Drug abuse discussion

PTA council meeting scheduled for Monday

School psychologists and social workers will be among those who will lead group discussions on drug abuse at Monday night's meeting of the Springfield Council of PTAs. The meeting will be held at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School on Mountain Avenue, Springfield.

Guest speakers at the meeting will be: Jack Schoenberger, school psychologist, J. Dayton Regional; John Christiano, social worker; David Brearley Regional High School; Anthony Castaldo, psychologist, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School; Mrs. Ellen Addis, psychologist, Gov. Livingston Regional High School; and Dr. Donald Menachuk, assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services, Summit County Regional High School District.

Representing the Springfield elementary schools will be August Gavornick, coordinator of special services; Mrs. Beverly Dvornik, psychologist; Mrs. Helen Shepard, home and school counselor; and Helene Kozelski, assistant principal of Florence Gamble School, the Council of PTAs, which represents the PTA's of Springfield's elementary and secondary schools, is presenting a comprehensive program on the "practical approach to today's drug problems," according to Mrs. Arthur Weiss and Mrs. Joseph Berkowitz, co-chairmen.

Keynote speaker for the evening will be Dr. Sylvia B. Herz, president of the Essex County Council on Drug Addiction.

Speaking for ALERT, of Springfield, a citizens' group formed to educate adults and teenagers to the dangers of drug abuse, will be Bernard Fridkis.

The co-chairmen invited all interested citizens to attend.

Forum to highlight student comments about high school

The Student Alliance for Good Education, SAGE, this week announced specific plans for its presentation for the adults of Springfield on Wednesday at 8 p.m. The meeting will be held at the National State Bank in Springfield.

The program will feature a panel of five students. Topics to be discussed include curriculum, faculty, the guidance department, the student role in the high school and the general atmosphere of the school. The group emphasized, "Specific and relevant problems will be considered in all topic areas."

After the panel has spoken, a question and answer period will be held to afford students and adults in the audience an opportunity to express their opinions and to obtain information.

According to the group, "We are mainly concerned with stimulating interest in the adult community. We do hope to have adults join SAGE as a result of our presentation, but we also hope to stimulate those adults already involved in such organizations as the PTA and the League of Women Voters to work through their respective groups for the goals which SAGE advocates."

"The important thing is to open the eyes of the adults of Springfield as to the shortcomings of Dayton. Anyone who truly cares about the quality of education being provided in our local high school will come and listen to what we have to say."

Del Vecchio states township offers 'bipartisan' government

"Responsive, bipartisan government is what I believe Springfield wants and this is what Springfield has," Mayor Philip Del Vecchio reported to a campaign rally on Sunday evening, "and quite remarkably the bipartisan representation came about not by election, but rather by appointment."

"The voters of Springfield have chosen five responsible citizens to serve on their Township Committee, and they in turn have made it an absolute policy over the past eight years to make appointments to municipal positions on the various boards purely on the basis of qualifications. This policy has crossed party lines on many occasions and has even brought independents into the township government," Del Vecchio, a Republican, continued.

"There are many examples that I can point out that would bear out this policy," Mayor Del Vecchio stated, "and perhaps the primary instance would be Mrs. Marie Smith, who is a candidate for re-election as tax collector."

"I am proud to endorse the candidacy of Marie Smith because I feel she is qualified, dedicated and sincere. Party lines in a town such as Springfield should not be the prime consideration, but rather what the person has shown as to their ability and dedication to the well-being of the community."

"Other organizations have they served to what voluntary projects that would benefit the township have they devoted their time, and upon what foundation of service and qualification do they base their candidacy — these are what I consider to be the important criteria that the voters should consider," Del Vecchio continued.

"My dedication to the growth of Springfield is a matter of record and I sincerely invite comparison."

"BIPARTISAN GOVERNMENT existed from the day I took office in 1962. Every position in Town Hall was reviewed and the qualifications of each employee were carefully considered. Not one appointment was made that was based on a political consideration alone. Qualification and dedication were the criteria then, and it has remained so over the years."

"In 1962, Mrs. Smith was the deputy tax collector, and was judged to have served the community well. Therefore she was re-appointed. Other employees who were retained although their original appointments came from the opposite party were Ben Davis, who is still our plumbing inspector; Mrs. Arthur Minneman, assistant to the town clerk, and Mrs. Gloria Madling, who is presently our court clerk. In each case qualifications alone were the consideration."

"Over the years there have been many other appointments that bisected party lines. On the Planning Board we are fortunate to have the services of A.J. Pancani, Albert Evans and Arthur Kesselhut, who are independent or members of the other political party."

"On the Board of Adjustment, Edward Schwartz, Marvin Strauss, and the attorney to the board, Stanley Gruen were independents or members of the other party."

"On the Board of Health, their attorney, Marvin Fish, and member Dr. George Widom as well as a previous member, Jerry Vozza, who was also a candidate on the Democratic slate for election to the Township Committee, were appointees of this administration."

"OUR SWIM POOL manager, Stanley Wnek, as well as our building inspector, Paul Greenstein, were not registered in our party. Recently we indicated our determination to continue this bipartisan policy by appointing..."

Woman fined $20 in failure to yield to emergency vehicle

Mary Rapp, 36, of Mountainside, was found guilty of a charge of failure to yield to an emergency vehicle and was fined $20 by Judge Max Sherman in Springfield Municipal Court Monday night.

Judge Sherman also fined three persons on charges of speeding. John W. Sharp, 21, of Mercer Island, Washington, paid $30; Judith Hook, 20, of 147 Baltusrol way, Springfield, was fined $20, and Barbara A. Twerdak, 23, of Linden paid $25.

Theresa R. Marchessault, 41, of Summit, was fined $10 for passing a red light, and Raymond L. Elton, 18, of 40 Baltusrol way, Springfield, paid $10 for disregarding an officer's signal.

Homer E. Koble, 25, of Elizabeth, paid $25 for using fictitious license plates, and John J. Giantzas, 18, of 46 Mapes ave., Springfield, was fined $15 for allowing passengers to ride on a portion of a vehicle not designated for passengers.

Also at the court session, the driver of a truck Gordon L. Shipman, 34, of Plainfield, was fined $10 for operating an overweight vehicle on Milltown road.

Regional board seeks comments on future needs

Another invitation has been extended to residents of the Union County Regional High School District to become involved in planning to meet the district's future expansion needs.

Citizens have been urged to speak to members of the Board of Education or the superintendent of schools to make their views known. The Board of Education welcomes and encourages the active participation of all citizens in planning for the continued quality education in their high schools, a board spokesman said this week.

"If the public has any ideas that might help the board in its planning, it wants to hear about it," the spokesman said.

"Although planning has gone beyond the preliminary stage, it's not too late. The board..."

Mayor hospitalized by attack of bursitis

Mayor Philip Del Vecchio was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, by the Springfield First Aid Squad early Tuesday morning.

A hospital spokesman said that the mayor had fainted because of pain from an acute attack of bursitis, and that there were no other complications. Del Vecchio was expected to be released from the hospital within a day or two.

ALERT presents narcotics seminar

ALERT of Springfield, a citizen's group dedicated to the prevention of drug abuse through community involvement and education, will sponsor a Drug Abuse Week, Oct. 10-19, it was announced this week.

The program will involve the clergy, the schools and residents of the community, including the young people, according to Bernard Fridkis and Wally Kleinman, co-chairmen.

A feature of the program will be a talk by Mrs. Bella Wheeler of Wakefield, Mass., to be held Sunday, Oct. 19, at the Florence Gaudinier School on S. Springfield Avenue, beginning at 1:30 p.m. All interested persons in Springfield and the surrounding area have been invited to attend.

Mrs. Wheeler, a psychiatric social worker and adjustment counselor at Wakefield High School, gained national prominence when she started what has been described as one of the most imaginative attacks on the rapidly worsening tragedy of teenage drug abuse.

Her work and that of the volunteer coalition of Wakefield citizens, including housewives, mothers, teachers, city officials and businessmen, has been publicized in several national magazines.

Also, all parents of kindergarten through 12th grade students, and all junior and senior high school students, have been invited to attend a meeting of the combined Springfield PTA's, to be held Monday evening at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School on Mountain Avenue, Springfield. (See separate article.)

Fridkis and Kleinman said the concept of ALERT, formed last May with the cooperation of the Regional High School Board of Education, "is to create lines of communications between student, parent and the community through education striving to show the student that drug abuse is not the key of life but the lock of life."

League to present candidates' night

The two candidates for the contested seat on the Township Committee will have their only direct confrontation of the election campaign at the annual candidates' night to be sponsored by the Springfield League of Women Voters on Wednesday, Oct. 22, at 8 p.m. at the Florence Gaudinier School.

Philip Del Vecchio, Republican, and Nat Stokes, Democrat, will take part in a discussion of local issues, after which the meeting will be opened to questions from the audience. Mrs. Henry Dearborn of the Summit League of Women Voters will be moderator for the evening.

Mrs. Herbert Forman, president of the Springfield League, and Mrs. Jerry Rosen, voters' service chairman, urged residents to "take advantage of this meeting to become acquainted with the candidates and the issues involved."

Lions' deputy governorship for Postmaster Del Vecchio

Bernard Sobel, Lions governor of District 162, which encompasses 65 Lions Clubs in Essex, Union, Morris and Warren counties, has appointed Postmaster Abel V. Del Vecchio of Springfield as deputy governor.

As deputy governor, Del Vecchio will oversee two zone chairmen and eight Lions Clubs in his area. His duties will include working with the zone chairmen. He will be involved with joint club meetings and make visitsations to each of the clubs in his region. In addition, as deputy he is a member of the district cabinet and assists in making district policy.

Del Vecchio has been a member of the Springfield Lions Club since 1954 and served as president in 1967-1968. He enlisted in the Air Corps in 1942 as a private and retired from the Air Force Reserve in the grade of lieutenant colonel after 23 years of reserve and active duty military service.

He attended Barringer High School and received a B.S. degree in chemical engineering from Newark College of Engineering in 1936.

Del Vecchio has been postmaster in Springfield since 1954. He has participated in many civic and charitable functions including Heart Fund, American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, 175th anniversary celebration of the Battle of Springfield and the United Fund. He is vice-president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce.

Del Vecchio and his wife, Franca, reside at 50 Belwood ave., Springfield. They have two children, Val, 21, a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army, and Diana, 16.

Stokes says town's officials should reveal local holdings

Nat Stokes, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, this week challenged all elected and appointed officials — as well as candidates, to make a full disclosure of any property or business interests they have in town. "It might lead to potential conflict of interest," Stokes said.

"Citing evidence of conflicts at the federal government level stemming from business dealings, and referring to a 1964 decision of Judge Harold Barger in which Springfield township dealings were said to be 'contaminated by conflict of interest,'" Stokes said the public should be aware of people's dealings before they assume public office. Stokes volunteered disclosure of his own position.

His statement follows: "Keep corruption out of Springfield. Avoid conflict of interest. These are principles we can all agree on. There is nothing so disheartening as to believe that men who are in positions of government responsibility are misusing their authority for their own gain. It breaks the spirit and explains optimism with cynicism."

"Recently we have seen such cases high in the federal government. Bobby Baker peddled influence; Justice Abe Fortas received money as of this writing there is serious question over the behavior of President Nixon's nominee for the Supreme Court, Clement Haynsworth."

"The line between ethical and unethical behavior is quite thin, Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's aide, still did not believe there was anything wrong in his behavior at the time outraged public opinion forced him to resign. Once he was believed corrupt, his effectiveness as an official was gone."

"If conflict of interest can become a plague at so high a level of government, are we immune from it here in Springfield?"

"ONE WAY to minimize suspicion is full and open disclosure of any and all areas of potential conflict of interest. I propose that all candidates, elected officials and appointed officials make full disclosure of all business interests they have in Springfield. Specifically, the public should be made aware if they have:

"1. Real estate holdings or dealings in town, with town or with individuals or corporations who have dealings in town or with town.

"2. Interests in businesses selling, supplying to town or with individuals or corporations who have dealings selling to town.

"3. Stocks in banks and corporations, involved in financial transactions in town, or business dealings with individuals or corporations who hold stock in corporations dealing with town or with the town.

"I am ready to make disclosure on all of these points. My only real estate holding in Springfield is the house I live in. I derive no income from any sources in or related to Springfield. I have no involvement with property or business transactions involving the town."

"It is a common occurrence at Planning Board and Township Committee meetings to see one or more members abstain from voting because of potential conflict of interest."

"In the past Judge Harold Barger has said that dealings of Township Committee was involved in having a conflict of interest."

"We should know of these potential conflicts before officials are elected and appointed."

Tickets on sale for Ruby dinner

Tickets for the Ed Ruby testimonial dinner, to be held Oct. 29 at the Mountainide Inn, are still available from the Springfield Recreation Department, 376-5900; the Municipal Building; Herb Palmer at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School and Mrs. Laura Rosenbaum, 55 Shinnel rd., 379-5023.

Ruby has just retired as township recreation director. Dinner tickets are $12.50 each. Those wishing to contribute to the Ed Ruby Scholarship Fund may send their checks to the Recreation Department.

Viet protest plans supported, but UC classes will be held

Student groups at Union College, Cranford, are being encouraged to plan appropriate programs for next Wednesday, Oct. 15, which is being marked as many campuses as a protest against the Vietnam war, but classes will not be suspended that day, it was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

County AJC votes unanimous support of Viet moratorium

The membership of the Union County Chapter, American Jewish Congress, has voted unanimously to support next Wednesday's Moratorium—a movement led by students to engage in community education for one day against the Vietnam war. A spokesman said that the group also voted to commend Dr. Mason Gross of Rutgers University for being the first college president in the United States to support the moratorium and to urge campus discussions directed at critical examination of the war in place of regular classes.

Roger Dean Arch of Elizabeth, president of the group, said this week that the Union County Chapter deprecates the position of President Nixon, who responded to mounting opposition to the war by declaring, "under no circumstances will I be affected whatever by it." The next meeting of the chapter will be held Oct. 27 at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Marzelli, 26 Cypress ter., Springfield, N.J. Sautantello of the New Mobilization of New Jersey will describe nationwide plans being made for a mass march on Washington and rally on Nov. 15 to "bring the troops home now."

mark this day in positive, constructive ways, and we pledge our assistance and our resources for all appropriate educational activities that will foster a better understanding of our commitments and of our involvement in Southeast Asia." Dr. Iversen said, "It is encouraging to hear that our Student Council has begun in an orderly way to plan for the proper observance of this day."

Dr. Iversen said students will be free to attend or not to attend scheduled classes "as their own conscience and judgment dictate." "In accordance with established policy, all classes will meet as scheduled on Oct. 15," Dr. Iversen said in a memorandum to students and faculty members. "It is our responsibility to keep classes open for all students who wish to attend, since they have paid their tuition and are entitled to instruction. Therefore, all faculty members will be expected to meet their classes as scheduled."

Dr. Iversen said faculty members have been urged to assist students in planning appropriate educational activities and to join in the discussions. "May we have a peaceful, thoughtful Oct. 15 on the Union College campus that will lead to a fuller understanding of the Vietnam war and to positive, constructive action that will help to bring peace to that troubled part of the world," Dr. Iversen said in his memorandum.

