1 killed, 2 hurt in Morris ave. bus-car crash

A fatal accident took place in Springfield last Friday at the corner of Morris and Marlon avenues. The victim of a collision between a Public Service Bus and a passenger car was Leon Schwartzberg, 41, operator of the car. Schwartzberg was a resident of Oceanside, N.Y.

According to the local police, Schwartzberg was proceeding east on Morris avenue when his car struck a raised manhole cover in the street. The driver of the bus, Stewart Fritts of Springfield, reported that Schwartzberg apparently lost control of the car and slid in front of the bus.

Schwartzberg's car, according to the accident report, was then struck by the bus and pinned between the bus and a tree on the north side of the street.

Police said Schwartzberg was officially pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Dr. Irwin Kinche of Millburn at 9:55 a.m. Schwartzberg's personal possessions were turned over to his father, Peter Schwartzberg of Oceanside, N.Y., on Friday. Schwartzberg's vehicle was impounded by the local police.

Two passengers on the bus, Eloise Davis of Elizabeth, and Dorothea Agster of Union, were taken by the Springfield First Aid Squad to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where they were treated for bruises and cuts and then released.

YES urges youth to register quickly for jobs this winter

The Youth Employment Service of Springfield this week urged all youngsters 14 to 19 to register at the YES office in the Sarah Balley Civic Center if they have not already done so.

Now is the time people are calling to line up snow shovellers, and since so many boys are involved in sports, there are not too many boys available, the announcement added.

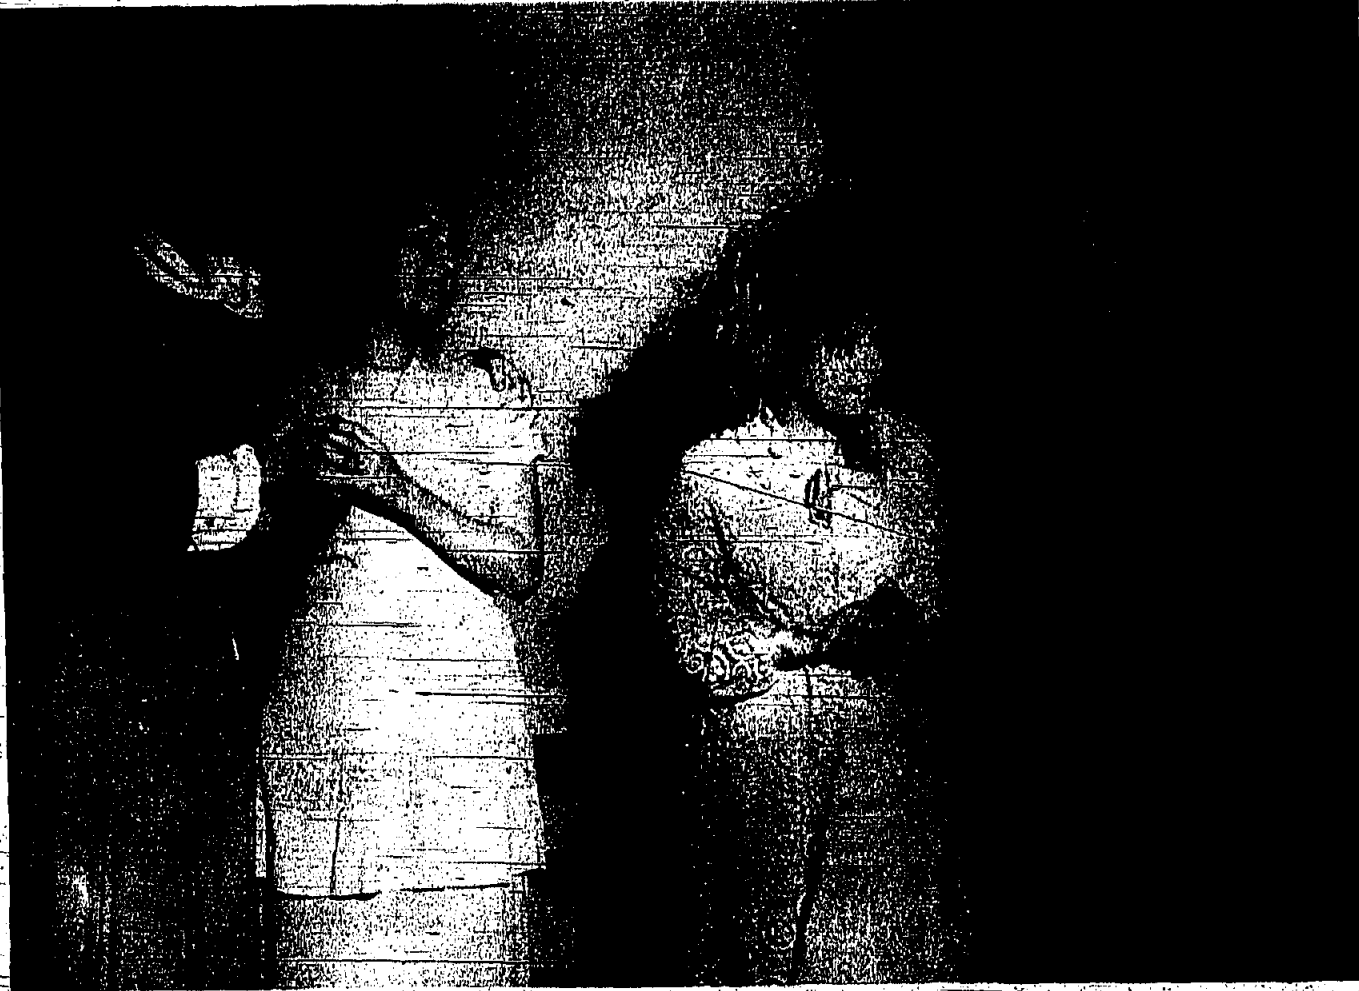

Even boys who are registered would have a better chance of getting a job if they would stop at the office now and then or call and leave their names. Girls who are interested in babysitting, light housework or ironing should check with the office. The center helps youngsters whose names become familiar with the personnel are the ones who are called more often.

The Youth Employment office is open from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and can always use more help. If you, son or daughter has gotten jobs through YES, it would be a nice gesture to offer to man the office once a week or once every two weeks for a couple of hours. Call Mrs. Clifford Schwartz at 379-2220 or the YES office at 379-2567.

Springfield Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio this week issued a final reminder that time is running out for mailing parcels overseas to members of the Armed Forces and to civilians.

Airmail must be used to insure delivery by Christmas.

The postmaster also stated that parcels sent by surface means to Africa and the Near East will not be delivered before Christmas. He urged such parcels be sent via airmail through Dec. 10. The following schedule will permit delivery of parcels for Christmas delivery: Canada and Mexico, surface, Dec. 5, and airmail, Dec. 16; South America, Central America and Europe, surface Nov. 15, and airmail, Dec. 14.

Local groups plan programs to back oppose war policy

Stop-the-war committee schedules rally tonight

The Springfield Committee to Stop the War Now will conduct an anti-Vietnam war rally and memorial service tonight outside of Town Hall, beginning at 8. A spokesman for the committee said that this demonstration is being held for many reasons:

"1. To show our support of the vast nationwide movement against the Vietnam war.

"2. To support the march against death taking place in Washington this night which will both symbolize and pay tribute to the Americans and Vietnamese who have been slaughtered in Vietnam.

"3. To support the march on Washington on Saturday in which many Springfield families will take part."

The spokesman added that tonight's march will "demonstrate, along with the hundreds of thousands of dedicated Americans and legislators in Congress and in the Senate, this, the most extreme act of loyalty to the original principles of our nation.

"We do not help the cause of freedom, the cause of true justice by a blind declaration of support for our own government merely to satisfy an ill-defined concept of patriotism.

"Throughout our history, true patriots have exhibited their devotion and love of country by raising their voices in dissent when the government of our nation has strayed, both in principle and deed, from the basic ideals of freedom, justice, and equality.

"True Americanism, and thus true loyalty, must first be based on a correct moral posture. If it is not, then all the symbols of our heritage reflect only our material and military might.

"This is why we grieve not only for the loss of our boys in Vietnam, but for the sad interpretation of American greatness: might makes right.

"We have engaged ourselves in a war in which we have no legal right, in which, therefore, Congress cannot issue a declaration of war, and for which the World Court has found the United States guilty of aggression.

"We have strengthened the cause and spirit of communism instead of weakening it, and have created serious deficiencies in our domestic programs. And now, the administration seeks a new birth of American spirit to justify our inability to disengage ourselves honorably.

"We cannot, and must not, equate honor with victory when the pursuit of that victory is based upon an immoral and ignominious cause.

"Our actions here in Springfield, and throughout the country, tonight and in Washington on Saturday, are not only a protest against the horror of Vietnam, but also a plea for the reassertion of the true American spirit of human justice, compassion and honor of the highest moral ethics."

The memorial service this evening will include statements on Vietnam by local clergy, prayers, and the reading of the list of Union County Vietnam war dead.

Announcements will also be made concerning the Washington March on Saturday. The Springfield Committee to Stop the War Now urged all citizens to "join in this crusade against death and destruction, tonight at Town Hall and on Saturday in Washington."

The local group has chartered a bus from Springfield to Washington, scheduled to leave Saturday at 6 a.m. Information on whether there are reservations still available can be obtained by calling 376-6220 or 276-1776.

VFW calls for support of day of prayer Sunday

Residents of Springfield are being asked by Commander Stanley A. Wisniewski of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post-7683 to join in a national day of prayer this Sunday, asking for peace, safety of our servicemen in Vietnam, national unity and guidance for the United States in this time of crisis.

Wisniewski said he hopes all residents of Springfield will participate in this "call to worship", and that the clergy will set aside Sunday for special prayers in all Springfield churches and synagogues.

In announcing the day of prayer, Commander Wisniewski cited a recent appeal made by the Rev. Earl Best, national VFW chaplain, who said: "In this critical time, all Americans should reflect prayerfully on the future course this nation will follow and ask divine guidance for President Nixon as he makes decisions and sets policies that may affect untold generations yet unborn." Wisniewski added:

"All Americans should pray for peace and for the thousands of men who daily put their lives on the line in Vietnam to ensure the right of dissent for others at home who so strongly object to the role our nation is playing in that troubled country.

"Let us pray for unity in our resolve to do right. Our men who are fighting in Vietnam have looked at the homefront and asked: what's going on at home? Tell those silly dissenters to cool it.

"Then the frontline veterans say we know why we're here. We are fighting to kick Communists in Vietnam so we won't have to fight them later on our own shores.

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars call upon our congressional leaders and upon all other loyal Americans to strengthen our government's pledge to help others gain freedom, and to help our fighting men in Vietnam win a just and honorable victory and no compromise with the enemy."

Wisniewski further stated that "so much has been said about Vietnam that some of our citizens have the notion that this is the only real threat. But that is far from the truth. The Communist threat stretches around the world. It presses in upon free peoples everywhere.

"All we need do is to look at the millions of unfortunate people in Czechoslovakia, Red China, Hungary, North Korea, East Berlin and Cuba, to name a few places. They have been robbed of their freedoms, and the same fate is being aimed directly at us.

"But we Americans are not—all so stupid as to follow the few who seek to betray true Americanism through any distorted politics, or racism and radicalism; nor through just plain childish tantrums defying law and order in our land. That's what we've been seeing in our homefront recently and we're fed up with it.

"If the homefront trouble makers of today think that they can upset our balance, then they'd better calculate a little further: Because they are far outnumbered -- by more than 27 million war veterans who are living in the United States today.

"These men do not know the meaning of the word surrender, either on the fields of battle, or through any negotiations in a phony, fruitless, Paris peace conference, or anywhere else.

"Our combat veterans, and millions of other real Americans like them, declare that there is only one answer for our true way of life. That is: stand fast, loyal defense of every inch of our free country -- and no crawling in the face of any enemy, either.

"Now, there are two special days in the month (Continued on page 5)

Art group sketches two trips to museums in weeks to come

The art appreciation class, which is sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department and the Springfield Regional Adult School, has just finished the third in a series of lectures dealing with works of art from the French Impressionists. Rabbi Reuben Levine delivered the lectures with the aid of slides, to a large and interested class of women, the Recreation Department reported.

The next trip, it is scheduled to visit two North Jersey museums. The bus will leave the Sarah Balley Civic Center at 10 a.m., to go first to the Newark Museum to see a show of American impressionist paintings. The museum will provide a lecture. There will be a stop for lunch and then a tour of the Montclair Museum.

The following Tuesday, Nov. 25, the bus will leave at 9:30 a.m., for an all-day trip to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. There will be an opportunity to visit the much-publicized New York Painters and Sculptors' show in the newly renovated great hall. Lunch may be purchased in the museum cafeteria.

After lunch the group will tour the galleries of the French Impressionists, with rooms devoted to Manet, Degas, Renoir, Cezanne, Van Gogh, Gauguin and Monet. The fee for non-members of the class is $3.50 per trip. This includes bus fare and admissions. Readers may phone Mrs. Johnson at the Civic Center, 376-5884, to reserve space on the bus.

Program planned on drug education for school teachers

An in-service program for teachers on the subject of drug abuse and control gets under way today in the Union County Regional High School District.

Approximately 30 teachers from the four regional high schools are involved in the program being offered by the Department of Public Health and Preventative Medicine of the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry.

The eight-session program is being administered by the Union County Regional Adult School, according to Dr. Donald Merachnik, assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services. Harry E. Eiman is adult school director.

Among the areas being covered are: Signs and symptoms of drug abuse, what drugs are and how they are used, what to do if a student is suspected of being a drug user, how to deal with parents of suspected users, and the teacher's attitude toward drugs.

Dr. Stanley Einstein, assistant professor of public health at the college, is the instructor. A psychologist-specialist in the field of drug addiction, Dr. Einstein is editor of "The International Journal of Addiction" and next year will publish a high school text on drug and alcoholism education for high school students.

Dr. Merachnik said other medical specialists for the college will be utilized as guest speakers.

The in-service program is one of the recommendations Dr. Merachnik made in his report of the drug abuse programs for students and adults held in each of the regional high schools last spring.

In his recommendation, Dr. Merachnik noted that teachers must be psychologically prepared to deal with drug abusers.

