Hearing set on new zoning

To explain changes in present law

Formal action on code to follow informal talks!

By ABNER GOLD

The Township Committee will hold an informal hearing next Wednesday evening to discuss the final draft of plans for a revised zoning code, Committee Chairman Philip Del Vecchio announced at the governing body's meeting Tuesday night at Town Hall.

The Wednesday meeting will be the second designed to explain details and get comments on the proposed revision of the zoning code. It will be held at 8 p.m. in the committee's meeting room at Town Hall. The first meeting on the zoning code was scheduled to be held last night.

Mayor Robert D. Hardgrove, presiding at his last meeting since a recent illness, urged all citizens to attend next Wednesday and familiarize themselves with the new zoning proposals. The governing body plans to act on the proposals after the informal hearings.

Del Vecchio also reminded all property owners, yard cleaners, and others with fallen leaves, grass clippings and other refuse to dispose of that large plastic bags are now available from the township at cost to aid in disposal of the refuse.

"This will save grief over what to do with this material, since we can't burn it," Del Vecchio commented. Once filled with refuse, the bags will be collected on the regular garbage trucks, he noted.

2-day course on baby-sitting set next week

A baby-sitting course for boys and girls 11 and older will be held during the Easter vacation at the St. James School auditorium, sponsored by the Greater Westfield National Council of Jewish Women, the Florence Gaudineer School PTA and St. James School.

The two-day course will be held Wednesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. until noon.

Wednesday's program will include Vera Plaskon, of the Visiting Nurse and Health Service of Union County, Mrs. Arthur Weiss, who will discuss the role of the parent, a Red Cross film on rescue breathing and Mrs. Audrey Steier, arts and crafts teacher at Beth Ahm Nursery School, who will demonstrate ways of entertaining young children.

Thursday, Deputy Chief Robert Day of the Springfield Fire Department, will describe what to do in case of fire. Police Sgt. Delno Tompkins will discuss safety procedures (gunfire calls, blackout, ways of answering the door, etc.). Dr. Benjamin Josephson, a pediatrician, will explain what to do in case of emergency (first aid, poisoning, croup, etc.). A film on safety will be shown, and Mrs. Ruth Black will explain the purpose and function of the Youth Employment Service.

Service held as tribute to memory of Dr. King

"One of freedom's brightest lights has been extinguished" was the way one Springfield resident reacted to the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. last Thursday evening. Officially and unofficially, local citizens paid tribute to the memory of the slain civil rights leader in many ways.

More than 600 members of all of Springfield's churches and synagogues packed St. James Church for a memorial service conducted by the clergymen of all congregations Sunday afternoon. Other local residents took part in the memorial march through Newark on Sunday.

Students at the Florence Gaudineer School reviewed Dr. King's contributions to American civilization at a hastily organized assembly program on Friday morning. Springfield youngsters joined their counterparts throughout Union County in having their schools closed on Tuesday as a tribute to Dr. King, and all high school athletic events scheduled for Tuesday were postponed.

Many residents recalled hearing Dr. King speak in Springfield twice in past years, at the invitation of Rabbi Israel Dresner of Temple Shalom, who had been his colleague in many civil rights confrontations. Dr. King's most recent speech here was on April 24, 1966, at a meeting at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School sponsored by Shalom Shalom. Rabbi Dresner is now in Israel on sabbatical leave and was unable to take part in any of the local memorial programs this week.

THE MEMORIAL SERVICE on Sunday at St. James Catholic Church was arranged by the Rev. Kenneth J. Stumpf of Holy Cross Lutheran Church, in behalf of the informal organization of all Springfield clergymen.

Monsignor Francis X. Coyle of St. James offered the invocation on Sunday. Rabbi Reuben R. Levine of Temple Beth Ahm read a psalm, and the Rev. Warren W. West of Evangelical Baptist Church presented a reading from Philipplans. Miss Nellie Johnson of (Continued on page 4)

Out of mouths of teeners

Color 'fades' in tour of Newark

A group of students from Springfield's Florence Gaudineer School spent last Wednesday touring the Central Ward of Newark with a class from the West Kinney Junior High School. The following is a report of the day's activities written by Bonnie Bernstein, one of the Springfield teenagers taking part.

In January, Gaudineer students who were members of Mrs. Imit Maddaugh's eighth grade home room, under the instruction of their social studies teacher, Mrs. Norma Levine, sent their first tape-recorded message to eighth grade class at West Kinney Junior High School in Newark. Since then, the two classes have had a frequent exchange of tapes in attempts to uncover and understand white and Negro prejudices. Students felt that the tapes were extremely beneficial; but they thought that a personal meeting of students involved in the tape exchange would be an even more enriching experience.

Their wishes for a personal meeting were to become a reality. Last Wednesday morning, Mrs. Levine's class arrived at West Kinney Junior High and stepped off the bus in anticipation. The students were received with an excited welcome at the entrance by the president of the West Kinney class. One of the most rewarding and valuable experiences of their lives had begun.

Each of the Gaudineer students was paired off with a Negro student who acted as his guide for the day. Within half an hour, as the Negro and white boys and girls were walking to the fourth Precinct Police Station, they were laughing, joking, and chatting about all subjects -- from dating and Vietnam to the summer riots and looting.

At the police station, Captain Edward Williams, the first Negro to hold this rank in the Newark Police Department, discussed integration, police statistics and the duties and responsibilities of his police force with the group of boys and girls.

Local LWV urges voter registration for June primary

Thursday, April 25, is the deadline for registration to participate in the June 4 primary elections, according to a reminder issued this week by the Springfield League of Women Voters. Residents must be permanently registered in order to vote in the primaries.

Voters can register at the township clerk's office in the Municipal Building weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The office will also be open for registration until 9:00 p.m. on April 22, 23, 24 and 25.

As part of a campaign to encourage its members and other citizens to engage more actively in party politics, the League of Women Voters of Springfield is distributing a new State League publication, entitled "Politics—Where the Action Is."

This illustrated red, white, and blue pamphlet shows voters how they can participate in the nomination of candidates for elective office, particularly during the forthcoming presidential election. Readers will learn how they can become involved in their local political parties as well as the relationship of the municipal party to the state and national hierarchy, according to a group spokesman. Information on the selection of delegates to national political conventions is also included.

According to Mrs. Harry Elstein, League president, this new publication assures citizens that party membership is easy to achieve and that members are needed at the municipal level. The basic message of this publication emphasizes that politics starts at the local level, and that all citizens should participate.

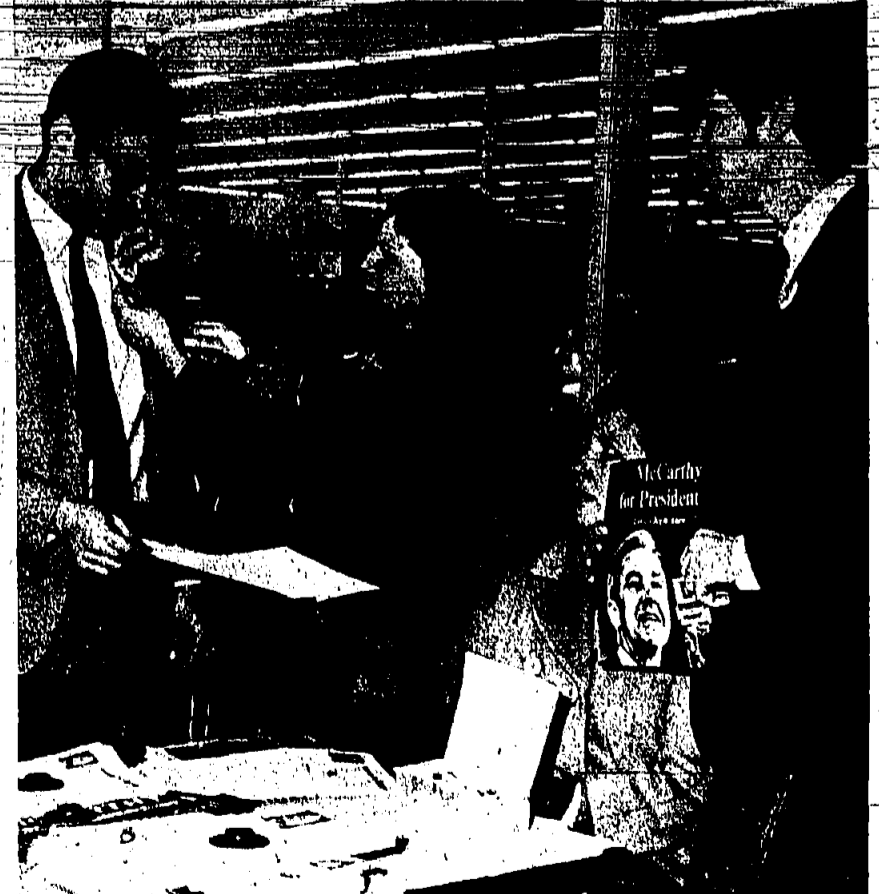

Copies of the pamphlet are available at two cents each or $18 a thousand from Mrs. Herbert Forman, League voters' service chairman, at 379-6065.

The League has also announced publication of a new book, "Crisis: The Condition of the American City," prepared for the League of Women Voters of the United States by Urban America, Inc.

The League pointed out that this analysis of the city today comes off the press at a particularly crucial time -- just following the President's urgent message to Congress calling for extensive legislative action if the nation's cities are to be saved in their struggle for survival.

Called to Newark

One Springfield fire truck was called to Newark to help fight the fires there at 2 a.m. on Wednesday, according to Fire Chief Ormond Mesker, but the alarm was canceled and the unit returned without seeing any action. The one pump-truck, with Capt. Ted Johnson and five men, went down Rt. 22 as far as Frelinghuysen avenue before starting back.

Schoolboard changes meeting date for April

The monthly meeting of the Springfield Board of Education will be held Tuesday evening, April 30, at the James Caldwell School, rather than on the third Tuesday of the month, which is the usual date.

The change this month was voted to avoid holding the meeting during the week of spring vacation, a school board spokesman explained.