The Day Session Student Council has voted to support the Vietnam moratorium, and has appointed a committee to organize a teach-in or panel rally or other activities, according to Thomas Taylor of Westfield, president. Serving on the planning committee are Joseph Filipe of North Plainfield, Thomas Beatty of Cranford, and Warren G. Kahn, Jr. of Summit.

Dem hopeful Long calls county garage a 'White Elephant'

Union County freeholder candidate Thomas Long of Linden this week deplored the "senseless waste of tax dollars on the still inadequately completed" Union County garage.

Speaking at a meeting of his supporters, Long said, "This white elephant is even now costing the citizens of the county more of their tax money. Had the garage been planned efficiently, the construction would now be safe for vehicles and we would not have to allocate an additional $37,000 for additional architectural fees on top of the already wasted hundreds of thousands of dollars."

The Democratic candidate proposed that for the sake of economy this structure be converted from its present non-functional purpose as a parking facility for county employees and jurors to that of a county jail.

"At present," Long said, "Sheriff Orsiccio and his staff are suffering from a lack of detention space. What the county needs is a jail now, not in the estimated three years it will take to complete the 15-story, $20 million structure proposed for the location, across from the 'White Elephant' garage."

"If the garage were converted to a jail, the county taxpayer would be spared the burden of paying good money to make up for the lack of planning that wasted their past tax dollars on the garage. In addition, the strain on law enforcement officials would be lessened by the creation of a new facility to house the overflow of detainees now crammed into the old jail," Long said.

"It is about time we stop spending good money after bad. The remaining three political architects of this garage debacle cannot be counted upon to expedite sound financial programs for the county. The taxpayers of Union County must speak up at the voting machine on Nov. 4 and elect three Democratic freeholders," Long said.

Mark Oct. 28 for Pap Test, Union County women urged

Women, mark October 28th on your monthly calendar. This week of Dr. Warren H. Knauer, executive committee chairman of the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society, is devoted to the fact that on this day women residents of the county who are over 21 years old or married women of any age can go to the following participating hospitals between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. to receive the painless, easily administered Pap Test for the detection of uterine cancer, free.

Dr. Knauer asked that all women who come to these hospitals for the test should wear loose-fitting clothes and avoid wearing slacks, girdles, or panty-hose. The should also be prepared to give vital statistics including name of family physician and address.

The hospitals are: in Elizabeth, Alexian Brothers, Elizabeth General and St. Elizabeth's; in Plainfield, Muhlenberg in Rahway, Rahway Hospital; in Summit, Overlook, and in Union, Memorial General. Both the Union County Unit and the co-sponsoring Union County Medical Society stressed that this is a test only for the detection of cancer of the cervix (womb) and not a complete physical examination for cancer detection. According to Dr. Knauer, both groups urge everyone to see their family doctor at least yearly for a complete physical checkup.

The test that will be administered at the hospitals on this day is named for the late,

Dr. George N. Papanicolaou, who devised and developed the test. Dr. Knauer explained, "The Pap Test is based on the study of cast-off cells which are shed normally by living tissue. If cancer cells are present, they are shed along with normal cells, and the physician who takes the test is sampling and the person who studies this sample under a microscope can determine if any cancer cells are present."

In this way, many cancers are found and treated before they cause symptoms and become dangerous. In fact, over the past 30 years, this test has been credited with cutting the death rate from uterine cancer by more than half and with displacing it as the chief cause of cancer death in women.

Still, nearly 1,500 women in New Jersey are projected to succumb to this type of cancer this year. That is why the American Cancer Society, the Union County Medical Society and the participating hospitals are undertaking this free, Pap Test Day; in order to educate the women of Union County as to the importance of including such an essential cancer detection technique in a yearly health check-up. For further information, readers may contact the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society at 512 Westminster ave., Elizabeth, 354-7873.

First State to issue 40,621 shares of $5 par value stock

The First State Bank of Union has announced plans to sell warrants to purchase shares of its stock at a par value price of $5.

At a special meeting Sept. 26, shareholders voted to amend the bank's charter to increase its capital stock from $1,421,730 to $1,624,355 by issuing 40,621 shares with a par value of $5 each.

Shareholders are being issued rights to purchase one new share for each seven shares owned. Those with a number of shares not divisible by seven are entitled to receive payment of 30 cents for each 1/7 fractional share.

Additional information on the new issue may be obtained by calling Mrs. Nancy Minette at the bank's main office, 686-4800.

A portion of the additional capital raised by the new issue will be used to finance the opening of new branches in New Providence, Clark and Middlesex. The bank recently received authorization to open the new branches under the liberalized regulations of the 1968 banking laws.

At the same time the shareholders approved the increase in capital stock, they also voted to change the name of the bank to First New Jersey Bank. The name is expected to be changed officially within the next few weeks.

Westfield paintings are shown at UC

Paintings by six members of the Westfield Art Association are represented in the current exhibit in the Nicholas A. Tomasiello Art Gallery at Union College.

The artists and paintings included in the exhibit are: Dorothy Woodward, "Moonlight"; "The Cove"; Henry Murphy, "Mill on the Wheel"; "Connecticut Landscape"; Betty Langstaff, "Seascape at Belford"; Mrs. John Corvodes, "A Summer Church at Convent"; Corbin Howe, "A Summer Church at Convent"; and "Old Barn" Ruth Siegrist.

"Pouring Steel" and "Dogwood," and Natasha Folk, "Inlet." Mrs. Peter D. Falk of Westfield is exhibit chairman.

The Westfield Art Association has planned and arranged exhibits at the college gallery for the past several years. The Association also has a traveling loan collection which it makes available to the college. Paintings are hung in the college offices and faculty lounge. Mrs. John Corvodes of Fairwood is chairman of the current loan collection.

Become part owner of a Multimillion dollar bank.

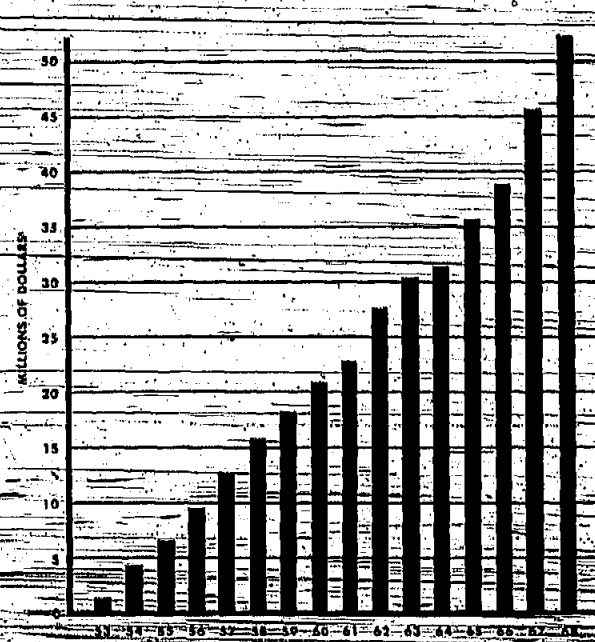

By any standards, The First State Bank of Union is no ordinary bank. Though only 16 years old, its assets are already well in excess of $56,000,000. This represents a phenomenal rate of growth. And a unique investment opportunity. You are invited to participate in this financial phenomenon. And share the profits of its growth in the years to come.

New issue is limited
In order to finance the establishment of several new branch offices in New Providence, Clark and Middlesex, and overall expansion of its operations, The First State Bank of Union is issuing a limited number of common stock shares as of October 1, 1969. Since the issue will total only 40,000 shares, it is expected that there will be little stock available. Our current stockholders have first preference in purchasing this issue.

Unusually rapid rate of growth
The First State Bank's growth picture is nothing short of amazing. The bank was organized in 1953. Today, its assets total well over $56 million. In the last 2 years, our resources increased by 38%. In 1968, our deposits increased by nearly $8 million. It is anticipated that our growth in 1969 will be even greater, with assets estimated to reach $60 million. To a large extent, our success is attributable to our willingness to invest in the business and people of Union County and its environs.

Earnings and dividend prospects
Our earnings record has shown a continuous increase over the years. The rate of return on average Capital and Surplus Accounts in 1968 was 10.84% after taxes. This compares with earnings of 9.80% on Capital Accounts in 1967.

Earnings overall in 1968 were $1.27 per share after taxes. The Management anticipates that earnings will be much higher in 1969. Cash dividends of $.95 per share were paid in 1968 on old shares. In October 1968 the bank's stock was split 2-for-1. This brought stock dividends paid to 120% since 1967! A very strong dividend record indeed.

The chart above shows how First State Bank has continued to expand over the years. Now that we are able to open offices in other counties, our rate of growth should be even greater.

Growth stock in a growth bank in a growth area
The picture is clear. The First State Bank's home counties of Union and Middlesex are growing rapidly, due in large part to the influx of so many big corporations and manufacturing enterprises. This, in turn, has attracted thousands of wage earners and home owners.

A similar pattern holds true for most of the other counties in District II. And nothing can supply a bank with a greater impetus for growth than being located in an economically "booming" community. A growth bank in a growth area often results in a growth stock. This has certainly been the record of First State Bank common stock, to date. And with the bank's growth performance and potential in mind, this stock is considered to be a very good buy.

When and how to acquire your shares
Now is the time to obtain stock in First State Bank, since shares will not always be available. For more information about the bank or specific instructions on how to acquire your shares, call Mrs. Nancy Minette at 686-4800. She will be glad to help you out. # Park Commission picks 3 appointees

Joseph J. Birmingham of Westfield has been named superintendent of recreation for the Union County Park Commission, effective Oct. 20. It also was announced by the park commission, Birmingham will succeed George T. Cron, who chief engineer, and Michael J. Kolody of Clark as assistant superintendent, both effective Oct. 20.

Birmingham is not new to the Union County parks, as he was the assistant superintendent of recreation, under Cron, from 1956 to 1961, when he left to enter a family business. He is a graduate of West Chester State College in Pennsylvania, and earned a master's degree in recreation from Pennsylvania State University. He served as recreation director of Kenneth Square, Pennsylvania, from 1952 to 1954. At Plain State, from 1954 to 1956, he was a graduate resident counselor. In 1964 for a period of almost two years he served as assistant executive director of the Westport, Connecticut Recreation Commission. Birmingham is an active member of the National Recreation and Park Association and has served on various panels at the National Recreation and Park Association conference in Pennsylvania. He has also served on the Pennsylvania Municipalities League of Municipalities conferences, and the New England Conference. At the present time he is also serving as a deputy commissioner of the New Jersey State Amateur School Association.

His previous employment includes working with the Union County Parks Department as a supervisor of many athletic events and leagues throughout the county, assisted with the arrangements for the annual "Hot Stove League" dinner, and initiated the Union County Intra-County Baseball League. He also supervised the design of water supply and sewerage projects on various Indian Reservations in the West. More recently he has been employed by the New Jersey Department of Health as a senior public health engineer. Vitale is certified as an engineer-in-training by the New Jersey State Board of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors, and is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He resides at 208 North 19th st., Kentworth. Kolody is attending Newark College of Engineering and expects to receive his degree in civil engineering in June 1970. His previous employment includes working for the State of New Jersey as an assistant borough engineer for Essex-Felt in 1968 and 1969. From May of this year he has been employed as an assistant highway engineer for the New Jersey Department of Transportation.

Caldwell offers program for Dem freeholder ticket

Hugh Caldwell of Plainfield, Democratic candidate for Union County freeholder, this week outlined a seven-point program which he said represented the goals of the Democratic State.

"My running mates and I feel that the current county budget, if disbursed soundly, should and could offer to the county residents: An efficiently managed John Rumels Hospital. Day care centers. Increased recreational facilities.

"The coming election, Caldwell continued, "provides us with an opportunity to alleviate the problem of lack of representation for a large segment of population." Caldwell, who is running with Michael J. DeMartino and Thomas W. Long, stated "We want to make it possible for mothers with preschool children to go to work instead of on welfare. We want to return drug addicts and alcoholics to the community as productive human beings. We want to help keep families together and help hundreds of children each year to become constructive adults instead of society casualties. We need your help to accomplish this. If you are truly concerned about the future of Union County, we are asking you to support our candidacy as freeholders."

College girl writes home 'Students are sick of waiting'

A college student, the daughter of Springfield residents, recently wrote a letter home in an attempt to express some of her views on the current national situation to her parents. The basic text of that letter follows:

This isn't a "normal type" letter—I may as well prepare you in advance, so when I leave out any news, stories, etc., you're not shocked. It's just that I'm in a funny mood—the whole country's in a funny mood—I don't know what newspapers at home are saying, if anything; however, within the next few months there's going to be an awful lot occurring that you will be reading about. Since I'm not there to argue or defend, and since your direct contact with "my generation" is not too great with the distance involved, I'd like to sort of explain things.

Last night the university held a "Vietnam teach-in" at the auditorium. Evidently they're being held all over the country this week, sort of beginning a concerted effort for action. They had two speakers—the university president and R.D., the latter being one of the founders of SDS—a university alumnus who just returned from Vietnam. The president gave a good but extremely generalized speech against the war, about which I won't elaborate. After the speeches there were workshops held for planning the November march on Washington, the Oct. 15 national student strike, and other anti-war programs.

I can't remember now whether it was R.D. or one of the speakers at the workshop who expressed really beautifully why campuses are so restless, why there are all these strikes, etc. We've waited, and protested, and had petitions and marches and sit-ins, but nothing happens. And the basic issue, which is certainly not limited to students, is the war. It drags senselessly on with a whole generation of boys being killed off—just so the U.S. can keep "Big Daddy." Our university president himself said it wouldn't be so bad if Vietnam went Communist. Yet the war continues—and the voice of the people is plainly ignored.

Students are sick of waiting. I'm sick of waiting. I've never believed in mass action—you must know that. All my life I've preferred to do "my own thing," not caring if others followed so long as I believed I was right.

When I joined the McCarthy campaign it was because I saw him as a leader who would not keep "his thing" quiet, but would make it action. You follow someone like that, because a single voice is so hard to make heard. But McCarthy failed and Kennedy was killed—and the thousands of students who believed they'd finally be heard were ignored.

Individual action—and I really have to say this—is pretty much over. I'm against the war, but my saying so or writing it to Florida Dwyer or my senator isn't going to do anything. If every kid and professor and person who was against the war wrote to their congressman it wouldn't make a bit of difference. National policy is determined without regard to the wishes of the people—and all that is left is to take mass action.

ON OCTOBER 15 there will be a National Student Strike, with anti-war programs held all day. On Nov. 13-15 there will be a peaceful march on Washington, it's called the "Death March," because in the midnight procession will be an equal number of persons to the number killed thus far in Vietnam. Each will bear a name tag with either the name of a person killed or that of a village destroyed. The names will be read aloud—and at the end of the march they will be placed in caskets, which will then be presented to President Nixon. The weekend is intended to be purely peace—signifying our wishes.

