Sam Howard, publisher, dies at 55

Sam Howard, 55, publisher of eight community newspapers in Essex and Union Counties, died yesterday at Memorial Hospital in New York City.

Mr. Howard, who started his newspaper career as a part-time sports writer for the Irvington Herald, had built an organization that included the newspaper, the Union Leader, The Spectator of Roselle and Roselle Park, the Springfield Leader, the Linden Leader, the Vailsburg Leader, the Suburban Leader of Kenilworth and the Mountainside Echo.

Mr. Howard became a partner at the Irvington Herald in 1938 with the late Walter S. Gray, an Essex County freeholder. He became sole owner of the publication in 1940, the same year that he entered the army for an 18-month tour of duty. His return to the newspaper was to be short. He was called back into service at the start of World War 2 and was to spend a total of six years in service. He was discharged as a warrant officer after seeing service in the Philippines.

A sports fan, Mr. Howard augmented his income in his early newspaper days as a publicist for motorcycle and automobile races, professional football teams and boxing promotions. He also staged amateur boxing and wrestling programs under the sponsorship of the Irvington Herald. In association with Milton Mintz of Springfield, who is business manager of the newspaper group, Mr. Howard formed the Howard-Mintz Advertising Agency in the early 1950s. That agency was the first to handle the Shop-Rite stores account. After two years the agency was sold to Zal Vanet of the Vanet Advertising Agency, now of Union and New York City.

Mr. Howard's newspapers won numerous local, state and national awards, the most recent of which were general excellence awards to the Union Leader and the Springfield Leader as the top weekly newspapers in the state in their circulation categories, by the New Jersey Press Association.

Born in Brooklyn, Sam Howard was brought to Irvington as a pre-schooler. While helping his father, Nathan, in the newspaper delivery business, he attended Clinton Avenue School and Irvington High School from which he was graduated in January, 1930. He attended New York University and was graduated from Upstate College, where he had been a history major.

Mr. Howard had been a member of the board of directors of the Irvington State Bank, now part of the Howard Savings Institution. He had been a director of the Union Township Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Irvington Chamber of Commerce.

The funeral will be today at 2 p.m. from the Philip Apter and Son funeral home, 1600

Springfield ave., Maplewood. Dr. Benjamin Englander, rabbi of Temple B'nai Israel, Irvington, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Mount Lebanon Cemetery, Iselin.

Mr. Howard lived in Lebanon with his wife, the former Trudina Lipke, and his son Bruce, a student at Upstate College.

He also leaves a brother, Isidore Horowitz of Irvington, and three sisters: Mrs. Mattie Baroni of Irvington, Mrs. Edith Nalbach of Falls Church, Va., and Mrs. Margaret Mintz of Springfield.

In lieu of flowers, the family requested that contributions be sent to the American Cancer Society.

Township acts to purchase Dairy Queen land

We called him Sam

A youngster who had recently joined the frenzied, bewildering world of the newspaperman was told that the top executive needed his help for a few minutes.

"Mr. Howard . . ." the youngster started.

"Call me Sam," came the response.

Sam was called this week and we think he must have been called by his first name.

It isn't difficult to address the publisher of eight newspapers by his first name when he works as hard as any of his employees . . . as proof-reader or messenger or social writer or ad salesman or paste-up man or anything else that needs a hand to get the papers out.

That's how Sam learned the newspaper business as a kid in Irvington. He never knew another way.

Young Sam in Irvington had gotten it done well. He took a floundering publication, printed in a shack-like building on a creaking flat-bed press, and turned it into the jumping-off point for a group of community newspapers that are respected by professionals throughout the country.

He put out prize-winners but wasn't particularly interested in prizes. He didn't like fights, but he won some beauts. He didn't like to be wrong, but if so he was quick to say it --- in print. Like all good newspapermen he hated to be late, and he never was.

His passed around bonuses at the end of the year a little earlier than most employers, because it was more convenient for his staff.

The bonuses, along with a poignant note expressing gratitude for "the cooperation of everyone through the many years," came even earlier this year.

Sam had met another deadline.

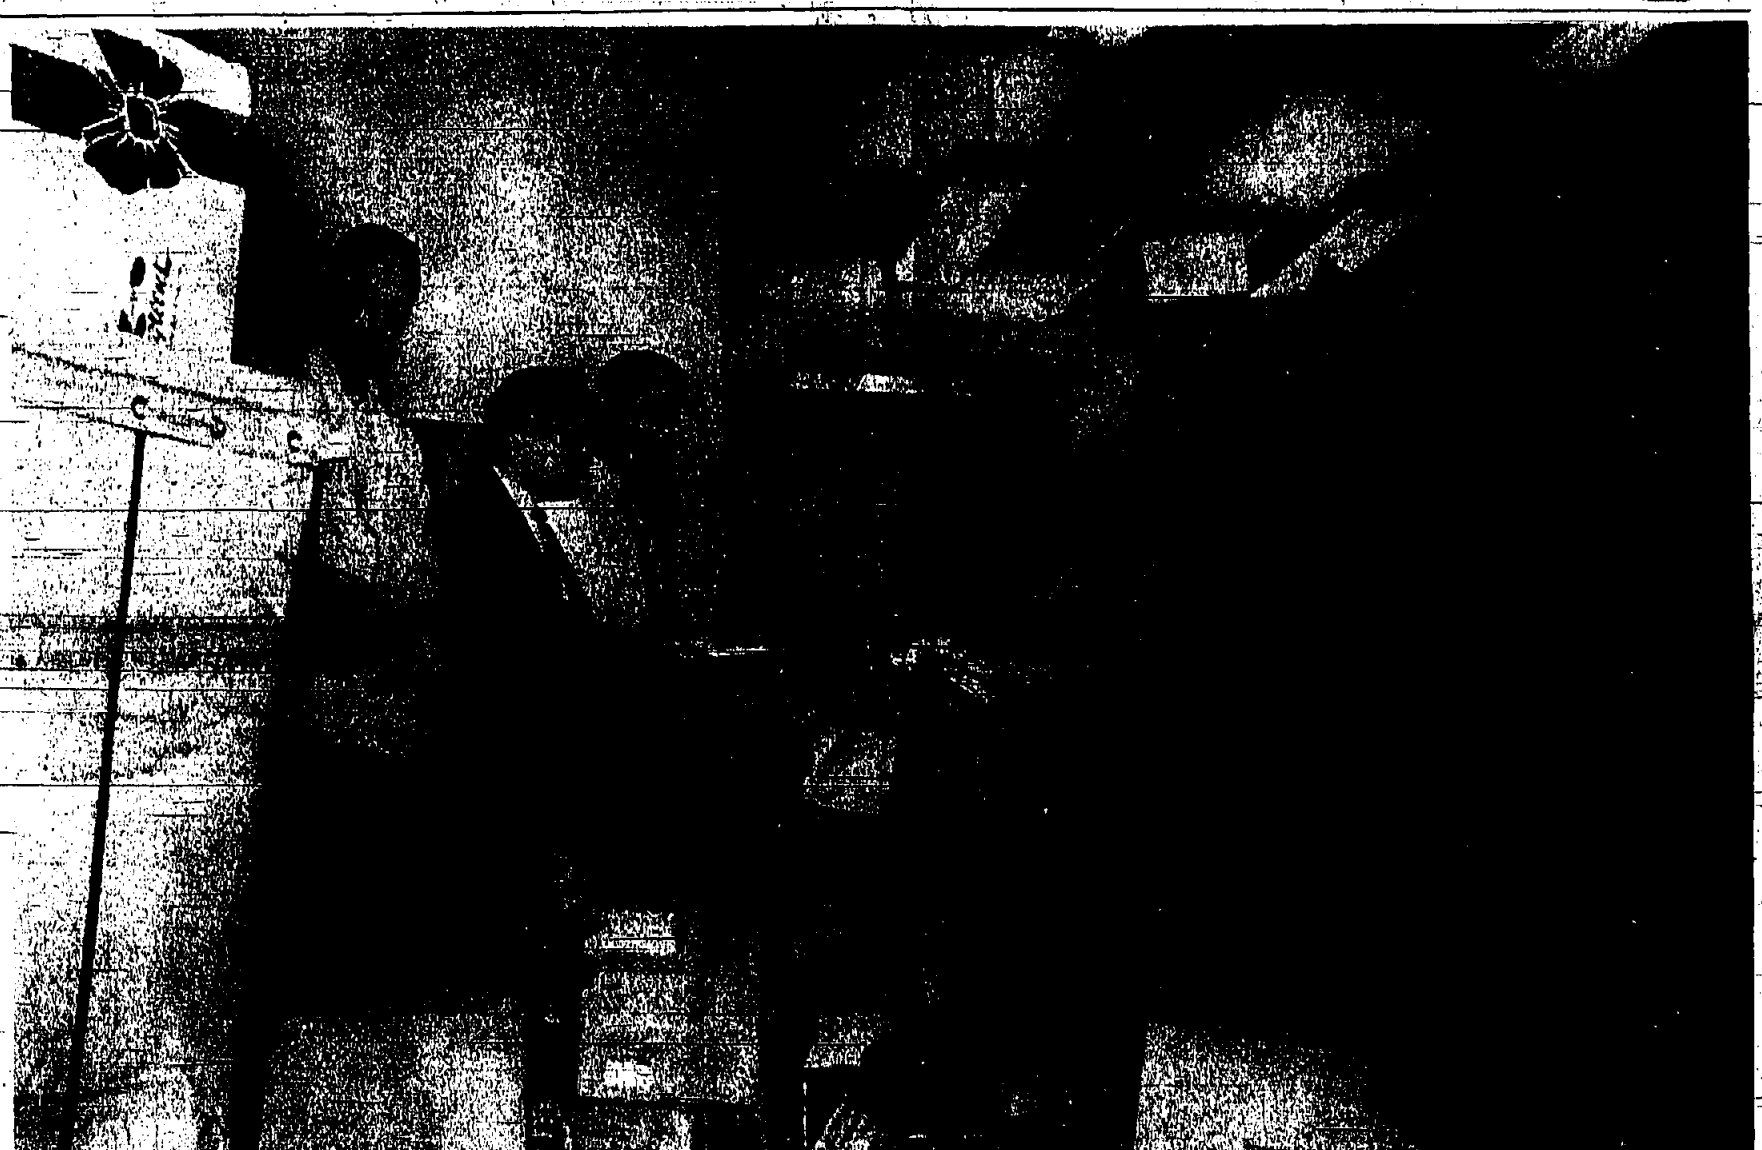

Gallagher and foe of LBJ to debate

Rep. Cornelius Gallagher (D-13th Dist.) and Prof. George Yevic of the Stevens Institute of Technology will address the annual breakfast of the Brotherhood of Temple Shalom, Springfield, on Sunday at 10 a.m. at the temple.

Their topic will be "Vietnam -- Where Do We Go from Here?"

Congressman Gallagher is a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Professor Yevic is chairman of the New Jersey Democratic Council, an insurgent organization that opposes the renomination of President Johnson.

PACKAGE DEALERS -- Christmas mailing is at its peak, as illustrated by the scene in incoming packages at the Springfield Post Office. Series on drugs, teenagers begins at Gaudineer School

A three-part narcotics symposium on "Drug Abuse: An Escape to Nowhere," at the Florence Gaudineer School, was launched last night with a discussion of "Factors Causing Teenagers to Seek Out Drugs."

The series will continue with sessions Jan. 23 on "Effects of Drug Abuse by Teenagers," and Feb. 28 on "Social Weaknesses Fostering Drug Addiction, and Methods of Therapy."

