Rt. 78 changes in Springfield now under federal review

Bubble gum, bocce talents are pooled

The closing week of the Springfield pool featured such events as a bubble gum blowing contest, a masquerade party and a bocce tournament for teens.
The bubble gum contest was won by Beth Citron, in the 5-8 year old girls, and Ian Logan in the five, eight year old boys. In the competition for 9-12 year olds, Patty Wnek won for the girls and Billy Bjorstad for the boys. The teenage division was won by Ricky Zeller. The final contest among the winners of each division was won by Ricky Zeller.
On Wednesday, a masquerade party was held. The entrants included Wendy Whitford dressed as a fairy, Albert Diefert and Simbaldo Fabiano, costumed as hobos and Mara Mosing dressed as a country miss. The judges were Mrs. Henry Wright and Rommie Minkitsky. They chose as the winner the "country miss," Mara Mosing. She received a prize of a crazy straw.
A bocce tournament for teens was held on Tuesday. Second place in this competition was the team of Michael Nelbart and Craig Kozar. The first place team consisted of Jim Robinson, Peter Greenwald, Chris Stanley and Keith Stanley.
The highlight on Sunday was a softball game between the pool staff and the pool staff. Playing for the all-stars were Jim Adams in center field, Norm Pollack in left field, Marty Zwillingman at shortstop, Len Scelfo in another outfield position and Dick Foster catching. Sharing the duties at third base were Ron Minkitsky and Burt Bruder, and at second base were Marty Brumer and Ted Scriver. The plays at first base were handled by Bill Chesley and Mary Steinberg. REDESIGN? Ramps leading to the still unopened Rt. 78 in this area may have to be redesigned as a result of the heaviest traffic expected by the decision not to build Rt. 278 past Linden. This is aerial view of the highway, looking from Springfield (lower left) across Rahway River toward Union (right) and Millburn (top). In foreground is Springfield Avenue. Arrow identifies one of the ramps. (Aerial photo by Bob Baxter)

Interchanges, ramps involved in redesign

Design changes planned by the State Department of Transportation for the section of Rt. 78 east of the Rt. 24 interchange in Springfield are now being reviewed by the Federal Bureau of Public Works and Interchanges in the Springfield area. Changes in the Union section of the highway are expected to be minimal, but the tentative timetable for construction could be set back by delays in completing the connecting segment in Springfield.
The revisions are being made to provide the additional capacity which highway officials believe will be needed as a result of the decision to terminate Rt. 278 at Rt. 1 in Linden. Rt. 278 had originally been planned as a connecting road from the Goodfells Bridge to Rt. 78 at the Union-Springfield line. However, the four-mile Union-Springfield and surrounding communities which would have lost millions of dollars in taxables forced the state to drop plans to build 278 beyond Linden. But the change meant that traffic coming from the northwest along Rt. 24, a road now under construction which will connect with 78 in the western part of Springfield, will not be able to turn off onto 278. Thus, it will either stay on 78 or turn off onto local roads.

"WE BEGAN THINKING of this after the Rt. 278 problem was resolved," said Assistant Commissioner Russell H. Mullen of the State Department of Transportation.

"There was not much question that something had to be done. The question was, what was the most practical solution."
Since plans for Rt. 78 east from the Rt. 24 intersection through Springfield and Union to the Hudson River already called for five lanes in each direction, engineers began considering interchanges and bridges. The decision was to revise slip ramps and other interchange details. Some overpasses may have to be lengthened or additional piers added.

Approval of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads is needed for these changes. The Rt. 78, as an important highway, is being built with the federal government paying 90 percent of the costs and the state 10 percent. The highway, when completed, will cross the state from Phillipsburg on the west to the Holland Tunnel on the east, running generally parallel to Rt. 22. Construction of sections in the central and western parts of the state has been completed to a large extent.

IN SPRINGFIELD, a section of Rt. 78 has been graded and overpasses have been built, but no estimated advertising date has been set by the state for paying of the road.

Arts highlight programs for teens at civic center

Special attention is focused on the recreation program for the teenagers of Springfield for the coming season in the Recreation Department announcement.
The game room at the Sarah Balley Civic Center is going to have a new look, and some new rules. The hours will be the same as before, from 3 to 5 after school from 7 to 9:30 Monday through Thursday and until 11 on Friday and Saturday nights. On Sundays it will be closed.
A movie program will be held at the James Caldwell School once each month. "Good and fairly current" films will be shown. Some of the pictures ordered are "To Sir With Love," "Help" and "Cat Ballou." Admission will be 75 cents.
A teen film-makers club will be formed. The Recreation Department has purchased a movie camera, and will provide an instructor to insure the proper handling of the equipment. The teenagers will organize to form their own production company to include script writers, actors, musicians and cameramen. Any Springfield teenagers who wish to join this group can register at the Civic Center. The fee will be $3 per year.
An art class for teenagers will be held at the Civic Center on Friday after school, starting Sept. 26. This will be an explorative class to develop artistic skills using water colors, acrylics, oils and various graphic media. Helen Frank, well-known Springfield artist, will teach the class. The first meeting of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Booster Club for the new school year will be held in the men teachers' lounge at the high school Monday at 8:15 p.m. The Booster Club is the fundraising and service group for athletic activities at the high school.

Stokes tours the flooded areas, says GOP has 'done nothing'

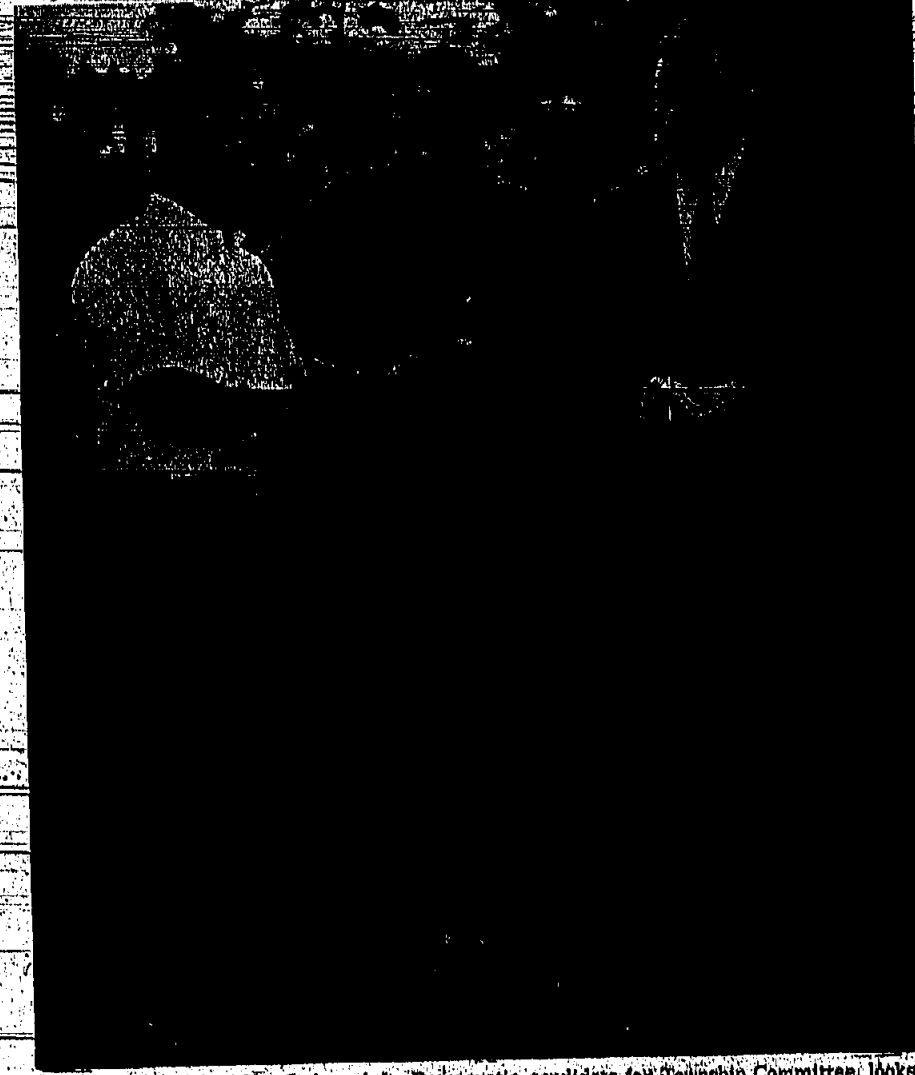

Nat Stokes, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, this week accused the Republican administration of failure to act in finding an answer to recurrent floods within the community.
He declared:
"During the past few weeks I have gotten around to talk to numbers of people about different aspects of their lives here in Springfield. Since I have never been in politics before, this was my first experience of this sort. Believe me, it has been most enlightening. I wish everyone in Springfield could join me and see what I have seen and hear what I have been hearing."
On Monday evening, Aug. 25, Tom Long, who is running as Democratic candidate for county freeholder, and I made a tour of some of the areas that have been flooded around town. Picking one at random, let me tell you about Alvin Terrace. It is a one-block, dead-end street off of Morris Avenue. At the foot and street corner is a little league ball park. Running around the rear perimeter of the park is an open ditch containing about two feet of stagnant water. As we stood looking at the ditch, mosquitoes swarmed around us, biting and pestering. The whole area smelled from a combination of rotting vegetation and oil-laid down in the Park Commission in an insecticide fight against the mosquitoes. We followed the ditch one way and we

LUV-in planned by community NDC members

On Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. the New Democratic Coalition of Springfield will sponsor a LUV-in at the National State Bank.
LUV (Let Us Vote) is a statewide organization of young people created to bring about a positive response to the question of the 18-year-old vote, which will be put to the New Jersey voters on the November ballot. The purpose of the Wednesday night LUV-in is to provide the members of the Springfield community with an opportunity to discuss and debate the topic of the 18-year-old vote.
Gary Mitterhoff of Hawthorne Avenue, Springfield representative of LUV, will address the audience of the evening, and lead for opposing the voting age. Opposing and conducting viewpoints will be presented by adult participants. Afterwards, audience participation will be held.
A spokesman for the NDC in Springfield said:
"It is imperative that Springfield parents and young people attend this open forum in order to learn the facts concerning this vital issue and to express their opinions."
He went on to assure: "Only through such a meaningful dialogue, which such a forum affords, can we understand the problems which have caused such a wide gap between young people and adults. The legislation which is needed, and the question we face on the November ballot, cannot be realized or understood without such public airing of the issues as this evening will provide."

Democrats

When it rains, water from the highway area pours through the pipe, as it is supposed to, and drains into the ditch. It runs along the ditch until it reaches the embankment blocking it. Then it can go no further, so it rises. It rises until it spills over onto the kids' ball field, and then onto Alvin Terrace, and then down Alvin Terrace. It rises until it floods the homes of the Springfield residents living on Alvin Terrace. It rises until it ruins their carpeting, pictures, books and furniture. It rises because it has no place to go.

"When I went over to introduce myself to the local residents as the Democratic candidate for Councilman, I was greeted with: 'Oh, another politician with his political baldness.' They come around every September and October, look at the ditch, shake their heads, promise to help if we will vote for them, and that's the last we see of them for a year. Every year the same routine to get votes. Oh, give us your political baldness. What do you want?"

