Search for Irwin Playground vandals Chief says parents fail to cooperate

Lack of cooperation by parents of children believed to be involved was stressed this week by Police Chief Wilbur C. Selander as a major factor hindering investigations of continued vandalism in the field house at Irwin Playground.

Terminating the conditions at the field house a "blight on our entire township," the chief said that his force is taking all possible measures to prevent repetition of the "havoc that our teenagers, and sub-teenagers, have wrought on what was considered one of the finest play areas in all of Union County."

He noted that the playground, at the corner of Irwin st. and Adams-ter. is surrounded by homes valued at $25,000 and up. Chief Selander asked, "Would you say that these children came from culturally deprived homes?"

"Could it be possible that these children are from a poverty-stricken area, one that lacked the advantages that we all seek for our children?"

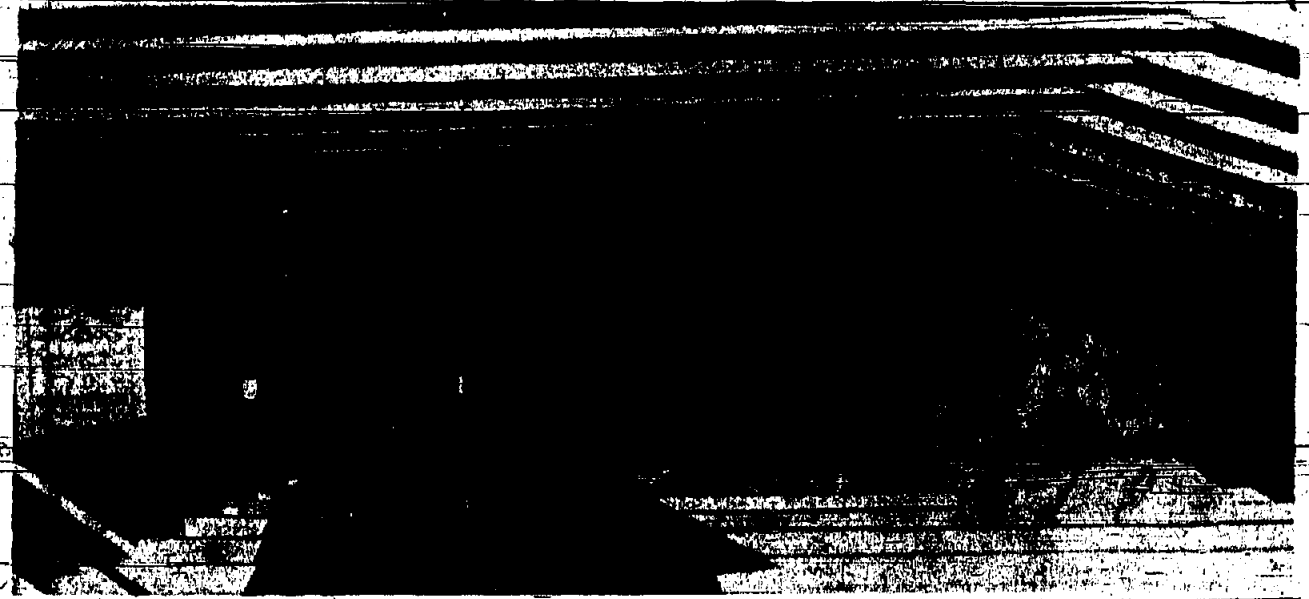

"Or would you say that these children suffered from a lack of parental supervision, a lack of parental direction and, more important, a complete lack of consideration for the law and for the protection of public property?"

HE COMMENTED that the police have long been aware of the vandalism illustrated in the accompanying pictures, and that there have been frequent complaints from neighbors concerning noise, vandalism and drinking of alcoholic beverages in and around the playground.

"The Irwin Playground," the chief added, "has been under surveillance on many occasions. When some children were apprehended the complete lack of cooperation from the children and -- even more important -- the complete disdain of their parents could only be termed appalling."

He went on to state that the physical destruction of the building is not the problem which gives the police most concern. The chief referred to the picture showing that the "area above the rafters was turned into a den, and apparently alcoholic beverages were consumed by the children in this illicit hiding place, among their other activities."

Township Committee approves pay ordinance for '67

Police accuse 4 youths of firing at car windows

Three youths appeared in Springfield Municipal Court Monday evening on charges that they and a juvenile had engaged in a shooting spree with an air rifle early last Friday morning, shooting the windows out of 26 cars in Springfield, as well as 30 cars in Mountainside and a number in Westfield.

The hearing, on charges of malicious mischief, has been adjourned until June 5, when the youths will be home from college, and when they will be able to come to a clear determination of financial responsibility. The trio also had a date to appear in Mountainside Municipal Court yesterday.

Those involved are Bruce Stockberger, 19, of 2 Tree Top dr., Springfield; Roger Naumann, 18, of Roselle Park, formerly of Springfield, and Douglas Dohay, 18, of North Woodmere L. I. Accused with them is a 17-year-old from Springfield, who was turned over to juvenile authorities. Stockberger attends Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights. Naumann and Dohay are students at Midwestern College, Dennison, Iowa.

Springfield police stated that the escapee began shortly after midnight last Friday morning. They charged that the four youths drove through Springfield and the other communities in a car operated by the juvenile, shooting at car windows with the air rifle, which was found in the car later when they were arrested by Mountainside police on Summit rd. in that community.

Damage to car windows was reported in Springfield along Irwin st., Hillside ave., Adams ter., Booker ave., Rolling Rock rd. and Skylark dr. Springfield police were unable to catch the quartet within the township, as the shootings then shifted into Mountainside and Westfield.

According to Springfield police, the youths also admitted, under questioning, that they had taken spare tires and wheels from Volkswagen automobiles during their travels throughout the area.

After their initial arrest, the four boys were taken into custody for the Springfield police by Detective Robert Taffe and Patrolman Reese Powell.

They were released on bail pending a final determination of the case. Dohay posted bond of $1,000, and Naumann and Stockberger each posted bond of $500. They will remain free on bail until the June 5 hearing takes place.

Only 1 speaker opposes raise for committeemen

By ABNER GOLD

With only a single objector speaking from the floor, the Township Committee Tuesday night unanimously adopted the 1967 municipal salary ordinance. Other features of the sparsely attended meeting at Town Hall included passage of two bond ordinances for road improvements, a change in date for a meeting next month, proclamation of April as Cancer Control Month and discussion of topics ranging from boys' basketball to pedestrian and school bus safety.

The sole speaker to object to the new salary ordinance was Henry S. Wright, who centered his attack on the pay raises for Township Committeemen, from $2,000 to $3,500, and for the mayor, from $2,300 to $4,000. "Most of the salaries proposed are a wise expenditure," Wright asserted, "but this is dumb."

Ed Rall also spoke from the floor during the hearing on the ordinance, requesting information on pay for part-time Recreation Department sports administrators.

Committeeman Philip Dal Vecchio spoke in reply to Wright's criticism. He noted that most legislative bodies, throughout the country, had approved pay raises in recent years, and he could do the same thing by not touching our salaries and by insulating expense accounts," Dal Vecchio noted, "but this way it is out in the open, where everyone can see. We are doing it to keep and to entice capable people into the service of the town."

"I am happy to serve my community, but I should not have to lose money doing it. We can never replace the time we have spent on this job, time away from our business, away from our families. We should not be penalized for service."

Mayor proclaims township's support of concert Sunday

Support of the concert by the U. S. Navy Band, to be presented by the Springfield Rotary Club Sunday at 2:00 p.m. at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, was urged this week in a proclamation by Mayor Arthur M. Falkin. He designated Sunday as Navy Band Day.

Proceeds from the concert will go to support the Rotary Club's scholarship fund, which is headed by Alfred M. Horn. Grant Lennox is chairman for the concert.

Concert tickets are available at the National State Bank in Springfield, Crestmont Savings, J. J. Newberry store, Charles Remlinger's real estate office, a special booth at the Gen. Greene Shopping Center, or from any member of the Rotary Club. They will also be sold at the door.

The mayor's proclamation stated, "The U. S. Navy Band, by authorization of the Congress, with special permission of the President, by authorization of the Navy Department and in cooperation with the Department of Defense, is on concert tour to bring outstanding music to audiences in our section of these United States."

"The band's appearance here affords local citizens an opportunity to see and hear an organization that has been the Navy's own for a generation."

"The net proceeds of the Navy Band's concert here will be devoted to community purpose, the Springfield Rotary Club's scholarship fund. The band's appearance here specifically affords this city an opportunity to play host to official representatives of the U. S. Navy Band, of which our entire nation is proud."

"Now, therefore, I proclaim Sunday, April 2, 1967, as Navy Band Day, confident that the citizens of this community will lend whatever support is necessary to assure success."

Werner is named by insurance firm as honor recipient

The Richard E. Werner Agency, New York, of the Manhattan Life Insurance Co. has won the company's agency of the year award for outstanding performance in 1966. Werner is a chartered life underwriter. He is a past president of the Springfield Historical Society and a former member of the Springfield Board of Education.

The selection was made on the basis of leading overall performance in the metropolitan division, and not on sales alone, the home office of the company said in making the announcement. This is the second time that the agency has been selected as the metropolitan division's agency of the year award winner. In 1966, among 101 agencies throughout the country, the Werner Agency stood third nationally in total combined volume, or four places higher than in 1965. In ordinary sales last year, it ranked third in both volume and premium; the volume rank was four places higher than in 1965, the premium position one place higher. In group life volume, the agency gained 11 places compared with the prior year, and stood ninth in 1966.

Boys' baseball leagues are not just for children

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the Little League and all other organizations which provide boys with valuable experience in the national pastime. Actually, the adults who provide leadership in the many baseball organizations throughout this area are already hard at work preparing for the season to come when and if the weather ever permits.

Most of us, however, overlook the need for special instruction for parents whose boys are about to have their first experience with organized baseball. First of all, parents should remember that the managers and coaches are volunteers, serving for many reasons, most of them creditable.

