Chamber honors Judge Sherman

Saul Freeman, president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, announced this week that the seventh annual dinner dance of the Chamber of Commerce will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 8, at the Chanticleer in Millburn. This year the Chamber will honor Municipal Judge Max Sherman.

Freeman said Judge Sherman's contributions to the community affairs of Springfield extend over a long span of years, and it is the privilege of the Chamber of Commerce to present this testimonial in his honor.

The chairman for the dinner dance, Jack H. Stufelman, said, "Because of the many friends of Judge Sherman, we will be compelled to accept reservations on a first-come, first-served basis since accommodations at the Chanticleer are limited to 300 guests. Please call the Chamber of Commerce at 379-3610 for reservations and information."

Township seeks to clean up garbage in shopping centers

By ABNER GOLD
The prime topic of discussion at the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night at Town Hall was the collection of litter and over-ripe garbage which many local merchants allow to collect about their stores.

Committee member Raymond W. Forbes introduced the subject when he said that conditions in some of the local shopping centers, and particularly in their parking lots "leave a great deal to be desired. So many of our so-called merchants apparently are not aware of their responsibility to the townspeople who support their businesses."

He added, "We need some form of persuasion, even threats or coercion, to get them to help beautify the town. They seem to miss the point. They all know they must spend money to make money, and this goes for the outside as well as the inside of their stores."

"This is not an indictment of all local merchants — but some of them are reeking," Forbes said that at the Gen. Green Shopping Center "there are garbage cans overflowing on private property waiting for private contractors to collect the garbage. Some of the merchants even dump their garbage in the street and then walk away."

Other speakers urged strict enforcement of the ordinance against littering, which applies only to public property, and action by the Board of Health.

Another suggestion was to check with such neighboring communities as Westfield and Millburn, where business streets were described as much cleaner, to determine if they have any laws to encourage cleanliness. James M. Cawley, township attorney, promised to look into the matter.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, Mayor Philip Del Vecchio named eight new members to the municipal Teen Council. He said they were

Del Vecchio cites GOP achievement of the 'impossible'

Mayor Philip Del Vecchio, Republican candidate for reelection to the Springfield Township Committee, this week told a group of campaign workers that he was particularly proud to be part of the team that brought about seemingly impossible accomplishments for our town.

"When I lived on Henshaw Avenue, some 18 years ago, the neighbors complained about the delays and dangers involved at the intersection of Henshaw, Mountain and S. Springfield avenues. As president of the Henshaw-Hawthorn Civic Association, I petitioned the Township Committee at that time for a traffic signal at that intersection, to relieve the traffic snarl. Every Township Committee since 1951 tried unsuccessfully to gain the State Highway Department's approval. I am glad to state that our administration fought for — and obtained this approval, and the traffic lights are installed and operating today," said the mayor.

"After I moved to Balmoral Top, it became apparent that this area of Springfield was physically disconnected from the rest of the town by the Balmoral Golf Club. The only access to the Top was through the neighboring towns of Summit or Mountainside. Mail service, police protection and shopping convenience all suffered by this situation.

"Your present Township Committee, in some delicate negotiations with the Houdaille Quarry and the golf club, arranged a swap of the town's right-of-way, which would allow a practical road to be built. The quarry, in return for an agreement not to be assessed for the road improvements, built the actual roadway, and dedicated it to the town, all at no cost to the taxpayer. Another impossible dream come true," continued Del Vecchio.

THE MAYOR also told how he, as a member of the library board of trustees, became convinced that the old library at the Sarah Bailey House on Church Mall was inadequate for the growing needs of Springfield.

"As a member of the Township Committee, it was also my privilege to be able to introduce and adopt a bond ordinance that enabled us to build the new and enlarged building on Mountain

LWV launches its annual fund drive Sept. 24

Plans for the annual fund drive of the Springfield League of Women Voters, to be conducted Sept. 24 to Oct. 3, were announced this week by Mrs. Herbert Forman, president of the League.

She said that LWV members will call on local businessmen and others for contributions toward the national goal of $11,000,000. Mrs. Forman declared:

"The League of Women Voters of the United States, from its founding in 1920, has played a unique role in our complex society. It has been a major force in the development of the woman's movement and the movement of World War II became a great, non-partisan organization to provide political education and experience which would encourage the active participation of citizens in the democracy of the United States.

In 1970, the League will reach its 50th anniversary. Its 150,000 national members, in a recent publication, defined the aims of their no-longer infant organization:

"1. To help resolve the growing problems of our cities; to increase the political effectiveness of the citizen in the ghetto and to remove the ghetto threat.

"2. To make citizens of this country aware of our responsibilities for international cooperation and to share with citizens of other countries the processes and techniques for

Old GOP release quoted by Stokes to help the Dems

Mr. Stokes, chairman of the Democratic Township Committee, this week declared that he was pleased to learn that finally the Springfield Republicans and Democrats agreed on one point. That is the necessity for both parties to be represented on the Township Committee.

"It is a little known fact that several years ago, when Republicans Del Vecchio, Falin and Hardgrove were running against an all-Democratic Township Committee, they brought to the attention of this community, the very same point that Springfield needs government with both parties represented. I quote that Republican press release:

"Thousands of years of human experience has proved that a system of checks and balances is necessary to all governmental operations.

"Obviously an administration comprised exclusively of one political party will not reveal weaknesses, inefficiencies and possible misconduct within their own ranks. The need for self-survival of a political party threatens disclosure which bipartisanship would reveal.

"The rubber-stamp approvals that now exist on the Township Committee do not appear to be in for a change since the current Democratic candidates are dwelling solely on the past performances of their political associates.

"These hand-picked people are no doubt committed to continue the same single-minded rule that we have been subjected to for the three years; three years that have been marked with little or no originality or true progress within our community.

"The lack of incentive which unilateral control

Players to hold revue auditions

The Springfield Community Players, under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Shevelove Orbach, will hold open auditions this evening at 8 in the Sarah Bailey Civic Center, Church Mall, for their forthcoming musical revue.

The revue, to be produced by late November or early December, will encompass all phases of theatre, with singing, dancing, blackout skits, comedy and drama.

Anyone interested in participating either on the stage or behind the scenes is asked to come to this audition so that rehearsal schedules may be given out, according to Gerald Cohen, the group's president. He urged all people "who have ever had the desire to perform to come out this evening."

He also asked that all those interested in a singing audition bring their own sheet music. Further information may be obtained by calling Lil Johnson at the Civic Center.

Cyclist, 12, is hurt in traffic accident, treated at hospital

Bryant Spector, 12, of 9 Hemlock ter. was treated at Overlook Hospital after being struck by a car while riding his bicycle on Milltown road, according to Springfield police.

The driver of the car involved, Gordon Marzani, 42, of Union, said the boy cut in front of his car which was proceeding east on Milltown road.

The boy fell from the bike and rolled under the car wheels. The youngster was taken by the Springfield First Aid Squad to the hospital, where he was treated for an injury to his left leg and then released. Marzani's car suffered a cracked windshield.

A four-car collision took place last Wednesday on Mountain Avenue. According to police, the accident was a chain reaction which began when a car driven by Morris Shamus, 57, of Maplewood stopped short, causing three cars behind him to hit each other. The other drivers involved were John W. Wozniak, 27, of Ringoes, whose car sustained front end damage; Judith A. Demouth of Montville, whose car received damage to the rear and left side; and Clifford W. Zimmer of 225 Batusol Ave., whose car received extensive damage to the front end.

None of the drivers suffered any visible injuries, the police report stated.

Last Saturday a three-car accident occurred at the intersection of Shunpike road and Mountain Avenue. The collision followed a left turn across Shunpike onto Mountain Avenue by Estemor McCann, 60, of Elizabeth, police said. In making the turn, her car pulled in front of one driven by John Maglioro, 37, of Livingston, who was proceeding south on Shunpike.

The two cars collided; the turning car began to spin and subsequently struck a car driven by James Pignatello, 48, of Summit, according to police.

37 passengers in the Pignatello car, Louie Cullio, 60, of Summit, was taken to the Overlook Hospital by the Springfield First Aid Squad. Cullio suffered head injuries and was transported to the hospital. None of the other drivers suffered any visible injuries, police added.

The Union County Regional Adult School will hold registration nights next Tuesday and Wednesday. It was announced this week by Harry E. Linkin, director of adult education.

Interested persons may register for the fall term at the nearest regional high school and the Lincoln School in Garwood, from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Linkin said.

The Regional High Schools are: Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield; Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark; Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights; and David Brearley Regional High School, Kenilworth.

The fall term, with more than 230 course offerings, begins on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings during the week of Sept. 29, Linkin said.

He also noted that brochures describing the courses, together with a mail registration form, have been mailed to residents of the communities in the Regional district, and to the surrounding area.

Although late registrations will be accepted the first night of class, Linkin urged everyone to register as early as possible to insure a place in the course of his choice.

Besides a number of new course offerings, the Regional Adult School program, which is sponsored by the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education, and assisted by the Lay Advisory Committee, will again offer the high school equivalency course.