YES office closed tomorrow; 'Week' will start Monday

The Springfield Youth Employment Service office will be closed on Good Friday, tomorrow, according to Mrs. Saul Black, YES Chairman.

Mrs. Black, stating that final plans are being formulated for YES Week, which will start Monday, said an official declaration will be made by Mayor Robert Hardgrove in recognition of this event, and various activities will be undertaken in an effort to raise the necessary funds to meet the Youth Employment Service's yearly operating expenses.

It is hoped that the slogan, "Get to Know What YES Is," adopted for the commemorative week, will result in expanded awareness of the Youth Employment Service program. "We must have complete cooperation from our youth, parents and local business people to insure the continuance of this necessary organization," Mrs. Black added.

Any person interested in obtaining further information about YES activities may call Mrs. Black, 376-2272, or Mrs. Felix Gold, 376-1947. The YES office, located at Town Hall, can be reached Monday through Friday, from 2 to 4:30 p.m., by calling 379-2567.

Children heading for first round-up

The Springfield schools will hold their annual kindergarten round-up April 23 and 24 for youngsters who will begin their formal education next September. It was announced this week by John O. Berwick, superintendent of schools. Children who will become five by next Dec. 1 are eligible.

Registration will be held April 23 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Thelma Sandmeier School and from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Edward Walton School. The hours April 24 will be 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the James Caldwell School and 1 to 3 p.m. at the Raymond Chisholm School. Documents required at time of registration include certificates of birth, vaccination and diphtheria, whooping cough, measles and polio inoculations.

Trip to Newark

the boys and girls took a bus tour of the ghetto. As the bus proceeded on its tour, Gaudineer students recorded the observations as their guides pointed out important locations and supplied data from their own knowledge as residents of the area. The bus ride continued on downtown to the "New Newark" area, where beautiful buildings, parks and summer recreation centers are being erected as part of efforts to make Newark a better city in which to live and work.

The students returned to West Kinney, where they shared an excellent lunch with their host, students. After lunch, the boys and girls walked to the Fuld Neighborhood House, where they were given a briefing by the director on the scope of the activities of this recreation and social service center.

Students next visited the Hayes Homes, a low-income housing project. Kerry Bethea, one of the students at West Kinney, invited the class to visit his family's six-room apartment in the Hayes project. The students were received with wonderful hospitality by Kerry's mother, who served all of the students refreshments.

The students were still glowing from the warmth of their reception at Mrs. Bethea's apartment as they returned to West Kinney to tour the building with their guides. They found West Kinney to be larger than Gaudineer, with better physical education facilities, but not as complete laboratory facilities for science classes.

The tour was followed by attendance at a school assembly where the students listened to a concert by the Virginia State College Band. When it was over and the time had come for the Springfield students to board their bus for home, there was a mad-scramble by all students to exchange autographs, addresses and telephone numbers. The students departed the best of friends after the best social studies class they had ever had.

THE FOLLOWING ARE excerpts from evaluations written by other Gaudineer students after the trip was completed:
 Andrea Katz: "I thought the trip was great. At first, I felt very strange and was careful of everything I said. The trip definitely brought out all the similarities between the two classes that I could not realize from the tapes. The trip proved to me things newspaper articles can't. I saw for myself the riot-torn areas, now deserted; the living conditions of an average Negro. I didn't realize that many of the boys and girls have to do the cleaning and cooking because their mothers work."
 Marcie Feldman: "I absolutely loved this trip. I feel I really made great friends. These students are so fantastic, they're so outgoing. If but one small group such as ourselves proved that skin color is a completely ridiculous basis for judging people—then it proves it can be done. Other classes must do it."

Howie Levine: "The trip was one of the best things I ever did in the way of learning. I really think that there was a tremendous relationship between everyone and, from this, the children have made new friends. But more important than that is the idea that people are the same, forgetting race or religion. It was amazing the way so many children can know and like each other so quickly. Conversations were not 'yes' and 'no', but full of honesty and warmth."
 Dale Ames: "I think the trip was the most worthwhile thing I've ever done so far in all my years in school. It taught me a lot about other people and about Newark. It was a fabulous experience; next year more classes should do it. The parents, if they have prejudices and are bigoted, can't be changed. Boys and girls don't have them, but learn them from their parent. If they could be taught at an early age that there aren't any real differences, it would be so much better."
 Nancy Heller: "I thought the trip taught us much more than we could ever learn from the tapes. I didn't even notice that their skin was a different color. When we walked into the West Kinney class to meet our guides, I could feel the cold stare that some children seemed to give each other. But towards the end of the day, all I could feel was the little pat of friendship that Gail, my new friend, gave me. This was about the best feeling I had ever experienced."

1. Convenience. I can invest small or large amounts in Mutual Funds whenever I wish.
2. Diversification. With my kind of income, I could never afford to buy stocks in dozens of different companies... but with one Mutual Fund, that's just what I've got.
3. Professional Management. As market conditions change, management decides which stocks to keep, to buy, to sell, I have far more faith in their judgment than in my own.

Does freedom's altar need more sacrifices?

The amazing part of the nation-wide torrent of shock and grief over the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was that so many of those who mourned the most conspicuously had been so well able to camouflage their support of Dr. King in recent years.

Those who have walked, in body or in spirit, with Dr. King in all his endless marches, mourn quietly, for the most part, and will continue to grieve until the altar of freedom requires no more sacrifices.

Just a few years ago, it was almost as fashionable to admire Dr. King's courage and dedication as it is to eulogize them today. After all, who here in tranquil Springfield felt threatened by the Negro's desire to ride a bus, or eat lunch, or even vote -- in Alabama or Mississippi?

In more recent years, of course, freedom's team was driving for goals a little closer to our own playing field. Dr. King's very leadership in the movement was being challenged by young militants -- hotheads whose excesses were matched only by the injustices of life behind the ghetto walls.

But these comments were to be about Dr. King. Perhaps the nonviolence of the saintly Mohandas Gandhi, which was the model for the nonviolence of the saintly Dr. King, would work only against injustices acknowledged by the vast majority of the populace.

Perhaps a nation which could be disturbed by second-class citizenship enforced by law in the Deep South cannot trouble itself over one-and-a-half classes created by veiled prejudice in the North.

Perhaps the cause of freedom for which so noble a life was willingly sacrificed is hopeless.

Perhaps we should all resign ourselves to the continued existence of our cities as a polluted whirlpool down which our national strength will flow endlessly.

Perhaps our leaders and our legislators will never care enough to apply fiscal anti-biotics, rather than band-aids, to the sores of our cities.

If so, then we need not mourn for Dr. King. We need not mourn for ourselves, in that case, for our nation would have no soul.

Perhaps, on the other hand, we can use this tragic occasion to remind ourselves that this nation was founded on the belief that all men are created equal.

Perhaps we can act together to remove the barriers which have, in fact, made all too many of us less than equal. Perhaps we can all build together, as we mourned together this week, to provide the housing and the jobs and, above all, the schools which will make the dream of American freedom a reality.

Perhaps we can, and if we do, then Dr. King will indeed have won, and his sacrifice, in the pitiless balance of history, will have been worthwhile.

If we can't, then in the long run it won't really matter. If we fail to reach the goals set by Dr. King, if we fail to reach the promised land he saw from the top of the mountain, then we will all be lost in the wilderness -- and the world will no longer be ours.

The place to start, for those of us in Springfield, is right in Springfield. We have our own Jerichos right here; our own walls of exclusion and of privilege. Now is the time to start sounding the trumpet.

Passover message

By RABBI REUBEN R. LEVINE

Passover, which Jewish people will be observing for a week starting tomorrow night, represents the civilized world's first lesson in human freedom. As a major theme in the Bible, the story of the Exodus and its insistence on the justice of slavery caught the imagination of the western world. Although the ideal of freedom and equality for all men is not having been reached, the fact that this holiday is a major observance in religion's way of continually reminding us of the goals for which we must strive persistently.

Back in the early 1800s, when slavery was legitimate in our country and widespread in many of our states, the Negro found support and inspiration in the Bible for his own yearning for freedom. This is clearly reflected in the well known spiritual, "Let My People Go," which used the words Moses spoke to Pharaoh. Today, ironically, many white Americans are inspired by the struggles of those Negroes who are fighting and working for full equality through peaceful and constructive means.

The shining example of such striving was the man, killed only days ago by a mindless assassin, whose history will remember as one of the saintliest heroes as well as one of the greatest Americans of our time.

The message of Dr. Martin Luther King and the message of Passover are identical: Man is created in God's image and must be given the freedom to fulfill his human destiny; oppression is as harmful to the oppressor as it is to the oppressed.

As the people of our country approach the observance of Passover and Easter, both of which will be celebrated simultaneously this year, the questions we must ask ourselves are these:

Is it not time that we should have learned to apply the great truths of the past? Have we not come to the crucial age when mankind must finally recognize the humanity of every child of God?

Must we and our children still face the threats of war, hostility and oppression? Cannot the society that will soon place men on the moon learn how to bring security and harmony into its civic, national and international life?

Shall the words of a Moses or a Jesus or a Martin Luther King continue to fall on deaf ears?

Springfield Public Library reports on newest books for local readers

The Springfield Public Library offers the following titles from the list of new books now ready for circulation:

Letters to Editor

Letters to the editor must be submitted no later than Monday of the week they are to appear. They should not exceed 250 words in length and should be typed with double spacing (not all in capital letters, please). All letters must be signed. Writer's name will not be withheld if the letter is of political nature. This newspaper reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

"TRAGICALLY DRAMATIZED" The brutal slaying last Thursday in Memphis of Dr. Martin Luther King, a man whose life was devoted to the achievement of freedom and justice for all Americans by non-violent means, has tragically dramatized the results of racism. It brought to memory a Sunday in March, 1965, when residents of our township gathered at the Municipal Building for a vigil in memory of James Reeb, Unitarian minister from Boston, who died following a beating in Selma, Alabama.

"POSITIVE ROLE" At a time when the conscience of white America is painfully stirred by the tragic assassination of Martin Luther King, it is heartening to see evidence in our own town of a growing awareness that we in suburbia must assume a positive role in the civil rights struggle.

