Voters to choose 1 of 4 candidates in school election

Springfield voters on Tuesday will select one of four candidates for a three-year term on the Regional High School District Board of Education. The voting will take place from 2 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday in the boys' gymnasium at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

The four candidates are Leonard A. Golden, John A. Hopping, Mrs. Natalie R. Waldt and Henry S. Wright. (See editorial on Page 4.)

Also before the voters will be the Regional school budget of $5,483,172 for the next school year to pay for operation of four high schools. They are Jonathan Dayton Regional, Springfield; Gov. Livingston Regional, Berkeley Heights; A. L. Johnson Regional, Clark; and David Brainerd Regional, Kenilworth.

The budget calls for a total of $4,663,926 to be raised in local taxes from Springfield, Mountaineer, Berkeley Heights, Kenilworth, Garwood and Clark. The budget must be approved by the voters in these six communities.

The Springfield seat to be filled on Tuesday is one of nine on the Regional Board of Education. Two other board members are facing reelection this year. They are Dr. Minor C. Jones of Mountaineer and John E. Conlin of Garwood. Both are unopposed. The other Springfield member on the board is William J. Melick, whose term has another year to run.

Avery W. Ward of Kenilworth is board president, and Hopping is vice-president. Other members of the school board are Alfred G. Battaglia and W. Robert Brown of Berkeley Heights and John J. Cullen and Robert Lockwood of Clark.

The major item in the high schools' budget for next year is for teachers' salaries. This figure has been increased to $3,030,408, as compared to the current amount of $2,617,971 to pay faculty members during the present school year.

After they vote on Tuesday in the Regional election, local voters will return to the polls the following Tuesday, Feb. 14, for the annual election of the Springfield Board of Education. Three incumbent members are unopposed for reelection. They are John C. Gao-Seymour Margulies and Robert T. Southward, vice-president of the local board.

That election will also include presentation of the township school budget for approval by the voters. It calls for expenditures of $2,135,357, with $1,862,971 to be raised through local taxes.

The Springfield board operates the James Caldwell, Raymond Chisholm, Edward Watson and Thelma Sandmeter schools, running from kindergarten to the fifth grade, and the Florence Gaudineer School, for grades six to eight.

Regional board assailed on pay to staff seniors

A charge that the proposed new salary scale for teachers in the Regional District High Schools discriminates against the "best trained and most experienced teachers" was issued this week by Carl L. Matthews of Springfield, who has taught at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School for the past 30 years.

He stressed that although the average teacher in the Regional system will receive a pay increase of 11.63 percent next year, those with the most seniority on every educational level will receive only 4.5 percent.

Matthews added, "There are 23 teachers at the top of their respective scales. It would cost the taxpayers less than $6,000 to eliminate the inequities of this scale."

The new pay scale raises the minimum salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree from $5,500 per year to $6,000. Instead of reaching a maximum for this educational level of $9,500 in 16 annual steps, it will go to $10,000 in 15 steps.

The present scale for those with master's degrees runs from $9,900 to $10,150 in 17 steps. It will go from $6,350 to $10,650 in 16 steps.

For teachers with six years of training, the present scale is $6,500 to $10,950 in

Auto accidents in recent days listed by police

The Springfield Police Department reported a series of auto accidents in the past week. A number took place during either rain or snow.

One accident was reported on S. Springfield ave. at Diven st. in the rain last Friday at 8:15 a.m. Edward W. Fuhrer, 51, of 135 Tooker ave. was headed north on S. Springfield ave. when he was stopped by a school crossing guard. His car was then reportedly struck in the rear by one driven by Emery Vulez, 30, of Irvington. Both cars were damaged, and the Vulez auto had to be towed from the scene, the report added.

Also in the rain, another collision was reported last Friday at 2 p.m. in the west-bound lane of Route 22, near Hillside ave. Raphael F. Kane of Irvington was driving west on the highway, when his car was in a collision with one driven by Vincent Gorgiulo, 24, of Fairview. Gorgiulo was reportedly coming out of the turn-around in the center of the highway. Although both cars were damaged, both were driven from the scene.

A third accident in the rain last Friday took place at 2:50 p.m. at the corner of Morris and Meisel avenues. Kenneth Mount, 25, of Fairview was driving a truck east on Morris ave. William F. Taylor, 70, of Irvington was headed west on Morris ave. and turning left into Meisel ave. at the time of the collision. Both vehicles were damaged but were driven from the scene.

Mrs. Elaine Kirehenbaum, 29, of 202 Hawthorn ave., who suffered back and neck injuries, was taken to Overlook Hospital by the First Aid Squad following a crash, also

Survey scheduled as Board of Health urges vaccinations

Plans for a survey of all children to determine if they have had measles, or have received measles vaccine, were announced this week by the Springfield Board of Health. The board said that questionnaires will be sent to all parents to have the vaccine administered to their children.

The statement by the board declared: "Measles immunization has been under discussion at the December and January meetings of the Springfield Board of Health. At both meetings, the need of educating the people of Springfield on desirability of immunizing all susceptible children was stressed.

"Measles were last reported as a communicable disease in 1965. Now, Dr. Roscoe P. Kaydle, state commissioner of health, has requested that all pediatricians and general practitioners report the cases of measles which they attend from Oct. 1, 1966 to April 1, 1967.

"The fact that many children recover from measles without ill effects does not justify the grandmother's superstition that the sensible thing to do is to let every child have measles and get through with it. Measles is still a potentially dangerous disease because of the complications caused by the secondary infecting organisms present. The measles vaccine is recommended as a preventative for all susceptible children between one and nine years.

The Springfield First Aid Squad this week issued its annual appeal for new members. The announcement declared, "The First Aid Squad needs anyone who can help and comfort the sick and injured. Most of the squad calls in Springfield involve transporting the seriously ill. On many calls, first-aid skills are not even required. Only time is required.

"Training for the First Aid Squad is done on the job and during the first year of membership. Part of the training is Red Cross first aid courses; most of the training takes place on call.

"New members spend their first months on call observing, though they are part of the crew and may assist if they are able. The first responsibility given a new squad member is in charge of seeing that no equipment is left behind at the scene of a call.

"Members of the First Aid Squad wish to assure the people of Springfield that they are not Florence Nightingales, but ordinary people with a desire to help others. They are all over 21 and have current drivers' licenses. To be efficient, the squad needs manpower."

Details on joining the squad can be obtained by calling the squad at 376-0582. Recently installed officers for the coming year are Edward Street, president; Richard Amos, vice-president; Madeline Lancaster, recording secretary; Gloria Simpson, corresponding secretary; Spencer Cannon, treasurer, and Esther Pozanski, supply sergeant. Trustees are Libby Berson, Jaclyn Herzlinger and Amalia Terry.

Field officers for the year are Robert Voorhees, captain; Gerald Harvey, first lieutenant, and Daniel Kalem, second lieutenant. The house committee for the squad includes Libby Berson, Bert Bruder, Barbara Douglas, Esther Sibole and Herbert Simpson.

There are now 25 regular squad members on call, in addition to four trainees. A squad spokesman said that the group needs some 10 new members.

Election results

The Springfield League of Women Voters will conduct a "Who Won" telephone service following the Regional High School Board of Education election to be held Tuesday from 2 to 9 p.m. in the boys' gymnasium at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. The results can be learned by calling the following numbers: 376-9137, 376-5980, 376-2436 and 376-4785. The LWV urged residents not to call Police Headquarters for results, since police lines must be kept open for emergency calls.

Township goal set at $2,500 to aid Heart Association

A goal of $2,500 has been set for the Springfield phase of the Union County Heart Association's drive for funds, which will take place in February. National Heart Month.

Donald W. Rinaldo, chairman, said the 1967 goal was $467 higher than the $2,033 raised last year in Springfield. The local goal is part of an $80,000 target figure that was set at a Heart Association kickoff meeting held Friday night in White Laboratories, Kenilworth.

Rinaldo said the higher goal represented "a modest increase, when one considers the amount of money needed to conquer heart disease, our nation's number one killer."

He suggested that if each person contributes "only a little more than last year, our goal would be easily attainable. And our ultimate goal is to find a way of saving the many lives that are lost to heart disease each year."

Rinaldo and his fellow heart-volunteers were told at the kickoff rally that reaching the $80,000 goal was "essential if we are to continue making progress in our fight against the nation's number one killer."

Dr. Harold Wasserman of Westfield, president of the Union County Heart Association, urged the fund drive workers to out-do themselves to reach the goal. Noting that $75,000 was raised through collection last year, Dr. Wasserman said that "monetary support is the vital ingredient in any successful research effort aimed at finding the causes and cures of heart and cardio-vascular diseases."

Dr. Lawrence Gilbert of Beth Israel Hospital, Newark, one of the perfectioners of the cardiac pacemaker, was guest speaker. Dr. Gilbert said, "Despite encouraging breakthroughs in recent years, much more work remains to be done to find the answers to the riddle of heart disease."