I've already stated that I don't groups, I abhor violence and would never participate in a riot. But I no longer can I sit home and say "Well, I've done all I could to make the world better." Nothing will be done unless people, as a group, make their voices heard. And so I went to the teach-in and signed my name to work on the Oct. 15 strike—typing or handing out leaflets, or something of the sort.

And so I went on the peace march held the next day, after the football game. There was something intense and almost religious about the march—4,000 or 5,000 students filling down the street chanting "What do we want? Peace. When do we want it? Now." There was no violence at all that weekend—just speeches and rallies, indicating that we ARE united in our desire for peace.

You've probably heard a lot on the news about actions this week—107 students were arrested that night, and several were injured. But let me make it clear—I don't condone it all. I'm against ROTC on campus but taking the building, although it does show mass feeling, only antagonizes.

The same with the riot the other night—taking a building accomplishes nothing. I went over to look at the scene (before the police busted) and it was really astir. The issue had virtually disappeared in the face of "student power" and no one was accomplishing anything—there was no unity. The next day I went to a rally to hear the speakers—but when they began to march and possibly seize another building, I left. I agree with the issue, but not the method.

However, as far as the war protests—I agree with both issue and method. If there's a chance I certainly won't go along, I'm participating in the strike, and I may go to Washington.

I don't know what I'd do if it turned into a riot—probably just run, because although I know we've got to act as a group I still won't condone "fighting for peace."

That's the attitude of the New Left—get guns and fight the police with the same tactics they use on us. I don't go along with that; it defeats the whole purpose, if we want peace we must prove our point peacefully.

I hope you understand this letter, it's geared to explain (sort of) why these things are happening, and how I go along—and don't go along—with them.

Temple will participate in Vietnam Moratorium

Temple Sharey Shalom of Springfield has voted to support and participate in Wednesday's Vietnam Moratorium, a nationwide protest against the continuation of the war in Vietnam and in support of the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam. A temple spokesman declared: "Students and faculty members on hundreds of campuses across America will be leaving their classes for that day to ring door bells and talk with their fellow citizens about the madness of Vietnam. Religious institutions and clergymen, businessmen, workers, professionals and housewives have been asked to join in, so as to let the administration and the Congress know of the tremendous groundswell against the continuance of this tragic and disastrous war. "All religious school classes at Temple Sharey Shalom have been canceled for the day, and an all-day pray-in and teach-in will be held in the sanctuary of the synagogue. All congregants, students, faculty members and citizens of the community at large who wish to join in this demonstration for peace will be welcomed in the synagogue during the all day pray in and teach-in. "Rabbi Israel G. Dresner, spiritual leader of the congregation, will be on hand from the pray-in's beginning at 7 a.m., until the conclusion at 7 p.m. Rabbi Dresner has been a leader in the struggle against the Vietnam war ever since the commitment of American combat troops in March, 1965. "He is the former chairman of N.J. Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, and was a member of an unsuccessful peace mission to Southeast Asia in the summer of 1966. Rabbi Dresner is the newly elected president of the state American Jewish Congress, which along with the national A.J.C. is supporting the Moratorium. "The Moratorium is being supported by tens of thousands of clergymen of every faith including the national leaders of Reform Judaism; Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath, president of the Union of America Hebrew Congregations, of which Temple Sharey Shalom is a member, and Rabbi Roland Gittelson, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, of which Rabbi Dresner is a member. Rabbi Dresner will be fasting for peace during the course of the pray-in and teach-in. "The announcement of the temple stand was made by Lawrence Lerner, chairman of the synagogue's social-action committee. Harold Bass is president of the Springfield congregation.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

MISTAKES
If you make a mistake, turn whatever profit you can from the situation by trying to see things right and by making it well in your book of life's experience. When you know that you are wrong, when you find yourself on the wrong side of the room when it's time to stand up and be counted, leave the courage to make your move. Don't sit down to scold yourself. Don't dig yourself into an uncomfortable hole. Step up and face the music. Be strong enough to try to do right, to be right. "Do all that you can to correct a mistake; remember that you cannot perform to the extent of your ability if you remain mad at yourself or unhappy with the world. You cannot use your full talents and energy without proper application of some serious attention. In short, learn your mistakes, so they will not be repeated; yet forgive yourself if you have done your best so you can pay attention to what's right for today without fretting about what went wrong yesterday.

Norman Banner leads church talk

Norman Banner, a member of the Methodist Men of Springfield Emanuel United Church, Church Hall at Academy Green, will lead a discussion on "Prayer and Bible Reading in the Public Schools" this Monday at 8 p.m. The meeting will open with devotions led by Banner, followed by the business meeting and program. The discussion will be introduced with a recording by Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court concerning the prayer and Bible reading decision. Banner will provide additional background material, and then open the meeting to contributions and thoughts of the members. Recent actions by the Netcong Board of Education have prompted renewed interest in the relationship of worship to public education, he said. "Men of the church and community are invited to share in the meeting and to enjoy the fellowship and refreshments at the close of the evening," a church spokesman added. ### Lectures on history of Palestine under way at Essex County YMHA

The first in the new season's "Omnibus" Lecture Series at the YM-YWHA of Essex County, 760 Northampton ave., West Orange, is under way, with programs scheduled Tuesday nights at 8:15 through Jan. 6. "Topic of the series is 'The Jew and the Land During the Long Exile,' with Rabbi Israel S. Dresner of Temple Sharey Shalom in Springfield leading the history of Palestine from the destruction of the second temple to the Balfour Declaration. The series is sponsored in cooperation with the Jewish Education Association. Subscriptions to the series are available at the 'Y'.

Rabbi Dresner has been spiritual leader of Temple Sharey Shalom since 1958 when he began his rabbinic career. A native New Yorker, he was graduated from Yeshiva Eitz Hayyim, "The Hebrew Institute of River Park," and from Herzliah Hebrew Academy. He studied at Brooklyn College and was graduated from the University of Chicago, receiving an M. A. degree in international relations. He was ordained in Yeshiva College, the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion with an M. A. in literature. Rabbi Dresner is a veteran of two years service in the U.S. Army. Upon graduation from college, the Rabbi spent six months in the Israeli Kibbutz in the Negev. When granted a rabbinical last year by the congregation and, following the Six Day War, lived in the Jewish settlement of Ein Shimon, Jerusalem, lecturing at the New University and throughout Israel, preaching at all seven of the progressive "Reformed" congregations. Rabbi Dresner has been one of the most active Jewish leaders in the struggle for peace and social and racial justice. He was a close colleague and personal friend of the late Martin Luther King, serving Dr. King both as advisor on Jewish questions and official liaison between the Jewish community and the civil rights movement. He was the first rabbi arrested in a civil rights struggle in Tallahassee, Fla., in 1964, with the case of Dresner et al. v. Tallahassee reaching the U.S. claim court with an important resultant decision. Subsequently, he became the most jailed rabbi in America with three further arrests for civil rights activities in the South. He is now president of the N.J. Committee against Discrimination in Housing and past vice-president of the N.J. Conference on Religion and Race.

Rabbi Dresner was president of the N.J. Clergy and Laymen concerned about Vietnam, and in the summer of 1966 was sent to Southeast Asia as a member of a citizen's peace mission. He is a past member of the board of trustees of the Essex County Jewish Community Council, board of trustees of the Jewish News and director of the Jewish Federation of Temple Youth. The Rabbi is married to the former Dr. Toby Silverman and has one son, Avram Shalom.

New Jersey teachers favor giving vote to 18-year-olds

New Jersey's public school teachers have organizationally gone on record in favor of giving the vote to 18, 19, and 20-year-olds. Most teachers feel that our youth fully understand the American political process by the time they have finished high school, says Lewis R. Applegate, director of public relations for the New Jersey Education Association.

"Our 18-year-olds are as ready to vote as our 21-year-olds. If the minimum voting age remains 21, they needlessly have to wait three years to participate in the process."

The premise that a person becomes an adult at age 21 is based on medieval warfare, the NJEA reports. The ancient English considered 21 the age when a man became strong and experienced enough to bear the weight of armor in battle.

"If we are going to base adulthood on the age of battle, we should use the age of today's American youth, not Old England's minimum age for knighthood."

Among those under 21 now barred from voting, says NJEA, are soldiers, property owners, taxpayers, workers of all kinds, heads of families, and college students — including many majoring in political science, studying law, and preparing for government service.

Several restrictions that kept some citizens from voting have already been abolished. Applegate notes. Originally, only male "freeholders" could vote — those who owned property. But New World faith in the common man soon caused New Jersey to remove the property qualification. Then, amendments to the federal constitution gave suffrage first to former male slaves and then to all women.

Changing times caused these relaxations, and enough changes have occurred among teenagers to warrant giving 18-year-olds the right to vote, Applegate believes. For example, "Youth today are maturing earlier. Physically, by age 18, they are full adults.

Young people are better educated today than ever before. Just one generation ago, well over half of all teenagers dropped out of school before high school graduation. Today, over 70

Paid membership tea set by CARIH chapter

Reservations for the Chapter of CARIH—Children's Aid and Research Institute's Hospital—is holding a Tea in honor of all paid-up members and interested prospective members on Monday, 12:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Seymour Nelkin, 33 Rippling Brook dr., Short Hills.

Mrs. Daniel J. Bondi of Lakewood will speak about the hospital in Denver; she is the mother of a former patient at CARIH.

Trillion vehicle miles

U.S. highway travel in 1968 was the equivalent of more than two-million round trips to the moon, Oil Facts notes. The publication says that total travel last year exceeded one trillion vehicle miles for the first time.

Percent gain in knowledge needed to graduate, and half of these go on to some form of higher education.

Constant exposure to mass media and greater opportunity to travel make this generation more familiar with the issues of the day than were previous generations.

Dinner to be held by football group in Union Nov. 10

The Union County Junior Football Conference "Kick-Off" dinner will be held Nov. 10 at the Kingston Restaurant in Union. It was announced this week by Richard V. Crosta, president of the Union Rockets.

The conference includes teams from Union, Linden, Irvington, Roselle, Kenilworth, Cranford, Hillside, Lelin, Elizabeth and Clark. The dinner, scheduled for 8 p.m., will be "stag" and will cost $8.

Crosta, who is chairman of the affair, said that guest speakers will include Larry Powell, director of the National Junior Football Conference, and "The General."

"The General," he said, "is a well-known athlete-dinner speaker who is a humorist and who has spoken at conventions, sports awards dinners, social clubs, women's organizations, schools, and colleges. A master of mimicry, his real name is August DiFlorio and he is known to TV audiences for his appearances on Candid Camera."

It's time to get out those studded tires

Studded snow tires will be permitted throughout the state between Wednesday Oct. 15, and April 15, 1970, June Strelcecki, director of the Division of Motor Vehicles, said. Studded tires are fitted with a pin type device in openings molded for this purpose in the tread design. The stud consists of a tungsten carbide core bonded to an outer casing or shell of plastic, aluminum or steel. Reports indicate that these tires may cause some wear of road surfaces, but the safety features of studded tires appear to warrant the present regulation permitting their use in New Jersey.

Your family needs plan for escape in case of fire

Firemen last year found many young fire victims juddered under beds or in closets," Don Costa, safety director of the Allstate Insurance Companies, said this week. "These deaths might not have occurred had all the members of the family practiced an emergency escape plan." "A fire in the middle of the night can have a disastrous effect on your family if they are not prepared," Costa said. "If you haven't done so yet, it's time to set up an emergency escape plan that takes every alternative into consideration. You may find it worth the trouble."

Costa said that many of the more than 12,000 Americans who died last year in fires could have been saved if they had known what to do before and during the fire.

"SET UP SAFETY PLANS for your family today," Costa said. "Map out two or more escape routes for every part of serious fire, and make sure the children know when each should be used. Do an actual walk-through practice for getting out of the house. Designate an outside assembly point where the family will gather."

"If there is only one stairway or escape route from an upper story, store a rope ladder in a closet near an upper story window, to be dropped out as a fire escape. Proyde attachment hooks on the window casing.

"Teach children something about the carbon monoxide and other gases generated by spreading flames. These can be deadly, explain to them that if it's necessary to pass near the fire to get out of the house, a wet cloth should be applied to the face to block fumes," Costa advised.

"Make sure they know better than to open any doors until they place their palm against it to see if it is hot. If the door doesn't feel hot, brace your body against the door and open it a crack, ready to shut it if there's air pressure or the draft feels hot. When assured that it's safe, you can try the stairs, keeping as close as possible to the floor and never wasting time getting dressed or picking up valuables."

"IF YOU HAVE a fire extinguisher in your home for small fires, all the children in your family old enough to operate the extinguisher should be taught how to do so. Also, teach them how to maintain it.

"Don't try to be a hero," Costa cautioned, "and tell your children not to attempt it either. If you see you can't control the spread with the extinguisher, get out and call the fire department. Close the doors behind you and make sure everyone else is out. Never go back into a burning building after some 'precious' belonging."

"Many deaths last year occurred between the hours of 9 p.m. and 7 a.m.," Costa pointed out. "Home fire alarms could have warned these victims in time, but few people have ever bothered to protect themselves with this device. Check into the possibility of obtaining one."

Union Symphony plans 3 concerts, seeks members

Rehearsals have started for the thirteenth season of the Union Symphony Orchestra. Leo W. Rindler, conductor, has announced that three concerts are planned, with dates tentatively set for November, February, and May. Rehearsals are held every Monday at 8 p.m. at Burnet Junior High School, formerly the Union High School building, at Morris and Caldwell avenues.

New members are welcome to the orchestra, which is composed of amateur musicians from all walks of life in Union Township and surrounding communities, as well as some players who are actively engaged in music as a livelihood. Rindler himself, and associate conductor Edward J. Napiewocki, are examples of the latter. Napiewocki is director of instrumental music at Montclair High School and Rindler is musical director of Union's schools. Both of these men will be glad to provide further details of the orchestra to potential players.

According to Rindler, "The Union Symphony Orchestra has a dual purpose in our township. First, it serves as an outlet for the talents of young and current musicians, many of whom find the orchestra's regular rehearsals and concerts, and its challenging repertoire, a welcome means of regaining lost proficiency or maintaining one that has always been active. Second, the orchestra provides a worthwhile addition to Union's cultural life, and one that has attracted a steadily increasing number of loyal listeners."

Last year's season of the orchestra was highly successful, with programs featuring instrumental and vocal soloists, supported by classical and "pop"-style orchestral numbers. Details of the current season's program will be announced later this month.

Huge demand for oil
At least $250 billion—more than 10 times the cost of the Apollo space program—will have to be invested by 1980 to meet the demand for petroleum in the Free World, according to a Chase Manhattan Bank survey.

Almost half of the funds will be spent in the search for new supplies of oil and gas, with the remainder going for refining, marketing and transportation facilities.

Some drugs, drinks, foods don't mix, state pharmacists' association warns

Use of tranquilizers, antidepressants and barbiturates without knowledge of other drugs, drinks and foods that interact with them harmfully can cause serious illness and even death.

This warning was sounded by the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association in the midst of the annual observance of Pharmacy Week which began Sunday.

Albert C. Meyer, association president, listed the interaction danger as one of the most publicized by the public in all the discussion of drug misuse and abuse.