This course is intended for persons who have never attended nor completed high school and wish to earn a New Jersey High School Equivalency Certificate, the legal equivalent of a high school diploma. Instruction and refresher training will be offered to prepare for the General Education Development tests which are given periodically throughout the year at all state colleges in Jersey, Linkin said.

Further information about the Regional Adult School courses may be obtained by calling Linkin's office at 376-6800.

Handy fall glossary for gridiron gullibles

Autumn, which is just around the next row of bleacher seats, is the time when the land rounds with the thud of foot against football, the crash of football player against football player and the high, clear voices of little boys wanting to go to the bathroom.

Right now, as the equinox approaches, is the time for all sports lovers to brush up on their gridiron terminology. They may not know who has the ball, but they will certainly be able to sound as though they do.

For example, many lighteners tune in on learned discussions of the technique known as the "Red Dog," but how many know that this technique, whereby defensive linemen or safety men charge at the quarterback, derives its name from the experiments of the famed Russian psychologist, Dr. Pavlov?

Just as he trained his Red dogs to salivate with hunger at the sound of a buzzer, so do defensive players try to condition quarterbacks into looking over their shoulders when they are supposed to be throwing the ball.

The draw play, whereby defensive linemen are feinted out of position to permit the offensive team to move the ball forward, was invented by a coach illustrating his directions with chalk on a blackboard.

After he indicated where each of his guards and tackles should go, one of his men asked where the opponents would be. "Oh, let's draw them over here," the coach said, and a great new play was born.

Once in a while, however, the coach depending too much on this play has to go back to the old drawing board.

Other grid experts discourage at length about the player known as the tight end. He is usually one of the largest, as well as the speediest, players on the squad.

This combination of characteristics often poses a problem. For speed, he must have loose trousers to permit freedom of motion. But because of his size, the team often does not have pants which are roomy enough.

Thus the derivation of the title. And if the tight end is not made the butt of too many problems, he can be of great value to the team.

The opposite side of the same coin is illustrated by the spit end. This player is usually small and extremely agile.

Unfortunately, he was given the same pants he wore last year and, while still agile, he is 25 pounds less small. That last tearing sound illustrates how he won his title.

Other terms in common use include:

Umbrella defense, employed to keep the coach dry on a rainy day.

Gang tackle, a player on a team noted for its anti-social attitude.

Mousetrap, the player who builds a better one will have the professional scouts beating a path to his door.

Pitch-out, term describing the tone produced by many high school bands.

Prevent defense, a father who sits in the living room until his daughter comes home on Saturday night (also known as the quick whistle).

EDUCATION IN NEW JERSEY

From N.J. Department of Education

In several New Jersey elementary schools, the children are being introduced to the television viewer as a favorite role for many children — to be a television technician and producer.

Through the Technology for Children Program, the youngsters have been introduced to the operation of television equipment and have taken it from there.

Of course, the youngsters don't get involved in the repair of TV equipment or in any of its complex workings. But, they are shown simple procedures — what buttons to push and when.

With this background, the students write scripts and fill all the jobs from actor through various technical positions.

They develop their own programs, including dialogues, costumes, scenery and sound effects, and operate the camera, videotape recorder and monitoring equipment. The whole operation is guided when necessary by their teacher, who has been trained by a member of the Technology for Children staff.

As the videotape is replayed, the students are able to evaluate their own work. The evaluation is usually combined with a science study on sound and light or with an English project.

The videotaping equipment is made available through the Technology for Children Program through the cooperation of the Occupational Research and Development Branch and the Manpower Development and Training Branch of the State Department of Education's Vocational Division.

IN A SIMILAR Technology for Children Program, the children are being introduced to the use of the telephone as a sending device and the telecopier, which scans a picture or written message, converts the light into sounds — beeps sent over the telephone line — and at the other end reconverts the sounds to the picture.

original picture, the program acquainted the children with an aspect of their technological environment.

The use of this electronic device is only part of the Technology for Children Program which uses the children's use of tools and materials to enhance the learning process. The children have worked with organics, wood, plastics and clay and experiment with physics of rocketry, photography and electricity. They even have mass produced and sold goods. Regular academic activities are combined with the technical activities.

The project began in 1966 with a joint funding by the State Department of Education and the Ford Foundation.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

COUNTIES SEEN MIDDLE-GROUND OF GOVERNMENT

Editors' note: Following is the first of several "Know Your Government" articles prepared by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association discussing proposed strengthening of New Jersey county and local government patterns.

Official and public attention will be directed this fall to proposals that counties be re-structured to serve as a "middle ground" for local government in New Jersey.

Scheduled for early public hearings are far-reaching recommendations contained in the report, "County Government: Challenge and Change," issued by the State's County and Municipal Government Study Commission.

The 13-member commission, headed by Senator William V. Murco of Hudson County and Richard J. Coffey of Mercer County, declares "there is an urgent need to strengthen and improve county government in our local government system to meet the problems confronting it." It calls for a "creative partnership" of local government, Greater federal and state involvement in local government matters which diminished the role of the county and municipally, and the commission, adding "It becomes imperative that we have good smart government as well as good-bid government."

With greater public participation and municipal representation, the study observes, the county could revitalize local government and the role of the county government on the one hand and the municipality on the other. "As such, it would do what municipalities cannot do for themselves, and what the state and federal government cannot do for them."

The report outlines a plan for a local government system in which, it says, the county could: (1) eliminate waste and duplication; (2) undertake area-wide services or cooperate in providing services; (3) arrange other services on a voluntary contractual basis; and (4) act as a rallying point for municipal and other local interests.

Springfield Public Library reports on newest books for local readers

The Springfield Public Library lists the following among the books recently acquired:

NATIONAL DEFENSE
"ABM: An Evaluation of the Decision to Deploy an Antibalistic Missile System," edited by Abram Chayes and Jerome B. Weisner. After years of debate over the feasibility of installing a defensive umbrella of anti-ballistic missiles over the United States, the ABM system as now proposed is as controversial as ever. This report, by a non-military committee, was assembled in the belief that far-reaching questions of security and survival need not and should not be settled behind closed doors.

BIOGRAPHY
"The Letters of T. E. Lawrence," edited by David Garnett. These letters contain some of the finest of Lawrence's writing and reveal the tremendous scope of his intellect and the integrity of his character. They are edited with care and skill, and a distinct addition to English literature.

MUSIC
"Country Music, U.S.A.," by Bill C. Malone. Country music has been a part of the Southern folk culture from the time of the first Anglo-Celtic settlers moved into the hills and hollows of the South. Here is the history of this music including the men who made it known, and the type of instruments they played.

ANTIQUES
"The Collector's Dictionary of Clocks," by H. Alan Lloyd. This book traces time-keeping from the earliest recorded shadow clocks in Egypt, about 2000 B.C., to the present, providing a comprehensive picture of horological progress since the 17th century. A definitive work with excellent illustrations.

"Buttons" by Diana Epstein. A book on the art, history, and workmanship of collectible buttons. Considered by most as functional articles, by the collector buttons are seen as miniature works of art whether Wedgwood, Meissen or Art Nouveau.

"The Zeppelin" by Edwin P. Hoyt. Besides covering the development of the Zeppelin and its formidable achievements as a weapon of war, this exciting, well-written book tells of the Zeppelin's declining days as a commercial carrier and the resulting disasters. Many photographs are included.

"The Pusheart War" by Merril. A delightful tongue-in-cheek tale. The three is some years hence and the whole idea just so clever.

"One Day in Summer" by Jean Van Leuw. A charming, poetic picture book with unusual illustrations by Richard Fleck.

Letters to Editor

Letters to the editor must be submitted no later than Monday of the week they are to appear. They should not exceed 250 words in length and should be typed with double spacing (not all in capital letters, please). All letters must be signed. Writer's name will not be published unless it is a matter of a political nature. This newspaper reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

PROFILE—Herbert Heilmann

HERBERT HEILMANN

After completing his first two-year term in the New Jersey Legislature, Assemblyman Herbert Heilmann, 2508 Stillwell rd., Union, is campaigning in a new district for a chance to finish work on some old pet projects.

The new District 9-B in which he is now running (Union, Springfield, Hillside, Garwood, Westfield, Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights) was created "just as I really got to know the people in the old one," Heilmann noted.

"But at least," he grinned, "I'm getting to know the county."

In the new district as well as the old, the Union Republican feels that he has a record worth taking to the voters.

"I wanted to go to Rt. 276 (the highway which was to connect the Goethals Bridge with Rt. 70 and which, as a result of protests from the area, will not be built beyond Rt. 1) and it was stopped," he said.

"I kept my pledge not to vote for an increase in taxes, and I'll keep it again in my next term. There's money available which could be spent on the necessary things—things it's now being used for."

ONE OF THOSE "more necessary things" is a bill which Heilmann introduced during his first term which would have raised the maximum pension for policemen and firemen from the present $1,500 a year to $3,000.

This bill, which was passed by the Assembly, did not come up for a vote in the State Senate; Heilmann plans to re-introduce it.

Another bill which failed to win passage and which he wants to introduce again is one which would make anyone showing disrespect for the national anthem liable to a disorderly person charge.

He also would like to see the voters of New Jersey approve a state lottery in a referendum which will be on the ballot in November.