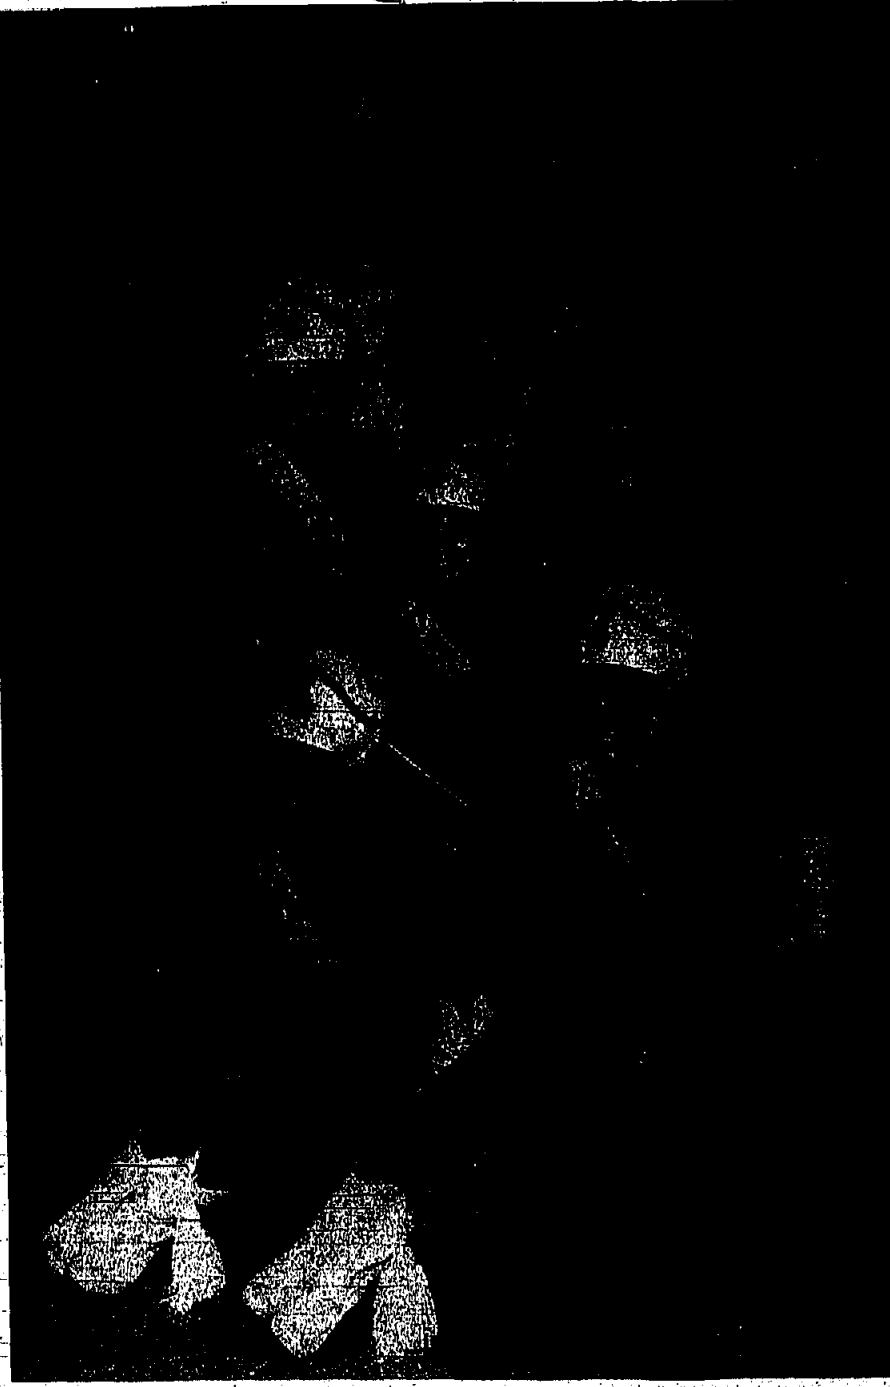

The Regional District comprises Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield, and operates four high schools: Jonathan Dayton Regional High School; Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School; David Brewster Regional High School and Governor Livingston Regional High School.

While deployed in the Caribbean he will have the opportunity to visit San Juan, Puerto Rico and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands and will represent the Navy on a good will trip to Puerto Plata, in the Dominican Republic.

Methodists map services for Advent and Christmas

The council on ministries of Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Mall at Academy Green, of which Albert Holler Jr. is chairman, met recently to complete plans for Advent and Christmas, and to project activities for January and February.

Many of the plans were developed by a worship task force composed of the lay readers who assist in the Sunday church services, according to Pastor James Dewart.

Advent will begin with a Banner Service directed by Mrs. Florence Taylor Jones of Madison, who was recently commissioned to create a 100th anniversary banner for the Central Presbyterian Church in Summit. The service on Sunday, Nov. 30, will be coordinated by Mrs. Doris Holler of the local congregation and will involve a number of persons in the congregation as readers and banner bearers in "The March of the Prophets."

The women's groups of the church and Methodist Men will be responsible this year for providing all the rooms and hallways as well as the sanctuary with a festive air. Methodist Men will erect the outdoor nativity scene, and provide the large tree for the sanctuary. This year the tree will be decorated with Christmas symbols and lights, the symbols to be made by the congregation instead of using manufactured tree decorations. The cross, ship, fish, star, anchor and other symbols will cover the tree.

Another activity involving various organizations and the choir will be Christmas carols in other languages. Each Sunday a carol will be sung by one or more groups. Plans have been made for the Wesley choir to sing "Adeste Fideles," and for two of the church school classes to learn the Austrian hymn "Silent Night" in German, directed by Mrs. Esther Reimlinger.

Special services will be Holy Communion on Dec. 7, Christmas Sunday Dec. 24, the Christmas eve service at 11 p.m. on Dec. 24 and the German Christmas service on Dec. 25 at 10 a.m. All members of the church will share in the Christmas party sponsored by the German Ladies' Groups on Friday, Dec. 12, and the church family night, Dec. 21, 5 to 7. The family night will include a drama with tableaux and a verse speaking choir directed by Audrey Young, Mrs. Virginia Gleitsman, and Pastor Dewart.

The Christmas spirit will also touch the shut-ins of the congregation, according to Holler, through taped messages from the congregation to them, and greetings from the shut-ins to the congregation. The messages from the congregation will be recorded on Nov. 30 so that Dewart may use them during the month of December as he distributes Holy Communion to the shut-ins. They will also be visited by members of the congregation so that they may record their greetings to fellow members. These will be played on Sunday mornings during the services of worship.

Holler also stated that members of the congregation will be invited to share in several important meetings during January and February, including a presentation on drug abuse, Jan. 11; the annual meeting on Feb. 8, and a mission festival on Feb. 22.

Elizabeth and region share grant to aid the handicapped

A $20,000 grant to develop a comprehensive program for the physically handicapped student beyond the usual classroom experience, is being shared by the Union County Regional High School District and the Elizabeth public schools. It was announced this week.

The grant was made by the State Department of Education under Title 6A of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, according to Dr. Donald Merachnik, assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services in the Regional District.

"In attempting to provide for realistic, quality education for the physically handicapped student, we must realize that classroom edu-national instruction is not enough," Dr. Merachnik said.

"These students require supplementary services which will permit them to develop to their maximum capabilities—physically, socially, socially and emotionally. The utilization of physical and speech therapy services, as well as planned recreational and social activities, should assist in this development and enable the students to gain more from their environment as well as their classroom activities."

Some 15 physically handicapped students attend the David Brewster Regional High School, Kenilworth, this year. The school was specifically designed to care for their special needs.

According to Dr. Merachnik, the grant will now make it possible to allow the physically handicapped in the Regional District to participate in recreational, social and cultural trips, utilizing the district's special bus which is equipped with a hydraulic lift for students confined to wheelchairs.

On the list of activities are football and basketball games, and other events such as plays and concerts.

The grant will also allow both school systems to provide additional physical and speech therapy services, consultant orthopedic services and materials, supplies and equipment for a tutorial program.

The Regional District comprises Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield, and operates four high schools.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

INBORN LINK TO CRIMINAL BEHAVIOR NOT PROVED

The XYY syndrome is an inborn abnormality of the male chromosomes in which some males are born with an extra Y chromosome instead of the usual "XY" found in the male sex.

Chromosomes are small, more or less rod-shaped bodies which appear in the nucleus of a cell at the time of cell division. The name is from two Greek words, chromo (meaning color) and soma (body).

Chromosomes contain the genes or hereditary factors of animals and man. The normal number of chromosomes in humans is 46, with 22 pairs of what are called autosomes and two sex chromosomes. These are known as "XX" in females and "XY" in males.

Many variations may occur in the chromosomes. Some of these have been found to be associated with various abnormalities in behavior or physical makeup. Here is where the current case of the XYY syndrome comes in.

Unfortunately, the impression has sprung up that the XYY abnormality is clearly related to criminal behavior. This is why the National Institute of Mental Health's Center for Studies of Crime and Delinquency recently called together a scientific conference of specialists from genetics, psychiatry, psychology, sociology, and law. They carefully examined the current state of knowledge of the XYY syndrome from all aspects.

Their conclusion is that a link between the XYY syndrome and criminal acts, such as violent murder, is not clearly proved. The assertion that males with the XYY chromosome are related to criminal behavior is definitely misleading, they said, and has developed undue public concern about males with XYY.

The conference also pointed up the important need for research to get valid information about the prevalence of XYY cases in the population. This we have little or no idea of now.

Also, research is urgent to find out just what are the interactions between chromosomal abnormalities like this and social behavior. Lacking such information, we cannot at the present time properly evaluate the meaning and significance of the XYY cases which have been found among various kinds of criminals. But the Center for Studies of Crime and Delinquency is planning to stimulate and encourage studies to get the needed research answers. Meantime, definite conclusions cannot be drawn about the relationship between XYY and deviant, criminal, or violent behavior.

Let's not make book on parking for library

Now that the election excitement is over and the partisan feelings we earnestly hope will soon start to die down, there is one local problem which deserves some attention.

The matter is one deliberately not mentioned until after the election, in order that it can be considered on its non-partisan merits.

Should the township, several citizens have wondered, have any obligation to provide free parking facilities for patrons of the Springfield Free Public Library?

The answer, going strictly by the lawbooks, apparently is no. The federal Library Services Construction Act, under which substantial funds were obtained for the handsome new library, requires that three parking spaces be provided for each 1,000 persons in town, or 54 for Springfield's estimated population of 18,000. No mention is made of whether the spaces should be free or not.

This was done, with ample space available for all patrons in the municipal parking lot across Hannah street, but it is all metered, in order to prevent use of the lot by all-day parkers from out-of-town who would find Springfield a convenient spot from which to take buses to Newark or New York.

The same federal law requires the library to provide on-site parking spaces for 14 cars of staff members, and this has been done at the rear of the building. These spaces are needed if the library is to go by the book.

The only other area which might be available is along the curb on Hannah street, but this is currently reserved for a Public Service bus stop. The township could well help Public Service live up to its name by moving the bus stop to provide some parking space for, in particular, handicapped patrons among the town's reading population.

The question, then, is whether there is a continuing need for library parkers to keep digging into their wallets and purses for the pennies and nickels needed for the meters.

The argument is that without meters, the lot would be flooded by commuters. If the meters were removed, say the pro-meter forces, checking the area would drain local police manpower resources.

Still, even the most modern parking meters, are unable to make their own tickets for overtime violators. Police manpower is needed to check the meters and write out the summonses.

Little more time would be required to have an officer check a special area, marked perhaps for 30-minute parking by library patrons, no more than two or three times a day to copy down license numbers and write up tickets for violators.

The township recently moved to impose a time limit, without meters, on parking in Church Mall, to make sure that the commuters do not use all the space needed by members of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches.

Compliance with the law on Church Mall will take a minimum of police enforcement. Commuters will soon learn that violators become contributors.

The same policy, then, could be applied to a portion of the municipal lot adjoining Hannah street. The drain on police manpower should not be significant.

If manpower is unduly taxed, the town could then fall back on its womanpower. If a meter maid could be hired, her salary might well be paid out of increased meter receipts, as well as income derived from an increased number of overtime parking tickets.

If not, and if the meters are found inevitable, there is one other step the town could take.

We could always change the name of the institution from Free Public Library to the Springfield Metered Public Library.

'LOUD AND CLEAR'

Although this is the night before election and my letter will not be read until next Thursday - nine days after the elections, I would like my voice to be heard loud and clear.

I just want you people to know what Mr. Nat Stokes is up to. To tell it like it is - This resemblance of I am has stooped very low in his quest for election to the Township Committee. Besides trying to dig up all the dirt he can on the other candidates, he has shown his ignorance and childishness by resorting to harassment.

He has in his confessions certain henchmen and henchwomen who have been calling the Del Vecchio residence every few minutes inquiring about an ad in the Newark Evening News for a lot for sale (the Daley Court property) and a lot for rent (the Westport Properties).

Besides being very vindictive, the disgraceful manner which these people employ is sickening. I know, since I've been answering the phone for the past three hours.

It is so very insignificant to some people but to me it is realistic. Because I am Mr. Del Vecchio's daughter.

One word of warning, if Mr. Nat Stokes is elected, I pity this town. Once again he has shown his ignorance and repulsiveness and once again he has tried to harass my father. If you do have this man elected to the Township Committee, I hope all the people who have voted for him get what you deserve.

In Past Tense

ONE YEAR AGO
The Springfield Township Committee is occupied with the problem of speeders on Troker avenue who cause a lot of trouble for the children. Overlook Hospital, which has a $500,000 fund-raising campaign this week for the construction of an urgently needed major renovation and air-conditioning of its two oldest wings. Acting on information from an unidentified source, township police arrested three men and charged them with conspiracy to kidnap a child of a Springfield woman. A committee is being formed for the purpose of retaining the Raymond Chisholm School for use as an elementary school in Springfield. Jonathan Dayton Regional High School names 180 students to the honor roll for top marks. Twenty exchange nurses in the exchange visitor program at Overlook Hospital are entertained by the township's Women's Club. JAN STARR, a senior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, captures the first-place trophy in the Watching Forensic Competition held at Dayton and aids his team in keeping its first-place standing in the area of ex-temporaneous speaking. ANGELO A. MENZA of Springfield is named a member of the Union County Shade Tree Commission. The Springfield Public Library adds an extensive collection of music and spoken word records to its facilities as a service to members.

15 YEARS AGO
VINCENT J. BONADIES, committeeman-elect, is invited to sit in with the Township Committee to fill the unexpired term of the late FRED BROWN, in a motion introduced by Committeeman CHARLES REMLINGER at a regular town meeting. The Springfield Board of Education requests the registration of all mentally retarded and physically handicapped children in the schools. JAMES M. SIMINGTON of Springfield is named an alternate member of the new federal grand jury in Newark. Springfield's new zoning ordinance for 1954 is given the first of two public previews and encounters strong objections.

40 YEARS AGO
The fire alarm system of the local fire department is extended so that the "gong" will ring in the firehouse as well as in the home of the new fire chief, CHARLES PINKAVA. Town fathers, after receiving suggestions from the county engineers' department to draw up an ordinance to improve Morris avenue, fix upon the idea because it "would increase traffic congestion". Resident engineer C.S. MC NULTY reports to the Township Committee that 30 miles of sanitary sewer lines have been constructed in Springfield, 62 per cent of the entire project.

SWORDS AND PLOWSHARES
I have never participated in an anti-war demonstration, except to cast a vote last year for Eugene McCarthy. I have picked up and distributed literature or publicly deplored the conflict in Vietnam. But I wouldn't want President Nixon to count me among his "silent majority."

I may have been silent, I'm confident I'm in the majority. But I'm not numbered among those who support the future of the world and the atrocities carried on in Vietnam for the past five years in the name of freedom. I am particularly appalled by the intemperate blaming of the commander of the local VFW. The Moratorium Day activities last month were beautiful, especially compared to his remarks about "fine-tuned" "militant" and "Communist-supported street demonstrations."

How ironic it is that, on top of Commander Wisniewski's utterances about pushing "would-be quitters...to the sidelines," he would announce a Voice of Democracy contest among our high school students. One of our demagogic "peace" commanders, in "the light" of people to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances, "Democracy thrives amid dissent; the pro-war groups obviously are uncomfortable with it."

History makes clear the futility of wars. The greatest of all history books is the book of plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.

We don't learn very much from history, do we?