"Too few persons realize that one drug can modify the metabolic and physiologic action of another," Meyer said.

"When drugs are given together," the pharmaceutical leader added, "one drug may potentiate or antagonize the action of the other, may stimulate or inhibit the metabolism of the other drug."

"Drug interactions can occur in a variety of ways. In some cases, one drug will have a direct effect on another. In others, one drug will affect the intestinal absorption of another, or its rate of metabolism, or its excretion rate. In still other interactions, one drug may affect the tissue or plasma protein binding of another. The net result may be potentiation or inhibition of drug action."

BY COMPILING an inventory of potential drug interactions, Meyer said, coupled with maintaining accurate medication records for his clients, the pharmacist helps to avoid serious or even fatal drug reactions.

In the case of antidepressants, he said, a wide variety of interactions can follow combination with other drugs as well as with certain foods.

The interaction of certain inhibitors with food is well documented, Meyer said, particularly with food containing tyramine, such as cheese (strong or aged varieties), some wines (e.g., Chianti) pepper, terring and alcohol.

"These foods bring on a severe hypertensive crisis, including headache, sweating, tachycardia and dyspnea."

Both barbiturates and tranquilizers are dangerous when taken with alcohol, Meyer said. Phenobarbital is a potent stimulator of drug metabolism, he explained. "This commonly used drug, marketed in a myriad of combinations, stimulates the metabolism of many drug groups; barbiturates are potentiated themselves by alcohol, a lethal combination."

PATIENTS MAINTAINED on tranquilizer therapy can be expected to exhibit even more central nervous system depression when alcohol is imbibed, Meyer said. "Unfortunately, it is not often recognized, in general, that tranquilizers have an additive effect when they interact with such other drugs as barbiturates, narcotic analgesics, antidepressants, etc."

Meyer said the answer is to take such potent drugs only under a physician's supervision. "The layman cannot be expected to know which drugs conflict, and which clash with alcohol and certain foods," he said. "Therefore, indiscriminate taking of drugs—represents a dangerous misuse against which everyone should guard."

Meyer suggested the public seek professional advice during Pharmacy Week by consulting their community pharmacist.

Hey Mom, you need a Gas Dryer... NOW!

Unexpected rain or snow snarls washday plans. It makes a mess of your clean laundry, and doubles the work and annoyance of lugging heavy loads of wet clothes in and out of the house. Don't depend on the weather for clean, dry clothes. Make this a dryer year for modern ease and convenience. An automatic gas clothes dryer fluff-dries an entire load in only 45 minutes. Best for permanent press, too. Be modern. Buy a dryer now.

Youth Commission favors giving vote to 18-year-olds

The New Jersey State Youth Commission this week announced its support for the state-wide referendum to lower the New Jersey voting age to 18.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph J. Vopelak, chairman of the commission, said "the youth of New Jersey have demonstrated time and again that they have the desire, the maturity and the awareness of issues to participate in the electoral process."

"New Jersey's youth have earned the right to help shape the policies that govern us," said Monsignor Vopelak. "They are better educated, more sophisticated and highly motivated individuals interested in making our society a better place in which to live."

Produce inspectors log over half-billion pounds

More than a half billion pounds of fresh New Jersey fruits and vegetables were inspected by Federal-State produce inspectors working under the supervision of the New Jersey Department of Agriculture during the fiscal year ending June 30.

According to Walter M. Springer, supervisor of fresh fruit and vegetable standardization, asparagus and tomatoes were the major commodities inspected for processing.

Inspections are made on the basis of Federal or State standards, and/or in accordance with grower-producer contracts with processor-consumer specifications. The results of each lot or load inspected are noted on an official certificate.

Official grades provide a basis for payment for the raw product to growers contracting with processors. Thus, an incentive for growers is created, resulting in high quality products being offered to the consumer.

Grading is also important in maintaining and expanding domestic and worldwide markets for fresh produce grown in New Jersey. As an example, New Jersey lettuce, all officially certified as to grade, is now being shipped routinely to major markets.

Springfield group forms committee to protest war

A new organization was formed last week in Springfield, called the Springfield Committee to Stop the War Now. The meeting was held at the home of Sylvia Zisman, where approximately 20 local residents formed the nucleus of the local organization whose purpose is to support Wednesday's Vietnam Moratorium demonstration, which will take place in many towns and cities across the country, including Springfield, the announcement stated.

The group also supports the "Memorial Death March" in Washington on Nov. 14 and 15, and the "Massive March" on Washington on Nov. 15. These actions and many others are part of the fall offensive to end the war mounted by the National New Mobilization Committee.

Guest speaker at last Wednesday night's meeting was Sal Santanello of the New Mobilization Committee of New Jersey. Santanello said that this new anti-war movement throughout the country is developing at a growth rate unparalleled in American history. "People are phoning in from all over the state," he said, "asking how they can help."

Santanello was also critical of Sen. Charles Goodell's resolution which calls for a withdrawal of all U.S. troops by Dec. 1, 1970. "That's over one year away," he said. "Another 10,000 American boys will be dead and the situation will be no different than it is today. There is no reason that our negotiators in Paris cannot ask for an immediate cease fire and start withdrawing from this month. There is no reason for the killing to continue. The war machine must be stopped now... the death machine must be stopped now."

THE FIRST ACTION of the Springfield Committee is to support the Oct. 15 Vietnam Moratorium. This moratorium was termed an "effort by students and educators across the country to stop business as usual for one day and engage in community education against the Vietnam war. This moratorium has the support of more than 95 senators and representatives," the local group added.

Donald Grant, temporary chairman of the Springfield Committee, said that the group will formulate strategic plans to "carry out its local responsibilities in concert with other communities throughout the state and country in mounting the fall offensive."

"So that President Nixon gets the word, that the American people want the war ended now, not in 1970 or 1971," Grant said, "Our action will have a twofold purpose, to arouse a community response against the Vietnam war and to encourage as many people as possible from Springfield to join in the march on Washington on Nov. 15."

The next meeting of the Springfield Committee to Stop the War Now will be an organizational meeting to "mount the full offensive." The meeting date and place will be announced shortly. More information regarding the organization may be obtained at 376-1684.

Art lecture series includes visits to the N. Y. museums

As part of the art lecture series presented by Rabbi Reuben R. Levine at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center, Springfield, there will be a follow-up trip to a New York museum, Rabbi Levine will start this series by delving into the importance of the French Impressionists and how they relate to contemporary art.

The first museum trip will be this Tuesday to the Guggenheim Museum and the Museum of Modern Art, both of which have noted examples of French Impressionists in their permanent collections.

The trips will be open to others besides the members of the art appreciation course. A fee of $3.50 will cover the cost of the bus and admission to the museums.

Mrs. Lillian Johnson will conduct the trips. She plans to leave by bus from the front of the Civic Center Tuesday morning at 8:30. The first stop will be the Guggenheim Museum. "Besides the familiar, but always beautiful permanent collection, the museum is featuring a show by Roy Lichtenstein for those who enjoy 'pop art,'" she commented.

Mrs. Johnson suggested that each person bring a lunch which can be eaten on the bus. "The museum is closed on Tuesday, so we are waiting in line at the museum cafeteria," she added.

From one to three, the group will go to the Museum of Modern Art. The bus should return to the Civic Center by 4 p.m.

Anyone who wishes to go on the museum trip may phone Mrs. Johnson at the Center, 376-3994, to reserve space on the bus.

Planer statement reviews negotiations for Mount View road construction

Springfield Township Committeeman Robert Planer, noting a recent comment which concerned the "so-called delicate negotiations" with Houdaille Quarry, this week replied: "The inference I assume, was the negotiation with Houdaille Quarry and Balmoral Golf Club which led to the construction of Mount View road, although the vague allegation and suspicious manner in which the inquiry was raised makes me wonder what politics in Springfield is distracting us."

"The Springfield Township Committee meets on the second and fourth Tuesday of every month and a meeting is never adjourned until every question or comment from the audience is responded to, so it is with some degree of consternation that I read a deliberate attempt to deceive the voters of Springfield by the chairman of the opposing party," Planer continued.

"If I may, I would like to recount the steps that were involved in the successful effort to get Mount View Road constructed by the present administration. For many years it had been the hope and desire of many township residents that a road be constructed from Balmoral Golf Club donated land along the ridge of the mountain for the road, and an approximate location of the road was plotted on the land use map prepared in 1955.

"In 1962, Mayor Del Vecchio and the Township Committee committed themselves to the construction of Mount View road at a minimal cost to the taxpayers as possible. This road was necessary and desirable for many reasons, the principal of which were for better police and fire protection, to unite the residents of the top with the rest of Springfield and to have an improved access, and to enable the Regional Board of Education to bring all Springfield students together in one school. As anyone can see, what the Township Committee undertook was a vital matter to the future growth of our town.

"NOW FOR THE delicate negotiations. The Township Committee was made up of Arthur Eakin, Jay Bloom, who unfortunately was a Democrat, Robert Hardgrove, Philip Del Vecchio, who is now our mayor, and myself, Robert Planer. The discussions encompassed a period of two years and involved representatives of Houdaille, the Balmoral Golf Club and the Township Committee.

"The chairman of Springfield's committee was Committee member Eakin. Matthew Glendon represented Balmoral, and William Joseph and William Dinger represented Houdaille. The principal point made by the Township Committee was that we were desirous of having the road constructed, and if no other means were made available the township would have the road built on a local assessment basis.

"This is a legal procedure open to all municipalities in order to serve the public interest. Under this method, the township would let contracts after public bidding for the construction of the road and then the parties that would benefit would be assessed for the costs, in this case both Houdaille and Balmoral.

"An alternative to this method permitted by law would be for the benefiting parties to construct the road to the township's specification and subject to the township's inspection and if suitable, turn the road over to the town at no cost. In most cases the latter method could prove more economical, particularly since Houdaille in the road materials business. This was the method that Houdaille and Balmoral selected and agreed to with the Township Committee.

"I would like to point out that all the members of the Township Committee were kept abreast of all the developments leading up to the conclusion of the agreement. At the meeting that marked the conclusion of the agreement all members of the committee were in attendance, including Bloom.

"Rather than having a feeling of wanting to conceal the so-called 'delicate negotiations' which led up to the construction of Mount View road, we, the members of the Township Committee, would rather point with pride to what we consider to be a landmark in the progress of our community, and with the leadership of such men as Mayor Philip Del Vecchio, for one will promise similar action on behalf of the township by your Township Committee.

"Can you imagine, Mount View road, at a total cost of only the safety railings to the taxpayers? No wonder the chairman of the opposing party can't believe it," Planer concluded.

A STOKES SHINDIG - The Springfield Democratic Committee held a campaign cocktail party at the home of Nat Stokes, candidate for Township Committee, at 369 Mountain ave., on Sept. 25. Also present at the party were Marie Smith, Democratic candidate for tax collector, and members of the Union County Democratic ticket: Peter Humanik, Michael Mehr, Tom Long, and John Connor Jr.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director National Institute of Mental Health

There are many forms of drug addiction, in fact, there are so many that it is impossible to have a single definition for all the various kinds.

Narcotic drugs are a worldwide problem and the United States and other Nations have set up international treaties for the control of these dangerous compounds. Here is where difficult decisions arise as to the kind or degree of addiction that different drugs cause.

As the World Health Organization, which works on such problems, has found, there are so many kinds of narcotics and their effects vary so widely, scientifically sound, single standard for drug addiction, satisfactory for use around the world, could not be made.

A team of medical and scientific authorities for WHO has been able, however, to develop some useful conclusions on drug dependence that help us to understand it.

For one thing, the term, drug dependence, cannot be separated from whatever drug is in discussion. Dependence on amphetamine, or peppy pills, for example, relates to those compounds and is different from dependence on cocaine which, in turn, is different from dependence on heroin. Even all narcotics or mind-infecting drugs have some effect in common.

They are capable of creating in certain individuals, a particular state of mind termed "psychic dependence."

In this situation, there is a feeling of satisfaction and a "psychic drive" that requires periodic or continuous administration of the drug to produce pleasures or to avoid discomfort. The mind craves and leans on the drug.

Willing your ears to an ear bank is a wonderful gesture - and more generous than you know. They will not, however, be used for transplant purposes, but for after-death study of the inner ear - a part of the body when its complexity is incalculable during life.

The banks are recently laboratories where scientists learn more about the causes of hearing loss, and develop new methods of prevention and treatment. TO "THE COMMON" IN MILLBURN COMES A MOST UNCOMMON TOUCH

Bazar opens a window on the world with its newest unit in Millburn, New Jersey, by Kathy Avery.
With the opening of Bazar The Common in Millburn, New Jersey, on Monday, October 7, a most uncommon experience in international shopping awaits you.
To you who love the mystery, the intrigue of foreign lands, the strange atmosphere of far-away places in romantic settings - Bazar brings you and wondrous wares with the very slight, small and feel of their distant origin.
Step through the doors of Bazar and you pass through the beckoning portals of all the places you ever want to see. The bazaar of the Orient, the busy market of the bazaars of the Middle East, the marketplaces of Europe, little known corners of yet unspoiled areas circling the globe are reproduced at Bazar in a rainbow of color and design that challenges the imagination and takes your breath away.

At Bazar, you don't walk down corridors past static masses of goods. You're on a magic carpet ride past individual shops vibrant with unique and varied treasures to dazzle the eye, to intoxicate with the feeling of being immersed in the essence of the world you're shopping.
Enter Bazar's International Market floor... a few steps will transport you to the lush, exotic exotics of the Evergreenery - filled from floor to ceiling with trees, plants, fruits, flowers in a montage of colors. It all looks so real, so unbelievable it's all a real final. Custom arrangements available too.

Go to the "Muggery," where you'll find ceramic and porcelain items in all shapes, sizes and colors from the far ends of the earth.
At "Hans Cuisine" one gets down to the serious business of pleasing the particular palate. From any place on the map find rare, mouth-watering, seductively tempting gourmet delicacies.
The next stop is the "Pizzeria Polizzi," where cooking utensils, gadgets and uniquely designed accessories rest and reign supreme after a long journey from many a distant point.

Gorgeous glittering goodies by the score are almost yours for the asking in the Jewelry Shop. Look for fine, delicately worked, jeweled pieces lovingly created by craftsmen of the old and new worlds. Find watches, bracelets, pins, folk-type jewelry and more.
The next shop is aptly entitled "Out-of-Sight." For stylish, modern sale on the go, for those in the forefront of the avant-garde, this is the real gone scene to make for clothing and handbags.
Explore the lurking mystery of the "Thieves Market" and discover plunder from Pakistan, from Korea and from India.

Just a short paso doble and you have entered "El Prado." Viva Espana for the absolute and in Spanish handicrafts, ceramics and carved goods. The "Sabra Shop" truly captures all the strength, vigor and creative genius of Israel. Come and wonder as I did at candelabra, pottery, brass and natural stone plaques, decorator accessories and handicrafts.
And "Pointe La Seta" with its dazzling display of wicker bath items, bath towels, hamper, tissue box, shower curtains and scented bath soaps that make you feel like a million no matter what you're wearing.

