

Warinanco Skating Rink opens season tomorrow

The Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center, which will open for the 1971-1972 season at 10 p.m. tomorrow, was announced by the Union County Park Commission.

The rink will open with a "family night" session from 6 to 8. At this session only children accompanied by a parent will be admitted to the rink. The first general session for all skaters will be held on Friday from 8:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

The "Ice Skating Center" with its own ice-making equipment will enable skating enthusiasts to enjoy their favorite "pastime" without waiting for the necessary ice to form on the lakes, streams and ponds throughout the Union County Park System.

Three years ago a rink was built over the skating area to provide many additional days of skating. Weather is no longer a factor in determining whether or not sessions will be held.

Lan, Gavan issue call for road safety reform

The Democratic candidates said they believe many of the state's traffic, engineering and "problems" would be solved by the revision and updating of Title 39, known as Motor Vehicles and Transportation. Legislation in accordance with standards presented by the Federal Uniform Vehicle Code.

Bank will continue to offer credit card

First New Jersey Bank will continue marketing its Master Charge card. Frank M. Pitt, chairman of the board, and Oliver F. Herlihy, president, said this week First New Jersey was "in the Master Charge business to stay."

Pitt and Herlihy said First New Jersey's Master Charge accounts were handled directly by the Eastern State Bank Association, which will continue to process the Union Township-based bank's accounts.

First New Jersey has been a charter member of the Eastern State Bank Association since its inception. "All the time has our bank worked through a New York City bank, our Master Charge department has grown successfully. We invite those people whose Master Charge cards are being terminated elsewhere to apply for an account at any of our seven offices."

Pitt and Herlihy explained that their announcement was made to allay concerns of bank customers that may have been generated by reports that the interests of New Jersey banks might be adversely affected by the decision of two New York City banks to drop Master Charge processing for other financial institutions.

Parents plan dance

"A South Sea Misadventure" is the theme of a dance to be sponsored by the Parents' Guild at the Thelma Sandmeier School on Saturday, Oct. 16 at 8 o'clock. The program will start with a buffet supper at 6 p.m. Tickets are available at the school office.

Chisholm area traffic plan will be presented Monday

The Township Committee will present its latest plan for amelioration of traffic on S. Springfield Ave. in front of the Thelma Sandmeier School at an open hearing before the Springfield Board of Education at the regular board meeting Monday, Oct. 11, 8 p.m. at the school.

Plans to facilitate the traffic flow have been under consideration since 1968 for the area, which had emphasized speeding the traffic rather than safety for the children crossing the street. Board members had said that moving traffic faster would increase the hazards it would generate too much noise in the classrooms.

At Tuesday's meeting, Janet Wohl, Chisholm PTA president, read a statement to the governing body objecting to any such plan.

The executive board of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Thelma Sandmeier School would like to go on record as being opposed to any widening of the intersection of S. Springfield Avenue, Shunpike Road and Millstone road, and to the raising of speed limits in this area.

At Tuesday's meeting, Janet Wohl, Chisholm PTA president, read a statement to the governing body objecting to any such plan.

LWV plans annual Candidates' Night at Sandmeier School next Thursday

The annual candidates' night, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Springfield, will be held next Thursday, Oct. 14, at 8 p.m. at the Thelma Sandmeier School, S. Springfield Avenue. The program will be held in the school cafeteria.

The candidates' night will be held in the school cafeteria. The program will be held in the school cafeteria.

Dry, Prager back creation of position for a grand official

Nell Prager and Elinor Dry, Democratic candidates for Springfield Township Committee, this week suggested appointment of a professional "grandmaster" to take advantage of grant opportunities available to Springfield from agencies of the state and federal government.

Prager and Dry pointed out that professional help is called for to be aware of opportunities and procedures for successful application for these grants. Citing "numerous areas" where such help would be applicable, Prager and Dry indicated that Springfield will "miss the grants unless it gets professional help in this complex area."

Their statement follows: "Intergovernmental grants is a term we ought to be more familiar with. In our case, it refers to the stable source of money available from agencies of the state and federal government for the use of municipalities in alleviating certain social problems. It is the grant money that we haven't been taking full advantage of these programs as we have in the past."

