Mayor: Make U. S. highway builders responsible for any floods they cause

A proposal that interstate highway construction, such as that for Rt. 78, be required to include provisions for dealing with flood-prone areas, created by the highways, was announced by Mayor Philip Del Vecchio this week in a letter to Rep. Florence Dwyer, member of Congress from Union County.

The mayor expressed his "strong desire" to call to your attention a matter of policy with which you may not be familiar in the construction of federally assisted interstate highways.

"As you know, Rt. 1-78 has been under construction through Springfield since 1962, and it is presently scheduled for completion in 1972.

Susan Foster is chosen 'Miss Springfield Pool'

Fairest of all in the annual Miss Springfield Pool contest, held Sunday at the municipal pool, was Susan Foster, chosen as the teen queen; Bonnie Miller, first runner-up; Jill Golden, second runner-up; and Kim Harvey, third runner-up.

Coming events at the pool include a bubble gum blowing contest, tomorrow; the Little League softball and men's volleyball tournaments, as well as the bocce league tournament, all on Sunday; a bocce contest on Tuesday and a masquerade party on Wednesday.

Last Monday, a scavenger hunt was held at the pool. The items hunted for included a woman's stocking, an Indian head-necktie, a black jack gum wrapper, a brown leaf, a gold crayon, a zipper pin, an orange comb, ear-plugs, a green rubber band, a hobby pin, a red shoe lace, a plastic whistle, a button, a safety pin and a Canadian penny.

The winners were, in first place, Phyllis Wells, Karen Rieger, Jamie Shur, Bonnie Prokocimer, and Irene Ogintz; second place, Dina Sarge and Brenda Spur; and third place, David Del Vecchio.

On Tuesday, a triathlon was held, the event being a standing broad jump, a 50-yard dash and a shot put. The winner for the jump held for the 8 and 9-year-olds was Michael Clark, the winner of the dash for that age group was Bruce Giles, and Bruce Giles was also the winner of the shot put held for the 8 and 9-year-olds.

The next age group was the 10 and 11-year-olds. The winner of the broad jump was Keith Wildom. The 50-yard dash was won by Keith also, along with the shot put throw.

The winner of the standing broad jump for the 12 and 13-year-olds was Bruce Blumenthal, who was also the winner of the 50 yard dash for that age group. The shot put throw was won by Robert Kaplan.

The winners of the kite flying contest which was held on Wednesday were David and Jack Flood, in first place; Ray Haines and Jerry Rabinowitz, second; and Donald Thibberger, came in third.

The first-place teen queen, Susan Foster, received a make-up mirror, a $10 gift certificate at Reinecke's, and a beauty parlor appointment at Norma's Beauty Salon as prizes.

Another event also held on Sunday was an adult treasure hunt. The winners were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davis, and the prize was a meatball maker.

THE RESULTS of the bocce games played on Sunday are the following:

Team 3, with captain Jack Weiner, defeated Team 0, captain John Browne, giving Team 3 two victories and 2 losses.

Team 4, captain 4-vooms-Pantich, beat Team 10, captain Ralph Circelli, giving Team 4 four victories and 0 losses.

Team 2, captain Bob Davis, lost to Team 6, captain Ros Bloch, thus giving Team 6 two victories and 2 losses.

Team 7 defeated Team 3, with captains Tom Scelfo and Ray Rieger; Team 5, captain Mike D'Andrea, beat Team 1, captain Joe Klarfeld.

Team 9, now has 1 victory and 3 losses.

Team 10, 1 and 3; Team 2, 3 and 1; Team 6, 2 and 2; Team 3, 1 and 3; Team 7, 4 and 0; Team 1, 1 and 3; and Team 5, 2 and 2.

The schedule for next week's bocce league is the following: Team 5 vs. Team 7 at 5, Team 6 vs. Team 9 at 3, Team 2 vs. Team 10 at 3:30, and Team 3 vs. Team 8, also at 3:30.

QUEEN OF THE TEENS -- The Recreation Department has announced the winners of the "Miss Teen Springfield" contest. Pictured, from top to bottom, are Susan Foster, Miss Teen Springfield; Bonnie Miller, first runner-up; Jill Golden, second runner-up; and Kim Harvey, third runner-up.

"Highway bridges are built in our town without any provisions for street lighting, causing a very high incidence of traffic accidents and near-misses.

"It is BY FAR the most serious consequence to the construction of the New Jersey Department of Transportation relative to the increased storm-water runoff caused by the highway construction. The state's policy is that their responsibility ceases at their right-of-way, and that it is the responsibility of the municipality to handle this added runoff beyond the highway right-of-way.

"We take the position that we will not obstruct the progressive construction of new highways required to absorb the ever-increasing volume of vehicular traffic. But we do feel that since this type of highway is mainly for out-of-state, through traffic, it is an unfair burden on a small town to expect it to assume the added costs of major street improvements necessitated by interstate highway construction.

"We envisioned this problem in 1962, and asked the state of New Jersey to grant us a sum of money to survey the impact upon our existing facilities, and were summarily refused.

"In our case, we not only have lost some

Cancer campaign for town surpasses its goal for 1969

The Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society announced last week that nine communities in the county had surpassed their 1969 cancer crusade goals to date. In Springfield, Kenneth Adriaance of 454 Morris ave., leads the drive that has raised 139 percent of his community's 1969 target by collecting $5,401, with a goal of $3,700.

President Raymond J. Donahue of Linden acted as spokesman for the cancer society when he announced that Springfield, Clark, Kentworth, Linden, New Providence, Plainfield, Roselle Park, Summit and Winfield had all passed their goals. "In addition, the towns of Cranford and Westfield are within dollars of their respective goals," according to Donahue.

"I want to thank not only these chairmen, but also the local cancer crusaders who took the responsibility of seeing that everyone had an opportunity to join in the crusade against cancer," gressed Donahue, who added, "It is an honor to be proud that the residents of Union County have been so generous and enthusiastic in their support of an organization which is striving to wipe out this terrible disease."

The funds raised by Union County will be used to support a national research program and local programs of patient services and public education. The local service program provides free to all cancer patients in Union County wheel chairs, hospital beds, dressings, other sick room supplies and counseling. The Union County unit will also arrange for the payment of drugs and medications, therapy, home care service and visiting nurse care for medically indigent patients.

Regional board

'Suspicious' blaze is doused before it spreads from shed

A fire which broke out last week at the Grand Union supermarket on 209 Morris ave., Springfield, was quickly overcome, Chief Day stated that it might have destroyed the entire building had it occurred at night and gone undetected for any length of time.

The Fire Department also reported two unusual, yet unrelated, fires involving furniture movers. On Friday morning at 11:05, a fire

Water-logged resident asks Hughes to help save home while it's still there

An appeal for action -- before his home and property are washed away in the next flood -- was directed to Gov. Richard Hughes this week by Benjamin Thomas, of 68 Lyons pl. His home is located directly below the culvert which runs under Rt. 78 and empties into local streams at Lyons place and Salter street.

streams has been blamed by local authorities for much of the damage in floods this summer and in May 1968.

In response to a letter from this newspaper, Robert D. Meyer, Democratic candidate for governor, last week took the position that highway construction should include provision for storm drainage without aggravating local problems.

His Republican opponent, Rep. William T. Cahill, is expected to answer a similar letter in the near future.

Thomas stated, in his letter to the governor: "My home is situated along a brook beside a section of Route number 78, that is under construction by the State. Directly in the rear of my property a drainage culvert from the State highway empties into the brook.

Springfield photo world-wide news

Springfield is becoming known world-wide. Unfortunately, it is becoming known as the "place with all the floods."

Eric Rutkow of 83 Garden oval was traveling through London on Aug. 4 when he stopped to buy a newspaper. While browsing through the International Herald-Tribune, he noticed a picture from United Press International which looked strangely familiar to him.

Upon reading the caption, he discovered why it looked so familiar. The picture was taken outside Springfield Town Hall during the recent floods. The photo showed four unidentified boys floating past the building on a telephone pole. The caption read, "Four boys turned a flood and a utility pole into an outing in rain-hit Springfield, N.J."

Players rehearse down-to-wire for revue on Monday

The Sarah-Bellevue Civic Center has been the scene of some hard work these past weeks as the Springfield Community Players rehearse for their "Theater in the Park" production, held on the lawn of the Franklin Dayton Regional High School Monday at 8:30 p.m.

Many teenagers are taking part in this program and the highlights include numbers from their Dayton spring production of "Guys and Dolls." Also featured are some moments from the Players' spring production of "Gypsy" and special material written by Evelyn Orbach of Springfield. Mrs. Orbach, the director of the evening's festivities, has been writing revue material for 20 years, and has done several productions in Springfield.

Appearing in the show are Herman Drill, Linda Bronberg, Sue Selzer, Howie Moskowitz, Teddy O'Connell, Leo Kinnor, Phil Cohen, Sondra Morrison, Gideon Jones, Laine Lewis, Jerry Cohen, Manfred Orbach, Shelley and Gil Wolfe, Charlotte Chernus, Debbie Stavitsky, Judy Orbach, Ronny Orbach and Ted Levine.

5 public schools plan registration

School registration of all children who have moved into Springfield during the summer has been set for next Thursday. The registrations are from 8 a.m. until noon. It will take place at the James Caldwell, Raymond Chisholm, Thelma Sandmeyer, Edward Walton and Florence Gaudinier schools.

The date has been set in advance of the opening day of school which is Wednesday, Sept. 3. The early registration is arranged to enable the work of the schools to begin promptly and efficiently. No registrations will be accepted on the day of the opening, Sept. 3.

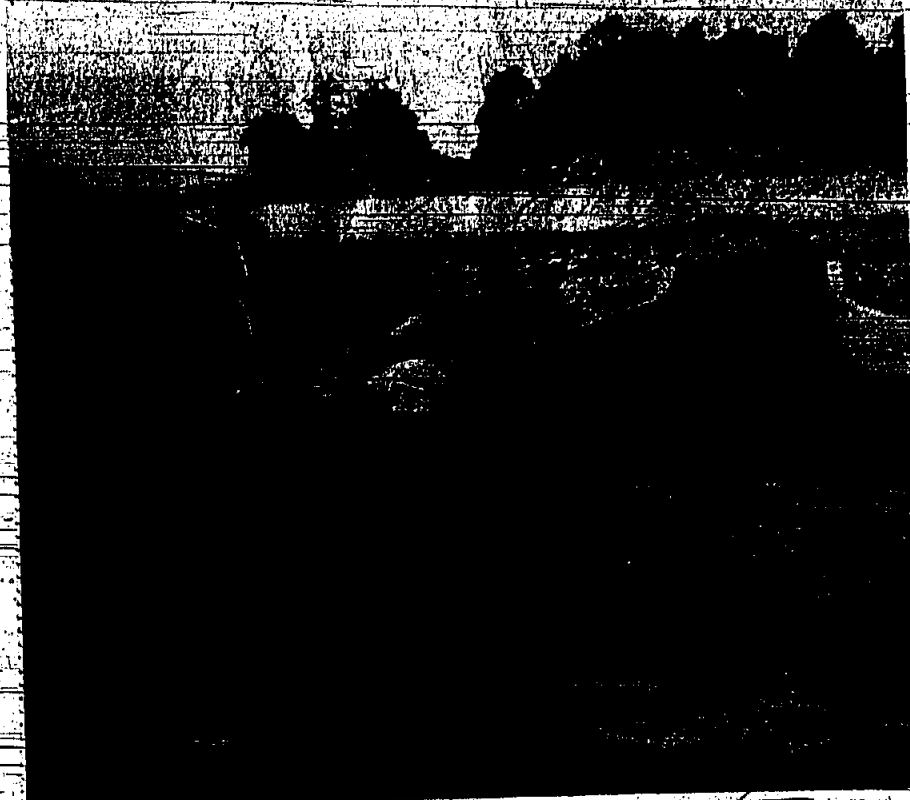

The entire faculty will report on Tuesday, Sept. 2. This will be an all-day session to orient new personnel and complete final preparations for the opening day, it was announced by John O. Berwick, superintendent of Schools.