Among the reasons for service are a desire to train youngsters in the folkways of manhood, a wish to prepare future stars for high school and college teams, a genuine sense of enjoyment from working with boys and seeing them grow and perfect their skills--and a need to work out vicarious fulfillment of the fantasies of a long-gone childhood.

Except for the latter, all are valid reasons leading to positive leadership for youngsters. The wish-fulfillers, those who must win at all costs, to their own self-respect and the boys' development, are usually detected and sent to the showers, sooner or later.

At any rate, most codes of behavior frown on parents who punch coaches or managers in the nose. The coaches do have to balance a legitimate desire to win, shared by all the boys, with an obligation to give everyone a chance to play and a chance to develop.

By the same standards, parents also have obligations to encourage a sense of responsibility and team spirit in their boys. The father who has taken the time to play ball now and then with his little boy will soon have the pleasure of seeing that boy get too good to play ball with the old man.

The parents who have taught their boys how to follow instructions, even if only in picking up their toys and clothes and not tracking mud on the carpet, will learn that they have a youngster who will throw to the right base, take a pitch according to the coach's signal and otherwise be able to play according to the expected standards.

The father who offers to help, whether it be coaching or keeping score or keeping track of equipment, the mother who does her part by having supper ready and keeping it short, by chauffeuring with a maximum of promptness and a minimum of complaint--these are the parents who will enjoy the baseball leagues along with their children.

Some boys are destined to be good ball players; others are not. This is a factor no one can control. Every child, however, deserves the opportunity to develop to the limit of his capabilities, in school or on the ball field. This is a factor which depends to a great extent on his parents and the other adults in the community.

Congresswoman FLORENCE P. DWYER Reports

Unless the nation's economy takes a sudden and substantial turn for the better in the next three months, there is virtually no possibility that Congress will approve the President's proposal for a six percent tax increase this year.

At the moment, a tax increase is just about dead. Seldom, if ever, in recent years, has sentiment on a major issue of this kind been so thoroughly against a key Administration recommendation. The opposition comes from all sides: bankers, businessmen, academic economists, and taxpayers in general.

In the past few months, the economy as a whole has been slipping--not much, but nevertheless very definitely. The latest economic indicators, the statistics by which economists measure the performance of business and industry, show a general decline. Industrial production, for instance, is down from its record high in December. The average work week of production employees has dropped by a little more than an hour a week from a year ago.

Moreover, in the two months or so since the President submitted to Congress his budget, his legislative program, and his economic report, the confident predictions of an economic up-turn, on which he based his request for a tax increase, have not been borne out.

Last week, in an unusual display of bipartisan agreement, Republican and Democratic members of the important Congressional Joint Economic Committee concurred on the following major points: That Congress should not commit itself to a tax increase in view of the doubtful economic picture ahead; That the country's supply of money should be increased and interest rates lowered; That, in view of the big budget deficits ahead, Congress should reduce expenditures, especially by emphasizing priorities, cutting less important programs, and increasing the efficiency of Government operations; and That Congress should restore the investment tax credit which was suspended by the President last year.

Each of these recommendations, of course, and the economic indicators on which they rest, contradict the idea of a tax increase. An increase in taxes would reduce the money supply, restrict credit, limit the amount of money available for consumption and investment, and thereby discourage growth in economic activity and prolong or worsen the present down-trend.

Already, in fact, the President has proposed and the House has approved the restoration of the investment tax credit, a major incentive for business expansion and, in effect, a substantial tax reduction. For those of us who opposed the suspension of this tax credit in the first place, the President's reversal of position was a welcome one, an encouraging sign that he may be ready this year to react more quickly and constructively to changes in the economy than he was last year.

It was last year's rather stumbling performance by the Administration which can be seen to have led to the present problem, by failing to recognize in time the seriousness of inflation and to impose balanced restraints on the economic boom, the Administration helped to push the economy out of kilter. Over-expansion of business, an excessive build-up of inventories, high prices, tight credit, and a drastic slump in housing, construction and related industries followed. When the Administration acted, it first rolled too heavily on high interest rates and then compounded industry's problems by suspending their tax incentives.

The net result of this complex of forces was the present slow-down of the economy. We are not, I hasten to add, in an economic crisis, as yet. But to avoid a serious recession and to restore stability and momentum to the economy--in brief, to assure a sustainable rate of prosperity--will require sound, non-political judgment and a willingness to dump faulty predictions in favor of making whatever adjustments are required in the Government's economic machinery in a timely and sensitive fashion.

PROFILE--Robert J. Stefany

By BEA SMITH Robert F. Stefany of Springfield, an amiable young man, who was reappointed Springfield Board of Education auditor last week, manages to fill every minute of his day with business, church and social activities.

Right now Stefany, who is affiliated with F. J. Stefany and Co., an Irvington accounting firm, hasn't a moment to spare--and he won't have, he admits, until after April 15. The earnest, indefatigable Stefany, who really takes his work seriously, outlined his duties as auditor for Springfield's Board of Education, since it "concerns the entire community of Springfield."

First of all, he said, "an audit of the books, accounts and records of the Board of Education is required by state law to be made annually by a certified public accountant or a registered municipal accountant, who is also licensed as a public school accountant."

"THE AUDIT COVERS the clerical operating funds, and the school construction funds of the Board of Education, under the supervision of a secretary and a custodian of school monies, as well as any cafeteria funds, special summer or adult school funds and student organization funds under the control of the board. A financial examination of the accounts and records includes verification of all revenues receivable under federal and state aid programs, local school taxes, levies, tuition and miscellaneous revenues such as rentals and earnings of an investment of school funds."

Stefany explained that "expenditures are verified by an inspection of approved vendors' claims, purchase orders and a review of minutes of proceedings of the Board of Education, noting advertisements for bids, contracts awarded, proper budget adoption and other related administrative expenditures."

"Expenditures for salaries and wages in the Springfield educational system," Stefany said, "which are anticipated to exceed a million and a half dollars during the 1967-68 school year are verified to authorizations in the minutes."

"Due to ever-changing legislation effecting school administration, the auditor is often consulted throughout the school year about financial matters. . . . UPON COMPLETION of the audit requirements of the State Board of Education," Stefany continued, "a detailed report of audit must be submitted to the Springfield Board of Education within 90 days after the close of the school year. This report provides a summary of a vital statistical index of audit results, similar to an annual corporation report prepared for the management and stockholders who, in this case, are, in reality, the citizens of Springfield."

"The auditor must also comment in this report upon any violation of state law and make any recommendations to the Springfield Board of Education for their consideration and action. Copies of this report of audit must also be furnished to the county superintendent of schools and the State Board of Education." Stefany commented that the "board members are a very dedicated people, and we feel our responsibility to help them by completing a competent audit. We're there to help them," he reiterated.

Stefany's father, Fred Stefany, serves as Union township auditor, and Robert served there for three years. Born in Englewood, Robert Stefany was raised and educated in Irvington. He was graduated from Irvington High School at the age of 16, spent a year at Syracuse University, then joined the U.S. Navy at the end of World War II.

Returning to Syracuse, Stefany studied business administration, earned a CIA rating in 1951, and began his work in his father's firm in 1951.

SINCE MOVING to Springfield 14 years ago, with his wife, the former Joan Taylor of Irvington, and their two children, Bill, 12, and Carol, 10, Stefany has been active in church, business and social organizations.

He's been active in Irvington United Appeals, Boy Scout drives there, is a member of the board of trustees of the First Presbyterian Church in Springfield ("I served on the board of trustees as secretary and finance chairman"), and he even used to teach Sunday School classes there.

"Perhaps his wife and children have caught the 'busy bug' from the head of the household, because these three manage to be busy all the time, too.

"Bill who attends the Florence Gardner School, is active in the school's sports program, particularly basketball. He got a sportsmanship award from the Little League, of which I'm very proud.

"And Carol, who attends the James Caldwell School, is equally active. She's in the school orchestra, plays the clarinet, is very active in the twinning events, she's in the Silhouette group for twirlers. She's in the Girl Scout group, she's active in church, and both children, in their spare time," Stefany chuckles, "take piano lessons."

And Mrs. Stefany? "She's kept busy just taxi-ing the kids around to their many activities," Stefany laughs.

U.S. Senator HARRISON A. WILLIAMS Reports

WASHINGTON--Basic training is an experience in basic misery. It is a time of stifles and sore arms from immovables. Everything is seen through a haze of fatigue induced by violent physical exercise and a rigorous schedule.

Eventually, it seems, drill fields are ankle deep in mud, clouds in the sky are black, and you are told what to do and when to do it from reveille in the morning to taps at night and a polite manner and the word "please" are not Government issues for drill sergeants or company commanders.

The pants are too long and the haircut too short. The food isn't cooked or seasoned the way you like it and the service isn't quite like mother's.

That's the way it always has been and, in spite of the image building of the modern Army, that's pretty much the way it always will be. It is the Army's way of turning a civilian into a soldier. Nobody likes it. Reactions range from mild distaste to furious outrage.

But it works. With very few exceptions it doesn't do any permanent harm. And in a country where the individual is the great deal of good.

At Fort Dix, N.J., approximately 50,000 young men undergo their experience each year. Predictably, this produces a great many gripes and quite a few serious complaints. Some of these complaints come to me. Often they are without real foundation. Sometimes there is justice in the complaint and then we work with the Army--or Navy, Air Force, or Marine Corps--to rectify things out.

But, over the past year, a number of very serious complaints about Fort Dix have been brought to my attention. Four of them resulted in seemingly needless deaths. Another involved a case of cancer which went undiagnosed for a year.

One of the cases involved a young man from Montana who joined the Army despite a 4-F draft classification because of a history of mental illness.

He went AWOL and was court-martialed. His mother told the court of his history of mental illness, which included a year in a mental hospital.

He was sentenced to four months in the stockade and placed in what the Army calls "disciplinary segregation." Some time later, while still in solitary confinement, he cut his wrists and throat and was taken to the hospital for treatment.

On the following day, he wrote a letter to his mother, saying he was going to kill himself. That letter apparently was censored at the stockade and sent out in routine fashion. Later that same day, he committed suicide by hanging himself in the cell, with a trowel from a laundry bay.

