New recreation facilities proposed by Nat Stokes, local Democratic candidate

Stokes outlines recreation program: Indoor pool, ice rink and tennis courts

Nat Stokes, Democratic candidate for election to the Springfield Township Committee, presented the first part of a program for expansion of the town's recreational facilities.

He suggested that a citizens' committee be formed to study the possibility of adding an indoor swimming pool with sauna and exercise room and an outdoor ice skating rink and tennis court complex on the present municipal swimming pool property and on adjacent land already owned by the township.

Presenting his program, Stokes attached a diagram of the pool area with proposed improvements. He called this diagram "a point of departure for the citizens' committee to consider and elaborate on on the basis of their study of the project."

Stokes also raised the question of the size of the operating surplus that the swimming pool has been running. He complained that although the Democratic Party had sought on numerous occasions to obtain a municipal balance sheet that would show income "inflows" and had been promised it, it has never been forthcoming.

His full statement is as follows:

"THE SUCCESS of the swimming pool facility was no accident. It occurred because a citizens' committee of interested volunteers studied the problem in all of its complex dimensions at great length and eventually came forward with a program that was both ambitious and practical. Unfortunately, the citizens' committee that planned the pool and saw to the implementing of that plan was disbanded by the Republican administration immediately after the pool's completion.

"Springfield again needs the drive and vision of a group such as this to bring the rest of the recreation facility of the town up to a par with the pool. A stand-pat township committee member who happens to be in charge of recreation for one year cannot do the job. I propose that a citizens' recreation committee be formed. The purpose of this committee would be to explore ways of overcoming the present inadequacies in Springfield's recreational facilities. Toward this end, I believe

Father raps 1-mile ruling for children

Claims daughter needs 25 minutes to get home

By ABNER GOLD

A 55-minute discussion of school lunch regulations highlighted the meeting of the Springfield Board of Education Monday night at the Florence Gaudin School, with eight board members and some 25 citizens in attendance.

The subject arose during the opening public discussion period, when a new member inquired about the rule which requires that a child live at least one mile from school before being allowed to eat lunch at any of the elementary schools.

He said that he lived nine-tenths of a mile from the Thelma Sandmeier School and that his six-year-old daughter needed at least 25 minutes to walk each way, with a 15-minute lunch period. The aggrieved father added that he would prefer to walk himself, taking 15-20 minutes.

Board member Seymour Margulies recalled that the former three-quarter-mile limit at the Sandmeier School was raised to a mile last spring to conform with the requirements at the other elementary schools. Noting that the policy was the product of a detailed survey of the number of children involved at each school, and the distances they had to walk, Margulies said that the board had heard no complaints about the policy except from Sandmeier School parents.

He expressed interest in one suggestion by the concerned parent that the mile be extended for children in the first or second grade for whom the long walk is particularly difficult. Margulies said that this proposal would be studied. He added, however, that any policy would create problems for children who just fail to qualify.

ANOTHER BOARD MEMBER, Mrs. SONJA Dorsky, said she thought the "valid" (Continued on page 5)

CHECKING ON IMPROVEMENTS - Mayor Philip Del Vecchio, right, and Freshholder David Zurav check on progress of construction and paving project on S. Springfield Avenue south of Rt. 22.

Mayor points with pride to road work program

"The improvement of South Springfield Avenue from Melgel Avenue to the Westfield line is just the latest step in the Township Committee's effort to provide safer streets for the people of Springfield under our long-range street improvement program," Mayor Philip Del Vecchio stated this week. He is a Republican candidate for re-election to the Township Committee.

"We are now about to enter into phase two of the improvement of South Springfield Avenue, which calls for the widening, curbing and resurfacing the area from Rt. 22 to the Westfield line and the beautiful part of this program is the minimal expense to Springfield. The cost of the widening and resurfacing is borne by Union County. The only expense to our people is for the acquisition of a minimum amount of land and for curbing."

"In close cooperation with the Union County Board of Freeholders and with a special assist from Springfield's representative, Freshholder David Zurav, this program was implemented."

"This concern for safety of our streets is nothing new to the Township Committee," Del Vecchio stated. "In 1962 we instituted a road improvement program that has continued from the resurfacing of Morris Avenue, by the state, right on through to the improvement of Main Avenue, Shunpike road, Milltown road and Hillside Avenue by the county. With the use of some special aid funds, we have recently had Caldwell place redone, and in the near future we will be letting a contract for Wabeno Avenue," Del Vecchio continued.

"AND THIS IS NOT ALL: such local streets as Alvin Terrace, Maple Avenue, Greystone Drive, Center Street, Brown Avenue and many more have been improved with funds received from bond ordinances."

"The most recent award for a street was on Kew Drive where with the cooperation of the landowner, a joint program was entered into, which reduced the municipality's share of the work to be done. We have done our homework on streets, and the results are apparent. Our program has been commended by many county and state officials as being one of the most advanced in New Jersey."

The mayor stated:

"Streets and roads are a mundane subject to many lay people, but to those of us charged with the responsibility of maintaining the

Dayton council sets five general goals for the student body

The Student Council of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School conducted its first meeting of the 1969-70 school year last week. President Howard Dobin announced that the council would work toward the attainment of five general goals for the student body. These goals include:

1. Student role in the educational quality of the school;
2. Liberalization of certain school regulations, such as censorship and no smoking, and elimination of seniors' final examinations;
3. Coordination of efforts with other councils from sister schools of the Regional District;
4. Creation of better relationships between students and administration;
5. Expansion of council work in urban affairs, like the Elizabeth tutoring program.

Mrs. Jane Curran, faculty advisor to the council, said that election of four freshman representatives to the council will take place this week. Girls aged 17 and 18 may also try out for the Y's two girls' swim teams which participate in state and regional YMCA league meets.

Princeton trip for Y

The first trip of the fall season sponsored by the Summit Y.M.C.A. will be on Tuesday, Sept. 30 to Princeton. A chartered bus will leave from the YWCA at 9:30 a.m. to return at 4:30 p.m.

Members of the Orange Key Guide Service will take trippers on a guided tour of Princeton University. After lunch in the town of Princeton, the group will visit Morven, the Governor's residence. Morven has frequently been described as New Jersey's most historic building. The earliest section was built in 1701. The residence is furnished in the 18th Century and contains many interesting antiques.

YWCA-sponsored trips are open to both men and women, and to members as well as non-members of the YWCA. Further information about the trip to Princeton may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. J.J. Hennessey, adult program director, at 376-3321, 223-4242. A descriptive flyer may be had upon request.

Editorial Comment

Our modest proposal for a swifter solution

Everybody these days complains about Springfield's location walled in by an ever-increasing profusion of highways and sated with more and more traffic moving more and more slowly -- but nobody seems to take a positive approach to the problem.

We have a modest proposal which would make a benefit out of adversity, building economic strength out of weakness to help the entire community.

The town is already well supplied with informal drag strips, areas where young sportsmen of the area can test the speed of their wheels and the ductility of their nerves. These locations range from Rt. 22 by way of Mount View road to the Morris Turnpike.

Instead of permitting these activities to continue, we propose to set up a formal municipal drag strip, charge admission to reduce the burden on the overtaxed property owner and encourage sports lovers to become patrons of local merchants.

The site we suggest is Mountain avenue, running south from Shunpike road. The existing traffic light can easily be converted into a starting signal, a function which it serves often enough.

The finish line could be indicated near the Edward Walton School, and the police and First Aid Squad could base their operations in the school parking lot.

Contestants and spectators could be encouraged to purchase their refreshments, solid and liquid, in the shopping areas near both ends of the racing strip.

A portion of the profits could be designated to pay for several thousand members of a clean-up corps, and the town would finally be able to get all those food wrappers and soda containers off the streets and sidewalks.

Revenue could also be provided for a hundred or so added police officers, to keep the children in safe spectator areas, especially going to and from school. In addition, youngsters watching the losers in the various races being carted away would learn some important principles of driver safety.

Numerous officials of the N.J. Department of Transportation could receive special invitations to take part. Any depletion in Highway Department executive personnel levels would be a valuable side effect.

Local residents, of course, could easily learn to detour around the race course area. Others would, of course, have to spend several hours in the resultant traffic jams.

This, obviously, would be the prime purpose. If enough motorists learned once and for all, not to take their short cuts through Springfield, then the town could close down the drag strip, perhaps sometime after the turn of the century, and townspeople could return to normal.

After all, fellow local drivers, that car you cut-off might belong to your future father-in-law. And the blood pressure you finally learn to keep down might be your own.

Springfield Public Library reports on newest books for local readers

The Springfield Public Library lists the following titles among the books recently acquired:

HEALTH
"All about Allergy," by Dr. M. Coleman Harris and Dr. Norman Sture, An authoritative and comprehensive study of allergy which covers a number of obscure diseases which are attributed to allergies, as well as the common ones such as hay fever or asthma. A timely and informative treatise by women in photographs of allergy-producing plants, numerous tables and a glossary of terms.

ADVENTURE
"The Last Explorer," by Edwin P. Hoyt. The first major biography of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, which relates with great detail, his famous triumphs and near-disasters. An engrossing and often touching story of a true American hero, the last of the great individualistic explorers.

POLITICS
"Women in American Politics," by Martin Crusier. An up-to-the-minute, comprehensive history of the role played by women in American political life since 1920. It provides an assessment and a detailed evaluation of their significant achievements of women in party organizations and in political office.

LITERATURE
"The Letters of Carl Sandburg," edited by Herbert M. Kumin. These letters are written in the same pungent and forthright style that distinguishes Sandburg's poetry and prose.

Accompanied by a chronology of his life and work, this remarkable collection reveals Sandburg as he saw himself, as well as the writer who spoke of his craft with pride and humility. Explanatory notes and an index are included.

ART
"A History of American Marine Painting," by John Willmerding. A handsome book which constitutes a significant chapter in our cultural history, the revival of interest in American marine painting is a notable factor in the contemporary art market, but this book will be of serious interest to all who love the sea and ships as well as to the artist.

JUVENILE
"Mary Martin on Stage," by Shirlee P. Newman. A delightful book about a delightful personality. The author covers the many roles Mrs. Martin has played and also touches on her private life and family. Many interesting photographs add to the value of the book.

"Ever-Ride-a-Dinosaur?" by Scott Corbett. Bronson is no ordinary dinosaur, being very much alive and with an IQ of 1,500. He decides to take a holiday and visit the dinosaur exhibit in New York City's Museum of Natural History. Their riotous trip to the city should appeal to and amuse all who are young at heart. Clever and colorful illustrations by Mircea Vasiliu.

"The Fish from Japan," by Elizabeth K. Cooper. A little boy who has never been allowed to have a pet is promised a Japanese fish. What happens when the fish turns out to be a puffer one makes an amusing little story. Colorful illustrations by Beth and Joe Krusch.

PROFILE-Hugo M. Pfaltz Jr.

HUGO M. PFALTZ JR.

This is another in a series of profiles on candidates who will appear on November's ballot.

For Hugo M. Pfaltz Jr., a Republican assemblyman seeking re-election in Union County District 9-B, his past two years in Trenton have been, among other things, a period of apprenticeship.

"One of the most important aspects of the job is learning the mechanics of the legislature," he says. "This cannot be underrated. We learn from mistakes, our own and those of our colleagues, the proper way to accomplish results."

"I hope we will learn to respect each other's viewpoints and respect the expertise of fellow legislators in specific fields. We can also learn from the representatives of special interests; the lobbyists. Many of them can furnish vital background information in special areas. One of the inherent problems of the New Jersey Legislature is that it lacks the thorough research and staff facilities a state this size should have."

Looking at another technical aspect of the job, Pfaltz comments, "I had tended to support the concept of a unicameral legislature, but I would not support any proposal to reduce the total number of members. Our legislature is not really too big right now. For a state of some seven million residents, we have one of the smallest number of legislators, per capita, in the nation.

"When a legislative body is too small, you tend to get representation only from the very largest groups in the population. We had 21 state senators in New Jersey for about 120 years.

