Regional board still waiting delivery of expansion report

Legal action may be next step in fight

High school officials try to find consultant

The long-awaited report by Dr. Henry Rissetto on a projected expansion of facilities for the Regional High School District had not been received by the high school administration as this paper went to press.

Irvine Johnstone, board attorney, this week served notice on Rissetto to have his report at the Regional Board of Education offices in Springfield by tomorrow or suffer the consequences, according to an administration source. The source declined to speculate on what the consequences might be.

Dr. Warren Davis, regional superintendent of schools, has been trying constantly to speak to Rissetto about the latest delays in receipt of the report, but has been unable to establish contact.

Rissetto was engaged last May to conduct an in-depth study of anticipated physical plant needs in the Regional District's four high schools. His contract called for a fee of $24,000, and the board disclosed at its meeting last week that it has been paid $18,000 to date. Members indicated there was no chance of any additional payment until the report is received.

Rissetto was scheduled to submit his completed report by the beginning of March, at the very latest. He presented an oral report at a closed meeting of the Regional board, but has yet to offer any comments in writing.

THE PREVIOUS YEAR, Rissetto conducted a similar study for the Springfield Board of Education, which led ultimately to this year's decision to phase out the Raymond Chisholm School — and which also was substantially delayed in the submission.

The Regional District hired Rissetto following

Church census slated next week

Monsignor Francis X. Coyle, pastor of St. James Roman Catholic Church of Springfield, announced this week that a complete census of the parish will be taken next week. The last complete census was taken in 1963.

Approximately 125 men will canvass each home and leave a confidential census card with all Catholic families, and then return to pick them up. The parish comprises all of Springfield and a portion of Union, with a total of about 1,800 families. With families moving in and out of the parish boundaries, a census is necessary in order to determine how to best meet the spiritual needs of the Catholics in these communities, Msgr. Coyle said.

Anthony Graziano, John Browne and Bernard LoMacchio are coordinating the effort with the Rev. Rocco Constantino.

School bus applications filing deadline today

Applications for bus transportation for private and parochial school students are now available at the board offices of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, on Mountain avenue in Springfield.

He said the applications may be picked up at his office or parents may call him at 376-6300. All school districts in New Jersey are required to bus students living in their sending districts to parochial and private schools.

Checking all the ins and outs... Three girl 'librarians-for-the-day' really circulate

During National Library Week, which ended Saturday, it is customary to select high school students who are outstanding library pages in their attitude toward their work.

The three chosen by the Springfield Public Library this year on the basis of "adaptability, ability to follow instructions and assiduous application to any assigned task" are: Karen Belliveau and Yolanda Rueda of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School and Mary Lovag of Union Catholic Girl's High School. They were designated librarians for the day, shown how a library works and allowed to do some professional work. The photos on this page, taken by Bob Baxter, show them assisting

Mrs. Helen Keller at a children's story hour.

In the adult department, the three librarians for the day were given copies to read of the states library laws, a copy of the current budget, the personnel policy and the monthly reports prepared for the board of trustees. These were detailed briefly by the director, Mrs. Helen C. Francis.

Mrs. Keller and Mrs. Marguerite DeCossara of the children's department explained to the youthful aides Springfield's method of choosing the "right book, for the right child, at the right time," taking into consideration a child's age, sex, interest, temperament and background.

THE "LIBRARIANS" participated in some informal book selection and later joined in all the fun as the story hour got under way. Before they observed the story hour in session, the variety of stories needed for such a program and the problem of children's attention span was discussed with them.

A story hour program generally includes two fantasy stories, one or two non-fiction books, music and games, and ends with a recording by a famous storyteller.

Mrs. Mary Manuel, head of technical services, demonstrated the procedures employed in the selection of adult books, verification for ordering, the classification of books and preparation for circulation to the borrower.

The three librarians for the day made the following recommendations for the purchase of phonorecords to add to the library's collection of popular music: Recordings by the Association, the Beatles, Simon and Garfunkle, Judy Collins, Glen Campbell, Mason Williams, and sound tracks of "West Side Story" and "The Graduate."

AFTER LUNCH, Mrs. Barbara Drury, head of reference, showed how to put a bibliography together. Each student chose a topic reflecting her specialized interest or bearing upon the subject she expects to major in. When this list is completed the Springfield Library will reproduce copies of it for use by other students.

Although these three "librarians" expect to do their college undergraduate work as preparation for teaching or research, they may later wish to enter the library field. To be a librarian one must have a subject specialization.

Town historical enthusiasts taking to the trail this month

The official opening of the Springfield Historical Society Trail will take place on Saturday, May 17. The ceremony, which includes the ribbon cutting by Mayor Philip DeVecchio, will begin at 1:30 p.m. on the steps of the Municipal Building.

The trail comprises a series of 20 historical sites located in Springfield. Most of the places date from the American Revolutionary War period, but a few feature the events of the Civil War, Victorian times, World War I and World War II.

A brochure has been composed which will contain a map as well as numbered, detailed explanations of the various locations. This item will be available to residents and visitors on and after May 17.

The Springfield Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a special "Springfield Historical Society Trail" sale in the stores and businesses throughout the township.

Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, with the aid of their troop leaders, will hike a slightly revised version of the trail, to avoid traffic congestion. Each child who completes the tour of the trail will receive a special certificate from the Springfield Historical Society stating his or her name and recording his participation and the date.

In addition to the local citizenry, many visitors are expected to be present from all over the state of New Jersey.

Town pool accepting new member families

There are several openings for membership in the Springfield Municipal Pool for the coming season. The Recreation Department said this should serve as a warning to last year's members who have neglected to renew their membership.

As of now, membership in the pool is on a first-come, first-served basis. For further information local residents may call the Recreation Department, now located in the Sarah Bailey Civic Center, 376-5300.

500 exhibits listed in annual art show of regional schools

The eighth annual art show of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, will be held May 16 and 17 at Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights. It was announced this week by Stanley Grossman, coordinator of industrial and fine arts.

The district-wide event will feature some 500 exhibits in various categories, ranging from painting, ceramics and sculpture, to pen and ink renderings, commercial art and costume design and illustration.

Open to the general public, the show will be held from 10 p.m. on Friday, May 16, to 4 p.m. on Saturday in the school cafeteria. The high school is located on Waching boulevard.

"We know this show will appeal to all residents of the regional district and the surrounding area," Grossman said. "It represents outstanding examples of student work in all the art forms."

Each exhibit will be color coded as to which of the four high schools in the district it represents. The district comprises schools in Berkeley Heights, Clark, Kenilworth and Springfield.

Chairmen of the show are William Anderson and Mrs. Nancy Wilder, art teachers at Gov. Livingston. They will be assisted by David Brodman, Jonathan Dayton, Springfield; Mrs. Harry Polonsky, David Brearley, Kenilworth; and Murray Shereshevsky, Arthur L. Johnson, Clark.

There is no admission charge.

Don't 'sit out' primary races, Meyner tells Dems at dinner

The Springfield Democratic Organization held a dinner-dance Saturday evening at the Student Union Building, Seton Hall University, South Orange. Among the more than 250 people in attendance were former Gov. Robert B. Meyner, Sen. Harrison Williams and Union County Democratic chairman James J. Kinneally, as well as many other prominent Democrats.

Meyner, in his address, encouraged full participation in the forthcoming primary, regardless of party affiliation, as he commented on the general apathy in primary contests.

He called attention to his experience as chief of state in relation to the complexities and size of the executive departments and its vast budget, while speaking of his candidacy.

The local candidate for tax collector, incumbent Marie Smith, spoke of her experience and dedication to her office and vowed a hard campaign for re-election.

Nat Stokes, candidate for the Township Committee, confirmed his remarks to what he considers necessary prerequisites for community service. These include compassion towards the problems of our residents, increased attention to both our youth and aged, and a program of community development to the benefit of all our citizens.

Donald Lan, Democratic municipal chairman, thanked the gathering for its support and noted that the affair was the best attended such affair for Springfield Democrats in many years and was indicative of the "general discontent of Springfield residents."

Lan pledged an "unrelenting campaign to return Springfield's government to the people."

First Aid Squad seeks members

The Springfield First Aid Squad this week issued an urgent call for new members able to serve during the daytime hours.

A spokesman said the new members are needed particularly because of the approach of summer, when vacations will cut still further into the daytime crews now available.

"The First Aid Squad works around the clock, so when you call we are there," the spokesman said. Those interested in joining were asked to call Capt. Robert Voorhees at 379-4677.

A farewell dinner party was held at the First Aid Squad House recently for Mrs. Donald Douglas, a member of the group for eight and a half years, who is moving to New Orleans, La., with her family. She was presented with a lifetime membership.

Group to discuss plans for retreat

The Westminster Fellowship of the Springfield Presbyterian Church will make plans at its Sunday evening meeting for the annual youth retreat which, this year, will be held May 30 to June 1 at the New Jersey Synod Camp at Johnsonburg.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Russell C. Block, associate pastor of the Connecticut Farms Presbyterian Church in Union, who will be the guest leader of the retreat this year. He will discuss informally the itinerary which will be followed. The retreat provides opportunities for recreation and study. There will be group discussions, planning for next year's program, as well as recreation, including swimming, hiking, games.

Johnsonburg Camp is located in Warren County north of Hackettstown and is a wooded tract of nearly 400 acres. Parents of Westminster Fellowship members will serve as chaperones for the retreat.

They said, "The choir is an outstanding musical group, and the community is honored in having the opportunity to present them for the second year in a row."

The local teenagers' group met with Thomas Brown, a member of the housing committee of the Springfield Friends of Benedict College. The young citizens plan full weekend of activities for the vocalists from Columbia, S. C., including a dance Saturday evening at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center.

Regional students visiting museum to appreciate the best

A group of 50 students from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield will visit the Metropolitan Museum of Art and St. John the Divine Cathedral in New York City today.

The trip is part of a world cultures unit on art appreciation taught by David L. Carl. The unit surveys the creative arts from primitive to modern times with the emphasis on the development of art since 850 A.D. Carl said.

Objectives of the unit, according to Carl, are to show that the impulse to create is an integral part of life; that the creative arts express the social, economic, political and religious values of a culture, and that a study of the arts is an avenue to better understanding of other cultures.

Carl said students are encouraged to participate in the creative arts. Students, he said, create collages and wire sculptures. Others use oil and pastels for the first time as mediums of expression.

He said some also experiment with literary forms such as haiku and concrete poetry. Participants are not graded on their artistic ability in the medium they chose, but instead receive credit for their participation.

Postponed museum trip rescheduled to May 8

The museum trip to the Guggenheim and the Frick museums, which had been scheduled for last Thursday by the Recreation Department, was postponed because of several conflicting activities.

The trip has been rescheduled for Thursday, May 8, leaving from the front of the Sarah Bailey Civic Center at 9:30 a.m. A phone call to the Recreation Department at 376-3884 will insure a reservation on the bus. The trip will cost $8.50 per person.

Army cites local GI for valor in combat against Viet Cong

Private First Class S. Bruce Osmulski of Springfield has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for Heroism, with a V for Valor, for his achievements against the Viet Cong in Vietnam.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Osmulski of 826 Mountain ave., he is on duty with the 25th Infantry Division in the combat zone. A graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, he worked at Hyatt Roller Bearing Harrison before entering the Army last May. He trained at Ft. Dix and at Ft. His official citation states: "For heroism in connection with military operations against a hostile force."

While in their night larger position with elements from the 3d Squadron, 4th Cavalry, Company C came under an intense Communist attack. A barrage of rocket propelled grenades, mortars, and .51 caliber machine gun fire fell into the perimeter.

"With complete disregard for his own safety, Pvt. Osmulski exposed himself to the bullet-swept area as he placed devastating fire on the insurgents. His valorous actions contributed immeasurably to the thwarting of the Viet Cong force and success of the mission.

"Pvt. Osmulski's personal bravery, aggressiveness, and devotion to duty are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, the 25th Infantry Division and the United States Army."

Solutions to transit ill's costly One of the most convincing reasons for acting promptly on any transportation proposal, according to the New Jersey Department of Transportation, is the increasing cost and difficulty of carrying out solutions.

As the state continues to grow, these will become even more significant factors, according to the department. The agency "has been forced to abandon a proposal to construct a section of Interstate 278 through Union County, because of the hardship in constructing such a facility through densely populated areas." Proposed highways, the department says, which have strong local support, such as the Route 90 connection to the Delair Bridge and the Route 92 bypass of Princeton, are threatened because of real estate development within the path of the proposed alignment.

At the same time, the department says, obsolete commuter fleets "of our passenger railroads are reaching the point where it is uncertain whether they can remain in service much longer and then only with high operating costs."

Teens spend their vacation studying peripatetism

By ARNOLD GERST
Sixteen students from the Regional High School District recently returned from an unforgettable 10-day trip to London, England and Paris, France. The trip, which was from April 3 to 13, was sponsored by the Foreign Study League.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gottlieb were the counselors for the Springfield group. Mrs. Gottlieb is an English teacher at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School while Mr. Gottlieb teaches at a junior high school.

The students from the Springfield area on the trip were Sue Peters, Sue Sigety, Andi Stein, Debby Murray, Debby Sobin, Janet Zsazsari, Ann Scourial, Karen Belliveau, Patsy Rankin, Terri Warman, Carol Hodas, Robin Hodas, Wendy Merkin, Carol Shaffer, Craig Miller and Arnold Gerst.

The once-in-a-lifetime adventure began when the huge World Airways jet carrying all bound for Paris and London landed at 9:30 a.m. at Le Bourget Airport, which is just outside of Paris. The first day in the French capital was highlighted by a night boat trip down the Seine River. This trip gave the students a magnificent view of some of the best known sights in Paris, such as the Eiffel Tower and Notre Dame Cathedral.

After a Parisian continental breakfast which left many of us hungry, the group embarked on a bus sightseeing tour of Paris. This morning tour included the Arch of Triumph, Sacre-Coeur, Montmartre, the French opera, Les Invalides, Place de la Concorde and Chateau de la Madeleine.

After lunch at the hotel which was our residence while in Paris, the students visited the palace and gardens of Versailles. The palace, which has many beautiful fountains and buildings, was built by the French royalty at the pinnacle of their success. The palace has had a tremendous impact not only upon the history of France but also on the entire history of Europe. The gardens located in the year of the mammoth mansion are a sight that every human being must behold.

MOST STUDENTS on Easter Sunday attended services at Notre Dame. Throughout the entire trip, there were no organized planned activities, and students were permitted to visit any part of Paris on their own. At that time, we attended the opera to see "Carmen."

After a morning visit to the Eiffel Tower on our second-to-last day in Paris, the afternoon was free. These free moments gave each student a chance to investigate the Parisian culture.

The first thing that can be noticed when an American tourist enters Paris is the friendly nature of the people. Any time a student was lost, either on the Metro, the Paris subway, or the streets of Paris, there was always a friendly Parisian present to lend a helping hand. This warmth and affection made all of us feel at home in a far-off land.

Before leaving Paris for London, all the students went to the American embassy for a special program. The Paris peace talks on Vietnam. The gentleman at the embassy lectured us on the procedure that is followed when the talks are in progress, but once the question-and-answer period started, the U.S. delegate did not divulge any information on the progress of the talks or future American military action against the Communists.

After a train ride through the French countryside, we boarded a vessel which crossed the English Channel. The officers on board said the channel and boat ride were calm, but many of the students didn't think so.