Sgt. Kelsay awarded three medals by Air Force for heroism in Vietnam

PATRICK AFB, FLA.—A former resident of Springfield, N. J., Staff Sgt. LeRoy W. Kelsay Jr. of Detachment 15, Eastern Aerospace, Rescue and Recovery Center at Patrick AFB was awarded three medals by direction of the President of the United States on Jan. 18. During ceremonies held here at the Air Force Eastern Test Range, Sgt. Kelsay was presented the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross and an Oak Leaf Cluster denoting the second award of the Air Medal. These presentations were made by Major General Vincent G. Huston, commander of AFBTR. The three medals were won by Sgt. Kelsay during the period of Oct. 10, 1965 to Feb. 20, 1966. During this time he was serving with the U.S. Air Force in Vietnam as an airman first class. The citation for the Silver Star states: "By direction of the President, Airman First Class LeRoy W. Kelsay Jr. is awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in connection with military operations against an opposing armed force over North Vietnam on Feb. 19, 1966. On that date, demonstrating an extraordinary degree of courage, together with a complete disregard for the dangers to which he would be exposed, Airman Kelsay proceeded to a hostile area well known for its heavy and accurate anti-aircraft defenses in search of a downed USAF pilot.

A MUSING from the desk

The 1967 edition of the New Jersey Legislature is underway and the elected representatives of the people wasted little time before they began shoveling bills in the hopper. The Education Committee of the Senate is looking for some bi-partisan harmony in finding THE State Song. Several are already gathering dust in committee. The latest is one composed by Franklin and Elsie Fisher of Toms River. It is called appropriately enough, "New Jersey."

Simple way to compute interest rates offered by Agriculture Department

EDITOR'S NOTE: Consumers are constantly being advised to beware of excessive interest charges on installment purchases. But how can a person tell - without a slide rule - the amount of "carrying charges" on a time purchase? The following dispatch reports on a simplified new method.

Another feat of rescue was performed by Sgt. Kelsay and another paratrooper, Staff Sgt. Donald G. Baehr, recently in the vicinity of Cape Kennedy, Fla. On Nov. 23, 1966, at 10 a.m., word was received that there had been an accident aboard the Netherlands merchant ship, Calamarea, from Rotterdam. The ship was located 45 miles east-south-east of Cape Kennedy. The sea was rough and there were winds blowing at 35 knots. The two paratroopers were lowered to the ship, where they proceeded to administer first aid and evacuate the three injured men.

Two Assemblymen have introduced a bill that would permit a marriage license to be issued to a minor under the age of 21 without parental consent...

Whether you know it or not, it is illegal for a vehicle to pass another vehicle on the right when the vehicle overtaken is making a left turn. A bill in the hopper, if passed, would make it legal. Now, when you get sentenced to 30 days in jail, you serve those 30 days - consecutively. To make it a little easier on the guilty person, a bill would permit a magistrate (it may soon be a judge) to order and direct that a sentence of imprisonment for 30 days or less be served periodically, "during the periods" of time between Friday at 6 p.m. and Monday 8 a.m.

Washington (UPI) - Agriculture Department economists have developed a simple method which consumers can use to check the interest rates involved in installment credit purchases.

The new formula is the work of Dr. Emma C. Holmes and Carol M. Jaeger, specialists in family economics. While the simplified method admittedly is not as precise as the traditional complex calculation, it is accurate enough for comparison purposes. The Holmes-Jaeger method uses a simple arithmetic process in combination with a set of "payment factor" tables.

College students take survey of 'political attitudes' in town

Clicking doorbells and asking questions, two students from Clark University have been conducting a political attitudes survey in Springfield for the past 10 days as part of a study project for the college in Worcester, Mass. They are Deily Gittes of Springfield and Pauline Fairservie of Westbrook, Maine.

Miss Gittes said that their goal is to question five voters in each of Springfield's 13 election districts. "We are trying to determine feelings of political alienation in the town," she explained. "We want to find out whether people in a community like this think in terms of partisan politics. Then we will seek to relate the voters' feelings of alienation with their participation, such as the act of voting."

She commented that progress in the study, which began Jan. 16, has been irregular. "One day, we covered a voting district in 45 minutes, and the people were very happy to cooperate. In another area, they were very suspicious. They seemed to fear that we were trying to bait them somehow."

ANOTHER PROBLEM was that most of those questioned in the early days of the survey were housewives, who tend to be less politically active than the population as a whole. To remedy this, the young pollsters planned to concentrate on weekend questioning, when more men were likely to be at home.

Both of the girls are juniors at Clark.

Miss Gittes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Gittes of 10 Lynn dr., is a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. At high school, she was president of the Drama Society and the Theatopian Society and a member of the National Honor Society. She is majoring in history.

Independent study projects such as the one in Springfield are required of all Clark undergraduates each year, during a three-week period following the fall semester. Students may choose from a list of topics prepared by the faculty, or they may develop projects of their own. Interest faculty members in sponsoring their work and receive credit for their projects. The Springfield project is sponsored by Dr. Morris H. Cohen, professor of government at Clark.

Questions to consider in Regional board vote

Springfield voters have a basic question to answer when they go to the polls on Tuesday in the Regional High School District Board of Education election. Each voter can well ask himself, "Am I satisfied with the Regional school system," and particularly with Jonathan Dayton Regional High School? If not, what am I going to do about it?"

From this point of view, the Regional system, at least as it concerns Springfield, is a good one -- and it could be better. The system may have grown too big, too easily.

Our children enter Dayton Regional from an outstanding local school system, from an inspired, informal junior school. Too often, we have seen the stars vanish from their eyes, the love of learning for the sake of its own challenge dry up in their hearts. Perhaps this delicate flower of eagerness is too fragile to flourish in the rocky soil of late adolescence. Perhaps, on the other hand, we need an improved fertilizer.

Perhaps part of the problem stems from having one tightly knit administration for four high schools. Perhaps there would be less rigidity, more freedom to experiment, without having one subject coordinator to supervise all the English teachers, or social studies or mathematics, for four high schools.

A recent incident might be illustrative. A teacher, transferred this year from the Springfield system to the Regional schools, requested permission from the Regional Board of Education to take his Kenilworth students in a geography class on an aerial survey of the Metropolitan area. His request was supported by the Regional superintendent of schools.

The board members, quite properly, were concerned about problems of insurance and liability. With little discussion, and with no official comment about the new horizons this might open for students, they voted to reject the request. In voting, they also turned down a bid to explore the possibilities of finding a solution to the valid questions of liability.

The request may well be renewed, with some of the dificulties solved. We hope so.

HAVING SAID all this, we face the need to choose among four candidates for the one seat to be filled this year from Springfield. They are John A. Hopping, Henry S. Wright, Leonard A. Golden and Mrs. Natalie R. Waldt.

Hopping is the incumbent, with more than six years of service. He is capable and well qualified to serve. Like all the others, he is obviously sincere in his desire to provide the best possible education for our young people. As a member of the board, he believes that this is being done. All who are basically satisfied with the type of education being provided would do well to vote for him.

Wright has presented his own philosophy of what a public school system should offer. All who agree should certainly vote for him.

Golden has indicated serious disagreement with various board policies. We do not feel, however, that he has offered a clear delineation of just what policies he would change. He, too, is well qualified. If elected, he could well be a minority of one on the board. We do not feel that he has been as specific as he might have been on just where he plans to take his stand.

Mrs. Waldt, on the other hand, has consistently been quite specific. As president of the PTA at Dayton Regional, and in her statements at the Candidates' Night last week, she clearly indicated areas where she would seek improvement.

With the backing of her PTA, she has already secured board approval of improvements at the local school. Her calls for improved, two-way communications between school board and parents, for improved board-teacher relations, point the way toward better schools. She has indicated a willingness to try, to experiment, to innovate.

Mrs. Waldt would also be a minority of one. From all indications, she would never stop trying.

With respect for the sincerity of all candidates, but realizing we can choose only one, we feel that Mrs. Waldt would best serve the cause of the best possible education of our young people.

Letters to Editor

Letters to the editor must be submitted no later than Monday of the week they are to appear. They should not exceed 250 words in length and should be typed with double spacing (not in all capital letters, please). All letters must be signed. Writer's name will not be withheld if the letter is of political nature. This newspaper reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

BACK MRS. WALDT

With the forthcoming election for the Regional Board of Education imminent, it is timely to bring forth some specifics regarding the candidacy of Mrs. Natalie R. Waldt.

Mrs. Waldt began to become active in educational circles with the PTA at Franklin School in Union. Her ebullient personality and energy were driving forces in that organization and she soon became a member of the board, and then president.

Her activities were directed not only to the benefit of the school but to the community. She led a drive to improve library facilities at the students of Franklin and neighboring school districts, which resulted in extended library service in the schools and expansion of the township central library facilities.

Some of her further activities in Union were as Girl Scout leader, district leader, member of the Lay Committee on Education and a member of the Community Concert committee. She was awarded a life membership in the New Jersey PTA for her efforts on behalf of our youth.

In 1962 the Waldt family moved to Springfield. Mrs. Waldt's leadership qualities manifested themselves quickly and she became a member of the executive board of the Gaudineer School PTA, and is now serving her second year as president of the Dayton PTA. She is a member of the board of trustees of Temple Shalom, and president of its Sisterhood. She is serving a third year as a director of the Union-County Mental Health Association and has participated in the American Field Service program.

