Yesterdays and tomorrows for Senior Citizens

From 30 of the town's elder residents who met a decade ago to plan activities for their spare-time to 230 men and women now busy planning a trip to Hawaii, among a wide variety of projects. That is the story of the Springfield Senior Citizens, who have just celebrated their 10th anniversary as a formal organization.

The following summary of the Seniors' history, was prepared by Mrs. Ellen Carmichael, who was the first president and is still one of the leaders today:
"Reading in the March 15, 1967, issue of the former Springfield Sun, a notice inserted by Edward J. Ruby, recreation director, that he desired to organize a program for Springfield senior citizens, some interested folks got busy. By phoning, talking and going to friends and neighbors, Mr. Ruby was able to announce in the May 10 issue that the first meeting of senior citizens would be held May 16 at the American Legion Hall. The meeting was attended by about 30 seniors and was a success.

"Scott Donington, assistant director, was in charge. Mrs. Ann Lisa, secretary for the Recreation Department, greeted the guests and gave them name tags. At the time of organization the mayor of the town was Philip De Vecchio. The committeeman in charge of recreation was Arthur M. Falkin. During our first days they looked in on us whenever possible from their business duties.

"A speaker from Trenton, Annabelle Story of the Department on Aging, spoke to us: We also had a speaker from the Summit Golden Age Club, Mrs. George Garburg, director. The Recreation Department had called upon the Springfield Women's Club for help and Mrs. Robert Buffington, president, and her committee had the tables decorated with flowers

"A salad was served along with homemade cake and coffee. Candies were also on the table for the ones with a sweet tooth. This was a friendly warm meeting and it was decided to hold the next meeting on June 13.
"With summer on us, we did not meet again until September. At this meeting Mr. Ruby was

Dems to tab convention delegates

Party crossover voting permitted for first time

This Tuesday's primary election, featuring a down-the-line battle for control of the local Republican organization, as well as a Democratic contest for delegates to the national convention which will name a presidential candidate next month, will be the first to be conducted under a court ruling issued last week which permits the crossover of voters from one party to the other, no matter which party they voted in last year in the primary.
Any registered voter may take part on Tuesday, according to a reminder issued by Beverly Lerner, president of the Springfield League of Women Voters, simply by requesting either a Republican or Democratic ballot. She stressed the importance of using "this opportunity to influence party policies, elect responsible party officials and help choose capable candidates for public office."
Until now a citizen who had voted in the party primary had to wait two years without voting in these primaries before being able to change to the other party. Anyone seeking further information on the primary election may call Marge Halpin, LWV voters service chairman, at 379-7158.

ONE REPUBLICAN slate, designated as Regular Republican Organization of Union County (RORUC), is headed by Edward A. Stiso Jr. for a three-year term as township committeeman, and Robert B. Wasserman, for a one-year unexpired term. This slate is backed by the GOP municipal chairman, Angelo Menza, and the two incumbent GOP township committeemen, William Ruocco and Norman Banner.
The opposing slate, Regular Republican (RR), is headed by Leonard B. Zucker, for the three-year term, and J. Scott Donington, for the one-year term. They are backed by leaders of the GOP organization which controlled Town A)

POINTED REMINDER — Helen Maguire, staff member at Town Hall, hopes her friend Tuffy gets the point of her suggestion that the town's annual dog clinic, with free rabies shots for all licensed pets, will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the municipal garage on Center street. All participating pups must be leashed.

Pros and cons of town houses debated with variance decision set for June 13

BY ABNER GOLD
After a hearing of more than two hours on an application for a zoning variance to permit construction of a luxury apartment "town house" development in the Baltusrol Top area along the Summit line, the Township Committee Tuesday night announced that it will present its decision on the matter at its June 13 meeting.

Some 40 people attended the meeting at Town Hall, and virtually all who spoke opposed the variance, primarily on the grounds that the land should be acquired under Green Acre state funds for use by the Union County Park Commission.

A similar variance request was turned down this spring by the Summit Common Council, and an appeal from that decision is already before the courts.

The case for the applicant was presented by former Assemblyman Hugo Pfaltz, attorney for the developer, John Aurnhammer, of Summit.

The Township Committee was acting on a recommendation favoring a variance which was submitted by the Board of Adjustment. That recommendation was read by Deputy Mayor Nat Stokes, in the absence of Mayor Robert Wellchek, who is ill.