After another train trip, this time across the English countryside, we eventually arrived at London's Victoria Station. We were then quickly transported by bus to our beautiful quarters at Kings College.

OUR FIRST FULL DAY in London was spent on a sight-seeing tour which included Hyde Park, Knightsbridge, Oxford Street, Piccadilly Circus, Trafalgar Square and, finally, the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace. The afternoon was spent viewing the crown jewels, which were indeed a spectacular sight.

After a free morning, the group visited Windsor and Runnymede, and in the evening we attended an excellent performance of "Ann of Green Gables."

After visiting the Houses of Parliament and seeing the famous Big Ben, the following day, our group went to Oxford and Stratford. Here we viewed Shakespeare's birth place and Ann Hathaway's cottage. In the afternoon the 180 students saw the play, "Pericles," at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre.

For a change of pace, we also went to Samantha's Discotheque while in London and the Folies Bergeres in Paris. Our group was properly chaperoned in both places.

The food in both cities was good if you were accustomed to Parisian and English cookery. Since most of us are not world travelers, we were not accustomed to the unusual dishes which we were served. At one time or another every student took Tums, Pepto-Bismol or Alka-Seltzer.

By the 10th day we were all looking forward to going home, but it was the most valuable experience of our entire life. There are really two basic things that we learned from this trip. First, it gave every student an opportunity to learn the history of Western civilization. Second we discovered that with a little more understanding in the world, peoples of all nations can unify and the word "war" can be eliminated from the dictionary.

All 180 students and counselors will always have a fond recollection of Europe and the kindness and hospitality of the people there.

ing rejection at the polls last year of an expansion bond proposal. A major portion of the "negative" vote came from Springfield. It was motivated, among other items, by the belief that the plan called for expansion of Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights to a capacity well above 2,000 students.

It would then be able to handle all youngsters from both Mountaineer and Berkeley Heights. The Springfield objectors felt that the school would be too big and that it would come to dominate the entire district, by weight of numbers.

Now, with details of Rissetto's report expected daily, rumors have been sweeping Mountaineer that the community's teenagers would be split between two high schools, presumably Gov. Livingston and Jonathan Dayton Regional in Springfield.

Those rumors were voiced from the audience at last week's meeting of the Regional board, without comment from the board members.

Currently, Mountaineer students spend their freshman year at Dayton, then transfer to Gov. Livingston for their last three years.

More than 793,000 students competed this year for the 14th annual Merit Scholarships. About 15,000 advanced to the semi-finalist stage. The number of semi-finalists in each state is proportional to its number of graduating secondary school seniors and constitutes less than one percent of those seniors.

Approximately 97 percent of these students moved on to the finalist stage, as determined by special achievements and interests.

This year, about 1,000 National Merit Scholarships and 2,000 sponsored scholarships were awarded.

Any student may apply to work in the library as a page. Applications are kept on file by date. The minimum requirements for boys and girls are an interest in books and a good average at school, and they must be at least 14 years old. When an opening occurs, applicants are telephoned several times, but if the library is unable to reach them, the next person by date of application is called.

FOSTER HOMES HELP PATIENTS RETURN TO NORMAL LIVING

By Sherman N. Kleffer, M.D.
Director, National Center for Mental Health Services, Training, and Research.

Foster homes can be an important link between the hospital, an emotionally ill person, and his return to normal living in the community. Many patients need no longer remain in a mental hospital. But they do need continuous supervision while they make the change from institutional to community living. They are unable to return to their own homes either because they have no home and no interested relatives or because their home environment might be conducive to their readjustment.

Illustrating how this works is the foster home program of Saint Elizabeth Hospital, Division of Clinical and Community Services of our National Center, located in Washington, D.C.

About 2,000 patients are now living in over 250 foster homes in the area. These are operated, on a basis of pay from the hospital, by individuals or families. All foster homes are evaluated carefully for their physical arrangements and the family's feelings about their service to those who will live with them.

A few patients fail to adjust to foster homes and return to the hospital. A few others simply sit, but some get jobs and are eventually well enough to be officially discharged from the hospital.

The foster care coordinator for the hospital tells of one long-time patient who went, after many years, to live in a foster home. The woman had been a telephone operator before her illness. One day she announced that she was going to take a job test. A fashionable Washington hotel needed a switchboard operator.

Fearing that the woman might be in for disappointment, the foster care coordinator warned that she might not be able to pass the test, but urged her to try her best. A few days later she called. "There were eight or nine other applicants," the happy voice said, "but I got the job."

She became head switchboard operator at the hotel. Not many long-term patients are as successful. But the point is that if the combined efforts of hospital and foster homes are successful, fewer and fewer patients will have such long periods of institutional life and can return sooner to normal living.

Top priority highways

State highway construction needs total approximately $2.75-billion, according to the New Jersey Department of Transportation.

Of this amount, the agency says, "approximately $1.5 billion falls into a top priority category which should be constructed within the next 10 years. Approximately one-third of this amount would construct important urban freeway and highway facilities in communities like Newark, Elizabeth, Paterson, Camden and Trenton.

"The remainder of the funds," according to the department, would enable the state "to carry out urgent suburban improvements such as Route 24 and 35 freeways in Morris and Monmouth as well as pressing highway improvements to existing routes like Route 1, Route 206 and Route 46.

"Provision would also be made for important rural facilities such as approach roads to 'Locks Island Park,'" the department says.

A holiday appropriate for confused campuses

Today, if anyone cares to look at the calendar, is the first of May, once the occasion for a combination of holidays which are gradually falling into oblivion.

We suggest that the day could well be revived as a time for mirth and carefree celebration on college campuses throughout the nation.

It derives, of course, from two basic sources. One is the age-old pagan tradition of abandonment of restraint--and if our collegians, at least those making most of the headlines, are anything, it's certainly not restrained.

Second, May Day for some decades has also been a time for Communist commemoration of the power of the masses and the virtues of the working man.

Since the laboring masses in this country have tended to worry more about two-car garages and ever-shorter work weeks than about those others still wracked by poverty and prejudice, and since all too many of them showed it by voting for George Wallace, May Day is now available for anyone else.

We realize, of course, that the Communist Party is regarded by our furthest-out campus activists as a part of the old Establishment they have repudiated.

Still, the holiday, with all its implications, should have an appeal for these weedy descendants of the flower people.

The merry dances around the may-pole should prove attractive to many of the Supporters of a Drastic Solution--and we are sure they would never be a Freud to remember its ancient implications.

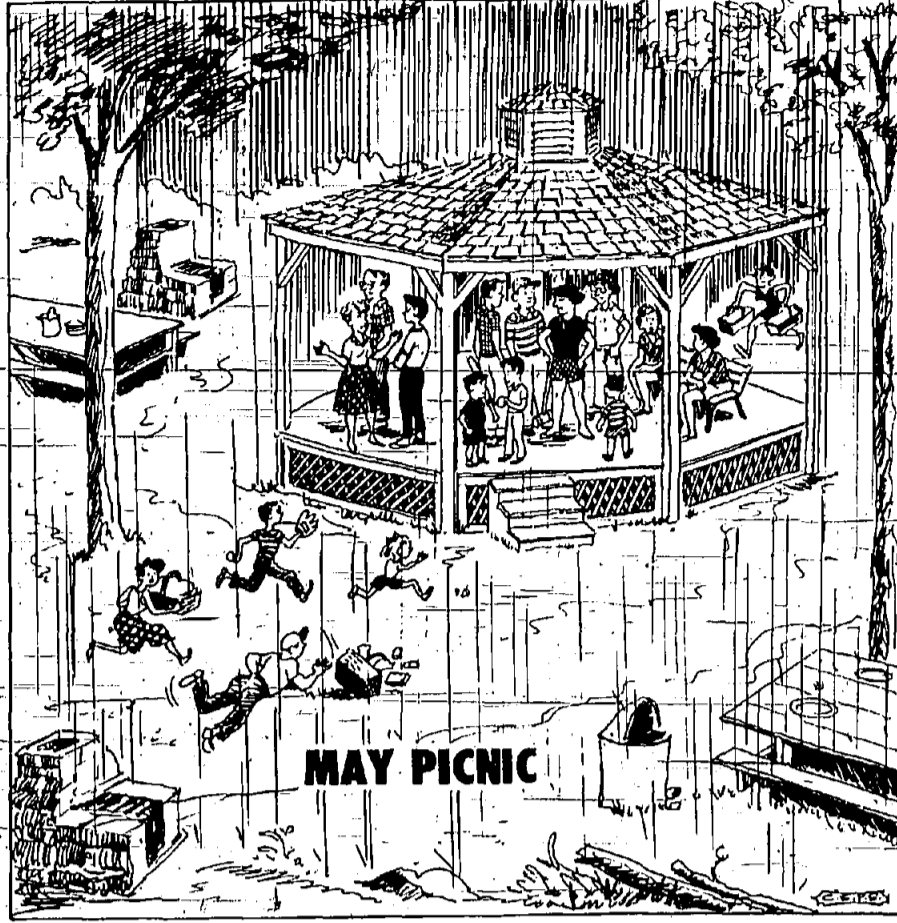

Selection of the Queen of the May might prove more difficult than in older, more innocent times. Flowing golden locks would be of little help in choosing the royalty for a day, since a queen chosen by that criterion might just need a shave.

The elements of the traditional class-struggle would also have their attractions for those jaded with the usual campus confrontations. The classes have changed, to be sure, and the teams no longer play by the rules set down by Marx, or even Eugene Debs.

We do not, incidentally, mean to make fun of the many serious undergraduates who have legitimate reason for concern over archaic practices and lack of sensitivity evidenced by many college administrations.

There are, however, two major avenues open to those who are seriously concerned. The college administrations and the leaders of the majority of students must decide together which road is open--the path of American tradition or the grassy trail of the May Day celebrants.

Students of the world, could some grim day become the slogan, write: You have nothing to lose but your educations.

Springfield Public Library reports on newest books for local readers

By EVA P. BROWN
The Springfield Free Public Library lists the following titles among the books recently acquired:

HISTORY
"Middle East Politics: The Military Dimension" by J. C. H. King. A comparative study of armed forces and political change in the postwar Middle East, in which the author examines the domestic political systems of each of the 18 countries, against the background of Islamic and European history which has molded their military policies.

POLICE
"Police Power," by Paul Chevigny. Chevigny argues against the common charge that police work attracts especially sadistic or authoritarian men. Rather, he feels, the police do what they are allowed and encouraged to do. His book claims to be an important, documented study of patterns of police abuse within the New York City Police Department.

LITERATURE
"Fragments of a Journal," by Eugene Ionesco. In this fascinating journal, the sources of Ionesco's work are uncovered and the reader gains an insight into Ionesco's mind and art. He explores history, politics, psychology, philosophy, and esthetics with his characteristic melancholy but never takes himself too seriously. An unusual book.

BIOGRAPHY
"John Elliot, Apostle to the Indians," by Oia Elizabeth Winslow. Among the stalwart ones of New England's first generation, John Elliot holds his place in the small group of men who wrote their names on the pages of our nation's history. He learned, and later translated the Bible into, the Algonquian language and so was able to preach to the Indians in their own tongue. A remarkable biography of a remarkable man.

DATING
"A Girl's Guide to Dating and Going Steady," by Dr. Tom McGinnis. In step with today's youth, Dr. McGinnis does not establish a set of rigid rules or pass absolute judgments about behavior; instead, he outlines practical and flexible guidelines that allow for individual personality and maturity. A helpful guide for parents as well.

JUVENILE
"The Firebringer and Other Great Stories," by Louis Untermeyer. A collection that includes tales from history, mythology and folklore. These should be a vital part of every child's education and it is a delight to find them told so well.

"The Scroobious Pip," by Edward Lear. Here is one of Lear's most engaging poems about a "strange, inscrutable creature" who called himself Scroobious Pip. The manuscript was found unfinished after Lear's death, and has been delightfully completed by the inimitable Ogden Nash. The illustrations by Nancy Ekholm Burkert are exceptional.

"The Hippo Boat," by Eriko Kishida. A wonderful story to read aloud, for there is lots of excitement when the zoo is flooded and calm Mrs. Hippo saves the animals. Nicely illustrated by Chiyoko Makantani.

Building department offers its help in interpreting township regulations

This second article in a series on the local building and zoning law deals with fences and corner clearance. General provisions of Section 12 state that:

No fence shall be erected without a building permit. There shall be no fee collected for such a permit.

No fence shall be erected of barbed wire, topped with metal spikes, constructed of any material, or in any manner, which may be dangerous to persons or animals.

In one-family residence districts, no solid fence is permitted in the front yard area. A front-yard fence cannot be over four feet high to the front line of the main building and not over six feet high in the rear thereof.

In any residential district, including M-R, (multi-residence - garden apartments) no fence is permitted which is over six feet in height.

In any district, the finished side of the fence must face the adjacent property. Many property owners and contractors are not aware of this requirement.

and install a fence with the finished side facing inward toward their own property.

In any non-residential district, fences are permitted only in the rear and side yards.

On a corner lot, within a specific triangular area established by ordinance, no wall, fence, or other structure can be erected to a height in excess of two feet. Furthermore, no object or obstruction in excess of two feet in height can be placed or parked in this area, and no hedge or shrub in excess of two feet can be maintained.

An exception to this rule is that trees, whose branches are trimmed to 10 feet above the curb level will be permitted.

The triangular area established by ordinance shall be determined by the intersecting street center lines and a diagonal connecting two points, one on each street line, each of which points is 75 feet from the intersection of such street center lines.

U.S. Senator HARRISON A. WILLIAMS Reports

TAX REFORM IS A MUST -- AND SOON!

For too long now, the middle-income taxpayer has paid his mounting share of the cost of government while listening to tales of loopholes and legalities, tax breaks and tax dodges. Nowhere in our scheme of things has the "burden" been quite as sharp as when taxes are gathered from the average American. Inequities and imbalances abound; an estimated 25 million people living below the $3,000-a-year poverty level pay some $1.5 billion in federal income tax; yet at the same time there are the well-known cases of 21 millionaires who paid no tax at all in 1967. These things are weighing the scales against the average taxpayer--a situation which cannot continue.

Recently, I introduced four bills designed to restore some balance and sensibility to our tax laws. Briefly, these bills would:

- * allow complete deductions for medical expenses;
- * allow deductions to individuals for work-related travel expenses;
- * reduce by one year the length of time that tax records must be retained.

Since 1948, when the $600 individual exemption was established, the cost-of-living index has shot up 44.6 percent. An increase to $900 could provide some much-needed relief.

Medical costs are soaring, and our tax structure ought to be amended to permit a man to get the best medical help available for his family. By allowing a full deduction for medical expenses, perhaps we can give some assistance to hard-pressed taxpayers.

Travel costs related to employment ought to be deductible--as a legitimate extension of the traditional business-expense deduction. My bill could limit deductions to the first 600 miles of a daily round trip to work.

Finally, since the taxpayer is allowed only three and a half months to file his return, I see no reason to allow the government any more than two years to check it, and release the taxpayer from a paperwork logjam around the house.

THERE IS A NEW LEVEL of education emerging in America, and a new level of support is needed to meet the challenge. The problem area is post-secondary education. There is growing agreement among educators, social scientists and manpower specialists that we are not doing enough to help people who want to take advantage of these vital years after the traditional secondary education.