WE HAVE ASKED a number of questions about this case and others. Have not received satisfactory answers. We have asked for a review of procedures at Walden Army Hospital and of other non-military operations at Fort Dix. We have not received any satisfactory response to this request.

We have suggested that, since the results of the investigations of these cases have been wholly unsatisfactory, someone from outside the military should be sent to the Public Health Service should be included on the investigating teams. We have received no satisfactory response to that suggestion.

We plan to pursue this until I get answers to my questions and responses to my suggestions.

The cases which have been cited are not gripes. Four of the cases, the victim is beyond griping. The cumulative effect has been to raise serious doubts about the standard of operations at Fort Dix.

In the next year, 50,000 young men will be trained or processed at Fort Dix. We owe it to them to get the answers to these questions.

TRUDY BELLEVILLE Easter, Good Friday, Maundy Thursday and Christmas are now "passed over" for 1967. Let us now get down to the basic facts of life. That is, a believer is a believer, regardless of faith. If you have faith, then believe in America!

To be heathen is to have an idol or to be non-religious. To be a "pagan" is to be a peasant and call upon false gods. False gods have no place in the religions of the Christian, Jew or Mohammedan in America!

On the other hand, agnostics believe only in materialism, Zoid Progo.

Now, who among us cannot believe in the famous words of a councilman among us, when he said: "If it's the last thing I do, I will fight for a code of ethics before I leave." He took leave and has returned. "Were these not hollow words, then where, now, is the "Flo Dwyer" type champion of ethics in Springfield?

Until there is a code of code of ethics in Springfield's public, tax-supported government, there can be no real religion in Springfield. Unless the believers cast their votes at the polls (when open); and you will know this by reading the Leader, then the ethical concept of society will vanish. Why don't you vote?

Is it because you don't read the Leader? Is it because you don't get notice of elections (by registered-mail) or is it because you don't give a damn? A pox on non-voters, except in political primaries, where organization lines deprive voters of their franchise. A pox on non-voters in school elections (85 percent of you) where the bulk of your tax dollar is spent. When is the next Springfield election? June 6, 1967? Don't vote, it's a primary, and let redistricting catch you later-on. Or, is it some other "timely excuse" from the Public Health Service

Wall Street Notebook

By ARTHUR POLLOCK A prosperous 1966 on the record and a reasonably good year shaping up for 1967, that's the broad picture for the railroads. And assuming an adequate freight rate increase early enough in the year to be effective, rail stocks can be expected to give a comparatively good market performance in the months ahead.

In fact, the railroads have been outpacing the industrial recovery from the sharp decline of 1966. In that decline, from mid-February to Oct. 7, the rails dropped 32 percent versus 25 percent for the industrials. (Dow-Jones averages); since the October low, the rails have advanced approximately 25 percent (March 7 close), compared with 14 percent for the industrials.

While all final figures for 1966 are not in yet, the Class I railroads raised traffic volume (net ton-miles) some 5.6 percent over the level of last year -- to a record peak. Gross revenues were up 4.4 percent to $10.7-billion with net income up approximately 11 percent to $902-million. For the first time since 1955, the railroad industry had pushed its net income above the $900-million mark.

Moreover, 1967 started out on a promising note with traffic showing further strength. For the seven weeks so far recorded, net ton-miles rose 1.7 percent from the year earlier level. (Carloads handled were actually down for the period, but the trend toward larger capacity cars distorts the carloadings comparison.)

While the merger road has been long and difficult in overcoming many obstacles, consolidation now appears to be near for some of the carriers. A number of marriages could be effected this year -- including the Pennsylvania-New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line-Seaboard and Chicago & North Western-Chicago Great Western. Others that could follow include Norfolk Southern and Louisville & Nashville, and Chicago & North Western-Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific.

Glassboro educator urges programs for rehabilitation of college flunk-outs

By George Reinfield, chairman, committee on academic standing, and Don Bagin, coordinator of college relations, Glassboro State College.

More than half of the students who start college won't graduate four years later at that college.

College dropout rates are staggering, especially when it comes to the thousands of students who don't make it are pretty intelligent people. Some students drop out because of family responsibilities. Some decide they "really don't want a college degree. But many who don't finish the college career they started are academic dropouts.

Some colleges and universities appear to boast of their high attrition rate. Perhaps their educational leadership feel that a large number of failing students indicate an image of academic rigor.

But as the quality of today's college students continues to increase in many schools, there appears little reason to seem proud about losing half of a college's class before the cap and gown ceremonies are held.

College requires an adjustment on the part of students. Some who had high grades in high school may have to learn to live with lower grades -- at least until they adapt themselves to college demands.

But what happens to students who don't make the adjustment right away. Should they be cast out in the first year? Should they be branded as academic leavers?

Why do students who demonstrated they could produce in the grade department in high school sometimes fail out of college? What can be done to help them?

In some cases, adjustment requires strengthening academic skills. Glassboro's Dr. William Pitt, who was chairman of the College's Academic Standing Committee a few years ago, came up with a program to help students who were failing.

attention of some of the parents, their reaction was, "It could not be my child." However, it is easily apparent that this was done by someone's children. Unfortunately, this type of behavior can only portend more difficulties in the future."

The chief added, "The Springfield Police Department is bringing this situation to the attention of the public so that the parents of our community will stop abdicate their responsibilities and undertake the personal supervision of their children."

"Needless to say, this case is being investigated and the culprits will be turned over to the proper authorities when apprehended."

"THIS IS A MESSAGE to the parents. When the police have to take over, it is too late for parental supervision. Accept your responsibilities. Welcome this opportunity to work with your Police Department to abolish this blight in our town."

He went on to say that while there have been numerous stake-outs and calls by police patrols, "cooperation by families in the area has not been satisfactory. While investigating complaints of noise and other misconduct in the playground, we have often been told by other neighbors that there was no noise."

Chief Selander concluded, "This type of damage is costly, and money spent here for repairs could very well have been used to provide other facilities."

"I am sure that the citizens who are so vitally interested in advanced recreation facilities for the children of Springfield are disappointed that better care is not taken of this facility by the very people who are helped most."

all-year basketball team of seventh and eighth graders. The boys have won two tournament championships this season.

Committeemen joined Falkin in congratulating the young athletes and urging all citizens to attend the Springfield tournament which will conclude this Friday and Saturday evenings at the Florence Gaudineer School.

The mayor particularly praised the coach of the Mountsman, J. Scott Donington, for his work with the boys. He also commended Adams for service as a referee in the basketball program.

THE MEETING OPENED with a minute of silence in tribute to Leonard J. Heller, township treasurer, who died March 16 at the age of 66.

The public discussion period at the close of the evening included a discussion among Wright, Committeeman Robert G. Planer and Ensey Bennett, municipal traffic consultant, on threats to safety of children walking under the Rt. 78 bridge across Morris ave.

Wright repeated previous warnings that children playing on the sloping embankment alongside the sidewalk could run out into the path of traffic.

Planer said that he had received little encouragement from the State Highway Department in response to his effort to have a barrier placed at the curb line.

Bennett noted that a fence along the curb would be a threat to people in cars which might become disabled in the area. He added that a fence between the sidewalk and the embankment could tend to lead to deterioration of the embankment into a "garbage dump."

He suggested that a chain, either at the curb line or at the foot of the embankment, might offer the best solution, if the Highway Department would agree.

After comments from several other members of the audience, however, Bennett stated that a cyclone fence closing off the embankment might be even more effective, and that the problem of trash could well be solved.

Jack Newman spoke about problems faced by school buses on steep, snow-covered streets on Baltusrol Top. In addition to urging more frequent use of snow chains, he urged that bus routes be changed when snow makes roads there slippery. Committeemen agreed to pursue his suggestions.

Norman Banner spoke to report that much of the parking space in the municipal lot opposite Caldwell pl. was being used all day by commuters from other towns who take buses to Newark and New York. The committeemen expressed interest in his proposal for parking stickers to be issued only to those who live or work in Springfield.

In the final business of the evening, Committeeman Planer presented a citizenship award to Donald Magness, a volunteer fireman who is moving out of town.

Discussion group will consider work on Negroes in U.S.

The Book Discussion Group of the Springfield Public Library will meet on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the library. The discussion leader will be Irving Merkin, and the book to be discussed is "In White America," by Martin Duberman.

Merkin is chairman of the social studies department of West Side High School in Newark. A graduate of City College of New York he holds an M.A., and has done graduate work on the doctoral level. He serves Temple Beth Ahm as a member of the executive board and the Religious School board, of which he was formerly president. Chairman of the local Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, Merkin is interested in promoting human relationships and inter-cultural activity.

The book under discussion at the next meeting, "In White America," by Duberman, is a presentation of the voice of the American Negro as taken from documents written over the past two centuries.

Written in play form, the book strikes a dramatic note and points out injustices and inhumanities against the American Negro. The discussion group programs are free, and the public was invited to attend.

Overlook board of trustees, announced that invitations to the dedication are being mailed this week. The ceremonies will take place in the new Charles Frederick Wallace Medical Education Center, which is one of the major new facilities provided by Overlook's $8,000,000 progress program.

A community open house will be held the following Sunday, April 30, at 2:30 p.m. for others interested in touring the new wing, and a series of special tours will be held throughout May. Overlook's new seven-story wing was designed by the firm of Donald Ritchie of Chestnut Hill, Mass., with Peter M. A. Myles, former Springfield resident, as project architect.

The hospital's new main entrance creates an "Overlook Plaza," at the hilltop intersection of Beauvoir ave. and Sylvan rd., the former rear of the hospital.

The new main entrance on floor includes a new coffee and gift shop, provided by the Women's Auxiliary gift of $250,000; new admissions, patients' accounts and finance department; medical records and library, and a special children's playroom where visiting youngsters will be supervised by trained volunteers.

OVERLOOK'S NEW WING will bring to the community major new concepts in community hospital care, according to Robert E. Heintz, Overlook's director. "Complete new emergency facilities will enable the hospital to handle multiple accident cases, with well-equipped emergency operating and treatment rooms and four full-time physicians rotating the duty to give 24-hour experienced coverage."