CHARRED WRECKAGE is all that remains of a storage shed that was attached to the rear of the Modern Lighting Co. building at 615 Morris ave. The fire, which broke out at 4:07 Friday morning, is considered 'of suspicious origin,' according to the Fire Department.

Tape player, mike among items stolen from 3 automobiles

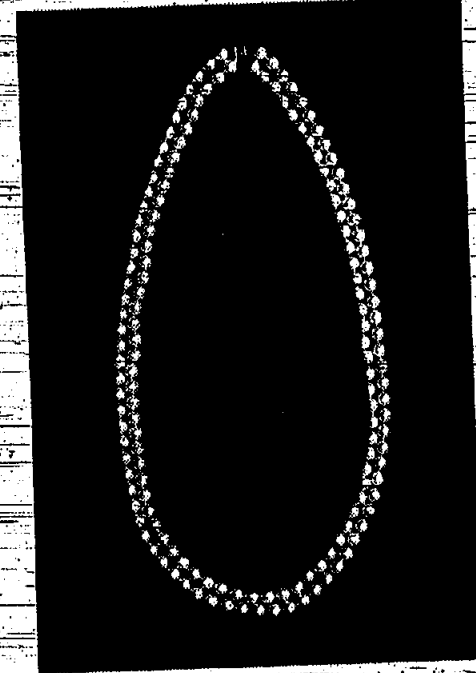

Springfield police recorded three instances of breaking into automobiles in one neighborhood this weekend. William Benkus of 13 Kamp dr. reported that some time Saturday night someone stole a tape player valued at $50 from his Pontiac sedan parked in his driveway.

Robert Fold of 30 New Brook lane reported that both of his cars were burglarized that same night. According to police, someone broke the radio antenna on Fold's 1966 Buick and stole a pair of sunglasses inside the vehicle. Also parked in his driveway was a 1968 Buick which yielded another pair of sunglasses, a microphone, a box of cigars, a rain-coat and a cigar box filled with personal papers.

There was no estimate on the value of the microphone, but the sunglasses, cigars and rain coat totaled $75.50.

Sanford Sherman of 14 New Brook lane also victimized at about the same time. Missing from his car were a tape player, 15 tapes, a tachometer and a shift handle, all valued at more than $250.

Chatham youth takes joy ride; result-smashing conclusion

A 15-year-old Chatham youth brought his weekend joy ride to an abrupt conclusion in Springfield when he crashed into a house on Short Hills avenue. The accident occurred shortly before 4 a.m. Sunday when the car, traveling westbound on Tulip road, failed to negotiate a left turn onto Short Hills avenue, jumped the curb in front of 125 Short Hills ave., crossed the lawn and then struck the house on the front left side, according to Springfield police.

Rt. 22 and rush hour combined to produce an all-too-familiar sight last Wednesday—a three-car chain collision in which two people were injured.

Vivian P. McKnight, 22, of Plainfield was traveling west in the passing lane at 4:39 p.m. when traffic forced her to stop abruptly. Her 1967 Volkswagen was struck from the rear by a 1967 Pontiac driven by George E. Kinney, 34, of Westfield. Kinney said his car, in turn, was struck by another 1967 Pontiac driven by Alfred E. Stone, 56, of Bound Brook.

Kinney and Miss McKnight were treated at Overlook Hospital in Summit, and highway travel was delayed as all three cars had to be towed away.

Anthony C. Licausi, 42, of East Brunswick suffered a laceration of the chin Friday night when his 1963 Chevrolet skidded off railroad Main street and crashed into a utility pole. Licausi was taken to Overlook by the First Aid Squad.

Jonathan Fisher, 13 of 66 Irwin st., Springfield, was injured on Tuesday, Aug. 12, when he was struck by a car driven by Joseph A. Sarno, 19, of 72 Linden ave., Springfield. The accident took place in front of 36 Edgewood ave. Sarno told Springfield police that Fisher was looking away from the street as he came out of the driveway on foot.

Gas station competes

A Springfield service station is among the semi-finalists in the New Jersey Petroleum Council's first "Service Station of the Year" contest.

The station and its operator, who will continue competing for top awards during judging scheduled this month, are: Sam's Friendly Service, Sam DeFino, Morris and Meisel avenues, Springfield. He is competing in the Class B category for stations built prior to Jan. 1, 1968.

More than 370 service stations had entered the competition from Zone 3, consisting of Hunterdon, Middlesex, Somerset, Union and Warren counties. Throughout New Jersey, 1,597 dealers are competing for the first and second prizes. The final winners will receive U. S. Savings Bonds and gold and silver trophies.

The contest is part of the petroleum industry's continuing effort to promote improved housekeeping and appearance at its retail outlets and to recognize and reward service station dealers who maintain superior service station cleanliness and attractiveness. The industry is striving to make the public aware that the service station dealer, like any other local businessman, performs a vital service to his neighbor.

Summit Center to offer a 'new approach' to art

A new approach to art will be featured in classes of four new teachers on the roster of the Summit Art Center this fall.

Mrs. Schuselka Stern will explore collage and construction as well as conventional media. Mrs. Schuselka will seek to interest students in three-dimensional work and new developments in the art world. She has taught and studied in Germany and Italy in printmaking and pottery, as well as painting, sculpture and constructions.

Etchings in linoleum and sculpture in terracotta and wax are two of the processes to be demonstrated in classes of Charles F. Simonds, California-trained artist. Simonds received his masters degree at Rutgers and is presently teaching at Newark State.

Contemporary printmaking for beginner and advanced artists will be taught by David Finkbeiner, another California artist. Finkbeiner also concentrated on etching and collagraphs.

Robert Wilson will teach a "combine art class" with painting, sculpture, building, movement and sound. Children as well as adults enjoy his total involvement classes. His experience includes forming a children's theater, lecturing at Harvard and earning an art degree at Pratt Institute.

Recreational and academic teachers offer both day and evening classes, and afternoon and Saturday for children. Classes for beginners as well as advanced students encourage each student to progress at his own rate. Registration for Summit Art Center will be held Sept. 1-15, with autumn classes running from Sept. 20 to Jan. 30.

Open season beginning on the local candidates

With the Labor Day starting gun, about to sound for the beginning of open season on Township Committee candidates, we feel that this year's campaign presents local voters with a choice between two well-qualified candidates.

Now is the time to start thinking up a few spontaneous questions, however, so that all-faithful observers can have them mimeographed for the candidates' night which will be held just before the Nov. 4 moment of truth.

For example, we would like to know, from both candidates, why the line we join, at the Post Office, bank or Dairy Queen, always turns out to be the slowest one.

Why does the newspaper delivery boy, we might also ask, always throw the paper in the bushes?

And why do the refuse collectors always throw the garbage can lid on the front steps, when it's not in the middle of the street?

Another major issue for the citizenry is why so many parking spaces are vacant when we have nothing to stop for, and all full when we want to do some rush shopping.

Why are all the noisy parties on our block, interested citizens might well demand to know, on the nights when we want to go to sleep early, while all the neighbors are sleepy when we want to celebrate.

With all the fine educators in local schools, our candidates should be able to tell us, why do our children get the ones who, first, can't teach and, second, don't like them?

Another important issue is why we can't get seated immediately in local restaurants, Springfield diners should certainly be given priority over trespassers from outside, who don't even pay local taxes.

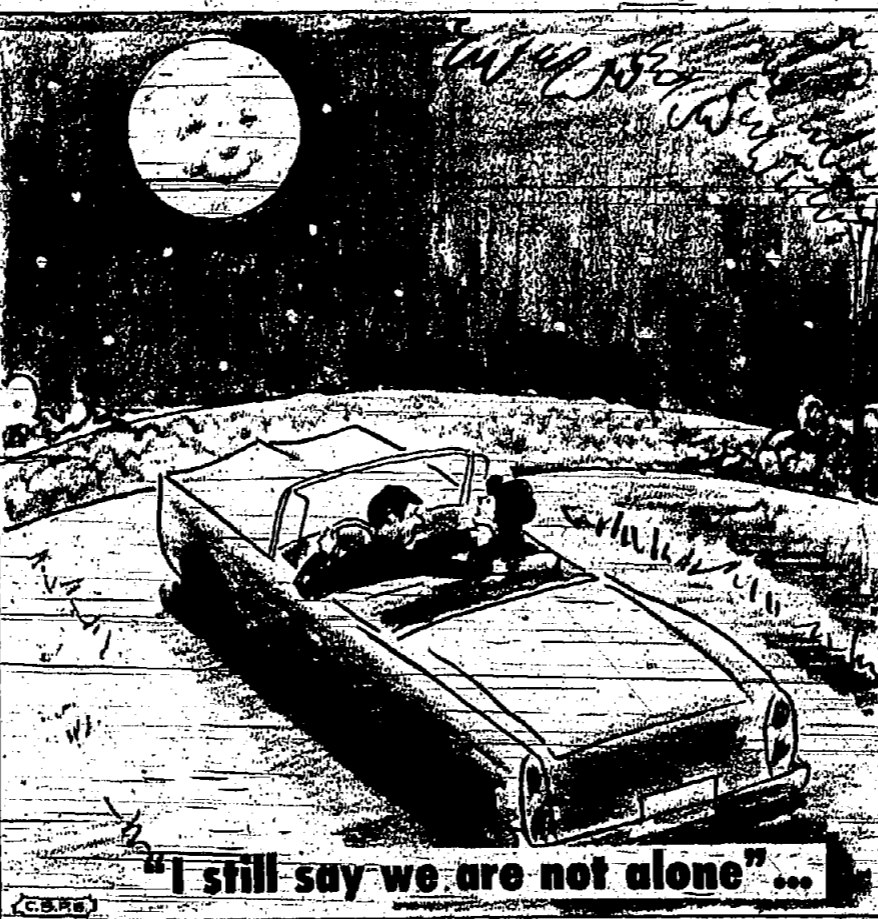

With the new ordinance to prohibit all-night parking, we might seek to discover why does the other side of the street get swept so much cleaner? Is the administration biased in favor of odd numbers?

And speaking of odd numbers, who do local dress shops always run out of our wives' sizes, while retaining wide selections for women who are not only un-American, but also undernourished?

These, gentlemen, are the questions facing the electorate of Springfield.

Whichever of you does best at answering them will certainly merit whatever fate he receives.

