Overnight parking ban to take effect Sunday morning

Town acts to ease driveway problems

GETTING TOGETHER — Members of an all-white Florence Gaudineer School class and an all-black class from West Kinney Junior High School in Newark shared observations and thoughts while touring Spanish Harlem last Tuesday. The two classes, brought together by the mini-grant program of Mrs. Norma Levine, visited a street market in the

BY ARNER GOLD
Mayor Philip Del Vecchio on Tuesday reminded local residents that the new ordinance forbidding overnight parking on all township streets will go into effect on Sunday morning. Speaking to an audience of a dozen citizens at the Township Committee meeting at Town Hall, he warned everyone not to risk fines by leaving cars on the street between 2 and 6 a.m.

At the same time, the governing body introduced an amendment to the zoning code to ease the problem of widening driveways to keep cars off the street. The new measure will drop the two-foot clearance now required between driveway and side property line in areas zoned for 60-foot frontage.

The restriction, however, will still apply to homes built in the future in 60-foot zones. The rules are unchanged in 75-foot and 120-foot zones.

Several committeemen also commented on problems to be forced by residents who might have overnight company with no other place to park but in the street and those who have ordered wider driveways but have not had the work done.

The officials, without specifically saying that there would be exceptions to the law, said that residents who call the police with such problems would be able to work out "special arrangements."

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the committee voted final approval for three ordinances and inroduced three others, with final votes scheduled for June 24.

An amendment was approved to the municipal salary ordinance, raising the pay for special police officers from $2.50 to $2.75, and setting a salary of $6,500 per year for ungraded patrolmen.

A bond issue was approved, calling for expenditure of $46,500 for improvements to Kew drive, including curbing, repaving and installation of storm sewers. Some $7,000 is expected to be recovered from the developer of an adjoining tract.

The committee also voted to spend $2,400 on repairing and renovating the fire houses. The measures introduced were:

—Demolish a vacant house on Township-owned property on Center street, next to the municipal garage, so the land could be used for storing equipment.

—Spend $12,500 of swim pool funds to improve the pool property and purchase such items as chairs, tables, lights and public address speakers.

—Spend $3,500 on repair of sidewalks throughout the township, particularly those cracked by tree roots. The committee noted that the township could be held liable for injuries caused by defective sidewalks.

THE GOVERNING BODY voted official commendation of five young people who are retiring from the Springfield Teen Council as they grad-

Sharing experiences in a city-wide classroom

By MARK KUPPERMAN
Just before blind and black Stevie Wonder was introduced to the packed matinee audience in Harlem's Apollo Theater, the energetic emcee told what he expected was an all-black audience to welcome a special group of "brothers."

"Everybody gives a welcome to Springfield and Newark, New Jersey."

Survey dealing with expansion begun by board

A detailed study of a school expansion program recommended by its consultant has been started by the Board of Education of the Union County Regional High School District.

The study follows a series of public meetings which were held to hear Dr. Henry J. Risetto of Columbia University present his report to the school board and residents of the six constituent communities.

The Board of Education met Tuesday with the consultant, Avery W. Ward, board president, said additional meetings will be called to evaluate the survey findings that recommend an expansion program at each of the four high schools to provide needed classroom space and other facilities over the next decade.

Ward emphasized that the Board of Education has reached no decision yet on whether to accept, reject or alter all or any part of the report.

"The recommendations are Dr. Risetto's alone. The board will continue to meet to come up with an expansion proposal to present to the voters. When we do, additional public hearings will be held throughout the district to hear the public's views," Ward said.

Representatives of the local boards of education in the six communities of Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kentwood, Springfield and Mountainside, are scheduled to meet with the Regional Board tonight at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, to discuss Dr. Risetto's findings.

Town voters name leaders in districts for 2 major parties

Voters in last week's primary election named county committeemen for both major parties in each election district, in addition to picking nominees for local, county and state offices.

Named by the local Republicans were:

District 1, William A. Ruocco of 26 Joanne way and Lucille Conzolo of 10 Joanne way;

District 2, Jerome W. Kraemer of 67 Garden oval and Patricia D. Helmbach of 162 Linden ave.;

District 3, Stephen A. Dawson of 317 Morris ave. and Margaret A. McClatchey of 57-B Mountain ave.;

District 4, Richard A. Holmes of 27 Moler ave. and Rita H. Otto of 3 Donna rd.;

District 5, Rudolph R. Albert of 14 Dayton ct. and Bettina M. Frost of 126 Salzer st.;

District 6, John C. Keefe of 36 Park lane and Pauline Connor of 18 Troy dr.;

District 7, Arthur H. Buehrer of 135 Hawthorne ave. and Alice E. Lorimer of 134 Hawthorne ave.;

District 8, Harold H. and Beverly Liebeskind of 1 Dogwood ter.;

District 9, no petition filed;

District 10, David B. Zurav of 1 Archibridge lane and Lois Filreis of 91 Evergreen ave.;

District 11, Albert H. Lissner of 4 Essex rd. and Rita M. Natiello of 53 Beverly rd.;

District 12, Angelo Monza of 22 Ronald Mild applause.

"C'mon, Springfield and Newark, stand up!" Fifty-three students stood. The 13 and 14-year-olds gave themselves a welcome with cheer and smile. Then they went wild laughing, singing, singing while Stevie Wonder did his thing on harmonica, electric organ and drums. And with the raspy voice that has gone blue since the time the blind performer was known as Little.

In the dark, sound-blended atmosphere of Springfield's Florence Gaudineer School and the all-black class from West Kinney Junior High School in Newark were united. Not because they were hearing a message on brotherhood or because they needed each other to survive, but because they were sharing something.

"They still weren't sitting in black-and-white next-to-each-other couples, but they were together. It was so dark, you couldn't tell if the kid sitting next-to-you was green or orange. Everybody singing along. Everybody doing a seated version of his favorite dance movement. Every head broken up by a smile.

IT WAS A MILLION MILES away from the morning, when nobody really had any "closeness" or spare.

"Yeah, the white kids seem all right," said Jimmy from Newark. "But we don't think the same way about everything."

A white Springfield girl said, "We've gotten used to it. There's a lot of defenses to break down."

The comments came at 10 a.m. last Wednesday as the two classes stood inside and outside a New York City housing project, waiting for the next command for the group to move. Youngsters from both classes said they had tried to "keep talk going" but both classes acknowledged bigotry within their own ranks.

So the defenses, what some of the kids called "walls," didn't come tumbling down. But there were chances to find holes in the walls, to look through the walls and to decide it was safe to climb up and/or over.

For four days, the two classes shared a chartered bus and state funds to tour diverse ethnic sites in Manhattan. It was the idea of Mrs. Norma Levine, an intense local educator, who teaches social studies at the Gaudineer School. And it was cooperation from her Newark counterpart, Mrs. Marlene Westbrook. The week ended with a day of discussion and evaluation at Gaudineer.

Under the title of an "Interracial Experiment in Interracial Understanding," the four days ran the New York ethnic gamut from Katz's Jewish delicatessen to Spanish Harlem to soul food to Chinatown to the United Nations School. And, once in a while, when they weren't listening to someone teaching them, the kids visited each other.

A tall and blond Springfield girl couldn't say enough about a Newark boy with his brownie camera. "He's really cute. He's great."

And there was, "Take a picture of us together," will ya?"

While, at the other end of the relationships, there were slurs of black kids with black white boys nothing but the hands of their white girlfriends: a separation.

ON WEDNESDAY, Black Harlem day, things started with a tour of a New York City housing project. To put it their way, "it was a drag. Not so much that it was boring as the perspective. It was viewed from the Newark class, the project wasn't that much different from the majority of their homes in the Hayes and Scudder projects. And, to the township class, it wasn't the Harlem of rats and junkies."

"Aren't we going to talk with the people, you know, in the slums," a Springfield boy asked Mrs. Levine.

Instead, the housing units with a tour of a boiler room and an empty apartment, Adam Clayton Powell's church, a mix-up at lunch and a community center. And, of course, the Apollo. But that came later.

After the housing project, the kids marched

Citizens, spare that junk; it's art

"How few of us realize what potential beauty we harbor in our attic, cellar and garage," a spokesman for the Recreation Department said recently. "Who knows what part of a fabulous creation is hiding in a sewing machine drawer or knitting basket. Even wood scraps and leftover planks can become art."

For local children, these things, as well as cigar boxes, jars, pieces of fabric, jewelry, buttons, yarn or pieces of masonite can become the source of creative inspiration.

Mrs. William Johnson of the Recreation Department said she will accept these articles, or any others, at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center. "Don't be surprised," she said, "if you got some of them back in another form after your child has achieved a creative metamorphosis on the playground."

Arts, crafts for all scheduled at pool during the summer

An active arts and crafts program is planned at the municipal pool this summer to provide varied creative activities for children, young adults and adult women. Each weekday afternoon from 2 to 4 (weather permitting), there will be supervised arts and crafts program for children from 6 years of age and up. Many usual summer craft projects will be made, but new ideas and materials will be introduced and children will be urged to be creative when possible. Often useful projects will be created out of throw-away material.

An adult group, to be known as the Pool-side Crafters will meet twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday, from 1 to 3 p.m. Mrs. Lillian Johnson will direct this group and plans to have the "kind of craft projects that will provide an opportunity to be creative while relaxing in the sun." This can include rug hooking, wall hangings, weaving, beading, flower making, beadwork and seed mosaics. The projects will be determined by the size and interest of the group.

In order to plan projects and anticipate the need for material, Mrs. Johnson asked any pool member interested in the Pool-side Crafters to phone her at 376-5884. There will be no fee for joining the group. In some cases, members may have to bring some of their own materials, depending upon the project.

Anti-drug group

The Parents Against Drug Abuse will meet Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center, Church Mall at Academy Green. It was announced this week by Ed Deumer, acting chairman. He urged all interested local residents to join the group, which grew out of the program on dangers of narcotics conducted at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

IN THE SWIM ALMOST — Cathie Bove can hardly wait for the official opening of the Municipal Swimming Pool, Saturday, June 21, at 11 a.m. Members may pick up their badges at the Recreation Department in the Sarah Bailey Civic Center, Church Mall at Academy Green, starting Monday morning. The pool will be open all week from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Fireside Group leaving hearth to sponsor strawberry festival

"Strawberries, games, rides, food—fun for all will be the order of the day on Saturday when the annual Strawberry Festival will be held on the parking lot of the Presbyterian Parish House, 37 Church Mall, a church spokesman said this week. "An invitation is extended to all in the community to join in this day of fun, which will be held from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m."

In addition to home grown strawberries, the Festival will offer rides and games for "youngsters of all ages." Members of the Fireside Group, which sponsors the festival, will man the various rides and games. They include: whirl-a-paint, Mrs. Anton Campanella; darts and penny toss, Mrs. Ronald Wendlandt; Mrs. MacGregor Logan beat bag; Hamelore Rathert; hole-in-one, Ronald Wendlandt; steady hand, William Smith and James Short; water race, Anton Campanella; ring toss, Mrs. William Smith; "dunk-um," Fred Schenk, Stanley Kroeger and Donald Hedstrom; fish bowl, Mrs. Fred Schenk, Debbie Chickenger; fire engine and whip rider, Wayne Peer and balloons, Warren Smith and Charles Roth.

A lunch stand will serve hot dogs, hamburgers, pizza, soda, strawberries and ice cream and cotton candy. James Beffert, chairman of the food table, will be assisted by Robert Bennett, Donald Auer, Mrs. James Short, Barbara Beffert, Cathy Smith, Jerry Short, Mrs. Warren Sim, Mrs. Wayne Peer and James Marshall.

Mrs. Sven Hedstrom and Mrs. James Beffert will be in charge of the home-baked goods which will be on sale. The white elephant table will be under the supervision of Mrs. Donald Auer, Mrs. John Phillips and Mrs. Robert Bennett.

George Ulrich, president of the Fireside Group, is serving as chairman of the festival and has coordinated the plans for the day. Behind-the-scenes committee chairmen include: prizes, Anton Campanella; advertising and promotion, Ronald Wendlandt; Howard Chickenger and James Marshall; construction, William Smith and John Zabelski; finance, James Short; strawberries, Howard Chickenger and kitchen detail, Mrs. George Ulrich.

Saturday's affair will be the sixth strawberry festival sponsored by the Fireside Group, couples' club of the church. Since its inception the festival has been a major event in the church calendar, since it provides a day of fun and fellowship as well as providing a means of raising funds for the benevolence work of the Fireside Group.

Mayor's Day golf scheduled July 31

The Springfield Mayor's Day golf tournament will be held Thursday, July 31, at Balmat Golf Club. For the past 11 years, the outing has honored mayors through contributions to the Springfield Scholarship Fund.

Through the efforts of the Springfield Mayor's Day Golf Committee, a $500 scholarship will be awarded to a Springfield student, chosen for scholastic ability by the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School faculty. It was announced this week by Rudy Figlio, chairman of the committee.

DR. VICTOR TUMA

Jefferson awards a medical degree

PHILADELPHIA — Dr. Victor Tuma of Springfield was graduated at the 145th Jefferson Medical College commencement last Friday.

Dr. Tuma is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Tuma of 68 Tooker ave., Springfield. He attended Holy Trinity High School in Westfield and took his pre-medical degree at Providence College. He was a member of the Clee Club, the Friar's Club, Delta Epsilon Sigma and Alpha Epsilon Delta. At Jefferson, he was a member of Phi Alpha Sigma and Kappa Beta Phi.

Dr. Tuma is married to the former Peggy-Ann Sharon Ferugia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Ferugia, of 22 Skylark rd., Springfield. Dr. Tuma will intern at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children in Philadelphia.

Ryan and Hellring awarded degrees

Ohio State University has announced that two Springfield residents were among the 4,192 students to receive degrees on completion of the spring term. The commencement speech was delivered by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew who, along with comedian Bob Hope, was awarded an honorary degree.

One of the Springfield residents, Lawrence C. Hellring, received a bachelor of fine arts degree, while Robert J. Ryan received a bachelor of arts degree on Saturday.

ate from high school. Committeeman Arthur M. Falkner said that the Teen Council had aided in the renovation of the Sarah Bailey Civic Center and that members now help supervise maintenance there.

Those commended were Warren Danziger, Teen Council president; David Pierson, Raymond Haines, Peggy Schubert and Mary Ann Hise.

The committee also commended Robert Butyset, an employee of the public works department, on his graduation from Newark College of Engineering and his passing of the examination for a surveyor's license.

During the public discussion period at the close of the meeting, all commiteemen pledged support for the American Field Service Operation Bus Stop, July 13 to 16, when the township again will play host to a group of exchange students from all parts of the world.

Mayor Del Vecchio declared that on his daughter's behalf, he wanted to place a request for his house guest for the week—a blond boy from Sweden, six foot two, like the one who stayed with the family last year.

Gershwin granted Lafayette degree

EASTON, Pa. — Zelman Mark Gershwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Naham Gershwin of 238 Morris ave., Springfield, N.J., was graduated Friday from Lafayette College. He received a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering.

Gershwin was an officer of Theta Xi fraternity and Hillel Society, served as captain of the fencing team, was named an outstanding athlete by the Outstanding Americans Committee, played in intramural sports and was a member of the Knights of the Round Table, Senior Investments Committee, Interfraternity Council Executive Committee, Varsity L Club, Freshman and Sophomore Class Councils and American Society of Civil Engineers.

A 1965 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, he will join A. C. Lichtenstein & Associates Inc. in Ridgefield as an engineering consultant and will attend Seton Hall University on a part-time basis, working toward an MBA degree.

Bus leaving ... for Billy Graham

The administrative board of Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church, Church Hall at Academy Green, has chartered a bus for persons interested in attending the Billy Graham Crusade on Monday at Madison Square Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. David Brady, youth advisors in charge of the event, announced that the bus will leave the church at 6 p.m. The rally is scheduled from 7:30 to 9:30.

Reservations can be made at church services Sunday or by calling the church office, 376-1695. The Billy Graham New York Crusade will continue through Sunday June 22. Further information may be secured from the local congregation.

Similarly, a young adult group will be formed which will meet Monday and Wednesday afternoons. The young adult group will experiment with contemporary art forms and the use of unusual materials to create paintings, collages, mobiles, sculptures, as well as useful crafts. Boys and girls are welcome to join the group, she added.

Mrs. Johnson will require a list of names of anyone interested. There is no fee and no obligation. "This is for your own creative fun," she said, "but I must have your names if you are interested, so I can plan projects and get materials."

cation-sponsored workshop, the history course titles have been changed to American Studies I and II, with the four major semester units of study centering around the development of political institutions, values, foreign policy and economics.

The unit on "An Examination of American Values" represents one-half of the American Studies I program and one-quarter of the entire course, according to Pauline Keith, social studies coordinator.

"The reaction has been very favorable," Miss Keith said. "The classes are dealing with subjects uppermost in the students' minds."

According to Miss Keith, there has been an attempt to examine the various factors which have influenced the development of values in the past.

IN AN ARTICLE prepared for the official publication of the New Jersey Council for the Social Studies, August W. Glebelius, social studies teacher at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, said the course of study was developed to "enable the student to be more understanding of other peoples' values and be able to deal more effectively with value conflicts affecting him."

He pointed out that the instructional material has been designed to present students "with concrete raw materials of human experience."

The three major areas within the semester work on values, during the sophomore year, includes the study of the conflicts that exist between rural and urban values in this country, the factors determining the assimilation of American sub-cultures or minority groups, and dissent and protest in a free society.

The contributions of immigrants, the historical factors contributing to the non-assimilation of the Negro in America, along with an evaluation of the civil rights movement today, are all part of study of values.

SUPPLEMENTARY teaching materials were also made available this year. Three art sections, including one each on colonial architecture and frontier painting were included for use by the teacher in discussing rural and urban life. Also, folk and popular music were used to aid in the presentation of life as it existed in this country in the past.

The effectiveness of the revised curriculum will be the subject of another workshop this summer, under the direction of Miss Keith. Social studies teachers throughout the Regional District will also continue to develop their own instructional material.

One textbook firm which has offered to publish the teachers' material in paperback form said in a letter to Miss Keith:

"You and your committee are to be congratulated on the program you are developing. The reading and resource material for the unit on American values reflect thorough research based on a sound outline."

Seniors at Dayton spared final exams if grades are high

Principal Robert F. LaVanture, this week announced that Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will adopt a senior class final examination exemption program this month. To be excused from a final examination in a full-year subject, a senior must have 17 quality points based on four points for an A, three for a B, and two for a C, over a six-marking period schedule. The sixth marking period grade will be determined on work completed as of June 4. In addition, the student must have no D in the six marking periods.

During the periods when exams are being given, all seniors, whether taking the exams or not, will be required to be in school. LaVanture stressed that if the students do not cooperate by proper attendance, exemptions will be revoked the following day.

Those exempt from an exam will have four alternatives:

The senior may take the exam anyway. The grade will count and be reported.

The senior may be assigned to a quiet study with regular study hall conditions prevailing.

The senior may choose a music study hall, listening to a program of selected music.

The senior may attend the discussion group conducted on the exam day, as outlined below: June 9, Monday, Russian Literature seminar-Mr. Kropnicki; June 10, Tuesday, linear programming and game theory, Mr. Baker; June 11, Wednesday, the new left, Mr. Glebelius; June 12, Thursday, music, Mr. Kimball; June 16, Monday, religion, Mr. Westman; June 17, Tuesday, revolution in 20th Century communication, Mr. Carl; June 18, Wednesday, marriage, Dr. Burke.

Commencement exercises for the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School graduating class will be held on the front lawn of the school at 7 p.m., next Thursday, June 19.

John Janukowicz of Springfield, 45; recreation official

John F. Janukowicz of 69 Highland ave., Springfield, who died June 4 at Overlook Hospital at the age of 45, was long active in Springfield recreational groups.