New and expanded out-patient department and clinic will enable patients to obtain X-ray and laboratory tests on an out-patient basis without being admitted to the hospital overnight, thus saving hospital beds for more acute needs and keeping hospital costs down. Out-patient surgery and dental surgery are included in the new suite.

Dedication guests will have the opportunity to see Overlook's extensive new laboratories and X-ray department, which have been relocated on the fourth floor level adjacent to the out-patient and emergency area, speeding access in emergency cases and simplifying traffic through the hospital for out-patients - also cutting down on use of elevators and speeding in-hospital transportation. Both the emergency and out-patient departments have their own separate entrances.

New in-patient facilities on the upper floors offer other new services. The short-stay psychiatric unit will make available skilled psychiatric care for patients who do not need the extended care of a hospital institution.

The coronary care unit has increased in size from two beds to six beds. Intensive care facilities have been relocated in the new wing to provide for 15 critically ill patients. A carefully planned isolation unit is now completely separated from other areas. An added surgery suite and recovery room with augment operating room services, along with a new maternity wing and other medical-surgical beds.

Federal Tax Facts
Many married taxpayers who filed separate Federal income tax returns last year might have saved themselves money by filing a joint return. This tax tip for New Jersey taxpayers came this week from Joseph M. Shutz, District Director of Internal Revenue.
The split-income provision of the tax law usually enables a married couple to pay a lower tax on their combined income when they file jointly than they would have to pay if each filed a separate return, he said. The provision will always save the couple money if only one of them had income.
For couples who do plan to file separate returns, Shutz said they must be sure their deductions are handled the same on each of their returns. If one itemizes deductions, the other must too, he said.
On separate returns, care must be taken to list only those expenses that are actually paid by the individual covered by the return. A man filing separately should not claim any deductions that were actually paid for by his wife and vice versa. If the wife has income and files separately, neither she nor the husband can claim the personal exemption for the other on their separate return.
Shutz said if a couple does decide separate returns are to their advantage, they must use the tax rates for married couples filing separate returns. Often, a married couple filing separately will mistakenly use the rates for joint returns when figuring their tax, he said.
Computers are used to verify and cross-reference information on tax returns. When the computers find the wrong tax table was used or that deductions and exemptions have been improperly claimed by married taxpayers filing separately, the correct tax must be determined. This often delays processing and any refund due.

Introducing two of the most radical changes in Volkswagen history. Can you spot them?

Did you notice that the headlights are vertical now instead of leaning back a bit? That doesn't make the car look any better. But it makes the road look better by making the lights a little brighter.

And that little hump in the back? We did that to hold the license plate up straight so the police can read it better. (Sorry.)

What you won't notice without driving the new model are the big improvements.

The engine has been enlarged to a ferocious 53 horsepower. That only adds 3 m.p.h. to the top speed. Because we put most of the additional power where it would make the engine accelerate faster, turn slower and last even longer.

Now that the VW is getting to be such a hot car, we put in a couple of things to slow it down. Dual brakes.

The front wheel brakes are completely independent of the rear wheel brakes. So if you ever lost the front wheel brakes, you could still stop the back of the car. (Which automatically stops the front of the car too.)

The new VW also has seat belts, back-up light, and recessed door handles as standard equipment. In fact, this year we made so many changes on the VW that we thought we'd better make one more.

We wrote "Volkswagen" on the back of the car to be sure everybody would know what it was.

Inventor reports 6,500 orders for electric cars

PISA, Italy (UPI) — A little David is getting a jump start on the auto Goliaths in the production of electric cars.

The American and European giants have been thinking electric for years and each already has its prototype battery-powered vehicle. But so far, while trying to develop lighter and less costly batteries they've been waiting to see what the other will do.

Waiting is not a game Marquis Piero Giralamo Bargagli likes and so he is determined to get his small electric car — the "Urbanina" — on the market as soon as possible.

"Being first will give us an advantage," he said in an interview. And we will be the first to hit the market with this kind of car unless some other small manufacturer beats us to the gun."

The Marquis, a soft-spoken, elderly Tuscan inventor, said he will come out in June with 1,000 "Urbaninas" and then continue to manufacture them steadily. To prove he was not just double-clutching, he produced a ledger showing orders from just about every point on the globe — for 6,500 of his electric vehicles.

"We would have had the first series of cars ready in March," said Bargagli, "but the floods last November caused serious damage to our factory."

The factory of Bargagli and Cristiani, the Marquis' partner, is located in Santa Croce Arno in the Province of Pisa and on the road to Florence. Like a good portion of Pisa it was flooded by several feet of water last Nov. 4-5, when northern Italy was crippled by its worst floods ever.

The car Bargagli and Cristiani have developed is a tiny two-seater weighing about 750 pounds, 190 pounds of which is battery. The turret-shaped body has one door and the turret can be rotated so that the occupants can get out wherever there is room.

Top speed for the "Urbanina" is 33 miles an hour, and top mileage before the three lead and zinc batteries need recharging is about 53 miles. The car has one pedal for braking and accelerating (push-accelerate, pull-brake), three forward speeds and a reverse.

In first gear, the car drains only one battery — for second and in third all three. The cost is about $800.

REPORT TO HEADQUARTERS—Gary Grant announces plight as unwilling host to eight assorted females in adventure comedy in Technicolor, "Father Goose," which arrived yesterday at Plaza Theater, Linden, on double bill with "Bulwhip Griffin."

'Hotel,' film drama, opens at Millburn

"Hotel," the all-star Warner Brothers motion picture drama, based on Arthur Hailey's big best-selling novel, set against the contemporary background of a grand hotel, opened yesterday at the Millburn Theater, Millburn.

Richard Conte, Michael Rennie and Kevin McCarthy star in "Hotel," a Technicolor film which opens the doors of the richest suites, peeks through dusty keyholes and rises from basement to penthouse as it lays bare the round-the-clock drama of a luxury hotel in New Orleans.

The associate film at the Millburn is "The Spy Who Came From the Cold," starring Laurence Harvey, Diah Lovi, Lionel Jeffries, Eric Sykes, Eric Portman, Penelope Ffytch and featuring June Whitfield and Colin Blakely. The picture is introduced by "Distrust" and has Paul Ford as special guest star.

Clinton Museum opens Saturday

The Clinton Historical Museum in Clinton off Rt. 22 will celebrate the opening of its 67th season Saturday with a showing of antique cars, a DeCoupage demonstration and a showing of a collection of "Buddy L. Toys."

In the car show there will be a 1905 Cadillac owned by S. J. Alpert of Madison as well as several others from the New Jersey Region of the American Antique Car Association.

Mrs. Agnes Rothmich of Clinton will demonstrate the craft of DeCoupage, the art of "cutting and pasting up" in which prints are cut out and placed in a decorative manner on trays, boxes, furniture, glass and other items, and then finished off with coats of varnish. The demonstration will be given from 11 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Rothmich also has been teaching bookbinding in her home and at North Hunterdon and Hunterdon Central Adult Education classes for the past 15 years.

The toy exhibit owned by Archie Stiles of Meyerstown will be shown in the glass case exhibit room of the museum which is housed in the Old Red Mill on the river in Clinton and will continue until April 21.

'West Side Story' has stage opening

Tab Hunter is the current star at the Meadowbrook Dinner Theater in Cedar Grove, where he opened yesterday in "West Side Story."

The stage musical, which had a lengthy run on Broadway, and was adapted into an Oscar-winning motion picture, features such songs as "Maria" and "Tonight, Tonight."

"West Side Story" will play the Meadowbrook Wednesdays through Sundays until May 7.

Sammy Davis Jr. set to appear on April 25

Sammy Davis Jr. will appear at the Morris County Armory on the evening of April 25, and will be Davis' first appearance in Morris County.

The appearance will be part of an extensive concert tour produced by Ken Roberts of University Concert Productions. Tickets may be purchased by calling 635-0838.

The back cover of the album features horoscope data on John, Michelle, Denny and Cass. (DUNHILL-50014) Also on the DUNHILL label (50018), THE BEST OF WALT DISNEY: The Troubadour Strings and The Dawn Chorus. A lively musical treat of 16 selections from some of the Great Disney films including such favorites as "When You Wish Upon A Star," "Chim Chim Cheree," "Whistle While You Work," "Heigh Ho," "The Ballad of Davy Crockett," "You Belong To My Heart" and "Give A Little Whistle."

TELEBRITIES: Gordon Oliver, executive producer of the Chrysler Theatre NBC-TV series, is producing the May-10 segment, starring Ricardo Montalban, Joanne Dru, Pat Hingle and Lola Albright. Two hundred beefy beauties, average weight 240 pounds, auditioned the other day for a cupola chorus line to be seen on Barbara Streisand's fall CBS-TV Special.

Viewers take exciting ride in Clairidge's 'Grand Prix'

By BEA SMITH

If you've ever wondered what it would be like to be in the driver's seat of a race car traveling at tremendous speeds of 160 to 200 miles per hour, take a ride over to the Clairidge Theater in Montclair, and have a seat in its CineDrama atmosphere.

The theater is featuring MGM's "Grand Prix," and the picture's director, John Frank- enheimer, is credited with the offering. Viewers, race fans and laymen, alike, a taste of the roar and pace and high-tensioned excitement of the biggest spectator sport in the world — the Grand Prix Formula-1 competition.

It is truly a fantastic experience, thanks to the Cinema camera, in fact oneself actually being behind the wheel of a winning Formula 1 car, close to the ground, constantly shifting gears, pressing one's foot simultaneously on gas and brake, and flying with breakneck speed around curving roads and along straightaway highways, amidst the ear-splitting roars of the race car motors intermingled with the exciting shrieks of the crowd.

Of course, there's a story about the racers themselves in "Grand Prix," with such stars as James Garner, Eva Marie Saint, Yves Montand, Brian Bedford, Toshiro Mifune and Jessica Walter to track the foibles of the racers their women and their individual love stories.

If the dialogue appears to be a bit trite in scenes, certainly interest is considerably revived in another forthcoming race. The picture has a little something for everyone, actually. But whether or not a viewer likes auto racing, he still is advised to flock to the Clairidge... if only for the experience of taking a driver's view of being a part of one of the most exciting moments in his life.