"In all that time, we had only two Jews in the Senate, and no Negroes at all. Looking back over the records, we see very few Italian names or those indicating East European ancestry. Now with 40 senators, we have a much greater variety."

and now we are getting Rt. 78 with major problems in loss of facilities and water runoff, especially in Springfield and Union."

"WHEN IT IS FINISHED, it will split our communities in half physically. It will bring in a tremendous volume of traffic and will clog local feeder roads with highway spill-off."

"The State Department of Transportation has not anticipated this sufficiently. Plans have been dropped for Rt. 278, but people will make their own 278, going from Rt. 78 in the Union-Springfield area to the Goethals Bridge in Linden and Elizabeth. This will have to pour a tremendous volume of traffic on local roads."

"School consolidation proposals, Pfaltz believes, have also aroused a great deal of local interest. He says that he does not agree with current trends toward creating larger districts and that "I have difficulty understanding why the Mancuso Report on school reorganization seized upon that aspect."

"The idea may be more valuable in rural areas, but it would not help in urban or suburban districts. Among other things, it would aggravate transportation problems at the peak of the morning rush hour."

"The racial aspects of the various proposals are not clear. There is a serious question whether large-scale integration on an artificial basis like this is a good idea. I would prefer to move the black families out of the ghettos, rather than just bus the children."

"We have many laws which are designed merely to keep people alive in the ghettos. The answer, however, is to give everybody an opportunity for family life under a standard everybody would like to have."

"The state government definitely has a major financial burden. The black family is not out of the ghetto. I don't mean by featherbedding, but by showing people how to break the cycle of poverty and dependence. We must act on a positive basis."

BORN IN NEWARK, Pfaltz graduated from Millburn High School and Hamilton College where he was named to Phi Beta Kappa in 1953. He served as a Navy flyer for three years then resumed his education at Harvard Law School, graduating in 1960. He also holds a master of laws degree, specializing in federal taxation, from New York University.

He is a member of the Supreme Law Firm of Bourne and Wolf. Among his professional interests is the issue of legislative reapportionment, and he has argued several times before the N.J. Supreme Court.

Pfaltz lives in Summit with his wife Marilyn and their children, Elizabeth, 11, William, 10, and Robert, 6. He entered Republican politics as a campaigner for former State Sen. Nelson F. Scamler and Rep. Florence Dwyer.

"ONE OF THE MAJOR problems confronting the state, Pfaltz says, is the increasing decay in the urban centers as reflected in crises in housing, education, employment and transportation.

"I don't believe people want to live like that in the city ghettos," he stresses. "But we have to make sure we don't try to answer that problem of urban blight by creating an suburban blight."

"There is a risk of creating vast housing developments without adequate planning for schools or an industrial tax base, leading to the slums of the future. The town of Union, on the other hand, has avoided this danger very well, managing its steady population growth with a sound balance of housing and industry."

"But to get to the root of the problem, modern cities should move and more be places for work and recreation, not for raising young children. Our task is to help the people become able to afford to live in the suburbs, where they should be raising their children."

"This can be done in the long run only through employment by equipping workers for real jobs -- not through welfare but by bringing job dwellers to a level where they will have discretionary income."

"There will, of course, be areas where municipal tax structures will not support all this. We will certainly need greater state aid."

"The present state tax structure is rather a jerry-built system. I have doubts as to whether the sales tax is being properly compiled with. And for another thing, we could improve the structure by removing the so-called luxury tax exemption now in effect for Atlantic City."

"As yet, however, we definitely do not need a state income tax. There is still some latitude in some areas for raising funds, even if we have exhausted our real estate tax base. If the needs continue to increase, though, I would favor an income tax over a destructive, confiscatory property tax."

"Right now, the state certainly should initiate, staff and provide research funds for an adequate tax revision commission. It should make recommendations for a total restructuring of state taxes, and dampen down the destructive nature of the present real estate taxes."

"THIS PAST LEGISLATURE has voted a great deal of money for the cities, but I get very discouraged when special aid is not accounted for properly -- like the $13 million which has become an issue in the Newark Board of Education."

"I will do everything I can to help the cities, but I don't like pouring water on the sand."

"Maybe the state would do better with its own specific projects better training for city police and teachers, subsidies for master teachers to inner-city schools to reach underdeveloped children. We already support the Newark-Rutgers complex, which can do much to help the city."

Noting that he represents a specific district, the northern tier of Union County, Pfaltz says that the district, in general, "does not have the impact of urban problems, and we have a developed economic base, but we bear a special burden of highway impact."

"Rt. 22 runs right through the district.

Yvonne S. Leuycraft of 100 Stone Hill rd., Springfield, was taken to the Overlook Hospital, Summit, by the Springfield First Aid Squad after suffering injuries in a two-car collision which took place Sunday at the intersection of Shunpike and Stone Hill roads.

The other car involved in the accident was driven by Edward F. Saeger, Jr., 22, of Union. The crash occurred when Miss Leuycraft's car, traveling south on Stone Hill road, crossed the intersection and collided with Saeger's car, traveling west on Shunpike. Miss Leuycraft was treated at the hospital for bruises and abrasions and then released. Saeger suffered no visible injuries. Both cars sustained severe front end damage, according to the police report, and were towed away.

Driver hurt in two-car crash at Shunpike, Stone Hill rds.

Last Tuesday, a package truck driven by William J. Tolley, 32, of Newark, was struck in the rear, while stopped at a flashing light on Caldwell place, by a pick-up truck driven by Fred Froppige Sr., 54, of Hazlet. According to the accident report filed with the police, the pick-up sustained total front end damage and was towed away. The driver, Froppige, was issued a summons for having no valid driver's license in his possession.

At the intersection of S. Springfield and Evergreen avenues, a two-car collision took place Wednesday when a car driven by Theodorica R. Keating, 58, of Cranford, struck a turning car driven by Leonard Semel, 40, of 6 Leslie court, Springfield.

Barbara G. Byron, 35, of Mountain Lake, driving along Mountain avenue in Springfield, was struck on the right side by Theodorica Semel, 40, of Elizabeth, as she was turning into a driveway.

Last Friday, Morris avenue was the Daily Madison Restaurant was the scene of an accident involving a car driven by Marjane Vashiq, 61, of Union, which collided with a car driven by Marla St. Lifer, 42, of Summit. Mrs. St. Lifer's car was turning left through the Morris avenue traffic when the car driven by Mrs. Vashiq hit the left rear bumper of the police report, both cars sustained damage to the left front section and were towed away.

Yom Kippur message

By RABBI REDDEN K. LEVINE
TEMPLE BETH ACHM

As we sit with our eyes focused on the TV set watching a man's small step and mankind's giant leap a few weeks ago, a friend in his 60's who was watching with us exclaimed in an emotion of voice, "It's things that our generation has seen happen in this world."

But one can be much younger and be deeply aware of monumental changes and unbelievable technological "leaps" in only the past two decades. The rapid movement of events, conditions and thought is the most characteristic phenomenon of our time. Together with being conscious of this, our constant concern is "Where does that leave me?"

We are not always ready to accept changes we like to have the anchorages and security of sameness. Yet we cannot escape the motion and the drama of our volatile times. Long ago, the concept of recognizing the passage of time and the change it brings was built into the religious tradition of the Jewish people. It is customary for us to exclaim on Rosh Hashana (New Year's Day), "Today is the rebirth of the world."

And on Yom Kippur, which we will observe on Monday, 10 days later, each person who has followed the course of atonement is to consider himself spiritually reborn.

Our religion has taught us to be at home with the idea of spiritual rebirth. It is this new hope and prayer that each of us, regardless of creed or race, will grasp the opportunities of the new dawn; that this day and this year may be one in which mankind's advances will not only be technological, but even greater in the areas of peace, truth and social harmony.

"ONE-SIDEDNESS"
My reaction to last week's front-page spread on the current fashion fads at Dayton was one of anger. I was totally disgusted at the obvious biasness in the picture represented. I am a junior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School and I've been closely following the trends since the dress code has been dropped. The percentage of dangeared students may still be a minority, yet those who choose this style are despised.

point." She said that the strict requirements tempted many parents to be "less than honest" with the school principals on why mothers could not be home to provide lunch for their children.

Five other members of the audience also spoke in opposition to the present policy. Several said that eating a "brown bag lunch" in school was better for the child than a long round-trip walk to the noon hour, with a hurried mother rushing to get the youngster back to school in time for the bell.

One woman commented, "Telling us how valuable it is for a child to eat lunch at home is like a male obstetrician telling a female patient how easy it is to have a baby."

Camis A. Casaday, board president, closed the discussion after 55 minutes, saying that the board and the school administration would re-study all aspects of the problem.

JOHN O. BERWICK, superintendent of schools, reported that enrollment at the start of the term was 1,840, down from 1,952 a year ago and 2,027 in September of 1967. He said that his staff last March had predicted an enrollment of 1,829 youngsters for this September.

Berwick added that the current figure was well under the 1,908 projected for this month by Dr. Henry Russett, board consultant on long-range planning. Russett's prediction of a decline in school population led to the board's decision last year to move toward a gradual closing of the Raymond Chisholm School.

The superintendent commented that the two largest classes in the elementary schools were two third grades of 28 children each at the Edward Walton School. He said that this structure was under study, and that a decision on whether or not to change the picture would be reached in the near future.

Salary increases were voted for two teachers who had completed graduate courses, Rosemary Castelluccio, with 30 credits beyond her master's degree at Newark State College, was raised from $10,700 per year to $11,200. William McNeace, who received a master's degree from Adelphi College, was raised from $8,350 to $8,600.

The board voted to accept, with regret, the resignation of Stewart Mulvihill, head of the science department at the Gaudineer School. He had notified the board that he was leaving to enter private industry. Mulvihill's services were praised by board members James Adams, August Caprio and Margulies.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board approved the hiring of four teachers, David Coleman, reappointed after having been granted a military leave-of-absence, will be paid $7,750 per year.

John O'Hara was named to teach science at the Gaudineer School, at a salary of $9,500. He is a graduate of Seton Hall University with experience at St. Aloysius High School in Jersey City.

Mrs. Judith Rothbard was appointed to teach English at Gaudineer, at a salary of $9,500. She is an alumna of New York University with experience in Linden and in Antioch, Ala.

Joseph Ruddy will receive $9,750 as guidance counselor at Gaudineer. He has bachelor's and master's degrees from Seton Hall and has taught in Westfield, Newark and Jersey City. Berwick noted that the board had been unable to obtain a qualified guidance counselor for the Gaudineer School last year.

The superintendent also announced dates for Gaudineer students' "Experiment in Living" trips this year. He stressed that the trips would definitely be held this year, despite all rumors to the contrary.

Seventh graders will travel to Colonial Williamsburg, Va., in two groups, Oct. 13 to 16 and Nov. 10 to 13. Eighth graders will study in Stokes State Forest, also in two groups, June 1 to 5 and June 8 to 12.

Mrs. Audrey Ruben, board secretary, reported that bus contracts had been signed to transport 11 atypical youngsters to nine special schools this year, at a cost of $12,000. The transportation, required by state law, qualifies for 75 percent reimbursement from Tronton.

The board was requested to change the procedure for future committee reports, in order to have each include the dates of the most recent committee meetings and the names of committee members attending. Casale said that the board would discuss the suggestion before taking any action.

Dem luncheon set for Gov. Meyner

The committee will find that one of the most desirable extensions of these facilities would be on the site of the present community pool itself.

On the accompanying map I have roughed out a plan of a year-round recreational facility. Let me detail somewhat the rationale behind each element of this plan.

Adjacent to the existing bath house is a proposed new indoor pool, sauna and exercise room. Many people are unaware that the high school has no swimming pool at all. As a result it has no swimming team, holds no meets, and most importantly, offers no required swimming instruction to its students. The high school could use the pool each week day. On evenings and weekends, the pool could be used by those adults who wish to swim as a year-round recreational activity.

The sauna and exercise room round out what is generally referred to as a health club. Many of our residents interested in physical fitness pay sizeable dues to partake of comparable facilities in private clubs and YMCAs.

