

It's season for giving all year-round

Good deeds not just a sometimes thing at UC

The Old World Christmas tradition of picking a "Kris Kringle" on whom to shower kindness and good deeds in the weeks prior to Christmas can be called a year-round tradition at Union College.

Individual students and student organizations appear to have their own Kris Kringle on whom they practice the spirit of giving and brotherly love in all seasons.

Union College students have found the Christ child this past year in a young hemiplegic in mentally and physically handicapped teenagers, in millions of Palestinian refugees in a Plainfield elementary school, in fellow students who need help in the Cerebral Palsy victims enrolled in the Union County-Central Palmy Center in Cranford, in Sicke Cell mental sufferers and orphaned and institutionalized children.

In sharp contrast to today's image of college students, some 20 Union College students donated blood this fall for the son of a policeman. Five-year-old Tommy Kane, son of Cranford Patrolman and Mrs. Thomas Kane, suffers from hemiplegia and the students were responding to a campus-wide blood drive sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega fraternity.

"It was a rewarding experience," says Michael Curo of Clark, vice-president of APO. "Most of the kids said they'd be glad to do it again for a worthwhile cause."

"I FEEL THAT I'VE DONE SOMETHING, I feel useful," says Miss Amy Lutz of Fenwood, a freshman, as she explains her volunteer efforts in running the First Aid Squad room at the college. Miss Lutz has taken several first aid courses and has worked at Somerset Hospital for six years, four as a volunteer.

Candy Stripper and two as a nurse's aid. Sponsoring the annual Christmas Party at the Cerebral Palsy Center in cooperation with APO fraternity satisfies the Kris Kringle instinct in the sisters of Sigma Alpha Xi society. At a time of year when most people are pressed for time and money to fill the Santa Claus role in their own families, the sorority and fraternity members take time out to buy gifts, make stockings and bake cookies for the children at the Cerebral Palsy Center. They also sponsor an entire afternoon at the center, preparing and reading to them, playing games and reading to them.

"It brings us closer to the community and opens our eyes to every day life and it makes better people of us," says Susan Pappas, Delta Sigma Delta of Rho Chapter, a member of SAP.

Dean Paskow of 1108 Heckel dr., says, talaine, one of many students working with the handicapped, answered the question, "Is your paper for volunteers for the Union County League for the Handicapped?"

"I'm interested in special education and felt the experience would be valuable. It's been more than that. To feel you have something to offer and to see it accepted in the smiles and response of these youngsters is really rewarding. It's something every one should do at least once," Paskow said.

"It's the kids who have helped me," said Alan Burt of Elizabeth, who gives six hours a week to working with the handicapped youngsters and the young children at the Cerebral Palsy Center. "I was very interested and the response from these kids has helped bring the year. Besides, there's only one way to help them and that's by getting involved."

INVOLVED TO MISS SHARON SCHEIN

DELUXE of Cranford, a student at Union College's Plainfield Campus, is looking for a volunteer to help with the handicapped youngsters at the Stillman School in Plainfield. She and four classmates are helping the youngsters there.

Also using the classroom as a tool for helping others is Miss Mary Ann Stacepanik of Elizabeth, a student at the Elizabeth Campus of Union College who is a volunteer student teacher at St. Stephen's School in Elizabeth.

"It's really good to see a kid opening up to you," she says, "and it's great to feel you're being useful."

The Girls Service Club by its very nature is committed to helping others, even members of the college administration. The students serve as "jobbers" at Adulator's Open House program, collect tickets for various concerts and lectures sponsored by the College and have been known to serve refreshments at alumni meetings.

Members are now busy engaged in submitting toys for the Needs Survey (The handicapped youngsters in the Stillman School in Plainfield) and the Toys for Tots drive. More than $1,000 has been raised this past year for Toys for Tots.

It's Christmas in the season for giving, but it's Christmas all year-round at Union College.

All items other than spot news items will be in our office by noon on Friday.

Saint Nick visits cousts

Santa, Claus made his annual trip last week to visit the cousts at St. James Church, Springfield. But this year his visit was different; the cousts asked Santa to give their gifts to poor children.

Anthony Colariglio presented the following cousts: Don 2, with Doris De Marco, Eugene De Marco and John Rowley.

Don 3, with Marilyn Alex, Andrew Coker and Robert Grassman.