Singers at Dayton set holiday concert for Tuesday night

The annual Christmas concert will be presented by the vocal music department of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Halsey Hall on Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. with Ronald J. Pikor directing.

The program will feature the talents of the combined choruses, the Shaving Mugs, the Chorale and the Dayton-Alres singing traditional, religious, classical and popular Yuletide numbers.

The combined choruses will open the program by presenting "The Heavens Are Telling" (from "The Creation") featuring Janice Hardgrove, Ted O'Connell and Mitch Wohner. "The King Shall Come When Morning Dawns," "When Christmas Morn. Is Dawning," "A Round for Christmas."

The Shaving Mugs quartet of Ted O'Connell, John Vassalli, Mike Greenhouse, and Ralph Weinstein will harmonize with "Midwinters," "Down Our Way" and "Silent Night."

Nine numbers will be performed by the Chorale. They will open their portion of the concert with "Alleluia" (from "Esultate, jubilate") followed by three chorals from "The Christmas Oratorio" by J. S. Bach; "He Shall Feed His Flock," (from "The Messiah") (Lynne Golden, soprano soloist); "Ya Vind La Vieja," "O Holy Night," "Jolly Old St. Nicholas," "We Need a Little Christmas," from

X-ray unit helps fight on cancer

A major advance in radiation therapy at Overlook Hospital is being made possible with the installation of a Giant super-voltage radiation therapy unit in the hospital's new radiology department.

Overlook will now be able to treat certain types of internal malignancies that heretofore had to be referred to metropolitan centers possessing such advanced equipment.

There are only some 30 such units in the United States. Called a Van de Graaff Unit, the eight-ton machine is housed in a special two-story heavily shielded room, with protective concrete walls three feet thick.

The unit is the gift of the Independence Foundation and Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City, one of the country's outstanding medical facilities in the cancer field.

Valued at $75,000 installed, the unit posed a major transportation and installation problem for both hospitals. Memorial Sloan-Kettering had to move the mammoth equipment, which was then hoisted on a huge truck and lowered into the hospital's new radiology department, which had been planned in the hospital's construction of its new wing.

"This generous gift from Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center is an outstanding example of hospital working together for patient benefit," commented Robert E. Heinlein, Overlook's director. "The transfer was made possible because Memorial

Committee introduces ordinance

Bloom, lone Democrat, named acting chairman

By ABNER GOLD

The Township Committee Tuesday night disclosed plans to purchase two parcels of land near Town Hall in the near future. The two lots are the one occupied by the Dairy Queen ice cream stand at Mountain and N. Tritten avenues and the Di Vento tract, formerly the Ruby property, between Rose Avenue and Brook Street.

The plans were outlined as the governing body approved introduction of a $99,000 bond ordinance to pay for the land. Several committee members noted that the purchases are still under negotiation and that the total price could be substantially less if the township was prepared to resort to condemnation if necessary to get what it regards as a fair price. The land will be used for parking and possibly for additional municipal buildings.

Jay B. Bloom, lone Democrat on the governing body, was named by his colleagues to preside in the absence of Mayor Arthur M. Falkin. The mayor's mother, Mrs. Morris Falkin of Port Chester, N. Y., died on Monday at the age of 79.

Bloom, who did not seek re-election this year, will retire from office at the end of this month. He carried out the nonpartisan spirit of the meeting right up to the very end. Bloom even asked each member of the audience personally if he had any comments to offer. Both of them, Ed Rall and Committeeman-elect Henry Bultman, declined comment.

Committeeman Robert G. Pliner reported that the State Motor Vehicle Bureau appeared to be reneging on its previous verbal approval of a compromise agreement with the township on traffic changes.

Regional board to unveil plans for expansion

The Regional High School District Board of Education will present its plans for long-range expansion and future student distribution at a special public meeting tonight at 8 at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield.

The proposals are expected to deal with a continuing increase in total school population, as well as with the current problem of overcrowded facilities at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, and A. L. Johnson Regional, Clark, while there is space available at Dayton and at David Brearley Regional, Kenilworth.

Meanwhile, the first petition of a candidate seeking election to the regional board from Springfield was filed on Monday by Robert Halsey, former president of the Springfield Public Library board of trustees.

Two other local citizens have also obtained petitions but have not yet filed. They are Mrs. Henry Huneke, former president of the Springfield League of Women Voters, and Henry S. Wright. The seat in question is being vacated by William Malick, former president and a board member for the past 15 years.

No candidate has yet filed for the three seats open this year on the Springfield Board of Education. Two incumbents, Carlo Casale and Francis Shimshock, have now indicated that they plan to seek another term. The third, Mrs. Lawrence Dorsky, said she is still undecided about running again.

The election for the regional board is scheduled for next Feb. 6, with a Dec. 28 deadline for filing of petitions and registration of new voters. The township board election will be Feb. 13, and the deadline for filing and registration will be on Jan. 4.

AS THE FIRST STEP in dealing with pupil distribution problems in the regional schools, the board last spring acted to send students from the Balastrone Top section of Springfield to Dayton, rather than Gov. Livingston, and Garwood students to Bridgeton, rather than Johnson. Both changes took effect with the present freshman class, and transfers were made optional for older students from the same areas.

A plan was also announced then to send the present freshman group from Mountainside to had announced plans to raise speed limits from 25 to 35 miles per hour on Mountain, S. Springfield and Melsel avenues. Trinton had long insisted on a 40-mile-limit-before giving permission for flashing lights in front of local schools and for a traffic light at the corner of Mountain, Henshaw and S. Springfield avenues.

THIS WEEK, he said, Trenton officials appeared to be hedging on the compromise 35-mile speed limit. Bloom suggested that the township consider filing a law-suit to compel the state to act as a safety measure. Planer said, however, that he still expected approval "by the first of the year." The committee introduced an ordinance for a daytime two-hour parking limit for the first 500 feet of Henshaw avenue.

Planer also sharply criticized state highway officials by announcing a new traffic pattern for Morris avenue at the Summit line this week, without consulting or even notifying local police or other officials. "We are not very happy with the change," he commented.

As police commissioner, Planer received approval for several changes in department regulations. The resolution established grievance procedures, set new rules for the detective bureau and revised some procedures for promotions.

Planer noted that the changes were the result of negotiations with the local Police-men's Benevolent Association, and that the PBA has now set up a formal three-man committee to represent policemen in grievance discussions and in negotiations over salaries and other matters.

Committeeman Philip Del Vecchio commented that several other communities had expressed interest in emulating the precedent set here in negotiations with members of the police force.

Discussing another item, Del Vecchio expressed concern over the way motorists are making a "public dumping ground" of the new Mount View Road leading from Baltusrol Top. He said that he had noticed a washing machine, a discarded tire and two mattresses littering the ground. "The township plans to post anti-littering signs there in the immediate future," and to fine all violators. "The committee voted a leave of absence

Bulletin board, scrapbook feature Leader articles on Caldwell pupils

A group of fifth grade students at the James Caldwell School have started work on a school scrapbook of newspaper clippings taken from the Springfield Leader. Every week the Leader is combed thoroughly for articles and pictures of the activities of the Caldwell School pupils and their families, as well as news of former Caldwell students. These clippings are posted on a "Names in the News" bulletin board in the hall, where all of the children can enjoy reading about their friends.

When the new "Names in the News" articles are posted, the scrapbook committee will paste the previous week's news in the scrapbook. During the week, the scrapbook will be available in the school library for all of the Caldwell children to look at.

Carrie Verducci, Kathy Hagenbush, Cal Ackerman and Dario DiLello are the nucleus of the committee in charge of keeping the scrapbook up to date.

Seniors, juniors to see talent show at assembly today

Dramatics coach Joseph F. Trinity will present his ninth annual assembly program talent show at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Halsey Hall this morning before the senior and junior classes. The same show was staged for the freshman and sophomores in assembly last Thursday.

The talent show contains acts developed during the school's dramatics classes as well as talents developed outside school activities. Bob Halper will introduce the acts.

The opening act features the dancing of Ilene Schecter and Ted O'Connell while Shelley Cooper sings "Summertime." Bruce Gerstein provides piano accompaniment for the act. Gary Jay and Mark Paul sing a medley of folk songs. The Fridkis Brothers—Alan and Randy—play the organ and drums with a unique melody and beat. These two acts are followed by Lucille Hardgroves' vocal and guitar rendition of "Everglades."

Harry Gwirtsman performs a piano suite by Debussy. Folk songs are featured by Lisa Brown and Donna Pfeiffer.

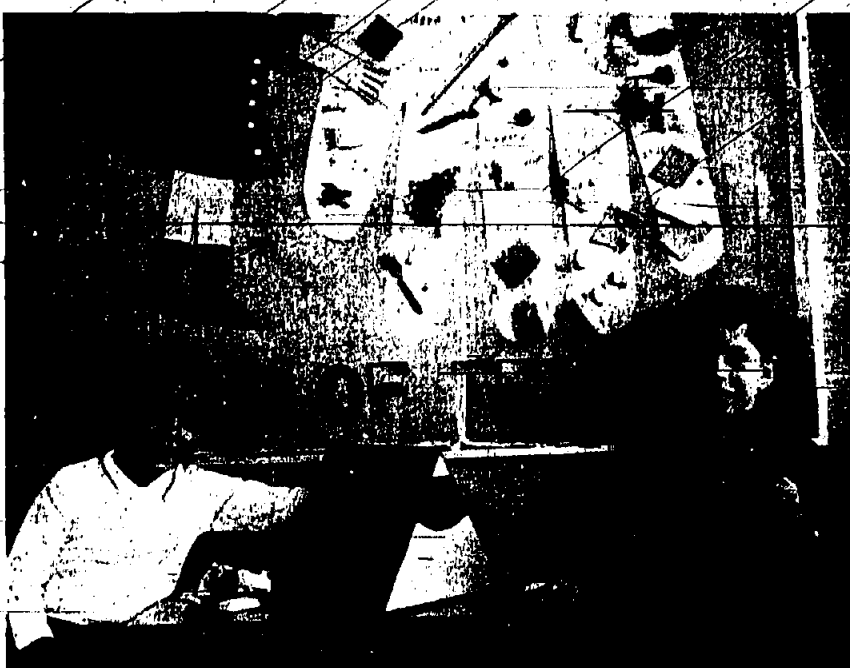

"My Girl" is sung by the "Symphonettes," accompanied by Larry Bredend. A guitar and kazoo are played by Janice Lillen and Judy Feins. "Moon River" is sung by Janice Hardgroves and Laynie Golden, with Harry Gwirtsman at the piano. The final act features "Grandma's Bootleggers," a jug band playing rhythm and blues. Iris Weisman, Suzanne Aikin, Sally Haines, Shari Doros and Denise DeVone wield the jugs.

"Mame," "White Christmas" and "Do You Hear What I Hear?"

"Season's Greetings" from the Dayton-Aires will follow. The concert will close with "December, a Joyous Month For All," with Stanley Katz as narrator. "Falling Snow On Christmas Day," "Carol Of The Drums" and the "Shepherd's Chorus" from "Amahl and the Night Visitors," featuring Steven Fried, Mike Greenhouse and Ralph Weinstein as Kaspar, Melchior, and Balthazar. Sherry Moore is accompanist.

Sandmeier School youngsters gain experience through sense of touch

Children in Mrs. Millicent Krammerman's first grade class at the Thelma Sandmeier School have been increasing their awareness of the world around them through the use of a "texture box." Although the school child relies mainly on the senses of sight and hearing, learning includes the use of all of the senses. The "texture box" helps the children develop the important sense of touch as they learn to differentiate between objects and textures by feel alone.