He had been an official, manager and coach in the Youth Major Baseball League, Babe Ruth League and Recreation Department basketball leagues.

Mr. Janukowicz was born in New York City and moved to Springfield from Newark 14 years ago. He was in charge of labor relations for Western Electric in Kearny, where he had been employed since 1942.

A High Mass of Requiem was offered Saturday at St. James Church. The funeral was from Smith and Smith (Sulbarban), 415 Morris ave., Springfield.

Survivors include his wife, the former Carol Andrews; two sons, John D. and Robert, and a daughter, Nancy, all at home; his mother, Mrs. Katherine Klementowicz of Brooklyn; two brothers, John V. and Benjamin, both of Brooklyn; and a sister, Mrs. Ann Krynos of Ho-Ho-Kus.

Dave Brown, coach of the Springfield Junior Olympic track and field team and director of the local program, said he was very pleased with the "fine performances" of the local athletes in the program. This program was under the sponsorship of Ed Ruby, Springfield recreation director.

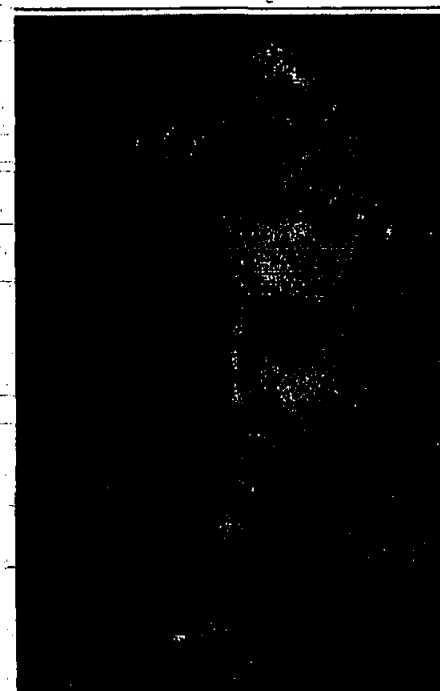

At the local championships on May 10, the girls and boys presented to Ruby a bronze Olympic-style medal with the following inscription on the reverse side: "Presented to Edward J. Ruby — Our Champion — From the girls and boys of the Springfield Junior Olympic Track and Field program — 1969."

Whitlock graduates

Morristown Prep School announced that a Springfield resident was among the 52 members of the senior class to receive diplomas, Leonard T. Whitlock, of 436 Morris ave., Springfield was graduated Saturday in the Senior Circle of the campus. In the fall, he will enter the Florida Institute of Technology.

LARGEST CLASS—Three Springfield students were among 230 graduates who received diplomas Monday from Bethel College, McKenzie, Tenn., largest graduating class in the college's 127 years. They are David Peacock, left; Kenneth Oliva, right, and John Schleupner. Their parents are Mrs. William Peacock, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Oliva, and Mr. and Mrs. John Schleupner.

MISSOURI VALLEY COLLEGE, Marshall, Mo., awarded bachelor of science degrees May 31 to Jack E. Blint, left, and James E. Lies, both of Springfield. Blint is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Blint of 32 Crest pl., and Lies is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark E. Lies of 17 Tooker pl.

New York trip

to Public School 92, about two blocks away. In succession, they walked through shining and colorfully painted hallways, peeked into open classroom doors, sat in classroom seats and walked around again before reaching the Harlem streets again.

If there was any mistake in the tour's concept it was this—moving too fast and not getting close enough to what they were shown. And, except for a non-verbal catharsis at the Apollo, there wasn't time to dig into anything for a common understanding, at least until all the pieces were put together at the final session Friday.

At the Abyssinian Baptist Church on 138th street, the Rev. Dr. David Licorish, associate minister, talked about his church's history and praised his superior, Dr. Powell. Although there was no evidence of cultural shock among the youngsters, Dr. Licorish's voice went a little sad and disillusioned when a Newark girl asked him to explain what he meant by the Ten Commandments.

"Haven't you ever heard of the Ten Commandments?" the minister asked.

The girl said that she had not.

Dr. Licorish started to quote the Commandments to the girl.

"Oh, yeah," the girl said. "I've heard of some of them."

The next stop after the church was the Mayflower Restaurant at 125th and Lexington. Earlier, the group had made a half-hour tour of the Joseph Kennedy Memorial Center, a community center with varied purposes.

THEN, AT 3 P.M., the Apollo Theater. For 90 cents each, the kids saw The Descendants (neo-hippy-rock blacks), The Peps ("Direct from Motor City" and the 1950s), The Five Five (actually the Five Four for the afternoon show), Peaches and Herb (blue jeans that drew laughter rather than blushes) and Stevie Wonder.

The kids had met each other several times in the past year. Since Mrs. Levine's migrant was approved by the state, the two classes had visited each other's schools and dined at their family's homes. Earlier during last week's tour, they had visited Jewish prayer shawl factories and Puerto Rican tenements, and the next day they went to Chinatown.

But the success of Mrs. Levine's experiment was obvious when the kids left the Apollo, music still vibrating on their eardrums. There was talk.

Without immediate supervision, as they walked along the Harlem street past gutted buildings and bars, the kids were talking.

"Wow, Stevie Wonder's great."

"What did you think of Peaches and Herb?"

"In coming back when the Ten Commandments are there," a Springfield girl said.

And, on the bus, a moving life-line between the extra-official school program and their homes, the talk continued.

If the trip needs to be evaluated, it has to be seen from the wall that the kids know exists. On the bus, a bunch of thoughts and new impressions burst through the wall for a while.

It was a good trip.

Another article next week will review comments by the youngsters at their final evaluation session last Friday.

Donald Lewis receives Yale University degree

Donald Marc Lewis of 385 Milltown rd., Springfield, was awarded a bachelor of arts degree by Yale University, New Haven, Conn., on Monday morning during the 26th commencement held on historic Old Campus.

Yale conferred degrees on approximately 2,400 candidates at the ceremony which was attended by 15,000 persons. The baccalaureate services were held Sunday morning in Woolsey Hall and Senior Class Day exercises took place that afternoon on the Old Campus.

Dayton college acceptances run gamut from Adelphi to Yale for Class of '69

Preliminary survey shows that 480 letters of college acceptance from Adelphi to Yale have been received up to this time by this year's senior class at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield.

Robert F. LaVanture, principal, said that this year's preliminary survey indicates that the 278 students making up the class of 1969 would probably have a higher percentage of post-secondary education enrollment than last year's class, which averaged 84.7 percent. The final survey of acceptance and enrollment of this year's senior class will be completed by the guidance department in September when all final decisions on enrollment will be made.

The survey shows that the class of 1969 has received acceptances from 203 colleges in the United States, with 176 of this total being four-year schools, 13 two-year junior colleges, three nursing schools, and 11 business and technical schools. LaVanture pointed out that the large number of acceptances indicates that many students have been accepted at several colleges and have to make their final choices in the next month.

A special awards assembly will be held in Halsey Hall on Tuesday, June 17, to give out the hundreds of scholarships, prizes and awards that this year's graduating class has earned, the principal added.

Acceptances have been received from the following:

Letters To Editor

Letters to the editor must be submitted no later than Monday of the week they are to appear. They should not exceed 250 words in length and should be typed with double spacing (not all in capital letters, please). All letters must be signed. Writer's name will not be withheld if the letter is of a political nature. This newspaper reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

MODEST PROPOSAL

Well, thank goodness the Springfield League of Women Voters is saving us from ourselves again.

Since the recommendation to the Union County Regional Board of Education was that student population and plant facilities be equal, we are told that town boundaries must not be considered important. Students from Mountain-side and Clark are to be split with friends and brothers and sisters; 75 percent to one school and 25 percent to another. Parochialism, according to Dr. Rissetto, is a highly undesirable condition. To split these towns is necessary for a balance within the Regional system. As mobility is desirable and Parochialism is to be avoided at all costs, may I politely insist that 25 percent of Springfield students be sent to Gov. Livingston; 25 percent of Berkeley Heights students be sent to David Brearley and 25 percent of Kenilworth students be sent to Arthur L. Johnson. Then we will have all the aspects of true equality.

'OMINOUS REALITIES'

After reading the new "guidelines" for protest promulgated by the Regional High School District Board of Education, I would like to register the following comments in an effort to awaken the students of the district to the ominous realities implicit in this new edict.

Because of space limitations, this letter must be limited in scope; rather than expose the portentous absurdities inherent in each "step" of the stated procedure, I will try to present a general critique of the new policy and its implications via a vis the Regional students.

The four "principles" and the five steps of the student grievance policy emblemize the "liberal" totalitarian structure of the Regional school system. Aggrieved students—under this plan—are deemed to fall in their efforts before they even begin.

Their fate is predetermined by a set of ground rules designed to debilitate, alienate, and ultimately frustrate the students within the context of a Kafkaesque procedural labyrinth, constructed to (1) stifle debate; (2) prevent students from confronting—in any meaningful way—the true strengths of administrative power in the district; (3) debilitate the resources and the energy of the students through procedure that could last up to three months.

Moreover, at three different levels, the students are at the mercy of an administrator's personal values, in turn governed by the administrator's personal values, in turn governed by the administrator's vested interest in maintaining the status quo. If the highest administrator, the superintendent, fails to resolve a grievance at "step four," then—and only then—can the student proceed to "step five," i.e., to the elected representatives of the people.

Yet even the democratic veneer of the board is seriously undermined because students are not given the right to appeal a board ruling. Thus, in reality, the students of the district are first confronted with a hierarchy of authoritarian administrators; and finally, they are brought before a body of elected officials whose decision is irrevocable.

The purpose of this ineffectual grievance system is to reinforce the oppressive structure of the entire district. This structure is further buttressed by the board when it writes: "...demonstrations, sit-ins, picketing or other activities which interfere with and disrupt the educational processes will not be tolerated (sic)."

Isn't this democratic? The board and its faceless "staff" have granted themselves the power to peremptorily ban any method of protest threatening to upset the conveyor-belt of the high school knowledge industry.

Does the board have the right to dictate its fascistic regulations to the students of the district? Do the functionaries in the pyramidal structure of the district administration have the right to make the decisions that govern the lives of the district students?

The answer to both questions? No. No, in theory, at any rate. For in reality, the board has absolute control over every student. This power, however, only exists because the students are willing to recognize it; once the students—en masse—withdraw their recognition of and their obedience to the board's power, such power will cease to exist and the students will win the freedom to govern their own lives.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

On behalf of the Springfield Historical Society, I would like to express our deepest appreciation to the Springfield Leader for providing us with such excellent publicity featuring the opening day of the Springfield Historical Society Trail. We had a large turnout of children and adults and undoubtedly the news item and picture which appeared in the Springfield Leader were very much responsible for this interest.

I should also like to again express our sincere gratitude to the many persons who participated in making this event so successful. Their names appeared in a lengthy list in the May 22 issue of the Springfield Leader.

Each person who participated will soon receive a gold certificate, specially inscribed with his or her name, from the Springfield Historical Society.

Since the opening of the trail, many residents and visitors have been inquiring about Springfield, then and now.

Thanks again to all for the very fine cooperation. We are hopeful that all of our efforts will aid residents and visitors to know more about the rich historical background as well as the present day beauty of the township of Springfield. (The special brochure containing the description of the historical sites and the map is available at the Springfield Municipal Building, Springfield Free Public Library and the Springfield Chamber of Commerce.)

HAZEL H. HARDGROVE
President, Springfield Historical Society

NOTE FROM CANDIDATES

On behalf of ourselves and the New Democratic Coalition, we would like to thank the editor and staff of the Springfield Leader for their eminently fair coverage of our activities in the recent primary campaign. We would also like to thank all our supporters for their help and their votes.

The New Democratic Coalition is encouraged by the substantial response to its first attempt at nominating candidates. We are more determined than ever to remain active politically and to continue to sponsor and support qualified candidates who are willing to take a thoughtful position on important issues.

We are hopeful that more Springfield residents will join with us to better our political system.

Building department offers its help in interpreting township regulations

This is the eighth in a series on the municipal zoning and building codes, prepared by the Springfield building department.

The topic for discussion this week is home occupations.

By definition, a home occupation includes dressmaking, millinery operations, conducting of an art studio, tutoring and the giving of musical or dance instructions limited to a single pupil at one time, provided, however, that in any of the above occupations, there shall be no employees and that each occupation be conducted on the ground floor of the structure and shall not exceed a maximum of 250 square feet for such purposes.

A home occupation shall not be construed to include a room or restaurant, the conduct of an animal hospital or kennel, a stable, an automotive repair shop or new or used car sales, a tavern, a mortuary, a store or a trade of business not otherwise permitted. Occupations shall be conducted solely by the resident owner-occupant of the building and no display of advertising, other than a small name plate, and no display of products shall be visible from the street, and no stock-in-trade shall be kept.

No exterior alterations of the principal structure are permitted to carry out the contemplated use.

No sounds shall be audible outside the building stemming from such use.

A home occupation shall provide for a minimum of six parking spaces.

FOR PROFESSIONAL USE, the ordinance reads as follows: The office or studio of a resident physician, dentist, lawyer, architect, engineer, accountant or teacher is permitted as restricted; provided that not more than two persons are employed who are not members of the family, and that such office shall be on the ground floor of the main building and shall not occupy more than one-half of the area of the ground floor of said building.

For the purposes of this paragraph, "teacher" shall be restricted to a person giving individual instruction in academic or scientific subjects to a single pupil at a time.

A professional shall not include the office of any person professionally engaged in the purchase or sale of economic goods.

Teaching instruction, hand instrument or voice instruction, tea-tions, tourist homes, beauty parlors, barber shops, hairdressing or manicuring establishments, real estate offices, convalescent homes, mortuary establishments, and stores, trades or business of any kind not otherwise excepted shall not be deemed to be professional uses.

The professional office of a physician shall not include a biological or other medical testing laboratory.

A minimum of five spaces is required for parking.

Springfield Public Library reports on newest books for local readers

BY EVA P. BROWN

The Springfield Public Library lists the following titles among the books recently acquired:

TRAVEL

"Sicily," by Pierre Sebillan. A brisk but thorough tour of beautiful Sicily, the island of contrasts. Writing with the freshness of personal experience, Sebillan caters for all travelers' tastes with unreserved enthusiasm. Altogether it is a worthy text to complement the impressive illustrations.

"Mexico City," by Robert Payne. This ancient city of majestic past is described in vivid detail by the versatile Payne. Its colorful history, from its earliest days through the coming of the Spanish conquistadors and up to the present time, is written in pure and perceptive prose. An informative, handsome book with stunning photographs by Dick Davis.

ANIMAL LIFE

"Horse," by Hans Reth. A book to please horse lovers of all ages. The many magnificent photographs are accompanied by a short, unusual text.

INVESTIGATION

"The Kennedy Conspiracy," by Paris Flammonde. A startling and thought-provoking book which explores the strange story behind the investigation by New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Garrison's own comments on the subject, his reactions to the criticism directed against him, and notes by his staff of investigators—all combine to give a clear picture of the complicated theory which he believes, and which he continues to attempt to bring before a court of law.

RELATIONSHIPS

"The Intimate Enemy," by Dr. George R. Bach and Peter Wyden. A book which claims to brighten the most personal aspects of your life in a matter of hours. A practical, imaginative, self-training program based on new but thoroughly tested scientific concepts which you can apply to improve relationships with those with whom you are the most intimate.

JUVENILE

"Sally, Star Patient," by Alice Ross Colver. The inspiring story of a spastic paralytic young girl who conquers her handicap and attains everything she dreams of. A delightful romance for young readers.

"Tales From the Ballet," selected and adapted by Louis Untermeyer. A book to inspire, enlighten and delight all who love the ballet. The dramatic plots and haunting fantasies of 20 of the world's best loved ballets unfold in lively fashion, with charming illustrations by Ardis L. Stewart.

"The New Friend," by Charlotte Zolotow. How the hurt and disappointment of a lost friend are overcome will please the very young, to whom this newest story by Miss Zolotow is directed. Pleasing illustrations by Ardis L. Stewart.

Wall Street Notebook

By ARTHUR POLLACK

Cost estimates of a guaranteed annual income program are not meaningful. Not yet. Specific provisions of the Administration's program have not been released. And, therefore, accurate projections of total costs are not possible.

Nevertheless—this much is certain: It will be expensive! And probably much MORE expensive than any preliminary estimates might indicate.

Therefore—the significance to investors is this. When peace is achieved in Vietnam, it is becoming increasingly apparent that there will be no "fiscal dividend." A couple of years ago when economists discussed the prospect of a peaceful resolution of Vietnam... it was generally thought that a substantial portion of the $25-plus billion annual spending for the war could be redirected. For example, there was the possibility of an income tax cut. And the possibility of redeploying some of the defense dollars into other areas.

Now, however, practically no one is talking about a "fiscal dividend." In fact, it's becoming increasingly evident that total government spending is on an inexorable upward curve. When peace is achieved... there will be no dramatic cutback in federal spending. There probably will not even be a substantial cutback in DEFENSE spending. The four-plus years of the war have seriously depleted many supply lines of material. And these will have to be replenished.

And—in addition—a whole new domestic program of social welfare is now on the Administration's launching pad. And the actual spending "shot" awaits only the end of the war.

Thus, from an economics standpoint—the concept of a guaranteed annual income (or negative income tax) must—by definition—be monumentally expensive. And so—contrary to the pre-election belief that President Nixon would opt for more private rather than public spending... it now appears that the center of spending power will continue to remain in Washington.

The result—for investors—is that the President's objective of a continued budget surplus is going to be much more difficult to achieve. And an income tax reduction in the near future is not in the cards.

Hence from a fiscal standpoint... more and more government spending suggests the probability that inflationary pressures will continue. The "Nixon strategy" will be confronted with even more difficulty in breaking the "inflationary psychology" of both consumers and businessmen.

All of this, it would appear, suggests the continuation—into the indefinite future—of a basically inflationary environment. With relatively high interest rates... and still higher common stock prices.

PROFILE -- Dr. Warren M. Davis

Dr. Warren M. Davis has shepherded the most dynamic growth period of the Union County Regional High School system since becoming its superintendent in 1956.

"What can be done?" Dr. Davis said, relaxing in his wood-paneled office in the newer wing of the 32-year-old Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. "We were just opening the first part of the second school," Arthur Johnson Regional High School in Clark. "In fact, I remember school was a week late in opening that year as the final preparations were being made."

"Almost immediately after that," he continued, "we started planning the second stage at Johnson and the third school," Gov. Livingston in Berkeley Heights.

During that time the high school student population of the district was almost tripling from 2,060 in 1956-57 to the present 5,285, and the pressure on facilities mounted. Between 1960 and 1962 alone, Dr. Davis explained, enrollment increased by 900 students.

"We moved into Gov. Livingston in the nick of time in 1960," Dr. Davis said, "but even before the students occupied the building we were planning an addition to the school and the construction of the new school in Kenilworth." David Brearley Regional High School.

Now, with projections of another 1,000 students by 1975 and another 600 to 800 more by 1980 when the population is expected to stabilize, the district is embarking on a major expansion program to accommodate the students and has brought in a private consultant to recommend what steps should be taken.

"THIS IS THE FIRST time a comprehensive report like this has been undertaken," Dr. Davis said, pushing back from his busy desk top and running a hand through his gray-black hair. "Before, I did all the statistical work and the district Board of Education used the data to develop their planning in consultation with their architects and financial advisors."

"But it's always valuable to get an outside view of a situation. You get some new insights," he said.

At a cost of $25,000, the regional school board recently received the expansion recommendation from the consultant, a Columbia University professor prominent in the area of school facilities planning.

It is recommended the physical enlargement of all four school buildings, including some specific facilities such as "resource" libraries and gymnasiums, and the equalization of the size of the schools, which would mean a reshuffling of the student body, especially students from Mountain-side and Clark.