"JERICHO JIM CROW" As parents who were fortunate enough to have participated in the ERIC, we are grateful to Mrs. Levine for planning a most moving experience, and appreciate the fact that both she and Miss Judy Gaines devoted a Sunday to their students.

We were also proud of the youngsters of Springfield for their courteous behavior and intelligent appreciation. Clearly, students do respond when education is made relevant to the urgent social problems of our day.

Town meeting

could clearly see the three schools in the area. Planner also said that he was hopeful of action soon on some of the problems related to R. 78 construction in Springfield. He cited the need for dust and drainage control and for replacement of damaged curbs.

TRAVEL "Gipsy Moth Circles the World," by Sir Francis Chichester. The author's personal account of the extraordinary feat that captured the imagination of the world. A magnificent book to match a magnificent adventure, told in Sir Francis' own words and illustrated with his own photographs.

HISTORY "The River that God Forgot," by Richard Collier. A thousand miles up the Amazon is the ghost town of Manaus. Fifty years ago it was a swinging, opulent city, the heart of the Brazilian rubber boom, built by rubber, greed and slavery. The tale of its rise and ruin is one of the most dramatic, little-known episodes of recent history.

"FAMOUS TRIALS" The Great Monkey Trial, by L. Sprague deCamp. A dramatic and definitive account of the famous Scopes trial. By capturing the full flavor of the historic court battle, the author has given us not only an excellent description of the trial but its combatants too, the famed attorneys, Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan.

"Determined to Live," by Pia Paoli. Along with her personal story, the author gives the patient's version of the pioneering work going on in a London hospital for the treatment of cancer. She offers no false optimism and raises no false hopes but her book gives a remarkably readable account of 10 harrowing years until she was pronounced totally cured. There is a levelheadedness in her writing that gives authority to the hopeful side of her story.

"Two Against the Tide," by Bruce Clements. One could hardly call it kidnapping, but Tom and his sister Sharon were taken to a strange island off the coast of Maine without their parents' knowledge. An island where there were no other children and no hands on the old town clock. An unusual, exhilarating novel for boys and girls.

"O Children of the Wind and Pines" by Laura Nelson Baker. A story of the Huron Indian children, especially one little girl called Atatase. It is based on early diaries kept by Jesuit Missionaries, "O Children of the Wind and Pines" is a Christmas-carol written by one of them over 300 years ago.

While many municipalities are attempting to raise a salary of policemen and firemen, certain inequities remain in the statutes that do not contribute to high morale in the departments.

SPEAKERS LAST FRIDAY at the Gaudineer School assembly included Rabbi Levine and Johnson. There were also selections by the student choir, and comments from a number of students. They included Leigh Blair, Bonnie Bernstein, Stuart Sherman, Billy Steffy, Howard Levine, Andrea Katz, Sharon Miller, Dale Ames, Rachel Kalon, Nancy Helter, Susan Greenberg, Marcia Feldman and Jerry Jones.

I leave you love; I leave you hope; I leave you the challenge of developing confidence in one another; I leave you a thirst for education; I leave you a respect for the use of power; I leave you faith; I leave you racial dignity; I leave you a desire to live harmoniously with your fellowmen; I leave you with responsibility to our young people...

PROFILE--Vincent Plaia

Vincent Plaia, who looks like a man who has had a hand in nearly every phase of sports, is the new assistant recreation director of Springfield. The strong, healthy-looking young man, who has been on the job for less than two weeks (he started April 1), has all sorts of new plans for activities for the summer program in Springfield.

VINCENT PLAI A

"I will be working with Ed Ruby (recreation director) on the summer programs," says Plaia. "We've just started a physical education training program for policemen and firemen in this area. It's going to be a carefully-planned program to help keep the men physically fit. The program," he says, "will be for 10 weeks beginning April 11 (today), and will be supervised by Donald Carpenter, who is a physical education teacher."

"I'm really too early to tell just how these things will shape up," indicates Plaia, "but everything does look promising."

"WE ARE PLANNING six concerts for our band this summer. And we're trying to set up a grand slam program for the boys -- a run, hit and throw contest."

"There will be some new programs for the girls, too," says Plaia. "We're going to try to set up a basketball program for girls six to 12 years old. And we will try to improve on our arts and crafts program for the summer. We feel that it's very important. We particularly want to expand our cultural activities."

Plaia says that he will be "directing the playground programs and will be directly involved with children and the hiring of playground leaders. We have some already, Plaia, who was born in Newark, was graduated from Irvington Vocational High School, where he was "very active in sports...baseball, basketball, track, soccer." He attended Newark College of Engineering.

"I was involved with Essex County CYO summer programs for several years," he recalls. "And when we moved to Springfield 10 years ago, I became involved in activities here. I have been an active volunteer fireman for the past five years and was involved in the Little League and Adult Softball League in Springfield."

Plaia was employed by the Springfield Post Office for several years. "I was a carrier, and this is really what created an interest in the township," you know, meeting people, learning their interests and wanting to be part of the community."

Plaia and his wife, the former Nina Bokoko of New Columbia, Pa., are active members of the community. They have a daughter, Mary Frances, who was born Dec. 21, 1967.

AFTER PLAI A LEFT the post office, he became an agent for John Hancock Insurance Co. "Then I became a sales representative for the William Wrigley Jr. Co. in the New York office. This job also gave me another opportunity to meet people and create an interest."

Report from Trenton

By State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldi

The recruitment and maintenance of qualified law enforcement officers continues to be one of the most serious problems facing New Jersey municipalities. While many municipalities are attempting to raise a salary of policemen and firemen, certain inequities remain in the statutes that do not contribute to high morale in the departments.

High on the list of sore points among policemen is the fact that in most cases they often must make court appearances in connection with their job on their own time. A bill which I plan to introduce on Monday is intended to correct this situation. The measure would provide that any criminal court or grand jury appearance by law enforcement officers shall be considered a part of their duty and that they should lose no pay because of the appearance. When such an appearance occurs during a policeman's off-duty hours he would receive either additional compensation or compensatory time off. After its passage, the law would become operative when a municipality or county regulatory agency adopts an ordinance or resolution to this effect.

Present legislation does not make it perfectly clear that a municipality can pay time-and-a-half for overtime work by policemen and firemen. Under the law as it stands, they can be paid "at the prevailing rate." I would like to change the law to permit municipalities and counties to pay up to time-and-a-half. Accordingly, I also plan to introduce legislation to this effect on Monday.

Law enforcement has become an exceedingly complex proposition. Today's policeman must be a combination of enforcer of the law, social worker and psychologist with some knowledge of the law as it is currently interpreted by the judiciary. It would be to society's advantage therefore to encourage our law enforcement officers to further their education so they can continue to cope effectively with the complexities of their jobs.

BABIES born in a hospital experience grow up to be taller adults, reports Stanford University. Two psychologists there studied records of children from birth to age 18, checking the annual stature of vaccinated infants against those who were not. Those vaccinated became a half-inch to more than an inch taller than the others. Inoculation may be presumed to be stressful on several accounts, say the investigators. First, it is painful, and an infant who has been inoculated for smallpox ordinarily shows symptoms of distress for up to two weeks. Other researchers have noted the same growth acceleration phenomenon in rats which as babies received rough handling, mild electric shocks or chilling.

Emanuel Methodist Church schedules services for today, tomorrow, Easter

Holy Communion will be celebrated this evening at 8 at Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church, Main Street at Academy Green, in commemoration of the Last Supper which Christ shared with his disciples in the Upper Room in Jerusalem. The Chancel Choir will sing an anthem, directed by Norman Simons. "To Risk Everything" will be the title of the Communion meditation presented by the Rev. James Dewart, who will be assisted in the administration of the sacrament by Emanuel Schwig, local preacher.

Good Friday services will include a meditation service at the First Presbyterian Church at 1 p.m. and a union service at 8 p.m. in the Presbyterian Sanctuary, with the ministers of both congregations sharing the services. At 7 p.m. in the Methodist Church, there will be a service of Holy Communion in the German language, at which Pastor Dewart will preside. "The Altar Sanctified by the Blood" will be the title of Emanuel Schwig's meditation.

Easter Sunday will begin with a sunrise service sponsored by the Methodist and Presbyterian youth at 6 a.m. at the Presbyterian Parish Hall. At 9:30 a.m., there will be Easter worship in the Trinity Chapel, and at 11 a.m. in the Sanctuary. The Chancel and Wesley choirs will sing at the second service, and Pastor Dewart will preside. His sermon, "Risen to Reign," for both services. The Church School will have classes for nursery through senior highs meets at 9:30 a.m. A German Easter service will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the Sanctuary, with Emanuel Schwig preaching on "That Evening."

AT ITS APRIL 2 SESSION, the official board of Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church discussed the merger with the Evangelical United Brethren Church which will be consummated at the general conference of the two denominations which begins in Dallas, Tex., on April 21. The combined churches, to be known as the United Methodist Church, will be the largest Protestant denomination in the United States with a membership of 11 million.

Pastor Dewart announced that Dr. Walter Ziemer, a delegate to the general conference from Germany, will be guest speaker at all services on Sunday, May 5. Mr. Dewart also stated that Methodists are engaged in the consultation on church union involving 10 denominations with a membership of 25 million and that Bishop James Matthews of the Boston area of the Methodist Church was recently elected chairman of the consultation's executive committee.

The official board voted an additional $500 for missions to assist in the world service and conference benevolence goal of the Northern New Jersey Annual Conference, and to support several special projects including the Rev. and Mrs. Anthony Fadley in Liberia and the Inner-City Work of Trinity Methodist Church, Newark.

THE COMMISSION ON EDUCATION will meet on Monday at 8 p.m. in the Mundy Room for study and business.

Since September, each regular monthly meeting of the commission has been sup-

Lutherans to hold 3 special services tonight, tomorrow

Holy Week services are planned by Holy Cross Lutheran Church, beginning tonight at 7:45 with the celebration of Holy Communion and a sermon by the pastor, the Rev. K.J. Stumpf, on the theme, "Victory Before the Battle."

Tomorrow evening at 7:45, there will be a service of darkness. This service is a version of the ancient office of Tenebrae and has service for all children and their parents, the Sunday School and the Junior Choir will sing Lenten hymns. The pastor will give a sermon.