The comprehensive community college is best equipped to service the post-secondary level. Its low cost to students, proximity to those it serves, flexible admissions arrangements, strong counseling and advisory services, and varied course offerings are some of the reasons more and more people are looking to the community college for an answer to America's great education needs. Edmund Glazer, executive director of the American Association of Junior Colleges, says it best when he notes that "the community college is as much a social movement as an educational enterprise."

New Jersey's own excellent network of community colleges offers a suggestion of what we can expect from a well-designed, fully-supported system of post-secondary education. In fact, New Jersey's example is one of the strong points I have raised in my proposals for a similar national commitment to community college development.

Out of 24 institutional-support programs administered by the U.S. Office of Education, junior colleges now take part in only six. Even more serious, students at community colleges now have access to only 4 percent of the available National Student Defense Loan funds, 6 percent of Educational Opportunity Loans, and 15 percent of work-study assistance funds.

My bill would amend these conditions in some important ways: 1) states would submit master plans, private and public, for post-secondary education; 2) the plans would be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and funded over a three-year period; 3) a Bureau of Community Education would be established to oversee the program.

I hope that the growing support for the bill--34 co-sponsors, endorsements from community colleges, and agreement from HEW Secretary Robert Finch that community colleges deserve special attention--means that we will be able to supply the resources for this mushrooming educational network.

PROFILE--Roosevelt Williams

Roosevelt Williams, a six-foot-four teacher at Florence Gaudineer School, Springfield, who resides in Union, is an enthusiastic, hard-working and ambitious candidate for the delegate assembly of New Jersey Teachers Association.

Williams explains that the county has "four vacancies to be filled. The vote is by ballot." "And Williams became a delegate through nomination by the teachers, and local association and county executive committee in Union county. The election will be held the latter part of May, and we will be notified by mail."

The NJEA, he says, "has been making gains, with negotiations, legislature, research, public relations, teacher rights, higher salaries and curricular reform."

"I feel," says Williams, "that every teacher should make some effort to take an active part for his own benefit."

"Becoming a member has provided me with a direct opportunity to help the association to make even more gains in these areas."

"THEY HAVE worked for legislation to provide more school aid which separates the pension fund from social security. They've helped to enact legislation for stronger tenure."

Although Williams has stressed that "teachers should take a more active part which would definitely benefit the profession, strides are already being made as teachers are participating more now than ever before. Williams explains that "another reason I'm interested in becoming a member of the assembly is that I feel that the Negro element of teachers in New Jersey needs to participate in the decision-making policies of the association at state and local levels."

"Should I become a member of the delegation, it will enable me to present the Negro viewpoint as well as the educational system is concerned."

"I think," says Williams, "that more Negroes should be more involved with the decisions. The number at the level of making decisions is limited."

Williams, who was born in Parrott, Ga., studied at Jones-High School, Orlando, Fla. He was graduated from Bethune-Gookman College in Daytona Beach, where he earned a B.S. degree in science. He also attended North Carolina College of Durham for administration and supervision, the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, in mathematics, and the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque, where he received an MA degree in science education.

He was recreation supervisor at the Carter Street Playground in Orlando during the summer evenings of 1952 to 1955, and taught his first classes in mathematics at the E. J. Hayes School in Williamston, N.C., in 1959.

From that year to 1965, he served as acting principal during the illness of the school's principal; served on a policy-making committee for a pilot, "Merit Pay Program" in Martin County, N.C., and served as a basketball coach for three years (1959 to 1961).

In 1965, he and his family (wife, the former Thelma Burns of Orlando--"We grew up together"--and children, Yolanda, now 7 and

ROOSEVELT WILLIAMS
Rowena, 5) moved to Union, and Williams became a teacher in the Springfield school system.

HE HAS SERVED as a basketball referee and baseball umpire for the Springfield Recreation Department and Little League and as a director of the Summer Recreational/Educational Program for Union County Anti-Poverty Council, Inc. (1968).

He was a U.S. Army specialist fifth class (E-5), (1955 to 1959) training for an administrative supervisory position, and he served in Germany for three years.

Williams' civic activities have been many. He has been a member of the Southern Christian Leadership Council in Williamston from 1963 to 1965; a member of the board of directors and executive committee of the Union County Anti-Poverty Council, Inc. (1966-1968) and a member of the board of directors and executive committee of the Union Township Community Action Organization from 1966 to date.

He is now a vice-chairman. He also served as a member of the board of directors of the Union County Legal Services Corporation (1967-1968), and is a member of Alpha Phi fraternity.

"I am presently working with NJEA's Operation Pacesetter," he says. "This group is composed of teachers who are going throughout the county talking to their colleagues about proposed amendments concerning rule changes and NJEA dues."

Williams says that his spare time is limited. "I have some recreational hobbies--basketball and golf," but right now, he says, he's more concerned with the elections coming up.

The Raymond Chisholm School is the recommendation of DR. HENRY J. RISSETTO, consultant to the Springfield Board of Education. DR. RISSETTO suggests the closing of the school, at a public meeting of the board. The Columbia Teachers College consultant says an anticipated decline in school age population is the basis of his recommendation. The candidates of MRS. THE TOTAL AMOUNT of water in the world's oceans, ice fields, lakes, rivers, soils, rocks and atmosphere amounts to about 326 million cubic miles, reports the U.S. Geological Survey. About 97 percent of all this is in the oceans. By far the greatest single source of water stored in ice is the Antarctic ice cap. It covers about 6 million square miles and if it melted at a uniform rate it would yield about 6.5 million cubic miles of water--enough to feed the Mississippi river for more than 50,000 years.

Senator CLIFFORD P. CASE Reports

Tax reform is finally getting the attention from Congress that it merits, I am glad to report.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which must act first on all revenue measures, is holding extensive hearings on a wide range of proposed changes in federal tax law. And there is every indication that it will report a comprehensive reform bill to the House this year.

The so-called developments reflect, without question, the public's growing dismay over the cumulative burden of taxation at all levels--federal, state and local.

The dismay has been sharpened, moreover, by the wide publicity given to the fact that some wealthy persons have been able to avoid paying any federal tax on their incomes by taking advantage of various preferences in the tax law.

This has produced a deep sense of injustice among the large majority of taxpayers who are unable to use such preferences to advantage.

INEQUITY IS NOT a new development in the federal tax law; for example, I have been among those who have tried to reduce the oil depletion allowance ever since I came to the Senate in 1955. What is new is a broad public demand for greater equity in sharing the costs of government.

The debate now under way concerns the most practicable ways of achieving greater equity in the payment of federal income taxes. While it is too early to assess the prospects for any specific change that has been proposed, it is now apparent that there is considerable agreement with two general propositions.

The first is that persons living on incomes at or below levels required to meet their minimum needs should not have to pay any tax on income. Many such persons must now pay some tax, even though their incomes are inadequate to a minimum standard of living.

The second proposition is that all persons able to do so should be required to pay some tax, regardless of preferences that might otherwise permit them, to avoid liability.

How these goals might best be reached remains to be determined. One means of meeting the first objective that has been widely discussed would be to increase the minimum standard deduction, now limited to 10 percent of income but no more than $1,000. Such a change would, of course, benefit many other taxpayers as well.

THE IDEA OF CURBING tax avoidance by the wealthy with some kind of minimum tax stems, in part, from the feeling that it may not be feasible or desirable to eliminate all preferences.

For example, the interest paid on municipal bonds has always been exempt from federal tax, and the exemption is an important factor in helping state and local governments to borrow money for public improvements. Repeal of the exemption would certainly "catch" anyone who had invested all or much of his wealth in tax-exempt bonds, but it would also put the borrowing authorities in great difficulties.

Summer calendar planned by Cubs; 'space derby' held

Cub Scout Pack 172 of Springfield held its monthly pack meeting at Caldwell School on Friday. Pack chairman, Richard Marshall announced to the Cubs and their parents a varied calendar of events. These included: May 17, Cub participation with Springfield Historical Society in ceremony at Town Hall at 1:30 p.m. Participants will then explore the Springfield Historical Society Trail. May 23, monthly pack meeting; inspection, songs and games. May 23, 24, 25, Scout Expo. May 30, Memorial Day parade. June 14, annual outing and Cub Olympics. June 21, trip to Shea Stadium to see N.Y. Mets play. Sept. 28, trip to Yankee Stadium to see N.Y. Yankees play. Then, the pack's first annual "space Derby" got underway. The Cubs had all constructed balsa "rockets" powered by propellers turned by elastic bands. The races produced these results: Grand champion, "Flying Skunk," made by

Dem candidates in primary contest

The two Democratic organization candidates for the State Assembly in District 9-B, northern Union County, in the June 3 primary are Michael Mehr of Union and Peter G. Humank of Hillside. Announcement was made by Donald Lan, Springfield Democratic chairman and head of the district screening committee. They will face opposition in the primary from Mrs. Lorraine Lewis of Springfield and Dr. John Shents of Hillside, who are supported by the New Democratic Coalition.

Dayton netters take a pair, to face Hillside next Tuesday

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School tennis team evened its record at 2-2 with 4-1 victories over New Providence and Arthur L. Johnson of Clark last week. The Bulldogs will meet Hillside on Tuesday starting at 3:30 p.m. in Hillside.

Against New Providence, Hank Dobin lost to Mike Blackwell, 3-6, 7-5 and 5-7, but Dennis Insley and Ray Danziger won in straight sets.

Regional's golfers beaten by Millburn and Scotch Plains

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School golf team suffered losses last week to Millburn, 11-7, and to Scotch Plains, 9-1/2-8-1/2. The Bulldogs, who are now 2-3-1, meet Livingston today and Governor Livingston next Monday at 3:30 p.m.

Facing a very strong Millburn team the Bulldog golfers were able to golf fairly consistently. Bob Frank, golfing the third position, shot a 42 and gained three points. Gary Katz, who carded a 41, the best score for Dayton, accumulated two points while Don Lan shot a 45 and gained a half point. Craig Andrews got a half point and Dave Epstein won one point. Steve Gehlik, although golfing a respectable 46, did not score for Springfield.

Playing Scotch Plains at the Baltustrol Golf Course, Dayton played 10 holes and lost by a very slim margin. Bob Frank and Craig Andrews each gained two points by shooting 46 and 49. Gary Katz and Steve Gehlik with 51 got one point each while Don Lan at 49, won 1-1/2 points. Dave Epstein also scored a point for the Bulldogs.

Dayton's record, although not disastrous, is somewhat disappointing. The Bulldogs have some excellent golfers on the team which so far have not lived up to expectations. If the team can jell, the victories will start to come.

Insley defeated Jeff Blackwell, 6-2 and 6-1, and Danziger beat Ken Collier, 8-6 and 6-2. Both doubles teams for the Bulldogs were victorious. Warren Danziger and Art Starr won, 6-1 and 6-0, while Mike Chotner and Howie Levine won, 7-5 and 6-4.

Dobin got Dayton started against Clark by defeating Ken Liebowitz, 7-5 and 6-2. Insley and Danziger also won in straight sets, Insley overcame Jim Wojcik, 6-2 and 6-0, and Danziger scythed "Buy-Bailey," 6-1 and 6-0.

The team of Warren Danziger and Art Starr won, 6-2 and 6-2, while Chotner and Levine lost 6-8 and 2-6.

Coach Norman Pollack noted that Ray Danziger has the best record, (3-1) of any player on the team and captain Dennis Insley has played the most consistent tennis in this early season.

Pollack also pointed out that if Dayton can have a winning record through May 16, the Bulldogs can qualify for the state tournament. The upcoming match with Hillside should be rough for Dayton.

Miss Dworkin places in horse show event

Barbara Dworkin of Springfield, a freshman at Monmouth College, won second place in the beginner walk-trot Class A at the second annual Jersey City State College Intercollegiate Horse Show. The show was held at Hidden Hollow Farm, Middletown.

Miss Dworkin is a member of the year-old Monmouth College Equestrian Club. Monmouth finished only 4 1/2 points behind the show winners, Fairleigh-Dickinson University, Teaneck Campus.

Richner featured in Pathways' final concert of season

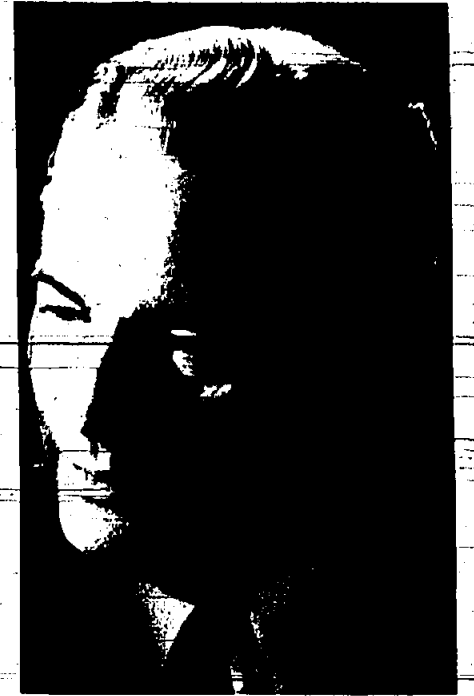

Thomas Richner, noted pianist and organist, will appear in Mountainside next month with the Pathways Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Louis Hooker, in the final concert of the 1968-69 "Pathways in Music" chamber music series. The concert will take place at 8 p.m. May 18 at the Community Presbyterian Church, Deer Path and Meetinghouse Lane, Mountainside.

Dr. Richner's career began at 12 when he became a church organist. His talent as a pianist was established early and he won the Nauberg Award, the MacDowell Award and the award of the New York State Federation of Music Clubs. Since then he has given Town Hall recitals (a dozen in all) and made numerous concert tours of England, France, the Netherlands, Austria and Scandinavia. As a pianist he has become particularly noted for his playing of Mozart. According to the New York Times, he "is a born Mozart player, and they are few." As an organist he selects works from Bach and Buxtehude to Messiaen and Poulenc.

After graduating from the University of West Virginia, Dr. Richner went on to earn his master's and doctor's degrees from Columbia University. Later he was made an honorary doctor of music by Colby College. He has studied Mozart intensively. His book, "Orientation for Interpreting Mozart's Sonatas," has virtually become a Bible for serious teachers of that composer's music. Having taught piano and organ classes at Columbia Teachers' College for years, Dr. Richner is now on the professional staff at Douglass College. He is a past president of the New Jersey Music Teachers' Association.

7 students to be sent to conference

Seven outstanding high school science students and two science teachers will attend the annual National Youth Conference on the Atom in Chicago next fall under the sponsorship of Jersey Central Power & Light Company-New Jersey Power & Light Company.

This will be the eleventh year that JCPL-NJPL has sent a delegation to the conference, which gives a group of the nation's most able high school science students and teachers a picture of the promise of the peaceful atom and helps advance interest in the study of science. The conference is sponsored by approximately 60 investor-owned electric utilities throughout the United States. The JCPL-NJPL delegation will leave for Chicago on Oct. 21 and will return New Jersey on Oct. 26.

The nine-member JCPL-NJPL delegation will comprise students and teachers from high schools in the seven counties in which the two companies have the greatest number of customers. These are Hunterdon, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Ocean, Sussex and Warren.

High schools served by JCPL-NJPL in those counties will be asked to nominate an outstanding male science student from the class of 1970. From the nominees, the student delegates will be selected on the basis of past performance by a panel of judges comprising officials from three New Jersey universities.

