Public hearing set Tuesday, March 13 By ABNER GOLD

The Township Committee Tuesday night atroduced a municipal budget of $2,888,827 for the coming year, up some $330,000 from the 1972 figure of $2,551,886. Mayor William Ruocco told the more than 75 citizens in the Town Hall: audience that the formal hearing on the budget will be held Tuesday evening, March 13.
Allowing for revenue from other sources, the new budget calls for $1,486,768 for municipal. purposes to be raised by local property taxes, up from $1,255,127. This figure does not include local taxes earmarked for the local and regional school boards and county government.

The full text of the new budget will be published in the Leader on March 1, and the governing body will hold an informal discussion session on the budget on Saturday morning. March 2 morning, March 3.

A large portion of the audience consisted (Edgewood avenue residents concerned about the possible construction of a housing development which would add to traffic congestion in their neighborhood.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the committee unanimously approved a resolution criticizing President Nixon's recent moratorium on President Nixon's recent moratorium on federal housing subsidies, which stalls plans for construction of local housing for senior citizens, and calling on New Jersey congressmen to press for the release of funds.

The resolution noted that the number of Springfield residents over 65 will go up by another 1,125, in the next two years, to make a total of 3,202 by 1975. It noted that the White House Conference on Aging had proclaimed a. House Conference on Aging had proclaimed an national policy that "decent and safe housing is"

The Governor's View

William T. Cahill

As you read this, I'll be on vacation - my first January 1970. I tried twice last year to ge away, and each time I was called back by emergencies. With no crises pending and with the affairs of State in order, I hope to enjoy afew weeks of rest without interruption. There were two important items of business that had to be taken care of before I could consider leaving. The first was the annual State of the State message which I presented to the Legislature on January 9th and which I discussed in my last column. The second item was the annual budget which I presented to a joint meeting of the Legislature on January 29th, and which I would like to discuss briefly in

People who are not required to operate their business or their personal lives within the framework of a budget may not appreciate just how important it is or the fact that the state budget does affect them. Perhaps I can bring it nto focus for them this way. Their state taxes are determined by the level of state spending, and the level of state spending, is determined by the budget. It establishes spending priorities nd sots up the limits of those priorities. The process of setting up a budget — to give an oversimplified version for the purposes of illustration — goes like this: you list all the programs and services which the State must, by law, provide and add to the list those which you think it should provide within the limits of the cost of each item, add them up and then other sources.

The two totals just about never correspond. If the services list is higher, as it usually is, you have the choice of somewhere cutting down on year, or, of increasing revenues - meaning, mostly, taxes - to pay for the whole list. Should the revenues total be higher, then you have the happy choice of either reducing taxes, or, of anticipating a surplus income to be saved or, of anticipating a surpus mediate or to save and used in a future, less prosperous year. I was happy to report to the Legislature that the budget I presented to them this year requires no new or increased taxes. At the same time, it provides for the necessary ser-accomplish this increased service without increased taxes. The first is the healthy and expanding economy which in itself produces sources. The second reason is the receipt of the long-awaited Federal revenue sharing. The third is the prudent, economical and efficient management of State government.

I should also add that the economy practiced was responsible economy. For instance, the new budget provides for increased spending over the previous budget in many vital areas. Here are some of the major increases; Education, $89.8 million; Medical Assistance to the Needy, $58.6 million; Safe and Clean Neighborhoods, $12 million; Local Highway Construction, $8.1 million; increased Employee Salaries and Benefits, $46.6 million; continuing Employee Pensions and Health Benefits, $18.4 million; Railroad and Bus subsidies, $16.1 but colleges and university, $5,7 million, and staffing new and existing institutional facilities, $6.6 million.

I think it well to also point out that the lottery now plays an important role in financing State programs, even though the law limits apending lottery income to education and to institutions and agencies Spending from lottery funds this year will total $69.5 million. These are some of the major allocations: $22.7 million for local school aid; $15.9 million for 14,779 additional college students; $5.4 million for construction million for institutions for the retarded; $4 million for correctional institutions; $2.6 million for scholarships and student loans and $2 million for the new Community Mental Health Center at the Rutgers Medical School-This is a brief summary of some of the budget highlights, sufficient. I think, to illustrate my contention that the budget represents a responsible balance between what needs to be

The latter is something LaVanture does not necessarily agree with.

"With the greater percentage of our students going on to college, see a very definite value in final examinations," he stated. "Those who have had more experience in written finals will be better off in the college situation, where course grades are often dependent on exams. That's especially true in schools with large enrollments, where students are not FOR INSTANCE, when the principal came to enrollments, where students are not pringfield, the school had a rigid dress code. necessarily known as individuals to their in-Springfield, the school had a rigid dress code:

students to take written exams.
"I agree that a poor test proves nothing, but if an exam is good, and really tests a student's ability-making him prepare his thoughts in a logical way and present them clearly and in good English—something has been achieved."