Vocalist, pianist at Four Seasons

Mark Pompe, vocalist and pianist, is appearing nightly Monday through Thursday, in the Golden Branch Room of the Four Seasons Hospitality Center, West Chestnut st., Union.

A Chicagoan who moved to the New York area six months ago, Pompe has worked some of the top night spots in both Chicago and New York. He presents his intimate musical style with a wide vocal range, concentrating his efforts on Broadway show and sophisticated "pop" tunes.

The Tommy Don Trio continues to perform in the Four Seasons' Golden Branch Room Friday and Saturday nights. The trio, a jazz group fresh from New York's Living Room, Jilly's and the Tonic, features Tommy Dougherty on string bass, Don Camilli on piano and Jimmy Caporale on drums.

'Zhivago' held in Union

Director David Lean selected a star cast for his movie, "Doctor Zhivago," which is being held over for a second week at the Union Theater in Union Center. The picture, based on Boris Pasternak's Russian-romantic novel about the Russian revolution, stars Omar Sharif in the title role, Julie Christie, Geraldine Chaplin, Alec Guinness, Tom Courtenay, Rod Steiger, Ralph Richardson and Rita Tushingham.

ALEXANDER NO BEATNIK NEW YORK (UPI) — In the Fourth Century B.C., Alexander the Great violated Greek custom by shaving. He liked the results so well that he insisted that his soldiers follow his example — to protect them against enemy swordsmen who might seize their beards and use them as leverage for shaving their heads off their shoulders.

MEDICARE'S NEW PROGRAM OF "EXTENDED CARE"

On January 1, Medicare can begin paying for necessary follow-up care, after a hospital stay, in a special kind of skilled nursing home—called in the Medicare law an "extended care facility." Many of the more than 19 million Americans aged 65 and over who have Medicare hospital insurance will qualify for these benefits.

What is extended care? It is round-the-clock skilled nursing care, plus other services such as physical and occupational therapy. It is designed for the person who has recently been in the hospital—who no longer needs the full range of hospital services, but is still too ill to be cared for at home. And it is provided by a nursing home—or a special part of a hospital, nursing home, or home for the aged—which has met the standards for participating in Medicare.

What extended care is not: It is not personal care for the relatively able-bodied in a residential nursing home or old folks' home. It is not long-term custodial care for the infirm and chronically ill.

How much does Medicare pay? After a hospital stay of at least 3 days, Medicare helps pay for up to 100 days of necessary extended care services—the full costs of covered services for the first 20 days and all but $5 a day for the next 80 days. Whether or not all of these benefits are used, the person is again eligible for 100 days of extended care after he has been out of a hospital or extended care facility for 60 consecutive days. There is no limit to the number of times a person can qualify for extended care benefits.

For more information about extended care benefits—write, phone, or visit your social security office.

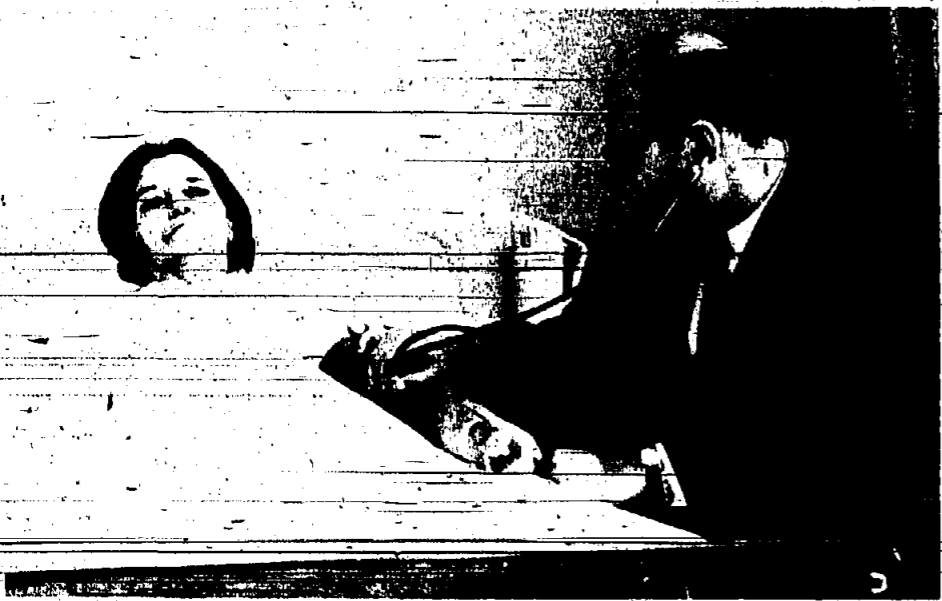

Physical and occupational therapy are among the extended care services covered by Medicare. This kind of therapy is often vital to the patient's recovery and rehabilitation.

When the doctor determines that his patient no longer needs the intensive (and more expensive) hospital care—the cost per day in a hospital is about twice that in a skilled nursing home—he can arrange for the patient's transfer to an extended care facility. Medicare pays if the transfer takes place within 14 days of discharge from the hospital and the extended care is for further treatment of a condition for which the patient was hospitalized.

Medicare pays for drugs, supplies, appliances, and equipment ordinarily furnished by the extended care facility to patients.

The care of every patient is under the supervision of a physician. Extended care benefits cover skilled nursing care and room and board in a semiprivate room—a private room if medically necessary.

Every extended care facility taking part in Medicare has a transfer agreement with a hospital providing for the transfer of the patient's records.

Progressive patient care—health services tailor-made to the individual patient at each stage of his illness—will be possible for more older people because of Medicare's extended care benefits.

Every Medicare-approved extended care facility has a utilization review committee. The committee includes doctors on the staff of the extended care facility, a community medical group. It is the job of this committee to help assure that extended care benefits are provided and used in the most efficient way.

Extended care benefits also cover the services of a medical social worker if these services are needed to help a patient and his family solve personal problems related to his illness.

Threat of forest fires remains in state

Awareness of the threats that forest fires pose to timbered areas throughout the state has been by Robert A. Roe, commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

3rd talk Tuesday in Rutgers series

The third in a series of lectures marking the opening of the new Newark campus of the College of Arts and Sciences of Rutgers University is scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Mueller Auditorium of the Ackerson Hall law school building.

Speaker will be Christopher Wright, director of the new Institute for the Study of Science in Human Affairs at Columbia University in New York. He will discuss "Science and Society."

Wright's lecture will be the third in a four-part series. The final lecture will be delivered on April 25 by Dr. Barry Commoner of the Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. He will speak on "Science and Survival."

Irvingtonian injured by hit-and-run driver

Gary Swan, 23, of 544 Suyvesant ave., Irvington, was struck Sunday night by a hit-and-run driver as he attempted to cross near 555 Suyvesant ave.

Swan was treated for cuts and bruises at Irvington General Hospital and released. He told police that after the car hit him, it sped off south in Suyvesant ave. and west into Springfield ave.

"Carelessness on the part of smokers and campers each year is a major factor in fire damage to New Jersey timber lands. Cooperation by the public is necessary if the state's forested areas are to be adequately maintained in the interests of recreation, water reserves, conservation and multiple use," Commissioner Roe commented.

State Firewarden R. Wesley Davis, recently attended the 19th Compact Training Meeting of the Northeastern Forest Fire Protection Commission in Concord, N.H., as part of the State Forest Fire Service's continuing pursuit to advance its knowledge of firefighting techniques.

Davis said that the danger of forest fires remains critical in 1967, due to the prolonged five-year drought. "By the end of December, 1966, New Jersey lagged 24 inches behind normal level of precipitation, we haven't yet recovered entirely from the drought. Winter snowfalls helped in some areas, but surface ice prevented the needed water from penetrating, especially in northern New Jersey. Despite persistent efforts of well-trained crews, fires blackened nearly 14,000 acres in New Jersey in 1966," he added.

Burning precautions are listed in Forest Fire Law 13:9-19. The law specifies that, where local firewardens are appointed, written permission must be obtained for the burning of waste, fallows, stumps, logs, brush, dry grass, fallen timber or anything that may cause a forest fire. The burner is held responsible for control of the fire, and permits are not granted if the firewarden judges burning at the time would pose a threat to the woodland.

According to Conservation Department officials, permits are not necessary if the fires are set at least 200 feet from the forested area or inflammable material that will transmit the fire. Fire permits may be obtained free of charge from the local district firewardens.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: "I like this boy and this is my second try to get him. I liked him once before in the 7th grade, now he is a sophomore and I am a Freshman. He pays attention to me, such as saying 'hi' and things like that. I think he knows how I feel about him so why does he act as he does? I can't give up. It's not that easy. I have gone steady three times since I started liking this particular boy. I thought I could forget him, but I broke up with the other boys because he started acting so very nice to me. He does go out with other girls. What should I do, or what am I doing wrong?"

OUR REPLY: The mere fact that a boy speaks to you and is friendly is not enough to get too excited about. He just might be a friendly person.

It is also wrong to assume that because you like him and want to go steady, he should feel the same way. . . or there is anything you can do, right or wrong, to make him feel the same way.

Possibly, since you say that he seems more friendly to you when you are going steady with someone else, it could be that he is more relaxed because he feels you haven't your sights on him at the moment.

You say he goes out with other girls. Does he go out with only one girl on a steady basis? He may not be the steady type.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheelan, County Home Economist

The record crop of Valencia oranges from Florida means the wise homemaker will use them in a variety of ways.

The Valencia orange is a juicy product and ideal when sliced or sectioned for appetizers, salads, and desserts. It has a deep-colored peel, practically seedless, and an exceptionally sweet, rich flavor. Their excellent flavor also helps to make them perfect served as a juice or sliced for a snack.

Including this abundant product in your menu plans will bring a ray of Florida sunshine to your April table. It will also bring a valuable source of Vitamin C to the diet which needs to be replenished daily.

For a menu treat that features oranges in a new way, prepare an Orange Meringue Pie. Light in texture, this will be a springtime dessert suitable for family and guests.