EDUCATION IN NEW JERSEY

TRENTON The timing of school children in New Jersey is a "big business" on the threshold of being revolutionized by the computer, according to Dr. Orville G. Parrish, director of pupil transportation for the State Department of Education.

"The school-bus system is the largest single carrier of human cargo in the state," Parrish says. "It is the most complex, most expensive, and most dependent, safety-conscious driver behind each wheel."

"We hope to conduct studies, for example, to determine whether children in any given area are safer walking to school or riding in buses."

"Information needed for vehicle maintenance, records of gas and oil consumption, repairs, bus mileage accumulated and similar statistics — which, incidentally, is being done at Trenton River — could all be produced as by-products of computerized vehicle scheduling. Studies of driver capabilities, especially under varying circumstances, can more readily be handled by a great deal of computer work now done manually could be produced automatically."

Parrish adds, "I would like to see a computer printout which would include a route map and instructions for the driver. It also would be an identification card automatically prepared for every child in the state, adding another measure to help insure that no bus is overloaded."

"Our studies so far indicate that most — if not all — of the things we hope to do are eminently feasible. Computerized scheduling, as it is presently conceived, does not provide a final answer to school bus scheduling needs. However, we have demonstrated that the basic aim of route scheduling — to produce better routes more economically and with an even greater concern for safety factors — can be accomplished. What we are working toward now is to make the program function at an even greater level of efficiency for our purposes."

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

THE PROS AND CONS OF UNICAMERALISM While lacking a popular groundswell of demand that the two houses of the State Legislature be reduced to one, the proposal for a unicameral legislature in New Jersey continues to interest governmental leaders, legislators, academicians, students and civic-minded citizens.

Nebraska now is the only state using the one-house legislative system. A single-house legislature of 45 members has been proposed in New Jersey. A bill calling for a constitutional amendment has been sponsored by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

Some arguments for and against unicameralism are set forth in a summary assembled by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association, which is cited in favor of the single-house legislature. It includes reduction of size and simplification of legislative organization; elimination of double consideration and speed up of the legislative process; encouragement of more effective procedural devices for legislative study; greater talent and performance among fewer legislators; firmer fixing of responsibility; reduction of costs and simplification of the legislative reapportionment problem.

Arguments favoring the present bicameral system include its built-in system of checks and balances between the two houses providing greater deliberation in enactment of legislation; more variety and representation of diverse interests in the legislative system of a heavily populated, industrialized state; lack of evidence to prove that a smaller legislature

PROFILE—Edward H. Tiller

(This is another in a series of Profiles on candidates for office in this November's election.)

Freeholder Director Edward H. Tiller would like to see the county get out of the welfare business.

The Garwood Republican, running for his fourth term on the Union County Board of Freeholders, sees little reason for the county to concern itself with welfare.

"Welfare expenditures are controlled by the state and federal governments," the 57-year-old politician said.

Tiller added that the current welfare administration in the county is akin to "taxation without representation." The freeholder complained that the board has "nothing whatsoever to do with the money spent by the county welfare board."

While the freeholders must approve the welfare board's annual budget, Tiller said, their expenses are not controlled by the elected freeholder board.

If the federal government did take over welfare payments the county, said Tiller, would have more to spend on regional needs which municipal, state and federal government are doing little about.

High on his list of priorities is flood control. Tiller believes much can be done by the county to relieve property and personal dangers because of floods.

The effort in flood control, he noted, should be done both at the county and state level. Right now, the state has a Water Policy Commission but the effect of flooding in Union County, he said, is not being studied.

"We can spend a million dollars this year for this year's problems — but it has to be done statewide for any long-term relief." Elimination of retention areas in other counties, he said, brings floods to Union County.

There is no question of the need for better flood control in Springfield, Hillsdale, Union, Plainfield, Cranford, almost all the municipalities in the county, Tiller said.

Tiller added that in Springfield, the Union County Park Commission has $50,000 budgeted to clean out some of the small parks "where sewage has accumulated over the years."

The freeholder hopes that "with other some relief for residents of that area."

Returning to the question of welfare, Tiller said the federal government should at least standardize relief payments by the state across the nation if it does nothing else.

"Southern states pay the minimum, industrialized states the maximum. The result is that we have a mass exodus of the poor northward."

Practically anyone, said Tiller, can come to the Union County Welfare Board, register and receive relief payments without proving the person lives in the county. This, he said, is because our program is not big enough to check people in.

He would stop that he called the large number of people coming to New Jersey because of relatively high welfare payments.

Tiller also believes that a male recipient, providing he is physically able, must work to get welfare payments. In some cases, the freeholder said, "welfare recipients get as much as a working man."

TILLER, WHO WAS born in Newark, is a graduate of Roselle Park High School. He has been a resident of Garwood for 35 years. His first political experience was in Garwood when he was invited to join the Garwood Civic Club in 1944. In 1944, in the town council, he was never lost an election since then.

The Republican also served as mayor of Garwood for two terms before he had to give up his job because of a state court decision. The court ruled that a man could not be a mayor and act as the trustee of a company. Tiller gave up his job as Garwood's chief executive officer but quit the county board. Legislation later was approved which permitted him to hold both posts, so he ran for mayor again and won.

Tiller, who has been director of the freeholders for two years, has served as chairman of the board's Roads and Bridges Committee for five years. He also served as chairman of the Purchasing Committee one year as well as on the Administration, Public Affairs, Purchasing and Public Property Committees. He is also an ex-officio member of the Welfare Board, the Union County Planning Board and the Board of Estimates for the Union County Vocational and Technical Institute.

The freeholder has worked with the county's Electronic Data Processing Committee, which is "just about ready to have a director appointed to set up the program," he said.

THE EDP COMMITTEE is establishing a computer program, Tiller said, which will "not only save the county money but the municipalities also."

ONE YEAR AGO The Regional High School District Board of Education delays for another week its decision on how to provide office space for three top administrators for whom there is no space available within the district's four high schools. The Springfield swim team, with a record of eight victories and five losses, wins the championship of the southern division of the New Jersey Recreational Swim League. MRS. PHILIP LEWIS of Springfield is named as one of the local delegates to the National Democratic Convention. She states that she is a good Democrat and hopeful for her candidate, Eugene McCarthy. Two young Springfield residents are treated and released at Overlook Hospital for injuries received in the second of two related accidents. Both youths were struck by the same woman, but they were in separate cars.

15 YEARS AGO RALPH G. SWANSON, acting commander of the Summit Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, launches an ambitious recruiting campaign, especially aimed at Springfield young men, to join his squadron, "and prepare for a better future." The Binder Agency, an insurance service organization with more than 30 years of experience and representing some of the largest companies in the field, locates in Springfield offices at 206 Morris avenue.

30 YEARS AGO The 1939 season of the Union County Park Commission playground is formally closed at the grounds of Riemer avenue with a two-day program including turtle tournaments, Indian pow-wow, pie-eating contest and turkey-poop contest. Organization of a citizens' committee to sponsor the candidates of L. E. S. RIGBY for freeholder, GREGG L. FROST for assemblyman and FRED A. BROWN for township committeeman is perfected at a session in Quinzel Hall. In an action unprecedented in the township for many years, local Democrats fail to submit petitions for local offices to the township clerk, ROBERT D. TREAT. No names may appear on the voting machines. Fox, Democratic candidates for township committee or any of the county committee posts in the four local election districts.

capitals also." The county computer, he said, will be available for processing county and municipal tax rolls and other clerical items.

The Intergovernmental Affairs Committee, said Tiller, is working to afford taxpayers savings wherever possible. "We're going to go into bulk purchasing and make it available to municipalities and boards of education where legal."

Tiller said the municipalities would submit requirements to the county, which would then solicit bids for municipal and county needs. The bigger the bid, said Tiller, "the lower the price." The program, he emphasized, is voluntary.

"Municipalities get the benefit of the lowest price. This has proved successful in other counties through the nation," Tiller said. Elizabeth and Linden have already approved the plan.

Tiller is executive chairman of the Intergovernmental Group for Better Service and is a member of the executive committee of the North Jersey Mayor's Transportation Committee.

TILLER ENJOYS THE hope of New Jersey commuters rests with the Port Authority. Though the Port Authority has done a good job with piers, bridges, tunnels and airports, said Tiller, it has failed so far with the railroads. The freeholder said the Port Authority is the "natural" agency to improve commuter service and take over the commuter lines.

The Port Authority Trans-Hudson Line (PATH) and the Hudson River Railroad are the only of the super-agency involved in itself in rail transportation, said Tiller. The result of a political deal to which the PA had to agree to build the World Trade Center, the Port Authority, he said, "is the agency that could do the job best."

The railroad management does not want to touch the Port Authority, the freeholder said. "They should either be made to do it or the state should take over," Tiller said. Modern and safe equipment is the first requirement in improving rail service. The Jersey Central, he said, has to "replace almost every car they have, the same with the Erie-Lackawanna."

Tiller, who says he spends close to 30 hours a week as freeholder director, has little time left over between government, politics and his job as a supervisor with E.I. Du Pont de Nemours in Newark, where he has been employed for the last 37 years, first as a laboratory assistant and now as the director of the departments which spend about $750,000 annually.

The freeholder, who enjoys gardening, hunting and fishing, is a communicant of St. Anne's R.C. Church in Garwood and is a member of the church's Holy Name Society. He is "just about ready to have a director appointed to set up the program," he said.

THE EDP COMMITTEE is establishing a computer program, Tiller said, which will "not only save the county money but the municipalities also."

THE STATE, SAID TILLER, can bring about a renaissance on the rails. Tiller said, though that the state's commuter operating agency has brought about no improvements so far. "If the state moves in and has qualified personnel it can be done, but you can't have political hacks who know nothing about railroads."

Forest verses by young poets

This is the seventh in a series giving samples of creative work done by eighth graders of the Florence Gaudin School in their "Exposition in Living" this spring at Stokes State Forest.

LEARNING TO KNOW A cool shady pine grove, interested people, and a desire to learn why other people are what they profess to be, laid the setting for our group discussion. It took time, but finally walls collapsed and we could understand the clockwork of others. (Man cannot live with his brother unless he understands him.)

Our group recognized why some were bored, some were emotional, and some were cold. Because we are different, it is impossible to see with another man's eyes. We cannot love all men because we will always value our own lives above all else. Man cannot understand unless he knows, and man cannot know until he accepts a person for what he is.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

WHAT NEXT, MANKIND?

Man has walked upon the moon because science sought and found the knowledge and the ways and means to transport man and machines through space and to get them to operate in a new environment.

What next for mankind now that he has left his footprints on the surface of the moon? What new means will open up after scientists carefully evaluate the discoveries of Apollo 11 and the flights sure to follow?

What should come for all men is a greater recognition of the wonders of God's universe—the earth, the moon, the sun and the stars.

As mankind reaches ever further outward from the green earth, as men and machines scan and analyze wonders never before seen by the naked eye, it becomes more apparent there is a reasoned order from here to infinity.

As new worlds unfold, man should not acclaim his achievements, but more firmly recognize the wonders of God's universe.

County freeholders approve 2 resolutions on flood relief

The Union County Board of Freeholders last week passed two resolutions dealing with flood relief. Freeholder Walter P. Ulrich reported a letter to all mayors within the county, urging them to forward the department of public affairs and general welfare.