Tomorrow, Good Friday, a children's service will take place at 1:30 p.m. with the theme, "What Is Love?" At this half-hour become a Good Friday tradition at Holy Cross. Tenebrae means darkness.

The service begins in silence and ends in almost total darkness. During the service, 15 candles are extinguished one at a time. One candle remains lighted and the officiant removes it briefly from the sight of the congregation and returns it in order to symbolize the death and resurrection of Jesus.

Toward the end, the Scriptures are closed as an acknowledgment of Christ's words, "It is finished." Hymns by the congregation, scripture readings, congregational responses and prayers compose the service.

Planned by a second session to provide for the study of Robert Leslie's study and resource books on "Man's Search For Meaning." Members of the Church School staff have shared in leading the sessions. Central to the study has been "Death of a Salesman" by Miller. Leader for this session will be Mrs. Virginia Gleitsman, recently elected chairman in place of Audrey Young.

Mrs. Gleitsman has announced special plans of the commission to be completed at the meeting. An open house for parents and other interested adults will be held on Sunday, April 21, with family worship at 9:30 a.m. in the Sanctuary followed by classroom visitation. On May 5 at 5 p.m., there will be a family night in observance of National Family Week, with special attention to a program for the children and youth of the Church School.

Rush hour accidents

More fatal traffic accidents occur during the hours of darkness — especially during the evening rush hours of 5 to 8 p.m. — than occur during the daylight hours.

This is a particularly sobering fact for motorists to keep in mind during winter when the hours of daylight are shorter, says George G. Traver, Executive Vice President of the New Jersey State Safety Council.

Darkness calls for a special type of driving, Traver points out. The most important requirements are increased alertness, better control of the car and reduction of speed.

Traver makes the following suggestions:

- *Pull into traffic more cautiously than in daytime. Not only do you see less at night, but other drivers have more difficulty seeing you.
- *Pass with extra care. Be sure you have enough passing room. Remember, you can't see as far ahead at night.
- *Never trust your judgment in estimating the speed of an approaching vehicle by its headlights.
- *Stay well behind the car ahead of you, and be particularly alert in watching for his signals. If you follow too closely, your headlights will reflect in his rear view mirror and seriously reduce his vision.
- *Watch out for oncoming drivers who may be out of their lane or on the wrong side of the street.
- *Watch out for vehicles that might be parked or stopped on the roadway with poor lights or none at all.
- *If your car becomes disabled, get it off the road and place flares or lights to alert other drivers.
- *Don't over-drive your headlights. At 60 miles an hour it will take you, under average conditions, about 370 feet to stop. Yet you can see only about 200 feet ahead.
- *Put on directional signals well in advance of turning to allow for decreased visibility.
- *Don't use parking lights when in motion.
- *Make adjustments for bad weather, which further reduces your already severely limited vision.
- *Keep your windshield and windows clean, inside and out. A moderately dirty windshield may not bother you much in the daytime, but at night the glare of oncoming headlights diffused against the film may blind you or make you fail to see unlighted objects.
- *If an approaching driver fails to dim his lights, don't keep your bright lights on, too. Slow down, dim your lights, and keep your eyes on the shoulder of the road or the lane edge to guide you.

Detective dragged across pavement; man, woman held

A man and woman from Newark were arrested by Springfield police last Tuesday after the man allegedly tried to drag a local detective with his car, according to police records. Frank Damiano, 25, was charged with assault and battery with a motor vehicle and with attempting to obtain money under false pretenses. Sandra Emperio, 23, was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

"They were held in the county jail, in default of $2,500 bail each. No date was set for a hearing, since the two prisoners had both requested the service of the public defender and will have to wait until he is available. Police said that Damiano is a registered narcotics addict.

The incident reportedly began when Det. Sam Calabrese noticed the pair leaving the Crestmont Savings office on Morris Avenue, where they had allegedly attempted to cash a fraudulent check. Calabrese, who was off duty at the time, then followed the car to the parking lot at the Gen. Green Shopping Center.

When he approached, Miss Emperio reportedly ran away. Calabrese said that as he reached into the car to show Damiano his badge, Damiano tried to drive away, dragging the detective across the pavement. Calabrese reportedly was able to halt the car and arrest Damiano.

It's fiesta season for 4th graders

This article is "absolutely as written" by Wendy Stark and Debra Harmon, fourth grade students in the Thelma Sandmeier School, according to a school spokesman.

On Wednesday, March 27, Mrs. Lucinda Micheletti's and Angela Larceri's fourth grade classes presented a program entitled "Come to the Fiesta." The program was based on the daily life of the Mexicans of today. The classes had just finished their unit of study on the Aztec Indians.

The girls wore gaily colored skirts down to their ankles. The boys wore sombreros, capes and bandanas. The scenery consisted of two large posters, three marionettes, and a large sombrero.

The highlight of the play was the dances. The dancers accomplished their dances very well with the assistance of the music supervisor, Mrs. Dorothy Stallworth, and the physical education teacher, Glen Brown.

The classes learned to count to 10 in Spanish. They also learned some Spanish songs.

N.J. women asked to join state-wide traffic program

New Jersey women are being invited to take part in a state-wide traffic program. Director of Motor Vehicles June Strelceck announced, at the New Jersey Extension Homemakers Council regional safety meeting this week, the formation of a Women's Traffic Safety Forum to bring traffic safety conferences and consciousness to the community and to the home.

The Director urges the presidents of women's organizations to follow the example of the Extension Homemakers Council by conducting safety conferences in their communities. Safety representatives, appointed from each organization, will then be asked to serve as delegates to an annual state-wide safety conference arranged by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Miss Strelceck appointed Miss Olivia DePastina, Motor Vehicles Public Information Officer, to head the Motor Vehicles Women's Forum. Miss DePastina will advise and cooperate with safety program planning, coordinate ideas and schedules, and will make available pertinent traffic safety materials and visual aids.

Organization representatives may contact Miss DePastina at the Division of Motor Vehicles office in Trenton, (609) 292-4049.

HALF-PAST-TEEN

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a teenager—18 years old—and I have a problem. I am in love with a boy who is 3 years and 2 months younger than me. I'm in love with him but he doesn't know it; in fact, nobody does. I never admit anything to him. I keep everything to myself. I'm afraid to let him know that I love him as much as he loves me because I think I'll be wasting his time. I also think he's the young and that he can find another girl younger than me, one about his own age. I'm in love with him and I don't know what to do. Please give me some advice."

OUR REPLY: He is too young for you. He probably got another girl—one nearer his own age. You can also get another boy one nearer your own age. You will be better off and, in a very short time, you will both come to the conclusion that you were not so much in love as you thought you were. If it should happen that you are really in love, your love would stand the test of a period of separation. Give it a try. And, this time, each of you choose someone nearer your own age.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

SELECTIVE SERVICE questions and answers

Colonel Joseph T. Avella, state director of Selective Service, has issued the following series of questions frequently asked of the Selective Service System, along with appropriate answers.

Q: My neighbor's son has stated he will not comply with his Order to Report for Induction. If he is convicted for such offense and serves a prison term, will he then be free of his obligation to serve in the Armed Forces?

A: No. The Military Selective Service Act of 1967 provides that "any registrant who has failed or refused to report for induction shall continue to remain liable for induction and when available shall be immediately inducted."

Q: Do I understand correctly that an alien can avoid military service in the United States if he makes a request to that effect?

A: An alien who has not been admitted to the United States for permanent residence but who has remained in the United States for a period exceeding one year may, prior to his induction, file with his local board an Application for Alien for Relief from Training and Service in the Armed Forces. Any alien who makes such application shall thereafter be deemed to be a citizen of the United States.

Q: To whom is a 1-W classification given?

A: In Class 1-W are those registrants who, as conscientious objectors, are performing civilian work contributing to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest, in accordance with the order of the local board.

Q: Now that the National Security Council has recommended that the lists of essential activities and critical occupations issued by the Departments of Commerce and Labor be suspended, is there a change in the authority for granting occupational deferments?

A: No. Local draft boards have the continuing responsibility under law to use their discretion to grant occupational deferments. The decision, as always, must be based on all the facts of the individual case under consideration.

Q: I understand that a registrant who lives with his child is classified in Class III-A. How does Selective Service define the word, "child" in this regard?

A: Selective Service regulations define the word, "child," as including a legitimate or an illegitimate child from the date of its conception, a child legally adopted, a stepchild, a foster child, and a person who is supported in good faith by the registrant but does not include any person 18 years of age or over unless he is phy-

Dwyer: Continue 'Crime in Streets' Dr. King's work panelists are listed

"The murder of Dr. King deprived our people of a man who made his commitment to justice an integral part of his faith that men can live as brothers. He refused to surrender—either to indifference or hatred," Rep. Florence E. Dwyer (R-12th) said in response to Dr. Martin Luther King's murder.

"If this untimely tragedy triggers the conscience of America and helps to unite our people in a new crusade for justice and freedom and mutual respect, then Martin Luther King will not have died in vain. As the human symbol of non-violence and brotherhood, of black and white working together in a common cause, he deserves to be honored, in death, in the very way he lived his life—that is, with compassion and understanding and firm determination to pursue the work of justice.

"We must all commit ourselves to this cause. It is no longer enough simply to shun ill will. If we would do God's work (which was also Dr. King's), nothing will suffice but positive and active goodwill.

"Beginning Wednesday, when the Civil Rights Bill has already been scheduled for consideration, Congress will have another chance to show how truly we believe in justice, how responsibly we can act," Mrs. Dwyer said.

The New Jersey Senate majority leader, Francis X. McDermott, will be among five panelists who will discuss "Crime in the Streets," a public service program to be presented by Union County Open Forum, Inc., on Friday, May 3, in the auditorium of Connecticut Farms School in Union.

Other panelists on the program, which will be moderated by former Governor Robert B. Meyner, include Vincent Broderick, former New York City police commissioner; Marshall Brown Sr., educator and president of the Plainfield area NAACP; Herbert Romerstein, investigator for the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities; and Dominick Spina, director of the Newark police department.