"Unfortunately, my party, has not been in a position to do anything for the people of Springfield for many years. Those in a position to help have done nothing. They are all Republicans. I note that it is again election time and again the Republican politicians, who have never in office for all these years, are making noise about road conditions and engineers, again they are making promises and giving hope. I hope for the people of Alvin Terrace and Lyons place, and Garden oval, and every place else in this town where rain means fear, that this is not some more of the old political baldness."

In accepting the appointment as the mayor's campaign manager, Liebekind stated: "I am deeply honored to be able to work for the re-election of Phil DeVecchio to our Township Committee. My service as a member of the Citizen's Budget Review Committee in 1967-68 has shown me the dedication that Phil and the other members of the Township Committee have for our town's welfare. "I hope to bring Phil's record of experience and qualifications to every voter of our town in order to keep up the programs of progressive leadership that have brought so many good things to Springfield. "Not many citizens have to be reminded of our mayor's work in bringing a municipal pool, and new library, new city center and miles of newly paved streets to our town. "I intend to work as diligently as I can to re-elect Mayor Philip De Vecchio, so that Springfield can continue to be a town that we are all proud to live in," concluded Liebekind.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a problem and I would like very much if you will help me with it. I go with a boy who is well over 5 feet tall, while I am barely 4 feet tall. I like this boy very much, but I think he is too tall for me. I ask my family and friends if he is too tall for me, they just say that he is pretty tall and they give no opinion because I am the one who goes with him and it is my own decision to make. Will you please tell me if he is too tall for me?"

OUR REPLY: "You are trying hard to get someone to tell you that he is too tall for you. Better be careful. Some 5 1/2 foot tall girl who likes him will probably give you this opinion. Our reply can be no different than your parents'. There aren't any rules or guidelines related to height. The decision is yours to make. If you feel uncomfortable when you are with this boy (and we don't think you should be), consider how you feel if he suddenly decided you were too short for him. If you like him enough, you might try to convince him that the difference in height made no difference. If you have a teenage problem you may want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, 666 MARKET AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE FRANKFORT, KY.

Highway

(Continued from page 1) of Rt. 78 was the first quarter of next year. It is not known how this target date may be affected by the revisions being made on ramps and interchanges. At the Union-Hillside line, the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the Garden State Parkway, will build an interchange between the Parkway and Rt. 78. This interchange apparently will not be affected by the revisions now being made. The Highway Authority, which completed the right of way purchases more than two years ago, is still waiting for 78 to advance to a point where construction of the interchange can start, an authority spokesman said.

Swim teams planned at Y. The Summit Area YMCA will add two more swim teams to its program this year, according to Louis LeChiquette, Y Central Division director. All four teams will be coached by Henry Bunkin and will provide opportunity for more than 250 youngsters ages 8-17 to participate in competitive swimming. All interested swimmers have been invited to try out. Tryouts will be held the week of Sept. 15 at 6:30 p.m., as follows: Boys ages 8, 9, 10 on Monday, Sept. 15; girls ages 8, 9, 10 on Tuesday, Sept. 16; boys and girls ages 11-12 on Wednesday, Sept. 17; and boys and girls ages 13-17 on Thursday, Sept. 18. Teams will participate in YMCA area, state and regional meets and practice three hours weekly. Meets beginning in early December are held from 12:15 - 4:30 p.m. on Saturdays. Last year's members should attend tryouts, also. The age group is determined by a swimmer's age in December, 1969. Coach Bunkin will begin his sixth season with the local YMCA teams. Last season the girls' team placed first in the N.J. YMCA B League and the boys' team placed second in the A League. Boys were third and girls were fourth in the Central Atlantic Area championships held in Maryland during the spring, in which over 300 boys and girls from 36 YMCA teams in the Eastern states participated.

Summit YWCA announces program of activities for fall

A complete program of classes, clubs, and activities for fall was announced this week by the Summit YWCA. With the completion of the YWCA's building addition this summer, new programs have been added in the health, physical education and recreation department. The formal opening of the addition, including swimming pool, exercise, club and new entrance ways, will be held on the weekend of Sept. 20.

Most evening classes are open to both men and women, and babysitting is provided for children of mothers attending daytime activities. Since classes are necessarily limited in size, the YWCA has suggested that early registration be advised. Classes begin the mid-September or early October. Free testing of swimmers prior to enrollment in classes will be held until Sept. 19, from 1 to 5 p.m.

In the adult department, daytime class offerings include: bookkeeping, the technique of teaching, objects so that they become objects of art, drawing and sketching, oil painting, mixed media, with instruction in pastels, charcoal, pen and ink, water color and oils. Language classes include four in French, from beginners through advanced two in Spanish, and an afternoon class in English as a second language.

English classes for non-English-speaking men and women will also be offered every Wednesday evening, in graded groups for those with no knowledge of the language to the more advanced student. Also offered this fall are two classes in bridge, for beginners and intermediate; dressmaking, Oriental cooking, and coloring. Repeated this fall will be a leadership training course for interracial discussion groups for those who are interested in learning to lead interracial discussions or in participating in them with more awareness.

The new health, physical education and recreation department will offer many classes for men and women, girls and for boys through the age of eight. Among these are: kindergym, for boys and girls aged four and five; mother-child swimming, synchronized swimming, lifesaving courses, adult learn-to-swim for men and women, ladies learn-to-swim, an exercise class for women in and out of the pool. There are also regularly scheduled classes for youth from beginning swimmers through the more experienced. Classes will be grouped according to ability and age.

Gym activities in the health, physical education and recreation field include aquacetics, a Saturday program for girls in grades one to six featuring swimming, tumbling, arts and crafts; kindergym, activities such as tumbling, jumping and bumps for preschoolers; Wednesday night and Saturday programs for mothers and their four and five year olds; "Mindstickers," a keep-in-trim exercise program for girls; three modern dance classes for girls and three for women; three "limnastics" classes for women and tumbling and gymnastics for junior high girls and those in grades five and six.

Presbyterians set orientation session

The opening fall schedule of the Springfield Presbyterian Church will get under way Sunday when an orientation session for all Church School teachers and staff will be held in the Presbyterian Parish House at 9:30 a.m. The session will be conducted by Mrs. Sheila Kilbourne of Parsippany, newly appointed part-time director of Christian education at the local church. Arrangements for the meeting have been made by Harold W. Jones, general superintendent of the Church School, and Mrs. Howard F. Herzog and Alan P. Cunningham, session members of the Christian education committee.

A single worship service will be held in the Church Sanctuary at 10 a.m. Dual worship services at 9:30 and 11 will not begin until the following Sunday morning. Church School classes will also resume Sept. 14. Plans for the fall season for the Westminster Fellowship, high school group of the church, will be made at a meeting of the cabinet Sunday afternoon at the home of the moderator, Maurine Phillips, 193 Hawthorn ave., Springfield. The Rev. Dr. Bruce W. Evans will serve as advisor to the group.

A "look-out" supper will be held for cabinet members who, in addition to Miss Phillips, are Yolanda Ruesca, Madelyn Geddes, Gary Burt, Debbie Sm, Debbie Jarman, Sue Baudi and Paul Klitzing.

Red Cross seeks donations to help victims of hurricane American Red Cross workers are assisting the thousands of battered, homeless families in the Gulf Coast area whose lives have been tragically disrupted by the screaming 200-mile-an-hour winds of Hurricane Camille. Veteran Red Cross disaster workers say that this is the most devastating disaster that has ever affected the mainland, according to the local chapter.

Hundreds of Red Cross volunteers, volunteer Red Cross Nurses and disaster specialists are assisting in this gigantic relief program throughout the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana coastal areas, in Virginia and West Virginia. To provide this massive relief and necessary assistance the American Red Cross has launched an emergency campaign for $15,000,000.

In a proclamation issued early last week, Gov. Richard Hughes stated "as governor, I urge all New Jerseyans to give as much as they are able to this effort. In the past, we too, have been the victims of natural disasters although none in recent history have been as severe as this one. Our hearts go out to all our fellow citizens of the Gulf Coast area and it is only right that we should do all we can to aid them in their hour of need. Let us all, then, join together in prayer for the hurricane victims and in support of the American Red Cross emergency efforts."

Mrs. W.W. Braunwarth, chapter chairman, Summit Area Chapter, states, "Camille may be the most expensive Red Cross disaster operation in history. Our communities' share of the needed $15 million is $6,581. We'll, you please help us help by making your personal contribution designated for disaster relief to the Summit Area Chapter, American Red Cross, 695 Springfield ave., Summit."

OPPORTUNITIES IN THE PEACE CORPS
Think a volunteer service to make your retirement meaningful? An article in the July issue of "Harvest Years" magazine might be the spur you need to get going.

The article concerns the Peace Corps' post-retirement volunteer organization. It is definitely on the lookout for men and women of retirement age. And it describes the jobs and places to which various individuals have been assigned.

The Peace Corps, working on a global scale, has so many openings that one can scarcely think of an unusable skill. If you're unskilled, you can still hope to find a niche where you'll make a real contribution.

Here are some of the examples mentioned in the pages of "Harvest Years":

Walter White of Washington, D.C., teaches welding in Vladivostok, Chile.

Edward Searnall of Springdale, Pa., works at an agricultural reclamation program in Abilene, Ethiopia.

James Treerline of Chicago runs an industrial training program in Manila, Philippines.

Carol Laskard of Cobay, Kansas, teaches school in Corozal, British Honduras.

Each of these individuals submitted an application to the Peace Corps, underwent 10 to 12 weeks of training, and shipped out for a tour of duty lasting approximately two years.

Miss Kasprovic touring England

Clementine Kasprovic, secretary to Victor Newman, president of Crestmont Savings and Loan Association, is on a two-week tour of England. Miss Kasprovic is a graduate of Fairleigh Dickinson University and has a degree in English.

She is traveling in London and plans to visit the University of Liverpool, Dickinson campus in Canterbury, and Stratford-on-Avon, the birthplace of William Shakespeare, among other points of interest. Miss Kasprovic is employed at the Manpower office of Crestmont Savings. She is a resident of Irvington.

Song of Bernadette has militant tempo

One of the most appealing personalities to catch the eye in recent years is Bernadette Devlin, the Joan of Arc in miniskirts who is coming to symbolize the Catholic third of Northern Ireland, and to express her people's unwillingness to put up any longer with second-class citizenship.

She also typifies the readiness of today's youth to insist on solutions which may not be the ones which their elders, either as manipulators of prejudice or as its victims, have hoped for.

By her sparkling presence, Miss Devlin also reminds us how small the differences may be, by today's American standards, to keep the flames of prejudice at white heat.

The Catholics and Protestants of Ulster have lived side by side for more than three centuries since their wars came to an official end.

And still the bitterness persists, and the discrimination. The demands of the minority, to many in this country, have a familiar ring.

They have the audacity to demand equality, at the polls, in schools and in employment.

In fact, the demands bear a not-at-all-startling similarity to those expressed in this country by the Jews and other minorities in the not-so-distant past, and to those of our black fellow citizens today.

Prejudice, to reduce a highly complex problem to its most basic issue, needs no reason to exist, and the stain continues to resist the most elaborate sociological spot removers.

The burden of discrimination is equally heavy for all its victims, whatever their color or their nationality.

The poison which eats into the souls of those consumed by prejudice is also the same, whatever their status or their nationality.

And one other aspect of the problem is also the same. The solutions which must, and will, be found by those who are today's youth are not necessarily, as mentioned before, those which would have been selected by today's adults.