Don 4, with Carl Haws, Tony Colariglio, John Haws, Jimmy Beyer and Eddie Drummond.

Don 5, with Meredith Francis, Glen Horsthy, Ronald Majewski and Mike Hebel.

Gene Studiosio complemented the cousts on the final month of the candy sale last month. Frank Coyte, treasurer, gave the cousts their prize money.

The following cousts sold 100 boxes more: Lili, Dan Mauro, Mark Casale, Donna Metzner, Billy Ruocco, Michael McIntyre, Billy Corrigan, Anthony Calitano and Eugene DeMarco.

The top winners were George Jastoff, Douglas Richeo and Richard Studiosio, all of whom sold more than 300 boxes.

The cousts will be going to an ice show in January.

It's a matter of life and death.

Township Committee Robert Weltchek, Democrat, will take over Saturday as presiding officer of the governing body, with the title of mayor. The annual organization meeting Saturday at noon at Town Hall will also feature the installation of Committee members: William Buccico and Norman Banner, Republicans, and James H. The local Democratic and Republican organizations will join in sponsoring a party in the American Legion here across the street from the Municipal Building, following the organization's ceremonies. Regional schools introduce budget

Regional High School Board of Education will introduce a budget of $2,875,243 for the 1972-73 school year. The budget is a public hearing on the budget for the fiscal year 1972-73. The board is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Regional High School, Springfield.

The proposed budget calls for $81,500 in operating expenses for the next year. Fred Hagedorn, board president, noted that the current expense portion of the budget is $81,500 for the next year. He said that the budget is "as much as we can afford."

Dr. Donald Merachuk, superintendent of schools, commented that it is a "budget based on reality."

Introduction of the budget came at midnight before the remnants of an audience of some 25 people at Jonathan Dayton.

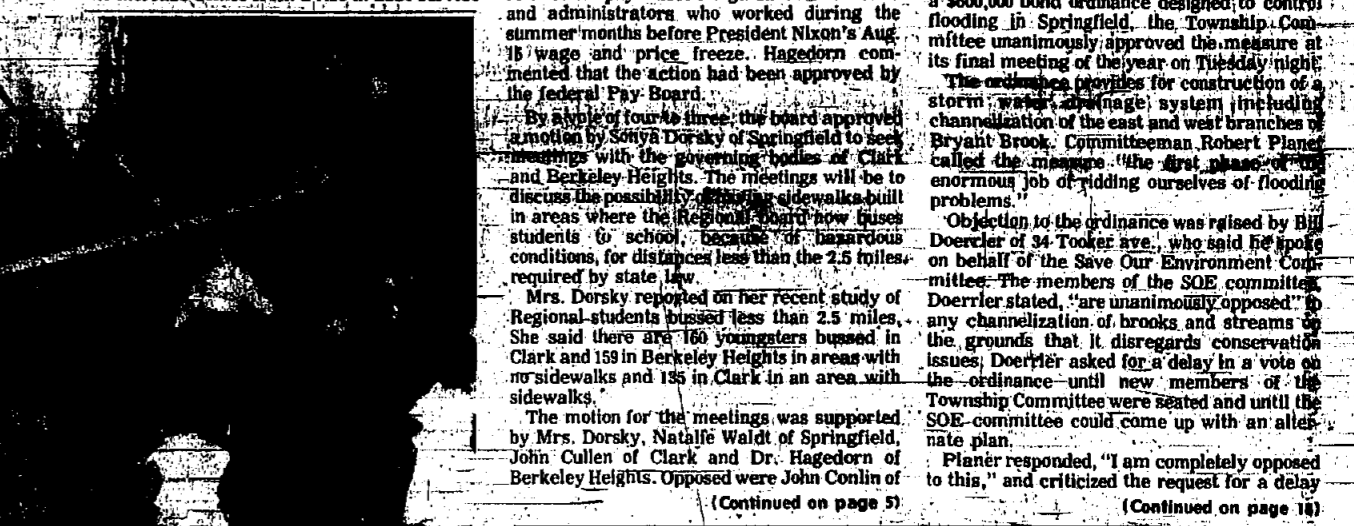

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board voted retroactive pay raises for guidance counselors and administrators who worked during the summer months before President Nixon's Aug. 13 wage and price freeze. Hagedorn commented that the action had been approved by the Federal Pay Board.