Panelists on the "Crime in the Streets" program will explore some of the causes of increased violence in America, and discuss ways in which citizens can help reduce what has been called the nation's No. 1 domestic problem, according to Forum spokesmen. The public is urged to attend this timely public service program. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for students, and tickets may be ordered by mail from Union County Open Forum, Inc., 600 Leigh Dr., Westfield.

The program will start at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of Connecticut Farms School on Solvayant avenue in Union.

Litter at streams costs state, anglers

"Litter is a costly desecration of New Jersey's natural beauty," Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development said this week in a plea for the practice of good outdoor manners.

The arrival of spring brings many Garden State citizens to the out-of-doors, especially fishermen. While most anglers are among the most considerate of outdoor recreationists, holding a deep appreciation of natural beauty, attention focuses on the careless minority of anglers, because fishing is the dominant sport at this time, and because they often cross private land to reach a favorite stream, Roe said.

Fishermen pay an especially high price for the boorish behavior of a few. Each year additional miles of stream are closed by disgusted landowners, and each litter bit in a stream is detrimental to fish habitat, the commissioner added.

Besides avoiding littering, anglers should be careful not to dig worms where it would damage an attractive area or trample shrubbery. Parking should be done so as not to block travel or leave ugly tire marks, and gates should be left closed.

Littering is very easy for any outdoor user to avoid. An empty bag or beverage can is a lighter burden to carry to a receptacle or back home than the full one was to bring out. It is simple common sense for an angler or picnicker to treat an area as he would expect a visitor to treat his own home, and he will find the area more enjoyable on his next visit.

The same principle applies to public lands, which are truly the citizen's own, having been bought with either tax or license funds. The cost of keeping these areas clean falls on either the taxpayer or the fishing or hunting license buyer.

The Bureau of Wildlife Management estimates that as much as a third of the time spent by personnel is devoted to cleaning up and maintaining Fish and Wildlife Management Areas. Much of this time could be devoted to beneficial projects such as habitat improvement. Employees of the Bureau of Parks and of County and local Park Commissions also spend much time that could be used to improve facilities, Roe said.

Despite this costly cleanup effort, some litter remains to continue as a blot on the landscape. Trampling of shrubbery wastes the hours that were spent in planting it to improve the attractiveness or wildlife habitat on an area, he added.

Carelessness with fire is especially costly. An unattended or improperly quenched campfire or even a dropped match or cigarette can lead to the loss of many acres of woodland.

Commissioner Roe concluded, "By simply practicing safe and courteous habits, New Jersey citizens can protect valuable outdoor resources offering untold beauty and recreational opportunity."

Rosenbaum, Feins, Cawley inducted in Springfield Rotary

Three members were inducted in the Springfield Rotary Club at its luncheon meeting last week at the Mountaineer Inn, Route 22, Mountaineer. They were: James Cawley, attorney-municipal law; Seymour Rosenbaum of Springfield Travel Service, 252 Mountain ave., and Marty Feins, photographer, of 254 Mountain ave.

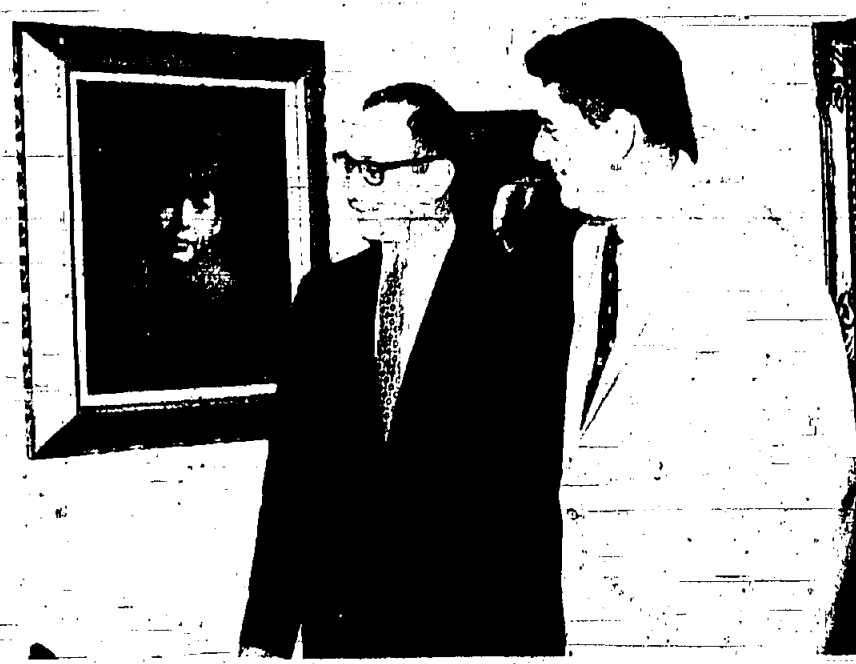

Induction of the trio by Charles Remlinger represented the admission of the largest number of new members in a single ceremony in the club's 20-year history.

Three members of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Band, Stanley Katz, Dave Magulies and John Vassell, entertained to publicize a concert being held in the school in May. Walter Baldwin spoke briefly on the band's accomplishments and asked for the Rotary Club's support of the concert.

Because of the impending transfer of Robert Skellenger, president-elect, who will be leaving his post as manager of the E.H. Sargent Company, 35 Stern ave., several changes have been announced in the officers' slate scheduled to take office July 1.

Dr. Frank Burstein will assume the presidency. Other officers include John May, vice-president; Dr. Leon Tropp, secretary; Dennis Dickhut, assistant secretary; and Bernard Borras, treasurer. Directors will be Harold Chaben, Howard Sehn and John Berwick.

Plans are being made for an inter-city meeting Wednesday, May 1, at the Winfield Scott Hotel, Elizabeth. The regular meeting that week will be eliminated. Several members are planning to attend the Rotary International convention May 12-16 in Mexico City.

NEW STUDIO—State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo, at left, admires an award-winning color portrait on display at a new photography studio opened last week at 252 Mountain ave., Springfield, by Marty Feins, at right. Sen. Rinaldo was among the more than 200 people who attended an open house at the studio.

Photos by Feins win major prizes

Four entries in metropolitan area professional photography competition by Marty Feins of 4 Norwood rd., Springfield, have been awarded major prizes.

The award-winners, all direct color portraits, are on display at Feins' new studio at 252 Mountain ave., Springfield, N.J., which opened last week.

The portrait "Judith," which won the best of show gold medal at the 13th annual International Salon sponsored by the Vailsburg Camera Club recently, was cited as best of show in the out-of-state entries at the annual convention of the Professional Photographers Society of New York held at Grossingers.

The same portrait was one of three by Feins which were awarded Court of Honor plaques at the 15th annual convention of the Professional Photographers Association of New Jersey in Asbury Park. There was a total of 111 court of Honor citations awarded at the convention, and Feins was the lone photographer to receive more than one.

Feins moved his studio to Springfield last week after being located in Newark for 22 years. His direct color portraiture has won numerous international, national and state awards.

Optometrists name Harmon to head state committee on industrial vision

Dr. Martin Harmon of Springfield, a New Brunswick optometrist, was named as chairman for the New Jersey Optometric Association's committee on industrial vision at a recent executive meeting in East Brunswick. The appointment of Dr. Harmon was made by Dr. Sidney M. Goldstein, president of the association.

Creation of the industrial vision committee is part of the committee reorganization of the state association. The doctor succeeds the former committee chairman, Dr. Richard Rosenberg, also a Springfield resident.

The overall purpose of Dr. Harmon's committee will be to formulate eye safety standards which, when adopted, will afford each industrial employee maximum visual protection, comfort and efficiency.

A former resident of New York City, Dr. Harmon attended Brooklyn College and received his degree in optometry from the Illinois College of Optometry. Prior to opening his practice in New Brunswick, he served as a meteorologist in the United States Air Force.

Dr. Harmon is a member of the Odd Fellows, the B'nai B'rith and the Raritan Valley Optometric Society. He and his wife, Shirley, have two children, Myles and Debra.

RETURN OF THE WEEDS—Mrs. Vincent Applegate and Dr. John A. Meade, a weed control specialist at Rutgers, admire the natural artistry of a dried weed plant which hangs in her Keyport home. Mrs. Applegate recently rescued a collection of 100 mounted weed specimens from the attic of a house in Long Branch and returned it to Rutgers, where a scientist assembled it 75 years ago.

'Mrs. Applegate's Weeds' Old vegetation found in attic

Rutgers University has a new collection, dubbed "Mrs. Applegate's Weeds."

Members of the Soils and Crops Department of the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science are indebted to Mrs. Applegate. But they'd rather the collection be known for what it really is, specimens of native vegetation recovered from the attic of a house in Long Branch.

The house was once the home of Richard T. Van Dyck, now of Tulsa, Okla., who is a distant relative of Professor Francis Cuyler Van Dyck. Prof. Van Dyck taught several sciences at Rutgers in the late 1800's and was dean of Rutgers College.

Although Prof. Van Dyck's name is on each mount, a little delving into history by the immediate donor, Mrs. Vincent Applegate of Keyport, reveals that the actual work was done by a student, Edward T. Reagan.

The collection of about 100 artistically mounted and well preserved plant specimens was one of those relics nobody in the family wanted but which was too interesting to throw out.

IT WAS MRS. APPLGATE who got the idea that somebody at Rutgers might want it. The wife of a former newspaper publisher, she turned first to the director of the college's Communications Center, who referred her to John A. Meade, extension specialist in weed control.

"We're delighted to have these plants," Dr. Meade says. "The collection is not just a relic, but a valuable reference and teaching aid."

Is it guaranteed to grow?

This year, for the first time, New Jersey homeowners will be able to purchase lawn seed which has been "checked" under the supervision with the Department's official seed certification tag.

The seed, sold in two-pound packages, contains 40 percent Kentucky bluegrass, 20 percent merion Kentucky bluegrass, and 40 percent creeping red fescue, a blend which has been approved by the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science as being an excellent one for growing under average New Jersey conditions.

Components of the blend are shipped into New Jersey in 100-pound bags from two of the main lawn seed-producing states, Oregon and South Dakota. The seed has already been certified by the official seed certification agency of the state of origin.

