Appraisal of a Social Institution.

The American Orthopsychiatric Association has worked for more than two decades to close the gap between educator and clinician. A marked acceleration in collaboration has developed in recent years. With the current crisis in education, this meeting seeks to combine the knowledge and resources of mental health and education specialists to further the effectiveness of schools as a major instrument of learning and acculturation. The number of educators attending AOA meetings has increased considerably in recent years and there has been a significant growth in association membership in the education field. Non-members are welcome at annual meetings as full participants.

Modern school teacher instructs pupils on sex

WHITWORTH, Eng. (UPI)—"We're not trying to make them into great lovers," said Jack Featherstone, smiling.

Featherstone, 46, is headmaster of the recently opened County Secondary School here which has introduced under the heading "Modern Studies" a course on co-education.

In this bleak valley where the 19th century industrial revolution had its roots some observers profess to see in the course the seeds of an educational revolution.

Featherstone disagreed although few schools in Britain have gone as far in discussions and classroom debates on the subject of sex for the 14-15 year-old age group.

"The sex angle," he said, "is only one part of a serious and sensible campaign to teach our pupils something of the every day realities of life—so that they can meet, with confidence, any situation which might arise during their first adult working years."

"The children are taught every facet of adult life. We do not stop at the question of relationship between the sexes—courting, infatuation, love-at-first-sight, engagement and marriage."

Last year was an experimental year for the course which now has become a permanent part of the school program. Featherstone said only one family in a co-educational class of 60 had refused to normal its son to take part in the sex lessons.

The Volkswagen Squareback Sedan. Any questions?

- How much? For you, $2,295* Plus $125† for a steel sunroof, if you like.
- It looks bigger than the beetle. It is! Outside and in. Outside, it's only 6 inches longer. But inside, there's plenty of room for lots of legs and elbows. You can fold down the rear seat and carry an extra 42 cubic feet of things. (More than the trunks in the biggest sedans.) A full-sized bed stows in there's also 6.5 more cubic feet of trunk space under the hood.
- How many miles to the gallon? About 27, on regular gas.
- Is it more powerful than the regular Volkswagen? A touch. The Squareback can beat the beetle at a stoplight, and has a higher top speed, too. 84 mph vs. 78!
- Some kind of engine? Yes, air-cooled (so it can't freeze up or boil over) and in the back (for good traction in bad weather).
- Some kind of suspension? Yes! Each wheel has its own independent torsion bar. So when one wheel hits a bump, only one wheel hits a bump.
- Isn't anything different? The list's endless. The Squareback has disc brakes in front, for example. You can check the oil without even looking at the engine. There are 49 seating positions. Plus a padded dashboard and padded cowling all around the instruments. Big pockets on both doors to store all those glove compartment type things that never seem to fit in the glove compartment (like gloves). And from what curiously for a company that once considered a gas gauge unnecessary (an electric clock).
- What about parts and service? Silly question. We've never sold cars where we couldn't service them. (Over 700 Volkswagen dealers had parts on hand long before they had the cars.) There is Squareback short-age right now, but no shortage of Squareback parts.
- It costs more than the beetle, but is it as good? Car and Driver magazine says: "No one can fault this Volkswagen on quality of construction; no matter what standards they employ. No more solid amalgam of metal ever rode on four wheels, none likely ever will. Volkswagen has a hard-earned reputation for toughness and this one doesn't stand a chance of marring the family name... You simply can't buy a better-bull, low-priced sedan." Thank you for asking.

State purchases campus for Green Acres project

Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the New Jersey State Department of Conservation and Economic Development has announced the purchase under the Green Acres Program of the former Shelton College property located in Ringwood Borough, Passaic County, and Mahwah Township, Bergen County.

The site of the former campus of the college located largely in Ringwood Borough, consisting of 1,117 acres, of which approximately 200 acres are located in the Township of Mahwah, has been purchased for $2,217,488. The property, widely known as "Skylands Farm" was assembled and developed as a private estate by G. McKenzie Lewis in the early 1920's. Many millions of dollars were expended by Lewis to make Skylands Farm a showplace of natural and botanical interest.

COMMISSIONER ROE DESCRIBED the features of the property as including farmlands and forested areas, formal gardens and ponds—rivaling the famous Sterling Forest Gardens—several small lakes, and a private reservoir and complete water distribution system, 23 miles of interior roads and an authentically created English Tudor style manor house. He said that the reservoir and water system are presently being used as a supplementary emergency water supply for Cup-saw Lake and surrounding areas.

The preservation of this area and the consummation of this acquisition are an integral part of the master plan for the Ringwood Park Expansion Program. The preservation of this historic area of Ringwood has taken an added import with the recent declaration by U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udell of Ringwood Manor as a national landmark.

The planning program for the state park recreation opportunities on the former Shelton property and throughout the Ringwood State Park includes extensive bridge paths with the use of a stable already on the property, complete winter sports activities with the establishment of a major skiing area on Mount Defiance located in the new acquisition area, a suitable location for an 18-hole golf course, the re-establishment of the arboretum and the botanical gardens, extensive opportunities for wilderness camping areas, the establishment of a cultural and performing arts center in the manor house complex and outstanding opportunities for extensive hunting and fishing activities. The mountainous crest of the Ramapo Mountains, which is the central boundary of the property, provides an excellent setting for the appreciation of outdoor hiking, natural areas and scenic overlooks.