It was mentioned in the report that the Union County Regional High School district ranks second in wealth of the 28 regional high school districts in the state, and in curriculum content takes a back seat to no districts in the country.

Dr. Davis came to lead this sprawling complex, involving the education of the children of six communities, after following a austere, sometimes rocky route, which for many miles wound its way through Ohio, where the superintendent was born, brought up and launched into his career in education.

SPEAKING WITH lingering traces of a Midwestern accent and looking back through steel-rimmed glasses, Dr. Davis recounted the story of the recent move to a fire drill emptied 1,270 Dayton students out into a beautiful spring day, leaving the bustling school in a moment of peaceful silence.

In 1924, by the time Dr. Davis was 16, he was graduating from high school on his way to Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio. After two years there, which gave him credentials in teaching, Dr. Davis took his first post in Dayton Township, Ohio.

Dr. Davis was a one-room school called Netherwood and painted the traditional red color.

"It was a real, honest-to-goodness one-room school all right," Dr. Davis explained. "All eight grades were in it. But as soon as I started teaching, I began taking extension work and then took one semester and one summer off from teaching to get my degree in physics from Ohio University."

From Netherwood School, Dr. Davis went on to teach in village schools in the Belmont County farming area and eventually became a junior-high school principal in Barnesville, a post he held from 1930 to 1940, when he became head of the science department in Steubenville High School.

However, it was in the middle of the Depression that the young Warren Davis was trying to get along as a teacher's pay and getting married. In 1938, after a year of teaching, he was offered a position as a science teacher in the Dayton News, the semi-monthly newspaper at Regional High School.

After two years as head of the science department in Steubenville, Davis, who by this time had received his master's degree in physics from Ohio State University, was called into the service and commissioned a naval lieutenant.

For three years he worked as an electronics expert for the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics in Washington, developing an airborne radar system. He was released a lieutenant commander, and years later retired from the reserves at that rank.

Returning to Ohio, this time with a son, Ted, who was born in 1945, Davis became the high school principal in Alliance and subsequently assistant superintendent of schools there.

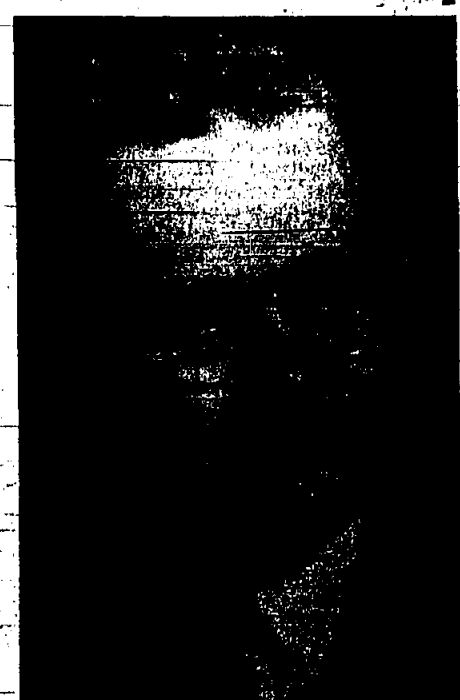

In 1952, the rapidly rising administrator received his PhD degree from Ohio State, and it looked as if Ohio would claim him as one of its own for a lifetime.

But in 1953, the North Plainfield school system knocked on the doctor's door, offering him the principalship to their high school. "I remember," Dr. Davis said, "it was a considerably higher salary that drew me here."

IT WASN'T LONG after that Dr. Davis took on his present post where he is happy, perhaps most importantly, by his professional colleagues. He's on everyone's who's who list: "Whos Who in American Education," "Whos Who in the East" and "American Men of Science."

He is secretary of the prestigious Middle Atlantic States Association of Colleges, the accreditation body, and is in the process of rewriting its bylaws. He is also chairman of various evaluating committees of the association and a member of its Secondary Commission.

He is on the board of directors of a member of the executive committee of the Board of the Columbus Boychoir, Princeton, where his son, Ted, attended grammar school until his voice changed in the eighth grade.

He is a member of the industry-education committee of the Eastern Union County Chamber of Commerce.

From 1958 to 1961, he served as a member of the state education commission, a committee for the study of technical institutions and community colleges.

He has published articles in such educational periodicals as Ohio Schools, the Math Teacher, NJEA Review, NASSP Bulletin, American School Board Journal, Science Education, School Science and Mathematics.

AMONG THE ORGANIZATIONS to which Dr. Davis belongs are the N.J. and N.J. Schoolmasters' Clubs, the N.J. Council of Education, the National Association for Research in Science Teaching, the New York Academy of Sciences, all the national and state education, principals and school administrators' associations and the Kiwanis and Masons.

In 1960 he was awarded a plaque from the Millburn-Springfield-Kiwanis Club for his outstanding leadership as president during the year. It is among the sprinkling of mementos that decorate his green-carpeted office.

He is a pastmaster of the Masons and a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The array of activities which the 39-year-old educator participates in is overwhelming as that arbitrary cut-off date of 35 approaches. "Being 61 simply means that I'm 61," he laughed, looking back on his career in education.

But, he implied, don't count on it.

"Most superintendents move in three directions," he said, ticking them off on his fingers. "They either move to another district, usually larger than the one they are in, and become superintendents there; retire, or take a college teaching post."

Weighing these moves, Dr. Davis throws out the first two. "There are not many districts bigger than this one," he said, "and I always have. Superintendents have a great deal of experience to contribute to the curriculum of any teacher's college."

AS A COLLEGE TEACHER, Dr. Davis already has solid credentials. He taught secondary curriculum as a consultant at Rutgers from 1957 until 1962, when "things just got too busy here." He has also spent summers teaching at his alma mater, Muskingum and Ohio State.

Apparently, Dr. Davis is saving his love of fishing for a post-retirement activity. Instead of turning it into a full-time pursuit, "Once and awhile I go down to the shore and go deep sea fishing for blues," he said, "or go out in my son, Ted's, boat in Barnesville Bay."

Ted recently got married, and besides their shared interest in boating and fishing, he is following his father's footsteps. After graduating from Bowdoin College in Maine, he taught science for a time in a Clark county school and is now an engine underdevelopment training at Pennsylvania Naval Air Station in Florida.

Ted is a product of his father's school system, attending Dayton in the ninth grade and Gov. Livingston in the 10th through 12th grades. He was a tackle on the football team and pursued his interest in music as well.

Dr. Davis commutes from his 292 Timber Lake home in Berkeley Heights every day to his busy office in Dayton. From the window of the office, there's a lovely garden-level view of the rolling, grassy courtyard of the school and the sparkling white landmark clockspire shooting into the sky.

But Dr. Davis doesn't have time to take it in these days. "We're over capacity now," he said briefly, "and some kind of building program must emerge."

SELF-ANALYSIS

IN SMALL BUSINESS
Here's a basic question for any would-be proprietor of a small business, no matter what the product, or where located.
Which employee is the most important to success or failure of your business?
Answer - you yourself.

This may sound like a truism, but it's surprising to learn how many people decide to become small businessmen without pausing for a moment of self-analysis.
Such an individual only makes it tough on himself. If he's a retiree about to sink part of his savings in a new career, he may be courting disaster.

That's why the Small Business Administration in Washington, D. C., has published a rating scale of personal traits that a proprietor ought to have.

The scale lists ten traits that should be considered - initiative, attitude toward others, leadership, responsibility, organizing ability, industry, decision, sincerity, perseverance, and physical energy.

It provides a breakdown of types under each. Thus, responsibility may be welcomed, accepted, protested or avoided. No one has to be told which of these characteristics points toward success, and which leads down the trail towards bankruptcy.

Leadership runs the gamut from forceful to weak, and again the moral is clear. Similar thinking applies to the rest of the scale.
The Small Business Administration emphasizes that this is not a scientific study of personal psychology. It's preliminary self-analysis that should give you some idea of whether you're fitted temperamentally for a career in small business.

Needless to say, success in a given enterprise demands much more than that. But the negative stands. If you don't do well on this scale, you'd probably do better to put your money into some other career.

In short, follow the maxim of Socrates: "Know Thyself." Then decide whether a small business is for you.

Philadelphia Orchestra opens Garden Arts season tonight

The Garden State Arts Center at Holmdel opens its second summer season tonight with the Philadelphia Orchestra conducted by Eugene Ormandy again doing the honors for the inaugural.

The world-famous Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra performed at the grand opening exactly a year ago, that time with pianist Van Cliburn as guest soloist. This year, the Romeros, Spain's first family of guitar, will be the guest soloists. Van Cliburn will appear two weeks later.

The Arts Center, New Jersey's performing showcase atop Telegraph Hill Park on the Garden State Parkway will present a full season of almost nightly (except Sundays) classical and popular programs from June to September. The season covers the musical spectrum from ballet and opera to rock and jazz.

The first week will be abbreviated to two performances with the Philadelphia Orchestra tonight and Saturday only.

Beginning next Thursday, when the New York Philharmonic under conductor Aaron Copland comes in with clarinetist Benny Goodman as soloist, the Arts Center schedule shows nightly programs except Sundays through Aug. 30. The second annual Jazz Festival and a Country Music Festival run in September.

The Iron Butterfly and Chicago rock groups appear Friday, June 20.

Over 10,000 season-series subscriptions have been sold in advance for the second successive year, but the Arts Center with its polestar 5,000-seat amphitheater and surrounding lawn space is again offering single-event tickets for each performance. The basic price scale ranges from $2 to $7.

Brief ceremonies will precede the scheduled start at 8:30 p.m. of tonight's second-season inaugural performance. Chairman Sylvester C. Smith, Jr. of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which built and operates the Arts Center as a roadside development of its toll Parkway, will preside. The Center's Telegraph Hill Park site is accessible only from Parkway Exit 116.

The Arts Center, designed by architect Edward Durell Stone, provides free on-site parking with overflow facilities linked by shuttle-bus. In total, some 3,000 vehicles can be accommodated within Telegraph Hill Park.

The program on opening night and the following Saturday by the Philadelphia Orchestra will include Wagner's Prelude to Die Meistersinger; Dello Jolo's Homage to Haydn; Brahms' Symphony No. 2 in D major, Op. 73; and the Romeros, Joaquin Rodrigo's Concierto Andaluz, a work by the Spanish composer commissioned for the guitar quartet from Spain (Celedonio Romero and his three sons, Celin, Pepe and Angel).

Certain time has been advanced a half-hour since last summer for weekday performances Monday through Thursday, starting each evening at 8:30. The 9 p.m. time will continue for Friday and Saturday and July 3 shows.

The Arts Center box office at Telegraph Hill Park on the Parkway is now open daily except Sundays from 10:30 a.m. to a half-hour after each evening's curtain time. Mail orders can be addressed to the Arts Center, Box 116, Holmdel, N.J. 07733.

Among other performances scheduled at the Arts Center this season are those by the Washington National Symphony with opera star Dorothy Kirsten; pianist Van Cliburn returning this time with the New York Philharmonic; Glen Campbell; Rowan & Martin; Diana Ross and The EUGENE ORMANDY and the Philadelphia Orchestra will open the summer season at the Garden State Arts Center for the second consecutive year in a concert tonight and again tomorrow. Appearing with the orchestra will be the Romeros, guitar virtuosos from Spain.

Supremes; Fiddler on the Roof musical company; and the American Ballet Theatre.

In August, the performing roster includes Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme; the Symphony of the New World with violinist Berl Senofsky; the New York Philharmonic with pianist Byron Janis; singer Enzo Stuarti and comedian Corbett McInce; Liberace; and Henry Mancini and Johnny Mathis.

615 are convicted for not paying tolls

The New Jersey Highway Authority reported this week that it is catching an increasing number of toll evaders at automatic collection booths on the Garden State Parkway.

The Authority, which operates the Parkway, said 615 motorists were caught in the act of evading toll payments by its security checks during the first four months this year. The comparable number was 52 last year.

Of 490 cases adjudicated to date in local courts, 462 were convicted as violators of the law requiring toll payments and paid fines on each count ranging up to $25.

The fines in aggregate amounted to $3,792 and assessed court costs to $2,189 for a total of $5,981. Fines go to the State treasury and not the Parkway, and court costs are retained by the municipality in which they are levied.

YM-YWHA group to dedicate camps Sunday June 22

Dedication of its two newly acquired units, Camp Long Lake and Camp Round Lake at Lake Como, Pa., has been scheduled for Sunday afternoon, June 22, by the New Jersey YMHA-YWHA Camps.

Clarence Reisen, president of the Y camps, said that the principal address will be delivered by Benedict Krieger, a Passaic attorney who has been identified with the organization for many years. Arthur Stern of Highland Park, a vice president of the New Jersey YMHA-YWHA Camps board of managers, will chair the dedication ceremony. Reisen said the proceedings will highlight a traditional family weekend which has brought campers and their parents to two other units of the Y camp complex, Camps Nab-Joe-Wah and Cedar Lake in Milford, Pa. These families have been invited to join camp officials, staff and Jewish community dignitaries at the site in Lake Como, where the official dedication will be held.

Guided tours of the two camps at Lake Como which, together comprise a total of 750 acres of meadow, forest, mountain, lake and stream, will precede and follow the ceremony.

Acquired at a cost of more than a half million dollars, the two camps are enabling the organization to serve up to 700 more New Jersey children than in previous years.

Trailside center hits road with a film on the Model T

"The American Road," a color, sound film, narrated by Raymond Massey, will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation on Sunday at 2 p.m.

The film explores the revolution started by America's first inexpensive motorcar the Model T. The mobility which came with the automobile had dramatic effects on trade, labor and travel.

Also on Sunday, Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, will present planetarium programs at 3 and 4 p.m. on "Our Planet Earth," which depict the earth and its place in space. The same program also will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 18, and at the one-half hour nature talks for children to be held on June 16, 17, 18, and 19. The planetarium seats 55 people at a showing and those wishing to visit planetarium are requested to receive a ticket from the Trailside office on the day of the showing. Tickets will be issued on a first-come, first-serve basis. Children under eight are not permitted in the planetarium.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature Center, fare Board, is entering its 49th season.

A limited number of camp space is available in August. Information may be obtained at the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union.

tour the live-animal area, view the thousands of indoor exhibits, and participate in the scheduled programs.

Registration set for 'band' school

The Union County Band and Orchestra Summer School will hold its 37th session from June 23 through July 25 at the Locust School, Roselle. Registration will be June 20 and 21 at the Locust School.

The non-profit school aims to develop and promote the enjoyment of leisure time through instrumental music, to increase appreciation of music and to aid in the growth of musical skills.

The school is set up like a Junior Conservatory. Courses are offered on strings, woodwinds, brass instruments, percussion, piano, organ, baton twirling, guitar, theory of music, harmony, sight-singing, dictation, dance band and conducting.

There are three main levels of instruction—the elementary level for beginners—in all areas, an intermediate and an advanced level to challenge the most proficient student.

The staff, headed by Casimir V. Bork of Westfield, is composed of 25 instructors from the Public Schools of New Jersey.

There are three orchestras and five bands. Each presents from one to six concerts during the five week period.

In addition to the musical program offered there is a supervised recreation, weekly assemblies, a school picnic, and planned field trips to enrich the students' musical experience and social growth.

FRIDAY DEADLINE
All items other than spot news should be in our office by noon on Friday.

Civil Service tests for 4 Union County positions are listed

Four examination announcements for positions in Union County are listed in the N.J. Department of Civil Service Open Competitive Examination Bulletin for June. Applicants should contact the department's main office, State House, Trenton, 08625, or the office at 1100 Raymond Blvd., Newark, 07102.

A post as case worker, paying $6,900 to $9,300 a year, is open. Two lists will be established, one for Union County residents and one for New Jersey residents. Appointees must be graduates of a four-year course at a college of recognized standing and possess a valid New Jersey driver's license.

A post as traffic enumerator, paying $4,200 to $5,200, is also open in Union County. Applicants must possess a valid New Jersey driver's license.

Also open is the post of director of volunteer services, paying $6,000 to $7,500, in Union County. Applicants must be graduates of a four-year course at a college of recognized standing and two years of supervisor experience in voluntary service organizations. Applicants who do not meet the college requirements may substitute experience on a year-for-year basis.

The fourth post open is that of children's supervisor, paying $2,500 an hour. The last date for filing applications for examinations is June 27.

Jobs utilize resources

A strong job market makes it possible to move idle and underutilized human resources into productive activity. The Labor Department observes that the prospect that this current high level of job demand will be a stable and continuing one lends internal strength to its manpower efforts.

Open house slated Saturday at Artist and Craftsman Guild

At an Open House Saturday from 1 to 4:30 p.m., the Artist and Craftsman Guild, 17 Eastman St., Cranford, will offer an afternoon of art demonstrations to introduce the newest members of its staff and its summer program to the public.

At 1 p.m., Metal Sculpture will be demonstrated by Harold Notarius; 1:30, Oil Painting, Don Bloom; 2, Glasscraft, Kay Weiner; 2:30, Painting, Jean McCullough; 3, Acrylics, Linda Gordon; 3:30, Graphics-Woodcut, Frank Gubernat; 4, Clay Sculpture, Bernice Schachter, and 1-4, Pottery, Hella Ballin.

Notarius, who will teach metal sculpture Thursday evenings starting July 10, had had training in art, metallurgy and engineering. Bloom, who will teach an evening course in Contemporary Approaches to Painting starting June 26, is chairman of the art program in Passaicway public schools and is well-known as an artist, teacher and lecturer. His work, remembered for his exciting use of color, is represented in many public and private collections.

Gubernat has an academic background in graphics and in advertising design. An art supervisor in public school, he will teach a teen class in drawing and painting.

Miss Gordon, who received her formal art training at E.U. School of the Arts and who has been teaching design and color theory at a private art school, will teach introductory and intermediate classes in painting with varied media.

Miss McCullough, who has her BFA from Michigan State University, has taught children of all ages, and will be offering an introductory class in oil painting to "Young Painters," ages 10 and up.

The summer session will run from June 26 to Aug. 14, in Artist and Craftsman's air-conditioned studios. Every Thursday starting July 10, from 1:30 to 2:30, new ideas in crafts will be demonstrated.

An exhibition of students' work from the spring classes will be on display in the studio for the Open House. In the gallery, a popular exhibition of fine "Art for the Young Collector" will continue.

Secure locks

Make one extra preparation when getting ready to leave for your summer retreat, suggests Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. Be sure to have good secure locks on your doors to prevent a home burglary while you are away. The small price of a good lock just may save some of your most prized possessions.

Jersey tuition aid deadline June 30

Applications for Tuition Aid Grants from the State of New Jersey will continue to be accepted through June 30, according to the N.J. Department of Higher Education.

The Tuition Aid Grant program provides assistance to students attending colleges in New Jersey where the tuition exceeds $450 a year. The amount of the grant is based on the income and assets of the applicant and his parents and the college tuition charge. The maximum grant is $1,000 a year.

Applications may be obtained from financial aid offices at the colleges or by writing to: Tuition Aid Grant Program, Department of Higher Education, P.O. Box 1293, Trenton, N.J. 08625.

State Symphony Orchestra instituted at Montclair State

The 1969-70 season will introduce a new professional title symphony to New Jersey audiences, the first of its kind in the state and one of only a few in the country.

To be known as the State Symphony Orchestra, it will be in residence at Montclair State College, where it will present a series of four free concerts during the season.

The orchestra, to number 42 musicians, will be under the baton of Ward Moore, chairman of the music department at Montclair State. It is being financed in part by state funds and in part through the college's Music Organizations Commission and a matching grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industries, of which Samuel Rosenbaum is trustee. The matching grant has been secured, Dr. Moore said, through Local 16 of the American Federation of Music and its president, Danny Hope.

The new venture has also received cooperation from the Essex County Cultural and Heritage Commission and its chairman, Mrs. Anthony C. Blasi. The commission is assisting in setting up committees in various communities in support of the orchestra.

