'Serious misuse of township funds' charged

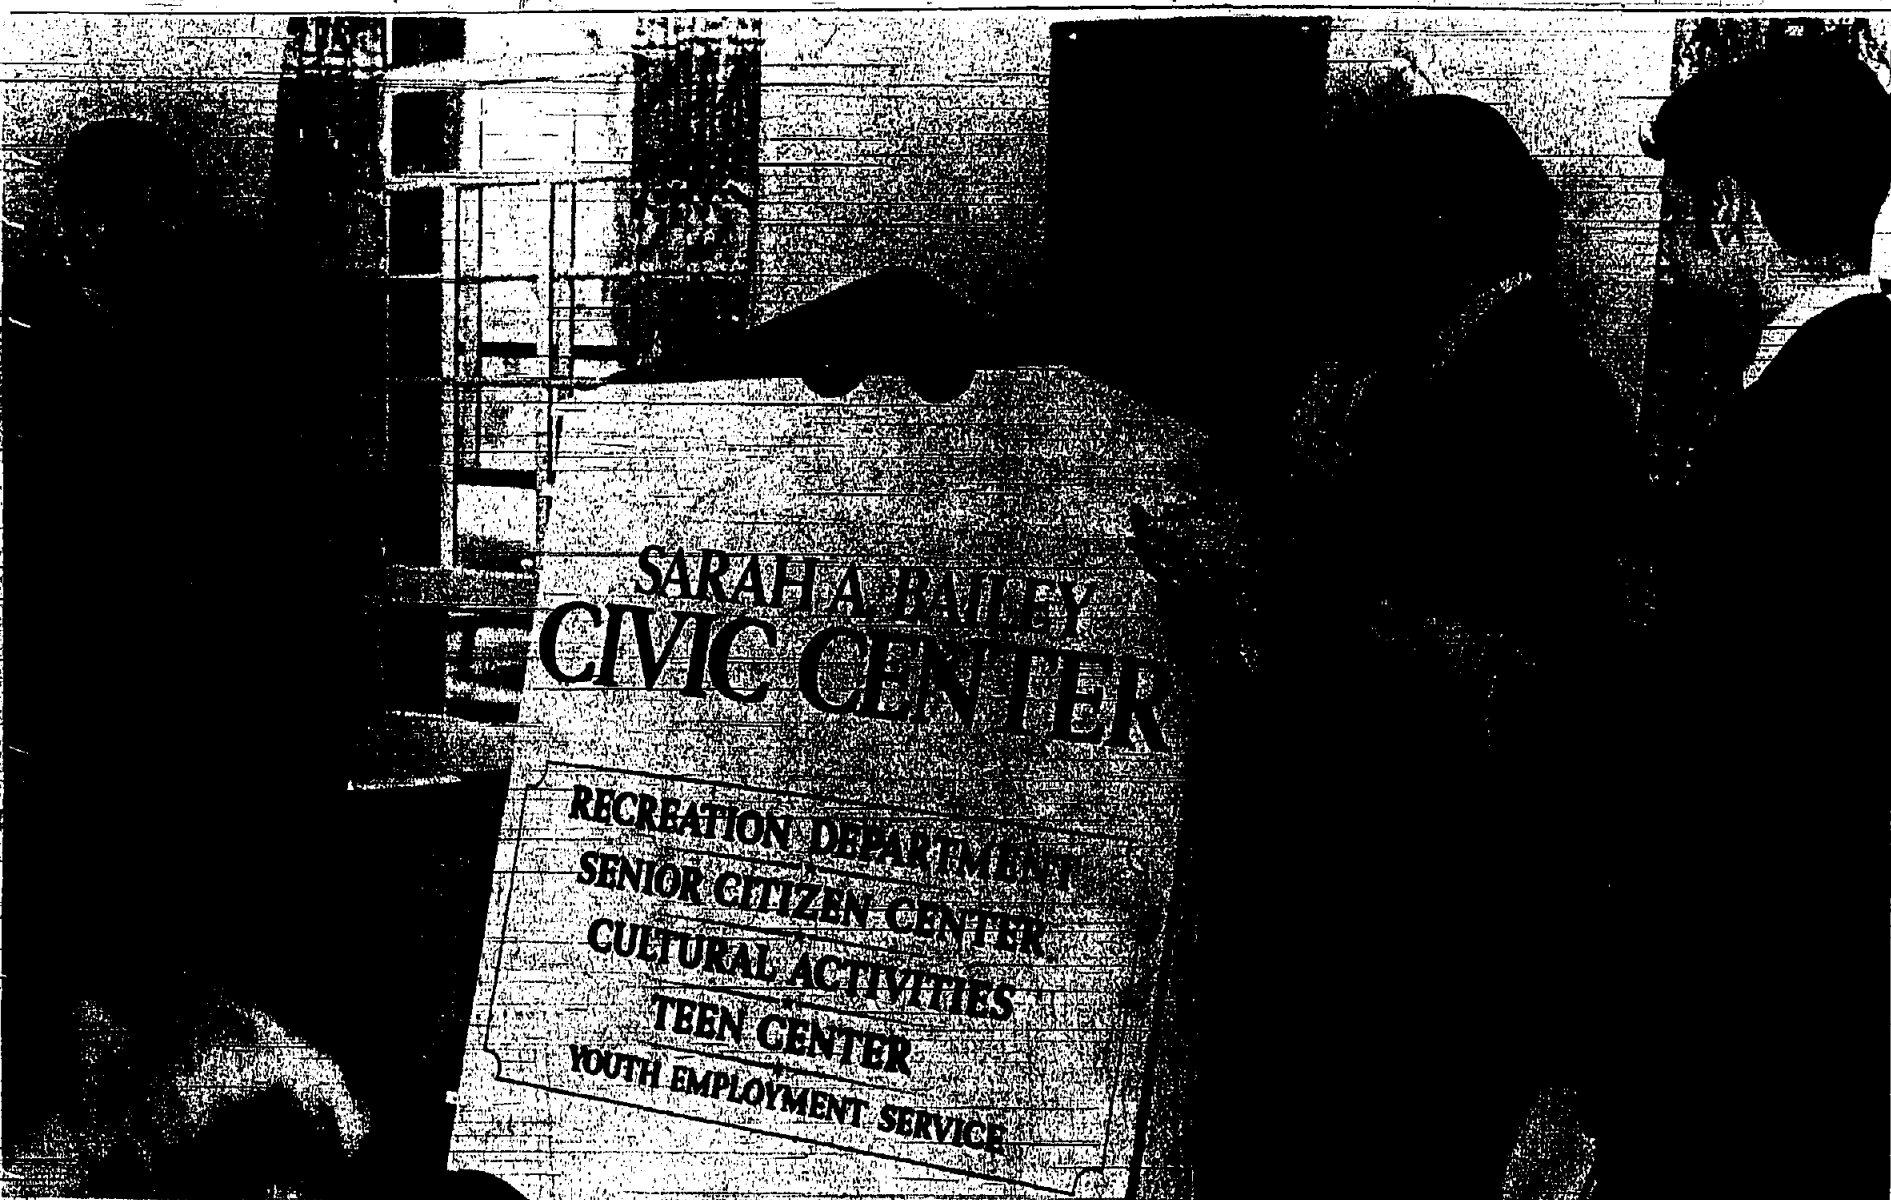

Criticism directed at Regional buses

By ABNER GOLD
A charge of a "serious misuse of township funds" on the part of the Regional High School District Board of Education, was presented to the Township Committee at its meeting Tuesday night at the Municipal Building. The audience comprised some 30 citizens.
The charge against the Regional school board was issued by Mrs. Sonya Dorsky, a member of the Springfield Board of Education, which is responsible for schooling up to the eighth grade. Local youngsters then attend the Regional high schools.
Mrs. Dorsky charged that the Regional board has been providing free bus transportation for teenagers in several of its member districts, at the expense of taxpayers in the entire district, including Springfield. School bus rides of more than 2.5 miles have three-quarters of their costs repaid by the state.
The Regional district has been busing students 1.6 to 2.5 miles to their high schools because of what the board has described as hazardous conditions, Mrs. Dorsky said. This transportation, primarily in Clark and Berkeley Heights, now costs the taxpayers in the entire district some $50,000 a year, she added.
Noting that the board may charge municipalities involved for this transportation because of dangerous conditions, Mrs. Dorsky urged the Township Committee to use whatever influence it has to end local financial support of the practice. She said that Regional plans to bus an added 89 Springfield students to school next year, from the Briar Hills circle area, were just "throwing us a bone."

Dems to hear Parsekian spell out his views

Ned J. Parsekian will address the Springfield Democratic organization at its regular monthly meeting on Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the National State Bank. Parsekian, a former state senator from Bergen County, is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor. He will outline his position on major state and national issues and answer questions from the audience.
As state senator in 1966-1967, Parsekian was the leader of the Bergen County delegation. He was chairman of the Senate Committee on Law and Public Safety and chairman of the subcommittee on higher education. He served as chairman of the Commission on the Defense of Indigent Persons Accused of Crime.
Parsekian held Senate hearings on organized crime and the effects of official corruption. He also conducted hearings into the disorders in ghetto areas.
In 1967 THE New Jersey Association of Chosen Freeholders designated Sen. Parsekian as the "1967 Legislator of the Year" and

The Sarah Bailey Civic Center opens and you wouldn't recognize the place

The Sarah A. Bailey Civic Center was officially opened to the public Saturday afternoon. Many Springfield residents visited the newly painted rooms and found little evidence that the building had been a library for a great many years.
The dedication took place in the senior citizens' room on the first floor. The Rev. Kenneth Stumpf of Holy Cross Lutheran Church opened the meeting with a prayer. Vincent Piaia, assistant recreation director, then told the audience of the work involved in the preparation of the building. He praised the teenagers who had helped by painting, sewing and cleaning.
Mayor Philip Del Vecchio presented keys to the building to Warren Danziger of the Teen Council and to Mrs. Ellen Carmichael and Mrs. Carol Buckley of the Senior Citizens. Committeeman Arthur Falkin acknowledged the cooperation and help from the many people involved, including the citizens committee members who were instrumental in planning the building. He introduced the Township Council and members of the recreation staff. Ed Kubay was applauded for his many years of service to recreation in Springfield.
AFTER THE CEREMONY, the staff guided the visitors through the rooms, explaining how they would be used. The top floor is scheduled for cultural activities, with studio space, a darkroom, a sewing room and storage space for art materials.
The Youth Employment Service office also is on the second floor. The YES office, which is served by volunteers, will be open every weekday afternoon from 2 to 4:30.
The first floor contains the recreation office which will be open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. A large room with a fully equipped kitchen has been named the Ellen Carmichael Room and will be used by senior citizens. There is also a room with food-vending machines for refreshments.

Printing delays Regional board schools survey

A survey on expansion needs of the Union County Regional High School District has been delayed and is not expected to be received until the latter part of this month. It was announced this week by Avery Ward, president of the Regional Board of Education.
Dr. Henry Rissetto, the board's planning consultant, notified the board Monday that printing difficulties had delayed delivery of the final report.
The report is expected to contain a complete study of the Regional District, including an evaluation of present and future building requirements.
Ward said copies of the report will be made public as soon as possible. He said the board plans to distribute the survey to the local boards of education in each of the six communities in the district, the local school administrators and libraries.
Dr. Fred B. Hagedorn, board member from Berkeley Heights and the board's representative to the constituent local boards of education in the district, has notified them by letter that a previously-scheduled meeting to discuss Dr. Rissetto's report has been postponed. It will be held one or two weeks after receipt of the survey, he said.

Temple will honor holocaust's victims in service Sunday

Temple Sharey Shalom of Springfield will hold its annual Yom Ha-sho'a (Holocaust Day) Sunday at 7 p.m. The temple's spiritual leader, Rabbi Israel Dresner, will officiate along with Norman Salatz of Springfield, a survivor of the Nazi holocaust and a leader of the Jewish partisans.
The 27th day of the Hebrew month of Nisan, less than a week after the end of the Passover festival, is commemorated each year in Israel as Yom Ha-sho'a, in memory of the martyred six million European Jews. Increasingly, Jews and Jewish religious and cultural institutions outside of Israel are beginning to commemorate the day, a temple spokesman said.
At the memorial service, the seventh grade of the Temple Sharey Shalom Religious School, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Jean Abramowitz, will present the play, "I Never Saw Another Butterfly," based on the experiences of Jewish children at the Theresenstadt (Terezin) concentration camp in Bohemia.
Salatz was born in the West Galician city of Kolbuszov, and lost most of his family in the holocaust. After escaping from a concentration camp in the forests of Galicia, he became a leader of the Jewish partisans, and when the Red Army liberated Galicia from the Nazis, he was appointed commandant of the Cracow district.
In the final days of the war he met his bride-to-be, Amalia, who had also lost most of her family, and who had survived the holocaust by masquerading as an Aryan.
The memorial service is open to the public.

First Aid Squad needs assistance

The Springfield First Aid Squad daytime crews are in dire need of help, according to a squad spokesman. He stated, "We now are working with six members, which means that these members are working two and three days a week."
"All that is required of a first aider is a Red Cross first aid course and a driver's license. When the citizens of Springfield call out for help no matter day or night we are there. We are now reaching out to you for help."
"Will you please help us, by calling Capt. Robert Voorhees at 372-4677. We need you."

Veterans at hospital attend a party

B'nai B'rith Women Program arranged by

On page three of the Feb. 18, 1968 issue of the "Orange Press," the weekly newspaper of the East Orange Veterans Hospital, the notice read, "Bingo Party Tonight, Everyone Invited." What the "Press" didn't report was the pleasure, plus the effort, that lay behind the notice.

The effort, primarily by Mrs. Harriet Schwartz and Mrs. Belle Teltser, both of Springfield. They act as the B'nai B'rith Women's Chapter veterans committee, and had worked many hours to prepare the special request menu for the bingo party.

The menu consisted of salami sandwiches with pickles and soda. Not much of a "special" for those who merely have to raid a kitchen, but a real delicacy for the men of the sixth floor at the East Orange Veterans Hospital. Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Teltser were not alone in their efforts; many members of the chapter assisted in the preparations, together with the Men's Lodge of B'nai B'rith.

This party was only one example of the kind of effort and the type of planning that Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Teltser have been putting into their project. There have been other volunteers for specific programs, but every Monday and Thursday the men on the sixth floor know that they can look forward to seeing Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Teltser.

Mrs. Claire Falkin, president of the Women's chapter, originally prompted them to undertake this method of spreading cheer among the men at the hospital. In the majority of cases, relatives and friends do not live close enough to make regular visits to the hospital. The regular appearance of the volunteer workers serves to bring a breath of the outside world to the patients.

ONE-OF-THE-MANY features of their visits is the celebration of individual birthdays. Each occasion is remembered, and the celebrant receives a cake and a birthday card. The cake is shared by all the men on the floor.

The sixth floor in East Orange houses the orthopedic and paraplegic patients, and this group have become the special friends of the Springfield women.

On March 4, a party to celebrate the Jewish holiday of Purim was held. All patients, regardless of religion, are invited to these parties, and the Purim party was no exception. The special treat for the evening was the serving of hamantaschen, a pastry delicacy appropriate to this holiday.

Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Teltser spend at least 10 hours per week at the hospital and are constantly urging the other members of the chapter to get in on this program of spreading friendship. The opportunity of spending a few moments in conversation, or running an errand for one of the patients, or bringing an article that might not be available at the PX for one of the men, can mean a great deal to the people confined in the hospital.

The women have received many letters of appreciation from the hospital staff, as well as individual comments from the men, and this is all the reward that the volunteers ask, "the opportunity to serve and bring a ray of cheer to the patients," they comment.

Many members have baked cakes and provided assorted personal gifts that are used to celebrate the special occasions, and with the advent of spring there will be many bunches of home-grown flowers provided to brighten the wards.

Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Teltser can't recall exactly what they used to do on Monday and Thursday, but they acknowledge that they have never done anything that has brought them a keener sense of fulfillment, and they plan to continue their efforts and urge any other members of the community, whether they are members of B'nai B'rith or not, to volunteer their services.

