

Union College readies for 38th academic year

Union College, Cranford, will open its 38th academic year Sept. 7 with a record enrollment of 2,500 students and with two new urban campuses in Elizabeth and Plainfield.

Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president, said an enrollment of 1,500 full-time students and 1,000 part-time students is anticipated. The total includes 125 full-time and 200 part-time students at each of the urban campuses and 100 students from Elizabeth and Plainfield.

In addition, the total includes 80 students in the Educational Opportunity Fund Project for economically and educationally disadvantaged students, including 40 at the Cranford campus and 20 each at Elizabeth and Plainfield.

The Elizabeth campus is located in the Community Services Center (formerly the Bayway Community Center), South Broad street and Bayway, while the Plainfield campus is in the former Mayfair Supermarket, East Front street and Westmont avenue. Each campus contains classrooms, libraries, reading offices, counseling offices, student lounges, faculty offices, and administrative offices.

Registration dates set for students at UC

Registration for all students at Union College — Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield — will be conducted at the Cranford campus next Tuesday for day session students and on Wednesday and Thursday evenings for evening session students, it was announced this week by Prof. Elmer Wolf, acting dean.

New day session students at the Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield campuses will arrive at Cranford during the morning, beginning at 9 o'clock and current students will register during the afternoon.

Evening students' registration hours will begin at 6 p.m.

With the start of the new academic year, Union College will begin full use of a new $700,000 Administration Building, which contains offices for all administrative personnel, including the admissions, counseling, business and registrar's offices, and for department heads and faculty members. The new two-story Administration Building, built on a site which had been used for administrative offices, is now being prepared for occupancy by December. The project also includes conversion of the present library in the Nomagagn Building to a quiet student lounge and faculty offices and a new entrance roadway into the campus from Springfield avenue.

In addition, negotiations are underway to acquire a 20-acre site to the rear of the Cranford campus from Fairview Cemetery, which would increase the size of the Cranford campus by 40 percent.

Jersey residents, and $30 for out-of-state residents.

PROGRAMS IN LIBERAL arts and business administration are planned at the Elizabeth and Plainfield campuses in both day and evening sessions.

Dr. Iversen said the Elizabeth and Plainfield campuses are designed to serve more students and to bring facilities to the people in Union County who had previously been denied them.

"Our goal is a completely integrated operation taking place in three different sites," Dr. Iversen said. "In normal program setting, and services, every effort is being made to provide the same quality of operation at all campuses. This will be done by using experienced faculty and staff at the Elizabeth and Plainfield campuses, by making all services at the Cranford campus available to all students, and by developing a system of communications and transportation between all three campuses."

TO HANDLE THE INCREASED enrollment, 13 new full-time faculty members have been appointed. They include two at the Cranford campus, Dr. Jensen of Columbia, and Dr. Brian J. Penkuch of Cranford. Dr. Jensen has been assigned to the Biology Department, and Dr. Penkuch to the Engineering-Mathematics-Physics Department.

New staff members include Dr. Irwin J. Zacher of Orange, as chairman of the English Department, and Frances C. Crosby of Wyckoff, a former faculty member in the Faculty Office of Investigation, who will be the first full-time law enforcement professor and will serve as coordinator of the law enforcement program. Seven new credit and four non-credit courses in the areas of history, philosophy, English,

UC faculty workshop

New faculty and staff members at Union College, Cranford, will attend a two-day workshop next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Central New Jersey YMCA Camp, Blairstown. It was announced this week by Prof. Elmer Wolf, acting dean of the college.

The workshop is intended to help orient faculty and staff to the two-year college in general and specifically to Union College, Woodbridge, N.J.

Innovative in its field, the workshop will explore the philosophy of the junior college, its role in post-secondary education, the types of institutions involved, and its status in New Jersey.

The two-panel discussions will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday. The first panel will also cover Union College specifically, its programs, students, and staff. The second panel will deal with regard to the community, county and state and the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education.

Chief warns public against practices of some fire adjusters

Fire Chief Robert E. Day this week warned Springfield residents against some "public adjusters" who seek to profit from the problems of those who suffer fire losses.

The chief declared:

"We take this opportunity to inform all residents and business people in town of certain individuals who insist on calling people who have had or are having a fire of some kind. These individuals are known as 'public adjusters'."

"They will call and seek information pertaining to the fire. Sometimes even while the fire is in progress they will appear on the scene. They receive the location of the call by radio band to the frequency of the fire or police department."