Study shows teachers are harsher with boys

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Elementary school teachers are harsher with boys than girls in both discipline and grading, Stanford University study indicates, Prof. Pauline S. Sears and research assistant David H. Feldman reported their research, which included evaluation by school children, showed teachers were more likely to use a harsh tone when criticizing boys and a normal tone with girls.

"Both boys and girls believed that the boys

PENNY FLIPPERS should put their money on "heads," according to a research project conducted by 160 freshman mathematics students at Northwestern University. The students conducted 319,020 separate penny flipping and found out that heads came up 160,136 times — that's 50.2 per cent. Distribution of metal in the pennies apparently made the coin's slightly "tail-heavy" according to Edward L. Spitznagel, assistant professor, whose class conducted the experiment.

UNLIKE LEOPARDS or TIGERS, girls may soon be able to change their spots — or perhaps their hairstyles — in a matter of minutes. The spots or other designs printed on a fabric can be ironed away and new ones can be added with a pattern and a sunlamp. Dr. Isay Balinkin, physics professor at the University of Cincinnati, says that the secret lies in a special dye impregnating the fabric. At present the dye works only with orange and greenish-gray colors and is still in the research stage.

PRESSURE used to test piping assemblies is getting a double workout and is helping fabricators cut testing costs. A pressure test plug used to seal a piping assembly prior to testing is actually held in place by the test pressure: the higher the pressure the tighter it holds, say its manufacturers, Tube Turns of Louisville, Ky. The plug eliminates the use of welding caps, which must be welded to the pipe prior to testing and cut off after testing is completed.

AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHS can be viewed in 3-D without using the special red-and-blue filters formerly required, according to the Geological Survey. A new system known as the Stereolmage Alternator (SIA) permits the operator to view the projected stereopairs of aerial photographs through rotating cylindrical shutters. The shutters of the SIA system alternately flash images of the left and right photographs onto a screen and then into the corresponding eyes of the observer to give him a stereo view of the terrain.

UNDERWATER PHOTOGRAPHY may be improved by recent advances in lens design, reports Prof. Robert E. Hopkins of the University of Rochester. He said that the use of large computers for lens design enables the creation of lenses specifically for underwater scientific photography. Standard photographic lenses cannot be used directly in underwater photography, and placing a window in front of the lens causes objects near the edges of the picture to be fringed with a rainbow of colors.

When you file your tax returns consider the $20,042,893.00 we paid. It may make you feel a little better.

We think it's a lot of money to pay for anything. In fact it's 17 cents of every dollar we earned—17 cents of every dollar you paid for electric service. Nobody really enjoys paying taxes, but roads and other badly needed facilities for the customers and communities we serve. In addition to supplying the finest electric service in the world, America's investor-owned electric companies contribute more than $3.03 billion in tax dollars to help pay for federal, state and local programs.

Chance meeting on bus . . .

"Your students, as well as their teachers... certainly deserve praise."

This comment was made by a French woman now living in Springfield in a letter to the head of the Union High School language department as a result of a chance meeting on a bus.

Miss Marjorie Goldschild, 25 Tooker ave., Springfield, met the group of 18 Union High students and their French teacher, Miss Olympia Pochmans, when the students took a field trip to New York for a luncheon at a French restaurant and a matinee performance of a French film.

Miss Goldschild, former head of the United Nations French verbatim reporters section and now a free-lance verbatim reporter with the UN, began to talk to the young people—and was so impressed that she promptly wrote to the school.

Her letter, written in French and translated by the students, said:

"Permit me to tell you of a very pleasant experience which I had this morning. I was on a Somerset bus en route to New York when, across the street from the High School, a group of young people got on. I was immediately impressed by their excellent conduct and quickly realized that the conversation of those around me was in French. They spoke so well that I couldn't resist complimenting them and, during the entire trip, we carried on a conversation in that language without my having to speak slower in order for them to understand. Your students, as well as their teachers—as I had the chance to tell to the teacher who accompanied them—certainly deserve praise."

"I LEARNED THAT one of your young French teachers was the victim of a serious accident last summer (Mrs. Joanne Walters, injured in an automobile accident in Germany). I sat next to one of her former students and, by the way he spoke the language, I was able to measure the value of her teaching, since he had studied French only with her. If you think the congratulations and best wishes for a speedy recovery from an unknown Frenchwoman would give her pleasure, would you be so kind as to send them to her?"

I had a first thought of writing this letter in English and sending it to a local paper; but perhaps your students would take pleasure in reading a letter of commendation written in the language which they are studying. Finally, if one of them would like to translate it into English, I would not object to having you publish those passages which you judge to be of interest. In these times when young people are so often criticized, it is good to emphasize that it was a pleasure to meet them. Those with whom I made the trip that morning were certainly an honor to their school."

The students who took the field trip, members of the French IV class and officers of Le Cercle Français, were:

Jana Albensius, Leslie Beck, Barbara Bell, Peter Campbell, Debra Ellenstein, Ronnie Goldblatt, Marsha Kartzman, Martin Kaplan, Louis Lane, Carol Langel, Beverly Libes, Jacqueline Mazure, Ken Mirsky, Barbara Nagazina, Susan Sneider, Irene Tishman, Martha Vogel and Jean Wendrup.

Also on Saturday, Miss Jeanette Simpson, Roselle Park, will lead an afternoon ramble in the Watchung Reservation. This group will meet at the parking area above Lake Surprise at 1:30 p.m.

On Sunday, Fred Dlouhy of Union, will lead a seven-mile hike along the Hudson River bike up the Storm King Mountain in New York State.

15 mars 1967

the Head of the Languages Department
Union High School
Union, New Jersey

Cher Monsieur,

Permettez-moi de vous faire part d'une très agréable expérience que j'ai faite ce matin. J'étais dans l'autobus de la Somerset Line direction New York, lorsque, en face de la High School, un groupe de jeunes et, très vite, je me suis rendu compte que la conversation de ceux qui étaient autour de moi, n'était pas résistée à la tentation de les en féliciter et, tout le long de la route, nous nous sommes entretenus dans cette langue sans que j'aie eu besoin de valentir mon débit. Vos étudiants, comme leurs professeurs, méritent certainement des louanges.

J'ai appris qu'un autre de vos jeunes professeurs de français avait été victime d'un grave accident l'été dernier. J'étais précisément à côté d'un de ses anciens élèves et, par la façon dont il parlait la langue, qu'il n'a étudié qu'avec elle, j'ai pu mesurer la valeur de son enseignement. Si vous pensez que les félicitations et les encouragements de la Française inconnue de la High School, et à la prompte vue de l'obligation de lui faire passer cette lettre de français à plaisir, j'ai tout d'abord songé à écrire, mais vos élèves de félicitations la communiquer à l'un des journaux locaux; mais vos élèves de félicitations auront peut-être plus de plaisir à lire une lettre de félicitations écrite dans la langue qu'ils apprennent. Au reste, je ne vois aucun inconvénient à ce que vous en fassiez publier des passages si vous le jugez opportun. Notre époque où les jeunes sont si souvent déçus, ceux avec qui j'ai fait route ce matin font certainement honneur à leur école.

Je vous prie d'agréer, Monsieur, l'assurance de ma considération la plus distinguée

Warns parents on narcotics dangers
Detective lists common symptoms of addiction

A warning to parents to maintain constant supervision of their children to prevent them from becoming addicts was issued this week by Detective Samuel A. Calabrese, officer in charge of narcotics investigations for the Springfield Police Department.
He issued the following instructions to parents:
1. HOW CAN YOU tell whether your son or daughter is using a narcotic drug? Here are some signs that may help you to know that narcotics are being used. However, be careful not to jump to hasty conclusions.
1. Are his school grades suddenly falling?
2. Is he playing truant from school?
3. Has he suddenly started staying away from work?
4. Are his clothes and personal belongings suddenly disappearing?
5. Is he rapidly losing weight?

6. Has he suddenly lost his appetite?
7. Does he suffer from nausea after eating?
8. Has he suddenly dropped his old friends and taken up with questionable characters?
9. Has he suddenly taken to staying out late and refusing to tell where he has been?
10. Does he spend an unusual amount of time in his own room or in the bathroom?
11. Are his fingerprints scorched from cigarettes?
12. Does he have strange-looking and oddsmelling cigarettes?
13. Does he have a glassy stare, "fish eyes"?
14. Does he have marks on his arms or legs that may have been caused by injections?
15. Does he leave empty capsules, small cigarette bags, bent spoons, scorched bottle caps, hypodermic needles, in places where he has been?
If the answer is yes to most of these questions, take your child to a doctor and find out why.

Senator CLIFFORD P. CASE Reports

1967 may be the year that Congress finally faces up to the growing crisis of confidence in the integrity of the legislative branch. For many weeks, the Powell case has been a running story in the press. On the Senate side of the Capitol, the Select Committee on Standards and Conduct has just concluded hearings on the charges made against Senator Dodd.

Some members of the Congress report they are getting more mail on Congressional conduct than any other issue. Dozens of bills have been dropped into the legislative hopper to establish codes of ethics, create special committees or add to the powers of existing committees.

Both the Powell and the Dodd cases have reinforced my long-held conviction that full disclosure to the public is the most feasible and effective way to maintain proper standards of conduct in the legislative and executive branches. With the support of five other Senators from both sides of the aisle, I have therefore reintroduced my own proposal to require annual reports of the financial interests and activities of members of Congress, candidates for Congress, top legislative staff, and high officials in the executive branch. The reports would cover all income and the source thereof, gifts received of more than nominal value, liabilities and assets, and all transactions in commodities, real-estate and personal property. These reports would be filed with the Comptroller General and would be freely accessible to the press and public. There are several reasons why the disclosure approach is particularly appropriate for the legislative branch. As the courts have made clear, it is largely left to Congress to police itself, although criminal statutes regarding certain kinds of specific misconduct, such as bribery, of course, apply to members of Congress as they do to the public generally. It must be added, however, that the Justice Department tends to be somewhat chary in its approach to cases involving members of the national legislature.