At the "Stasta" you can see the rainbow of colors, spreads and linens by respected designers.
Bazar's "Central Market" area spreads before you an endless panorama and variety of rare treasures and the best of items.
Zip down to Bazar's lower level for a strictly upper-class selection of the wares of the world. First stop is the Dinnerware Shop for the very finest pop and traditional place settings from France, Italy and the Orient.
On the go to an assortment of stainless-steel flatware so huge that your imagination will be stretched to its outer limits.

In the "Art Gallery" you'll discover a veritable treasure trove of signed graphics by the likes of Chagall, Dalí, Silva, Ret, Picasso, Lebedang - in other words - art to suit every taste from classic to camp.

In the "Long Ago Shop"... antiques... magnificent treasures of yore.
The Gift Shop surely has just the item you are looking for... unusual rock formations, sculptural, lucite, etagere, chrome vitreous, chrome or mercury vases, eggs, silk flowers, bronzes... and on and on.

In the "Foreign Habitat" Bazar boasts one of the largest collections of Mexican furniture, handcrafted by master artisans using time-tested techniques handed down through the ages.
The "Wickers" presents a selection of wicker, reed and rattan furniture that has to be seen to be believed. Also, for the first time anywhere, see wicker in colors.

Connor criticizes opponent's stand
on water bonds

John T. Connor Jr., Democratic candidate for Union County assemblyman-at-large, this week asked his opponent "to explain why he voted for water pollution and drought."

"Both Messrs. Meyner and Cahill have strongly endorsed the proposed clean-water bond referendum. In fact, they serve as the state co-sponsors of the committee formed to ensure its passage," Connor said.

"The success of this bond issue is crucial to the well-being of the people of New Jersey. We all see the sickening pollution of our waterways and beaches. And we all remember the water shortages of recent years and recognize the need to plan for the future."

"Yet my opponent, in one of his few leadership actions, spearheaded the opposition to this water bond referendum in the Assembly. I must ask him to explain this opposition," Connor said.

"The Senate Majority Leader, Sen. Raymond Bateman, (R-Somerset), argued strongly that the water bonds be rejected so that people would know exactly what they were voting for. My opponent was against such specificity, as were the water companies, and seemed especially concerned about the Twin Bridges site. Is it only coincidental that the Elizabethtown Water-Go. wanted to develop this area itself?"

"Fortunately, his views did not prevail and the Assembly crushing defeated his attempts to sabotage the water bonds. I am most concerned about pollution control and what angers me is that my opponent seemed prepared to risk the entire bond issue for some unexplained reason regarding one reservoir site."

Accountants to dine, hear talk by FTC aide

The Union County Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will hold a dinner meeting next Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Winfield Scott Hotel, Elizabeth. Albert G. Seidman, attorney-in-charge at the Federal Trade Commission's New York Office, will speak on "Conglomerates and the Federal Trade Commission."

"Could we take that from the beginning?"

School nurses hear conference report

Union County school nurses met last week in Columbus School, Berkeley Heights, to hear Mrs. Patricia Richel of Springfield report on the leadership conference held by the New Jersey Education Association last summer. She attended as a representative of the local nurses' association.

Mrs. Richel said that "any nurses' group can have its views presented by the NJEA during contract negotiations if it so desires; and the local teachers association must represent them if the nurses are members of that association, and also if they are not satisfied with the agreement reached, may request a negotiating meeting with their board of education."

She noted that of the state's 21 counties, Union County ranked 14th in salaries paid to its school nurses. "Breaking it down by towns", Mrs. Richel said, "Berkeley Heights, Garwood, Hillside, Mount Pleasant, New Providence, Roselle Park, Scotch Plains, Springfield and Summit are among the lowest paid, while only four communities, Elizabeth, Kenilworth, Linden and Plainfield, have put the nurses on the teachers' salary guide. All the rest of the districts pay the nurses less than the teachers, even with equivalent degrees."

Three hikes
for weekend

Three hikes are scheduled this weekend for members and guests of the Union-County Hiking Club.

On Saturday, Robert Denning of Elizabeth will lead a seven-mile ramble in Jockey Hollow Park, Morristown. The group will meet at the parking area at the main entrance to the park off Tempe Wick road at 10 a.m.

Also on Saturday, Anne and Robert Vogel of Cranford will lead a 12-mile hike to Sunfish Pond. They will hike the Appalachian Trail from Millbrook road along the ridge to visit the pond and York's Creek Reservoir. The hikes will meet at West End avenue and Rt. 22, North Plainfield at 8:30 a.m.

On Sunday, Nathan Coyne of Irvington will lead an eight-mile hike known as the Passaicness Circle hike in Passaic County. The group will meet at the administration building of the Union County Park Commission, Warhancio Park, Elizabeth, at 8:30 a.m.

For further information about the hikes contact the recreation department of the Union County Park Commission.

Pingry sets fall meeting
of 'Friends'

Dr. Herbert F. Hahn, president of the Friends of the Pingry Library, has announced that the annual meeting of the organization will take place on Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m. in the school.

Anthony G. Meccoli, Philadelphia pianist, has the first half of the program. His repertoire for the afternoon includes "Grieg's 'Grande Valse Brillante' in E-flat Major, opus 18," "Kluchaturian's 'Toccata,' and Respighi's 'Nocturno.'"

Meccoli, a graduate of Temple University and of the Philadelphia Institute of Music, has also given much time to the study of orchestra conducting. He is on the staff of the Philadelphia Musical Academy and was founder, conductor and music director of the South Jersey Chamber Orchestra.

Carlette M. Winslow of Maplewood, publisher and managing editor of Suburban Life magazine, will give a talk on "Publishing, Promotion, and Financing."

The speaker, the wife of Dr. John Winslow, is a graduate of Westminster Choir School. In various churches, she has served as organist or choir-master. She was the assistant director of the Montclair Opera Club, is a former Montclair Academy teacher and has held a junior executive post with L. Bamberger & Co. Mrs. Winslow has been active in community affairs.

With this prof, the play's the thing There's a man behind the scenes at NSC

Richard Turick combines the best of both worlds, the world of the theater and the world of a college campus. Dick is a member of the English Department at Newark State College, Union and devotes most of his energies to supervising the Theater for the Performing Arts at the college and working with the Theater Guild of Newark State. He balances out his busy schedule by teaching speech courses. During the past summer, Dick, who lives at 126 Douglas rd., Roselle, was busy as the set designer and stage manager of the Madison Repertory Theater Company, which he describes as "a mixed bag of professional and amateur actors". He designed the stage sets there for the summer productions of "Guys and Dolls," "The Odd Couple," "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and "The Burnt Flower-Bed".

"Both the stage at the Madison theater and the players that worked with me presented a whole series of interesting set design problems," Dick states. "There was a lack of off-stage storage space and depth on the stage for many sets, so we improvised for several 'convertible' 'flying' sets that allowed for several acts, and things really flew there during the musical productions."

As set designer for the Theater Guild productions at Newark State, Dick says that "at the college I know the students and how they work, and also have the chance to design sets for three major productions a year."

Last year he designed sets for "The Crucible," "Othello" and "Black Comedy, White Lies." He adds that "working at the college is a rewarding experience, especially when I can see a student grow in his technical knowledge of the theater."

This year Dick is designing sets for "Cameo," "Rhinoceros" and "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running." Before coming to Newark State, Dick acted professionally and designed sets for stock and repertory companies throughout the East. His credits as a professional set designer include productions of "West Side Story," "High Spirits," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and "Paints Take Me Along" and "110 in the Shade."

Dick received a bachelor of arts degree from Rutgers University and his master of arts degree in theater arts from New York University. Currently he is working towards his doctor of philosophy degree in theater arts from New York University. A former resident of New York he now lives with his wife in Roselle.

Dick will be a guest speaker at this year's New Jersey Education Association Convention in Atlantic City in November. But chances are if you're looking for Dick Turick before that, you'll probably have to climb up a call sign, or look behind a set or follow the sound of a pounding hammer in the theater at Newark State.

Optometrists ready for PTA convention

The New Jersey Optometric Association will emphasize the importance of good vision for school children at the New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers Convention Oct. 15-17 in Atlantic City.

A display at the Traymore Hotel will be staffed by optometrists who will answer questions of the 3,000 delegates who may have.

In addition there will be a slide presentation with sound track stressing the care of children's eyes and giving tips on how to save their vision.

The New Jersey Optometric Association has prepared nearly 20,000 pieces of literature for distribution to the delegates to take back to their hometown PTAs.

It will be given to all program chairmen pointing out that optometrists in most towns throughout the state stand ready to present a program on children's vision to PTA meetings. It also will contain other information.

In charge of the NJOA portion of the PTA Convention will be Dr. Mario J. Pallotta of Glen Rock, chairman of the Committee on Vision Problems of Children and Youth.

Guild to note anniversary

The Boytown Guild, established Oct. 11, 1954, will celebrate its 15th anniversary at a meeting to be held at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in the dining room at Boystown, Kearny.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan, who has served as president for the entire 15 years, will preside. The guild, which raises funds for Boystown, conducts such activities as card parties, rummage sales, cocktail parties, bingo games, Irish nights and Hawaiian parties. Members participate in the annual open house celebration, prepare refreshments for the boys' dances, give a Christmas appeal for funds,

HOW TO MAKE A MILLION DOLLARS?
Most of us would like to know the answer to this question, one that would really work. Some millionaires inherited it... some married into it... Others worked hard, invested, or saved it.

How long will it take to make a million dollars if you work hard... Twenty, Twenty Five... Thirty... Fifty... or Sixty five years? Well, "Would you believe" that a young lady, by the time she had reached her 20th birthday, had accumulated an estate worth over a Million Dollars... Yes, it's true. The young lady was born in San Jose, California in 1928, and had accumulated her first Million by 1958... Yes, Name? You've probably guessed it by now... The Child film actress... Shirley Temple.

You don't have to be a Millionaire to enjoy the comfort and safety of good tires... We at ELGENE TIRE, can provide you with the Best for your car! FIRESTONE TIRES! ## Meyner proposes further steps to aid state older citizens

Former Gov. Robert B. Meyner suggested a number of steps this week to aid New Jersey's older citizens. The Democratic gubernatorial candidate said:

"Housing programs using public funds should be required to include units suitable for older people. This includes programs to construct new units and to rehabilitate existing dwellings. The tax convention that I will call when Governor will consider property tax exemptions that bear a meaningful and constant relationship to the retired person's income. The current $80 exemption is clearly inadequate," he said.

"The current earnings test for Social Security is unrealistically low. Because of this, skilled personnel are removed from many critically short areas, while many older people are held below the poverty line."

"There must be a recognition on the part of educators, employers, and all of us that ability to learn is not limited by age. Indeed, continuing education is as important for keeping older citizens in tune with the times as it is for opening job opportunities," he went on.

"Medical treatment for the elderly is still inadequate. Where Medicare does not suffice, the State must meet its responsibility, specifically in the cost of long-term care in nursing homes, which goes into effect next January. Medicaid, which goes into effect next January, must be watched carefully to insure that the needs of all the elderly in New Jersey are being met."

"Mobility is frequently an acute problem for older people. All plans for improvement of public transportation must include consideration of the special needs of older people for low-cost local transportation," he concluded.

Museum's new exhibit

"Master Painters From Three Centuries," an exhibition of some of the most important art works in the collection of the Montclair Art Museum, has been installed in the south gallery and the central court of the museum. The exhibition spans the period from Colonial portraiture to op art.

Social Security help available to disabled

"Don't delay...file today" should be the motto of persons eligible for disability benefits. Ralph W. Jones, district manager of the Elizabeth social security office, said this week.

According to Jones, many persons eligible for disability benefits apply too late to receive checks as early as they should.

Anyone who has worked in employment covered by social security for five of the past 10 years, and is expected to be out of work for at least 12 months (because of injury or sickness) should apply for disability benefits as soon as possible. However, anyone between the ages of 24 through 30 only needs credit for having worked half the time between 21 and the time he became disabled. Those disabled before age 24 need credit for only 2-1/2 years of work in the three years preceding ending when their disability begins.

Even though benefits cannot be paid for the first six months of disability, explained

Man, wife injured when car upsets on Rt. 22 east

Edwin Ritger, 57, of Newark was admitted to the intensive care unit at Overlook Hospital, Summit, following an automobile accident which occurred Monday on Rt. 22 east in Mountainside, according to a Mountainside police report. Hospital authorities reported Ritger's condition as satisfactory. Ritger suffered extensive lacerations of the face and legs when his car hit the highway curb and turned over. Ritger said that a truck traveling east cut in front of him and, in attempting to avoid a collision, Ritger swerved and struck the curb. Ritger's wife, Anne, 55, a passenger in the car, was taken to Overlook by the Mountainside Rescue Squad along with her husband. Mrs. Ritger was treated for bruises and later released. Ritger's car was demolished in the accident and was towed away by the police department.

Another accident took place in Mountainside on Monday, according to the police, on Rt. 22 east at Lawrence avenue. The three-car collision involved Russell N. Mather, 59, of 1087 Sunnyview rd., Mountainside, Isaac R. McKie, 22, of Plainfield, and Charles Hudson of Fanwood.

Hudson said he did not realize that the car in front of him on the highway had stopped and his car struck a vehicle driven by Mather which in turn struck Mather's car. Mather's and McKie's cars sustained rear end damage. Hudson's vehicle received extensive front end damage.

Westfield LWV plans gatherings

The League of Women Voters of Westfield will hold a series of "coffee" during the coming week. The purpose of the coffee is to allow unit members to become acquainted and organized prior to the unit discussion meetings to be held the following week. Members will have an opportunity to select reading materials on the electoral college, the subject of the first unit discussion meetings.

The coffees will be held in the following Mountainside homes:

Tuesday night, 12:45 p.m., with Mrs. Brooke Gardner, 1364 Stony Brook Lane, Mrs. Harry Nash will be the discussion leader, and Mrs. Donald Skoog, secretary.

Thursday night, 9:15 a.m., with Mrs. Robert Thompson, 142 Greenwood rd. Discussion leader will be Mrs. Samuel Milstein, and Mrs. Leonard Lee will be secretary.

The coffee meetings have been organized by Mrs. Carl Addinall, unit chairman for the Westfield League.

Drew University names Feeley

Frank J. Feeley Jr., vice-president, engineering of Esso Research and Engineering Company, has been named one of the 47 leaders of business and education who will serve on newly-formed visiting committees for Drew University. Feeley is a member of the visiting committee on the biology.

A resident of Mountainside, on Mountain Ave., Feeley is on the board of directors and scientific committee of the United States of America Standards Institute. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, a member of the American Petroleum Institute and a fellow of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Local girl at Albright

Gail Ruth Van Blarcom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Blarcom of 284 Meeting House Lane, Mountainside, was among the members of the freshman class at Albright College who participated in a recent five-day orientation program. The program included discussions about social and personal concerns, with the aid of community leaders from industry and government.

TIP FOR HOME
When placing clay-potted plants inside decorative containers, be sure that the outer container is at least an inch wider and taller than the inside clay pot holding the plant. Fill the space between containers with sphagnum and peat moss, which can be watered to keep the environment humid.