Day-long programs on drugs to be held in 4 high schools

Plans are under way for a day-long program on drug abuse in each of the four high schools in the Union County Regional High School District. It was announced by Dr. Donald Merachuk, director of special services. "I was impressed with the treatment methods and obvious success of this program which combines professional psychiatrists and psychologists with ex-narcotic addicts, within an intensive therapeutic environment," he said.

A TYPICAL PROGRAM at a school might include a meeting with all the health teachers in order to discuss how to improve curricular instruction on narcotics addiction in health classes. Also: "An opportunity for students to talk to the ex-addicts on an informal basis." "Student assemblies where former addicts would tell about their own personal experiences with drugs." "A special open meeting for parents to acquaint them with their role in the drug abuse problem." "Meetings with the principal, assistant principal, guidance personnel, psychologist and others, to discuss signs and symptoms of addiction and to talk over ways these people might cope with and relate to students who begin to use drugs."

Dr. Warren Davis, superintendent of schools, has named Dr. Merachuk chairman of a district-wide committee to aid in program planning. Members of the committee, besides Dr. Davis, are: Anne Romano, assistant principal, Jonathan Dayton School, Springfield; George Cuzzolino, assistant principal, David Brewster, Kenilworth; Peter Festano, assistant principal, Gov. Livingston, Berkeley Heights; Louis DeRosa, assistant principal, Arthur L. Johnson, Clark, and John M. Brown, district coordinator for health and physical education. Ex-officio members are: Dr. Josephson; Dr. Albert Bromberg, consulting psychiatrist for the district, and Dr. Irwin Kinche, the district's senior medical inspector and school doctor at Jonathan Dayton.

Further details of the program will be released at a later date, Dr. Merachuk added.

PTA asks: Write legislators on bills now awaiting action

The Springfield PTA Council this week urged local citizens to write to their state legislators about several matters currently being considered in Trenton. A PTA spokesman said, "There are several bills currently before the State Legislature or in committee which can affect the future of all the children of Springfield, particularly the children."

"Bill S-206 (formerly S-861), Share-the-Books:

"This bill would permit the loan of textbooks and other instructional materials to pupils attending parochial and private schools and provide for state aid for the purchase of such books and materials. The national and State PTAs disagree with the bill because it would divert public funds to private institutions.

"Bill S-50 (formerly S-411), Cultural Arts High School:

"The New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers, aware that our young people need encouragement and assistance in cultural arts, has initiated a bill for a cultural arts high school. Talented students would have the opportunity to train in the fields of art, music, drama and dance. Students from all areas of New Jersey would have the benefit of professional training, provided they have exceptional talent in the visual or performing arts. The Springfield PTAs request that you write your legislators to release Bill S-50 from the education committee.

"Autonomy at state colleges:

"The PTAs urge that you contact your legislators in regard to state colleges whose budgetary procedures prevent efficient operation because all decisions concerning expenditures must go through Trenton. The PTAs feel each college should have more authority in hiring faculty, contracting for repairs and services, and purchasing supplies and equipment."

State senators from District 9 (Union County) are: Matthew J. Rinaldo (R), 142 Headley ter., Union; Nicholas S. LaCorte (R), 56 Hillside rd., Elizabeth, and Frank X. McDermott (R), 312 Massachusetts st., Westfield.

Assemblymen from District 9-C are Peter J. McDonough (R), Assembly education chairman, 925 Oakwood pl., Plainfield, and Hugo M. Pfaltz Jr. (R), 118 Prospect st., Summit. Union County assemblyman at large is Charles J. Irwin (R), 190 Elm st., Westfield.

Centennial festivities at Summit

A special proclamation issued by Governor Richard Hughes officially designates Saturday as Summit Centennial Day. To celebrate the 100th anniversary, Edward H. Kaus, chairman of the Summit centennial committee, and the Summit Junior-Fortnightly Club have arranged a day of festivities.

Events will start with the Centennial Day parade at 11 in the morning, beginning at Kemper Insurance. A mums band, a drum and bugle corps and a bagpipe band are a few of the musical groups to be dispersed among antique automobiles, outboard engines, a horse drawn moving van, and a double decker bus. Springfield's Donald Meyer has donated the use of his old fire engine.

I.P. Flitwick, chairman of the board of Erie Lackawanna Railroad, will come from Cleveland to act as honorary grand marshal to lead the parade through Summit to the decorated railroad station. There, an old steam engine will be waiting to load passengers for rides. Costumed members of the Junior Fortnightly Club and their husbands will be on hand to act as hosts and guide messes.

The Erie Lackawanna is, of course, an important factor in the history of Summit, so it seems fitting that the railroad should be included in the celebration of the commuter suburb of Summit. The steam locomotive will be run by the Erie Lackawanna between their Summit and Berkeley Heights stations. The engine itself was built in 1907 and rebuilt in 1961 for use by the Morris County Central Railroad in Whippany.

YOUNG MUSICIAN - Hope Schiller of Springfield, winner of a state-wide competition sponsored by the American Harp Society, will take part in the national finals this June in Rochester. The 10-year-old harpist lives at 983 Chimney Ridge dr. and attends the Edward Walton School. She studies harp with Kathy Brice of Cranford.

Bail set in assault: suspect also wanted in Georgia murder

A man wanted for a shooting in Springfield and a murder in Georgia was arrested by township police Monday, and is being held in $10,000 bail at Union County Jail for a preliminary hearing in Springfield Municipal Court on next Monday.

Oscar Holloway, 22, whose last address was a room in a Newark hotel, was transferred from the Federal Building in Rutherford to Springfield by Detective Sam Calabrese. Holloway was charged with atrocious assault and battery, in connection with the March 16 shooting of John Paines of Kenilworth, who was wounded in the shoulder at 28 Stiles st.

Holloway is also wanted by police in Albany, Ga., in connection with a murder in that city. In other recent police action, a woman's coat with mink trim was turned into headquarters by Richard Grimm, 17, of 11 Woodcrest circle. Grimm reported that he found the black cloth coat with mink collar and sleeves in a wooded area between the Rahway River and Laurel drive.

Reported missing from a construction site at Shampoke road and Stone Hill road last week were an electric rotor, valued at $400, and a pump carburetor, valued at $20.

Town recreation program reflects the community

With the opening this past weekend of the new civic and recreation center, this might be the proper time to take a look at the services provided by the Recreation Department. The old truism says that people usually get the kind of municipal services they deserve. If that's true in this area, the people of Springfield must deserve pretty well. For the size of the community, and the physical facilities available, the variety of renderings is impressive. And in sharp contrast to several nearby towns, everything that is advertised is actually delivered.

Particularly with the addition this year of a staff member for cultural activities, the department has put needed muscle into its weakest limbs. And the cooperation which has been fostered with the Regional Adult School provides an example of joint action which merits study by other governmental agencies. There are needs still to be met, ranging from a visit by the Park Commission Shakespeare players to the shortage of athletic opportunity for girls, but the list of deficiencies keeps on shrinking. Park facilities, too, need great improvement, but ultimate responsibility for this lack lies with the freeholders, not with the municipal government.

Some day, we still hope, the Park Commission will send out a Prince Charming with a glass slipper, and the neglected stepchild will start to collect on all the profits made by selling Park Commission land in Springfield for highways. And while we are assigning blame for what has not been done, there is credit to be given, too.

Ed Ruby, the only recreation director Springfield has known, deserves the largest portion, along with Vincent Plaia, assistant director, and the growing staff assigned to cultural and athletic programs, as well as to the municipal swimming pool.

Arthur M. Falkin, as recreation commissioner, must have done something right, with the backing of the entire community which has done a good job of keeping politics out of the Recreation Department, and vice versa.

The ladies of SACA, the Springfield Association for Creative Arts, were responsible for many of the most promising programs, such as the museum bus trips, which are now recreation projects. From the horse courts at the swim pool to the life art classes co-sponsored by the Adult School, from the annual tennis tournament to the new Community Players, from the Teen Council to the Senior Citizens -- we of Springfield can all share the pride.

There is much still to be done, of course, and recreation is always a proper subject for politically inspired criticism -- but for the moment, with the opening of the Sarah-Bailey Civic Center, everyone in town can share a little of the credit.

There's enough to go around.

"REFRESHING OASIS"
The recent grant by the New Jersey State Board of Education to Mrs. Norma Levine for her efforts in effecting post-racial progress between students of different races and ethnic groups is indeed a refreshing oasis in an area so often reeking with subtle but extremely effective racism.

There is the dubious distinction of the President of the United States withdrawing his membership from the local golf course. Last Memorial Day, the Benedict Protection Order of Elks, headed with a banner inscribed, "Love the Country or Leave." This organization is always engaged in many mercurial missions. But is it truly showing love of country while it continues a policy that specifically limits membership to Caucasians? How many civic and social groups are reaching out for the minority group members? The future of the nation will be in good hands if the youth of our country, inspired with the fine example implanted by Mrs. Levine and her ilk, will prevail.

by insurance carriers with the possibility of a rate increase. As a result of the ordinance, the threat of an increase can now be discounted for the time being, but most important, the safety of our residents will now be enhanced because of easier patrolling of our streets by our Police Department during the night hours.

Now let us get back to Mr. Lan, who after 12 years has decided that anything and everything our Township Committee does is not what our municipality needs. I ask again, where has he been for 12 years? Why hasn't he come out to speak before this on issues that he did not like? He has come to speak only because he is now the Democratic county committee chairman for Springfield, and as such he now arrives on the scene as the White Knight to save Springfield from tar-and-tale grey issues. One of the difficulties is that the issues which Mr. Lan promises to turn "ully-white" are of his own manufacture and not really issues at all.

This is indicative of the fact that Mr. Lan has been manufactured by the Democrats since they could not find anyone else. And I wonder how long Mr. Lan will stay on as chairman of the Springfield Democratic County Committee. Remember? How many chairmen have the Democrats had in Springfield over the past several years? If the voters of Springfield wanted Democrats in office, they surely could have elected some to township office during the past few years. Our votes are secret and no one, but no one, stops people from voting for the man of their choice, provided that their choice is a man of stature and experienced in local government affairs.

Also his statement that Mayor DeVecchio's staff of office is existing and he will run again for Township Committee, thereby giving the people of Springfield "food for thought" about the mayor's statement, and I quote, "If the people of this town are dissatisfied with the present Township Committee, let them vote us out of office." It seems that the people of this town are satisfied with the Township Committee, and I must add our town can consider itself extremely fortunate that a man of Phil DeVecchio's caliber, sincerity and dedication is at the helm of our government. Phil has given everything of himself to help make Springfield a better place to live in. If Mayor DeVecchio decides to run for Township Committee, we could not have a better choice, be he Republican or Democrat.

But for Mr. Lan, how long after election will we be around to find fault instead of telling people that there are many Republicans on the Township Committee? You claim there should be a dissenting voice. Well, for your information, Mr. Lan, if any member of our Township Committee thinks there should be a dissenting voice, you can be assured there will be dissent.

PROFILE--Mrs. Donald Douglas

By BEA SMITH
Mrs. Donald (Barbara) Douglas, a petite young woman who has scumpered up a 40-foot ladder to apply oxygen to an unconscious man, transferred a victim, from Springfield to Boston, Mass. (by motor car) and rushed to the scene of numerous accidents and fires, is now retiring from the First Aid Squad in Springfield. Mrs. Douglas, the only woman in Springfield ever to be elected vice-president of the Springfield First Aid Squad, holds a first aid instructor's certificate. She is reluctantly leaving the squad and Springfield next month to go to New Orleans.

Her husband, who is employed as an assistant production manager for the Times Picayune (a Newhouse newspaper). And naturally, Mrs. Douglas and three-year-old Debbie must accompany the man of the house to his new job. "I have lived in Springfield for 16 years and have spent eight and a half of those years with the Springfield First Aid Squad," Mrs. Douglas says. "And I shall certainly be sorry to leave."

DURING THOSE YEARS on the squad, Mrs. Douglas has served as corresponding secretary and on the membership and banquet committees.

She also is the first woman elected to an executive office. She was elected in January of this year, an honor bestowed upon her "because she is elsewhere and helps in general duties." In addition, she continues to be on ambulance call for 18 hours a week.

"There are 30 people on the squad, including 12 or 14 women," she says, "and any one of them with more than a year's experience can take my place. They all qualify."

Mrs. Douglas, who was born in Newark, was graduated from East Orange High School and Latin American Institute in New York. She was married in 1957. "But I lived in Springfield before I was married."

WHY DID SHE JOIN THE First Aid Squad? "I wanted to serve my community, and the squad was a good way to do it. Ever since I've joined, I've answered all types of calls. And," she adds, "everything that can happen, has happened--accidents, heart attacks, fires. I've assisted with anything that has happened in town that required ambulances--that is, while I was on call and on duty."

A little more than three years ago, Mrs. Douglas took time off from her duties to have a baby. "And two months after the baby was born," she says, "I returned to the squad. In fact, I only was off about four months altogether."

Although Mrs. Douglas' husband is not an active participant in the First Aid Squad, she says, "he helps by doing art work for the squad--posters and cartoons for the newspapers. You see, he used to do illustrations for magazines before he became a production manager."

Mrs. Douglas explains that she (or any woman) could never be an active member of the squad if her husband wasn't interested in the organization. "He has to be interested," she insists. "After all, the work does interfere with one's personal life. Being on call means a person can't leave the house, and every once in a while, a husband (or wife) wants to go somewhere else."

MRS. DONALD DOUGLAS, where, and is a little disappointed when she discovers his wife is on call. "But it usually works out all right. I get a lot of cooperation from my husband, even though my work takes a lot of time. We never know if I'm going to be gone for a few hours or all day. "I did go to Boston once. I had a transportation case, left at 6:30 a.m. and got home after 10 at night. This doesn't happen very often," she smiles.

MOST OF HER experiences on the squad have been "unusual." One example is the time Temple Beth Ahm was being built. One of the workmen had accidentally cut through a power cable. There was no other way for him to get to the top of the temple (30 or 40 feet high), so I had to climb a fire ladder to get up there with the oxygen. Then the fire department took him off the roof."

Mrs. Douglas, who also works part-time for Merrick Construction Co., says that "it is a kind of disappointment to me to leave Springfield. I've enjoyed living in Springfield and working with the First Aid Squad. I hope they elect another woman. A woman can do the job as well as a man."

The squad will be celebrating its 20th anniversary in September. "I certainly hope more people will join the squad. We need more people."

Will Mrs. Douglas do the same type of work in New Orleans? "They don't have a first aid squad here," she says sadly. "In fact, they don't even know what that is. It's surprising, you know, because here in New Jersey, almost every town is covered by a first aid squad."

"I hope to return in two years," she says. "Unless my husband is sent farther away from here. You never can tell."

Her eyes suddenly brighten as she adds, "even though they don't have a squad in South, I'm sure I'll find something useful to do--to help my community."

Springfield Public Library reports on newest books for local readers

The Springfield Free Public Library suggests the following titles from the list of recent acquisitions:

"Roughnecks and Gentlemen," by Harold McCracken. More than 50 years ago, McCracken started on his long trail through the Canadian Northwest to Alaska and the Aleutians, the beginning of a lifetime of adventure for this many-sided man. Now he tells the fascinating story of his travels with honesty and gripping enthusiasm.
CRIME
"The Valachi Papers," by Peter Maas. One of the most electrifying and significant documents on crime ever written--the real story behind the Cosa Nostra as seen through the eyes of a man who lived on the inside of America's underworld. Told in dispassionate detail for the first time, it is a definitive, thoroughly documented portrait of organized crime.

COOKING
"Visions of Sugarplums," by Mimi Sheraton. A charming and comprehensive collection of recipes of national Yuletide dishes from all the countries that celebrate Christmas. There are the traditional recipes, all thoroughly tested and clearly described. A book easy to use and pleasing to look at.

RELIGION
"Understanding Prayer," by Edgar N. Jackson. Drawing upon his years of study, Dr. Jackson guides the reader through the complex steps of understanding the true meaning of prayer. The 40 chapters of the book serve as a complete weekly study program for religious groups or for daily Lenten reading.