Natalie Waldt's career in voluntary service activities is the consequence of her zeal in seeking to improve the welfare of the community, her tremendous energy and drive in accomplishing objectives, and her natural qualities of leadership. The election of this valuable citizen to the board of Education would place these attributes in a position where they could operate to largely benefit the township and the region served by the board.

AIRLINES 1967 -- Airlines are busy with customers booking winter vacation-plane reservations. This means higher traffic in the weeks ahead. Additionally there is a substantial business in military personnel and youth to fill plane seats. Stand-by coach fares at 50-percent reductions are available to some three million servicemen on furlough and to more than 33 million youths between the ages of 12 and 22.

Special family fares, low group excursion rates and a greater selection of economy seats will provide additional stimulus to air travel. These reduced fares mean substantial savings. Last year people took advantage of these reductions saved over $250 million in comparison with 1965 fares.

This year should bring more incentive to get people to fly. Businessmen, the airlines' best customers, will have a wider choice of service, to more places as the carriers acquire more jets.

Next summer should show substantial increases over strike depressed levels in 1965. It also appears that the airlines are headed for new peaks in 1967.

When he was released from service, he attended Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, N.C., where he was graduated with a B.S. degree.

From there, I went to New York University Graduate School, where I did my work in rehabilitation.

"Actually," Amos explains, "I went to NYU Graduate School to get a master's degree in physical education, but while I was there, my advisor suggested that I go into the physical therapy field. At that time it was a wide open field and very promising for a young man."

So, Amos switched...and got his master's in physical therapy. His first position was in the department of rehabilitation in Brooklyn State Hospital.

"That was where I met my future wife," he smiles. "She was a student nurse there, and lived in Summit. We were married in Summit, and I decided to settle down there." (Mrs. Amos is a registered professional nurse--"She has a B.S. degree in nursing education"--and is presently employed as a school nurse in Summit High School.)

After devoting three-and-a-half years of his life to the Brooklyn Hospital, Amos transferred to the Veterans Hospital in East Orange, to his present position. He has been with the hospital for 10 years.

ALTHOUGH AMOS is on call 24 hours a week, he says that all-people on the squad are required to serve at least 12 hours a week and one Sunday per month. Prospective members can obtain information by calling the squad house.

He lived in East Orange with his wife and daughter, Cheryl, who is now eight years old and "a good pupil in the third grade at Walton Elementary School."

The family moved to Springfield in 1960, and are members of the Wallace Chapel in Summit. Amos also serves as vice-president of the Eastern New York Chapter of the Association for Physical and Mental Rehabilitation.

"Living here in Springfield makes me realize just what a good town it is. And I'm proud of the school system here. In fact, that's one of the reasons I'm living here." (He and his wife are members of the Walton School PTA.)

As far as I'm concerned," he says with pride, "I place this town second to none!"

PROFILE--Richard Amos

By BEA SMITH

The Springfield First Aid Squad is made up of a variety of men and women, from physical therapists to auto mechanics to housewives of Springfield, who all have one purpose in mind--to help their fellow citizens in the community.

The only requirement to membership is a wholehearted desire to devote a number of hours in one's life to help save other lives.

At least, this is the way Richard Amos of Springfield seems to feel. Amos, who was recently elected vice-president of the Springfield First Aid Squad, is a physical therapist by profession. He says he is quite used to helping people. Right now he is employed as a corrective therapist in East Orange Veterans Hospital's department of physical medicine and rehabilitation.

As a matter of fact, Amos indicates, it was his work as a therapist that led to his joining the First Aid Squad.

"After moving here to Springfield several years ago," Amos says, "I had not really been too active in the community. And since I am a physical therapist, I felt this would be the best organization to join."

AMOS JOINED the squad "20 months ago." This is his first term as an officer, however. "I am on call 24 hours per week, Tuesdays and Saturdays from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The work is very interesting, and it gives me a good feeling to know that I am available to help those who need it. I've met some very interesting people on the squad. All the members of the squad are a dedicated group, and through the work and the people, I've made some lasting friendships that I've cherished very dearly."

Amos was on the squad only three months when he was called to his biggest, most serious job as a member of the group.

"There was a very serious accident on Springfield road on the corner where I was involved in an accident. One man was killed, two seriously wounded.

"Our crew, Captain Bob Voorhees, and our present president, Ed Street, and I, gave first aid. But it wasn't enough, and we had to have a second car. Approximately 20 members were on the scene. A second call means all members must appear on the scene."

Amos explains the process of getting first aid volunteers on the scene most immediately. "All calls come in through the Police Department," he says. "And the calls come through to the homes, by way of a signal device in the homes, and to the squad house. We all carry first aid kits in our automobiles."

AS VICE-PRESIDENT (a title which Amos is extremely proud), he assists the president at meetings in ways that he sees fit, and takes charge of meetings in the absence of the president. But he's still on call 24 hours a week.

Born in Oxford, N.C., Amos attended and was graduated from North Carolina primary schools. He joined the U.S. Navy right after he was graduated from high school, and served from 1944 to 1947.

When he was released from service, he attended Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, N.C., where he was graduated with a B.S. degree.

"From there, I went to New York University Graduate School, where I did my work in rehabilitation."

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

TAXPAYERS' SUMMARY SHOWS LOCAL GOVERNMENT CHANGES
Nearly one-third of New Jersey's population lives in municipalities which are, or soon will be, operating forms of government provided under the State's Optional Municipal Law of 1960 which emphasizes stronger local administration.

A summary published annually by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association to record municipal government changes shows that, as of the first of the year, 39 municipalities were operating under one of the "mayor-council," "council-manager" or "small municipalities" plans provided under the "firetaker Act." Three others were scheduled to make the change-over from older forms of government by January 1, next. The 42 municipalities had a combined population of 1,926,726 according to the 1960 census which listed slightly more than 6,000,000 people in New Jersey.

Largest of the optional charter municipalities is Newark, with more than 400,000 residents. It replaced its city commission with Mayor Council "Plan C" in 1954. Smallest is Chester Township in Morris County, with 2,100 residents governed under the CMCL Small Municipality "Plan B" instead of township committee since 1960. The change-over to the modern municipal government forms began in 1952 when Landis Township and Vineland in Cumberland County consolidated into a single city of approximately 30,000 people who adopted Mayor Council "Plan A."

Three municipalities will convert to optional municipal charter government forms as a result of citizen voting at the November, 1966 election. These changes will take effect July 1 in Passaic City and Brick Township, Ocean County; and on next New Year's Day in Rockaway Township, Morris County. Also as a result of voter action last November, citizen commissions to study desirability of municipal government change have been established in Garfield City, Bergen County; Berkeley Heights, Union County; Pleasanton Township, Middlesex County and Randolph Township, Morris County.

The scoresheet of municipal government change is set forth in the 1967 supplement to the "New Jersey's Optional Municipal Charter Law," a 96-page publication issued by the Taxpayers Association in 1964 to furnish the history, provisions and experience under the charter laws in New Jersey. The 1967 supplement lists updated data on governments operating under the Optional Municipal Charter Law, shows characteristics of GMCL forms adopted by each municipality and also reports on other types of council-manager and administrator forms of government in New Jersey.

Vietnam, politicians careers topics of library's new books

A few of the books to be released for circulation at the Springfield Public Library this week, with comments by the library staff, are:

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS
"Responsibility and Response," by General Maxwell Taylor, a thoughtful view of today's necessary strategic policies by a leading advisor to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

"America's Political Dynasties," by Stephen Hess. Brought together here for the first time is a panorama of America's political history from colonial days to the present in fascinating profiles of 16 of the leading families.

"Dirty Politics," by Bruce L. Feltner. The story of dirty campaigning and political chicanery that has occurred in our country over the years. An executive director of the Committee for Fair Campaign Politics for more than 10 years, Feltner has had a unique opportunity to study the conduct of America's election campaigns in terms of political ethics.

"The Secret Rulers," by Fred J. Cook. This veteran reporter attempts to expose the structure of the underworld in the United States. Its enormous financial resources, and the corruptive influence it exerts at virtually every level of politics and official life.

VIETNAM
"Vietnam in the Mud," by James Pickrell. An ugly picture of an ugly war written by a reporter in the field.

"Vietcong," by Douglas Pike. An account of the enemy for the general reader who needs all the reliable guidance he can find to make his way through the policy jungle and moral thickets of the endlessly confusing and frustrating Vietnam situation.

CAREERS AND OPPORTUNITIES
"The Macmillan Job Guide to American Corporations," edited by Ernest A. McKay. Excellent for the student planning ahead or for the unsettled worker wishing to make a change.

"Careers and Opportunities in Journalism," by Ira and Beatrice Freeman. A fascinating study of the field, a complete survey, showing what it offers and what it demands.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS
"Alvin Fernald, Foreign Trader," by Clifford B. Hicks. Another welcome title in the Alvin Fernald series. A combination of mystery, spies and comedy makes a delightful story.

"The Art of Art for Children's Books: a contemporary survey," by Dana Klamin. Over the past 20 years there has been a decided change in the illustrating of children's literature. This book explains why and how the change came about and contains a collection of illustrations by famous artists to show the transition.

Trust officer named

Bernard F. Cimo of Jersey City has been appointed an assistant trust officer in the corporate trust department of the Summit Office, National State Bank of Elizabeth. It was announced this week.