Many children suffer unnecessarily from chronic duodenal ulcers and can find relief through a proper operation, says a surgeon at the University of Chicago. He said the same operation relieves adult ulcer sufferers of abdominal pain and permits them to abandon rigid diets, medication, and prolonged medical care—endless examinations, x-rays, and other tedious and costly procedures. Unfortunately, he said, chronic ulcers in children often are unsuspected and undetected. Even when they are found, surgeons hesitate to operate, he added.

BIRTH CONTROL PILLS give the blood a greenish tint, says a Stanford University pathologist. As a result, a doctor can easily detect a patient's use of birth control pills. A disease of a blood donor does not have heretofore. Green plasma in a unit of donated blood has indicated a bacterial infection of the blood, and has meant that the blood could not be used in patients who need transfusions. Now green plasma "should no longer suggest solely the presence of pseudomonas, organism producing a green pigment," he said.

Three years ago she was selected to fill a newly created job in the psychiatric hospital, companion to the 50 children undergoing extended inpatient treatment there. The job had been defined in a four-page engineering feasibility study that went into such factors as safety, living arrangements, health, patient reactions, sanitation, and the temperature needed by the proposed resident canine. GROSS DEBT OF COUNTIES APPROACHES $400 MILLION

Gross indebtedness of New Jersey's 21 counties is climbing to the $400 million level.

Throughout the state, debt of the counties aggregated $391 million, including debt authorized, but unissued, as of Dec. 31. This represented a per capita debt of $54.30 for each of New Jersey's residents. It reflected an increase of more than $54 million over 1967 and was up more than $197.5 million over 1964.

Hunterdon remained the only county reporting no debt outstanding. Fourteen others reported increases, five decreases and one no change from 1967.

Approximately $43 million, or more than one percent of the total, represents debt from community colleges. Eleven counties reported authorization of debt for this purpose.

An annual tabulation, prepared by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association on the basis of official annual county debt statements, showed Union County's capital debt totaled $20,832,789 at the end of 1968. This represented a per capita debt of $36.22 within the county and a decline of $617,961 compared with 1967.

The totals are among those being assembled by the Taxpayers Association for inclusion in the 1969 edition of its fiscal reference booklet, Financial Statistics of New Jersey Local Government, to be published in the fall.

PROFILE -- Michael Mehr

MICHAEL MEHR

With Labor Day tucked into the folds of another summer, the candidates for the various offices in Union County and elsewhere will begin intensifying the vote-getting activities that have involved them over the past few months. Like most of the others seeking the elusive grail of public office, Michael Mehr of Union has spent the summer on the picnic and barbecue trail, eating hot dogs, shaking hands and trying to win support for the cause. Two months ahead promise more of the same.

Mehr is one of the Democratic candidates in the newly realigned Assembly district 9B. He and his running mate, Peter Humank of Hillside, face the difficult task of unseating a pair of incumbents in a district that is admittedly a Republican stronghold. Although Mehr concedes that he would have preferred to run in the old 9B district, which cut a north-south swath across the county, he professes to be undaunted by the large numbers of registered Republicans in the district, including Summit and Westfield, whose favor he must court to upset the odds.

ALTHOUGH MEHR is counting heavily on the coattails of his party's gubernatorial candidate who has done well in Union County in the past, he has no intention of sitting back and hoping that Robert B. Meyner "will wear strong threads." "The people of Union County are going to have to decide whether Governor Meyner or Congressman Cahill will offer the leadership New Jersey needs in the critical years ahead. And I'm confident that regardless of party affiliations, responsible citizens of all political persuasions will give gubernatorial contests remaining a district unity in itself. "The people of Union County's district 9B still have to elect two men to represent their best interests in the legislature for the next two years. I think that my experience, particularly in consumer protection, is such that I can provide the type of representation that these voters require."

MEHR SENSES that the people are concerned about what he calls a "breakdown in the transportation system." With what some might consider an eye toward commuters in heavily Republican Westfield and Summit, Mehr scores the New Jersey railroad subsidies. "The state declares 'We don't seem to be making any progress. The railroads couldn't seem to care less about passenger service. We ought to be able to rely on the expectation of reasonable service on a regular basis, if we can put a man on the train who really should be able to put people on and off a train on time."

The Democratic candidate also has harsh words for bus service. "This too is in our factory. Something should be done about it. If I am elected, I intend to make every effort to give the commuter a fair and reasonable, really the forgotten man in the scheme of things today."

Nor is Mehr hesitant about taking on the New Jersey Department of Transportation, which has been run by members of his own party for the past 16 years. "Regardless of which party has been running the highway department, it has been a disaster. It's really the forgotten man in the scheme of things today."

MEHR SAYS THAT one of the first consumer protection bills he would sponsor in the Assembly would be aimed at creating a "bill of rights for tenants." Acknowledging that most of the voters in his district are homeowners, Mehr feels that they are being treated less than his constituents for tenants. "Although they own their own homes now, most of them probably were tenants themselves at one time or another. They should care because the problems faced by most tenants today are problems that their children will face when they start out on their own. Tenants simply must be given some sort of protection against arbitrary actions by their landlords."

Like most of the candidates in the 1969 election, Mehr is aware of the appeal of the law and order issue. "Law and order shouldn't really be an issue," he maintains. "Every reasonable person is for law and order. The emphasis should be on the curtailment of crime." He is convinced that part of the answer lies in upgrading the type of work being done by police departments.

Mehr also says he was heartened by legislation aimed at extending the ability of the waterfront commission to deal with organized crime.

As a Democrat running in a strong Republican area, Mehr stresses his belief in the importance of economy in government. He claims that the people's ability to foot the bill for governmental programs is being strained. "Quite simply, we need economy in government. This must go hand in hand with legislative willingness to create programs that are beneficial to the people," he contends.

A 34-YEAR-OLD ATTORNEY with offices in Union Center, Mehr has lived most of his life in Union Township. He attended Connecticut College in Union and Pingry School in Hillsdale. Later he went to Cornell University, where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1956.

After a two-year hitch in the U.S. Marine Corps, he enrolled in the law school at the University of Virginia, where he received his degree in 1961. Another law student there during Mehr's matriculation period was Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who subsequently became a candidate last spring.

Following graduation from law school, Mehr worked as an attorney for the Federal Trade Commission in Washington during the Kennedy Administration. He also spent a year as a prosecutor for the New Jersey Division of Alcohol Beverage Control. For two years prior to his becoming a candidate last spring, Mehr was a deputy attorney general handling matters for the State Public Utilities Commission.

A member of the Union County, New Jersey and American Bar Associations and the Union Lawyers Club, Mehr also numbers the Cornell Club of New York among his organizational affiliations.

The candidate lives with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Mehr, at 2086 Morris Ave. Dr. Mehr has practiced dentistry in Union Township for more than three decades.

"Tall, slim, dark-haired Mike Mehr is a pretty regular. 'Obviously, we understand this Assembly contest and we are not. But I intend to tell the voters of this district why I can do a better job of representing them. And I'm going to work hard to get my message across. I can't guarantee that I'll win, but I certainly don't intend to lose. This is going to be a real race before it's over."

Springfield Public Library reports on newest books for local readers

BY EVA P. BROWN

The Springfield Public Library suggests the following titles from the list of recent acquisitions:

ORGANIZED CRIME

"Facts of the Nation," by DONALD CRUSEY. The author establishes the fact that organized crime exists, then proceeds to explore it thoroughly. A powerful, solid, and eloquent indictment, with its case histories, transcripts of taped conversations, and concrete documentation, resulting in a book of unchallengeable importance and authority.

FEDERALISM

"Towards a Global Federalism," by William D. Douglas. Justice Douglas identifies four critical problems of our time—two concerning the rights of individuals and two the rights of nations. His unique qualifications and his unique position in the government, as well as his compelling importance for our time and for the future.

CATHOLICISM

"The Catholic Revolution," by Douglas J. Roche. Like all revolutions, this one is full of conflicting ideas and forces. In a legal and moral conflict, Roche blends events, conflicts, and moods to explain what the mounting turmoil is all about, and reveals the creative forces that are attempting to wrench the Catholic Church from its medieval past toward a genuine confrontation with man in the secular city.

TRAVEL

"Southwest Pacific," by Kenneth E. Cumberland. This timely new edition of a standard work offers an authoritative, objective, geographical account which makes essential reading for all who would keep abreast of developments in this area. While dealing fully with Australia and New Zealand, the book is also comprehensive in its treatment of the physical and human geography of the islands and the history of its peoples.

INTERIOR DECORATION

"Decorate Your Way," by Mabel Goode Bowers. A friendly, informed introduction to the principles of interior design. Comfort and convenience are stressed as well as the aesthetics of color and style. Truly a professional guide to distinctive interiors.

ORGANIZED LABOR

"How to Cope with COPE," by Terry Catchpole. A survey of labor's political-ideological complexion and its socio-economic position in society. A readable book, interesting with facts and figures, which fills the gap in our understanding of political power, U.S.A.

JUVENILE

"Nat Love, Negro Cowboy," by Harold W. Fulton. A biography of a young Negro cowboy who worked the cattle drives from Texas to Montana. The author relates for young readers the adventures of this hero of the real Wild West.

"African Elephants," by B.F. Beebe. A book which offers a wealth of fascinating material about the earth's largest land animal, including discussions of the myth as well as the facts regarding them. Illustrated by James Ralph Johnson.

"Arm in Arm," by Remy Charlip. Sub-titled "A collection of connections, endless paths, wanderings and other calculating," this proves to be a clever and charming little picture book.

EDUCATION IN NEW JERSEY

From N.J. Department of Education

The New Jersey Residential Manpower Center will open at Camp Kilmer Oct. 1 with training courses for young men between the ages of 16 and 21.

The center will be operated by the State Department of Education under a contract awarded by the U.S. Department of Labor providing the $1.6 million in federal job corps funds.

The State Education Department's Division of Vocational Education will administer the center project, which will provide a residential program of education, vocational training and useful work experience.

John C. Kavanagh, director of the vocational division, Office of Urban Occupational Education, has been named project director. Selection and testing, providing of materials, and curriculum and program development will take place during August and September before arrival of the first group of students. The center will have a capacity to permit the training of 350 at any one time.

The program will include training in the following occupational clusters: Automotive trades, electrical trades, building trades, metal trades, food service and visual communications.

The center is situated on part of the site of the former job corps center operated the last three years by a private firm under federal funds. It is anticipated that two existing programs — transportation and warehousing and police training — will be continued under the direction of the Department of Education.

The signing of the contract for the Department of Education operation of the center has been announced in June. The contract provides funds for its operation to June 30, 1970.

Beth Ahm midnight service to precede High Holy Days

Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, will hold its annual Slichot service Saturday at midnight. It was announced this week by Rabbi Reuben R. Levine, who will officiate, assisted by Cantor Lawrence P. Tiger, newest member of the temple staff. The program will start at 9 with the film, "Majority of One," starring Rosalind Russell. The service will include the consecration of new members. A social hour with refreshments will follow the service. Rabbi Levine said that the entire program is open to the public. He offered the following comments on the background of the Slichot service: "As the High Holy Days, the most solemn days in the Jewish religious calendar approach, a special service is established, the mood of these days is held. This pre-Holy Day observance is a warmup for the worship to come. Properly observed, the days of Rosh Hashanah (New Year) and Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement) demand intensive emotional and intellectual participation on the part of the worshippers. One cannot be expected to thoroughly grasp his conscience or change his ways for the better in a few hours. Tradition has therefore designated a series of prayers to be included in worship as much as a month before the actual observance of the solemn days. The most prominent of these prayers are offered at a midnight service on the Saturday night approximately a week in advance of Rosh Hashanah. They are called Slichot or penitential prayers. They are chanted in the same mode as the High-Holy Day liturgy and contain similar expressions of contrition and hope for human self improvement."