The Board of Adjustment, in urging the use variance, noted that the property, along Old Coach road and also known as the Coradi property or "Hidden Valley," is located in an S-120 residential zone in Springfield, calling for half-acre one-family lots.

The board noted that contiguous properties in Summit are in a much lower residential zone, and some are being used for nonresidential purposes, and that the land is cut off from Springfield by Rt. 78.

The board urged granting of a variance with special provisions to control drainage, with a buffer zone and shrubbing and with a second road to provide access to Ashland avenue in Summit, in addition to the main entrance on Baltusrol road (which becomes summit road in Springfield).

Pfaltz, in his statement to the governing

Zucker, Donington rip Dems, charge bossism in own party

Leonard Zucker and Scott Donington, Regular Republican candidates for nomination to run for Township Committee, this week accused the present Democratic administration of failing to live up to its campaign promises.

Zucker said, "The do-nothing Democratic administration in Town Hall has presented no solutions regarding township problems such as sewage, fire, housing, traffic, noise, crime, and traffic safety or recreation improvements."
Donington stated, "No innovative programs for the continued growth of our town have been started by the Democrats, although we have seen a steady growth in our tax bills."

Bob Szymanski, campaign manager, stated that the Zucker-Donington slate presents the stronger team to defeat the Democrats in November. "Our opponents have yet to state the civic experience and volunteer service that might qualify them for elective office. An awareness of the town's problems can be gained only by activities in many fields of civic endeavor," Szymanski said.

"Lenny and Scott have shown their leadership and civic dedication by participation in many aspects of our town's affairs."
"Zucker is the attorney to the Springfield library board, vice-president of the Temple Shalom Men's Club; Springfield chairman of the cerebral palsy fund drive, Cornell University alumni representative for the Springfield area and a successful practicing attorney in his own law firm."

"Donington is a former township prosecutor, president of the Springfield GOP Club, attorney to the Springfield library board, assistant recreation director, director of the youth basketball program for 10 years, chairman of the Heart Fund drive in Springfield for the last five years, director of the Youth Baseball League, member of the Springfield Lions Club and the Knights of

Court ruling forces two banks to close township branches

Two Springfield branch offices of two national banks will be required to cease operations by June 30 as a result of an order signed last week in Newark by U.S. District Court Judge Lawrence A. Whipple. Judge Whipple's order requires Union Center National Bank to close its branch office at 783 Mountain ave., and the National State Bank to cease operations in a trailer office it maintains at Rt. 22 and Brown avenue.

The order also forbids the banks from relocating the branches in question anywhere else in Springfield. The decision does not affect National State's office at Morris and Linden avenues, which will remain open. Both Union Center and National State said they will not appeal the order and will close the branches concerned.

The order came as a result of a Third Circuit Court of Appeals decision in Philadelphia earlier this month in which the nation's second highest court reversed an earlier U.S. District Court decision, which had rejected a claim by Springfield State Bank that the opening of the Union Center and National State branches in 1969 violated the home office protection to

Musical token of appreciation

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Band will offer a free out-of-doors concert to the residents of Springfield and Mountaintop as a musical token of appreciation for their continued support of the band and its activities.

The concert will be held on the front lawn of the high school from 7 to 8:15 p.m. on Saturday, June 17. Among the selections to be played are the "Poe and Peasant Overture," "On the Mall" march, "Little English Girl" march, "Exodus" and tunes from "Man of La Mancha."

Ruocco and Banner endorse Stiso, Wasserman, Buehrer

Bill Ruocco and Norman Banner, campaign managers for the Regular Organization of Union County candidates in Springfield's primary on Tuesday, this week issued the following statement: "We are indeed pleased to have had the opportunity of presenting Ed Stiso Jr., Bob Wasserman and Art Buehrer to the voters of Springfield. Our three candidates possess varied qualifications which make them stand out as individuals who would serve as elected representatives of Springfield with the highest degree of both skill and integrity."

"Stiso, Township Committee candidate for the three-year term, has lived in Springfield for over 25 years. He is a graduate of St. Benedict's Prep and Georgetown University where he majored in history. Ed is an alumnus of the Seton Jersey State Bar and the Union County Bar Association. He served in the office of the Public Defender, Appellate Section, for two years and is now in private practice, maintaining his law office in Springfield."