Site announced for bloodmobile visit on Oct. 23

The community bloodmobile visit to Springfield will take place Saturday, Oct. 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at St. James Church, S. Springfield Avenue. It was announced by Mrs. Daniel Kalem, blood program chairman of the American Red Cross Summit Area Chapter. Mrs. Fred Stickle will be in charge of the bloodmobile visit.

Donors must be healthy adults between the ages of 18 and 65 and weigh over 110 lbs. Persons between 18 and 21, unless married or in the Armed Forces, must have written parental consent. Donations may be made every eight weeks but not more than five times a year. Women who have been pregnant within the last six months must postpone donations; persons who have had both extractions must wait three days before donating.

Persons who have any questions regarding their medical acceptability (i.e., those taking medications on a regular basis, or those who have had surgery) were asked to call Mrs. Kalem at 378-6228 for further information. Weight watchers and other reducers are asked to check with their physician.

The procedure for giving blood is simple and painless and takes one hour. Donors are asked to bring a recent photograph of themselves for identification. They should also bring a recent photograph of themselves for identification. They should also bring a recent photograph of themselves for identification.

Ruocco, Banner starting bipartisan council for youth

William A. Ruocco and Norman Banner, Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee, this week announced their plan to establish a bipartisan youth council for 15- to 24-year olds in Springfield.

"To our knowledge, no other town has a youth council in existence," Ruocco said. "We welcome them into town government. It insures the bipartisan makeup of the Youth Council, and we believe that both the council and the committee would select its own appointees," Ruocco said.

The candidates suggested that the council have a township committee as an advisory committee. The committee would select its own members. The council would select its own members. The council would select its own members.

United Fund kicks off campaign in Springfield

"This year with a price and wage freeze in effect, we know that giving more to the agencies which support us is going to be a hard task, however, inflation has made the cost of supplying the necessary services of these agencies greater than last year's needs and there is no freeze on the problems and miseries of our neighbors.

The agencies that desperately need your help are:

- Boy Scouts, Family Service Association, Girl Scouts, Mental Health, Multiple Sclerosis, Red Cross, SAGE, Salvation Army, Urban League, USO, Visiting Nurses Association, YMCA, YWCA, Association for Retarded Children and Genetics Foundation.

"Solicitation letters will be reaching all of the citizens, business and industries of Springfield within the next week or two. Would you please consider all of the many and varied needs and send your check or pledge in an amount which would really assist those who are in such great need."

"The United Fund is a volunteer group and if you have any desire at all to assist in this effort for now and in the future please contact the Springfield office of the United Fund, P.O. Box 211, Springfield, New Jersey 07081.

"It may be very important, so is a little time!"

Candidates urge day camp program for municipal pool

William A. Ruocco and Norman Bamber, Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee, this week urged establishment of a self-supporting day camp at the municipal pool.

"This suggestion arose," said Ruocco, "after several Springfield residents complained that they had pool memberships out of town because our municipal pool does not have adequate facilities for their younger children."

"A self-supporting day camp, which would add no financial burden to pool members is the solution," Bamber said. "People who enroll their children in the camp would be charged accordingly, while everyone else would not."

"The candidates noted that these pool members who have children, or no children, would not be assessed for the cost of running the camp."

"Such a camp will provide a supervised, educational and recreational service for its members," Ruocco added. "It would also provide needed jobs for young people who wish to be counselors and teachers."

"The candidates said that no one has offered the type of program for the pool, although use of the pool after-hours has been discussed.

"We want to supplement the normal function of the pool during the regular pool hours," said Ruocco. "A day camp is using the facilities of the pool without stepping out of its bounds."

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley Volok, M.D., Director National Institute of Mental Health

YEAR OF THE CHILD

Some have called this "The Year of the Child" because of the attention that should be paid to the health and welfare of our Nation's youth.

Certainly, we are the National Institute of Mental Health's No. 1 priority in the matter of promoting the mental health of children. We have been treating and rehabilitating from mental illness.