2 persons injured in 3-car collision early in morning

A three-car collision at the intersection of South Springfield avenue and Ruby street, Springfield, resulted in two injuries early Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Carrie Baldwin, 64 Ruby st., was traveling east on Ruby street shortly before 7 a.m. when her brakes apparently failed, police said. Her 1961 Buick went into the intersection unbraked until it collided with a 1967 Ford driven by William Pearce, 45, of Cranford, and then continued into a 1969 Pontiac driven by Vincent Scatera of 17 Layington, Springfield.

Scatera, whose car was stopped prior to attempting a turn onto South Springfield avenue from New Brook lane, was uninjured and was able to drive his car away from the scene of the accident. Pearce, who was traveling north on South Springfield avenue, suffered a cut on his left arm, and Mrs. Baldwin received head and neck injuries. Both were taken to Overlook Hospital in Summit by the First Aid Squad.

Interracial business unit appoints two executives

Malcolm L. Corrin, executive director of the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity of New Jersey, has appointed two new executives to the office of Robert W. Bingham as deputy director and Andrew J. Melnick and Lloyd C. Levermore as client service coordinators.

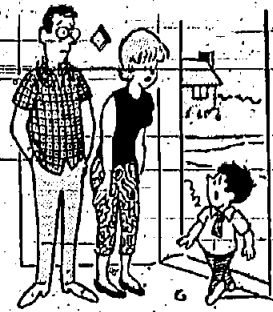

Bingham has been serving as special assistant executive director of United Progress Inc., the Trenton anti-poverty agency, and directed U.P.I.'s small business loan fund program and business management seminars. He was the recipient of the National Administrator's Award by the Small Business Administration, Washington, in 1968, and was appointed first negro member of the New Jersey State Advisory Council, SBA.

Both Levermore and Melnick are graduate students at Rutgers University School of Business Administration.

Levermore has a bachelor of arts degree in economics from Howard University and was employed as assistant to the corporate planning manager of Schering Corp., Bloomfield. Melnick's undergraduate degree in economics was gained at Rutgers, New Brunswick. He served as an account executive for Francis I. Du Pont, Washington.

New computer at NCE speeds problem solving

When Newark College of Engineering's director of computer services, Alexander E. Altieri, turned on his machine last week, he had a system five times bigger than the previous week.

NCE has just converted to a newer, bigger computer, the RCA Spectra 70/45, a third generation, solid-state, multi-programming machine, replacing a smaller third generation machine. It can handle 16 programs simultaneously.

The new machine will enable students, faculty and researchers to make use of the computer simultaneously; the college explains, speeding up the turn-around time for problems that range from introductory sophomore exercises to sophisticated studies in water pollution.

NCE's new machine has the capability of holding 262,000 "bytes" of information, representing a 500 percent increase in core storage and will operate at a rate two and a half times faster than NCE's older Spectra 70/35 installation. High speed printers producing the completed results now operate at 1,250 lines per minute.

Since all of NCE's 4,000 day and evening undergraduates take some computer courses, a high speed return of information is vital. Most of the college's graduate body and many of the faculty members also need computer time for their own projects.

To handle this wide range of "customer service" NCE's computer installation has broadened its communication capabilities and can now converse with users at remote stations through tele-types and video displays.

Altieri reports the new concurrently and anticipates computer has a capacity of making full use of this processing 16 remote terminals tentatively in the next few years.

Rider gives social rule to students

Rider College has granted its 3,500-member student body full governmental controls over campus social life on a one-year experimental basis.

Dr. Frank N. Elliott, Rider president, disclosed that the board of trustees has approved changes in college regulations which will permit a self-limiting curfew for co-eds, co-educational visitation rights in the college's living units and the consumption of alcoholic beverages by students 21 years of age or older.

A resolution adopted by the board at its August meeting also gives the Student Senate authority for all areas of social legislation and provides for the establishment of a student court to handle all violations of college-wide social regulations. The regulations go into effect with the start of the fall term Sept. 11.

Dr. Elliott said the board's decision was based on a largely favorable response to the proposals on a pool which drew responses from some 15,500 students, parents, faculty, administration members and college alumni.

Art museum plans exhibit

One Hundred Paintings is the title of the first exhibition of the 1969-70 season at the Montclair Art Museum. The museum reopens on Sunday after its summer closing.

The large, single exhibition fills all the galleries with a display of paintings from the 20th century. The selection emphasizes traditionalist works and gives the viewer a sampling of the variety within this mode.

The exhibition continues through Sept. 28. Gallery talks by staff members will be given on Sundays at 3:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Crime fighters turn to the lab for sophisticated techniques

A new arsenal of weapons is being deployed to escalate the war against crime. A host of sophisticated gadgets, originally developed for use in chemical research, are finding applications in fighting crime, reports "Chemistry," the American Chemical Society publication's special issue on forensic science (the study of scientific methods of crime investigation).

Devices using new techniques known to scientists as differential thermal analysis, electron probe analysis, mass spectrometry, neutron activation, and x-ray diffraction analysis will soon be taking on simplified names and greatly improving the speed, accuracy, and reliability of chemical identifications of such things as body fluids and tissues, drugs, gun powder, fibers, soil samples, flecks of paint, and specks of dust.

New computer systems will link crime fighting organizations together and make massive volumes of information such as criminal records, license numbers, photos and chemical identification data almost instantly available to an expanding number of law enforcement agencies. The accomplishments of comic strip detectives and crime fighters that were once science fiction will soon become science fact.

Some of the new and exceptionally sensitive instruments being introduced can actually detect and identify molecules of certain chemicals. For example, if arson is suspected, very fast access to a database of the flammable material used to start the fire can usually be found floating around the burned out area or stuck to the surfaces of charred materials nearby long after the fire has been put out. A well equipped arson team can move in and often identify the kind and brand of gasoline or solvent used to start the fire.

A case is known where it was possible to identify impurities in the gasoline, locate the station where it was bought, and bring about a conviction of the arsonist based on his identification by the service station attendant.

The field of forensic science is largely chemical and involves increasingly complex instruments and procedures used by crime laboratories in identifying and analyzing tiny bits of material collected and used as criminal evidence. Forensic scientists are the people who can match threads of fabric, or blood of the accused with that found at the scene of the crime. Of bullets fired from the suspect's gun with the murder bullets. They can analyze blood to find out if there is poison present and read notes on papers after it has been scanned of serial numbers that have been filed off guns or autos.

Easy-to-use instruments and fast communication will permit law enforcement officers to quickly analyze a fleet of auto parts and compare the results to FBI records to find the car's make, model, and year.

Estimates of the cost of crime to U.S. taxpayers range up to $91 billion annually.

Vast amounts of money in the form of goods and cash are stolen or damaged almost regularly. Private costs related to crime such as protection, insurance, and alarm devices cost about $2,000 million per year. Many millions of tax dollars are used to pay the costs of maintaining and operating police forces, correctional institutions, prisons, mountains of records and files, and the courts, judges, and justice administering branches of state, local, and federal governments.

This specialized field of science is not at all well known, and in fact only a few universities offer courses or degrees in the subject. But it is becoming increasingly important. Everyone knows that the crime rate is soaring and not very many people know what to do about it. New advances in understanding urban and social problems are expected to contribute to the prevention of crime, but new technologies will have to be perfected before we can hope to bring about its control.

Advances in forensic chemistry will clearly serve as an important deterrent to the expanding world of crime.

Cacahuamilpa Caves

Mexico's Cacahuamilpa Caves, comparable to the Carlsbad Caverns in size and quality of formations, will be converted into a leading tourist attraction at a cost of more than $400,000. The caves will get a new interior lighting system and outside, a swimming pool, restaurant and parking lot.

NCE scholarships to aid black youths

Newark College of Engineering has announced the establishment of a $12,000 scholarship fund set up particularly to aid deserving Negro students.

Announcement of the new scholarship came from NCE's Dean of Students S.J. House who reported the fund is a gift of the Huber Foundation, Rumson. The new sum is in addition to a $3,000 scholarship gift contributed by the Huber Foundation in 1968.

Under the terms of an agreement with the Huber Foundation, Newark College of Engineering will select Negro scholarship candidates who meet NCE's admissions requirements, who have a strong chance of completing B.S. degree requirements and who are in need of financial assistance.

Selection of candidates for the 1989-90 academic year is expected to be made by the College's scholarship committee in the near future, House said.

Fires in public schools still possible cautions Ohio educational planner

The public school should be a place of safety. Yet thousands of American classrooms remain firetraps, endangering the lives of children.

...dizing the lives of our school children throughout the country," charges Dr. Edward A. Campbell, an educational planner at Ohio State University's division of campus planning.

fire that killed 93 students at Our Lady of the Angels School in Chicago. The main causes of these deaths, reports the New Jersey Education Assn., were: (1) delayed alarm, (2) open stairwells, (3) overcrowding, (4) delay in summoning fire department, and (5) inadequate fire department response.

NCE offers new advanced course for professionals in water treatment be open only to those who have completed the 180-hour introductory course in water and wastewater operations or its equivalent. Subject to be covered will include: hydraulic theory and practice; water quality criteria; water treatment methods; corrosion control; distribution systems; metering devices; pumps; operations and safety reports.

A year-long advanced course in water treatment will be given by Newark College of Engineering, in 1969-70 to help operators and treatment plant managers prepare themselves for the growing water problems of the coming decade.

Since 1958, school fires have increased 272 percent, almost 8,000 occurring in 1967, Campbell says, and more than 150 children have been injured in school fires, many seriously. "Too many schools still have open stairwells, and children do not take fire drills seriously," he cautions.

Ice skating classes will start Sept. 13 at Evans schools

Ice skating has become the "true family fun thing to do," according to skating teacher Ralph Evans, whose schools in Millburn, Westfield and Cherry Hill are now accepting registrations for the fall term.

"This year, more than ever before, everyone in the family is signing up under our reduced rate family plan," Evans noted, "with adults and youngsters alike realizing that ice skating is a relaxing, healthy and above all—the greatest of fun."

Fire school to be held at Sea Girt

First, second, third and fourth year courses will be offered students who attend the 23rd annual fall sessions of the New Jersey State Fire College on the weekends of Sept. 20 and Oct. 3.

The school, conducted by the State Fire College, will be held at the National Guard Training Center at Sea Girt, 7111 Rutgers and fire college work-shops will be conducted on the training grounds.

Donald H. Strink, president of the Fire College, said he expects more than 1,000 paid and volunteer firemen as well as members of industrial fire fighting instructor's groups will attend the fall training sessions. Students will receive instruction in the most advanced techniques of operating every piece of fire fighting equipment available to firemen today.

Simulated fire conditions will give the trainees an opportunity to test their classroom knowledge and skills against flaming oil fires as well as other fire conditions normally encountered by the fire fighters.

A group of 40 experienced fire fighting instructors drawn from various paid and industrial fire departments throughout the state have been assembled to provide a comprehensive and practical training program, according to Strink.

