Republicans field two opposing slates for district committeeman positions

A full scale battle for control of the Republican Party organization in Springfield joined this week as the two contending factions both filed virtually full slates of contenders for designation as district committeemen and committeewomen in the June 6 primary election.

Caldwell area residents differ with reporting

Strong disagreement with an article in last week's issue of the Leader reporting Springfield Board of Education meetings on a proposal to redistrict local elementary schools was expressed this week in a statement issued by five residents of Crest place, in the area served by the James Caldwell School.

Their statement declared:

"Our headline of April 27, 'Opposition Melting to Redistricting Proposal,' is very misleading. Others who attended this meeting formed an opinion quite at odds with your impressions.

"A petition presented by a group of James Caldwell parents joined the Sandmeier PTA in objections to the plan, though for different reasons. This petition represented a sampling of Caldwell district parents and residents, and if statistically projected, seems to indicate at least 90 percent of the Caldwell residents oppose the closing of James Caldwell School. This degree of opposition is significant and is not melting.

"Should the feelings of many Caldwell residents be ignored by the Springfield Board and, more important, by the Board of Education?"

Regular Organization—Republican of Union County, it is headed by Edward N. Stiso Jr. and Robert B. Wasserman, seeking nominations to run for the Township Committee.

Their opponents in the primary are headed by J. Scott Donington and Leonard B. Zucker, Township Committee candidates, and carry the designation of Regular Republicans.

Both groups have designated Arthur H. Buehrer as candidate for township clerk, although he is also a part of the district committeemen's slate headed by the Stiso-Wasserman (RORUC) group.

Local Democrats have also filed a full slate of district committee candidates, with no contests on the ballot, as reported elsewhere in this issue.

The Stiso-Wasserman (RORUC) ticket is supported by William A. Ruocco and Norman O. Banner, incumbent Republican members of the Township Committee, and by Angelo (Duke) Menza, the municipal GOP chairman.

The Zucker-Donington (RR) ticket has the backing of the Springfield Republican Club and most leaders of the Republican administration which controlled Town Hall during the 1968. It includes three former mayors: Robert G. Planer, Henry J. Bulman and Philip Del Vecchio.

The district contests are as follows:

District 1: William Ruocco, 26 Joanne way, and Lucille Conzolo, 10 Joanne way (both RORUC), against Nicholas J. Episcopo of 12 Alvin ter. (RR).

District 2: Morris and Carmela Sarno of 72 Linden ave. (RORUC), against Otto H. Burkhardt of 72 S. Maple ave. and Kathleen Francis, 113 Linden ave. (RR).

District 3: Frank and Margaret McClatchey, 57-B Mountain ave. (RORUC), unopposed.

District 4: Harvey A. Schramm, 21 Walnut ct., and Jill Ogden, 99-A Rosal ter. (RORUC), against J. Scott Donington and Pamela F. Donington, 89 Colfax rd. (RR).

District 5: Rudolph R. Albert, 14 Dayton ct., and Ann M. Stracko, 165 Tooker ave. (RORUC).

against Paul W. Penard, 39 Lyon pl., and Barbara C. Remlinger, 137 Tooker ave. (RR). District 6: James Thompson, 100 Stone rd., and Dale A. Dauser, 245 Baltusrol ave. (RORUC), against Robert Planer, 125 Shaw.

Environment group weighs up the tons given for recycling

The Springfield Save Our Environment Committee this week reported that it had collected some 49 tons of glass and newspapers at its four recycling collection days this winter and spring.

Continuing its schedule of collections the third Saturday of each month, SOE will hold its next recycling center on May 20 from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the parking lot at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

The amounts collected at previous sessions were: Dec. 4, 6 tons of glass; Jan. 22, 8 tons of glass; March 4, 10 tons of glass and 7 tons of newspapers; April 8, 12 tons of glass and 6 tons of newspapers. The total cash value was $28.

An SOE spokesman added:

"It is well understood by all concerned that housekeeping is much simpler for the person who just discards all paper and glass without a second thought. However, besides the ecological necessity to continue to store and save these items, it can be seen that there is actually profit to be made by so doing.

