Lt. Haggerty flies from Thailand base Battles Sams, Migs over North Vietnam

By FRAN DE CRISTOPHER

The announcement that 1st Lt. Eugene Haggerty of Springfield was a part of a secret mission in Thailand, bombing North Vietnam, came only last week. His parents, who were never told where their son was stationed, learned of his whereabouts only when the U.S. officially announced the staging of airstrikes from a base in Takhli, Thailand.

"That's when we found out," his sister Margaret said. "One of the neighbors called us up and said to my mother, 'Your son is on TV.' They tuned in the WABC newscast and saw a reporter interviewing him after a flight. Haggerty is a fighter bomber pilot. 'How was it?' he was asked.

"It's rough, and we're going to do our damndest to give it to them," he answered.

Haggerty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Haggerty of 98 Salter st., Springfield, is nearing the end of a 100-mission assignment. Most servicemen stationed in the Vietnam area are assigned for a certain length of time, but those who bomb the north are assigned to complete 100 missions, a task which takes nearly a year. About 500 American pilots were lost before completing the 100 missions so far in the conflict.

WHILE IN THAILAND, Haggerty, 26, and 1st Lt. Edward McCaffrey, 24, one of his best friends, were interviewed recently by Jack Folsie, a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. At that time the two were on missions number 97 and 98, respectively, of the 100 flight which, when completed, will mean their return to the U.S.

Both Haggerty and McCaffrey were assigned to the Thailand base with the 355th Fighter Tactical Wing last June, just after completing training in F-105's and with only one hour of combat behind them.

"We've been all the way together from when we first entered primary flying school," Haggerty said.

Now the two are experienced pilots in the handling of the F-105, an attack-bomber first built to carry nuclear weapons. Folsie who described Haggerty as the talker of the crew, asked for an explanation of the job they did as wingmen.

Haggerty answered that he thought being wingman was one of the best jobs in the Air Force. "While the leader is looking ahead it is my job to look behind, to the sides, above and below." The F-105 travels at speeds of 7,000 miles per hour.

It is Haggerty's and McCaffrey's job to call attention to counter-attack from the ground or the air. "We call out Sams and look out for Migs," Haggerty said.

Sams are missiles controlled by radar and fired from the ground. Their force is great, enough to be deadly even if they barely miss. Migs include a late model of a Russian-produced jet fighter which has been considered a worthy rival of the F-105.

According to Folsie, however, the two first

Firemen battle blazes in home, factory building

All men and equipment of the Springfield Fire Department, plus a crew from Summit, were needed to battle two blazes which raged at the same time on Sunday afternoon. Details were reported by Fire Chief Desmond W. Mesker, who later required medical treatment for injuries suffered in the line of duty.

The first alarm came at 5:43 p.m., from the Investment Casting Co. plant at 60 Brown ave. Flames had engulfed the central area of a one-story masonry and steel building. Wax used in the casting process had also caught fire, burning like a giant candle.

Damage to the building was extensive, including steel beams which buckled in the intense heat. All units and men of the Springfield department were in action at the scene.

Then, 15 minutes later, a second alarm was received from the home of Thomas Hawryluk, 38 Pitt rd. A TV dinner was reportedly being left cooking on top of the stove, and the flames which resulted spread rapidly through the rest of the house, gutting the kitchen and back porch (shown above) and causing extensive damage to the entire house.

Deputy Chief Robert Day remained to supervise operations at the factory while Chief Mesker took whatever men and equipment could be provided to the Pitt rd. blaze. Summit dispatched one truck and 16 men to assist the Springfield regulars and volunteers. Units in Mountaintop and Millburn were placed on stand-by alert.

Both fires were finally reported under control by 6:45 p.m. The factory was officially listed as seriously damaged. The home will require extensive repairs before it can be lived in again.

A number of firemen were treated at the scene of both fires for smoke inhalation. Chief Mesker, who suffered from smoke poisoning and from a back injury, and Fireman Peter Glass-Floyd Mesker, who received a puncture wound, were treated later by Dr. Ralph Mond, police and fire physician.

Bus bill opposed by school board

By ABNER GOLD

The Springfield Board of Education Tuesday night called on all citizens to press the State Senate for public hearings on the bill to have school boards provide bus service for children attending parochial and private schools within a 20-mile radius.