The utilities' participation in the conference is being coordinated by Samuel W. Laird, public information director, and Edwin J. Sherratt, regional director of public information for JCPL-NJPL.

PREFAB-BANK OFFICE—This 'Port-A-Bank' temporary prefabricated branch office, to be opened by the Suburban Trust Company May-17 at 580 Springfield ave., Westfield, is believed to be the first of its type in the nation.

Bank planning to branch out in unique prefabricated office

The sixth and newest office of Suburban Trust Company is scheduled to open at 580 Springfield ave., Westfield, near Rt. 22, on Saturday, May 17, according to an announcement by Paul C. Bosland, president of the $90 million bank.

Located on the borders of Springfield, Mountaineer and Westfield, it should prove to be of special convenience to a wide area of residents and businesses, Bosland noted.

"We have leased a temporary building, designed to our specifications, which will enable us to offer immediate full banking service while the permanent structure is being designed and constructed."

The new office called a "Port-A-Bank," was prefabricated in Indiana and is described as the first of its kind in the nation. It will provide office space for the manager and his assistant, three teller windows, and a drive-in window too. Constructed of precast panels of stone chips on cement asbestos board, and sporting a white-pine interior trim, it represents a departure from the temporary trailer offices often used in banking.

According to Bosland, plans are currently being drawn up to begin construction on the permanent building in late summer. A two-story structure of contemporary design, it will feature both drive-in and walk-up teller service, will contain safe deposit box facilities, and additional office space to house departmental personnel of the rapidly growing bank.

Suburban Trust Company also maintains offices in Cranford, Garwood, Plainfield and Scotch Plains, in addition to another office in Westfield at 170 E. Broad st.

13 from local Y attend conference

A Westfield YMCA delegation of five adults and eight youths attended the recent Central Atlantic Area Council and H-Y Council meeting. The delegation was headed by R. R. Barrett, Jr., board president, and John Eldridge, president of the local H-Y Council. Over 600 delegates from the YMCA's of New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico were in attendance.

According to Edward C. Ewen, executive director, the meeting was "historic from several points of view." It was the first time the area council delegates met in joint session with the area H-Y council, which added a great deal of youth participation. It also marked the last meeting of the Central Atlantic Area Council as such, for action was approved that will bring the YMCA's from the State of Pennsylvania into one combined organization to be known as the Middle Atlantic Region.

The council meeting was held in the Berkeley Currier Hotel, Asbury Park. Three of the Westfield delegates were elected to various offices, including Barrett, to membership on the area board; Jay Rochlin, to assistant secretary of the area council, and Ewen, to another term as a member of the area board executive committee. James W. Taylor was elected to another term as a member of the International Committee.

TV critic to speak at meeting of PTA on Monday evening

Tom Mackin, TV critic and columnist of the Newark Evening News, will speak to the James Caldwell PTA, Springfield, on Monday. The meeting will be held in the Caldwell auditorium at 8 p.m. It was announced by Mrs. John Dysart, vice-president and program chairman. She stated that this final program of the year is open to everyone concerned about the leading role of TV in our daily living.

Mackin will discuss the current TV season and will look ahead to the fall with a preview of what the new season will offer. "TV is going through a turbulent period," Mackin stated, and my remarks hopefully will reflect this.

Mackin has been reporting on TV from New York and Hollywood since 1950. A graduate of Seton Hall University, he received his master's degree from Columbia School of Journalism. During World War II, he served as a naval correspondent in the South Pacific. In addition to his column for the Newark News, Mackin has written many articles for national magazines, and he lectures on journalism at Seton Hall. Mackin resides in Short Hills with his wife and two young daughters.

Newly elected officers of the Caldwell PTA will be installed at the meeting. Refreshments will be served following the program.

The center is the Union County Affiliate of the United Cerebral Palsy Association. The association, founded in 1949 through the efforts of interested individuals and parents of cerebral palsy victims, aims to develop and carry out programs of research, patient service and education of the lay and medical professions.

Locally, cerebral palsy patients and their families are provided with a variety of services; for which they pay in accordance with their means. After referral to the center, a medical diagnosis and evaluation is carried out. A course of medical treatment is planned which will aid the patient in full utilization of all his abilities. The treatment is comprehensive and also includes special education, vocational training and recreation. In addition, parent counseling is a very valuable area of service.

Cerebral palsy is a neuromuscular condition caused by brain damage through defective prenatal development, birth injury, trauma and disease. This illness manifests itself in lack of muscle control, speech defects, spasms and seizures. Other complications may include impaired sight, mental retardation, hearing difficulties and abnormalities of sensation and perception. The patient may exhibit any number of these symptoms in varying intensity.

Statistics show that 600,000 adults and children in the United States have cerebral palsy. Of these, 250,000 are under 21 years of age and each year 25,000 infants are born with this disease. It is estimated that the annual cost for the care and rehabilitation of these afflicted people is $500,000,000.

Springfield Evangel Church plans missionary conference

A missionary conference will be held at Evangel Baptist Church, 242 Shunpike rd., Springfield, Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m., featuring the Rev. Manuel Rodriguez, European Evangelistic Crusade missionary to Spain.

Mr. Rodriguez was born in Puerto Rico and came to the States just before graduating from high school. Thirteen months were spent in the U.S. Armed Forces in Korea and it was there that God began to speak to his heart, the announcement added.

Two years later, he entered Barrington Bible College, Barrington, R.I., where he majored in missions. During the summers while he was at college, Mr. Rodriguez worked as a chaplain among Puerto Ricans in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

The Rodriguez family has spent a full term in the ministry of personal evangelism in various provinces of Spain, mostly in the southern part. Hundreds of Gospel tracts and Bible portions were distributed. In many cases, their ministry took them from house to house. Some service was seen in Gibraltar, also. At present they are on furlough awaiting instructions from the mission board to return to their field of labor.

At noon there will be a luncheon and a question and answer period with Mr. Rodriguez. At 7:30, slides will be shown of the work in Spain, and at 8, Mr. Rodriguez will present a missionary message. A fellowship hour will follow the meeting.

BAPTIST CHURCH SPEAKER—The Rev. Manuel Rodriguez, missionary to Spain who is shown here with his family, will speak Wednesday evening at the Evangel Baptist Church, Springfield.

Honor at Overlook awarded to its unit for intensive care

Singling out the devotion to duty of nursing personnel on one of Overlook Hospital's most critical units, the G. McKay Stevenson Memorial Award for outstanding performance in the field of health and medicine was presented this year to the intensive care unit of the Hospital.

A citation presented at the annual meeting of the Overlook Hospital Association last Thursday by Dr. James W. Robinson, member of the Stevenson Memorial Fund committee, was received on behalf of the nursing personnel of the I.C.U. by the intensive care unit's three head nurses: Mrs. Dorothea Karl of Cranford, Mrs. Anne Handville of Summit and Martha Damon of Westfield.

The citation read: "This sixth annual award is presented to the intensive care unit of Overlook Hospital in recognition of its outstanding performance, involving the most demanding and critical duties in advanced concepts of nursing care. One of the earliest units in New Jersey, Overlook's ICU has managed to be consistently reliable in the skillful and compassionate care administered, despite inevitable turnover in personnel."

"Dr. Stevenson was one of the early patients in the original unit, and had unreserved praise for the care he received at that time. Overlook Hospital is fortunate that these high standards have been maintained ever since, bringing hundreds of critically ill patients through times of crisis, and ministering to their families with equal concern."

SPACE AWARD—Gerald J. Healey, at right, of Kenilworth receives a letter from astronaut Frank Borman, thanking Healey for his efforts related to the Apollo space program. Presenting the award is Edward Goldman, an executive at RCA, where Healey is employed. The letter accompanied Healey's "Silver Snoopy" award.

Snoopy thanks Healey Helped propel Apollo project

Gerald J. Healey of Kenilworth, manufacturing specialist for RCA Electronic Components, has received the covered NASA "Silver Snoopy" award for outstanding contributions to the Apollo space program. Snoopy, the famous dog created by cartoonist Charles Schulz, was adopted by Apollo astronauts as "the watchdog of quality and symbol of craftsmanship." Healey was recognized for his role in the development and manufacturing of RCA electronic components vital to the critical radar system which will assist lunar astronauts in landing and taking off from the moon's surface. In a letter to Healey, astronaut Frank Borman stated:

"We in the test end of Apollo hold in very high regard those individuals like yourself who have contributed in a selfless and highly professional manner to the safety and success of these flights."

"You have demonstrated a high level of program understanding and leadership, and your personal efforts have gone far towards assuring the ultimate success of Apollo."

"Please accept our sincere thanks, and as a token of our gratitude, the 'Silver Snoopy.' When you wear this pin, you may do so knowing that it is given only to those individuals whom we regard as the best in their respective professions."

Healey, his wife Betty, and their sons, Timothy, 11, and Douglas, seven, live at 15 Wilshire dr.

NYC ballet dancers here at college

Two members of the New York City Ballet, Patricia McBride and Edward Villella, will perform a dance recital at the Newark State College Theater for the Performing Arts Monday at 8 p.m.

The program is the first in a series of cultural events presented by the college's Performing Arts Council, a group formed recently by Dr. Herbert Sametfeld, dean of students. Three or four major performances are anticipated for next year.

Miss McBride commands a breadth of repertoire that few young dancers in the world can match. She began ballet lessons at the age of seven in Teaneck, her hometown. After six years' teacher, the late Ruth Vernon, recommended that she continue her studies in New York, and at 14 she was offered a scholarship to the School of American Ballet, the official school of the New York City Ballet.

At 16 she was invited to join the New York City Ballet. She was made a soloist just one year later, and at 18 she was elevated to the principal dancer with the company. Villella began ballet lessons by chance at the age of 10. A sandlot baseball enthusiast, he was struck unconscious by a baseball and ordered by his parents to stay away from sandlots for a while. His sister was studying ballet at the School of American Ballet, and, for lack of something better to do, he joined her class.

Villella joined the New York City Ballet in 1957 and was made a soloist within a year.

Teacher ran 'blistering' pace to finish 26-mile Boston race

Science teacher Jerome Mandel is still feeling the effects of last week's Boston Marathon.

Mandel, a 24-year-old science teacher at David Brewster Regional High School in Kenilworth, entered the 73rd annual running of the event to prove to himself he could finish the full 26 miles in 8:35 yards.

Prove it he did. He said this week he's thinking of trying it again next year, despite the memory of "excruciating pain" he experienced during the four hours and 14 minutes it took him to cross the finish line in downtown Boston.

He is still receiving the congratulations of his fellow teachers, students and other school officials, including Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of schools. While he was away, his classes continued with lectures on pre-recorded video tape.

"Mandel's accomplishment is an outstanding example of what a person can do if he sets his mind to it," Dr. Davis said.

Mandel, who taught at Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights before coming to Kenilworth, said, "I tortured my body for those last two hours. I don't know how I finished, but I did."

"I told my students when I returned that they should never be embarrassed if they don't win a contest. The embarrassment comes by not finishing."

An assistant track and football coach, Mandel said he ran "and walked" the first 20 miles of the race in about three hours.

"To give you an example of how torturous it was for me, it took me 35 minutes to make the last two miles. My body was numb. I couldn't feel a thing. I could just about walk across the finish line. My wife had to practically hold me up," Mandel said.

"The spectators along the race route were wonderful. They handed us pieces of oranges along the way. I must have eaten six oranges. One little girl gave me an ice poppicle and woman turned a water hose on me to cool me off," he commented.

Mandel is no stranger to running. He captained his high school and college track teams. He trained for the marathon by running five miles a day, using the school halls during bad weather, and the high school track.

"There were 1,152 starters, including some women. They're not allowed to enter the race but they jump in anyway. At one point in the race, two girls walked by me faster than I was running. But, it was all worth it. You've got to experience it to appreciate the endurance one needs," Mandel added.

It will do all that while averaging a good 23 miles to a gallon of gasoline. (A fact comparable to hitting .400 or winning 30 games.) It will do all that on 5 pints of oil instead of 5 quarts. (Like going 5 for 5 instead of 5 for 20.) It will do all that without a radiator. (No radiator, no water to boil over, no errors.) Jogging fine for 'old' people, but doesn't fit teens

This is part of a series of articles sponsored by the Springfield Teen Council allowing the teenagers of Springfield to speak their minds.

QUESTION: "What do you think of the emphasis—or lack of emphasis—placed on physical fitness in and out of school—today?"

JERRY EPIESBACH feels that physical fitness should be enjoyed by everyone—and if more people kept themselves in better physical condition, there might be fewer cases of heart trouble among older people.

Jerry, who considers himself in good physical shape, believes that a person can enjoy life more if he stays physically fit. He feels that jogging in order to keep in shape is good for older people, but among younger people it does not accomplish much. Jerry also feels that kids should get into the habit of keeping themselves physically fit, so this habit will continue when they get older.

WHEN NOT PLAYING soccer, Joe Frieri keeps in shape by playing basketball and doing exercises at home. He feels that jogging is good for older people because it helps to strengthen the heart. Joe believes that a person who is in good physical condition is happier and can participate in more activities. Also, the physically fit person can solve his emotional and mental problems better, he adds.

BOB SASSE feels that the emphasis on physical fitness in school is enough, but that out of school there should be more. This is because not enough people take part in physical fitness programs out of school—like basketball, baseball and volleyball, all sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department.

The people who do participate in such programs seem to enjoy themselves very much, while others complain that there is nothing they can do. Bob asks why they don't go out for some sport or, at least, take enough pride in themselves to look and feel decent. He feels that people should do more for themselves.

MARK GEORGE feels that the emphasis on physical fitness is not too much because the future of this country depends on Americans being strong and in good physical shape. Mark stated that there are sufficient programs to keep anyone in shape all year round. This is due to the recreational programs at the pool in the summer. Mark would like to see the schools open for basketball on Saturdays and maybe Sundays for anyone interested. The physical education program in school and physical fitness programs out of school are enough.

ROBERT ZUCKERBERG says that it is fine that lots of emphasis is placed on physical fitness today. He feels good when his body is fit and he can do his homework better and is in a better state of mind. This is especially true when one is participating in a sport. Bob believes that it makes school more enjoyable when one can look forward to some activity after school.

In gym class in school, he says, there should be a happy medium concerning calisthenics so that they keep the kids, not in sports, fit to a degree, and at the same time don't tire out the boys who have sports later. Walking and jogging are very good activities for people who aren't athletes. He thinks that a person should do different things to keep in shape so that he does not become bored.

Bob feels that too many kids don't care enough about the fitness of their bodies, but just their grades. Bob knows from experience that one feels he has accomplished something after a good workout. The new emphasis on jogging and bicycle riding is great, he concludes. Everyone should make an attempt to keep physically fit, even when they are older, whether the attempt involves bowling, swimming, golf, tennis or weight-lifting.

People can't always participate in sports, but Bob holds that they can keep physically fit. This can be done in a number of ways—dieting, exercise, jogging—generally keeping the heart and lungs in good shape. Bob strongly feels that keeping fit should be a prime concern of everyone.

JOEL HOROWITZ thinks that it is a good idea to place emphasis on physical fitness, and that physical fitness is not overemphasized in and out of school today. It shouldn't be mandatory but rather available, although in some cases it must be mandatory in order to become a reality.