"Thus far, a portion of the amount received has been given to various organizations whose members have worked at the collection site. It is hoped, however, that in the not too distant future, the town of Springfield or perhaps some organization will take over the project either on a continuing or a one-time basis in order to reap the benefits of the recycling income.

"In the meantime, each citizen who sees these bins and specially takes to participate in the recycling program can feel satisfied that he or she is helping to save our environment."

"Should the feelings of many Caldwell residents be ignored by the Springfield Board and, more important, by the Board of Education?"

AFS dinner set at Dayton High

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Chapter of American Field Service will hold an international covered dish dinner on Tuesday from 5:30 to 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Admission will be $1.50 at the door.

A student spokesman said: "Not only will you have a chance to taste new and exciting foods, but you'll be able to speak to students from all over the world who are attending high school and staying with families in the New York metropolitan area. Come and hear their impressions of America, Americans and their own countries.

"American Field Service is a non-profit organization which provides scholarships for foreign and American students in order to attend school and live with a family for a summer or a year. The hope is that a student will come to understand a culture different from his own and then be able to return to his country and transmit this understanding to others. All money collected will provide local students an opportunity to live abroad and will also go towards financing a foreign student's stay in Springfield next year."

Regional session ends in dispute with NJEA

BY ABNER GOLD
The Regional High School Board of Education adjourned its meeting Tuesday night in midsentence of a statement by a field representative of the N. J. Education Association who had refused to stop speaking when asked by the board president, Natalie Waldt of Springfield.

The audience of some 150 people at A. L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark, appeared to be composed primarily of teachers, aggrieved by the board's refusal to extend a new contract to a staff administrator, and by students concerned over policies on final examinations—student smoking—and girls' varsity sports.

The teacher spokesmen centered their fire on plans for a hearing scheduled for last night in the case of Ellen Addis, director of special services since last Sept. 15, who was not offered a contract for the coming year.

The issue was raised by Milton Karjen, industrial arts teacher at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, and president of the Union County Conference of Teacher Associations.

Mrs. Waldt said that the matter would be discussed at the private hearing, called at the request of Mrs. Addis and the NJEA. She added that on the advice of the board's counsel for its dealings with the teachers, Irvin Weinberg, she would not permit any further discussion of the matter because discussion might prejudice chances to hold a "fair and impartial hearing."

Her stand was challenged by Alan McQuarry and John Warms, NJEA field representatives, who continued with a series of questions and statements despite declarations by Mrs. Waldt that they were out of order.

Board members Sonya Dorsky of Springfield, Manuel Diog of Clark, Charles Vitale of Kenilworth and Harry Newman of Berkeley Heights all sought to end the discussion.

Finally, as Warms was still on his feet, the board abruptly adjourned the meeting.

Transportation sets date for bids on Rts. 24, 78

The state Department of Transportation will receive bids next Thursday May 11, on two construction contracts which will open portions of the Rt. 24-Freeway and Interstate Rt. 78 in Union and Essex counties.

The adjacent projects extend from the Erie Lackawanna railway bridge in Summit to Springfield avenue at the Springfield-Union line. A small portion of the 128 alignment traverses Millburn.

The department also will take bids today on a related contract to eliminate erosion of Bryant Brook at the Rt. 24-78 interchange in Springfield. Under the contract a concrete channel will be installed in the existing brook bed.

The Rt. 24 Freeway contract calls for paving the eastbound and westbound roadways from the railroad's arch bridge eastward to Baltusrol avenue in Springfield. Temporary connections between the freeway and the Morris and Essex Turnpike (Rt. 24) will be constructed just east of the arch bridge.

Under the Interstate Rt. 78 contract, paving will be completed from Baltusrol avenue through the 24-78 interchange to Springfield avenue.

In the I-78 section between the interchange and Springfield avenue the outer roadways will be paved. The inner roadways, designed to carry express traffic, will be graded from Springfield avenue westward for 2.6 miles to a point east of Baltusrol road in Springfield.

All the paving work is targeted for completion during the latter part of the summer of 1972.

Costs of the Rt. 24 Freeway project will be shared by the state and federal governments; 90 percent of the I-78 construction costs will be paid by the federal government. All bids will be reviewed before contracts are awarded.