I would anticipate that the citizens' committee would find that this facility could be built and entirely supported through membership dues of those residents of the town who wish to take out a year-round pool membership instead of one that is just good for the two summer months. We should remember that the existing pool stands idle for 10 months of the year.

A SECOND PROPOSED addition to the pool facilities contains a complex of four tennis courts and a paddleball court. Springfield is pitifully inadequately supplied in this department. Tennis is one of the most rapidly growing recreational activities in the world. There are private indoor tennis clubs in Cranford and Westfield. Outdoor tennis is played by people bundled up in ski parkas as long as there is no snow on the ground. To this group Springfield offers a scattered handful of poorly maintained tennis courts.

At least two of the four proposed tennis courts should be enclosed. Fees from citizens anxious to play tennis during the winter would hopefully pay for the construction of all four courts.

Adjoining the tennis courts on the diagram,

I propose an ice skating rink and heated skating houses, built on the site of the old field that can be raised on the pond at Melsel Field. It seldom freezes deeply enough to allow more than a few days a year of ice skating. By flooding a plastic liner to the depth of a few inches we can be assured that New Jersey's normal climate will afford many weeks of skating.

The success of the skating rink at Warlanc Park suggests again that people appreciate good skating enough to pay for it. I am not sure whether or not we should charge a nominal usage fee for this rink. However, I am sure that all of the kids of Springfield will bless whoever gives them regular ice skating on their own rink.

"And while we're at it, why not a day camp? What I have offered here I consider to be just a point of departure for our citizens' committee to consider and elaborate on. Since 1963 we have seen very little additional improvement take place on the swimming pool site. We have, however, seen our membership fees rise quite consistently.

"The community does not know what has been done with the increased membership fees. Mayor Del Vecchio has not been fit to divulge whether there are surpluses. If surpluses are being accumulated, they can be used to start initial funding of these new facilities. I do think, however, that the demand for these proposed additions will be so great that they will be entirely self-supporting financially.

"Most important, I think that it is obvious that we will get no action if the present Township Committee maintains its domination of the recreation department without reaching out and embracing the talents and interests of Springfield's residents."

NIH THE SEARCH FOR HEALTH

A REPORT FROM THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

BETHESDA, MARYLAND

RESEARCH AND LUNG CANCER

Population studies, animal experiments and clinical examinations have yielded conclusive evidence that cigarette smoking is the major cause of lung cancer. This disease annually takes the lives of an estimated 59,000 Americans, of whom only 10 percent are nonsmokers. Research is being conducted to determine exactly how tobacco smoke causes cancer and how smoking interacts with other factors which may influence the development of the disease.

In order to understand lung cancer more fully, scientists are attempting to produce lung cancer in animals by other means. Experiments in which tobacco smoke or extracts have been applied to the lungs or windpipe of animals have produced changes resembling those that occur in the cells and tissues of heavy smokers. Among these changes are alterations in the cilia which normally help cleanse the respiratory tract. This allows the accumulation of foreign substances which may be carcinogenic (cancer-causing). Scientists have isolated in small amounts and identified a few carcinogenic substances from among the hundreds of different chemical components of cigarette smoke. These substances, when painted on the skin of laboratory animals, or injected under the skin, produce cancer at these sites. Most of the carcinogenic substances found in cigarette smoke belong to a class of chemicals known as polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons.

The components of cigarette smoke appear to have greater carcinogenic potency when combined with each other than when each is alone. Scientists are investigating the possibility that one or more chemicals not carcinogenic on their own may promote the effect of the known carcinogenic compounds. Studies are being planned to identify and isolate these promoting agents with the hope that some day their removal or neutralization may decrease the risk to smokers.

X-rays, virus infection, air pollution, and other factors in the environment may also act in combination with carcinogens in cigarette smoke to produce lung cancer. Laboratory experiments are being organized in which animals will be exposed to tobacco smoke and extracts in combination with such environmental factors in different sequences, and for varying lengths of time.

In carrying out these experiments, the investigators will need to keep in mind other factors, such as age and individual differences, which affect the development of lung cancer in man.

Standardized laboratory animals are used, therefore, and difference among groups of animals must be evaluated carefully before research findings can be applied to man.

Dad swears son into naval rank

Col. James R. Root, U. S. Air Force, of 1075 Charles st., Mountaintops, proudly administered the oath of office last week which commissioned his son, Barth James Root, ensign in the U. S. Navy. Colonel Root received special authorization from the Navy Department to commission his son. The ceremony was held at Defense Contract Administration Services, District, Rt. 22, Springfield, which is under the command of Colonel Root.

Also in attendance at the ceremony were Mrs. Root, who presented her son with the insignia of his new rank; Mrs. Root's brother, the Rev. Gilbert Barth of the College of Stouenville in Ohio, who gave the invocation, and various military officers and civilian officials of DCASD, Springfield.

Teachers will get more training to aid the slow learners

According to David L. Carl, Title I coordinator, the program for the slow learner in the Union County regional High School district will continue with in-service sessions for teachers during the school year. The first session was a regional meeting held at the David Breakley School on Sept. 10. There will be weekly in-service sessions in each of the regional schools.

Initial sessions will include a discussion of the needs and methods of dealing with the slow learner and a display and presentation of materials prepared for the slow learner in English and social studies by Title I workshops during the summers of 1968 and 1969.

Other sessions will deal with how to teach reading and determine readability of material; the use of audio-visual materials, such as the language mastery, and evaluation of prepared materials; a curriculum specialist, a reading teacher and a learning disabilities specialist will be a part of the in-service program.

The in-service project will provide the teachers with opportunity to share problems as well as successes in dealing with the slow learner in the Regional District. Teachers are encouraged during the sessions to work cooperatively in planning and preparing English and Social Studies materials.

CARL SAID THAT "the Regional District in the past two years has made significant changes in their approach to curricular development for the slow learner. The teachers have been a part of a project planning and curricular development team."

"After a study of the slow learner in the District it became clear that curricular changes must be made. These changes are adding up to new approaches, new teaching practices and new materials. The developed materials stress multi-media and skill reinforcement activities.

"Unit topics and materials were selected that would aid in filling in the student's deficits and experiential gaps. Flexibility of unit construction permits either daily or part-time use of the curricular materials. The program includes experiments such as the use of the feature length film. The regional school system rejects the idea that secondary school is too late to help."

(One of a series)
By PAT BAIRD

Hops, dope, snow white, H, horse, speed, smack and crap.
Although the names are different they all mean the same thing... heroin.
Sam and Joe are dopers, smackers, speed heads or mainliners.
Sam and Joe have been addicted to heroin.

THE TWO YOUNG men, aged 23 and 20, live on the edge of American society. Yet they live in a new society... the society of the broke, the criminal, the sick.
They talk about tracks (needle marks), coping dope (buying), works (heroin paraphernalia), bags (the plastic bags heroin is distributed in), narco (narcotics officers) and the constant threat of a bust (arrest).

Sam and Joe are not their real names but they are real people. If you saw them walking the streets of Linden, it would be difficult to know that they are addicts.
During the interview last week, both were polite, articulate and eager to tell their stories. They were not the monsters many would think they would be. They were neat, well-dressed and well-groomed.

Following is the conversation between the Leader and the two men.
LEADER: WHEN DID YOU get started?
Sam: I started taking heroin about five years ago. Before that I used good-bye, marijuana and cough syrup. That was seven years ago. The first thing I really used a lot was alcohol. Alcohol was my first downfall.

Joe: I started using heroin in 1967. Before that it was mostly drinking. I didn't have a progression with drugs.
Sam: I'm still clean. I got out of Stillman two months ago. That's the New Jersey Neurological and Psychiatric Institute in Princeton.

LEADER: Were you sent there or did you go on your own?
Sam: I went on my own. My probation officer knew I was fooling around with drugs again. I knew he'd send me to jail so I turned myself in. I also knew I could get in the methadone treatment there.

Joe: In January 1968 I went to St. Dismas Hospital in Paterson. I turned myself in and stayed there for 1 1/2 months. I had a choice between there or jail for six months so I went there. I didn't finish the program. I was busted again on Jan. 27, 1969, and just finished six months in Union County Jail. Thirteen days after I got out they busted me for six bags of possession. I'm on bail now. I've been clean for three weeks.

LEADER: Did you ever work before?
Sam: I never had a steady job. I can't have any jobs in the morning. I had to go out and cop.
Joe: Every time I got a steady job I'd lose it because of the drugs.

LEADER: Let's assume that it's morning and you don't have any dope. What do you do?
Joe: Do I have money?
LEADER: No.
Joe: Then the first thing I'd do is find a way to get it.

Sam: Yeah, beg, borrow or steal. Sometimes I'd see something up the night before. I'd have it in the morning. Otherwise I'd see my clothes on and go right out. I don't even talk to my parents.
Joe: The only time you say anything to them is when you need money. It doesn't work after a while.

Sam: If you have transportation you go into New York, up to 115th or 116th street. You ask around about who has the snuff and how good it is. After you make the buy you find a halfway or a rooftop and get off (inject the heroin). It's really dangerous up in that neighborhood especially for a white guy. You can get robbed or beaten. You always have to be on your guard. New Jersey may be worse. The zones are so small that the police know who you are. Joe and I could get busted for just walking together because we're both registered narcotics addicts, but the cops know it's flimsy.

LEADER: When you're registered the cops can stop you anytime.
Sam: Once I was going out with a friend and he didn't know anything about my record. One day we were riding down the street and the cops saw us. They made her pull over and made me get out of the car. I was clean but they checked everything and said things to her like "what do you think your father would do if he knew you were with a dope addict?" They even checked her pocketbook. How do you think she must have felt?

Joe: Once you've been convicted they can get you on anything like an old roach (the end of a marijuana cigarette) a pill or an empty cellophane bag.
LEADER: Let's go back. Now that you've had your first fix what do you do?
Sam: It depends on the time of the day and how much stuff you have left. If I wanted more money then we go into a big department store and try to shoplift. Then we pawn it or sell it to a fence. Sometimes we go the other way. Authority and try to hustle tourists.

LEADER: Have you ever rolled anyone?
Sam: No.
Joe: I have but there are other ways of doing it. Sometimes you tell a guy you'll make a buy for him. After you get his money you go into a house and never come out.
Sam: You go out the back door. You can also tell him you're going to get it a few blocks away. When you come back you tell him the cops started to come after you so you had to throw it away. Or you slap each other's face, pull out your shirt, ruffia your hair and tell the guy you were jugged and robbed.

LEADER: WHY DID YOU start to use heroin?
Sam: That's a hard question to answer. I'm still getting into that with my psychiatrist. I was going out with a girl for 4 1/2 years and planned to get married. The whole time I was drinking a lot and taking good-byes. When we broke up I saw some of my friends using the influence. I figured I'd be taking the easy way out and I thought I could control it.

LEADER: weren't you afraid that first time?
Sam: I was always afraid of needles when I was in school. I still haven't gotten polio shots because of it. I was scared then but somebody was talking to me while they did it. When I looked down and saw the blood coming back up the eye dropper I started to tremble, but when I felt that first rush, man, I wasn't afraid anymore.

Joe: I wasn't afraid of the needle at all. A friend offered it to me as a payment for something. He didn't have any money so he gave me that. I turned my head, he hit me with the needle and when I tried to get up, I couldn't move.
LEADER: When did you first realize that you were addicted?
Sam: When I started I always had money. I had a job and I was selling a little dope, too. After three months of shooting up two or three times a day I ran out of money. I worked one morning and I was really sick. That's when I realized that I had a habit and I had to support it. After that I started hitting my friends for money and stealing things.

Joe: The same things happened to me only it was four months after I started. At first I couldn't believe it because a year before I didn't even know what drugs were.
LEADER: What did you do when you realized you were an addict?
Sam: I tried to clean up. I went to a doctor and told him I needed help. It was the first time anyone had come to him with that problem. We prescribed some pills for me but he didn't give me the right dosage so I was still sick. I finally went back to dope.