"Rusty has been an active member of St. James Catholic Church since his grammar school days and has served as an altar boy, chief lector and adult supervisor for the CCD and instructor for the high school GCD. He has always participated actively in projects which

Together, tonnage make drive 'the best'

This past Saturday marked the most successful glass and paper drive in Springfield to date, according to the Springfield Save Our Environment Committee, both in total tonnage turned in and in the fact that families pitched in together to assist. Truckers who had consigned to the hauling had to return three times for newspapers, and the balance of the glass was to be stacked for a return trip of the trucks Sunday.

The statement added: "The roster of recognition includes 11 adults and 24 young people, and their names are printed here for special thanks in view of the holiday weekend and the extra time a half dozen of them put in on Sunday as well."

Profile--Fr. Philip Merdinger

He is, after all, a priest. He has the black coat of the clergyman. He is likely to be smoking a pipe... Fr. Philip Merdinger, the first full-time appointee to the campus ministry at Newark State College in Union, is a 32-year-old, and energetic, and is a mere 23 years of age, and the camaraderie he has inspired in Newark State students has won him the affectionate title of Father Phil.

FATHER PHIL PUT in a request for his position at Newark State, where three other clergymen have been assigned to part-time ministry positions. These include Fr. Norman O. Matlack of Christ Lutheran Church in Union, the Rev. Theodore Grandberg of the Episcopal Presbytery of Newark, and Fr. Leonard Zick of St. Elizabeth's in Elizabeth.

U.S. Senator CLIFFORD CASE

For generations the public labored under the impression that dams were unmitigated blessings. It was regarded as quite a prize for a politician to lance the dike for his district.

LETTERS Lack of response

Being opposed to the board of Education's decision to redistribute the Walton-Sandamer-Chisholm population and hearing unceremonious opposition among various segments of the township, a meeting was called Wednesday evening, May 24, to determine the strength of such opposition. It was felt that if there were a really sufficient opposition an open meeting would offer a platform for those people to discuss all the objections and then to determine a joint plan of action.

State Senator Matthew Rinaldo

I have heard too often from too many people very distressing reports about the unacceptability of the market for food in the restaurant they have patronized. In fact, I just cannot begin to recount the times I have dined out and heard my dinner guests say something like "really don't eat here, it's really going on in the kitchen. Just so long as the food looks and tastes good."

THE IDEA FOR the dam ostensibly sprang from the desire to provide water for the city of Newark. However, the concept has grown to include water and power supply and, notably, recreation. The cost also has grown from $10 million to $1.5 billion.

Senator Case says research on Red Tide to be continued

Senator Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) said this week he has received assurances that the U.S. Department of Commerce plans further studies in fiscal 1973 of the marine biotoxin-producing Red Tide that have been found along the New Jersey shore.

In a letter to Senator Case, Philip M. Roodol, director of the National Marine Fisheries Service of the department, said the study would continue at the $100,000 level in fiscal 1973. The study was initiated in 1971 with a $100,000 appropriation secured by Senator Case, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Roodol said the study will relate closely to other studies scheduled to be undertaken on the effects of contaminants and ecological changes on fishery resources in the waters of New Jersey and New York, known as the New York Bight.

The study is concentrating on two specific problems thought to stem from pollution of the Bight. One causes the water to turn a reddish hue and this is called Red Tide. A Red Tide of New Jersey in 1968 caused bathers to become ill.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

It may be little but it doesn't pollute much.

Turnpike calls halt to issuing receipts for payment of tolls

The New Jersey Turnpike Authority has voted to discontinue the issuance of toll receipts at the interchanges, effective Sept. 1, an action that Authority Chairman Alfred E. Driscoll said was designed to promote safety and facilitate the flow of traffic.

The authority adopted the recommendation of a commissioners' committee headed by the Commissioner William E. Taggart which found that discontinuance of the toll receipt practice will not only save time and eliminate delays to exiting traffic but also increase the safety factor by reducing the potential of rear-end accidents of vehicles queued up at the exit lanes.

The Taggart committee, assisted by staff members, found that a toll collector's receipt process was sometimes three exiting vehicles in the time it took to issue one toll receipt.

It also found that the Internal Revenue Service regulations do not require "detailed" records of small expenditures incurred by traveling, as for transportation. Deduction for these items can be based upon a reasonable approximation. The absence of a receipt could not prevent the disallowance of a deduction in the taxpayers' federal income return.