To this end, we have been working hard with all kinds of organizations and with specially charged industry and government activities for the better mental health of children.

We believe that this is going to pay off in new and improved services for children which eventually will be seen in every community in the land.

A number of exciting concepts and recommendations have been made which should all toward this goal.

The theme has emerged that services for children should be designed around the child in a family context as a community member, not in isolation. Along with this goes new emphasis on the development of mental health of children in the pre-school area—which can head off illness and promote mental health.

A new activity being urged is the implementation of several demonstration projects in the field of child advocacy. Advocacy is a voice for children leading to improved research, training, and services for the mental health of children.

It is the planned development of national, state, and local programs aimed at support for better mental health information, education, prevention, and consultation services for children, their families, and for society as a whole.

This important child advocacy means initiating "strategic" information-advocacy efforts in a broad range of areas. Advocacy means bringing together representatives from professional workers, citizens, to act for the mental health of children. Community health agencies and mental health associations are among the essential partners of this effort.

Princesses hold court

Indian Princesses of the Summit Area YMCA will hold their third annual Indian Pow-wow on Saturday morning from 9:30 to 11:30 at the Skytop area of Watchung Reservation.

Over 200 fathers and daughters (first and second grade) in 16 tribes from Summit, New Providence, Berkeley, Heights, Millburn, Short Hills and Springfield are expected to attend.

According to James Logan, chief of the Indian Princess Watchung Nation, activities will include Indian dances led by the Westfield Boy Scouts; from "Dance of the Arrow"; displays of tribal artifacts, group singing and refreshments. In addition to the luncheon of four new tribes.

Now in its third year, the Y.M.C.A. Indian Princess program is structured like the Indian Guide program for fathers and sons, with tribes organized by grade and neighborhood and meeting in members' homes twice each month.

They develop their Indian theme and carry out an Indian theme day twice each month.

Senior High youth of Emanuel United elect new officers

At their second meeting of the fall season the Senior High of Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Hall at Academy Green, elected their officers for the 1971-72 year. Albert Hoyer 3rd, president; Nancy Simon, vice-president; and Judith Beltinger, secretary-treasurer. The Rev. James Dewar is the advisor.

Plans for the fall were formulated, including special programs, recreational activities, and service projects. The group voted to participate in the youth choir for the Festival of Arts Pageant to be held at Drew University. Newsletters will be distributed to the youth practice session for the group on Oct. 31, 6 to 9 p.m., and one this coming Sunday in the local church during the regular meeting.

Other activities planned include a choral reading for Harvest Festival this Sunday, a show and tell for Family Night on the same day and horseback riding on Oct. 24, followed by a picnic, and an outdoor worship service. Service activities included delivery of food to the Church of All Nations, a party for the young children of the church, and special service for the church choir.

Grading and final examination changes suggested in Dayton student newsletter

Revision of the 1971-72 grading system and the elimination of final examinations for seniors and juniors who have maintained an A or B average for the year were advocated by Plak, a mimeographed newsletter issued this week by the Student Council of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield. The letter is intended to make the school's students aware of the council's programs for the current year.

The council stated that it is concerned with grading procedures which include final examinations and a final exam counted as a full marking period toward the year's grade. The organization also said the exemptions granted to seniors by Principal Robert LaVanture in 1970 and 1971 were rescinded.

According to Plak, the decision on exam exemptions was left to the discretion of the principal in the National District. "The council regarded the fact that the decision-making of one principal can be retroactive for one year to the next as unfair to the integrity of the Student Council, which originated the proposal for exemptions, and to the integrity and limited autonomy of our principal," the article stated.

235 articles were included in the proposal. Seniors who have had three years of final examinations have almost no need for final exams because they already have been accepted by colleges, the students said. They should therefore be exempted from final examinations for the year that they are a B average or above.

Final exemptions for the school should be fixed, in other words, exemptions should be irrevocable for every year where the grading system includes final examinations grades whether or not it is designated as a separate marking period; the Student Council declared. The article in "right" said the council should submit the proposal in accordance with the student grievance procedure. It also requested that LaVanture follow the same guidelines.