The teacher first collected many odds and ends of differing textures, such as cotton, tacks, pine cones and pieces of rug and soap. As each piece was placed in the triangular "texture box," the children could feel it, but not see it. They then described the texture (soft, fuzzy, smooth, bumpy) of the object, not what they thought it actually was.

This activity led to a large classroom collection as the boys and girls brought in many items with differing textures. As the children's sense of touch was developed, so was their realization of the variety of textures in the world around them.

Dayton, rather than Gov. Livingston, for the full four years. This plan was dropped following a strong protest by parents and others from Mountainside.

Last month, however, the board announced a plan to send the next two groups of Mountainside students to Dayton for their freshman year only. The youngsters will then transfer to Gov. Livingston for their sophomore, junior and senior years.

The board stated that the step was necessary because of increasingly severe overcrowding at Gov. Livingston. It indicated that the switch was intended as a temporary expedient, until additional facilities could be provided for an increased enrollment at Gov. Livingston.

Therapy

Sloan-Kettering has recently constructed an entirely new radiation therapy facility, equipped with newer, more compact, higher energy radiation units.

"Operationally, the model Overlook has acquired has been completely rebuilt. Therapeutically, it will provide optimum treatment for patients in this area needing high voltage therapy for cancer," stated Dr. Alexander D. Crosett Jr., chief of radiology at Overlook.

ADVANTAGES OF the new unit are many, according to Dr. Crosett. "The problem in cancer treatment is to deliver a dose of radiation accurately - pinpointing the location of the tumor with a dose of radiation sufficiently great to destroy the tumor, while not producing irrevocable damage to neighboring normal tissues," the radiologist pointed out.

The 2,000,000 volt X-rays produced by the Van de Graaff Unit can be directed to a very small area. The unit enables shorter treatment time and fewer treatments for the patient, who feels no discomfort during treatment and much less after-effect than that which results from conventional ortho-voltage therapy.

The radiation beam from the Van de Graaff Unit is more sharply defined than that of the more widely known cobalt unit. Dr. Crosett stated that there is more pinpoint accuracy with the electrical source of the Van de Graaff Unit. "It has the added advantage of not requiring periodic replacement of the source, as does cobalt, which loses half its radioactivity in five years," he explained. "The cost of replacing the cobalt source is a $10,000-$15,000 recurrent expense."

State to spend $15 million on Rt. 22, but not until 1970s, after finishing 78

By ADA BRUNNER
The State Department of Transportation believes it will have to spend some $15 million for widening and improving a 21-mile stretch of Rt. 22 in Union and Somerset counties—but it won't be until some time in the middle or late 1970s.

Jersey Highway Facts
Although the publication lists the whole section of Rt. 22 between Newark and Clinton as among the state's "critically deficient highways" which are "now inadequate to handle existing traffic," a department spokesman said no improvements are planned until "two or three years" after the new Rt. 78 is completed. This, according to the latest state estimates, will not be before some time in the early 1970s. A department spokesman explained that Rt. 78 is expected to relieve some of the traffic congestion on Rt. 22. The new road will be an east-west highway running generally parallel to the most heavily traveled section of Rt. 22. However, the department spokesman added, the relief is not expected to last very long. Continued growth in the area will probably result in a new upsurge in traffic on Rt. 22 a few years after Rt. 78 is opened, he said.

No definite plans have yet been made for the Rt. 22 improvements which will be needed at that time, he said, although these might possibly include such projects as "grade separations"—ramps or overpasses for traffic making left turns.

The $15 million figure allotted to the Union-Somerset project is "an estimate based on past experience," the spokesman said.

New traffic pattern in effect at Springfield-Summit line

The State Department of Transportation yesterday instituted the planned new traffic pattern for Morris avenue and Route 24 (the Morris and Essex Turnpike) in Union and Essex counties.

Morris avenue and relocated Springfield avenue have become one-way eastbound from the Broad street interchange at Middle avenue in Summit to its intersection with the Morris and Essex Turnpike in Springfield. The Morris and Essex Turnpike continues to handle both eastbound and westbound traffic.

Westbound through traffic approaching the intersection of Morris avenue and the Morris and Essex Turnpike, headed for Summit, now continues west on the Morris and Essex Turnpike and bears left at the Broad street interchange. Westbound local traffic may use the newly constructed ramp connecting Morris avenue and the Morris and Essex Turnpike to reach the businesses located on Morris avenue east of the ramp.

Mr. Dewart heads local AFS chapter

The Rev. James Dewart, pastor of Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church, was elected president of the Springfield Chapter, American Field Service, at a meeting last week at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. Also named were Dr. Edna Tropp, vice-president; Mrs. Philip Lewis, secretary; and Mrs. Lawrence Goodman, treasurer. Retiring officers include Mrs. Paul Weisman, president, and Mrs. Adam La Sota, secretary.

Committee chairmen include Mrs. Benjamin Josephson, finance; Mrs. Sidney Lester, home and student family adjustment; Mrs. H. Lee Sarokin, "Americans Abroad"; Mrs. Robert D. Hargrove, projects; Mrs. Morton Panish, transportation; Mr. and Mrs. Abner Gold, AFS "Bus Stop"; Mrs. Joseph Klein and Mrs. Leon Katz, international supper; and Sidney Krueger, publicity.

YES service cut by fund shortage

Lack of funds has forced the Springfield Youth Employment Service (YES) to discontinue its telephone answering service, according to Mrs. Saul Black, YES chairman. She said callers can still reach the office from 2 to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. The telephone number is 376-5800, she added.

Mrs. Black also reported that YES has compiled a list of boys who want to shovel snow this winter. Volunteers at the office can arrange to have these youths work on a regular basis whenever it snows, she said.

She pointed out that, with the holiday season approaching, students on vacation from school are seeking part-time or full-time jobs. She urged prospective employers to call the YES office as soon as possible.

The Springfield office will be closed from Friday, Dec. 22, through Monday, Dec. 25, and from Friday, Dec. 29, through Monday, Jan. 1, for the Christmas and New Year's weekends.

A department spokesman asserted that careful placement of directional and warning signs plus repaving of the traffic lights are expected to provide smooth traffic flow.

This work is part of a $10,467,679 contract involving Interstate Route 78 and Route 24 Freeway construction. The contractor, Public Constructors, Blackwood, is scheduled to complete the project by the end of this month. Rt. 78 is expected to be finished some time after 1972.

Youth group asks congregation join caroling Sunday

The Senior High Youth Fellowship of Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church has invited members of the congregation to join in Christmas caroling to the shut-ins of the parish Sunday at 6:30 p.m., followed by a social hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Brunny, 9 Cypress ter., Springfield.

At the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship services Sunday the Rev. James Dewart, pastor, will preach on "The Posture of Acceptance," based on Luke 1:26-38, "Cherish the Dream," will be Emanuel Schwing's sermon title at the 9:30 a.m. German language service. Church services are held at 11 a.m. in the Church School annex, with a complete Church School from nursery through senior highs at 9:30 a.m. The Junior High Youth Fellowship will meet at 6 p.m. Mrs. Gene Quinzel, Wesleyan Service Guild president, has announced that the guild will hold a Christmas program next Tuesday at 8 p.m., with a musical presentation by Mrs. Juanita Mason.

Red Cross uses new device for resuscitation instruction

The Springfield Red Cross announced this week that it had purchased a "Resusci-Annie," a dummy used in the teaching of mouth-to-mouth and mouth-to-nose breathing. Now every person in Springfield can have the experience of practicing this important technique, according to a chapter spokesman.

Mrs. Michael Herzlinger, Red Cross first aid chairman stated that "the Springfield Chapter can be proud of its first aid instructors. Fourteen instructors taught 13 American Red Cross first aid courses in Springfield in 1967."

Mrs. Herzlinger added that "any group that wishes to arrange for first aid instruction should call chapter headquarters at 376-1676."

Police charge pair for armed robbery at local dairy store

As Springfield police reported the arrest of two young men charged with armed robbery in the hold-up of a local store last week, they were still seeking a pair of gunmen who held up another store the following day.

The two men arrested were Heinz Pflueger, 19, of 157 Hillside ave., Springfield, and Joseph W. Supczynski, 21, of Irvington. They were charged with holding up the Garden State Farms store on Mountain avenue last Tuesday.

They were part of a group arrested by Irvington police in that community last Tuesday afternoon and charged with a number of offenses, including possession of heroin. Among the items seized in that raid was a gun stolen Dec. 3 from Sal Querques of 104 Hillside ave.

Following further investigation, Pflueger and Supczynski were also charged with breaking and entering and larceny in connection with the theft at the Querques house. Arraigned in Springfield on Dec. 7, they both waived preliminary hearings and were bound over for action by the grand jury.

Meanwhile, Springfield police were still investigating the hold-up last Wednesday evening at Roland Drugs, 777 Mountain ave., across the street from the dairy store. Two white men, one armed with a sawed-off shotgun, took an estimated $450 from the cash register and the six people in the store.

Police said the two robbers were wanted for some 30 hold-ups in drug stores in a three-county area in recent months. They took no narcotics, only cash.

FROM SEN. CLIFFORD P. CASE
U. S. Senator

This is a belated note to add my congratulations on the Union and Springfield Leaders' achievement of first place in the Best Newspaper Sweepstakes Contest.

In view of the quality of most of our weekly newspapers, this is indeed a fine tribute to you and your editors.

SPORTS AT HIGH SCHOOL
When Chairman Avery Ward of the Regional High School board says, "We are not de-emphasizing football or athletics" at Springfield High School, it reminds me of Martin Luther King preaching "non-violence." King's program turns out to be "violent" in many cases; and sports at Dayton have been ending up in "de-emphasis" lately. Despite fine efforts by the players and coaching staffs, our teams are not well enough drilled.

FROM DAYTON FACULTY

Your editorial of Dec. 7, "Regional School Plans Affect Entire District," produced a very mixed reaction among the faculty of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. We appreciate the concern and attention which you have directed to educational affairs. However, we feel that you have made several unfounded and unjustified allegations.

There may be differences of philosophy between the township and the regional boards of education and administrations. This does not necessarily mean that the processes which take place in the high school classrooms are any less challenging, progressive and effective than those in the middle school classrooms.

Whatever may be true of deficiencies of physical plant, many of which are recognized by both faculty and administration, it simply is not true that Dayton has been "raided" for its best teachers. We who teach at Dayton regard such a statement as a gratuitous insult devoid of substantiation.

Despite the popular opinion you editorially report regarding the relative academic levels of the regional high schools, there is little factual foundation for such beliefs. Any unbiased attempt to compare the course offerings of Dayton with the other regional high schools will reveal that Dayton offers as many, if not more, advanced college preparatory courses.

Social tensions may exist between the people of the various towns, but such problems would

While we are attempting to change our schedule to "more equal" teams in the area, it is the players themselves who lose the most. The coaches have ability but take unfair criticism while the players are being short-changed. How can this be if we are "not de-emphasizing" sports at Dayton?

I believe that efforts by coaches, players and interested people in our community have been hampered by a policy which looks down on any serious programs outside the intellectual area. Our students need this helping spirit in addition to the best of other equipment and leadership to compete with our present rivals.

Let us not rationalize a schedule which is difficult to change... let's work together to change a policy to help make do with what we have, and instill a positive spirit in our youth.

PROFILE--Margaret L. Maitland

By BEA SMITH

Margaret L. Maitland, a tall, slim person who never seems to have to worry about her weight, has a job in which she is constantly surrounded by food. She has to prepare daily menus for a "family" of 5,400 and she likes every moment of it.