Concerts for the opening season, all to be presented in the college's Memorial Auditorium, have been scheduled on four Thursday evenings: Oct. 9, Nov. 20, Feb. 12, and March 12. The final rehearsal for each concert will be held at 4 p.m. on the day of the concert and will be open to music students.

According to Dr. Moore, emphasis in the series will be on contemporary and avant-garde works as contrasted to the classic symphony, and each program will include examples of both classic and modern works.

"The programming policy," he explained, "aims to establish a historical connection between the tradition of the classic periods in music and the contemporary and avant-garde composer."

"It is hoped," he continued, "that through this programming policy a useful dialogue can be established between the contemporary composer and the contemporary audience, thereby enhancing the creative effort of the composer and the American cultural tradition."

Williams criticizes GOP lack of action on needs of elderly

WASHINGTON—U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D-N.J.) has accused the Nixon administration of failure to address itself to the needs of the nation's elderly.

Senator Williams, chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, last week sharply criticized the Administration's proposed seven percent increase in Social Security benefits. He also scored remarks made by HEW Secretary Robert Finch which suggested that Finch would step down the level of attack on problems facing millions of older Americans—inadequate income, insufficient health care, and empty lives.

In remarks before the annual convention of the National Council of Senior Citizens, Senator Williams—who received the Council's award for federal legislative achievement—called the Nixon administration's "faint praise, watered-down goals and very little action" on the Model Cities program, which has been identified as having high potential for the needs of the urban aged and aging.

"Now, what can we expect from the new boss at HUD?" Sen. Williams challenged, "a homily on the difficulties in making that program work, or leadership that will make it work?"

Senator Williams warned that the Administration's early statements on anti-poverty programs, support for the elderly and other vital domestic projects have not been matched by performance or policy since President Nixon took office.

"The new administration started out with words of praise for the Office of Economic Opportunity and promises that nothing had would happen to its programs," the New Jersey lawmaker reminded. "But the next thing Congress knew, all of a sudden the Job Corps was about to be put out of business."

"Where else will the axe fall? And will the elderly be among the major victims when it does?"

Senator Williams urged the senior citizens to take an active role in determining the future of programs that are "investments in people," because he said those projects would pay the biggest return.

"A wider, more comprehensive war on poverty," he said, "is a 20 percent increase in Social Security together with rises in minimum benefits, effective measures to combat inflation and protect pensions."

"We will get across the truth," he told the convention, "as emphatically and as often as we can, that everyone had better care what happens to the elderly, because everyone hopes someday to be elderly himself, and to be as proud and secure in old age as he has tried to make himself in all the years before."

Regional Council to tackle problems of our environment

Federal, state and local government officials will participate in the annual membership meeting of the Metropolitan Regional Council tomorrow, at the Pitney Bowes corporate offices in Stamford, Conn.

Congressman Jonathan B. Blighman of the Bronx will speak on "The Challenge of Our Deteriorating Environment." During the morning session, a panel discussion will take place on "The Federal and Local Partnership in Solving Urban and Regional Problems."

Representing the federal government on the panel will be Congressman Edward I. Koch of Manhattan, Richard L. Ottinger of Westchester County, and Lester L. Wolff of Nassau County. Connecticut State Senator William F. Hickey Jr. will speak on behalf of state government. Local government officials on the panel will include County Executive Eugene H. Nickerson of Nassau County, Mayor Frank Zullo of Norwalk, Conn., County Executive Edwin G. Michaelian of Westchester County, and Alan Augenblick, director of the Board of Freeholders of Essex County, N.J.

New officers will also be elected. The present slate is headed by Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City who is serving as president of the council.

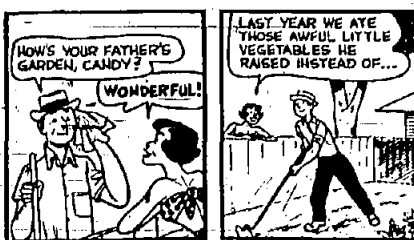

ALTHOUGH ORIGINALLY ORGANIZED in 1956, the Metropolitan Regional Council's formal existence began in 1966 with its incorporation. A voluntary organization of chief elected local government officials in the New York-New Jersey-Connecticut region, the council is engaged in cooperative action for dealing with regional problems.

Funds for the Council are obtained from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and from dues paid by each local municipality.

The council covers an area including the New York City, Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Rockland and Orange counties in New York State; Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Passaic, Somerset and Union counties in New Jersey, and all towns and cities within the former Fairfield County in Connecticut.

Lawyer will speak to builders group

Frederick Stickle 3d, partner in the law firm of Stickle, Kahn, Stickle with practices in Newark and Cedar Grove, will be the guest speaker at The Metropolitan Builders Association's general membership meeting at The Manor, West Orange, June 18 at 6:30 p.m.

Stickle, an authority on municipal affairs in New Jersey, has been appointed to the Revisions Committee by Governor Richard J. Hughes. He will discuss "The Municipal Planning Act-Performance and Maintenance Building Sub-Division Provisions."

Stickle is former president of the New Jersey Municipal Attorneys Association, a member of the Court of Municipal Law and is currently serving as co-chairman of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities.

A midsummer's night snow

Ice skating is still in season

Snow is forecast for June 20, summer's eve, at the Essex County Park Commission's South Mountain Ice Skating Arena.

Snowmobiles and even an arctic dog sled drawn by a team of huskies are making plans to take advantage of the rare occasion. And several local girls are readying appropriate apparel for the evening—fur coats!

The forecast, however, is somewhat localized. It applies specifically to the arena which will celebrate the opening of its summer ice skating season.

The Season officially gets under way June 21 and runs through August 31. There will be three evening sessions Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 8:30 to 11. A morning session will be held Tuesdays, 10 to noon.

According to Eileen-Shea of Summit, coordinator of summer skating, the temperature may be 90 degrees in the shade but the snow at the arena will be real enough. "In fact," she says, "we will even have a snowball fight, if the snow lasts long enough."

Others who will be thinking cool the evening of June 20 at 7 p.m. at the arena are: B. Altman and Co. of the Mall at Short Hills, which will put on a Fashion Show on Ice; American Airlines, which will be inviting their New Jersey Fair Ladies Club to the event; Lubin's Rink Supply Company of Waterbury, Mass., which anticipates everyone will be on a pair of their skates; Don Barone of the D & R Boat Sales Company of Greenbrook, who will be bringing out his snowmobiles and team drivers; and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Holterman of Boonton, who will be arriving on their dog sled.

State organization to lecture on taxes at four luncheons

Corporate and business taxpayers will have opportunities to learn and discuss how their tax dollars are being spent and what the New Jersey Taxpayers Association is doing to promote efficient, economical government in the state at a series of mid-June informational meetings.

Walter W. Hisslop, President of NJTA, announced plans for luncheon meetings in the Essex, Bergen and Mercer County areas. Robert A. Hoffman, vice president, Fidelity Union Trust Company, Newark, will preside at the Essex County luncheon at Thomm's, 80 Park Ave., Newark, at 12:15 p.m. on Monday.

Henry C. Lango of Wyckoff, senior tax advisor, Standard Oil Company (N.J.), will preside at the Bergen County luncheon at The Suburban, Route 4, Paramus, at 12:15 p.m. on Tuesday.

Sydney C. Stevens, chairman of the board, First Trenton National Bank, will preside at the Mercer County luncheon at Cedar Garden, Route 33, Trenton, at 12:15 p.m. on Wednesday.

NJTA members representing major industries, individuals, civic associations, and businesses in the counties are inviting representatives of area companies to attend the informational luncheons.

Parents build so children can learn CARE helps Guatemalans help themselves

Until the school opened in Santa Apolonia, the 240 school-age children in the Guatemalan village spoke only the idiom of their Indian parents. Now they are learning Spanish and beginning an education that will lead them into the mainstream of community life.

The school was built by the villagers, who acquired the site, made and "cured" the adobe bricks for the foundation and walls. Finally, their own labor made their dream come true. The school has six classrooms, in addition to teachers' quarters, a kitchen and a storage room for the CARE supplies used in the preparation of the daily lunch for the pupils.

The key to the realization of this project, as with some 700 schools completed or in progress around the world, was the CARE Self-Help program. It contributed not only building materials—timber, shingles, paint, nails, floor tiles, door and window frames—but the close cooperation and know-how of CARE representatives. The aim is to complete 100 schools, with 200 classrooms and teachers' living quarters in Guatemala this year.

In Latin America, CARE is engaged in similar school building programs in Honduras, British Honduras, Colombia, Dominican Republic, Haiti, Ecuador and Nicaragua. Other countries in which construction is going on are Afghanistan, Iran, Jordan, Liberia, Pakistan, the Philippines and South Vietnam.

Under agreements with CARE, host governments contribute toward operating and technical costs of each construction project, and guarantee teachers for each completed school. Community groups pledge what they can in labor and local materials.

CARE then assigns a staff man to administer the project, and uses donor funds to buy whatever else is needed. The Santa Apolonia school in Guatemala, for example, was built at a cost of $1,727 in construction supplies.

In the Tolima Department of Colombia, each of the 22 schools being built will also include teachers' quarters, a kitchen for the CARE school feeding program, a dining room, running water and modern sanitary facilities, and an assembly room serving the community for meetings and adult education activities. Total cost to CARE donors will be $110,000, or an average of $5,000 per project.

In the Republic of Korea, the government of Kangwon Province has entered into an agreement with CARE, calling for the construction of 34 "middle school" classrooms at a cost of $61,000 in materials. The new facilities will serve in the extension of education beyond the grammar school level in the Province, where heretofore less than half of all primary school graduates continued their schooling.

Police helicopter flies over Parkway for traffic guidance

A State Police-manned helicopter has begun observation flights over the Garden State Parkway and added ground patrols will be activated ahead of schedule today in an extra effort to cope with summertime traffic on New Jersey's road to the seashore.

The helicopter service, engaged by the N.J. Highway Authority annually since 1963 for aerial traffic guidance during the May-to-September peak travel season, took off Memorial Day on its mid-week and weekend flights with a State Police monitor-linked to patrol cars by radio.

Taking to the road for special weekend duty were nine service trucks from off-Parkway garages assigned to patrol the superhighway's areas between Asbury Park and Paramus in order to provide on-the-spot repairs. This special patrol, supplementing standby service units, had been set to start June 27, but was called out in advance for the big Memorial Day weekend.

Traffic volume on the Parkway has increased some eight per cent over last year, but the rise for May alone was much higher with indications that it will continue into the summer season.

The helicopter and service truck patrols, both aimed at promptly removing existing or potential hindrances to traffic movement, augment a regular force of Parkway manpower and facilities in the uphill effort to keep cars safely on the go.

The Parkway's regular State Police patrols and water-bearing staff cars were out on their 24-hour-a-day rounds, and all restaurant-gasoline service areas along the road were in full operation around the clock except the seasonally-open Seaville site in Cape May County which runs daily from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. after this weekend.

Casting about for a prize? Fishing derby will lure you

As part of its 50th anniversary year celebration, R & S Home and Auto Stores Inc. will sponsor a salt water fishing derby with a $500 top prize.

Donald S. Schlenger, R & S president, announced the derby will be held on June 21 and on June 28 at three marinas: Belmar Marine Basin, Highway 35, Belmar; Highlands Marina, 258 Bay ave., Highlands; and Bogan's Brielle Basin, Highlands avenue, Brielle.

To be eligible for prizes, fishermen must pick up entry slips at any of the 18 R & S Stores throughout New Jersey and must have their catches verified by their party boat skippers and the weighmaster at one of the participating marinas.

In addition to the $500 top prize, there will be 18 additional prizes, three for each day of the derby for the three largest fish caught from party boats.

Herman Schlenger, founder of R & S and its board chairman, said that aside from calling attention "to our 50 years of serving New Jersey, the purpose of the derby is to remind people of the first-class fishing available off our shores."

If a derby entrant registers a catch of any game species which matches the state record weight for that species, he earns 100 R & S fishing derby points. Lesser weights earn fewer points on a percentage basis. The $500 will go to the entrant who scores most points for a single fish. In case of ties, winners will divide the prize money.

"We purposely based the grand prize on New Jersey records," Schlenger said, "to show how great the fishing is in our state."

Information on state fishing records is available from William Peterman at the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission offices in Trenton.

"We succeeded in gaining the cooperation of three marinas located along our coast within short driving time of most sections of the state. We all offer a number of party boats which do not have to be chartered ahead of time, making it easy for anybody who decides to go fishing. All he need do is get to a marina well before 8 a.m. when the party boats leave. In fact, if he chooses, he can do his fishing in the afternoon, because half-day boats return to the marinas at about noon and leave again at about 2:00 p.m."

Hospital project boosted by grant

CHICAGO—The American Hospital Association has been awarded a grant of $87,235 by the National Institute of Mental Health to finance the first year of a two-year educational project aimed at improving the hospital care of alcoholic patients.

Dr. Edwin L. Crosby, executive vice president of AHA, said three invitational conferences will be scheduled in different areas of the country in the first year.

Methodist church will mark Anniversary Day on Sunday

A special anniversary day will be observed by Springfield Emanuel Methodist Church, Church Hall at Academy Green, this Sunday at 10:45 a.m. It will mark the completion of five years for the merged congregation, which includes Springfield Methodist Church and Emanuel Methodist Church of Newark.

They were formally united on June 14, 1964, when the Rev. James Dewart assumed the pastorate of the local church.

Also to be recognized are the 142nd anniversary of Methodism in Springfield, and the 125th anniversary of the Emanuel Church, whose ministry in Newark was primarily to persons of German nationality.

Guest minister for the anniversary day, which was planned by the records and history committee, will be the Rev. George W. Watt, Jr., superintendent of the southern district of the Northern New Jersey United Methodist Conference. Mr. Watt, who served pastorate in Jersey City, Maplewood and Caldwell, before his present appointment, resides in Westfield. He supervises the work of 60 Methodist churches in Union, Somerset, Middlesex, and Hunterdon Counties, including some experimental work in Elizabeth, as well as suburban and rural ministries.

Pastor Dewart and Emanuel Schwing, local preacher who conducts the German-language services, will be in-charge of the service of divine worship.

During the service, recognition will be extended to Mrs. Belle Smith and Mrs. Elsie Kieffer, who have been members of the congregation for 50 years, and also to the Wesley and Chancel choirs and the acolytes.

One Lombardi, and Phoebe Briggs, co-chairmen of the records and history committee, announced that the celebration will begin at 9:30 with Church School for all ages. Nursery through sixth grades will meet in the Wesley House, and the junior and senior highs in the church building.

At 12:15 p.m. the women's societies of the church will serve a luncheon for members and guests in the Fellowship Hall. Mrs. Nellie Marshall, Mrs. Doris Holler and Mrs. Esther Reimlinger are the chairmen. Exhibits will be on display in the Fellowship Hall including items of interest to the merged congregation, in particular a display of pictures, and newspaper accounts for the past five years. Miss Lombardi will display her collection of crosses.

An informal afternoon service will include singing led by Emanuel Schwing, slides of the 1968-69 church year shown by David Brady and William Rossette and a memorial service honoring clergy and members buried in the Methodist Cemetery.

Wilbur Selander, A. John Scarpone receive doctorates

Wilbur Rogers Selander of Paramus, son of Police Chief Wilbur C. Selander of Springfield, and A. John Scarpone of 39 Crescent rd., Springfield, were awarded doctor's degrees at Rutgers University commencement exercises.

Selander, who received a doctor of education degree, is principal of Leonia High School. He received his BA degree cum laude from Montclair State College in 1957 and his master's from Columbia Teachers College in 1958.

An Army veteran, he is married to the former Joan Pantoliano. They have four children, Kristine Ann, Wilbur Robert, James DeWitt and Kathleen Marie.

Scarpone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Scarpone of 18 Baltusrol way, Springfield, received a doctor of philosophy degree. He is employed at Lederle Laboratories, Pearl River, N. Y.

He was a Johnson & Johnson research fellow at Rutgers College of Pharmacy in 1966-68 and served in the Army, receiving the Good Conduct and National Defense Medals.

Scarpone and his wife, the former Janice Gordon, have three children, John Anthony, Donna Leah and Robert Henry.

Graduation, honors for Mike Kraemer

Michael Frederick Kraemer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome W. Kraemer of 67 Garden oval, Springfield, was graduated cum laude from Amherst College in Massachusetts in ceremonies last week.

Kraemer, an American studies major, wrote his honors thesis on "The New England Intellectual and the Spanish-American War." He is a 1965 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. He was a member of the college Hillel Foundation and its president while he was a junior.

The college has awarded him a John Woodruff Simpson Fellowship to study at the University of Pennsylvania School of Law.

Miss Cowles receives her BA at Westminster

Westminster College of New Wilmington, Pa., announced that a Springfield resident, Carolyn R. Cowles, was among the seniors to receive bachelor of arts degrees in the class of '69.

Miss Cowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Cowles, of 22 Tower drive, received her degree in English on June 2 at the 115th annual commencement exercises.

Y day camp has openings

A few openings are available for the second session of the Summit YWCA's day camp for young children. The first session, which runs from July 7 to July 15, has already been filled for all age groups. The second session will run from July 20 to Aug. 1. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to noon. Since the size of each group is limited, early registration is urged by the Y.

The YWCA's day camp is for boys and girls who will be entering kindergarten in September and for girls who will be entering grades one, two, and three. A complete swimming program as well as instruction in crafts, dramatics, music, dance, games, and sports will be offered. Part of the day camp experience will also be trips to places of interest to young children.

Further information may be had by telephoning the YWCA at 273-4242. A descriptive brochure will be sent upon request.

Cartoonist draws role of speaker at graduation

Harry Devlin, author, political cartoonist, artist, and lecturer, will be the guest speaker at the second annual commencement of the Union County Vocational School, on Friday evening, June 20, at 7 p.m.

The exercises will be held in the commons area of the Administration Building at the Vocational Technical Center, 1776 Raritan rd., Scotch Plains.

Burton Madala of Hillsdale, 2 students cited at UC exercises

James A. Webster Jr., of North Plainfield received the alumni prize as class valedictorian and William R. Volk Jr., of Garwood, received the award as the student who most nearly represents the ideals of Union College at the 36th annual commencement of Union College last Thursday.

Associate in arts degrees were conferred upon 161 men and women in the day and evening sessions by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president, and Hugo B. Meyer of Summit, chairman of the board of trustees.

Dr. Kenneth C. Mackay, president-elect of Union College, presented a scroll of honor to Dr. Robert W. Van Houten, president of Newark College of Engineering. Dr. Van Houten was cited "for his more than two decades of distinguished leadership in higher education," and "for the manifold community and civic services by which he has become a beloved and respected first citizen of his county and state."

The board of trustees of Union College presented the scroll of honor "in profound appreciation to President Robert W. Van Houten, educator, civic leader, and humanist to a generation of engineers, and in warmest affection to Bob Van Houten, early and persevering friend of the two-year college, good neighbor, and valiant comrade-in-arms in all the glorious battles of academe."

Dr. Robert P. Douglass, President of the Board for Vocational Education in Union County, will address the group. Wayne Calhoun of Roselle, and Rose Christman of Cranford will present the graduate viewpoint.

Dr. George H. Baxel, Superintendent, Union County Technical Schools, will discuss trends in vocational-technical education. The class of 110 graduates will be presented by Leslie N. Kiray, Director of the Vocational Center. Dr. William H. West, Superintendent of Schools, Union County, will award diplomas. The invocation and benediction will be delivered by Reverend Edward Elbert, Jr., John the Apostle, Clark, Indiana.