"In some cases they do not identify themselves as adjusters. They will use the word 'fire' or 'burglar' in their title and people who are upset because of the fire will assume they are some division of the local fire department. This is not true."

"Any time this department has need to contact a fire adjuster, we will advise you of this fact."

Town problems remain the same 19th century dilemmas included bond issues

By JANCIE ADLER

(This is the last of three articles tracing the history of Springfield from its incorporation to 1969.)

Budgetary deficits are nothing new; it was agreed to hold a special election in 1876 to bond the township for $5,000. The proceeds to be used in liquidation of the Debt of said Township in accordance with a petition of a majority of the property owners and taxpayers. The go-ahead was given to issue the bonds.

There were six bonds of $1,000 each to be paid with a seven percent semi-annual interest. The first would be paid on April 1, 1878; the last on April 1, 1883.

The committee agreed to elect town officials by ballot at the 1878 town meeting, but this was not carried out. An act was finally passed in the early part of 1843 to elect town officials by ballot. This tradition has been carried through to the present day.

The annual town meetings were held in April until 1905. They then moved to November. Because of once-a-year meetings, November was the only really current information on New Jersey government available to them, Mrs. Forman said.

The Springfield League is publishing a "Know Your Town" booklet which contains information about Springfield and its history, its government structure and community facilities for its citizens.

"I suggest a national nonpartisan organization whose aim it is to promote active and informed participation in government, in now 30 years old. Today it functions on three levels, local, state, and national, through public hearings, candidate meetings, voter information sheets, films, radio, the press, letters to government officials, recommendations for legislation, and testimony before congressional committees. All of this is done by unpaid League members and money is needed to pay for the projects themselves."

Mrs. Forman explained that League does not support or oppose candidates or parties, but takes positions on pertinent issues after study and consensus by members. "Mrs. Harbert Forman, Springfield League president, announced this week.

Stokes praises qualifications of Dem candidates

Net Stokes, lone Democratic member of the Springfield Township Committee, this week issued the following statement in support of the candidacies of Arthur Caprio and Robert Weltschek for the office of Springfield township committee:

"In approximately two months the people of Springfield will vote to elect the township committee. I hope they will vote for the two men I support—Arthur Caprio and Robert Weltschek."

"This endorsement is not made simply as a partisan gesture, Caprio and Weltschek are not receiving my support because they are the candidates of my party, rather it is for the other way."

"They are the candidates of my party because I and the many other active members involved felt we were able to support them. When the local Democratic organization was selecting two men to run for the office of committee, it screened dozens of potential candidates."

Ways to unscramble scrimmage line action

Current seasonal sounds, along with home gardeners running out of mow-power and golfers running out of excuses, often include the thuds and means of young men preparing for the high school football season.

Prospective spectators, too, should prepare to face the autumnal auto-da-fe with a wealth of the latest information.

The basic purpose of the game remains the same. Team A (our side) strives to advance the ball across the goal line defended by Team B (the louts from the next town). One way to score a goal (known to the initiates as a touchdown) is to have a player holding the ball run across the line. There are no more halfbacks or fullbacks to the expert; everybody is a running back.

Running backs are best advised to follow their blockers. These are other members of the team who are not allowed to hold the ball, presumably because they never learned the secret grip. Their assignment is to collide with the intruders from Team B, clearly but vigorously, to hinder pursuit of the ball-carrier.

The other basic way to score a touchdown is by use of a forward pass. This involves two other sets of players, quarterbacks and receivers. The latter are often referred to by their maiden names, as tight ends, split ends and flanker backs. A pass can also be caught by a running back, but this involves a more or less stationary, protected by the blockers.

The receivers are supposed to run toward the goal line, in this type of play, the quarterback receives the ball from the center (see index for 1970) and remains more or less stationary, protected by the blockers.

The receivers are supposed to run toward the goal line.

Rinaldo wants creation of an oil spill watchdog

State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-Union) announced this week that he will introduce legislation to create a New Jersey Coastal Protection Agency.

The proposed agency would be empowered to regulate the transfer of oil, petroleum and their by-products between vessels and between ships and on-shore facilities. The agency also would set penalties for spills of these products into coastal waters under the jurisdiction of the state.

Senator Rinaldo said he was taking this action because of the recent dumping of 30,000 gallons of oil into the Arthur Kill.

"Because of this accident, New Jersey residents were deprived of the use of Sandy Hook Beach, which had to be closed over the weekend," Rinaldo asserted. "In addition, the oil drifted as far south as Long Branch, adversely affecting the waters there and in Sea Bright."