Turnpike toll collectors processed an estimated 30 million toll receipts.

Masterwork presents Boychoir on Saturday

Garden State to play host for 110th NEA convention

Thousands of teachers from across the country will pour into New Jersey this summer as the Garden State plays host to the 110th annual convention of the National Education Association (NEA).

Meeting here for the first time since 1967, the NEA sessions will be held June 24 to 30 at Atlantic City's Convention Hall. The convention, largest of its kind in the nation, is expected to attract an estimated 12,000 persons, including about 7,000 official voting members of the NEA Representative Assembly, about 12,000 educators belong to the organization.

Nearly 1,000 of the delegates will be representative members of the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA), a unified state affiliate of the NEA. Since unifying its members last September, NJEA's membership in NEA increased 132 percent, from 28,094 non-affiliated NEA members in 1970-71, to 70,832-affiliated NJEA-NEA members as of April 1972. It represents the largest percentage increase of any state in the nation.

New Jersey teachers, therefore, will have a prominent voice in the setting of national policy on a wide range of educational, social, and economic issues.

All major presidential candidates are being invited to address the convention. This action was recommended by the 1971 Representative Assembly, so that teachers might better evaluate the positions of candidates on educational issues.

NEA task force reports on drug education, compulsory education, and corporal punishment will be heard. Among other things, the constitution and by-laws will be considered for possible membership-wide voting in the fall.

In addition, the Assembly will discuss critical issues of the times, including subjects on family life, sex education and general disease, environmental education, teacher

Thursday, June 1, 1972.

Mrs. Catherine Barrett, a Syracuse, N.Y., classroom teacher and current NEA president-elect will be installed in the presidency. The Association of Classroom Teachers, NEA's largest department, will meet Saturday and Sunday, June 24-25. An NEA-affiliated organization, the National Council of State Education Associations (NCSEA), will meet June 22-24 in Philadelphia's Marriott Motor Hotel.

New Jersey teachers and their local and county association leaders will be in attendance at all three organizational meetings.

Parkway auto repairs can be charged on spot

"Charge it!" instead of "How much do I owe you?" will be the new way of paying for repairs on the spot when motorists run into trouble on the Garden State Parkway.

According to Chairman John P. Gallagher of the New Jersey Highway Authority, all 48 trucks which service the Parkway will have portable Mastercharge and Bank Americard recording devices available in the truck.

Flood study on Passaic

Acting under legislation that makes $4.1 million in state aid available for flood plain delineation and river channel clearance, the state Department of Environmental Protection has awarded contracts to begin a two-sided program to help control flooding in the Passaic River Basin.

Director Charles M. Pike of the Division of Water Resources said an aerial mapping program, covering 250 linear miles of the main stem of the Passaic and its principal tributaries, will begin soon. This, he said, will result in an interim plan to establish the flood-hazard areas.

The aerial views will be used, together with historical flood data on the Passaic and its main tributaries, in defining the boundaries of flood-prone land. Quinn and Associates of Henshaw, Pa., was awarded the contract.

THE STATE WE'RE IN
By DAVID F. MOORE
Executive Director, North Jersey Conservation Council

The advertisement says, "Ecology is the most important thing in the world... until it gets out of it." It's published by an electric utility company, and it's calculated to outrage the public and make them ask, "What are those damned environmental types trying to do, anyway? They fight pollution at Steam King, and Public Service and Jersey Central at Sundia Pond. Now there are rambles against nuclear power, and they're all the same. I can't speak for anybody else, but I can try to explain some of the problems. Let's sort them out."

Now think of this: Power companies are bilking you every day. They're getting away with projecting future electrical demands in inflated terms. So far they insist that power demands will double every 10 years. A moment's reflection about this means in a mere 40 or 50 years shows some bad thinking down at the friendly investor-owned utility. Here's something else - The Atomic Energy Commission is the out-spoken advocate promoting nuclear power. It's also responsible for regulating nuclear safety. "This is a bad situation. It might be called conflict of interest with a lot more than money at stake."

U.S. debt on escalator
The estimated gross Federal debt by 1973 will be $282 billion, up from $184 billion since the end of the fiscal year 1971. Payments for interest on the debt will be $20 per household, according to the Tax Foundation.

Personally, we don't care what you think about phone service.