JUVENILE
"Magic Comedy," by Bill Severn. Here is magic with a fresh accent, the kind of tricks that will produce laughter as well as surprise. Tricks, skits, and clowning are included and full routines for the magical master of ceremonies, with laugh-provoking props. For school, club, church and camp entertainments as well as the amateur magician.

"What Does an Airline Crew Do?" by E. Roy Ray. Explicits and action photographs take one behind the scenes to show what the nearly 50,000 men and women do who work daily above the clouds as crew members on United States airlines. Since jetliners of the future will increase the demand for airline crew members, the calling is practically unlimited on career opportunities.
"Adventures with a Paper Cup," by Harry Milgrom. One of a series of "First Science Experiments." Though the experiments are simple, children are led to observe carefully, to reason clearly and to act imaginatively. Graphic illustrations by Leonard Kessler.

Science Topics

PHENYLKETONURIA, an inherited metabolic disease called PKU, for short, no longer results in severe mental retardation if diagnosed in time, says a University of Michigan pediatrician. PKU is caused by the body's inability to dispose of phenylalanine, an essential amino acid. During the first three or five years of life a high concentration of the acid in the blood interferes with the development of brain cells. If this is discovered early, the urine of acid can be cut by reducing or eliminating certain foods, bringing the phenylalanine level down to normal. Once the brain cells have developed the child can be placed on a normal diet.

A NEW THEORY on how stars are formed has been advanced by a University of Chicago astrophysicist. He says that stars originate from gas clumps or clouds and the combination of a weak magnetic field and cosmic rays continually push the gases together. Over a period of 200 million or more years, these clumps contract and form stars.

EQUIPMENT that is "over their heads" is making it easier for nurses to care for post-operative patients in recovery rooms. Ceiling-mounted nursing service columns, which can be raised and lowered by vacuum power, bring oxygen, vacuum, electrocardiogram and electroencephalogram equipment within a nurse's easy reach. The stainless steel column, supplied by National Cylinder Gas, Chicago, eliminates equipment that previously had to be connected to wall outlets by hoses and cables.

A RADIO-CONTROLLED DEVICE that will turn signal lights on and off at will promises to be a boon to surveyors who must place these lights on remote mountain peaks and use them as targets for sighting their surveying instruments, reports the U.S. Geological Survey. Conventional two-way radios are used to activate the lamps with a special audio tone of selected frequency. The lamps are not activated by voice transmission thus keeping the radio useful for normal communications also.

ALTHOUGH the destruction from floods and mudflows subsides when heavy rains cease, the danger from landslides will persist well into the summer in susceptible hilly and mountainous areas of California, says the

PARKING, AND POLITICS

Huzzah, huzzah! Like the Ajax White Knight, Donald Lan has come riding into Springfield to save it from a fate worse than death, and all because our Township Committee has passed the no overnight parking ordinance by a vote of five to zero. At times there is a cause for wonder as to why people who have lived in Springfield for so many years (and in the case of Mr. Lan, 12 years) all of a sudden decide that there is something wrong with our municipality because there are five Republicans on the Township Committee. Why has Mr. Lan not spoken before?

However, we will come to that later in this letter. Let us return to the new ordinance passed a few weeks ago. As always, those who oppose anything of everything to those who decide that whatever it is, it is of no value and hence throw it out. These people have overlooked the fact that the entire police and fire departments of Springfield are in favor of this ordinance and so expressed themselves. In addition to which, our neighboring towns have ordinances similar to ours whereby overnight parking is prohibited. If it is good enough for them, it certainly is good enough for us. (I suppose that some people will say that what is good for others might not be good for us, but the majority of people in Springfield will not buy that.)

Our town has been called a "target area"

The Senate has approved and sent to the Assembly S-254, a bill I introduced to require public utilities to provide not less than five days' written notice before entering property on which it has an easement for the purpose of making routine repairs.

Under present law, the utilities are not required to give such notice. As a consequence, some over-zealous utility company employees have abused the privilege and unnecessarily damaged trees and structures on private property. While this might not be considered earth-shaking, it is nevertheless a matter of great concern to those whose property has been destroyed without cause.

I have personal knowledge of several instances in which utility company employees went too far. On one occasion a utility deviated from its right-of-way onto neighboring property and completely cut down a number of trees at the base. The company acted under its right to fell or trim endangering timber, or trees that could damage the towers or transmission lines if they fell. The company admitted that in many instances only the top branches of the trees conceivably could have struck its installation. However, the utility claimed that the tree would look unattractive if its top were cut off. If the law I have

S. Department of Interior. It points out: "long after the rains stop, water slowly seeps down into the ground, and the likelihood of landsliding increases. Additional rains or earthquakes could trigger widespread, disastrous slides during this critical period."

Report from Trenton

By State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo

proposed had been in effect, the owner could have made this determination for himself. In another case, a utility entered park lands and began to fall timber under its right of way. When park authorities ascertained what was happening and checked their land survey, they learned that the utility company employees were cutting down trees that were outside the area of the easement. Moreover, these trees would not in any case have affected the utility's easement in any way.

IN STILL ANOTHER CASE, a utility installing service to a homeowner ran his line over the corner of another person's property. Since a birch tree stood in the way of the line, the utility employees cut off approximately half of the top of the tree to allow their lines to be strung. Unfortunately, the tree in question had been the pride and joy of the owner's late husband, who had, in fact, been caring for the tree only moments before he died.

The measure specifically exempts the utilities from the necessity of providing five days' notice when there is an obvious emergency and when the owner waives notice or agrees to accept a notice of a lesser period of time. The Senate apparently agreed with my contention that five days' notice is a reasonable restriction for the utilities. It is my hope that the Assembly will recognize the principle at stake here and vote to approve this bill. Moreover, I believe that the utilities would not be adverse to granting such notice, since it would enhance their relationship with their customers and eliminate a source of irritation and ill will.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

From N. J. Taxpayers Association

Whether it serves as a summons for fiscal soundness in government or is merely "an exercise in futility," Congress again has gone through the process of raising the national debt limit. In 1917 the Liberty Bond Act set the first basic debt ceiling at $7.5 billion. Through numerous enactments since that time, the "permanent" debt ceiling has risen to $358 billion, plus a temporary $7 billion extension prior to the latest action. The new legislation places the "permanent" ceiling at $365 billion with a "temporary" additional allowance of $12 billion, raising the overall debt limitation to $377 billion through the first of next year ending June, 1970. Opponents contend the restriction interferes with debt management by the U.S. Treasury and that frequent actions by Congress piling holes in the debt ceiling provokes its ineffectiveness. Advocates insist, however, the debt limit helps focus both Congressional and public attention upon the government's financial position and long-range spending plans. It took 25 pages of the Congressional Record to cover the debate while the House of Representatives voted for the latest change.

The debt limit discussion also spotlighted an inevitable product of debt--an annual interest cost of more than $15 billion this year. The interest payment alone, would be enough to finance 13 state governments.

New Jersey's with a current annual spending program of $1,136,000,000, points out the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

Article describes curriculum project for slow learners

Development of a curriculum program to serve the needs of slow learners in a middle-class suburban community is the subject of an article by the Union County Regional High School District's Title I coordinator.

The article, David L. Carl, a social studies teacher at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, describes the in-service teacher training and curriculum project under way in the regional district. The in-service sessions were initiated in 1967. "The needs of slow learners in a middle-class suburban community are often overlooked," Carl says in the article. "Stress is placed upon academic subjects which attempt to prepare the student for the college of his choice. The slow learner is frequently given a dilute form of the academic program. Often, selected materials have little relevance for, or do not meet the needs of these children. The teachers of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 realized that something must be done to discover relevant materials and procedures for dealing with these students," the article goes on to say.

April showers bring perilous hours

Along with the refreshing spring rain and showers come, unfortunately, poor visibility and increased stopping distances which demand lower driving speeds.

Don Costa, safety director of the Allstate Motor Club, pointed out that rainy weather ups the traffic crash rate at least two to three times.

Streaky windshields, night glare and pounding rain cut down considerably on the driver's ability to see, he said.

Wet pavements, covered with road film or spattered with oil, grease and dirt, make quick stopping impossible, Costa explained that during dry periods, a layer of residue builds up on the highway surface. "When it rains," he said, "the water floats much of this loose, forming a slick film on the road. On wet roads, a driver traveling 30 miles per hour requires 147 feet stopping distance. On dry roads, only 88 feet are needed.

"Another factor affecting braking ability," said Costa, "is tire hydroplaning." At certain speeds, tires lift off the pavement to be supported by water alone—an effect similar to a water skier zipping across a lake.

Allstate Motor Club recommends observing the following rainy weather safety tips:

1. Check your windshield wipers and washers. If they won't clean or don't work, have them replaced or repaired. Also keep your defroster in repair and carry a cloth to wipe the inside and outside of the windshield if necessary.
2. Turn your lights on. Make sure pedestrians and other drivers can see you during a rainstorm.
3. Watch surface conditions. Even after the rain stops, roads remain slippery for several hours. Side streets can be especially hazardous.

4. Beware of puddles. When approaching puddles, it's often hard to determine their depth. If you speed through a deep one, you can flood the engine, weaken the brakes, or do both. Even after driving cautiously through deep water, check your braking ability immediately because it can be weakened temporarily.
5. Slow down. To play it safe on rainy days, cut your speed down at least 20 percent and increase the distance between your car and others.

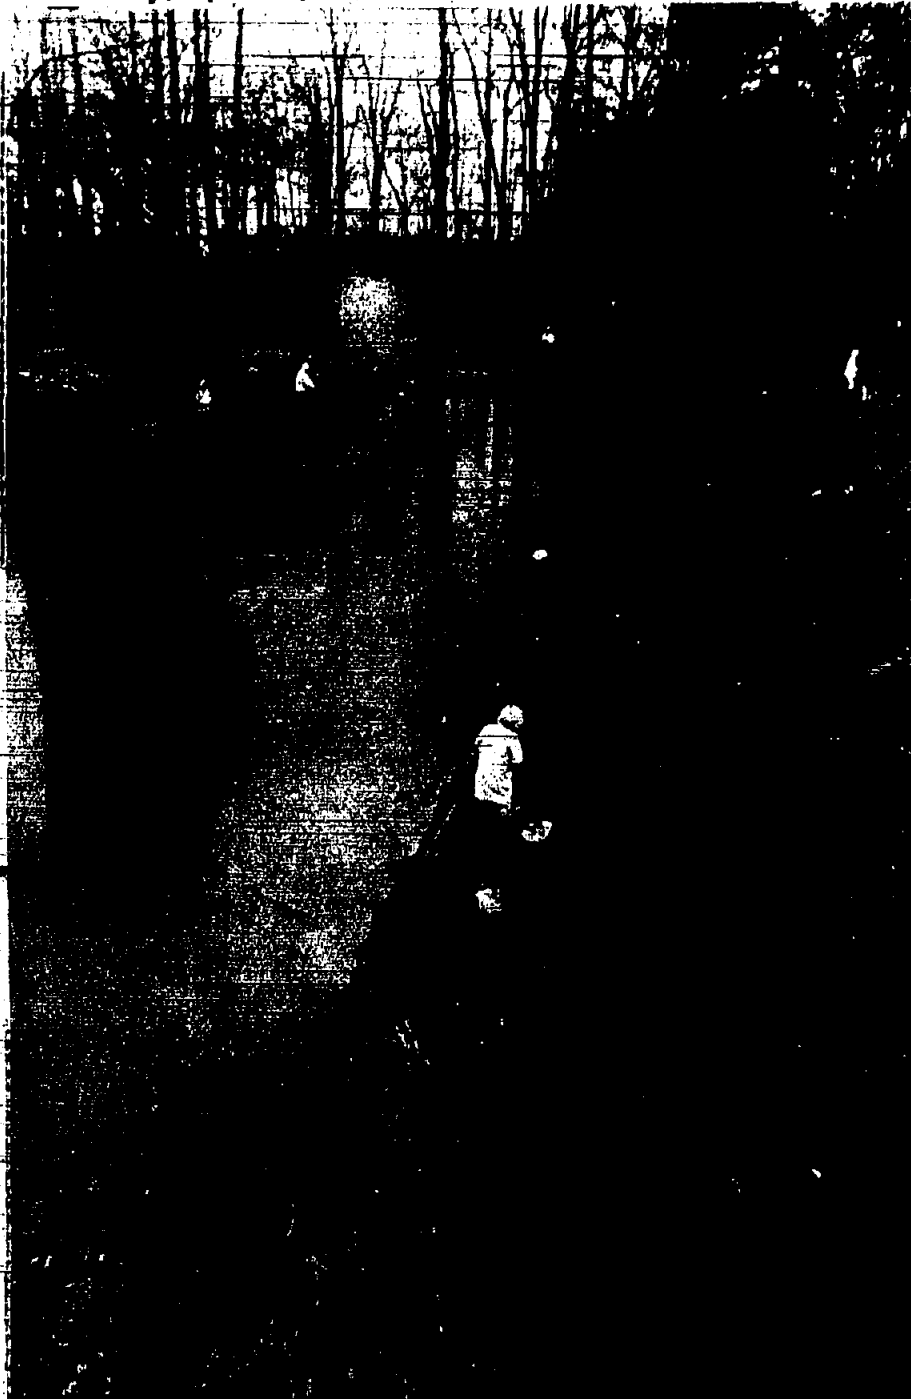

Fatalities on Parkway

Traffic deaths on the Garden State Parkway during 1968 were 1.41 per 100 million miles traveled, according to the annual report of the New Jersey Highway Authority, operator of the express road. The fatality rate was the best mark among major toll roads of the nation in 1968 and far lower than that for New Jersey roads collectively. The 28 fatalities compared with 17 the year before.

Drive opened to swell ranks of engineering technologists

The New Jersey Civil Engineering Technology Advisory Council (CETAC) has launched a campaign "to fill out the depleted ranks of the state's civil engineering technologist corps, and at the same time provide a possible solution for the national manpower shortage problem."

"We hope that this program will provide a solution for a specific problem in our industry, and at the same time set an example for the rest of the country's businesses for curing their own manpower woes," said Ellis Viesser, CETAC chairman.

Viesser said "there is a crying need in the construction industry for the civil engineering technologist, the man who bridges the gap between the graduate engineer and the craftsman."

Technologist include two years of concentrated courses in civil engineering technology, since the technologist must be capable of making design and management decisions," Viesser said.

He said the fact that only two years of post high school education are necessary, should make engineering technology more attractive to lower income students who want to enter a lucrative profession, but can't afford a full college education.

"The student who is unable to attend a four-year college can still find a career that's not only interesting and stimulating, but well-paying. The average starting salary in New Jersey is about $7,000," Viesser said.

CETAC IN A RECENT SURVEY discovered that the New Jersey construction industry needs for the technologist with more than triple within the next five years, and that currently the state's educational institutions are producing only one technologist for every five needed.

Nationally, more than 100,000 new technologists are needed each year, yet last year the U.S. graduated only 16,000. This compares with more than 100,000 produced during the same period in Russia.

There can be little doubt that this is the fastest growing occupational group in the nation, yet one of the least known," Viesser said.

"Qualifications for an engineering tech-

It became obvious that the technical gap in the New Jersey construction industry was not going to solve itself."

The organization is composed of representatives of 10 New Jersey trade and professional associations and three state agencies.

CETAC has a five-point plan with which it hopes to solve the problem — establishment of technical curricula in county colleges with an associate degree awarded upon completion; informing youth of opportunities in a technical career and the use of surveys to check the needs of industries and agencies.

Also the seeking of federal and state aid for the student who wants to enter a technical career, and a program to obtain national certification for the civil engineering technologist.

"The key to our success is whether the industry is willing to help itself," Viesser said. "We have an ambitious program, and we will need initial funding to get it started."

He said that CETAC has had a brochure developed which explains the program and goals of the organization and it will be sent to all major construction firms and businessmen in the state asking for contributions to the project.

"What we are doing here is setting a precedent," Viesser said. "In the past when there has been a need for better training in a certain field, industry has turned to the government for such a program."

"But in our case the industry itself is seeking to solve its own problem. We feel that if we are successful, we may have uncovered a program that will set a healthy example for the rest of the nation."