By a 4-1 vote, the board approved a motion by SAVER DASKY of Springfield to ask the board to discuss the possibility of a study of areas where the Regional High School is in need of new buildings. The study would be for a period of one year. The study would be for a period of one year. The study would be for a period of one year.

Objection to the ordinance was raised by Bill Doerflinger of Totter's era, who said the ordinance would be a delay in a vote on behalf of the Save Our Environment Committee. The members of the SOE committee, Doerflinger stated, "are unanimous in their opposition to any canalization of brooks and streams in the grounds that it disregards conservation issues. Doerflinger asked for a delay in a vote on the ordinance until new members of the Township Committee were named and until the SOE committee could come up with an alternate plan.

Doerflinger responded, "I am completely opposed to this," and criticized the request for a delay.

Pupils-faculty volleyball? They're game at Gaudineer

Student and faculty athletes of the Florence Gaudineer School engaged in their annual volleyball game last Thursday to mark the end of the volleyball season.

Girl students who were chosen to play in the first team were: Maria Johnson, Jackie Jackson, Toni Nelson, Karen Lolla, Sharyn Anker, Anna James, Jana Smith, and Patti Williams. The faculty members were unknown. Because of the football helmets and uniforms which covered them from head to toe, the teachers were not easily identified.

Reliable sources indicated that they were: Mrs. Susan Kopki, Miss Judy Gaines, Mrs. Constance Laddar, Mrs. Barbara Jaeger, Mrs. Jean Mark, Mrs. Raymond Reeves, Mrs. Lucille Weiss, Miss Andrea Wallace, Mrs. Barbara

Students and Miss Virginia Lewis joined in from the sidelines.

There were two games, one with the girls against the boys and the other, the boys against the men teachers.

The gym was full of excitement. Students were rooting for their own teams, and the boys game was first. It began with a volley for side of serve. The students won the serve, and the game went up to 12 for the teachers. The final game point was made by Thomas Smart. The teachers, at least, went off with smiling faces, score 12-10.

In the second game, the students, though losing 13 to 4, rallied their forces and moved ahead to win.

It was great fun. Students realized that teachers can be human. The teachers learned who were the better athletes. And everyone is looking forward to next year.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

By DAVID F. MOORE, Executive Director, North Jersey Conservation Council

By this time many of us have been thinking about energy as something other than just the right kind of breakfast food. Actually energy is the basic commodity, the yardstick against which the conventional means to measure the true cost of anything done by mankind.

Energy is expended when we put on our shoes in the morning, when we manufacture a pair of shoes and even when we throw away a pair of shoes. I don't think it's too daring to predict that someday man's basic unit of exchange will be based on energy rather than on things like gold or silver to which we merely have attached an arbitrary value. A worldwide economic system will function on the basis of energy credits allotted to, or earned by, each individual. Money does represent energy.

In the meantime we can figure out the real cost of raising a bottle of beer, a car, or a light bulb. It's especially valid to apply the energy yardstick to an environmentally-oriented activity like recycling. The important thing to remember is that, aside from atomic power, thermal power and that power generated through natural forces like winds, tides and falling water, practically everything we do is based on the use of coal, oil or gas which are really stored forms of solar energy. That's where most of our energy comes from.

AS FOR RECYCLING: a pioneering attempt to find answers, here, in the case of Mr. M. Hammon of the Center for Advanced Computation at the University of Illinois. He notes that sending a bottle back to the glassworks is an example of a basic physical law, the conservation of mass. Another physical law, the conservation of energy, shows that it's better to reuse an existing bottle rather than melt it down and make a new one. Right away, we can see an argument for reusable beverage bottles rather than the throw-away kind, even though returnables are made stronger, with more glass.

Limiting the pilot study to soft drink containers, Hammon and his computer determined that in a manufacturing system incorporating 30 percent recycled glass, it takes 663 BTUs to provide the raw materials for the glass for a gallon of beverage in returnable bottles, and 3,436 BTUs for a gallon in throwaway bottles. (A BTU is British Thermal Unit, the amount of heat necessary to raise the temperature of a pound of water by one degree Fahrenheit.)

If the recycled glass is involved in the acquisition of raw materials, it means 990 BTUs per gallon of beverage for returnable bottles, and 5,185 BTUs for throwaways. Don't forget, these ratios result from a returnable bottle being used over and over again.