FAMILY POT LUCK
If you rely on convenience foods for a quickie meal, round out the missing nutrients by serving a fruit or vegetable salad and a glass of milk. Or prep-ahead fresh fruit. Just heated chili over broad noodles or circle time noodles around an individual casserole of chili after heating in the oven.
Fish on the menu? Time for lemon parsley sauce. Melt 1/4 cup butter; add 2 tablespoons each lemon juice and chopped parsley. Pour on one pound broiled fish fillets. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes 3 to 4 servings.
HAMBURGER SOUP
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup sliced carrot
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 pound ground beef
2 cups tomato juice
1 cup diced potatoes
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
4/3 cup flour
4 cups (1 quart) milk
Melt butter in a saucepan or Dutch oven. Add onion, carrot and green pepper. Cook until onion is tender, not brown. Add beef and cook until meat is crumbly. Stir in tomato juice, potatoes and seasonings. Cover and cook over low heat until vegetables are tender, 20 to 25 minutes. Combine flour with 1 cup of the milk and beat until free of lumps; stir into soup mixture. Add remaining milk and heat, stirring frequently. Do not allow to boil. Makes 10 servings.

Lynn D. Lueddeke plans May wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Lueddeke of 1207 Wood Valley rd., Mountainside have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lynn Diane, to Dennis Brian Reed, ensign U.S. Naval Reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reed, of 500 E. 12th St., Newark.
Miss Lueddeke is a graduate of Gov. Livingston Regional High School and was graduated from Saint Joseph College, Emmitsburg, Md. She is employed by the Prudential Insurance Co. in Newark.
Mr. Reed was graduated cum laude from Mount Saint Mary's College and was employed by Arthur Anderson & Co., certified public accountants, before entering the Naval Aviation program.
A May wedding is planned.

B'nai B'rith women to mark a birthday

The Springfield Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women will hold a birthday meeting on Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. in Temple Shurey Shalom, 75 S. Springfield ave. They will join in the nationwide celebration of B'nai B'rith's 126th anniversary. After a business meeting conducted by Mrs. Sidney Miller, president, members and guests will have birthday cake and coffee.
The program vice-president, Mrs. Paul M. Miller, will introduce the speaker, Ruth Lipp, founder and director of Diet Control Centers of Union.

STORE EGGS
For best quality, store eggs promptly and large end up in your refrigerator. Storing them with the larger end up will keep the yolk from sticking to the shell and help eggs keep their natural quality longer. It's essential to get eggs under refrigeration as soon as possible to preserve their quality.

Center has new course

The Human Relations Laboratory will open tomorrow at the Ethical Society, 516 Prospect St., Maplewood, as a part of the Educational Center's Humanistic Studies. The laboratory will begin with sensitivity training over the weekend and thereafter will meet on Thursdays at 8 p.m.
The opening sessions will be held tomorrow from 4 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and Sunday, 1 to 7 p.m. The sessions will progress and broaden from the initial sensitivity training and interpersonal relationship level to encompass community relations, ethnic and racial relations, and social action and change.
The Creative Arts Workshop courses are closed with the single exception of the Art Workshop for older children. For information on this course and the Human Relations Laboratory, contact the Educational Center, 763-1905.

Popcorn plenty

It's farmers' prize about 500,000,000 pounds of popcorn — or the cob every year, enough to pop about a quart of popcorn for every American citizen.

Area garden group sponsors program on flower arranging

"Arrangements for Today's Homes" is the title of the program to be presented by Mrs. Bruce P. Henn at the joint meeting of the Westfield and Mountainside Garden Clubs on Tuesday at 1 p.m. Area presidents and area director will be guests at this meeting, which will be held at the Community Presbyterian Church, Meeting House Lane and Deer Path in Mountainside.
Mrs. Henn, a national flower show senior judge, is a member and past president of the Newton Garden Club and Central Connecticut Flower Show, Inc. She is a lecturer on flower arranging and Christmas decorations and conducts classes for both beginners and advanced students. Mrs. Henn has appeared on both radio and TV, and her arrangements have appeared in books, national date calendars and garden magazines.
Co-hostesses of the program will be Mrs. Robert R. Ladue and Mrs. William H. Bonner. They will be assisted by Mrs. Arlene E. Becker, Mrs. Courtland P. Denny, Mrs. John B. Garber, Mrs. Frank H. Huber, Mrs. George A. Lewis, Mrs. William D. Shelton and Mrs. Frank Whitaker.
Mrs. Fred E. Rosenthal, president of Mountainside Garden Club, accompanied by Mrs. Roy T. Forsberg, secretary, attended the "Residents' Day" Conference in Livingston, recently, where they enjoyed listening to Dr. Welby Fisher (in her 90th year), founder of Literacy House in Lucknow, India, where at the age of 74, she began her campaign to bring literacy to the people of India, who are increasing at the rate of one million per day. A total of 75 bedside bouquets and 15 large flower arrangements for Reception Rooms at the General Walter Army Hospital at Ft. Dix were made last week by Mrs. Fred A. Latta and her Mountainside Garden Club committee at her home on Lawrence Avenue, Westfield.

Overlook Theater will begin casting

Several hundred suburbanites will vie for roles in "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" at auditions scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the Overlook Hospital Auditorium, Chase-Newhart, director, Kevin French, music director and Jerry Cummings, choreographer, will cast the show, which will be performed Dec. 4, 5, and 6 at Summit High School.
The talent hunt will focus initially on the leading roles of Finch, Rosemary, J. B. Biggley, Frump, Smiley and Gladys, but Mrs. J. R. Faherty, arts and available, including 25 speaking parts are available, including completely open casting will prevail, and all interested performers are welcome, she said.
"How To Succeed" is the premiere production of the Overlook Musical Theater, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Overlook Hospital. The Musical Theater replaces the Overlook Estates, which enjoyed a 20-year run. Mrs. Ralph Witmer Jr. is general chairman.

Meeting Tuesday set by NCJW unit

The Greater Westfield Section, National Council of Jewish Women will hold a general meeting Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at Temple Emmanuel, Westfield.
Guest speakers will be Norman Weisburd, Westfield attorney, and former Rep. Thomas C. McGrath, Jr., who will discuss the problems of urban development, locally and nationally. In 1966, McGrath left Congress and was appointed by President Johnson as the first general counsel to the new Department of Housing and Urban Development. He served in that capacity until he returned to New Jersey as chairman of the State Democratic Committee.

Sweet potato puff featured as menu order of season

Autumn brings the crunch of dry leaves underfoot, brilliant chrysanthemums, football games and the warm Indian Summer sun, reports Anne L. Sheelen, County Home economist. The refreshing air of these days does marmoset things to the appetite after the wiling summer days. More filling foods, therefore, become the menu order of the season.

Show, lunch set Oct. 30

"Mums and Autumn Leaves" will be the decor for the Bayley-Seton League's luncheon and fashion show Oct. 30 at 12:30 p.m. at the Chan-tieter in Millburn. Fashion models will be displayed by the House of Juliana in South Orange.

Mrs. Matthew N. Palmieri is chairman. Committee chairmen include Mrs. J. Frederick Campbell, Mrs. James G. Stanziale, Miss Elsie Travissano, Mrs. Leticia A. Guzzo, Mrs. Peter A. Cantalupo, Mrs. Peter S. Pilch of Irvington, Mrs. Anthony S. Pastore of Vailsburg and Mrs. Luke T. Flood.

Prizes will include a $100 gift certificate from Hahne and Co., three pieces of antique luggage, a blender, a portable radio, a silver serving tray and a crystal vase. Mrs. Robert J. O'Connell is league president and the Rev. Daniel A. Murphy of Seton Hall is moderator.

Plan snacks after school for children

Do your children come home from school stressed and eager for a snack before going out to play, asks Anne L. Sheelen, County Home Economist?

The wise mother includes an appealing and nutritious after school snack in her daily food plans. Such a snack will add to the child's daily nutrient intake, will supply needed energy, and will satisfy his hunger pangs.

One caution, however—the snack should not be too heavy or too sweet. Such a food would curb the child's appetite for his dinner.

Avoid the empty calorie varieties. These will offer energy but will not supply valuable nutrients. Included in this category are such items as soft drinks, potato chips, pretzels and candy.

Nutritious snacks include milk, fruit juice, fruits, ice cream, small sandwiches, raw vegetables and valuable cookies made from molasses, raisins or peanut butter.

Plan now to prepare one of the following recipes for a nutritious after-school snack.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

- 1 cup shortening
  - 1 cup peanut butter
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1 cup brown sugar, packed
  - 2 eggs
  - 2 1/2 cups flour
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- Mix shortening and peanut butter. Add both kinds of sugar. Beat well. Beat in eggs. Mix flour, salt and soda. Stir into peanut butter mixture. Make dough into small balls. Put on baking pan. Flatten with a fork. Bake at 375 degrees F. 10 to 15 minutes. YIELD: Four to five dozen cookies.

Rutgers Drama Department plans a record seven plays

The Rutgers University Department of Drama at Douglass College will produce a record seven plays, including three in the Little Theater Series and four in the Studio Theater Series, this year.

Norman Mailer's "The Deer Park," a candid look at Hollywood behind the scenes, opens Thursday, Oct. 30. The play also marks the beginning of the Studio Theater Series, a program of unusual theater events to be held at the Jameson Auditorium on the Douglass College campus. Besides "Deer Park," the other plays of the Studio Theater Series include "None So Blind," a delicate balance and a play as yet unannounced.

ON NOV. 7 "The Hostage" opens. Written by Brendan Behan, the play tells the comical story of a British soldier who is kidnapped by the Irish Republican Army and imprisoned in a hotel. "The Hostage" is the first play of the University Theater Series, which presents plans representative of the finest drama past and present. The other plays in the Little Theater series are "Waiting for Godot" and "The Physicists."

"None So Blind," a chamber theater presentation of excerpts from Dylan Thomas' "Under Milkwood," a selection from "This World Literature and readings from contemporary poetry," opens Dec. 11. This program will include music and dance.

Opening on Feb. 12 will be Edward Albee's "A Delicate Balance," in the urban living room setting that characterizes his work.

Also creates a parable of human responsibility and estrangement.

THE FIFTH PRODUCTION, to open on March 6, will be "Waiting for Godot," Samuel Beckett's tragicomic of two tramps who are waiting to meet another man. "Waiting for Godot" provides some of the most witty and penetrating scenes in modern drama.

The sixth production, as yet undecided, will be an important work of a contemporary playwright.

The University Department of Drama will close its 1969-70 season with Friedrich Schlegel's "The Physicists." With one physicist thinking himself Newton and another Einstein, while still another claims he has contact with King Solomon, it is obvious already that this is no ordinary group of scientists.

SEASON SUBSCRIPTIONS for the Little Theater Series are $9.50 for non-students and $5 for students. Single tickets for the Little Theater Series are $2.50 for non-students and $1.75 for students. Single tickets for the Studio Theater Series are $1.75 for adults and $1.25 for students.

All productions begin at 8:30 p.m. The plays of the Little Theater Series are produced at the Little Theater, Nichol Ave., at Hale St. The Studio Theater Series is presented at Jameson Auditorium, Redmond St. and Jones Ave. For further information call 247-1766 (ext. 1891).

Taxpayers group to hear economist at banquet session

The New Jersey Taxpayers Association will mark completion of four decades of service at its 39th annual meeting at Hotel Robert Treat, Newark, on Tuesday.

Featured speaker at the banquet session starting at 6:30 p.m. will be Kevin B. Stallings, associate economist of Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., New York, who will explore "The Impact of Current Fiscal-Monetary Policies Upon the American Economy."

Two panel discussions will feature the afternoon speaking program starting at 2:45.

Charles G. Sherwood of NUTRA, past president of NJTA, will be moderator of a three-man panel considering "Where is New Jersey Heading in Welfare?" Speakers will be Irving J. Engleman, director of Public Welfare, State Department of Institutions and Agencies; Edwin F. Hann Jr., director of the department's Medical Assistance and Health Services; and J. Terrell Whitsett, Regional Manpower Administrator, United States Department of Labor.

Four members of the New Jersey Legislature will discuss "Improving Legislative Operations." Donald Herzberg, executive director of the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers - The State University, will moderate the panel which includes: State Senator Raymond H. Bateman of Somerset County; Senator Frederick H. Hauser of Hudson County; Assemblyman William J. Schuler of Mercer County; and Assemblyman Robert N. Wilentz of Middlesex County.

A brief business session for election of directors and consideration of a platform and program for 1970 will open the meeting at 2:15 p.m. NJTA President Walter H. Hooper, assistant vice-president of Howard Savings Institution, will preside. Frank W. Haines, acting executive director, will deliver a staff report.

The association, established in 1930, is a non-partisan, independently supported citizens organization which studies governmental operations and finance. Its headquarters is in Trenton.

Psychologists say: Integrate sex education into curriculum

Expressing "concern that sexuality be understood as a part of total life adjustment," the New Jersey Psychological Association has urged "the integration of sex education into the school curriculum as a means of helping educate children to cope with problems of human relationships."

The association, representing more than 800 psychologists in New Jersey, has adopted a statement supporting the Jan. 4, 1967, Policy Statement on Sex Education adopted by the New Jersey State Department and the State Board of Education.

The official statement notes that "sex education in the schools... is needed to supplement and extend the preparation given by home and church for marriage, family understanding, and for a lifetime of mental health."

"Recognizing the many conflicting positions and the deep concern of various groups and individuals in the community," the Psychological Association has added "points of emphasis in the construction of local programs."

"The need to develop and maintain good communication between school, home and community is vital in beginning local public school program of sex education. A Sex Education Council is suggested for state and local school levels to prepare sound programs and assist in the training of teaching personnel in this area."

The association notes "the importance of careful selection and training of teachers of this subject. Previous emphasis on sex education in the public schools has often been biological in nature. Teachers should be trained and equipped to handle feelings and attitudes expressed in a local program. This is equal in importance to technical knowledge and competency."

To publicity chairman: "Would you like some help in preparing newspaper releases? Write to this newspaper and ask for our 'Tips on Submitting Press Releases.'"

Chrysanthemum show blooms Oct. 18 at Drew

The New Jersey State Chrysanthemum Society will hold its 16th annual chrysanthemum show at Drew University, Madison, on Saturday, Oct. 18 from 2:30 to 9 p.m., and on Sunday, Oct. 19, from 11:30 to 5 p.m., in the Baldwin Gymnasium. The theme of the show is "Mums To The Moon."

Lehigh vote okays gals

Bethlehem, Pa.—A campus fact-finding committee, after eight months study, with some 14,000 survey responses, and by a 12 to 1 vote, has announced its recommendation that Lehigh University accept undergraduate women beginning in September, 1971.

Lehigh has admitted only men to its undergraduate colleges since 1865, though female students have matriculated since 1918.

The recommendation, included in a 141-page committee report, has been accepted for study and consideration by the Joint Commission on University Life (JCUL) and forwarded to the Board of Trustees for study and final decision.