Alexander's buying land?

The Leader this week learned from a reliable source that the representatives of Alexander's department stores have extended feelers to purchase three parcels of land near the tract the firm already owns south of Rt. 22 in Springfield. The three properties sought are those occupied by the Lido Diner, Springfield House, and Community Plumbing. The feelers were reportedly extended through the Kislak real estate organization.

When plans by Alexander's to construct a major shopping center in Springfield became known some two years ago, many local residents raised strong objections, primarily on the grounds that it would disrupt traffic patterns and community services. The Township Committee then changed the zoning law to eliminate retail sales as a permitted use in the industrial zone where the bulk of the Alexander's property is located.

Unionites honored for work on behalf of Senior Citizens

Freelholder Walter E. Ulrich, chairman of the Union County Department of Public Affairs and General Welfare, reported at the "Seniors' meeting" that the Union County White House delegates on aging were singled out for recognition because of their efforts on behalf of the senior citizens of Union County.
The delegates passed a resolution recognizing the month of May as Senior Citizens month and sponsoring Evelyn Frank and John T. Kelly of Union Township and Jack Volosin and Joseph Walsh of Cranford for their activities as delegates to the White House Conference on Aging.
Ulrich noted the delegates attended the Conference last November as representatives of Union County and that they have carried forward the "1972 White House Conference theme of 'Action Now'" in their continuing activities for the older people of Union County.

Town church wins citation for support of homes for aged

Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Hall at Academy, Cranford, was cited last Wednesday for its support of the Methodist Homes for the Aged of New Jersey. Marie Coe, home representative, and the Rev. James Dewar, pastor, received a certificate of appreciation at a luncheon held at Epworth United Methodist Church, Elizabeth.
The local congregation was one of two churches in eastern Union County recognized for 100 percent support of the Methodist Homes for the Aged. Other churches include the Methodist Home for the Aged, located at Ocean Grove, Ocean City, Branchville, and Collinswood. This is the 25th year on the basis of the goal of $1 per member per year for each church in the New Jersey area of the United Methodist Church.
This is the sixth year that the Springfield Church has met or surpassed its quota. Funds supplied by church members are used to supplement the cost of maintaining homes, in particular granting fellowship credit to aged Methodists who would otherwise be unable to pay the monthly board of $30.

College to expand Plainfield campus

A major expansion of Union College's Plainfield campus was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Lyversen, president.
The 400 square foot expansion will provide for a greatly enlarged student lounge, a lecture hall, a faculty lounge, a seminar room, and counseling and faculty offices. It will permit an increased enrollment and an expanded student activities program. Dr. Lyversen said: "Union College has been granted a zoning variance by the Plainfield Board of Adjustment for the project. The new building has been opened in 1970 to extend the opportunities for higher education to increased numbers of Union County residents. The Plainfield campus was opened in 1965 at 317 E. Front St. in September, 1970, to extend the opportunities for higher education to increased numbers of Union County residents. The Plainfield campus was opened in 1965 at 317 E. Overlook endowment announced Overlook Hospital Summit, the beneficiary of an endowment fund of $2,000,000, it was announced by Edward T. Kenyon, outgoing chairman of the Overlook Board of Trustees, at the annual meeting of the Overlook Hospital Association on May 2.

This splendid gift signifies the start of intensive programming to "build Overlook's Fund for the Future," Kenyon commented, pointing out that the income from such an endowment would be in the range of $200,000 a year.
In his speech to the members of the association, the chairman outlined out: "Increasing government regulation means strict limits on hospital budgets and charges. This means standardization which in turn means mediocrity," he warned.
"It Overlook is to continue to develop, innovative and creative services, or even to maintain its present standards of excellence, the Trustees must seek endowment and request funds, as well as increased annual giving," Kenyon emphasized.

Free vision tests for pre-schoolers at Summit church

The fifth annual pre-school vision screening program will be held for children of this area on Monday and Tuesday at the Parish House of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

The purpose of the screening is to discover pre-school children (ages 3 to 5) who may have amblyopia ("lazy eye") or other visual defects, and to alert their parents to the need for an immediate professional eye examination.