Estimates of how much such a lottery could raise have ranged from $30 to $80 million; Heilmann said. But even if the lower figure is more nearly correct, he commented, "It would give us $50 million which we don't have now."

But his "pet project" is a measure approved by both houses of the legislature and now awaiting action by Governor Hughes. This is one which would give the follow who drives for a living some relief on the point system.

It would provide special licenses for those persons who drive for a living and who lose their licenses after getting 12 points under the point system. The special license, which could be used only to drive to and from work and on the job, would give them six extra points, Heilmann explained.

A similar bill passed by the legislature last year but vetoed by Governor Hughes, was criticized by Heilmann as "too broad."

"To meet objections that the first proposal would have included doctors, lawyers and others who use cars to get to and from work, the bill was rewritten to cover only 'common carriers,'" according to the Union Assemblyman.

As a long-time truck driver, he finds the needs of the men who drive for a living of particular interest.

HEILMANN, WHO WAS BORN in Newark and attended East Side High School, began working as a watchboard operator for a foundry in 1919 but in 1932 joined Sun Oil Co. as a truck driver. Four years later, he became a driver for Ballantine.

He also became active in labor unions. Next Jan. 1, he will celebrate his 25th anniversary as secretary-treasurer of Local 153, Eastern District, United Brotherhood of Carpenters, and in addition serves as secretary-treasurer of Joint Council 73, Teamsters.

His involvement with labor led to one unexpected day of excitement during his first term in the legislature. Heilmann was on his way to a labor convention in Miami Beach when his plane was hijacked to Cuba in February.

One of the few Republicans among labor leaders, he has tied with the GOP going back to his youth in Newark — and credits at least part of them to a Democrat.

When he started to cast his first vote in his first primary, just after turning 21, Heilmann recalled, he voted twice. The first time in Newark for the Democratic chairman standing on a ballot box.

Someone asked him whether he wanted Republican or Democratic ballot.

Before Heilmann could answer, the Democratic chairman said: "Better give him a Republican one. His old man's a Republican."

He has been a Republican ever since, working as a ward leader in the Ironbound District of Newark and later as a member of the Regular Republican Club of Union. He also is a member of the Howard K. Lemay Association.

IN ADDITION TO POLITICS, he has another "pet project" — conservation at the shore areas.

Early in 1962, he recalled, a violent storm tore out most of Long Beach Island and the mayor there issued a plea for Christmas trees to build up the beach.

Heilmann, who had himself seen two storms of hurricane proportions at the shore and knew what they could do, went to work.

Called Ballantine Brewery and they later have some trucks, and the men gave their services. We started out the first year taking nine trailers, loads of trees to the shore and eventually got up to 17. By the fourth year, we were asked to bring trees to Sandy Hook and Island Beach too.

Heilmann continued this project until last winter, when he was in the hospital and unable to make the necessary arrangements.

The trees which he took to the shore areas were placed along both sides of snow fences. Wind and waves covered them with sand so quickly that a year later, "you can't see the trees any more." The "sand dikes" which are formed in this way built up 12 feet of sand in the first four years.

BUT DESPITE THE WORK which went into this conservation project, the greater part of his time has been taken up by his duties in the legislature, where he served on the Revision and a Amendment of Law and Labor and Industrial Relations Committees during the past two years.

"The average person thinks you just go down to Trenton one day a week," he said. "Most people have no idea of all the time that's involved."

When the legislature is in session, Heilmann said, you get a leg-up on Trenton, taking you to be prepared to vote on certain bills the next Monday.

This means a weekend of study — synopsis of many of the proposals; and the entire bill where the subject matter is one of particular interest to him.

Even when the legislature is not in session, Heilmann said, "I get 50 to 70 pieces of mail a day."

"My wife answers the phone calls and my daughter-in-law is my secretary," he said. Since his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heilmann, live only a few blocks away — at 762 Hemlock rd., Heilmann takes the time to take the mail over there.

The work load will probably not drop at all if Heilmann is reelected, but he is looking forward to undertaking it again for another two years.

SPRINGFIELD LEADER

Haas heads Northwest Passage expedition on icebreaker

Stanley B. Haas, a former resident of Springfield and a former member of the Board of Education, is project manager for the Northwest Passage expedition now being carried on by the Humble Oil Co.

The giant icebreaker Manhattan is leading a task force along Canada's polar coast in an effort to find a short route for shipment of Alaskan oil to East Coast ports.

As task force leader and project manager, Haas has the responsibility for collecting the operating, environmental and economic data which will prove or disprove the feasibility of year-round tanker movement through Arctic ice.

A sign on his desk, which probably would have been seen in the port offices of the old English and Scandinavian Arctic mariners, reads: "Oh, Ye of Little Faith!"

Even with complete confidence in crew and vessel, Haas is quick to point out that "this whole venture is one big question mark—a $30 million gamble, as our board chairman puts it. Until we return to the East coast next fall with a symbolic barrel of Prudhoe Bay crude oil, we can only be hopeful of becoming the first commercial vessel not only to conquer the Northwest Passage but to establish its feasibility of a year-round Arctic operation. If that happens, the tanker's crew will have some remarkable stories for their grandchildren.

Approximately 4,800 people have become involved in this latest challenge to the Northwest Passage. Last August Humble's Arctic marine task force, led by Stan Haas, was asked to study the feasibility of moving oil by tanker from Alaska's North Slope. The first public announcement came in December, after Haas and company officials announced that research and technological advances in recent years made it possible to consider the feasibility of operating large ice-breaking tankers under winter ice conditions.

Haas, 45, is a native of Bethany, Mo. He attended Iowa State University, where he received a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering in 1948. He served with the U. S. Air Force during World War II in the European and China-Burma-India theaters.

Joining Humble in 1949 as a refining engineer at the company's Bayway refinery in Linden, he served in various engineering and planning positions until 1957. At that time he moved to Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), Humble's parent company.

Following assignments in coordination and planning activities, he moved to Houston in 1963, becoming traffic manager for Humble's marine department.

A two-year assignment in 1966 took Haas to Esso Europe in London, where he was manager of marine planning. He returned to Houston just in time to manage the Arctic marine task force, a project that began as a routine consideration of alternatives for moving oil from northern Alaska.

TO EQUIP THE SHIP for its task, Humble had it converted into the world's largest icebreaker, weighing 150,000 tons.

Much of the ship's effectiveness hinges on its new bow, designed to break thick ice faster. Set at a sharp 18-degree angle to the water surface, rather than at the 33-degree angle of traditional icebreaker bows, the new bow protrudes farther out over the ice.

Armed with this bow, noted the Manhattan's captain will be going against every seaman's instinct as he rams the vessel into ice varying from several feet thick to pressure ridges sometimes as much as 100 feet deep.

But Humble's crew doesn't expect the Manhattan to get through extremely thick, tough ice. The task is to find out how to build 250,000 deadweight ton ships that one day will crush through the rare 100-foot pressure ridges in the Arctic Ocean.

So the Manhattan was designed to be at once the world's largest and most sensitive ship. Hundreds of thin pressure gauges along the hull tell engineers what forces are at work when the ship pushes into various types of ice at varying speeds.

At the same time, technicians are flown by helicopter back to marked locations along the route to take temperature and ice force analysis on ships. The rest of this information is analyzed in small computers on the Manhattan and stored for later study at Humble's headquarters in Houston.

Engineers and marine experts then can begin to answer the big question: How much engine power and steel is required to get a ship through the worst possible ice conditions and still have room left for carrying oil?

THE SUCCESS of the Manhattan's maiden voyage through the Northwest Passage depends on its returning with a shipload of information, not oil.

But the information had to be available to oil transportation planners by the late fall of 1969. The Manhattan, selected by Humble as the best-equipped ship in the world for arctic testing because of its high ratio of power to weight, had to be cut into four pieces so modification could be done simultaneously in yards from Bath, Me., to Mobile, Ala.

In January, Sun's shipbuilders sliced the Manhattan into four sections—bow, forward, midship and stern—and farmed out the parts to their own yard and yards in three other states.

Midship and forward sections were towed south—like any large ice yacht in Mobile and Newport News, Va., respectively.

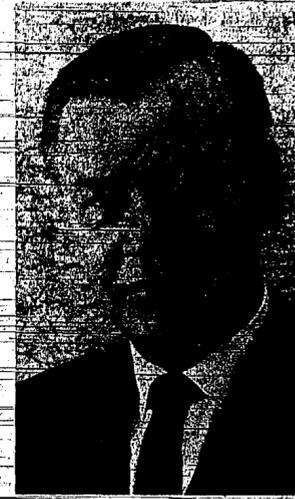

In Chester, Sun worked on the stern of the 115,000 deadweight ton tanker, strengthening the hull and installing new high strength propellers and tailshafts.

Construction of a new icebreaking bow was divided between Sun and Eastman Walker near Portland. Thus, five sections had to be rejoined before the ship was ready for her task.

During June and July, all of the Manhattan's converted sections—shielded with wide steel "ice belt"—among other alterations were returned to the Chester yard and assembled.

At one point in June, Sun reported that four shipyards were dedicating more than 10,000 workers to the conversion of the Manhattan.