LaVANTURE NOTED that after his first year in Springfield, about 58 percent of the graduates went on to higher education, in 1972, 87 percent of the graduating class elected to continue their education, and 95 percent of that number entered four-year colleges.
"I believe the increase is partially due to the emphasis being placed on the importance of higher education by society in general," he "But there are times when I think perhaps that students would be doing themselves a favor to stay out of a college for a year, if employment were available. They should get their feet on the ground, mature a little bit, and

For And About Teenagers THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I am a 14 year-old girl and I have a terrible problem. I am hoping that you can help me. You see, I can get along with boys very well, but it's when they get to like me when the problems begin. The problem is my mother. I think she's being overprotective. Each time I get to talk to a guy I think is cute and come home to talk to her about things, she tells me, "Oh, just forget about boys. You've got a long time left to chase boys." But it's not easy to forget someone you really like. Another hard part is to tell your boyfriend that your mother thinks you are too young. And that's pretty embarrassing! Could you please help.

OUR REPLY: We think in this situation and your mother are going to have to compromise. Obviously, you just can't forget about boys, but on the other side of the coin, you are meet a guy you like and he likes you, explain your situation to him. Hopelully, your mother will let you have him come over and visit your after school or on weekends. the Medical Center; will be in charge of the special treatment unit and that he will work in close conjunction with Dr. Frederick B. Cohen,

In discussing the need for a special treatment unit, Dr. York explained that cancer differs from other diseases since, in the majority of cases, the patient is not critically ill, or particularly uncomfortable when the diagnosis is first-made. This is in direct contrast to the cardiac patient, for instance, who requires care and constant surveillance in a Critical Cardiac

The primary treatment of cancer is usually a surgical procedure, with or without radiation and the facilities of a general hospital are more than adequate to meet the needs of the patient. If the primary treatment of cancer seriously ill and requires intensive, com-

Sentiously in and increase radiation dosage and, in most cases, physicians will start the use of combinations of combined combinations of combinations of combinations of combinations chemical drugs.

These drugs not only kill the cancer cells, but decrease the red, white and platelet cells of the blood. This decrease in blood cells lowers the body's resistance and causes severe medical complications such as anemia, hemorrhage, infection and changes in the blo-chemistry and metabolism. It is essential, therefore, to supply special care for the intensively treated cancer patient if he is to survive the treatment. IN ORDER TO PROVIDE the optimum in supportive treatment for the advanced cancer patient, who is most apt to respond to the most modern, intensive treatment, the Flo Okin Special Treatment Unit is being built on the fifth floor of Newark Beth Israel Medical Center. And that magnetism carries over into the econd act, offering the delighted audiences a the Meadowbrook a generous helping of the sharpness, amused sarcasm and the exuberance that is Eve Arden—the Eve Arden mention—from radio and television ("Our Miss Brooks" and "The Mothers-In-Law") and the handful of stage vehicles in which she ap-

As an ardent Arden fan (a reader must have guessed by now), with no attempt at partiality (well, maybe just an iota), this reviewer, as many in the audiences have discovered, must point out that Miss Arden has changed so little in more than three decades. If one was to see her tomorrow on television in one of her very first movies, "Stage Door," one would be apt to agree that she could very well have stepped out of "Stage Door" and directly into "Butterflies Are Free." She really looks fantastically goo p there on that Meadowbrook stage.

And she makes the others in the cast look pretty wonderful, too. There's Tom Fitzsimmons, the young man who plays near banks son, whose timing and stage candor are rewarding. Mayor William Ruocco convened a special meeling of the Township Committee last night at Town Hall to authorize immediate preparation of construction plans for a traffic light at Mountain and Hillside avenues. The project has been a high-priority request of municipal officials with highway authorities in Trenton for at least a decade.

Mayor Ruocco commented, "Our efforts to finally break loose the necessary action to begin construction of the traffic signal at Mountain and Hillside avenues have borne selves to the public's safety and I believe that this is a good example of responsive govern-ment. Your Township Committee will continue to pursue this course by exerting pressure on our many friends in Trenton and Union County."

The Springfield Board of Education Monday night unanimously elected Robert Southward as its president for the coming year. He succeeds Ruth Weisman, whose term on the board ıad expired. Michael McIntyre won unanimou support for another year as vice-president annual organization meeting at the Florence Gaudineer School. Southward had served a term as board president some five years ago.
In accepting the office, Southward commented. "It is an honor to serve. I hone to serve is capably as the board's officers have in the past few years. We have lost some capable members, and the coming year will be a challenge to the new ones."

He introduced two of the newly elected board members, Joanne Rajoppi and Scott Donington. Irene Koppel, the other new ember, and August Caprio-were not present at the meeting.

The recent flooding at the Edward Walton

School was a major item of discussion. Both Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, and James Adams, buildings and grounds chair-man, expressed high praise for staff members who worked through the night on Friday, Feb. 2, and over much of that weekend to repair the damage and have the school in condition to reopen that Monday.

Baruchin stated, "Special recognition is due Charles Lada, who worked all night, and Frank taining pumping equipment in the boiler room. Other personnel under the direction of Williston French included Joseph Camp, William Copple, Joseph Grano, Charles Kastner, Paul Muller and Richard Thomas."

"The passing of great Americans is not taken lightly by personnel of this school district. That is why we have kept schools open on these special days. The current view of curriculum sees it as the total source of stimuli bearing upon children, from both within and outside of the school setting.

"In this respect, it is our feeling that in most instances such observances can be tied in with the fundamental objectives of the schools. Youngsters can be helped to personalize the significance of each special occasion, and thereby realize that they have actually lived through a vital historical occurrence.'
