Delayed tax refund may be expedited, according to IRS

New Jersey taxpayers expecting refunds from Federal income tax returns filed more than 10 weeks ago can now have their refunds expedited. If they have not received refunds or explanations for their delay, they may file duplicate returns which will be processed immediately. In announcing this expedite procedure, Elmer H. Kilman, IRS District director, emphasized that duplicate returns must be complete with copies of all W-2 forms and supporting schedules attached. Clearly legible photos copies may be used but they must have original signatures. Photo copied signatures are not allowed. Returns filed must be marked DUPLICATE. In heavy block letters across the top front of the return, they should be mailed directly to the Internal Revenue Service, 196 Waverly ave., Holsville, New York 11793. Taxpayers who have moved or changed their address since mailing their return should call or visit their nearest IRS office before filing duplicate returns. More than two million refunds totaling over $75 million have already been mailed to New Jersey taxpayers.

Star Auto Stores pick Venet for advertising

NEW YORK — Star Auto Stores, a chain of 19 stores retailing auto parts and accessories throughout northern and central New Jersey, has appointed Venet Advertising Agency, New Jersey and New York offices, for its advertising. Large space newspaper ads are scheduled to appear weekly. Venet has created a new look for Star's ads, featuring the theme "Star Power" plus "Hitch your car to a Star!" Later in the year, a radio campaign is planned using stations throughout the New Jersey market.

Owners of campers, trailers, should be alert to gas danger

Will your family take to the open road this summer in a camper or recreational vehicle? The ads and salesmen will extol all the luxury and convenience features, but purchasers also need to know the safety measures that can mean the difference between joy and tragedy for their families. One thing these luxury campers, trailers and self-contained recreational vehicles have in common is the use of liquefied petroleum gas (L.P.-gas). It will cook meals, heat and light the home on wheels, even cool food. But, the danger of leaking gas, easily followed by fire or explosion, means campers must be on their toes every time the vehicle is used. This warning comes from the Bureau of Consumer Environment Management, part of HEW's Health Services and Mental Health Administration. In following a few simple precautions, keep in mind that the L.P.-gas vapors are heavier than air and, in case of leaks, will settle to the bottom of the vehicles or tank compartments. Some safety measures are taken during the manufacture: vents, air intakes and exhausts

At gas stops, make quick checks, giving attention to make sure wind coming through vents has not blown out pilot lights. Make sure also that the tank itself is securely fastened; a loose tank will move about, thus increasing the possibility of loose connections or broken fuel line. If the trailer is hitching or not tracking, move weight forward in the vehicle. After arriving at your destination, again check the fittings, but don't tighten them so much that pipe threads become damaged. Air out the vehicle and make sure there is adequate ventilation before lighting stove or furnace. Keep an eye on the color of the flames; a yellow flame is a signal to adjust the equipment. Make sure all control knobs are in the off position when not in use. If you suspect L.P.-gas has leaked into your camper: Do not strike a match. Get everyone out. Turn off gas at tank.

July Fourth Committee presents program plans

The Springfield Fourth of July Committee this week announced that plans for a "fabulous Independence Day celebration" are being made. A display of fireworks will be featured the evening of July 4 in addition to the younger set's "Happy the Clown" as portrayed by Harry Gregory. He will give away toys and candy as he travels around Mead Field. An added attraction will be music by Johnny Jay and the Rockets. This seven-piece band comprised of Springfield residents who have gained notice for their repertoire of music of the 1950s. The band members are: Mike Scarp, Rick Salemy, Bill Van Riper, Charles Van Riper, Don Stearns, Jim Weinberg and Larry Zeller.

Playgrounds open for registration at 1 p.m. on Monday

The Recreation Department has announced that its summer playground program will begin Monday at 1 p.m. Registration at each playground will be held at that time. The program will be conducted at 12 local playgrounds for eight weeks, ending Friday, Aug. 17. Supervised activities for children aged six through 15, will include games, arts and crafts, athletics, singing and special events. Specialists in arts and crafts will offer instruction in the playgrounds at specified times. Schedules of instruction will be distributed at the playgrounds. There is no fee for registration. Playgrounds will be open daily, Monday through Friday, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. (Continued on page 27)

Players to begin readings tonight

The Springfield Community Players will begin a series of summer play readings tonight at 8 p.m. at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center. The group will meet every Thursday night and will read both dramas and comedies. Each week the evening will be directed by one member of the group. The object of these readings is to make the group aware of shows that might be good for the Players to stage at a later date. Anyone interested in taking part in these readings, welcome at one or all of the meetings. Tonight's reading will be under the direction of Jerry Cohen; refreshments will be served.

Concealed weapon hearing June 25

A Garwood man was arrested in Springfield June 14 on charges of possession of a concealed weapon, townships police have reported. According to police, Anthony C. Kalkreuth, 20, had been stopped for traffic on Mountain avenue and Caldwell place at 8:30 p.m., when he reportedly got into a dispute with two other men. Phil Edwin Glassman arrived on the scene, and arrested Kalkreuth after the officer reportedly spotted a machine in his vehicle. Kalkreuth released on $500 bail, was arraigned in Springfield Municipal Court last Monday. A preliminary hearing was set for next Monday.

Swim season starts Saturday

The Springfield Municipal Swim Pool will open Saturday at noon for a 13-day season concluding on Labor Day.