The surface area of the wings on Lockheed's new L-1011 widebody jetliner is large enough to park nearly 50 automobiles.

1,138 BTUs per gallon for returnable bottles and 5,383 BTUs for throwaways.

In summing up, Hammon said it's clear that from the economic and energy standpoints, returnable soft drink bottles should be used. Despite this, choice to compete, pressure from the aluminum and steel can industries has caused the beverage industry to favor the throwaway. This raises a serious question: Who really should be favored? When we pick one system over another, our social costs are increased, rather than decreased.

THE CURRENT ISSUE of the magazine "ENVIRONMENTAL ACTION" contains an article by Eric Hirst with four interesting energy consumption figures. For example, "Producing 1 percent of U.S. energy consumption in 1966 - 2,000 trillion BTUs - was expended producing paper, metal, glass and plastic, including materials almost all of which eventually wind up in the garbage. The energy in 1966 for beer and soft drink cans and bottles, which are recycled, amounted to 200 trillion BTUs. Only half that energy would have been used if all the beer and soft drink containers had been returnable.

Another interesting figure is that Americans produced half their steel and aluminum from scrap, eliminated 30 percent of our packaging material, recycled our auto travel with mass transit and recovered and used half the waste heat from electrical generation. We could cut the national energy consumption by 7 percent. It appears to me that the system utilizing the least energy to obtain its objectives is going to be the most successful in the long run.

3 motorists get 8 summonses in separate accidents last week

Three drivers involved in separate auto accidents in Springfield during the last week received a total of eight summonses. Two of the drivers are charged with drunk driving. No other injuries were reported.

John W. Sigafoos of Passaicway, driving a pickup truck on Rt. 22 last Wednesday night, received three summonses after his truck ran into a car near Channel Lumber, township police reported.

Sigafoos is charged with drunk driving, careless driving and driving an unregistered vehicle. His truck hit a car driven by Joel Adams of Fanwood in the westbound lanes of Rt. 23 near Channel Lumber, according to P.D. Dan Mastaglio. The truck hit the Bolton car from behind, then flipped over, skidded 500 feet and caught fire. Mastaglio reported.

The truck was totally destroyed and the car, which received serious rear end damage, had to be towed. Mastaglio said.

Ulysses Lee of Plainfield was injured in an accident on Rt. 24 at Rt. 79 on Friday at 10:00 a.m. police reported. Lee, taken to Overlook Hospital by Springfield First Aid Squad, was treated and released.

P.D. Robert Rosner gave Lee a summons for careless driving. Lee reportedly was driving his car erratically along Rt. 24 when he jumped the curb, hit a guard rail and overturned the embankment of Rt. 79. Rosner said. Lee's car was damaged and he was taken to the hospital. Rosner said that the accident was caused by Lee's failure to maintain proper control of his vehicle.

James Hawks of Hackensack received four summonses when his car rolled into a ditch on Morris Avenue in the early morning hours of Christmas, police reported. According to P.D. Dominick Olive, Hawks stopped Hawks to issue a summons for careless driving. Hawks was driving an unregistered vehicle with fictitious plates and driving without a license to drive.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I am 13 years old and I want to wear pants to school and shorts (not short shorts). My mother will not let me. She said I could wear a pant suit if I received for my birthday, but only as a set. I want to wear the pants with just a blouse, as many of the girls do.

OUR REPLY: Forget what the other girls do and believe that, in this matter, mother knows best. Wear the set. As you grow older you will discover that what others do is not always right; not always best. Some of your friends who are careless about what they wear have parents who do not care, or pay little attention to what their children wear to school.

Your mother's decision is not made simply because she is "boss"; but because she wants you to be neat and well-groomed. She is concerned about what others do. You are her main interest, and for this you should be glad.

If you have a teenager problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to: "FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANK FORT, KY. (MILBURN 30 YARD).

New manpower training program will begin later this winter in Vauxhall

A new manpower training program serving the Vauxhall section of Union and surrounding communities will get underway early next year.

Repeating in an expanded version, the job training and development program which has been operating since 1976, the Multi-Service Center, it will be operated by the recently created Union County Vocational Rehabilitation Center (VRC). The VRC will be located at Vauxhall Road, near the Vauxhall Road-Parson on Burley Place, Vauxhall.