Plak also supported the initiation of a spring carnival as the main event to raise funds for the Student Council. It proposed with the use of a council scholarship, club donations and a council sponsored school program, such as a concert.

Officers of the Student Council are Bonnie Rerandin, president; Danny Levine, vice-

Cheap computer can wipe out auto toll

NCE prof sees device cutting deaths 99 pct.

What this country needs to cut down on auto deaths is a good 100 computers. According to a published article by Dr. Robert McMillan, an associate professor of electrical engineering at Newark College of Engineering, accidental auto deaths could be cut from the current rate of 55,000 deaths a year to only 500 deaths a year by equipping all cars with computer sensors and supplemental braking. No technological breakthroughs are required, he says.

This ultimate possibility of a 99-per-cent reduction in highway death was described by Dr. McMillan in the September issue of IEEE Newsletter, a monthly publication distributed by the New Jersey section of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers. He is associate editor of the publication.

McMillan says that many of the specialized sensing devices developed for America's space and defense programs contain elements which could produce an incredibly safer car. Such sensing devices, when coupled with a small computer and a more efficient braking system, could provide "Americans with a car that would be safe beyond belief."

In his article Dr. McMillan says that radar, sonar, lasers, transponding beacons and infrared sensors provide the basis of potential detectors for cars with built-in computers. Such equipment is sufficiently advanced to provide a warning system and automatic take-over when emergencies come up.

"WHAT I HAVE TRIED TO suggest is a concept of design centering about preventive devices that will help avoid death-making accidents," Dr. McMillan said following the publication of his article. "Obviously the development of other post-collision safety devices should be continued as well."

As Dr. McMillan sees it, a computerized safety system would be especially valuable to persons who are subject to driving after drinking. The older driver who might have slower reflexes and deteriorating perception and the experienced driver who wishes to go faster and still be safe.

"Computerized driving systems might also be useful to young drivers in the 18-to-25 bracket who often rely too heavily on their own driving," McMillan said.

The possibility of putting a computer into a car could be dated back to the early 1950s when computer-aided operations were safely developed. Since then computer design and estimated $25 billion a year. Annual auto insurance payments of $11 billion, losses in productivity due to injuries and deaths not covered by insurance, $10 billion, and non-injured damages of $4 billion.

THE CONSIDERATION OF putting existing hardware and advanced engineering techniques into use on Earth could possibly result in an entirely new auto-related industry, McMillan says.

Dr. McMillan has been a member of the Newark College of Engineering faculty since 1964. He earned his B.S. degree at Louisiana State University, his M.S. at California Institute of Technology, and his Ph.D. in electrical engineering at NCE. He is a licensed professional engineer in New York and New Jersey.

While in the U.S. Navy he held the rank of commander and served as an electronics officer.

State group says property tax is destroying property values

New Jersey is the unpopulated in the nation for the tax to tax property values. The New Jersey Taxpayers' Association said this week in a monthly newsletter, "The Property Tax Problem."

NJTA predicted total property tax will rise more than $1 billion every 10 months over the next 10 years. It said that the result will be the destruction of the base supporting local government property values accumulated through savings and investment.

At a brief conference, William H. Trammell, chairman of the association, emphasized that the tax burden hit in the future will not be the older cities. "The problems of the cities cannot be overlooked, but the most serious social and tax problems now and in the future will be in the rural areas and rural townships scattered across the state," he said.

While underscoring the necessity for property tax relief, the association made clear that New Jersey cannot expect any overall future tax relief due to state and local programs already created by the State Legislature. These programs coupled with inflation will guarantee rising tax bills, regardless of tax sources utilized, the study showed.

Any effort to provide significant property tax relief will require a change in the state budget growth will require a change in the state budget to yield multi-hundred million dollars, the association said, compared for submission to Governor Cahill's Tax Policy Committee and the legislative membership. The 100-page document provides extensive information on the financial problems facing New Jersey. It includes a detailed analysis of the state's property tax base, the impact of inflation and income of "middle income" families, and the impact of the leading industrial firms in the state on local property tax. It also discusses the impact of local government services and certain state programs provided by local governments.