Legion focusing on child welfare

Jack W. Kuepfer of Clifton, state commander of the American Legion, announced this week that the 425 New Jersey Legion posts will join the 16,000 posts throughout the nation and in several overseas countries and territories to observe Child Welfare Month during April.

"The Legion's observance of this special month relating to one of its major programs will take on even greater significance during this 50th anniversary of the founding of the American Legion," stated Kuepfer.

In 1925 the Legion began a program of temporary financial assistance to aid dependent children of veterans. Subsequently the program has expanded to improve conditions for all children.

Back-to-school wives, moms 9 studying nursing at UCT

Putting aside pots and pans, diapers and dishes, brushes and brooms in exchange for textbooks and tests six or seven hours a day may not be easy but, according to nine students of licensed practical nursing at Union County Technical Institute, 1776 Raritan rd., Scotch Plains, the inconveniences, pressures, disruptions and sacrifices are well worth it. Half of the December 1969 class consists of married women ranging in age from 20 to 50, who have been out of school for two to 32 years, one of whom is the mother of five children. Having begun the one-year program in January, the eager students will complete 16 weeks of preclinical training at the school and 32 weeks of clinical experience at various local hospitals. They are being prepared to take state board examinations for licensed practical nursing.

Included among the courses required for the prerequisite phase at the institute are pharmacology, physiology, psychology, anatomy, nutrition, and foundations of nursing. Many of the students must prepare and complete assignments and study for examinations in an atmosphere of frenetic family activity. Others have continued to attend school despite excessive demands upon their time and personal resources.

Their instructor of psychology, Mrs. Jean Roth of Mountainside, commented that the more mature students approach their studies with a sense of wonder, discovery, heightened awareness and unusual sensitivity. "Ordinarily you might expect older students to be less open-minded, because they have had fuller experiential backgrounds and more time to formulate and confirm their opinions. Instead, they are amazingly perceptive, receptive, and responsive to new ideas and extremely willing to examine or reexamine their own cherished or persistent beliefs.

"They make a valuable contribution to class discussion which often continues beyond the time allotted for the course. Although they are distinguished by their seriousness of purpose, they also have a remarkable sense of levity. The fact that learning is so obviously pleasurable for them makes teaching so completely enjoyable for me."

Registration is now open for another one-year class to begin April 24. Louis Hegy, director of admissions, hopes many out-of-school adults, both male and female, will apply. "Our experience has shown that the more mature student is highly motivated and determined to be successful," he said.

Incentive program

The Department of Labor's Work Incentive Program is successfully moving people off the welfare rolls into jobs. Since the program started in 1968, more than 34,000 persons have enrolled for training in 34 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

Sunday cycles start this week

The Park drive in Warinanco Park, Elizabeth and Roselle, will again be closed to motor traffic on Sundays from 7 to 10:30 a.m., beginning this Sunday, to enable residents of the area to enjoy a morning bicycle ride, it was announced by The Union County Park Commission.

The program was initiated in the fall of 1967 on a trial basis. Continuing through the summer, adults and children may ride their bicycles during the three and a half hour period along the Park drive, approximately a two-mile ride.

The purpose of the program is to offer family groups and individuals an opportunity to participate in a personal physical fitness program and to encourage family activity, a county park spokesman said.

Parking for autos will be available along the concourse adjacent to Warinanco Park Stadium.

UC alumni appoint dinner co-chairmen

Frank Roselli of Rahway and George E. Van Dorn of Cranford will serve as co-chairmen of the Union College Alumni Association's annual spring dinner, it was announced by Richard P. Muscatello of Elizabeth, association president.

The dinner on May 3 at the Hotel Suburban in Summit will honor Dr. Kenneth C. McKay, the college's first and only president who recently resigned to become executive director of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education.

Among those serving on the dinner committee is Frank J. Heiser of Linden. John P. Higgins of Clark will serve as toastmaster. Tickets may be reserved through the College Relations Office.

9,000 visitors to date at Sperry Observatory

More than 9,000 school children, teachers, and adults have visited the William Miller Sperry Observatory at Union College, Cranford, since the start of the school year. In September, it was reported by Mrs. Marjorie C. Wooster, director.

The largest group was 6,900 students from Union County public and parochial schools, who visited the observatory as part of project "Operational Astronomy—The Earth and Beyond" sponsored by the Cranford public schools under a grant from Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Teachers, parents, special groups and astronomy buffs account for the remainder of the visitors through March 31, Mrs. Wooster said.

An additional 3,000 persons are expected to visit the observatory by the end of June. In addition to class trips and special group visits, a amateur astronomer, Inc., which operates the observatory jointly with Union College, sponsors free public viewing sessions every Friday evening beginning at dusk.

THE SEARCH FOR HEALTH

A REPORT FROM THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH
BETHESDA, MARYLAND

Your skin has the distinction of being afflicted by more than 2000 diseases. Few are more frustrating than psoriasis, a chronic inflammatory, non-contagious skin disorder.

In the United States alone, psoriasis occurs in some four million people (or one in fifty), more commonly in those between the ages of 15 and 35. It affects men and women equally, coming and going in either mild or severe forms without apparent reason. Seasonal changes may aggravate or improve the condition.

Most of the 30,000 new cases in 1969 will begin with bright red, pin-headed, sized spots, usually appearing on elbows, knees, and scalp, that the sores may show up anywhere. Shiny white dry scales soon form, spreading into large, bizarre patterns.

Normally, cells on the skin surface reproduce themselves once a month. In psoriasis, cell growth is greatly accelerated, causing a piling up of imperfectly formed cells, which results in more sores as well as in continual shedding of surface scales. The shedding scales reveal a moist surface studded with tiny bleeding points. Unfortunately, the sores, although not painful, are disfiguring and a source of much mental anguish.

The Federal Government's research program on psoriasis, as part of the dermatology field, is conducted by the National Institutes of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases (NIAMD), a component of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), in Bethesda, Maryland. The NIAMD is presently supporting, through grants, intensive studies of this disease at many universities and medical centers throughout the country.

Although the basic cause of psoriasis is unknown, recent research has been concentrating at rapid rates. Institute-supported researchers are now investigating hereditary, metabolic, and hormonal factors as suspected causes.

New evidence has indicated that even the unaffected skin of psoriasis victims is different in some respects from that of unaffected persons. Other recent studies have suggested that psoriasis is inherited.

Although no cure now exists, psoriasis can be effectively controlled in most cases through diligent use of varied medications. Combinations of soaps and ointments containing coal tar, sulfur, and salicylic acid—and radiation—can help control the affected areas. Advanced cases of psoriasis have been successfully treated with local applications of steroid drugs in cream and aerosol preparations.

New and potent drugs, such as the antimetabolic agents triacetate, azathioprine, and methotrexate which slow the accelerated cell growth, appear to hold promise.

These and steroid drugs, such as triamcinolone, are still in the experimental stage and are being studied on a long-term basis to find a drug safe for general use. They should be taken only under the supervision of a physician because they are potentially dangerous and may cause side effects.

These are but a few of the many approaches utilized to study this persistent skin disorder. Research into the mysteries of psoriasis will continue as the cause is defined, and, ultimately, a cure discovered.

Vocational ed still in spotlight for 8th graders

The continuation of a program exploring the vocational opportunities offered by the Union County Regional High School District has been recommended to the Board of Education. It was announced this week by Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of schools.

The objective of the federally funded project is to provide a program of visitation and discussion of vocational offerings and opportunities for the elementary sending district. This includes teachers, administrators, students and parents.

It has been recommended that the 1969-70 program focus on eighth grade students and their parents. The first phase of the project, completed this school year, was primarily directed at orienting teaching staffs and administrators through a series of visitation tours.

The program is being directed by Stanley Grossman, coordinator of industrial arts and vocational education, and Dr. Donald Merachnik, director of special services for the four high-school district.

NEXT YEAR, PLANS call for day-long tours of the vocational facilities for both public and parochial students living in the district which include Clark, Garwood, Berkeley Heights, Kenilworth, Mountaintide and Springfield.

Eighty teachers and other school personnel participated in four orientations this year, Dr. Davis said. He added that 545 students and parents attended open houses at the four high schools.

Many students, as well as those adults sought for counsel, have had little first-hand experience with the vocational opportunities and offerings of the district, Dr. Davis said. "Teachers, parents and others can realistically counsel students toward vocational education opportunities only after viewing and understanding the programs."

The report on the first phase of the project will be published this month in the "Research Bulletin" of the New Jersey School Development Council.

held at the Redwood Inn in Somerville on Friday evening, April 18.

Treasurer of the affair will be Joseph Eord, Essex County prosecutor. Other guests will include State Senators Nicholas La Corte and Matthew Rinaldi, Union County Judges Ralph De Vita and V. William Di Buono, Monsignor Vincent Monella of the Italian-American Institute at Seton Hall University, Union County Sheriff Ralph Oriscello and the Rev. Rocco Constantino of St. James Church in Springfield. Chairman of the dinner dance is Joseph Conzolo. Ad-book chairman is Duke Menza. Tickets for the affair have been sold out.

man was Scott Harm of 217 Baltusrolave. Del Vecchio noted that state law requires a license to drive a vehicle with a motor, such as a minibike or go-cart, on any public street even if the street is temporarily closed to other traffic.

Falkin disclosed that the Recreation Department had been looking for a minihike site and would step up its efforts. He said that the need was for a large paved area, far enough from homes so that the noise would not be a nuisance.

The ideal solution would be a parking lot in the industrial area, not used for business on Saturdays or Sundays, he went on to say. Once a site is found, Falkin added, the town must then obtain some sort of insurance to cover the liability that goes with authorization.

After a 40-minute hearing and a 10-minute recess, the committee denied a variance requested by the Keevic Farber Lumber Co. to revamp its property at the corner of Morris and Springfield avenues. The request was for permission to tear down the present lumber yard and gasoline service station and replace them with new facilities for the same two purposes.

The governing body delayed action to vacate Arthur street, a paper street between Beverly road and Hillside avenue, Committee member Henry J. Bultman suggested a postponement until adjoining property owners do their share in the agreement by constructing curbs and sidewalks, including a sidewalk between the two existing roads.

First Presbyterian plans programs

Emphasis will be on fellowship, good food and learning this week in the organizational life of the Springfield First Presbyterian Church, as the Fireside Group and Ladies' Evening Group hold their organizational meetings for the month.

On Saturday evening, the Fireside Group, or couples' club of the church, will hold a progressive dinner at which members will meet in various homes for appetizers and entrees, with the entire group returning to the Parish House for dessert. This affair has been planned under the leadership of Mr. George Ulrich, president of the group, and promises to be an evening of fun and fellowship.

Wednesday evening at 8:15 is the time of the meeting of the Ladies' Evening Group. Mrs. Charles Skade of Summit will be the guest speaker, having as her theme, "Life in Southeast Asia." Mrs. Skade and her husband resided for a number of months last year in Malaysia, and she was able to learn at first hand the customs and ways of the people living in that part of the world.

An invitation has been extended by Ruth Robinson, program chairman of the Evening Group, to all members and friends of the church to attend the meeting next Wednesday evening to hear this "most interesting talk" by Mrs. Skade.

There are also photographs by Bill Wagner, who will be teaching photography and directing the photography for the Teen Film Club. The exhibit will remain until Monday.

The center was opened for several hours Saturday night, when the Forty Fingers gave a concert to a large and appreciative audience in the teen game room.

Area YMCA plans rally by campers

There will be a rally at the Summit Area YMCA for summer day camps, Camp Cannondus for boys and Camp Triangle for girls, Wednesday night, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Interested children and parents have been invited to attend and to call the Y at 273-3330 and make reservations by Monday.

Camp director Dave Cotten and assistant camp directors Linda Biederman and Bill Lebedz will show slides of camp activities, lead some of the favorite camp songs and explain plans for the 1969 camp season. Refreshments and a swim in the Y pool will climax the evening's festivities.

Camp Cannondus for boys has been in operation for over 30 years as a major part of the Summit Area YMCA's summer program. Camp Triangle (formerly known as Triangle Club) is going into its fourth season of operation.

Both camps will be conducted for eight weeks—four two-week periods—beginning June 30 and going through Aug. 22.

This summer a new campsite has been obtained for the camps' use in the Washington Reservation, allowing for a greatly expanded campsite program. Camp activities will include swimming (instructional and recreational), arts and crafts, nature, conservation, archery, camp crafts, games, bus trips, fishing, canoeing, cooking and camping out. Transportation to and from camp will be provided by bus.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Summit Area YMCA, 67 Maple St., Summit, 273-3330—serving Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Short Hills, Millburn and Springfield.

Federal income tax questions

(Prepared by Internal Revenue Service)

Q: Is the $3 I pay each month for supplementing Medicare deductible?

A: Yes. It is deductible as medical insurance. Read the instructions carefully.

Q: Can I file a joint return even if my spouse had no income?

A: Yes. If you are the only wage earner, your tax will be lower if you file a joint return.

Q: Must a child's earnings be reported?

A: A minor is subject to tax on his own earnings even though the parent may, under local law have the right to it and might actually have received the money. His income is never included in his parent's return. However, a minor must file a return if he has a gross income of $600 or more during the year. He must also file a return to secure any refund due.

Q: Are traveling costs in connection with medical treatment deductible?

A: Out-of-pocket expenses directly attributable to transportation primarily for and essential to medical care may be claimed as medical expenses. This includes amounts you pay for gasoline, oil, parking fees, etc., and for taxi, bus, train or plane fare. It does not include depreciation or insurance on your car. You may elect to deduct 5¢ for each mile you use your car for such purposes, instead of deducting your cost of gas, oil, etc.

Q: Are interest payments on installment plan purchases deductible?

A: Interest payments on installment plan purchases of property of any kind are deductible if they are separately stated or can be definitely determined and proved.

Q: How do I correct an error on my return?

A: If after you have filed your return you discover that you failed to report some income, erroneously claimed deductions or credits, or are entitled to some that you failed to claim, the error can be corrected. This is done by preparing a Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, and sending it to the Internal Revenue Service Center, 11601 Roosevelt Boulevard, Philadelphia, Pa. 19155.

Q: What is a "casualty loss"?

A: A casualty loss is the complete or partial destruction or loss of property resulting from an identifiable event of a sudden, unexpected or unusual nature. A theft loss is regarded the same as a casualty loss for these purposes. The deduction for a casualty or theft loss is allowed only to the person who owns the property.

Q: Only the amount of each loss on property held for personal use which exceeds $100 may be deducted.

In order to have a deductible loss, you must have actually sustained a net loss. That is, insurance or other reimbursements received or expected to be received must be offset against the loss you would otherwise have sustained.

Q: Some examples of qualifying casualty losses are: damages from a hurricane, tornado, flood, storm, shipwreck, fire, accident, mine cave-in, sonic boom damage, and vandalism losses.

Q: How long must I keep books and records to substantiate information on my tax return?

A: Records that support items on an income tax return should be kept until the statute of limitations expires for that return. Ordinarily this is three years from the date the return was due. Records of property acquisitions, capital improvements and the like should be kept as long as you keep the property.

Q: Can I deduct the payments made to have my children taken care of while I work?

A: A woman whether single, married, widowed, divorced, or deserted, may, under certain conditions, deduct up to $900 for child-care expenses. A man may deduct these expenses only if he is widowed, divorced, legally separated from his wife, or if his wife is incapacitated or institutionalized.

Q: The expenses are deductible only if I expect to be a child under age 13. If the child is older, he must be physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself. The amount of the deduction is limited to the amount actually spent in the year, not to exceed $600 for one child; $900 for two or more. You do not get a flat deduction of $600 or $900; in certain situations, the allowable deduction is reduced dollar-for-dollar by the amount by which your income exceeds $6,000.

Q: What is the exemption for blindness?

A: A citizen or resident of the United States is allowed an additional $600 exemption for blindness, based on his condition on the last day of the year. If he lost his sight late in the year, he is entitled to the exemption for the entire year.

Q: Are educational expenses deductible?

A: An educational expense is deductible if the course is required by your employer or is necessary to maintain or improve the skills required on your present job. No deduction can be taken for courses needed to meet the minimum requirements of a job or to obtain a new job.

Q: How and where do I report moving expenses?

A: Moving expenses should be reported on Form 3903 and attached to your Form 1040.