'HEAVEN HELP SPRINGFIELD'
This is Wednesday, Nov. 5, 1968, the day after election. I feel impelled to write this letter in hopes of arousing the thinking man so our town does not make another serious blunder.

Springfield has been my home town for many years. I grew up here and I love it. I have always been under the impression that the people living here are intelligent and that is why I find the election results hard to believe. How can these people believe in someone who stands for nothing or disinterest? The main problem our town faces is flood control and from listening to Nat Stokes campaign the only help he can give the town with this problem is to pray for no rain. What did Mr. Stokes run on? What did he say he was going to do for the town? What experience does he have outside of his steam-iron cream course?

Let's look at his Platform: Ours now! Recreation - This is for the town - the entire town from the infant to the senior citizen, from the rich to the poor. What did Mr. Stokes propose? Expansion of the pool? Building a new pool? A new pool? A new pool?

1-Add tennis courts; this benefits only four people at a time.
2-Enclose and heat the pool; We have two enclosed and heated pools that are not hard to get to (The Summit Y and the Westfield Y) for those people who enjoy winter swimming and the cost is much more than the other pool.
3-Use the lighted softball field for Little League. I do believe Little League is baseball and in baseball the pitcher stands on a mound of dirt and for softball there is no mound. Since both games are played during the same season, who is going to put down and take up the mound?

4-Who is going to pay for all of this? The taxpayer! Nat says no; membership fees in the pool will pay for the expansions. This creates another problem. If we have all our recreation activities taking place at the pool and there is going to be a fee to join the pool, what are the poor and middle-income residents going to do for recreation?
5-Also attract Fadam Park. He wants to put swings, slides, monkey bars, etc., on this park and feels the people will bring their children there from all over town. Why, when we have 11 other parks in this town, all equipped for children, and they are overcrowded by two main roads. Why the citizens of our town want to eliminate our only place for senior citizens, I'll never understand.

No parking 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. - What is Nat Stokes going to do about it? He didn't say anything that I recall, all he does is object to it. I imagine a lot of people object to it. But why do you object because it takes a little more effort on your part to move cars, or you had to widen your driveway. If our citizens look to surrounding towns, you will find they also have no parking from 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. - no our town would have it even if we had an anti-Democratic committee.

This is it! The rest of his campaign was distortions of the truth and if it is these distortions that got him elected, heaven help Springfield.
So in essence what we the intelligent people of this town have done is allow a man to be elected, a man who would bend over backwards to help the town and in his place put a man who knows only how to tear her down. I should have made myself heard before the election, but I really thought the majority of our citizens were mature enough to see the difference without having it pointed out to them.

There isn't much we can do about the election now, but may I urge all of you to get out to township meetings so you know what is going on and cannot be bulldozed again next year.

'LIKE JERSEY CITY'
I have lived in Springfield most of my 24 years. This past election has left me in doubt as to what has happened to my town. I have often wondered what the town of today, age reeling against, and I think I have found one of the answers. When a campaign is run the way this one was, it does leave something to be desired.

I have come to know Mayor Del Vecchio and his family through the past few months. I know what Mayor Del Vecchio stands for, and has done for our town. I have been in quest of some answers as to what Mr. Stokes stands for and what he has done for Springfield. I didn't see any answers in his campaign, and if the way his campaign was run contains any sort of answer, heaven help us. He has succeeded in his quest and in doing so destroyed all along the way without thought or conscience. The drug problem was blown so out of proportion it made it look like most of our teenagers are drug addicts.

I have seen him try to take a man, who has loved, cared and made personal sacrifices for our town, and tear him apart and ruin his good name. I think most people who know Mayor Del Vecchio will agree with me when I say there are few that can compare.

Was the harassment of this family necessary? Did this man deserve such treatment in Springfield, as the campaign was made to seem, more like Newark or Jersey City? Although Springfield has not yet found the lost great public servant, which it will shortly, he has at least been reunited to the family that deeply loves him.

I feel it will be many years before this town will ever see a man with the capabilities and the love that Mayor Del Vecchio has for this town. I just hope the town doesn't reach a deeper low before seeing the lights.
Nat Stokes will long remember this campaign for the dirt can never be washed from his hands.

TRADITION AND MEMORV
It is especially fitting that the year just concluded congratulate the victor. The measure of a man is his ability to accept defeat as gracefully as he accepts victory. "Mr. Republican" has seen fit to do otherwise.
It is possible, however, in this particular instance, that Mr. Del Vecchio suffered a traumatic shock and was unable to offer the usual amenities.

How dare the opposition oust him from office? How dare they disturb the status quo? How dare they call a spade a spade? "Mr. Republican" and his associates view this as treason.

How could he be beaten in Springfield when the Springfield Leader proudly boasted that this was not the year for a change? How could he be beaten when he, the "Oracle," has wrought such wonder in Springfield?

Mr. Del Vecchio has a short memory, or chooses to forget that he and his associates ascended to power by permitting character assassination that was accomplished by rumor and innuendo, and by the distribution of unsigned literature.
While he and his associates are beating their breasts and wailing to the high heavens, let them all remember: "He who lives by the sword..."

DISSENT AND PATRIOTISM
An open letter to Stanley Wisniewski:
I deeply respect your right in expressing your views in the Leader article last week. Please, let me respectfully make some of my comments and observations:
1. Everyone involved in the peace movement is not in the movement as an unpatriotic gesture.
2. There are many people who have played their part in our country's various conflicts who are now in the peace movement. Some of us even have our own battle stars, scars and badges. Did you see the list of 1,365 active servicemen protesting the war in last Sunday's Newark Times?

3. Please, do not get back to theCarthy era of guilt by association. It should be labeled as anything but American in my desire for peace.
4. The loss of human life is a tragic occurrence; it is especially tragic when some of us feel it to be unnecessary.
5. The means to accomplish this is the main dispute. If you will remember, people used to have completely different desires - peace or war (doves or hawks). Now we all desire peace.
6. If our country's policy is that we should live in Southeast Asia, why have we not had a declared war by this time instead of having a so-called declared desire for peace?
7. Dissent made our country. Were the American colonists "effete snobs" because they showed dissent? The American Revolution was made up of a group of American patriots (or conversely, English traitors, depending upon which side one observes).

In short, please, Mr. Wisniewski, afford me the right to dissent as our Constitution does without equating this with being unpatriotic. Don't you think that peace, love and truth are greater than my country, right or wrong?
BENJAMIN H. JOSEPHSON, M.D.

'THE TIME IS NOW'
Our President has asked for time to disengage the United States from the war in Vietnam, that ghastly error of human judgment. For American people we have fought in Southeast Asia to enable the South Vietnamese to determine their own form of government. Forty-five thousand young Americans have already died; countless others have been maimed and the slaughter continues.
There is no time left, Mr. President, and the American people are going to Washington on Sunday to make themselves heard.

Students of Springfield, New Jersey, will be there to protest the war and to support those in the administration who want to end the war now, not at some far-off distant time.
For as those who desire bus transportation, please contact Mrs. Lynn Grant, 276-1970 or Molly Cucchiara, 376-6220, as soon as possible.

If it's not feasible to join the march in Washington then join the protest in front of the Municipal Building today. I urge the people of Springfield to express their support of the peace efforts in both words and actions. The time is now.

MORE CAT TALK
I congratulate Mrs. Rochelle Warner and Mrs. Frances Stotom on their frank letter to the editor in the Oct. 9 issue of the Springfield Leader. And I, too, implore the town of Springfield to pass an ordinance restricting cats from running loose.

Our neighbor's cat is so "friendly" it thinks we are playing ball when stones are thrown at it -- it runs after the stones and then settles back into the same position in ten yards. Our property is our castle and our cat can't be doing anything but -- but a consistent offender is a little more than we can tolerate. Trying to encourage birds to the backyard feeder is a frustrating undertaking with this cat ever under foot.

While action is required to have a restriction classified as an ordinance, putting a cat in a cage certainly does not solve the problem nor annoyance of having something unwanted in your own backyard.

Winter mart to benefit Summit Y

Christmas will be very much in the air at the Summit Y.M.C.A. next week when the three-day fund-raising bazaar, Winter Market, on Wednesday, Thursday, Nov. 20, and Friday, Nov. 21, will be held from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Holiday decorations will surround the many booths that will display original paintings, hand-made tablecloths, glamorous tree skirts, holiday novelties, and hand-crafted fancywork of all kinds.

Several new booths will be in evidence this year at the Winter Market. The "Antiques and Collectibles" booth will have unusual buys for the collector, and the "Book Nook" will be a source of supply for that hard-to-find anything-for-person-or-everybody's gift list.

The gourmet booth will have a large supply of frozen culinary delights, including chicken, cranberry, raspberry, avocado and mushrooms, olive cheese balls, pork-apricot loaf, quick Loraine, cranberry chutney, frozen tarts, and many more.

Luncheon will be served on both days from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. A snack bar will be open in the downstairs area from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. World Fellowship teas will be served from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Tickets must be purchased in advance at the Y.M.C.A. for children's activities. These include "Lunch with the Sounds of Christmas," to be held at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., at which youngsters will enjoy songs and rhythms with Capitola Dickerson and will be entertained by the Sugar Plum Fairy, Mrs. Martha A. Robertson, and the Marionette Theater Production, "The Puppet Prince," at 10:15 a.m. and 3:15 and 4:15 p.m.

Silhouettes will be done on both days by Mrs. H. H. Henning. No previous reservations are required for these. Santa's Toy Shop, also in the children's area of Winter Market, will have bargains in both new and refurbished toys.

A teen boutique, to be open from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., will have girls' fashions, including fur coats for those big, big sunglasses, beaded belts, love beads, candles, jewelry.

Further information about Winter Market may be obtained by contacting the Y.M.C.A. at 278-4242.

New module is match for sun in space

Industry and science have combined their talents to produce an accurate match for sunbathing above the earth's atmosphere for satellites testing here on earth.

The solar simulator has seven powerful xenon lamp modules clustered in the center of the solar vacuum head of the simulator and controlled optionally by an operator or through the central computer. A 35-ton lid sits atop this 39 by 50-foot chamber.

Besides the ability to simulate blistering sunshine above the earth's atmosphere, the ultra-clean ion-pumped space chamber provides a vacuum equal to that of about 400 miles above earth and super-cold temperature of minus 220 degrees Fahrenheit.

50-year members of church will be honored this Sunday

Founders' Day will be observed by the Springfield Presbyterian Church this Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock services. Each year this day is observed, honoring those who have been members of the church for 50 years or more. This year, by action of the session of the church, the observance is being broadened to include those with church membership of fifty years or more, not necessarily all in the local Springfield Church.

Of those with continuous membership in the Springfield church, Mrs. Albert Cain, presently residing in Ocean Grove, holds the distinction of being the oldest living member of the church, having joined on April 6, 1902. Others in this group include Luman S. Bergler, Duncan A. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Douglas, Mrs. Horace Forsyth, Mrs. William N. Heard, Andrew Jackson, Miss Elsie W. Leber, Mrs. Herbert Pascoe, Albert A. Schramm, Douglas Stoeckle, James A. Taylor, Mrs. Frederick Winterberger and Mrs. Frank Molise Sr.

Those whose membership reaches the 50-year mark this year include J. Frank Jakobson, J. Neil Jakobson, Carlisle H. Richards, Mrs. M. Chase Runyon and Conover E. Willis.

be honored: Mrs. Duncan A. Douglas, James M. Duguid, Mrs. Francis F. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. C. Stuart Knowlton, Mrs. Warren W. Halsey, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie F. Kroeger, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Stacklehn and Mrs. Leonard H. Miller.

Special carriages and bouquets will be presented to the honored guests so that other members and friends of the congregation might greet them.

THE ANNUAL "Every Member Canvass" of the Presbyterian Church will be held on Sunday afternoon when the men of the congregation will visit the homes of those members who have been unable to present their church pledges in person at worship services.

Temple will hold 'Las Dreidle Night'

A social evening, to be called "Las Dreidle Night," will be held at Temple Shalom on S. Springfield Avenue, Springfield, on Saturday evening, Dec. 6, according to Harold Bass, president of the temple.

A committee, headed by Alvin Schneider, past president of the temple's brotherhood, has been formed to plan the evening's festivities, which will include several games of chance utilizing the "dreidle," a small top-like device used by Jews during the holiday of Hanukkah.

Refreshments will be served and an auction sale will be held at the conclusion of the evening's festivities, according to Bass. Anyone interested in purchasing tickets may contact Mrs. Leonard Sherman at 379-6792 or Mrs. Charles Hirsch at 379-9111.

Film shows devices for fire fighting

A full-color movie, "The Fire Finders," has been produced by the National Electrical Manufacturers Association (NEMA) and the Fire Extension Service of Iowa State University. The movie shows how electronic fire-detection devices can help save property and lives.

Running 14-1/2 minutes, the film highlights a fire in an apartment storage room and demonstrates how modern electronic detectors could have spotted it when only the products of combustion were present in the atmosphere. This occurs before smoke is visible and in the time when fires can be extinguished quickly and easily.

The audience then follows the dramatic sequence of human events from the stage where smoke can be seen to a point where flames roar out of control, thwarting makeshift emergency measures and endangering the lives of apartment-building residents.

More information about the movie is available from NEMA headquarters, 155 E. 44th St., New York City 10017.

Concert set for children

The second pair of The Little Orchestra Society's Concerts for Young People will take place in Philharmonic Hall, Lincoln Center, New York City, on Saturday, Nov. 22, at 11 a.m. Thomas Scherman, music director of the society, has entitled the program, "Music for and about children." As with all of the 1969-70 series of Concerts for Young People, the same program will be repeated at 8 p.m.

Scherman has programmed the Overture to "Hansel and Gretel," Bach's "Anna Magdalena Suite" and Bizet's "Children's Games Suite" as the opening selections of the concert.

Gail Kubik's notoriously noisy child, "Gerald McBoing Boing," who became an international celebrity by way of his appearances in Columbia Pictures' highly successful cartoon of a few years back, will follow these classic composers in another much-requested performance with The Little Orchestra Society. The Kubik-Seuss saga of childhood feature that turns to spectacular success will be narrated by Eddie Bracken.

New play to make its Upsala debut

New York City's "The Theatre Company" will present the first college performance of a new play, "Primitives," at Upsala College's "Woodshop" theatre, East Orange, on Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

"Primitives," which has been described as a powerful study in basic human reality, comes to Upsala after a two-week world premiere run at New York's Cafe La Mama. After the Upsala performance, the company will tour other colleges and universities in the East during the winter.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

LOVE IS MUCH MORE THAN SEX

Dear Amy: Your response to the 21 year old girl who did not want to ruin her life with an unwanted pregnancy angered and annoyed me, but what I cannot understand is why a woman who appears to be fairly young herself had such a "victorian" reply to that letter!

I am 22 years old and attend Boston University's junior college. I know that I am not exaggerating when I say that girls—women of my age—do not consider it immoral to make love. (I can only say it is immoral to make love with a man whom you do not feel strong, good emotions for.)

I've heard from with 32 other undergrads, not one of whom is a virgin and none of whom is:

- a cheap (as a Gatorsburg girl might say)
- a "free love hippie"
- a prostitute

AMEN!

Poor Amy, still clinging to backwoods morals and looking down on a younger girl who thinks in straighter lines than you!

Oh, Amy, who every you are, GROW UP!