Miss Maitland, incidentally, is the cafeteria director for four regional high schools: Jonathan Dayton in Springfield, Arthur L. Johnson in Clark, Governor Livingston in Berkeley Heights and David Brearley in Kenilworth.

"I've been doing this kind of work for the past 31 years," Miss Maitland says. "And my staff is composed of several originals and others who have been with me for a long time. Some are full-time employees, and others, part-time. I must say I have a very efficient staff. I have two trained assistants, who take two buildings each, a secretary, cook managers in each building. In all, there are 52 members of our regular staff."

MARGARET L. MAITLAND

MISS MAITLAND EXPLAINS that the cook comes in each morning at 7 or 7:15, and prepares lunch for four separate periods. "There are four lunch periods in three buildings and three lunch periods in one."

"On the whole," she smiles, "it all comes out very well. We have no problems. My people keep records every day. And I maintain my main office here at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School."

Miss Maitland says that the menus are prepared according to a government program for student lunches, and there are certain requirements that we must meet. For example, we must provide two ounces of protein (meat or a meat substitute), three-quarters of a cup of vegetable or fruit, one-half pint of milk, two teaspoons of butter and two slices of bread or roll. Such a lunch, made up according to these requirements, costs the student 35 cents. They can buy that type of lunch or a pint of milk, a sandwich and a dessert.

Some youngsters bring their own lunches and buy only milk and dessert.

Miss Maitland says that the school faculty and members also purchase their lunch at the cafeteria, but dine in a teachers' lunch room.

What are the students' favorite foods? "They all love meat loaf," Miss Maitland replies. "Next are hamburgers, then spaghetti and then veal Parmigiana. And naturally, I have this in mind when I make up my menus. If meat is left over, Miss Maitland says that sometimes the staff freezes it and it is used the next day."

AMONG THE STUDENTS' FAVORITE sandwiches, the director points out, are tuna fish salad, turkey salad, egg salad and cold cuts. "In that order," she says. "And the sandwiches cost 20 cents each."

There are about 25 companies which provide food for the schools, Miss Maitland says. "Our food comes from companies in Newark, New York and out of Philadelphia. We also do some local purchasing."

One of the biggest of these companies, for Springfield alone, she says, is the school here uses 60 pounds of ground-beef for meat loaf or hamburger. The rest of the schools take 190 pounds.

"We use 60 pounds of hot dogs here, and about 210 pounds in the other three schools. We use one-and-a-half cases of beans for this school and five cases for the other buildings. And as for milk—we get approximately 1,000 half-pints; and approximately 4,000 for the other buildings."

What are the students' favorite desserts? "The students prefer chocolate pudding and apple crisp, and they're very fond of jello. They also like cream quite a bit. We get 20 pies a day here, and 40 pies for the other schools."

Miss Maitland, who has been involved with food nearly all of her life, was born in Washington, D.C. She received a B.S. degree from Drexel Institute of Technology in Philadelphia, and had a year's dietetic internship in Philadelphia.

"I had eight years' previous experience before coming here," Miss Maitland recalls. "I worked with food in Princeton Hospital, at Andover Academy in Massachusetts and Blair Academy in Blairsville. I worked a couple of years at the Y in Plainfield, a hotel in Philadelphia, which incidentally, doesn't exist anymore."

"I came here to Springfield in 1937—to the original Jonathan Dayton building. That came the others—Arthur L. Johnson, Governor Livingston and David Brearley. And all the schools grew like 'Topsy.'"

Miss Maitland, who lives in Bound Brook, utilizes her spare time playing a musical organ at home. "I do quite a bit of needlepoint and crocheting. And then, of course, I have a lot of books at home. My professional reading is endless."

Springfield Public Library reports on newest books for local readers

By EVA P. BROWN

The Springfield Public Library lists the following titles among the new books now available:

INVESTMENTS

"Beat the Market," by Edward O. Thorp and Sheen T. Kassouf. The authors claim to offer a scientific winning stock market system which has been perfected by mathematics, economics and electronic computer analysis. All kinds of convertible securities and their related common stocks can be used in this system which has produced an average yearly gain of 25 per cent - and no losses - for the past five years, they assert. There are step-by-step instructions with explanatory charts and tables, as well as details of actual investments made by the authors.

HISTORY

"Ten Flags in the Wind," by Charles L. Dufour. Here is a colorful story of Louisiana from the first explorations of Robert Cavalier, Sieur de LaSalle, to the oil-and-gas-rich region it is today. Dufour's exciting narrative describes the long struggle to establish settlements there, the Louisiana Purchase, the effect of the Civil War and later the Reconstruction period. Political battles of such politicians as H. C. Waltham and Huey P. Long, and the facing up to the problem of equal rights for all citizens, complete the story of one of the most fertile regions in our country.

"Manners and Morals in the Age of Optimism, 1848-1914," by James Laver. Besides presenting a revealing and fascinating account of the great social contrasts of this paradoxical period, Laver describes the corruption of France under Napoleon III, the hypocrisy of Victorian England and America and many other aspects of life during this period. There are many pages of old photographs and prints.

BIOGRAPHY

"Catherine, the Queen," by Mary M. Luke. An absorbing biography of Catherine of Aragon, widow of 16, of Prince Arthur and later first wife of his brother, King Henry VIII. Their reign was filled with drama and pageantry but the thread that binds the book's many brilliant strands together is the deeply moving drama of Catherine, the woman.

"Christophe, King of Haiti," by Hubert Cole. A richly detailed account of Henry Christophe and the kingdom he created. For its colorful personalities and violent action, few episodes in history can match the story of Haiti. Cole writes with keen descriptive skill and a shrewd sense of character.

"No Glass Slipper," by Margery Hurst. An unparalleled success story of a dynamic young woman who turned a $150 loan into a $10,000,000-a-year international enterprise. An inspiration to women everywhere, "No Glass Slipper" is also wise, sad, funny and, above all, entertaining.

RELIGIONS

"Religions Around the World," by Leonard and Carolyn Walcott. The authors tell the story of the great religions and also examine the emerging religions which have developed in the last two centuries. A rare find for a young reader searching for accurate and interesting information.

"Calymore and Kite," by Sarche Nic Leodhas. This distinguished author offers a superb collection of stirring historical tales about the Scottish kings. The Scots' unbending honor and steadfast loyalty emerge in many of these stories of love and battle, which are certain to charm readers for many years to come.

"The Untold Adventures of Santa Claus," by Ogden Nash. Delightful Christmas verse as only Ogden Nash can write it. A timely book for the younger group, with colorful illustrations by Walter Lorraine.

Inter-faith dialogue topic of discussion at local synagogue

The values of Jewish-Christian dialogue will provide the subject for a discussion at the Oneg Shabbat reception following Shabbat services tomorrow evening at Temple Beth Shalom, Springfield. Rabbi Reuben R. Levine of Beth Am stated this week.

Rabbi Levine declared:

"The words dialogue and ecumenism have become very popular in the last four or five years. They represent an awareness on the part of religious leaders and thinkers of all denominations that one cannot be blind to the diversity of belief and practice in today's society, and that the right of another person to hold his own beliefs must be respected.

"There are many critics of Jewish-Christian dialogue who feel that theological understanding between the two groups is an impossibility. On the other hand, there are those who claim that only a face-to-face confrontation and comparison of beliefs can lead to betterment of inter-group relations.

"The meaning of ecumenism also needs to be clarified. Is it something that can only be achieved within a religious denomination, such as Catholic and Protestant Christians, or Conservative and Reform Jews, or can it cross group lines as well?"

"These are among the things that will be taken up at the discussion, and comment will be invited from the congregation. Teen-agers, in particular, and their parents are urged to be present. Christian friends who are interested in this topic are most welcome."

In Past Tense

ONE YEAR AGO

Springfield's first United Fund campaign is falling far short of its goal, according to chairman JACK H. STEFELMAN, for reasons ranging from community apathy to religious bias. MRS. LOUIS QUINTON, community chairman, extends an invitation to all residents to join the township's Girl Scouts and Brownies in a community caroling around the Girl Scout tree on the Town Mall. Ground-breaking ceremonies for the new building of the Springfield Free Public Library, held at Mountain avenue and Hannah street, recalled for many residents the origin of the first library, which was opened in 1892. The Springfield Youth Employment Service is about to round out its second year of obtaining employment for youth of the town, according to MRS. FELIX N. GOLD, chairman.

25 YEARS AGO

The Board of Education adopts a resolution thanking CHARLES PHILLIPS SR., president of the board, who leaves to become a member of the Township Committee. The annual Christmas party of Continental Post American Legion, is held at the Legion building. Small gifts are exchanged between members and their wives. GIUSEPPE FORGIONE is admitted to citizenship before JUDGE EDWARD A. McGRATH at the Union County courthouse in Elizabeth. The building being remodeled by students in the agricultural course at Regional High School is nearly finished. The only parts left are the outside landscaping and the interior finishing.

Springfield Police Chief ALBERT A. SORGE reveals that he has orders from the state to slap $10 tickets on any jaywalkers in the town. The Rosary Altar Society of St. James Church holds a party for the children of St. Walburga's Orphanage in Roselle. Even though there are no signs of any "political" caucus in smoke fill, an invitation to a "snapper" could get very little startling information at

This newspaper was in error last week when it stated that there are advanced academic courses offered at Gov. Livingston Regional High School which are not offered at Jonathan Dayton Regional. A spokesman for the school administration stressed that there are advanced courses at Gov. Livingston not also offered at Dayton.

CATS CAN teach astronauts some useful tricks, a Stanford University expert in engineering mechanics reports. But the way to teach such tricks, he said, is not by asking astronauts to study the cat. Instead, he said, they should use pencil and paper and mathematical equations to figure out just how a cat manages to do such things as always landing on all fours. Using an "air table," which moves horizontally without friction on a cushion of air jets, he demonstrated his faith in higher mathematics and was able to rotate it by moving only his body. He also found he could make it stop at any point during the turn by simply halting his body movement.

A CHANGE is needed in the treatment of mental patients because the U.S. cannot train enough professionals to meet the manpower needs of current institutions, says a psychologist at Case Western Reserve University. One of the changes, he said, is the elimination of several of the more pervasive myths about mental disorder. The first is that people who exhibit disturbed and disturbing behavior are sick. He has long held that a disease is a relatively rare cause of disturbed behavior. The second myth is that the manpower picture in this field is improving. He says there is considerable evidence to suggest that the U.S. is falling behind each year in the training of psychiatrists.

SOFT DRINK CANS are playing a vital role in research related to missile and rocket systems. HELP WANTED — An urgent personnel shortage has left the Springfield First Aid Squad without enough trained volunteers to deal with all emergencies, particularly during daytime hours.

Aid Squad warns of need to reduce daytime services

The Springfield First Aid Squad will not be able to operate 24 hours every day if it can not attract some new members to augment the day crews, Captain Robert Voorhees stated this week.

He added that "the squad will run. We'll start by cutting down the daytime services. We'll hang on and cover daytime emergencies for as long as we can. Pretty soon we're going to make a policy of transportation after 7 p.m. when we have the manpower."

"If the Springfield police weren't as cooperative as they are, we'd be out of business already during the day. The women in our day crews often need help lifting."

"A full ambulance crew has four people. Three experienced squad members make an adequate crew. The First Aid Squad is now running four afternoons of the week with a crew of two. Squad members are human and sometimes get sick or need time off."

"One day there's likely to be a call when there is only one member on call and no other member in town. The ambulance will roll as usual when summoned, but there had better be a lot of people standing around waiting to help, people who can follow directions. Otherwise....."