The screening will be conducted by volunteer doctors from the Summit-Westfield Alumni Association of Delta Gamma under the auspices of the New Jersey Commission for the Blind. It is sponsored by the State Board of Education and the State Medical Society.

Mrs. Austin W. Towler, a former Springfield teacher, chairman of the volunteer group and Delta Gamma alumna, from the area will assist her. They will be under the supervision of three ophthalmologists, Dr. Paul T. McAlpine, Dr. A.L. Ross and Dr. Jordan Burke, of the Summit Medical Group, as well as representatives from the State Commission for the Blind.

Springfield and Mountaineer parents were urged to bring their pre-school children to have their vision checked during this program. There will be no charge, and children who do not pass the vision test will be referred to the family eye specialist for further eye examination. Hours will be from 9:30 to 12:30 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. Parking facilities are immediately behind the church, with the entrance on Woodland avenue.

Mod music, food, libations and an auction of political memorabilia will highlight the occasion.

The party will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hercules M. Siles, 43 Fernwood, Summit.

Donations are $7.50 per couple with all proceeds going to the United County Citizens for McGovern in the campaign to elect a date of delegates pledged to the senator. Tickets may be obtained from Pat Graham, 25-9284, or from Union County headquarters at 21 Elmer st., Westfield, 864-4255.

Publicity Chairmen are urged to observe the Friday deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

McGovern feté planned

"I'm amazed at the amount of interest shown the McGovern effort in just the past few weeks—the tardiness of Senator McGovern seems to be attracting a wide cross-section of Mountaineer voters," reported Arlene Nash, one of the organizers of Mountaineer Citizens for McGovern.

Mrs. Nash said that plans were being completed for telephone and door-to-door canvassing, distribution of campaign material and fundraising activities.

A cocktail party sponsored by the Summit-New Providence and Berkeley Heights Citizens for McGovern will be held on Saturday between 4 and 6 p.m. Area residents are invited to attend.

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

Q What does the IRS do when it finds a retail posting violation?

A If an IRS agent finds that a retailer is in violation of the base price posting requirements, the agent informs the retailer that he must comply and explains the requirements to him. If a subsequent visit by the IRS agent shows that the retailer has not complied, the retailer receives a notice on which he is given 15 days in which to request an appointment with the IRS agent to discuss the requirements. If the retailer does not request such an appointment or fails to appear at the meeting, the retailer's cost is referred to the local Assistant U.S. Attorney who decides whether or not to prosecute.

Q Does the fact that a company has raised back an illegal price increase after investigation by the IRS prevent subsequent court action against the firm?

A No. Court action can be initiated against a firm which has raised stabilization regulations even if the company has previously collected back the illegal increase.

Q My poll tax recently raised dues $5. Can they do that?

A If your poll club is a non-profit, the dues example organization, the dues it can raise prices to cover allowable costs reduced to redress productivity gains and to offset the increase in price dues may not increase its profit margin where that which exceeds the previous three years averaged less than seven percent, wage and salary increases as much as seven percent per year may be allowed in new contracts.

Q Did the "catch-up" provisions in the Fair Labor Standards Act expire on March 31, 1972?

A The Fair Labor Standards Act was amended in 1972 to provide for a "catch-up" provision which allows an employer to raise wages and salaries in excess of the previous three years averaged less than seven percent, wage and salary increases as much as seven percent per year may be allowed in new contracts.

6 grants available for more effective recycling program

The state Department of Environmental Protection will provide six demonstration grants totaling $12,000 to selected community recycling programs to increase the effectiveness of such programs in the state. The project will be administered by the Division of Environmental Quality.

Grant F. Walton, director, said that funds will be provided to local recycling programs with the intent of supplying the division with necessary data to evaluate the effectiveness of municipal curbside pickup of separated refuse.

There are three categories of grants: Type A to already operating, municipally supported programs that wish to regionalize; Type B grants will be made to municipally supported programs that wish to regionalize; Type C will be provided to municipalities for the purpose of evaluating cost viability of curbside pickup of separated newspaper, glass and metal.