17 county bankers will attend meeting

Seventeen Union County bankers have registered to attend the 18th annual Consumer Credit Conference of the New Jersey Bankers Association which will be held at the Berkeley-Carter Hotel, Asbury Park, on Tuesday and Wednesday. More than 225 bankers from banks throughout New Jersey are expected to attend.

Union County bankers registered are: Raymond W. Bauer, treasurer of the New Jersey Bankers Association, and president, Union County Trust Company, Elizabeth; Alfred L. Schrama, Walter P. Yost, and Robert T. Burns, also of Union County Trust Company; Daniel J. Carney, Joseph W. Hely, and John L. McEntee, Summit and Elizabeth Trust Company, Elizabeth; Davis S. Morrison, Community Bank of Linden; Kenneth W. Norman, Charles H. Landrain, and James F. Freeman, Plainfield Trust State National Bank; Edward Smith, First State Bank of Union; Gerard F. Coleman, National Bank of Westfield; Otto F. Fiedler, Michael R. Vallinoti, Christopher R. Wemple, and Raymond Palmer, Suburban Trust Company, Westfield.

Bill aims at preserving historic sites

State Senator Mildred Barry Hughes (D-Union), said this week she is preparing a bill to intensify New Jersey's preservation of historic sites and to encourage private donors to join the effort.

Senator Hughes, who said she has been interested in projects to protect the state's traditional ties to its early days, said today that the measure will be designed to produce the most effective program yet devised to save and properly maintain New Jersey's historic properties.

Her proposed legislation would set up a Historic Council composed of specialists in the field and would establish a Historic Trust to enable citizens to have a part in the preservation of properties which link the state to its colorful past. Budgetary limitations have been an obstacle to the efforts of the State's Historical Sites Office.

"Many New Jersey citizens interested in preserving historic sites have indicated that they would contribute financially to this effort but are reluctant to do so because they fear their donations might wind up in the state's general treasury and would be diverted to use for some other purpose. My proposal would make sure that such gifts would be used only for the preservation and maintenance of historical properties."

Senator Hughes pointed out that one of her earlier bills became legislation which permits foundations to preserve historic sites without being burdened by property taxes on them. For example, it was under this law, she noted, that the Belcher Mansion in Elizabeth has been restored as a historic showplace.

The council under her new bill would comprise 11 members "known for their competence and experience in the field," Senator Hughes explained. It would be authorized to select sites, develop a broad program for their preservation and design a comprehensive plan for their management.

The council would be empowered to apply for and accept Federal funds. The Trust would be authorized to accept gifts, legacies and endowments offered by private individuals, corporations or organizations.

"The specialists would assure donors that their money would be spent on historic properties and nothing else," Senator Hughes emphasized. "They would make certain that there is a compatible working relationship between the state government and the citizens who are interested in giving financial support to that government's efforts to save much of its historic property before it is too late."

Camp Wawayanda registration opens

It's not too early to think of summer as the YMCA reminded this week. According to George W. Hoffman, branch executive for the Five Points YMCA, registrations, which "always fill quickly," are now being accepted for the 1967 Camp Wawayanda season.

Camp Wawayanda, for boys and girls, is for children who are at least nine-years-old of who have completed the third grade by the camping season. There is also an advanced program, according to Hoffman, for 13 through 16-year-old campers.

Camp Wawayanda is located in the heart of the Catskill Mountains in New York State on over 2,200 acres of land. The camp is also surrounded by thousands of acres of state reserved land "providing the most ideal camping conditions," Hoffman said.

This year's 10 cabins will be added in the camp for girls. Camp facilities now include, according to Hoffman, 45 cabins, two dining halls, a 10-acre lake and many buildings for special programs.

Additional information and brochures, said Hoffman, is available by calling the Five Points YMCA, 687-5570.

County secretaries initiate 2 members

Two new members were scheduled to be initiated last night at the meeting of the Union County Chapter of the National Secretaries Association. They are Mrs. Gloria Michura of 413 Dietz st., Roselle, and Miss Eleanor Paradowski of 105 Wheatstear Rd., Linden.

The meeting was held at the Winfield Scott Hotel in Elizabeth. Speaker was Miss Hazel Elks of the Elizabeth Public Library who discussed "Your Library -- How is it Stocked?"

Miss Theresa L. Keehn, chapter president, said the discussion topic is part of the national association's emphasis this year on the promotion of well-stocked and well-staffed libraries.

State Legion aide will visit county

Moeller, of Westfield, Department Commander of the New Jersey American Legion, with members of his staff, will make an official visitation to Union County next Thursday, meeting with officers and members of the County's 24 Legion Posts at the Home of Connecticut Farms Post No. 35, Rosemont ave., Union, at 8 p.m.

Moeller, who served in the United States Army as a Captain of Infantry, is a Past Commander of Martin Walberg Post No. 3, Westfield, a Past Commander of Union County, and served as a Department Vice Commander for the year 1963-64.

Moeller will address the County legionnaires on the Legion's state and national programs for 1967, including the membership drive now being conducted in the State.

Calvin E. Wack of Kenilworth, Union County Legion Commander, will preside at the meeting.

Film on Louisiana at Trailside Center

"This is Louisiana," a color sound film will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, Mountainside, on Sunday, at 8 p.m.

The movie, a travelogue, takes the viewer on a tour of the State of Louisiana from the old French Quarter of New Orleans to modern cities. The audience will see new industries being developed as well as the harvests of sugar cane, cotton, strawberries and yams. A visit to the Mardi Gras is included.

At 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 9, Dr. Harold N. Molde, director of Trailside, will conduct one-half hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the four days is "Local Songbirds."

Retirement announced

ALFRED DE LORENZO, Elizabeth, who passed up a career in baseball for one in the telephone business, retired from New Jersey Bell Tuesday, after nearly 50 years of service.

De Lorenzo, who was telephone manager in the company's Union office, joined the Bell System as an installer's helper in May of 1918.

"Before that," said De Lorenzo, "I played catcher with semi-professional baseball teams in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania." He tried out with the Newark International Baseball Club in 1920.

"They offered me a professional contract with one of Newark's minor leagues," De Lorenzo recalled, "but I decided to stay with the telephone company."

For his outstanding performance and contribution to baseball, De Lorenzo was elected to Union County's Baseball Hall of Fame in 1960. He likes golf, too, and expects to get in a lot of games following retirement. He is past president and a member of the Ruseell Golf Club and holds memberships in the Union County and State Grand Jury Associations.

He and his wife, the former Isabel Anna Bellie, have a daughter, Lois, now employed with New Jersey Bell's Commercial Department. Their son, U.S. Army Major William A. De Lorenzo, is currently stationed in Okinawa.

The representatives of the joint Commission review the Hospital's standards and procedures in respect to physical plant, Medical Records, Dietary Service and particularly patient care, in addition to other areas, a spokesman said.

The commission's comment to Dr. Eugene Margiello, superintendent and medical director at Runnells stated: "The Commission wishes to commend you for maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for your constant effort to improve the quality of patient care."

The joint Commission added, "The staff and Administration are commended for the evidence of good care given the patients."

Committee results

NEW YORK (UPI) -- If you're a clubwoman, probably you've been on something that, according to a new definition, reduces tranquility, increases dissatisfaction, divides responsibility and staves on action. That definition of a committee appeared in "The Nation's Schools," a journal for school administrators.

Ask Amy

Dear Amy:
I am happily married to a swell guy and we have three lovely children. Our problem is this: How do you plan one weekend with your husband and children when the in-laws come early every weekend?

We love these people very much and do not want to hurt them. Yet, we still want and need a free weekend to fulfill the promises we make to our girls for trips to the shore and other places.

How can one be nice about this and still be friends?

Dear "Tired":
Simply by telling your in-laws of your plans. Explain nicely as you know how. Every family needs a weekend (at least once a month) to fulfill their desires. I think you will find that your in-laws will not create a hitch when they hear your pitch.

Dear Amy:
I read your columns regularly and I really like them. But as most letter writers, I have my problems and I seek your help. I have two problem parents! Whenever I leave the house, they ask me very suspiciously where I am going. Whenever I'm wrong, they'll make sure that I don't forget it, but whenever I'm right, they've seldom given me credit (if any at all). Often times I've heard adult authorities (counselors, principals, etc.) say that today's teenagers have a great many more pressures than those of 30 years ago. They also say that the teenagers of today are no better and no worse than those of 30 years ago. I could very easily be wrong, but I don't think my parents realize this. Now I know that you may tell me they provide food, shelter and clothing, but I honestly believe that I appreciate it more than they appreciate me.

Unsettled
Dear Unsettled:
If your problems with your parents seem insurmountable, it's only because there is a lack of communication and understanding. It's true that the teenagers of today have more pressures than those of years gone by, but today's parents are also subjected to more pressures.

You cannot hope to see your parents' view unless your views turn anew.