Q: I have to pay additional tax. To whom should I make out the check?

A: Checks or money orders should be made payable to the Internal Revenue Service. Print your social security number on the face of the check or money order.

Q: How do I report profits or losses from the sale of stock?

A: They must be reported on Schedule D. To complete the form you need to know the date you acquired the stock, the date you sold it, the original cost, the selling price and the expenses on the sale.

Q: How do I report dividends?

A: Dividends are reported on page two of Form 1040.

Q: How do I figure the dividend exclusion?

A: You may exclude from your taxable income the first $100 of ordinary dividends received from qualifying domestic corporations. If a joint return is filed and both husband and wife have dividend income, each one may exclude $100 of dividends received from qualifying corporations, but one may not use any portion of the $100 exclusion not used by the other.

Q: What interest payments can I deduct?

A: You can deduct interest payments actually made on any debt or loans for which you are legally liable.

Q: When do I have to attach schedules to my tax return?

A: Schedules and forms which may be necessary in addition to Form 1040 include the following: Schedule B - to report income from pensions, annuities, rents, royalties, partnerships, estates, trusts, etc.; Schedule C - to report income from a personally owned business; Schedule D - to report income from the sale of investments or property; Schedule E - to report income from farming; and Schedule G - to report income averaging.

Empty beer can costly piece of tin Littering expensive, mars roads, says official

A spring reminder of the high cost of littering, in terms of both dollars and outdoor enjoyment, was issued this week by Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Commissioner Roe noted that each spring thousands of New Jerseyans turn to the outdoors for recreational and aesthetic enjoyment. "It is paradoxical," he said, that even a few of these people tend to destroy the natural values that attract them by careless practices.

It is far simpler to carry away an empty plastic bar or soda bottle than to bring the full bag-in-the-first-place, he said. "Yet some persons persist in dumping litter where it mars natural beauty and damages the environment for plants, fish and wildlife. Litter creates breeding grounds for insects and rodents, and careless disposal of cigarettes and matches is an important cause of damaging fires.

"Private lands are often closed to all recreation because of the inconsiderate acts of a few," Roe urged citizens to treat any area they use "as if it were their own."

The high cost of cleaning up public lands, he said, is dramatized by a riddle recently published in the Pittsburgh Free Press, quoted in Outdoor Unlimited, publication of the Outdoor Writers Association of America:

"Question: When does an empty beer can cost more than a full one?"

"Answers: When it is tossed by the roadside." Officials of one state found that the cost of picking up litter along a typical mile of state highway worked out to 32 cents for each can and bottle, Roe said.

It costs U. S. taxpayers an estimated half billion dollars annually to remove litter from streets, parks, beaches and other public property, according to Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national anti-litter organization. This does not count the time which public employees could otherwise devote to positive enhancement of natural beauty and habitat, Roe added.

Despite this costly effort, some litter inevitably remains to mar the landscape. "By practicing and encouraging good outdoor housekeeping, New Jersey citizens can save money and preserve open lands, while adding to the recreational opportunities and natural beauty of the Garden State," the commissioner said.

Blickenstaff heads fund for symphony

The appointment of Arch Blickenstaff of Summit, executive vice president of the Continental Insurance Companies, to serve as chairman of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra's five-year annual maintenance fund was announced this week by Henry P. Becton, Symphony president.

Blickenstaff is president of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce. He has served in leading roles the United Community Fund and Council of Essex and West Hudson and the Greater Newark Hospital Development Fund.

Becton noted that the orchestra's rapid growth and development over the past few years makes the establishment of such a fund essential if it is to balance its budget. The orchestra must defray expenses not covered by income from performances and endowment

Thursday April 10, 1969.
Blickenstaff's goal will be to raise $150,000 representing 35 percent of an operating budget for the orchestra of over a half million dollars for the 1968-69 concert season.

Dr. Wilkins announces plans for two study centers abroad

A plan to provide study abroad for students at state colleges and universities is expected to be launched in September 1970, according to Dr. Eugene C. Wilkins, president of Newark State College, Union.

The American Association of State Colleges and Universities hopes to open two centers for foreign study, one in Mexico and the other in Quebec, as the first step in a plan that calls eventually for 20 centers for American students in locations all over the world, Dr. Wilkins said.

Dr. Wilkins, a member of the AASCU executive board of directors, recently visited Mexico with other members of the association to investigate possible locations for a center there. The University of the Americas at Puebla and the American School Foundation in Mexico City are being considered, he said. Dr. Wilkins was at one time head of the Secondary Division of the American School Foundation and has had repeated contacts with Mexican education at the secondary and university level. He and Mrs. Wilkins served as interpreters for the 14-member investigating team.

Under the plan, state colleges and universities would pool their resources to finance the centers and professors from the state schools would staff them. Each center would accommodate 1,000 American students, who would get full academic credit for their work.

Dr. Wilkins pointed out that a trend to establish overseas centers began in the 1950s. A number of private colleges now have foreign centers where students can spend their sophomore, junior or senior years.

American student enrollment abroad has dropped in recent years, while enrollment of foreign students in American institutions has been rising, he said. The AASCU plan is aimed at reversing the trend by doubling the number of American students now going abroad to study.

245 sophs-at UC take part Saturday in testing program

Two hundred and forty-five Union College sophomores will participate in the National Sophomore Testing Program on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the college in Cranford.

The sequential tests of educational progress will measure students' progress in reading, writing, mathematics, science and social studies, according to Prof. Elmer Wolf, testing dean.

The test is used to determine the academic achievement of Union College students as compared with other college students throughout the country and to provide an objective picture of each student's strengths and weaknesses, Prof. Wolf explained.

Union College students have always scored well above the national average in mathematics, social studies and science, and above average in reading and writing in competition with thousands of sophomores in hundreds of colleges and universities throughout the nation, Prof. Wolf added.

The tests are scored by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, on specially designed electronic data processing equipment. Each student will receive an interpretation of his test scores, so he can compare his performance with that of other college sophomores.

Wallace Nowel, 102 Elker rd., Union, is the sponsor for a summer study abroad program for the city of Newark-Walton open to area high school students.

Although study is geared for history and English, courses will also be offered in drama, music, art and architecture, geography, folk dancing and archaeology. Other courses include the history of Wales, Britain Today, English Literature, Shakespeare, Chaucer and Contemporary British Writing.

Excursions will be available for students attending the summer session, which lasts from July 17 until Aug. 24. Trips are planned to Dublin, Paris, Calais, and sightseeing in England including London and Stratford-on-Avon, Shakespeare's birthplace. Nowel, a business education teacher at Jefferson High School, Elizabeth, said outdoor sports programs are available, including skiing, horseback riding, and canoeing activities.

Kaplowitz, a graduate of Union College, and Kohler, a graduate of Rutgers Law School, is a member of the Union County and the New Jersey bar associations.

Local actor draws applause from Phoenix theater-goers

Charles Power, a former Springfield resident, is drawing the praise of the drama community around Phoenix, Ariz. Power, who changed his legal name from Bontempo for professional reasons, is a resident performer with the Phoenix Theater.

The youthful actor, a 1965 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, lived at 812 Mountain Ave., Springfield, when he was still in the East.

Glass blowing art to be demonstrated

Frederick F. Anderson, a research technician for CIBA, will present a glass blowing demonstration at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Sunday, at 2 p.m.

Anderson, in Edinburgh, Scotland, has been a resident of Madison for many years. He invents and molds scientific glass instruments. CIBA does not patent his inventions and publishes the details of his design.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature Center, tour the live-animal area, view the thousands of indoor exhibits, and participate in the scheduled programs.

A friend and associate, Carl J. Wilson of 2844 Debra way, Union, said that "Chuck" has overbearing talent in both singing and acting. Throughout high school he was in several musical productions carrying the lead in plays such as "Bye Bye Birdie." His biggest dream was to be an actor," said Wilson. Power earned stage credits with the Lincoln Center Repertory Company while a student at New York School of Dramatic Arts.

Wilson and Power worked together for a time, with some of Wilson's musical arrangements from that time still being used by Power. They worked at Harbor Island Spa, Long Branch among other locations.

Late last spring, said Wilson, Power went with a road group, the Richmond Repertory Theater, "where he toured the country in several productions. Eventually he wound up in Phoenix. There he received praise and acclaim for his fine character acting, and given credit for captivating the entire audience," said Wilson.

The drama reviewer for the Arizona Republic remarked that "All the audience compassion in this production ('Hatful of Rain') is earned by Charles Power. It's not that the role is so totally dominant," wrote the reviewer, Nancy Bennett, "it's simply that Power is an extremely fine actor who offers an interesting, three-dimensional character we all can believe and understand."

Power has recently been contracted to do a segment on the television series "High Chaparral" and other television series in the near future, said Wilson.

Tax league may join state group

The New Jersey Citizens' Associated League for Education and Responsible Taxation (N.J. Alert) will meet on Friday, April 18, at 8 p.m. in the American Legion Hall, East Orange, to discuss the feasibility of joining the New Jersey Taxpayers Federation, George Wagenhoffer of 1103 Elmter., Rahway, announced this week. Wagenhoffer said that any unaffiliated school or taxpayer groups which wish to join the league may attend the meeting.

A committee meeting was conducted on March 21 in the Italian American Clubhouse, Rahway. The main topic of discussion was the "ever-increasing problems facing school systems by intervention from state and federal authorities" and the forces which the league states are at work to disrupt "the orderly conduct of schools and school business." Also discussed was the possibility of the league affiliating with the new statewide New Jersey Taxpayers Federation "to form a more powerful school and taxation coordinating committee."

N.J. ALERT is a statewide organization of citizens' groups interested in school and other related problems. Among the other groups are the Rahway Citizens for Neighborhood Schools, Verona Citizens for Fair Decisions and Save Our Schools of East Orange.

Favorable figures for college females

Men outnumber women almost two to one at Union College, Cranford, according to spring enrollment figures released by Prof. Elinor Wolf, acting dean.

The total student enrollment for the spring semester includes 1,102 men and 575 women in both the day and evening sessions. There are 606 men and 347 women attending day-time classes, and 496 men and 228 women in the evening session.

Prof. Wolf also reports that enrollment figures show students from 15 counties attending Union College with seven students coming from out-of-state. Of the bulk of students, however, 1,238 are from Union County. The second largest enrollment by county is 126 students from Middlesex County.

Most popular curriculum among both day and evening students is liberal arts with 508 day students and 174 evening students enrolled. Business administration, engineering, life science and physical science follow in that order. A total of 55 students are enrolled in the new police science program.

UC names Martin as director of athletics, basketball coach

The appointment of William H. (Bill) Martin as athletic director and head basketball coach of Union College, Cranford, was announced by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

Martin, who has been athletic director and head basketball coach at Cranford High School for the past 18 years, will continue in his fulltime position of coordinator of health, physical education, safety and athletics for the Cranford-public school system.

Cranford High School has produced some of North Jersey's and Union County's strongest basketball teams under Martin's tutelage. His 1956 team was state champion, and his 1964 team was Union County champion, and his teams have won five state sectional crowns and five titles in the strong Watching Conference.

A graduate of Gettysburg College, Martin holds a master's degree in physical education from Springfield College. He coached basketball and baseball for three years in Barre, Vermont, prior to coming to Cranford.

Union College announced last week it will resume intercollegiate athletic competition by fielding varsity teams in basketball, golf, and tennis. Dr. Iversen explained that varsity athletics were dropped several years ago, because of a lack of two-year colleges to play.

Martin, a past president of the New Jersey Athletic Directors Association, received an honorary coaches award last year from the New Jersey Interscholastic Coaches Association. He is past president, secretary-treasurer and a founder of the Watching Conference, and state interpreter of basketball rules as well as basketball rules interpreter for Board 33, International Association of Approved Basketball Officials.

A veteran of World War II, Martin is a retired captain in the Naval Reserve. Martin is married and has three sons, William S., a sophomore at the University of Massachusetts; Michael, a sophomore at Orange Avenue Junior High School, and Glade, a fifth grade student in Brookside Place School.

Purchasing power declines somewhat for the rank and file

WASHINGTON—The purchasing power of the Nation's rank and file workers declined slightly in February, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

Gross weekly earnings of production and non-supervisory workers rose 37 cents over the month to $111, surpassing the previous record high reached in September 1966. This increase resulted solely from a 1-cent advance in average hourly earnings; the average work week remained unchanged in February. After adjustment for price increases, gross weekly earnings were virtually unchanged from January but were up 1.4 percent from a year ago.

Spending earnings, or after-tax pay, rose 28 cents over the month for the worker with three dependents. Gains were recorded in finance, insurance, and real estate and trade. Compared to year-ago levels, take-home pay was up by $4.24 (4.6 percent) despite the income tax surcharge and higher social security taxes.

Real spendable earnings—take-home pay expressed in 1957-59 dollars—took account of the effects of price changes—edged down to $78.05 in February for the worker with three dependents. For the first time since January 1968, real spendable earnings were below year-ago levels; the decline amounted to one-tenth of one percent. Manufacturing and trade accounted for the slight over-the-year dip in real earnings, reflecting reduced weekly hours in the two industries. Real earnings advanced in mining, contract construction, and finance, insurance, and real estate between February 1968 and 1969.

Parkway is busy road

In its 15-year history, the Garden State Parkway has handled more than 1.42 billion vehicle toll transactions. During 1968 the Parkway carried more than 141 million vehicles for almost two billion miles of travel, reaching new highs in all traffic and toll revenue records. It indicated a new high safety standing, according to the New Jersey High Authority's annual report.

Psychiatrist looks at the white world

"Facing the White World" will be discussed by Dr. Nancy A. Barant of Plainfield at the third and final session of the "Focus on Black History" seminar sponsored by the social sciences and English departments of Union College, Cranford, Tuesday at 3 p.m. at the college.

Dr. Barant, a psychiatrist, is training director of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic in Plainfield. She is a graduate of Radcliffe College, where she earned both her bachelor's and master's degrees. She earned her M.D. at the Boston University School of Medicine and has held a fellowship in child psychiatry at Massachusetts General Hospital. She has been an instructor in psychiatry at Seton Hall College of Medicine and Dentistry and at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Smokers take in CO-two fumes

Cigarette smokers get twice as much carbon monoxide in their blood as persons exposed to high concentrations of motor vehicle fumes, a United Nations publication reports.

Quoting British research findings, it says that traffic policemen, for example, show a four percent saturation of the noxious gas, while "it is very common" for a smoker of 20 cigarettes a day to register eight percent.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

PARADISE
There is no paradise on earth. No matter how poor or rich an individual may be, happiness must be measured in the light of the individual attitude. Money cannot guarantee that one will never be sick, will not contact a fatal disease, will not suffer the loss of a loved one. None of us have the right to expect a life free from all sorrow and unhappiness. What we must do is have faith, faith in God, faith in tomorrow. If we have faith, we generally realize that trouble and discomfort are always temporary - and somewhere ahead, no matter how far, lies a bright and cheerful day. Live, therefore, a life of hope. Consider that tomorrow will be better, if we want it to be, if we turn out efforts to that purpose. Live a life of love. Love turns aside deceit and selfishness. Love provides the incentive to do right, to be right. Love, like faith, provides strength and gives a sense of purpose to all things.

Charity Ball to aid March of Dimes

Dancing, entertainment on April 18 program

Miss Genevieve Pascale, director of the Union Township March of Dimes fund raising campaign and secretary to the Union County Chapter executive board of the March of Dimes announced this week that a Charity Ball will be held at the Club Diana in Union on Friday, April 18, at 8 p.m.

Proceeds from the Ball will be donated to the National Foundation, March of Dimes, to carry on its program of medical and scientific research in the field of birth defects, for professional and public education regarding birth defects, to establish additional birth defect centers throughout the country for the care and treatment of birth defect victims, to help support the Salk Institute in California and for the care and treatment of post polio victims for whom the Salk Vaccine came too late.

A professional floor show will be presented at 10 p.m. Appearing in the floor show will be Donna Marie of Union, teenage songstress of TV and stage. Music for dancing will be furnished by Bill Scott and his orchestra.

"It is most important that we make this event a financial and social success if we are to make our quota in Union and help the country make its quota," says Miss Pascale.