Type A grants will be awarded $5,000, three Type B grants $1,000 each, and two Type C grants $2,000 each. Deadline for application is June 1, 1972.

Methodists to mark 'family week' with series of activities

"National Family Week" will be observed at Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church, Church Hill at Academy Green, beginning this Sunday and concluding on Monday, May 15.

Caruba recently received an author's award from the New Jersey Association of Teachers of English and will be seen on the May 25 Joe Franklin Show over WOR-TV. He is the former city editor of the East Orange Record and former columnist for the Morris County Daily Record.

"I think it's important that students see with their own eyes the real living people who are engaged in the writing of poetry and that it is not an art form that belongs to the past," Caruba said. "I intend to talk about the importance of learning how to communicate effectively because most of mankind's ills derive from a failure to be understood, whether it is just between two people or between two great nations."

Caruba will make a personal appearance at the Brentano bookstore on the Mall in Short Hills, May 11 at 8 p.m. and on May 20, Saturday, from 12:30 to 4 p.m. His book is the first selection of poetry to include a commentary by the poet on each poem. "I want everyone to discover the joy of reading poetry, not just my own work, but of the great poets of our nation and from the past as well."

Start at wine company for 25 vintage years

Gallo Wine Series of N.J. Inc., Elizabeth, honored Irving Short of Hemlock, Ore., to celebrate his 25 years of service with the company.

Start is active in community affairs and is a volunteer with the Red Cross.

Retirement. The end of work, or the beginning of worry?

Most people look forward to retirement as a time of relaxation and enjoyment. And it can be if you prepare for it. But if you don't, it can be a time of worry and disappointment. A time when you say, "I can't bank back and think of a million ways that you could have saved, but didn't."

Well, there's no better time to start saving than now, while you're working. One easy way to save is on a regular basis by purchasing U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Now there's a bonus interest rate on U.S. Savings Bonds for 18 months, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months.

Heart Fund renews plea to attain campaign goals

The Union County Chapter of the American Heart Association appealed this week for support from the 21 municipalities it serves in an effort to help bolster its 1972 fund drive. Mrs. Henrietta Froehlich, executive director of the chapter, said in a preliminary report that drives have gone well in some towns, but have lagged badly in others.

Mrs. Froehlich pointed out that unless collections improve within the next few weeks, the Heart Association might be forced to cut back on its plans to expand a pilot riciniferate fever prevention program into a county-wide project. She explained that the Heart Association has been unable to raise the $100,000 goal for the 1972 fund drive.

The fund drive is a campaign to raise money for the Heart Association's research and education programs. The goal for 1972 is $100,000. The fund drive is a campaign to raise money for the Heart Association's research and education programs. The goal for 1972 is $100,000.

NJEA to hold meetings on two education issues

The New Jersey Education Association has scheduled regional meetings on two controversially being "debated" state educational issues: the value of giving standardized tests to assess school quality and retraining students and teachers into "multi-unit schools."

The NJEA conferences will be conducted this Saturday and Sunday, May 20, at four strategic locations throughout the state. All meetings have the same agenda: Educators from throughout New Jersey are being invited to attend.

This Saturday's meetings will be in the Holiday Inn on Rt. 17 in Paramus and the Valley View Motor Lodge on Rt. 15 in Sparta. The May 20 meetings are at the Empress Motel in Ashbury Park and the Holiday Inn on Rt. 130 in Gloucester City.

The conferences are being organized by Donald R. McNeely and Elizabeth M. Natchez, associate directors of NJEA's Unit on Instruction. All are scheduled for 1 to 3 p.m.

THE TESTING PROGRAM has been ordered by Gov. William T. Cahill and is being implemented by the State Department of Education. "Many teachers have voiced reservations and some have even threatened court action," reports Natchez. "Questions of civil rights, economic priority and educational value are involved, as well as the fundamental premise: Will mass testing disclose anything that is not already known?"

"The public is entitled to know how well the schools are doing in educating their children," says Natchez. "The first step is to show the need for the expenditure of over $400,000 in funds that could otherwise be used to correct deficiencies already known to exist."