True or False? On the contrary, we do care what you think about our service. And every month we call thousands of people and attempt to be interested in what you have to say. We want to know if you get a dial tone fast enough, if your calls go through, and whether you are heard and heard every time you call. We talk to people who've recently had a phone installed or repaired to find out if the work was done on time and to their liking. And whether or not we were courteous and seemed to be interested in you. We want to know if our service is still a few trouble spots needing extra work. But that's because we're generally good. We'll be working to improve that, too. Because to our way of thinking, being personally interested in you is the best way to hear from you. New Jersey Bell

Little knit dress offers striking look More women are moving into cosmetics industry

By BETTI MOHR The little knit dress has a "hand, nonchalant" quality that can be somewhat misleading, applied to the "little knits" for this season. The lines are simple, but the effects are striking. In nubby boucle and smooth yarns, the easy-fitting dresses are shaped from raised or natural waistlines—usually unbelted, they may have straight or slightly flared skirts. The striking qualities are in the knit and colors. Silhouettes always move close to the body, responding to the softness of the knit. Figures are decidedly accentuated. Colors are clear, bright primaries or luscious pastels. The brights are dramatized by sharply contrasting stripes or border trims, while the pastels give full-play-to-one pretty solid shade. Little knits make excellent travelers. Seldom with belts or straps or ties, they pack small and come out of suitcases wrinkle-free. The knits do make an important demand if they are to be worn with grace. They belong to the family of body dresses and forms in designs unrelieved by gathers or draping. They slither over figures that should be slender or free from misplaced bulges. To Publicity Chairmen: Would you like some help in preparing newspaper releases? Southerners are by tradition a clan of horse fanciers and the most important occasion of their year is unquestionably the Kentucky Derby. This famous horse race here at Churchill Downs is celebrated for an entire festival week in May and crowned by such extravagant banquets as the Ellipse Coronation Ball and the Great Steamboat Race. When race day arrives, parties are indeed at the ready for this ultimate excitement. Southern foods are at their best at this time, almost as important, though more subtly of course, as the great day itself. Parties are commonplace at all times of day or night enhancing the gala mood—and augmenting Derby Day whether the race is viewed from the stands or with a group of friends beside a television screen. No Kentucky Derby would be complete without one or more Mint Juleps. They are sold even in the grandstands along with the ubiquitous hot dog. Almost every family in Kentucky has its own hand-me-down Julep recipe which is quite naturally the only way to build a Julep and the best. Here is one method that is particularly good for serving a large group. MINT JULEPS Start two days ahead: Make a simple syrup using one part cold water to two parts sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. To each pint of syrup, add the leaves of about 12 sprigs of mint. Leave overnight in a covered container, then carefully strain through a fine sieve, preferably cheesecloth. Several hours before party time, place 12-ounce julep cups or glasses in the freezer to prevent frosting. Add 10 minutes before serving, fill with crushed ice shaved ice and sprinkle with a pinch of powdered sugar. Add 1 teaspoon of minted syrup and 2 ounces of bourbon. Trim each cup with a sprig of fresh mint. Once the juleps have been consumed, comes the Country Ham and Biscuits. A typically regional buffet accompaniment, not too familiar to other parts of the country, is a souffle of grits. The meal could approach the Finish Line with a vanilla ice cream topped with Kentucky Sauce. GRITS SOUFFLE 1 1/2 cups uncooked white grits 1/2 cup cold water 1 lb. very sharp cheddar cheese, grated 2 sticks butter or margarine 3 eggs, beaten slightly 1 tsp. seasoned salt 1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper Tabasco sauce (optional) Bring the water to a full boil and add the grits slowly. Cook and stir over medium heat until the grits have thickened (3 to 5 minutes). Add the remaining ingredients while the mixture is hot. Pour into a well-greased two-quart casserole and refrigerate overnight, until cooling thing is covered. Bake for one hour in a 350-degree oven. KENTUCKY SAUCE 1 cup brown sugar 1 cup white sugar 1 cup water 1 lemon 1 cup bourbon 1 cup pecans, broken Combine sugars with water and cook until syrup reaches about 240 degrees on candy thermometer or until it will almost, but not quite, spin a thread. Remove from heat and stir in the pecans and preserve. Remove rind from orange and lemon with a potato parer and chop fine. Cut off and discard white membrane and remove sections. Cut orange and lemon sections into small pieces. Add cup rind, fruit and bourbon to the "first mixture". Set away in refrigerator to ripen. This recipe makes over a quart and keeps indefinitely. Serve over ice cream.