Blending of the three varieties is done by a North Jersey seedsmen, who is cooperating in the program. The Department's function is to check the blend to see that the correct proportion of each variety is maintained when the seed is repackaged in two-pound containers for retail sale.

Inspection of the Department draw samples from each lot of seed received from out of state and from the final blended product. Each sample is analyzed in the State Seed Laboratory to make sure it meets all required standards and is blended to the approved formula. Each two-pound package is labeled with a separate serial number issued and controlled by the Department.

About 100,000 pounds of certified lawn seed blend are expected to be marketed this year, that's enough to plant 50,000 square feet or 1,250 acres of lawn. The seed is being distributed through two major food chains operating in New Jersey and through other outlets.

In charge of the New Jersey lawn seed certification program are William M. Cranston, deputy director, Division of Plant Industry, and Roy M. Atkinson, chief, Bureau of Seed Certification, New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

SPECIAL BREAKFAST FOR EASTER MORNING

Plan to serve a special breakfast on Easter morning. It is a delightful way to begin the joyous celebration of the day.

Carry out the theme of Easter in both the menu and the table decorations you select. As far as the menu is concerned, eggs would be most appropriate. They are suitable to an Easter motif and presently plentiful in the market. Serve the eggs in a different way, however, than you usually feature them in the breakfast menu. A soufflé, baked eggs, Eggs Goldenrod, or Eggs Benedict are just a few suggestions.

For the other food in the menu, oranges and grapefruit are still available in the market and would be refreshing for the fruit course. A traditional Easter bread, either home prepared or bought commercially, is almost a must. A meat choice would depend on the style eggs you choose, because some recipes include the meat in the preparation. If meat is not part of the egg recipe, choose the meat separately among the typical breakfast meat varieties.

For your table decorations, bright, cheerful linens which blend with your china and spring flowers, decorated eggs, or even tiny stuffed animals would create the festive theme.

A relaxed atmosphere for the breakfast will also add to the conversation and enjoyment. Plenty of steaming hot coffee should be available to enhance the atmosphere.

Lunar eclipse will occur next week

An exceptionally well-placed total lunar eclipse will be visible to New Jersey residents on tomorrow and into Saturday morning, it was reported this week by Anthony Paone, director of the Sperry Observatory at Union College in Cranford.

"The moon will be high in the sky from beginning to end with the major part of the event occurring on Friday night," Paone reported.

A lunar eclipse occurs when the moon falls within the shadow of the earth.

Totally will begin at 11:23 p.m. and will end at 12 minutes after midnight, Paone said. The moon will enter penumbra -- the point when the earth's shadow is cast upon the moon (if one were standing on the moon, they would view a partial eclipse of the sun) -- at 9:11 p.m., and will enter umbra -- which is the deep shadow of the earth (if one were standing on the moon, they would view a total eclipse of the sun) -- at 11:10 p.m. It will leave umbra at 1:25 a.m. and leave penumbra at 2:24 a.m.

"The most dramatic changes occur during the partial phases of the eclipse when the moon gradually dims as it enters the penumbra and when the moon moves from the penumbra to the darker umbra," the director of the Sperry Observatory said.

Paone pointed out that no one need miss the and toasted English muffin (or toast) with a thin slice of fried ham (size of toast). Top each with a poached egg and cover with Hollandaise Sauce.

eclipse for lack of a telescope, because it will be visible to the unaided eye and through binoculars. He said binoculars will enlarge the apparent size of the moon without overpowering the eyes as the full moon does in a large telescope.

"Depending on atmospheric conditions, distribution of cloud cover, and the amount of dust or other particles, the color of the moon within the earth's shadow can vary from bright orange to a very dark gray," Paone said. "Recent eclipses have shown moderate coloration as contrasted to the unusual eclipse of Dec. 30, 1963, when the moon was practically invisible during the total phase."

Members of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., who operate the Sperry Observatory jointly with Union College, students in Union College's astronomy course, and gather at the Sperry Observatory on April 12 to share the experience and to compare notes on earlier lunar eclipse observations. The 12-inch reflector telescope in the Sperry Observatory will be used exclusively to photograph the eclipse at intervals throughout the night, while visual observing will be done through the six-inch refractor telescope and binoculars.

'Learn from hippies,' prof tells social studies teachers

A Glasboro State College professor is encouraging social studies teachers to "learn from the hippy movement."

Assistant professor Benjamin Hitchner asks teachers and curriculum makers to recognize the generation gap between teachers and students and to help today's kids find answers to their probing questions.

Youth must have up-to-date answers -- ones they can associate with present-day problems, Hitchner observes in the Southern New Jersey Curriculum Development Council Bulletin.

"Teachers have to stop worrying about covering the material well and getting only up to the end of World War I in June. These teachers aren't helping the 17-year-old boy who feels strongly about Vietnam."

"Hippies become hippies because they can't find answers at home, church or school," Hitchner observes.

"If American culture and the world are confused, chaotic, unstable and searching, youth must reflect this," he states.

HITCHNER GOES ON to say that youth demand more than citizenship instruction that offers easy answers and solutions. They demand more than American history and civics. Social studies instruction must reflect our present culture, the GSC professor feels. Hitchner thinks that before instruction can realistically reflect our culture, social studies instructors must know how culture is changing.

"To do this, people preparing to teach social studies should gain a stronger psychological foundation than they now do," states Hitchner.

He feels that this will help social studies instruction with the important job of helping the student identify himself within the culture. The Curriculum Development Council (CDC) is a non-profit organization associated with Glasboro State College. Area school districts participating in the Council use College consultants to help study and improve curricula in South Jersey schools.

Volkswagen introduces the automatic stick shift.

Affect to these many years our humble little bug has gone automatic. Gone is the clutch. Gone is the wifely whine, "It's cute, but I can't drive it." Gone is an era of Volkswagendom. Sniff. And in its place? A Volkswagen you can drive all over town without shifting. Only on the highway do you shift. Once. (This is an economy move. Which, after all, is still the name of the game.) But you do have a choice in the matter you can drive it the easy way described above. Or you can start out in low and take it through the gears like a regular stick shift. The automatic stick shift is an option; you pay a little more. But you do a little less.

Guinea Hen with a misplaced yen

She can't convince peacocks she's one of them

NOW LOOK, LADY, HOW MANY TIMES I GOTTA TELL YOU I'M A MARRIED PEACOCK? At least that's what Percival the Peacock seems to be telling the small white Guinea Hen that's been following him around for years at the Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange. She thinks she's a lady-Peacock, but it just ain't so.

There's a little white Guinea Hen at the Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange who wears up and down that she's a peacock.

But the Peacocks don't believe it a bit. For years, the little hen has followed the nine male Peacocks, one after another, as they made their rounds of the zoo, eagerly seeking attention.

For years, the Peacocks have regally ignored her. When the zoo opened last Tuesday things hadn't changed a bit. The Peacocks were still there, so was the Guinea Hen — still following them around.

"She's been chasing the Peacocks around for years," smiles Zoo Director Richard Ryan, "and seems convinced that she's a peacock, too."

The male Peacocks are just beginning to show their glorious Spring display of the iridescent blue and green feathers, generally thought to be a fall.

"Actually, it's not a fall at all," explains Ryan, "but, rather, the lower back feathers. The spreading feathers are all part of the Peacock courtship procedures — and, because we have only four females, that display gets pretty impressive at times."

However, the four mottled tan females don't seem to pay much attention and the males' best, and most attentive, audience would still seem to be the little Guinea Hen.

The Peacocks have a free run of the zoo grounds and visitors this Spring are likely to see the dramatic fan of tail feathers on display at any time.

"Although there are no fences, few Peacocks stray," Ryan notes. "They want to stay close to their food."

"However," he pointed out, "visitors who want to see the best display of the Peacocks should try to get to the zoo in the morning."

"The birds turn shy when the zoo gets too crowded and hide in secluded spots with the little white Guinea Hen still following right along behind them."

Set outdoor education conference

Development of a "yardstick" to measure the effectiveness of outdoor education projects will be the goal of a four-day national conference starting May 19 at Skylands Manor, Skylands Regional State Park, Ringwood.

Plans for the conference were jointly announced today by Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development and Commissioner Carl L. Marburger of the State Department of Education. The two departments share sponsorship of the event.

Conducted by the New Jersey State Council for Environmental Education, the conference will bring together from most of the 50 states directors of outdoor education projects funded under Title III of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Title III is designed to advance creativity. The projects represented at the conference will cover a variety of environmental education experiences from programs dealing with conservation, science and mathematics to those emphasizing social and democratic living. Outdoor or environmental education covers a wide range of learning by experience beyond the traditional four walls, using study areas on school grounds as well as over-night resident centers and other outdoor education resources.

With the cooperation of seven Title III outdoor education projects in the State, a workable means of evaluating outdoor education programs is expected to be developed and tested this spring. It will be the purpose of the national conference to refine the New Jersey model and to develop an instrument which may be used nationally to evaluate projects.

The Council for Environmental Education is a Title III outdoor education project of the Newark Board of Education and also has among its responsibilities the development of a state-wide environmental education program. Dr. Edward J. Ambry is director of the State Council. The council's headquarters are in 355 Route 46, Mountain Lakes.

New Arts Center to mail out forms for subscriptions

The Garden State Arts Center this week announced it would start mailing out subscription order forms for the premiere 1968 summer season by April 15.

The subscription brochures will go first to the priority mailing list of New Jersey residents compiled during the past three months from personal requests by the public at large.

The Arts Center, located at Telegraph Hill Park on the Garden State Parkway in Holmdel, will open June 15 with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra conducted by Eugene Ormandy and guest pianist Van Cliburn.

Subscription orders will be filled on a first-come basis from the priority list mailing returns. No other reservations will be accepted before "heat" and individual ticket sales will not begin until May.

The priority mailing list has risen above 15,000 names and addresses representing an indicated order of some 40,000 tickets. However, there will be several subscription series offered for the first season. To get on the list, write the Arts Center, Box 116, Holmdel, 07733.