"The March of Dimes is not just a collection of money; it is a series of events. Our January drive was good but not good enough. We are extending an invitation to anyone in the county wishing to attend this event." Tickets may be obtained through the municipal March of Dimes chairman in the county, or at the door of the Club Diana on April 18 at a cost of $1 per person.

This is the third annual ball sponsored by the Union Township March of Dimes fund raising committee. Miss Pascale says, "We are looking forward to a capacity crowd."

"The National Foundation needs more funds to carry on its fight against birth defects. In the struggle against birth defect, the March of Dimes is proceeding as it did in the polio battle — by assuming the responsibilities of leadership, by recognizing neglect and trying to correct it, and by attacking the secrets of nature rather than waiting for occasional or accidental discoveries. The National Foundation is striving to achieve the same record of success in the field of birth defects that it has accomplished in the field of polio.

"We urge all those who wish to attend the Ball on Friday, April 18, to feel that they are most invited to do so," says Miss Pascale. "We need their support and know that they will have a wonderful time while helping a most worthwhile cause."

CLOTHES CARE COMMENTS
by SAM MANN
(Diamond Cleaners)

SUMMER STORAGE

"An ounce of prevention" is certainly worthwhile when it comes to taking care of winter woollens through the summer months. You can prevent moth holes, but you can't always cure them, even with costly reweaving.

Moths and carpet beetles attack even non-woolens if they are spotted or stained with food or perspiration. So it stands to reason that everything should be thoroughly cleaned before you put it away. In treating any item with a liquid moth-preventive, it's a good idea to spray out of doors or in a well-ventilated room. But be careful not to saturate the garment.

And by all means, do not use plastic hangers or store plastic hangers when moth balls, crystals or flakes are used, because the plastic may soften and damage a favorite suit or coat.

If you don't have the room to store everything on hangers, fold garments carefully and support each fold generously with tissue. Remember Diamond will store your woollens free!

And for the thorough over-all cleaning you want to insure a like-new look next fall, trust those winter items only to an expert cleaner like Diamond Cleaners. It will pay off in extra wear.

Rep. Dwyer taking pall of constituents on national issues

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-12th Dist., N.J.), for the 12th consecutive year, is polling constituents on a broad front of Federal policy issues ranging from taxes and spending to welfare and Vietnam.

The New Jersey Congresswoman noted, in a covering letter to constituents, that "the present is an especially appropriate time for the expression of people's views on public issues because President Nixon's Administration is deeply engaged in the preparation of their first legislative program for Congress and Congressional committees are actively considering many of these same issues in public hearings."

Again this year, Mrs. Dwyer emphasized, she has sought to avoid reliance on simple yes-no questions and has favored multiple choice alternatives and questions which measure the depth of people's convictions.

Five categories of questions are featured in the survey. Constituents are asked to evaluate four proposed tax reforms, to choose areas of government spending which should be reduced, to assign a degree of priority (high, medium or low) to a variety of policy choices, to indicate what degree of confidence they have in various institutions, leaders and situations, and to rate President Nixon's performance in office to date.

Constituents can choose between these views: "Generally doing well so far," or "must improve his performance soon."

Congresswoman Dwyer invited interested constituents who may not already be on her regular mailing list to request copies of her questionnaire either from her Washington office (2421 Rayburn Building) or her District office (Room 202, 40 Somerset St., Plainfield, N.J.).

Trailside widens horizons to sky Planetarium is gift of museum association

The Trailside Planetarium, a gift to the people of Union County and the Union County Park Commission from the Trailside Museum Association, will be dedicated this Sunday, at 3 p.m.

The planetarium is located adjacent to the Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation. At the dedication program, the officers of the Trailside Museum Association will turn the building and equipment over to the Union County Park Commission.

EXTERIOR VIEW of the Trailside Planetarium located adjacent to the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation. Beneath the roof of this building is located the Planetarium, donated to Park Commission by the Trailside Museum Association. It will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p.m. The first public program will be presented on Monday at 4 glass dome, 20 feet in diameter, upon which the slides will be projected. Temporary seating has been arranged for 55 youngsters or adults to view the planetarium programs.

The instrument used to produce the star patterns in the sky is a Nova Projection Planetarium. This instrument can be adapted to various programs in the study of the skies above us. The Planetarium will provide public recreation and education in the science of astronomy and will be useful in the study of "navigation." Various auxiliary projectors make it possible for the Planetarium to be used for the study of the relationship of the skies above to the earth below. A special lighting system and a sound system have been provided in the planetarium.

With the opening of the Trailside Planetarium on Sunday, the first public showing at the planetarium will be on Monday, April 14, at 4 p.m. when "The Changing Seasons" will be presented. The same program will also be presented on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, at 4 p.m., and on Wednesday, April 16 at 8 p.m. Because the Planetarium can only seat 55 people at any one time, those who wish to attend a program must receive a ticket from the Trailside office only on the day a program is to be presented. Children under eight years of age will not be admitted to the planetarium chamber.

The Trailside Museum Association, a group of citizens and clubs interested in preserving nature in its various forms in Union County has donated to the Park Commission this planetarium. This group worked over the past several years to raise the funds for this project and constructed the planetarium over the past seven months.

The planetarium will be available to the over 500,000 people in Union County for various programs including astronomy, navigation, and the wonders of the universe. Programs will be arranged for all ages.

DONALD W. MAYER (right), director of The Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, shows Dr. Ralph A. Hall Westfield, a director of the Trailside Museum Association, the instrument panel for the Nova Planetarium used to project the skies upon a hemispherical dome 20 feet in diameter. The instrument can be adapted to various programs in the study of the skies.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley E. Yolles, M.D.
Director
National Institute of Mental Health

SCHIZOPHRENIA RESEARCH IS NEEDED

Schizophrenia is the most common of the serious mental disorders -- afflicting about 2,000,000 people in the U.S.

Early signs of the disease include withdrawal or getting off by oneself, not being able to concentrate, increasingly sloppy appearance, and excessive talking about one's fate or the fate of the world.

Schizophrenia, as a rule, causes a split between thoughts and actions. For instance, an affected person may quote when describing the serious illness of a loved one, "Or, a person may cry when telling that he won $1000 in a contest."

Nearly everybody shows some minor signs of things like these, at times. They don't necessarily mean schizophrenia is beginning. Don't try to diagnose yourself or someone else. That's the doctor's job.

Psychiatrists, other physicians, mental health centers, hospitals, and health departments -- or your mental health association can give you help.

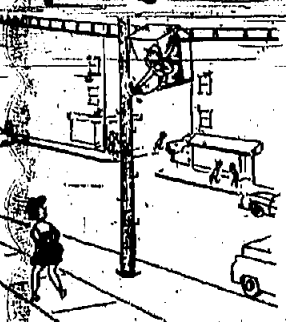

They can find the kind of assistance you need. Seek them out if you're worried about schizophrenia or any other kind of mental problems.

Modern treatment has greatly improved the lot of the schizophrenic patient. Some patients have to be treated in hospitals. Many others, with proper drugs and other therapy, can hold full- or part-time jobs, run their homes, care for their children, and carry on daily living.

But we still don't know nearly enough about the causes and how to prevent or really cure this very complicated disease.

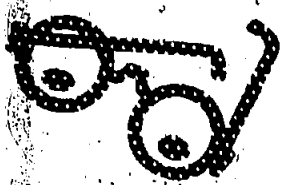

The NIMH is working with thousands of researchers and physicians all over the U.S. and the world on an intensified attack on one of our gravest public mental health problems.

YR supports probe of campus violence

The Young Republicans of New Jersey, Inc. affirmed its support of the federal investigation into campus violence at a meeting held recently in Cherry Hill.

The statewide organization voted to resolve to: "affirm our complete support of the President of the United States and the Department of Justice who are in the process of investigating the instigators, the causes and the effects of such campus violence which is no longer a series of isolated phenomena but instead is nationwide; seeking among other things, to determine if there is a nationwide plan or organization behind the current outbreaks; whether federal funds should be withheld from institutions, faculty members and students who permit or perform unlawful acts; and whether there are specific steps that could be recommended to the states and the institutions that would lessen the incidence of violence without at the same time curbing the right of dissent, hampering the ability of the institution to function in its proper area or instituting new federal controls over the legitimate authority of the state."

A FEMININE LOOK

... At The USA This Time

(Commentary on a "Study Mission" to Washington and Cape Kennedy) by TRUDINA HOWARD

Second In A Series
THE SLOW RIDE TO LAUNCH
Two questions keep coming up when I say I have seen a launching of an Apollo rocket at Cape Kennedy. The first one is, how is the rocket brought to the launch pad and what does the launch pad consist of; and the second, where is the lunar module situated and how does it look on the rocket before launch?

Well, from an untrained feminine viewpoint, and without the use of scientific terms to describe the procedure, it seems to go like this:
The rockets are manufactured in parts, firstly, in various sections of the U. S. Then they are gathered at the Cape in the building known as the VAB.

The VAB, or Vehicle Assembly Building, is the largest building in the world, by volume, and it needs to be. The Apollo rocket stands almost 50 stories tall and is assembled inside the building in an upright position and is not dismantled upon leaving. It goes forth standing up, and is not laid on its side nor taken apart there; nor anywhere else on earth, for that matter, after that.

Once off the earth, yes. During stages of take-off and in orbit it begins to let go of various parts—putting some pieces in the ocean, some around the earth in orbit, some around the moon, some around the sun, (some literally) until the only thing that remains to return to earth is about one story's worth of equipment known as the "command capsule" which is where the astronauts ride. But during the time the fully-assembled rocket is on earth, it remains in one piece, standing up.

AT THE TIME of completion, the rocket finds itself inside the VAB on board a piece of equipment known as the "Crawler." This consists of a square platform, large enough in diameter to accommodate the bottomside of the rocket, and is mounted on eight giant treads, two at each corner. These treads are similar in theory to those of a tank, only these are of a size not to be believed. Everything at Cape Kennedy is large. On the crawler is placed another platform, thick, with a honey-combed bottom, and this is the rocket's own "launch pad." It stays with it, in other words, and is burned away at lift-off. The Crawler, on the other hand is used time and time again.

So, the sequence from the ground up, at the moment of completion in the VAB, is first the Crawler, then the honey-combed platform, and then one piece of the rocket on top of the other beginning with the various firing stages, up to the lunar module near the top, and the command capsule at the very top. The various parts of the rocket fit together snugly like a fine jig-saw puzzle until it is one big beautiful smooth bullet.

When all is checked, and the rocket is pronounced complete and ready, the Crawler begins to earn its name.

With the rocket upright on board, the Crawler will do exactly what its name implies—CRAWL. It will take 45 minutes for the massive doors of the VAB to open and then the Crawler will begin to move to transport the rocket from the building, through the doors, down a road 3 1/2 miles long to the permanent launch pad. This is the slowest the speedy rocket will ever go. At this point it can go no faster than one mile an hour, for that is the top speed of the Crawler. Most of the time it does not even go that fast, for there is danger of the rocket toppling, and so it takes all day to make the delicate journey.
The road bed is about 11 feet thick and consists of various types of stone in layers and some paving materials but not concrete. Each time an Apollo rocket is transported along it, the bed depresses eight inches. In the case of an incline in the road, which happens at the approach to the lift-off pad, fine balancing mechanisms keep the rocket level.

WHEN THE CRAWLER and its precious cargo finally arrive at the lift-off site, a giant crane lifts the rocket with its honeycomb platform, from the Crawler onto a steel box-like structure which is the permanent launch pad. As soon as the rocket is in place, a permanent gantry stretches out waiting arms and eagerly embraces it to hold it securely until lift-off, and everyone breathes a sigh of relief. There are two such permanent lift-off sites fairly close together, each with its own steel launch pad and gantry, but the second has never been used.

But the amazing thing is they do not burn away even when used!

With the temperature standing at 3,500 degrees Fahrenheit at the moment of lift-off, it hardly seems possible. Certainly, everything must burn to a crisp at that rate. Yet the steel structure which is like a great steel box with floors of offices and lab—yes offices and labs—inside, and the giant gantry with its huge steel arms, which must spring back from the cradling position instantaneously at the moment of lift-off, are hardly even scorched.

Imagine, said a NASA spokesman rather apologetically—apologetically?—"A few wires have to be replaced here and there, that's all."

Yes indeed, imagine.

But then imagine the whole thing. It is all simply amazing. Even though a certain Bantu tribe in the Republic of South Africa has named the rockets, "Isayphuphuthaki" meaning, "the thing that goes around everywhere and gets nowhere," it is still mighty amazing.

Employers, take note!

Employers who became subject to the New Jersey Unemployment Compensation Law during the first three months of the year and who have not yet filed a status report with the Division of Employment Security were urged to do so as soon as possible.

Under an amendment to the law, which became effective Jan. 1, employing units with one or more individuals in covered employment become subject when their total payroll reaches $1,000 in the calendar year. Before the change, the law generally covered employers of one or more workers. An estimated 50,000 employers will be affected by the amendment.

A sports car for people who have better things to spend their money on than a sports car.

If $6,000 sports cars were one of life's necessities, a lot more people would buy them. Instead, they save their money to get married. To buy a house. To send their kids to college.

And it's the college kids who drive the sports cars.

This didn't seem quite sporting. So Volkswagen came out with the Karmann Ghia. It looks like a $6,000 sports machine. (The body's an original Italian design.) But it carries a modest Volkswagen price tag, $2,365.

And that includes the 4-speed stick shift and front-wheel disc brakes. (They're not part of an optional sports package. They're part of the car.)

The Ghia scripps and saves on gas. You should get up to 28 mpg. And when it comes to service, it goes to a VW dealer. No costly tune-ups. No temperamental parts to coddle. (We treat it like a Volkswagen because, underneath, that's what it is.)

You might say the Karmann Ghia is for people who want everything for their children.

And just a little something for themselves.

From Korea to Garden State Asians to study U.S. farming

Five young Korean farmers have arrived in New Jersey to spend a year working and studying on New Jersey farms.

Pharmacists going back to school for drug-abuse seminar

Members of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association from the northern part of the state have registered for the next seminar on drug abuse to be held this Sunday at the Teanack campus field house of Fairleigh Dickinson University.

The session will conclude the series sponsored by Columbia University's College of Pharmaceutical Sciences in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Justice to prepare pharmacists to lecture in the campaign against drug abuse, known as Project RFD (Respect for Drugs).

Richard J. Russo, chief of the Bureau of Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse in the State Department of Institutions and Agencies, Leonard Dubrow of Newark, UJPHA president, and trustee chairman Andrew J. Preston of Boonton will address the group. Members of the Columbia faculty will be the lecturers.

Pharmacists scheduled to attend include: Norman Abels of Irvington, Harry Goldman of Wallburg, Richard H. Podolle of Irvington, David B. Harris of Irvington, Harry F. Witscher of Linden, Daniel Nadler of Springfield, Charles Poranski of Roselle, Jacob Eisen of Montclair, and Lewis Schwarz of Union.

The young South Koreans is designed to acquaint them with techniques of modern agriculture and to give them a chance to learn at first hand about the American economic, social and political system.

The trainees had two days of orientation at the Farm Bureau headquarters in Trenton Friday and Saturday. They will live and work with five host farm families in New Jersey. By actually living in the homes of the host families and working like a member of the family, the trainees will have an opportunity to actually learn by experience on the farm.

An off-farm educational program for the young men has been worked out in cooperation with the Cooperative Extension Service at Rutgers University and the vocational agriculture division of the State Dept. of Education.

Details for bringing the trainees from Korea have been worked out by the International Association for the Collaboration of Farmers, an affiliate of the California Farm Bureau that has had several years of experience in bringing farm trainees from Japan and South America.

The trainees were selected by the Korean Agricultural Education Association. They range in age from 21 to 26 and are all graduates of agricultural technical schools in South Korea.

While living and working on New Jersey farms, they will be paid a minimum of $1.50 an hour for the work performed on the farms, with a weekly guarantee of $65. The trainees will pay the host family for board-and-room and will gradually pay back the cost of his transportation from Korea and back home.