The ship's round trip through the Passage will take about 100 days. After it arrives off Prudhoe Bay—near the recently discovered oil—it will test in the edges of the year-round Polar pack ice and then return through the Passage combining its data collection mission. It is scheduled to reach the East Coast again on Nov. 10, carrying a small amount of crude oil.

Field work important

Field work is an important function of the State Museum. Explorations of the Tocks Island area have yielded thousands of specimens for the museum's Indian collection. Many date from prehistoric times.

Overweight woes for trucks, 9 operators draw $10 fines

Nine truck operators were fined Monday for exceeding the posted weight limit on Milltown road in Springfield. The defendants involved included William Curran of Summit, Sterling Harrison of Newark, Mario Peluso of Orange, Carl Dixon of Newark, Walter Foster of East Orange, David Madrick of Newark, Robert V. McGuire of Long Island City, N.Y., D. O. Evans Inc. and Snappy Delivery Service of Bloomfield. The cost to each was a $10 fine.

At the Monday night session of the Municipal Court, with Judge Max Sherman presiding, four drivers were fined for speeding on Rt. 22. They were: Robert L. Schindler, 46 of Haledale, who was fined $14; Charles J. Vennich Jr., 20, of Jersey City, $14; John O. Klingler, 18, of West Orange, $25; and William A. Pletcher, 21, of Plainfield, $20.

Baseil is awarded NCE scholarship

Richard Baseil of 18 Metzel ave., Springfield, has been awarded a trustee scholarship at Newark College of Engineering.

Announcement of the undergraduate scholarship list, which numbers more than 120 students, was made by NCE Dean of Students S. J. House.

Included in the total are more than 20 business, industry and civic sponsored scholarships, an increased number of awards funded by individual NCE alumni and NCE Trustee Scholarships, the latter worth $1,000 each.

There has been a noticeable increase in scholarship support at NCE in the past year or so. Dean House said. "I think a least part of this increase can be attributed to the general success of our graduates in business and industry. Their success allows them to both sponsor scholarships on their own and to influence their companies to give scholarship funds to NCE."

Student in Africa wins scholarship from church school

Norman Mutsaers, a student at Umtali United Methodist School in Umtali, Rhodesia, will be a recipient this year of scholarship funds from the church school students of Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Hall at Academy Green, according to Mrs. Virginia Gleitsman, chairman of the commission on education, and John Brunny, church school superintendent.

This continues the interest of the church school in education of students at home and abroad which began last year with a $400 scholarship for Mrs. Juanita La Badie, a Lumbie Indian studying at Pembroke College in North Carolina to become an elementary school teacher.

Norman will begin his senior year in high school in Umtali in January, 1970. One of seven children, Norman has worked to raise the money for his education, and in a recent letter to Pastor James Dewart of the local congregation he expressed his gratitude that the church school had offered to support him in completing his high school education.

Church school students and teachers have been supplementing their regular income and contributions through mission banks which were taken home on June 22 and are to be returned this Sunday. Their giving enabled Mrs. La Badie to complete her college education last spring, and to become self-supporting.

Sessions of the church school are held each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. Nursery through sixth grade meets in the Wesley House; seventh and eighth grades, on the third floor of the church annex, and the senior highs, in the Mundy room.

Readiness certificates given to incoming college freshmen

Three Springfield residents were among 77 recent high school graduates awarded certificates for their active participation in Union College's eighth annual College Readiness Program, which was held on the Union College campus in Cranford from June 26 to July 23.

The program is designed to give recent high school graduates an orientation to college life and an opportunity to improve their basic skills in reading, composition, and problem-solving, according to Prof. Gunars Salins of Glen Ridge, director.

Nearly half of the young men and women who enter college classes never complete the four-year program, Prof. Salins said. Inability to adjust to a college situation accounts for a significant number of these drop-outs, he added. The College Readiness Program is designed to help students make that adjustment successfully. An evaluation of the program over the past eight years indicates that the program has succeeded, Prof. Salins said.

Springfield residents awarded certificates from Union College's College Readiness Program are: Jeffrey Carter of 22 Lynn dr., Walter Galpa of 30 Lewis dr., and Michael Rubinfeld of 78 Redwood rd.

Carter plans to attend Union College, while Galpa will attend the State University of New York, Agricultural and Technical College, Farmingdale. Rubinfeld plans to attend Moravian College, Bethlehem, Pa.

They are graduates of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield.

Lean Lines keeps it off

A spokesman for Lean Lines this week declared: "So often we've had overweight individuals say to us, 'Oh, I've lost weight before but it should be so difficult for me to do it again, which perhaps best summarizes the frustration of being overweight. You see, losing weight is not as difficult to achieve as maintaining the weight you have lost.'"

"One of the reasons for starting Lean Line was our disappointment in seeing so many overweight people unable to maintain their weight loss. That's the main reason for our development of a programed maintenance procedure, with its 'Vacations from Dieting.' Under this Lean Line program we have seen our members shed excess weight and maintain their weight loss for extended periods of time. And, isn't this what losing weight is all about?"

"Isn't it time you thought about your excess weight?"

Ben Shahn's art on display Features State Museum slate

An exhibition of Ben Shahn works, the first since the artist's death, will start the fall season in New Jersey's State Museum, Trenton, Saturday, Sept. 20.

Scheduled to continue until Nov. 16, the show includes more than 50 paintings dating from 1929 to the 1960's, and two murals, purchased by the State Museum last year and being shown for the first time.

The Shahn exhibit is part of a continuous series in the museum. On display through Sunday are two exhibits titled "African Art from the Museum Collection" and "Fine Art Selections and Recent Acquisitions."

The exhibit will be one phase of the museum's total program, in its three buildings, main museum, planetarium and auditorium, the museum offers science exhibitions, extension services, school and general public programs, field work, laboratory research and collection activities.

The art exhibits involve many forms of expression including painting, sculpture, photography, decorative art and handicraft. Natural history displays show mammals, birds, reptiles, rocks and minerals of New Jersey.

An area devoted to New Jersey Indians shows how they hunted, fished and lived. The paleontology area highlights a fossilized skeleton of a mastodon found in Sussex County and a wide-ranging exhibit of fossil specimens.

The 150-seat Planetarium is one of only five of its kind in the country with a computer-operated mechanism that permits rapidly changing scenes. The projector can show 3,500 stars as seen from any point in the solar system.

Weekends and holidays, the museum provides a varied schedule of programs in its 416-seat auditorium including films, concerts, operas, dramas, and lectures.

The museum is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., daily except Sunday when the hours are 2 to 5 p.m.

Special school class programs are conducted throughout the school year. Persons desiring specific information should contact the Reservations Office, The State Museum, P. O. Box 1868, Trenton, 08626. Phone: 609-292-6347.

Upsala set for busy school year

Upsala College opens its fall semester today with academic and social activities that rank among the most ambitious in its 76-year history.

The 1969-1970 school year will include the anticipated completion of the first unit of a $4-million college center, the introduction of a new curriculum for day and evening students; a lecture by a famous show business personality and the student presentation of a Broadway musical.

Some 1,400 day students, including 300 freshmen, have arrived at the East Orange campus in preparation for the formal opening of the term today. Approximately 70 per cent of the students are from New Jersey.

Evening sessions in the General Studies Division begin tonight with attendance expected to be over 50 per cent higher than last spring's semester of 400 students.

The college's evening operations have been reorganized into a Division of General Studies which will make available greater opportunities for adults to pursue college level work.

Ground was broken last spring for the first unit of Upsala's new college center which will be a site for consolidation of many of the school's activities, now housed in various other buildings. The first unit, constructed at a cost of $1.6 million, will include several lounges and dining facilities for the entire student body. To follow is the construction of a second unit, at a cost of $1.4 million, which will include recreational facilities, a book store, offices for student organizations and additional dining accommodations.

Under the new curriculum, the normal student load requirement will be only four courses per semester instead of five. To graduate now, a student must pass 32 courses instead of 40, as heretofore.

While students will undertake fewer subjects per semester, they now will be afforded an opportunity to study their selected courses in greater depth, Dean Perkins said.

Outside the classroom, there will be much activity. Robert Montgomery, actor, director and producer, will give his views on television in talk Oct. 8. The public is invited. "Workshop '69," the college's drama group, will present the musical, "Guys and Dolls," on Nov. 6, 7 and 8 at the school theatre.

Seton Hall gets grant

Seton Hall University has been awarded a grant of $42,275 by the U. S. Office of Education for the preparation of textbooks dealing with an introduction to literary Chinese, according to John A. Cole, director of institutional research.

The project will be under the direction of Fred Pangaro, Wang professor of Asian Studies, and is intended to fill a gap currently existing in Chinese language teaching. When a student of Chinese makes the transition from modern spoken Chinese to literary Chinese, the completed project will provide an introductory reader in literary Chinese with exercises designed to teach literary Chinese using spoken Chinese as the intermediary rather than English.

Exhibit scheduled by Chinese artist

An exhibit of paintings by Chang Dai-chien, who has been called the greatest contemporary Chinese artist, will be shown today through Oct. 12 at the New York Cultural Center (formerly the Gallery of Modern Art).

The exhibit, which is comprised of some 60 works with themes closely akin to nature.