Registration opens for dancing school

The Lois Peterson School of Dance of 2100 Stanley Ter., Union, will accept registrations for the fall semester starting Saturday at the studio.

Classes will be held in tap, jazz, twirling, acrobatics, classical, ballet, in addition to special dance exercises for Women—Girls and boys may register for beginner, intermediate and advanced dance classes.

The school is owned and operated by Miss Lois Peterson of Springfield, who is starting her fifth year of teaching dance in Union. Miss Peterson has been a professional dancer for 18 years in both modern and ballet. She has toured the United States as a member of the Manhattan Rockets, and has worked with top names in the entertainment field, among them Andy Williams, Frank Fontaine and John Gary.

Registration begun for school of dance

The Frabell School of Dancing, Irvington, announces the opening of classes for the new term with registration continuing through Sept. 30.

The school offers special classes for preschool boys in tap and ballet and a special class in tumbling for young boys.

The Frabell School specializes in professional training for beginners and advanced students in tap, ballet, modern and modern jazz and acrobatics. Students are graded according to age and ability.

Tap and modern jazz classes are under the direction of Emma Frabell, with the ballet classes under Miss Florence Rudolph of New York City and acrobatic classes under Al Frabell.

Education Center offers new course

The Educational Center, Maplewood, will open Oct. 6 featuring a new course, Student Rights and Modern Law. Student radicals, administrators and law officers from Harvard, Columbia, Rutgers and Howard Universities, who have been directly involved in campus unrest will participate in the course. Their discussions will speak to the future of the university as an institution for free inquiry and individual rights while under pressure for change and modernization.

Other courses offered are Improving Your Marriage, Anthropology and American Indians, Human Relations Laboratory and Modern Man and a Changing World. In the creative arts workshops, new offerings are creative dramatics—adventures in nature and multi-media workshop for adults. Courses in modern dance, art and music are again scheduled.

The Educational Center, located at 516 Prospect St., Maplewood, is a non-profit school presented as a community service. For further information and registration by mail call 763-9905.

College Boards classes beginning registration

The College Review Center has announced that it is now accepting registrations from high school students who wish to prepare for the College Board Examinations to be given in November and December.

For the coming semester, the Center is again offering review courses on Wednesday and Friday afternoons and Saturday mornings. Each course meets once a week starting the last week in September.

The Center, now in its 12th year of operation, assists students in developing skills, concepts and techniques needed for improving scores on both the verbal and mathematics aptitude tests. The mathematics classes will again be taught by Morton Seltzer, chairman of the mathematics department of Weequahic High School. The English classes will be taught by Irving J. Goldberg, director of the Education Center for Youth. Registration forms and additional information about the courses may be obtained by calling 731-3995.

Synagogues open classes

A Jewish education program for children who display general mental or emotional limitations will be offered starting this weekend.

Saturday classes in the morning will be conducted at Temple Emmanu-El, 264 W. Northfield rd., Livingston, 9:30 a.m. Sunday classes begin at 10 a.m. at both Congregation Beth Shalom, Vauxhall road and Temple Beth Torah, 270 Reynolds Ter., Orange.

The classes are open to all previous students and new students in the Essex and Union County area. Parents in doubt as to whether their children fit into the "special education" class for their Jewish religious training are invited to bring their children to one or two sessions and discuss all problems with the director, Sylvia H. Kohn.

The program, conducted by the Jewish Education Association of Essex County, has minimum-sized classes with personal instruction. No session lasts more than one-half hour and parents are welcome to bring their children and visit when special provision is made, said Kohn.

A FEMININE LOOK ...At The United Nations

(Commentary on a Study Mission from the Atlantic to the Pacific but across the USSR)

by TRUJINA HOWARD

Fifteenth in a Series
LIFE AND LOVE AND POLITICS IN THE USSR

If I had to take a trip across Siberia again, I would go only if I could go in the late spring or early fall. At least the weather would be reasonable. One can stand the poor USSR accommodations and services for the short duration of a trip in order to see the interesting things, but the heat of summer is almost more than one can bear. June, July and August seem to be the hottest months and our Study Mission traveled during July.

But as I said in the very first article of this series, I have no wish to stay in the Soviet Union for three weeks again, even in spring or fall, the "un-freedom" that settles down upon you in the USSR is the alarming, the unbearable thing of it all.

Two previous six-day trips to the Iron Curtain countries did not give me this knowledge, but one three-week trip surely did.

THERE ARE 11 MILLION members of the Communist Party in the USSR who control 229 million non-Communist citizens and that is some control. Everything in the 15 republics of the USSR is governed by the Communist Party.

And life in those united republics is dim. A man can barely call his soul his own, let alone his property. Almost everything is owned by the government or subject to its orders. Nothing in the Soviet Union can be individual ownership. In some areas he may buy the house, but never the land.

In order to obtain a parcel of land, one must apply to the local Soviet to receive permission for it, then pay a small charge per year for its use. In the Irkutsk area, for instance, the charge is nine rubles a year and in Bratsk, farther north, two and a half rubles. (One ruble is equal to about $1.11 and there are 100 kopeks in a ruble.)

If a person wishes to change his place of residence, he may not do so without permission. He must first go to the local registry office and his place of employment and gain approval. There is no such thing as suddenly deciding to move from Moscow to Leningrad and doing it. Or, even, for that matter, going on a trip. Oh no, Dear, you must first go and ask Big Brother if you may.

There are no private farms. There are only state farms and collective farms. The first are owned by the government outright, the second by a group of people who are controlled by the government.

EVEN THE PICTURES a Soviet citizen looks at, the music he hears, the books he reads, the newspapers he buys, are decided upon by the government. There is no private ownership and no individual may own a newspaper or publishing house. The government operates them all, and maintains a guardian eye on all contents. Foreign newspapers and magazines and books are on sale only by permission of the government. Yet there is much reading done in the USSR. What books and periodicals the government does permit are all readily available, both as to prices and to book stalls (kiosks). The prices are very low and the kiosks very frequent.

Most newspapers are limited to four pages since there is a shortage of USSR newspapers, but circulation is not restricted. There are no advertisements in the papers, only announcements of theater performances and television and radio programs.

Editors of important papers are appointed by the appropriate local central committee of the Communist Party. The Moscow Pravda, the big paper of the Communist party, has 70 linotypes and 41 presses (eight pages per press) with 70 percent of the linotypes being women but none of the presses. The Moscow staff produces 70,000 four-page copies of Pravda per hour, but 35 other places in the world produce eight million copies of Pravda a day also.

PERHAPS THE ONLY THING that citizens of the USSR can really decide for themselves is marriage and divorce. But to do the deed they must apply for a marriage application or a divorce application at the local registry office. A person must be at least 18 to marry (or to vote) and the consent of the parents must be obtained from the parents. People under 17 may not marry, we were told.

Usually there is a month between the application and the marriage and the cost is one and a half rubles. The ceremony can be performed either at the registry office or at a "Palace of Marriage" which is usually a former royalist palace. There is a small charge for the use of the Palace of Marriage and frequently light refreshment is served after the ceremony at the expense of the bride party.

For a divorce, a couple must apply to the same registry office if there are no children. If there are children, the couple must go before a judge with two "witnesses" (aided) who can be laymen. If the divorce is granted, a man must pay 25 percent of his monthly salary to one child to the age of 18, and 40 percent for two, etc.

The divorce rate is low, needless to say.

THE COMMUNIST PARTY also governs the activity of the foreign embassies in the country, and so the Americans too come under Communist decisions. For an American traveling in the far reaches of the USSR the situation is rather tenuous. In all the Soviet Union, which is the largest country in land area in the world, the U.S. has only ONE representative: the ambassador in Moscow. His jurisdiction reaches only to the borders of the Russian Federation and if an American is in trouble in any of the other 14 republics of the USSR and wishes aid from the U.S. Embassy, the ambassador also must first get permission from the Soviet Communist government before he can move to go to him.

Blue Shield in N.J. now 4th largest

Medical-Surgical Plan of New Jersey (Blue Shield) moved up from fifth to fourth largest of all Blue Shield Plans during the first quarter of 1969.

It was announced by Dr. Joseph P. Donnelly, president. The announcement followed a first quarter report from the National Association of Blue Shield Plans on membership in the 72-Blue Shield Plans in the United States and Puerto Rico.

The New Jersey Plan gained 71,583 members during the first quarter of this year, bringing its enrollment to 3,168,325. The gain was the second highest among all Blue Shield Plans. As of July 31, membership had increased to 3,325,179.

Since 1961, when its enrollment of 2,276,699 ranked it seventh nationally, New Jersey Blue Shield has moved up successively to sixth, fifth and fourth place. It is now surpassed only by the Blue Shield Plans of New York City, Pennsylvania and Michigan.

New Jersey Blue Shield now covers 45 percent of the state's population with prepaid benefits for physicians, charges for medical and surgical services. Primary protection against hospital costs is provided to 4.7 percent of the New Jersey population by the Hospital Service Plan of New Jersey (Blue Cross). The two non-profit organizations complement each other but are separate corporations.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

"BLESS THIS MESS"
Dear Amy:
My daughter-in-law of 3 months keeps a very untidy, dirty house and it annoys me no end. I have never said a word to her or to my son about it for fear of hard feelings and I do want to keep on good terms with her.

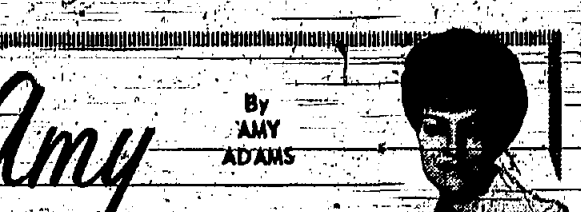

Recently, while visiting some quaint shops on my vacation, I came across a wooden sign with the legend "BLESS THIS MESS" neatly lettered in old English. In a flash I thought of my daughter-in-law and just as quickly I bought it.

Now that I'm home and the excitement of my vacation is over, I look at the sign and wonder should I or should I not give it to her?

Dear Undecided:
If you think the "message" will change her, by all means give it to her. But I'm inclined to think she could care less. Why not give it to HER dad and ask him to do the honors, but suggest he place a handle on it first.

Dear Amy:
This is in answer to the two mothers who were so astounded of their daughters-in-law for not signing their Mothers' Day cards.

I have been very happily married for 17 years and my husband and I both have a fine relationship with our mothers-in-law. Each of us sends his mother a Mothers' Day card from himself alone.

This is not because we do not like nor respect the other's mother, but just the opposite. We feel our mothers should have something from their children alone on their "day". Our mothers are neither ashamed nor unhappy but very proud to have a day to be remembered by "their" children.

Perhaps this is the reason in their case, too, for their daughters-in-law not signing their cards. Maybe they want them both to have their "day" shared with their sons. Give them a chance before condemning them. Mothers, you may end up being proud instead of ashamed to have such considerate daughters-in-law!

Not ashamed
Dear Not Ashamed:
I never thought of quite the way you put it, but I'll give it some thought.

Dear Amy:
Please help me. No one else will. I thought I was a typical 16 year old girl till our class trip to the beach. Many of my close friends and

18-year-old voting backed by ACLU

The American Civil Liberties Union of New Jersey has announced its support of a November referendum on the 18-year-old vote. In a resolution approved at the August meeting of its board of trustees, the ACLU stated: "Nearly two years ago we indicated our support for the principal 18-year-olds should be invited to participate in the democratic process by extension of the right to vote. We reaffirm that position and urge New Jersey voters to cast a 'yes' vote on the proposition on the November ballot."