"We must take steps to protect ourselves and our coastal waters," Rinaldo continued. "Millions of gallons of petroleum products are transferred every day in New Jersey coastal waters. Although care is exercised to avoid spills, the procedures now in effect present a threat to our waters."

SENATOR RINALDO SAID his bill would require the creation of a tax of one-half cent on each barrel of petroleum products to finance the creation and operation of the agency.

"The most significant feature of my bill would be its authority to require violators of the code to repair whatever damage is done," he said. "At present, there is no law requiring persons who spill oil to clean up the spillage."

The agency proposed by Senator Rinaldo would be under the control of the Department of Environmental Protection. It would have jurisdiction over all coastal waters and over any bodies of water draining into coastal or tidal waters.

Persons engaged in servicing the fuel needs of pleasure and fishing boats less than 75 feet in length would be exempt from the provisions of the bill because the possibility of their causing any significant damage is remote, Rinaldo explained.

The bill also would create a fund to finance the cleanup of unexplained oil spillages and a staff to police coastal waters.

Violators of the code would be subject to fines of up to $5,000 with each day of the offense constituting a separate violation.

Rinaldo's bill also provides a means for persons sustaining property damage as a result of oil spillage to file claims and collect their losses.

The agency would initially be financed by a $45,000 appropriation to the Department of Environmental Protection and thereafter by the commonwealth through the license fee.

"Certainly the protection of our coastal waters, rather than the Arthur Kill and in California should remind us that vigilance is the price we must pay for a pollution-free environment."

Government uses computer to help veterans find jobs

WASHINGTON — Each year many of the 60,000 men and women who retire from the armed forces look for a full-time "second career." To improve and speed their search, the Federal Government has developed a computerized job hunting help.

Working together, the Department of Labor, the Veterans Administration and the Department of Defense are offering retirees a computerized "new-job matching service" called program Referral.

Referral is designed to provide a match between the military retiree and civilian employers across the nation through the use of a Defense Department computer facility at Dayton, Ohio.

Six months prior to retirement, the serviceman, on a voluntary basis, may receive professional orientation and counseling from military or employment services facilities. The retiree will be encouraged to use all sources of assistance, both public and private.

At the request of Defense, the Department of Labor has agreed to arrange for assistance in making Referral job forms available to small employers. Copies of the Referral job order forms have been distributed to all of more than 2,000 local offices of the public employment service.

A monthly summary of the skills registered by servicemen with Referral will be furnished to employers. This summary will be in sufficient numbers to distribute to local employment offices. This inventory is designed to help prospective employers to determine the availability of skills to meet their needs.

Local public employment offices also will have a list of all employers, a copy of the Referral program, and a list of all employers who are using the program to assist them in hiring and obtaining employees through the Referral program.

The program was developed in recognition of the unique skills and talents possessed by the military retiree and the need to apply these assets in the national interest.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: I have a sort of a problem. I like this boy very much and the like me the same. We both are serious about each other. I am almost 19 years old and he is 17 years old. We were planning to get married and avoid Christmas on the first of the year. But some people tell us we're too young to get married and that he is too young for me. Then I was thinking about him going into the Army next year. Should we wait until his Army years are over or just get married and be married? Maybe if we don't get married, I might lose him and I don't want to lose him. There is not another boy I want. I love him and he loves me. What, maybe, should we do?

OUR REPLY: It is really in love with you, there is little chance you will "lose" him because he serves his Army time before you are married. If you do marry, and have only a short time together before he enters the Army, the period of separation will be more unexcusable and difficult. Let him get his Army responsibilities out of the way. If he is less than 20 years old and trying to support a family, he will have responsibility enough.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMBINED AND CONFIDENTIAL PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, KY.

The Truth about Fall Hemlines!

For months, you have been exposed to all sorts of publicity regarding skirt lengths for fall. Radio, television, newspapers and magazines have distorted and exaggerated the fashion news.

Now, here are the facts! We are in the fashion business, and we know our business. We have invested thousands and thousands of dollars in the very newest, smartest fall and winter clothes. LESS THAN $20 OF ALL APPAREL IS "MID-LENGTH" (mid-calf). We call this "mid-length" as another length—particularly in junior coats, high-fashion coats, will not wear it.

And so for the REAL TRUTH about fall skirt lengths. The trend is SLIGHTLY DOWNWARD for juniors, hemlines are still above the knee. The "mid-length" is not dead! It is an American look, and we predict it will be with us for years. Some juniors will wear their skirts as short as before, but the "new length" is up to the knee. The "new length" is up to the knee, depending on the individual, will hover around the knee...with the mid-knee or lower part of the knee taken as the "new length."