He stated in his letter: "On Thursday, Aug. 14, I sponsored two resolutions concerning flood relief and damage in Union County which were passed by the Board of Chosen Freeholders."

"One resolution requested a legislative amendment which would make available funds to assist the municipalities for flood damage. The other, directed to the federal and state levels of government, demanded immediate work to begin relief from future flooding."

"The recent storm of Aug. 15 further highlighted the need for immediate action in most of our communities. In an effort to assist in coordinating the support for the above resolution, which many of you have indicated, I would respectfully request that you forward me at your earliest opportunity, a full summary of all damages sustained from the recent rains and floods within your municipality, as well as snapshots, photographs and newspaper accounts so that we may forward copies of this material to the proper offices of the state and federal government."

"I trust you have already been advised that through the civil defense-disaster control offices of the county and state, requests for extension of loans through the Small Business Administration, under emergency action, has been extended to cover damages sustained for the storm of Aug. 15."

"The field office for the SBA is located in the New Providence Borough Hall. The telephone number is 277-1331."

A GREAT BANK TO GROW WITH

1st Quarter Profits Rose Sixty Percent at 1st State Bank

UNION, N.J. -- First-quarter profits of The First State Bank of Union rose 60 percent from $84,000 last year to $136,000, it was announced today by Frank M. Pitt, president. The pre-tax profit was 53 cents for the period ending March 31, an increase of 21 cents over 32 cents for the corresponding quarter a year ago. The per-share earnings are based on 255,966 shares outstanding at the end of 1968.

Pitt said that prospects for the year were good, although he did not expect results for the first three quarters to sustain the pace of the first three months.

The First State Bank president said non-recurring expenses in connection with the change of name that has been approved by shareholders would depress earnings later in the year. Additionally, Pitt pointed out, "The First State Bank has applied to the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance for permission to establish branch offices in other parts of New Jersey's banking district number two, which includes Union County. "If any of these should be approved this year," he said, "the expenses of launching new branches would necessarily serve to cut into our profits for 1969."

1st State Bank Moves Into Top 1000

NEW YORK -- The First State Bank of Union moved into the top 1,000 banks in the nation, according to the American Banker magazine's annual roll call. The American Banker magazine published February 25 indicated that the Union, New Jersey bank jumped from 1086 in 1967 to 981 in 1968.

The First State Bank, which was opened in 1953, has moved steadily upwards to its position in the top 1,000 banks. Its assets at the end of 1968 were $62,820,745.03, an increase of $7,020,915.06 over the 1967 figure of $55,800,830.97.

Stockholders Approve Split Of Bank Stock

Stockholders of the First State Bank of Union have approved a 2-for-1 split of the bank's common stock. The action was taken at a special stockholder meeting.

Stockholders also approved a board of directors recommendation to double the number of authorized shares from 125,683 to 251,366.

The stock split will be effective immediately with distribution of the new shares to take place in November.

The First State Bank paid stock dividends of 10 per cent in 1960, three per cent in 1961, 1964 and 1965, and 10 per cent in 1967. In addition to cash dividends each year since 1966.

3-Month Net Up 62 P.C. At Union's First State Bank

First quarter profits of the First State Bank of Union rose 62 per cent from $84,000 last year to $136,000, it was announced today by Frank M. Pitt, president.

The pre-tax profit was 53 cents for the period ending March 31, an increase of 21 cents from the 32 cents for the corresponding quarter a year ago. The per-share earnings are based on 255,966 shares outstanding at the end of 1968.

Pitt said prospects for the year were good, although he did not expect results for the first three quarters to sustain the pace of the first three months.

The First State Bank president said non-recurring expenses in connection with the change of name would depress earnings later in the year.

Additionally, Pitt pointed out, "The First State Bank has applied to the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance for permission to establish branch offices in other parts of New Jersey's Banking District 2, which includes Union County, which if any of these should be approved this year," he said, "the expenses of launching new branches would necessarily serve to cut into our profits for

First State Bank increases dividend

The board of directors of The First State Bank of Union has voted to increase the bank's annual cash dividend from 90 cents to $1.00 per share. Frank M. Pitt, president, said the first dividend under the new rate -- July 10 cent payout -- would be paid on July 26, to all shareholders of record as of June 26.

The dividend represents the 16th consecutive cash dividend paid by the bank. Pitt said, "substantially higher" than in 1967. He estimated that year-end profits would be 15 percent higher than last year's, when the after-tax earnings were $3.00 per share. The year, he pointed out, "slightly depressed" bank earnings were "slightly depressed" in cause of extraordinary expenses incurred in the Union Five Points section. However, the new branch in less than 15 months has begun to contribute to the bank's overall profitability," Pitt added.

Record earnings are reported by First State Bank

The First State Bank of Union has reported record first-half earnings of $254,000, an increase of 58 percent over the $159,000 earned in the first half of 1968.

Frank M. Pitt, president, also said that the bank's assets at the end of June 30, 1969, were $62,820,745.03, a new high of $7,020,915.06 over the $55,800,830.97 for the first six months of this year.

Total operating income was up from $1,300,000 to $1,500,000 for the first half. The per-share earnings increased from 49.3 cents for the first six months of 1968 to 98.3 cents for the comparable period on approximately 251,000 shares outstanding during the first half of 1968 and approximately 258,000 shares outstanding during the first six months of this year.

Pitt said deposits grew to $48,800,000 from $41,200,000 last year. Loans outstanding increased to $29,500,000, a jump of $5,200,000 from the $27,300,000 on the books June 30, 1968.

Pitt said the pace of the record earnings would not necessarily be maintained during the second half. "The earnings for the first six months reflect the increased profitability of our data processing services operation, as well as the continued upward thrust of business at the Five Points branch, our newest office, which opened only two years ago," he said.

Union Bank Plans 3 More Branches

The First State Bank of Union plans to open temporary branch offices in Clark, New Providence and Middlesex locations, as approved last week by the N.J. Department of Banking and Insurance.

The Clark location will be on Raritan Road near Westfield Ave. The New Providence site is 1225 Springfield Ave. and the Middlesex office will be on Route 22 in the vicinity of Garden Place.

The new branches will bring to nine the number of First State Bank locations.

Union Bank Considering Expansion

The First State Bank of Union is considering taking advantage of the newly liberalized New Jersey banking laws, Frank M. Pitt, president, told shareholders in his annual message.

Pitt, who described the adoption last year of the new laws as "the most significant development" in New Jersey banking, said First State Bank is exploring the possibilities of expansion under the new regulations.

He also said approval of legislation permitting the creation of bank holding companies and allowing branching on a three-district basis would prove a boon to medium-sized banks as well as to the larger financial institutions.

He said that the old regulations had "stifled expansion and contributed to a climate in which meaningful growth was nearly impossible."

Pitt pointed out that the new regulations would permit banks to expand beyond their home counties, thus contributing to their growth. At the same time, he continued, smaller banks will be able to work together through the formation of holding companies that will contribute to their overall growth.

"We at the First State Bank are confident that we will be in the forefront of this activity as New Jersey begins a new era in banking."

A FEMININE LOOK

(Commentary on a Study Mission from the Atlantic to the Pacific—
but across the USSR)

by TRUDINA HOWARD

THE NEW LOOK—These apartments are typical of the structures in New Bratsk. The city is only 12 years old and is filled with row after row of the same thing with unpaved streets through most of the town and no trees.

Thirteenth in a Series
LAKE BAIKAL AND BRATSK
Even though Lake Baikal is the deepest lake in the world, as much as 5,299 feet, with a constant slivery temperature of 34 degrees Fahrenheit at its lower depths, and only 57 at the top at the very warmest (in August), its biggest inhabitant, "Omul," is not the lake what the "Monster" is to Loch Ness. In Scotland, it is rather just the opposite. It is the "angel" of the area.
Omul is a medium size fish of the salmon family and the people of the Lake Baikal region practically survive on it. On the day of our visit to the lake we went for lunch at a lakeside restaurant, and did the same. We had smoked omul, in small soup in between, and food omul for the main course. What? No omul ice cream? We would not have been surprised.

Despite its great depth, Lake Baikal is not the biggest lake in the world, but it is a wonder that it is not. Altogether 326 rivers flow into this body of water and only one, the Angara, flows out.
It is a very large lake even without holding the record being some 500 miles long, but it is not well inhabited. Its cold water eliminates bathing, vacationers and its cold winter discourages settlers. Its greatest fame lies in its depth. With 326 faucets and only one plug, why not. Also, the Trans-Siberian railroad runs along part of its shores. Its shores boast the only gold course in the entire Soviet Union. There are 30,000 seals in the lake with desirable grey color coats, and there are many Barguzin sables, with even more desirable coats, raised near its shores.

Its greatest attraction is the 65-place hydro-fall boat that runs from Irkutsk up to a few settlements along the lake, and is the price of coal. You can get one ton of coal for 60 kopeks and that, believe me, is some bargain. Sixty kopeks is about 60 cents! The mines, which are open mines, lie between Baikal and Bratsk.

THE CITY OF BRATSK, pronounced Brad and meaning "brotherhood," is situated about 250 miles north of Lake Baikal's southernmost tip, and it is only 12 years old. Actually, the city is called New Bratsk because Old Bratsk is now at the bottom of a lake which was made by the great new dam on the Angara River. The old town was burned away and 40 million kilowatts of power were cut out to make room for the 5,500 - square - kilometer lake formed by the dam.
The dam wall itself is 345 feet tall and is the second largest dam in the world, coming after the great Garrib Dam in Angola. But the plant produces more kilowatt power than any hydro-electric power station in the world and supplies 20 percent of the power in all the USSR. Moscow, some 4,000 miles away, receives power from this dam. It has 18 generators with a final goal of 20. It cost 720 million rubles to build.
Sixty nationalities were represented in the Old Bratsk area, and now 160,000 live in the New Bratsk area, and they are almost all under 30. Seventy percent of the population is under 30 years of age and it seems likely to get even younger and bigger. The birth rate here is the highest in the entire USSR. To take care of some of this youth corps there are over 80 kindergartens operating in the region. It is mandatory for all children to attend the kindergartens, which is at the expense of the government.

THE NEW TOWN consists of seven settlements about five miles apart but the government is settled in the one called New Bratsk. It is only 12 years old but looks like a worn-out Brazil. All the trees have been cut down and it is filled with row after row of unimproved, dreary apartment houses. The area is now one of the greatest industrial areas in the USSR and New Bratsk looks it.
When we visited it we stayed at a lodge in the settlement called Padoun. Here, the Siberian pines had been left standing and it was a beautiful rural area directly on the new lake, but the new six-year buildings were not so impressive.

We did not believe six-year-old bath rooms could look the way these did. We had been used to poor bathrooms all along but they were generally older. These had no excuse and these were the worst.
They were painted Dreary Ecu, had no windows, the light came from one lone naked light bulb hanging askew from a cord from the ceiling, the commodes had no seats, the floor was paved up to the tub and then disappeared into darkness under the half-footed tub, and most startling, all the pipes for everything were on the outside of the walls. Thick pipes and thin pipes and medium pipes ran up and down the walls and across the ceiling, all painted Dreary Ecu to match the walls.
It was so unbelievable I took my camera and flashed a picture. I knew no one could picture it. But even the camera stuttered and the picture blank.