The board had previously expressed its opposition to the bill, which was approved by the Assembly without a public hearing and is strongly supported by Gov. Richard J. Hughes. It would require any community which operates a school bus to provide free transportation for any child attending a parochial or other non-profit elementary or secondary school not more than 20 miles away. Three-quarters of the cost would be met by the state; the remaining quarter, by the local community. The total cost has been estimated as $8 million per year, with $6 to be paid for from Trenton.

Regional board moves to assign committee posts

Appointments of chairmen and vice-chairmen of standing committees were approved at the Tuesday night meeting of the Regional High School Board of Education. Both William J. Melick and Mrs. Natalie Wald, Springfield board members, were appointed to building and grounds committee positions. Melick will be chairman.

Melick was also appointed vice-chairman of the safety and public relations committees. John J. Cullen of Clark and Dr. Minor C. Jones of Mountaintop are chairmen of those committees, respectively. Mrs. Wald was also appointed vice-chairman of the supplies and equipment committee, of which John E. Conlin of Garwood is chairman.

Other committee chairmen and vice-chairmen are: W. Robert Powers of Berkeley Heights and Cullen, finance; Robert Lockwood of Clark and Alfred G. Battaglia of Berkeley Heights, teachers; Harrold and Lockwood, athletics; Dr. Jones and Power, curriculum; and Cullen and Conlin, transportation. Other appointments included Mrs. Walter as representative to the Adult School board of trustees and Melick to the ad hoc committee for an administrator building and to the memorial committee.

DR. WARREN M. DAVIS, superintendent, Berkeley reported that three or four fifth

The ordinance also sets wages for the staff at the municipal swimming pool. Renewal deadline for pool members

The Springfield Recreation Department this week reminded all 1966 members of the municipal swimming pool that they are nearing the March 31 deadline for renewing membership on a preferred basis. Starting April 1, membership will be open to all township residents, up to the limit of 5,500 people. Details and application blanks are available from the Recreation Department in Town Hall. Membership fees are $65 per family, $35 for individuals and $15 for senior citizens. A check or money order, payable to the township of Springfield, must accompany each application.

Bloom not expected to seek new term as committeeman

There are "strong indications" that Township Committeeman Jay B. Bloom does not plan to seek election to another term, it was disclosed this week by Donald Mantol, municipal chairman of the Democratic Party organization. Bloom has been the sole Democrat on the five-man governing body since he took office in 1965, following his election by a 15-vote margin over Robert D. Hardgrove. Beyond a brief statement that he had not finally made up his mind, Bloom declined to comment on the report. An attorney, Bloom has his office in Springfield.

Party leaders are expected to meet in the immediate future to select candidates for the two seats on the Township Committee to be filled next November. The other seat is held by Mayor Arthur M. Falkin, who also may not run again. Falkin's name has been prominently mentioned as a Republican candidate for the State Senate or the Union County Board of Freeholders. Both parties will have to make their decisions in the immediate future. The primary election is scheduled for June 6. An April 29 deadline for the filing of candidates' petitions has been established.

Seaman finishes recruit training

GREAT LAKES, ILL., Seaman Recruit — Martin A. Caswell, 20, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Caswell of 393 Mountain ave., Springfield N. J., has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center here.

In the first weeks of his Naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

Other bids were received from Harris Associates, Walter Kilde, George P. Scholls Co. and John Schwartz. John Schwartz Co. voiced objection to the fact that Fire Signals failed to submit a certified check and submitted a bid bond instead. Ad-

Regional schools

(Continued from page 1) proposed that the board provide additional funds for an IBM composer for the print shop at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield. According to Dr. Davis, the composer will replace a Vartypser already called for in the recent budget but not yet purchased. He explained that the composer was unavailable at the time the budget was being formulated, and that since that time it has been highly recommended.

Board members raised questions on the proposal for the new machine, and it was decided that the matter be referred to a study committee.

Melick asked the board to accept a bid for the addition of plants and shrubbery on Dayton School grounds. The board accepted the contract at $343.

The board also accepted the bid of Fire Signals Inc. of East Orange, for the installation of fire detection equipment at the Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights. The company bid $19,155 for the equipment, $245 for an alternate to the proposal which will provide a connection with police headquarters, and inspection costs of $40 per month following the expiration of a three-year maintenance clause.