Teachers' group cites Dayton coed for English studies

Janice C. Lillen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lillen of 7 Warwick circle, Springfield, has been cited as one of the outstanding high school students of English in the country. The National Council of Teachers of English has named her a 1967 national runner-up in its annual achievement awards competition.

Last spring a committee of English teachers from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School nominated her to represent the school in the competition. The nation's schools nominated almost 8,000 students for the NCTE citation. Of that number, only 800 finalists were chosen.

In announcing the winners, James R. Squire, executive secretary of the National Council of Teachers of English, said that the council has recommended the students for college scholarships in 1968. The names of the students are sent to every college and university admissions office in the country. In previous years, 99 percent of the awards winners entered the colleges of their choice. Approximately 80 percent of those applying for scholarships received financial aid.

All winners and runners-up receive scrolls of recognition. The council also honors their high school English departments with certificates of merit.

Judge terms defendant tipsy, gives him night's rest in jug

Springfield Judge Max Sherman Monday imposed an overnight stay in jail on a Summit man who reportedly seemed to be intoxicated when he appeared in court to face motor vehicle charges. The judge also fined Albert Diullo, 28, $30 for passing a red light and not having his truck properly inspected, plus $25 in contempt of court charges for failure to appear previously.

Rocket team loses first games of year in Thursday action

The Thursday Afternoon Boys' Bowling League standings became tight again last week, as the Rockets were defeated for the first time. The Raiders sent the Rockets down to a double defeat in an important match last week. This Recreation Department-sponsored league meets each week at the Springfield Bowl.

Steve Silpe, having another good afternoon, paced the Raiders to their upset victories over the first place Rockets. Steve rolled a 262 series. Larry Fridkus had his best afternoon of the season for the Raiders. Larry rolled a 256 series to aid in the victory march. Bob Narbone and Danny Kotovsky were high for the Rockets. Bob rolled a 235 series, while Danny posted a 230 two-game total.

The Jets crept to within one game of the top spot, as they won one of two games bowled against the Atoms. The league-leading bowler, Howie Levine, led all bowlers as he paced the Jets with a 301 series. Gil Gleim with a 223 series was the high man for the Atoms.

The Hurricanes moved their team to within two games of the top with a two-game sweep of the Bombers in another match last week. Stuart Liebeskind was top man for the Hurricanes and led both teams as he posted a 299 series total. Stu's steady bowling was evident as he rolled games of 152 and 147. Leon Margules was the high man for the Bombers. Leon rolled a 262 series.

The final match of the day resulted in a two-game sweep of the Hornets by the Bullets. Bob Goodman led the Bullets with a 251 series total. Bob's total was high for both squads. Nick Martin with a 231 series total also rolled well for the Bullets. Howie Fleteschman with a 218 two-game mark was high for the Hornets.

Howie Levine continues to pace all bowlers in the league. After five weeks of bowling, Howie is maintaining a 151 average. Stuart Liebeskind is second and has been moving up each week. Stu's average is 139. George Robbins with a 135 average is in third place. Fourth place belongs to Bob Goodman, who has a 125 average. Danny Kotovsky is in fifth place with a 124 season average.

TWO VETERANS of the Springfield Volunteer Fire Department were honored at the volunteers' annual Christmas party held Saturday evening at the Springfield House, Rt. 22. They were the Rev. Because you live in the greater Newark area, you may never have to ask these questions again.

"Should I fix it or sell it?"

"Why doesn't my engine perform like it used to?"

"Why don't my blinkers shut off?"

"Why am I using so much oil?"

"Will it start when cold weather sets in?"

"Could I be getting better gas mileage?"

"Are my brakes safe?"

"Why does my car vibrate when I'm on the expressway?"

At the Autolite Car Service Clinic, your car will get the most complete "physical" it's ever had.

Make an appointment and come on out. You'll see a new approach to car and customer service.

Trained diagnostic technicians, working with electronic diagnostic equipment, will conduct over 125 different tests on your car. They'll find out what shape your tires, fan belt, hoses, battery and carburetor are in. And run your car on a special treadmill called a dynamometer. To find out how it performs at turnpike speeds. How much fuel it consumes under varying road conditions. How your brakes stand up to both high-speed and low-speed stops.

Tests that ordinary equipment just can't make. A Dynamic Diagnosis simulating actual road conditions. And you can watch the progress. Or watch something else. Like the color TV in our modern, decorator-designed lounge.

Less than an hour, and over 125 tests later, one of our technicians will fill out a detailed Diagnostic Inspection Report. Give it to you. And explain what the tests revealed.

You'll know what's right with your car. What needs immediate attention. What can wait.

The price for all that peace of mind? Just $9.95!

And there's more. 3 additional services. A major repair department. A 4000 square-foot automotive accessory and home product salon. Even a quick car wash.

For your convenience the Diagnostic Lane is open 9 to 5 weekdays, 9 to 5:30 Saturdays. And it's equipped to handle any domestic make, model or year car. Phone 379-1658 for an appointment.

LEONARD B. FARRELL

Farrell promoted to personnel post

Leonard B. Farrell of 1170 Foothill way, Mountainside, has been appointed assistant director of personnel for General Aniline & Film Corporation.

Farrell, formerly vice-president for industrial relations for GAF's Ruberoid Division, will now be responsible for the direction and coordination of industrial relations at all company locations and will report to J. George Piccoli, director of personnel.

In 1959, Farrell joined Ruberoid, which was merged into GAF last May, as director of industrial relations. He became a Ruberoid vice-president in 1965.

A native of San Jose, Cal., he earned his B. A. degree at San Jose College in 1948. After taking graduate studies there, he joined the Federal Bureau of Investigation as a special agent at Washington, Baltimore and New York. He and his wife, Natalie, are the parents of three children.

Man found guilty on dog violation

Ernesto Castillo of Prospect Avenue, Mountainside, was found guilty on one count of permitting his dogs to run at large by Judge Jacob R. Bauer in Municipal Court last Wednesday night. Dr. Milton Fox, also a resident of Prospect Avenue, signed a complaint alleging that one of Castillo's dogs attacked his dog, in the melee, Dr. Fox charged, his dog was bitten and he was also bitten, suffering injuries to his knee and hand.

Castillo was fined $5 plus $5 court costs on the first count. A fine was suspended on Dr. Fox's complaint until an inspection by police was made to determine if Castillo had made good a previous promise to erect a dog-run on his premises. Judge Bauer noted that if any more complaints ensued, he would have no recourse but to order the dogs destroyed.

In other business, Richard A. Malagute of Springfield, Mass., was fined a total of $10 for failure to have a New Jersey tax stamp; James Scheller of Scotch Plains was found guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and was fined $25 plus costs. Alicea A. Monserrat of Newark, charged with careless driving, paid a total of $20.

Board denies bid for office building

The Mountainside Board of Adjustment on Monday night denied an application for a variance by Keltana Development Corp. to erect a commercial building at 1299 Route 22 on the grounds that the property was situated in a residential zone.

An application for a variance by Di Francesco Corp., for a subdivision to erect two houses at 1234 Beech Ave., was granted. The application will now be returned to the Planning Board.

Other applications for variances were granted to Albert and Doris Lueddeke to build a recreational addition on property at 1297 Wood Valley rd., and to Henry and Clair Zlobro, a family room addition on the rear of their property at 1406 Orchard rd.

Discuss arts-humanities ties for Regional School District

Pauline A. Keith, coordinator of social studies of the Union County Regional High School District, and a committee of four teachers—August Geibelhaus of Dayton, Elaine Campagna of Berkeley Heights and Mrs. Arlene Della Cerro and Ronald Stevens of Clark, met with Dr. William Brooks, consultant in arts and humanities of the New Jersey State Department of Education for curriculum and instruction, at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School last week to consider the incorporation of the arts and humanities in the American history program.

Miss Keith said the committee "has been involved in revising the American history curriculum for the past two years. We are trying to develop a new framework for the course so that we can present a program which is more relevant to the needs and interests of today's young people."

"Dr. Brooks, a specialist in the arts and humanities, consulted with us on organizing a curriculum which will enable students to gain an insight into the practical problems of today's society. Our hope is to use the arts and humanities as a vehicle for studying the evolution of American values."

"Every teacher in the social studies department will have available to him information and special materials related to techniques and content that will assist him to effectively relate the past to the present," Miss Keith said. "Emphasis will also be placed on studying contemporary dissent and protest. Ideally, this will lead to the final objective of finding constructive channels for expression of these drives and understanding the role of youth in American society."

'Santa Claus' thieves steal property at motel

Springfield police on Sunday reported that a number of items were stolen from the Howard Johnson Motel on Rt. 22, following what had apparently been a "wild party" in two adjoining rooms. They noted that the persons renting the rooms had used fictitious names.

The only clue immediately apparent was a banner left on the wall, reading, "Santa Claus is coming to North Newark." Items taken from the rooms included three blankets, one bed pad, four sheets, two bedspreads, five pillows and cases and four sets of towels.

U.S. Congresswoman FLORENCE P. DWYER

Reports

Congress completed action last week on a bill which has received surprisingly little attention, especially in view of its potential for good. I refer to the bill which outlaws discrimination in employment based on age, and I expect the President will sign it into law shortly. The new law would take effect 180 days (approximately six months) following enactment through the Secretary of Labor could extend that date by an additional 90 days if necessary.

If business and industry will cooperate in reforming discriminatory employment practices, as I am sure most will do without the need to enforce the law, this new legislation can go far toward correcting one of the most serious social problems of our time. If enforcement should be necessary, however, the new law will provide effective machinery for that purpose.

There is no denying the seriousness of the problem. Earlier this week, during House debate on the bill, I outlined some of the findings of recent studies. Briefly, here is what I told the House:

First, unemployment strikes hardest at those over 40 and 45. Over three-quarters of a million persons 45 or older are looking for work and can't find it. While they account for only 27 percent of the unemployed, they make up 40 percent of the long-term unemployed. Over three-fourths of the one billion dollars which are paid out in unemployment benefits annually go to persons in this age group.

Second, one-half of all the job openings that develop in the private economy each year throughout the country are closed to applicants over 55, and one-quarter of these jobs are unavailable to persons over 45.

Third, although 24 of the States, including New Jersey, now have laws banning age discrimination, many of these laws are not enforced and most of the States lack the resources to assure compliance.

Fourth, 26 of the 50 States have no laws at all prohibiting age discrimination in employment, and in those States more than half of all employers set specific age limits—usually between 45 and 55—beyond which workers will not be considered for employment regardless of their ability.

Fifth, once a person over 45 loses a job, the chances against finding another like it are six to one against him. The older a person is and the less education and training he has, the more hopeless his problem becomes.

I am certain that each of you knows personally of individual cases of middle-aged people who can't find suitable employment—even though they are highly qualified and widely experienced—simply because of their age. It's an experience heavy with frustration, fear and insecurity.

The terrible thing is that so much of it is unnecessary. Recent studies show that older job applicants are, often more stable and capable than others, that they are fully able to be retrained and acquire new skills, and that their experience and judgment can make a valuable contribution to a new employer. In such cases, not only the individual is hurt by age discrimination, but the whole economy suffers as well. Consequently, there is no valid excuse for employers to close the door on older workers, to refuse—rigidly and arbitrarily—even to consider their experience, qualifications and abilities solely because they have passed a certain age.