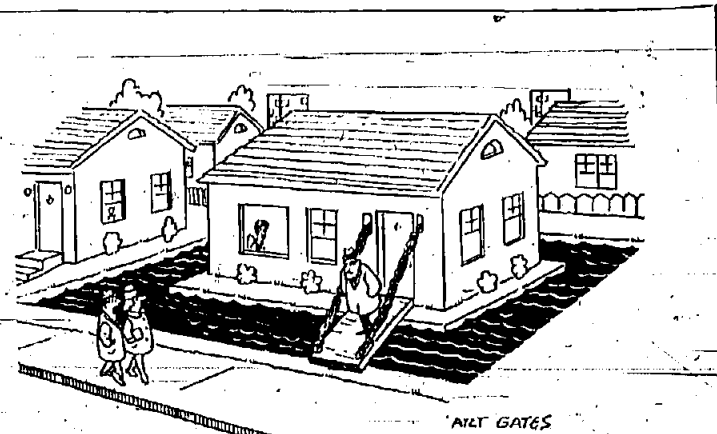

The Vocational School is the high-school-level division of the Vocational-Technical Center. Commencement exercises for graduates of the College-level Technical Institute were held at Newark State College on Sunday.

Four profs at workshop

Four members of the staff and faculty of Union College, Cranford, attended the 19th annual workshop of the Junior College Council of the Middle Atlantic States at Cazenovia College, Cazenovia, N.Y., which concluded today.

The Learning Environment: Looking Ahead to the Seventies will be the theme of the three-day workshop. Discussions will be held on the following topics: learning media, innovations in seminar and curriculum planning, student motivation techniques and creating an institutional ethos for innovation. Innovation in calendar planning, overseas and internship programs, the curriculum and community service, and developing a successful proposal.

Union College will be represented by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen of Cranford, acting president; Roy Smith of Elizabeth, vice president-college relations; Prof. Hermann J. Bielefeld of Summit, chairman of the humanities department, and Prof. John J. Siburn of Westfield, chairman of the biology department and assistant to the dean.

"I guess they're the most-unfriendly people in the whole neighborhood!"

Campus issues called 'deep seated'

A leading businessman told graduating students of Union College last Thursday night that the issues causing unrest on college campuses may be only "short term embitterments of more deep-seated problems."

William S. Belnecke, of Summit, chairman of the board of the Sperry and Hutchinson Company, said these deeper problems are related to the fact that scientific progress has brought man to "the threshold of a new age" in which he may take "the next major step in evolutionary sense."

This progress, he said, "is at once exciting and frightening. It is exciting because it opens up for mankind the possibility of solving our critical problems of population and environment. And it is frightening because it confronts mankind with ethical, moral and political questions that we have never faced before."

He added, "All of society must face up to them. And all of society will, I'm sure."

"In the process, we will be forced to find the why of it all. We've begun to control nature itself. And we need to know that what we are doing is right; that what we are doing and will do in the future is in line somehow with man's destiny."

Belnecke described the campus unrest as "a manifestation of something serious and important. In a fundamental sense, he said, the responses from college administrators 'haven't been based upon fear of the number or power of the dissenters. With some exceptions, the changes sought have been long past due. University administrators and faculty recognize this and have been taking steps accordingly. It is this flexibility which, if given opportunity, will assure productive changes and will help us avoid dangerous polarizations. "The committee of black and white students and faculty advisors here at Union College is a fine example of the way in which our institutions can and are adjusting to the changing times."

To the students at Union College, Mr. Belnecke said, "You will play different roles wherever you go. Some will be radicals, some conservatives, some moderates. Most of you have already played the labels on and those labels will remain for a long time."

"I would hope as you examine our society... that you will keep the situation manageable to the end that the sort of polarization which I have described will not make your task more difficult."

Conservation programs can use female workers

WASHINGTON — As the Nation becomes more conservation-minded, there is a rising demand for trained workers to help protect and develop the country's natural resources, the Department of Labor reports in a new publication, "Careers for Women in Conservation."

The field offers a wide selection of career specialties. EXECUTIVES read our Want Ads when hiring employees. Drag about yourself for only $3.20! Call 686-7700, daily to 5:00.

from which women and girls may choose, according to the leaflet prepared by the Women's Bureau.

The major conservation professions include: fishery specialist, forester, park naturalist, range conservationist, recreation resource specialist, soil conservationist, soil scientist, and wildlife specialist.

Among supporting positions in continuing demand are: biologist, botanist, chemist, geologist, and landscape architect.

There is also growing need for semiprofessional workers, who assist professionals as: conservation aides, fishery aides, forest recreation aides, soil conservation technicians, forestry aides, range aides, survey aides, and technical aides.

An important consideration in choosing conservation work, the leaflet states, is that much of the work is performed in the beautiful out-of-doors.

Lists of publications which provide more detailed information about employment opportunities and about conservation activities in general.

"Careers for Women in Conservation" is available at 10 cents a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Meyner and Cahill to debate

The two major party candidates for governor, Democrat Robert B. Meyner and Republican William T. Cahill, will debate on the future course of state government in New Jersey during the annual dinner of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening, June 19, in the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark.

The audience, which regularly runs to more than 1,000, is comprised of top leaders of business, industry, agriculture, and government from all parts of the state.

Earl N. Fello, president of the Chamber, explained that the candidates will debate three questions posed by the Chamber to bring out their respective plans and views on major contemporary issues.

"We feel that this type of debate will help to set the stage and define the principal issues that will mark the gubernatorial campaign of 1970, and fall," Fello stated.

"We expect it will afford our members and guests an informative picture of what the two candidates are proposing."

Fello also will introduce the man who will succeed him in the Chamber's highest office on July 1 — Thomas C. Burton, chairman of the board of the Grand Union Company, East Paterson.

During the evening the Chamber will recognize the work of an outstanding Junior Achievement Company selected through statewide competition with a panel of New Jersey businessmen serving as judges.

J. P. Little, vice president, New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, Newark, and chairman of the Chamber's Free Enterprise Award Committee, will make a presentation to the company that sponsored the winning firm.

In addition to business leaders, the dinner will be attended by many officers and members of the Legislature, cabinet officers and other officials of the state administration and by several New Jersey members of Congress.

Egyptian temple jigsaw: Will it puzzle computer

A computer is being used to simplify the task of reconstructing an Egyptian temple reduced to ruins 3,300 years ago, according to a report in a recent issue of "Scientific American."

The temple was erected at Thebes to the sun god Aten by the monotheistic reformer Ikhnaton only to be destroyed by Egypt's traditional priesthood. Built of uniform sandstone blocks, the walls of the temple were sculptured in relief.

After the temple's destruction the blocks were used as fill or foundation stone for later structures. Egyptologists digging through later ruins have recognized the characteristically uniform blocks and some 30,000 have now been recovered.

Scholars had despaired of rearranging the scrambled blocks but recently the Egyptian Antiquities Service issued a permit to the Museum of the University of Pennsylvania and an electronics firm to develop a project which makes use of a computer to match block with block.

UC sending grads far afield Hawaii, Alaska among targets

The dispersal of the Union College Class of '69 may not be to the four corners of the globe, but graduates of the two-year college in Cranford will touch base at the four corners of the United States, according to Anstole K. Colbert, director of counseling.

Union College graduates will be transferring to four-year colleges and universities, Mr. Colbert reported, an average that has been maintained over the past two decades.

The most significant change in this year's transfer pattern, he said, is the increase in the number of colleges to which students are applying. While applications to New Jersey colleges still top those to out-of-state institutions, there is a marked decrease in the number of in-state transfers.

Among the four-year institutions Union College students will be transferring to are Boston University, the University of Colorado, Clarkson College of Technology, the University of Houston, the University of Maryland, York University, the University of Vermont, Northeastern University, the University of Oklahoma and Wisconsin State University.

In all, Union College students have applied to 90 colleges and universities in some 30 states.

The transferring students include not only graduates of Union College, but also students who have completed two years of college work without qualifying for the Associate in Arts degree. These students have, however, met the freshman and sophomore year requirements of four-year institutions.

Prof. Salins will direct Union College program

Prof. Gunars Salins of Glen Ridge, will serve as director of the College Readiness Program at Union College, Cranford, it was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

This will be the eighth consecutive year that Prof. Salins has served as director of the four-week summer program designed to provide an orientation to college life and a quick review of basic skills for recent high school graduates.

Dr. Iversen also announced that the College Readiness faculty will include Prof. Faris S. Swackhamer of Cranford, chairman of the chemistry department; Mrs. Grace G. Landwehr of Cranford, a member of the English Department; and Mrs. Marilyn Tsoumakos of Irvington, a developmental reading instructor at the Orange Avenue Junior High School, Cranford.

Prof. Salins is an associate professor of psychology and sociology at Union College. He is also a recognized poet, writing in Latvian, his native language.

The College Readiness Program opens Thursday, June 26, and will run through Wednesday, July 23. Classes meet Monday-through-Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 11:40 a.m. The course carries no college credit. Prof. Salins said the College Readiness Program is open to all high school graduates who are college-bound. Classes cover reading skills, English composition, problem solving and an orientation to college life.

$1799*

What's the catch?

There isn't any. $1799* is the suggested retail price at the point of entry for the VW sedan.

The price includes the Federal excise tax and import duty.

It also includes the built-in heater/defroster, windshield washer, electric windshield wipers, outside rearview mirror, padded dash, front seat headrests, and seat belts front and back.

Not to mention the new electric rear-window defogger and the new ignition/steering lock.

It's the price of the real thing, not a stripped-down economy model.

What else do you have to pay?

Transportation from the port of entry. Dealer delivery charge, local sales tax.

One optional extra that makes a lot of sense, automatic stick shift. It eliminates the clutch pedal.

Another is leatherette upholstery.

And that's it.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

WRONG AND RIGHT

Teenagers have an age-old "argument" ready each time they come face to face with a parental "no." If you are a parent, you have heard it. Here it is, in the simplest form: "All the other kids do it. Why can't I?"

The average parent is quick to point out that all of the things other kids do may not necessarily be the "right" things. It is an established fact of life that kids never really accept this parental observation. One reason, perhaps, is that many parents are long on talk and short on example.

Youngsters, particularly teenagers, are impressionable. They are inclined to take things as they see them, matter - of - factly, with rationalization. Youngsters seldom accept pretense for what it is meant to convey.

If parents set the proper example for their children, and then meet situations in a straight-forward manner, children find it easier to recognize that which is wrong and accept that which is right.

Honesty in action and in words is a fair way to put it.

Frederick G. Freundlich, son of Mrs. Marjorie Weinberg of 35 S. Derby rd., Springfield, was among the 136 seniors graduated by the Milford Academy last Friday. The 53rd commencement of the academy was held in the United Church of Christ, Congregational in Milford, Conn.

NIH THE SEARCH FOR HEALTH

A REPORT FROM THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

Q. How does cancer rank as a cause of death in the United States?

A. Since 1937, cancer has been the second-leading cause of death, exceeded only by diseases of the heart.

Q. How does cancer occurrence vary with age and sex?

A. Among children 2 to 14 years old, cancer is a major cause of death, second only to accidents. The most common form is leukemia, followed by tumors of the brain and other parts of the nervous system. For men and women, the incidence of all cancer combined rises steadily from childhood to the end of life. Between the ages of 20 to 60, more women than men develop cancer because of the high incidence of cancers of the female breast and reproductive system. After age 60, overall cancer incidence is higher for men.

Q. Are there "racial" differences?

A. On the whole, cancer occurs less frequently in the nonwhite than the white population. But the ratio varies for different forms of cancer. People classified as nonwhite (nearly all Negroes) were less likely than whites to develop cancers of the skin, breast or colon. Nonwhites had higher risks for the uterine cervix (neck of the womb), stomach, and prostate.

Q. Are there urban-rural differences?

A. Scientists have long known that rates for many causes of death are higher in cities than in nearby rural areas. Comparisons of cancer incidence between urban and rural populations have been made in Connecticut, Iowa and New York. The results show that nearly all forms of cancer are more common in urban areas. There is an unusually high rate of cancer of the respiratory system and esophagus among urban men.

Q. Are there regional differences?

A. In the continental United States, death rates from all forms of cancer combined are generally above average in the Northeast and below average in the South and Southwest. But death rates for cancer of specific sites vary from one region to another. For instance, the South has an above-average death rate from skin cancer, probably because of greater exposure to sunlight there.

Q. How do cancer rates differ from country to country?

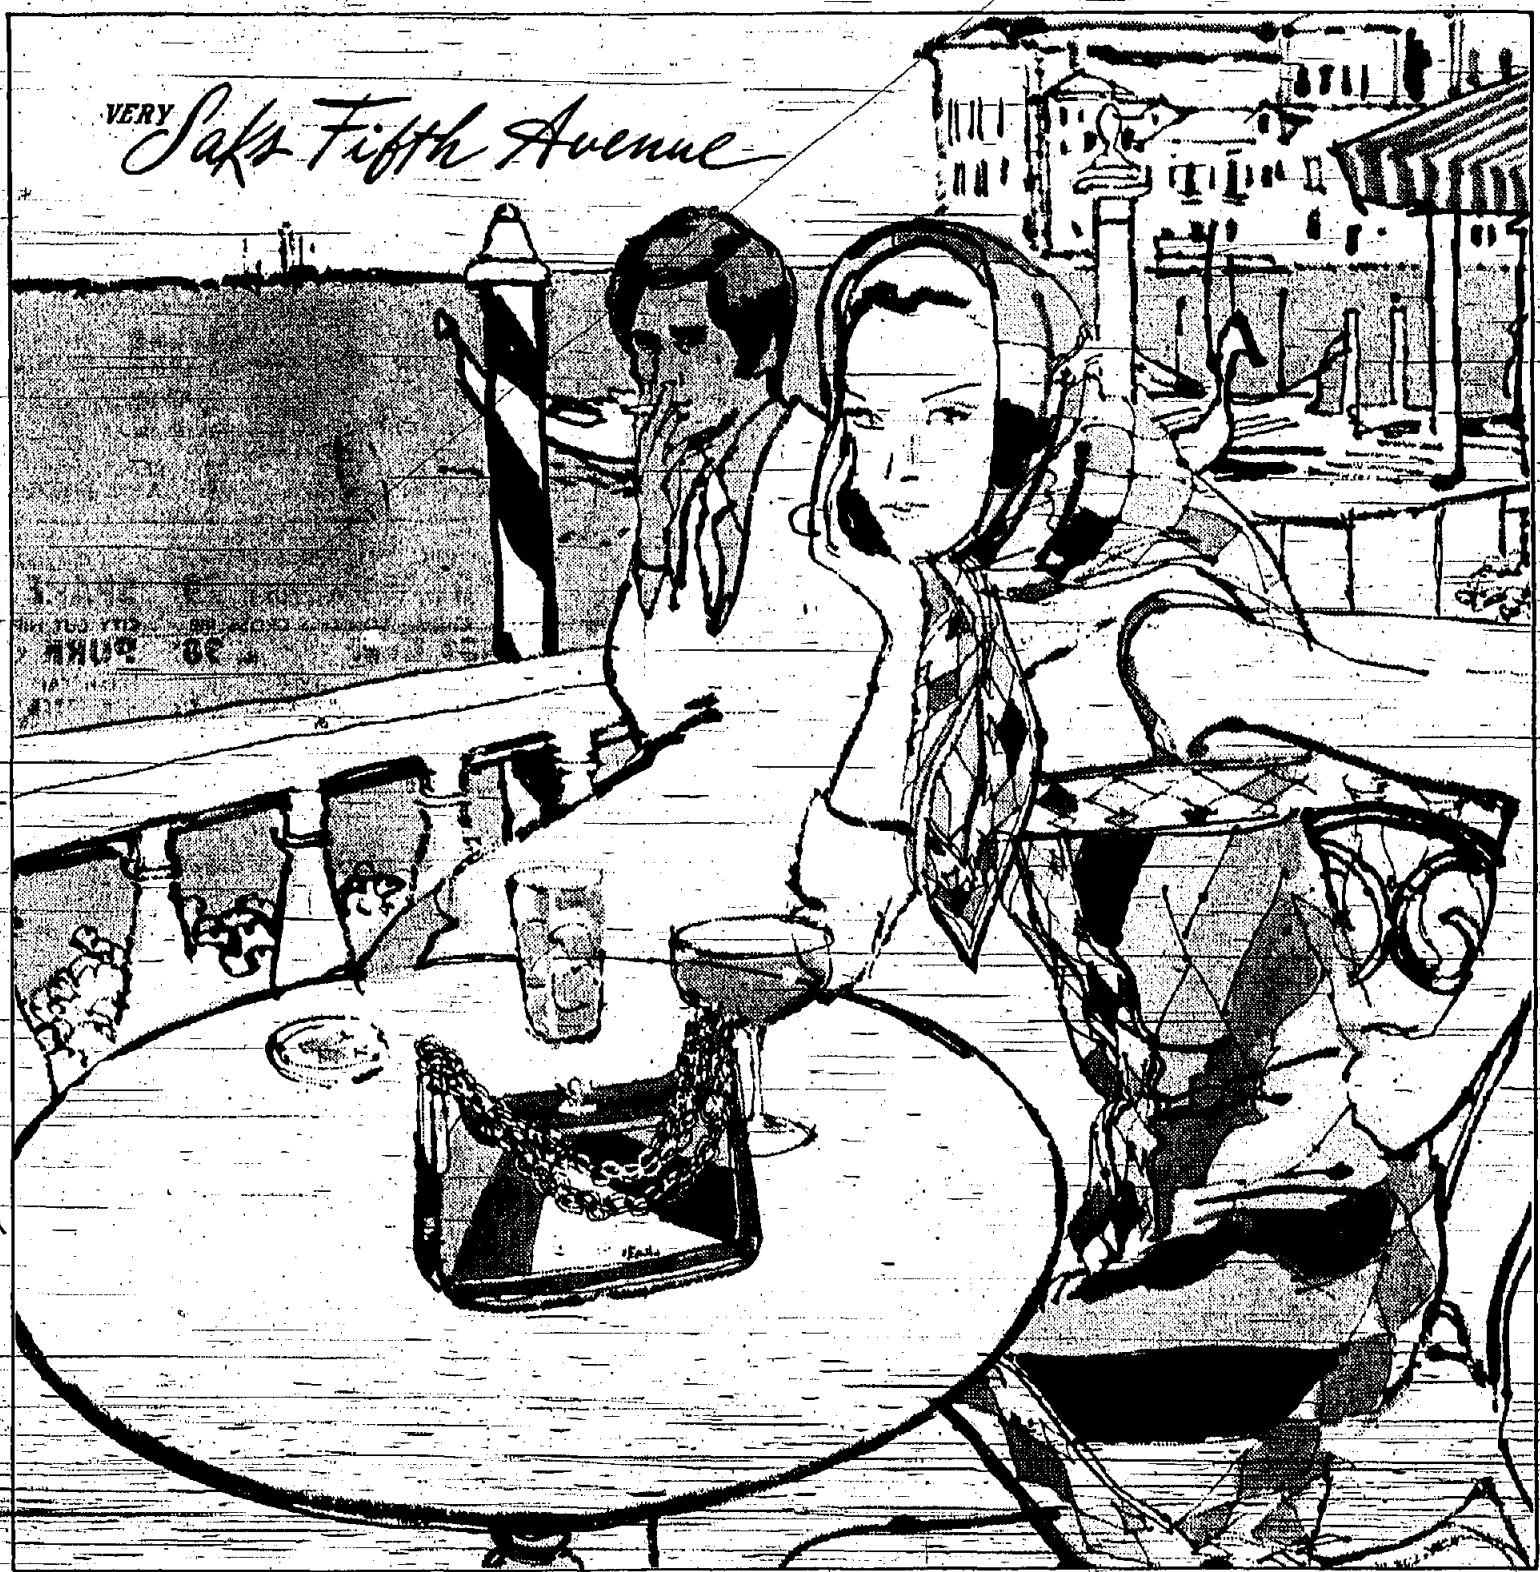

A. Patterns of cancer incidence and death in Western Europe, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand generally resemble those in the United States. Statistics in many other parts of the world are not extensive enough to yield precise conclusions. When cancer death rates in the United States are compared with those in other countries, England, Wales and Scotland are found to have a higher rate for lung cancer, Finland a higher rate for cancers of the stomach and esophagus, and Japan a higher rate for stomach cancer and a lower rate for cancers of the prostate, breast, and ovary.