A Young Bethesda

Dear Young: Let me assure you that I am all grown up—mentally and physically. To that end, I can advise you that love is much more than sex.

My convictions may be Victorian to you, but they are tried and true. You're, along with your 32 undergrad friends, are not. I don't think it is wishful thinking to suggest that you write me 10 years from now and let me know how you all are doing; and whether you advocate for your children what you consider was good enough for you.

may learn something you don't already know.

Dear Amy: Our son is subject to the draft. Recently a friend told us there is a selective service ruling that when there is one son in the family to carry on the family name, he will not be drafted. We want to know if this is true?

Mr. & Mrs. Q. T. Dear Mr. & Mrs.:

There is such a ruling, but there must be extenuating circumstances to obtain such a deferment. For further information, contact your local Selective Service Board on the "Q.T."

Strict teacher may not be successful

Researcher advocates informal approach

The traditional absolute authority and non-negotiable type of teacher may not be the most effective in the classroom, says a Rutgers researcher, who has found that a less formal approach to teaching is better received by students.

A lengthy study of the effectiveness of "non-directive" and "directive" teachers has revealed that teachers who are less formal, structured and absolute in their teaching have a slight edge in the classroom over their "directive" counterparts.

Results of the study, conducted in two vocational high schools by Dr. Bruce Tuckman of the Rutgers Graduate School of Education faculty, showed that students were more satisfied with, preferred and earned higher grades from non-directive teachers in both vocational and non-vocational subjects.

Twenty-four teachers of both vocational and non-vocational subjects were audiotaped by the researcher and placed in either directive or non-directive categories.

For purposes of the study a directive teacher was considered formal in the conduct of class time, and absolute in his authority on the subject and in discipline. A non-directive teacher was considered roughly the opposite in each case.

Students, in turn, were also classified into one of two groups—concrete information processors and authoritarian in attitude, or abstract and non-authoritarian.

Before the study, Dr. Tuckman believed that he would find that directive teachers were more effective with concrete authoritarian students, and non-directive teachers with abstract, non-authoritarian students.

The primary finding of the study, however, was that while the abstract, non-authoritarian students showed a marked preference for non-directive teachers, the other type of students exhibited no preference for either.

Implicit in this finding is the conclusion that non-directive teaching is more effective in more cases than its counterpart.

Based on the findings, Dr. Tuckman suggests that teachers should seek to be versatile in their teaching styles so as to be able to react effectively to differences in students' personalities.

New teachers, in particular, he says, should be given more information about the non-directive approach and should be permitted more opportunities to practice it.

"After beginning to appreciate differences in student learning styles," Dr. Tuckman says, "teachers can then develop the capability to use alternative teaching styles and to choose between them as the situation requires."

The non-directive approach to teaching, Dr. Tuckman notes, does not enjoy widespread popularity among school administrators and the public. Unfortunately, he says, the teaching style is judged by the appearance of the classes as to order, quiet and discipline.

"The learning process doesn't necessarily work that way," Tuckman says. "Some administrators brag that you can hear a pin drop in their school. That is unfortunate."

According to Dr. Tuckman's checklist for judging teachers, a directive teacher:

- emphasizes facts rather than encouraging thinking for oneself;
- allows no variation from the curriculum as opposed to a willingness to diverge from it;
- controls communication within the classroom rather than encouraging freedom to speak out.

- requires absolute adherence to academic authority rather than individual skepticism;
- is rigid and traditional in relationships with the class as opposed to being informal;
- punishes expression of emotions rather than allowing such expression.

Further, according to Dr. Tuckman, a directive teacher would require all students responses be made toward the teacher while a non-directive teacher would encourage discussion among the students. He would also lecture most of the time instead of encouraging in-class discussion.

Dr. Tuckman himself provides an example of student preference of non-directive teaching style that he discovered while teaching graduate students at Rutgers.

"I discovered," he says, "that the students really weren't interested in hearing me lecture, and it gave my ego quite a jolt. But now I type up and mimeograph my presentation and the class engages in a free-wheeling discussion."

Dr. Tuckman's project was under the auspices of the Federal Office of Education's Bureau of Research. In addition to being an associate professor of vocational education and educational psychology at the State University, Dr. Tuckman is director of the Rutgers SCOE center, an educational research unit.

Museum exhibits Inness paintings
The Montclair Art Museum's collection of 12 paintings by George Inness are on view in the Central Court of the museum through Dec. 7. The collection ranges from Inness's Hudson River School style of painting in the earlier works, notably the "Delaware Water-Gap" of 1859, to the later impressionist surfaces of his Montclair period. In the latter vein are "Winter Morning, Montclair," 1882 and "Early Autumn, Montclair," 1886. The artist lived and worked in Montclair from 1878 until his death in 1894.

Martland joins national group studying cancer in children

Martland Hospital/New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, Newark, has become the national Children's Cancer Group A nationwide cooperative organization of 20 medical centers and schools established to study leukemia and other malignancies in children. Organized and funded by the National Cancer Institute and federal money, the Children's Cancer Group A provides member institutions with access to such experimental drugs as L-Asparaginase and Cytosine Arabinoside, which are not available presently to other groups.

The patients on "study" are provided with free medical treatment and the highly specialized knowledge and care of several doctors. In turn, they provide physicians with an invaluable pool of data on childhood malignancies. The median survival of leukemia patients has been extended nearly three years for those on "study."

The service now available at Martland Hospital is open to all children, age 16 or under, with any form of malignancy. At the present time, all services are free except for hospitalization costs; however, Martland Hospital hopes to obtain a grant next year from the federal government which will provide funds for this purpose.

Patients may be referred to the service by their own doctors or may contact Dr. Leonard Vitale, chief of the Hematology Division, Department of Pediatrics, Martland Hospital, by calling 648-3292.

Ferkiss, who is professor of government at Georgetown University, will speak on "The Creation of Technological Man." A consultant to the Peace Corps, he is a former field director for the Africa Training Program of the International Cooperation Administration. From scrap to sculpture at Upsala

Torches blaze the way to new art form

A garage on the 45-acre campus of Upsala College, East Orange, contains two tons of scrap steel and iron that will be used for a unique academic purpose.

Women and male students plan to transform the junk into sculptural artistry with the use of their imagination and an oxyacetylene torch. The "junk pile" includes dented fenders, an antiquated treadle sewing machine, gear parts, wheel fittings and muffler casings, all obtained from a junk yard for the sake of the arts.

The process is called "metal-working-in-sculpture" and, according to instructor Richard Barnett of New York City, there is no limit to what the students can accomplish.

"You can make kinds of images out of this that you would never get out of clay or stone," said Barnett who once studied to be a doctor but decided that art was more to his liking.

THIS SEMESTER MARKS the first time that sculpture is being offered as a full course at Upsala and, to get things off on the right foot, Barnett and a student, Jeff Cohen of Carteret, heated the steel and iron in a truck to the Upsala campus from a junk yard in a nearby town.

Metal working teaches three dimensions in sculpture and is becoming more and more popular, Barnett commented. "In a sense, we can make a replica of almost anything with the use of metal," Barnett said.

He said students, if they so desired, could convert the dented fenders and sewing machine parts into "beautiful figurative work such as the Madonna and Child." Or, if they are more ambitious, they could produce a simplified version of the Garden of Eden, mar on the moon, or even the crowded Garden State Parkway on a Sunday.

"After all, I dare say some of these parts came as a result of accidents on the Parkway on a Sunday," Barnett said. "In a sense, we would be reproducing in sculpture a typical scene with the original parts."

BARNETT SAID METALWORK sculpture is really an extension of that performed by the old blacksmith and forger. "Strangely, our technology isn't that different," he commented. "The one thing we have that they didn't have is the torch which welds the parts together. In their old primitive way they were sculptors, too, but unfortunately they have become a dying art."

The sculpture course at Upsala also includes clay modeling and casting and carving, mainly wood, with plans to get into the area of stone soon.

Barnett was graduated from Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, with a BA degree in 1965. He took a two-year medical course at the University of Chicago while attending art school at night. He then went on leave of absence from the medical school, took off for New York City and got his master of arts degree at NYU.

"I decided you couldn't be a half-time doctor and a half-time artist and the pendulum swung in favor of the brush instead of the scalpel," Barnett stated.

Barnett, who started teaching art at Upsala in 1966, maintains a sculpture studio in Manhattan, and has had exhibits in Westport, Conn., the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton and the Marcia Longdy Gallery in New York City.

November truck inspection urged

Owners and operators of commercial vehicles were urged this week by Miss June Strelecki, director of the state Division of Motor Vehicles, to have their vehicles inspected this month instead of waiting until December.

"Each year," Miss Strelecki said, "motorists are subjected to long waiting lines at inspection stations during the month of December. This situation is caused to a great extent by commercial vehicles which are due for inspection by the end of the year."

"To minimize the inconvenience to motorists whose vehicles must be inspected in December, the cooperation and assistance of owners and operators of commercial vehicles which are due for inspection by the end of this year should be presented for inspection before December. Vehicles which must be inspected before the end of this year include all those not bearing the current black and blue inspection sticker."

FINANCIAL PLANNING AFTER FIFTY
A friend of mine recently made the following comment in the middle of a discussion of financial planning:

"Gerald, I'm going on fifty-five. I've never given any thought before to investing for financial security. I'm now beyond the age when one thinks about such things."

That remark gave me the opening to make a point that ought to be stressed as strongly as possible.

"Let's see," I said, "do you expect to be around for another ten years?"

"Of course," he exclaimed, "A lot longer than that."

"And you'd like to anticipate a decent income when you get there?"

"Certainly. But how do you do it?"

"Have you ever thought of investments such as mutual funds? With your money spread over many companies, there's a real chance of your realizing a good profit in the next ten years."

Perhaps he has substantial reasons for taking a different route toward financial security a decade from now. After all, there are many ways to make or save money.

I suppose the real moral is: It's never too late (or too soon) to start financial planning for retirement. Because you will have to cut expenses or increase income. And the sooner you start planning, the easier it will be when R-day finally arrives.

To help you start your planning now, I'd suggest you send for the newly revised "Guide to Financial Planning." This fact-packed booklet will show you how to set up a budget ... increase income ... cut expenses ... safeguard emergency funds ... invest spare cash. It also includes helpful tables and charts on social security, comparisons of retirement investments, "break-even" tables, federal and state retirement benefits. And there's a worksheet to let you map your financial planning goals.

For a copy of this helpful guide, send 50 cents to Harvest Years Publishing Co., Dept. F, 104 E. 40th Street, New York, N.Y. 10016.

The Public Education Committee of the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society will hold its first biennial teachers seminar on cancer education Tuesday at the Central Research Institute of A.H. Redwood, Inc.

Leaders will include Gore B. Fulton, Ph.D., associate professor of health and physical education and coordinator of health education at Trenton State College, Doris G. Winter, Ph.D., professor of science and education at Paterson State College, and Warren H. Krauer, M.D., assistant clinical professor of the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry.

Dr. Fulton will speak on "Why Give Our Youth a Healthy Education?" He will discuss the methods of developing a continuing cancer education program in schools on both the high school and elementary levels.

Dr. Winter, a biologist and chemistry professor, will speak on "Giving Your Teaching Some Stimulation." Her address will cover presentation methods of cancer education materials and concepts.

Dr. Krauer, a specialist in malignant and allied diseases, will talk on the topic, "Give Your Doctor a Chance," based on the principle that an early diagnosis of cancer can help facilitate its treatment.

Education agency for Union County renames chairman

James S. Avery of Scotch Plains was re-elected chairman of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education at the annual meeting last week at Union College.

Avery, an executive of the Humble Oil and Refining Co., was elected the coordinating agency's first president a year ago. The agency has signed contracts to utilize Union College, a "two-year community college of the academic disciplines," for university-paralleled programs and Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, for technical and occupational oriented programs in lieu of a County College.

Edward G. Walzer of Summit, a partner of Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith, Newark, was re-elected vice-chairman, and Mrs. Anna M. Grygolis of 1526 Bergen Ave., Linden, a county and state PTA leader, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Avery and Walzer, who were recently reappointed to four-year terms on the coordinating agency by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, were sworn in by Assistant County Attorney Ralph Mancini.

Dr. Kenneth C. Mackay, executive director, said an annual report is being prepared for the coordinating agency for submission to the Union County Board of Freeholders.

Other members of the coordinating agency are Robert F. Douglas of Scotch Plains, president of the vocational school board; George W. Kampf, Jr., of Elizabeth, an international representative of the United Automobile Workers; and Dr. Albert B. Moser Jr. of Westfield, chairman of the Education Committee of Union College's Board of Trustees.

UC students plan to join DC strike

A number of Union College students will participate in the Washington, D.C. strike by tomorrow in Washington, D.C. But there'll be no lock-out on the Cranford campus.

Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president, said this week that classes will be conducted as usual, but students will be free to attend or not to attend "as their own conscience and judgment demand."

There has been a great deal of student interest in the anti-war demonstration, according to Miss Sherry Weiner of Cranford, and Daniel Billy of Clark, student coordinators of the moratorium, and they expect many students will make the trip to Washington.

The Oct. 15 Moratorium was observed at Union College as a Day of Awareness with students and faculty participating in programs designed to explore the issue of the Vietnam War thoroughly and objectively. While classes met as scheduled, Dr. Iversen encouraged students to "mark the day in positive, constructive ways."

Jaycees to sponsor Junior Miss contest

Javel named to new UC post for handling school's finances

The appointment of Francis J. Javel of Hillside to the newly-created position of vice president-finance of Union College was announced yesterday by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

In the new position, Javel, who is Union College's only adjunct professor, will be responsible for all business and financial operations of Union College, including investments, budgeting, accounting, purchasing, plant management and operation of the Book Store.

Javel, an alumnus of Union College, will be the second vice president in the 37-year history of Union College. The college's first vice president was LeRoy W. Smith of Elizabeth, who was appointed vice president-college relations in 1968.

"With the expansion of our college in terms of greatly increased enrollments and in terms of a broader educational program, we need more top level management to handle our larger and more complex operations," Dr. Iversen said. "We are confident that Prof. Javel will be able to fill all aspects of this important new position."

Javel is a graduate of Rutgers University and holds a master's degree in business administration from New York University. He is the former treasurer of Fisher Stevens Inc., of Clifton, a post he held for 18 years. For the past 23 years, he has taught courses in business administration in the Evening Session at Union College.

He is past president of the Paterson Purchasing and Sales Club and director of the Clifton Chamber of Commerce. He is also chairman of the Clifton Postal Committee and of the New Jersey Direct Mail Users.

Allen will be followed by our guest luncheon speaker, Joe Black, vice president, Grayhound Corporation, former Brooklyn Dodger star and former resident of Plainfield, N.J.

The co-chairmen are John Vlahakes, President Thomas Collators, Industries, Linden, and Harold Coombs, manager of Equal Opportunity Programs, Ciba Corporation, Summit.

This Union County Urban League is a charitable and educational organization that operates as a community service agency, using the tools and methods of social work to secure equal opportunity for Negroes and other minorities.

YMCA balloon on long journey

On Aug. 22, the Summer Day Camp at the Five Points YMCA in Union launched a giant balloon into the air.

Two and a half months later, Y officials learned where it had landed: in the Maine woods, more than 400 miles away.

Howard Merrick, YMCA branch executive, explained that a feature of the Summer Day Camp program is the launching of helium filled balloons, with attached postcards to see which will go the furthest and to conduct basic studies of air currents. Cards have been returned to the campers from as far away as Long Island and Connecticut.