OUTSTANDING WORKSHOP—Elliot Fachtman of Union, right, president of the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society, accepts a national honor citation for the division's workshop program on "Improved Nursing Care for the Patient with Cancer in the Nursing Home" from William B. Lewis, chairman of the board of the American Cancer Society.

Pharmacists will celebrate 100th anniversary in state

1970 will be centennial year for the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association.

NJPHA will mark the 100th anniversary of its founding with a year-long celebration that will focus public attention on contributions made during the past century to the health and well-being of the public.

A special Centennial committee headed by Aaron Silintzer of Williamstown, past president of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association, has been at work for more than a year developing plans and programs for the occasion.

Pharmacy in New Jersey at every level—retail, wholesale, manufacturing, hospital, educational—will be highlighted in the 100-year progress report that will paint a picture of gains in drug development and dispensing which have added measurably to longevity, freedom from pain and shortened periods of convalescence, an association spokesman said.

The emerging role of the retail pharmacist from a purveyor of nostrums to valued advisor to physicians, first-to-be-familiarized-with every new and improved drug emerging from the industry's research facilities and productive laboratories, will be unveiled as the observance unfolds, he added.

"It is our hope," said Silintzer, who also is editor of the association's official publication, the monthly New Jersey Journal of Pharmacy, "to bring to the people of our state an awareness of the vital role played by pharmacy as part of the over-all health team that has prolonged life, cured and eradicated many diseases and made for a stronger, surdier, healthier citizenry."

Schneider retiring from Diana Stores; was vice-president

Irving Schneider — after 46 years of retail endeavor, during which he pioneered as a discount store, starting with leased departments in Bloomington's Bargain Basement in the mid 20's to his forming of Great Eastern Mills — this week announced his retirement as vice-president of the recently merged Diana Stores Corporation.

Schneider, who with his son, Melvin, founded Great Eastern Mills in 1956, built it into one of America's largest volume-retail-store discount chains. Great Eastern was acquired in a 1961 merger by Diana Stores Corporation. Father and son became vice-presidents of the parent company, while directing its Great Eastern subsidiary. The Great Eastern store for this area is on Springfield Avenue (Rt. 24), Union.

On March 10, Diana Stores Corporation was acquired by Daylin, Inc., a nationwide retail complex.

In announcing his retirement, Schneider also made known his retention by Daylin, Inc., in a consultant capacity.

The expanded Daylin will now be doing business at a rate in excess of $265 million per year, principally in drug and drug support areas, general discount merchandising and apparel. It also leases certain concessions within its discount store complex which generate approximately $160 million per year in additional volume.

Daylin now owns 51 discount stores under the banner Great Eastern, Millers, Gulf-Mart, Disco and Wonder World, as well as more than 200 Diana Shops. It also owns 31 drug, health and beauty aid stores, wholesale drug operations, one of the largest mail order drug and medical supply businesses and operates over 60 pharmaceutical, drug and sundry departments in discount stores owned by others. The company is one of the nation's leaders in prescriptions filled, and is now filling at a rate in excess of five million per year.

'Criminal justice' specialist 'Cop' of future college grad

The American policeman may not remain a "cop" much longer. He is becoming a "criminal-justice" specialist.

Once, high school dropouts could always join the force, says the New Jersey Education Association, but with political and social pressures changing society, the policeman of the near future may need to be a college man.

"Clearly, the need now exists for higher-education programs in law enforcement," says Charles W. Tenney Jr., dean of Northeastern University's College of Criminal Justice. Beginning policemen should have at least two years of "formal higher education," he writes in the NJEA Review, the professional journal for New Jersey teachers.

"In 'middle and upper management,' Tenney says, the need is 'extensive' for graduates of four-year law-enforcement courses. "Without exception," he says, "those individuals who guide, control, and direct the action of the line officers need at least the bachelor's degree and as much additional graduate preparation as possible."

"The four-year institution should also be for criminal justice what it has traditionally been for all taught disciplines: the primary setting for research and scholarship and for educating cadres of teachers in the profession."

ABOUT 200 OF THE nation's two-year colleges already offer programs in law enforcement, Tenney reports, and the number is steadily growing. Among four-year colleges and universities, 43 offer a bachelor's degree in law enforcement; 13 the master's degree; and five the doctorate.

Four-year college programs in law enforcement variously stress such elements as sociology, psychology, criminology, political science, government, social welfare, and public administration. In common, they share the goal of producing broadly educated policemen.

At Northeastern's College of Criminal Justice, future policemen take a full liberal arts program in their freshman year except for one course: Introduction to Criminal Justice. In succeeding semesters, their program becomes more specialized, with courses in research, administration, management, planning, supervision, race relations, urban society, and public administration.

Publicity chairmen are urged to observe the Friday deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

No longer is the policeman's primary job making arrests, says NJEA. Ideally, the police should be a source of information, counsel, and help—preventers of crime rather than catchers of criminals.

Under this concept, Tenney advises police departments to abandon the usual minimum standards in height and weight for entering policemen. The only justification for size and muscle, he says, lies in "a concept of policing which should be discarded."

Time To Spare
By GERALD ANDREWS - Retirement Advisor

We often advise working men and women to cultivate a hobby of some sort, to get their minds off their daily occupations. And, of course, no one denies the personal benefits that those non-vocational interests provide. As they say, it's better than therapy.

Yet, there's another good reason for a hobby, one strictly vocational. You may be able to keep it going as a family budget booster when you retire.

So many Americans have made this transition that I could mention countless examples. There's the man who stops making furniture simply for fun, and adds the profit motive. There's the lady who, after years of baking pies for the church social, begins to bake them for a local store. And so on.

You've probably met these individuals in my previous columns.

But, you may be thinking, these sound like professionals rather than amateurs. So they are.

However, the point I want to make is that they weren't good when they retired. Some needed to polish their skills before they felt qualified to enter the market in search of a little extra cash.

In other words, if you'd like to be a professional in your field, but doubt you can make it on your own, you still don't have to drop your ambition. You might have a try at what you can do under expert guidance.

Instruction shouldn't be hard to find no matter where you live. All the states and most cities provide facilities for vocational training. In many a small town, the YMCA or some other group performs the same function.

Failing personal attention, you may find a correspondence course fills the bill.

The best thing is to consider your particular situation before retirement. That way, you simply move what you're doing on the side into the center of the picture.

If you haven't had the time while on the daily nose-to-the-grindstone routine, you'll find the door still open in the form of training for retirees.

It's rarely too late to think of moving from amateur to professional.

Solomon appointed to retail firm post

BOSTON, MASS. — Jack Solomon, president of the Bradlees division of Stop & Shop Inc., has been named to the new position of director of corporate developments and acquisitions of the parent company. It was announced this week by President Donald A. Gannon.

Solomon, also a corporate vice president of the diversified retail firm, will join the corporate development group headed by Vice Chairman of the Board Irving W. Rabb, Robert J. Futoran, formerly president of Frederick Atkins, Inc., has succeeded Solomon as president of Bradlees.

Solomon became president of Bradlees upon its acquisition by Stop & Shop Inc. in 1961. Under his guidance, the chain of self-service department stores grew from a six-unit operation with sales of less than $20,000,000 in 1961 to 52 self-service stores with an annual rate in excess of $176,000,000.

keeping pace with increasing car ownership.

Says Prof. Jan Kolbuszewski: "The 'two-story town' will have to be abandoned. The 'multi-story' version — above and below ground — in the form of widely spaced towers — linked — by underground units will probably be nearer the final answer."

Traffic tie-ups changing cities

Because of growing traffic jams throughout the world, the cities of tomorrow will have to be as different from today's as Colonial Williamsburg is from New York, says a British urban planner. Stopped traffic solutions now in fashion,

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheelon, County Home Economist.

Add attractive color, appealing flavor and interesting texture to your menus by serving more molded salads. Used either as an accompaniment to the meal or as the main course, molded salads should be included in your meal planning.

Molded in fancy shapes, cut into squares, or spooned on to crisp greens and topped with tasty dressing, the clear shimmering gelatin forms an ideal showcase for colorful fruits and vegetables.

This type of salad is time-saving and economical too. The ingredients can be prepared and stored in the refrigerator the night before or in the morning, and merely be unmolded at meal time. Budgetwise, they are an ideal use for leftover fruits and vegetables.

Along with other attributes, molded salads are also nutritious. The gelatin adds valuable protein while the fruits and vegetables add important vitamins and minerals to the diet.

Try one of the following molded salads, both the fruit and vegetable molds would be used as an accompaniment to the meal, while the Shrimp Salad would make a perfect main course.

- FRUIT NECTAR SALAD
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 1/2 cup apricot nectar
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1/2 cup whole cloves
 - 1 1/2 cups drained mixed fruits (fresh, canned or frozen-thawed)
- Mix gelatin, sugar and salt thoroughly in a small saucepan. Add nectar, water and cloves. Place over low heat and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat and strain to remove cloves. Add lemon juice. Place pan in bowl of ice and water or chill in refrigerator to unbeaten egg-white consistency. Fold in mixed drained fruits. Turn into a 3 cup mold or individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold on serving platter and garnish with greens and fruit. Serve with salad dressing.

- MUSTARD-RELISH MOLD
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 - 1 cup water
 - 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 - 1 cup mustard pickle relish
 - 1/2 cup finely diced green pepper
 - 2 tablespoons chopped onion
 - 1 cup finely diced celery
- Sprinkle gelatin on water to soften. Place over low heat and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat and stir into mayonnaise. Chill to unbeaten egg-white consistency. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into a 3 cup mold or individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with watercress or serve individual molds or sliced tomato.

- SHRIMP SALAD MOLD

League of Women Voters: Going on 50 and going strong

Mrs. Harry Elstein, president of the Springfield League of Women Voters, this week reported the organization is entering its 50th year with over 1,250 leagues throughout the country joining the celebration.

The League of Women Voters was founded in February 1920, six months before women got the vote. This idea for a league was suggested by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt in March, 1919, 50 years ago. Mrs. Catt was president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, which dissolved when woman suffrage was achieved in August, 1920, upon ratification of the 19th amendment. Mrs. Catt was honorary president of the league until her death at 88 in 1947.

Although the League was founded to help women become informed voters, it was soon helping men as well and was supporting specific issues as well as providing non-partisan voter information.

TODAY, THE ORGANIZATION has over 150,000 members. Its members support equality in education, employment and housing, conservation of water resources, increased trade, aid to underdeveloped countries, and the United Nations. The leagues recently began a study of the Electoral College. Leagues also work for such things as city charters, constitutional revisions and judicial reform, and for facilities such as hospitals.

Mrs. Elstein also noted that since 1920 the league has made available nonpartisan information about voting procedures and about candidates and issues. In each election year leagues issue millions of factual, nonpartisan publications useful to the voter. It has published "Know Your Local Government" studies in 1,250 communities. It has emphasized study of the facts before political action, in the last 10 years it has issued over 3.5 million publications on national issues alone. It has worked to strengthen state government through work on constitutional revision, fair apportionment of state legislatures, improved fiscal policies, modern practices in the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government. It has devoted millions of hours to local government, holding "league" observances at thousands of meetings each week of city councils, and school boards to make surveys and back-needed changes in governmental structure and support improvements in education, planning, recreation, health, housing and welfare.

IT HAS CONSISTENTLY tackled the important national issues of the time. Currently, the league is in the forefront of attempts to bring an end to water pollution. It is committed to work for equality of opportunity in education, employment and housing. It has had a continuing interest in foreign policy and helped change the climate of opinion in this country from one of isolationism to recognition of the need for economic and political cooperation among nations. Specifically league members support the United Nations, an expanding world trade, and economic aid and world economic development. It has established an Overseas Education Fund (founded in 1947) to service requests from citizens from other countries for assistance in strengthening and developing voluntary organizations and to encourage programs of civic education in developing countries. It created an education fund in 1957 to strengthen citizens' knowledge of the principles of representative government.

As part of its 50th anniversary celebration, the League of Women Voters is seeking $11 million in order to become an even more effective force for citizen understanding and participation in the decision making process of government at all levels.

'Rival' bids for bowling purse, car

Business competitors don't usually see eye to eye, but in the case of the $30,000 Echo Lanes-Cadillac Handicap Bowling Tournament, starting April 26, the Twin Boro Ford team of Roselle Park is 100 percent in favor of the action.

The Twin Boro keglers will have "a better idea" when they vie for the elegant Cadillac Calais coupe waiting for the bowler with the highest gross series in the eight-weekend tourney at Echo Lanes, Route 22.

The Ford team carries a respectable 951 average, thanks to the top-flight pinning of Rocky DeFrancesco of Roselle Park, a 202-average bowler, and Jerry Latsch of Carteret, averaging 195. The other team members' averages are George Clark of Iselin, 188; Dick Bogart of Madison Township, 183; and Dick Kodat of Scotch Plains, 181.

Another strong entry is the Guy's Electric Service team of Middlesex, a 956-average combination composed of Guy Womelsdorf of Avenel, who boasts a 197 average; William Meyer, 199; Lou Pascher, 190; William Thompson, 180; and Mike Castaldo, 187.

Four other combines in the 900 bracket will be aiming for the substantial cash prizes and Cadillac. They are Amorelli's Sport Shop of Rahway, averaging 912 and led by Mickey Kosinski of Clark, 188; Phil Weiss of Rahway, 188; and Frank Slaughter of Westfield, 184; and the Mixed Major Stars of Echo Lanes, averaging 904 and paced by Don Perry, a 189-average kegler from Roselle.

The Wright Store of Princeton, averaging 922, is sparked by 194-average Fred Proccacini. The Kingpins of Monmouth County, averaging 900, are spearheaded by their captain, Joe Jacobovitz, 192-average bowler.

Entries for the tournament close April 22.

Golf, track, net, baseball -- coaches are optimistic

By DONALD LAN JR.
The spring sports season is now under way at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, with coaches predicting success in track, baseball, golf and tennis.

The baseball team will play tomorrow at Millburn and Monday at home against Westfield. The track team faces Linden at home on Tuesday. The golfers will tee off at Summit tomorrow and will play host to Westfield Monday. The tennis team will open against Roselle at home on Tuesday.

THE JONATHAN DAYTON track team opened its 1969 season April 2 with a victory over Roselle Park by an overwhelming 88-38. The strong running ability of the team was a major factor in the victory. Gary Street took a second in the mile and Marty Josephs and Keith Thelle placed a first and second respectively in the half-mile. Dave May and Jim Cronet did an excellent job with a first and third in the 440, and Paul Faranoff and Bob Sasse placed in the 220. Jimmy Robinson did his usual fine job by winning the 100 yard dash.

In the low hurdles Robinson and Bruce Smith tied for first, while Stuart and Woody Younge placed first and third, respectively, in the high hurdles.

The jumping events will also prove to be a major factor with a lot of improvement indicated. Mike Davis took a first in the broad jump. In the high jump, Robinson took first with a jump of five feet ten inches and Mark-Aprilan took a third with five feet four inches.

The weight men of the team have proven that they can out-throw anyone. In the discus, the team swept with Gary Haydu, Mike Burns and Bruce Zabelski placing in that order. In the javelin, Bill Keller and Gary Grant dominated the action. For the final event, the shot, Charley Foster, Burns and Haydu helped the Bulldogs sweep their second event.

Coach Martin TagHenti predicts that the team will progress greatly and wind up with a fine season.

THE VARSITY BASEBALL team has won two scrimmage games so far, but has not played a regulation game. The team, under the coaching of Ed Jasinski, posted a 6-0 victory over St. Mary's of Elizabeth and a 20-0 victory over Pingry.

In the St. Mary's contest, Steve Jupa, Dan D'Andrea, Dave Cohen, and Ricky Williams displayed fine pitching, while Dave Miniman had a fine hitting day. Against Pingry, Williams, Cohen and D'Andrea also pitched.

So far the team stands as follows: first base, Ralph Losano; second base, Joel Millman and Bob Jackson; third base and shortstop, Dave Miniman and Bob Janukowicz.

Mitch Wolf and Sal Mucario will be catching and Rick Williams, Dave Cohen, Steve Jupa and Danny D'Andrea will complete the battery. The outfielders are Eric and Evan Wasserman, Rich Spilko, Rich Falcone, Phil Stokes, and Robert Shindler. The team is expected to continue its streak of fine seasons.