Other bids were received from Harris Associates, Walter Kilde, George P. Scholls Co. and John Schwartz. John Schwartz Co. voiced objection to the fact that Fire Signals failed to submit a certified check and submitted a bid bond instead. Ad-

Speaker at temple for Jewish Appeal

At Sabbath services tomorrow evening at Temple Sharey Shalom, Springfield, Mrs. Howard H. Levine will be the guest speaker. The subject of Mrs. Levine's speech will be the United Jewish Appeal. She has recently received the title of Honorary Member.

Among the positions Mrs. Levine holds and has held are the following: national vice-president, Woman's Division, American Jewish Congress; member, Executive Committee, American Jewish Congress; newly appointed chairman of the standing subcommittee on peace of the American Jewish Congress; member of the board of trustees, Jewish Community Council of Essex County; general chairman of the Women's Division for fund raising for the United Jewish Appeal in 1956.

ACCEPTANCE OF the bids was turned over for study after a proposal to do so by Melick, Joseph Murray, attorney for the board, later recommended that the board accept the bid from Fire Signals despite the technicality, which he asserted did prevent acceptance, since the company had complied with bidding specifications.

A number of the public asked the board for comments on the possibility of passage of a bill which will require local school boards to finance bus transportation for private and parochial school students. Comments came from Avery Ward, board president, who noted that the size of the regional school district put it at a special disadvantage, and that busing as much as 20 miles outside the district would be "expensive."

"The ramifications of this whole situation can really exercise your imagination," he said. He also questioned the matter of improved safety — the reason given for introduction of the bill, when these distances were involved.

A member of the English department faculty at Newark State College, Union, Krueger also served as chairman of an afternoon reading workshop.

Churches to join for worship on Good Friday and Easter

Members of Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church will participate in Union Services with the First Presbyterian Church on Good Friday and Easter Sunday. A service of meditation will be shared by the ministers of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches tomorrow, from noon to 1 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church.

At 8 p.m., the Rev. George Watt Jr., superintendent of the southern district of the Northern New Jersey Conference of the Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon at the union service to be held in the Methodist Church.

Mr. Watt's message will be "The Shadow of the Cross." He was appointed to his present position after serving for six years as minister of the Caldwell Methodist Church. Also participating in the service will be the Rev. Bruce Evans and the Rev. Donald Weber of the First Presbyterian Church and the Rev. James Dewart of the Methodist Church.

This evening, the sacrament of Holy Communion will be celebrated by Pastor Dewart, assisted by Emanuel Schwung, local preacher, at 8 p.m. Mr. Dewart will entitle his meditation, "Translating Principles into Life," John 19:17-27. The German service of Holy Communion will be held on Friday at 6:45 p.m.

Easter Sunday will begin with a service at 9 a.m. in the Presbyterian Cemetery, sponsored by the youth of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Antioch Baptist churches, and open to the entire community. The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Methodist Church will serve an Easter breakfast at 7 a.m. in the Mundy Room.

Identical services of Easter worship will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the Chapel and at 11 a.m. in the sanctuary. Pastor Dewart will speak on "The Power to Overcome," with Romans 8:31-39 as his text. The Wesleyan, Carol and Chapel choirs will sing. Following the 11 a.m. service, Easter titles will be distributed to the hospitalized and shut-ins.

A German Easter service will be conducted at 9:30 a.m., with Mr. Schwung preaching on "All Hail." The Church School will meet at the same hour, including a nursery for three-year-olds and younger. The senior high and adult classes will meet in the Public Library.

Book discussants plan next program

The book discussion group at the Springfield Public Library will meet April 4 for a session devoted to "In White America, A Documentary Play," by Martin Duberman. Irving Merkin will serve as discussion leader. All sessions of the group are open to the public.

The book discussion group met at the library last week under the leadership of the Rev. Richard Nardone, assistant pastor of St. James Church in Springfield.

Father Nardone conducted a discussion of the book "Honest to God," by John A.T. Robinson. Since its publication in England in 1962 and in the United States in 1963, "Honest to God" has been considered one of the most controversial religious books.

According to a library spokesman, Father Nardone said "the author has leaned too far over in trying to make his beliefs agree with modern man."

The session was attended by both men and women, and many viewpoints were expressed. The spokesman added, "the situation the author attempted to cope with, of a world becoming increasingly secular and what should be our response to it, was also what the group was attempting to answer too. Should one accept secular living or fight against it?"