The problem of age discrimination has concerned me deeply. I have known of too many personal tragedies and received letters describing others to take the problem lightly. For the past three years, therefore, I have sponsored a series of bills to improve employment prospects for older workers; one such bill, which I co-sponsored with other members, provided for special counseling, training and placement services for older workers, and it became law last year. Another of my bills is similar to the legislation Congress just passed. Here is what that bill will do:

It will cover workers between the ages of 40 and 65. It will prohibit employers from discriminating because of age either in hiring or firing workers. It will also prevent discrimination in compensation, and in the terms, conditions or privileges of employment. It will stop the advertising of jobs on the basis of age. And, in general, it will provide for equal treatment in all aspects of employment. It is a fair and just bill, however, and it recognizes that age is a valid factor in certain limited kinds of employment. In connection with enforcement, the new law will emphasize conciliation and provide sufficient opportunity for employers to make necessary adjustments in their employment practices. But when tough enforcement is required, the law will provide

Student facilities topic of teachers at library parlay

A special meeting of members of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School social studies department and representatives of the libraries serving local high school students was held in the school library last week with the librarian, Barbara Dimmers, in charge.

The purpose of the meeting was to exchange information about student use of the high school and town libraries. Ideas were discussed for improving communication between libraries and between staff members and librarians. Opportunities and procedures for inter-library loans were discussed and formulated.

The meeting was called at the request of Pauline A. Keith, coordinator of social studies of the Regional High School District, to deal with mutual problems relating to the reorganization of the new social studies curriculum, which requires a great deal of outside reading and research.

Those who attended the meeting included the Dayton principal, Robert F. Laventure; director and assistant director of Springfield Town Library Mrs. Helen Francis and Mrs. Virginia Parks, and members of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School social studies department: Mrs. Joan Cusumano, Mrs. Clare Mason, David Carl, Dennis Fox, Edward Jasinski, and Miss Keith.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER:
"There's a boy in class who keeps staring at me, or at least, I think he does. Because I'll be looking sideways and it seems he's staring at me. Well, anyway, I would like to know if there is a way of telling me that he likes me. If not, tell me a way to tell and how I should act around him."

OUR REPLY: You may just have a staring contest going on. The boy may have noticed you looking sideways to see if he was looking at you and he just looks to see if you are trying to catch him looking. Certainly, if the boy looks at you at all, he is interested. And, time will tell. There is no special formula to handle such a situation. If you like the boy, and apparently you do, there is nothing wrong with letting him know that you like him. You can do this simply by being friendly. Give him a smile and a greeting when you see him outside the classroom. If you do this and he likes you, he will make it known. But staring, whether he's staring at you or you're peeping to see if he is staring, is something that could go on and on—and it is not likely to help you to earn better grades in the subject you are taking in this particular class.

Assault on township woman launches chase into Newark

An assault on a Springfield woman last Saturday evening led to a high-speed chase through Millburn, Union, Irvington and Newark before the assailant's car, reportedly with several bullet holes in it, was abandoned in Newark. The incident began when Mrs. Ruth Pawlick of 35-B Forest dr., Springfield, was clubbed and had her purse taken after she had parked her car in the garage behind her apartment. Mrs. Pawlick was later taken by the First Aid Squad to Overlook Hospital, where she was treated for severe cuts on the head and face.

Neighbors immediately called Springfield police with a description of the attacker's car—which was passed on to police in Millburn. The driver reportedly committed a similar assault shortly thereafter in Millburn.

He was then pursued through several towns into Newark, where he abandoned the car and escaped. A few minutes later, the car's owner, Joseph Wooten of Newark, reported to police there that his car had been stolen. Wooten was charged with several motor vehicle violations in Millburn.

A witness to the attack in Springfield was taken to Newark, where he told police that Wooten was not the man he had seen. Local police are continuing the investigation.

The performance was given in German.

Miss Arends, a junior German major, has been active in Gamma Sigma Sigma, the service sorority, for three years; Delta Phi Alpha, the national honorary German fraternity, for three years, and is presently secretary of the German Club.

Nab stuck woman, man in stolen property case

Charges of possession of stolen property were brought by Springfield police against a young man and woman arrested last Thursday afternoon at Saks Fifth Avenue. The pair were accused of trying to return to the store merchandise which had been stolen earlier from a customer's car parked in the store parking lot.

The two accused were Vivian Dodge, 20, of Miami, described as a stewardess for Modern Airlines, and Anthony Iacullo, 22, of Belleville. They are scheduled to appear in Municipal Court on Monday night.

GIFTS FROM THE KITCHEN
Gifts prepared in your kitchen lend a special meaning to the spirit of giving during the holiday season.

Delicious, placed in an attractive container, and festively wrapped are especially appropriate for the person who has everything or for the senior citizen, who is no longer able to leave his home.

Homemade preserves, jellies and jams, nut breads, fruitcake, cookies and candies are just a few food gift suggestions.

Placing the food in a container that can be used for another purpose after the item has been eaten, adds even greater dimension to your gift. Apothecary jars, bread-baskets, cookie sheets, and salad bowls are appropriate, just to name a few.

The following recipe for Spiced Orange and Apple Wedges is an appealing accompaniment for ham—it is a unique idea for a food gift suggestion.

The SPAR corpsmen will then be assigned to Coast Guard medical centers at Cape May, Alameda, Calif., Elizabeth City, N.C., and New York City. Single women, without dependents, who are between the ages of 18 and 30 and who have a high school diploma or equivalent are eligible. The new SPARS will be on active duty for three years with a reenlistment option.

FBI reports 16 pct. crime increase in U.S. during first 9 months of '67

The FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, a compilation of statistics submitted voluntarily by local and state police agencies, disclosed this week that for the first nine months of 1967 crime in the United States increased 16 percent over the corresponding period in 1966. The crime rate or the risk of becoming a victim of crime increased 14 percent, according to Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

In making these figures available, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover stated that nationwide the violent crimes as a group increased 15 percent. Individually, these crimes showed a 27 percent increase in robbery, 16 percent in murder, nine percent in aggravated assault, and seven percent in forcible rape. Each of the more voluminous property crimes recorded increases with auto theft up 17 percent, burglary 16 percent, and thefts over $50 in value 15 percent. As a group, the property crimes registered a 16 percent rise.

According to the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, the large core metropolitan cities of over 250,000 population showed an average 15 percent rise. The suburban communities recorded a 17 percent increase and the rural areas a 12 percent rise. Regionally the crime trends were consistent, ranging from an overall increase of 14 percent in the southern states to an 18 percent rise in the northeastern states. The north central states registered a 17 percent increase during the nine-month period and the western states 15 percent. Each region recorded increases in all crime classifications.

The FBI DIRECTOR called attention to the "significant increase" in robbery on a nationwide basis and, particularly, to a 33 percent increase in armed robbery. He disclosed street robbery, which makes up over one-half of all robbery offenses, increased 27 percent, business house robbery 38 percent, service station robbery 26 percent, chain store robberies 39 percent, and robbery of residences 10 percent. Bank robbery continued its sharp upward trend with a 60 percent increase during the nine-month period in 1967 over the same months in 1966. The FBI Director also singled out a marked 22-percent increase in the use of firearms in aggravated assaults.

According to the FBI figures, the nationwide burglary increase of 16 percent continued to be influenced by an 11 percent increase in daytime burglary of residences. Burglaries of nonresidences rose 18 percent.

In the larceny category purse-snatching increased 23 percent, thefts of personal property from automobiles 17 percent, pocket-picking 14 percent, and shoplifting 11 percent during the 9-month period.

Assuming the 1967 crime trend as recorded during the first nine months continues at the same level through the last quarter, Hoover noted there would be an increase of 65,000 violent crimes over 1966 and a further increase of 450,000 property crimes over 1966. The FBI Director pointed out the last quarter of the year, October through December, has historically been a period of high crime incidence. The chart below depicts the growth of crime in the United States during the 1060's.

Hoover observed, "Our spiraling national crime trend is not a new phenomenon. It has been clearly demonstrated statistically over recent years."

Electronic device helps in locating ancient ships

Electronic treasure hunting is a reality thanks to a 10-year-old device that may help scientists to trace the remains of ships that have lain scattered over the sea bed for more than 30 centuries.

The instrument is the proton magnetometer. It is an extremely sensitive device used to detect the presence of weak magnetic fields and to measure their strength. It has already been used with some success in archaeology and related work because ancient remains such as ships' skeletons generally contain a relatively high proportion of iron fragments.

Iron that has lain for many years in the earth's own magnetic field, becomes the source of a weak magnetic field itself and a proton magnetometer is sensitive enough to detect it.

Dr. Edward Hall, director of the Oxford University Research Laboratory for Archaeology, developed a special magnetometer for this sort of research work, as long ago as 1958. Using an improved design he discovered the wrecks of two ships in the Dardanelles earlier this year.

Now he is preparing an underwater survey of the coastline near Ashdod in southern Israel, where large numbers of amphorae that have been retrieved from the sea suggest the presence of a wreck that dates as far back as the 10th century B.C.—UNESCO FEATURES.

Why the sudden surge of interest in water colors?

Andrew Wyeth? A more sophisticated public? More experimental artists? New developments in water colors themselves? Too many mediocre oils?

The answer lies partially with all these. Not since water color developed as a medium in its own right more than 200 years ago have they enjoyed such wide and well deserved acclaim. And Andrew Wyeth's phenomenal popularity has certainly been partially responsible for bringing them center stage.

This could only have happened, however, because an increasingly sophisticated public of artists, enthusiastic amateurs, and discerning collectors everywhere had already been discovering the virtues for what they are: vibrant, fluid, spontaneous—capturing the instant as no other medium can.

Experimental, talented artists, such organizations as the American Water Color Society and the New Jersey Water Color Society and the development of permanent colors have worked together to dispel the myth that water colors were the special province of a few masters because of the difficulty of the medium or that they were pale, fading little imports. The metropolitan area abounds with really fine artists who are producing a full gamut of permanent masterful water colors to suit the taste and pocketbook of the entire range of enthusiasts who find themselves weary of the glut of mediocre oils passed off as fine paintings.

The exciting work being done in water colors is dramatically apparent at the new shop, The American Water Colorists in Flemington's Turntable Junction, a unique gallery specializing in water colors: the superb sparkling originals of distinguished and talented artists and the masterful reproductions—now in print, among currently featured artists are such notable and acclaimed water colorists as Harry Leith-Ross of New Hope, Dagmar Tribble of Princeton, George Schuyler of Flemington, Jack Garver of Lawrenceville, Leo Gaskins of Fairwood, Tony Stribron of Summit, Ernest Walden of Meshanic.

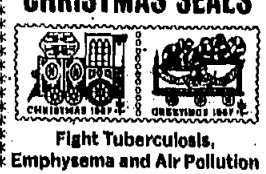

A special pleasure awaits you here, exploring the exciting and infinite possibilities of contemporary American water colors which capture splendidly the vitality of nature and the varied human experience.

I have a secret, Santa!
I know you'd come today.
I heard the neighbors tell each other
"Santa's on his way."
"If little girls are good," they said,
"Santa comes to call."
And bring with him a bag of toys
That's sure to please them all.
I heard you, Santa, on the roof
With Dancer, Prancer and the others.
"Let's check our list of girls," you said,
"Who mind their daddies and mothers."
I have a secret, Santa,
To whisper in your ear.
I love this pony very much.
I'm glad you left him here.

Riding him this way.
She'll see again the fun we had

Urges caution on Yule Lights

Are you planning on having out-of-the-ordinary decorations with electric lights this Christmas season?

If so, be careful to use only heavy-duty strings of lights made for outside lighting, says the American Insurance Association.

Rain or snow can cause short circuits in strings of lights not specifically made for outside use, the association emphasizes.

If you are using lights held over from last year, check them before you put them up to be sure they are in good operating condition.

Strings of lights with frayed wiring or faulty connections should be discarded and new ones purchased.

When buying Christmas lights, always buy those bearing the "UL" label which signifies that the product has been tested and listed by Underwriters' Laboratories, the association cautioned.