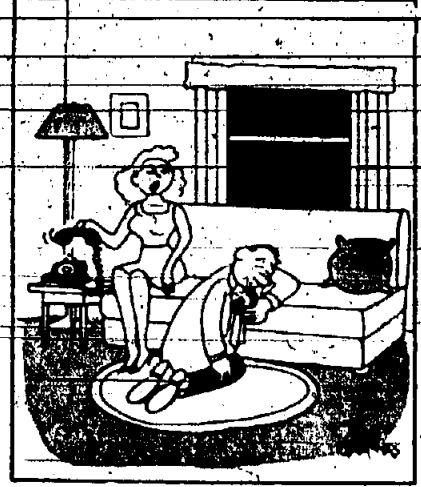

Dear Amy:
I am 12 years old, going on 13, and I am in Junior High school. There is a boy in my home-room class who always talks to me, and I answer him. Everyone sees this and they think that we both love each other, so they spread a rumor that I love him. Now almost the whole school believes that, and everywhere I go, they keep singing a love song about us. But I don't love him and he doesn't love me! We just like each other.

Frightened
Dear Frightened:
Teasing is a common pastime for your age set. Continue your friendship, if you desire, and let your classmates sing. It's excellent exercise for the vocal cords when one has nothing else to do.

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheelon, County Home Economist

DRY BEANS AVAILABLE IN RECORD QUANTITY

Looking for a "happy, nutritious, and economical" menu suggestion? Recipes using dry beans will meet these requirements.

At present, the largest crop of dry beans on record is now coming to the market. The leading varieties include pea beans, pintos, Great Northern, and red-kidney beans. The large supply of these legumes will result in favorable prices to the consumer.

Regardless of the variety, dry beans are high in protein and iron. They also provide B vitamins, being especially rich in thiamine and a substantial amount of calcium. A cupful of cooked beans contains about half of a day's requirement for iron.

Dry beans and whole peas should be soaked before cooking so as to replace part of the moisture lost in the drying process. Short cuts to the soaking procedure have been developed which are rather quick and effective. For the easy method, begin by boiling them in water for two minutes. Remove from heat, soak one hour, and they will be ready to cook.

A shorter cooking time, for beans that require an hour or longer to boil, can be obtained by adding baking soda to the soaking water. The quantity added depends upon the hardness of the water. With most tap water, adding 1/8 teaspoon of soda to the water allowed for 1 cup of dry beans will shorten the cooking time about one-fourth. Measuring the soda carefully is most important because too great a quantity will affect the flavor and nutritive value.

One who is experienced in cooking beans will accurately remember that some varieties foam up during cooking. You can keep down the foam when cooking Great Northern, red kidney, pinto, or pea beans by adding one tablespoon of fat to the cooking water for each cup of beans. This method is especially recommended when using a pressure cooker.

Rapid boiling and frequent stirring cause bean skins to break. Therefore, boiling beans gently and stirring very little is a good rule to follow.

For further information on dry beans, write to the Home Economics Extension Service, 1106 Elizabeth Ave., Elizabeth, or call 353-5000, for the free bulletin, "Dry Beans, Peas, Lentils - Modern Cookery."

Hansberry play to be presented

"A Raisin in the Sun" is the first production of the season at St. Benedict's Theatre, Newark, by the Newark Center of Performing Arts, formerly known as Angels Players. The play by the late Lorraine Hansberry will be directed by Miss Vinette Carroll, who directed the original New York showing of "Black Nativity."

The opening night performance Friday, Feb. 10, at 8:15 p.m., will be followed by a dance and will be strictly formal. There will be performances that Saturday and Sunday at 3 p.m., and 8:15 p.m., and again on the following weekend Friday through Sunday at the same hours.

Meredith Willson's "Music Man" and Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" will be seen later in the season. A subscription plan for all three shows is available or reservations may be made for single performances.

The theatre box office at 520 High St., Newark, is open daily noon to 9 p.m., or mail inquiries will be addressed to 44 Belmont Ave., Newark, 07103.

'Once upon a time' at St. Benedict's

A large contingent from Union County is expected to be on hand Saturday when St. Benedict's Preparatory School is transformed into a storyland for the Newark School's annual Fantasy Night.

The program billed as "A Visit to Storyland" will be the Academic year's social and financial highpoint. It will be sponsored by the school's Parents Club.

Opening the evening will be an hour long show built around story book characters. Classrooms, conference rooms, lounges, library, gymnasium and cafeteria will be decorated to recreate places of fact and fiction.

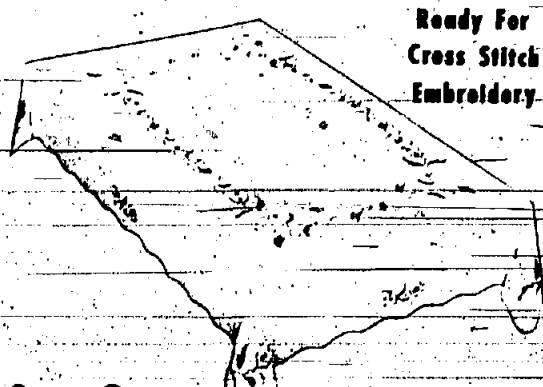

The goal, financially, is to cover an annual $10,000 pledge by the Fathers Club used to defray extraordinary expenses.

Rev. Mark W. Conroy, O.C.D., pastor, is honorary chairman of the Fantasy Night committee while Fathers Club President Harry Fensom is general chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dorner of Elizabeth, are in charge of raffish committee and Antonio Fonseca and Ferdinand Perrotta, both of Union, are in charge of maintenance. Serving on the welcoming committee are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Andros of Elizabeth.

3 exhibitions at Montclair

Three new exhibitions have opened at the Montclair Art Museum continuing through March 12: "Early American Portraits," "Hina Matsuri," and "Twentieth Century Prints."

The portrait exhibition includes work by John Smibert, John Singleton Copley, Charles Willson Peale, Rembrandt Peale, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel P. Morse. Some 30 paintings from the permanent collection are shown.

"Hina Matsuri" presents the museum's annual reenactment of the Japanese Girls' Doll Festival, an ancient ceremony which has been celebrated by Japanese girls for many centuries. Scheduled groups of children will take part in the traditional ritual which centers upon a display of ceremonial dolls and a miniature Japanese house and garden.

The prints on display in the upper gallery, include the recently acquired "Sky and Stars," a color etching by Gabor Peterfi purchased through the Contemporary Print Fund. Three of the prints are being shown for the first time since their purchase from the Humedon County Fenti-National Print Exhibition held at this museum last June. They are "The Garden," an etching by Peter W. Milton; "Sleeping Infant," a serigraph by Prestopino; and "Farm," a collagraph by John Rosa.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I went to Indiana last summer and stayed a month and a half. While there, I met a certain boy and liked him very much. He said he liked me. He came to see me every night. Before I left, he gave me his ring and told me he would come to see me. He was to bring another boy and I was to have a girl for him to go with. We were going to double date. They never came. I had written to him the same week they were to come. After about a month, I got the letter back. He had moved to a different town. I wrote again, but he hasn't answered. I also wrote to his sister, but she did not answer my letter. All of my friends receive letters from boys but I have written three and have received no answers. What do you think is wrong? Should I write again?"

OUR REPLY: Don't write until someone writes to you. It is possible, but highly improbable that the Post Office Department would take one month to return a letter to you. It appears that you have been getting the run-around. If such is the case, you should be able to determine the reason. Absence does not always make the heart grow fonder. Find yourself some good friends in the old home town.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Guild announces plans for Day of Recollection

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

THE NURSERY SCHOOL - THE FIRST STEP IN COMMUNITY LIVING

"Mom, hurry up or I'll be late for school," says four-year old Janie. "May I take my new book to school?" asks five-year old Martin. "I promised Mrs. Pitt." Three-year old Jerry says: "I do it myself. I'm growing." Each of these statements indicate a readiness for nursery school experience.

Every year more and more mothers of young children are returning to the business world since their children can walk and talk. Thus, the nursery school is taking on a more important dimension in children's lives at an earlier age than ever before.

No longer is the average time spent at nursery school a morning's venture for four months or a year prior to entering kindergarten and kindergarten itself, for children of working mothers, school lasts 50 weeks out of the year and from 8 a.m. to 4 or 5 p.m. Fees may be based on a sliding scale according to the family's ability to pay.

Nursery school can provide your child with his first real acquaintance with living beyond the family confines of his home. It is, thus, very different from playing with brother and children next door, or those in the neighborhood street. It is, also, quite different from weekly trips to Sunday School or occasional contact with children in the park.

The nursery school is organized to provide the day-to-day long term needs and interests of your child as he grows and develops. It is based on much research and long term training of the teachers.

The nursery school is thus equipped to extend your family resources for exploration and creativity. But, remember, your job as a parent does not stop at this point. You must continue to encourage and help your child explore life and maintain and encourage health patterns. Your parental approval and praise for achievements of painting, writing or reading in the nursery, are also very important to your child's development. It will help establish self-identification and extension of trust beyond the family confines. In this way he will be better prepared for the "third grade" in school and it's many required adjustments.

Finds out what's news
Uganda newsman gets scoop

The only Uganda newsman now studying journalism in this country says he is astonished by the advanced state of American civilization...

He is Lawrence Kagwa, 26, a personable young man with considerable journalistic experience in his native African country...

He has seen much of New England and the Middle Atlantic states since he arrived in the United States to enter Rutgers in 1963...