The room was also exceedingly small, in order to stand by the sink one had to sort of bend around the tub and then to get to the toilet one had to turn the faucet on, the entire tiny little sink came off the wall and hung there. I gently tucked it back and it stuck. We followed this procedure during the entire stay.
On the bus with our special Bratsk Is Tourist guide we asked why the pipes were so strung around the outside if the buildings were so new. His answer was so absurd, something about "discovering they needed hot water after finishing the building" that we realized he did not want to answer.

So, while we did not have a Lake Baikal Monster we sort of found one at this dam lake.

Next: Conclusions

THE OLD LOOK—This house in the Irkutsk area is typical of the houses found in Old Bratsk before the city was covered by the lake formed by the new dam on the Angara River.

NO, IT IS NOT LAKE HOPATCONG—This is one small cove in the deepest lake in the world, Lake Baikal, in the middle of Siberia. The trees are birch and Siberian pine.

THE LODGE AT PADOUN, one of the settlements in the New Bratsk area. The trees are Siberian pine, a tall, slow growing tree, as thick at the top as it is on the bottom and as durable as stone.

THE LATE SHOW
The most popular programs on the Dikran television station in Saudi Arabia are wrestling matches and Egyptian movies on the late show. Arabic dialogue is dubbed in on "Bonanza."

Jersey publishes relocation booklets for road victims

The Department of Transportation has published booklets which explain how the department goes about purchasing and needed for highway and transportation improvements, and how the Department can help owners and tenants find new homes.
The booklets, which were primarily written for owners and tenants affected by right-of-way acquisition, are available for public distribution.
One booklet, "How Land is Purchased for Highways," answers questions which are asked most often after a property owner learns his land is required for a highway or public transportation facility. The booklet, which accompanies the form for notice of acquisition, explains every affected property owner, includes space for the name and phone number of the department representative assigned to personally help the owner.
The second booklet, entitled "If I Must Move," also used the question-and-answer form to explain the services and payments available to owners of improved residential, residential, commercial and industrial—and their tenants. The relocation aids include assistance in finding replacement houses and business locations, moving expense reimbursement, business discontinuance allowances in place of moving reimbursement, payment of replacement supplements, "transfer" expenses and individualized aid and counsel during every phase of the relocation. The relocation booklet is mailed to owners, residents of improved properties and to tenants.
Copies of the new publications are available from the Bureau of Public Information, Department of Transportation, 1095 Parkway Ave., Trenton, 08625.

You can send your lawn to college

Step-by-step demonstrations of making a new lawn and renovating an old one will be featured at Rutgers University Saturday during the Central Jersey Lawn Clinic and Demonstration.

The program, to be held on the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science campus at the turf research plots on College Farm Road near Rt. 1, will begin at 10 a.m. and be repeated at 2 p.m.

The first event is a brief tour to acquaint visitors with the different types of lawn grasses.

Detailed demonstrations of how to make a new lawn or renovate an old lawn will follow the tour.

College plant specialists and county agents will staff the clinic to answer lawn questions. If anyone has a special lawn problem, he may bring a square-foot sample of turf for a free diagnosis.

The clinic will also include a display of the weeks most common to lawns. The event is open to the public.

State Fair to blossom Sept. 12-21

A touch of springtime and the fragrant scent of flowers will add to the decor of the 82nd New Jersey State Fair, "The International State Fair" as the first of two spectacular floral exhibits bursts into full bloom on the opening Sunday, Sept. 14. The fair opens Sept. 12 and will close Sept. 21.

The "first" flower show will be an exhibit of various classes from Sunday through Wednesday and the "second" will comprise exhibits from Thursday through Sunday.

There also will be 17 new booths available for the picturesque grange exhibits (display of farm products) which will be judged on the basis of quality, display, diversity, minimum volume of varieties and correctness of naming.

Participation in the floral shows is open to any amateur or commercial growers in or near New Jersey, with the "amateur" classes limited to amateurs and the "open" classes allowing all exhibitors.

More information about the granges and flower shows may be obtained by writing to Stanley Nutt, Superintendent, P.O. Box 2645, Trenton, 08690, or to the New Jersey State Fair, P.O. Box 565, Trenton, 08604.

Students to meet at youth institute

Eighty-five high school students are registered to attend the Tenth Annual Brotherhood Youth Institute sponsored by the New Jersey State Fair, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, which will be held Sunday through next Wednesday at The Peddie School, Hightstown.

Astronomers build two telescopes for observatory at UC

As U.S. astronauts take their first steps on the moon surface, members of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., report on their progress in efforts to five earthbound telescopes to peer look at the moon from the William Miller Sperry Observatory at Union College, Cranford.

Richard Ulmes of Dunellen, chairman of the design and construction committee of AAI, reported this week on progress in the design and construction of a 24-inch reflector telescope to be housed in the observatory. The 24-inch reflector telescope built by Roger Tubhill of Il Ranglewood Lane, Mountlake, and contributed to Union College, and six-inch refractor telescope, which was the personal instrument of the late Albert G. Ingalls, who was known as the father of amateur astronomy.

Plans for the new telescopes were first conceived by members of AAI some five years ago, before construction of the observatory. The opening of the observatory in 1967 gave impetus to their efforts. During the past five years more than 4,000 man-hours have been devoted to the two projects. This has been a labor of love for the AAI, whose members have given their Saturdays and Sundays as well as evening hours to working on the telescopes, according to Edward Pearson of Westfield, AAI president.

THE ORIGINAL DESIGNS for the reflector and the refractor were the work of Lewis Thomas of North Plainfield, a lecturer at the Hayden Planetarium of the American Museum, New York City, and Dr. A. Clifton Ashcraft, Jr. of Somerset, a chemist with Union Carbide Corp., Piscataway Township. The glass blanks for the refractor were donated by Thomas in 1968 and the beginnings of an observatory shop were initiated. However, the large expenditures required to construct the 24-inch reflector is beyond the AAI's current budget. Recent efforts have been confined to the design and construction of the smaller refractor telescope, which is both less costly and more effective in visual observations of the heavens, Ulmes said.

Under the direction of Dr. Ashcraft, the design and construction committee has completed the design for the reflector mounting including cells, tube, fork, drive and base. Also credited to Dr. Ashcraft is the procurement of the refractor tube and drive and the computer ray tracing and design of both optical systems.

A mirror polishing machine and additional equipment has been obtained, giving the AAI an observatory shop well equipped for the job of telescope construction. Most of the parts are now at the observatory and members meet at least once a week to work on the project. Otto Kockershaus of 152 Waxton Ave., Roselle Park, chief design engineer of the 24-inch mechanical components, assisted by Wim Luroc of Cranford, has drawn up most of the design for the refractor mounting.

HOWEVER, LIKE THE PLANETS destined for closer observation, the observatory has many satellites with much of the work on the refractor conducted in the homes and businesses of members.

Kenneth Smith of Westfield, a retired engineer with Bell Telephone Laboratories, Murray Hill, has been grinding the refractor blanks at his home for several months. Dr. Ashcraft is working on a 10-inch objective cell at his home in Somerset. Roy Luroc of Clark, assisted by Art Kaminowitz of Cranford, have been making the machined mounting parts Sundays in a machine shop in Cranford. Sam Meller of Matawan is making the turret, eyepiece/camera support mechanism at his home. The steel fabrication and construction of the mounting parts is carried out Saturdays in Ulmes' shop in Placetaway.

It is expected that the refractor will be mounted in its dome sometime in 1971. Taking into account the labor and parts donated to this project to date, Ulmes predicts the value of the completed instrument will be astronomical.

Watchung Troop registration filled

Registration for the fall season of horseback riding with the Watchung Troop, sponsored by the Union County Park Commission, has been completed. During the past two weeks all available time has been taken by Union County residents, boys and girls between nine and 18 years of age. It was announced by Robert Luthin, director of the Watchung Troop at the Watchung Stables.

Luthin stated that because of the complete enrollment by Union County residents, the registration for boys and girls living out of Union County, that was scheduled for Saturday, has been cancelled. Registrations over 450 places have been filled. The youngsters will start their riding season on Tuesday, Sept. 2.

The Watchung Troop, organized in March, 1934, by the Union County park commission, is said to be the largest children's riding program in the United States. The troop is formed into squads for all novices, novice, advanced, and experienced riders. Every member gains riding experience by a progressive series of classes and drills that include every phase of horsemanship.

Expectant parents' prep school to open

The fall series of classes for expectant parents at the Elizabeth General Hospital will start Monday, Sept. 8.

Classes will consist of six sessions on preparation for parenthood entitled "Pregnancy—the Implications of pregnancy on members of the family; Physical and emotional changes in the expectant mother; Physical and emotional preparation of the mother and father for the birth of the child; Physical and emotional needs of the newborn child; The role of the mother and father and instruction in controlled breathing and relaxation during labor. The classes will be given in the evening so that husbands and wives can attend. Expectant parents are welcome regardless of the hospital they may choose for the delivery of the baby. A professional nurse with special training in parent education will conduct the course.

Classes will be held in the Nursing Students Residence, 133 Reid St., Elizabeth. A nominal fee will be charged. For registration and information, call the public relations office, Elizabeth General Hospital, 289-8600.

Individual attention for students Cites unique advantage of private junior college

Attention to the individual student is the principal advantage of the private junior college, according to Dr. Kenneth C. Mackay, director of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education and president-elect of the Union College, Cranford.

In "The Private College Study," a report on two-year colleges by Dr. Mackay for the American Association of Junior Colleges under a grant from the Sloan Foundation, emphasis on the individual is cited by two-year college leaders as the major attribute of these institutions.

"Attention to the individual—his educational, personal and financial needs—an emphasis on guidance and counseling, and close student-teacher relationships expressed in extra help and individual attention" may be the unique contribution of the small and independent college to education, he said.

Responses of two-year college leaders also indicate, according to Dr. Mackay, that "bridging the gap" for the under-achiever is an important function of the junior college. "These were the students who need the encouragement, or the patient help of a dedicated teacher, while making adjustment to the college situation," he explained. "The two-year college provides the 'second chance' opportunity for those rejected elsewhere."

Dr. Mackay also notes that "often it is the two-year college that provides the only education a student, for financial or other reasons, can hope to obtain beyond high school.

In view of their particular role, Dr. Mackay believes that the two-year non-public colleges "have an added responsibility—an intrinsic opportunity—to enhance the importance of the individual student and to make available a higher education, not for the academically elite, but for those others who in the aggregate represent a huge national resource.

"True excellence," Dr. Mackay states, quoting Dr. Burkette Raper, "does not require being exclusive in admissions, classical in our curriculum, and unrealistic in our grading. True excellence is taking a student where he is and inspiring him to achieve at his highest level."

Park Commission plans programs for Trailside

"Alutian Skywatch," a color sound movie, will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Sunday at 2 p.m.

The film depicts the story behind America's redoubt in the north end of the strategic role played by the Aleutians in this important network of defense.