Pointing out that New Jersey's property tax has been continuously passed to local governments, the document provides additional services without providing for the state's property tax base. The association warned that the state's property tax base is being eroded by local governments.

Many jobs in highway industry

The heavy and highway construction industry in New Jersey is launching a major effort to attract high school students to the field. Robert A. Briant, director of education and training for the New Jersey Highway Construction Industry Advancement Fund (CIAP), said the information program is aimed at "overcoming the many educational barriers which have prevented a large number of high school graduates from entering the field."

CIAP is a non-profit organization which provides training and education for young people who are interested in the highway and construction industry. It is a joint effort of the state and the industry.

The program is designed to provide young people with the necessary skills and knowledge to enter the industry. It includes courses in mathematics, science, and technical drawing.

For more information, contact CIAP at 1000 Morris Turnpike, Short Hills, N.J. 07078.

GREAT EASTERN DECLARES A PRICE WAR ON ITSELF.

Great Eastern is cutting itself on low prices. And introducing a whole new policy: Everyday Discount Prices. It means we'll be doing better than giving you discounts on some food items some days and other food items other days. We'll be giving you discounts everyday on everything in the store. On some foods our prices will be lower than the one marked right on the bag or box. And whenever a manufacturer drops a price on a product, we'll pass along every penny to you. So, when you add up these savings, your weekly grocery bill can be lower by a dollar or two or even more. There are just a few of the thousands of new everyday discount food prices you'll find at Great Eastern. The Great Eastern price war: you're the big winner.

Symphony to open concert season on Oct. 27 at school

The first in a series of concerts by the suburban Symphony of New Jersey will be held at Orange Avenue High School auditorium, Orange Avenue, Cranford on Wednesday, Oct. 27.

The program will include Haydn's "Symphony No. 104" (London), Mahler's "Songs of a Wanderer," the Falla's "El Amor Brujo," Bartok's "Rhapsody" and the suite from "The Three Penny Opera" by Kurt Weill. Joan Caplan, a young mezzo-soprano, who has performed throughout the country, will be the featured guest artist for this performance.

The Dec. 9 and 12 concert, scheduled for 8 p.m., will also be performed at the high school. This concert will be the season's free community concert. Works of Beethoven, Schubert, Liszt and Mendelssohn will be performed. Guest artist will be trumpeter Martin Bernbaum.

The two final concerts of the season will be held at the Union College Auditorium in Cranford. Both will begin at 7:30 p.m. to encourage attendance by families. The Dec. 5 concert will be dedicated to the memory of Igor Stravinsky and will include two of his works in addition to those of Tchaikovsky and Rimsky-Korsakov. The April 30 concert will feature Howard Steffans, 15-year-old pianist from Elizabeth, Steffans, the winner of the 1971 N.J. Federation of Music Clubs Concerto Competition, will perform Gregor's "Piano Concerto." The program will also include Beethoven's "Symphony No. 8."

Tickets for all three concerts are $4 for adults and $2 for students. Anyone wishing to subscribe to the concert series can send their check to The Suburban Symphony Society, c/o Orange Avenue High School, Orange Avenue, Cranford, N.J. P. O. Box 176, Cranford, 07016.

According to a spokesman there are a few openings in the string and woodwind sections of the orchestra, anyone interested in auditioning can send their name, address and phone number to the society at the post office box. If you would like to participate in this season's activities or are interested in keeping the performing arts within the reach of all sections of the public, you can do so by becoming a member of the society. Additional information will be provided on request.

McGuire seeks political 'forum'

David K. McGuire of Union, independent Coalition candidate for State Assembly in District 96, expressed disappointment this week at the failure of civic and social groups to give him a forum for his views.

"I did my nine-month tour as one of the traditional American things - we have stepped into the political arena to try to find financial solutions and issues that concern us," he said.

"But it is necessary to note, with less than one month remaining before the election, that another of the traditional American things is missing - the interest of civic, social, church and fraternal groups."