Most of the more than 5,000 seats under the roof in the Arts Center's amphitheater—the focal point of the recreational-cultural complex—will be available for subscription. However, a portion will be reserved for individual ticket sales at each performance.

In addition, some 3,500 to 5,000 lawn spaces will be sold on an unreserved basis starting 10 days prior to each performance. Ticket outlets are planned in various locations throughout the state on and off the Parkway.

University to hold seminar on patents

Persons desiring a practical understanding of patents have been invited to attend the seventh annual Patent Seminar to be held on the Fairleigh Dickinson Campus of Fairleigh Dickinson University on June 19, 20 and 21. Cooperating with Fairleigh Dickinson University are the New Jersey Patent Law Association and the Patent, Trademark, Copyright Law and Unfair Competition Section of the New Jersey Bar Association.

It is designed for management executives, research, development, production and marketing executives and other persons whose work requires them to be informed about patents.

N.J. publishes list of manufacturers

A listing of 15,208 manufacturing establishments throughout the state's 21 counties has been published by the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development. Conservation Commissioner Robert A. Roe said this week the booklet, published as Research Report 147, presents a factual summary of New Jersey's diversified industrial activities, since the statistics are based on the U.S. Census of Manufactures.

Manufacturing plants are listed by counties, showing the types of industries to be found in each, together with number of plants in each employment size. The latter is the annual average for 1963 as reported by the individual establishments.

According to the report, the total value added by manufacture at these plants was $9,957,333,000. Total payrolls amounted to $5,121,254,000, of which $3,021,004,000 were factory wages. An aggregate of 829,201 persons were employed in the various manufacturing activities.

Copies of the report are 50 cents each. They may be obtained from the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development, Labor and Industry Building, Box 1889, Trenton, N.J. 08625. Remittances should be made payable to Treasurer - State of New Jersey.

Does Medicare work? A Union man says yes

Medicare—does it work? If you were to ask Guy Bateman of 711 Sellmaster Parkway, Union, the answer would be an emphatic "yes."

Bateman has had a heart condition for many years. He was admitted to Irvington

General Hospital, Irvington, in critical condition due to a heart attack and other ailments on Aug. 28, 1967 and was a patient until Sept. 30, 1967.

Bateman said his hospital insurance under Medicare was a "life-saver." His hospital bill was over $1,300. However, all he had to pay was the heart attack and other ailments. The $40 deductible, Bateman is presently a patient in Irvington General Hospital having been readmitted March 23. Bateman did not have private hospital or medical insurance protection after he retired from Sears Roebuck Company about 1947, but he does have doctors bill coverage under Medicare and will be reimbursed for those bills.

Bateman described his hospital care as a Medicare patient as "excellent." He was delighted that the hospital staff and patients helped him celebrate his 85th birthday last Sept. 26.

Bateman makes his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Chester and Olive Wasilewski, and their four children. A daughter, Joyce Bateman, lives in Newark and his son, James Oliver Bateman, in East Orange.

"As social security records are confidential, Bateman has given specific permission for use of information about his claim. In the hope that it will encourage persons nearing 65 to enroll for Medicare at their earliest opportunity. To be eligible to use Medicare benefits the first day of the month of attainment of age 65, a person must enroll during the three months before the month he will be 65.

TURNTABLE TREATS (good listening) "Love Is Blue," by Claudino, featured in this, her third LP album on the A & M RECORDS label, an eleven song collection with the gal with the smooth-as-silk-voice. Numbers include: "Fall-In Love Again" (Can't Help It), "Happy Talk," the hit of 1968 and the title tune "Love Is Blue" (L'Amour Est Blue), "Holiday," "Dindi" (Jin-je), "Who Needs You," "When I Look In Your Eyes," "Walk In The Park," "Small Talk," "Snow" and "It's Hard To Say Goodbye." The male voice heard in four of the numbers is that of Tommy Lipuma, incidently, Claudine is Mrs. Andy Williams, (SP-4142). Also on the A & M Records label, "I Wonder What She's Doing Tonight" by Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart, Ten of the eleven numbers featured in this LP were written by the versatile Tommy and Bobby. "I Wonder What She's Doing Tonight" (title tune), "Pretty Flower," "Teardrop City," "Love Every Day," "Goodbye Baby" (I Don't Want To See You Cry), "I'm Digging You Digging Me," "Leaving Again," "The Countess," "Population," "I Wanna Be Free" and "Two For The Price Of One," (SP-4143). A good performance...

"Anatomy of a Shoot," the story of a successful lunar shot from lift-off to landing on the moon and after. Will be told on "The 21st Century" report which will be televised in color Sunday, April 14 at 6-6:30 p.m.—CBS-TV. Viewers will be able to follow behind-the-scenes activities of incredible complexity, as the Surveyor moon vehicle was launched from its pad at Cape Canaveral, guided across a quarter of a million miles of space by scientists at JPL in Pasadena, and bolted-landed on the moon, some miles and a half from the center of the target area. There, under pre-programmed orders from Pasadena, it dug samples of the moon surface and conducted scientific experiments, relaying the results back to earth. Thousands of black and white photographs were made by camera equipment aboard the Surveyor 7 vehicle for these transmissions. An especially interesting sequence in "Anatomy of a Shoot" shows how a failure in the operation was corrected after meeting of JPL scientists. After touchdown, a robot chemical analysis laboratory failed to deploy to the surface. From the earth the robot arm on the moon was ordered to push the instrument down to the surface where it could work.

PAINTING PORCHES Wooden or concrete porch floors are subject to heavy foot traffic, so be sure to paint them with an extremely durable coating. Special porch and deck paints are stocked by your reputable local paint dealer, but undercoat will vary according to the material to be covered. Wood can sometimes be primed with a thinned version of the top coat, whereas cement floors must be primed with an alkali resistant primer.

Candice undecided

With three hit pictures already to her credit, Candice Bergen, daughter of Edgar Bergen, still doesn't know whether acting is her métier or not. She starred in "The Group," and "The Sand Pebbles" and she is currently appearing in "Live For Life," which is being held over at the Ormont Theater, East Orange. Her co-stars are Yves Montand and Annie Girardot.

Miss Bergen, a student of photography and journalism at the University of Pennsylvania when she was selected for "The Group," doesn't know whether she is willing to forego a career in journalism for the glory of the Klieg.

The Ormont has announced that "Closely-Watched Trains" has a tentative opening date tomorrow.

AIR TROPHY WINNER Glenn H. Curtiss at Hammondsport, N.Y. captured the first American air trophy offered by the Scientific American. On July 4, 1908, he won the first official flight of one kilometer in one minute, 42.5 seconds.

Regional plan group warns of crisis from non-spending

Regional Plan Association's New Jersey Committee warned the New Jersey Capital Needs Commission this week that the state has crimped itself into a crisis in transportation, water supply, health facilities, and institutions and that it must boldly recommend adequate investment in all of these—plus parks, air and water pollution control and continuing college expansion.

Noting the Association's projection of a doubled population in Northern New Jersey by 2000 and more than a quadrupling of demand for college places, Albert W. Merck, chairman, urged the state government to catch up with past needs and keep up with growing needs.

One dry summer would bring back a serious drought, although full reservoirs little used for lack of transmission systems, the statement pointed out. Nearly all commuter railroad cars are over forty years old, and many will have to be taken out of service soon for safety reasons. Highway construction lags behind development, steadily increasing the minutes of delay for thousands of travelers each day.

In addition to recognizing past miserliness and spending enough to catch up to current needs, the committee recommended that a better system of State capital budgeting be instituted, probably in the Governor's office.

State planning should be tied to capital budget consideration, the Committee added, so State investment is not wasted. For example, a decision can be made to cluster state facilities, either in older or newly-created downtowns, or it can be determined to scatter urban facilities.

Now, the committee observed, state policy goes both ways, and the result is a large bill for highways to serve the scattered facilities and for urban renewal and public transportation to serve such renewed and enlarged centers as Newark, Trenton, Camden, Morristown, Freehold and Hackensack.

The State Commission on Capital Needs was set up following a recommendation by the Regional Plan New Jersey Committee. The New Jersey Committee was established in 1961 to study planning problems of the four northern counties of the State as part of the work of Regional Plan Association. The 40-year-old Association plans for 31 counties surrounding the Port of New York in New Jersey, New York and Connecticut.

Plants listed in new guide

A handy guide for locating the types and size of manufacturing establishments in the 21 counties of New Jersey is now available from the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Using the results of the large Census of Manufacturers (1963) the Department has issued Research Report No. 147, entitled "Location of Manufacturing Plants by Counties."

Each county's manufacturing plants are shown by two-digit and four-digit standard industrial classifications. At the two-digit level, information is available on total employees and value added for 1958 and 1963. A more detailed breakdown of the four-digit level, includes the employment-growth of plants.

Particularly helpful to those interested in the dispersion of a given industry throughout the state, the Report provides an additional listing of four-digit industry groups with a county breakdown of the number and size of plants.

Copies of the report are 50 cents each. They may be obtained from the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development, Labor and Industry Building, Box 1889, Trenton, 08625.

EASTER EGG ARTISTRY—Add special decorative touches to dyed Easter eggs with colorful flower motifs cut from cotton fabric. Attach motifs and bits of lace and rick-rack to the eggs with double-faced sticky tape or glue. Use a plastic fruit or vegetable tray from the grocer's for an unusual basket. Make it festive with pastel-colored cotton cosmetic balls woven through the sides, and a contrasting border of cotton bias tape. Design by Paas.

Easter Egg 'originals'

If's time to come out of your shell as far as Easter egg artistry is concerned. So why not let the youngsters help make an Easter tray and decorate some special eggs for it?

If you want to keep the eggs from year to year, use blown eggs. Otherwise, hardcooked ones are fine. Color shells with dyes from your favorite Easter egg kit. Some of the easiest to use are the new cold water "Tiz" tablets that give bright, even colors.

For creating artistry, use cut-out flowers or animal motifs from colorful cotton fabrics. Add bits of cotton lace, braid, or tiny rick-rack. Attach cut-outs and trim to eggs with double-faced sticky tape or white glue.