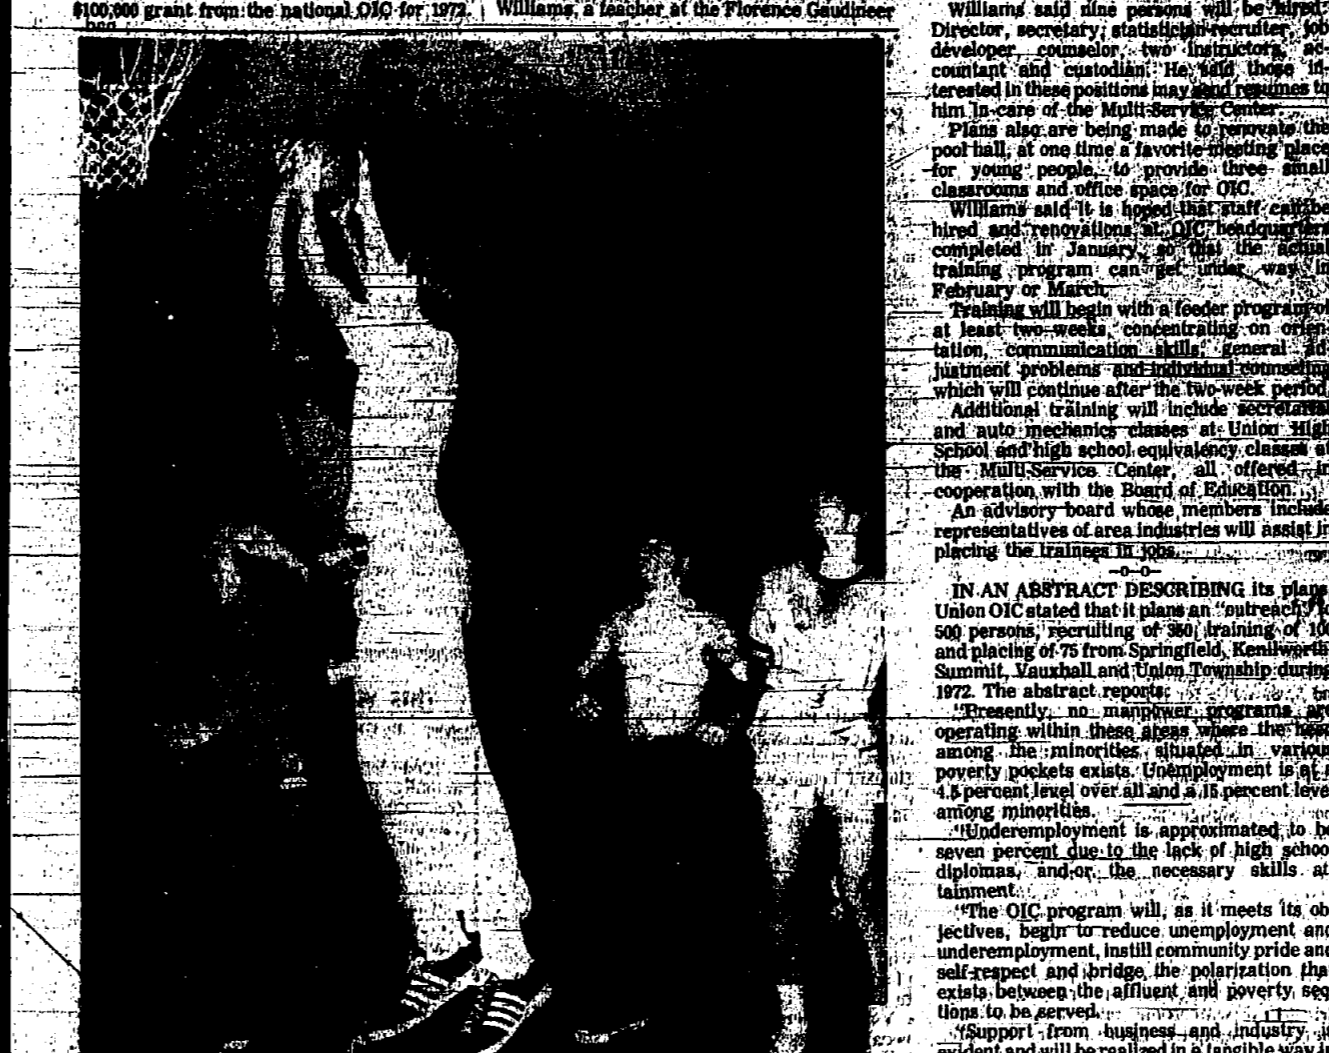

It will be funded by the OIG, a private organization, started in Philadelphia in 1966, and which has received federal assistance for its job training services to the unemployed and the disadvantaged. The VRC will be a part of the OIG's $100,000 grant from the national OIG for 1977.