BY THE REV. BRUCE W. EVANS
1st Presbyterian Church

Easter gives us an opportunity to ask the man's age-old question, "If a man dies, shall he live again?" Job voiced this expression of man's yearning and anxiety several thousand years ago, but it could not be answered until the cosmic event of the resurrection of Jesus Christ. In that event came the decisive "Yes." And with that positive declaration came also our hope for this life, the words of Jesus, "Because I live, you will live also."

The steps leading to this epic event are well known: the ministry of a young prophet of Nazareth, the calling of a group of disciples, the stirring of hope and the disinheritance; then, the bitter antagonism engendered among the officials of the day, a trial which in itself reads like a mockery, the judgment of death upon a cross—apparent failure and tragedy. All those high hopes had been dashed—they had expected to see this Man of Nazareth, Jesus, ascend to a throne; instead, they had seen him nailed to a cross.

And then the Resurrection! Three days after his entombment, the disciples went to the cemetery only to find that the grave could not contain Him—He had risen! This was the final confirmation that this Jesus was indeed the Son of God, the Promised Messiah.

In subsequent days He appeared to them personally—the Bible is specific in recalling the numerous appearances. The most telling evidence, however, is probably found in the transformation of the lives of these people. On Friday all was failure; on Easter morning, invincible joy. Defeated men became dynamic. Fearful men became fearless. Those who once had fled, now stood firm—nothing could intimidate them, not even threat of prison, pain or death. What if they did have crosses to bear?—if God could do this with Christ's cross, what could he not do with theirs?

...had driven the end out of the sepulcher, to let in the light of an eternal day. The grave had become a gateway. Death had become a door. Indeed, so central is this message that the apostle Paul wrote, "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain and your faith is also vain."

It is not our purpose here to engage in religious debate over the authentication of such a miracle—that too often is a sterile sort of business carried on with more heat than light. The Christian Church itself can be sufficient authentication. It is our concern, however, to relate the significance of this event to our faith. The Resurrection confirms Jesus' testimony to the sovereignty of God—no evil can ever ultimately conquer. God, who He taught, could best be described by the word "Father," was no detached, impersonal deity indifferent to justice, suffering and goodness. The resurrected Christ is the verification that He is at the heart of all life, that evil will not triumph, that life has meaning.

Too many think of Easter as the confirmation of a life hereafter. It is certainly this, but it is also something far more. To me, it is the challenging command with which we meet life here and now and by which all life becomes holy: its ultimate meaning is found in the words of the Apostle Paul, "Therefore (i.e., because of the resurrection) my beloved brethren, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that in the Lord your labor is not in vain."

The story of Easter is actually a long story. Job first asked the question "If a man die, shall he live again?" Jesus gave the final answer. "Ye who believe in the resurrection on that Easter morn., as a man below us in time, he shall live—both here and hereafter."

Local group forms in effort to promote Vietnamese peace

Several local residents met last Thursday to form a Springfield action group of Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam. The group, consisting of clergy and laymen of all faiths has invited citizens to "engage in meaningful dialogue on the alternatives to our present policy in Vietnam."

A position paper adopted at the national mobilization of clergy in Washington last Jan. 31 was introduced for discussion. It is founded upon support for the initiatives of United Nations Secretary-General U Thant in bringing about an honorable peace. As the local group's first action, a paper detailing U Thant's specific proposals was mailed out. The group urged that U Thant's three points will be the basis of ensuing dialogue among the various countries.

Several programs have been scheduled and the group asked that the social action chairman of each church attend the next meeting which is to be held April 6.

Persons interested in obtaining "The Thought of Secretary General U Thant on Vietnam" may do so by writing the group's headquarters at Springfield Committee for Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, 12 Sunrey Lane, Springfield, or by calling Donald Grant, 276-1976.

grade teachers will be invited to accompany the eighth graders on their "Experiment in Living" week at Stokes State Forest this spring. He said the experience should help the teachers in using recently instituted facilities for outdoor education at Watchung Reservation.

John Gacos, chairman of the building and grounds committee, obtained approval for final payment to the contractor for the addition to the Florence Gaudinier School.

Seymour Margulies, chairman for advisory school planning, reported on preliminary plans for a comprehensive survey of long-range school plant needs. He stressed that plans for the survey are still indefinite.