Also on Sunday, at 3 p.m. and again at 4 p.m., Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, will present a program in the Trailside Planetarium entitled "Man in Space." Mayer will discuss the race for space and the accomplishments of the United States in space exploration. The same program will also be offered at 3:00 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 27. As the planetarium can seat but 55 people at a performance it is advisable to obtain a ticket for the planetarium program at the Trailside office on the day of the showing. Tickets will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Children under eight years of age are not permitted in the planetarium chamber.

At 4 p.m. next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Mayer and Miss Irma H. Hoyer, educational assistant at Trailside, will present one-half hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the four days is "Butterflies and Moths." The lectures will be illustrated with color slides. The talks on Wednesday and Thursday will be followed by a half-hour walk on the nature trails adjacent to the Trailside Nature and Science Center.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public every day, except Friday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature Center, tour the live animal pens, view the thousands of indoor exhibits, and participate in the scheduled programs.

Most long distance rates are cheaper after 7 P.M. on weekdays and all day on Saturdays and Sundays. Call when it's cheaper. New Jersey Bell

Live below your means.

If you'd like to get around the high cost of living, we have a suggestion. Cut down on the high cost of getting around. And buy a Volkswagen. It's only $1799. That's around $1000 less than the average amount paid for a new car today. Leave it in the bank. More's coming! A VW saves you hundreds of dollars on upkeep over the years. It takes pits, not quarts, of oil. Not one iota of antifreeze. And it gets about 27 miles to the gallon. The average car thirsty devil that it is only gets 14. So the more you drive, the more you save. And chances are, you'll drive it for years and years. (Since we never change the style, a VW never goes out of style.) Of course, a VW's not much to look at. So a lot of people buy a big flashy car just to save face. Try putting that in the bank.

UC receives new aid, reduces tuition charges

Union College, Granford, will reduce its tuition for all Union County residents, effective Sept. 1, it was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

Dr. Iversen said the tuition reduction is possible because of increased state and county aid under a contract with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education. The tuition reduction will apply to both full-time and part-time students.

There also will be a tuition reduction for full-time Union College students who reside in other counties in New Jersey, Dr. Iversen reported.

Tuition for Union County residents who are full-time students will be reduced from $400 annually to $300 annually, while the per-credit hour charge for part-time students will be reduced from $25 to $12.

"The new tuition charges are in line with those of the new county colleges in New Jersey," Dr. Iversen said.

UNION COLLEGE'S NEW TUITION charges are: Full-time students—$300 a year for Union County residents, $400 per year for New Jersey residents outside of Union County, and $1,200 for out-of-state students; part-time students—$12 a credit hour for Union County residents, $25 a credit hour for New Jersey students residing outside of Union County, and $30 a credit hour for out-of-state students.

The current tuition rate for full-time students at Union College is $1,000 a year. Under a tuition aid plan financed by the Union County Board of Freeholders and the state, all Union County residents who were full-time students in the day session received grants of $600 per year. The tuition aid plan did not apply to part-time students, evening session students, or students residing outside of Union County.

Under the new arrangement with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, the tuition aid plan will be discontinued, Dr. Iversen reported.

"It is a cause in higher education today that a college can reduce its tuition charges," Dr. Iversen said. "We are grateful to the Union County Board of Freeholders and the state that we can make a college education available at a lower tuition cost, so more qualified young men and women can avail themselves of an opportunity for a college education."

UNDER A CONTRACT EXECUTED on June 16 with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education and approved by the State Board of Higher Education on July 18, Union College agreed to provide university-paralleling programs for Union County.

Union College, a two-year community college of the academic disciplines, offers majors in liberal arts, engineering, life and physical sciences, business administration and law enforcement as well as pre-engineering and pre-science programs and an Educational Opportunity Fund project for educationally and economically disadvantaged students. The college also conducts a nursing program in affiliation with the school of nursing of Elizabeth and Perth Amboy General Hospitals.

Several new projects have recently been completed at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 639 Mountain Ave., Springfield.

A new 30-foot-high cross was dedicated on the front lawn. The dedication was the concluding part of a Sunday morning worship service conducted by the Rev. Kenneth Stump, which had begun in the sanctuary. The cross is made of architectural exposed steel and with age will develop a permanent brown coating which protects from further oxidation.

Also erected on the front lawn is a new metal sign with interior lighting. The times of services and Sunday School and the name of the congregation are on the sign. Inside the sanctuary, the lighting has been doubled. Edwin Fiedler, a member of the congregation, directed the lighting additions.

Instrumental in the cross and sign projects were Robert Miller, who supervised and directed their planning; John Andrus and Henry Freudenberger who assisted him on the special committee; John Lissy Sr., John Lissy Jr. and Martin Lissy who handled the foundation work; and Andrew Ehrenfeld who did the landscape work so that the cross and sign might be easily seen from Mountain Avenue.

THE VACATION Bible School of Holy Cross Lutheran Church will hold its closing program this evening at 7:30. This will conclude the 14th annual summer school which began Aug. 14 and held sessions every weekday morning for children aged 3-12.

The theme for the two weeks was "Living God's Way," and it is also the theme for tonight's program. During a brief worship service in the sanctuary, the children will sing and explain for their parents and friends various projects they have made at the school. Afterwards refreshments will be served in the fellowship hall.

This year's enrollment has been the largest ever with 110 children. Twenty-four adults and teenagers have participated as teachers, assistants, and parent leaders.

Those who served as teachers were Mrs. John Andrus, Mrs. John Brink, Dale Dauson, Mrs. Raymond French, Mrs. Allen Kleig, Mrs. Robert Miller, Karen Parker, Mrs. Mary Rank, Mrs. Egon Stark, and Mrs. Robert Wood.

Assistants on the staff were Mrs. Alice Parker, Mrs. Donna Wainwright, Diane Andrus, Robert Bauer, Jan Compher, Henry Freudenberger, Marilyn Howell, Carol Kelly, Janice Marshall, Nancy Marshall, Jeanne Palmieri, Irene Prather, Betty Price and Mary Witowsky.

The whole school and tonight's closing program have been under the general direction of Mrs. Frederic Compher Jr., superintendent for the third year.

FUTURE HOLES—MANY QUESTIONS FOR MENTAL HEALTH RESEARCH

Modern advances against mental illness in patient care and treatment, in manpower training, and in research have been extensive. Yet they come at a point when our times seem to be sharply changing and the scope of mental health problems is enlarging drastically. Thus, it may well be asked, "Where do we go from here?"

In some areas, the answers are relatively simple. We anticipate, for example, that the number of patients residing in State and local mental hospitals will continue to decline.

By the end of the 20th century, not far off now, we should have less than 50,000 such patients. Large regional mental hospitals will no longer be needed.

There are other issues and directions, however, that are not so neatly packaged. The control of emotional disturbances with drugs is still in its scientific infancy. What will drug research uncover in the next generation?

What of the promises and dangers of electrode implantation? Through such devices, we can already stop bulls

Program in law enforcement College offers two-year degree

A new program in law enforcement, leading to the degree of associate in arts, has been added to the curriculum at Union College, Cranford.

The law enforcement curriculum, authorized by the State Board of Higher Education, will be offered only in the evening session, according to Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president of Union College.

The program of study has been designed to develop professional law enforcement officers and was developed at the request of the Union County Police Chiefs' Association and in cooperation with the New Jersey Police Training Commission.

Present police officers and those applying to careers in law enforcement are eligible for the program. To be accepted a student must be a high school graduate and must take the scholastic aptitude test of the College Entrance Examination Board.

"The program," Dr. Iversen said, "recognizes the need for today's law enforcement leader to be an adept in human relations as in police science. He must be aware of his relationship to the entire government structure as he is of his day-to-day responsibilities."

The two-year curriculum, he added, is a fully accredited degree program, and general education requirements are included. Graduates will be eligible for admission to the Police Academy.

PLUMBERS, ATTENTION! Sell your services to 30,000 local families, with a low-cost West Ad. Call 686-7700.

ates of the program may transfer to a four-year institution to complete the studies required for a baccalaureate degree.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS include: first semester—English, history, mathematics or science, psychology and contemporary problems in law enforcement; second semester—English, history, mathematics or science, social psychology and police organization and administration; third semester—English, government, police management, patrol administration and sociology; and fourth semester—New Jersey government, American government, police role in community and public administration. One elective may be taken in the third semester and two in the fourth semester. These courses may be taken among the arts, sciences, languages and business administration courses offered at Union College.

A wide variety of financial aid is available to law enforcement students in the form of scholarships, grants and tuition assistance. Veterans who qualify may receive educational benefits. Many municipalities offer tuition assistance to policemen and other government employees who attend college. Grants are also available from the U.S. Department of Justice and scholarships are offered by the New Jersey State Police Training Commission to qualified law-enforcement personnel.

It's still a bloomin' delight Take root at Chaffield Garden

Visitors to the Henry S. Chaffield Memorial Garden in Warhance Park are still being greeted by a display of multi-colored blossoms of annual flowers. The annual plants continue as a popular point of interest for home gardeners throughout Union County and should offer color until the first heavy frost in the fall.

Most of the 14,000 plants were grown from seed in cold frames at the park commission's nursery in the Watching Reservation.

The focal point of the display is the center bed which features early bird mixed dahlias with petite yellow marigolds serving as a border planting.

Many of the varieties included in the remaining display this year are among the old favorites that have proved popular with park visitors in the past. The arrangements were all selected on the basis of their adaptability, beauty, size, color, and length of blooming period which will offer a wide range of tints and hues throughout the remainder of the summer and early fall.

GE will construct nuclear reactors for PS generators

Public Service Electric and Gas Company announced this week that it has awarded a contract to the General Electric Company for two nuclear reactors. The reactors will go into generating units to be built at a yet undesignated site. They will have a capacity of 1,100,000 kilowatts each.

The generating units are scheduled for operation in 1975 and 1977, respectively. Public Service is now conducting a survey to determine where the nuclear reactors will be installed.

A Public Service spokesman said that preliminary discussions were being held with the Atomic Energy Commission's Advisory Committee on reactor safeguards. He expressed the hope that the utility would be able to get approval for a site reasonably close to the center of its operations.

Public Service is currently building Salem Nuclear Generating Station in Lower Alloways Creek Township, Salem County, in cooperation with three other utilities. This station will have two nuclear units. The first unit will have a capacity of 1,090,000 kilowatts and is scheduled to begin operating in 1972. The second unit will have a capacity of 1,112,000 kilowatts and is scheduled for operation in 1973.

INCLUDED IN THE DISPLAY of 40 varieties of plants are petunias, zinnias, celosia, galvia, asters, geraniums, snapdragons, portulaca and daisies.

The Henry S. Chaffield Memorial Garden is a formal garden designed as a living memorial to Henry S. Chaffield, one of the original park commissioners and the first president of the commission serving from 1921 to 1927. The memorial garden was dedicated by his daughter Joan on May 1, 1938, when she unveiled a bronze tablet placed in an elevated stone bench in the garden.

Philly Boatz provides for diagonally matted plantings in 20 geometrically arranged beds radiating from the center. The design forms an oval-shaped shape and is then bounded by a dense dark green taxus hedge providing an appropriate background for the display of annuals.

Symposium set on man's origin

A symposium on the origin of "homo sapiens" will be held at Unesco House in Paris from Sept. 2-5. Organized by Unesco in co-operation with the International Association for Quaternary Research, the symposium is intended to establish what is known and what is not known about man's physical evolution between 50,000 and 30,000 B.C. (the transition from the Neanderthal stage to the stage of "homo sapiens").