Trust Co. appoints Mullin to new post

Walter B. Mullin of Springfield, assistant vice-president of the Summit and Elizabeth Trust Co., has been named manager of the Summit Office.

His appointment was among several executive changes announced this week by Gavin Spofford, president.

Mullin, a career banker, joined Summit and Elizabeth Trust Co. after 20 years with the Federal Trust Co. of Newark. He is a graduate of the American Institute of Banking and a member of the Merchants' Division of the Summit Chamber of Commerce. He lives at 143 Pitt rd.

In other appointments, Robert B. Speer, of Chatham, senior vice-president in charge of operations, has been named corporate secretary; Mrs. Rose S. Hannin of Summit, treasurer, has been named assistant secretary under Speer; and Eugene Schaefer has been named head of the trust department.

Jogging and aerobics in general are good ideas, but he believes they are just passing fads. They are all different ways of promoting physical fitness. Joel feels that becoming physically fit should be an enjoyable process, and each person has his own particular likes and dislikes in this area.

In school, the balanced repertoire is good and should be maintained. Although he doesn't enjoy calisthenics, he reasons that they are necessary and a good thing to do. It is a way to make sure that students receive necessary exercise. But it is only good to a limited extent; one can't get into shape by only using this method.

Calisthenics must be supplemented with other sports and activities which are just as important if not more so, he says. It seems that there isn't an excess of value placed on the boys becoming physically fit in school. Joel holds that physical fitness is basically important and cannot be achieved by a lot of people unless it is made mandatory. This is because a lot of people cannot force themselves to do things that they don't enjoy, he adds.

Church will sponsor a 'frolic' during National Family Week

National Family Week will be observed at the Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Mall at Academy Green, beginning Saturday and concluding on Mother's Day, according to Mrs. Virginia Gletschmann, chairman of education.

Members of the congregation have been invited to a conference wide "family frolic" at Camp Aldersgate, the United Methodist Center in Sussex County on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Each family should bring its own picnic lunch. There will be games and a tour of the camp. Directions are available from the church office.

On Sunday, local youth from the fifth grade through senior high school will assist in the services of divine worship at 9:30 a.m. in the Trinity Chapel, and at 11 a.m. in the Sanctuary. The fifth and sixth grade students will prepare and conduct a litany. Junior highs, directed by Audrey Young, will present a dramatization of the New Testament lesson. The sermon, on "Youth Attitudes," will be a panel presentation with Kathy Klover, Perrie Brummy, Richard Gletschmann and Ronald Steel sharing their views with the congregation on such issues as church attendance, belief in God and social problems.

Church School will meet at 9:30 a.m. German language worship service will be conducted by Theodore Reimlinger, lay speaker. Members of the congregation will gather for welcome for coffee and conversation at 10:30 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall.

A family night will be sponsored by the Church School staff on Sunday afternoon at 5, beginning with games led by John Brunay and Mrs. Bernice Klover. Each family was asked to bring a box supper. Dessert and beverages will be served by the Woman's Society of Christian Service, of which Mrs. Jessie Bloom is president.

Songs will be led by Pastor James Dewart and the Wesley Choir accompanied by Mrs. Marjorie Ferguson. This will be followed by a talent show to be presented by members of the Church School, including Alice, Albert and Dolores Holter, Hildegard Bach, Richard Beilminger, Diane Dewart and others. The "family fun night" will conclude with an outdoor vesper service to be conducted by Mrs. Esther Reimlinger Emal Eng, assistant.

Family week will conclude with the honoring of the mothers of the parish on Sunday, May 11. The Church School will present each mother attending the Sunday services with a rose, and will also prepare special rose corsages for their "adopted grandmothers," who are shut-ins.

Social revolutions faces hospital, Overlook told

The challenge of the social revolution facing hospitals was described to a capacity crowd at the Overlook Hospital Association's annual meeting last Thursday night by Dr. George W. Graham, president of the American Hospital Association.

How are hospitals to meet the growing demands of the public and their own personnel, to move with the advances of medicine yet still keep costs down? An impossible task, according to Dr. Graham.

Urging the protection of the voluntary health system as an example of unselfish initiative and enterprise, Dr. Graham warned against the threat of growing bureaucracy with government's increasingly strong role in the field of medicine.

"There is no question that equal health service must be extended to all," he commented. "But we must find new ways to do it, and still keep our independence of action under reasonable controls. We must initiate our own solutions."

DR. GRAHAM PRAISED Overlook as an "outstanding example" of progressive policy and future planning. He cited Overlook's recently begun extended care facility, visiting nurse-home care service and out-patient program as foresighted new approaches to solve in-hospital bed utilization and keep costs down by providing other less expensive means of care.

By moving longer-term patients to less costly accommodations and by providing out-patient, plus nursing and other home care specialized services, patients are able to leave the hospital sooner, obviating the need for "more acute beds," he pointed out.

He noted that public cooperation was essential. "The public must use these new services or pay the inevitable price of more costly in-patient care."

Robert J. Lincoln, chairman of Overlook's board of trustees, made a combined report for the board, enumerating the many ways Overlook was keeping operating costs down while still maintaining high standards of patient care.

Lincoln cited Overlook's entrance into programs of shared computer services; joint purchasing plans; investigation of shared laundry facilities; data processing and management controls on manpower and costs.

Williams supports bill to offer free food stamps to poorest

WASHINGTON—Calling hunger the "terrible footnote to the American epic," Senator Harrison A. Williams, Jr., (D-N.J.) has joined in offering legislation which would make free food stamps available to the nation's poorest families.

The bill would also lower the cost of food stamps for those able to pay some portion of the charge. Cuts in food stamp costs would range from 15 to 30 per cent.

Williams said there are 500,000 New Jersey hard-core, poor four-member families with annual incomes of less than $2,200. "Yet in January, 1969," he said, "only 75,870 people received any sort of food stamps at all." He said that nationwide, the food stamp program is reaching only about half of those impoverished families who have access to the program.

The New Jersey lawmaker noted that some families receive only $8 to $10 a child for food a month. "There is not a soul who could live on such a meager sum," he added, "yet many try to struggle by at these miserable levels."

Senator Williams explained that the bill would strengthen the food stamp program by:

- Providing free stamps to families which earn less than $50 a month.
- Cutting 15 to 30 per cent off the cost of stamps for many families.
- Increasing the purchasing power of stamps to $120 per month.
- Distributing surplus food to food stamp impact areas.

As he joined other senators in sponsoring the food stamp amendments, Williams remarked: "We are no longer free to ignore or even be ignorant of the plight of hungry Americans... The poverty index classifies a family of four with less than $2,200 as 'hard-core' poor. There are an estimated 12 to 15 million hard-core poor in our country.

"It is, perhaps, one of the most terrible footnotes to the American epic to see a little girl of ten whose teeth have already started to corrode, or a young man whose hands are disfigured from malnutrition.

"Freedom depends on free people, but hunger and malnutrition will keep our poor in bondage unless we act now to end the crisis."

Finance experts tapped as Blue Cross trustees

Former Commissioner of Banking and Insurance Charles R. Howell and Harry W. Jones, retired insurance executive and authority on health care economics, were elected last week as members of the board of trustees of Hospital Service Plan of New Jersey (Blue Cross).

Earl R. Mellen of Millburn was re-elected chairman of the board and Duane E. Minard, Jr. of Montclair was re-elected president at the Board's annual meeting, held in the Plan's headquarters at 500 Broad St., Newark.

A computer's helping hand Get your number in a hurry

New Jersey Bell's real time intercept service is now in full operation — the first of its kind in the nationwide Bell System to be operating company-wide.

Real time intercept is a computerized system designed to inform customers — in a synthesized voice — about the status of disconnected, unassigned, or changed numbers.

It works like this:

A customer dials a non-working number. His call is routed into an intercept office — Hammonton for customers from New Brunswick south; Newark for the remainder of New Jersey Bell's customers. An operator will ask for the number that was dialed, and will relay it to the central computer in Newark by tapping out the number on a series of keys.

The computer will search its memory for all the information available on the given number.

In a fraction of a second it will be ready to respond.

Information will be reported by computer "voice" — an arrangement of pre-recorded words and numbers that can be combined by the computer into literally hundreds of messages.

Virtually all of New Jersey Bell's operating area is now included in the system. Formerly, New Jersey Bell operators handled about 82,000 such calls a day.

The service was introduced gradually throughout the state, beginning with the New Brunswick area in March and concluding with the Paterson area the week of April 13.

The system's "brain" — actually two computers — is housed in Newark. The "brain" has lightning speeds and a vast storage capacity — it contains the status of every telephone number in New Jersey Bell.

Foster unit 'week' set

The staff and board of the Children's Aid and Adoption Society of New Jersey will join in celebrating "Foster Parents Week," according to an announcement by Miss Phyllis Erlinger, associate executive director.

Plans for the observance, which will encompass the period from May 5 to 11, will highlight a special tribute to a foster mother who has served the society as a "pinch-hitting mom" for the past ten years.

In citing "the importance of special recognition to be given to the foster parents affiliated with the Children's Aid and Adoption Society," Miss Erlinger said:

"The wonderful people who are our foster parents are in effect the backbone of our operation. They serve effectively in behalf of youngsters who look to us to find them permanent homes by way of the adoptive process.

"With the help of our foster mothers, each child who comes under our care is given living personal attention in an individual home. This is an essential part of the transition from that child's homeless state to the permanent home with new parents, for which the child is being made ready."

Ask Amy

By
AMY ADAMS

I'M TOLD THIS IS NORMAL.
Dear Amy:
I have been worrying about a problem of mine for several months now. After seeing how understanding and helpful you are to your readers in your column, I feel I could turn to you.

I am a boy of fifteen years and have not yet started to enter puberty. I am even afraid to get undressed in the locker room at school. Is this normal for a boy of my age? I would appreciate your printing this letter because I am sure it would be helpful to other boys in this situation.

Dear Chaz:
Many young people experience embarrassment when it is necessary to undress in front of others, but I assure you that it is very normal.

If your problem goes beyond that, urge you to discuss it with your parents and your family doctor.

Dear Amy:
I'm 16, I met George last summer. From the first time he saw me, he pretended he liked me. He lied to me a lot but he only wanted me to like him, and I told him I did. After a few weeks of knowing him, his friends told me that he was no good and that he didn't like me. I believed them and I didn't want to see George again. A few weeks later, he wanted me back, but I said no.

Now his brother tells me that ever since I got mad, he is going crazy. He doesn't want to talk to anybody and he says that I'm the only girl he will talk to. He went with many other girls since then but he broke up with them all. He is just being miserable!

I like him more than I ever did. I want him back. How can I go about getting him back? I have to make the first move, he won't.

Dear Jenny:
A boy who cares for a girl as much as his brother says he cares for you would certainly contact you. Frankly, I think you are believing what you want to believe and disregarding what you don't want to believe.

It's time you faced the facts. You can get in touch with him if you wish, but I wouldn't.

Dear Amy:
I love my husband and I believe he loves me. He says he does. We have been married 16 years and he never did anything like this before until he hurt his eye.

Since his accident, he will take off for a couple of days then come home again. He says he doesn't know why he takes off and that he does not want us to break up.

Do you think I am wrong in staying with him or should I call it quits? I have 3 sons and they tell me that they like their father the way he is.

I think a lot of this is his nerves and he doesn't want to believe he could be doing this because of nerves. He has always been so strong.

Dear Mrs.:
If you think that your husband's behavior is due to his accident which resulted in disturbing his nervous system, accompany him to the doctor.

Perhaps there is more damage than you realize, and if you love your husband, you will make every effort to help him with his problem.

Dear Amy:
I am 13 and I am in the 8th grade. I live with my aunt. She doesn't think I should baby-sit for four children at one time. There are boys and one is a girl. Their ages are 10, 8, 6 and the little girl is 4.

What is your opinion about it?
J.C.
I agree with your aunt, dear. One at a time is quite enough of a responsibility for a 13 year-old.

Sea-treasures
The sea supplies only three minerals in large quantities—common salt, magnesium, and bromine.

PERSONAL TO Toni:
Electrolysis is fine for some people, but, in my opinion, for a teenager there are other ways to minimize the problem without such extreme measures.

Address all letters to:
AMY ADAMS

State Bar Association plans program for annual meeting

The 71st annual meeting of the New Jersey State Bar Association will open on Thursday, May 15, at the Shelburne Hotel in Atlantic City. Nearly 30 separate programs and meetings are scheduled during the three-day session.

The topics will range from "Prospects for Tax Reform in the Current Congress" to "Marriage Conciliation - Sexual Problems between Married Couples and Their Effect upon the Marriage." The recent American Bar Association findings in support of the "fault system" in automobile accident cases, a topic which has made considerable news at past bar association meetings, is also slated for review.

Top state officials will appear to speak on items of concern to both the bar and the general public. Featured at these sessions will be Public Defender Stanley Van Ness, Public Utility Commission President Brendan T. Byrne and Administrative Procedure Director Leon S. Wilson. A symposium on "The Moment of Death" will include the legal views of Attorney General Arthur Silles and the medical views of State Medical Examiner Edwin Albano on organ transplants. In another session, Deputy Attorney General Irving Venokur will discuss "Consumer Protection."

Extra-legal subjects on the schedule include a "Foreign Policy Briefing" by three representatives of the State Department, Mid-East, China and Far East, and Iron Curtain prospects will be outlined by experts in these areas from the Nixon administration. Another program of general interest will consider "Cancer of the Lung in Relation to Smoking, Environment and Occupation."

A number of smaller meetings will also be held along with continuing studies of such items as "The Public Collective Bargaining Act" and "What's Wrong with Probation."
Other participants will include Governor Hughes, Chief Justice Weintraub, American Bar Association President William T. Gossett, Bahamian Governor Sir Francis Cumming-Bruce, Dr. Albert Ellis of the Institute for Rational Living and Dr. Laurence N. Woodworth, chief of staff for the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation of the United States Congress.

Homemaker can help family's hearts

The homemaker has an opportunity to make a real contribution to family heart health in her own kitchen. With this as a daily goal, she can rely for help on two new publications, approved by heart and nutrition experts, that place into focus the entire matter of eating better to protect the heart.

These are the leaflet, "The Way to a Man's Heart," and a companion booklet on "Recipes for Fat-Controlled, Low Cholesterol Meals." Available from your local county Heart Association, they are based on the latest scientific evidence which indicates, according to the American Heart Association, that most individuals can reduce their risk of heart attack by making moderate changes in the normal diet.

The typical American diet is rich in eggs, which are high in cholesterol, and meats and dairy products which are high in animal (saturated) fats, says "The Way to a Man's Heart". These foods tend to raise the level of cholesterol in the blood, and contribute is a forerunner of heart attack. To reduce the risk of this form of heart disease, the leaflet explains the moderate changes needed to adopt a meal plan which is low in saturated fat and cholesterol and high in polyunsaturates, and which provides all the nutrients essential to good health.

The leaflet opens into the form of a wall chart measuring 15 by 18 inches. On one side is information about cholesterol and different types of fat in foods, as well as questions and answers about diet and its effects. The other side provides an every-day guide for the homemaker, with lists of basic food groups from which to plan heart-helping meals; recommended foods; those which should be used sparingly or avoided; and size of servings for each food. Desserts, beverages and condiments also are covered by the chart.