The board voted approval for Gacos to attend the national school boards' convention April 21-25 in Portland, Ore., with expenses paid.

The only private citizen to speak at the meeting was Henry S. Wright, who asked about problems concerning children's safety under the Rt. 78 bridge across Morris Ave.

School aid hike to benefit counties of Union, Essex

The State Department of Education is in the process of computing new allocations to local school districts of funds from "Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act" for the current 1967 fiscal year.

The local allocations, which had been set tentatively at 85 percent of last year's allocations, are being adjusted on the basis of the final Title I allotment to New Jersey of $2,265,209, and a new distribution formula.

Union County's final allocation is $1,182,708, compared with the tentative figure of $1,159,261, and Essex County's is $5,858,464, 83 percent of the tentative allocation of $5,148,056.

The final total allocation is nearly $2 million more than the tentative allocation, but approximately $2 million less than fiscal year 1966.

The new formula for the Title I program, which provides educational aid for children of low-income families, includes the total number of children in families with income of less than $2,000, children included under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, children in foster homes and children in private institutions for the neglected and delinquent. The latter two categories are being included this year for the first time.

The process of computing the new local allocations is being carried out in the office of Dr. William W. Ramsay, the department's coordinator for federal assistance programs.

Dyed Easter eggs - it's food for thought

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
NEW YORK (UPI)—Plan ahead, then load your ears to make a swinging entry to the Easter Parade.

Eggs-actly how it's done: blow out two eggs, dye and decorate to your imagination's extent. Next, hop out to the five and ten. Pick up inexpensive earrings on long chains. Remove the dangling trimmings from the store-bought ear-ornaments and attach the colorful egg shells.

But eggs for the ears? Why not? It's in step with a trend of food for the fops. Women already are wearing earrings made of crackers, pretzels.

Egg earrings are among new egg coloring ideas created by Pego Paar, for the makers of Rit Easter Egg Coloring kits. Pure whimsy, too, are the designer's plans for mood eggs and eggs you might say are for the birds. Mod-designed eggs for Easter feature a boy and girl egg each attired in the latest Carnaby Street kooky designs. He wears black and white hip-hugger bell-bottoms and matching cap set off by a brightly printed Edwardian high-collared shirt and the widest tie.

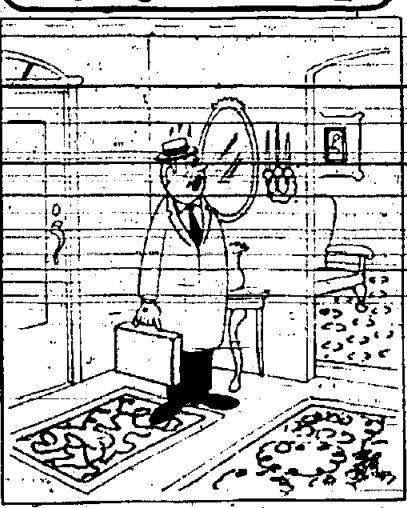

His "bird" wears a red print mini-dress and matching stockings with white boots. Dressed in their mod finery, the swinging egg couple is already to make the Easter basket—or is it the still game?

The egg-birds, meanwhile, are unlike any that ever flew. You need blown-out eggshells, feathers, small bits of felt and paper, white, blue and dye.

After you dye the eggs chosen colors, glue on feathers, add tiny felt feet. Eyes, nose and mouth can either be painted on, or cut out of felt and glued on.

Scraps of fabric or paper and glue help make the mod eggs, too. The secret of making these eggs stand up, according to Miss Paar, is a narrow paper cylinder with a flat paper bottom glued over the bottom of each egg to provide a base for the eggs.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

Glue this base on first and then make the arms and legs for each egg. Use embroidery floss of this yarn for hair.

To blow out eggs, start with clean, white, fresh eggs. Use a darning needle. Make a hole in one end of the egg and a slightly larger hole at the other end. Pierce the yolk. Then blow into the smaller hole. The raw egg will come out of the larger hole. You can use a drinking straw in the blowing. Place one end of the straw directly over the smaller hole and blow.

Jersey economic education needs will be examined at two workshops

Three hundred leading educators, prominent businessmen and civic leaders will hold two workshops on economic education to improve economic education in New Jersey schools.