Some 40 original papers will be presented on this subject, on the cultural evolution during this period (paleolithic industries) on the environment and its possible influences, and on the dating of human remains.

Add four nations

Child labor laws don't deter hiring of youth, says official

WASHINGTON—Federal child labor standards do not deter youth employment, Wage-Hour Administrator Robert D. Moran has stated in responding to charges that Federal child labor standards under the Fair Labor Standards Act discourage the hiring of youths.

"In May, 1969, 2.3 million youths aged 16 and 17 were employed," Moran said. He estimated that 95 percent of all occupations are open to 16 and 17-year olds, with only 5 percent of occupations prohibited to such minors under the 17 non-agricultural hazardous occupation orders.

Moran said, "Employers are interested in hiring youths for the summer. If the record number of requests for information on the child labor standards is any indicator," he said, "illustrations of the range of summer jobs, he cited inquiries ranging from three large Nevada cattle ranchers, who want 16- and 17-year old boys and are willing to pay $200 month plus room and board, to 10 job orders for 16- and 17-year olds under the National Alliance of Businessmen's program in a mid-western city.

The purpose of the child labor standards is to safeguard minors against working in jobs that endanger their health and well-being and interfere with their educational opportunities. Moran emphasized, "There are three general types of prohibited employment under the Federal child labor provisions, he said. They are:

1. Children under 16 working in jobs for which a minimum age of 16 or 18 has been set; working longer than the hours allowed for children of that age; or working at times not permitted. (Hours of work are limited to eight a day and 40 a week during vacation time, and no work is permitted before 7 a.m. or after 9 p.m. from June through Labor Day.)
2. Employment of children 16 or 17 in non-agricultural jobs declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor and for which a minimum age of 18 has been set.
3. Employment of children under 16 in agricultural jobs for which a 16-year minimum age has been set at any time.

"It is the very young who tend to be exploited, whose judgment is not fully developed, and who usually are not fully grown. Society has a responsibility to protect their health and well-being. There is no doubt that the Act does curtail job opportunities for the very young, and rightly so," the Administrator stated.

Most employers want to obey the law, but many are uninformed about its provisions, Moran said. He asked employers to protect themselves from unintentional violations of the child labor law provisions by obtaining State employment or age certificates showing the minor to be at least the minimum age for the occupation in which he is to be employed. (Certificates are available on request in 45 States, District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. In Idaho, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas the Wage and Hour Divisions issue Federal certificates of age, since no certificate system is provided under their State child labor laws. Birth certificates are accepted in Alaska.)

Investigation by Wage-Hour compliance officers disclosed 13,989 minors illegally employed in Fiscal Year 1968, Moran said. Of these, 6,059 were age 14 and 15, and were illegally employed in business and industry; 6,875 were age 16 and 17 working in hazardous occupations; and 1,555 were under age 16 and working in agriculture during school hours.

The fair also features a variety of other attractions including a roller coaster, a water slide, a cat system is provided under their State child labor laws. Birth certificates are accepted in Alaska.)

Peach treat suggestions are named

Brighten your menus with fresh peach treats while the New Jersey peach crop is coming to market, says Anne L. Sheelen, County Home Economist.

As a suggestion for such a peach treat, serve the no crust peach pie, recipe given below. The base for the pie is formed by using a mixture of crumbs rather than a regular pastry shell.

For your pie, select peaches that are ripe, mature peaches have a creamy ground color. Avoid ones with a completely green ground color because they are not ripe and will probably not ripen successfully even if held at room temperature.

As you are getting ready to prepare your pie, perhaps the directions for peeling peaches which the Nutrition Research Council recommends, will be of help to you. Cover the peaches with boiling water for one minute, no more. Cool under running water. The skin will slip off in paper thin sheets and waste.

Other ways to brighten your menus with fresh peach treats include sauces for ice cream, cobbler, shortcakes, salads, sliced on cereal or "as is" for a mid-morning or afternoon snack. Check "70's" favorite cookbook for further ideas.

Two groups merge in battle to lower state voting age to 18

The Voting Age Coalition, Inc. and the New Jersey-Let Us Vote this week announced the merger of their two groups.

The chairman, David R. DuBois, and vice-chairman, Robert B. Meyer and Constance B. Meyer, are the leaders of the coalition. Also, reflecting the bipartisan flavor of the organization, Nelson Gross, Republican state committee chairman, and Salvatore Bontempo, Democratic state committee chairman, are members of the board of trustees. Many other public figures have endorsed the efforts of the group and the referendum for New Jersey's young adults.

Many new courses added for fall term at county college

Eighteen new courses will be added to the curriculum of Union College, Cranford, with the start of the fall semester, it was announced by Prof. Elmer Wolf, acting dean.

Prof. Wolf said that seven of the new courses result from the establishment of a new curriculum in law enforcement leading to an associate in arts degree. They are contemporary problems in law enforcement, police organization and administration, police management, police role in the community, patrol administration, public administration and New Jersey government.

Introduction to philosophy and child psychology courses are being added as part of an education option to the liberal arts curriculum, Prof. Wolf said.

Other new credit courses are: introductory anthropology, cultural anthropology, bacteriology, computer programming, contemporary problems, Afro-American history I and II, and fundamentals of science.

Prof. Wolf said contemporary problems and fundamentals of science were developed for the Educational Opportunity Fund Project, but are now being made available to all students.

In addition, a new non-credit course in introduction to mathematical concepts (Math C) has been added, Prof. Wolf reported.

"The addition of these courses reflect our new role as Union County's community college and our efforts to broaden our curriculum to better meet the needs of our students and the constituency we serve," the acting dean said.

Prof. Wolf stated that the new courses were developed by the various academic departments in conjunction with the faculty's curriculum committee. Prof. Wolf is chairman of the curriculum committee whose members include Prof. Raymond Boly of Berkeley Heights, chairman of the business administration department; Prof. Helen T. Farrow of Westfield, a member of the English department; Prof. Alice E.A. Hunt of Mantoloking, a member of the mathematics department; Prof. Richard Salcoe of Glen Ridge, coordinator of the social sciences department; Clifton O. Siegelin of Westfield, a member of the engineering department; and Prof. Oliver West of Cranford, a member of the mathematics department.

Social Security's 34th birthday 44 million receiving benefits, Medicare aid

This month, with more than 24 million Americans receiving $2.5 billion a month in social security benefits and 20 million people insured by Medicare, the Social Security Administration will celebrate its 34th anniversary, Ralph W. Jones, district manager of Social Security in Elizabeth said this week.

The anniversary is being observed with ceremonies and special displays in many social security offices throughout the country, as well as at the national headquarters in Woodlawn, Maryland, just outside of Baltimore. At the headquarters, a historical room is being opened this week showing mementos of the agency's history including the desk used by all the heads of the social security system since 1935.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act into law on August 14, 1935, he called it "the cornerstone of a structure which is being built but is by no means complete."

"The original law, continued Jones, "provided for old-age benefits to retired workers in industry and commerce only. Over the years, the social security program has expanded so that it now provides financial protection for virtually everyone in the country."

The first benefits to retired workers were paid in 1940. By that time, however, amendments to the law had been passed to provide additional benefits for the dependents and survivors of insured workers, said Jones.

"In 1950, 'disability' coverage was extended to millions of other people who were not covered under the original law—farm workers, state and local government employees, domestic workers, ministers, self-employed doctors, professionals, and members of the armed forces," he said.

In 1956, disability protection was added to cover the thousands of people who could no longer work because of serious illness or injury.

"In its first quarter of century," Jones stated, "social security had already grown into a program that protected a worker and his family in the event of his retirement, death, or disability. But it did not stop there."

In 1965, Congress created Medicare to help people 65 and older pay hospital, doctor and other medical bills. In just three years, Medicare has covered 17 million hospital stays of elderly people. In addition, there were more than one million admissions for posthospital extended care. Older people have also received visits in their own homes from visiting nurses, physical therapists, and other health care specialists, paid for by Medicare. Payments under the hospital insurance program totaled $10.9 billion for the three-year period, and a total of $4.6 billion has been paid under the medical insurance program, which helps pay for doctor bills and other medical services.

In 1967, still other changes were made. Disabled widows became eligible for benefits at 50, people disabled before age 31 needed less work to qualify for benefits, and children became eligible on their mother's earnings record on the same basis as on their father's.

Through the years, increases in monthly benefit amounts were made to keep pace with the rising cost of living. Today's average monthly benefit to a retired worker is $95, compared to $63 ten years ago, said Jones. The average benefit for a retired couple is $166 a month, compared to $111.10 years ago—a one-third increase.

It is well below retirement age—young widows, children and disabled workers and their dependents," Jones reported. The protection afforded American families in the event of a worker's death has a face value of $960 billion in potential survivors benefits.

Medicare facts detailed by nursing home official

A forum on Medicare to explain the workings of the plan and its benefits was conducted recently by Cornell Hall Convalescent Center, Union, for a group of senior citizens. According to Mrs. Elizabeth Bair, R.N., administrator, Cornell Hall was certified recently to treat patients under Medicare.

She pointed out that senior citizens are eligible for a maximum stay of 100 days in a qualified extended care facility only after they have spent at least three consecutive days in a hospital. Under Medicare, the patient must be admitted to a nursing home within 14 days after discharge from a hospital in order to qualify for Medicare benefits.

While Medicare pays all charges for the first 20 days of care, the patient must assume a daily charge of $5.50 for each day of care over 20 days. Mrs. Bair declared, "This is in addition to any personal charges, such as beauty or hair care, telephone, personal laundry and other personal expenses."

Mrs. Bair noted that Medicare pays for bed and board in rooms with two, three and four beds; nursing services, except private-duty care; drugs; medical supplies; diagnostic services; physical therapy; and speech therapy. The convalescent center offers religious services by clergymen of various faiths, special prescription diets, outdoor patios, dining room, recreation activities and 24-hour coverage by registered nurses. When medically necessary, private rooms can also be provided under Medicare.

In addition to 100 days of Medicare benefits in a nursing home, the program also covers the costs of as many as 100 home health visits under Part "A" of Medicare, Mrs. Bair explained. These, however, must occur before the beginning of a new "spell of illness." This period has been defined by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as beginning with the first day of in-patient hospital or nursing home care for a Medicare patient. The first day of the "spell of illness" must not have occurred during a previous "spell" and the period ends when the patient has been out of a hospital and an extended care facility for at least 60 consecutive days.

Mrs. Bair pointed out that the 100 home health visits must take place within one year after discharge from the hospital or extended care facility. In addition, the visits must be made under a plan established by the attending physician within 14 days after his discharge from a hospital or extended care facility.

The Cornell Hall administrator listed part-time nursing care, physical, occupational or speech therapy; the part-time services of a home health aide, and medical supplies, with the exception of drugs, as examples of the types of services regarded as home health visits. The services must be provided at home, except for the use of specialized equipment that might be available only at a hospital or extended care facility.

Mrs. Bair noted that she would be happy to explain Medicare benefits to any interested group. Arrangements can be made by contacting her at 687-7800.