U.S. Senator HARRISON A. WILLIAMS Reports

Most of us take for granted that life is going to be better for us with each passing year. We'll earn more money, enjoy a bit more leisure and benefit in many ways from the growing American economy and the technological revolution which is making life a bit easier and more pleasant with each passing day.

But evidence is growing that one segment of our society doesn't share this realization of the American dream: the elderly.

Recently, the Senate Special Committee on Aging, of which I am chairman, called a convocation of experts on the problems and the potential of the elderly, to get their views on long-range research and program needs. We hope this will, among other things, lay the find that disadvantage accentuated in retirement. A couple with a retirement income of $3,500 a year will have to scrimp on clothing and vacations and similar items. A couple with a retirement income of $1,260 (the Social Security minimum) will have to cut corners on food, shelter and medical care.

The convocation lasted for two days and a great many problems were raised. Among these were housing, retirement activity, medical care, physical and social isolation, and many others.

The consensus was that, while we have made some small progress in meeting the needs of the elderly, we haven't yet even done the research which will define for us what is required for a decent life for all older Americans. Evag Jean

Some who search most diligently for happiness find little more than a small measure. Do not think that happiness is a place...

You can find happiness only within yourself. It matters not your station in life, your wealth, the importance of your position in the community...

Sewing up your Yule gift idea

A new sewing machine for Christmas is a good idea and a desirable gift, says Carolyn F. Yukius, Senior County Home Economist.

However, too frequently Santa, in the form of a husband, just goes out and buys a new machine as a big surprise to his wife.

This idea is admirable but it leaves much to be desired when it comes to selecting the best model and brand to suit the needs of the homemaker.

The new sewing machine is going to be a gift for Christmas, either consider a gift certificate or a check earmarked for this special purpose. Or consult the woman in question as to what she needs and wants.

The first consideration for purchasing a sewing machine is partially based on the sewing needs and ability. If you are a "bread and butter" mender and do little or no dress construction, then your best choice may be a straight sewing machine that has reverse stitching, a hinged presser foot, a light, and option of attachments. This type of machine will serve you well at a minimum expense and will be quite satisfactory if you plan to learn to sew or make more complicated things.

On the other hand, if you use your present sewing machine extensively, like to add decorative touches to constructed garments, make slipcovers and draperies, then you may want to look closely at the automatic zig zag stitching machines.

These models are considerably more expensive, but the flexibility and expanded uses such a machine provides may be well worth the money if you utilize it to the fullest.

Too frequently the sales pitch is for the expensive models and you can't blame the salesman for trying. And demonstrations on these models are convincing.

But you should try to be realistic in your present needs. A $300-$400 machine to mend sheets or put on patches is a pretty costly appliance.

Students, school employees given tuberculin tests by state

Each year almost 400,000 public school students, teachers, cafeteria workers, and other school employees in New Jersey are tested for tuberculosis. State law requires pupils in Grades 1-5 and 12 to have a tuberculin test. Programs are under the direction of the New Jersey State Department of Health.

The New Jersey Tuberculosis and Health Association, which has been fighting TB for over 60 years, considers tuberculin testing of school children an extremely important phase of any program to eradicate tuberculosis. The Association adds that since we do know that TB can actually be eradicated, it is important that we take the eradication task seriously.

The aim of tuberculin testing of children in this eradication program is to create a new generation free of infectious TB bacillus. The TB Association says that important aspects of such an achievement cannot be measured unless we realize that today between 25 and 30 million Americans are infected with TB bacillus. Half of them are over 45.

Of 400,000 who may be TB tested in the schools in any given year, relatively few active cases of TB may be found. However, as the tuberculin test even shows if you have been exposed to the disease there may be as many as 10,000 pupils, teachers, and other school personnel requiring further tests because they are positive reactors, that is, exposed to TB germs.

Until recently having a periodic chest X-ray was the main course a reactor was asked to follow in order to see that he kept free of active disease. Today the TB association says a new dimension is being added in the follow-up of tuberculin reactors. It is called chemoprophylaxis.

What it means is to use drugs to prevent tuberculosis. This is considered one of the most important parts of the modern tuberculosis control program.

The TB association says that seven trials conducted by the U.S. Public Health Service show that the drug isoniazid, used to treat primary infection, is very effective in preventing the development of TB in those already infected (reactors) and also in preventing the relapse of inactive tuberculosis.

The family physician can institute chemoprophylaxis, the TB Association states, for certain positive reactors.

The TB Association says that it is not practical to test and treat the entire population of positive reactors. Priorities must be set for public health programs taking into consideration the relative risk of developing active disease, the opportunities of infecting others, particularly children, and the resources available in the community.

Chemoprophylaxis can be given to certain positive reactors under age 20 for positive reactors through the age of school entrance and for teenagers because of the relatively high risk attending tuberculosis infection in these age groups, the association says.

Furrier to present scholarship award

One of the world's leading fur specialists has launched its second annual search for young American fashion design talent through a scholarship award program open to high school seniors graduating by June, 1968.

The talent search by the Flemington Fur Co., of Flemington is in cooperation with the Traphagen School of Fashion of New York City. The first award will be a full-year scholarship at Traphagen with the second prize a six-week Traphagen summer session course. Last year the Flemington award program reviewed nearly 1,000 entries.

Announcements of the contest together with rules and entry blanks were mailed this week to all public, private and parochial high schools in Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia.

Eligible high school seniors may enter this contest by submitting an original women's or teenage fashion design. Additional entry blanks are available from the Fashion Design Contest Director, Flemington Fur Co., Flemington. The contest closes on Feb. 29 and winners will be announced on April 15.

Society eyes hazards in holiday toys

Potentially dangerous toys and Christmas tree hazards will cause several hundred American children to suffer needless eye injuries during the coming holiday season, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness reported this week.

On behalf of the Society's annual nationwide safe toy campaign, Dr. John W. Ferree, executive director of the NSPB, warned parents that 17 per cent of the more serious injuries to children's eyes are caused by missile-type toys such as pellet guns, dart guns, air guns, bean shooters and many toys with rubber bands such as sling shots. "Parents should also be alerted against buying seemingly harmless toys having protruding points, sharp edges, detachable parts or those made with flammable or plastic materials that shatter," said Dr. Ferree.

As part of the seasonal safe toy campaign, the Society recommended that:

- Christmas trees, not made fire-proof by approved chemical sprays, should be kept in water to prevent drying and causing fire hazards.
- Christmas trees should be kept away from heated radiators or fireplaces.
- All electrical wiring should be double-checked for shorts that can cause sparks and flames.
- All tree decorations should be unbreakable.

Sen. Hughes asks action on smut bill

State Sen. Mildred Barry Hughes (D-Union) this week called upon all opponents of smut to persuade their Assembly representatives to attend the current Legislature's final session Jan. 4 and vote for her bill to extend the life of a study commission. She pointed out that the Senate overwhelmingly voted two weeks ago in favor of her measure to permit the commission to report by June 30, 1968, instead of a year earlier as stipulated in legislation she sponsored.

Sen. Hughes, who for 10 years has been the prime mover in the Legislature's efforts to combat indecent literature, pointed out that unless her latest bill, S-527, is approved by the Assembly and signed by Gov. Richard J. Hughes, funds to save the commission will be in jeopardy.

MISS CAROL L. RICHARDS

PROBATE COURT SCHEDULE
 Surrogate Mary C. Kane announced this week that the County Court Probate Division will be held tomorrow and on Dec. 22. The first court session in 1968 will be on Jan. 5.

Carol L. Richards, Lawrence S. Allen set date in August

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Richards of Warren, Ohio have announced the engagement of their daughter, Carol Lee, to Lawrence S. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Allen of 1115 Elker rd., Union. The announcement was made at a family gathering at the home of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss Richards, who is a senior at Case Western Reserve University, will receive a B.A. degree in June. She is a past president of Delta Phi Upsilon Sorority, a member of Mortar Board and a President's Scholar.

Her fiancé, who was graduated from Union High School and the University of Pennsylvania, where he received a B.A. degree in political science, is in his senior year at the School of Law of Case Western Reserve University, and will receive an LL.D. degree in June. He is a board member of the Law Review and a member of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

An August wedding is planned.

Visiting Homemaker Service issues an appeal for volunteers

The Visiting Homemaker Service of Central Union County this week issued an appeal for homemakers in Union.

Mrs. Ace Tubbs, executive director, said there is only one homemaker from Union who is employed by the service, although the Homemaker service which serves Union, averages between 500-600 hours a month.

The homemaker-home health aide service is the placement of a trained, mature, professionally supervised woman in the home to assist individuals during a period of stress or illness, Mrs. Tubbs said.

"The service is sponsored by a voluntary, non-profit health agency to help prevent family breakdown, to promote convalescence at home, to extend appropriate rehabilitation services from hospital to home and to provide personal care to those patients over 65 who are under Medicare," she said.

Mrs. Tubbs said there is a need for women who would like part-time work, or who are available for full-time work on a limited basis.

Among the qualifications are: At least an eighth-grade education, high school preferred; able to take instruction and supervision; love for an interest in people who are sick and need help, and satisfactory references from clergyman and physician, including medical examination.

Interested persons may apply to the Visiting Homemaker Service office, 121 Prospect st., Westfield. The service is supported by the United Fund of Union.

SHE NOTED that the commission was to have been set up this year under her 1966 measure and it was to have reported by last June 30 on what steps it felt New Jersey should take to curb the sale and distribution of pornographic material. The Legislature appropriated $10,000 to help the commission carry out its duties.

How a year, Sen. Hughes noted, the Governor failed to appoint eight public members to work with the Legislature's four appointees, and the commission therefore was unable to organize and function. Despite this, the commission still can fulfill its assignment, she added, provided the Governor makes the appointments and the $10,000 appropriation is not lost.

As Senator Hughes explained, S-527 is designed to "protect the $10,000 appropriation so that the commission can do the job the public wants it to do and has been under the impression it was doing."

"In view of the wide interest in New Jersey to combat smut," Senator Hughes added, "I urge all citizens, especially the mothers and fathers of teenagers, who can so easily be preyed upon by the purveyors of pornography, to urge their Assembly representatives to be at the January 9 session and to vote in favor of S-527."

Expansion endorsed over new county college

The Union County College Opportunity Committee this week endorsed the proposal of the Chamber of Commerce of Eastern Union County to use and expand the existing Union College in Cranford and the Union County Technical Institute in Scotch Plains rather than establish a new county college in Union County.

The position of the citizens committee was announced by former Assemblyman James M. McGowan and former Assistant Prosecutor Richard R. Muscatello, both of Elizabeth, co-chairmen.

"It has been our position for many years that Union County should make use of existing facilities to meet its responsibilities in higher education," the committee's statement said. "This is one of the reasons our committee worked for the establishment of a county-financed tuition aid plan for students attending Union College."

The Union County College Opportunity Committee agrees with the Chamber of Commerce that making use of existing facilities is the most economical means to meet Union County's higher education requirements as well as the best method educationally, according to the statement.

"IN UNION COLLEGE and the Union County Technical Institute, we have institutions that can provide for our higher educational needs in Union County," the co-chairmen said. "Since both institutions have indicated a willingness to work with the Union County Board of Freeholders, since both are willing to expand to meet increasing needs, we see no reason not to take advantage of this unique opportunity."

The exhaustive study made by the chamber and its interest in higher education on all levels was commended by the citizens committee.

"The Chamber of Commerce is doing all the citizens of Union County a great service in coming to grips with vital issues like our responsibilities in higher education." They said. "This is an enlightened approach that other Union County organizations might well emulate."