Chang Dai-chien, however, developed his own distinctive style, called "pao nu," in which he gives expression to his own genius and the spirit of this age, over and over the mastery of the traditional Chinese art with which he was imbued as a young student.

Diesel school revs for debut

Engine City Technical Institute, Route 22, Union, opens Sept. 22 with a new approach to diesel instruction. The school reverses the previous ratio of classroom-to-shop instruction and concentrates on practical work experience.

ECTI, which has been approved by the New Jersey State Department of Education, is currently accepting applications. Operating out of a modern, two-story building, the school is offering a 75-week, 600-hour course which will concentrate on practical experience with engines, featuring a 2-1 ratio of shop activity to classroom theory.

"This type of programming is designed to satisfy the specific needs of the engine industry," according to Vincent DiGiovanni, school director, "and to introduce the diesel school to ambitious young men who might otherwise turn elsewhere for a career."

A full range of highly technical diagnostic equipment has been acquired by the school. The institute is open to all high school graduates or applicants who have a high school equivalency certificate or who can demonstrate an interest in and aptitude for diesel engines.

A war (ah choo) ning Bumper crop of ragweed

Ragweed is spreading much more quickly than usual this year. It is causing acute "hay fever" suffering among an estimated quarter of a million persons in New Jersey who are allergic to its pollen.

Specialists at the College of Agriculture and Environmental Sciences, Rutgers University, say that abundant rainfall has encouraged a bumper crop of both common and giant ragweed. Roadside and vacant lots where the weeds flourish are sources of irritating pollen that causes such acute misery.

In spite of all the educational campaigns to reduce the ragweed crop in past years, many otherwise well-informed persons do not recognize ragweed. And so they do not destroy it.

John A. Meade, specialist in weed control at the college, says that common ragweed grows to five feet high. The stem is hairy and much branched. The leaves are only slightly strongly indented or parted, and are hairy, smooth on the stem and branches, mostly opposite, true to its name, grows as high as 15 feet. Stems are erect, rank, coarse, and hairy with many branches. The lower leaves are three-lobed or simple, or all one piece. Leaves are very hairy.

The inconspicuous flower parts at the tips of the branches look like little beads. They produce the light pollen that the wind can carry several miles.

Ragweed can be controlled by cutting, mowing, pulling or hoeing, as well as by spraying with 2, 4-D.

County agricultural agents offer a free leaflet, "Ragweed and Control." The Rutgers Extension Center at the College of Agriculture, Rutgers, also will send it on request.

New co-chairman elected by ICBO

The board of directors of the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity of New Jersey has announced the election of Don M. Thomas, president of Newark Chrysler-Dodge Inc., as co-chairman. He shares this position with Robert B. Meyner, former governor of New Jersey, and replaces Dr. Clifford C. Davis, chairman of the board of Riverport Laboratories, who is now president of the National I.C.B.O. organization.

Thomas is the first negro Chrysler-Dodge dealer in the Eastern United States. The I.C.B.O. is a voluntary organization formed to help minority group members to organize their own businesses. Through the use of volunteers from the business community, applicants are given one-to-one counseling in a specific area of business. This service is provided free as well as aid in obtaining financial assistance and a business educational program.

Tropical plant exhibit at flower show in N.Y.

Tropical plants from all parts of the world will be featured in the New York Botanical Garden's exhibit at the Oct. 2-7 Flower Show in Bryant Park. The tropical garden will occupy 500 square feet in the center of the Flower Show which will be entirely under canvas.

Since its incorporation in 1891, the Botanical Garden has presented more than 430 botanical exhibitions.

Horticulturist Louis P. Politi, a perennial prize winner at the International Flower Show, has planned a dual exhibit which will feature east and west with a rock wall in the center. Water will cascade down both sides into pools bordered by ferns, orchids and tropical foliage plants.

Hours will be 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Programs offered in basic education, equivalency class

Among the 91 courses offered this fall in the South Orange-Maplewood Adult School, Columbia High School, Maplewood, are free courses, federally supported, in adult basic education, and tuition high school equivalency courses.

Both these programs meet 7:50 to 10:00 Monday and Thursday evenings. New candidates for these courses should register in person on Tuesday, Sept. 23, 8 to 9 p.m., at Columbia High School, where they will meet their counselors and be assigned to classes appropriate to their present needs. The classes start Monday, Sept. 22. Former basic education students should come on opening night, a school open house.

Candidates for adult basic education may call John Kerrigan at 762-5600 between 3 and 4 p.m. daily if they need further information before registering. These courses are for native-born adults with less than a ninth grade schooling, and for the foreign born with no or little knowledge of English. Candidates for high school equivalency must be 18 or over, have started but not finished high school, and have been out of school for at least a year. An application for this course is required and may be had upon request by calling 762-5600 between 10 and 11 a.m., or 1 and 3 p.m. Tuition for the course is $40.

Think you're an eggshell Parking car safely not simple

Legally parked is not enough, warns the Institute for Safe Living. The question is: A defensive driver never relies upon the correct and skillful action of others in safeguarding his own vehicle from damage. He had to look ahead so that he won't become involved as a part of somebody else's error.

According to the Institute for Safe Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, if your car was an egg — or your head was where your bumper is — it is quite probable that you'd quickly acquire a space-age concept as to where and how you parked your vehicle. Which would be most important than the fact that you were parked correctly within the yellow lines, in accordance with the letter of the law, or that you had enough caution around you to make the skillful action of adjacent vehicle drivers less important as a factor of your own safety?

The action of a driver who parks his vehicle across the street from somebody's driveway, parks in back of docketed vehicles or cars, parks diagonally at a curb, just doesn't compute with concepts of defensive driving. Neither is it a factor of your own safety.

Tryouts on Monday, Tuesday for 'Harvey' at high school

Tryouts for "Harvey," a three-act comedy by Mary Chase, will begin on Monday and Tuesday at 3:15 p.m. in Halsey Hall at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, according to the senior class play director, Joseph P. Trilisky.

Yearbook's staff in first meeting

Peter A. Socca, literary and business advisor of the Regional League, has announced that the first meeting of this year's high school yearbook staff will be held in Room 204 at 3:15 p.m. today to discuss plans for the 1970 Jonathan Dayton Regional High School yearbook. The organizational meeting will deal with the selection of the editorial staff, business and campaign matters. Last year's Regional League staff, which consisted of Jill Williams, Nancy E. Sosa, Marie Tarantola, Debbie Schwaiger, David May, Debbie Steinhoff, Karen Schwaiger, Mike Goodman, Robert Gottlieb, Jerry Vezza, Bonnie Turen, Judy Lies and Dennis DeLeonard, helped produce an outstanding yearbook which featured color photographs, as well as unusual layouts, Socca said. He pointed out that many staff positions are available to students who desire to work for Jonathan Regional League.

This comedy, which was produced on Broadway in 1944 with Josephine Hull and Frank Fay as stars, has speaking roles for six boys and six girls. Students desiring to try out for the speaking parts were urged to report promptly. Many stage jobs, makeup, costumes and committee chores are available for students interested in the theater.

Trilisky, a graduate of Catholic University, is beginning his 11th year as drama coach at Dayton. His groups have produced such hits as "Enter Laughing," "Miracle Worker," "My Sister Eileen," "Fleshouse of the August Moon" and "The Crucible."

He also announced that the Dramatics Club of approximately 70 students, is open for membership. The officers of the club are chosen by members of the National Theatrical Society. The club meets the first and third Tuesdays of the month to cultivate an appreciation for the dramatic arts.

Scenes, skits and preparation of assemblies and special activities take place at the club meetings under Trilisky's supervision. Talented members of the Dramatic Club can be appointed to the National Theatrical Society, an honorary organization, he said.

JOEY RUSSELL, comedian and master of ceremonies, will be featured at the meeting of Springfield Men's Lodge of B'nai B'rith Monday at 8:30 p.m. at Temple Beth Ahm. Sam Piller will preside at the first meeting of his term as president. Refreshments will be served.

Junior, senior high activities to open at Westfield YMCA

The Westfield YMCA, this week announced the opening dates for the junior and senior high youth program. This program includes all year in grades seven through 12 and last year in grades seven through 10 participants.

There are several features of particular interest to youth in Westfield, one being the junior high club program, a Y official said. Beginning Sept. 25, club groups of 10-15 boys will meet with an adult advisor every Thursday night for gym and swim from 7-8:30 (basketball, volleyball and swimming in an Olympic pool) and club meetings from 8-9:30.

The club goes on weekend camping, fishing, boating trips, shows films, arts and crafts, has outside speakers and participates in surviving for club goals. Thomas Brown and Jim Lynch are among this year's advisors. The Junior High Fishing Club is run by Robert G. Thomas Jr., an expert boat handler who teaches the boys how to operate a boat safely as well as how to fish. The club meets Thursdays from 7-9 in the Y (YMCA membership is required).

The senior high club program involves high school sophomores, juniors and seniors. With one or two adult advisors for each club, the clubs are run solely by the boys as they operate and compete in athletic programs, participate in fund raising, shows clean-up and other special projects. Youth and Government in Action and Y.M.C.A. regional conventions such as the one being held this year in Puerto Rico, and try to achieve goals of service to the community and unity in the group. A club has the option of being Hi-Y or non Hi-Y, but in either case the youth must be a member of the Y.M.C.A.