"America has been a never ending astonishment to me," Kagwa said recently in an interview on the Rutgers campus here...

HE NOTED THE contrasting methods of the communications industry in this country and in Uganda, where he was for some time employed as an information assistant in the Ministry of Information.

"There I was of course a civil servant so the nature of my work was somewhat different than it would be on one of the private or English language newspapers," Kagwa said.

In this country, newspapers, radio and television send their own representatives to such proceedings, but Kagwa said that this was seldom the case in Uganda except when some exceptionally important matter was under consideration in the nation's capital.

"They could do so, of course," Kagwa said, "but it would be a tremendous expense for them to staff the session of parliament, so unless something very important is happening they rely on the government for information."

Kagwa said, however, that the two big English language newspapers in Uganda have staffed the national assembly.

While Kagwa has been studying at Rutgers he has been working on newspapers in this country during the summer — one time on the Hartford Courant in Connecticut and another on the Herald News in Ridgewood, New Jersey.

HE WAS WELL equipped for this task even before he undertook his studies in journalism at Rutgers. Besides his practical experience with the Uganda Ministry of Information, he had taken a commercial course at the Royal College of Nairobi and had studied at the International Press Institute, also in Nairobi.

Besides the technological sophistication of American newspaper reporting and production, two other things surprised him. One was the presence of women on American newspapers. In Uganda, he said, journalism is strictly a man's profession.

The other was the free and easy working relationship between American reporters and their editors in Uganda the relations between reporters and their editors is somewhat formal.

"Why," Kagwa remarked with some wonderment, "here reporters sometimes even make their own suggestions as to the assignment they should go on or how it should be handled. If a reporter even thought of doing that in Uganda he almost certainly would be told to shut up."

Ships explore a new world
Conduct ocean mining research

By JAMES O. CHIFFORD
United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two government-sponsored ships will explore a vast new world under the sea.

The 205-foot Virginia City, a former Navy tug, also will set sail for Alaska in the spring where she will take part in ocean mining research.

The 165-foot Grass Valley was once a Navy tug tender but now dredges up samples from the bottom of San Francisco Bay.

Harold Hess, a physical scientist, said the 65-foot Cripple Creek, which once was an Army crash boat, "already has seen considerable sea duty on equipment testing cruises off the coasts of California, Oregon and Washington."

However, he said much of the center work is done on land.

"We believe the technology required for marine minerals exploitation can be developed most rapidly if our efforts start at the shore and then proceed seaward," he said.

In their quest to go gradually deeper and deeper into the unknown, Hess and his men have used a 30-foot deep experimental tank to, among other things, adapt current land mining techniques to the ocean.

Art Nelson is research chief at the 31-man center, which has seen its budget jump in three years from $100,000 to more than $1 million.

Despite the lack of knowledge of undersea minerals, Nelson sees a bright commercial future for them.

"I'm optimistic," he said. "In the next decade we should see greatly increased commercial use of minerals from the sea."

"Now sea minerals, taken in small operations, must compete with those taken more cheaply from land."

"Eventually, as the increasing population uses the land minerals, the need for sea minerals will be greater and they can compete better."

Nelson, who has done extensive work in land mining, was asked how much experience he had in marine mining before he came to Tiburon.

"None," he said. "Nobody has in this business."

These explorers at the Bureau of Mines Marine Technology Center at Tiburon, on San Francisco Bay, are developing new tools in an effort to take mineral wealth from the ocean depths.

"They work in liaison with geologists at the Coast and Geodetic Survey's marine laboratory at Menlo Park on the San Francisco Peninsula.

"It is our job to find out what's down there," said Parke D. Snavely, branch chief at the Menlo Park facility, "and their job to find out how to get it out and do something with it."

The mineral exploration phase is only one part of the 12-man laboratory's work. However, with the increasing consumption of land minerals it is one of the most important.

The geodetic Survey's research vessel, the 90-foot Polarix, is equipped with gear for taking "grab samples" from the ocean and sound devices that send energy waves bouncing back.

This "sophisticated sonar," Snavely said, "allows us to get depth penetration" in exploring and mapping the continental shelf.

He hopes to get the map work of the shelf completed by 1973 but the next big cruise of the Polarix will come in spring when she sets sail for Alaska to investigate underwater earthquake hazards.

Collector all bottled up

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Robinson S. Brown Jr., a Louisville distillery executive, is surrounded by old bottles both at the office and at home. He is one of the nation's foremost bottle-collectors...

Although he personally favors Louisville whisky bottles, historic American flasks of the early 19th Century and hipsters bottles — used for the largely alcoholic cure-titis of the period — the exhibit also includes bottles from many nations.

One of the earliest is a bottle from the Roman period, nearly 2,000 years old, which was discovered in a tomb in Iran. Its pleasantly rounded base and straight neck make it a magnificent early example of glass-making.

Brown's partiality to the historic flasks can be attributed to the fact that one of these was the first he ever purchased. Being the third generation of a distilling family, Brown naturally already "had" a number of whisky bottles — including some filled ones — dating from the pre-Prohibition era.

But it was on a convention trip to New Hampshire with Mrs. Brown about 20 years ago that he bought his first historic flask — a bottle in colored glass, commemorating some historic personage or event.

These often bear raised busts of Washington, Lafayette, Gen. Zachary Taylor or other heroes. Others commemorate historic events.

Church mission groups plan joint publications

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Presbyterian Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations and the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America have announced plans for joint publication of a unique multi-media communications service, entitled NEW.

The service will include material presented through art work, print and sound. Each issue will include a two-sided, seven-inch record, along with printed illustrative and informative materials.

"This cooperative venture in such a forward-looking project as NEW is another demonstration of how ecumenicity can have an impact at the working levels of our churches," said the Rev. Dr. Archie R. Crough, Secretary for Communications in the Commission.

When planning will include executor to settle your estate

When you plan your will include an executor. Says Mabel G. Stolka, County Home Economist. This is important for two basic reasons.

After your death, someone must close out your financial affairs no matter how small an amount of money is involved.

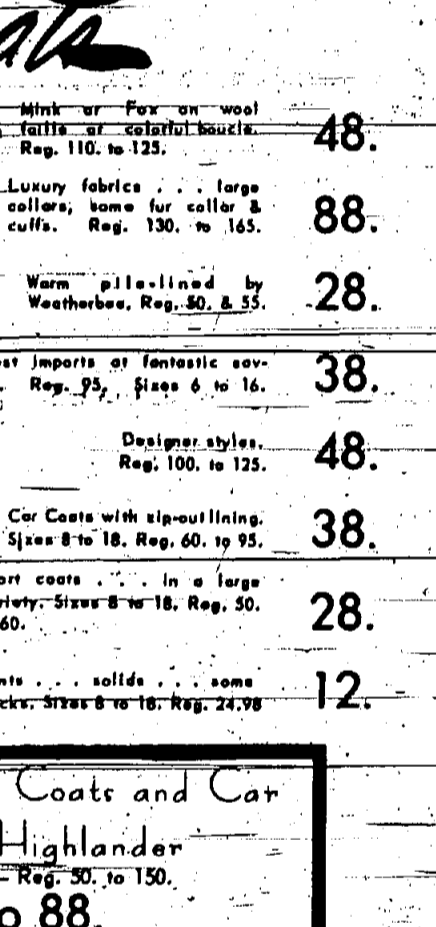

The duties of the person in either case are to find and list all your property, managing it during the legal proceedings.

By naming the executor you are able to have a man or woman who understands your affairs.

In most states if you fail to name an executor, an administrator that is appointed by the probate court may furnish a bond.

Take care, however, to appoint an executor who is skilled in business. Even small estates can involve complicated legal and tax problems.

MISS JOSEPHINE FUGA

Important papers should be stored in safe deposit boxes

Where are you keeping your birth certificate, marriage certificate, deed to the house, Government bonds, insurance policies, list of property owned, any stock certificates, or wills asks Mabel G. Stoltz, County Home economist? Does your mate know where you have stored these items?

If anything should happen to you, it is extremely important that someone else know where your important papers have been stored.

Today, legal procedures are becoming more and more confusing for even the best lawyer to keep up with. And in a time of emergency, those who are responsible for straightening out and picking up loose ends have usually been emotionally involved, too.

Don't worry too much about burglars. More valuables have been lost in the home because of fire and carelessness than through burglary, according to statistics.

Temporary storage: A metal box or home safe offers temporary storage. But remember, there is no real safe place at home to keep valuables. In case of fire, members of the household must know where you have kept the box to save valuables.

Safety deposit boxes provide immeasurable savings at little cost in the long run. The cost of a box varies with the size and the bank you choose. Shop around for the lowest price and most accessible location. You may place or remove items from the box only during banking hours.

The safe deposit box may be rented in the name of one person or two; for example, husband and wife. You are given two keys when you rent a box. The guard has another kind of key. Know where you keep your keys and make sure someone else does too in case of an emergency. The bank guard's key sets the tumblers; your key turns the lock. Neither of you can unlock the box without the other person's key.

In case of death of either member, the box is temporarily sealed by court order. An order from the Surrogate's Court and Tax Department waives any necessary before the safe deposit box can be opened.

Because the box is sealed in case of your death, it's a good idea to have your will in a more accessible place known to at least one other person; for example, in the hands of your lawyer.