THE GOLF TEAM opened its season April 7 with a 16-1/2 - 1-1/2 victory over Rahway at Colonia Country Club. The golfers' scores included Bob Frank 41, Gary Katz 49, Steve Getchlik 42, Dave Epstein 49, Steve Grau 50, and Don Lan 46. All golfers received the maximum three points except, Grau who had one and a half points.

Coach Adam LaSota says this year's team has good potential and should go a long way. They also have the disadvantage of playing more matches away than at their home course, Baltusrol.

DESPITE A LATE start, without scrimmages or matches, the Dayton tennis team has progressed well under the coaching of Norman Potack. The players participating this year include Howard Dohm, Dennis Insley, Warren and Ray Danziger, Mike Chodner, Arthur Starr, Byron Ehlers, Bob Goodman, Stuart Liebskind and Howie Levine.

Coach Potack says all positions are up for grabs and it will be up to the players to see who starts on the varsity. The players have fine spirit and the team is expected to go a long way this year.

Gems hike margin to 7 over Dancers in Tuesday league

The Gems added to their growing lead in the Tuesday Afternoon Girls' Bowling League, increasing their margin to a full seven games in the Recreation Department-sponsored league which meets each week at the Springfield Bowl.

Last week the Gems swept two games from the Strikers, Debbie Kuskin again paced the Gems, rolling a 262 series with games of 149 and 149. Diane Searles also had a top series effort for the Gems, posting games of 118 and 135 for a 253 series. Cindy Zah was also effective in the Gems' two victories, rolling a 214 series. Liz Simpson's 198 two-game total was tops for the Strikers.

The Dancers remained in second place, although they lost ground to the front runners, as they split a pair of games with the Stars. Carol Rosener of the Stars was outstanding in their two-game match. Carol, the league's top bowler, topped all competitors on the lanes last Tuesday with a 283 series on games of 147 and 136. Dona Haws was the top bowler for the Dancers with a 195 series, while Kathy Brennan (163) and Joann Foster (168) also bowled well.

The Charms and the Pacesetters divided their two-game match last week. Jodi Rothenberg of the Pacesetters took the laurels as the top bowler in the match with a 227 series. Jo Ames and Cindy Rowen rolled well for the Pacesetters. Jo rolled a 193 series, while Cindy had a two-game effort of 189. Three girls topped the 200 series mark for the Charms in a good team performance. Amette Nowinski led the way with a two game total of 218. Janice Mikulicz rolled a 210 series, while Gail Grindling posted a 200 series.

Carol Rosener raised her league-leading average to 125 with her fine performance last week. Debbie Kuskin is second with a 120 average, followed by Diane Searles' 107. Liz Simpson and Jo Ames are tied for fourth place with 104 averages, followed by Jodi Rothenberg, 103; Cindy Zahn, 101; Dona Haws, 100; Cathy Alexy, 93, and Karen Lapdow, 93.

The Rockets split a pair of games with the Hurricanes last week to clinch the tie. Bobby Wallick paced the Rockets with a 268 series on games of 124 and 144. Marlon Dennis, who joined the Rockets in mid-season and who has bowled very well, posted a 223 series to help the team. Rick Schwert of the Hurricanes was high man in the match, rolling a 271 series on games of 120 and 151. Jo Pepe, with a 224 series, also rolled well for the Hurricanes.

With Brian Ogonowsky and Mark Shipman leading the way, the Bombers crushed the Hurricanes in two games to move into a tie with the Hurricanes. Minutemen win tourney crown, 73-71, on Meisel goal with two seconds to go

The Springfield Minutemen captured the fourth annual Springfield Invitation Basketball Tournament with a come-from-behind 73-71 victory over Nutley last Saturday at the Florence Gaudinier School. Springfield won the title when Bobby Meisel hit a side jumper with two seconds left on the game clock. Meisel's winning shot capped a rally in which the Minutemen came from eight points down with four minutes remaining. Vinnie Davis and Al Wilbourn led Springfield in this game and were voted the most valuable players in the tournament. Davis was sensational in this game, leading the Springfield offense with 26 points and 25 rebounds. Wilbourn was just as sensational working out of the back court. Al finished with 16 points and 12 rebounds. Springfield drew within two points, as the result of a pressing defense, with three minutes to play. Meisel in addition to his game winner, hit his game total of 10 points in the final period. Bob hit a lay-up on the front of a Springfield fast-break early in the period. Bob then hit two fouls to tie the score at 65-65. Davis banged home a rebound to tie the score at 67-67. After Gary Welner scored from underneath on a nice feed from Wilbourn, Meisel tallied four points on left-handers from the corner.

SPRINGFIELD GAINED possession of the ball with 10 seconds to play when Welner forced a Nutley player into a walking violation. A time out was called and Coach Scott Donington conferred with the boys on the floor. Welner, Jerry Jones, Wilbourn, Meisel and Joe Pepe were carrying the Minutemen down to the wire. Meisel in-bounded the ball to Jones, who set up Al Wilbourn on a drive through the key. Wilbourn hit Meisel in the corner with a pretty pass and Bobby scored. Jones played a tremendous game for Springfield. He and Wilbourn went all the way without a rest. Jerry was play-maker, and stopped the Nutley fast break. Countless times Jerry used his great speed and reflexes to break up the Nutley pass-up court that was supposed to trigger the fast break. Jerry also scored 10 points, including some key buckets.

Fouls and an injury limited the effectiveness of Springfield and their fine reserve strength came to the front to carry the burden. Kenny Baroff, limited to one quarter by a back injury, had scored 53 points in the tournament's first two games. Another Springfield starter, Mark Weber, saw little action in the first half after picking up three quick personals. Mark went to the bench for good with five fouls as the fourth quarter started. It seemed like the final blow when, with two minutes remaining in the game, Davis fouled out after picking up 26 points and 25 rebounds. Welner and Pepe, operating up front for Davis and Weber, and Meisel, in the back court for Baroff, contributed greatly to the victory.

NUTLEY HAD a fantastic tournament prior to this game it had scored 87 and 91 points. A very deep, tough-shooting club, Nutley returned home with the respect of all the Springfield fans.

Nutley's Pete Franza, in the back court, is a solid basketball player who does everything well. He scored 17 points in the final game, under terrific pressure, from Springfield's defensive stand-out, Wilbourn. Pete had 27 and 25 points in the first two games.

Brian McLoughlin also came in for notice. Brian was a very strong player for Nutley. Rebounding extremely well, he roughed up around the key. Brian sparked Nutley early in the second and third periods. He gave them some life from 42 points down in the opening period to 10 points up during the third quarter.

Scotch Plains took third place in this tournament, valloping an under-manned Little Flower team, 140-57. This record total of points came as the result of a relentless pressing defense against a Berkeley Heights team which was without the services of its entire starting team. Ray Schintzer of Scotch Plains scored 42 points in this game. In the tournament, he led all scorers for the three games with 88 points.

Nutley reached the final game with a 91-80 victory over Scotch Plains. Franza, with 25 points, led a well-balanced Nutley team to victory. Schintzer hit 32 points for Scotch Plains, while Rich Rylee tallied 26. Springfield edged Little Flower of Berkeley Heights, 88-81, to gain the final. Wilbourn's 23 points led a well-balanced Springfield attack. Baroff hit 19 points; Davis, 14, and Weber 20. Jones contributed to the victory with some fine play-making and six points. Meisel, with four points, and Welner, with a bucket and some valuable rebounding, also contributed. Davis pulled down a game-high 18 rebounds while Wilbourn pulled 16 balls off the boards. Davis had a tournament high of 63 rebounds to lead all players in this department.

More trout will be stocked in state streams this season

In-season stocking of trout in New Jersey streams will start Monday, according to Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Heavy fishing pressure during the first week of the season is expected to deplete the more than 200,000 fish released before April 5. Continued stocking is intended to insure an ample supply of trout through Memorial Day, the most popular period for stream fishing. About 400,000 more trout will be stocked, Roe said.

Most streams and lakes will be closed to all fishing on the day of in-season stocking, from 5 a.m. until 5 p.m. the following day. This rule allows the fish a little chance to become acclimated and eliminates the practice of "trout following," whereby a few anglers would start to fish the moment the trout went into the water.

The schedule of closed days for each stream and lake is published in the 1969 Compendium of New Jersey Fish Laws. Anglers should consult this list to be sure not to fish closed waters. Many use this schedule as a guide to find freshly stocked waters; the following day, although some deplore this practice as akin to "trout following," it differs in that all anglers have the same opportunity, and fish have a chance to spread.

Major streams are stocked once a week, with as many as possible on Friday to benefit weekend recreation. Lakes and medium streams are stocked at less frequent intervals, indicated in the Compendium. Although closed days are not prescribed for the small streams which were stocked pre-season, they will be stocked once or twice, as the schedule permits.

The trout distribution crew is using this week's break in the stocking schedule to pick up additional fish from national hatcheries. These trout are a valuable supplement to those reared at New Jersey's Charles O. Hayford State Fish Hatchery, making it possible to again release a total of 600,000 catchable trout for Garden State anglers.

Chargers get lead in Friday bowling; Chiefs trail by one

The red-hot race in the Friday Afternoon Boys' Bowling League has moved into the final three weeks with the Chargers regaining a one-game lead. The Chiefs are in second place, while the surging Rangers are two games away in third place. The Falcons are fourth, three games out of first. The Recreation Department sponsors this bowling league for boys each week at the Springfield Bowl.

Steve Rosenberg led the Chargers' two-game sweep of the Jets last week. Steve rolled a 287 series to pace a fine team effort. Steve Blumenkranz rolled a 261 series for the Chargers, while Barry Stoloff posted a 260 series to aid in the sweep. Mike Meyers added a 237 series for the league leaders. John Wachtel's 235 series led the Jets.

The Chiefs fell from first place by dividing two games with the Falcons. Mike Levine of the Falcons led all bowlers in the match with a 263 series. Sandy Fineman rolled a 254 series for the Falcons, while Billy Palazzi added a 251 series. Danny Goecker and Mark Greenberg led the Chiefs. Danny with 252 series and Mark with 248 series.

The Rangers, with a late season surge, are now challenging for the league crown. Last Friday the Rangers beat the Hawks in two games on the bowling of Mike Klarfeld and Tommy Lowy. Mike, with games of 172 and 134, had a 306 series. Tommy added games of 152 and 151 for a 303 series. Howie Foreman's 262 series led the Hawks, while Jeff Greenberg added a 251 series.

The Raiders beat the Lions twice last week to move past them in the standings. Barry Fink, with a 293 series for the Raiders, was the top bowler for the match. Barry Gerst rolled well for the Raiders with a 271 series. Alan Lipton and Mike Nelbart also starred for the Raiders. Al posted a 268 series, while Mike had a 253. Russ Gabay led the Lions with a 247 series.

Steve Harris and Tommy Lowy are leading a very close race for the high average crown. With 36 games in the book, Steve is holding a slim 12-pin lead over Tommy. Both boys are averaging 136 for the season. Mike Levine is third with a 135 season average and Ed Gorenstein is fourth with 133. Roy Greenberg's 127 is fifth, followed by Barry Fink, 126; Mark Jacobs, 125; Steve Blumenkranz, 124; Art Freeman, 124, and Billy Palazzi, 121.

Freshman at Harvard
 also 'book salesman'

Copies of three student guides, two for travel and one for money, are now on sale at Brentano's at the Short Hills Mall. The paperback books are published by Harvard Student Agencies, Inc., a non-profit corporation which assigns students through Harvard and Radcliffe by providing jobs and sales opportunities.

Andrew Meltzoff, a Harvard freshman and son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Meltzoff of 448 Twin Oaks rd., Union, spent much of his spring vacation from the Cambridge, Mass., distribution of books at area shops. He said many others from Harvard who work for the student-owned corporation spent their vacation the same way.

The books, "Let's Go--the Student Guide to Europe," "Let's Go--the Student Guide to America," and "How to Earn a Lot of Money in College" all sell for $1.95. Last year, the publishing division of Harvard Student Agencies marketed more than 100,000 books through bookstores and distributors nationally and internationally, said Meltzoff, a former track and wrestling star at Union High School last year. Sales in 1969 are expected to reach twice that figure, he said.

"The books are written by students, for students," the publishing division, "is presently developing three series student travel guides, financial aid books for students, and high school student leadership manuals."

Meltzoff, who was second last year in the 130-pound state wrestling tournament, is currently captain of the freshman cross country squad at Harvard.

Zebra treasure to one country
 Wild animals are just as much cultural treasures as the Parthenon or the Mona Lisa. That's the opinion of Tanzania's Matthew G. Kayunga, an executive board member of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

In a UNESCO meeting drafting an international agreement to define and protect cultural property, the African delegate said, that Tanzania's elephants, lions, giraffes, and zebras "are as much a part of my country's cultural heritage as temples are to Greece or the Louvre collection is to France."

Extension Service planning Homemakers Day program

Dr. William Smith Jr., assistant director for Family, Youth and Community Development for Pennsylvania State University, will discuss "Ages and Stages of the Generation Gap" at the annual Homemakers Day program on April 29.

The meeting will be held at the Mountain-side Inn, Rt. 22 west, Mountaintide, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. This program is sponsored by the Union County Home Economics Extension Council.

Mrs. John Paster, Elizabeth, president of the Council, urged homemakers to attend the day to gain knowledge of the varied programs of the Home Economics Extension Service which are designed to help all homemakers gain better home and family living.

Mrs. John Browne, Springfield, and Mrs. Michael Kniazuk, Mountaintide, co-chairmen of the day, announced that the exhibits, fancy furniture, cosmetics, chair caning, fancy-sandwich making, origin and use of herbs, pattern sewing, sewing in an invisible zipper, and other areas of information, will be open at 10 a.m.

Reservations for the luncheon at 11:45 a.m. are available by sending $3.25 and the name and address to Mrs. Ernest Gonczlik, 11

Pondick court, Manwood, or Mrs. Frank Siskal, 685 Salem rd., Union. Checks should be made payable to the Union County Home Economics Extension Council. The deadline for luncheon reservations is April 18.

A highlight of the luncheon will be the showing of "Creative Fashions" with coats, suits and dresses being modeled by women who have made their own outfits.

Grid star will speak at dinner

TOMMY DILLON, defensive end of the Superbowl championship New York Jets football team, will be the guest speaker at the sixth annual Special Gifts Dinner sponsored by the Union County Chapter, American Cancer Society, next Thursday, April 17, at the Wildfield-Scott Hotel, Elizabeth, according to Richard Arndt, executive director of the local cancer unit.

Tommy Dillon, an Irish tenor, will provide entertainment at the special dinner. A graduate of Buffalo University (now State University of New York at Buffalo), Dillon was a dean's list college student there where he majored in sociology. His outstanding academic record, said Arndt, and his generosity, once accounted for his being named to the first All-American All-Academic team said Arndt.

Arndt said the dinner was inaugurated in 1963 "to help raise funds so badly needed for the ever expanding program" of the county unit. "Through unselfish dedication, a small nucleus of prominent businessmen have been responsible for raising more than $80,000 since the inception of this program," he said.

Members of the dinner committee include Raymond J. Donahue of 308 Princeton rd., Union, and F. Emery Stevens of 373 Emery st., Roselle Park.

State Bank profits rise

First-quarter profits of The First State Bank of Union rose 60 percent from $84,000 last year to $136,000, it was announced this week by Frank M. Pitt, president. The pre-tax profit was 53 cents for the period ending March 31, an increase of 21 cents over the 32 cents for the corresponding quarter a year ago. The per-share earnings are based on 255,966 shares outstanding at the end of 1968.

Pitt said that prospects for the year were good, although he did not expect results for the last three quarters to sustain the pace of the first three months.

The First State Bank president said non-recurring expenses in connection with the change of name has been approved by shareholders would depress earnings later in the year. Additionally, Pitt pointed out, The First State Bank has applied to the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance for permission to establish branch offices in other parts of New Jersey's banking district number two, which includes Union County. "If any of these should be approved this year," he said, "the expenses of launching new branches would necessarily serve to cut into our profits for 1969."