Dr. Richard B. Scheetz, N.J. State Department of Education coordinator for the workshops, said the first will be held at the Cherry Hill Inn, Cherry Hill, and will have as its keynote speaker, Dr. Lawrence Senz, professor of economic education at Purdue University.

Dr. J. Leroy Thompson of Dow Jones and Company, Inc. will keynote the second workshop to be held at the Hotel Suburban, East Orange.

The theme for the two conferences will be "The School's Role in Removing the Culture Lag in Economic Understanding."

Dr. Scheetz said the meetings have a dual purpose: to create an awareness of the need for more economic education in the schools, and to provide information necessary to facilitate economic education programs.

Ad agency names new vice president

Ronald Gianettino, an advertising account executive with Keyes, Martin & Company, Springfield, since 1962, has been named a vice president of the agency.

The appointment was announced by K-M president Martin Steinhart. Gianettino, of 977 Redwood Pl., Union, served as treasurer of the Association of Industrial Advertisers last year.

Fishermen in state receiving 'bonus' of trout from U. S.

New Jersey anglers are receiving a substantial bonus of trout from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, according to Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Nearly a quarter million trout from national hatcheries are being brought in by personnel of the Charles O. Hayward State Fish Hatchery. Most of these fish will be large enough to stock in Garden State waters for the season opening April 8. The remainder will be held at the hatchery to grow to large size fish for next year, he said this week.

Over 45,000 trout have already been obtained from the National Hatchery in Leesport, W. Va. These include brook trout in the 9-10 inch class and rainbow trout in the 8-9 inch class, nearly all suitable for immediate release.

More than 125,000 fish will be brought in during the week before in-season stocking starts from national hatcheries in Pittsford, Vt., and Nashua, N.H. These include brook trout in the 7-8 inch class and rainbows averaging seven inches, a size suitable for liberation in the State's smaller trout streams.

The last consignment of over 75,000 brook trout will be procured in early May from Lamar, Pa. These are expected to average seven inches, and many can be immediately stocked in small streams.

These fish will be a valuable supplement to nearly half a million trout scheduled for stocking from the State Hatchery, adding to sporting opportunities for New Jersey licensed fishermen, Roe said.

Expect 4,000 school students to take state's 10-session safe boating course

Approximately 4,000 junior high school and high school students are expected to participate this year in the Boatman's Basic Safety Course sponsored by the Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

State Conservation Commissioner Robert A. Roe said this week that the consistent increase in the attendance of this responsible boating instruction, given at 39 schools in all parts of the state, is a true measure of the extraordinary growth of the boating industry and of the interest in safe boating by the youth of New Jersey.

The course, taught by three deputy chiefs of the Marine Patrol and 14 Marine Patrolmen of the department, covers the following rudiments of boating: boarding and loading boats; navigational rules of the road; safety equipment; fueling and the use of motors; fishing; duties of a skipper; basic first aid techniques; keeping on course in current and wind; emergency procedures; and use of navigational charts.

Each student is given a book "Make Sure Make Sure," which covers the boating safety course, subject matter, and various printed material from the United States Coast Guard and private concerns.

This is the fourth year the Department of Conservation and Economic Development, through the Bureau of Navigation, has been sponsoring these classes designed to get young boating enthusiasts off on the right foot. Reports of the response from the student body have been encouraging because it is seldom that students drop out of the courses and the accident rate of the age group who takes these instructions have been extremely low since the inception of the safe boating instruction series," Commissioner Roe said.

He added that this relationship of young boating participants and low accident rates is essential to the continued growth and popularity of boating in New Jersey. "This is our fastest growing recreational activity," Commissioner Roe said. "It has almost doubled since 1962 from a registration of 76,230 boats to 126,215 last year. With power boat sales at record levels, the growth potential of this industry is virtually limitless, making safety and responsibility essential."

Commissioner Roe added that increased emphasis on realistic safety courses and procedures and growth are inseparable in an industry such as boating and for the health and welfare of the growing numbers of people seeking their recreation on New Jersey's open waters.

He pointed out that Safe Boating Courses, which are in session in all but seven of the State's counties, also give the Bureau of Navigation an opportunity to introduce and explain new boating regulations to the students. These such regulations were introduced this year, covering requirements for life preservers on all boats, skin diving regulations, and wintering regulations in navigable waters. The seven classes yet to get underway will begin this month.