"I regard the preservation of this area of the state as essential and a foremost opportunity to meet the Green Acres Program objectives," Commissioner Roe said. "The area is directly within the sweep of the population growth of our populous north-eastern counties and communities. The Ringwood State Park Land Conservation Expansion Program preserves our heritage and the natural beauty of our state providing a permanently attractive and healthy environment for the enjoyment of recreation and cultural pursuits of all of our people."

First checks due student veterans mailed this week

Most veterans attending school under the new G.I. Bill have received their first checks, but if you're one who did not and fall to receive your check due this week, it's possible you failed to do your homework, Paul M. Nugent, manager of the VA Regional Office in Newark told veteran-students this week. He urged those students who fail to receive checks due this week to:

1. Make sure that the notice of enrollment, which must be filled out by the school has been sent to the VA.

2. Make sure the certificate of attendance, which the veteran must fill out and send to the VA, has been mailed.

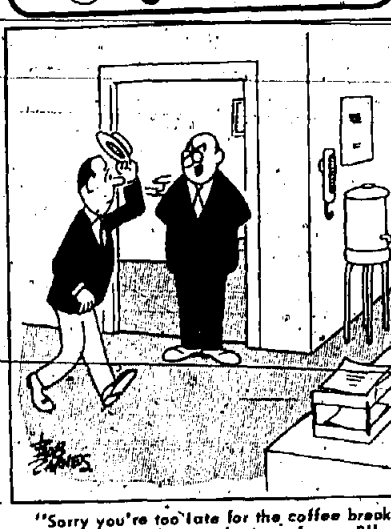

3. If there is any question about payment, contact the VA promptly.

Nugent pointed out that it was not necessary for the veteran student attending college, pursuing degree or non-degree course, to send in his certificate of attendance for the first month since the Veterans Administration accepted the college's notice of enrollment as basis for paying the first check. However, Nugent emphasized, all subsequent checks will be withheld until the student's own certificate of attendance is received. Recalling past experience with G.I. Educational Programs of World War II and the Korean Conflict, he pointed out that a "shakedown period" was necessary before the payment machinery was functioning smoothly. It is possible that a few checks have been delayed by administrative or machine errors, but it is anticipated that these will be limited. Total home entertainment in hi-fi

The annual New York High Fidelity Music Show this year produced strong hints that the component industry manufacturers are regrouping and synthesizing technological advances of the past decade.

There are further hints that the industry or a large segment of it is on the verge of integrating, both forward and backward, into production of total home entertainment centers.

And the show, the big one of the industry, made it clear that tape and tape cartridges have come into their own.

The show also showed strong evidence that women are becoming as big a marketing target as men high fidelity hobbyists. In fact, a new audio magazine aimed at women and home component centers was unveiled at the show, sponsored by the Institute of High Fidelity.

If a reporter had to pick one word for the show's keynote, "Integration" probably would be it. On the five floors of the sprawling New York Trade Show Building, the semi-sophisticated hi-fi showgoer could not leave without realizing that the day of component specialist manufacturers may be numbered.

For example, even though they have been moving in this direction for the past couple of years, Scott, Fisher, Bogen, Benjamin, Harmon-Kardon and KLH, all in their respective rooms, clearly epitomized the trend toward the integrated home entertainment center which, in part, characterizes the industry's new direction.

Diversification
What really is involved is as much div-ersification as integration. Component manufacturers, who, until recently, specialized in electronics, now are moving to the other units which make for the total home set.

And component makers who previously specialized and built their companies around expertise in only one or two component areas are now moving into the broad electronics area.

Another key word at this year's New York show was "tape." Tape, in the home, family automobile, boat and other locations, is beginning to catch fire and the New York show pointed up the trend.

Eight-track tape companies are becoming extremely popular. The tape cartridge field opened with four-track cartridges. Then Lear broke the ice in Detroit by introducing the eight-track cartridge for use in Ford automobiles.

A significant thing at the New York show was evidence of the way Lear competitors are picking up on the eight-track unit. Bogen, for instance, is making an eight-track unit designed for interchangeable playing in home, automobile or boat.

Finally, this year's New York show for the first time offered decorator-designed rooms—imaginatively created by professional interior decorators but featuring component equipment—which was a vital aid in a sense to women who in years past have felt it impossible to have a decorator sort of living room with the sound equipment their husbands leaned to.

What'd you expect us to put our Overhead Cam Six in?

An ordinary car?

Our revolutionary 165-hp OHC 6 is so revolutionary we had to do something special with it. So we made it standard in all Tompsets and Le Mans. You see, it was inspired by those famous overhead cam engines in expensive European sports cars. With a power reserve for expressway passing you'd normally expect from a V-8.

We even offer a 215-hp version that makes a lot of big V-8s seem awfully extravagant. Which is why we say, with a six like this you need an eight!

Incidentally, a four-way hazard warning flasher, backup lights, and GM's energy absorbing steering column are some of the safety features also standard in Tompsets and Le Mans. How can you resist seeing your Pontiac dealer today?