The multi-unit school program is also being sponsored by the State Department of Education based on "models" developed by theorists at the University of Wisconsin. The basic idea, says McNeely, is to replace PETIT MAL ISN'T PETTY — Dr. Christina VanderWende of Rutgers College of Pharmacy tests mice for their reaction to injections of dopamine as part of her continuing research on the petit mal form of epilepsy. The disorder afflicts more than 250,000 U.S. victims and research support for Dr. VanderWende is provided by the Epilepsy Foundation of America.

Petit mal cure nearer? Dopamine may solve puzzle

A puzzling convulsive disorder of children and a chemical called dopamine may have a relationship that could solve the puzzle. The disorder, petit mal (PET-tee-moll) is under study at Rutgers University College of Pharmacy. It is a form of epilepsy in which the patient suddenly stops any activity for two or three seconds, then resumes it without the aid. The brief impairment of consciousness is often associated with flickering of the eyelids and slight twitching of the mouth.

Petit mal seizures occur predominantly in children, rarely showing up as a true disorder after the age of 20. A victim of petit mal may experience an attack several times during a day, and frequently it may be engaged in a usual activity.

RESEARCH ON PETIT MAL is the focus of a Ph.D. dissertation by Christina VanderWende, a biochemistry and pharmacology student who is being supported in part by a grant from the Epilepsy Foundation of America.

Her interest in the petit mal dopamine relationship developed out of studies of dopamine in both normal and abnormal body functions. These studies, in turn, stemmed from her interest in drug action in the body, studies that of a number of colleagues at the College of Pharmacy.

"Dopamine is not a disease that occurs naturally in the body in order to conduct research on the disease," Dr. VanderWende said first in a conference contributed much toward shaping its recommendations and policy, still will continue as an advocate and force for the aging in this post-Confessionary era," he stated.

A commission report said that he has made aging one of the top priorities of the Department of Community Affairs since his appointment as commissioner last November and has directed that the state's White House Conference delegation be held together as a functioning organization to "sustain the momentum" of the conference in New Jersey.

He also urged citizens of all ages to begin with this year's Senior Citizens' Month, to recognize and assess our attitudes and thinking about and toward the aging.

"For what we do hope for the aging, in short, we are doing for ourselves, since aging is inevitable," he added.

Presented announced that New Jersey's 21 county and municipal officers, including 1000 city and town council members, will be marking Senior Citizens' Month with programs, exhibits and events geared to giving recognition to the state's older citizens and to their needs.

Next week, Millburn faces Summit in a game which could be important for Dayton. If Millburn wins, there will be a bye for the first place in the Suburban Conference. The Building record stands 4-3-1.

Read label on ham
Read the label on the ham you want to buy. It tells you if it is the shank or butt portion - the center slices have been removed. The butt has usually offers more meat in relation to the bone, but the shank half is easier to carve. The difference in price usually takes care of the slightly smaller amount of meat in the shank half.

Cloudy weather at Union College

Dufloca leaving meteorological station

Whatever the forecasts, the climate at Union College is somewhat chilly these days as students and faculty adjust to the retirement of Harold D. Dufloca, college meteorologist.

Dufloca's warm and old world charm have lightened the dreariest of days since the college's "Meteorological Station" cooperative station of the U.S. Weather Bureau, first opened on Jan. 1, 1969, reported by Kenneth W. Iversen, president.

While Dufloca is retiring to Ocean Grove "to take things easy," he admits that he will probably still get up in the middle of the night to check what time the rain began and to check the temperatures.

And for Dufloca tracking the weather has been almost a lifetime avocation. He first became interested in meteorology as a Boy Scout in Flushing, New York. His interest led him to the office of the U.S. Weather Bureau at the Battery, Dr. James H. Scott, then meteorologist at the New York Station, recognized the young boy's interest as more than casual and helped him to set up the cooperative weather station at home.

In time, "Dufloca of Flushing" became known as a "surfer" weatherman and housewives called him to ask if they should hang out the wash and organizations called to see if their picnic should be held as scheduled.

He later joined the Weather Bureau as a regular staff member and remained there for five years. Leaving to take a position with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, he continued to maintain a special meteorological station at home.