The booklet, "Recipes for Fat-Controlled, Low Cholesterol Meals," is designed to help the housewife carry out the new suggested to hardening of the coronary arteries, which meal plans. The booklet contains definitions, cooking tips, and specific recipes for preparation of meats, fowl, fish, vegetables, salad dressings and sauces, and baked goods and desserts. All cooking fats used in the recipes are polyunsaturated vegetable oils.

Using both publications as her guide, the housewife will be able to plan and prepare satisfying meals for the whole family. In doing that, she will be called on to make only moderate changes in household eating habits. But the benefits may be substantial.

There is increasing evidence that most people, including those who may have inherited a tendency to heart disease, can substantially reduce their risk of heart attack if they follow a diet to control blood cholesterol levels, and if along with this they maintain a normal weight, avoid cigarette smoking, exercise regularly, and obtain medical treatment if they have high blood pressure or diabetes.

Youths apprehended

Three juveniles were apprehended by police at the Courtesy House in Fritberger Park last Wednesday night after they left a car at the corner of Wewanna and Stuyvesant avenues with the lights on and fled on foot. The car had been reported stolen in Plainfield, Union police said.

Free ads offered students

Summer job placement program to begin on May 15

This newspaper will again offer a campaign of free "situation wanted" classified advertisements to help high school and college students find summer employment. The first ads will appear in the issue of May 15.

The free ads will appear for 3 weeks in the classified section of this and seven other newspapers in nearby communities published by Suburban Publishing Company, so that the students can get their message to prospective employers.

Students who took advantage of the free ads last year received excellent results, according to Robert H. Brunell, advertising director. He reported that 300 young people looking for summer work placed classified ads.

This year's project will be the fifth undertaken by Suburban Publishing in support of "Youth Opportunity."

Letters explaining the offer have been sent to all high school principals and special forms will be made available at these schools. A clip-out form also appears in today's paper.

HERE ARE SOME tips on wording the ads from Classified Manager Frank Solloway:

1. Try to stress what you can offer, not just the fact that you are available for work.
2. Point out qualities and skills that you possess that are different rather than "willing to do anything," or "willing worker."
3. Word your ad simply and clearly, stressing chief points in the first few words, as these are the ones that catch the reader's eye.

4. Since the ads will appear in several communities, it is a good idea to mention your town or neighborhood, particularly in ads for baby sitters, to facilitate the spotting of your ad by a prospective employer.

The rules for submitting ads:

1. Offer applies only to young people currently in high school or college.
2. Ads must not exceed 25 words in length.
3. All ads must be typewritten or printed.
4. Only one ad per student, please!
5. Ads should be submitted in person or mailed to Classified Dept., SUBURBAN PUBLISHING CORP., 1291 Stuyvesant ave., Union.
6. No ads will be accepted by telephone.
7. Most ads will be printed as written, however, the publisher reserves the right to reword if necessary for clarity and to reject an ad for any reason.
8. Deadline for Thursday insertion: Friday 5 p.m. Ads received after this time will be held for the following week.
9. This offer will expire May 23.

Cigarette kickers cited Entitled to wear I.Q. button

"The Public Health Service says that 21,000,000 Americans have quit smoking cigarettes," points out Mrs. William Backman of New Providence, education chairman of the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society. "The Society's newly initiated 'I.Q.' (I Quit) program is designed to recognize these people who have kicked the cigarette habit and spur others to stop smoking." An I.Q. pin, symbol of the program is available to anyone who has quit smoking for at least a month.

Savings bank luncheon

The customer relations committee of the Savings Banks' Association of New Jersey will sponsor a workshop and luncheon Saturday, May 17, at the Hotel Berkeley-Carteret, Asbury Park. Personnel from the 21 mutual savings banks in the state, etc habit and spur others to stop smoking." An I.Q. pin, symbol of the program is available to anyone who has quit smoking for at least a month.

Movie star Tony Curtis is national chairman of the I.Q. program and accepted the position saying, "You can have the good life if you smoke cigarettes, but you won't have it long!" He stressed the fact that he will be a worker in the fight against smoking and wears an I.Q. pin, having given up cigarettes almost ten years ago.

"I.Q." which started officially as an American Cancer Society drive with the announcement of Curtis as chairman, will be carried on all media to get people to stop smoking cigarettes. The I.Q. buttons will provide visible proof that people can quit and hopefullly will spur others to give up the habit or not start.

Mrs. Backman believes that "this is the long-needed recognition for those who have kicked the habit. Helpful suggestions for giving up cigarettes are found in a society publication titled 'If You Want to Give Up Cigarettes.' Contact the Union County Unit, 512 Westminister ave., Elizabeth, or call 354-7373 for information."

Vo-Tech faculties, Dr. Baxel discuss problem of growth

Dr. George H. Baxel, superintendent of the Vocational-Technical Schools of Union County, held the first of a series of quarterly luncheons with the faculties of the high school and college-level divisions last week.

Dr. Baxel described the advantages which have resulted from the move to the 43-acre vocational-technical complex in Scotch Plains. "Most significantly," he said, "the new facilities free us from the limitations of inadequate space and provide us with a home campus, a sense of pride and identity. However, size and distribution cause remoteness. Formerly, I had closer ties with students and faculty, knowing each one personally.

"Now this is no longer possible and consequently, there is more formality, less feedback, and little direct contact. It is for precisely these reasons that I have initiated these meetings, so that I can feel the pulse of students and faculty."

From 1940 to 1960, Dr. Baxel served as teacher, supervisor and principal of Bloomfield Tech. In 1960, he was appointed director of a pilot program to establish post-secondary, vocational-technical education in Union County. Classes were organized in drafting and electronics, and the school operated at Morris Avenue, Union, for two years.

From 1962 to 1968, years of tremendous expansion of curricular offerings, the schools were relocated and established at Globe Avenue, Mountainside; Park Avenue, Scotch Plains; Sheffield Street, Mountainside and Ball Avenue, Union.

Dr. Baxel has also begun to meet regularly with students of the Technical Institute and the Vocational Center. These meetings are also scheduled as luncheon conferences and it is hoped that they will give the students a real sense of participation.

Alumni planning dinner Saturday

Alumni of Union College, Cranford, will be saying "hello" and "goodbye" Saturday, when the Alumni Association hosts its annual spring dinner dance at 7:30 p.m. at the Hotel Suburban in Summit.

As they greet former classmates, the alumni will also be bidding farewell to Dr. Kenneth G. MacKay, who resigned Feb. 28 as president of Union College. Dr. MacKay, who has served as the college's first and only president for the past 22 years, will be guest of honor at the dinner.

Dr. Albert E. Meder Jr. of Westfield, vice-provost emeritus of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, and chairman of the education committee of Union College's board of trustees, will be guest speaker. John P. Higgins of Clark will serve as toastmaster.

Chairmen Erank Roselli of Rahway and George E. Van Dorn of Cranford have announced that tickets are available in the College Relations Office at Union College and from members of the committee. They include: Richard P. Muscatello of Elizabeth, president of the Alumni Association; Richard H. Chapman of Short Hills, a member of the board of trustees; John H. Claus Jr. of Panwood; John F. Harrold of Berkeley Heights; Erank J. Heiser of Linden; Miss Linda K. Kugel of Colonia; Clarence Menzer Jr. of Eastwood; and Prof. and Mrs. Elmer Wolf of Cranford.

The dinner will be preceded by a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m.

'English spoken here' Course given for foreign-born

This is a man. This is a house. This is a pencil. And, this is the kind of elementary English being taught to 11 foreign-born students in a unique "English and Reading as a Second Language" course at David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth.

The high school, part of the Union County Regional High School District, found itself faced with a problem early in the school year, with the enrollment of more than the usual number of non-English speaking students. The students came from such diverse places on the globe as Columbia, Cuba, Italy, Japan and Poland. Their families had settled in Kenilworth, which has a number of industries. Aware of the language barrier, the school attempted to place the youngsters in classes with bi-lingual teachers. When more foreign-born enrolled in October and November, it became apparent that special attention would have to be given to these students.

School and district officials, including John L. Dikey, principal; Monroe B. SUNDAY'S SERMON

THE REAL YOU

Do you see the real you when you look into the mirror at the start of each new day? Probably not.

Do you see yourself as others see you? Very unlikely.

Because such is the way of human nature, we are all prone to a bit of self conceit. We do not often see ourselves short. The truth is that we make excuses for ourselves that do not make, or if we do something which is wrong, we have an "excuse" which makes it self-understandable.

We should always remember that it is easier to deceive ourselves than it is to deceive others. What we may consider a temporary setback is usually rated a total failure by our friends. Something we might have done because there was "no other choice" overlooked a proper option that was clearly evident to everyone's eyes.

What is to be done? Make sure the real you is a real person. Let conscience be exercised. Conscience is that one part of you most difficult to deceive.

Live your life in a manner that keeps conscience at rest; you will be at peace with yourself and the rest of the world.

Hospitality for spring suggested

Spring is the season for bridal showers, anniversary parties, and graduation celebrations, reports Anne L. Sheeler, County Home economist. If you are planning to be the hostess at one of these affairs or for another special occasion, perhaps you will find these suggestions helpful.

Invite only as many guests as you can comfortably serve. Keep in mind your limitations due to seating, china, and silverware. Even if you are planning a "buffet meal," each person should have a place where he can comfortably sit while eating.

Plan to serve foods and beverages that you know how to handle, and ones you have successfully served before. For "buffet service," select a menu that requires no knives, sherry glasses or other equipment difficult to hold on a plate on the lap.

In order to save your time and avoid last minute duties, make a written time schedule of what needs to be done and when to do it. Try to adhere to this schedule as closely as possible. Such a plan will also help you to remember everything that needs to be done.

Be prepared with enough food and beverage so that you will not run out. If teenage boys or adult men will be among the guests, be prepared to satisfy their appetites, especially if the affair will be held outdoors.

Do as much in advance as possible so that you can greet your guests relaxed and not exhausted from hectic last minute chores. The wise hostess plans to save from forty-five to thirty minutes before the guests are due to arrive for refreshing herself.

The hostess who has the ability to mix the guests so that everyone is at ease and nobody feels left out has a great advantage. If this is one of your weak points, consciously try to improve your skill along these lines.

Summer camp for retarded provides priceless experiences

Authorities on mental retardation frequently stress the fact that retarded children are like other children in more ways than they are different. A visitor to Camp Star, the summer camp operated by the Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, could see this for himself.

He would see groups of children, some as young as four, engaged in all the activities that one usually associates with camp—hiking, swimming, playing ball, fishing, crafts, overnights, cookouts; and more. Many of the children have speech problems; some, such as those with Down's Syndrome, or mongolism, have an abnormal appearance* often there is poor coordination; learning comes very slowly.

Yet, like young campers everywhere, they are having fun in the sun and profiting in many ways. They are enjoying companionship, which is usually not easy for the retarded person to find, they are learning to use their leisure time constructively and with the help of patient counselors, they are experiencing the thrill of success in their activities.

Camp Star's main division meets five days a week at Echo Lake Park, Mountainside, except on rainy days, when the Union County Unit's day care center in Winfield Park is used. Dennis Paporello, a special education teacher, heads a staff that includes other teachers, mature college students (many of whom are majoring in education), and specialists for swimming, music, and arts and crafts. For their daily swim, a favorite activity, the children are indebted to the owners of the nearby Quality Court Motel in Springfield, who make their pool available without charge.

The camp season, which this year will run from June 30 to Aug. 8, is divided into three two-week sessions, and a child can attend any or all three. An overnight campout and a trip are scheduled during each session, so that each camper has an opportunity for these experiences. Among the most popular places visited have been the Statue of Liberty, Palisades Amusement Park, and the Turtleback Zoo.

Because of the special needs of the campers, the staff is large in relation to the number of campers; there is a counselor for every two or three children. Although the job demands hard work and infinite patience, it is clear from the high rate of return among the counselors and volunteers that there are many intangible rewards, such as the affection of the children and the joy of helping them learn to have fun. One young counselor put it this way: "After spending an entire summer observing, helping, and having fun with retarded people, I can only say that the experience was priceless."

Bus transportation to day camp is provided by the Union County Unit, NJARC, from pickup points in the various communities in the County.

Camp Star was started in 1957, when the idea that retarded people could be helped was still young. In the last few years, however, there have been two major innovations. An adult division was established, which uses as its campus the campus of Newark State College, with its cafeteria, gymnasium, ball field, volleyball and tennis courts, hiking paths, and pool. The campers have an opportunity to pursue adult recreational activities in an adult atmosphere. Graduate students in special education supplement the regular staff.

Secondly, a residential camp for children and adults is held every summer following the close of day camp. This year residential camp dates will be Aug. 24 to 31. The location is Camp MacDonald, the well-equipped Newark YM-YWCA camp in the Kittatinny Mountains on the edge of Stokes State Forest.

Registration for day camp is now under way at the office of the Union County Unit, NJARC, 562 Boulevard, Kenilworth. Additional information can be obtained from the unit's executive director, Mrs. Betty McGhee, of Cranford. For families unable to pay the full fee, financial assistance is made possible by the contributions of individuals and organizations. To help send more retarded children to Camp Star this summer, Union County Unit, N.J.A.R.C., welcomes financial assistance from any organization or person who wishes to join in this worthwhile endeavor.

Auto hydroplaning is deadly hazard on rain-slick roads

Passes flowers, spring showers also bring conditions for automobile hydroplaning, a phenomenon just as deadly as driving on glare ice.

Joseph A. Ayares, New Jersey safety director for the Allstate Insurance Companies, warns that hydroplaning occurs when pressure from the rolling tires causes wedges of water to form where tires and highway pavement meet. The faster the vehicle travels the greater the pressure exerted by the water wedges, until only water supports the tires—the vehicle actually skims on the surface of the water.

When this happens, sudden braking or acceleration, or even a strong gust of wind, can cause the auto to skid—or, more accurately, float—out of control, as if it were on a sheet of ice.

Research at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center showed that cars begin to hydroplane at 35 m.p.h., depending upon vehicle weight, and tire tread condition. Between 35 and 55 m.p.h., partial hydroplaning can cause severe skids. Over 55 m.p.h., wheels begin losing all contact with the pavement.

Tests show that hydroplaning can occur in one-tenth of an inch of water—the equivalent of a rain-drenched highway. Research also reveals that worn tires will hydroplane in less water than newer tires. It should be noted that 22 per cent of all crashes and 18 per cent of all fatalities occur on wet roads.

To help prevent a crash caused by hydroplaning, Ayares recommends that motorists:

- (1) reduce speed by one-third on wet roads;
- (2) keep proper inflation level in the tires;
- (3) watch for standing pockets of water;
- (4) increase following distance from the car ahead;
- (5) replace badly worn tires.

Auto club tips to vacationers on avoiding marathon driving

With the summer season and the long holiday weekends just around the corner of the calendar, people should start to plan their travel now, says R.J. Valle, general manager of the New Jersey Automobile Club AAA.

Vacationers seem to have a natural inclination to travel as far and as fast as possible, especially when time is short and the budget is limited.

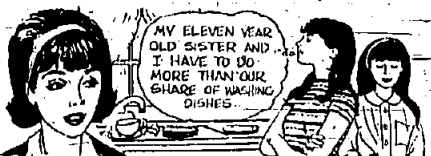

Too often this sort of marathon driving will spoil a vacation. Most who try it find a trip fatiguing rather than fun, because they are tired at the end of every day, tired on reaching their destinations and even more so when the vacation is over.