Joe: I stayed clean for two days but I knew I couldn't keep feeling like that. They told me it only lasted three days but I couldn't be sure so I shot up again. I've cleaned up three times and it's been cold turkey (without medicinal aid) each time. I go away by myself and do it.
Sam: I couldn't do it that way. I'd always know that I could hitch-hike back here.

Joe: I did that once. Went to Connecticut and got $50 from my uncle. I came back here and made a score. If I went cold-turkey now it would only be about five days.
LEADER: When did your parents find out you were addicted?
Sam: My parents found my works a few times or the bags or bloody tissues. A few times they saw me coming out of the bedroom and and from my condition they figured I had to be doing something in there.

Joe: When I started using dope I quit smoking and my parents knew it. My mother would come home and find an ash-tray full of matches and no-cigarets. Then she found out I hung around with Sam and Sam's mother told her he was an addict. My mother knew right away.

Sam: When my mother found out she started crying and it made me feel bad but I was too far strung out to stop. She tried to help me but she didn't have any experience. The last time she found my works in a coat pocket she turned me in to the police because she figured they could help me.

LEADER: If you had a brother or sister who was experimenting with drugs what would you tell them?
Sam: I'd try to help them before they were too far gone. I'd probably bring them to the Union County Narcotics Clinic. If you tell them not to do it they automatically will.

Joe: Your brother will do it if you do. I know of a lot of people that's happened to. Sam: Even the hippies are fooling around with pot and pills and they don't know what they're getting into. The hippies have their speech but even they know that speed kills. LEADER: But they don't want to get involved with heroin.

Joe: You're right and the addict doesn't want to go to LSD or pot. I don't mess with marijuana. It doesn't do anything for me. I never did.
Sam: I don't use pot or LSD because I want to keep my mind clear. I don't want to bounce off the walls. I want to be plastered to them.

LEADER: What is it like to be high?
Sam: When I'm high, I don't know. It's a hard thing to explain. You have to experience it to know what it is. You know there must be something to it. I know a guy who was in boot camp for five years. The same day he got out of there he got off on dope.

Joe: I've been on the streets only seven months in the past year and a half. I needed only a little more help to straighten me out. When I got out I went right back to it, two hours after leaving jail.
Sam: Jail isn't the answer. You're around people who are worse than you. I was talking to a guy in jail who was in for cashing checks. When I came out I started doing it his way. Another guy was a great biter (breast and entry) man. When I got out I started using his method.

LEADER: In other words, although you may commit a crime to support your habit, you feel that you're an addict first and a criminal second.
Sam: An addict should be treated as a sick person.
Sam: He is a sick person.
Joe: I know that after eight overdoses my mind has been affected. I should be brought someplace where I can be treated.

Sam: When you talk to an addict he'll tell you that narcotics are no good. Everybody knows that. In a hospital they give you help and college to stop.
LEADER: Now I want to stop badly. Even going to a place like Synanon would be the best thing for me. I'm put on that now and the case won't come up for another few months. If they send me to a hospital I'll be all right. But if they send me to Synanon, forget it for the rest of my life and I'm only 20 now. I start welding school soon and that will take away a lot of free time. Please, I'll have a skill I can use. Now I have to find something to do at night. Like go to a psychiatrist. You need a place to go individually.

Sam: When you go to a psycho at the Union County Clinic they have only 15 or 20 minutes to spend with you. There are just too many people who need help and too few to give it.
LEADER: There are several programs in which ex-addicts are trained to help those still addicted to heroin. Would you be interested in joining an organization like that?
Sam: I'd have to think about that but I wouldn't think I'm qualified. Addicts need a professional help. I'd just be able to tell them about my own experience.

Joe: When I was in St. Dismas we gave talks at schools. Some of the kids were really interested but others just wanted to know how we copped.
Sam: We did the same thing when I was at Stillman. We'd go to high schools to talk. After you talk a kid would come over and say "do you know where I can cop some dope?" Not where can I buy some heroin, man, but where can I cop dope. They even know the right words.

Youth advisors named for Selective Service

The formation of a advisory panel of young people has been announced by Colonel Joseph T. Avella, State Director of Selective Service. The panel will have the official title of Youth Advisory Committee to the State Director. The panel was suggested by Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Harabey and tested on an experimental basis in five states. President Nixon ordered the formation of such committees in all states, with separate provisions for the District of Columbia, New York City, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, Canal Zone and Guam.

The New Jersey plan effected by Colonel Avella resulted in the appointment of 21 young men to the committee. Three additional nominations are being processed. All nominations were based on the individual's qualities of citizenship, scholarship and leadership without regard to race, color, sex, religion or national origin. The average age of the members is just under 20 years of age.

July figures show strike idleness up

WASHINGTON — Strike idleness increased in July, but continued below the 1968 level, the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported. Man-days lost due to strikes accounted for 2.2 percent of estimated working time in July 1969. Approximately 500 stoppages involving 220,000 workers, began in the month. Strikes continuing from June brought the total number of workers involved to 307,000. Strike idleness during the month amounted to 3,420,000 man-days.

Elementary pupils study contributions of minority groups

Teaching about the contributions of minority groups, the Afro-American in particular, is being accelerated in many secondary schools throughout the state and may be introduced in elementary schools soon, according to Mrs. Nida P. Thomas, director of the State Department of Education's Office of Equal Educational Opportunity.

Mrs. Thomas, who was appointed a year ago to head the office charged with helping school districts find solutions to problems related to desegregation, said that she has worked with 38 school districts regarding to teach about minority groups in America.

During the past summer many teachers have been involved in writing and updating social studies and history curriculums to accurately depict the role of the Negro in the history of the United States, Mrs. Thomas said.

She said that many other teachers participated in workshops and institutes designed to acquaint teachers with black history, its social importance to black and white students, its new materials, and how to integrate this information in classroom subjects.

Mrs. Thomas suggested that such concentrated efforts should be developed at the elementary-grade level. "The social importance for students at this level is that it will help the child build a background that will guide his future actions related to persons who may be racially, socially, economically and culturally different," she said.

Mrs. Thomas said that the State Department of Education will sponsor a black history conference for elementary grades on Oct. 16. The conference will be held at Rutgers University's Graduate School of Education.

Indentured servants taught schools Teacher licensing changes through the years

Parents want assurances that their children have good teachers. To provide this assurance, each state government has established standards that candidates must meet before they can receive a license to teach.

Requiring teachers to meet state standards is a relatively recent development, says the New Jersey Education Association. Many of New Jersey's colonial schools were taught by indentured servants. By 1756, the reputation of New Jersey teachers had grown so unsavory that the Crown required all teachers to have a permit from either the Bishop of London or N. J. Gov. Francis Bernard. Until after the Civil War the most prized teacher qualification was muscle.

In 1829, N.J. Legislature granted city school boards the power to examine and license teachers, and in 1838 it gave the same power to the county boards of freeholders. Thereafter, city and county boards of examiners administered oral or written examinations to teacher candidates and granted licenses valid only locally.

Because of local and county politics, reports NJEA, these boards often became tools that politicians used to reward the party faithful with paying jobs.

Such patronage existed nationally. One historian in Massachusetts — then the nation's leader in public education — wrote:

"For women the surest passport to employment was to be related by blood or marriage to the school committee of the district."

His daughters or his sisters, of course, had their own connections. If the public objected enough to select a new committeeman, they would only "substitute a new dynasty."

Garfield by a disappointed office seeker in 1881. This caused establishment of the National Civil Service Commission in 1883. The Civil Service concept that public office should be filled because of an applicant's merit — not his political connections — spread to state and municipal governments in the following decades.

2. The Flexner Report, a 1910 document revealing that many American medical schools were fraudulent diploma mills, often with inadequate and unqualified teaching staffs.

3. A 1909-10 State Senate investigation of New Jersey schools. This investigating committee reported that "evils" were "prevalent throughout the State. Moral and school boards were divided along political lines," said the report. "Members of the dominant party controlled all expenditures and the selection of those to whom contracts or work of any kind was awarded."

Membership in a board is sought by some for profit and by others for the patronage which it is possible to distribute. Principals and janitors have been requested to pay for their appointments.

The 1911 LEGISLATURE reacted by requiring every New Jersey teacher to have a license issued by the State Board of Examiners, reports NJEA. The State Board of Examiners, created in 1911, was a graded college course substituted for tests.

In 1946, New Jersey abolished county boards of examiners. City boards of examiners can still issue certificates, but only to candidates already possessing a state certificate. This regulation lets cities set standards that exceed State requirements.

New Jersey's State teacher standards have kept pace with improvements in teacher preparation, says NJEA. For elementary teachers, the state required only a high school diploma in 1915. In the 20's this was raised to a bachelor's degree. In the 30's to four years of college, and in the 40's to the present requirement, a bachelor's degree.

In related actions, New Jersey took over visional certificate, which give temporary teaching permission to individuals not quite qualified for regular certification. It is granted with the stipulation that the candidate proceed to make up this deficiency.

Teaching shortages have forced the state to issue another type of certificate to candidates lacking full credentials, NJEA reports. This first appeared during World War I, when enlistment created a teacher shortage. For the duration, the State Board of Examiners issued special War Emergency Certificates. The emergency certificate reappeared during World War II and because population growth and low salaries have kept the teacher shortage acute in some fields — it still being issued.

Provisional certificates go to candidates who meet most licensing requirements. Emergency certificates go to those considerably below standard.

Critics sometimes attack specific requirements in the teacher-certification process. Indeed, says NJEA, these requirements will be ineffective unless they change with the times. But almost everyone agrees that teachers must

Mrs. Edmund Kedziorak of Rahway is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Robert Guemple of Rahway, prizes, and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Union, publicity.

Patronage was one reason behind teacher licensing

NJEA, Local abuse of examining powers says another. Some city boards re-examined all teachers annually — often as a public spectacle. One teacher later wrote an account of an 1860 public examination in San Francisco. In the geography section he asked five questions, including "Name all the rivers of the globe" and "Name all the cities of the world."

In 1866, New Jersey established the State Board of Examiners, the agency that, today, sets standards for educational positions. The next year, the board began licensing teachers.

For 45 years, city and county boards retained the right to license whomever they pleased as teachers. But three events built pressure for the state to assume the responsibility of fixing minimum qualifications for teachers, NJEA reports. These events were:

1. The assassination of President James

CAMPAINING TOGETHER—Springfield Mayor Philip Del Vecchio, left, expresses his support to Rep. William Cahill, Republican candidate for governor.

Mayor Del Vecchio: Cahill is 'man Springfield needs'

"Congressman William Cahill, Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey, is the man Springfield needs in the State House," Mayor Philip Del Vecchio stated this week.

"New Jersey urgently needs a governor who will respond to the needs of the municipalities in those areas where problems overlap town lines—something we have not had over the past 16 years.

"In such matters as flooding, refuse removal, highway construction and welfare, the assistance and cooperation the municipalities have received from the state government have been minimal, and it is in these areas where liaison should be the greatest," Del Vecchio commented.

"In examining Springfield's relations with the state—beginning with the location of Rt.

78, the efforts to have Morris Avenue re-routed, to today, we cannot force the State Highway Department to assume their responsibility to even maintain their right of way, let alone cope with flooding conditions that they have created.

"I feel that if Congressman Cahill is elected, under his direction many of these problems will be resolved, because Cahill is concerned for the well-being of the people, not the perpetuation of existing programs.

"I am certain that Congressman Cahill will bring a fresh approach to the problems of the municipalities and this is what is most necessary today, and I therefore urge you to vote for Cahill for governor on Nov. 4," Del Vecchio concluded.

Narcotics raiders catch 2 juveniles; teenager charged

The Springfield Police Department staged a narcotics raid in town about 9:45 p.m. last Friday at a location near Mountain and Henshaw avenues. Members of the detective bureau said they were able to pinpoint the location of the activities with the help of advance information and were able to secure search warrants prior to the raid.

Three persons were involved in the narcotics charge. Keith Brink, 19, of 178 Henshaw Ave., Springfield, was charged formally with the possession of narcotics paraphernalia. The two others involved were juveniles.