Weather forecasting again became more than an avocation in 1967 when New York City asked him to take on the job of snowmaker and he took a leave of absence from his railroad post to spend a winter predicting snow storms. On his word, the city would mobilize its snow-making equipment or sit back, secure in the knowledge that the flurries would never amount to a snowfall.

Dufloca moved to Cranford following his retirement from the Baltimore & Ohio, to live with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Rex F. Reed, where he continued his interest in weather and meteorology. With the establishment of Union College's cooperative weather station, Dufloca became the college's official meteorologist.

For the past 11 years, he has kept a daily record of temperature, precipitation, barometric pressure, wind-direction and velocity and the character of the day. This information is included in the New Jersey Climatological Data Bulletin and is also made available to news agencies, government agencies, industries and other organizations.

He has also involved students in his work and he is most proud that some of these students are now professional meteorologists. In fact, it is his students that he leaves the tasks of weather reporting at Union College. They maintain the station under the supervision of Prof. Patrick J. White, astronomy instructor and director of the Sperry Observatory.

Looking back over the past 11 years, Dufloca finds that his greatest satisfaction came from working with young people—the college students, the elementary and high school youngsters and the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts who visited the weather station.

"Nothing makes me happier," he says, "than helping some young person to get a real knowledge of meteorology, knowing how much pleasure this interest has given me."

Alexander's land deals spur local concern

Mayor lists activities of store chain

Citizens voice concern over possible loopholes

By ANNE GOLD

The possibility that the Alexander's department store chain might still plan to build a giant shopping center on land it owns in Springfield south of Rt. 22 held the spotlight at the Township Committee session Tuesday night at Town Hall, for the second meeting in a row.

Mayor Robert Welchek told the 30 people in the audience of the 11th annual meeting of the Alexander's chain had inquired about buying property in the highway's center island, as reported in the Leader last week.

The mayor noted that the chain, through two front corporations, owns two parcels of land, 52 and 54 acres, on the highway's center island, to the east of the Howard Johnson's motel. He added that title in half-interests in both parcels was recently transferred to Leo, other corporations, which are "another name for Macy's."

Welchek also reported that the Alexander's agents had filed an option to purchase the land occupied by the Dutch Maid Motel. The option is good for a year, he said, and can be extended for a second year.

Disclosure that Alexander's had purchased the first tract sparked a citizens' protest some two years ago based on fears that a large shopping center would create unbearable disruption of local traffic patterns and other community services.

Zucker, Donington take primary door-to-door

THE TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE then changed the zoning ordinance to eliminate a shopping center, or a retail store, as a permitted use in the mountain area where the bulk of the Alexander's land is located.

Several members of the audience on Tuesday expressed continued and very strong fear over the possibility that Alexander's might seek court action to force permits for the stores. They urged that the township be prepared to fight all challenges, and that citizens concerned citizens can do to strengthen the town's case.

"We cannot count on transfer of real estate. All we can do is keep vigilant, and we will keep the public informed," said Zucker.

Donington added, "For the last two years, we have been talking about the lack of action and leadership from the Township Committee in maintaining vital issues affecting their lives," said Zucker.

Rhode Islanders and Dayton trade singing programs

The vocal music departments of Jonathan Dayton-Regional High School and Warwick Veterans Memorial High School in Warwick, R.I., will conduct exchange concerts at each school this month.

E. Edward Shilly, vocal music teacher at Dayton, announced that the Warwick group of 25 students will be at Dayton tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday for the opening concert. It will be held in Haley Hall at 8:15 p.m. on Saturday.

The Warwick troupe will be directed by Michèle's Krohn with Genevieve Brown and Linda Schaefer as accompanists. Some of the selections in the program include: "Gloria," by Anton Bruckner; "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place," by Brahms; selections from "Gloria," by Havlicek; selections from "Fidelio" on the Roof," by Hindrick and Bock; "Alleluia," by Haydn; and "A Little While Here," by Sandeille.

Lisa Thibierge and Cary Groder are accompanists for the Dayton selections. The full complement of the Dayton vocal music department—75 members—will visit Warwick on May 28, 29 and 30 to complete the exchange program.