Publicity chairman are urged to observe the Friday deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

Apollo 11 story to be told over Radio Free Asia

The epic story of Apollo 11 and man's first moon landing will be observed by Radio of Free Asia through 30 days of special broadcasts to the blacked-out millions on the China mainland and in North Korea.

"The great achievement of Armstrong, Aldrin, Collins and the space pioneers behind them is a story that belongs to all mankind. It is a triumph against humanity that Communist press and radio have denied news of this triumph to nearly one billion people in Communist Asia," declared ROFA board chairman Ambassador You-Chan Yang.

To shatter this blackout, Radio of Free Asia will devote 450 special programs to bring every detail of the moon shot and moon landing to the mainland Chinese and North Koreans. This is a moving testimony to our free and open society," Ambassador Yang said. The special programs will be based on materials provided by NASA, Radio of Free Asia's way

A splashy finale for this season's playground activities

The 1969 Springfield playground season ended last week with much enthusiasm. The children were given many of the table games that had been used during the summer.

A good "bite" was had by all the playground members during the splash party at the municipal pool. Trophies were given by the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association to each playground's outstanding boy and girl.

Because of the very hot weather, the activities of the playground were not as vigorous as had been expected. Still, early in the week the volleyball games continued. Tetherball also was still a big sport. Badminton was a newly-found activity for many. Ron Frank played Rick Kaplan and Steve Hockett. The card games of casino and spit shared the spotlight.

On Wednesday there was the much-awaited splash party at the Springfield community pool. The children enjoyed a private pool session in which only playground members were allowed.

The highlight occurred when playground members Diane Mazetka and Renee Ogilvy were named the winners of the PBA awards for outstanding participation, sportsmanship, character and attendance. The winners were chosen by the playground leaders.

On Thursday, Michele Gm and Robert Kaplan played whiffle ball. A successful volleyball game was played by Rich Kaplan, Ken Fingerhut, Steve Schlein against Ron Frank, Ilene Ogilvy and Diane Mazetka. The first team won 21-14. The second game featured Ron Frank and Ken Fingerhut against Robert Kaplan, Rick Kaplan and Steve Schlein.

RARE MOMENT — Katharine Hepburn and Peter O'Toole embrace in one of the few tender scenes in the violent "The Lion in Winter." Joseph E. Levine production, which costars Hepburn as the beleaguered Queen Eleanor of Aquitaine, imprisoned by her husband, Henry II, King of England (O'Toole). The picture was photographed in Panavision and color.

"GET ME A CAB!" screams Shirley MacLaine to irate nightclub doorman in scene from "Sweet Charity," Jewish screen version of the Broadway musical hit. The picture, a road-show musical, which continues on screen at the Union Theater in Union Center, was photographed in Technicolor, and stars, in addition to Miss MacLaine in the title role, John McMartin, Chita Rivera, Paula Kelly, Stubby Kaye, Ricardo Montalban and Sammy Davis Jr.

The Theatre Seen

By ROBERT LYONS
"1976" is about that crucial, epic month leading up to July 4th in the despairing summer where we were still un-united and, devoutly wishing not to be.
Here is John Adams—amusing everyone in Independence Hall. Here is Ben Franklin taking the long view and helping Adams more than John realizes. And young Tom Jefferson being cajoled into writing the Declaration of Independence after a few days' debate with his long-away wife. (An idea of her's, of course.)
The opposition, Dickinson of Pennsylvania, remaining everlastingly loyal to the British crown—Edward Rutledge of South Carolina—brilliantly acted and sung by David Cryer—insisting that slavery be continued and sending the North that they run the slave trade.
—John Edwards' lyrics and music and Peter Seeger's book reveal some notable resonances. The gangly Jefferson plays the violin as well as in a song by his blissful wife to Adams and Franklin, as the three of them cheer the house so much that only at the finish of the play was I struck with a further thought: It was a Virginia reel.
It is, overall, a joyful, wonderful, evening in the theater. There are tensions. Real ones. But this is the first time at a play I have ever experienced cozy tension. Merely listen for that whisper that comes over the house when Hancock puts down his signature and the entire country returns for an instant to the sixth grade.
A toll sounds as the roll is called and each delegate pledges "our lives, our fortunes, our sacred honor...." A gauze curtain in the design of the signatories drops and we are at once removed and hearts are thrust witnesses to the summer we have shared with our founding fathers, Gong Gong Gong Gong Gong.
Highly recommended.

Amusement News

'Isadora' picture comes to Ormont
In a film that won high critical acclaim including an Oscar nomination for her portrayal of the title role, Vanessa Redgrave depicts dancer Isadora Duncan in Universal's biographical drama, "The Loves of Isadora," which arrived yesterday at the Ormont Theater, East Orange.
Jason Robards, James Fox and Ivan Tschernikoff serve the three romantic interludes in Miss Duncan's life. As adapted to the screen by Melvin Frank, who, with Clive Exton, wrote the screenplay, "The Loves of Isadora" is a story of the eternal female—the romantic rebel who dares to defy society and its conventions and almost gets away with it because she is a talented artist.
The picture is based on two books, "My Life," by Isadora Duncan and "Isadora Duncan: An Indiscrete Portrait," by Sewall Stokes. Karol Reisz directed the picture.

Omar Sharif stars in Community film

Omar Sharif, who first burst on the screen as a wild desert sheik in "Lawrence of Arabia," plays an entirely different sort in "Funny Girl," now on screen at the Community Theater, Morristown. ### Mayfair screens Lemmon picture

Danny Pepe and John Alexy swept the boys' 8 and under event at Bound Brook. Danny also placed first against Cedar Grove in the following meet. This was Danny's 10th consecutive first place this season.

Helene Schiller finished second for the girls at Bound Brook, and team-mate Vicky Koppel placed third in both the meets.

Allida Sander swam the girls' 9-10 freestyle at Bound Brook and finished in second place. In the Cedar Grove meet, Sally Geiger, back from vacation, finished in third place while Allida placed second again.

In the boys' 9-10 freestyle event, Pete Cook finished with one first place and a third place ribbon. His first place was awarded at Cedar Grove for the time of 18.6.

BOB PLANER outswam the field in the boys' backstroke at Bound Brook. His finishing time was 34.8. Rick Wnek finished third for Springfield in the event. In the Cedar Grove meet, Bob was edged out of first place by a second, finishing in 55.0.

Jerry Harvey, also swimming for Springfield, placed third in the Bound Brook competition.

In the boys' butterfly, Brian Hector captured two first places in the times of 45.3 and 44.7. Brian swims three individual events for Springfield this year. ## Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheelan, County Home Economist

BARLETT PEAR—HARVEST GOOD
Sweet and juicy, fresh Bartlett pears are now in season and enjoying a good harvest this year.

The Bartlett pear, often nicknamed the butter fruit because of its soft texture, was introduced to the United States in the 18th century by a Bostonian who was originally from England.

Testing Bartlett pears for ripeness involves checking the color, aroma and touch. Pears are usually picked and shipped green, because they ripen well off the tree. When mature they develop a rich yellow background color, a distinct aroma and give slightly with pressure. Avoid hard squeezing, however, because it will damage the fruit.

If you purchase pears before they are mature, they will mellow at room temperature if they are away from extreme cold or heat. A dampened towel placed over the pears will help them to ripen more evenly and will prevent shriveling.

Avoid wilted or shriveled pears in the market which have a dull appearing skin or a weakening of the flesh near the stem. These pears will not ripen satisfactorily. Also to be avoided are those with spots on the sides or blossom end because this indicates there may be corky tissue underneath.

Use Bartlett pears to prepare salads, desserts, jams and marmalades. They can also be stewed, baked, glazed, spiced or fried.

For a summertime treat, try the Spicy Pear Colcaca recipe which follows.

SPICY PEAR COLCACA

- 1 9-inch square spice cake
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/3 cup water
- 2 tablespoons red cinnamon candies
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 3/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/3 cup chopped walnuts
- 2 tablespoons milk

Prepare and bake your favorite spice cake recipe or one-layer spice cake mix. Bake, core and slice pears. Combine sugar, water, and cinnamon candies, heat to boiling, add pear slices. Simmer over low heat until tender 8 to 10 minutes; drain and cool. Arrange pear slices on slightly warm cake.

Combine butter or margarine, brown sugar, nuts, salt, and milk; spoon over pears. Place cake under broiler about 8 inches from heat; broil for 3 to 10 minutes, or till marmalade bubbles and caramelizes slightly. Serve cake warm.

YIELD: 9 servings.

$75,000 annually in taxes by the loss of ratables, but are faced with the prospect of a $2,000,000 bond issue for sewer and stream improvements, which will cost an additional $70,000 per year to amortize.

"It is all the more discouraging in view of the fact that it is entirely feasible for the State Department of Transportation to build a storm sewer entirely within its right-of-way, paralleling the highway, until it can be spilled into a point where the East and West Branches of the Rahway River meet near the intersection of Millburn and Springfield.

"We are requesting that you consider legislation that would make it mandatory that interstate highways build and pay for such storm sewers that may be required to cope with only such increased run-off that is caused by that highway construction.

"We feel that this is a reasonable and fair standard that should be imposed by the Federal Bureau of Roads, before a state can be qualified for federal assistance.

"I would be most pleased to hear of your comments as soon as you can investigate our proposal."

"I think the drainage system is the cause of this damage. I would like to get someone to initiate action to correct this situation. If nothing is done I will be faced with this problem year after year, and it will result in a loss in the value of my property.

Welcome Wagon parent firm begins trading on Big Board

NEW YORK—Welcome Wagon made the most unique call-in its 41-year history

'Bunnies' to be judged

The New Jersey State Fair will have more "bunnies" than a Playboy Club during its week of festivities when the American Rabbit & Cavy Breeders Association presents its annual rabbit show. Always a hit with the youngsters, the "bunnies" will be judged according to class and breed and entries for the show will remain open until midnight, Sept. 3.

Friday on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, the special occasion was the first day of trading on the Big Board for the common stock of FAS International, Inc., parent company of the Memphis-based community service organization. Representing the more than 6,000 Welcome Wagon hostesses in the United States and Canada was Ann Patten of Indianapolis, Ind. She presented gifts from "the most famous basket-in-the-world" to Robert W. Haack, president of the Exchange, Mrs. Patten was accompanied by FAS President Gilbert K. Granet, who purchased the first block of 100 shares traded in the firm's stock.

The gifts donated by each of the companies in the FAS family were created especially for the event. Included were an original watercolor of the Exchange trading floor by Dong Kingman, a faculty member of Famous Artists School; a portfolio of color photographs of the Exchange's new trading room by Alfred Eisen-stadt, a faculty member of Famous Photographers School and an autographed poster from the play "How Now Down Jones," written by Max Shulman, a member of the faculty of Famous Writers School. Besides its Famous Schools Division, FAS International has Linguaphone Institute, Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics, International Accountants Society, and CIDEC in its General Education Division, and Welcome Wagon and Famous Schools Publications in its Publishing and Services Division. Gifts from these companies were also presented to Haack.

Granet noted that FAS International, with its listing on the Big Board, has joined a select list of less than 1,800 of the nation's more than 1.5 million companies. In its course divisions, FAS has more than 340,000 active students studying in 60 countries. The company listed 4,388,385 shares, 12 trades under the ticker symbol, FAS.