The narcotics charge is not Brink's first contact with the local police, they said. He has been arrested before on charges of disorderly conduct. Brink is a drop-out from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School and has been working in the local area as a landscape gardener.

The initial complaint against the offenders was filed by Detective Howard Thompson. The members of the arresting party were Patrolmen Dominick Olivero, Andrew Calabrese, Richard Goetzke and Alfred Parker Jr. and Detective Lt. Robert Taffa.

Brink was released upon the posting of $500 cash bail, and a Sept. 29 preliminary hearing was scheduled.

Democrats plan party Sept. 28

A cocktail party sponsored by the Springfield Democratic organization will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nat Stokes, 369 Mountain Ave., Springfield, on Sunday, Sept. 28.

Stokes is the Democratic candidate for township committeeman. ### SUNDAY'S SERMON

WE, AND OTHERS

It was Mark Twain who said "Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits." How true these words ring when we consider the attitude that many of us take when we judge the actions of our fellow man.

Nearly all of us are more aware of the faults of others than we are of our own shortcomings. We know why it is that we react in a certain way to a particular situation. We have a plausible "excuse" or "reason" for whatever it is that we do. Our fellow man does not always get the benefit of the doubt.

We would all do well to take an impartial look at the face we see in the mirror, to more closely examine our contributions to the world in which we live and the role we have chosen to play in community and in family life.

Driving at night

If we apply the principles of Christianity to everyday life, we insist on a program of "fair play" that serves as a guideline for determining not only our own course of action, but as well influences our attitude and our relationship with contemporaries.

Night driving is more dangerous than day driving. Be sure that all your lights are clean to aid visibility and keep speed down to a reasonable level for road conditions.

Rutgers Targum is 100 years old

Student paper chronicles history of college

The Rutgers Daily Targum is 100 years old and has at least 100 images. Some students see this student-run newspaper of Rutgers College as an essential instrument of criticism, the voice of the student in a land of administrative giants; others decry its editorials and concentrate on the Peanuts cartoon.

TELL IT LIKE IT IS — The mayhem in New Brunswick 100 years ago which passed for the birth of intercollegiate football followed by only a few months the founding of the Rutgers Daily Targum in January, 1869. The student-run newspaper covered that Rutgers-Princeton game and all 58 subsequent football meetings of the schools.

The earliest forerunner of the daily student paper was founded in 1867 as an annual directory of fraternity and other student officers. In this form, it was more the predecessor of the present-day college yearbook than a newspaper.

In January, 1869, the monthly Targum made its debut. Although the publication was magazine-like in format and in the type of articles it contained, its first editorial made it clear that it would be a newspaper.

According to that first editorial, the creed of the new paper would be "liberty, not license" and it would cover college news, New Brunswick news and articles of a literary nature. Later that year it added sports coverage, when it covered the first intercollegiate football game, which was played in New Brunswick between Princeton and Rutgers.

Subsequent Targum anniversary stories explained the meaning of the name "Targum." The word itself is Hebrew and means "to speak."

Throughout the remainder of the 19th century the Targum remained much the same as when it was founded. The small newspaper magazine carried little news of student politics and activities, for the student body was so small that it could meet daily for assemblies and various student meetings.

The paper carried a great deal of sports coverage as well as editorials for better student dormitories and for keeping the cheer "hello" which was a Rutgers tradition.

The paper flourished, becoming a weekly by the turn of the century.

Targum paid little notice to the war clouds gathering over Europe in the early part of the 20th Century until America entered World War I in 1917. Despite an editorial urging students to stay in school, 198 students joined the armed forces and soon military news mingled with the latest sports on the front page of the Targum.

Another momentous occasion in the history of the Rutgersman was the founding of New Jersey College for Women, now Douglass.

College, in 1918. On this event, the Targum drolly commented, "The undergraduate body of Rutgers is sure to give the institution its heartiest cooperation."

And cooperate they did, through many years of junior proms, soph hops and military balls, all of which Targum described in the greatest detail, from the decorations in the gym to the musical numbers. Any girl visiting a Rutgers fraternity house on these big weekends (properly chaperoned, of course) could find her name in the Targum social columns.

The depression brought the average Rutgersman new political views and a new economic situation.

Before the depression, according to Targum, the average Rutgers student was a Republican. In 1932 and 1936, however, Targum endorsed Franklin D. Roosevelt and student support for the democrat candidate and his economic policies increased. In the later years of the 30s, several Rutgersmen participated in pacifist demonstrations.

THE DEPRESSION FORCED many students to take a job such as snow shoveling, for the first time, Student Council voted to eliminate fancy decorations and corsages at formal dances, and Targum urged Rutgersmen to behave in such a way as to make the old "Joe College" myth obsolete.

Despite the Targum pronouncements, the "Joe College" image still held. A 1938 Targum survey showed that the average Rutgersman "sees two movies a week, gives his one and only four corsages a year and has his laundry done at home."

Not until World War II was the "Joe College" myth killed for good. When the nation went to war, the Targum again begged the students to stay in school, but soon enlistments and the draft took most of the undergraduates. They were replaced by some 3,000 servicemen who studied various military subjects while at Rutgers. The death of students and funds forced many student activities, including Student Council and the Targum, to disband temporarily.

When the paper resumed publication in 1945, the editors soon learned that the problems and interests of the "Joe College" students had given way to the problems and interests of a new student—often a married ex-GI, who was more interested in university apartment projects than in fraternity parties.

In 1948 the students made what was to be the first of many marches to Trenton to ask the legislature for more funds for Rutgers.

The fifties were a decade of expansion for both the University and the Targum, which went daily in 1954.

In the sixties, fraternity news and student council politics were replaced on the front page of Targum by news of teach-ins, demonstrations, more marches to Trenton and community service projects.

Bell offers a film on undersea cables

A new color film, "Voices from the Deep," describing the latest developments in undersea cable technology, is now available for public showings. New Jersey Bell announced this week.

The 18-minute film illustrates the operations of a sea-plovers designed to bury telephone cable beneath the ocean's floor.

Photographed in the waters between Jacksonville, Fla., and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, the sea plow digs a protective trench for cable, as it is laid on the ocean floor. The cable being buried in the film is part of a $99 million, 5,000-mile communications system linking the United States with Spain, Portugal and Italy.

Schools, clubs and other organizations desiring prints of the film, available in 35, 16 and 8 mm, may arrange to borrow them free of charge, from their local telephone company business office.

Classes set for Braille volunteers

Pontiac's 70's

Surprised that Pontiac's selling the style for the umpteenth straight year? Of course not.

But you may be a bit dazzled to find out that Pontiac finally outdid Pontiac.

Take Bonneville. From the strong, new bumper grille to the standard 455 under the hood, it's a rouser.

Inside: instant limousine. So luxurious some of the traditional big boys are already screaming.

One of the nicest things we could have done for Grand Prix's luxury was to leave it alone. We did. But we popped in a 455-V-8 for you to order. (It's an old Pontiac proverb that luxury should have power.)

Enter LeMans Sport. A brand-new series in the Pontiac stable. Wait! Competition sees it pull the new 400-cubes-under-the-hood trick. We'll show you that one if you check the right box on the order form.

By now, you've spotted our '70 GTO. But maybe you haven't heard it. A sound so tough, we've thrown modesty to the wind and dubbed GTO "The Humber."

This is Pontiac '70. And we figure this is the way driving's going to be. So why wait?

It's at your Pontiac dealer's now.

Agnew to address county GOP annual dinner on Oct. 15

Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew will be the guest speaker at the Union County Republican Organization's annual dinner, according to an announcement this week by Richard G. School, county chairman. The dinner, a $100-a-plate affair, is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15, at the Winfield Scott Hotel, Elizabeth.

Senate President Frank X. McDermott (R-Union), a recent candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and Gilbert C. Roesser, president of City Federal Savings Bank and a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1968, are co-chairmen of the event. The dinner will honor the party's candidate for governor, Rep. William T. Cahill.

From soldiers to police

Servicemen who are within six months of discharge will be offered training as police recruits under a new Manpower Development and Training Act program. The program, which is designed to relieve the critical shortage of police manpower, will operate until October 1, 1970. Soon-to-be-released servicemen will be trained by junior colleges and other police science institutions under a sub-contract with the International Association of Police Chiefs, Inc.

County outdoor education unit opens program for 1969-'70

After three years of steady growth and development under a Title III grant, the Union County Outdoor Education Center is starting its environmental study program for the 1969-'70 school year. With federal funds now withdrawn, the current program is being administered by the Union County Educational Services Commission and supported financially by participating school districts.

Eight of the county's 20 districts will send some 2,000 sixth grade students to the center this autumn paying a modest sum per pupil. The estimated attendance represents about 50 percent of the center's capability. Nearly 8,000 students, teachers and parents attended the fall and spring 1968-'69 programs, which were supported primarily by federal funds.

With school now open, requests for reservations are being received daily in the center. Many of these are from school districts which have not made financial provisions for this program and consequently cannot be accommodated. In addition, reservations from such districts, made during the spring months for this fall's classes, are also being cancelled. Unfortunately, these cancellations are coming from the school districts where the need for and impact of an outdoor education program is greatest, a spokesman said.

Classes are slated in hunter safety for young sportsmen

Hunter Safety Courses for sportsmen between 14 and 21 years of age will be conducted in Linden again this season. The program will be sponsored by the Linden Recreation Commission in cooperation with the Union County Sportsmen's Federation, the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission and the National Rifle Association of America.

Successful completion of an approved hunter safety course of two sessions of two hours each is required for the first license. Included in the course will be instruction on proper care and handling of guns, use of various types of ammunition and other essential "do's and don'ts" for the hunter.

The following classes have been scheduled: Thursday and Friday, Sept. 25 and 26; Thursday and Friday, Oct. 9 and 10; and Thursday and Friday, Oct. 23 and 24. All classes will be held at the Community Center Building, 605 South Wood Ave., Linden. Classes will be from 7 to 9 p.m. and will be limited to 15 registrants in each lesson.

Registrations are being taken at the Community Center Building, Recreation Office, 605 South Wood Ave., Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. and in the evening between 7 and 9:30, or by phone call to the registration office at 486-9300.

UC is participating in testing program for academic credit

Union College, Cranford, is one of 450 colleges and universities across the nation participating in CLERP, the College-Level Examination Program, sponsored by the College Entrance Examination Board. It was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

CLERP is founded on the belief that people learn in different ways and that learning acquired in ways other than through conventional school courses should be recognized and credited. CLERP courses can now receive academic credit by taking college-level examinations, Dr. Iversen said.

George P. Lynes, director of admissions, said Union College offers up to 30 college credits under the CLERP program. Examinations are offered in American government, economics, general psychology, general chemistry, general physics, geology, introduction to calculus, introduction to economics, introduction to sociology, money and banking, statistics and Western civilization. Anyone interested in earning CLERP credit may write to the College Entrance Examination Board, 475 Riverside Dr., New York, N.Y.

Five new instructors named to fulltime Union College staff

The appointment of five new instructors to the fulltime faculty at Union College in Cranford, has been announced by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

Bruce Robinson of Woodbury, Donald H. Julian of Waltham, Mass., and Gary John Mielso of West New York will be assigned to the English Department. Theodore R. Tharney of Milltown, will teach psychology, and Harold E. Damerow of Somerset, joins the Social Sciences Department.

Robinson, a graduate of Lawrenceville Preparatory School, earned his bachelor of arts degree at Cornell University and his master's degree at the University of Pennsylvania. He is currently enrolled in a doctoral program at Teachers College, Columbia University. An English instructor at Gloucester Community College for the past year, Robinson previously taught at the Newark Academy and Highland Park High School.

Robinson is married to the former Sarah Boham. They have four children, Christopher, 7, Brooke, 5 1/2, Megan, 4 1/2, and Andrew, 7 months.

Connor criticizes 'unfair' increases, backs rent control

John W. Connor, Democratic candidate for Union County Assembly-at-Large, has expressed concern at the plight of many apartment dwellers, especially those living on fixed incomes. "Some people have been faced with 50-60 percent rent increases in the last year," he said.