Merrick said that on the last day of the camp season, the counselors made their own special balloon, 12 feet in diameter, with 24 post cards attached to smaller balloons inside it.

Merrick received the return post cards in the mail last week. They were found, still in the giant polyethylene balloon, by Ralph Duffin and his father-in-law, Charles Thompson, on the first day of hunting season, Nov. 1, in the deep woods of Maine, north of Bangor.

Actor will speak at State Museum

Henry Butler, theater and Metropolitan Opera singer and director, will present a lecture at the New Jersey State Museum Auditorium on Saturday, Nov. 15 at 8 p.m.

Butler will speak on the topic, "Who Needs the Arts?" The lecture is free, and audiences will be seated half an hour before program begins. Parking is available.

FRANCIS J. JAVEL is a veteran of World War II and served as a contract officer with the U.S. Army. He is married and the father of two sons, Eric, a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, who is attending the University of Pittsburgh on a fellowship, and Alan, a senior at Johns Hopkins.

Bloomfield Symphony to perform

The opening concert of the 1969-70 season of the Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra will be held on Sunday, Nov. 23, at 3 p.m. at the Bloomfield Senior High School, 160 Broad St., Bloomfield. The orchestra is conducted by Edward Napiewocki.

The concert will include the following selections: Rhapsody in Blue by Gershwin, Italian Symphony No. 4 by Mendelssohn, and the Ballet Suite from Coppelia by Delibes.

Guest soloist will be pianist Rose Nimaroff of Kenilworth. Mrs. Nimaroff began her study of the piano at age six with Helen Edelstein and later with Alex Chiappinelli of Newark. She was a first prize winner for eight consecutive years in the New Jersey Music Contest-Estate competitions. At 17, while a student of the late Max Friedman, she was awarded first prize in a nationwide contest featuring the music Rachmaninoff.

After graduating from Montclair State College, Mrs. Nimaroff studied with Dr. Edna Mac Eachern. She held a fellowship with the late Carl Fiebigel of the Juilliard Graduate School of Music and has appeared as guest artist at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, in the Young Artists Series at the Brooklyn Museum, and the American Artists Series. She is currently studying tone styling with Louise Curcio of Newark.

Overlook launches fund drive to expand coronary care unit

"Saving Lives at Overlook" is the theme of the Overlook Hospital campaign, which kicks off this week to a $500,000 goal, with a number of important projects on-the-planning boards, according to Robert E. Heinlein, Overlook's director and board president.

A major aim this year is the doubling in size of Overlook's coronary care unit from four to eight beds, with the latest and most advanced electronic monitoring equipment for a total cost over $100,000.

Illustrating the life-saving techniques of the C.C.U.'s brochure, is being mailed to more than 15,000 friends of the hospital, to enlist their support.

Overlook was the first hospital in the state to establish a Coronary Care Unit, and since has trained nurses both statewide and from all across the country in the highly skilled nursing techniques required on the unit. Setting the pace for community hospitals, Overlook has played a leading role in the fight against coronary disease, major killer in the U.S.

The 80-bed extended care facility now under construction is being built as a two-story superstructure over the top level of the hospital's deck parking garage, with a connecting covered ramp to the main hospital.

"FULL OCCUPANCY" of the extended care facility is scheduled and should greatly relieve bed pressure on the acute units," Heinlein said. "Designed for longer term patients, the extended care unit will provide continuity of care at less cost to the patient because less nurse staffing will be required."

The new unit has been designed and decorated in a relaxing decor, fully carpeted, with sundeck and lounges, communal dining hall and other features.

To accommodate the added patients of the extended care unit, Overlook must enlarge its kitchen facilities.

Completion of the air-conditioning and modernization of Overlook's oldest wings on Morris avenue is also proceeding well on schedule, with major cutwork now completed, hall ceilings lowered, new lighting installed. Renovation remains to be done to bring all areas of the hospital to an equal level of patient comfort.

"This has been a highly complex task, with high patient occupancy enabling only limited areas to be closed off while work went on, necessitating transfer of patients and records," Heinlein added.

The installation of oxygen and suction systems to the converted sixth floor medical-surgical area is also on the planning boards. A data communications system called Modelco T.H.I.S. (Total Hospital Information Service) is being installed to streamline in-hospital orders, expedite billing, lower operating costs, and relieve nurses of clerical detail for more bedside nursing.

Skiers plow into season

Sliding language, the snow plow position and the snow plow turn will be the ski school subjects when the Short Hills Ski Club meets at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Springfield American Legion Hall, opposite the Springfield Municipal Building.

Club ski instructor Ferd Burger will review the many terms peculiar to skiing before he begins his first ski class of the season on the snow plow technique. The snow plow is the beginning position in the American technique of skiing.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be John Canova, a representative of the Hart Ski Company and the Henke Company. Canova will discuss fiberglass and metal skis, release bindings and the new plastic ski boots. He also will show a ski film.

Jan Zymroz of Springfield, membership chairman, said skiers of all abilities and persons interested in skiing are welcome to attend the meeting.

More than 200 skiers from central New Jersey are members of the club. In addition to the Tuesday night meetings, the club also operates a ski lodge at Lower Granville, Va., near such ski areas as Mud River Glen, Sugarbush and Killington.

CHRISTMAS SEAL CRUSADERS — Miss Katharine D. Cass of Union, chairman of the Union County Christmas Seal campaign sponsored by the TB-Respiratory Disease Association of Central New Jersey, receives a replica of the 1966 seal from Robert B. Condit, syndicated newspaper columnist, honorary chairman of the fund-raising drive. This year's seal features a Christmas tree surrounded by a ring of dancing children. Looking on is Joseph B. Bagley, president of the group's board of directors. The annual campaign to stamp out emphysema, TB and other respiratory diseases opened this week in Union, Hudson and Monmouth counties, the area served by TB-RD Central.

Christmas Seal campaign under way

The TB-Respiratory Disease Association of Central New Jersey launched its Christmas Seal Campaign in Union, Hudson and Monmouth counties this week. More than a million sheets of seals—a four-unit entry featuring a Christmas tree surrounded by a ring of dancing children—are being delivered in the mail throughout the tri-county region. This year's drive is being directed by Robert B. Condit, syndicated newspaper columnist, honorary chairman and Miss Katharine D. Cass of Union, chairman. "The Christmas Seal campaign," Miss Cass said, "is the only appeal our association makes during the year. Each year the need for the services provided by TB-RD Central continues to grow, and I urge all Union County families to return their contributions as soon as possible so that we may properly budget our programs for 1970." TB-RD Central is an outgrowth of a merger of the Union, Hudson and Monmouth County TB and Health Leagues, which took place in 1967. "The tri-county organization," Miss Cass continued, "is one of the most progressive groups of its kind in the nation and we are proud of our record. Last year, we helped to establish a hospital-based respiratory care treatment center, offered scholarships to educate and train inhalation therapists, par-medical specialists needed by all area hospitals, and presented the first physical exam on respiratory care held in New Jersey." Other programs conducted by the association during the year include a pilot TB testing project for pre-school children, conferences on tuberculosis testing for school nurses and a series of training courses in respiratory care for registered nurses. The inter-program will continue until 100 nurses have participated in the sessions. "Despite reports to the contrary," Miss Cass said, "the old nemesis, TB, is still a serious community problem. Last year more than 600 new cases were discovered in the tri-county area, raising the number of known TB patients over the 3,000 mark.

Union College establishes new division to direct off-campus education activities

The establishment of a division of community services at Union College, Cranford, N.J., was announced yesterday by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president. Dr. Iversen said the new division will be responsible for all off-campus educational projects, all non-credit courses and programs, continuing education for adults and liaison with minority and other community groups.

"In our role as Union County's community college, we have a responsibility to provide a greatly expanded program of educational offerings for all segments of our population and in all areas of Union County," Dr. Iversen said. "We have always had an extensive program of community services, but these activities will be centralized in the new division and will be broadened and expanded in many areas."

Dr. Iversen said the Community Services Division will sponsor concerts and lecture series, provide facilities for community, cultural and professional organizations, conduct short courses, workshops, seminars and serve coordinating function for adult education throughout Union County.

"WE VIEW OUR RESPONSIBILITY in continuing education for adults ranging from high school drop outs to college graduates who want programs to keep them up-to-date in their professions or programs for their own intellectual development," Dr. Iversen said. "We also view our responsibility as serving as a catalyst to meet educational needs in Union County by bringing together diverse groups and agencies in the community in an effort to contribute to the solution of the social, economic, cultural and civic problems of the community, which are becoming increasingly important as our society becomes more complex and more urbanized." Dr. Iversen said several new community services have already been launched this academic year. They include off-campus credit courses for Plainfield municipal employees at Plainfield Police Headquarters, and credit courses for adults at the Plainfield Adult

School. Union College is working with CAPEO (Community Action For Economic Opportunity) in Elizabeth in its New Gargers program and with the Plainfield Model Cities program to help meet their educational needs.

Under contract with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, Union College is providing university-parallel programs for Union County, Dr. Iversen explained. He said Union College's major function will continue to be a two-year transfer institution, but greater emphasis will be given community services and continuing educational opportunities for adults.

Heart group offers Yule cards Sixth year for fund campaign

Those who haven't ordered their Christmas cards can still do so—and help the Union County Heart Association at the same time. For the sixth straight year the association is offering festive holiday greeting cards. This year's card is a reproduction of a watercolor winter scene.

Mrs. Henrietta Froehlich, executive director of the Union County Heart Association, said orders for personally imprinted cards will be processed if they are received by Nov. 20. Unimprinted cards will be available until Dec. 20.

The Christmas card campaign has achieved great acceptance among Union County business and industrial firms in the six years it has been available. Mrs. Froehlich noted that many concerns are sending the cards instead of calendars or other gifts because "they realize the significance of the message each card bears."

Last year the Union County Heart Association realized $1,800 from card sales and this year Mrs. Froehlich is hoping sales will climb to $2,000.

The cards can be purchased individually, in boxes of 25, or in quantities of 100 or 1,000. The minimum contribution is 15 cents a card. The watercolor card is available with a choice of three greetings and on the opposite page the messenger. This greeting helps the Heart Association in their fight against heart disease.

Cards may be ordered by phoning the Union County Heart Association at 353-7391 or at its headquarters, 98 West Jersey St., Elizabeth.

Rinaldo seeks increase in counties' tax share

State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-Union) announced plans yesterday to introduce legislation increasing counties' shares of inheritance tax receipts from 8 to 25 percent. "This measure is being introduced on Monday in hopes of increasing the funds available to counties, which in turn must tax property to raise money," Senator Rinaldo declared. "The rising costs of county government are creating an increasingly heavy burden on the local property owner. This measure is an attempt to do something positive to lighten the burden borne by the average homeowner." Rinaldo noted the bill would provide additional revenues of approximately $10 million a year, based on 1968 receipts. He added that county revenues were heavily dependent upon property taxes, which accounted for 72.3 percent of county revenues in 1967. "The state has already taken the first step toward providing some property tax relief by enacting my proposal for allowing 10 percent of sales tax revenues to municipalities," Senator Rinaldo asserted. "With real-estate taxes in New Jersey being among the highest in the country, we have an obligation to do much more for the property owner. Adoption of my proposal on inheritance taxes would be another important step in this direction."

October's weather was as expected

"Near normal" is the way Harold D. Duffoco, meteorologist at the U. S. Cooperative Weather Station at Union College, Cranford, described the month of October. In his monthly meteorological summary to the U. S. Weather Department, Duffoco noted that the average daily temperature was 54.7 degrees, which was 4 degrees below normal. The month's high was 80 degrees, reached on the 3rd, 12th and 20th of the month. Highest temperature on record is 86 degrees, recorded October 5, 1967. The month's low of 23 degrees was reached Oct. 24, which was also the coldest day of the month with an average temperature of 37 degrees. Total degrees days for the month were 328, bringing the total for the heating season which began Sept. 1 to 400, as compared to 283 in 1968. A total of 1.85 inches of rain fell during the month, which was 67 inches below normal. Almost half of that, .93 inches, fell in a single rain fall on October 2 and 3. The lowest October temperature was October 1965, when 5.31 inches of rain was recorded. October, 1963, is the driest on record with 37 inches of measurable rainfall. Total rainfall for the year through October is 43.29 inches. Skies were cloudy or gray most of the month, according to Duffoco, who reports 11 cloudy days, 10 partly cloudy days and 10 clear days.

But not anymore.

At 6'3", 220 lbs., you might say that Bill Mathis of the World Champion New York Jets had outgrown his name. One way or another, this happens to everyone. As we grow, we change. And suddenly, childhood names don't fit anymore. Nobody understands this better than we! We used to be called the First State Bank of Union, a name we wore with pride.

But as we grew and our services expanded, so did the area we serve. In the near future we'll have offices in Clark, Middlesex and New Providence as well as Union. And we're planning to extend our banking services to many other areas of New Jersey. Soon we'll be offering the popular Master Charge.

So we changed our name to First New Jersey Bank. A name that reflects the wider area we serve. And our commitment to putting the interests of our customers — first.

Election coverage criticized by Union College professor

The Nov. 4 election underscored one major need in New Jersey that wasn't included in either gubernatorial candidate's campaign. And that's better media news coverage for the state, according to Prof. Richard J. Selco, history professor and coordinator of the Social Studies Department at Union College.

noted, "devoted most of its coverage to speculation on the political future of John Lindsey, even to his presidential chances." Selco said, "we have no really statewide newspaper, TV or radio network to give our political actions the attention they deserve." As to the significance of the outcome of the election in New Jersey, Selco was inclined to credit Governor-elect Cahill's victory to a Republican trend which got its start in the State-Legislature elections in 1967. He noted that Cahill's vote was not appreciably different from the combined Nixon-Wallace vote in 1968.

Film on Yosemite scheduled Sunday at Science Center

"Highroads to Yosemite," a color, sound film will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Sunday at 2 p.m. The film shows the mountain ranges, gorges, waterfalls and towering sequoias in Yosemite National Park, California.

Also on Sunday, at 3 p.m. and again at 4 p.m. Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, and Elmer Van Gilder, educational assistant, will present a program entitled "Time and the Seasons" in the Trailside Planetarium. The lecturers will show how we use the motions of the heavenly bodies to keep time. The same program will also be offered on Wednesday at 8 p.m., and on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 20, at 4 p.m.

As the Trailside Planetarium can seat but 55 people at a performance, it is necessary to obtain tickets from the Trailside office on the day of the show. Tickets are issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Children under eight years of age are not permitted in the planetarium chamber.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Fridays, from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. The public may visit the Nature Center, tour the live animal area, view the thousands of indoor exhibits, and participate in the scheduled programs.

Woodwind quintet to present concert

The Richards Woodwind Quintet will present a concert on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Seton Hall University Student Center on the South Orange campus. The concert is free and open to the public.

Unlike the sound of smooth, homogeneous string quartets, woodwind ensembles produce exotic, colorful sonorities, each instrument having its own distinct timbre and unmistakable personality. The blending and contrasting of these sounds produces a fascinating variety of tone colors.

The Richards Quintet, a combination of flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon and French horn was formed 20 years ago at the University of Michigan and is in residence there. The quintet will present works ranging from the naive, songful romanticism of Carl Nielsen to the brisk, sardonic humor of Paul Hindemith.