Most importantly, however, Valle said,

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: I am a girl, thirteen years-old, and the member of a large family. I don't guess you would consider my complaint a very important one, but it bugs me. The children take turns doing chores, like dishes, for example, at our house. The problem is that my fifteen year old sister doesn't ever wash dishes. She is allergic to detergent and her hands break out in a rash. This means that my eleven year old sister and I have to do more than our share of washing dishes. I know my sister has a problem with her hands, but it still doesn't seem fair.

OUR REPLY: I would assume that your sister has tried rubber gloves, if she hasn't suggest that your parents get a pair. If your sister is highly allergic, there are two alternatives. She should see a medical specialist to see if the problem can be diagnosed and corrected or you should try to talk your family into buying a dish-washing machine. You are in a position to know whether or not your family can afford such an undertaking.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

vacationers who push themselves are also needlessly endangering themselves, their families and other people on the road.

An AAA program for enjoyable vacation driving during the summer and early fall is based on well-researched facts, and the New Jersey Automobile Club, AAA offers it as the best way to go.

Have details of the trip planned in advance, with route maps and reservations in hand, and make sure the car is in good condition.

Start and stop early each day. Don't plan more than eight hours behind the wheel or subject passengers to a longer period of riding. Stop for a long break at midday, and use the late afternoon and evening for sight-seeing and enjoying the recreational facilities of a hotel or motel.

Rest frequently. A break in driving to avoid fatigue is absolutely necessary every two hours, and more often if children are along.

Share the driving. Even brief relief from the constant demands of driving will help revitalize reflexes, which must remain sharp to drive safely.

Avoid drowsiness by taking preventive measures. Keep the car well-ventilated and play the radio or encourage lively conversation. Light meals and comfortable clothing help too—but nothing works so well as adequate sleep the night before.

Watch for traffic signs placed to help drivers avoid rotten spots and indicating safe speeds.

Keep seat belts fastened whenever in the automobile. Call them life belts—the need for them is very clear. Remind passengers that their being safely buckled-in can give the driver added confidence and peace of mind. Remember that loose objects in an automobile can cause damage and be damaged with sudden starts and stops—and the same thing applies to people.

DR. ROBERT R. CADMUS

Tech school grads getting work offers

Mrs. Genja Berk, coordinator of the paramedical department at Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, this week announced that twenty students of dental and medical assisting have already been placed in jobs to begin at local hospitals and professional offices immediately following graduation in June. In addition to coordinating the dental, medical assisting programs, Mrs. Berk has been instructor of the one-year dental assisting course since its inception in 1962. In 1963, the paramedical offerings were expanded to include a one-year course in practical nursing and, in 1964, medical assisting. Two-year courses in dental hygiene and medical laboratory technology will be added in September, 1969. Dental assisting students receive 24 weeks of preclinical orientation at the Institute and six weeks of clinical practice at local hospitals, colleges, and professional offices.

Dr. Cadmus, who has been president of the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry since 1966, received his M.D. degree from Columbia University in 1940. He completed his post-graduate training at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, New York City, in 1942. His medical experience includes service with the University of North Carolina School of Medicine, North Carolina Memorial Hospital; University Hospitals—Cleveland; Western Reserve School of Medicine, Cleveland, Ohio; and Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, New York City.

He has authored more than 50 articles on hospitals, medical education, hospital dentistry, pharmacy and other health subjects. Dr. Cadmus is a member of the American Medical Association, Association of Teachers of Preventive Medicine, American Hospital Association, American College of Hospital Administrators and the American Public Health Association.

He served as a flight surgeon with the U.S. Army Air Force during World War II, and was discharged as a Lt. Colonel in 1945. During his military career, he was decorated Commandeur Ordre du Nichan-Istikhar by the government of Tunisia for control of Bubonic Plague. He also received a distinguished service award from the North Carolina Hospital Association.

He authorized more than 50 articles on hospitals, medical education, hospital dentistry, pharmacy and other health subjects. Dr. Cadmus is a member of the American Medical Association, Association of Teachers of Preventive Medicine, American Hospital Association, American College of Hospital Administrators and the American Public Health Association.

Area residents interested in attending the meeting have been asked to write to the TB-Respiratory Disease Association, 12 Baldwin Ave., Jersey City. Reservations are now being accepted.

Pfaltz, Heilmann file petitions for nonination in new district

Hugo M. Pfaltz Jr., incumbent Republican assemblyman, this week announced that he and his new running mate, Herbert J. Heilmann, have filed petitions for renomination in the primary election June 3.

Pfaltz, who is currently representing District 9-C in western Union County with Assemblyman Peter J. McDonough, found his district cut in half by the computer which rearranged assembly districts in Union County. The New Jersey Supreme Court has given its qualified approval to the use of these computerized districts for the elections to be held in 1969.

Fortunately, said Pfaltz, "while the computer took away half of my old district, it created a new district which included three municipalities in old District 9-B. Herb Heilmann, who resides in Union, has been representing District 9-B, and the Republican screening committee decided to endorse both of us to run from the new district which was created by the computer."

This new district comprising Berkeley Heights, New Providence, Summit, Springfield, Westfield, Garwood, Union and Hillside has been designated as District 9-B. Hillside, Union and Garwood were in old District 9-B, while the remaining municipalities have been represented by Pfaltz as part of District 9-C.

Pfaltz said that by selecting the two incumbent assemblymen from this district, the Republican screening committee gives continuity to district representation. "I know that the technicalities of district reapportionment are confusing enough without having the voters forced to choose from entirely new faces on the political scene. Herb and I were lucky that the computer put the two of us together in one district."

He also noted that the computer had put Herbert H. Klein and Peter J. McDonough together in new District 9-C. Charles J. Irwin was retained as the Republican choice to run as assemblyman-at-large from all of Union County.

Film on the West to be presented at Trailside center

"Invitation to the West," a color, sound film will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation on Sunday, at 2 p.m.

The film, a travelogue, takes the viewer on a helicopter tour of the western part of the United States with visits to several of the national parks.

At 3 and 4 p.m., Sunday Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, will present a program entitled "Our Moon and Others" in the Trailside Planetarium. Mayer will tell and show the story of our nearest space neighbor, the moon. The same program will also be presented at 8 p.m. on Wednesday.

Mayer will also present "Our Moon and Others" at the one-half hour nature talks for children to be held at 4 p.m. in the Planetarium on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, May 8. The planetarium can seat 55 people at each showing and tickets for each performance will be issued at the Trailside office on the day of the showing. Children under eight years of age will not be admitted in the planetarium chamber.

ANTHONY QUINN—Actor, who portrays King Arthur (who later becomes Pope), is shown at a mine in a Siberian prison camp before his release and departure for Rome, in "The Shoes of the Fisherman," at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair.

'Camelot' musical arrives at Castle

The award-winning "Camelot," film musical based on the Broadway stage hit, is the current attraction at the Castle Theater, Irvington Center.

The Lerner-Loewe musical, filmed in color and widescreen, and directed by Joshua Logan, who directed the stage version, stars Richard Harris as King Arthur, Vanessa Redgrave as Guinevere and Franco Nero as Lancelot. In stellar roles are Lionel Jeffries, David Hemmings and Pierre Olat.

The Theatre Seen

BY ROBERT LYONS

Few visitors to London will spend every night and all the matinee afternoons at the theatre as I do, but some planning is in order whether you will be seeing a few many shows.

First off, don't go to the shows that are playing in New York. It is easier to cross the Hudson than the Atlantic. These plays are running in both towns: Mame, Hadrian VII, Fiddler On The Roof, Plaza Suite, Canterbury Tales, Hair, and The Boys In The Band.

Tickets are easy to obtain and top price is about four dollars. Orchestra seats are called "the best." I recommend buying the best seat available. The box office will show you the exact location of your seat from a chart located on the box office counter. I prefer to go off and do my ticket shopping at the box offices. Usually the taxi will wait for you at several theatres.

Your hotel will probably have an agency and the charge is 10 or 15 per cent of the ticket price. Also American Express and Cook's have agencies. But know what you want. Don't be talked into that "jolly good show" for agencies have their reasons for pushing certain attractions.

THE ROYAL SHAKESPEARE Co. Aldwych Theatre, Strand, WC2 and The British National Theatre, Old Vic Theatre, SE 1 are musts. Write them now for a schedule. If you want you can order tickets by mail. The currency is no problem. Pay about $4.50 a seat and they'll refund you the difference. These two companies represent ensemble acting at its most powerful and glorious. I have seen over 60 productions at these theatres in the past eight seasons. They are the crown of the English theatre.

After you have feasted on the offerings at The Royal Shakespeare and National Theatres your eye will be highly critical of the works playing in the West-End (London's Broadway). Do not miss 40 Years On with Sir John Gielgud at the Apollo. I can also recommend She Stoops To Conquer at the Garrick; Cat Among the Pigeons, playing at the Prince Of Wales; and Brief Lives at the Criterion.

For unsurpassed female impersonating see Denny LaRue in Queen Pasionella at the Saville. Mr. LaRue brings the ancient art of female impersonation to a pinnacle. Stay alert. The roars of laughter may bring patrons tumbling out of the balcony into your lap.

SHOULD YOU ARRIVE at theatre in time for a drink or a chance to stop-by the bar, ask the bar maid to put drinks aside for you during the interval. This will save charging up the aisle and queuing up. My mid-play drink is a medium port wine. It saves me waiting to get to the ice bucket and also sprits me up. A beer is also a good choice for summer theatregoing. But do repair to the bar area. You will miss it with a wistful reminiscence when you are standing around with your 50 cent cardboard orange in New York theatres.

If you get a little homesick for Broadway, then by all means go off to see Arthur Miller's The Price at The Duke Of York's. You'll have a splendid evening supplemented with a tinge of pride at what the American theatre is at its best. Should you be unable to come home without seeing Agatha Christie's The Mousetrap don't use a precious evening. It plays a Tuesday matinee at The Ambassadors.

"HELLO BURLESQUE"—Lenny Laden and Eddie Rose returned to Larry Dixon's "Flagship Supper Club, Route 22, Union, Tuesday, and will run their "burlesque" revue through Sunday. Featured in the cast are Pat Nicole and Cathy Collins, comedy-stripper. On the same bill are Joe Baotner's Ink Spots, who also are making a return bow at the Flagship through Sunday.

'Belle de Jour' in second week

"Belle de Jour," French film, which won the Best Picture Award at the Venice Film Festival, continues for a second week at the Union Theater, Union Center. The movie, which stars Catherine Deneuve, Jean Sorel and Genevieve Page, was directed by Luis Bunnell, and tells an erotic story of repressed desires, exploring the gap between fantasy and behavior.

'Charly' begins third Art week

"Charly," starring Cliff Robertson, who won the Oscar in the title role, Claire Bloom and Leon Jenny, continues for a third week at the Art Theater, Irvington Center. The picture, which was photographed in color, was directed by Ralph Nelson.

The Oscars went to Katharine Hepburn for Best Actress of 1968 (in a tie with Barbra Streisand), John Barry for Best Original Score (not for a musical), and James Goldman for Best Screenplay.

The picture, concerning 12th Century royalty, in addition to Miss Hepburn as Queen Eleanor of Aquitaine, stars Peter O'Toole as King Henry II (who won an Oscar nomination), Jane Morrow, Timothy Dalton, John Castle, Anthony Hopkins, Nigel Terry, Anthony Harvey (who also won an Oscar nomination) directed the film from the play by Goldman.

An exhibit geared to young collectors at Artists Guild

"Art for the Young Collector," an exhibit sponsored by the Artist and Craftsman Guild of 17 Eastman St., Cranford, will continue through June.

The paintings, carvings, sculpture and photographs represent the works of a cross-section of artists and artisans from the guild. The exhibit is designed to help the new collector choose from a wide variety of offerings that are reasonably priced and highly decorative. The gallery is open Mondays through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9. The gallery is closed Fridays.

The charming "pebble people" of Jan Gary, the knights of William Gorman, glasses by Kay Weiner, pitchers by Van Samons, pottery by Seymour Geller, hanging planters by Green-wich House potters, beaded flowers by Naomi Stein, jewelry by a host of New Jersey craftsmen, leaded stained glass by Kay Newcomb, fused glass, copper enamel pins and bowls are a few of the many crafts on display.

Among the paintings are oils, water colors, acrylics, collages, graphics by some of New Jersey's prominent artists: Hella Ballin, Leo Monti, Nicholas Reale, Lugiina, Don Bloom Emanuel Haller, Gerald Luback, Frank Zaccarelli, Jack Bomberg, Roslyn Rose, Lida Hilton, Noel Farese, Judy Targan, Frank Gubernat.

Delicate metal flowers that create a year-round garden were sculptured by Demetrios Xethalis. Stone carvings by Eugene Gauss, wood carvings by Lillian Johnson, gay dancing figures by Bernice Schachter, bold structural pieces by Doug Jones abound in the sculpture garden.

To introduce the new collector to photography as an art form, Artist and Craftsman is exhibiting an unusual nature series by George Tice, a gently colored-washed nude by Scott Hyde, a spiral silhouette by France Lieber. The photography is offered in conjunction with the exhibition of work from the Witkin Gallery of New York City shown at the YMHA in West Orange during April.

Summer college offers a brush-up

A summer remedial program for high school graduates who are deficient in college preparatory courses will be offered at Union College, Cranford, this summer. It was reported by Prof. Farris S. Swackhamer, director.

Courses in chemistry, physics, introductory algebra and trigonometry will be offered during the regular summer session which begins June 23 and ends Aug. 1.

The courses carry no credit, but enable the student to begin his college career in September. For those who feel they need additional preparation for college English, and English review course is also offered.

Registration for the remedial program and regular summer session will be conducted on June 18 and 19 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the college. Applications are available in the college admissions office.

The summer session offers 38 freshmen and sophomore courses in science, mathematics, languages, English, social sciences and business administration. Students may earn regular college credit with the approval of the college they are now attending.

Union College president lauds Freeholders' educational aid

Union County has a headstart on every other county in New Jersey in the development of a comprehensive two-year college system because of the existence of Union College in Cranford and Union County Technical Institute in Scotch Plains, Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president of Union College, told the annual Executives' Luncheon of the Union County Chapter, National Secretaries Association, at the Echo Lake Country Club, Westfield.

Union College's acting president praised the foresight of Union County civic, political and educational leaders for establishing the Cranford Institute in 1933 and the Union County Technical Institute in 1960, and he lauded the Union County Freeholders for their current and past support of higher education.

"We have the best two-year college system in the state and we mean to preserve it and improve it. And we fully expect to do this at the lowest per student cost," Dr. Iversen said.

This two-year college system is being made possible through the recently established Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, which was established last year by the freeholders. The agency has already made it possible for Union County to qualify for additional state aid of more than $700,000, Dr. Iversen said.

"By making use of existing facilities at Union College and Union County Technical Institute, we will be saving Union County taxpayers an estimated $15 million in capital costs," Dr. Iversen said. "But more importantly, we are providing Union County a quality program that is unmatched anywhere in New Jersey."

DR. IVERSEN SAID Union College's master plan calls for serving 2,000 fulltime students and 2,000 part-time students by 1980, for providing new or expanded educational programs in police science, nursing and teacher training, and for a vastly expanded program of continuing education for adults and a new program of community services with an emphasis on helping to solve urban problems.