With the shortage of comparable housing available, with no other place to go, they must often pay or else," Connor said. "The basic problem was a limited supply of apartment space, Connor stated. "Until this market situation changes and additional units are constructed, we must prevent rent gouging by some profiteering landlords. Rent takes rent control—the fixing of a maximum permissible rent increases—then I'm for it. I don't mind a landlord making a fair profit but he shouldn't be allowed to take unfair advantage of people with limited income and mobility, especially senior citizens."

Connor, pointing out that the New Jersey Tenants' Coalition (NJC) was now statewide, noted that Essex County has passed a resolution calling for rent control and other reforms and that other communities around the state may soon pass similar resolutions.

"There should be protection for tenants who complain and attempt to organize," Connor stated. "These people should be protected. Also, there should be an updating of the law regarding tenants' security deposits requiring that when they are put in interest-bearing escrow accounts, that it be a criminal offense to tamper with these funds or fail to disclose the amount or location of these funds or withhold repayment of the security deposit for any cause other than failure to pay rent or abuse of tenement."

"It is a sad fact that apartment dwellers are not registered to vote in numbers sufficient to make their needs felt. I urge them to register now before the deadline, Sept. 25."

NJEA reports teachers 'must insist on sharp salary increases' next year

"Public school teachers—falling behind in economic status—must insist on sharp salary increases in forthcoming negotiations for 1970-71 salaries," the New Jersey Education Association said this week.

"In every New Jersey community, education associations should demand no less than $3,000 as the beginning salary for teachers," according to Dr. Frederick L. Hipp, executive secretary of the 65,000-member statewide teacher organization. "In the communities which pay beginning teachers above $7,000, they should insist on increases of at least $1,000."

In New Jersey, teacher salaries are fixed by negotiations between the school board and the local teacher association. These negotiations are generally concluded by February, when the school district adopts its budget for the subsequent academic year.

School districts have teacher salary scales with about 12 steps. First-year teachers receive a salary $1,000 less than second-year teachers on step 2, and so on. Teachers with master's and doctor's degrees are paid on higher salary scales than teachers with bachelor's degrees.

These are the NJEA statistics to detail the New Jersey teacher salary problem:

"1. Teachers get smaller beginning salaries than classmates entering other fields.

"2. College graduates who earned their bachelor's degree in education, this year will begin work in New Jersey with a median salary of $6,600. Male graduates with majors in liberal arts begin at an average salary of $7,884; in accounting $8,844; in physics $9,360; in engineering $9,816. The deficit to teachers—$2,000.

"3. The disparity is higher at advanced levels. With a master's degree, an engineering major begins at $11,484, an accounting major at $11,148. Other fields average $10,936. But for those with master's degrees in education, the beginning salary averages $7,200. The deficit to teachers—over $3,000.

"4. College graduates who earned their college graduate beginning at least at $7,018. By the end of the first year, college graduates working for the State earn at least $7,666.

"5. Teacher salaries are increasing more slowly than those in other fields. Beginning salaries for all men with a bachelor's degree rose an average of $648 this year, to $8,928. Beginning salaries for New Jersey teachers increased by only $600 to $6,600.

"6. Among college graduates with five years of experience in their field, those with major in engineering average $11,640; in accounting $11,808; in sales $11,568 and in general business $10,596. If they have earned their master's degree, teachers with the same experience average only $8,100. Without the added degree, they earn less. The average deficit to teachers is about $3,000.

"7. After 10 years, graduates in engineering average $13,716; in accounting $14,282; in sales $14,544; and in general business $13,776. New Jersey teachers with 10 years of experience average about $10,000, but only if they have taken an additional 30 college credits beyond the master's degree. Teacher deficit: $4,000.

"8. Women, who once found salaries higher in teaching than in other professional fields, now find them lower.

"9. Women—college graduates who enter business and industry this year receive a beginning salary averaging $7,944. This is 20 per cent higher than the $6,600 being offered the typical beginning teacher in New Jersey.

"10. Cost-of-living increases are canceling out whatever salary increases teachers have been able to win.

"11. Recent research by Life magazine shows cost-of-living increases have all but wiped out normal salary raises in the past decade. The workers must have increased his salary by 50 per cent just to get to even in 1959 purchasing power. For example, Life reports a person who earned $5,000 in 1959 and has since been raised by $2,500 has gained only $290 in real dollar power. A person earning $10,000 in 1959 who has been raised $5,000 has really gained only $378. Even the executive who has gone from $50,000 to $75,000 in the past decade has really gained only $15 in 1959 dollars; taxes and inflation take the rest.

"12. Average teacher salaries in New Jersey have increased by about 50 per cent in the decade, NJEA reports. The 1969 average teacher salary was $5,530; in 1969 it was $8,425. This increase of 52 per cent represents practically no gain in purchasing power.

"13. Teachers elsewhere are increasing their salaries at a faster rate than are New Jersey teachers.

"14. In other states, much improvement in teacher salaries has come from State-level action and appropriations, and the average salary for all U.S. teachers has been growing at an annual rate of 5.1 per cent in New Jersey, where teacher salaries are negotiated locally, the growth rate has been only 4.3 per cent.

Says Dr. Hipp: "New Jersey teachers are going backwards in relation to the economy, to salaries paid comparable professionals in other fields, and to teachers everywhere else. Drastic action is needed, immediately."

Nautical benefit for kiddies Adoption Society plans 'Sail In'

A "Sail In," miles inland from the nearest shore, will be the 1969 fund-raiser of the Children's Aid and Adoption Society of New Jersey.

Members of the planning committee chose the Governor Morris Inn in Morristown, for their fund-raising "sail-plant" gain on Sunday, Oct. 19 when technical difficulties prevented them from engaging a seagoing vessel.

According to Mrs. John F. Muller Jr. of South Orange, chairman of the planning committee, arrangements will be nautical with "boats" (tables) seating eight and ten, each "captained" by a table leader who will be asked to recruit his or her own "crew" of guests.

Mrs. Muller said that dress would be informal, with cruise outfits, in keeping with the theme, as preferred attire.

"Since the needs of little children, who look to adoption as a better way of life, are most urgent it is our hope and plan to double the result obtained by last year's fund-raising."

even, "Highlights of '68," at the Short-Hill Mall. Mrs. Muller said the Children's Aid and Adoption Society was founded in 1899. It offers its services on a non-sectarian and non-racial basis to mothers wishing to place their offspring for adoption and to childless couples seeking a child to adopt.

Mrs. Dwyer offers a bill to establish consumer watchdog in White House

WASHINGTON — Broadening and strengthening of federal consumer protection and information activities would be provided under legislation introduced this week by Rep. Florence P. Dwyer (R-12th Dist.).

The principal feature of Mrs. Dwyer's bill would be the creation of a permanent Office of Consumer Affairs in the Executive Office of the President.

In addition, Mrs. Dwyer told the House, her bill would establish an independent Consumer Advisory Council to evaluate federal consumer protection activities; advise the Office of Consumer Affairs, and recommend new legislation; authorize federal agencies which test consumer products to make public such test results; authorize the National Bureau of Standards to test all consumer products voluntarily submitted by manufacturers at the producer's expense; and require all federal agencies which take action affecting consumer interests to report publicly the extent to which the consumer interest was considered and the manner in which such action would advance the consumer interest.

Mrs. Dwyer said she expected her bill to be considered along with legislation to establish a Department of Consumer Affairs during Government Operations subcommittee hearings.

The New Jersey congresswoman is the ranking minority member of the full Committee on Government Operations and is also ranking minority member of the Consumer Affairs subcommittee of the Committee on Banking and Currency.

DESCRIBING HER BILL as a "better alternative" to the department bill, she said her proposal would "emphasize Federal agencies' consumer-mindedness, strengthen their effectiveness on behalf of consumers, and provide new leadership and coordination at the White House level."

She added: "There is no easy way to protect consumers. Advances in technology and marketing, and the proliferation of consumer products and services have made the consumer's fight for quality and safety more difficult to assure. Without help, few consumers have access to the information needed to make knowledgeable decisions."

"The 33 federal departments and agencies which now operate hundreds of consumer protection programs badly need to be coordinated, coordinated and designed to help consumers."

"A Cabinet-level Department of Consumer Affairs, despite its laudable purposes, would not accomplish this. It would only complicate — indeed, weaken — the government's task of protecting consumers."

"Consumer interests are too varied to be centralized in a single department. Such a department could neither encompass all consumer protection activities nor coordinate those left in other agencies; it would further separate the consumer from decisions which affect him; it would reduce other agencies' interest in consumers, and establish an expensive new bureaucracy."

"To be meaningful, protection must be exerted at the point of decision — not outside,

The consumer's interest in reasonably priced air travel, for example, can best be advanced within the Civil Aeronautics Board, which possesses the necessary rate-making authority.

"In brief, it makes more sense to me to strengthen consumer protection where consumer decisions are being made, and to do this in the two places which count most: the agency which makes the day-to-day decision, and the White House where basic policy is established and where the necessary leadership and coordination can be exercised. "It would solve nothing to force agencies with consumer responsibilities to give them up or transfer them or downgrade them. They need to be improved.

MRS. DWYER told the House her bill would equip a White House Office of Consumer Affairs with "broad powers and responsibilities" including the following:

- Coordination of federal consumer programs and the resolution of agency differences;
- Presentation of consumer viewpoints before appropriate agencies and representation of consumer interests in agency proceedings;
- Receive, evaluate and transmit complaints about actions or practices harmful to consumers;
- Establish offices in major population centers to receive complaints, render assistance, and disseminate information;
- "The consumer," Mrs. Dwyer said, "because he is everywhere is also nowhere and his interests are most often inadequately presented and easily ignored by responsible agencies."

TB group sets seminar for respiratory care

A two-day medical seminar on respiratory care presented by the TB-Respiratory Disease Association of Central New Jersey — sponsors of the local Christmas Seal Campaign — will be held Oct. 1 and 2 at the Military Park Hotel, Newark.

The program, open to all general practitioners and internists from Hudson, Montmouth and Union counties, will be limited to 125 participants. Each session will begin at 9 a.m. Invitations to the program have been circulated throughout the tri-county area.

In announcing the seminar Joseph B. Bagley, president of TB-Respiratory Disease Association of Central New Jersey, said that the program is designed to stress the latest medical concepts in treating and rehabilitating patients afflicted with obstructive pulmonary disorders such as emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

A faculty composed of physicians and paramedical specialists — all of whom are recognized authorities in their field of practice — will be presented at the seminar.

Elderly urged to check Social Security status

Are you unknowingly losing out? If so, you may be entitled to Social Security benefits. Many people do not realize, however, that they may earn more than $1,680 and still receive some of their Social Security benefits.

Some persons may earn as much as three or four thousand dollars a year and still receive part of their Social Security benefits for the year.

A beneficiary, Jones stated, can earn as much as he wants for the year and still receive Social Security benefit for any month in which he has little or no earnings, or if he is self-employed, or does little work in his business.

He cited the example of school teachers who usually work ten months of the year.

Astronomy course for adults offered at UC observatory

A 10-week course for adults, "What's Up There? An Introduction to Astronomy," will be offered again this year at the William Miller Sperry Observatory at Union College.

The course, presented in cooperation with Union County adult schools, begins Oct. 6 and will continue for ten consecutive Mondays from 8 to 9:30 p.m. through Dec. 8.

The basic astronomy course is being made available under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 as part of project "Operational Astronomy: The Earth and Beyond" under the sponsorship of the Cranford public school system, Amateur Astronomers, Inc. and Union College.

Registrations for the course will be handled by local adult schools. Edric J. Whites, assistant director of Miller Sperry Observatory, said anyone interested in taking the course should contact his local adult school.

This is the third year the introductory astronomy course has been offered. More than 500 adults have completed the course.