If a group is interested in conducting or participating in the Boatman's Basic Safety Course, they may contact the Bureau of Navigation, Box 1889, Trenton, New Jersey.

This car is for people who think cars are a waste of money.

This is a Volvo. Why do people who don't like cars, like this one? You don't have to trade it in just when you're through paying for it (Volvos last eleven years in Sweden, where there are no speed limits on the highways and there are 70,000 miles of unpaved roads). You don't have to lay out money for repair upon repair. And you don't have to tinker with it (Sports Car Graphic magazine says that "the Volvo B-18 engine is one of the most, if not THE most reliable, rugged and unbreakable car engines built today."). The more you think cars are a pain in the neck, the more you'll like the Volvo compact. Come in and test drive one. It'll give you over 25 miles to the gallon—even with automatic transmission.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

"The unknown is always a fearful thing."

The comment came from Pericles: "Bill" Gianakis as he spoke of the work and goals of the American Cancer Society.

Gianakis, a Roselle resident and ninth grade social studies teacher at Scotch Plains-Fanwood schools, has a special role in the fight against fear of the unknown which is being waged by the Cancer Society. He is chairman of the education committee of the Union County Chapter of ACS.

As head of the education committee, he is responsible for a three-fold program: bringing the work of the Cancer Society before the general public, with particular emphasis on its call for early detection; helping interest young people in careers in scientific research; and sponsoring in-service programs for teachers and nurses.

The most extensive of these three is the program offered to the general public. "We present programs for all kinds of clubs—service, social, church groups—any organization that invites us," Gianakis said.

These programs include a short address by a volunteer lay speaker, showing of a film, distribution of Cancer Society literature and answers to questions from the audience by a doctor, also a volunteer.

Gianakis' education committee, working out of County Cancer Society headquarters on Westminster ave. in Elizabeth, now has a roll of about 20 lay speakers, among them housewives, businessmen, members of service groups and others "who just heard about us by word of mouth."

With training in setting up and running film projectors and guides to help them outline their talks, these lay speakers describe the functions of the Cancer Society, the services it offers to the public and the uses it makes of its funds.

They explain that, among its services, the Society furnishes transportation, dressings and sickroom equipment for home use to any cancer patient. It operates a clinic for cancer victims who have lost their voice boxes. For the medically indigent the Society provides assistance with such things as nursing care and medications.

Doctors, who assist through a county-wide physician's bureau, handle "the technical questions," Gianakis said. He added, "Essentially, they are there to alleviate fears. They try to get people to face the facts of cancer reasonably, without anxiety."

In addition to offering programs to clubs and organizations of various kinds, the committee headed by Gianakis also works closely with schools, sending literature, film strips and, if requested, speakers.

Much of the emphasis in the school programs is on the dangers of smoking.

Although these programs are now aimed at junior and senior high school students, Gianakis took note of the fact that many boys and girls are now starting to smoke at an earlier age.

"Increasingly we've come to believe that we have to work at lower levels than the secondary schools," he mused. "We're thinking of the lower grades—if we could develop such things as coloring books that carry a 'message'."

The great advantage of school programs on cancer is that "getting to the student is a good way of getting to the parent," Gianakis commented.

He recalled receiving "a touching letter" some time ago from a boy who had heard one such program and had become concerned "because his father was smoking too much."

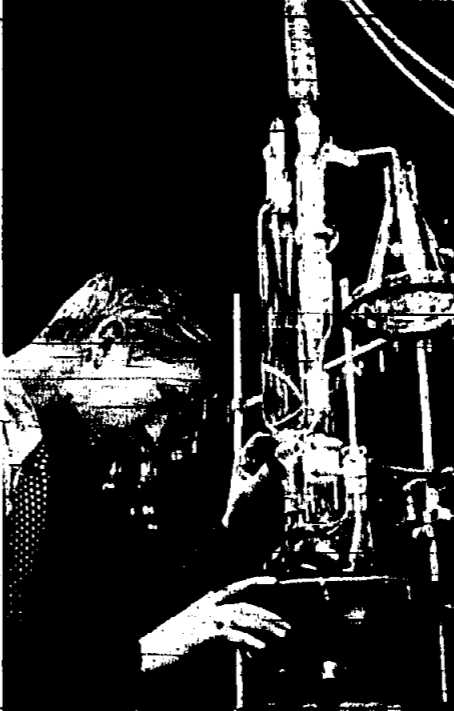

His committee's efforts to arouse interest in research careers also are focused on young people.