Students interested in these scholarships may request the competition rules from any high school, public, parochial or private, in New Jersey.

Medicare now providing nursing care for elderly

A new part of the Medicare law started on Jan. 1, Ralph W. Jones, Social Security director manager in Elizabeth, said this week. This is the part that pays for skilled nursing care provided elderly people following their discharge from the hospital.

Medicare will pay for up to 100 days of skilled nursing care in an "extended care facility" following a hospital stay of three days or more, Jones said. An extended care facility can be a skilled nursing home, or it can be separate but distinct part of an institution, such as a ward or wing of a hospital.

"Extended care," Jones explained, "is a cross between hospital care and the traditional nursing home care." Care in an extended care facility will combine the quality of medical treatment ordinarily given in a hospital environment with the opportunity for the patient's increased activity and self-reliance during the recuperation period.

In one sense, Jones said, the stay in an extended care facility will be a substitute for time that before would have been spent in the hospital. For example, a Medicare patient who before might go into a hospital and spend 15 days may now stay in the hospital for only 10 days and then be transferred to a qualified extended care facility for continued treatment.

In accord with the purpose of the extended care benefit, only persons who have been treated in a hospital for at least three consecutive days and enter the extended care facility within 14 days of hospital release for treatment of the same illness, are eligible for this special benefit, Jones said.

As an extension of hospital treatment the skilled nursing home stay will normally be fairly short, Jones noted. Medicare will pay the full cost of the first 20 days in the extended care facility and all but $5 a day for an additional 80 days. He emphasized that Medicare will not pay for long-term care in a custodial nursing home.

New passport office

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department announces the first U.S. Passport Agency in Philadelphia will be opened in February to help speed operations in the area.

In the past, Jones pointed out, this special kind of care in an extended care facility has not been readily available and therefore very few people have really experienced it. The skilled nursing benefit under Medicare will encourage the development of skilled nursing homes and support a new and important trend in medical care.

In the future, a patient who no longer needs the intensive treatment provided in the hospital, but does need continued care, can receive this medical attention at less cost in an extended care facility. Furthermore, his moving out will release a hospital bed for someone who may be acutely ill. The increased use of extended care facilities, Jones stated, will mean better utilization of hospital facilities and medical manpower.

Since this is a new idea in medical care there are now very few institutions equipped to offer extended care. Most existing nursing homes will have to upgrade their facilities and the care provided to meet the required standards under the Medicare law.

Article outlines powers given by law to schools

Learning requires a classroom atmosphere of order and control. So state law and court decisions give schools strong powers in dealing with students.

The legal description of the school's position is "in loco parentis," reports the current issue of the N.J.E.A. Review, the monthly journal of the New Jersey Education Association, in English. That means "in place of the parents."

School authorities, for instance, may make reasonable rules and regulations governing the right to regulate the attire and personal appearance of pupils, says the Review article, written by Dr. Arthur J. Muniz, assistant school superintendent in South Plainfield. They can forbid the use of certain cosmetics, the wearing of transparent clothing, low-necked dresses, or any style of clothing which tends toward immodesty.

The power to control pupils extends beyond the school grounds and must be maintained by the school. "when the acts they commit out of school are detrimental to the good order and best interests of the school or its personnel," Dr. Muniz reports, "and if such acts adversely affect the discipline of the school."

In Wisconsin, two high school pupils published a poem offensive to the school board. A court later ruled the board had been within its rights in suspending the pupils from school—even though the board had never adopted any rule or regulation prohibiting critical poetry.

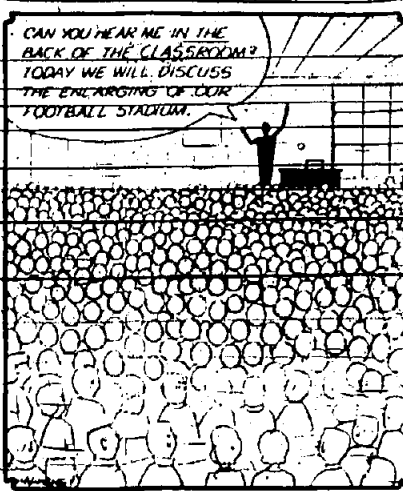

Another example of out-of-class control is the school's power to bar students from fraternities or sororities, even when all activities are conducted away from school.

New Jersey prohibits the use of corporal punishment on students. But a recent law permits "such amount of force as is reasonable and necessary" to (1) quell a disturbance, (2) obtain possession of a weapon or dangerous instrument, (3) act in self-defense, or (4) protect persons or property.

Pupils, of course, have won court decisions, too. The U.S. Supreme Court has said the school cannot compel a child to salute the flag if doing so interferes with his religious beliefs. New Jersey law now requires that a non-saluting pupil show respect for the flag by standing at attention during the pledge of allegiance.

Courts have generally upheld the right of a student to refuse to wear cap and gown at graduation exercises. Dr. Muniz reports, the courts also have said a school cannot withhold a diploma just because the student did not take part in the graduation ceremony. Completion of the prescribed course of study is what makes the pupil eligible to receive the diploma.

Late '67 may trigger big housing boom in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The biggest housing boom in American history is likely to start in the latter part of 1967 and continue at least through 1969, believes Eli Broad, chairman of Kaufman & Broad, one of the top national builders of homes.

In the face of the big housing slump in 1966, Kaufman & Broad had a 38 per cent sale increase to $43 million for the 12 months ended Nov. '66 and a 125 per cent rise in profits to about $1.5 million or $2.45 a share. "and we'll do better this year," Broad told a recent luncheon meeting of New York security analysts.

Broad's company operates in Detroit, Chicago, Phoenix and Los Angeles. Broad and Donald Kaufman began business with $25,000 borrowed capital in 1957 and today the firm has a net worth of $6 million.

TURNABLE, TREATS (good listening) - HOW TO AVOID PROBATE by Norman Deacy. This is undoubtedly one of the most unusual albums to come along in a long time. Mr. Deacy is an expert in the investment business, and an expert accountant. This LP is an addendum to his best-selling book, "How To Avoid Probate", and answers questions most recently asked of him. He describes to the layman, how to plan his own estate, and how to avoid the ravages of probate. (PHILIPS PHM 200-229)... MORE THAN MUSIC by The Mystic Moods Orchestra. The Mystic Moods are back for their third album, with selections from the current crop of Cinema soundtracks. In each case the music reflects the environment of the film for which it was written.

States for at least two million housing units this year, a maximum of only 1.3 million starts are scheduled," he said. "The reason for this is that housing is treated housing as essentially as manufacturing business."

He predicted that more homes will be built by large companies such as Levitt & Sons, Inc., and Kaufman & Broad and fewer by small traditional developers in the future. "Marginal operators will fall by the wayside," Broad said, "because they are too dependent on the savings and loan associations for financing and cannot provide a stream of innovations to please the discriminating customer in the popular price field, offer sufficient sales inducements, such as money-back guarantees, or obtain choice sites."

Broad said the 1966 housing slump hit the builders who were dependent on S. & L. financing hardest. Kaufman & Broad, on the other hand, "was able to obtain interim and permanent financing from banks, pension funds and other institutions and to issue mortgages conforming to Veterans Administration and FHA requirements through various mortgage companies."

"Recently," he said, "the real estate market in the Los Angeles area has been demoralized by tight money, but we have been able to sell new $20,000 to $30,000 houses there pretty quickly. We are seeking to convert the tight money by offering an iron clad agreement to refund the buyer's down payment plus a profit of $1,000 on the house after one year. We don't expect to have to take back any houses but we stand ready to do so."

By operating like a manufacturer, Broad said, his company, for example, took on land "as just another raw material."

Most heavy attack victims now recover from first attacks. Of those who do, according to the Union County Heart Association, three out of four return to work.

Also on the PHILIPS label, HIGH PRIESTESS OF SOUL by Nina Simone. This new LP is a complete departure from Nina's most recent albums, and features Nina at her vocal best. She is supported with a big orchestra to a small group, from driving brass to samba rhythm, to soulful organ. Selections include: "Don't You Pay Them No Mind," "Brown Eyed Handsome Man," "I'm Going Back Home," "I Hold No Grudge," "Love My Baby," and seven more. (PHILIPS PHM 200-219)... COLONIS by Ken Nordine. Ken (famous for his WORD JAZZ) describes in his far out manner to the intriguing sound of a jazz background, every color you have heard of, and some colors none of us have ever heard of. (PHILIPS PHM 200-224)...

During their recent four-day Manhattan blitz The Rolling Stones: 1.) got into a hassle with TV host Ed Sullivan over the propriety of the lyrics on one side of their current double-smash hit, "Let's Spend the Night Together" b/w "Ruby Tuesday." 2.) proved that screaming teenyboppers still abound on the streets of New York City; and 3.) collected enough assorted cuts and bruises to know that their American fans still care. During a fracas in front of Sullivan's CBS-TV Broadway home, the Stones were shoved against doors locked from inside. Stone-shaped holes were smashed in a number of plate-glass panes as a result.

Pussycats go where tigers fear to tread.

Fancy cars with ferocious names are apt to do some un-fanciful things in snow. Like get stuck.