The course was developed by AAI, which is operating the observatory jointly with Union College and Cranford Public Schools. Through lectures and demonstrations, the layman will be acquainted with the universe, motions and physical characteristics of planets, meteors, comets and stars, and how professional astronomers go about finding out "what's up there."

Films taken on the moon by the Apollo XI crew will be shown at a meeting of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Theatre of the Campus Center at Union College, Cranford.

Edward Pearson of Westfield, AAI president, has issued an invitation to the public to attend the meeting. This will be the first showing of these films in this area, Pearson said.

Compliments roll in for UC project Lang: Mobile center welcomed by 2,000

Someone gives a damn. And at least 2,000 Union County residents now know it. Fred Lang, director of the College Information Center on wheels, sponsored by Union College, Cranford, under a grant from the Humble Oil and Refining Co. and the Enjay Chemical Co., reports that this was the feeling expressed by most of the visitors to the trailer-based center during visits this summer to depressed areas in 10 Union County communities.

The College Information Center on wheels, which completed its second season of operation, was conceived as one way of providing information and incentive to disadvantaged young people to encourage them to further their education.

Lang believes the center has been extremely successful, meeting not only its initial goal but a variety of challenges that had not even been anticipated.

Some 60 percent of the visitors to the center were high school-aged students looking for information about college requirements and costs. The others ranged from elementary school children to grandmothers. Their questions ranged from what courses do you take to prepare for college to how do you qualify for a General Education Diploma.

There is a tremendous communication gap, he said, between the disadvantaged and the educational establishment.

This gap, he says, is reflected in a variety of problems from the grandmother who doesn't know why her grandchild is in school to the young man who doesn't realize that he is entitled to a copy of his high school transcript, despite the fact that three years ago he was expelled from school and told never to come back.

Students who want to go to college and are able to succeed in college came to the center with high school diplomas in food handling. This could be dismissed simply as the fault of the students taking the path of least resistance and find too late it was the wrong path.

Working primarily with black students, Lang has found them to be much more realistic in their educational goals than newspaper headlines would indicate.

Leaders in the black community, Lang noted, do not want give-away programs.

THE COMMUNICATION GAP is not limited to the educationally or economically disadvantaged. Lang also found language has created barriers for Cubans and Puerto Ricans to such a degree that qualified teachers have not been able to get their certification and a graduate CPA was unable to find out how to become licensed in the U.S.

He spent six months trying to get the information and it took me a full two weeks to find the answer," Lang said.

One Cuban refugee, the Union College instructor pointed out, was suffering severe financial pressure trying to pay college costs for his son who had been admitted to Harvard. The father, he said, was unaware that there are college scholarships available specifically for Spanish speaking people.

While the College Information Center was able to make substantial headway in its two weeks on the road, Lang believes many more miles will have to be traveled before the job can be said to be done. He believes there is a real need for some type of permanent information center and a more concentrated effort to reach people who are now apart from the community.

Thrift shop helps retarded children

A thrift shop for the benefit of the Union County Retarded Children Association for Retarded Children, Inc. is in operation at 5 South Wood Ave., Linden.

New and used clothing for men, women and children is needed as well as furniture and miscellaneous household items.

Work incentive plan

The Work Incentive Program administered by the U.S. Labor Department moved 50,000 welfare recipients into jobs or training programs in the six months ending June 6.

Songs, cheers, games, talk at freshman orientation week

Freshman orientation week for 440 first-year students at Jonathan-Dayton-Regional High School in Springfield came to a climax last Friday with songs, cheers, games, and coaches' speeches in the annual wind-up assembly held in the boys' gym with seniors and freshmen present.

The orientation week began last Monday when Principal Robert F. LaVanture opened the program with an assembly which introduced the newcomers to the philosophy and spirit of Dayton-Regional. School administrators, coaches, club and council officers and guidance personnel were on hand to inform the freshmen of the opportunities available.

Senior class president Ted Ramos, who was in charge of the week's orientation program, said, "After a week of being a great deal of fun, it releases the atmosphere during the first week of adjustment for the freshmen. It stresses the development of school spirit, awareness and participation, with no physical hazing.

The assembly program, which was under the direction of basketball coach Raymond Vancius, opened with the Dayton marching band under the direction of Carl Vendetti. Vancius introduced the fall sports coaches and captains: football coach Ted Amo and captains Bill Keller, Bob Sasse and Woody Young, soccer coach Bob Piccolo and captains Joel Millman and Jeff Morris; cross-country coach Martin Taglienti and captain Marty Joseph.

Methodist lay readers begin sessions tonight at church

Lay leaders of Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Mall at Academy Green, will meet tonight and next Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m. in the sanctuary for instructions and discussion about the conduct of lay service of divine worship. For the past year, 25 men and women have assisted Pastor James Dewart in the service, reading the scripture lessons and leading in prayers and other acts of worship, and they will further their preparations for this service to the congregation.

Pastor Dewart stated that the use of lay readers has "greatly enhanced the experience of participation on the part of the congregation, including moments of dialogue between the pastor and congregation during the morning session so that the sermon is shared by both minister and people." The lay readers will constitute a "worship task force" this year to work with the pastor on new forms and expressions of worship, particularly during the high seasons of the Christian Year: Christmas, Lent and Easter. At the meeting of the council on ministries earlier this month, Pastor Dewart announced that two special acts of worship had already been planned. On Sunday, Nov. 16, the Rev. Gary Culp of Park Methodist Church, Elizabeth, and Pastor Dewart will share the pulpit in a dialogue sermon.

The first Sunday in Advent, Mrs. Florence Taylor-Jones will lead the congregation in a service of celebration, "The Procession of the Prophets," during which she will speak about "The Prophets and The Christ, and banners which she has created will be brought into the sanctuary in procession.

Bank proposes splitting stock

The directors of the National State Bank, Elizabeth, have called a special meeting of shareholders on Oct. 9, to split the present $5 par stock into two shares of $3 par stock. This would be accomplished by increasing the total capital stock of the bank from $7,500,000 to $9,000,000 by transfer from surplus, in a letter to shareholders, W. Emory Roosevelt, president said. "It is contemplated that, after the effective date of the split and dependent upon the continued earnings of the bank, dividends on the new stock would be at the annual rate of $0.60 compared to $1.00 on the old." If so, this would be the 15th consecutive year that the bank had increased its dividend pay-out to its stockholders.

School district teaching posts now fully filled

The Union County Regional High School District has again started the new school year with no teaching vacancies, it was announced this week by Dr. Randolph T. Jacobsen, assistant superintendent for personnel and recruitment.

Dr. Jacobsen said that this year's classroom teaching staff totals 321, an increase of 16 teachers over the 1968-69 school year. He said the additional teachers were hired primarily to meet the increased student enrollment in the Regional District, which is expected to reach approximately 5,500 as additional students continue to register.

Dr. Jacobsen said that besides the fact that teachers realize the Regional District is a good place to teach, the comprehensive teacher recruitment program carried on throughout the year ensures enough candidates to choose the best and most experienced teachers available.

"We work closely with colleges and teachers' agencies throughout the country to obtain the most qualified candidates available," he said. Dr. Jacobsen noted that work is already under way on the recruiting program for the 1970-71 school year. Dates are being established to visit colleges and universities to interview prospective teaching candidates.

Men teachers outnumber the women in the district this year, 174-147.

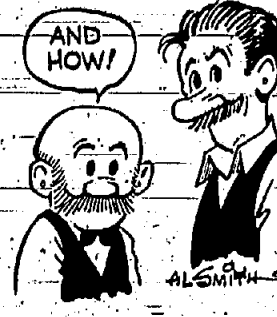

The Regional District, which operates four high schools, is comprised of Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield.

Tennis tourney set Sept. 27 at Irwin courts

The Springfield Recreation Department is sponsoring a tennis tournament for men, women and youngsters with competition beginning Saturday, Sept. 27, at 10 a.m. at the Irwin street tennis courts.

Those interested in entering the tournament must register with the Recreation Department by next Thursday. The entry fee is $2 per person for each class entered. Youngsters must be 10 and older with those under 18 divided into age groups for equalization. Competition is scheduled in men's singles, boys' singles, women's singles, girls' singles, men's doubles, boys' doubles, women's doubles, girls' doubles, adult mixed doubles and youth mixed doubles. Those interested in entering may call Vincent P. Plata at the Recreation Department, 376-5800. Drawings for placement and playing time will be held on Friday, Sept. 26, at 6 p.m. at the Irwin street tennis courts. Entrants must attend the drawing. Prizes will be furnished for the tournament and trophies will be awarded to the winners and runners-up in each class. All entrants must furnish their own rackets.

New head coach Ted Amo is not new to the regional system. Through 1965-1967 he was head basketball coach and an assistant in track and football at Clark. During 1967-1969, Amo was an assistant in track and football at North Plainfield. Coach Amo has high praise for all his assistants on this year's squad. Handling the freshmen are Manuel Perela and Ollie Olson, while Roland Marston, Bill Jones and Bill Kindler work on a varsity level. Commenting on the team, Amo pointed out that playing smaller Group II schools will give Dayton a definite advantage over previous years. In former seasons, the Bulldogs were playing schools with a larger enrollment and were always at a disadvantage because of this factor. Amo also noted that Springfield will be playing an independent schedule, not being in any conference in football for another couple of years.

The Springfield team is very deep in the running-back department. The fullbacks include Woody Young, Danny Silverman and Dave Epstein. Young had an excellent season last year replacing Jim Robinson and should be more exciting this year. Mitch Wolf, Bob Sasse, Jay Silverman, Joe Rapauano, Scott Prussing and Gary Branning are all halfback candidates. With the depth in these positions Dayton will not suffer from the loss of Ralph Losanno or Robinson.

ALTHOUGH THE DEFENSE lacks depth, there are good replacements to substitute for the regulars. Marino and Hagemeier will be at middle guard, with Vaughn, Kutter, Fox and Grant at the tackles. The defensive ends are Benkus, Foster, Vastilo and Mike Stadler, while Graessele, Epstein, Weisbrodt and Ramos are the linebackers. Outside linebackers will be Danny Silverman and Rapauano. Wolf, Janukowicz and Pete Demmer are the safeties, and Bove, Young, Jay Silverman, Sasse and Prussing are the defensive halfbacks. Outstanding sophomores, according to Amo, include Gleim, Rapauano, Stadler, Don Astley, Marc Jaffe, Ed Cook, Rich Latt, Bob Naydore, Craig Miller and Andy Nittin. Although the Bulldogs lack depth, they have experiences at many positions. With the team's overall experience, a second-year quarterback, and a new schedule, the Bulldogs should have greater success this year. Now the team needs the support of the school and the community to fulfill its hopes for an improved year.

THE BULLDOG OFFENSE remains vital and intact from last year with exception at every position. Art Weisbrodt, Pete Melfardterck and John Hagemeier are the centers, with Bob Vaughn, Ed Graessele, Dennis Marino and Ted Ramos at the guard positions, Gary Fox, Bill Ketter, Gary Grant and Lou Vastilo are the tackles, with Charles Bove, Charles Foster and Bill Benkus at the ends. The quarterback, Bob Janukowicz and Gil Gleim, are a very competent duo. Janukowicz, the first-string signal caller, will have more confidence after one year at the Bulldog helm. Gleim, last year's freshman passer, shows a great deal of promise as a sophomore.

and National Forensic League. He will be a variety performer for his fourth year on the Dayton team this spring. He plans to study liberal arts at Harvard, Yale or Swarthmore College upon graduation in June.

THE THREE ARE among 45,000 semi-finalists named this week who will compete for about 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1970. The semi-finalists were the highest scorers in their states on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQST), which was given last September to some 750,000 students in 12,250 schools nationwide. They constitute less than one percent of the secondary school seniors in the United States.