"Making use of existing facilities is not only the most economical means to meet Union County's requirements in higher education, but is also the best educationally," Erwin Rauch, vice president for manufacturing of the Wing Company, Division of Aero-Flow Dynamics, Linden, and chairman of the chamber's Education-Business-Industry Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

"In Union College and Union County Technical Institute we have a combination of institutions which can serve the need. Union College is an institution that has proved itself over the past 30 years and an institution that is fully accredited. Since Union College is willing to work with our Board of Freeholders in increasing educational opportunities for all qualified students, we see no reason not to take advantage of this unique opportunity. Union County Technical Institute has produced outstanding technicians to serve our local industry and will continue to do so."

EDWARD L. FOX, EXECUTIVE vice president, said Union-College officials and Union County Technical Institute officials have assured the chamber they have admitted over the past several years "all those students from their Union County constituency who, based upon school record and/or potential, are capable of successfully taking either an academic program at the freshman and sophomore level or a technical program at the post-high school level."

"Union County can have the least expensive and highest quality two-year college system in the state by simply taking advantage of existing institutions," Rauch said.

Fox said Union College officials told the chamber they have the facilities to expand enrollment over the next several years, and plans are underway for another building, which will add further to the college's student capacity.

city. The new campus of the Technical Institute under construction in Scotch Plains will provide expanded facilities for technical education.

The Union County College Opportunity Committee was organized in 1964 to study Union County's needs in the field of higher education and to make recommendations to the Board of Freeholders. The committee is comprised of leading civic, business, industrial, labor, educational, religious, veterans, and political leaders in Union County. The original executive committee included all the mayors from Union County's 21 municipalities, and the county's entire legislative delegation.

All for the price of a fancier priced car.

$3260 is the latest average price paid for a new car these days. (So says the Automobile Manufacturers Association.)

$3260 will also buy you a new range, a new refrigerator, a new dryer, a new washer, two new television sets, a record player and a $1695 Volkswagen.

Of course our little package doesn't include all those tricky little items you find on those fancier-priced cars. (Like electric ashtray cleaners. Or headlights that disappear when the sun comes out.)

But it does include good food, clean clothes, nice music and a chance to watch all the summer reruns in color.

A lot of people frown on a Volkswagen because they feel it doesn't offer enough in the way of fancy gadgetry. Look again.

How fancy can you get?

The new Trimline phone with pushbuttons that come to you

This new phone looks extraordinary. And it is. It started at Bell Laboratories several years ago with an ingenious idea: bring the dial to the dialer; put it in the handset. Bell people, building on the basic idea, discovering and innovating along the way, developed a compact phone with many distinct advantages: the new Trimline phone.

Touch-Tone pushbuttons in the handset. Lift the handset, the buttons light up and come to you. And you don't even have to hang up to make more than one call. You just press the new recall button to get a dial tone.

The Trimline phone saves space. It can be placed in out-of-the-way spots, since you don't need to see the base to call. Each Trimline phone costs just pennies a day. There's no extra charge for color. And if you want Touch-Tone service, the additional Touch-Tone charge covers all phones on your line. To order your new Trimline phones in either wall or table models, just call your Telephone Business Office. Also available with standard dial in new compact design.

Dayton moves to leave Watchung Conference

Rival schools have larger enrollments to compose squads

A request for Jordan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, to withdraw its athletic teams from participation in the Watchung Conference was presented by Dr. William M. Jaska, regional superintendent of schools, to the Regional Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night in Dayton.

Dr. Jaska noted that the regional conference, Robert La Vantage, principal at Dayton, with the support of Herbert Palmer, athletic director, Dr. Jaska added, "The athletic department faces a difficulty in scheduling games as an independent unit. Such time as it is able to enter a conference of schools of similar size, I recommend that the board increase its opposition to the request."

Dayton has been a member of the Watchung Conference for many years. The 11 schools in the conference are: Dayton, Springfield, Watchung, and others. Dayton is the largest school in the conference.

Two other schools are reported to have withdrawn from the conference because they felt that they had to withdraw to compete with the larger schools, particularly in football. There is a number of other schools in the conference.

They plan to be in the conference in the future. The board will be in session on Dec. 14 to give data on the conference.

Regional basketball team to play Kenilworth, Westfield

Bulldogs trounce Clark in first contest of season

By MYRON MEISEL
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School basketball team will play its first home contest tomorrow night against David Brearley Regional High School or Kenilworth and will travel to Westfield High School on Tuesday afternoon. The Bulldog cagers recorded a 73-61 victory over Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School of Clark in their opening game.

"I was very pleased with the team's performance," commented head coach Ray Yanchus, "especially during the first half. The entire squad made a good team defensive effort, preventing Clark from scoring any field goals for over six minutes in the second quarter.

"This was largely due to the superb job David Margulies did in guarding the top Clark shooter, Chet Mell, throughout the game. Margulies also blocked three of Mell's shots during that quarter. Our defense then was the turning point of the game. By stopping the Crusader attack, we managed to take a 23-point lead at one time during the second quarter.

"The whole team produced, defensively. Cliff York did a fine job containing Clark, and Ralph Losanno, along with Margulies, did well on the boards. Denny Lester filled in well for Richie Campbell when Campbell got into foul trouble.

"Most of our offensive punch, however, came from Gary Kurtz, who made half our goals in the second quarter. We relied largely on the fast break, and it worked fairly well. York, who is effective on the fast break, scored eight points that way, helping considerably in that respect.

"We lost some momentum in the second half. Clark scored six straight points at the end of the second quarter, and in the next quarter Mell started to drive more, drawing a lot of fouls and connecting on 18 for 22 from the foul line. We also had momentary lapses on the defensive boards, but these were balanced off by strong offensive rebounding.

"WE ALSO GOT a strong game, both offensively and defensively, from Richie Campbell, who caught four fouls early in the game and was out for most of the first half. Campbell did a fine job of controlling the ball throughout the Clark press during the second half and effectively set up plays, particularly to Kurtz.

Dayton was a little slow in starting, but the Bulldogs led the Crusaders from the beginning. Dayton's strong defense held Clark for most of the first half, with most of the Crusader points coming from the foul line. But Springfield ran away with the game in the second quarter. Clark came back strongly by the second half, but it was matched all the way by Dayton. Clark shaved the Bulldog lead to 10 twice, but never came any closer.

Dayton does not have a serious threat in Kenilworth, a much smaller school that is having trouble this season with its basketball squad. Kenilworth dropped its opener to Brick Township by over 30 points.

Westfield, on the other hand, has always represented a challenge for the Bulldogs, who beat the Blue Devils in both encounters last season. Yanchus stated, "Westfield does have a fine coach, Bob Fulton, who is always able to get the maximum results from his team. Jim Scott, a big man who is tough on the inside, could be a problem, but we hope to see Scott, who is 6-4, against Tony Gromek and Margulies, who are both 6-5, and try to neutralize him."

The Dayton junior varsity also defeated Clark, 38-35, in a close come-from-behind victory. After being down 23-13 at the half, guard Frank Buccì sank a shot from the outside with 2:40 left to give Dayton a 32-31 lead.

Charlie Foster, capping off a fine game, scored the final goal with three seconds remaining. Fred Gold, Danny D'Andrea, Woody Young and Marty Josephs joined Buccì as the starting five, and both Foster and Phil Stokes played excellent games in relief. Mike Inallini is JV coach.

Dayton quintet beats Rahway in 2nd contest

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School basketball team continued undefeated this Tuesday when the Bulldog cagers beat a strong Rahway High School team, 86-75.

Rahway, which placed second in the Watchung Conference last season and defeated Dayton twice, had three veterans remaining, but the Indians were outmatched all the way by this year's Dayton squad. The entire team combined in a powerful offensive effort, Cliff York and Gary Kurtz leading with 21 and 19 points, respectively, and Richie Campbell close behind with 17. Ralph Losanno and Dennis Lester rounded out the starting team.

The game started off even, but Dayton jumped ahead in the second quarter to lead by 10 at the half. Rahway was in foul trouble for much of the game, and the Bulldogs shot almost 75 percent from the foul line. Defensively, Dayton effectively contained Rahway's big guns and munched taller holdovers on the boards. Dayton's defense led throughout the entire second half.

Now 2-0 in the Watchung Conference, Dayton faces its next conference challenge at Westfield High School on Tuesday.

Howard Rubenstein of 223 Leisak ave., Springfield is a member of the 1967-68 varsity wrestling team at the Newark Campus of Rutgers University.

Rubenstein, a freshman majoring in chemistry, won football, wrestling and track letters at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. He will wrestle in the 145-pound weight class for Rutgers Newark.

Ski Stony Point awaits another busy campaign

STONY POINT, N.J.—Ski Stony Point, a new lodge in Rockland County, is bustling with activity getting set for the 1967-68 ski season. The closest complete ski facility to the metropolitan area, Ski Stony Point has added new lifts, redecorated its base lodge, regroomed and resodded trails and slopes and completely paved its parking area. The 65-acre skiing area is located on Route 210 West, off the Palisades Interstate Parkway, just 15 minutes from the George Washington Bridge and 10 minutes from the Tappan Zee Bridge.

The newly redecorated base lodge has a Mediterranean motif suggested by one of the metropolitan area's leading interior decorators. The Riviera Dining room features wall-to-wall carpeting, a large dance floor and imported draperies and decoration. For the first time, the facilities of the lodge are available for catering to private parties, small or large.

The paved parking area was enlarged to double last year's capacity.

Additionally, snow-making facilities have been increased on all trails, while the water supply has been doubled to provide extra capacity. New snow cats, prows, slopes and trails to assure constant grooming.

Ski Stony Point boasts a 1,000-foot-long by 80-foot-wide expert trail; two intermediate trails, 1,400 and 1,200 feet long; an intermediate slope—1,800-foot-long and 300-foot-wide for family skiing; and a 1,000-foot-long by 350-foot-wide novice trail.

Night skiing on well-illuminated slopes and trails is offered on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Ski Stony Point has a double chair lift accommodating 1,200 skiers an hour, a platter pull that can handle 600 persons an hour and a rope tow geared to pull 400 skiers an hour.

STRAIN PAINT

When painting from a can that has been opened before, you're likely to need a strainer to eliminate any lumps or bits of "skin" that may be present. You can use a section of window screen or a discarded nylon stocking or purchase a more professional paint strainer from your local paint dealer.

Studded snow tires help but tire chains the best

Steel-studded snow tires increase traction significantly on glare ice, but reinforced tire chains provide materially greater traction, according to University of Tennessee Professor E. A. Whitehurst, Director of the Tennessee Highway Research Program, Knoxville, Tenn.

Professor Whitehurst, who serves as director of the winter skid tests conducted annually by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards, based his conclusions on the Council's 1967 winter test project at Stevens Point, Wisconsin. "New studded snow tires on the rear wheels only reduced braking distances on ice by 19 per cent as compared with regular highway tires," Professor Whitehurst said. "After 2500 miles of wear, this improvement dropped to 13 per cent. With studded tires on all four wheels the braking distance was reduced by 31 per cent when new, and 17 per cent when used."

"From the standpoint of traction or pulling ability on glare ice, studded snow tires developed about three times the pulling ability of regular tires," Professor Whitehurst added. "Reinforced tire chains provided more than seven times the pulling ability of regular tires."

He concluded his summary with this comment: "No matter what the driver uses to improve traction on snow and ice — snow tires, studded tires, or tire chains — in no instance can he stop or go nearly as well as with conventional highway tires on a dry pavement. This means that far slower than normal speeds are essential for safe driving on slippery pavements."