The first stage of a $7.5 million master plan has been implemented with the construction of an Administration Building, which is now under construction, Dr. Iversen said. The next stage or stages will be the construction of a new library and a classroom building. Further expansion provides for a major addition to the Campus Center, including an Olympic-size swimming pool, and a Community Services Building.

"We anticipate the development in the near future of Continuing Education Centers in both Elizabeth and Plainfield to better serve the needs of our citizens in both ends of Union County," Dr. Iversen said. "We are already exploring ways to finance both projects."

Dr. Iversen said the 35 years' experience of Union College places it in an excellent position to meet the higher educational needs of Union County, which he said are growing in complexity and diversity.

NSC alumni to fete two men Saturday

Saul Bosek of Elizabeth will receive the annual Newark State College Alumni Association Award at a homecoming dinner-dance Saturday at 6:30 p.m. Bosek has been treasurer of the association since 1967.

Bosek, a 1939 graduate of NSC, received an LL.B. degree from Rutgers University. He is a partner in the law firm of Epstein, Epstein, Browne and Bosek.

Joseph W. Rendell, retiring professor of library science at NSC, will receive two alumni award to a member of the faculty.

Prior to the award dinner, Dr. Eugene V. Wilkins, retiring president of Newark State College, will hold a reception in the formal lounge of Downs Hall at the college.

Assemblymen ask Senate to take a chance on lottery

"Taxation and gambling are as old as civilization itself. It is high time that the state of New Jersey used one to offset the other."

That is the opinion of State Assemblymen Herbert H. Klein and Herbert J. Hellmann who have urged the passage by the Senate of Assembly concurrent resolution No. 32 calling for a state lottery.

"The proceeds from a state lottery would have a three-fold benefit," said Hellmann. "First, it would provide additional sorely needed funds for education and public institutions.

"Second, it would help halt the flow of funds to illegal gambling operations and help to inhibit organized crime.

"And finally, its implementation would allow use of senior citizens who live on extremely limited incomes.

"LOTTERIES ARE NOTHING NEW," said Klein. "In fact, lotteries served to pay for schools, churches, bridges, turnpikes and docks and canals in the original 13 colonies.

"The Irish sweepstakes and football pools for hospitals and other public good.

"In fact, precedent has been set in the United States with lotteries in New Hampshire and New York.

"The state treasurer in 1965, told Gov. Hughes that a lottery could provide $30 to $35 million in revenue for New Jersey," said Hellmann.

"With the current state of fiscal affairs in this state, it is unconscionable for New Jersey to pass up this amount of revenue," said Klein.

"IN ADDITION TO TAPPING dollars that might be slated for legal gambling areas, a lottery would help channel illegal dollars into state coffers. Keeping money out of the hands of the unsavory elements of the population is a major reason why this measure should be considered.

"A lottery would utilize many idle senior citizens' persons who are willing and able to work within the limits provided by the lottery setup," said Hellmann.

"The homeowner too long has borne the burden of paying for educating our children. He needs relief and needs it now. A state lottery will provide that relief," said Klein and Hellmann.

'Y' planning a 'Happy' occasion

Awards will be presented to proficient athletes in the association's health and physical education department, Leonard Chernus, chairman of the athletic committee, announced.

There will be a golf demonstration by golf pro Don Halpern, instructor at the 'Y'. Varsity basketball awards are scheduled by coach Howard Zatkowsky to Jim Berger, Al Isaacman, Mike Weiner, Jay Wolshen, Bob St. Lifer, Paul Weinstein, Ben Krevsky, Don Kushner and Barry Zimmerman.

SAILING, SAILING—Rutgers Sailing Club members prepare to take-off in three of their fleet of Alphas (top), not for the bounding main but the gusty Raritan, Crews "hike out" (bottom) as they catch a good puff in front of the Scarlet crew's Class of 1914 Boat House.

Avast, ye Scarlet mates 150 in Rutgers' Sailing Club

Most young men and women who come to Rutgers think that a mark is something you get from a professor, solving more, nothing less.

But those who join the Rutgers Sailing Club soon learn that it has another meaning. In boat racing a mark is defined as "any object specified in the sailing instructions which a yacht must round or pass on a required side."

Although the Sailing Club's fleet of 12-foot, sloop-rigged Alphas would hardly be termed yachts, in their frequent regattas they are governed by the same rules as contenders for the America's Cup.

Loosely organized some 15 years ago, the Sailing Club led a rather desultory existence until 1963 when a group of energetic students took hold. As faculty adviser they recruited an agricultural biochemist, Dr. Mac Lean J. Babcock, who, with his wife, combines the love of sailing with the gift of working with young people.

Their interest in sailing brought a ready response from Dr. Mason W. Gross, president of the university, a former college crewman and a devotee of sailing. Through him the Sailing Club was granted the use of a portion of the Rutgers crew area "on the banks of the old Raritan" along with a storage shed and float.

Since then, year by year, the club has improved its facilities, added to its fleet, increased its activities and enlarged its membership.

Dave Franzel, this year's commodore, proudly points to a roster of some 150 as making the club "the largest coeducational non-religious group on campus."

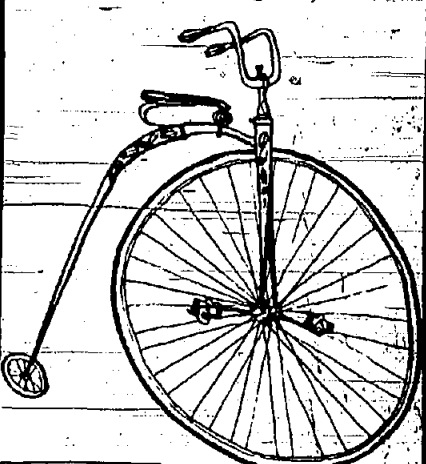

THE CLUB HAS a strong social aspect, holding spring and fall socials and organizing dances and canoe races as fund-raising projects to supplement its dues and a modest allotment from student activities funds.

The major goal on which members' eyes are set now is construction of a boat house with rest rooms and other facilities. At present the boats are stored outside, and members and guests must scale the heights to the Douglas campus to find rest rooms.

The club holds weekly meetings at which films are shown, instructional chalk talks given, and schedules arranged for participation in more than 30 regattas each year, some on the cramped sailing area afforded by the Raritan, and many as far away as Annapolis and Long Island Sound.

Sailingwise, perhaps the club's proudest accomplishment came last year when its crews defeated Rutgers' arch-rival Princeton on Carnegie Lake. They won four races in succession after losing the opener, and went on to place third in the Middle Atlantic.

DISC(U.S.) JOCKEY—Gary Haydu, field events specialist for the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School track team.

So far, a perfect year for Bulldog track team

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School track team marched to its sixth straight victory by defeating David Brearley of Kentworth, 87-39. After Dayton meets Westfield today in Westfield, the Bulldogs challenge Gov. Livingston next Tuesday in a home contest starting at 3:30 p.m.

Against Kentworth, Dayton swept the 440, 880 and the discus. Mike Robinson led the way in the 440 with Joe Rapuano and Bruce Smith following him. Keith Thelle was the Bulldog first place finisher in the 880, while Dale Yadosky finished second and Bob Friender third. Bruce Zabelski won the discus.

With Charley Foster and Carl Mende second and third—

Jim Robinson and Bob Sasse finished 1-2 in the 100 while Sasse won the 220. Junior Mark George won the mile with sophomore Warren Schlemper placing second. Another sophomore, Gary Street, won the two-mile event.

In the remaining field events, the Bulldog trackmen continued their fine performances. Bill Keller won the javelin and Dave Pierson took a third in the pole vault. Gary Haydu and Mende finished first and second in the shot put, while Jim Robinson was second in the low hurdles and first in the high jump.

Larry Stewart, the Bulldogs' best hurdler, won in the high hurdles and in the broad jump. Senior Mike Davis was second in the broad jump.

With six meets now completed, the Bulldogs have scored 80 or more points in the four-of-six meets, Dayton's widest margin to victory has been 80 points (against Roselle Park) and its slimmest margin has been 22 points (New Providence).

One big reason for success has been the team's balanced strength. In most events this season Dayton has either swept or had at least two scorers. Against Kentworth, the Bulldogs won 12 of 14 events and had at least two men in the top three in seven events. With athletes such as these competing for Springfield, it's easy to see why the Bulldogs are undefeated.

Bulldogs drop pair to Scotch Plains to dim Watchung Conference hopes

2 games back; at Hillside next

BY ARNOLD GERST
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School baseball team dropped a doubleheader to Scotch Plains, 3-1 and 8-1, at home Saturday. The Bulldogs will meet Hillside tomorrow (away) and next Tuesday at Metisel Field, starting at 3:30 p.m.

By losing the twin bill to the hard-hitting Raiders, Dayton's chances for a Watchung Conference championship are greatly diminished. The Bulldogs are now 2-2 in the conference, 4-2 over-all.

Dayton's Steve Jupa opposed Raider Dave Klastava in the first inning, taking a 1-0 lead. Jupa led off by drawing a base on balls. He advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Joel Millman and came home on Bob Janukowicz' solid single to right. Klastava pitched out of the inning.

Jeff Frey opened the Raiders third by rifting a single up the middle. After he stole second, Tony Chuffo, who had five hits in the doubleheader, singled Frey home to tie the score at 1-1.

With Jupa still on the mound in the fifth inning, the Raiders scored the deciding runs. After Joe Lanza popped out to Bulldog third baseman Dave Mintman, Chuffo singled to left field, was wild-pitched to second and raced home as Colton Helbig singled to center. Helbig, on an alert Bulldog defensive play, was thrown out as he tried to stretch his hit into a double. Lee Fusselman reached first on an error, and second on a wild pitch. Klastava, helping his own cause, singled Fusselman home for the final run of the game.

The Bulldogs did not make another serious threat to score until the seventh inning. Rich Falcone walked and advanced to second as Mitch Wolff raced to first on an error. Phil Stokes laid down a sacrifice bunt. Jupa hit a smash toward right field but Fusselman, the second baseman, leaped high in the air to snag the ball and immediately threw to second for a double play to end the game.

DANNY D'ANDREA and the visitors' Jim McDeDe were the opposing pitchers in the second. D'Andrea was shelled in the first inning when Scotch Plains jumped off to a 4-0 lead. Cuffo walked to start the game and reached second on another wild pitch. Lanza hit a slow roller in the infield and was safe at first base. Helbig walked to lead the bases. Ken Green then blasted a triple to left center, scoring three runs. Fusselman's sacrifice fly scored Green with the Raiders' fourth run. McDeDe and Rick Todaro fled out to end the inning.

After Janukowicz drove in a run in the third inning for Dayton, McDeDe settled down and became very effective. The Raiders did not score again until the sixth inning. McDeDe doubled and scored on a Bulldog error. With Dave Cohen relieving, Dennis Wiscont singled to put runners on first and third. Jeff Frey hit a long home run to left field and Scotch Plains led, 8-1.

Essentially, the Bulldogs must now try to battle back and hope Scotch Plains can be overtaken. Dayton is now two games out of first place and cannot afford to lose any more games in the Watchung Conference.

Track, field clinic set this Saturday; championship meet slated next week

Plans for a training program for girls and boys in track and field events, to be followed by official competition for athletes up to the age of 15, were announced this week by the Springfield Recreation Department. All events will take place at Metisel Field.

This is the fourth year for this program. Last year 118 boys and 98 girls took part in the clinic and the championship meet. The clinic will be held this Saturday morning at 9. Fundamentals, rules and procedures for the different events will be explained and demonstrated for girls and boys in each age-group. The township championship track and field meet will be staged the following Saturday morning, May 10. Girls and boys will be divided into the following groups: bantam, 9 and under; midgets, 10 and 11; juniors, 12 and 13; and intermediates, 14 and 15. Aiding the Recreation Department in planning and operating the program are staff members of the physical education departments at the Florence Gaudineer School and Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Edward J. Ruby, recreation director, is in charge of this AAU Junior Olympic track program. Marty Taglienti and William Jones, head track coach and assistant coach, respectively, at the high school, will assist in the program.

David W. Brown will serve for the fourth year as the director of the clinic and the championship. Brown will be assisted again by 15 local men who will see that the young athletes will be properly supervised.

Winners of the township championships will be eligible to compete in the district championships Saturday, May 17, at Woodbridge.

Events for the various age groups:
Bantams, 9 and under — 50 yard dash, standing long jump, baseball throw and 220-yard relay.

Midgets, 10 and 11 — 50 yard dash (Girls only), 75-yard dash (boys only), 100-yard dash, standing long jump, running long jump, running high jump, baseball throw and 440-yard relay.

Juniors, 12 and 13 — 50 yard dash (Girls only), 75-yard dash (boys only), 100-yard dash, running long jump, running high jump, running 175-foot Jump (Boys only), baseball throw, 440-yard relay and a special 440-yard walk (Boys only).

Intermediates, 14 and 15 — 100-yard dash, 440-yard dash (girls only), 880-yard run (boys only), 50-yard low hurdles (girls only), 120-yard low hurdles (boys only), running long jump, running high jump, 440-yard relay. It was urged that all the athletes compete in all events they can during the clinic. At the end of the clinic, registration forms can be filled out for the championship meet the following Saturday morning.

State railroads: remnant of past?

According to the New Jersey Department of Transportation, commuting by railroad may be a thing of the past in a few years.

In the 1968 master plan for "the way things are going," the obsolete commuter fleet of the Erie-Lackawanna and Jersey Central Railroads could be out of service in a few years. It takes more than a year to obtain new equipment. And if it is not replaced in time, new highways now being built may offer some rail commuters a short-lived vision of relief in the key corridors. The railroad financial picture could get worse just when preservation of rail service is most essential.

Rhode Island U. 'lands' Gimelstob

Gerry Gimelstob, who has starred in basketball and baseball, has decided to accept a basketball scholarship at Rhode Island University.

Gimelstob, of 34 Tregon Dr., Springfield, was outstanding on Newark Academy's basketball team last season and the Rhode Island coach called the 5-11, 165-pounder a top college prospect.

Gimelstob, whose brother, Barry, is the coach of South Side High School's state Group III championship team, led Newark Academy to a 17-7 record this season with 504 points, an average of 28 a game. He made 53 percent of his field goals, shot a torrid 83 percent from the free throw stripe and had the highest scoring average in Essex County.

The 18-year-old athlete is off to a brisk start with the Minutemen baseball team, batting .345 and driving in five runs in his first four games.

Gimelstob was a reserve basketball player with Weequahic High's undefeated state championship basketball team as a sophomore and junior. After performing with the Indians, he transferred for his senior year to Clifford Scott, where he led the Scotties with a 16-point average.

Avant-garde media show at museum

A radically changed conception of the art object is presented to viewers in the New Media: New Methods exhibition of avant-garde art opening Sunday at the Montclair Art Museum.

The new media are plastic, aluminum, wood, light and computer. Industrial processes as well as manual forces, such as magnetism, are utilized. Pieces occupy floor space, wall space, and sometimes both at once, redefining painting and sculpture.

The works are by 41 young artists. Representing long recognized modern innovators are Don Judd, Robert Morris, John Chamberlain and Andy Warhol. Among those who put industrial materials, such as neon, plexiglas, urethane, vinyl to new uses are Craig Kauffman, Les Levine, Billy Al Bengston and Eva Hesse.

The exhibition was organized by the Museum of Modern Art. It will be on view in Montclair through May 25.