A new name on the scene is "Superfluus," a coffeehouse run by 12 youths and two adults that opens Wednesday, Sept. 24, at 8 Folk Street. Multi-media productions, group discussions, plays, improvisations, paint-ins, graffiti contests, "quiet nights," Negro blues nights are some of the programs that can be seen on Wednesday and Friday nights from 8-11.

The Black Awareness Club is a senior high co-ed club primarily for black students. For the first four meetings, beginning Sept. 23 at 8 p.m., swimming will be excluded so that the group can get together, then gym and swim will resume. Plans are being made to operate a black clothing store in town, put on a soul food day, Afro fashion show in the high school, participate in a YMCA exchange program with Ethiopia or Uganda and purchase a black encyclopedia. New clubs, called special interest clubs, are being formed around a central theme or purpose such as a Social Action Club, Community Development Club or Rifle Club. Any groups wanting to form were asked to call Bruce Cook, at 233-2700. Students should register for membership in the above clubs before the opening dates in order to insure places in a club. Registrations will be taken the week of Sept. 22-26 at the front desk in the YMCA. Social membership or full membership is required for participation in all clubs.

Keeping string strung

The most annoying thing about using a ball of string is the way it rolls all over the place when you pull out several feet at a time. To keep the string in place, you can try tying up plants in the garden by putting a clay pot over it, threading the end of the string through the drainage hole. You can pull out as much as you like, as far as you like, and the ball will stay put under its restrainer.

The 30-second oven cleaner 7¢ (It takes just 30 seconds of your time to whisk away the dirt. Costs less than you're now paying!) Ladies, get your heads out of the oven. Now you can have an electric range with an oven that cleans itself automatically, for an investment of about 7¢ and 30 seconds of your time per cleaning. With most models (check the instructions first) you can even put the surface-unit drip pans into the oven. Then, when you turn the switch to "Clean", spills and splatters disappear from the oven racks and drip pans during the average 1 1/2-hour cleaning cycle. Only a trace of powder remains. You whisk that away in about 30 seconds. There's no worry about scrubbing the surface units either, because spills disappear from them while you're still cooking. Only electric ranges can give you this "total cleanability". So throw out the expensive oven cleaners, the cans of stuff, the brushes, the steel wool, and the dirty rags. Buy a new electric range with a self-cleaning oven. You'll find a large selection at the local appliance dealer displaying the familiar Reddy Kilowatt seal. He's open right now. Two decades of stars in their eyes Astronomers to celebrate with a dinner

Twenty years of star gazing will be celebrated by members of Amateur Astronomers, Inc. on Nov. 21, when AAI observes its 20th anniversary with a dinner at the Mountaintop Inn, according to Edward Pearson of Westfield, AAI president.

The association of sky watchers was organized in 1949 by a small group of men who wanted to further their own interest and education in astronomy at the non-professional level. Meeting initially in the Town Hall of Roselle Park with outdoor observation sessions held in the Watchung Reservation during the summer only, the small band has since grown to a membership of more than 100 and operates in cooperation with Union College, Cranford, the William Miller Speer Observatory, the second largest observatory in the state.

In the course of furthering their own education, AAI members have been instrumental in stimulating the interest of thousands of students and adults in the field of astronomy. AAI conducts public viewing sessions every Friday evening at the observatory at Union College. Members have lectured at Union College, and students on various aspects of astronomy and have served as instructors for school programs and adult classes in astronomy.

EXTENDING AND SHARING their knowledge has been but one phase of AAI's work. Members are also very much involved in the task of their trade and have undertaken the astronomical task of constructing two major telescopes—a 24-inch Newtonian-Cassegrain and suggesting future use of a portion of the grounds for observational meetings.

It was a praiseworthy move. When plans for an observatory at Union College were first proposed, the college entered into an agreement with AAI, giving the amateur astronomers a major role in the planning and operation of the observatory. Actual construction of the observatory was made possible by a gift from Mrs. Frederick W. Belnecke of New York City and her son, William S. Belnecke of Summit, as a memorial to Mrs. Belnecke's father, a founder of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company.

AAI membership is open to anyone over 14 years of age who is interested in astronomy. Meetings are held the third Friday of each month at Union College and the general public is invited to attend.

Membership in AAI is almost as varied as the heavenly phenomena it observes and includes students, accountants, machinists, teachers, lawyers, engineers and scientists. Three of its members are on the lecture staff of the Hayden Planetarium. AAI members reside in Union, Essex, Hudson, Hunterdon, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, and Somerset counties and in Staten Island, N.Y.

AAI BECAME AFFILIATED with Union College in 1961. Patricia J. White of Warren Township, vice-principal of Perth Amboy High School and at that time president of AAI, wrote to the college requesting use of the main lecture hall for eight meetings a year and fogging or immediately after a rainstorm helps settle the spray into mosquito-infested areas.

Allaire said that "should any residents prefer the commission not to spray" an area, they should contact the commission. "I am going to request our working force to spray during these off hours." If this is successful Allaire said, the residents of Union County will be advised of the scheduling so that the county trucks will be recognized. Allaire said the agency will spray when conditions are best and "unusually" cold weather discourages the mosquitoes.

Mosquito early A.M. target New spraying hours planned

The Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission will begin to go after pests in early morning hours soon, according to John P. Allaire Jr., vice-president.

Allaire said "weather conditions are best suited for spraying when it is moist and calm. Windy and dry conditions are not conducive to spraying, especially under gusty conditions."

He added: "Cases of wind-blow spray away which is usually the cause during regular daily working hours and the result is a dollar loss of labor and materials to the taxpayers. The early morning performance of misting

Deputy surrogate starts retirement

Union County Deputy Surrogate Louis Lehmann has announced his retirement from that office, effective Sept. 1.

Lehmann, who received his LL.B. degree from the University of Michigan in 1924, was appointed deputy surrogate in 1944. He served under three surrogates.

Appointed a district court judge in 1931, he held that position for five years and also served for ten years as a magistrate in Roselle. He resides in Roselle at 551 E. Third Ave.

He is a member of the Bar Association of Union County, the New Jersey Bar Association and the American Judicial Society. He was awarded the degree of juris doctor in 1968.

Presbyterian Ladies will hear of Basking Ridge 'service desk'

Helping hands, not across the sea but within the community, will be the theme of the opening meeting of the Ladies' Evening Group of the Springfield Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening at 8:15 in the Presbyterian Parish House. Two members of the Presbyterian Church in Basking Ridge, Mrs. Cornelius Sullivan and Mrs. Robert Mann, will explain the work of the Christian Commitment Corps (more formally known as the "service desk") within this church. Since 1966 this group has more or less coordinated all of the volunteer work available within the community.

Prime among their objectives is the manning of a special telephone to cope with help needed in any type of emergency, whether it be family counseling, psychiatric care, legal aid or assistance in finding a nursing home. In addition, volunteers work in hospitals, in the church office, through the Red Cross and other agencies, is carried out. As Mrs. Sullivan stated, "In other words, where a need exists, information and assistance are available through the 'service desk'." Ruth Robinson, program chairman for the Evening Group, has urged all women of the church to come out on Wednesday to learn of this Christian commitment being pursued in a neighboring community and to learn ways in which our own Christian witness might be strengthened locally.

Fiber glass draperies resistant to sun damage

Fiber glass is a favorite material for draperies and curtains, says Carolyn F. Vukobrat, Senior County Home Economist. One of the most important properties of fiber glass is that it is resistant to sun damage.

Along with resistance to sun fading and deterioration, other important features are that fiber glass will not shrink, is not affected by mildew or moths, and is easy to care for, does not wrinkle, and is fire resistant.

Although improvement has been made in the production of fiber glass, it must be remembered that this fiber cannot withstand excessive abrasion. Constant rubbing will cause the fiber to split.

Care of fiber glass is generally easy if some different techniques are used.

First of all, it must be realized that fiber glass fiber is non-absorbent. Therefore, dust and dirt do not actually penetrate the fiber. This feature means that fiber glass draperies can be restored to freshness if aired or vacuum cleaned before they become too soiled.

When washing becomes necessary, fiber glass should be washed with detergent and water. It should never be dry cleaned.

Depending upon the size of draperies or curtains, the best method of washing is either in laundry tub or a bath tub. A short-soaking period and thorough rinsing is about all that is needed to remove the surface dirt.

Fiber glass does not need, nor should it be pressed. Hems may be straightened while curtains or draperies are still damp.

Under no circumstances should fiber glass be washed with other fabrics. Fiber glass "takes off" like any other fabric, and actually

Livingston College open

Educational experiment begins

About 700 young men and women will attend their first classes at Livingston College of Rutgers today, knowing they are pioneers in an educational experiment which may help shape the future of higher education.

They are pioneers in tangible ways—the first class in a new liberal arts college, enrolled in a curriculum which is innovative and living and studying in facilities which are not yet completely finished.

But more important, they are pioneers in discovering whether it is possible to design a substantially new relationship between students and their college. They will have far more freedom than has been the usual pattern, and great responsibility for ensuring that their education is personally meaningful.