Northern lights display produced by scientists

Spectacular displays of the aurora borealis in northern lights have excited and fascinated man for thousands of years. In parts of Europe these streamers and curtains of light in the night sky were considered divine portents of coming calamities. It was not until the 20th century that most bright, auroral forms are caused by energetic electrons bombarding the upper atmosphere. We still are ignorant of the origin of

Party slated by ski club

The Castaway Ski Club (formerly the Public Service Club of Newark) will hold its fourth annual get-acquainted party and new members night at the Olympic Restaurant, 877 Springfield Ave., Irvington, Friday, Oct. 24, at 8 p.m.

There will be a buffet served during the evening and dancing to a live band.

Gregory Yurchuk, president of the club, said a holiday weekend trip to Wakefield, Canada, is on the agenda for the coming season. Other trips will be made to ski resorts in the northeast, such as Killington, Lake Placid, Mt. Snow and a special "mystery trip." The club also sponsors other social functions throughout the year.

Symphony will present family concert series

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, with music director Henry Lewis serving also as narrator, will present the first family concert series ever offered in the state, in Summit, starting Sunday, Nov. 24. All three of the concerts in the series will be given at Summit High School. The dates of the other concerts are Dec. 14 and March 8. All begin at 7 p.m. and all are on Sundays. The hour-long orchestral programs are sponsored by the Summit Area Chapter of the Women's Committee of the New Jersey Symphony. At each, Lewis will announce the program and will describe to the audience the pieces to be performed.

Soloist for the opening concert will be Toshiya Eto, Japanese violinist. The program will include Prokofiev's symphonic fairy tale "Peter and the Wolf," Ravel's "Bolero," Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite" and Gordon Park's music from his own score and film "The Learning Tree."

There will also be flamenco dances, waltzes, polkas from Vienna, a little "pop" and some "rock." Eto's selections for the program will be announced at a later date.

Mrs. Joseph E. Arace Jr., president of the Summit Area Chapter, has announced that tickets for the Sunday Family Series will be sold in a series subscription or singly. Adult series tickets are priced at $9 and $12 for the concerts. Student and children's series tickets are $6. Single tickets are $5, $4, $3 for adults, and $2 for students per concert.

Further information on tickets is available from Mrs. Joseph E. Arace Jr., at 277-3483 or Mrs. Stuart McCosack at 273-7030 in Summit; or the Symphony office at 624-8203.

Pythians set honor night

Lionel Weinstein, 427 Chestnut st., Roselle, will be honored Monday night at a meeting of Cranford Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Weinstein, who is the grand prelate of the New Jersey Knights of Pythias, is a member of both the Linden Lodge and the Cranford Lodge.

Alexander Silberfeld, grand chancellor-elect, visited Linden Lodge last week and asked the support of its membership during his term of office.

Steve Rybowski, Linden chancellor commander, urged all members of the lodge to attend the honor night at Cranford Lodge. He also reminded members to make early reservations for the annual dinner dance.

Floral club has lecture

Mrs. Ruth Emerson Kistner, renowned lecturer and teacher, will address the Meta Shirees Garden Club of Elizabethtown tomorrow at 7 p.m. at the Elmore Presbyterian Church, 240 E. Elizabeth.

Mrs. Kistner, a blue-ribbon and 1st-color winner at New York's annual International Flower Show, will present a lecture and demonstration on flower arranging.

The meeting also includes a discussion of dried arrangements, Thanksgiving decor and Christmas decor and will feature detailed table displays and "tools of the industry."

Clean water a costly job

'Wastes' not the only factor

A team of experts studying water quality says more efficient treatment of wastes will not in itself and the pollution of New Jersey's rivers.

Two recently published studies by the Water Resources Research Institute at Rutgers University reported that only 39 per cent of the pollution in the upper Passaic River Basin could be related to the recorded waste water discharge.

It was also found that only 25 per cent of the pollution in the Millstone Basin could be accounted for, and that the Raritan River showed a similar condition.

Five leaves of unknown origin, of 61 and 75 per cent, and shows that extraordinary means are required to meet water quality standards, according to Gen. William Whipple Jr., director of the Institute.

The Rutgers investigators say that because of the large amounts of unrecycled pollution the job of bringing the upper Passaic River up to water quality standards set by the state will be much more expensive than previously estimated.

Assuming a leveling off of population and industrial development in the area, they place the annual costs at nearly $200,000 annually, and several times greater if only waste treatment is relied upon.

Gen. Whipple said his conclusions are based on the principles of systems analysis must be applied first to develop the most effective pollution control strategy. He said the research at Rutgers includes a technique known as dynamic simulation -- the study of pollution processes through computerized models.

With the dynamic simulation analysis, the Institute's researchers have extensively tested the use of aerators for adding oxygen to polluted streams.

Every river in its natural state tends to regenerate itself, Gen. Whipple explains, with the dissolved oxygen assisting the breakdown of organic matter.

"The more pollution," Gen. Whipple said, "the faster oxygen is used up. When dissolved oxygen falls below about four parts per million, problems begin. Many fish cannot live and reproduce naturally, and the water may become unfit for swimming.

"Below two parts per million, most fish die. At this point organic sludge becomes extensive -- as zero dissolved oxygen the river becomes totally unfit for ordinary biologic life. The water is foul and can technically be described as septic.

The upper Passaic River, during drought periods, frequently falls to zero dissolved oxygen. The investigators feel, however, that it can be saved with prompt action.

"Aeration station has been used for more than six years on the Ruhr River near Essen, Germany," Gen. Whipple says, "and the results have been excellent. People can now swim, fish and enjoy boating on the Ruhr as it passes through the heart of the industrial area and the city of Essen itself."

"The Germans have good engineering, but they also are definitely ahead in organization and planning for pollution control, and this is a large part of the battle. For example, they have had a special governmental organization responsible for water quality in the Ruhr Valley since before the First World War."

The mechanical aerator, sometimes called a "plant eggbeater," is a device often used in sewage treatment plants. Powered by an electric motor of up to 75 horsepower, it whips the river into a white foam, adding oxygen to speed the regenerating process.

Diffuser aerators add oxygen through bubbling air from the bottom of the river. Both types have been tried extensively on the Passaic River near Pine Brook, and during this summer, they have been operating on the Delaware River at Camden.

Two studies, entitled "In-stream Aeration of Polluted Rivers" and "Pollution Control in the Passaic River Basin," were prepared by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of New Jersey. The studies summarize research findings at the Institute.

Besides Gen. Whipple, others who assisted in the studies are Dr. Joseph W. Hunt, of the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, Dr. Burton Davidson and Dr. Frank W. Dittman of the College of Engineering, and Dr. Shaw L. Yu, a civil engineer attached to the Institute.

Grants for the projects have come from the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, the Federal Office of Water Resources Research, and the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Mediterranean a huge laboratory

Scientists converge to study the perfect ocean

By DANIEL BEHRMAN
The oceanographer is constantly wanting to refer to a model ocean small enough to handle but large enough to explain what goes on in the full-sized version. And in fact nature has generously provided him with one in the case of the Mediterranean. This body of water, studied since the days of Aristotle, was the first to excite man's curiosity, yet it may contain answers to some of the latest questions that are being asked by science.

One is the effect of the sea on air weather and vice versa. Surrounded as it is by land, the Mediterranean is an ideal place to look at air before it reaches the sea, then to catch it on the other side and learn what happened to it. Once these processes have been explained, a healthy step will have been taken towards long-range prediction of both the weather and the behavior of the ocean, with all the implications in the way of economic benefits on land and sea alike.

Another is the problem of how the world was, and is, being made. If the continents have been drifting, as is now generally believed, traces of such movement should be found in the floor of the narrow Mediterranean, squeezed as it is between two great land masses of Eurasia and Africa.

Finally, there is the big question mark hovering over increased use of the sea as a protein source for the world's rapidly swelling population. Mediterranean fish are rich but not teeming. The sea is now being fished to the limit and resources must be conserved for the future. Here, one encounters the issue of pollution that affects not only fish but also people who use the sea in pursuit of leisure, the biggest industry in many sun-rich Mediterranean countries.

These are the needs that lie behind the five-year Cooperative Investigations of the Mediterranean that began this June. The program was adopted at a joint meeting in Monaco called by a trio of intergovernmental organizations:

the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission, sponsored by Unesco;
the General Fisheries Council for the Mediterranean, sponsored by the UN Food and Agriculture Organization;
the International Commission for the Scientific Exploration of the Mediterranean, based in Monaco.

The meeting brought together 22 oceanographers who met with Dr. Joachim Joseph, head of the International Laboratory of Marine Radiocarbon in Monaco. Dr. Joseph was selected as international coordinator of the Cooperative Investigations of the Mediterranean.

Twenty-four nations have already agreed that they will participate in the investigations. The first step was to secure financial support for a permanent operations unit that will be stationed in Monaco to centralize data and handle other problems. Italy and the United States have announced they are sending scientists to the unit.

Among the ships that have already been prepared for the cooperative investigations are the Jean Charcot and the Bannock, the largest research vessels operated respectively by France and Italy. Captain Jacques-Yves Cousteau, secretary-general of the International Commission for the Scientific Exploration of the Mediterranean, has also stated that submarines will be available, including Argonaute, the French deep-diving bathyscaphe, and SP-3000, the latest version of the diving saucer.

Edward F. K. Zarudski of the United States, a member of the group of experts also told a request that has been made to the US National Science Foundation to send the Glomar Challenger to the Mediterranean. The drill ship, capable of operating in 20,000 feet of water, may be asked to drill holes at three sites from 1,000 to 3,000 feet deep into the bottom sediments. This will enable scientists to determine their origins and thus learn more about the history of this sea.

In their side of the cooperative exploration, biologists will take a close look at links between the Mediterranean and other seas. One of the most fascinating is the Suez Canal. Since it was opened, at least 150 species of animals that originally lived only in the Red Sea have settled in the Mediterranean, but no Mediterranean species has been able to emigrate the other way. Scientists would dearly like to know why.

Fishery scientists and biologists are also anxious to learn more about the production of microscopic marine plant life in the Mediterranean. This blue sea has always been considered almost a desert -- in the ocean green is the colour of life. But Dr. Paul Bougis, director of the marine biology station at Villefranche on the French Riviera, told the experts in Monaco that this is not necessarily so. The Mediterranean, he said, produces as much plant life annually as the cold oceans, but spreads its production over the whole year instead of concentrating it into a single season.

These plants are then grazed by copepods, tiny shrimp-like creatures. And that, according to Dr. Bougis, is where the troubles lie. Mediterranean copepods are small and active, thereby consuming much more energy than their larger relatives in the Antarctic (25 times as much per gramme of body weight). Since fish, in turn, feed on copepods, they could explain why the Mediterranean is not a rich fishing ground. And why are its copepods so small? That is another of the questions that oceanographers are trying to answer by putting their heads together in such international cooperative investigations as this one.

The chief engineer of the State's Water Pollution Control Program this week issued almost 75 projects covering all aspects of the state water are expected to proceed in the clean water referendum. Public Question No. 1 on the November 4 ballot is approved.

Ernest R. Segesser of Linden maintains that the program contemplated by the Water Conservation Bond Issue is "the logical way to restore and protect our waterways. Unless it passes, it would be exceedingly pessimistic about the future of New Jersey."

Segesser is chief engineer for the Water Pollution Control Program of the Department of Health's Division of Clean Air and Water. He noted that on the basis of plans filed with his department, about 75 projects are contemplated throughout the State. These include: new sewage treatment facilities, including trunk lines and interceptors, as well as upgrading of existing treatment facilities, frequently on a regional basis.

"We would hope that there will be a certain degree of flexibility in the final determination as to exactly how these projects will be handled, but we do look forward to the most thorough water pollution control program in New Jersey history once voters give us the 'Yes' vote to proceed," Segesser said.

He viewed the Clean Water program as a "forthright proposal which must be passed to assure that there need not be any curtailment in New Jersey growth and development. I hope that the people of New Jersey appreciate just how precious an asset uncontaminated water resources would be."

The clean water referendum provides for issuance of $271 million in state bonds, of which $242 million would be used as seed money to finance a federal and state funded $986 million water pollution control program. Some $29 million of the bond issue would go toward preservation of reservoir sites before this valuable land disappears.

A COUNTY-BY-COUNTY LIST of many of the water pollution control projects and estimated costs, based upon information filed with the State Department of Health follows:

Atlantic County - Atlantic Coastal Region, $29,350,000; Great Egg Harbor River Region, $2,285,000; Mullica River Region, $947,000.

Bergen County - Bergen County Sewer Authority Area, $39,700,000; Edgewater Borough, $2,200,000; and Northwest Bergen County Sewer Authority, Mahwah-Hamsey Area, $2,500,000 and Oakland Borough, $4,000,000.

Burlington County - Watershed Areas at Crosswicks, Black and Crafts, Assisconk, Rancocas and Pennsauken Creeks, $30,000,000; Camden County - Camden County Sewerage Authority, Cooper River Region, $7,400,000; Big Timber Creek Region, $15,800,000; Pennsauken Creek Region, $1,600,000 and Delaware River Region, $28,300,000.

Cape May County - Lower Region, $20,800,000; Middle Region, $11,460,000; Dennis Creek Region, $5,350,000; Ducklee River Region, $650,000 and Upper Region, $3,140,000.

Essex County - Cedar Grove, $500,000 and Fairfield $380,000.

Gloucester County - Gloucester County Sewerage Authority, Consolidated Region, $20,000,000; Maurice River Region, $2,400,000; and Racoon Creek Region, $200,000.

Hudson County - Hoboken, $10,500,000; Jersey City Sewerage Authority, $33,000,000; Bayonne, $7,000,000; North Bergen Township, $7,500,000; Secaucus, $5,700,000 and West New York, $5,500,000.

Children's singing hour presented in Metuchen

"Sing-Along with Marilyn Winston," a children's program of rhythms and songs, will be presented at Theatre Six, Main street and Middlesex avenue in Metuchen on Oct. 18 at 2 p.m. The benefit performance will feature folk singer Marilyn Winston and will be sponsored by the Theatre Six Community Council. The program is for pre-schoolers through third grade. Story songs and activity songs with audience participation will be included.

Mrs. Winston of Edison is a professional nursery school teacher and a trained singer, specializing in folk music. Tickets for the performance will be $1 for children and $1.50 for adults. Information may be obtained at 545-2550.

Meyner 'backers' indicate a 'threat' of jetport -- Sears

"The threat of a New Jersey jetport" was linked to Robert Meyner's "financial and political relationships" this week by Senator Harry Seans (R-Morris).
The Morris County leader said that "who Meyner collects contributions from, as well as his association with the railroads, raises serious doubt about whether he would be free of ties to special interest groups and be able to govern New Jersey in the best interests of all the people."
Seans, chairman of the Truth Team for Republican gubernatorial candidate William T. Cahill, demanded that James C. Kellogg, chairman of the Port of New York Authority, reveal the full amount of his campaign contributions to the Democratic candidate and also "to publicly state whether he has received any jetport site commitments from Meyner."
"The people of Morris, Hunterdon, Monmouth, Warren or Sussex County have a right to know if they will have to fight once again to prevent a jetport from coming into their backyards," Seans said.