The "testing at the Board meeting," said ACLU Executive Director Stephen M. Nagler, "was that there could be no more appropriate time than the present to broaden the democratic outlets available to young people. More than ever before, young people are seeking to find new avenues of expression to be heard in matters which affect them and which affect society as a whole. The right to vote is only one means which we support for making participation a reality."

BEWARE OF CANCER QUACKS

A person who has cancer or thinks he may have cancer — places his life in jeopardy by going to anyone other than a licensed physician. The best chance a cancer patient has to survive his illness depends on a competent diagnosis and proper medical treatment. Time lost while taking treatment from a cancer quack can reduce that chance.

The quack often is easy to recognize, because usually he will: 1) offer treatment by his own special method and guarantee its success; 2) offer his treatment at a fixed fee; and 3) tell the patient that medical doctors really don't know how to treat cancer and that they collect exorbitant fees while their patients are dying. Sometimes the quack will advertise his services; reputable physicians never advertise.

People who become the victims of cancer quacks are mainly of two types: One type is the person who discovers or imagines a condition in himself that he thinks may be cancer. If a quack is consulted, he will "diagnose" this as cancer and begin his "treatment." If, in fact, the condition is neither cancerous nor precancerous the victim is fortunate, for he has only his money to lose.

The other type is the patient with a definite diagnosis of cancer who has become discouraged with the progress of medical treatment in his case and seeks a quicker, easier way to recovery. Some of these people eventually do recover

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING shows new home of Murray Construction Co. Inc., for which ground has been broken on Commerce street in Springfield. The two-story steel and glass office building is expected to be ready for occupancy by the end of this year. Murray Construction will occupy the second floor. First floor offices will be leased.

Construction company builds new home on Commerce st.

Murray Construction Co., Inc., builder of more than 300 structures along the megapolis strip over the past 12 years, broke ground for a new home for itself at 51 Commerce st., Springfield.

The two-story, steel and glass office building will contain 10,120 square feet of floor space. The structure was designed by the architectural firm of D. S. Rowell & Edward Blanke, Union, and features a white, protected, pre-cast concrete facade supported by corbelled, tapered, brick piers.

The facilities will provide off-street parking space for more than 35 automobiles.

Maurice M. Wall, president of Murray Construction Co., Inc., said the company plans to move into its new quarters by the end of this year. He said that the new building has become necessary since the present facilities, constructed in 1959, are becoming increasingly inadequate for the growing company. New facilities with other additional space needed for expanding administrative, engineering, drafting and sales departments, he said.

Murray Construction Co., Inc. will occupy the second floor of the building. First floor offices will be leased.

Buildings bearing the Murray Construction

Co., Inc. mark have been erected for national, international and regional companies in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Connecticut. The more than 300 structures contain 10 million square feet of floor space.

Murray Construction Co., Inc. is currently working on 19 different building projects representing a total of more than $9 million in construction business.

One major Murray Construction Co., Inc. project, Centennial Industrial Park, is being developed as a joint venture with New England Mutual Life Insurance Company. Construction on the 23-acre, $23-million project in Pleasanton Township began last year.

Murray Construction Co., Inc. building programs include the following company structures: Control Data Corporation and Western Electric Company, Inc., in Union; Eastman Kodak Company and Xerox Corporation, Mountainside; Keyes, Martin & Company, Springfield.

The Magnox Company, East Rutherford; Owens-Illinois, Moonachie; Union Carbide Corporation, Cranford; General Electric Company in both Mountainside and Springfield, and Oliver Underwood Corporation in Bala Cynwyd, Pa., Baltimore, Md., Tarrytown, N.Y., and Mountainside.

Labor council gives a boost to county United Fund drive

The AFL-CIO Labor Council of Union County will hold its first annual labor participating dinner meeting on Thursday, Sept. 11, in behalf of the Commerce and Industry-United Fund of Union County Area, Inc.

Perils has named a director of the Community Services Department, AFL-CIO, will be the guest speaker at the dinner, to be held at the Winfield Scott Hotel, Elizabeth. He will stress labor's role in supporting the Union County fund in its effort to raise $2,060,000.

The fund, which is endorsed by the council, is new this year. It is the first countywide United Fund for Union County and its campaign, which begins Sept. 14, concentrates on collecting only the business and labor communities in Union County. The $2,060,000 is the overall goal in the county for the support of 72 voluntary health and welfare agencies.

Perils has been the director of both the National CIO Community Services Committee from its inception in 1945 and of AFL-CIO Department of Community Services since 1955 when the AFL-CIO merged. He has initiated and helped develop a number of organized programs which are now an integral part of the labor movement.

A former consultant to both the U.S. Government and the United Nations, Perils was a founder and officer of CARE and the U.S. Committee for UNICEF. He also has served as an officer, board and committee member of many health, welfare and educational agencies, both governmental and voluntary.

Nursing home staff 'involved' Patient relations are closer

The sight of a uniformed member of the staff playing bingo in the middle of the afternoon might seem unusual on the surface. But at Cornell Hall Convalescent Center in Union, staff members' participation in recreational activities with patients is an important ingredient in the rehabilitation therapy.

"Our staff personnel are hired and trained to involve themselves as much as possible with the patients," explains Mrs. Elizabeth Lafferty, R.N., director of nursing at the 100-bed convalescent center. "We stress this because of our strong belief that the staff stand himself... make him realize that he can continue to make himself useful. We feel we can accomplish this by encouraging the staff to participate in the recreational activities of the patients."

But nursing the convalescent back to health and a useful role in life involves a lot more than playing bingo on weekdays. "Let me tell you one thing, Mrs. Lafferty notes, the personnel must possess a special type of personality. "We won't hire anyone who hasn't had experience with this particular age group or one who is not willing and anxious to learn. All personnel must offer tender, loving care. But in addition to this, the convalescent staff must have tolerance and a great deal of patience."

The nursing home, which opened in June, has been systematically gearing up to handle its capacity of 100 patients. This has been done in stages, Mrs. Lafferty observes, so that "we will be completely ready for an increase in our patient complement. The points-out that while each staff member is thoroughly experienced, it does take them time to "accustom" themselves to working in a new environment, with a new staff.

"We are accepting patients," Mrs. Lafferty pointed out, "in direct relationship to our qualified personnel. We will always try to maintain a ratio of at least one nursing staff member to every two patients and will not take new patients until we have more than enough staff to care for them properly."

Like most of her staff, Mrs. Lafferty went into geriatric nursing as a matter of choice. A registered nurse for some 20 years, she entered the field of convalescent care at the suggestion of a former associate who had gone with a nursing home in Cranford. "I just loved it," she smiles. "I found there was a big difference in meeting the challenge of helping the elderly rehabilitate, to come back, instead of giving up."

While the general hospital nurse is to be upon to minister to the physical needs of patients of all ages, the convalescent center nurse must employ a great deal more psychology than her counterparts in regular hospitals. Because the nurse-to-patient ratio is kept lower, she has more time to spend with each individual, Mrs. Lafferty notes.

Thus, after spending the first part of her duty shift attending to her patients' physical needs, she also makes sure that the patients' recreational needs are cared for. In this way, the nurses encourage the patients to regain the desire to get back into things.

State Police take to air COP-ters patrol parkway

Motorists using the Garden State Parkway, America's safest toll road, have been reaping additional safety benefits this summer from the use of State Police manned helicopters.

Using pilots and two seat Hughes helicopters leased from Ronson Helicopters Inc. in Trenton, the patrols cover the high-traffic density areas between Union and Asbury Park. The trooper acts as an observer and coordinator between the helicopter and patrol cars on the ground.

From a cruising altitude of 300 feet, the trooper can readily keep his eye on large sections of both north and south-bound traffic. The largest cause of traffic snarls during the peak traffic periods is the tendency for motorists to slow down and take a lingering look at an accident or disabled vehicle. This causes a chain-reaction that can back traffic up for miles. The helicopter can spot these potential trouble spots early in their formation and direct patrol cars to the scene quickly to remedy the situation.

Motor Club of America's Safety Director, Ralph McGeohan, recently flew a Parkway helicopter patrol with Trooper Dick Rysinski and pilot Jack Kotler.

The helicopter and all State Police patrol cars, maintenance trucks and on-call tow trucks are tied into a communications network that spans the 173-mile length of the highway. Rapid communications enable fast reaction to accidents or other hazards that cause slow-downs or traffic jams. Although more than 141,000,000 vehicles traveled almost 2 billion miles on the Parkway last year, the extensive patrols and radio communications insured that assistance for accidents or disabled cars was never more than minutes away.

In addition to disabled cars and accidents, the helicopter patrol can easily spot careless driving, speeding, and other dangerous traffic violations. Serious infractions are reported by radio to patrol cars. One of the most common offenses noted from aloft is slow-moving cars cruising in the left-hand lanes. By law, the center and left lanes are to be used for passing only.

"They're a real problem," states Trooper Rysinski. "We've tried our best to correct the situation but failure to keep to the right hand lane is still one of the most common and dangerous driving errors. Cars are forced to pass on the left when the left lane is blocked by slow traffic. During the past year we issued more than 9,000 summonses and warnings to slow drivers who blocked the left lane."

The Parkway helicopter patrols, in use since 1963, have been so successful that the State Police currently has 16 Troopers using going helicopter pilot training at Ronson Helicopter Corporation's home base at Mercer County Airport. Two Enstrom helicopters and a larger jet-powered Hiller are on order for use throughout New Jersey by the State Police Division at Trenton.

The State Trooper-manned helicopter is only one method by which the Parkway intends to keep its enviable record as the safest toll road in the nation. Although the Parkway was consistently rated as the safest toll road in the nation, a 100% increase in traffic during the past 10 years has taxed the highway nearly to capacity. The Parkway is starting construction on the addition of several express lanes to help speed traffic to seashore areas. This will include an additional bridge span over the Raritan River at Woodbridge. When completed in 1972, the Parkway will have 5 lanes in each direction between Woodbridge and Keyport.

The next time motorists spot a small, spindly helicopter hovering over the Parkway, chances are it will be manned by a New Jersey Trooper. The helicopter is a versatile and productive aid to the Troopers, and best of all, for millions of New Jersey motorists.

READY FOR LIFTOFF: State Trooper William Crowell and pilot Adrian Brooks check controls on helicopter prior to takeoff.

WHAT'S YOUR EXCUSE? Seat belts which are not used do not save lives. To increase your chance of survival in case of an accident, buckle up for safety.

Barbershop singers set rehearsals

Rehearsals are starting for the fall and winter programs of the Westfield Chapter of Barbershop Quartet Singers. Neither voice nor musical training is required. Rehearsals are held every Thursday at 8 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, Westfield Avenue, Clark.

Men who have never before participated in barbershop singing or former members who have moved into this area are urged to contact Jerry Lawler, 1246 Gasport, Union (688-4215).

The International Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America has more than 30,000 members. During the last 30 years, countless quartets have enjoyed the thrill of harmonizing on "the old songs" at chapter meetings, civic affairs and family celebrations.

The Linguistics Institute of Wichita, Kan., a hospital for the treatment of speech and hearing defects of children has, for many years, been partially supported by the donations from Barbershop Quartets.