"When we began planning for the college four years ago," explains Dean Ernest A. Lynton, "we consciously set out to remedy some conditions which then were just beginning to cause student unrest. We felt that students wanted and deserved a more active role in setting the policies under which they live."

and administrators into one legislative body. "We hope to see the development of a close relationship between students and faculty," Dr. Lynton explains. "In fact, the success of the college will hinge crucially upon the ability of the faculty to provide an extraordinary kind of guidance and intellectual stimulation."

Among the Livingston faculty are many scholars of outstanding reputation. Such men as psychologist Silvan S. Tomkins, who holds a lifetime career award for research from the National Institutes for Mental Health, anthropologist Roy D'Andrade, Robin Fox and Lionel Tiger, historian Gerald Grob, Victorian literature specialist George Levine and sociologist Irving L. Horowitz are members of the Livingston faculty.

Horowitz is also the editor of "Transaction," magazine—one of the nation's largest circulation social science publications, which has moved its entire editorial operation to Livingston College.

The existence of the magazine as an integral part of the Livingston campus reflects the new school's philosophy that the college must extend the traditional campus boundaries.

"We hope to involve our students with the community, and bring the community into Livingston College, in a whole range of new ways," Dean Lynton says. The college will place heavy emphasis on urban affairs in its curriculum through its Division of Urban Studies and Community Development, headed by Dr. Lawrence D. Mann.

"After the years of planning, it is vastly exciting to see Livingston College open," Dr. Lynton sums up. "We will be trying out many new ideas, not all of which will be viable, but the characteristic of the college is going to be that it is willing to attempt new educational ideas and forms and to test whether they work."

RELECTING THIS VIEW, Livingston students will be represented on all policy committees of the college and will be able to examine their own dormitory regulations, which they will have voting rights on the college assembly which incorporates students, faculty and administrators into one legislative body. "We hope to see the development of a close relationship between students and faculty," Dr. Lynton explains. "In fact, the success of the college will hinge crucially upon the ability of the faculty to provide an extraordinary kind of guidance and intellectual stimulation."

CHIEF SCHOOL OFFICER The commissioner of education is the chief state school officer. He is appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the state senate for a term of five years.

MV stations on winter hours

Beginning Monday, Sept. 15, the winter hours of the state's motor vehicle inspection stations will be in effect. The stations will be open Tuesday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

However, some stations will be open for a six-day week from Monday through Saturday. Local stations open six days a week are Rahway, Perth Amboy, Union, Westfield, North Brunswick, Plainfield and Highland Park.

All stations will remain open to 9 p.m. on their regularly assigned nights.

Owners of commercial vehicles are urged by the Director of the Division of Motor Vehicles, June Strolecki, to have their vehicles inspected at the earliest practicable date to avoid the December deadline. The division of Motor Vehicles suggests the second and third week of each month for these inspections because the waiting time is at a minimum during these periods.

Besides the local stations listed, other motor vehicle inspection stations which will be open Tuesday through Saturday are: Camden, Eatontown, Freehold, Hackensack, Livingston, Lodi, Morristown, Mount Holly, Newark, New York, Paramus, Ridgewood, Rutherford, Saddle Brook, Somerville, Toms River, Trenton and Wayne.

Williams asks care with new guidelines for urban renewal

WASHINGTON, (AP)—U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-NJ), in a telegram has urged Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George W. Romney not to make any changes in urban renewal program guidelines which could cause "substantial hardship" to communities which have already committed themselves to renewal programs.

The senator said he recognized the desirability of upgrading guidelines but warned against the imposition of standards which could harm local renewal projects.

Changes in the guidelines are being considered by HUD and the Bureau of the Budget.

The text of the telegram is:

"I understand that you are considering changes in the guidelines for federal assistance in urban renewal programs, including the Neighborhood Development Program. One change reportedly being considered is a 20-acre size limitation on all NDP projects. Another of the redevelopment work under way is planned falls under the Neighborhood Development Program. Many of the programs are 20 acres in size. I have been informed by local planning officials that the limitation could have serious repercussions on urban development in New Jersey.

"Therefore, I would like immediately information on just what changes are planned."

EVERY SUNDAY during the football season millions and millions of fans, from coast to coast, watch football in the stadiums, or in the comfort of their homes. During these years the kick and the Gogolak Brothers, and others have made kicking their specialty.

Is this New? Not to James Hoxall, Mark Payne, or Albert Bregas.

Who were they?
James Hoxall kicked the longest field goal ever recorded in college play—65 yards, back in 1882.

MARK PAYNE... All this gentlemen did, playing for Dakota Wesleyan in 1915 was to DROP KICK a field goal of 63 yards, and Albert Bregas... Albert played for San Francisco, and in 1937 he really put up a kick. He punted the football 89 yards in the air. These three men really put the foot in football and their records are not likely to be forgotten.

By MILT HAMMER

TURNABLE TREAT (good listening) WE CAME IN PEACE FOR ALL MANKIND. A talking history of the most inspiring journey man has ever made.

This DECCA LP album (DL-79172) is the story of Apollo 11 and the events that led up to it, told in the actual words and sounds of the men and machines that made it possible. We hear John F. Kennedy in 1961 exhorting Congress and the nation "to take a leading role in space achievements," not because of what others (the Russians) may do, but because "whatever mankind must undertake, we Americans must do first."

The sounds of rockets are here also, and of spacemen both American and Russian; the exultant voice of Yuri Gagarin in orbit in those blissful days when America seemed to fly even hopelessly behind the Soviets; Ed White, who tragically died in the Apollo spacecraft fire of Jan. 1967; the voice of Frank Borman in prayer while orbiting the moon Christmas Eve, 1968. We hear, too, the voice of Neil Armstrong on an earlier flight — Gemini 9 — in 1966 — when his spacecraft went berserk and only his coolness and skill as a pilot saved him and his teammate, David Scott, from disaster.

The second side is a suspenseful, tightly edited summary of the historic Apollo 11 flight, from lift-off to splashdown eight days later in the mid-Pacific. We hear the actual voices of Armstrong and "Buzz" Aldrin as they erect a flag, and set out scientific experimental gear.

We hear them at blast-off from the moon and hear them at rendezvous and as they come around the moon for the last time, exultant on their way back home to Earth. Peter Thomas does the recording, and here this one on your next record buying trip. Here's one LP that you will want to play and hear again and again.

SCARLET KNIGHTS — Two early Rutgers' All-Americans, Paul Robeson, right, and the late Homer Hazel, left, helped the university establish its football tradition. Robeson was selected in 1918 to lead the team and Hazel in 1923 and 1924. At end of fullback. On Sept. 27, Rutgers will meet Princeton for another game in 100 years of the sport's oldest rivalry.

FOOTBALL'S CENTENNIAL

100th birthday party
Rutgers, Princeton celebrate

LOVE-OF-A-SERIES — To the delight of administrators at Rutgers, who for a long time suspected that they might be staging a private birthday party, the Rutgers-Princeton 100th anniversary game, Sept. 27, will, in fact, be the highlight of a national celebration.

Certainly no one will deny that Princeton's visit to Rutgers Stadium deserves a special place on stage. It was the Tiger's trip to New Brunswick on Nov. 6, 1869, that has gone down in history as the first intercollegiate football game.

A variety of activities have been planned for "Centennial Week." In addition, Rutgers, under the direction and planning of Albert W. Twitchell, the athletic director, has scheduled observances at each of the other five home football games on the 1969 schedule and Rutgers will be giving Lafayette and Cornell a special game on the first intercollegiate football game.

At last count, close to 400 colleges and universities throughout the nation has planned some type of Centennial celebration, some simply putting 100th anniversary details on their helmets, others staging elaborate programs or halftime ceremonies.

SOME OF THE TRIBUTES include salutes to "All-time teams," honoring All-American conducting programs for underprivileged children, promoting closer understanding and relationships between athletes and university, athletes and townspeople, etc.

As Twitchell and other athletic officials have said, "The Centennial is more than a birthday party — it's a door to the future expansion and improvement of a game we all love. We're not simply saluting the past, we're looking forward to getting the second hundred years off to a good start."

One of the highlight local events will be the issuance of a six-cent commemorative stamp. The event is scheduled to take place in New Brunswick, but the Post Office Department has not yet made details public. Princeton week at Rutgers will include the following:

Friday night, parade in town, featuring 15 musical organizations, 20 floats, 5,000 marchers over 3 1/2 mile route; dignitaries will include Governor Richard J. Hughes, Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, and many others; the floats will be designed and constructed by Rutgers living groups using Centennial themes;

Saturday morning, a re-enactment of the 1869 game by Delta Phi, oldest Rutgers fraternity, and Ivy Club, oldest of the Princeton eating clubs; the game will be an authentic replay, although no script will be followed (in other words, Rutgers might not win, 6-4, as it did in 1869);

THE GAME — PRE-GAME ceremonies will get underway at approximately 12:40 for the 1:50 kickoff. The teams will warm up first and the bands will appear at 1:10. Former Rutgers-Princeton captains, the glee clubs, bands and dignitaries, including Centennial Queen Barbara Specht, will participate; there will be two honorary referees and the coin will be tossed three times — a first in intercollegiate football, using historic coin and medallions. Halftime will include band shows plus presentation of N.C.A.A. medallions.