To accomplish this, literature such as laboratory manuals is distributed to high schools throughout the county.

In addition, the committee arranges for field trips by students to the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York City, described by Gianakis as one of the foremost research and detection centers for cancer, and to the microbiology building at Rutgers University.

For adults, there are in-service programs for teachers and nurses. The committee sponsors attendance by teachers at bi-annual cancer institutes in Atlantic City as part of its work.

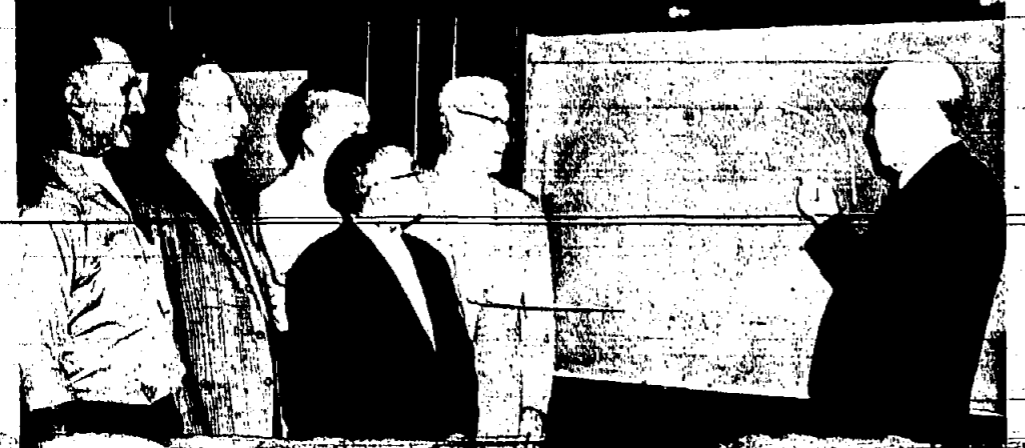

But the primary emphasis is on the work done by the volunteers, who answer from 10 to 15 requests for talks per month.

ON SUNDAY MORNING—Chronically ill patients at John E. Rinnells Hospital, Berkeley Heights, wait to enter the hospital chapel on Sunday morning. Members of a "Wheelchair Corps" formed by the Union County Federation of Knights of Columbus assist them to attend services each week.

'Wheelchair Corps' formed by area Knights of Columbus

Many chronically ill patients at John E. Rinnells Hospital in Berkeley Heights are, for the first time, able to attend Sunday services regularly, thanks to a "Wheelchair Corps" organized by the Union County Federation of Knights of Columbus.

The Rev. Nicholas Gill, C.P., Catholic chaplain at the hospital, called the "Wheelchair Corps" "a fine help to us." He said: "Attendance at mass has more than doubled. Many patients are now able to come to services who would not ordinarily be able to attend. They look forward to seeing the Knights each Sunday and having the joy of being a part of the congregation." "We always need cooperation from 100 people. This is a fine act of charity by these men, and something that should be done in all hospitals where religious services are held for chronically ill patients." La Placa, who pointed out that members of Union County K of C Councils are assisting in a similar program at Lyons Veterans Hospital, said: "Our men get as much or more out of it than the patients. It is a real pleasure to see these people get such a lift, especially when they smile and thank us. It's good to know that the hospital arranges to care for the patient's spiritual as well as physical needs, and we're glad to help."

Here's a station wagon that takes more than the VW station wagon.

More gas, more oil, more anti-freeze, more money.

The VW Station Wagon is like a real bus. It gives you more room where it counts. The ordinary station wagon gives you more room where it adds up. Like in the gas tank. The ordinary wagon takes twice as much gas as the VW. And it needs heavy duty. It only gets about 14 mpg while the VW gets 23. Other station wagons hold oil in quarts while the VW gets along on pints. And in the winter, the ordinary wagon takes 100% more anti-freeze.

The air-cooled V77 engine never needs any. In the winter, all it takes to get it going is a turn of the key! So in the end the ordinary wagon takes more of one more thing. Money. To fill it up with more gas, oil and anti-freeze. Sure, the ordinary station wagon has twice as much room as the VW for all of these things. And that's one good reason why it has about twice as less for everything else.