Sen. McGovern to aid Williams, Lundy drives

Senator George McGovern, Democrat of South Dakota, will arrive in New Jersey tomorrow to give support to the candidates of U.S. Senator Harrison Williams for reelection and Daniel F. Lundy for congressman from the Twelfth District.

Scheduled to arrive at Newark Airport at 12:30 p.m., McGovern and Lundy will travel by motorcade to the Garden State Plaza in Paramus to speak on behalf of Congressman Henry Holsoski and Congressional candidate Art Leseman, at a rally scheduled for 1:30 p.m. The motorcade will then travel to Hillside for a 2:30 p.m. appearance at the Hillside Democratic Headquarters. Arrangements in Hillside have been made by Sam Katz, municipal coordinator for Lundy.

The McGovern-Lundy motorcade will proceed to Livingston for a rally at Memorial Field on South Livingston ave. at 3:15 p.m. The rally will be in support of Democratic candidates for Millburn, the Caldwell, Roseland, Vernon and the surrounding areas. Livingston's activities have been arranged by Neil Sullivan, Essex County coordinator for the Lundy campaign.

Late afternoon plans for Senator McGovern and Lundy include two rallies. The first will be at the home of Mrs. Jerry English, in Summit at 4 p.m. The second rally will follow a meeting of the New Jersey Policy Council for Party reform at the home of Joe Cannon in Pleasanton at 6:45 p.m. Cannon is the executive director of the New Jersey Democratic State Committee. The rally, to be held outside, will include three speakers: Alan Plinio, municipal Democratic chairman of Plainfield; James J. Conroy, Essex County Commissioner; and Lundy.

The high point of the McGovern visit will be a dinner for Lundy at Shackamoon Country Club, Scotch Plains. The dinner will be attended by Senator Williams and Salvatore Bontempo, chairman of the Democratic State Committee. A press conference, set for 5:30 p.m., will precede the dinner.

The Lundy campaign is a massive volunteer effort, and the McGovern visit is viewed with great anticipation by all who have chosen to work for Dan. "Spokesman alert," "We hope the senator's appearance will help awaken the district to some of its problems, and demonstrate that new leadership is needed to combat them."

Week-End College new idea in adult education

What is James Baldwin trying to tell us? How critical is the fight to American foreign policy? How did ragtime give way to progressive jazz?

These are some of the questions that will be answered at the Week-End College to be offered at Union College, Cranford, this fall.

Week-End College, according to Prof. Richard Selove, director of the Division of Community Services, is a new dimension in adult education. The non-credit courses, workshops and seminars, open to all adults, 19 and over, will explore current topics and areas of adult interest without the confines of the traditional semester structure. College-level instruction will be offered in all courses.

The Week-End College opens Oct. 6, with most classes and seminars to be conducted Friday evenings and/or Saturday mornings. The courses will run from three to eight weeks depending on the subject matter to be covered.

Ten courses have been approved to date, Prof. Selove reports, and cover a wide range of interests from jazz to Southeast Asia, to the computer age.

The proposed courses, all of which will be offered on the Cranford campus of Union College, include:

Foreign Policy Priorities — Classes are Fridays 8 to 9:30 p.m., and Saturdays, 10 to 11:30 a.m. Beginning Oct. 9, Prof. Thomas J. Kehoe, history instructor, will teach the course, which is based on the American Foreign Policy Association's report for 1970-71.

ECOLOGICAL SEMINAR — Five Fridays from 8 to 9:30 p.m., beginning Oct. 9. The seminar will be directed by Prof. Bernard Solon, professor of biology, and will include three Saturday field trips.

ARTS AND CRAFTS — A series of classes in arts and crafts for adults working with young people. The course will run five weeks beginning Nov. 10, 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and Saturdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Mrs. Jane Law, professional artist and teacher, will conduct the course.

Jazz Workshop — This three-week workshop begins Oct. 16. Classes are Fridays 8 to 9:30 p.m., and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon. The workshop will be under the direction of the Institute of Jazz Studies in Newark. The course is designed to give an insight and an understanding of the roots and artistry of jazz from the blues to the present sound. Contemporary Jazz Literature — The Rev. William Reichberger, chaplain at Rutgers Newark campus, will conduct the course. The course will cover the history of American jazz from the blues to the present sound. Annual flower exhibition scheduled at Trailside

Union County's annual fall flower show will be held at the Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Saturday, Sept. 19, and Sunday, Sept. 20, from 10 to 5 p.m. The show will be under the direction of the Men's Garden Club of Westfield and will be sponsored by the Union County Park Commission. The show is open to the public without charge.