At Rutgers, the game was cancelled to President Nixon to attend the game; no word from the President has been received yet, but if the President does attend the game, the program can be adjusted to include his participation.

Following the game, the Centennial Trophy, newly established by the Classes of 1938 at Rutgers and Princeton, will be presented to the winning captain.

Plans for the other games:
Cornell, Oct. 4 — All-American salute; Rutgers and Lehigh; Salute to bands of Rutgers and Lehigh;
Navy, Oct. 11 — Hall of Fame game, with appropriate ceremonies; Halftime plans will be announced by Hall of Fame.
Columbia, Oct. 25 — Salute to Alumni (Homecoming game).
Colgate, Nov. 22 — Closing ceremonies, with appropriate salutes to the many groups which contribute to football, the senior players, coaches, managers, etc.

Dayton harriers will open season
Sept. 20 at Edison Invitation Meet

By ARNOLD GERST
With hopes of another excellent season, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School cross-country team will open its season in the Edison Invitational Meet on Saturday, Sept. 20, beginning at 10:30 a.m. The meet will be held at Roosevelt Park in Edison.

Coach Marty Taglietti said that barring injuries to the team, he expects another successful season. The key to success is keeping the top harriers healthy.

Watching Conference 880 champion and holder of second place in the sectional state group III meet, Reinhardt was the two-mile winner in the Newark Board of Education meet and section Group III record-holder, and he ran a 4:20.5 mile last year.

Kan. Hall was hurt for last year's cross-country team but he does have cross-country experience and looks very good. Gary Street shows a lot of promise, coming off last year's improvement.

Todd Herman and Bob Ripp are underclassmen who will make great contributions. Herman is one of the most improved runners while Bob Ripp is a very hard worker and has come a very long way, the coach said.

Mark George, Max Hollander and Keith Thielen are other top harriers. George was the number two man on last year's team, while Thielen is an outstanding two-mile runner.

OTHER BOYS OUT for the team who show promise are Ron Frank, Karl Korotorsky, Rick Silverstein, Stewart Sherman, Bob Budzga, Larry Koldorf and Rick Olsen.

Unlike previous years, Dayton will compete in the Suburban Conference. The Bulldogs will enter 18 meets including the state sectional meet and the Turkey Trot. Springfield's chief adversary in the Suburban Conference will be Millburn. According to Taglietti, Millburn traditionally has a very strong team.

With many returning harriers and good-looking newcomers, the cross-country team will continue to be strong. Dayton's record last year was 12-2, and parting unforeseen injuries this year's team could match that record.

The announcement said that several of the professional basketball stars who had planned to take part discovered that they had other commitments. A new date for the program will be announced in the near future.

With the closing of the Springfield Municipal Pool's swim season, the Recreation Department this week announced that the paddleball and volleyball facilities will remain available to those people who may be interested in using them.

Anyone wishing to use either the paddleball or volleyball facilities may call Vincent P. Plata at the Recreation Department (576-8800), between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Cotten explained that the object of Indian princesses is to provide constructive activity with father-companionship for girls. Many Y families who have had sons in Indian guide requested that a similar program be introduced for their daughters.

There are many Y Indian princess programs in the United States and we believe this new activity will successfully fill a need in our community," Cotten added.

Indian princesses will be formed from today to Oct. 1. Information is being distributed through the elementary schools in Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Millburn, Short Hills, and Springfield. Those interested should obtain further information by calling Cotten at 273-3850.

Scouting leaders
to meet

The monthly roundtable planning session will be held for all adult scout leaders in Union and Springfield on Monday, Patrick W. Lee, commissioner for the Northern District of Union County, noted that the session will be held at 8 p.m. at the Battle Hill School in Union. More than 550 adults are registered in the various capacities including den mothers, assistants, Cub and Scout leaders, and as members of pack and troop committees.

Cub Scout leaders will conduct sessions on "Buccaneer Days," the October program theme, under the leadership of Richard Handguch and Milton Suck. Boy Scout leaders will discuss the coming fall camporee and see a nature-conservation subject illustrated by Brad Moran of the Winnabago Camp Staff. Jack P. Gill, roundtable commissioner, will give direction to this segment of the evening's program.

"Roundup 1969" and the school night for Cub programs will be introduced by Richard Marshall and Richard Hanley, respectively at the general session.

Y pow-wow
for the girls

David R. Cotten of the Summit Area YMCA announced this week the introduction of an Indian princess program for fathers and daughters in the first and second grades. The program will be similar to the YMCA Indian guide program for fathers and sons where tribes of father-daughter couples will be organized on a neighborhood or school basis and will meet in members' homes twice a month. Programs will include crafts, games, projects, and pow-wows based on an Indian theme.

Cotten explained that the object of Indian princesses is to provide constructive activity with father-companionship for girls. Many Y families who have had sons in Indian guide requested that a similar program be introduced for their daughters.

There are many Y Indian princess programs in the United States and we believe this new activity will successfully fill a need in our community," Cotten added.

Indian princesses will be formed from today to Oct. 1. Information is being distributed through the elementary schools in Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Millburn, Short Hills, and Springfield. Those interested should obtain further information by calling Cotten at 273-3850.

NSC approves majors in sociology, economics

At a recent meeting of the Newark State College board of trustees, chairman John Kean announced the approval in principle of the creation of two undergraduate majors at the college, one in economics and one in sociology.

The economics major gives the student an opportunity to acquire academic background in the operation of business, industry or national and international organizations. Designed to provide for the successful operation, ownership or control of a business, courses are offered in money and banking, intermediate price analysis, economics and employment, and descriptive statistics. Electives include public finance, government and business, labor economics, business cycle theory, history of economic thought, economic development, comparative economic systems, urban and regional economics, international economics and introductory econometrics.

Both the growing role of Newark State College in urban affairs and pending major in urban studies at the college will benefit from the new sociology major offered in the liberal arts program.

It has proven to be one of the most popular majors at colleges and universities throughout the nation. Course work in sociology has been offered at Newark State for more than thirty years, but according to Dr. John Hutchinson, a professor of sociology at the college, "professional programs that are designed to meet the challenges of the cities need the kind of understanding that come through the formal study of sociology."

The training a sociology major receives can serve as preparation for government positions, business or industry, and as a background for the study of law. Specialized course offerings in industrial sociology, the sociology of poverty, urban sociology, crime and delinquency and other required courses in sociology and research form the basic course of study.

According to Dr. Nathan Weiss, acting president of Newark State, "the addition of the economics and sociology majors expand the multipurpose function of the college, and add measurably to the services the college can render to the community."

Both economics and sociology majors will become effective at the beginning of the 1970-1971 academic year.

We don't have to start from scratch each year.

We've been making the same basic VW for so long now, you'd think we'd be bored with the whole thing. But the fact is, we're still learning. For no matter how perfect we think one year's model is, there's always an engineer who wants to make it more perfect.

You see, at the Volkswagen factory we spend 100% of our time making our car work better and 0% making it look better. Any change is an improvement.

And when we do make new parts we try to make them fit older models. So there's nothing to stop Volkswagen from running forever.

(Which may explain why Volkswagens are worth so much at trade-in time.)

Starting from scratch each year can get in the way of all that.

Just when they've ironed out the kinks in the current model, they have to face the kinks in the next.

We'll never understand all the hoopla over the "big changes" for next year's models.

Weren't they proud of this year's?

Rail Bus returns Rolls in Morris Co.

Who says the Rail Bus is a brand-new concept of mass transit? We had one in 1908! Back in the days of the "Peanut Roaster" and the advent of the Horseless Carriage, the Morristown & Erie Railroad introduced what looked like a school bus on iron wheels. And for the doubter, the Rail Bus has a record: it rolled from Whippany past the river and back on a three-mile run. The trip started at the Morristown & Erie Railroad Station, Whippany Road and Route 10.

At the controls was Earl Gil, president of the Morris County Central Railroad, which runs steam excursion trips from Whippany to Roseland every weekend until Nov. 2. The railroad has recreated a complete reminiscence of the era of the Iron Horse, when railroads were not only for long distance travel, but for transportation between adjoining towns as well.

Gil, who lives in Parsippany, was in charge of restoring the Rail Bus. "We'll be operating on schedule every weekend from now on," he said. "The bus made its last run in 1928, when the bus body was taken off and the remaining deck used as a trailer with a crane on it, Gil explained.

The Morris County Central Railroad bought the frame from the Morristown & Erie, then purchased a 1925 fire truck from Frank Tarzian of East Hanover, said Gil.

"We bought the bus body at a local salvage yard and put it all together. It runs on a four-cylinder gasoline engine and has a bell and headlights."

Gil built a turntable under the body that drops to the tracks, holds the bus and, long it to turn completely around to go back in the other direction. The turntable will be used every weekend on the regular run.

"In the old days there was a turntable right on the tracks," said Gil.

The Rail Bus is 20 ft. long, eight ft. wide, and 10 ft. high. The steam excursion along the Whippanong Trail features old fashioned wood paneled coaches; one of the oldest steam locomotives still in op-