More Questions and Answers on Cancer will appear in the next Search for Health column.

A curious phenomenon among the Emilio Pucci cult is that no matter how many Puccis a woman may have, she's always tempted by another. Because as the seasons change and our exclusive printings arrive from Italy in ever-changing collections of dresses, swimsuits, palazzo pyjamas, each one seems more beautiful and more appealing than the ones before. As you can well understand when you see our newest silk jersey dress, $190, or silk chiffon scarf, $30 or silk handbag, $60. All this plus vibrant Vivara perfume, in our Pucci Boutique.

*Won't you come see our new Emilio Pucci collection Monday through Wednesday, June 16 to 18. Informal modelling from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Pucci Boutique.

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheelan,
County Home Economist

Serve fresh, juicy red New Jersey strawberries often during their short but sweet season.

When you buy fresh strawberries, look for those with a deep, red color, shiny appearance, well formed shape with green caps and ones which are clean and free from moisture or decay spots.

Unless you plan to freeze or preserve them immediately, buy only the amount of berries you can use within one or two days.

Strawberries freeze and decay easily, so handle them gently. When you get the berries home from the market, sort them immediately, and remove any softened ones. Place them unwashed in a flat dish or pan and cover them with waxed paper. Keep the strawberries under refrigeration until you are ready to use them.

In order to retain the juice in strawberries, always wash and drain the berries before you remove the caps. An easy method for washing the berries is to place them in a cold water bath. The soil and sand sink to the bottom and the berries will float.

For further information on the selection, care and use of fresh strawberries, write to the Union County Cooperative Extension Service, 500 North Ave., East, Newark, N.J. 07102 for the free bulletin "Fresh Strawberries".

For a special way to prepare strawberries, try the Strawberry Tart recipe, which follows:

STRAWBERRY TARTS

- 1 cup sugar
  - 2 tablespoons cornstarch
  - 1 quart fresh strawberries
  - 1 3 oz. package of strawberry-flavored gelatin
  - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
  - 6 or 8 baked tart shells
- In saucepan, combine sugar and cornstarch. Mash 1 cup of the berries; add water to make 2 cups. Stir into sugar mixture. Cook and stir till boiling; boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Add butter, gelatin, and lemon juice; stir till gelatin dissolves. Chill till partially set. Spoon 1/3 of the gelatin mixture into tart shells; top with the whole berries. Spoon remaining gelatin over berries; chill.

A FEMININE LOOK

(Commentary on a Study Mission from the Atlantic to the Pacific—but across the USSR)

by TRUDINA HOWARD

Fourth In A Series

THE CASE OF THE TWO SUITCASES When our Newspaper Study Mission group first arrived in the USSR at Tallinn, Estonia, we of course had to go through customs. It was a suspicious, nervous affair and the customs agents were curt, even to our starry-eyed new sweethearts in limbo. Nothing melted their cold hearts, the customs people that is—not the sweethearts, and they buried endless questions at everyone. Poking through my suitcase alone took 45 minutes and the discovery of the giddy, capitalistic amount of FOUR pairs of shoes in one suitcase almost turned the Red agent purple with rage. Our American group was the last to go through and I was just about last of that, but behind me was one more couple.

Now, when you apply for a visa to go to the USSR and it is granted, you are sent a small booklet of instruction on how to behave in the Soviet Union, and what you may or may not bring into the country. (Four pairs of shoes are not on the list.)

There are several items that are, however, and they are strictly forbidden.

WELL, THE LAST PUBLISHER to go through the sensitive customs line is an ex-United States Congressman, and his wife is an ever-glowing Baptist, so we expect no complications with two such sterling examples of Americans. But as the customs man comes to their luggage he notices two small suitcases among the big ones and he wants one of them opened. The ex-Congressman slowly complies and reaches for his key and opens the case. It is filled with gift packages beautifully wrapped in gay paper and—sweet ribbon. The agent, somewhat taken aback, reaches down and finger's one thoughtfully. He considers it and then, belatedly, rips the fancy wrapping down the middle, turning it forever. The ex-Congressman's wife objects to the rudeness, but before any retorts can be made, the agent gives a gasp. He is staring at what he is holding. It is a forbidden item, class-double-AA sensitive.

It is a BIBLE. He rifles through the case and it is full of Bibles. Breathing fast, he lunges at the second small case, and with temples throbbing rips away at the contents. Ye Gods, this time he finds more Bibles. What's even more, THEY ARE PRINTED IN RUSSIAN.

Well, That is when we are sure we are going to go to the Siberian salt mines for a long, long time.

The ex-Congressman and his wife are escorted stiffly into separate rooms for interrogation and we are rounded up outside by "our" bus to wait, and we all hold our breaths. Rala, our In-Tourist escort with the Communist computer for a heart, is our guard. She has just arrived during this episode to be our escort-keeper for the duration of our stay in the USSR, and she is watching eagle-eyed and taking it all in. I can just see the computer's registering. What a juicy report to hand in to Big Brother! (Rala, as you may have gathered, is pure Communist Party stuff. Red as red can be with no edges of pink anywhere, and she has been assigned to us and is "ours". Oh boy.

SO, THERE WE ARE, Rala the Red and the Unsteady Study Mission, and we wait. One hour goes by, two hours, three. We are pacing around the bus and worrying and whispering. One of the smart guys who learned Russian in the weeks before coming on the trip, is eavesdropping brilliantly and keeps reporting on the situation.

"They are both in the same room now," he says. "They've searched them and all their luggage and the findings, and are recording all they say. Now they've taken her in a room alone again because they've found some pills and they are suspecting drugs. They've said he can go but she must stay for more questioning. He refuses to leave her, so they repeat all the questions again."

And we wait. What are the pills? "Ah!" comes the report from our bright-eyed guy, "they are vitamins." But how do you explain vitamins in English to a Russian who doesn't know what vitamins are in Russian? We wait some more.

Rala finally has enough of waiting and goes inside for a few minutes finally, and then comes outside again. She offered no help. "Come," snaps she, "we are going without them because we must get to the hotel. The management expects us and 22 dinners have been prepared so we must get there." We rather hesitate to leave our troubled couple but Rala says move and so we move.

We feel that Don and Lucille will be deported to the salt mines straight away with the rest of us following shortly. But, some two hours later while we are at dinner dejectedly nibbling at some peas, oily french-fried potatoes and tough chicken, the pair loom in the doorway. They are shaken and pale but back with us and we are relieved. We ask for the story.

"Well," says Don, "it was an ordeal and frightening but in the end the agents were alright. They even brought us back here. They searched all our luggage thoroughly, interrogated us together and separately, called in some officials and recorded everything. To make a long story short, they have confiscated the Bibles printed in Russian, but will send the Bibles in English to us at the Pacific border" (at our expense) when we leave the Soviet Union for Japan."

The explanation for having the Bibles in the first place is simple, Don explains. Lucille is taking them to friends in Japan for a revival meeting or something! Don and Lucille are from California. "Also," the ex-Congressman says, "I told the Russians that since they claimed to have religious freedom we were taking them at their word."

Well, it took about six extra hours and a lot of waiting and mental anguish for him to do it. At that point there were a few people who weren't Russian who would cheerfully have sent him and his Lucille to the salt mines right then and there.

Cotton farming is work

The U.S. Department of Labor reports that the planting, care-and-harvesting of cotton require more man-months of seasonal labor than any other crop. Developments such as mechanization or programs limiting production, which affect the demand for cotton labor, have a profound effect on the nation's seasonal labor requirements.

Ask Amy

By
AMY
ADAMS

Dear Amy:

Problem of all problems! That's what I have.

My husband is due home from the service during the month of June. My problem is this: I love my husband very much and I don't want to live without him, but I had an affair with another man about 3 weeks ago and now find I am pregnant.

Amy, I don't want this baby; I want my husband. He will know sooner or later and I don't know what to do.

I have never read in your column a problem similar to this. Please advise me as to what to do.

Just sign me...

"In a Spot"

Dear "In a Spot": You have one of two choices, madam. After he is home a few weeks, you can tell him (excitedly) of your condition and give birth "prematurely". (If he's dumb enough to believe it, you have it made!) Or you can tell him the truth and take your chances.

I suggest you choose the latter.

Dear Amy:

I recently moved into a new neighborhood where an old girl-friend lives. Immediately she has launched a campaign aimed at my joining her favorite charitable organization. I did a little investigation and was disappointed at what I found out so I turned her down. I had found out that in order to get the women to work and raise funds, periodic luncheons, dinners, cocktail parties, etc. were given at no charge to the "workers" who made their "quotas".

I personally feel that if one is going to do charitable work, the only recognition one should receive is the inner satisfaction of helping one's fellow man and that money collected for the home supported by this organization should not be used for the good times of the more fortunate.

My friend's reply was that without this "incentive" the workers would not work and the money collected would be pitifully small in amount.

My friend and I never resolved our discussion, but I would like to know your opinion.

Not Joining

Dear Not Joining: Many women who "volunteer" to work for charitable organizations do so for the social contacts especially where there is remuneration in the form of dinners, cocktail parties, etc. Each one of us must decide for our efforts whether we want remuneration or inner satisfaction. But I can tell you that what your friend told you is true in many charitable projects.

However, if you are sincere in your desire to give your all to Charity and want nothing in return, send me your name and address and I'll put you in touch with exactly what you are looking for.

Address all letters to:

Play 'mom,' 'dad' to a foreign student

Homes are being sought for foreign students in the United States, according to Mrs. James A. Richards of Kenilworth, area chairman of Experiment in International Living. The organization is looking for families willing to play "brother" and "sister" to foreign students for one month during the summer before they begin their studies at American colleges and universities.

Founded in 1932, the Experiment in International Living is an independent nonprofit organization financed by fees, foundation grants, gifts and government contracts.

Families interested in welcoming a foreign student to this country may contact Mrs. Richards at 272-5856.

N.J. Residents Find Poconos Perfect Retreat

Long a favorite with vacationing Pennsylvanians, the Pocono Mountains have become a lure for more and more Jerseyans over the last few years... and as land in the Metropolitan area becomes scarcer and more expensive, it is expected that the trend to the Poconos will continue.

"There's no question as to what motivates the hundreds of N.J. residents who have made the Poconos one of the prime second-home markets in the East," says a noted land developer.

"These families, weary of the pressures, clamor and hustle-bustle of city living—are seeking a leisure-time haven... rustic and secluded... an away-from-it-all spot from which they can return to their work-a-day environment relaxed and refreshed."

"This is what we have for them high above the Delaware Water Gap in the green-forested Poconos. It is among the last of the region's mountain sanctuaries."

"Because of their high altitude, up to 2,500 feet above sea level, their magnificent mountain scenery, their many lakes—and their pure, dry health-giving air, the Poconos are often called 'The Colorado of the East'. Folks in North Jersey are just beginning to realize that this wonderful mountain region can be reached over new super-highways within two hours and is available for low-cost summer and winter vacations."

This combination of accessibility, good air, spacious surroundings, and a variety of summer and winter sports activity, has made the Poconos an increasing favorite retreat for New Jersey residents.

Sessions planned for homemakers on storage space

How many of you find yourselves living in more clutter each year? Are you leaving your car "out of the garage" because there's not enough room for the garden tools and the car too? When did either you or your husband last ask, "When will you throw away some of that 'junk'?" "Where is the garden trowel?"

Numerous ideas are available for creating your own storage facilities. Some you can make, others you can buy. Remember, however, as you increase your storage spaces around the home it will be even more important to recall where everything has been placed. Do you know of a simple formula that the whole family can use?

Mabel G. Stolte, County Home Economist, will conduct an afternoon and evening session on Thursday, June 19, from 1 to 2:30 p.m. and again in the evening from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Extension Service auditorium, 300 North ave., E. Westfield. The evening meeting is especially for those wishing to involve the man of the house.

This meeting will provide the basic storage principles your whole family can cooperate in applying. In addition, some of the latest storage ideas will be displayed for brainstorming purposes.

Newark State College offers courses in summer session

An "Institute on the Black American" will be among courses offered this summer at Newark State College, Union, according to Charles J. Longacre, director of the Division of Field Services at the college. The institute will provide three semester hours of graduate credit and will be conducted by Dr. Arnold Rice, a professor of history and a specialist in black studies. The course is one of 63 graduate courses and 120 undergraduate courses being offered June 30 through Aug. 8. Registration will be from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday, June 23, for public school personnel, and matriculated students and from 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, June 24, for non-matriculated students.

A workshop in digital computation that will include field trips to business and industrial research centers is being offered for high school mathematics teachers. It will be taught by Dr. Regina Garb, professor of mathematics, and will provide six graduate credits.

Mrs. Mary M. Bartlett, a member of the adjunct faculty, will direct the college's 10th annual European study tour, which will combine study at Oxford University in England with travel in the British Isles and on the continent. The fourth annual workshop in theater arts will be conducted by W. Carl Burger of the Fine Arts Department and James Murphy of the English Department. The course provides experience on-stage and back-stage, as students participate in the following areas of theatrical production: costume and scenic design; lighting, acting and directing. Traditional and experimental techniques will be developed.

The college will also hold summer courses at the Powerville School, Boonton Township, and at Neptune High School, Neptune. Registration will be 2 to 5:30 p.m. Friday, June 20, at the Boonton Campus and from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Friday, June 6, at the Monmouth County campus in Neptune.

Special education class at Woodbridge School

An institute for teachers of the trainable mentally retarded will be held at the Woodbridge State School, Woodbridge, June 30 through Aug. 8 from 9:30 a.m. through 2:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The institute will be conducted by Dr. David Bilowit, professor of special education at Newark State College, Union, as a part of the summer session at the college. Six semester hours of graduate credit will be given for the course. Prerequisites are a bachelor's degree, the introductory course in education of the handicapped and permission of the instructor.

Applications may be secured from Dr. Bilowit at the Institute of Child Study at Newark State.

The institute will cover the latest educational and psychological techniques for working with the mentally retarded. Students will work directly with residents of Woodbridge State School.

Dr. Bilowit has recently been elected a fellow of the American College of Sports Medicine. Dr. and Mrs. Bilowit live at 13 Decker ave., Elizabeth.

EARLY TUTORING MAY INCREASE CHILD'S IQ

Usually, the results of research studies are not particularly exciting. Sometimes they are discouraging. Rarely are research findings highly encouraging.

But there are exceptions. This is the case in the report of a recent study by Institute scientists.

The encouraging finding of the three-year research project is that the IQ's of culturally deprived children can be substantially increased during infancy by a simple tutoring program.

Vets fail to cash 7,500 checks

Paul M. Nugent, manager, New Jersey Veterans Administration Regional Office, Newark, stated that nationally, some 7,500 checks worth about $655,000 were returned to the Veterans Administration last month because of the failure of veterans to notify both the VA and the Post Office of their change of address.

In some instances, Mr. Nugent pointed out, failure to receive a monthly pension or compensation check from the VA creates a hardship for the family or individual involved.

Veterans or their dependents in receipt of VA benefits should include zip codes with their address changes, Nugent said.

Most youngsters learn to talk in the period between 15 and 36 months, Dr. Earl S. Schaefer, NIMH psychologist who carried out the study, believes that children are especially receptive during this time.

He also concludes that the children's environment during these ages influences their future intellectual development.

"Unless the infant is reached at this early period," Dr. Schaefer says, "he can catch up only with the greatest difficulty."

In the study, with parents' and community agencies' cooperation, two groups of Negro boys between 15 and 36 months of age were selected from low income neighborhoods in Washington, D.C. One group was given no tutoring. The other group received tutoring one hour a day, five days a week, from women college graduates experienced in working with children.

They read to the children, talked with them, played games with them, and took them on walks and short trips.

In the first nine months after the tutoring program, the IQ's of the children who were tutored rose 17 points — to 106 average. At the same time, the average IQ of the other group, was 89.

Publicity chairmen are urged to observe the Friday deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

who had no tutoring, remained low, actually dropping one point, from 90 to 89.

The "results suggest that many culturally deprived children can achieve normal IQ's if they receive this kind of attention and stimulation. Plans call for enrolling the tutored children in nursery schools — and following them through school to learn the long-range effects of early tutoring.

This long-term research is also vitally important. The more we can find out about children's intellectual development, the sooner we can begin to conquer some of the massive mental and emotional problems of our times.

Rural students tune in to knowledge

The school bus now comes equipped with stereo

Isolated rural schools in the United States have many students who spend up to 40 hours a month riding a bus to and from classes. Now some rural schools in two states, Pennsylvania and Colorado, are experimenting with "audiobuses" to make profitable use of the time usually lost on long bus trips.

What these school officials have done is to make each school bus a classroom on wheels by installing stereo sound systems with earphones for each student. Each headset comes with its own volume and channel selector controls. Interested students may select from a number of tapes. They are consulted on their preferences and tested to check the effectiveness of the program.

The taped programs in the Pennsylvania experiment are primarily concerned with fine arts and social studies. One channel usually carries a tape, "Great Moments in History," a series of dramatizations of important events in America's past. Other channels carry "Great Moments in Music" in which a famous symphony might be analyzed and performed. Well-known entertainers have recorded readings on the "Great Moment in Literature" tape. Each of the Pennsylvania buses carries five tape players and each device carries a 15-minute educational program.

The audiobuses used in Colorado is more elaborate. Programs, both group and individualized, are classified under five topics—English, social studies, science, recreation, and fine art. Students may choose materials on these topics prepared for their own age-level.

TAPED PROGRAMS run from three to 58 minutes. Some of the programs are educational travel guides to the area the bus passes through and include information about the economy, geological formations, plant life and climate. Other programs include famous plays, readings, poems, music and Spanish-language instruction.

"We intend that the programme will be highly motivating and demand student curiosity and interest," says LeRoy Hopkins, superintendent of the rural Colorado school system using the audiobuses. He expects the audiobuses to become a permanent addition to the school system and plans already are under way to broaden the number of taped programs to include subjects of local interest such as hunting, mountaineering, driving and home safety.

From the number of inquiries directed to the Colorado and Pennsylvania schools, officials think the audiobuses idea may have national and possibly international appeal. The problem of wasted hours on a school bus is not unique to the United States.

Pack 70 winds up season with plans for summer events

Cub Pack 70 held its last meeting of the season recently at the Parish House of the Springfield First Presbyterian Church.

In addition to a program of skits and games, activities for the summer were discussed. A Pack 70 family picnic will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at Seely's Pond. A swimming date at the Springfield Community Pool has been scheduled for the morning of July 17.

Cub Scouts are invited to attend the Cub Scout "Gold Rush" on Aug. 2 sponsored by the Union Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

The pack welcomed new members Paul Steinberg, Robert Shapiro, David Dietz, Randy Bain, Eddy Doscher, Jerrold Guss, Leonard Soled, Robert Markstein, Lonnie Dworkin and Mark Ackerman. All of the members of Pack 70 marched in the Springfield Memorial Day parade, as well as the new members.

Pack 70 took an active part in the recent Scouting Expo held in the Elizabeth Armory. Pack 70 had a leather craft booth attended at all times by the cubs. All boys visiting and working at the Expo were invited to watch and learn how to work with leather.