OTHER FACTORS working in favor of Cahill's "landslide," according to Prof. Selco, were: the growing argument that it was "time for a change," the growth of the suburban vote combined with a loss of votes in urban centers, and the appeal of new leadership.

The absence of any real issues in the campaign pinpointed Cahill's "tired image" of former Gov. Robert B. Meyner and made appeals for "new leadership" more effective, Selco suggested.

To read the results as a mere reaction, however, is an oversimplification of the facts, Selco added, noting that the passage of the water bond issue indicates that people are apparently willing to pay for survival.

Selco agreed both candidates on their failure to take a strong stand on a more broad based tax. While the Republican trend established in 1967 has increased momentum, Selco concluded with the observation that perhaps it will be blunted by the need to perform in office.

For 16 years, the Republicans have had the luxury of complaining about the governor without having to shoulder full responsibility for executive failures," he pointed out.

AAI was organized by a small group of amateur astronomers interested in furthering their own education in the field at a non-professional level. Today, the organization includes more than 100 members and in programs conducted in cooperation with the William Miller Sperry Observatory at Union College, Cranford.

AAI is making a significant contribution to the education of the general public in the field of astronomy. Members teach courses for students, teachers and adults and also conduct viewing sessions every Friday evening at the observatory.

AAI also operates the observatory, the second largest in the state, in cooperation with Union College.

Further information concerning the hikes may be obtained from the recreation department of the Union County Park Commission.

FOR A BRIGHTER HOLIDAY—Alpha Phi Omega fraternity at Union College, Cranford, is launching a Christmas wreath sale. Proceeds will brighten the holiday season for children at the Union County Cerebral Palsy Center, Cranford, where the fraternity hosts its annual Christmas party. Showing off sample wreaths are Gregory DeWolf of Cranford, Danny Conway of Elizabeth and John J. Clark of Rahway.

Wreath sale benefits handicapped

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas at Union College, Cranford, anyway. Members of Alpha Phi Omega fraternity are selling pine cone Christmas wreaths to raise funds for the annual fraternity-sponsored Christmas party at the Union County Cerebral Palsy Center in Cranford.

The Cerebral Palsy Center is located in the former Grant School, which is the former home of Union College. Students at Union College have taken a special interest in the

Builder offers reasons behind construction lag

Although New Jersey's soaring population, combined with its high percentage of inadequate or substandard housing, indicates a strong need for significant acceleration in apartment construction, Paul Goldman, president of Goldman Builders of Union County, says that economic pressures are forcing major building organizations to reassess apartment building plans and the resulting demand may go unfulfilled.

"We know from our experience in building and managing apartment units in New Jersey," Goldman said, "that there is a strong demand for apartments. This is due not only to growing population and industrial expansion, but also because rising single-family home costs are increasing the apartment market."

A few years ago, Goldman observed, major builders would have moved quickly to tap this boom-sized market. But this year it isn't happening. He advanced four major reasons for the lag in apartment construction:

- 1. The high cost of money which makes it more difficult for the builder-investor to earn a substantial return on his investment.
2. Rapidly rising construction land and labor costs which accelerate the amount of money a builder has to borrow.
3. The traditional reluctance of some municipalities to approve apartment construction -- and the resulting

LWV is planning human resources discussion series

"Human Resources" is the subject for discussion at the November unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of Westfield, according to Mrs. John Thatcher, president. Units, scheduled for the week include:
 Tuesday, 12:45 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Brooke Cardiner, 1364 Stony Brook Lane, Mountaintide.
 Thursday, Nov. 20, 9:15 a.m., at the home of Mrs. Robert Thompson, 142 Greenwood rd., Mountaintide.
 Baby-sitting is available for the Thursday morning session.
 Mrs. Harry Cordes, chairman of human resources, stated that the subject for study and discussion is so broad and has so many ramifications that an innovation is being introduced in this month's units. Each unit session will present a different aspect of the problem. "Income Maintenance Proposals" will be discussed on Tuesday.
 Thursday's session will bring the problem to the level of what each individual can do to help towards a solution of many of the problems in providing equality of opportunity for education, employment and housing for all people. There will be particular stress on the role of the suburbanite in our changing world.

Tips for Today's Homemaker
 From Anne L. Sheelan, County Home Economist

STRETCH TIME AND BUDGET WITH SALISBURY STEAK
 Budget stretchers and time stretchers are in order now as the holiday season approaches. Family meals which are attractive and tasty, however, maintain their demand and cannot be overpriced by the preparation involved during this time of the year.
 For a menu suggestion which adds a different touch to popular ground beef, prepare a Salisbury Steak Belmont recipe which follows. The time needed for preparation and cooking is very little but the result is a dish which has a touch of glamour.
 Serve Salisbury Steak Belmont with a green vegetable, rice or noodles, and either a crisp salad or crisp rolls. A variety of color, texture and flavor will be in evidence in the meal.
 A dinner with such appeal will never reveal that Mom has been busy all day doing other things and trying to save a few extra pennies for the holiday meals not too far off.

SALISBURY STEAK
 3 pounds ground chuck
 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
 Flour
 1/4 cup salad or olive oil
 Combine the meat, green pepper, onion, parsley, salt, and thyme. Shape the meat mixture into eight oval patties. Sprinkle lightly with flour and brush with oil. Broil about 6 minutes on each side or to desired degree of doneness. Arrange on a serving platter and pour Belmont Sauce over steaks.
BELMONT SAUCE
 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1/2 cup ketchup
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
 2 tablespoons cooking sherry
 Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in ketchup, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, mustard and Tabasco. Blend thoroughly. Add sherry and bring just to boiling point. Yield: 8 servings.

Hadassah presents volume to Springfield Public Library

A new book has been presented to the Springfield Public Library by the Springfield Hadassah Chapter in honor of Jewish Book Month. It is "The Voice Still Speaks: Message of the Torah for Contemporary Man," by Morris Adler, which was published this year.
 On Feb. 12, 1966, Rabbi Morris Adler was shot to death, while standing in his Detroit pulpit, by a deranged young man. The Library Journal in its review of the book said, "The voice, however, was not stifled. In this book, his cousin Rabbi Chinitz of Philadelphia has presented 90 of Rabbi Adler's pithy messages taken from taped recordings. The sermons have spontaneity and clarity of expression and are organized to form a reader's guide to the Torah."

The Springfield Hadassah Chapter was organized in 1956. Hadassah was founded in 1912 by a group of American Jewish women under the leadership of Henrietta Szold. Hadassah today is the largest individual Zionist organization in the world. It has a membership of more than 300,000 in more than 1,350 chapters and groups throughout the U.S. and Puerto Rico. For 59 years Hadassah has advanced the welfare and wellbeing of the people of Israel through its medical, child rehabilitation and vocational education programs. The Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center, focal point in Hadassah's work of healing, teaching and research, also serves Arab patients who cannot receive similar treatment elsewhere in the Middle East.
 The Medical Center includes a teaching hospital with some 650 beds; diagnostic and research laboratories; a separate mother and child pavilion for maternity and infant care; outpatient clinics handling 250,000 patients annually; the Henrietta Szold-Hadassah School of Nursing; the Hebrew University-Hadassah Medical School; the Hebrew University-Hadassah School of Dentistry; the Herman Dana Institute of Child Psychiatry; the Siegfried and Irma Ullmann Building for Cancer and Allied Diseases; the John F. Kennedy Building which serves as a tourist information center, and a synagogue, which houses the stained glass windows by Marc Chagall.
 Springfield Hadassah, which recently celebrated its 19th year, comprises approximately 170 women.
 Springfield Hadassah has also given a subscription to the Springfield Library for the Hadassah Magazine. Mrs. Louis Spiegel is chairman of the Hadassah Medical Organization. Mrs. Samuel Braskin is education chairman, and Mrs. Laurence Goodman is president.

TONGUELESS SPEECH
 Is speech possible without a tongue? Most people, including those with tongue cancers, doubt it. But in 1873 E. Twiss, M.D., a British physician, wrote that tongueless speech might be managed. Since the first case reported in 1719 on a person born with practically no tongue, there have been only about 30 examples of this rare deformity.
 New investigators at the National Institute of Dental Research report that a seven year old girl with only a rudimentary tongue (about five-eighths by one inch) has learned by herself to swallow without choking, and to speak quite intelligibly. Of course she has trouble with certain sounds. For "th" she substitutes "f" or "v," as do many children while learning to talk. Her "s" and "z" sounds she manages out of the corner of her mouth, and many other sounds are produced by using her muscles in unusual ways.
 The child herself is more troubled by her unusual appearance from lack of teeth than by communications problems. The difficulty is that providing dentures may interfere with her speech. Since it took her three years to manage single words, and six years to put them into sentences, her therapy team is anxious not to interfere with her hard-won accomplishments.
 However, these researchers (physicians, dentists, and speech therapists) hope their carefully documented analysis of the ways she uses her muscles to speak may be helpful for teaching others who have lost portions of their tongues or have neurological deficiencies and must substitute new muscle patterns for habitual ones.
 Drs. Bernd Weinberg and James Bosma presented their studies of this case at the 27th International Congress on Cleft Palate in Houston, Texas in April and have published them in the May 1969 Journal of Speech and Hearing Disorders.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

For some of us, thoughtfulness is a matter of urgency. If we write a letter to someone requesting payment of a bill, help in some civic endeavor, or support for a worthy cause, we generally close with an advance "thank you" for cooperation.

When the payment has been received, or the job has been done, we are not always so thoughtful.

We are likewise so often involved with our own wants and needs that we are oblivious to the needs of our fellowman, too busy to consider that a small gesture on our part would be of great benefit to a friend or an associate who is sick or in trouble.

This is not to suggest that we should all spend our time looking for "causes" to support, for people to help in one fashion or another. We do not need to become so concerned with our neighbor's crops that we allow our own to spoil in the fields.

We need to remember the times that a distressing situation of our own has been made not so terrible because someone cared enough to lend help and encouragement. If we remember this, we'll always be able to help a friend in need.

Sharey Shalom will sponsor 'pilgrimage' to the Holy Land

A 15-day "pilgrimage" to Israel was announced this week by Temple Sharey Shalom of Springfield. The tour, due to depart on Feb. 21, will be led by Rabbi Israel S. Dresner of the temple and will include many features not ordinarily found in usual trips to the Holy Land. The trip is being offered to the general public and one need not be a member of the temple in order to participate. According to Harold Bass, president of the temple, the pilgrimage will offer an "unusual opportunity to meet Israeli citizens in every walk of life on a person-to-person basis." "Because of Rabbi Dresner's close association to Israel," Bass stated, "as a result of year which he spent there on sabbatical recently, many aspects of Israeli life will be studied by participants far more closely than could ever be possible on most other tours. He has promised that we will spend time with Israelis on all levels, from the farmer to the member of Knesset and high-ranking members of the military and scientific areas as well."

"For instance, several evenings are being planned for visiting the homes of Israelis and on Friday evening, members of the trip will participate in a Sabbath dinner in the homes of members of a Reform congregation in Haifa. We can promise a once-in-a-lifetime trip for those who participate," Bass concluded.

Other highlights of the trip will include visits to the old and new cities of Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, an over-night stay at a kibbutz, visits to Bethlehem, the Weizman Institute, the Western Wall, the Hebrew University and many other places of interest throughout the country.

The final three days of the tour will be spent in Rome with arrival back in the U.S. scheduled for March 8.

Anyone interested in further information regarding the trip may call Beth Kaplan at 379-4237, Howard Kiesel at 379-9440 or the temple office at 379-5357.

Plentiful foods this month to accompany the turkey

November is turkey time—with more Americans sitting down to turkey dinners on Thursday, Nov. 27 than any other single day of the year—and the big bird will share the spotlight with canned peaches as featured items on the list of plentiful foods for the month, says Ann L. Steeler, County Home Economist. Other foods on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's list of November plentiful are dry beans, rice, fresh sweet potatoes, broiler fryers, fresh apples, fresh potatoes and canned and frozen green beans.

The following are some hints on how to use these plentiful November foods.

Golden Chicken (or Turkey) and Rice. Team equal amounts of diced cooked chicken and cooked rice with minced pimiento, minced parsley and slightly beaten eggs as desired. Fold in a well-seasoned cream sauce. Pour into individual greased ramekins and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove from oven, sprinkle with grated cheese and return to oven for five minutes or until cheese melts.

Hints listed on how to buy a Thanksgiving turkey

Be an informed consumer when you select your Thanksgiving turkey this year, says Ann L. Steeler, County Home Economist.

Turkeys are available fresh, killed, frozen, frozen with butter injected and called self-basting, boned and rolled, and then frozen, bonedless, canned, and also cut into halves, quarters, or parts and frozen. Such variety in the styles of turkey available means that the tradition of turkey for Thanksgiving can be retained for the small as well as the large family or when the homemaker is physically limited and cannot handle the weight and bulk of a whole bird.

For greatest satisfaction select turkey in the market by its grade and age. The highest quality turkey is graded USDA GRADE A. Such birds are fully fleshed and meaty, well finished and attractive in appearance.

The USDA GRADE B turkey lacks meatiness and is less attractive in appearance. This grade is seldom printed on poultry labels.

The age, which is sometimes referred to as class on poultry labels, is an indication of how tender the meat will be. Young birds are more tender than older ones. Whether the turkey is a hen or a tom does not affect tenderness when they are both young. Young turkeys, along with the grade seal, may be labeled: Young Turkey, Fryer-Roaster, Young Hen or Young Tom.

Mature turkeys may be labeled: Mature Turkey, Yearling Turkey or Old Turkey. Practically all of the turkeys available on the market are young, or about three to six months old. They have been quickly grown, restricted in exercise, and are suitable for roasting.

The size or style turkey you select depends on your needs. When buying a whole turkey, however, it is generally more economical to buy a large rather than a small bird, because they have a greater proportion of meat to bone. For a turkey under 12 pounds, allow approximately 3/4 to 1 pound per serving. It is wise to plan to have extra turkey meat because it is easily adapted for future meals.

Chilean Beans. Add diced, cooked chicken or turkey to a rich chicken-base sauce lightly touched with chili powder. Spoon five ounces drained, soaked great northern beans onto a serving plate and top with a half cup of the chicken or turkey mixture. If desired, garnish with toasted slivered almonds.

Three Bean Salad. Combine equal amounts of cooked and drained red beans and great northern beans with canned (or cooked frozen) green beans. Add onion rings, thinly sliced celery and an Italian-type French dressing (no tomato flavor). Chill thoroughly.

Green and Gold Salad. Drain and combine canned green beans and canned peach slices, saving peach syrup.

What kind of shoes go with pants?

To begin at the beginning, begin your wardrobe with new looks in lingerie. There are never-before camisoles and tank-tops to wear under sheers. Pant-liners to do for your bellbottoms what slips do for skirts. Bra-slips to pair with boxer shorts or bikini's in a wonderful range of pinks to deck the holidays with zodiac prints, geometrics and tropical florals blooming on black.

A stroll through any lingerie department will tempt you to try the new styles because they're not only pretty, they're practical, right for today's easy-on fashion-life.

Curiously enough, while daywear often subtracts—combining the functions of bra with pantie or bra with slip—sleepwear often adds. Skirts go over romper-like sleep-suits, to make daywear of nightwear. See-throughs have matching bras and bikini's. Matte Jersey gowns are slinky and long, and sometimes have their own coats.