He said the League of Women Voters and the Union County PTA and School Boards Association have sponsored programs in which candidates have been able to participate. He has added, "Why have the Lions and Wings and Rotary and K of C and parish and other civic and fraternal groups been unwilling to participate in the political process? Giving members a chance to meet and question the candidates of all parties and independent groups makes our political process work."

He offered to provide a speaker for the Independent Coalition ticket to any group which contacts him at 887-5887.

Elizabeth General appoints Fletcher

David A. Fletcher has been appointed associate director of Elizabeth General Hospital, according to an announcement by George E. Billow, executive vice-president and director.

Fletcher lives at 500 E. Clay ave., Roselle Park.

The new associate director served as administrative assistant at The Crozer-Keightley Medical Center, Chester, Pa., and as administrative resident at Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia. He has been an assistant director of Elizabeth General since July 1967.

Fletcher, who is married and has two children, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina with a bachelor of arts in economics. He received his master's in business administration and health care administration from George Washington University, Washington, D.C.

The appointment of Fletcher was announced by Lloyd H. Carraro, who is now director of the Elizabeth Area Hospital.

McDonnell named a trustee at college

The election of Jack McDonnell of Westfield, president and chairman of the board of the Union Center National Bank, Union, to the board of trustees of Union College, was announced this week by Edward Aborn, board chairman.

McDonnell is also chairman of the board of The Episcopal Church of Elizabeth, which is founded in 1948.

The election of McDonnell brings the membership of the board of trustees to 28. Aborn has appointed McDonnell to the finance and gifts and bequests committees.

Bond issue group offers speakers

Speakers are available to discuss Public Question 1 (colleges) and 3 (Green Acres) on the Nov. 2 statewide ballot, according to Edward J. McManimon Jr., executive director of the New Jersey Bonds 'Yes' Committee for Colleges and Green Acres.