THE CHIEF PROBLEMS are more subtle and much more difficult to define. They involve questions of ethics and propriety rather than specifically criminal conduct. It is right for a member of the Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over the Federal Communications Commission, to have large radio or TV holdings? How much, if any, hospitality or travel facilities should a member of Congress accept from a corporation which has extensive contracts with the government? For what purposes can "campaign funds" be properly used? It is in this area of standards and conduct that the Congress has fallen down, not just in recent years but throughout its history. The fact is that legislatures simply do not police themselves. And it seems to me unrealistic to expect that they will.

That is why, as the pressures on Congress to do something about this situation mount, I believe more and more members will turn to the disclosure approach to the problem. Its advantages are several: First of all, it would be preventive rather than punitive. At the very least, it would tend to sharpen awareness of possible confusion of public and private interests.

Second, it would be nearly automatic in operation. The reports would put the facts on the table and the press and the public could make their own judgment.

Third, disclosure would protect the right of the people to elect whomever they wished while enhancing their right to full knowledge of the economic interests and financial activities of those who represent them or who present themselves as candidates for public office. The Senate Select Committee has indicated that it may make some general recommendations as a result of the Dodd case. It is my hope that these will include a disclosure requirement of some kind and that the full Senate may at last get to a vote on the merits of this approach.

Know Your Government

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

LOWER VOTING AGE MAY BE UP TO YOU The people of New Jersey may be called upon to decide whether to lower the voting age from 21 to 19. The proposal is contained in a resolution which, if adopted by the State Legislature, would submit the question to voters in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Background of the voting age question was reported in a statement submitted at a recent legislative hearing on the proposal by Clarence J. Ziegler, Executive Director of the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. This showed that, traditionally, voting age has been 21 throughout the United States. However, when Congress lowered the minimum military draft age from 21 to 18 in 1942, the contention arose that "if a youth is old enough to fight for his country, he is old enough to vote."

Four states — Georgia, Kentucky, Alaska and Hawaii — subsequently reduced the voting age variously to 18, 19 or 20. However, Congress at the national level and the legislatures of 29 states defeated similar proposals. Michigan voters last year rejected a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18.

Arguments on the question range from the view that opening the vote to teenagers would bring a new enthusiasm, interest and a better informed element into the voting process, to the opposite view that it would lead to immature and irresponsible balloting. Preliminary estimates indicate that approximately 200,000 persons in the 19 and 20 year brackets would qualify if the voting age were to be lowered in New Jersey next year.

Bright spring plants will decorate the YWCA and may be purchased at the end of the afternoon.

Proceeds from the event will aid the YWCA's expansion program, enabling the YWCA to carry on its programs for residents of the area. Tickets for the affair may be obtained at the YWCA. Since reservations are limited, it is urged that persons wishing to attend contact the YWCA as soon as possible.

Mrs. Stolle has announced that appliance repairmen and home repair agencies are among the topics to be discussed, and a question and answer period will terminate the meeting.

She has suggested for those consumers who are interested in further reference materials to visit the Main Branch of the Elizabeth Free Public Library, the circulation department on Broad St., Elizabeth, or the Clark Public Library, 303 Westfield Ave., Clark, between now and Tuesday. Special exhibits have been arranged in cooperation with the Extension Service Program of April 4.

Last year, she says, about 5,000 New Jersey consumer complaints were registered with the Consumer Fraud Bureau in Newark. Many more persons lacked courage or the knowledge of how to go about their own defense when being cheated.

How can you avoid being gypped again? If you have been, what can you do about it? Purchases of automobiles, refrigerators, freezers, sewing machines and TV sets have been the major items involved. Federal, state and county organizations are working to help you. But, first, you must help yourself by becoming well informed and shopping wisely.

No government policing can be as effective as the penny-pinching consumer. You must be willing to shop for what you want and judge what quantity and quality you should receive for the price you pay, however. Just plain coldblooded appraisal makes it tough on the gyp artist. And the reputable businesses will welcome the buyer who gives his merchandise the consideration it deserves.

When you are gypped, don't sit silently by and "chalk it up to experience!" If you, as a cheated consumer, have enough courage to prevent others from being trapped—who knows, you yourself might receive some information in return that will prevent you from being gypped next time you make a purchase.

You might even be surprised to learn how much good can be accomplished if you take your legitimate complaint to the proper source.

The first place to go to protest is the seller (if you can locate him). Possibly the misrepresentation was even done without his knowledge. If you have no success at that source, carry your indignation further by registering your complaint with the Chamber of Commerce of Essex-Linden-Camden, Chamber of Commerce of the Plainfield area or Chamber of Commerce of the Summit area. The offices are located in Elizabeth, Plainfield and Summit, respectively.

Edward L. Fox, Executive Vice President, is the man to contact in Elizabeth.

If you are sure your case is one of "fraud" not "misrepresentation," you may wish to consult the "Consumer Bureau" Department of Law and Public Safety, State of New Jersey, Raymond Boulevard, Newark.

For those persons interested in learning more about your consumer rights, and local, state and federal protection laws, visit the local public library, or attend the meeting on "Know Your Rights As a Consumer," at the Union County Home Economics Extension Service, Tuesday from 1:15 to 2:30 p.m., Call EL-3-5000 for information.

Regional nine opens season here Tuesday

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School baseball team will open its 1967 season against Cranford High School at Melsel Field Tuesday at 3:30. The Bulldogs compiled a 13-8 record last season, defeating Cranford twice during the course of the spring's play, 4-2 and 8-7.

In the first game against Cranford last season, the opener, Bob Iseler pitched seven strikeouts and only walked, in addition to slugging a single with the bases loaded for two RBIs in the fifth. Glenn Cole, who entered the game in the seventh in right field as a pinch hitter, scored the winning run.

Cranford also provided the finale for the regularly-scheduled season last year. In a true cliff-hanger, the entire pitching staff of the Bulldogs was called into action, with junior Bob Kasper of Kentworth the eventual winner in his first mound performance.

Caldwell Small-Stars defeat aces of Sandmeier League

The Caldwell Small Fry All-Stars turned back the Sandmeier Small Fry All-Stars in their annual battle last Thursday evening at the Florence Sandmeier School. This year's ball contest between the all-star teams of the Recreation Department's youngest player leagues was the first game of a triple-header last Thursday evening. The Caldwell team avenged at 1966 defeat by rolling to an easy 19-to-6 victory over the Sandmeier boys.

Bobby Hydock proved to be the outstanding player for the Caldwell team. Bobby's ball control, rebounding and steady scoring kept the Caldwell All-Stars in command of the game from the opening tip-off. Bobby called seven points and was voted as his squad's most valuable player. Mike Levine of the Caldwell team also showed very well in this game. Mike led all scorers with eight points. Mike's speed and driving shots added to the Caldwell point total.

Intermural quintets win championship of district

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School intermural quintets last week in the Union County Regional District Intermural Basketball Championships. The Bulldogs had a total of 14 tournament points, with second-place Gov. Livingston Regional gaining 13, Arthur L. Johnson Regional of Clark was third with five points, and David Brearley of Kentworth finished last with no points.

The high school contingent consisted of four teams, one for each of the classes. Of the four, the only champion Bulldog squad was the freshmen, who, under the coaching of Fred Gold, beat the Berkeley frosh by one point in overtime. The junior team, coached by Richie Campbell, lost the same margin in overtime against the Highlanders. Berkeley also beat the Dayton senior team, and the Clark sophomore squad defeated the Bulldog sophomores.

Each team first defeated all other teams within its home school. Then, in the semifinals, the Springfield champions faced those from Kentworth, and Gov. Livingston opposed Clark. Dayton's quartet defeated all of Brearley's four teams, while Gov. Livingston won all except for the sophomore contest.

In the finals, held at Gov. Livingston, five points were awarded for first place, three for a second-place berth. Dayton's one first and three seconds, therefore, outscored Gov. Livingston's two firsts and one second.

Players on the varsity, junior varsity and freshman squads were ineligible to play, although they could coach. The Dayton teams were under the direction of coach Mike Lancelli.

The Strikers met the Charms last week in regular competition in the Tuesday Afternoon Girls' Bowling League. This was a two-game match designed to break a tie between the two top clubs for the league lead.

Gretchen Kraft of the Charms paced all bowlers in this important match. Miss Kraft's fine 154 game for a high series effort of 266. This two-game total topped all bowlers last Tuesday. Barbara Owens with a 203 series was also effective for the Charms.

The Bowling Anchovies pulled a stunning upset sweep over the contending Stars last Tuesday. The double defeat suffered by the Stars put them three full games behind the co-league leaders.

The remaining five girls among the top 10 bowlers are: Bonnie Rankin, 106; Debbie Grayman, 105; Linda Mutschler, 104; Cathie Tonko, 102, and Virginia Vogt, 101.

Dayton varsity to launch opening season in tennis

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School tennis team will play its first match against Westfield High School one week from Wednesday, April 11, at the team's home courts at Irwin Field.

Norman Pollack, head coach of the fledgling squad, commented on the prospects. "I would say that our team is definitely good. Since this is our first year though, the Watching Conference is fairly unknown to us. But this also means that we have no preconceived notions about the toughness of any of the opposition."

"For instance, although Westfield generally has a good reputation in tennis sports, we certainly feel that our team is capable of beating it. But Westfield should also provide a very good test for the team. All in all, our schedule looks to be a tough one, with Scott Plains and Cranford looming as particularly strong squads."

A tennis match consists of three singles and two doubles events, with one point being awarded for each event. There is no overlapping permitted, so that a team consists of seven men.

Our unusually large contingent of freshmen and sophomores will primarily make up the doubles sections, with the upperclassmen competing in the singles events. Pollack continued, "Our two leading players for singles are senior David Bass and junior Lenny Burstein."

"There is a great deal of competition for the remaining spots. Leading contenders include seniors Steve Piller and Barry Fishman, sophomores Dennis Insley and Richard D'Amico, and freshmen Mike Chotiner, Howard Dobbin and John Edwards."

Springfield joins Arthur L. Johnson Regional of Clark in starting varsity tennis this season. Gov. Livingston Regional of Berkeley Heights has already completed one season on the courts, David Brearley Regional of Kentworth has no tennis squad.

All home tennis matches for Dayton will be played at Irwin Field beginning at 3:30.