Lingerie today leads a life of its own, though linked to fashion through shape and function, still it's individual in its daytime versions: infinitely varied, infinitely chic in its night-hours array.

Candy drive to help the Y

Three hundred boys and girls of the Summit Area YMCAs are selling chocolate covered mints during November to aid boys and girls in other lands through YMCA World Service, according to Mrs. Woodruff J. English, chairman of the local world service committee.

Last year, local youths raised more than $1,000 toward the Summit world service goal of $4,000 which helps develop YMCAs in 39 countries around the world.

The men are specialists in the fields of boys work, physical education, urban action, administration, finance, or long-range planning. Their main job is that of training local leaders to take over the jobs eventually themselves as the new YMCAs become independent and self-sustaining.

World service funds are also used for the YMCA International Student Service which meets and assists students coming to America.

The guest minister, Culp, is a graduate of DePauw University, Indiana, and of Drew Theological Seminary. During the academic year 1966-67, he attended Edinburgh University as part of his theological course of study. His ministry in Elizabeth has focused on the need for community services in the Jefferson Park area where his church is located.

He and his congregation are involved in developing a day care and community center at the corner of Jefferson Avenue and Mary Street, adjacent to the church. Plans are being made for a work incentive program for welfare mothers whose children will be cared for at the center while they are training for positions as nurses and teachers' aides. Culp is married to the former Jennifer Sunthamer, also a native of Indiana, who received her BA from Newark State College, Union, in 1968. Church School will meet Sunday at 9:30 a.m. with classes for all ages from nursery through senior highs. For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I'm a fourteen-year-old girl. I have a problem. I have been told by other people that I am cute and have a pleasing personality. None of the boys will talk to me because they will be mocked by other girls if they do so. I know this is true because it happened once this year and those girls are still mocking the boy. How do I solve this problem?"

nothing to do with you personally. It's something that goes with being in the early teens. The girls who mock the boy are probably wishing that the boy was paying some attention to them and not to you. Don't make it a bigger problem than it is. Be nice, be friendly, to boys and to girls. First thing you know, no one will find it at all surprising that a boy will spend time talking with you.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

They had no money, they said, attempted to get help and came upon the fuel pump at the firm and decided to borrow enough gas to get home. The owner spotted them and called the police, they reported.

Retire to The Gardens.

Near here. Near there. Near everywhere.

Most retirement communities are near something. Some retirement communities are near many things. But The Gardens is the only retirement community that is near everything you will need for a new way of life. The Gardens is near the Parkway (in fact, two blocks near). And it's just one block from regularly scheduled bus service that will speed you to Tom's River, to New York, to Newark, to Philadelphia, to most anywhere. And the buses run every 30 minutes, all day long. As a dividend, The Gardens is the only retirement community within walking distance of an excellent golf course just opened to the public, across from a huge town park that's under development. When we say NEAR EVERYTHING, we mean NEAR EVERYTHING. Of course, The Gardens also has everything else for retirement that you expect, like planned activities, lakes, community clubhouse and social center—and a wonderful land of trees and lawns and gardens. To add to the beauty, all utilities are underground. So go the distance, yet still stay near to everywhere. At The Gardens.

For low-cost maintenance and high-value comfort: Aluminum siding all around the house (all-brick models available) / Hot water baseboard gas-fired heat. / Full-house Dupont 531 nylon carpeting in choice of 8 colors. / Oven-range, dryer, / City sewers, city water. From $65 month for heat, water, gas, electricity, taxes, garbage removal, snow removal, sewerage, and club membership. 8 models from $17,800.

Visual scanning for heart disease? NCE bio-medical engineer say its possible

In the foreseeable future hospitals may be checking incoming patients for heart problems through the use of a visual scanner; mobile units touring every community may be giving everyone annual quick and painless checks of the heart; and your family doctor may be checking for "latent coronary" problems as easily as he checks your tonsils. Such possibilities are emerging from current bio-medical engineering research under way at Newark College of Engineering and The Saint Michael Medical Center that uses advanced mathematics and complex engineering principles more often associated with radar and sonar than with medicine. Initial studies have proven so successful that the NCE researchers feel confident that they will eventually be able to give the medical profession an important and entirely new diagnostic tool. This could be particularly valuable to the general public, they indicate, since more than 40 percent of natural deaths are attributed to coronary problems. The new method being developed at NCE will assist doctors in ascertaining whether any patient has, or does not have, coronary artery disease, and to make prompt referrals to heart specialists when a patient does show positive readings. THE TECHNIQUE INVOLVED has been developed by Joseph R. Levitt, a doctoral candidate at Newark College of Engineering, under the supervision of his faculty adviser, Dr. Martin J. Levy of the College's mechanical engineering department, and with the cooperation of Dr. Russell W. Brancato, chief of the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratories at Newark's St. Michael's Medical Center. A basic part of what Levitt has done is to recognize that the linear recording of an electrocardiogram is merely a graphic representation of the action of the heart and that such recordings can easily be shown in other forms as well. Levitt has taken ECG transcriptions and mathematically re-cast the wavy lines of heart beat into a closed loop which greatly enhances the visual perceptibility. By studying a large number of normal ECGs, Levitt has been able to refine the variations of normal conditions and, through non-linear mathematics, represent a subject with normal coronary arteries in the annular space between two joined tangent circles. In a typical experiment, Levitt can take an undistorted ECG, convert each complex of the cycle to computer language and have the College computer mathematically describe a closed loop configuration. The ECG/closed loop of a normal heart, free from coronary artery disease, will fall within the annular space enclosure of the two tangent circles. The pattern of the loop drawn from a heart with a coronary problem will swing beyond the boundaries of the circles, giving an instantaneous visual expression of a clinical condition. The value of such a technique could be substantial, Levitt indicates, since wide use would give cardiac specialists a "positive-negative" reading on all patients and allow such specialists the opportunity for greater concentration on known cardiovascular problems. FOR THE EXPERIENCED electrocardiographer reading an ECG, "bizarre" transcriptions are readily apparent since blatant variations are obvious; minute deformations are exactly difficult to spot. Under Levitt's visual presentation, any variation from normal characteristics pull the closed loop outside of the satisfactory range and can refocus the reader's attention on the existence of peculiarities within the ECG. The new technique does not eliminate the need for ECG examination but recasts the same information in such a different manner that the possibility of wide-scale use could tangibly improve the health of the nation. Although Levitt presently uses a lengthy and controlled process to record from ECG transcriptions to closed loop configuration, he feels it would be relatively simple to link a desk-top computer directly to an ECG machine and get an instantaneous "positive-negative" reading or to run all of a hospital's ECGs of the day through at the end of a day in a preliminary culling for the hospital staff. In either case, the use of his technique of topological re-orientation of the data could ease the burden of the cardiac specialist considerably. Levitt and his engineering and medical advisers are firm in their belief of the value of the research, but all are equally strong in their feelings that the research, while quite advanced, is still a research vehicle. Absolutely accurate translations of ECG readings vary in their experiments and the researchers feel that certain refining of the analog to digital conversion process is necessary for a high and consistent accuracy. They feel they are far along enough to know that the system is workable and expect soon to be at the point where statisticians can be happy with their results. LEVITT, 45, EARNED his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering at the Cooper Union School of Engineering and his master's in mechanical engineering at Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. He has also taken doctoral level studies at Temple University. A licensed professional engineer, Levitt has had 17 years of technical engineering experience involving many aspects of the aerospace industry including design engineering, systems engineering, simulation, data processing and testing. He has also had five years of experience in engineering teaching and done basic research in medical physics. A member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, the International Association for Analog Computation and the New York Academy of Science, Levitt has had a number of technical papers published and has presented papers at international conferences held in France and in Tokyo. Several of these papers have dealt with computer and non-linear display techniques; his presentation before the Sixth International Conference on Medical Electronics and Biological Engineering, held in Tokyo, was on the subject of "A New Technique for Early Detection of Pre-Clinical Heart Disease." Jones and 'The Fantasticks' combine for lyrical evening

BY BEA SMITH
It isn't hard to remember the beautiful voice and the handsome face that belongs to that voice, particularly when Allen Jones sings "Try to Remember" in "The Fantasticks" at the Meadowbrook Dinner Theater in Cedar Grove.

...nado" that many years ago. (Jones is the father of Jack Jones, the singer).
In this lyrical show (the original is celebrating its 40th year off-Broadway), the pure, innocent love story between a young boy and a young girl is made more realistic by the lovely tunes and the rhythmic lines presented in Act One (in the moonlight) and Act Two (in the sun).

Jones is well supported by Alice Cannon as the girl and David Gary as the boy. Both youngsters have fine singing voices. The comedy is provided by Dick Enslin, Art Vestry, Ed Preble and Robert Well.

The Harvey Schmidt, Tom Jones stage fantasy is smoothly directed by Stuart Bishop. Donald Yap does a fine job in the musical direction.

An added note: Larue Watts, whose face is familiar to Meadowbrook audiences, does rather a "fantastic" job of playing The Mute. He fits in so well with the music, the story and the cast, and makes himself so conspicuously unnoticed, that it seems, without him, "The Fantasticks" would fall apart, literally speaking.

The musical will play the Meadowbrook through Nov. 30, and it's well worth a visit.

Bulldogs (1-5-1) beaten by Millburn; face tough Roselle team on Saturday

BY ARNOLD GERST

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team was defeated by Millburn last Saturday, 7-0. Springfield, which now is 1-5-1, will meet Roselle in a road game this Saturday beginning at 2 p.m.

The Miller score in the third period was set up by an interception by Dick Amster. Amster intercepted at his own 35 and ran the ball back to the Bulldogs. 33—After half-back Jud Wagonseller advanced to the 31, Millburn gained a first down on a broken play, advancing to the Dayton 18.

The Dayton defense tackled quarterback Joe Barrett back at the 30 but on the following play—the Bulldogs were penalized 15 yards and the Millers had the ball at the 16 with another first down. On second and ten, Barrett ran to the eight. Wagonseller carried to the three for the first down. Wagonseller scored and the extra point was kicked by Jim Diggeso.

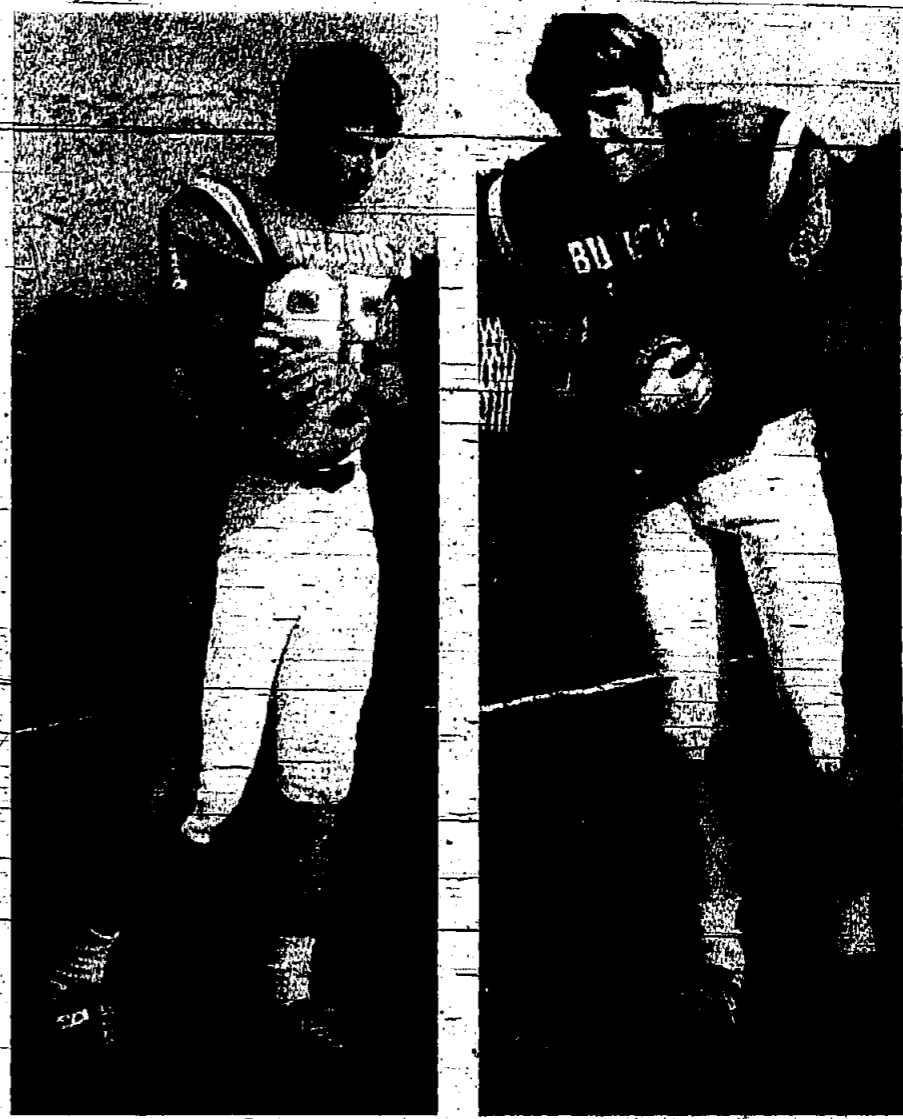

Springfield did not make any serious threat after a first quarter advance to Miller 19 until the fourth quarter. Late in the fourth period Springfield received a Millburn punt at its 44 and advanced in nine plays to the 24, where Dayton fumbled the ball to the Millers.

With two minutes remaining, the Bulldogs got the ball at their 46. After a loss back to the 29, quarterback Bob Janukowicz brought Dayton to the Millburn 15 on passes to Joe Rapuano and Carmine Bove before time expired.

The Bulldogs once again favored Dayton. Springfield led in first downs (9-6), in passing yards (9 for 17 for 85 yards to 3 for 8 for 28 yards) but was on the short side in rushing yards (100-52 total 137-123).

Joe Rapuano had nine carries for 13 yards, while Woody Young had 10 carries for 23 yards. The leading pass receivers were Rapuano with 53 yards and Bove with four catches and 33 yards.

Defensively, as Coach Ted Amo pointed out, Springfield did a very good job. Art Weisbrodt, Danny Silverman and Bove were standouts, with Bill Keller, Gary Grant and Dennis Marino also contributing to a fine team effort. The Dayton defense dropped the Miller passer three times for minus-24 yards. Springfield will take on a Roselle team this Saturday that has shown sharp improvement with a 5-2 record. The Rams are coming off a 15-0 shutout of Metuchen. In previous years, Dayton played some very impressive games against the Rams, and it is hoped that this success will continue.

QUARTERBACK IN SEARCH OF A TARGET—Bob Janukowicz of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School spins from the snap-back and looks for his receiver—in this scene from the Dayton game against Millburn High School at Springfield on Saturday. The visitors won, 7-0.

Booters fall, 7-0, to wrap up season with 4-7-5 record

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School soccer team completed its 1969 season with a 4-7-5 record by losing to Summit, 7-0, in its final contest.

Summit picked up two goals in the first period and three in the second period to open up a 5-0 lead at the half. Phil Goddard, who scored three goals against the Bulldogs in the previous meeting with Dayton, scored two this time. Jim Brannan also scored for Summit.

Keith Prussing won the season's scoring honors with seven goals for Dayton. John Saracino had four; David Rubin, three; Pete May, Larry Sternbach and Alan Schlangier, two; and Dave Minzman, one.