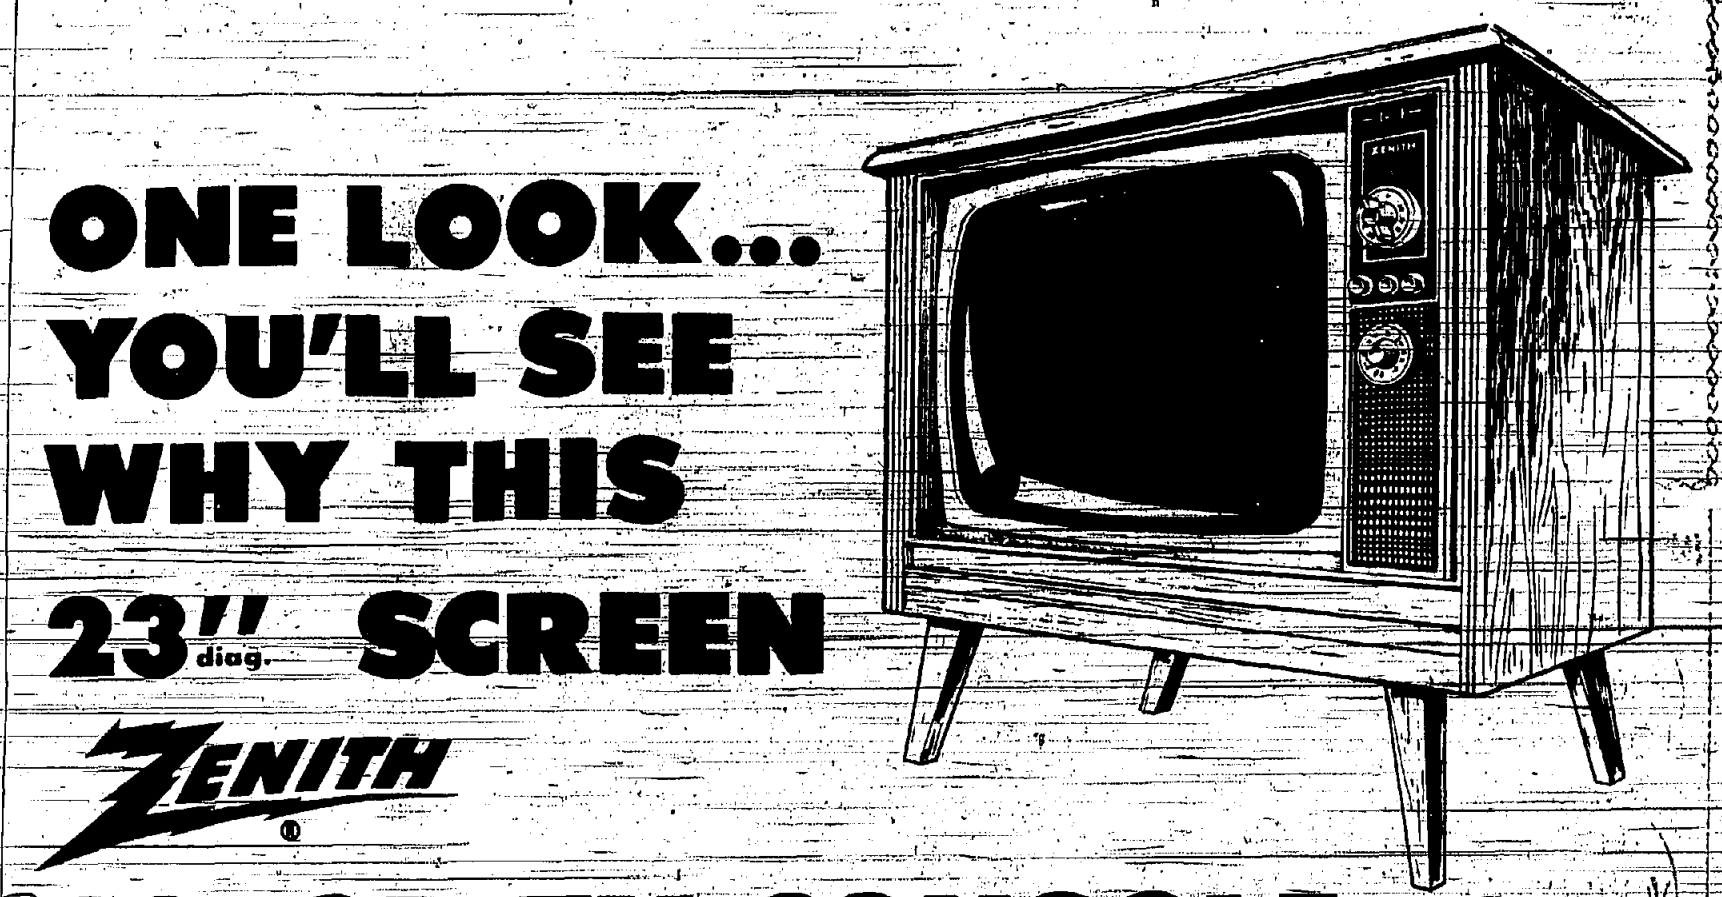

McManimon said, "The committee, a non-partisan group formed in the wake of the bond referendum in 1967, will be holding a series of public hearings to provide knowledgeable speakers to any organizations seeking a review of either or both of these two referendums."

Public Question 1 provides for issuance of $100 million in bonds to finance expansion of New Jersey's public colleges. Public Question 3 would permit the state to invest $50 million in park lands, forests, natural areas and other open spaces, and would produce an investment

Mime show at Upsala
A husband and wife team who toured in Europe with Marcel Marceau will present a pantomime performance, "It's All in Your Mime," at Upsala College on Thursday night, Oct. 21, at 8 p.m.

The family are fiction, but the figures are not. Astonishing as it may seem, in 1970 the Browns would have paid about $2,000 in property taxes, while the Whites would have paid only $1,200. This extreme disparity is a direct consequence of New Jersey's tax structure, with its high reliance on the local property tax.

Every state differs in the way responsibilities are divided between state government and local governments. In New Jersey, where the state taxes collected each year are far lower than the total of local taxes (in 1972, total state tax revenue will amount to about $1.8 billion, while local taxes will add up to $2.2 billion), local governments necessarily assume a greater share of the responsibility than in most other states. The state simply does not have the money to provide adequate support to municipalities, counties, and school districts. In meeting the continually increasing costs of services such as public works, health, police and fire protection, and above all education, local governments are largely on their own.