Rangers hold lead over Tigers' team in league for boys

The Rangers returned to their winning ways last week in the Boys' Friday Afternoon Bowling League, as they swept a pair of games to retain their three-game league lead. The second-place Tigers, however, kept in close pursuit as they turned in the best bowling of the year in rolling past the Falcons.

The Tigers posted two 700-plus team games. The boys roll each week at the Springfield Bowl Recreation Department, which is sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department.

The Rangers regained their form last week as they downed the Hawks twice in a two-game match. Scott Prussing led the Ranger attack with considerable help from Mike Denner. Scott topped the 300 mark by rolling a 301 series in this match. Scott's second-game effort of 182 was particularly impressive.

Mike posted a 278 total for two games to be effective in the Ranger attack. Mickey Harmon was the top bowler for the Hawks; Mickey topped 255 pins in the two-game match.

THE RED HOT TIGERS burned up the alleys last Friday as they swept two big games from the third-place Falcons. Howie Levine posted the second highest series of the season in leading the Tigers. Howie rolled games of 162 and 180 for a 342 series total. Steve Harris rolled games of 139 and 160 to post a 299 series effort for the Tigers while Mike Levine was also effective for the Tigers with games of 120 and 170 for a good series total of 290. Leon Margules was the Falcons' top bowler. Leon hit a total for the two games of 251. The Tigers remain three games behind the league leaders, while the double loss dropped the Falcons a full six games back.

THE ROYALS received some top efforts last week to down the Warriors twice and knock them out of the league race. Scott Herman of the Royals gave his best performance of the season to lead the Royals. Scott hit a 254 total for the two-game set. Roy Greenberg led the Warriors with a 286 series total.

THE FINAL MATCH of the day saw top efforts by Bonnie Rankin and Karen Luber combine to sweep a pair of games from the Wildcats. Bonnie paced the match with a two-game total of 220. Karen rolled a 212 series to help pace Alley Cats to their two-game sweep.

Donna Pfeiffer continues to keep her season average over the 140 mark, as she paces all the league bowlers by a wide margin in the race for the high average award. Donna is rolling at a 141 pace for the season. Diane Ogonowsky is holding on to second place with a 123 season average. Third place belongs to Ellen Aleary. Ellen is rolling at 113 pace for the season. Lisa Brown holds the slimmest of leads of Ellen Francis for the fourth spot among the league's top bowlers. Both girls are knocking down pins at a 107 pace for the season.

The remaining five girls among the top 10 bowlers are: Bonnie Rankin, 106; Debbie Grayman, 105; Linda Mutschler, 104; Cathie Tonko, 102, and Virginia Vogt, 101.

Has it ever occurred to you that if you gave up car payments for 5 years, you and your wife could spend a month in Europe or buy a boat, or finish off the attic, or build a swimming pool on the money you save.

Now here's how to give up car payments for 5 years.

Buy a Volvo and keep it eight years. That'll give you three years to pay for it, five years to enjoy it after you're paid for it. Worried about if Volvo holding up for eight years? Don't be. Volvo has an average of eleven years in Sweden, where there are no speed limits on the highways and there are over 70,000 miles of unpaved roads. See you soon?

Minuteman tourney ends with games this weekend

Four of the top eighth grade basketball teams in the North Jersey area will take part in the final rounds of the second annual Springfield Invitational tournament this weekend at the Florence Gaudineer School.

The semi-finals will take place tomorrow evening. The first game, at 7, will match a very tall Summit YMCA quintet against Blessed Sacrament of Elizabeth, featuring accurate long-range gunners.

The rugged Springfield Minutemen, with the best record in the town's history, will play in the second semi-final at 8:30. Their opponents will be the Metuchen Recreation Department five, with a determined all-court press.

SPRINGFIELD PLAYED a 6:30 game last Saturday evening against Florham Park. The Springfield boys weathered a poor-shooting first half to roll to a 60 to 32 victory over the Florham Park quintet.

SPRINGFIELD TOOK the measure of Yale, to enter the final game, by the score of 56 to 46. Cornell took a huge lead in this game as it was led by a great performance by Eddie Graessle.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP GAME brought together the league's two top players, Bob Janukowicz for Princeton and Eddie Graessle for Cornell.

Silverman played one of his best games of the season, as he hit 15 points for Springfield. Jay's fine defensive play led to many points and easy driving buckets.

Bill Harrington led Florham park in this game. Bill hit for nine points and gave Springfield fits in the first half with his constant bombing on long jumpers.

CORNELL TOOK the measure of Yale, to enter the final game, by the score of 56 to 46. Cornell took a huge lead in this game as it was led by a great performance by Eddie Graessle.

period and moved to an easy victory. Summit's board control and fast break offense led the story of the game.

Karl Fenchel played a top game for Irvington, as he paced their attack with 14 points. Fenchel, a small back-court player, consistently drove around and under the bigger Summit team.

THE OPENING first-round game at 1:30 last Saturday saw Metuchen move past Nutley by a 76 to 45 count.

THE FINAL GAME of the day last Saturday, which was played at 8 at the Gaudineer School, pitted St. Margaret's of Morristown against Blessed Sacrament of Elizabeth.

Bob Norton of St. Margaret's led their attack with 12 points and top board work.

Hurricanes move closer to clinching boys' bowling title

The Hurricanes in the Boys' Thursday Afternoon Bowling League swept an important series from the Atoms last week.

THE ROKETS continued to be the Hurricanes' closest pursuers. The Rockets took a pair of games from the Hornets last week.

THE JETS MOVED into sole possession of third place by turning back the Bullets twice last Thursday.

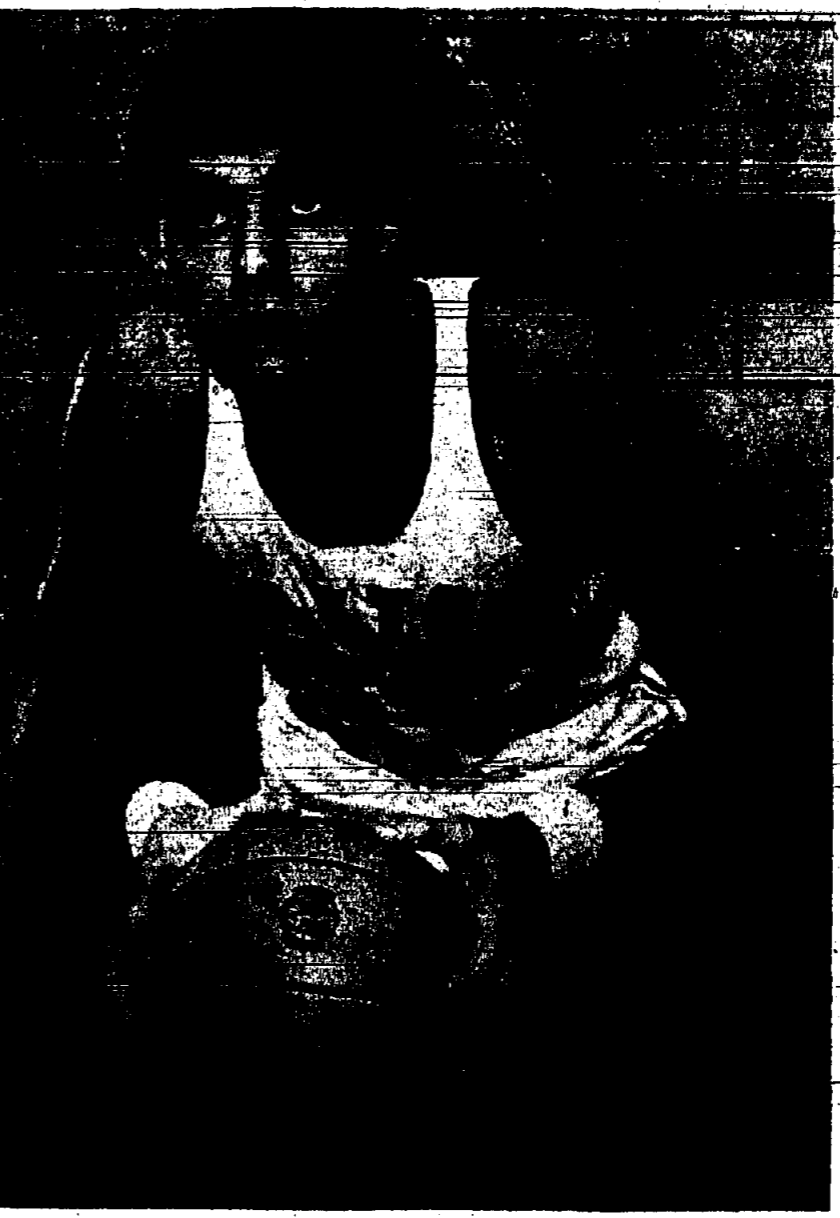

THE FINAL SERIES of the day resulted in a split of two games between the Bombers and the Raiders.

Many a successful business was launched with a small classified newspaper ad and many a career started through answering a want ad including Walt Disney, Harlow Currier, former president of General Motors, and Richard Nixon...

THE FIRST WANT AD probably goes back over 3,000 years. A piece of papyrus was found in Thebes asking for the return of a runaway slave. The invention of the printing press in 1450 was a tremendous spur and newspaper advertising began almost simultaneously with the establishment of the papers themselves...

Ask Amy

Dear Amy: For the last 5 months I've been going with the sweetest guy. My parents adore him as much as I do. I'm afraid I'll hurt his feelings if I tell him, especially because I know how much it means to him. My parents have been so good to me that I feel I owe them something. What should I do?

Dear Amy: I am 16 years old and live in a trailer park with my father. There was a family living here for about three months, and I met their son who is 18 years old. He was very nice. He came to see me every night and we dated. Then they left for Florida because his father is a contractor and had work there. The boy told me he would phone me and send me his address. Well, he called me up once and that is all I have heard from him. We are supposed to get married in April. Mom said she would sign for my license, but I don't know if he will come back. I know he has a job to finish here this coming summer, but his dad might come up himself to do the work. I love him very much and I am worried about him. I haven't been out with a boy since he has left, and I pray every night he will call or write, but so far he hasn't. Please tell me what to do?