The Rigito Theater in Westfield will open its new double bill tomorrow with "Bonnie and Clyde" and "Bullitt."

The two James Bond pictures, "Goldfinger" and "From Russia, With Love," starring Sean Connery, will play their last times today.

"Bonnie and Clyde," starring Warren Beatty, Faye Dunaway, Michael J. Pollard, Gene Hackman and Estelle Parsons, concerns a folk-hero bank robbing spree of the 1930s, and the story of Alvin Karpis, Bonnie Parker and their gang. Filmed in color, the picture was directed by Arthur Penn.

"Bullitt," a unique detective story that has lots of suspense, action and fascinating crime world detail, stars Steve McQueen as a super-cool detective who isn't pure like his work. He goes his own route when he is assigned to guard a key crime witness.

'Connection' held at J.L. Cinema

EARTHBOUND

By JOSEPH TOBIN, Director, Ecology and Conservation, Waste Hill Center for Environmental Studies, New York, N.Y.

The old Hackensack Meadows Development Commission has made strides since its inception. It has made strides in such areas as: securing of zoning ordinances, use of incinerators, and in limiting the kinds of dumping that have been prevalent in the meadows in recent years.

The planned development of this wetlands region by the Hackensack Meadows Development Commission has many shortcomings, however, and in recent days the Regional Plan Association, which is a research and planning agency interested in promoting coordinated development of the New York-New Jersey-Connecticut metropolitan region, has spoken eloquently regarding what some of those shortcomings are.

The Regional Plan Association is concerned with the present plan to construct a large off-leastly oriented city in the heart of the meadows. It is a waste of time and money to build a city in the heart of the meadows, and great natural system for the breakdown and reuse of valuable nutrients, we are going to be maintaining the land and subjecting ourselves to all the results of poor planning and poor biological analysis, which has already so plagued us in recent years. It's just another meadowland, these Hackensack Meadows. It is one of the largest and best remaining in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area.

Citizens committee backs bond issue for transportation

Duncan C. Thecker, president of the New Jersey Citizens Highway Committee, believes that the $650 million Transportation Bond Issue which is being held on the November ballot, represents a simple choice: "The people of New Jersey can have a moderate program of transportation improvement or transportation paralysis. The NJCHC is confident that they will select the former."

Shows to highlight state's celebration of 'Week of Horse'

Governor William T. Cahill has proclaimed June 11-17 as "Week of the Horse" in New Jersey and one of the state's fastest growing horse shows will kick off a series of events designed to inform the public about New Jersey's equine industry.

The bond issue proposal includes $410 million for highway improvement and expansion and $240 million for public transportation (rail, bus and ferry) and additional $100 million that would be generated by federal and other agencies, such as the Port of New York Authority. The $650 million bond funds would finance an overall improvement program worth more than $1.2 billion. "And most every project covered by the bond issue could be completed within three to four years," Thecker said.

As the Transportation Bond Issue campaign unfolds, an important goal is to "demonstrate to every citizen of the New Jersey public—mass transit and highway advocates, environmentalists and fiscal conservatives alike—that this will prove to be the most economical, but workable program yet designed to permit us to move ahead on every major transportation front." The NJCHC has a "Week of the Horse" event will end June 17 at the Rutgers University Equine Show, 23 Breeds Horse Show, also at Thompson Park, Jamesburg. This show, the only one in which all eleven breeds and Ganges Association can compete under one umbrella, is sponsored by the New Jersey Equine Advisory Board, a unit of the New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

Samuel backs pension transfer

Richard I. Samuel, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 12th Congressional District, said this week he would, if elected, introduce legislation to allow people to transfer accumulated retirement benefits after three years of employment.

"Many people stay with a job only to insure financial security for their old age. It is not a positive situation if a person is unhappy with the day to day aspects of the job," Samuel said. "This is bad for the company and the individual and bad for the economy. People who would be happier changing jobs become frustrated and are not likely to do their best work. If pensions were transferable, disaffected employees would be free to seek more satisfactory jobs."

"Relieving employees of unnecessary concern about their financial security so that they could find satisfactory jobs would decrease frustration and enable them to do a better job. This would benefit both the employers and the economy in general."

Samuel went on to say that a job should be more than a way of earning a living. "All laws and practices which tend to freeze people into unsatisfactory jobs should be fearfully reevaluated."