Formal approval is expected in the near future. With this grant, Union OIG is planning to train a minimum of 100 unemployed men and women in a variety of skills. The training will be offered to residents of Vauxhall and other sections of Union and parsons from Springfield, Kenilworth and Summit.

CREATION OF UNION OIG came as a result of the problems encountered early this year by the Union County Community Action Organization, which operates the Multi-Service Center at Vauxhall Road and Parson Avenue in Vauxhall.

As a result of the OIG grant, the job training program element of the Multi-Service Center program had a Union OIG grant from the national OIG for 1977.

William Williams, a teacher at the Florence Gunter School, Springfield, and a former director of the Multi-Service Center, was named chairman of the VRC. Williams will get underway early next year. Williams said the program will be a "one-stop" center for job training and development. Williams said the program will be a "one-stop" center for job training and development. MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley E. Volles, M.D., Director, National Institute of Mental Health

"SILENT SPEECH" could lead to the development of a new measure of brain activity during sleep. The study was supported by the National Institute of Mental Health.

Scientists at the University of Texas are monitoring the activity of the tongue and laryngeal muscles during sleep to determine whether silent speech occurs. The study is being conducted by Dr. Peter F. MacNillage, Director of the University of Texas Linguistics Laboratory, says that "silent speech" is found to occur. It may be a useful index of neurological organization during sleep and a useful method of studying the brain.

Scientists have found, in previous studies of sleep, that rapid eye movements (REMs) accompany most dreams. The conclusions from this study could lead to another significant step in the important research going on to bring useful understanding of what some psychological and psychological research patterns are for sleep, in health and illness.

Labor Department report

The special needs of today's aging workers can be best met by improving and expanding local manpower programs, Labor Secretary J.D. Hodgson stated recently.

In a speech before the recent White House Conference on Aging, Secretary Hodgson said that specialized manpower programs to meet the needs of older workers may mean a greater concentration on the local government level.

Because the relatively small number of older workers compare with much larger groups that also have employment problems, the special needs of older workers are not getting the attention that they should. Their extended periods of unemployment, more than twice the national average last year, are symptomatic of a larger problem.

The federal official said there are clearly signs in this nation where the needs of older workers are present - in rural areas, retirement communities, many suburbs, and in declining industrial employment. If more funds were available with localized centers in these communities, the needs of older workers would be met. He said that a better break than they now have. Unemployment, however, is still a major problem for older workers. He said that a better break than they now have. Unemployment, however, is still a major problem for older workers.

He further stated that the administration's revenue-sharing program would help remedy the problem. He said that a better break than they now have. Unemployment, however, is still a major problem for older workers.

If I hadn't been nagged into getting a checkup, I'd be kicking up daisies.

The toughest fight I ever had didn't happen on any big, wide screen. It happened in real life. I was just finishing my 99th picture. My 99th ridin', jumpin', fightin' picture. Never felt better in my life. I told the family when I'm through here. I'm going out on my boat. Sure, they said, just as soon as you've had your medical checkup. I said nonsense. I had one eight months ago. They're working to rid this world of cancer once and for all. So I said okay, okay, I went to my doctor and the chest X-rays showed a spot of my lungs. It was cancer. If I'd waited a few more weeks, I'd be dead.

don't MAKE IT ONE FOR THE ROAD!

Not if you want to make it into '72! That slightly out-of-focus vision, that not-quite-perfect coordination can get a lot of laughs at a party. Out on the road it brings tears. Drunken drivers aren't the only staggering figures. The statistics on car accidents caused by them are pretty staggering too. And, a lot of people become statistics...courtesy of the chap who had to have just one more for the road. It is the season to be merry. It is the time for good fellows to get together to celebrate. And we want you to keep right on celebrating—all through the year. Remember. Tomorrow is the beginning of the rest of your life. Be here to enjoy it. Don't make it one for the road. Make it home safely instead.