Cahill revealed last week that Kellogg was "the prime contributor to Meyner's primary campaign." According to records from the Secretary of State's office, Meyner received 20 per cent of the total funds he reported for his primary drive from Kellogg.

Group urges 'no' vote on lottery referendum

A "no" vote is being urged on the state lottery question by the New Jersey Christian Conference on Legislation, a coalition of 114 state-wide organizations.

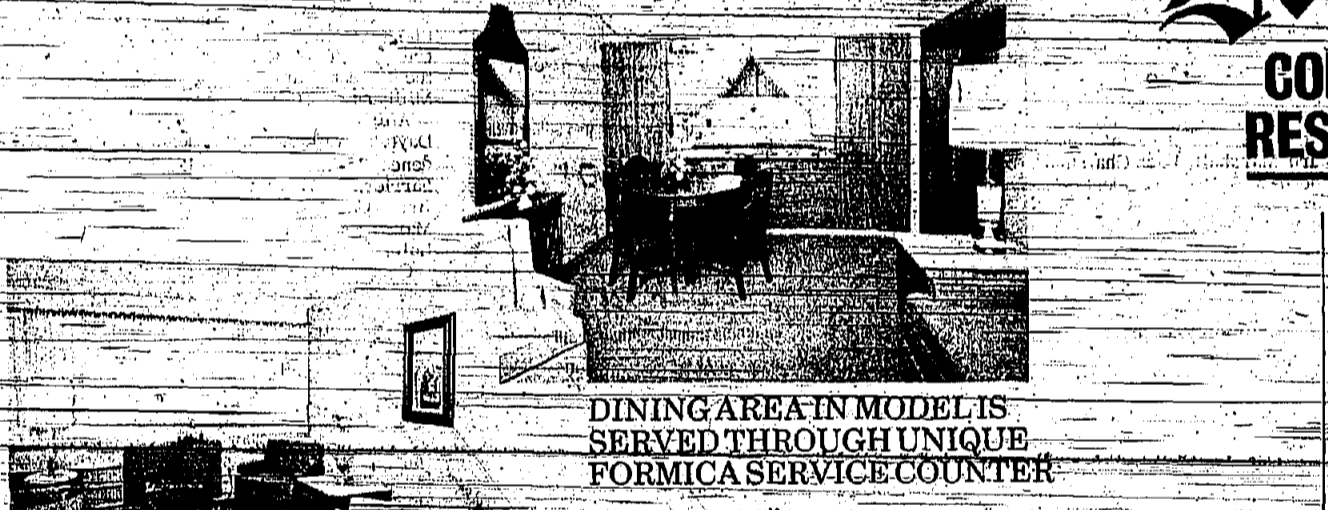

Included in its membership are the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, the New Jersey Council on Alcohol Problems, the Lords Day Alliance of New Jersey, the New Jersey Council of Churches and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Jersey.

Volvos last an average of 11 years in Sweden. They average about a day and a half in our showroom.

Exactly how long a Volvo will last in America we don't know. But we do know that 9 out of every 10 Volvos registered here in the last eleven years are still on the road. We ask you that whenever we get Volvos in stock, they don't stay there very long. Which brings up an interesting paradox about Volvos. Our customers like to buy them because they last. We like to sell them because they don't.

Bulldogs seeking first football victory against low-scoring Hillside Saturday

By ARNOLD GERST
After suffering its second straight setback, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team will meet Hillside on the road Saturday beginning at 2 p.m. Clark Regional defeated the Bulldogs, 20-6, last week. The Clark Crusaders were in complete control of the entire game. When the Bulldogs cut the margin to 14-6 early in the fourth quarter, Clark on its next series of plays moved 74 yards in the Dayton 1, where the Bulldog defense stiffened and prevented another Clark score at that time. Clark opened the scoring in the second quarter on a 49-yard drive covering 14 plays. The crucial play in the series came when the Crusaders were on the Bulldog 23 with third down and eight to go. Quarterback Gary Smolny stepped into the pocket and threw a strike to Mike Nisky on the Dayton 14. After picking up a first down at the Dayton 3, Jeff Tomasovic scored on a one-yard plunge. Steve Strakle kicked the extra point to put the Crusaders ahead, 7-0.

Clark threatened again but failed to score before time ran out in the first half. The Crusaders came back in the third period to lengthen their lead to 14 points. George Scott was the key man in this eight-minute drive which covered 84 yards on 17 plays. During this drive Scott was for 63 yards.

LONG STRIDER—Senior Marty Joseph is captain of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School soccer team.

Regional GAA in 25th year; more than 400 girls enrolled

The Girls' Athletic Association (GAA) of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School began its 25th year of operation last month with a total membership of more than 400, according to Mrs. Lois Conley, director of the after-school program. Mrs. Conley announced that the GAA officers for the current school year include: president, Sue Baed; vice-president, Diane Verlangieri; and secretary-treasurer, Debbie Goldstein.

GAA, so that school awards may accumulate and be used to gain a state award which requires a minimum of five sport credits in school. This school and state issue emblems which the girls sew on their gym uniforms to indicate the caliber of their credits.

The Crusaders started their march on the 16 but two brilliant plays by Scott Prussing and Dave Epstein halted Clark temporarily. On a 10-yard run by Scott and a 15-yard pass to Nisky, Clark had reached its 40. Scott really made his presence felt on a third down off-tackle run, which brought Clark from its 47 to the Bulldog 18. Tomasovic then crashed to the 12 and Scott ripped to the 4. On third down and goal to go at the two, Gary Smolny scored. The extra point was kicked to give Clark 14-0 lead.

Leaders' Club members are selected from the GAA on the basis of character, leadership qualities and the desire to work for the improvement of GAA. They not only aid in the planning and administration of the after-school intramural activities, but they also are called upon to bake cookies and to referee the various sports contests that form the program.

The GAA sports calendar includes soccer and hockey (usually played with other schools on an informal and not a varsity basis), table tennis, volleyball, badminton, shuffleboard, tennis (available in the fall to selected seniors), bowling at Echo Lanes in winter, gymnastics, basketball with other schools and intramurals, modern dance, softball, archery, and golf.

"SPRINGFIELD'S BIG BREAK" in the game came when Dennis Marino intercepted a fumble from the Clark 47. A pass from Bob Janukowicz to Charlie Foster set up a Bulldog first down at the 37 and another pass to Foster brought Dayton to the 32. Janukowicz hit Pete Demier on the 22 to give Springfield another first down. 17-yard pass play to Foster brought the Bulldogs to the 1. On the following play Woody Young scored and Dayton went to 14-6.

Special events include a student-female faculty member volleyball game and the GAA annual awards assembly in June, which after the awards are given for the previous year, the state of officers for the following year is announced. All GAA members vote for the incoming officers prior to the assembly program.

Mrs. Conley said that membership in the GAA is still open.

Coach Ted Aho explained that Dayton looked bad defensively and just couldn't move the ball. He did feel though, that quarterback Bob Janukowicz, running back Woody Young and tight end Bill Keller played a very good game.

Harriers take seventh in row, to face Summit

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School cross-country team triumphed Friday, New Providence and Caldwell last week to stretch its winning streak to seven. With seven regular season victories and a major state triumph, the Bulldogs are in high gear as they meet Summit today and Tuesday and Millburn next Thursday.

After leading Pingry last Tuesday, 15-49, Dayton two days later defeated New Providence, 15-45; and Caldwell, 15-46. The Dayton harriers finished as follows: Norm Reinhardt, first; Gary Street second; Ken Hall third; Marty Joseph fourth; Keith Thell fifth; Marc Hollander seventh and Ron Frank 10th.

Coach Marty Taglient pointed out that the runners have not yet hit their peak. The Bulldog still have to run against H teams, including Hillside, which is a traditional cross-country power, Summit, whom the Bulldogs will meet today, lost to Millburn, a team which Dayton beat solidly. The big meet will come Oct. 31, when Dayton challenges Hillside's Comets. The Comets still have their top runners from last year.

Cubs pay their way with sale of candy to local residents

On Sept. 27 a busload of Cub Scouts of Pack 172 of Springfield and their parents traveled to the Yankee Stadium and saw a close-baseball game. On the way home, Mr. and Mrs. John Flockhart, leaders of the trip, reminded the youngsters that they were enjoying the fruits of last year's successful candy sale. Pack 172's candy sale for this year started on Saturday, and runs for a period of two weeks. The young Cub salesmen will knock on the doors of Springfield residents offering nationally known candy for sale. This is part of the Cubs' training. They provide for their own activities by raising money on their own.

Senator Reports

The Administration's recent announcement of plans to reduce the long period of uncertainty hanging over the lives of millions of draft-eligible young men is most welcome development. Under it is the use of many necessary steps in the direction of draft reform. It is one neither the Congress nor the Administration should waste time in implementing.

THE CONTINUOUS STATE of not knowing whether one will be able to finish school or start a new job occurs during a period when momentous decisions must be made about careers, marriages, and family. It would be wrong indeed if our young men and their families did not question such a system.

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School soccer team lost last week to Cedar Grove, 2-1, and Caldwell, 5-3. The Bulldogs, who have a 3-3 record, will meet New Providence today (away) and Summit at home on Tuesday.

ON THE ATTACK—Senior forward Keith Prussing is a key member of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School soccer team.

The Bulldogs, outside of the first period, completely dominated the Cedar Grove game. Cedar Grove took a 2-0 lead in the first period but from that point on it was all Dayton. The Bulldogs' goal was scored by John Sarriciner in the opening moments of the third period. Later in the same period Dayton missed on five consecutive shots on goal. Springfield also had numerous opportunities in the last period.

Scholarships, grants offered for college-bound Jerseyans

Hugo M. Pfaltz Jr. and Herbert J. Hellmann, Republican assemblymen who are seeking re-election, this week reminded their constituents that the state provides scholarships and incentive grants to students seeking college educations. The basic scholarship is $500 per year with additional incentive grants available, ranging from $100 to $500 in relation to particular college costs and the student's degree of financial need.

made by the state, and of these awards 85 percent went for scholarships to attend colleges outside of New Jersey.

Pfaltz and Hellmann noted there is a deadline for obtaining such aid. The application for scholastic aptitude tests must be filed no later than Nov. 5.

Details on the state scholarship and incentive grant program may be obtained from school guidance counselors or directly from the State Scholarship Commission, Trenton, Forms and information may also be obtained from Assemblyman Hugo M. Pfaltz Jr., 382 Springfield Ave., Summit, 07901.

'Record turnout' will hear Agnew

Senate President Frank X. McDermott, co-chairman with Gilbert G. Roegner of the Union County Republican Finance Committee's annual $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner, this week predicted a "record turnout" at the dinner Oct. 15 at the Whitfield-Scott Hotel, Elizabethtown.

The principal speaker will be Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew, who will visit the county to support the candidacy of Rep. William T. Cahill, the Republican candidate for Governor.

McDermott and the ticket chairman, Freeholder Arthur Manner, reported "brisk" ticket sales. "We are all excited about the Vice-President's visit, his first to the state since the inauguration," McDermott said.

The arrangements chairman, Mrs. Arnold Cjerman, announced that the head table will include, in addition to the Vice-President and Rep. Cahill, U.S. Senator Clifford P. Case, Congresswoman Florence P. Dwyer (R-12) and county finance chairman Charles D. Stapp.

Others at the head table will include county chairman Richard C. Schuch, county vice chairman Mrs. Joan P. Geer and national committee members Bernard M. Shanley and Mrs. Katherine K. Neuberger.

Impaired children take arts, crafts

The regular fall program of arts and crafts for neurologically impaired youngsters, five to 14 years of age, sponsored by the Union County Organization to Aid Children with Learning Disabilities, will open at Newark State College Campus, Union, Oct. 24. This year's activities will also include a bowling program at Four Seasons Bowling Lanes, Union, open to those nine to 14.

Both programs, scheduled for Saturday afternoons, are professionally supervised and organized to meet the special needs of these children, and they will receive individual and group instruction.

Additional information concerning these activities may be obtained by writing to the organization at 1379 Morris Ave., Union.

MUSEUM VISITS

The United States has nearly 2,000 museums, which are visited by almost 200 million people annually.

Export data is available

The multiple aids available to American companies for successful export marketing will be the subject of visits next week with northern New Jersey businessmen by a representative of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Joseph B. Kaufmann, chief of the department's New York Field Office, will meet individually with interested businessmen to discuss international trade matters, including their companies and to outline department and field office services to assist U.S. exporters.

Among new developments are expanded trade opportunity reporting under the Department's International Marketing Information Service (MIS) and simplification of U.S. export documentation on shipments abroad.

On Tuesday he will visit the Chamber of Commerce of Eastern Union County.

PERFORATED Perforated nickel stainless steel strip, with up to 40 per cent open area, can be easily penetrated by light but not water. Applications will include noise abatement, filtering, architectural and decorative uses.

Mehr: Legislation needed for consumer protection

Michael Jay Mehr of Union, Democratic Assembly candidate from District 9B, this week deplored the record of the Republican legislature over the past two years in providing consumer protection.

"The fact is," Mehr stated, "that of 25 essential consumer protection measures recommended by Governor Hughes, not a single one was enacted by the Republican legislature."

"For example," Mehr stated, "citizens still remain unprotected against deceptive packaging, unordered credit cards and merchandise, improper home-improvements and shoddy automobile and television repair work. The people of this area are, by and large, sophisticated shoppers. But no one individual is equipped without proper legislative controls to meet the various plays and schemes of the market place."

"The first order of business if I am elected is to champion the following bills which are now tied up by the Republican dominated legislature."

"Protection against unordered merchandise must be passed. When unsolicited items are sent through the mail, the receiver should be able to use it or throw it away without any obligation."

"Door to door salesmen must be licensed to keep out the fly-by-night operators. 'Near packaging' protection is essential. Presently all fresh meat sold in retail stores must only be visible on one side. I would support the bill now presently tied up by the Republican legislature so that meat is engaged in entirely transparent containers."

"Collection agencies must be licensed and regulated so that harassing and dunning can be controlled."

"Homeowners must be protected by a change in the mechanics lien law so that a supplier can no longer collect from the homeowner if the homeowner has paid the contractor."

"Unsolicited credit cards must be controlled. I would support legislation to make it illegal to send any consumer an unrequested credit card."

"All remodeled appliances should be labeled so that the consumer is informed of such facts. Automobile mechanics should be licensed and regulated. Some reasonable packaging requirements must be imposed."

"It is in the interest of all our citizens that the above pieces of legislation be passed. The consumer as well as the vast majority of honest businessmen are equally protected. In a gubernatorial year the records of your legislators can often be obscured. The fact is that the Republican Assemblymen from this area have not done the job in consumer protection in the last two years and should be turned out."

Mehr is running from Assembly District 9B with Pete Humank against Republican incumbents Herbert Hellman and Hugo Pfaltz. He is a graduate of Connecticut College, Plattsburgh, Cornell University and Virginia Law School. He is a former deputy attorney general of this state and ABC prosecutor and handled consumer protection matters in the Kennedy Administration.