Exhibitors are limited to amateurs who are residents of Union County or members of garden clubs located in the county. The show committee of the Men's Garden Club is headed by Walter A. Christoffers of Mountaintide.

Competitive entries may be made in more than 100 different classes, ranging from the most difficult, perennials, bulbs and tuberoses, to annuals, bedding or flowered vines and shrubs, garden displays, house plants, and vegetable or fruit displays. Exhibitors will be open to junior horticulturists in the 7 to 16 age group.

Horticultural experts from other clubs in the area with wide experience in flower-show judging have been chosen as judges. First, second and third prizes and honorable mentions will be given in each class. In addition, a top-color award will be given an exhibitor in each section, and the flower show committee will present a certificate of appreciation to the exhibitor receiving the greatest number of blue ribbons in the show. The exhibitor of the finest dahlias bloom or collection of dahlias will be entitled to hold the title of "Dahlia King" for a personal award, for the coming year. The best-in-show award, also a silver bowl in the show committee of the Men's Garden Club of Westfield and will be presented to the exhibitor with the best competitive horticultural entry in the show.

Educational exhibits are planned on birds, by James B. Hawley of Summit; on beetles, by William Anderson, chief, Forestry and Horticulture Division, Union County Park Commission; and on oaks and succulents, by Gustav F. Linker, Roselle Park.

The Men's Garden Club of Westfield was organized in 1939 by a small group with a common interest in the study of plants. The group has grown over the years until today with a list of active members exceeding 100. It has become the largest organization of its kind in the state. Club president for the 1970-1971 year is Gerald P. Foster.

FOR THE BIRDS

Even in late July or early August the edge of the salt marsh is teeming with tracks of birds. There are unmistakable signs where the water gently washes the shore just below the line of marsh grass.

All spring and summer bird footprints of herring gulls and smaller ones of laughing gulls have been left upon the marsh.

On the ocean side of the barrier beach another little fellow follows its waltzers. Like a wind-up toy, he runs just ahead of the waves washing up the beach and then follows them back as they recede into the sea.

Many leave their southern resorts before the start of the summer season. The start of the journey may come at any time from mid-March to late April with a few stragglers lingering until late May.

The original social security law was enacted August 14, 1935. The law then protected workers in commerce and industry only. Jones noted, "Benefits ranging from $10 to $84 a month could be paid only to retired workers at age 65. Today, in a vastly different economic and social structure, social security projects itself out of workers in almost all fields."

Social security beneficiaries now include retired workers and their families, disabled workers and their families, and the families of deceased workers, Jones said. Protected dependents also include children under 18, older children who were disabled before reaching 18, and children 18 through 22 who are full-time students in school.

"Social security benefits have kept up with the increase in national earnings over the years," Jones said. "Benefits have been increased until the minimum monthly payment to a retired single worker is $64 and the average payment is $116."

The contribution base also has been increased to keep up with earnings, Jones said. "Since 1960, the first $7,500 of a person's annual earnings has been used in figuring his benefit. In 1965, the base was $5,000. If the benefit base had not been increased, more and more workers would have protection related to a retired single worker part of their total earnings."

Medicare, enacted in 1965, "was probably the most significant change in social security," Jones said. "It has made hospital insurance help people 65 and over pay for their medical insurance. Medicare medical insurance helps pay for doctor bills and medical services."

The social security program has always been self-financing, according to Jones. "Beneficiaries have contributed considerably since the program was started. The cost to workers is less than you might imagine."

The original law called for a contribution of one percent of earnings from 1937 to 1954. Today, Jones said, "The annual increase in benefits and the amount of dependents protected is the result of the addition of Medicare — the contribution rate is 4.8 percent. And the maximum projected rate is only 5.2 percent."

Chase Runyon was the first chief under whom Parsell worked. The officers were William Thompson, Albert Sargent and Salendier. He has high regard for all of them, the chief said. Parsell's first major case came less than three weeks after he joined the force. Narcotics had marijuana cases were less frequent and evicted the 100 persons who were arrested.

Parsell was promoted to sergeant in 1956. His scrapbook of memories includes a fire at Howard Johnson's restaurant on July 15, 1959. He and Patrolman Louis Quinlan observed smoke coming from the building. They went there and found the kitchen fire trying to put out the blaze. The officers called the Fire Department and evacuated the 100 persons who were arrested.