Registration day Jan. 18 for EVE'S spring workshops

EVE, a vocational guidance program for women, a community service of the Field Services Division of Newark State College in Union, will hold an Open House and Registration Day on Tuesday, Jan. 18, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the EVE Office, second floor, Keau Building. Interested women are invited to come and meet the leaders of the new programs EVE will offer beginning Jan. 25.

Three workshops will be offered at modest fees. Woman-Search for Identity is an exploration into the question of female identity using group techniques. Led by Susan Barrabee, a graduate of Drake University, who has studied with Gestalt Therapist Dan Sullivan and has special training in working with women, this group will work together to become more knowledgeable about themselves and the role of women in today's society. The group is limited to 12. Several women have already registered, so places are limited.

Vocational-Interest Tests will be given in both the Career Workshop for Women and the Ex-Volunteers Group. In the Career Workshop, women explore their vocational interests with other women. The tools of job-hunting are discussed, as well as the rewards and problems of a working mother. Betsy Brown, executive Director of EVE, will lead this group, which will meet on seven Wednesday mornings, beginning Feb. 2.

Barbara Freiert of Roselle, an American Baptist minister who has had experience in small group work at the University of Rochester and at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church in New York City, will lead the Ex-Volunteers Group Round Table Discussion Group for women who have done extensive volunteer work and would like to convert this experience into paid employment. This group will consider the value of volunteer experience when seeking employment, the conflicts confronting employed women with families, the insecurity-many experience in re-entering the labor market. The group will meet on five consecutive Tuesday mornings, beginning on Feb. 8.

For further information about any of these programs or about Registration Day, call 527-2200.

These attending fall workshops included Mrs. Bennette Lowenstein of 19 Tulip rd., Springfield; Mrs. William Pisaneschi of 2797 Killeen ter. Mrs. William Brady of 330 Salam rd., and Mrs. Rita Applebaum of 632 Winchester ave., all of Union.

Mrs. Freiert, leader of Ex-Volunteers Group, lives at 112 E. Third ave., Roselle. Mrs. Margaret Wenzel and Mrs. Shirleyann Rhodes, both of Mountaineer, are members of EVE's board of directors.

1971 was a very good year for UC, Iversen concludes in annual report

"We advanced on all fronts in 1971," Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president of Union College, reported this week in his annual year-end statement.

During 1971, Dr. Iversen said, Union College saw growth in all areas: academic programs, physical facilities, community services and faculty and administrative staff. This growth, he added, enabled the college to further fulfill its commitment to serve the community college needs of Union County, in partnership with Union County Technical Institute.

The academic needs of Union County residents were expanded in a number of ways. Most significant, perhaps, Dr. Iversen noted, was the innovation in three-year nursing program adopted in cooperation with the Schools of Nursing of Elizabeth General Hospital and Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield. The three-year program permits students to earn an Associate in Science degree and 90 college credits from Union College and a nursing diploma from the participating schools of nursing.

Its educational implications are far-reaching, Dr. Iversen believes. "We are meeting the need for more professionally educated nurses while providing a stepping stone for these graduates to four-year institutions where they may earn baccalaureate and graduate degrees," he commented.

NEW COURSES in Ecology, Bio-Ecology, English History, Twentieth Century European History and English as a Second Language have broadened the course selections open to all students.

In addition, the new College Success Program has extended the opportunities for higher education to greater numbers of students. College Success is designed for students with a potential for college, but who, because of lack of motivation or inadequate preparation, were not prepared for college level work. Remedial courses as needed, intense counseling and motivational efforts are fundamental to the program. Students also take college-credit courses where ability and preparation dictate, Dr. Iversen explained.

Courses taught in Spanish have enabled the college to meet the higher educational needs of still another segment of the Union County community. Principles of accounting and English as a Second Language were offered as full credit courses for the first time this year. The program will be expanded in the Spring Semester to include Psychology and College Mathematics, bringing to 12 the number of college credits Spanish-speaking students may earn while making the transition from Spanish to English.

UNION COLLEGE is serving 1,700 full-time and 2,000 part-time students on its three campuses in Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield. Enrollments within the next few years are expected to continue to climb. To provide for these students, the college adopted a master plan in 1968. In 1970, phase I, a new administration building was completed. In 1971, the college embarked on phase II and III of the five-step plan, a $5 million library-learning center and classroom buildings. When completed in 1973, the new facilities are expected to accommodate an additional 800 full-time and an equal number of part-time students.