The backyard chef who wants to be different may find just the thing in "Beef Teriyaki," a specialty of Japan Air Lines chefs. Ingredients are 2 to 2-1/2 lbs of minute steak or other cuts of beef (for six servings); 1/2 cup Shoyu (Japanese soy sauce); 2 tbsp. Japanese sake (or dry sherry); 1 tsp. ground fresh ginger; 1 clove of crushed garlic; 1/4 tsp. monosodium glutamate; 4 tsp. sugar; 1/4 cup water. Combine ingredients except meat in mixing bowl, place beef in the sauce and marinate for one hour. Broil over hot charcoal. Meat less than 1/2 inch thick is usually prepared and will cook through in about five minutes. Take care not to overcook. Baste with the sauce while cooking. Sardine rolls are a new taste treat. Remove crusts from thin slices of buttered bread. Sprinkle each slice with salt, pepper and grated cheese. Lay two Norway sardines (dovetail) on the end; add dab of mustard; roll firmly, jellyroll style. Stick with toothpicks and dot with butter. Set close together on baking sheet. Toast in hot

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

Mabel G. Stolte, County Home Economist

HOW TO CHOOSE A BABY-SITTER
"Yes, we'd love to go, but I'll have to see if I can find a baby-sitter before making definite plans."

With the change in family living arrangements of recent years this statement is becoming more and more familiar. Young couples are moving away from their parents, having their family at a younger age, and participating in more recreation away from the home than in the 1950's, according to government statistics.

As parents, your children are your most important accomplishment which you should do everything in your power to protect from harm and help them develop. It is, therefore, important that you do not leave your children unattended before they reach their teens.

KNOW YOUR BABY-SITTER: Do you know your baby-sitter's reliability and honesty? Does your sitter like and understand children—especially your children? This is very important. If the sitter believes children are a nuisance her only concern will be that they do not bother her. She will not be protecting them from harming themselves or others.

Is your baby-sitter able to follow instructions—and do what you want done for your children? And, of course, you should know the name and address of your sitter!

PREPARE YOUR CHILDREN: Tell your children that you are going out. Also let the children get acquainted with the baby-sitter before leaving them together. They may be afraid of a stranger. If your children will be in bed and asleep before the sitter arrives, it's a good idea to plan to have the person meet the children beforehand.

To establish confidence and security, both you and your children should like the sitter. One way to learn whether your children like the sitter is to watch for a display of enthusiasm. If the children and baby-sitter are not able to converse, if they seem uneasy or upset, find a new sitter.

PREPARE THE BABY-SITTER: It is only fair to let your sitter know something about your children and what you expect. It's important your sitter knows the youngsters' feeding, play, toilet and rest routine. Make sure your sitter knows your children's names and nicknames, if any. Are there specific games, stories or TV programs your children enjoy? How do you wish minor cuts and bruises to be handled? What about punishment? If the children are to be fed, should they be given and how should it be prepared? When is bedtime and should the youngsters be bathed?

After the children are asleep what do you expect? Can she prepare a snack? Have friends in? Use the livingroom, TV or what? Don't just say, "make yourself at home!" Also be sure your sitter knows where a first aid kit is, the children's night clothes, food and light switches.

Do you expect housework? Remember it is basically a baby-sitting job. Perhaps, your sitter will be glad to earn extra money doing housework but perhaps not.

For emergencies your sitter should always know where to reach you by telephone. Give her the name and address as a double check. If you cannot be reached by phone, let your sitter know you will call. Give the name, address and telephone of your doctor, neighbor or close friend.

Science Topics

MAJOR CLUES to the mystery of the evolution of man may be given by the fingers of an ape's hand, says a University of Chicago biologist. Unlike men, all great apes display certain anatomical features helpful for tree living—such as hands with long, curved fingers and relatively weak thumbs.

The basic adaptation men's early ancestors probably never resembled closely those of any present-day ape," he said. "Furthermore, man and ape have followed their own evolutionary paths for a long time, adapting in different ways."

Man's emergence as a separate family may date back as far as 25 million years. If this theory is correct, man is a more distant relative of modern apes than some scientists have supposed. Even so, the scientist believes that African apes are man's closest living relatives.

A POLYVINYL GELATIN with the consistency of human flesh has been developed by researchers at the University of Michigan. When formed into pads and cushions it shows great promise for becoming a major aid for handicapped persons, paralytics, and possibly athletes. The gel is a soft, non-abrasive pad that acts like human fatty tissue. It can be made into seat cushions, mattresses, and brace pads.

Know Your Government

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

FEDERAL AID DOLLAR DISTRIBUTION SHOWN

Recent disclosure that New Jersey continues to pay top tax cost among all states for each dollar of Federal aid received has focused attention upon distribution of Federal aid funds within the State.

Federal grants to New Jersey rose from a total of $350,561,000 in the fiscal year 1967 to $426,728,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1968. Nationally, Federal grants totaled nearly $18 billion last year. New Jersey taxpayers are estimated to have paid $262,500,000 toward this, or a cost ratio of $1.79 for each dollar of aid received.

A supplemental tabulation prepared by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association on the basis of annual reports of the U. S. Secretary of Treasury compares payments to New Jersey State and local governments over the past two years. While subject to vagaries of changes in official reporting data and reflecting actual cash payments during the periods rather than grant allocations, the data shows changes in the fiscal years 1967 and 1968.

Major categories of the tabulation follow (1967 figures in thousands are given first, 1968 figures second):

Agriculture and agricultural resources, $4,798, $7,459; Natural resources, $3,748, $7,253; Commerce and transportation, $107,037, $116,528; Housing and urban development, $3,739, $35,780; Health, labor and welfare, $145,562, $174,701; Education, $50,563, $71,148; Other, $1,035, $1,090.

Total grants to New Jersey, $350,561, $426,728.

No hidden chambers in pyramids

Physicist uses cosmic rays for measurements

The use of physics to study the great Egyptian pyramids has dimmed hopes that one of the ancient structures may contain hidden chambers. Several years ago, Dr. Luis W. Alvarez, Nobel Prize winning physicist from the University of California, returned from a trip to Egypt and began learning more about the pyramids. He had just seen, he was struck by the fact that the first two pyramids of Gizeh are the same size, were built for father and son, that some architects had worked on both pyramids. However, the first pyramid contains a long passageway and an extra chamber while the second has only a small burial chamber.

Just as many before him, Dr. Alvarez began considering ways to determine if there were hidden chambers in the Khafra (second) pyramid. From his work as a high-energy physicist, he knew that cosmic rays can penetrate stone much as x rays penetrate parts of the body. Thus, it seemed likely that cosmic rays could be used to reveal the internal structure of the Khafra pyramid.

Teaming up with scientists and scholars from Egypt, Dr. Alvarez set up elaborate detection equipment — including computers and a large spark chamber similar to those used in high-energy physics — in the chamber at the bottom of the pyramid. Months of measurements and data analysis showed no passageways or chambers.

Dr. Alvarez is confident that the method works because structural features — for example, the edges of the pyramid and a small cap at the top — showed up clearly in the results.

The area around the bottom has not been "x-rayed," and although this section eventually will be examined, most archaeologists believe that if there were hidden chambers, they would be in the area already studied.

A PROPOSAL BY Dr. Raymond Gold of Argonne National Laboratory may help solve a long standing problem of biologists. At a recent American Physical Society meeting in Washington, D. C., Dr. Gold proposed that studies of cosmic ray tracks in lunar minerals be used to determine the cosmic ray activity in past ages.

For almost a century, biologists have wondered if normal mutation rates (changes in the genetic "code" that determine the characteristics of an organism) are fast enough to bring about the changes in species observed in fossil remains. It is known that changes in genes can be produced by cosmic rays just as they are produced by x rays and radioactive fallout, and some scientists have argued that large bursts of cosmic rays are responsible for the relatively rapid changes in species that have been observed.

Dr. Gold says it may be possible to test his hypothesis on the moon because the surface has remained relatively undisturbed over millions of years, and that tiny cosmic ray tracks produced in previous epochs are probably still present.

AIR AND WATER pollution, noise, and crowded cities show everyone that technological expertise is a mixed blessing. A less obvious example of this mixed blessing was pointed out by Harvard University's Dr. Howard W. Emmons at a recent meeting of The American Physical Society in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Emmons says that per capita losses of property and lives by fire in the United States are worse than any other country in the world — $1,800,000,000 in property and 12,000 lives lost each year. He says the reason is that our technology has produced sources of fire, such as electrical wires and stoves, and materials for fire, including new fuels and plastics, very rapidly while the technology of fire fighting has changed very little.

Dr. Emmons notes that although there is some awareness of the problem — Congress passed a Fire Research and Safety Act last year — the problem is still not taken seriously — the $10 million budget originally recommended for the bill was cut out entirely.

MV testing centers to scrap night hours

June Strelecki, director of the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles, has announced that the extended evening hours for six driver qualification centers throughout the state will be discontinued June 30.

The centers discontinuing evening hours will be: Rahway, Berlin, Easton, Trenton, Lodi, and Wayne.

Starting July 1, driver qualification centers will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the law knowledge examination and vision acuity check. All driving tests are scheduled by appointment only.

BURGLAR-PROOFING HOME. Be sure to burglar-proof your home while away, suggests Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. The record indicates that most home burglaries are performed by amateurs and usually in the daytime when no one is home.

Modernizing of Legislature urged by Taxpayers group

Declaring the State Legislature shows serious deficiencies in "procedures, organization and results," the New Jersey Taxpayers Association believes top priority should be given means of improving the system.

In the June issue of the Association's periodical to the membership, Executive Director Clarence J. Ziegler presented results of staff observations during the first five months of the 1969 legislative session.

During this period, he said, the legislators introduced more than 2,000 bills and resolutions; passed nearly 500 of these; appropriated more funds for state and local operations than at any previous sessions, and provided salary increases of from $7,500 to $10,000 per year for the 120 members of the Senate and General Assembly.

Citing failings in legislative procedures, he said that responsibility "rests in the laps of both political parties." Ziegler pointed out that each party has held legislative control at some time over the past four years but failed to act. He declared the cure for major deficiencies lies in a major re-writing of the rules of the Senate and General Assembly.

Ziegler said that while other states are restructuring and modernizing their legislative processes, New Jersey's law mill operates without any cut-off date on introduction of bills; lacks continuity in legislative leadership; conducts relatively few regular committee meetings, and has scheduled less than 40 public hearings on legislation this year; through "conference" or "caucus" depending upon which party is in power — always citizen awareness of legislation in process of enactment, and "makes a mockery of the concept that citizens should be prepared to voice their responsible opinions on legislative proposals."

Despite the constitutional directive for a single annual appropriations bill, Ziegler observed, numerous supplemental revenue or appropriations measures have been adopted in addition to the general State appropriations bill at the last four annual sessions. Appropriations at the 1969 session seem destined to reduce the State's anticipated surplus to a thin operating margin, he asserted.

"NJTA finds no fault with the qualifications and skills of individual legislators," Ziegler concluded. "We are sure that collectively they are as representative and able a body as in other states. We do feel they deny their constituents and themselves the fullest opportunity to demonstrate their potential by adherence to outmoded patterns of organization and procedure. The shortcomings of the system are reflected in both the measures passed and unpassed."

"Having adopted a new salary scale, a conflicts of interest measure, and provided for a new legislative office building, legislators should next give top priority to improvement of their procedures."

Farm costs hike prices

Wholesale prices increased 0.6 percent in May, according to preliminary estimates, and brought the index to 112.6 (1957-59=100), the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has announced.

Most of the advance resulted from a 4 percent jump in prices of farm products and a 1.5 percent increase for processed foods and feeds. Prices of fruits and vegetables rebounded sharply following their drop in April, and livestock prices continued to climb, causing a further boost in wholesale meat prices.

Industrial commodities were up 0.1 percent, the same as in April, mostly as a result of price increases for metals and machinery. Softwood lumber and plywood declined for the second successive month, and fractional decreases were reported for textile and rubber products.

Jayne clinches crown; PBA wins three games

Jayne Motor Freight defeated Lions, 6-4 in Youth Major League action as Bob Barry picked up his fifth victory allowing five hits, fanning 10, and walking only one. He had a no-hitter going into the fifth inning, when Bill Palazzi broke it up with a scratch hit. Gregg Prussing homered for Jayne, and Mike Nelbart collected a single and double, trailing 6-1 in the last inning. Lions rallied with triples by Mike Tabak and Lawrence Klarfeld and a single by Palazzi, sandwiched between two infield errors. With two outs and the tying runs on base, Howie Forman's hard line drive to left was snared by Rick Sierchio on a fine running catch.

Three nights later, Jayne clinched the Eastern Division crown with an 11-9 come-from-behind victory over their closest challenger, Crestmont. Crestmont had jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the top of the first, sparked by Dave Steinhart's grand slam. But Dave Quatrone of Jayne, recently brought up from the minors, came on in relief in the first inning and hurled five balls the rest of the game to pick up his first triumph.

Rick Sierchio paced the Jayne effort with three for three, including a two-run homer, while Bob Barry drove in three runs with a pair of singles and a sacrifice fly. Carmen Scoppetuolo had three for three for the losers. Jayne executed two double plays and threw a Crestmont runner out at the plate to highlight a fine defensive team effort.

PBA defeated National State Bank, 14-8, in a free-swinging game. Ted Johnson, Kevin Mercer, Mark Pezzuto, Sal Popolillo and Roger Frank paced the PBA attack, while Doug DeLeonard homered for Bank and Larry Maxwell, Joel Goldberg and Martin Fishman contributed strong hitting.

PBA routed Bilkey, 25-6, with Tom Ronco striking out nine in a winning performance. Ted Johnson had four hits for PBA, while Roger Frank had three, and Kevin Mercer chipped in with a pair of doubles. Cal Ackerman had three hits for Bilkey, and Bruce Blumenfeld and Guy Warman collected two apiece.

TWO EVENINGS LATER, PBA continued its tremendous run production by crushing Rotary, 31-6, as Brian Deutsch allowed only three hits, fanning 10. Roger Frank led the attack with three hits, while Rick Morris had two. Russ Gabey slammed a homer and Deutsch tripled. John Noce homered for Rotary, and Derek Nardone and Chris Stadler collected the other two Rotary base hits.

Crestmont, behind Tommy Moore, turned back American Legion, 5-3. Moore allowed four hits in going the route, while Dave Steinhart supplied the big blow in the winning effort, a home run. Carmen Scoppetuolo, Bob Roth and Dave Kessler supplied the rest of the Crestmont attack, while Gary Preststaff, Art Cook and Steve Lipschultz paced the Legion attack. Bill Nevius took the loss.

In another slugfest, National State Bank outscored Rotary, 17-15. Martin Fishman, Larry Maxwell, Dave Schulman, Paul Natfali and Vinnie Mirabella supplied the heavy hitting for Bank, while Joey Knowles, Derek Nardone, Steve Klarfeld, Ed Hockstein and John Lopez were the Rotary sluggers.

Lions defeated Bilkey, 7-3, on Mike Tabak's four-hit, seven-strikeout performance. Hitting by Howie Forman, Bill Palazzi, Barry Greenberg, and Harry Stolhoff paced the victors, while Cal Ackerman had a home run for Bilkey. Lee Davidson absorbed the loss for Bilkey.

Dayton netters wind up at 8-6 ---best in history

Although the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School tennis team dropped its last two matches, 3-2, to Cranford and Scotch Plains, Dayton finished the season with an 8-6 record—the best in the school's history.

The Bulldogs, who finished with a 4-3 Watchung Conference mark, lost two very tight matches to close out the season. Hank Dobin and Mike Ghotner lost the first two singles matches against Cranford but then the Dayton doubles teams of Dennis Insley-Ray Danziger and Art Starr—Warren Danziger won to knot the score to 2-2. Insley and Ray Danziger were the first to defeat Cranford's doubles team this year. Starr and Warren Danziger were victorious, 6-3, 8-6, 7-5.

With the score tied, Howie Levine played third singles and although he lost, he did a very admirable job. Levine, who played excellent tennis, faced a boy whose record was 11-2, and lost two hard-fought matches, 7-5, 6-3.

Against Scotch Plains, Chotner and Dobin lost two singles matches. Dennis Insley beat John Gunnels, 6-1, 6-3. The second doubles team won, 6-3, 6-3, but Warren Danziger and Starr lost, 2-6, 6-4, 2-6. This contest was also very well played.

In reviewing the year, Coach Norman Pollack, who forecast a winning season, said he was very pleased with the team's play. He pointed out that Dayton was shut out only twice this year, the lowest number since tennis was initiated at Dayton. The 5-0 scores were at the hands of Westfield, Watchung Conference champs, who ranked sixth in the state, and Summit, Suburban Conference champs and first in the state. Two other losses were by 3-2 scores. Over a three-year period, the Bulldogs have compiled a 17-17 mark.

IN PRAISING HIS netmen, Pollack noted that Levine compiled the best freshman record in the school's history with a 9-4 mark. Pollack added that Levine has a very bright future at Dayton.

Ray Danziger, who played very consistently all season, compiled the best record on the team, finishing the season with a 14-3 record. His brother Warren and Starr formed the strongest doubles team in the Watchung Conference. This team had an outstanding 3-1 record, losing only to Scotch Plains.

Although Chotner and Dobin had losing records, Pollack pointed out that they faced the strongest competition this season. Both boys have tremendous tennis ability and will be of great help to next year's team, he said. Insley, the team captain, played every position for Dayton this year, and his three-year career record is an impressive 30-13. Insley was not only a team leader but proved himself to be a very versatile player.

Next season, Insley and Warren Danziger will be gone but Levine, Bob Goodman, Stewart Liebeskind and Byron Ehlers will take up the slack left by these players.

Bulldog trackmen complete meet season with 14-2 mark

By ARNOLD GERST

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School track team completed the 1969 season with a 14-2 record. The Bulldogs, who made a good showing in the state meet, defeated Edison Tech for their final victory in a dual meet this year.

Against the Techmen, Jim Robinson was first in the 100 and second in the 220. Dave May was first in the 440, and Joe Rapano was third. Bob Ripp took second in the 880, while Gary Street and Todd Herman were one and three in the mile. The Bulldogs won two of three places in the two-mile, as Keith Thelle and Ron Frank were first and third.

In the field events, Gary Grant was first in the javelin and Mike Burns was first in the shot put, while Grant was third in the discus. Sophomore Dennis Martin was first in the discus and Jim Robinson and Woody Young were second and third in the high jump. Young and Gary Branning were second in the broad jump and pole vault. The scoring was concluded as Carmen Bove and Paul Fanaroff were one-two in the high hurdles and Ranaroff and Stan Mazalka were one-three in the low hurdles.

LOOKING BACK on the year, track coach Marty Taglienti had nothing but praise for the entire Dayton team. Taglienti pointed out that the excellence of the team was proven in winning the Newark Boards and the state sectional meet. The team broke nine school records during the season.

In praising team members, Taglienti said that Norm Reinhardt, fourth in the state meet and holder of the school two mile and mile records, and Marty Josephs, who holds the 880-record, are two of the top distance men in the state. Both will be back with the Bulldogs next season, and Reinhardt for 1971.

Larry Stewart who holds the high hurdles record, was the highest point getter on the team. Stewart also competed in the low hurdles, Jim Robinson was Dayton's big man in the sprints, and Dave May, who was out for the team for the first time this year, broke the school quarter mile record. Mike Burns was a varsity weight man in the shot put and discus and was third in the state indoor track meet. Mike Davis participated in the broad jump and had a jump of over 20 feet this year.

Ed Harback in the pole vault set the school record by leaping 12 feet 6 1/2 inches and won in the sectional state meet. Dave Pierson, another vaulter, has jumped 11 feet this year. Mike Robinson did a great job as a sprinter, and was a member of the mile relay team. Other Dayton seniors included Ray Haines, Bruce Gerstein, Stew Grossman and Lee Krones and all did splendid jobs.

GARY HAYDU, senior weight captain, was third in the Newark Boards. His qualities will be greatly missed next year.

Juniors who received accolades included Charley Foster, third in-state meet, first in the Newark Boards in the shot put, and third in the sectional state meet; Bill Keller, who hurt his back, has thrown more than 200 feet in the javelin and was second in the Watchung Conference meet and fourth in the Newark Boards. Bob Susse was fourth in the 220 in the sectional state meet and was a member of the mile relay team.