Then there's the Pussycat, the Volkswagen Karmann Ghia. It's a little less ferocious, a little more domesticated.

For example, it can spend an evening out in temperatures that reach 20 below and yet zip you through six inches of snow come morning.

That's because the Karmann Ghia engine doesn't need water or antifreeze. It's cooled by air.

And it's located in the rear to give the rear wheels much better traction.

It's also fully sealed. So the outside takes a beating from bad weather instead of the inside.

Its front brakes are disc. The kind that won't fade!

And although it's not as powerful as a man-eating tiger or as speedy as a wild horse, at least it knows how to find its way back home.

Unbeaten Minutemen take two more, play host to Newark quintet Saturday

The Springfield Minutemen rolled to victory number 5 and 6 last week without tasting defeat in as many starts, as they topped the Linden PAL and a team representing Hanover Park-Recreation Department. The Minutemen topped Linden on the Linden court by a 41 to 37 score, and they defeated Hanover Park by a 57 to 37 final score. They will meet a Newark Junior High school quintet Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Florence Gaudinier school.

4 teams share Small-Fry lead with 3-1 marks

The Nationals, Aggies and Lakers are on top of the Caldwell Small-Fry Basketball League after four weeks of competition. The three teams have identical records of three victories against a single set-back. This eight-team circuit is composed of 9 and 10-year-old boys and is a part of the Recreation Department's youth basketball program. The boys meet each Saturday afternoon at the James Caldwell School with the opening tip-off set for 1 p.m. each week.

The opening game last Saturday pitted the Celtics against the Billikens. The Celtics led during all four periods of the game and coasted to a 12 to 7 victory over the Bills. The victory enabled the Celtics to even their record on the season and keep them in a contention position. Chuck Salgado paced the Celtics victory, as he hit for six points. Eric Graessle tallied four points to help the victory cause, while Bruce Blumenthal completed the scoring for the Celtics with a bucket. Mitch Kotler headed the Bills' attack with three points, while Mitch Buffington and Kevin Mercer each hit a two-pointer for the Billikens.

THE NATIONALS held their portion of first place last week when they rolled past the Pistons by the final count of 15 to 6. The Pistons were effective in the first half in holding the National scoring attack down. The second half, however, told a different story as the Nats won going away. Five boys balanced the scoring for the Nats. John Lopez tallied six points to lead the way, as Mike Levine tallied four for the Nats. Dan Cackler, Paul Duhon and Harry Stoltz rounded out the scoring for the winners. John Lorenzo paced the Pistons with four points, while Gregg Prussing tallied on a pair of free throws to complete the scoring for the Pistons.

THE LAKERS won their third straight game in league play last Saturday, as they edged the Knicks by a score of 13 to 9. The Lakers dropped their season opener, however, have moved into a first-place tie in the league standings. Tom Rusionello was the top scorer for the Lakers last week, as he garnered six points, Ed Federovitch tallied five points for the winners, while Ken Conte tallied a bucket to fill out the scoring column for the Lakers. The Knicks were shut out until the final period, it was then that Larry Koldorff took charge for the Knicks and scored all of the Knicks' six points.

Stars cling to lead by 1-game margin in bowling for girls

The status quo was retained in the Girls' Tuesday Afternoon Bowling League at the conclusion of bowling last week. All the top teams swept to double victories last Tuesday, leaving the margin between the first-place Stars and the third-place Charms a small two games. The Strikers are the second-place team and they are one game from first place. The girls' league is sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department, and all bowling is done at the Springfield Bowling Center.

The Stars retained their league lead last week, as they topped the Alley Cats in a pair of closely-contested games. Again it was Donna Pfeiffer pacing the Star sweep, as Donna topped all bowlers on this afternoon with a 270 series. Ellen Francis also rolled well for the Stars by scoring a 217 plus series in the second game. Ellen Alexy also bowled well for the Stars in this match. Ellen tallied a 210 total for the two-game match, Karen-Luber was the top-bowler for the Alley Cats with Diane Ogonskiy close behind Karen in the scoring. Karen had a series total of 218, while Diane's two-game score was 216.

The Springfield team traveled to Linden last Wednesday evening to face a talented Linden PAL team in a return engagement. Springfield had defeated Linden in a home encounter earlier in the season. The Minutemen were again victorious as they rolled to a 41 to 34 margin. Linden rallied during the game's final minutes but never closed the margin and dropped the visitors in every period to gain their victory.

Ed Graessle, Springfield's high-scoring forward, was also effective in this encounter. Ed led the team with 12 points and did some heavy rebounding. Alan Schlanger also had a fine game for Springfield. Alan tallied eight points, as he hit on three field goals and two free throws. Mitch Wolf again supplemented the Springfield attack, as he came off the bench to provide important punch to the team's drive. Mitch tallied five points and assisted on other buckets for Springfield. The Springfield team was without the services of its star backcourt performer, Jay Silverman, for this contest. Gregg Spicer, however, came off the bench to give the Minutemen a solid game. Gregg tallied four points and played a top defensive game.

Marc Hollander was effective in a starting role for the Minutemen. It is Marc who makes the offensive tick for the Minutemen. Jimmy Schoch, fast becoming a valuable performer for Springfield, was also valuable in this contest. Jim's sharp passing led to many scores during the game's latter stages.

Three small-star teams tied for lead in Caldwell League

The last of the unbeaten quintets fell in Sandmeier Small-Fry League competition last Saturday afternoon. The Tigers, who were previously unbeaten, were defeated by the Comets. Jay's second-half hot-hand from the outside kept Harvard close and made Yale work for the victory. Marc Hollander also played well for Harvard. Marc had tough luck on many shots. If some of Marc's shots that rimmed the hoop had dropped in the verdict would have been reversed.

Donald L. Hollowell, president of the National Alumni Council of the United Negro College Fund, this week presented the first scholarship of the Artra Award, the organization's first scholarship.

Financed by Pharmaco, Kentwood, pharmaceutical firm, the scholarship provides $1,200 for the winning student and $300 for his college or university. Announcement of the student winner's name will be made during the 21st annual conference of the Council, Feb. 9-12, in the Queen-Charlotte Hotel, Charlotte, N.C.

The purpose of the scholarship is to promote participation among college students in off-campus as well as on-campus activities, and to instill a desire to continue participation in civic and community affairs after graduation, Hollowell said.

F. M. Schwemmer, president of Pharmaco, said, "We are honored to have the opportunity to establish this award and hope that it will stimulate students in the schools affiliated with the National Pre-Alumni Council to become better citizens."

Hollowell said that to be eligible for the award, a student must be above average scholastically, be active in Pre-Alumni Council activities, and have demonstrated leadership qualities on and off-campus.

Looking into wines

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's Board of Trade is investigating charges that some wines being sold in this country under French labels are not what they are said to be. Principal complaint was that wines sold as Beaujolais, burgundy, sauterne, etc., aren't from the wine districts claimed. Blending of "inferior" varietal wines and labeling them as something special was another complaint. The Sunday Times, which reported on the matter, said some of the "blended concoctions are perfectly decent wines and often good value (but) not what the labels say."

Religious leaders at Vietnam parley
About 100 religious leaders from Northern
New Jersey this week attended a program in Washington, D.C., called by "Energy and Laymen
Concerned About Vietnam" while "Peace
Petitions" were being circulated in communities including Springfield, Linden and Union.
The New Jersey delegation to Washington was scheduled to meet with Senators Clifford Case and Harrison Williams Tuesday after an hour-long "silent vigil" outside the State House and a walk to the Capitol. A program Washington Cathedral was scheduled for Tuesday night.
The first of a series of three workshops was scheduled for yesterday.

Employment
reported up
Nonfarm wage and salary employment in New Jersey increased slightly from November to December, although a seasonal decline is not uncommon at this time of the year. According to estimates released this week by the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, the basis of its monthly employment survey, non-farm employment (which excludes domestic, farm, self-employed and unpaid family workers) totalled 2,372,700. This was up 700 from November and 67,000, or 2.9 percent, above the level for December, 1965.
Employment in manufacturing declined by 7,700, or slightly less than seasonally expected. More than half of this drop occurred in the
"miscellaneous manufacturing" group of the durable goods sector, and was caused by seasonal layoffs by toy manufacturers following the completion of their Christmas orders. In non-durable goods, most of a reported decline of 3,400 was due to seasonal layoffs of 1,200 food-processing workers and 1,800
apparel workers.
Nonmanufacturing employment rose by 8,400 from November to December, exceeding seasonal expectations. Expected declines of 5,400 in contract construction and 4,400 in services - reflecting the onset of colder weather - were more than offset by seasonal hiring of 15,200 workers in trade and 3,100 (mostly temporary postal workers) by government.
The average factory workweek was unchanged at 41.5
hours.

Fifth Leatherneck Ball to be held February 17
The fifth annual Leatherneck Ball will be held the evening of February 17 in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City. It will commemorate 25 years of "Unknown Valor - from Guadalcanal to Vietnam."
The foundation was established in 1942 by a group of Marine Corps Reservists who desired to provide scholarships for children of Marines, with special consideration being given to children whose fathers were killed or wounded in combat.
It is a part of UNICEF's philosophy that the handicapped child is entitled to special treatment, education and care.