The library-learning center and classroom building were financed with a loan from the New Jersey Educational Facilities Authority. The college was also awarded an interest subsidy grant under Title III of the Higher Educational Facilities Act, the first such award in New Jersey by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Over the 30-year period of the loan, the interest subsidy grant will be worth more than $3 million.

IN THE AREA of community services, Union College reached additional thousands of Union County and other New Jersey residents with specialized needs and interests beyond the traditional college program, Dr. Iversen reported. During 1971, the Division of Community Services sponsored programs for such divergent groups as the Girl Scouts and the United Automobile Workers. Over 200 Cadette Girl Scouts attended a one-day drama workshop and Spanish-speaking members of Local 595 of UAW were given a course in English as a Second Language.

Tools and Techniques of Supervision, two series of lectures on Community Organization, seminars on the operation of small businesses, conversational Spanish for the Visiting Nurse Association of Union County, and human relations for industrial nurses are among the specialized offerings of the Division of Community Services.

A highlight of the year, according to Dr. Iversen, was College Unlimited, a new concept in mini-courses to meet adult interests and abilities. College Unlimited courses covered such topics as Asian Cultures and Civilization, Geology of New Jersey, Applied Psychology, Creative Writing, Foreign Policy and drama and painting workshops.

The Division of Community Services, in cooperation with Amateur Astronomers, Inc., is also responsible for programs of the William Miller Space Observatory on the Cranford Campus of Union College. The observatory, Dr. Iversen said, has been visited by thousands of New Jersey residents and has been the setting for special workshops in astronomy for students, adults and teachers.

THE RAPID EXPANSION of academic programs, facilities and community services in 1971 has been met, Dr. Iversen reported, with an expansion of personnel to support these programs.

Some 14 faculty appointments have brought the number of full-time and part-time instructors to about 210. Additional guidance counselors have also been appointed to give students the supportive help necessary to succeed in college.

Administrative appointments have also been made to help the college play a more meaningful role in meeting the higher educational needs of Union County, Dr. Iversen stated. This past year, Dr. Harvey Hoberman was named director of continuing education to further expand non-credit curriculum offerings including courses oriented to job upgrading, special interests and self-improvement.

Dr. Henry E. Scott Jr., joined the staff of UC as dean of educational development for Union College and Union County Technical Institute. Dr. Scott's primary responsibility will be to develop new educational programs to be offered jointly by Union College and UCTI as well as new programs for both institutions, Dr. Iversen explained.

In summing up the past year, Union College's president said, "We have not only made real progress on all educational fronts, we have laid the groundwork for continued expansion and upgrading of our programs in 1972."

Chris Beel is selected to reign as Miss Channel thrive with Poinsettias proper care

Chris Beel, 18, was voted Miss Channel 1972 in the second annual beauty selection conducted by Channel Companies, Inc. Miss Beel was crowned by Linda Carol Gialanella, Miss Channel 1971, at the company's annual employee Christmas party at the Westmount Country Club, West Paterson.

The newly elected queen, a resident of Montvale, was selected from a group of eight finalists whose photos were displayed on voting booths in the Channel Home Centers and Play Factory Toy Stores throughout New Jersey and Pennsylvania. She is 5'4" and weighs 100 lbs.

This attractive, hazel-eyed blonde is an accomplished homemaker. Her hobbies include painting, bowling and horseback riding.

You can enjoy the poinsettia you received for Christmas beyond the holidays if you follow these tips from Eric H. Peterson Jr., senior county agent of Union County Cooperative Extension Service.

Keep your poinsettia in a sunny warm window but make sure it's not drafty. If there's danger of chilling at night, take the plant out of the window before you go to bed. Try to maintain soil moisture at moderate and uniform levels. The soil should be neither soggy nor bone dry. When the top of the soil is dry, water it.

After the plant stops blooming and the leaves begin to fall, gradually stop watering it. The leaves will soon turn yellow and fall. Then store the dried-off plant in a cool, dark basement at 50 to 60 degrees until April or May, and water it lightly. Give it just enough water to keep the roots and stems from drying out.

In May, cut the stems back three to five inches, and replot the poinsettia. Then put the plant in a warm sunny place in your yard and keep it watered and fertilized during the summer.