Bruce Zabelski, who had an excellent year in the discus, was second in the Watchung Conference meet, first in the Newark Boards, second in the county meet; first in the sectional state meet and second in the state championship meet.

Two other juniors who will be assets to next year's team are Keith Thelle in the two-mile and Woody Young in the jumping events and high hurdles.

PROMISING SOPHOMORES on the team include Carmen Bove, who came a long way in the hurdles, and Gary Branning, who is looking better all the time in the pole vault. Gary Grant, who was out for his first time for track, has the potential to be a great javelin and shot put thrower, said the coach. Ken Hall, who was sick some of the season, and Todd Herman are two distance men who will definitely help the Bulldogs next season. Other promising sophomores include George King, javelin; Dennis Marino, discus; Stan Mazalka, hurdles; Carl Mende, shot put; Bob Ripp, half mile; Gary Spiesbach, pole vault, and Gary Street, 880 and mile.

Rounding out the squad are many potential freshmen stars. These boys include Paul Fanaroff, a hurdler and the only freshman letterman; Don Astley, shot put and javelin; Gary Davis, discus; Karl DiCarlo, weights; Ron Frank, two-mile; Karl Kotovsky, 880; Rich Len, weights; Joe Rapano, 440; Warren Schleppner, one mile, and Mike Stadler, two mile. Other freshmen include Rich Addotta, Rich Badge, Mike Gonnella, Robert Pastume, Robert Pflander, Alan Ross and Bill Tedy.

Regional nine at .500 despite many handicaps

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School baseball team completed the season with a loss to Berkeley Heights, 8-3, and a 10-10-2 record.

The Bulldogs faced a few problems this year, handicapped the team's hopes for success. The injury to star pitcher Steve Jupa was a crushing blow to Dayton. Jupa suffered a leg injury early in the season and saw very little action. At times, Bob Janukowicz and Ralph Lozano also were hindered by injuries.

Another major problem was the lack of hitting. Dayton showed good hitting toward the end of the season but, for the most part, the anemic hitting was a problem all season.

Although Jupa was hurt, Mitch Wolff, Dan D'Andrea, Rick Williams and Dave Cohen did an excellent job for Dayton. Wolff, who also caught, was forced to pitch because of Jupa's injury and did a very good job as a starter. D'Andrea, a left-hander, was a starter and had many good outings. Williams and Cohen were the "stopper" in the bullpen.

The Bulldog infield was excellent defensively and had a fairly good hitting year. Rich Falcone, a catcher-outfielder, had many timely hits for Dayton and Ralph Lozano, first baseman who was injured in the latter part of the year, supplied power and punch to the Dayton attack.

Joel Millman, second baseman, was a steady fielder and also had many clutch hits. The left side of the infield showed great improvement. Bob Janukowicz and Dave Miniman were quite potent at the bat. Janukowicz showed outstanding improvement at the plate, and Miniman at third was a good fielder and a powerful hitter. Miniman hit Dayton's only homer of the season and led the team in extra base hits.

Phil Stokes led the team in batting with a .313 mark. Stokes, who had an excellent year, should be even better next season. Senior Rich Sellkoff showed his usual fine ability at the

Dayton golfers top Clark to close out with a 7-7 season

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School golf team completed its season with a .500 record, 7-7, by defeating Arthur L. Johnson of Clark, 12 1/2 to 5 1/2.

Four Bulldog players compiled three points each for Dayton. Bob Frank shot a 39 for three points; Gary Katz, 41 for three points; Dave Epstein, 43 for three points, and Don Lait, 45 for three points. Craig Andrews stroked a 45 and gained the final one point.

Throughout the season captain Frank, captain Katz and Andrews have been the most consistent golfers. Frank shot in the 30s most of the season.

Juniors Katz and Andrews are two golfers who can drive the ball a long way. Both rank among the leading point winners on the team and shot in the upper 30s and low 40s all season.

TWO OTHER JUNIORS, Epstein and Lait, showed improvement. Epstein settled down in the latter half of the season and gained many points. Lait shot in the 40s all season and was a very consistent golfer.

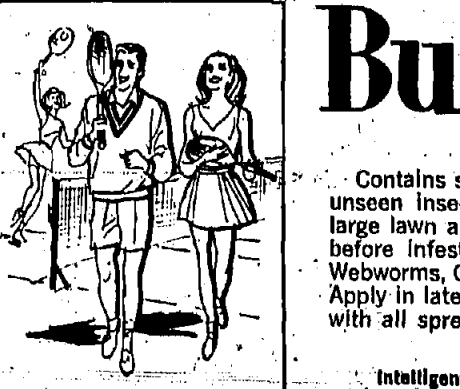

Steve Gehlik, Jay Silverman and Mike McCourt also played on the varsity level. Gehlik, who played in most matches, golfed in the mid-40s and scored valuable clutch points. Silverman and McCourt saw some varsity action and will help next year's team.

Swimming clinic reports openings

There are still some openings in all periods of the Summer Area YMCA's annual competitive swimming clinic conducted each summer for boys and girls, age 16 and under, who want to compete on swim club, school, or YMCA teams. Individual instruction is given in small daily classes by Y swim coach Henry Buntin on strokes, starts and turns.

Twenty class sessions will be held from June 23 thru July 14 and from July 15 thru Aug. 4 in early morning classes, 7:30 - 8:15 a.m., or 8:15-9 a.m., to accommodate summer swim club competitors. A nominal course fee is charged.

Newley film held over

The Union Theater is holding over its feature attraction, "Can Heironymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humple and Find True Happiness?" The film is now in its third week at the theater.

Anthony Newley has taken on the roles of actor, director and producer of this bawdy comedy about a star who unravels his life on film.

Others in the cast are Joan Collins, Milton Berle, George Jessel, Comde Kreski, Stubby Kaye and Victor Spinetti.

Ormont extends 'If' a third week

"If..." winner of the best film award at the Cannes Film Festival, has been held over at the Ormont Theater in East Orange. The film is now in its third week at the theater.

The adult film about the cruelties and psychological oppression in a modern British boys' school stars Malcolm McDowell, David Wood, Richard Warwick and Charles Nozeman. It was directed by Lindsay Anderson.

Meehan stars in 'George M'

"George M.," the musical hit now playing at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn, revives memories of vaudeville for the older generation and brings it to life for members of the younger set.

Danny Meehan stars in the show which features the life and songs of George M. Cohan.

Floral fireplace

Spread a colorful display of flowering plants on the hearth or your indoor fireplace this summer to maintain a cheerful outdoor atmosphere.

Clusters of geraniums, begonias, azaleas and year-round chrysanthemums, in red clay pots to keep them healthy, can make your floral fireplace a bright center of attraction.

IRMA - Ronald Young, who plays Nestor in "Irma La Douce," currently playing at the Meadowbrook Dinner Theatre, holds on tight to Monique Van Vooren, who plays the title role. Young is preparing his first album for a record company in Nashville, Tenn. Coming July 16 to the Meadowbrook is "Las Vegas Laugh-In" with Denise Darcel and Pinky Lee.

'Irma' a hit at box office

"Irma La Douce," starring Monique Van Vooren with Will B. Able, has proven a box-office bonanza at the Meadowbrook Dinner Theatre in Cedar Grove.

Following "Irma La Douce" at the famed Pompton Turnpike landmark - it ends June 29 - another French name will headline the show. After a brief vacation period, the "Las Vegas Laugh-In" will be the attraction starring Denise Darcel, Pinky Lee and The Vegas Lovelies. It starts Wednesday, July 16.

Both of the stars have scored in productions at the Meadowbrook in the past but this is the first appearance of the Lovelies - and they are really something to see. If you thought "The World of Burlesque" was hot, see this one! "Girl watchers" are advised to make reservations immediately. The cast figures, "If you've got it flaunt it!"

Associate producer Marvin Sprague, who has appeared on stage in scores of productions, was the innocent victim of a car accident and will be confined for another month at St. Claire's Hospital, Pocono Road, Denville. The spunky showman will be back in harness in the fall. In addition to his acting chores he excelled in lighting and stage management and is surely missed.

ELIZABETH HARTMAN as the sex-obsessed Zinida, uses her wiles on Yakov Bok (Alan Bates) in MGM's "The Fixer," which continues this week at the Castle Theater in Irvington Center. The film is the screen version of Bernard Malamud's famous novel which won both the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award for fiction. Dirk Bogarde, Hugh Griffith, Ian Holm, David Warner and Carol White also star in the movie.

The second film on the bill is "Mayerling," starring Omar Sharif and Catherine Deneuve, with James Mason and Ava Gardner.

Paper Mill offers ice skating revue, three comedy hits

A four-show summer season will begin July 15 at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn. "Red, White and Maddox," with the original Broadway cast led by Jay Garner, will run for three weeks through Aug. 3. The widely-praised musical is a fun-filled yet devastating satire of Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox.

"The Show-Off," one of Broadway's outstanding comedy successes the past two seasons, will star George Grizzard and Jessie Royce Landis for two weeks starting Aug. 5. Grizzard starred in the Paper Mill production of "The Glass Menagerie" and "Amphitryon 38." Miss Landis starred at the Paper Mill and on Broadway in the Paper Mill production of the Pennsylvania Dutch play, "Papa Is All."

"Papa Is All," a gala ice show direct from Las Vegas, will transform the Paper Mill stage into an ice skating rink on Aug. 19. The show will run through Aug. 31.

"There's A Girl In My Soup," the long-running Broadway sex comedy, will star William Shatner, TV favorite of "Star Trek," and Jill Haworth, from "Cabaret," Sept. 2 through 14.

Subscriptions covering all four summer attractions at the Paper Mill, at a 15 per cent reduction in ticket prices, can be obtained by calling DR 9-3636.

Quinn plays lead in Mayfair film

Anthony Quinn stars in "The Shoes of the Fisherman," which opened yesterday at the Mayfair Theater in Hillside. Quinn is cast in the role of a Russian Pontiff who is trying to save the world from war and destruction.

The film is set in a future time when the starving Chinese people threaten to fight for food to survive. A short appearing on the same bill is "Northern Snows to Southern Cross."

75,000 radishes used

HOLLYWOOD - Seventy-five thousand radishes will be used in the Warner Bros.-Seven Arts motion picture comedy, "The Phynx," to cover the escape of more than 20 kidnapped show-business personalities. The California radish crop was harvested in time to meet the film's vegetable requirements.

FRIDAY DEADLINE
All items other than spot news should be in our office by noon on Friday.

MONIQUE VAN VOOREN and Will B. Able star in "Irma La Douce," which continues at the Meadowbrook Dinner Theatre in Cedar Grove through June 29. Others in this musical about a Parisian street walker include Nestor Young, Wallace Englishard, Taylor Reed, Louisa Flanagan and Jo Ann Cifala.

Romantic lead

HOLLYWOOD - Tony Bill has been signed by Jerry Adler to play the romantic lead in "Nobody Loves a Drunken Indian," the Warner Bros.-Seven Arts motion picture in which Anthony Quinn will star under the direction of Sir Carol Reed. Bill will portray Eleven Snowflake, a young American Indian aspiring to a writing career in the film version of Glair Haffaker's novel.

Station Breaks

CHIT-CHAT ... Bobby Russell, award-winning writer of "Honey" and "Little Green Apples" and Buzz Cason of Russell-Cason Productions and Elf Records (distributed by Bell Records), have been appointed co-chairmen of the 1969 fund-raising drive for the Southern States Aid to Biafra Committee. The West-Parrell Organization has signed Supa Heat to a long-term exclusive contract. They started as studio musicians and have done back-up for such acts as "Indian Lake" and "Poor Baby" by the Cowells, and the Everly Brothers' "Lord of the Manor." Their single will be released within a month and their album by mid-summer.

Decca Records has released a special version of The Who opera, "Tommy," prepared exclusively for radio station programming. It is for stations that are unable to play the lengthy opera in its entirety. Command/Probe Records reverses the trend of releasing a single and then the LP. Taken from "The Love Song of A. Wilbur Meehan" was the single "Today Has Been Cancelled," chosen on the basis of air-play and disc jockey reaction. This process was originated with "The Minotaur" from Dick Hyman's album "Moog: The Electric Eclectics of Dick Hyman."

GOOD LISTENING - WOR's John Gambling early morning mixture of chatter and music. Listening to John Junior, reminds you, correspondent when many years back, John senior was conducting his then very popular morning radio exercise show, with a trio of live musicians on the same station. We still remember those early morning trips we took to N.Y. to see the show in action, and on many occasions saw sleepy-eyed young John trying to keep up with pop...

Summer concerts opens with Casals

Pablo Casals, the world famed 92-year-old cellist, will conduct the Chamber Orchestra in a special Pablo Casals program at the Waterloo Village Music Festival at Stanhope, on Saturday evening, June 21. This will mark the music center's second season of summer concerts. The premiere curtain is scheduled for 8 P.M.

Casals will lead the orchestra in the "Haffner" Symphony by Mozart. The Casals evening will include also two programs to be conducted by Alexander Schneider—Handel's "Grosses for Strings," and Haydn's "Cello Concerto," which will have the noted cellist Stephen Kates as the soloist.

It will be Casals' only concert engagement.

this summer with the exception of his annual pilgrimage to Marlboro, Vt.

Although the concert program for the summer at Waterloo is as yet incomplete, among the many artists already engaged to appear here are pianist Van Cliburn on July 19, Metropolitan Opera star's Roberta Peters and Jan Peerce on August 2, famed RCA-Recording singing star Eddy Arnold on August 9, and Julius Rudel, renowned director of the New York City Opera Company, who will lead a "Viennese Night" on August 23. Pianist Gary Graffman will be the soloist that evening.

IT'S A BABY

The Baby Eridator is an airmobile plant that can purify water at 420 gallons per hour. The plant is lighter than a thousand pounds and can be transported by helicopter or gver rough terrain on the Army's mechanical mule. It can be set up for operation in less than an hour.

Army fits her just fine ROTC isn't only for the boys

Miss Ruth L. Weingartner, a recent Douglass College graduate, believes everyone owes his country at least two years of service and she aims to practice what she preaches. The 21-year-old brunette was the first woman to receive Lieutenant's bars in a commissioning ceremony for ROTC cadets at Rutgers College last Wednesday.

Ahead of her is two years of active duty in the Women's Army Corps—one year in this country and one year overseas.

"I come from a family of flag-wavers," she says in explaining her decision to enter the military. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Weingartner of 213 High St., South Bound Brook, both served in the Army Air Corps during World War II.

Ruth acquired her commission through the Army's College Junior Program. She was one of some 150 girls from throughout the country who spent four weeks at Ft. McClellan after the junior year, "sort of trying on the Army for size."

"I just loved it," she recalls. "At Bound Brook High School I was a flag twirler and I liked the drilling and marching and all the pomp and circumstance."

RUTH HAS ENCOURAGED her 16-year-old sister, Janice, to follow in her footsteps but the Bound Brook High school student wants to teach. Ruth almost became a teacher but after her sophomore year at Douglass she changed her mind and abandoned the education course. At that time her mother gave her a newspaper clipping she had been saving about a girl who had been in the College Junior Program several years before.

"I decided to give it a try and applied during my junior year," Ruth says.

Any girl who is a college graduate can get a direct commission in the WACS, Ruth notes, but the College Junior Program has financial advantages. During her senior year, she served as a corporal at the pay grade of E-4 and received $300 a month. She will also be credited with an extra year's longevity after she completes one year of active duty.

Ruth hopes her overseas duty assignment will be in Germany or Spain, where she won't have any language problems. She majored in German at Douglass College with a minor in French and Spanish.

At Douglass she sang for four years in the Voorhees Chapel Choir and was commander of the Douglass Angel Flight, a social service organization affiliated with the Air Force ROTC honor society. She was initiated into Scabbard and Blade, the Army ROTC's

Thursday June 12, 1969 - honor society, as an honorary member last month.

She can drop out of the Army should she decide to get married, but that move is not yet part of her career plans.

"I'M JUST DATING AROUND, nothing permanent," she says. "I don't want to get tied down just yet."

She is willing to give the Army up to five years, depending on assignments, she says. "But I feel everyone owes his country at least two."

Her long-range career plans now center on fiction writing, a vocation inspired by a course in creative writing at Douglass. Ruth hopes the Army can provide some "basic training" in writing by assigning her to the Public Information Office and permitting her to take graduate courses in journalism.

"Originally I wanted to be an actress," she recalls wistfully, "but my mother put the brakes on that notion in high school. She reminded me that there are hundreds of talented girls going hungry."

Janet Moore wins award and degree

Hartwick College of Oneonta, N.Y., has announced that a resident of Mountnside, Janet L. Moore is among the 200 students to receive a bachelor of arts or science degree in the class of '69.

Miss Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Moore, of 1324 Birch Hill Road, Mountnside, was a sociology major at Hartwick. In May, she was presented the H. Claude Hardy Sociology Award. She has now received her bachelor of arts degree in sociology.

Degree in biology to Joseph R. Car

LANCASTER, Pa.—Joseph R. Car of Mountnside, N.J., was one of 394 Franklin and Marshall College seniors who received bachelor of arts degrees at the college's 182d commencement exercises Sunday.

Car, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Car Sr., of 1474 Woodacres dr., Mountnside, received his degree in biology. He is a graduate of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, N.J. He was student bands director, member of the WJPM Radio administrative board, and the Porter Scientific Society at Franklin and Marshall.

David Ranglack wins a $500 scholarship

David Ranglack of 1224 Poplar ave., Mountnside, has received a $500 scholarship from the Concrete Products Association to further his education as an architecture student.

The award was made possible through the scholarship foundation of the New Jersey Society of Architects which this year distributed awards totaling more than $6,000 to students. Funds for the program are derived from the society's budget and contributions from individuals and the construction industry.

Cub Scout Pack 177 to hold meeting tonight

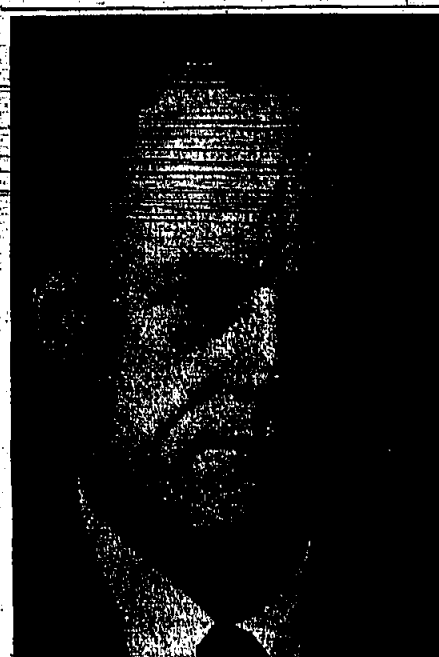

Cub Scout Pack 177 will hold a planning meeting tonight at 8:30 at the Community Presbyterian Church in Mountnside. All parents of Cub Scouts, as well as prospective scouts and Webelos are expected to attend.

Last year was described as a very eventful one, ending with the family picnic at Seely Pond. After a "year of many achievements," a spokesman said, "much thanks has been given" to Cubmaster Gordon Batten, the Webelos leaders, den mothers and their assistants.

Pingry students given awards for excellence

Four Mountnside residents received awards from the Pingry School in Hillsdale on June 5. Receiving honorable mention in improvement were: Form II, Robert G. Krusz of 10' High Point dr., and Form V, Charles I. Chavkin, 1492 Deer Path.

Conrad E. Prusak of 1535 Skytop dr., received the prize for German, while a special prize for Russian was awarded to V. Clark Johnson of 32 Bayberry lane.

ALLAN W. DEHELS of Mountnside has been named vice-president and assistant general manager of the Stauffer Chemical Co., New York. An incorrect picture was sent out with a recent announcement of his appointment. The one above is the real Allan DeHels.