Conventions on area, district and national levels, during which competitions for quartets and choruses are held, provide ample opportunity for members of the family to share in the fun. Rehearsals, shows and competitions are serious, but usually an impromptu Afterglow (a social hour) develops.

Permanent press fabrics available for home sewer.

Permanent press fabrics, available by the yard for the home sewer, can make up into ideal back-to-school clothes, reports Carolyn F. Markus, Senior County Home Economist.

To provide the advantage of permanent press, the fabric has been treated with a resin-like finish. In making ready-to-wear, the garments are cut and stitched and then cured by high temperature pressing or by processing through a specially designed oven, thus permanently setting the shape of a garment.

The pressing equipment available in the home is not adequate to cure the finish on permanent press fabrics. Therefore, yard goods, with this finish must be cured before the fabric reaches the consumer.

Home sewers can handle permanent press fabrics successfully providing certain limitations are recognized and some principles followed.

The first limitation to recognize in making ready fabric already cured, the home sewer will have some difficulty in obtaining sharp edges at hemlines, crisp permanent pleats or flat seams.

Fabric selection will be an important part of permanent press. The best choices are very simple styles with a minimum number of seams and few details. Shifts, shells, blouses, dresses and jumpers are good choices. Fully complicated styles should be avoided; also, fullness in sleeves and other areas. With permanent press, fullness cannot be eased or steamed out.

A-line dresses and jumpers are good choices. Fully complicated styles should be avoided; also, fullness in sleeves and other areas. With permanent press, fullness cannot be eased or steamed out.

In stitching, use a mercerized cotton, nylon or polyester cord thread with a slightly relaxed tension to reduce puckering.

Zippers, interfacings and tape should be preshrunk before attaching to permanent press garments. These notions will shrink, and if not preshrunk beforehand, will contribute to a puckered look.

Careful fitting is necessary before stitching. Strutting lines and creases are most difficult, if not impossible, to remove. Garments of permanent press can be shortened or taken in but they cannot be let out or lengthened.

When pressing, use hot iron or steam setting, and since these fabrics are very resistant to creating heavy pressure is needed at hems or openings.

Frozen foods

About 11 billion pounds of frozen foods were sold in the U. S. during 1967. Only a few products are not now frozen commercially. Among these are bananas, tomatoes, lettuce and certain salad greens.

Bottled message

A bottle thrown from the U. S. S. Constitution in 1968 while the ship was 925 miles east of Bermuda was recovered by a Bermudian hoistmaster in 1969. The bottle contained a note giving the ship's position, course and destination. The note was signed by a traveler from Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Culex Pipiens brings biting comment

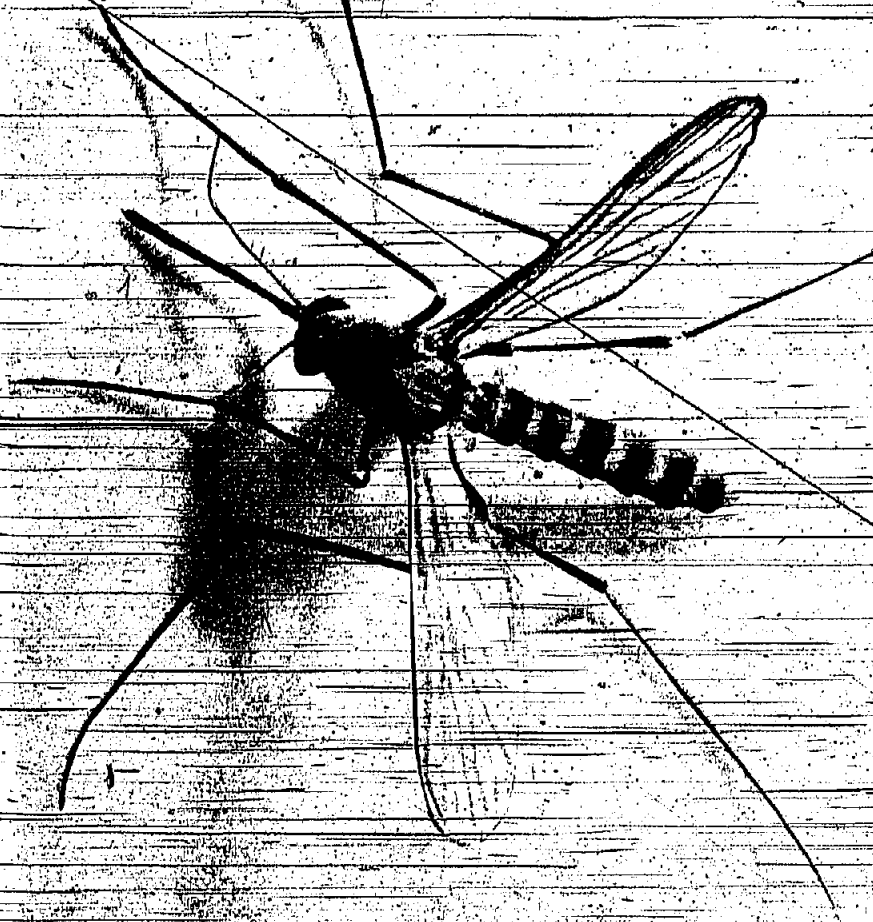

Battle against household mosquito goes on

Among mosquitoes, the Culex Pipiens is not a disease threat, but according to Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission spokesman, "it's a hard-biter and can drive most people to drink."

The Culex Pipiens is the household mosquito and breeds in catch basins and backyards. A staff member of the commission was called to Union last week by a mosquito-irritated housewife. She told him that the mosquitoes were invading the neighborhood in record numbers. The mosquito expert discovered the woman had a cake pan in her backyard that was filled with water. Thousands of mosquitoes took off from the pan each week, he said.

Mosquitoes don't die at the end of the summer, they just fade away, said the official. The pests don't disappear, he said, until Thanksgiving. Because of the cooler weather, however, people wear heavier clothing and don't notice them. "Now, everyone wears shorts and short, sleeve shirts and doesn't expect to be bitten. With clothing, you don't notice the mosquitoes."

The official offered some hints about avoiding mosquito bites: wear light clothing, don't do strenuous work that makes you perspire, and don't use perfume or highly-scented after shave lotion. It seems, he said, that mosquitoes are attracted by smells, and both the stench of sweat and the aroma of perfumes and men's colognes make mosquitoes want to dig in.

LITTLE PEST - The household mosquito, Culex Pipiens, is no disease threat, according to officials at the Union County Mosquito Extermination Committee. The little pest, however, loves to bite. Culex Pipiens breeds in catch basins and backyards with ease - all the pest needs to multiply is discarded pan or tire with water. Bank becomes second largest

As a result of the merger of First Bank and Trust Co. and the National State Bank in Elizabeth, the National State Bank is now the second largest bank in the central banking district with assets totaling more than $350 million.

In a statement, W. Emilen Roosevelt, president, said: "The merger will enable the bank to better serve the growing needs of both counties through increased resources, experienced personnel and ultra-modern data processing equipment. We believe that our 24 banking offices in both counties (15 in Union County and nine in Middlesex County) will offer our customers more convenience along with a more complete spectrum of banking services."

Roosevelt added, "Our customers will find the same officers and personnel (totaling in excess of 1,000) eager to serve them."

Roosevelt also pointed out that the National State Bank's growth to the second largest bank in the district is a result of the autonomy granted each office (where each office maintains its authority, ties and individuality in remaining an integral part of the area in which it is located).

He also announced that approval for a 25th National State Bank office in Cranford has been received and will be in operation in the new year.

GOP rally to open campaign in county

State Senators Frank X. McDermott and Henry L. Sears will attend a rally Monday launching the Republican Party's campaign in Union County. The rally, sponsored by the party's assembly and freeholder candidates, will honor Rep. William T. Cunniff, candidate for governor.

Mrs. Joan Geer, chairman of the event, said that U. S. Senator Clifford P. Case also plans to attend, and that "we expect over 1,000 Republicans and independents to help launch Campaign '69." The rally will be held at Wieland's Steak House, Route 22, Mountainside, from 8 to 10 p.m. Walt Pederson and his "Straw Hatters" and Miss Susan L. Hood, Miss Union County 1969, will entertain.

"The rally is the candidates' way of saying thank you" to all those who will support them during the coming campaign," Mrs. Geer said. "The cost is free for a dollar" with free refreshments and entertainment."

AMONG THE WIDE OPEN areas where mosquitoes breed easily if not controlled, said the official, are the Elizabeth and Linden meadows. In Linden, he said, the meadow is "fairly well ditched and open to tides." Since tides change the water, this keeps mosquito breeding down. In Elizabeth, however, the meadow is diked. Pumps installed by the commission keep the water level down and provide some relief against the mosquitoes, but spraying in some areas is still necessary.

A good portion of the mosquitoes that invade the home, said the commission official, are bred in backyards. Discarded tires, pails, birdbaths, tin cans and other items capable of holding water are favorite places for mosquito larvae. The official said that in one instance he found "thousands" of larvae maturing in one week from an unused pan.

"Thank you" to all those who will support them during the coming campaign," Mrs. Geer said. "The cost is free for a dollar" with free refreshments and entertainment."

Schaeffer to head field operations for Park Commission

A resident of Cranford, Schaeffer began his park career in 1946 as an engineering assistant after serving several summers as a seasonal employee of the engineering department. In 1957 he was named assistant principal and advanced to the position of principal assistant engineer in 1962. From 1963 to present he has been chief of the engineering department.

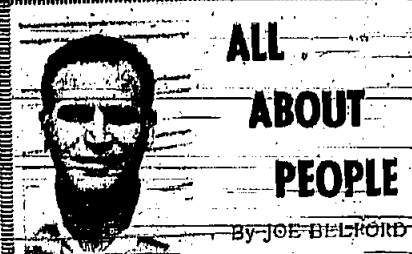

Schaeffer is a graduate of Linden High School and received a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from Newark College of Engineering. He has also participated in various seminars and courses in engineering design and construction.

Navy during the Korean conflict as a petty officer second class doing land surveying work.

Active in civic affairs, he has served in various capacities with church groups and social clubs. He served as business manager for amateur baseball teams for six years and played amateur and semi-professional baseball in Union County. He is a former member of the Cranford Jaycees.

Use directional lights

Signaling your highway moves before you make them is good for two reasons. First, it lets other drivers know what you are going to do and allows them sufficient time and space to react. Second, it keeps firmly in your mind exactly what driving decision you will make.

GRAND KABUKI

BY ROBERT LYONS
Finding Japan's Grand Kabuki away from home is a rarity. Unlike the great theatrical companies of Europe who visit us at least once every four years, the Grand Kabuki is not known for traveling. Their last American appearance was 11 years ago and they are here now as part of a world tour in conjunction with EXPO '70, next year's World's Fair in Tokyo. They will be home for that and the only reason for missing them now is if you plan to be in Japan when they return. Grand Kabuki is one of the great theater companies of the world. Their style enraptures audiences and attracts more attention within the theatrical community than any other company extant. You may expect their Sunday performances to attract most of the working actors in town. Every night will bring practitioners in lightning scene design, consuming and makeup. So dazzling and involving is Grand Kabuki however, that the experts may have a difficult time concentrating on their speciality. For Grand Kabuki is theater on the grand scale. From the clanging of gongs behind the curtain announcing the start of performance (it is the Japanese who invented the curtain as a theatrical device) to the bridges and walkways that protrude and span the theater for spectacular exits and entrances, to the polished stage floor, bright kimonos, symbolically decorating wigs, cheek white-makeup, strumming musical instruments and extravagant costumes of the men who play feminine roles, you will experience the culmination of a theatrical form that has a distinguished history of growth to perfection dating back 300 years. There will be only 17 performances beginning Tuesday and ending Sept. 21, at City Center, West 55th St., $5.95 tops.