First Aiders start fund drive

The Springfield First Aid Squad has launched its annual fund drive, mailing coin cards to the townspeople and letters to the town's businesses. Contributions can be mailed in directly. The funds from last year's campaign were used to help purchase the new ambulance. Material collected will be used to maintain the service and equipment that the First Aid Squad provides to the people of Springfield.

A spokesman said, "Volunteers are urgently needed to continue the fine continuous service which the squad offers to the people of Springfield. Prospective members can contact Ruth Fore, 378-1071, or Dan Kalam, 318-0024."

SECRETS WILL OUT — Faculty members of Jonathan Dayton-Regional High School, Springfield, will present the Broadway comedy hit 'Never Too Late' Saturday, May 20, at 8:15 p.m. at the school. Above, Alex Kropinski and Marge Bullman, center, on the couple married 35 years, try to convince their daughter, Judy Brown, of the merits of their approaching parenthood. Large rent boosts cited at meeting of tenant-landlord unit

"The Springfield Tenant-Landlord Committee met recently before a turnout of more than 70 persons. A committee spokesman said, "The prime topic was the large rental increases that many citizens have lived in Springfield for years, whose children are now beyond school age, who continue to pay all the taxes involved in maintaining a good school system, and who are being forced by sheer economics to find residence outside of Springfield."

He added, "It was felt that Federal Phase II rental policies were so complicated and laced with so many loopholes that excessive rental increases could be interpreted as legitimate. One-year increases of 20-25 percent were commonplace. It was suggested that anyone wishing to test the legitimacy of a rental increase should contact IRS and follow through with a complaint, if necessary."

Township Committee member Ronald Clancy told the group that as an elected official and member of the board of health he would be pleased to support the tenants' cause.

Committee member Bucco said, "There were all the additional broken record programs during the campaign of 1971. My estimation of a good deal of the public who were concerned not only to support his candidates but who also work hard physically to elect Republican candidates. The primary election supporters' candidates and their screening committee were conspicuous by their absence during the last campaign."

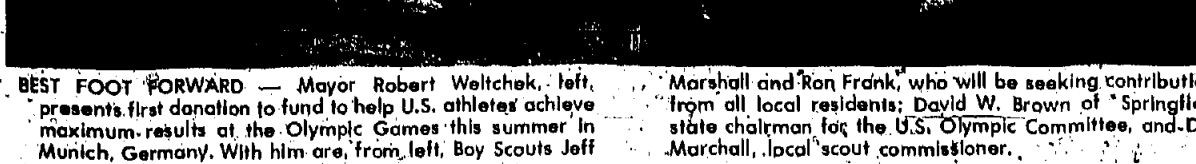

Committee member Bucco added, "We publicly and privately asked for help, but it never came. The Republicans who helped us get elected in 1971."

Dem Committee will meet tonight

The regular meeting of the Springfield Democratic Municipal Committee tonight at 8:30 at the Springfield Public Library will see representatives of the various delegate slates meeting in the June 6 primary come to discuss the primary and the different candidates they hope to represent at the national convention.

The committee will hear reports from the various delegates and will select the delegates to attend.

The Democratic committee last night held a fund-raising dinner at Evergreen Lodge. More than 100 people joined the square dancing, with music and refreshments provided. "Further functions are planned, and it is hoped that the public will continue to respond as enthusiastically to the activities of the Springfield Democratic organization," a party spokesman added.

BEST FOOT FORWARD — Mayor Robert Welchek, left, presents first donation to fund to help U.S. athletes achieve better results at the Olympic Games this summer. He is chairman for the U.S. Olympic Committee and Dick Marshall, local scout commissioner.

Social Security assists elderly to live by selves

As more and more people 65 and over have received Social Security checks during the past two years, fewer and fewer of them have made their homes with relatives.

"Some of the people getting retirement checks are under 65," Jones said. "They include widows, dependent husbands, and children of retired workers—begin collecting reduced benefits at 62, 63, or 64."

But more than nine out of 10 people 65 and over are eligible for Social Security payments, he noted. "And a large number of them prefer to live by themselves."

"A study shows that more than 60 percent of retired workers live on their own or with one other person, compared to 1962, the study shows.

The study was conducted by the Social Security Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.