Joel Millman, the Dayton goalie, allowed 52 goals in 16 games for a 2.0 average. Dayton scored 21 goals this season, which is a great improvement over previous years. The Bulldogs' defense remained solid most of the season and added the offense in this increased scoring punch. The Dayton attack was much more balanced, with no one player being very heavily relied upon.

Next week, head coach Lou Piccola will give his appraisal of the 1969 season.

Regional harriers to vie in Sectionals Saturday

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High cross-country team came off an undefeated dual meet season by placing third Saturday in the varsity A-division of the Roselle Turkey Trot. The Bulldogs will run in the state sectionals Saturday at Warrinco Park and in the suburban Conference meet next Wednesday.

Coach Marty Taglienti said that in the A-division Springfield faced probably the strongest competition in the state, Roselle Catholic, led by Joe Savage who finished second, won the Trot with 46 points and Essex Catholic, paced by Mike Keogh who won the race with a time of 12:06, finished second.

Springfield, with a third-place team score, was led by Norman Reinhardt, Marty Josephs and Gary Street. Reinhardt finished fourth

Hitchins nears end of Williams career

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. — William College defensive tackle John Hitchins of Springfield, N.J., will be closing out his college football career in the next two weeks. The six-foot, 212-pound senior co-captain will be making his final appearance in a Williams uniform in Little Three contests against Wesleyan and Amherst.

Hitchins has been a regular for three years with the Ephs and is currently having his finest season. He has been selected to the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference Division II All-East team twice this year and has earned Williams "Defensive Player of the Game" honors three times.

His strong play helped the Ephs to an impressive 34-0 victory over Union. The Williams defense held the Dutchmen to a total offense of 146 yards. Hitchins is a graduate of Millburn High School.

Know Your Government

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

Costs of county government in New Jersey averaged almost $63 for every man, woman and child in the state last year.

Aggregate expenditures by the 21 counties for current operations, debt service and capital improvements last year totaled $453-3/4 million or $82.99 per capita for New Jersey's estimated 1968 population of more than 7,200,000. This represented an increase per person of almost $5 over the 1967 per capita county cost of $58.21.

The figures are among data covering New Jersey's 1,168 municipalities, school districts and counties tabulated in the 24th annual edition of "Financial Statistics of New Jersey Local Government," recently published by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

The statewide average per capita county expenditures tables show that "current operations" last year cost $49.37 per resident as compared with $44.52 in 1967. Capital improvement spending in 1968 averaged $10.19 per person, down from $10.64 in 1967. Debt service costs were $3.43, up 38 cents over the previous year.

Among the counties, total per capita spending ranged from $35.84 in Gloucester County to $123.77 in the resort county of Cape May. Closest to the statewide average of $62.99 was Passaic County with total per capita expenditures of $62.95.

Variations in spending result from numerous factors, including types of services performed, level of service, seasonal population fluctuations and population growth.

For the estimated 575,190 residents of Union County, total costs averaged $47.62 per person in 1968 as compared with $42.06 in 1967.

For the estimated 966,860 residents of Essex County, total costs averaged $90.91 per person in 1968 as compared with $90.64 in 1967.

Trapping season will open Saturday north, west of Rt. 1

New Jersey's trapping season for mink, muskrat, fox and raccoon will open Saturday at 6 a.m. in the northern section of the state, the state Division of Fish and Game of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development reported this week.

The northern section is defined as that area north and west of Route 1. The area between east of Route 1 will open Dec. 1.

Trapping seasons ending March 15. These seasons apply to State and Wildlife Management Areas which will open Jan. 1 at 6 a.m. There will be no raccoon trapping on these areas except on tidal meadows and impoundments.

No stakes or traps may be set before 6 a.m. on opening day and all traps must be checked by 10 a.m. All traps must bear a metal tag with the owner's name and address, except for traps set on posted private property by the owner or lessee thereof.

A current New Jersey Firearms Hunting and Trapping License is required for anyone trapping. Licensees are required to keep records of a farm or immediate members of the family residing thereon. Youngsters under 14 need no license but must still tag their traps and follow other regulations.

No trap, snoot or snare may be set above the level of the ground and no body-gripping trap with jaw spread larger than five inches shall be used anywhere, except for beaver below the surface of the water by special permit holders.

Coastal waterfowl population builds as migration continues

New Jersey coastal waterfowl populations are building up, as the fall migration progresses, according to the Bureau of Wildlife Management, Division of Fish and Game, of the state Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The latest aerial survey, conducted by state wildlife biologists Oct. 16, just prior to the opening of the early duck season, found an estimated 204,700 waterfowl along the coastal survey area. The estimate is about 22,000 above the October survey of last year, and can be partially attributed to the cold weather to the north earlier in the month.

Less than 1,400 brant were observed; however, substantial flights reportedly arrived along the coast during the week of Oct. 19, providing sufficient birds for the opening Oct. 25. Brant and geese are currently open, although ducks are closed until Nov. 21.

Scaup were one of the most abundant species called with most counted in the Raritan Bay area. A bonus bag of two extra scaup is permitted this season with four in possession. The flock of broodflocks on Raritan Bay was estimated at 46,000 — 30,000 less than last year.

Some 48,000 scoters were counted, from Reed's Bay to Cape May. This is 30,000 more than last year's estimate, providing good sport for participants in the offshore sea duck season, the other waterfowl season currently open.

Black ducks decreased by 5,000 over last year's survey with the total estimate of 32,000. The buildup should continue, however, so that more abundant flocks of this favorite species will be available when duck hunting resumes Nov. 27.

DENTAL MATERIALS MUST BE HARMLESS

Dentistry is 50 years behind the times in developing biological standards for dental materials, says a University of Connecticut dental professor. He said that a dental material should be not only harmless but effective for its intended use in order to obtain a place among other remedies. He conceded that standardization of the "physical properties" of dental materials — hardness, composition and the like — has been brought to a high point. But, he stressed, there has been a great lag in development of similar standards to evaluate the biological effects of these materials — such as their compatibility or interaction with teeth, gums and bones.

THIS COUNTRY'S FIRST commercial supersonic transport (the SST) will be the largest and fastest commercial airplane flying during the next two decades. It will fly at about 60,000 feet altitude — twice as high as today's commercial airplanes — and cruise at 1,800 miles per hour — three times the speed of today's jets. The airplane will carry up to 300 passengers; will be approximately 300 feet long; will have a 142-foot wing span and a tail height of 50 feet.

She is one of eight women in the sophomore class in the college's engineering school. Nancy is following in the footsteps of her mother who 25 years ago was the first woman engineering student at Columbia. "When I was a little girl I always wanted to be an electrical engineer, just like my mommy," Nancy said. But she has since changed her field to biomedical engineering.

Sex education is sanctioned by bishops for church schools

The Catholic bishops of New Jersey have sanctioned "wisely-planned" sex education in Catholic schools in a pastoral letter on family life, read Sunday at all Masses.

Noting the "serious challenges" faced by today's families, the bishops stated that "the community—especially the Churches, must offer greater help to young people who are preparing for marriage."

Specifically, the bishops urged support and promotion for programs sponsored by diocesan Family Life Bureaus, as well as the Catholic schools and the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, which instructs Catholic children in public schools.

The bishops cited the "great value" of such programs as high school marriage courses,

Pre-Cana instruction, and family life conferences for married couples.

"On an even more basic level," their statement said, "we wish to make clear our position in the present controversy over sex education."

Repeating the affirmation of the American Bishops' pastoral, they stressed the "value and necessity of wisely-planned education of children in human sexuality, adapted to the maturity and background of our young people."

"The basic purpose of such education is to help one achieve a fuller knowledge of himself as a person and as a Christian, and to gain deeper appreciation of the dignity of human life."

The bishops' statement stressed the primary role of parents, urging them to "fulfill this role from the earliest years... by their own personal example, their home life and the natural bond that exists with their children.

"We appreciate the concern which parents express over any outside force disrupting their parental role," the statement continued. "Nevertheless, experience shows that many parents feel unable or are unwilling to provide adequate education in human sexuality."

This factor, plus "continuous overemphasis on false sexual concepts in our culture," has led the bishops to "recognize our obligation to assist the family in its efforts to provide sound sex education."

"To this end, we have established an Inter-Diocesan Sex Education committee (1) to develop diocesan-wide programs of adult education available to all parents, regardless of what schools their children attend; (2) to establish in-service training programs for teachers; and (3) to develop in cooperation with Catholic parents effective programs in the Catholic schools and Confraternity of Christian Doctrine classes."

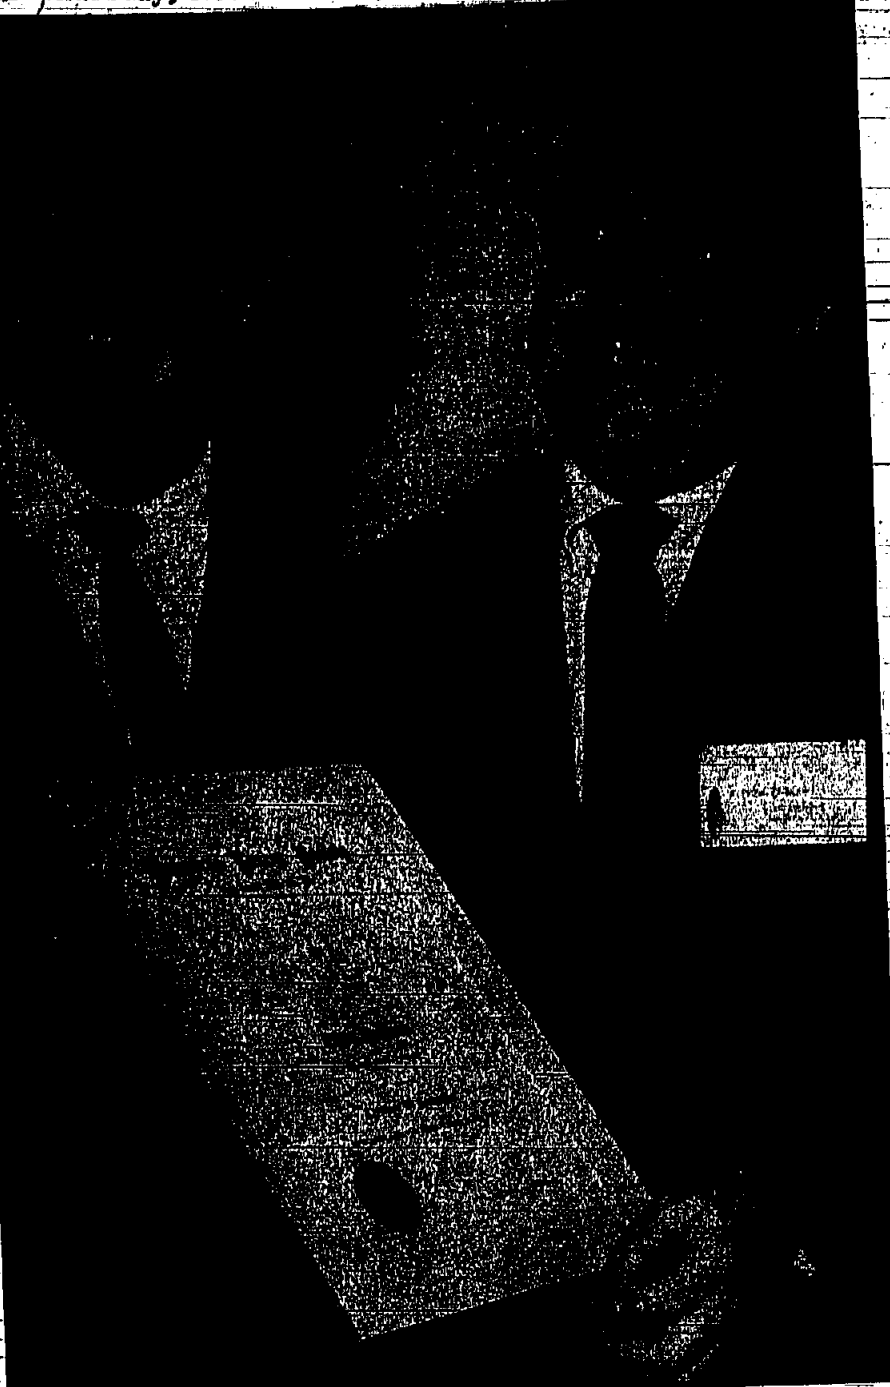

County adoptions listed by society

The Children's Aid and Adoption Society of New Jersey, at 142 S. Main Ave., East Orange, noted this week that adoption placement activity continues to be quite high in Union County.

According to Dr. Emil J. Piel, president of the society's board, 12 children were adopted in the county in the first nine months of this year.

Dr. Piel said that the society's third-quarter service reports indicated that Union County adoption placements represented eight per cent of the society's state-wide total of 162 children placed during the report period. These children, he said, were given new homes with residents in 18 of the state's 21 counties.

The Children's Aid and Adoption Society of New Jersey was founded in 1899.

HONORED BY SOCIETY—Elliott Fachtman of Union, right, a past president of the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society, receives a certificate of recognition for his services to the society as president. Certificates were presented to all of the division's past presidents by Charles J. Buesing, chairman of the Division Awards Committee. The occasion was an awards luncheon held in Atlantic City as part of the division's conference for volunteer workers. Mr. and Mrs. Fachtman attended the two-day conference.

Wilkins on Mexican campus Organizes new study center

Dr. Eugene G. Wilkins, president emeritus of Newark State College, Union, is organizing the Mexican-American-International Studies Center, soon to open at the University of the Americas new campus in Puebla, Mexico.

Dr. Wilkins is a member of the International Board of Directors of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, which is establishing 20 international studies centers throughout the world. The centers will stress an intensive study of the life and culture of the various countries, not in comparison to the U.S., but as a means of meeting the needs of the people involved.

The first centers, in Canada and Mexico, will open in 1970. The object of the centers will be to inform state-side students of the possibilities of international study and to insure them full credit for all courses taken outside the U.S. on their return to the member college.

Dr. Wilkins has a background of 43 years of public education beginning as a high school English teacher at El Centro, Texas, in 1926. He was dean of the college at Newark State for five years prior to his appointment as president.

Wilkins also taught graduate work in Munich, Germany, and was in India in 1963 on a grant from the State Department to study Indian culture and confer with Indian educators.

Spending his year's sabbatical in Mexico to organize the center, Wilkins plans to return next year to Newark State College as president emeritus and professor. On retirement, he intends to settle in Mexico at Guernavaca.

"Our students," Wilkins stated, "represent a middle-income group who would not normally study abroad. Our purpose will be to make study in one of the foreign centers only slightly more expensive than study at home in a state university."

Society seeking mastectomees

The Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society is seeking all residents of the county who have undergone a mastectomy operation (removal of a breast), regardless of the reason for the operation.

As a new phase to its local service program, the Cancer Society is attempting to organize a mastectomy group composed of women who have recovered from surgery and who would be interested in helping others who have undergone this operation.

On Tuesday, Nov. 25, a state-wide meeting of the American Cancer Society will be devoted to orienting interested women to the "Reach to Recovery" program.

The Union County Unit has urged all interested mastectomees to attend this session as guests of the American Cancer Society. Reservations can be made by contacting Mrs. Marge Serago, administrative assistant, at the Unit Office, 512 Westminster Ave., Elizabeth or by telephoning 354-7373 or 232-0641, before next Tuesday.