OTHER THAN a few fees and miscellaneous receipts, the only source of revenue available to them is the property tax. In many ways, this is an unattractive way of raising money. The tax rate of a community represents a balance between its wealth (assessed valuation) and its needs. "Tougher," but the variables that spell wealth are very unevenly distributed among taxing districts, and bear little relation to the needs of the districts. To make matters worse, some taxing districts have high concentrations of tax-exempt property which includes

Property tax seen taking biggest bite from incomes of those who have least

This is the fourth in a series of articles prepared by the League of Women Voters.

In the affluent Essex County community of Short Hills, Georgia, Whites, an insurance executive, lives with his wife and children in a two-bedroom house valued at $60,000. A few miles away in Newark, the county seat, Henry Brown and his family live in a $25,000 house on a street of middle class homes. Which household pays more in property taxes?

Faulty locks are responsible for half of apartment crimes

Law enforcement officials throughout the country have noted a sharp increase in apartment building crimes. The problem has grown proportionately with the increasing popularity of apartment living, states the Allstate Insurance Co.

Too many apartment dwellers feel a false sense of security, warns a spokesman. They put too much faith in the old and unreliable theory that safety lies in numbers.

Enrollment is up 15 percent at UCTI

Increasing number of Union County students are electing a technical education program, according to Dr. George H. Baxel, president of the Union County Technical Institute. Dr. Baxel reported last week that this year's enrollment is up 15 percent over last year's enrollment for the 1970-71 school year.

Dr. Baxel said that the number of students enrolled in the 1972-73 school year is expected to be up 20 percent over last year's enrollment. He said that the number of students enrolled in the 1972-73 school year is expected to be up 20 percent over last year's enrollment.

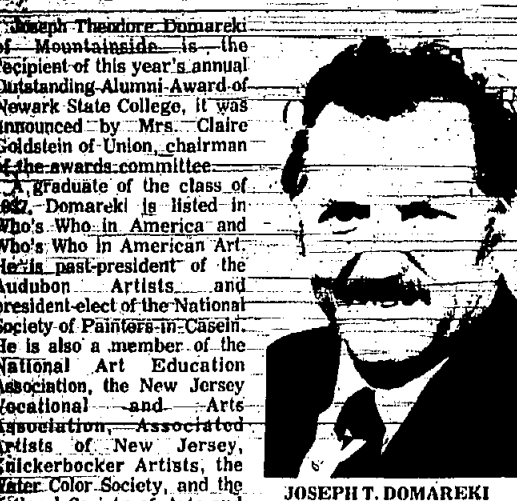

Maximum use of facilities has stemmed over greater growth in technical education. Dr. Baxel reported that the Institute has reached capacity in the dental hygiene program. Dr. Baxel said that in fact, seven students are already enrolled in the 1972-73 dental hygiene program.

Dr. Baxel said that the number of students enrolled in the 1972-73 school year is expected to be up 20 percent over last year's enrollment. He said that the number of students enrolled in the 1972-73 school year is expected to be up 20 percent over last year's enrollment.

Why more students have elected a technical education is a question that UCTI hopes to soon answer. The entire student body will be asked why they chose the particular program in which they are enrolled and how they came to know about the program.

Dr. Baxel believes, will be the current market. The electronics industry has had cutbacks and the construction industry, which employs civil technologists, is up, he observed.

Mountainside artist Gavan is hit by Bassano on dual jobs

Joseph T. Domarecki, Mountainside, is the recipient of this year's annual Outstanding Alumni Award of Newark State College. It was announced by Mrs. C. John Golden, chairman of the awards committee.

Chisholm strip still an issue

Traffic plan rejected by school board. Noises, dangers cited as reasons for action.

The possibility that the Township Committee might turn to condemnation proceedings against the Springfield Board of Education to acquire a strip of land in front of the Raymond Chisholm School emerged this week after the school board rejected a request to make the property available. The action came at the monthly board meeting at the Florence Center School.