Place your decorated eggs in a plastic vegetable or fruit tray from your grocery shopping. Fill in the sides with pastel-colored cotton cosmetic balls, and weave cotton bias tape around the top for a contrasting border.

Handles for the tray can be made by braiding together three chenille pipe cleaners and inserting on either side.

Quarterly earnings up at First National State

First National State Bank of New Jersey last week reported net operating earnings of $1,603,235 for the first quarter of 1968 compared with $1,379,732 last year—an increase of 16.2 per cent. This is the equivalent of 90.2 cents per share in 1968 compared with 77.6 cents per share last year on 1,778,000 shares outstanding.

Total resources on March 31 were $731,141,541 compared with $717,436,916 last year. Deposits increased from $597,306,102 in 1967 to $637,195,461 this year. Capital fund of the bank reached a new peak, $71,549,711. The first quarterly dividend paid in 1968 was at an increased rate of 45 cents per share.

KC Council 150 will hold cocktail hour and dance

Banker to be honored as Outstanding Citizen

William S. Weiler, president of the Advertising Club of New Jersey, announced this week that John W. Krebs, president of the Newark Savings Institution, will be honored as an Outstanding Citizen on May 14 at the Outstanding Citizen of New Jersey for 1967. George J. Hancy of Newark was the chairman of the award committee.

State gets $1.6 million to 'pretty up'

The Department of Transportation announced this week that it has programmed 19 additional highway beautification projects in nine counties, bringing to 37 the total planned in 12 counties since funds were first made available under the Federal Highway Beautification Act of 1965.

The estimated total cost of the 19 projects is $1.6 million. This is in addition to $1.5 million committed to previous projects.

Beautification is paid for entirely out of Federal funds. In fiscal 1965-66, $1,464,137 was allotted to New Jersey on the basis of 3 per cent of the Federal money apportioned to the state for federally-aided highway construction in that year. In fiscal 1966-67, New Jersey received $1,683,917 under the Highway Beautification Act.

All those funds have now been obligated, Transportation Commissioner David J. Goldberg said.

Because of current economies, there have been no funds allocated for fiscal 1967-68.

Of the 19 new projects to be paid for out of the 1966-67 allocation, one has been completed and seven have been advanced beyond right-of-way planning and land acquisition is now under way. The remaining eleven are in final planning stages.

Among those previously finished was the center island of Morris Avenue in Union Township from Rt. 22 to Stuyvesant Avenue.

UNDER THE 1965 act of Congress, beautification funds are to be used by the state for landscape and roadside development within the right-of-way of Federally aided highways and for acquisition of adjacent land and the restoration, preservation and enhancement of scenic beauty. The money is not available for any other purpose and if the state's allocation is not used, for beautification, the apportionment lapses. Land needed may be acquired by the state either through outright purchase or through the purchase of easements.

President Johnson said in his highway beautification message May 26, 1965, that the scenic enhancement program is designed "to put beauty within reach of those who live in our cities, and make it part of the daily life of every American."

It also has important economic aspects, according to a 1967 Rutgers University study. These include the prevention or correction of roadside despoliation, reduce maintenance costs through such functional benefits as erosion control, and increased safety for motorists through relief of driving strain, conceded to be one of the major factors in the nation's yearly toll of accidents, injuries and deaths.

OF THE 19 NEWLY announced projects, four are in Ocean County, five in Monmouth County, three in Morris County and two in Burlington County. Others are in Essex, Cape May, Hunterdon, Warren and Gloucester Counties.

Under the 1965-66 allocation, five projects were planned in Somerset County, four in Warren County, two each in Hunterdon and Gloucester Counties, and one each in Morris, Cape May, Ocean and Union Counties. One involved both Morris and Sussex Counties. Except for those which have been completed or announced, specific locations are being withheld, a Transportation Department spokesman explained, to prevent speculation by private individuals which could hamper completion of the program.

It was pointed out that aspects of the Federal program are identical to landscape improvement undertakings of the Transportation Department that pre-dated Federal action by many years.

The Highway Beautification Act of 1965 also includes control of outdoor advertising and junkyards along the primary highway system.

Aid group for minority businessmen opens drive for funds and personnel

The Interracial Council for Business Opportunity of New Jersey, organized to provide aid to minority group businessmen and potential entrepreneurs, this week announced the start of a $50,000 fund-raising campaign to match funds provided by the Ford Foundation.

George D. Kelsey, II, executive director, said I.C.B.O. is attempting to close the gap between the white "haves" and the black "have-nots"—in the private business sector of New Jersey communities by providing guidance, skills and knowhow.

Kelsey said additional time, money and help will be needed in 1968 in the areas of management consultation, banking and credit, education and fund raising.

Additional staff personnel is needed to develop the education program, provide professional management assistance, and provide supportive services for the volunteers of I.C.B.O., he said. I.C.B.O., with headquarters at 24 Commerce st. in Newark, now has only two paid professional people maintaining the entire program in New Jersey.

New Jersey's I.C.B.O. was formed by the New Jersey Region of the American Jewish Congress and the Urban League of Essex

The spring series of classes for expectant parents at the Elizabeth General Hospital will start Monday, May 13.

Classes will consist of six sessions on preparation for parenthood, entitled "Pregnancy: the implications of pregnancy on members of the family," "Physical and emotional changes in the expectant mother," "Physical and emotional preparation of the mother and father for the birth of the child," "Physical and emotional needs of the newborn child," "The role of the mother and father," and "Instruction in controlled breathing and relaxation during labor."

Classes will be held in the Nursing Students Residence, 133 Reid st., Elizabeth. A nominal fee is charged. For registration and additional information, the Nursing Service Office at Elizabeth General Hospital, 289-8600, may be called.

Airplane crashes ... bus accidents ... railroad wrecks ... these disasters sound dramatic and far away, but they could happen here, and the Springfield, Union and Mountaineer First Aid Squads are insuring the readiness of their members in the event of any such mass catastrophes.

In a five week special training seminar, being held successive Wednesday nights the 12 area rescue squads of the eighth District First Aid Council are meeting at Overlook Hospital's Medical Education Center, Summit, to hear specialists in key disaster fields inform them of latest techniques of first aid in such highly inflammable and dangerous situations.

Four Rescue Squads and the Overlook Hospital Medical Staff have spent a great deal of time planning these important meetings for their communities' protection against the unexpected disaster, which could be of major proportions," a spokesman pointed out.

"Airplane Catastrophes that could Affect our Area" was the title of the first session, held last week. Dr. Leon Star, medical officer at Kennedy Airport, Col. Francis Gerard, director of the division of Aeronautics, and George Van Epps, member of the Civil Aeronautics Board, were the speakers.

"Railroad and Bus Disasters" was the topic yesterday, with George Eastland, official of the Erie Lackawanna Railroad, and Eugene Brophy, of the Public Service Co-ordinated Bus Company.

Dr. Henry Liss, neurosurgeon on the Overlook medical staff, will give a presentation on "Head and Spinal Injuries" on April 17. "Emergency Disaster Procedures" will be the topic on April 24 when Dr. R. W. Brenner, Overlook Hospital disaster chief, will be joined by representatives from Morristown Memorial Hospital.

At the final session on May 1, Dr. Robert Spect of the Overlook medical staff will speak on "The Emergency Treatment of Burns." The film "Pulse of Life", which deals with cardiac resuscitation, will be shown as the second part of the program.

These meetings are open to nurses, student nurses and other hospital personnel, as well as rescue squad members.

Area Rescue Squads participating include: Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Chatham, Millburn-Short Hills, Westfield, Mountaineer, Springfield, Union, Cranford, Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

Chief Ehnis heads police academy at UC a second year

Police Chief Carl H. Ehnis of New Providence will serve as director for the 22nd annual session of the Union County Police Training Academy to be held this spring at Union College, Cranford. It was announced this week by Chief James Moran of Westfield, county coordinator.

The Police Training Academy for new patrolmen from Union County's 21 municipalities is sponsored by the Union County Police Chiefs Association.

Chief Ehnis served as director last year, succeeding former Police Chief Lester W. Powell of Cranford. Chief Ehnis also served as dean in 1957.

The Union County Police Training Academy offers 220 hours of instruction for new patrolmen from Union County's 21 municipalities, the Union County Park Police, and the Union County Sheriff's Office. New patrolmen from other counties are accepted when there is room for them. The academy was the first approved by the New Jersey Police Training Commission.

Serving on the Union County Police Chiefs Association's Education and Training Committee are: Chief Moran, Chief Michael Roy of Elizabeth, Chief Milford Payne of Plainfield, Chief Christian Fritz of Mountaineer, Chief Fred Falzone of Garwood, and Chief Herbert Kinch of Rahway.

Urban League moves to combat race rumors

The Urban League announced this week that a special telephone has been installed at its Summit branch to record messages from people "who have heard rumors regarding race relations in Union County."

Charles B. Redd, executive director said, "We are trying to prevent the continuance of bad information from ear to ear. Frequently, rumors cause people to react negatively. We think we can stop some of the trouble before it begins."

The service (278-3644) will be able to record the rumor. The staff will conduct an investigation and provide the caller with the correct information. City, county, state, and federal officials will be contacted if necessary, Redd said.

Federal aid grants at UC

Union College, Cranford, has launched a campaign to find about a dozen students to attend the junior college with the benefit of federal Educational Opportunity Grants. It was reported this week by Mrs. Paul W. Selby, financial aid officer.

The availability of the additional grants has been brought to the attention of guidance counselors in all Union County secondary schools.

"While most federal assistance is in the form of loans or jobs rather than outright grants, this program provides direct awards for college students who demonstrate such need that they would be unable to attend without assistance," Mrs. Selby said. "Once awarded to a student, a grant will last for the duration of his undergraduate studies if he continues to qualify for assistance."

The amount a student may receive depends upon his need, taking into account his financial resources and those of his parents, Mrs. Selby said. Grants will range from $200 to $800 annually. A student who is a resident of Union County would be able to attend Union College with no tuition expense, as he would benefit from the Union County Tuition Aid Plan in addition to his grant, Mrs. Selby pointed out.

"Decisions for the recipients of those grants will be based on those showing the best evidence of academic or creative promise as well as his amount of financial need," Mrs. Selby said.