The semi-finalists are representative of the country's most intellectually able young people, according to Edward C. Smith, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC). "From this group will come many future leaders in business, industry and the professions," he said. "These students bring honor not only to themselves, but also to their families, their teachers and their communities. The future success of these young people will, however, depend upon their ability to become productive at the high intellectual levels that they are capable of attaining." Semi-finalists must advance to finalist standing to be considered for the Merit Scholarships to be awarded next spring. Semi-finalists become finalists by receiving the endorsement of their schools, substantiating their high NMQST performance on a second examination, and providing information about their achievements and interests. About 97 percent of the semi-finalists are expected to become finalists, and each will be considered for one of the 1,000 National Merit $1,000 scholarships which are allocated by state. Many will also be considered for the

The 30-second oven cleaner 7¢

(It takes just 30 seconds of your time to whisk away the dirt. Costs less than you're now paying.)

Ladies, get your heads out of the oven. Now you can have an electric range with an oven that cleans itself automatically, for an investment of about 7¢ and 30 seconds of your time per cleaning.

With most models (check the instructions first) you can even put the surface unit drip pans into the oven. Then, when you turn the switch to "Clean," spills and splatters disappear from the oven, racks and drip pans during the average 1 1/2 hour cleaning cycle. Only a trace of powder remains. You whisk that away in about 30 seconds.

There's no worry about scrubbing the surface units either, because spills disappear from them while you're still cooking. Only electric ranges can give you this "total cleanliness."

So throw out the expensive oven cleaners, the cans of stuff, the brushes, the steel wool, and the dirty rags. Buy a new electric range with a self-cleaning oven. You'll find a large selection at the local appliance dealer displaying the familiar Reddy Kilo watt seal. He's open right now.

Official reminds employers of child labor law provisions

WASHINGTON -- With most schools now in session, U. S. Wage-Hour Administrator Robert D. Moran has reminded the nation's employers that the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act prohibit the employment of children under 16 while school is in session.

The primary purpose of this law is to insure that youngsters are not short-changed on their education, he said. With the increasing demand for skilled workers today it is almost imperative that our youth obtain at least a high school education in order that they may earn decent wages during their work years.

Moran expressed particular concern about the employment of minors on farms. He said investigations have shown that over half of the minors under 16 found working on farms during school hours are in fact younger than normal for their ages. At age 15, almost eight out of 10 were behind in school grade level, he said.

Moran also reminded employers that 16 and 17 year-olds are barred from some jobs which have been listed as hazardous occupations by the Secretary of Labor.

Investigations by Wage-Hour Compliance Offices during fiscal year 1968 disclosed 13,282 minors illegally employed. Of these, 6,089 were age 14 and 16 and were illegally employed in business and industry. 6,375 were age 16 and 17 and working in hazardous occupations, and 1,558 were age 16 and working in agriculture during school hours.

Sen. Williams is co-sponsor of bill to improve mass transit

WASHINGTON -- U. S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-N.J.), sponsor of three major bills to improve mass transit and commuter systems, has joined Senate colleagues in offering a fourth—a bill to authorize federal purchase of railroad equipment which would be leased to rail lines for service between urban centers.

The bill would also permit the federal Department of Transportation (DOT) to buy worn-out rail equipment from the lines, rehabilitate the stock, and lease it back to the railroads.

The legislation stipulates that federal revenues earned by leasing equipment must be enough to pay for repairing it in the first place.

Sen. Williams is the author of the Urban Mass Transit Act of 1964, the pioneer legislation which paved the way for federal assistance to commuter systems—and he recently introduced a bill which would establish a mass transit trust fund similar to highway fund which financed the Interstate System.

The New Jersey lawmaker has also sponsored legislation to discourage rail lines from discontinuing passenger service until they have exhausted all possible sources of assistance.

SEN. WILLIAMS LINKED the most recent bill, providing for federal purchase and lease of equipment, to this philosophy of maintaining passenger service "wherever possible, and with whatever means we have at our disposal."

"Help for commuter lines, intercity passenger service and the rides public in general they have not asked for," Sen. Williams asserted. "If we demand that the rail lines stay in the passenger business, then it seems only fitting that we try to give them what help we can in offering passenger service—that is economical, efficient, and dependable."

The bill backs this philosophy by directing DOT and the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) to work together in developing a series of criteria for maintaining, or allowing railroads to discontinue, specific passenger

'Survey of Prints' slated for Sunday

A lecture on "A Survey of Prints will be conducted by James Gregory of Old Brick Tavern, Bridgewater, N. J. on Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Clinton Historical Museum, Old Red Mill, Clinton. Gregory's emphasis will be on the 18th and 19th century periods, terminating with the beginnings of lithography.

Gregory will draw on examples from a large and important collection of Master Prints including Wedgwood's executive secretary, Albrecht Dürer's engravings by Albrecht Dürer (1471-1528) including the celebrated Frenchman, Jacques Callot (1691-1685), as well as by Rembrandt, Gregory's collection is especially rich in 18th century French works.

Included in this collection are the works of Watteau, Fragonard, Boucher and Debucourt. His collection includes also many 18th century English works by such artists as Rowlandson, who is considered one of the greatest satirists of all-time, J. P. Haring Sr. and Henry Alken, the most renowned artists of horse and hunting scenes.

His family's collection has continually expanded and enlarged by Gregory while living in Europe as well as in the U.S. He has sold rare duplicates from his collection to the Albert and Victoria Museum in London and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

"I think we'd better step over to the men's department!"

Education changes proposed by Cahill

Greater responsibilities and independence for teachers and a new role for the State Department of Education were proposed this week by the Republican candidate for Governor, William T. Cahill.

In a two-part paper on the state's educational system, the Republican Congressman, who taught school while studying law, declared that "the educational future of New Jersey's children is being molded by overcrowded, substandard facilities, which the state cannot evaluate in terms of quality."

Cahill's approach to rehabilitating New Jersey's educational system puts great emphasis on upgrading the professional teacher. In addition to making "the role of teacher one of the most rewarding and prestigious in the educational field," Cahill said that talented teachers should be induced to continue teaching rather than be prodded to seek positions in administrative areas.

He also called for a system which would provide a wide variety of educational systems and skill centers in the core city.

Clean Water group formed to seek bond issue approval

The nation's best known woman banker, the president of the nation's largest state employer association and New Jersey's two major party gubernatorial candidates have something in common. They all are officers of New Jersey Citizens for Clean Water.

The organization began forming last week to press for passage of Public Question No. 1, the Water Conservation Bond Issue, on the Nov. 4 ballot. The appointment of the woman banker, Mrs. Mary G. Roebeling, chairman of the board of the Trust Co., as clean water chairman, was announced by Gov. Richard J. Hughes. He also announced the appointment of Leonard C. Johnson, president of the New Jersey Manufacturers Association, as committee treasurer. Mrs. Roebeling announced that the two gubernatorial candidates, Democrat Robert B. Meyner and Republican William T. Cahill, have agreed to serve as honorary co-chairmen. This serves to underscore the wide bipartisan support for the Clean Water question.

Mrs. Roebeling declared "Executive director and principal coordinator of the referendum group is Ernest E. Robinson, assistant vice-president and director of field activities for the New Jersey Manufacturers Association."

The $271 million clean water question, if approved, would provide the means for financing the broadest waste disposal construction system in the state's history, involving $261 million worth of construction, modernization and repairs of sewer systems in order to clean up polluted water in every section of New Jersey. Over $242 million of the $268 million would be provided by the bond issue. The remainder would be derived from federal and local funds. The clean water referendum also includes $70 million in order to set aside valuable land for reservoir sites.

Mrs. Roebeling said she agreed to lead the referendum campaign "because I am firmly convinced that the public interest requires passage of this bond issue before it is too late. The need for clean water rises among our most sanitary and industrial wastes into our water ways daily. Mrs. Roebeling said that we must move promptly to remedy our polluted water problem or much of New Jersey's progress could come to a standstill."

Meyner proposes education program

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Robert B. Meyner intends to establish a statewide program for early childhood education if elected governor, in a statement released this week the candidate said. "One of the special papers I have prepared for this campaign deals with the very important subject of early childhood education. Recent nationwide developments show that this country stands on the verge of a major breakthrough in the education of our youngsters in their formative years. These developments can enable us to break the poverty cycle, to lift the heavy burden of welfare, and to give all of our citizens the opportunity to make real contributions to our society."

Meyner said that the program for childhood education would consist of two major elements. A series of educational day care centers and a special series — for professionals in the field of early childhood education. "These are needed if we are to have high quality programs to give children a good start in the acquisition of knowledge and in the development of personal attitudes which will assure success in school and afterwards," he said.

"Our state health officials tell us that New Jersey's 750 treatment plants are pouring more than one billion gallons of inadequately treated sanitary and industrial wastes into our water ways daily. Mrs. Roebeling said that we must move promptly to remedy our polluted water problem or much of New Jersey's progress could come to a standstill."

"So We Can Live" is the official slogan adopted by the Citizens for Clean Water to underscore the significance of the bond question.

"Our state health officials tell us that New Jersey's 750 treatment plants are pouring more than one billion gallons of inadequately treated sanitary and industrial wastes into our water ways daily. Mrs. Roebeling said that we must move promptly to remedy our polluted water problem or much of New Jersey's progress could come to a standstill."

Asch named head of county group for election of Cahill

Karl Asch of Linden, a member of the Elizabeth law firm, Asch and Asch, has been appointed chairman of Union County Citizens for Cahill, it was announced this week by Arthur S. Lane, state chairman of Citizens for Cahill. Asch is a member of the New Jersey, Union and Linden Bar Associations; chairman of the Joint Medical-Legal Committee, Union County Bar Association and Medical Society of Union County. He was founding president of the Linden Adult School which he still serves as a member of the executive committee, and is former vice-president of the Linden Jaycees and the Eastern Union County YMCA Extension Committee.

Asch is state treasurer of the Anti-Defamation League, co-chairman for the United Fund of Linden and regional chairman of the Columbia Law School Alumni Fund.

He is a member of the Local Order of Moose, Equal Rights Organization, Amherst Chapter. He was graduated from Columbia College and Law School in 1956. He served in the U. S. Army from 1952-54.

Union Tech named as winner of complete computer system

Union County Technical Institute has been selected to receive a complete computer system to serve as a laboratory device in a new electromechanical curriculum which was approved this month. It was announced by Dean Richard Phillips.

"Hundreds of technical institutes and junior colleges throughout the United States participated in an academic contest to develop the most outstanding proposals to teach a new curriculum in electromechanical technology, which is greatly in demand by a wide variety of industries and, in particular, the major growth industry in America today, computers and business machines," Phillips said.

"Union County Technical Institute is one of only 23 educational institutions in the United States selected to receive these free, complete computer systems specially modified to serve as lab tools to enhance the quality of instruction in the new electromechanical curriculum," he added.

The new curriculum implemented by Union County Technical Institute is designed to produce technical educator graduates better qualified for industry's present and future hiring needs. The goal of the program, supported by IBM and Univac, is to improve education, not to replace specific job training given by industry.

"The winners were chosen by an impartial board of judges expert in technical education and knowledgeable of the most up-to-date educational developments in Electromechanical Technology," Phillips said. "Winners were selected on the basis of the calibre of the faculty to be assigned to teach the new curriculum, facilities for classes and labs, the excellence of present two-year, post high school programs in electronics, electricity, and mechanical technology, plans for training faculty to teach the new curriculum, and, in general, the professional status and accreditation of the college."

Curricula in electromechanical technology have been developed by the Technical Education Consortium supported by the U. S. Office of Education, IBM, Xerox, Univac, and Honeywell, and by the Technical Education Research Center and Oklahoma State University with support from the U. S. Office of Education.

'Jet-set' agriculture at Rutgers

The College of Agriculture and Environmental Science at Rutgers has gone international. It has begun a technical assistance program for growers, processors, and producers associations in the Commonwealth of Central America.

The college thus joins the ranks of North American colleges of agriculture and experiment stations with international programs. Twin goals of the program are to help developing nations and to widen the knowledge of college specialists about tropical agriculture and agribusiness.

However, the Rutgers program differs from the others in one significant respect. In most international programs, specialists spend months or years in residence at stations abroad. But men from Rutgers board a jet for quick trouble-shooting or conferences, and are back in their offices within 10 days or less.

Service in which specialists based in New Brunswick make frequent visits to counties and communities around the state.