Former owners
duck out—but pets
get public housing

ECHO LAKE PARK in Mountainside has been a haven for ducks ever since the park and lake were constructed in 1925. In recent years the lake has been home for domesticated ducks, which were released by area residents who no longer had room for the aquatic birds as housepets. Most of the ducks remain at the park during the winter rather than fly south. County park officials feed them during the cold season, and children feed them in spring, summer and fall.

Recreation land plan drawn to meet future leisure needs

Population growth and great gains in personal income and in leisure time will accelerate demands for parks and recreation areas during the next generation to a volume more than double today's, the Tri-State Transportation Commission's Chairman Louis I. Gladstone said. "We have looked at needs and made extensive surveys to prepare this plan. Its recommendations reflect the future pattern of land development outlined in the commission's Regional Development Guide. We have attempted to weigh the needs and desires of people for building sites against those for open space. Each year we delay it will be more difficult and more expensive to acquire a proper reserve of recreation lands.

"THE COMMISSION hopes this report will stimulate discussion and response from public officials and other citizens," Chairman Gladstone said. "This public reaction will help to guide the Commission in working out priorities and recommending specific programs."

Chairman Gladstone added that Tri-State's plan strongly supports Interior Secretary Hickel's emphasis on more outdoor recreation opportunities for urban dwellers by bringing parks to the city.

"In the past," he pointed out, "federal parks in this region have been nearly nonexistent, with less than one acre of federal parkland for every thousand residents. Of all 50 states, New Jersey ranks 47th, New York 48th and Connecticut 49th in share of federal parkland per person."

Only Rhode Island has more federal parks, such as those at Fire Island and Tocks Island, beginning to restore the balance, but much outdoor recreation space is needed for our millions of people.

"The commission recommends that federal spending for parks in this region be upped to $440 million over the next ten years to meet the current rate," the chairman concluded. "Such a shift in federal policy—long needed—has recently been supported by Secretary Hickel. We applaud the Secretary's publicly announced intention to bring parks to people by increasing federal investments along the eastern seaboard."

TO ACCOMPLISH the whole program will take a doubling of current expenditures, with the heaviest load coming in the first years to catch up with current needs. The total program is estimated at $1.7 billion. Responsibility for increased costs should be shared equally by state and federal governments.

The commission cited recreation-land deficiencies both in suburban areas and in the boroughs of New York City. In the city, insufficient recreation space was reserved during decades of building. More recent development, as in Essex, Bergen and Passaic counties, also has outstripped park acquisition.

In Essex and Bergen, the commission said, 1,000 acres should be acquired in each county. The 1970's are close to home recreation space; Passaic should have 2,000 more acres, and Hudson 3,000 during the next 10 years. Union will eventually need 1,100 acres more, and Morris 13,600.

Safeguard your cycling child

Every year hundreds of boys and girls across the nation are killed in bike accidents and in the vast majority of bike-car collisions the youngsters hit the driver. It is fault on the part of the bicyclist, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

In four out of five cases the cyclist has violated a law or traffic rule. Most often the youngster was killed because he mistakenly took the right of way, made an improper turn or disregarded a stop sign or traffic light. Other causes include riding in the center of the street, on the wrong side of the street facing traffic or carrying passengers.

Allegedly safety director reminds parents that in most states bikes are governed by the same laws as motor vehicles, and riders are required to obey traffic laws.

Bikes should match the size of their riders and should be adjusted properly. Cost advisers. Generally, the small 20-inch wheel fits the 5-7 age group; the 24-inch wheel is designed for 8-10 year olds; and the standard 26-inch wheel is for anyone 11 or older. An exception is the new high-rise, small-wheeled bicycle, which has great air tires and can be adjusted for large or small riders.

A coaster brake is a prime requisite for younger children. It is difficult for children to readily get their fingers around the controls of hand brakes to give a good hand squeeze for sudden stops.

A light and a bell are absolutely essential. A horn or a bell can be heard much more clearly than a shout. A light is necessary Give your country a hand. But don't lift a finger.

Except to fill out this Payroll Savings Card where you work.

After that, just sit back and be lazy. Each payday part of your pay will be automatically set aside for U.S. Savings Bonds.

And that can mean big money for you in the years to come. For a new home, education, or for retirement.

It means big money for your country, too. The kind it takes to put men on the moon, build highways, and keep the nation strong.

And the government believes in safeguarding your investment in it. Bonds are guaranteed. And the U.S. Treasury will replace them—free—if they are lost, stolen, or destroyed.

There's a bonus, too. Each Bond you buy entitles you to buy a Freedom Share of the same denomination. Freedom Shares pay a higher rate of interest than Bonds, and mature in just four and one-half years.

Now doesn't that sound like easy handiwork?

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Veterans reminded of eligibility limits for GI home loans

The Veterans Administration this week reminded returning veterans they are eligible for home loans for 12 to 20 years after they get out of service.

Paul M. Nugent, manager of the New Jersey VA Regional Office in Newark, explained that eligible veterans who served after Jan. 31, 1955, will have a maximum of 20 years from the date of their discharge or until March 3, 1976, whichever is later, to take advantage of their GI home loan benefits.

To determine the expiration date of his own eligibility, each veteran who served after Jan. 31, 1955, can assume that he has 10 years after his discharge from active duty plus one year for each three months of military service, Nugent explained.

Thus, he said, a Vietnam era veteran with two years of service, for example, would have 12 years after discharge to use his GI home loan guaranty entitlement.

Nationally, 254,383 applications for VA guarantees were received for the 12-month period ending June 30, Nugent said, adding that 9,683 applications were received at the VA Regional Office in Newark.

Nugent said that while activity last year of 254,383 only slightly exceeded the 253,755 national total for 1968 when 9,294 loan applications were received at the VA Regional Office in Newark.

These national totals for 1968 and 1969 were the highest since 1957.

The growing number of applications in 1969 is attributed primarily to the increasing number of young Vietnam era veterans, Nugent said. He noted the G.I. interest maximum was upped to 7 1/2 percent in January 1969 to increase the availability of credit for veterans desirous of owning their own homes.

Nugent said that while activity last year was upped, it could have been much better if more mortgage funds had been available for G.I. loans.

Fail show slated - Visit to Medicare office by Rose Society urged for those near 65

The North Jersey Rose Society will hold its 15th annual Fall Rose Show Saturday, Sept. 20, at the Colonial Life Insurance Co., building, 111 Broad St., East Orange.

"Doing our thing" with roses or not they plant roses. The show is open to the public and admission is free.

Co-Chairmen are Mrs. and W. Jones, social security director, James E. Dennis of Bloomfield.

Youthful Social Security Benefits available to students

Half a million 18-to-22-year-old students are learning that you don't have to be 65 before you can count on social security. Some of them live right here in Union County.

In the coming school year, benefits to these young people will amount to more than the scholarships at all colleges and universities, said W. Jones, district manager for Social Security, noted today.

Some 500,000 students, he said, will get $40,000,000 in monthly benefits because of Social Security contributions paid over the years by a parent who is now disabled, retired, or dead. That's an average of almost $1,000 per eligible student. Their parents earned the protection for them.

Jones explained, "The Social Security law was changed four years ago to continue a child's Social Security benefits past 18 if he or she is attending school full-time. Students who qualify on the work record of a parent are entitled to get checks until 22 if they stay in school and remain unmarried."

EVEN IF THE STUDENT works part-time or during the summer, he gets all his benefits if he earns $1,680 or less annually, Jones explained. If his earnings exceed that,

Ratajczak named Institute's head

Michael J. Ratajczak, Jr. of Matwan, has been appointed director of Union Technical Institute, Mountaineer. He has been director of admissions at the Institute for the past three years.

A native of Perth Amboy, Ratajczak graduated from Union Tech and completed his studies for a bachelor of science degree in electronics engineering.

Union Technical Institute, with facilities also in Asbury Park, is a private, nationally accredited institute which offers programs in electronics technology and drafting design technology.

Ratajczak is a member of the Matwan Jaycees. He and his wife Ruth have a son, Mark, age two.

Summer students to receive refund

Santa Claus will arrive early for all Union County residents who attended the summer session or intersession at Union College, Cranford.

They will be given a tuition rebate of $13 per credit hour, he was announced by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president. The rebate results from a reduction in the basic tuition from $25 to $12 per credit hour for Union County residents, which is made possible by increased state and county aid, Dr. Iversen explained.

Dr. Iversen said the rebates will be distributed as soon as the additional funds are received from the county and the state.

There will be no rebate for students from other New Jersey counties or students from out-of-state, because the new tuition rate for New Jersey students residing outside of Union County will be $25 per credit hour. The new tuition rate for out-of-state residents will be $30 per credit hour.

The new tuition rate for full-time students will be Union County resident, $300 per year or $150 a semester; other New Jersey residents, $600 a year or $300 a semester; and out-of-state residents, $1,200 a year or $600 a semester. Union College's current tuition for a full-time student is $1,000 annually or $500 a semester.

Hillside players group to conduct open casting

The Hillside Community Players will hold an open casting for their "The Education of Max Baveland" on Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Hillside Avenue School, Hillside.

Plays under consideration are: You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running, Never Too Late, Cat-On-a-Hot-Tin-Roof, Anniversary, Waltz and The Tender Trap.

Rehabilitation unit gets jobs for 1,005

During 1968-1969, 1,005 handicapped people from Middlesex, Somerset and Union Counties were returned to employment by the New Jersey Rehabilitation Commission.

"These are people," noted district supervisor Garvey Presley, "who fought against physical and mental disability to obtain better lives. Our counselors provided guidance, vocational and medical help, but the courage of these disabled people was the real reason for their success."

Presley cited his staff of rehabilitation counselors in Elizabeth, New Brunswick, and Somerville for their work with the handicapped. "Throughout the state the commission rehabilitated more than 4,700 people and served more than 41,000 others. This was the best year we've had in 50 years of service, and our counselors can be proud of their part."

But that is only half of the Medicare story, he continued. "The other half is the supplementary medical insurance that helps pay doctors' and surgeons' bills and a wide variety of other medical expenses. You pay half the cost of the medical insurance through a premium of $4 a month. The government pays the other half. It is particularly important that you apply for your medical insurance coverage before you reach 65 since this is a voluntary program with limited enrollment periods," said Jones.

Jones said doctor bills were the main medical expense covered by this insurance. However, he added, medical insurance under Medicare covers many other medical services and supplies.

Jones urged those who want more information about Medicare, and those who are nearing 65, to visit his office at 268 North Broad Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey.

apply during the three months before you turn 65 to be sure that your Medicare protection will begin as soon as you reach 65. Otherwise, you may lose coverage of some of your medical bills.

Jones explained that Medicare is divided into two parts. Part A is hospital insurance, and Part B is medical insurance. He said, "This is paid from social security contributions made during your working lifetime. Virtually every employed person now reaching 65 is eligible for and has paid for hospital insurance protection. And if a worker is eligible, so is his wife at age 65.

This part of Medicare helps pay for your care in a hospital and for certain kinds of care you may need after you leave the hospital.