Extensive pre-season preparations have been carried out, and the pool and grounds are in the shape of a pool appointment made.

Badges may be picked up by members and non-members at the Saturday at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center, 20 Church Hill, between 8:00 a.m. and 4 p.m. After Saturday, badges will be available at the pool.

Memberships in the swim pool are still available to any resident who wishes. Any person interested in joining should contact the Recreation Department at the Civic Center.

Plan for using school buses in recreation under study

The Springfield Board of Education is working with the Township Committee to seek legal means for use of school buses for Recreation Department team trips during school hours, board member J. Scott Donington told the eight members of the audience at the school board meeting Monday night at the Florence Gaudreer School. Donington, board liaison to the Recreation Department, noted that the proposal presented to the board earlier this spring, had been discussed at a recent joint meeting of the board and the Township Committee. He said the township attorney is checking "the feasibility of this project, both legally and financially." Donington added that the project "is very much in the works. We will keep the public informed."

Author of book to give lecture and autographs

The Springfield Historical Society will present a lecture and autograph party on Thomas J. Fleming, author of the book "The Forgotten Victory," from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Mountain avenue, Springfield. The program will be held on the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Springfield, the subject of Fleming's book. Currently chairman of the Roundtable of the American Revolution, Fleming also has written books on the Battle of Red Bank, Point Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin. "The Forgotten Victory" is his most recent work. It will be on sale at the lecture and autograph party Saturday at a special price of $7 per copy, according to former Judge Henry C. McMillan and Howard W. Wiseman of the Springfield Historical Society's special events committee.

Walton, Sandmeier pupils serenaded

Meaningful notes for young listeners were aired by the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School band during a recent special outdoor performance. For approximately 500 students of the Edward Walton and Thelma Sandmeier elementary schools at the Sandmeier building in Springfield.

Walton, Sandmeier pupils serenaded

The young Springfield audience seemed to respond enthusiastically to the various moods set by the music, according to a band spokesman. Dr. Fred Baruchin, Springfield superintendent of schools, called the high school band's performance a "meaningful experience" for both the younger students and their older counterparts. The faculty director of Dayton Regional bands, Jeff Anderson, added that the high school musicians "enjoyed the program since the audience was different from those they usually perform for."

Holiday deadline

Careful adherence to this newspaper's Friday deadline is urged for material intended for the July 4 issue, which will go to press early because of the Independence Day holiday. All organizational, social and other news items for the July 4 issue should be submitted by Friday morning, June 28.

Regional High School District starts six-week summer session on Monday

The 1973 summer session of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 will start on Monday and end Aug. 5. Classes will be offered at the Gov. Livingston Regional High School for high school students from Springfield, Mountbide and Berkeley Heights, and at the David Brewster Regional High School for high school students from Clark, Garwood and Kenilworth. The Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark, and the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, will not be utilized this summer because of extensive renovations as scheduled by the Regional Council of Education and review.

Three types of courses will be offered during the forthcoming summer session: those for original credit, enrichment and review. Original credit courses are among the highlights of the regional summer program. These are courses offered with graduation credit for students who wish to accelerate their high school program, to take courses they cannot fit into their program, or to develop areas in the schedule for part-time employment or for involvement in an outside interest or activity.

Twenty-eight courses will be offered for original credit during the six week summer session. The roster of original credit offerings includes: Investigation of Forces in Space, Photography, Oceanography, U.S. History Survey, Individual in the American Economy, Developmental Reading, Independent Writing, Creative Writing, Literature of Mystery and Adventure, Media Study, Personal Typing, Auto Shop, Aviation.

Enrichment courses differ from those offered during the regular school year in that no credit toward graduation is given. Students elect to take these courses for enjoyment or to strengthen particular skills.

Included in the offerings of six-week enrichment courses are: Algebra I (for college-bound students), Workshop in Basic Math (for incoming first graders), Instrumental Instruction, Musical Theatre Workshop, Theatre Workshop, Creative Arts, How to Study, Hairdressing for Men and Women, Stereo and TV Repair and Athletic Skills.

Two sessions with five courses each will be offered in three-week periods: College Board Review - Math, College Board Review - Verbal, Driver Education, Modern Dance, and Introduction to Commercial Art. The first session will be held June 25 to July 15, and the second July 15 to Aug. 5. Each of these courses will meet two hours daily for three weeks.

Similar to courses offered during the regular school year are review courses which students take during the summer to raise grades or to pass courses they previously had difficulty with. Twenty-eight review courses will be offered during the six-week session.

A complete listing of all courses, times, dates and locations of specific offerings can be found in the 1973 summer session brochure which may be obtained in the main office of all four Regional High Schools.

Summit man gets post of Overlook personnel director

New director of personnel at Overlook Hospital, Summit, is James W. Buell, formerly director of personnel at Easton Hospital in Pennsylvania. Buell is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he also earned his M.B.A. degree in industrial relations.

Prior to entering the hospital personnel field, he held a number of posts in industry as personnel supervisor for Celanese Plastics Corp. in Solvay, Celanese Plastics in Clark, and Alcoa Chemical in Wilmington, Del. He and Mrs. Buell and their three sons live in Flinders.

At Overlook, Buell will administer policies for the hospital's 1,500 employees, working with a staff of 10. Under his supervision will be divisions responsible for employment, wage and salary, the benefits program and health services.

A system of annual salary review, stated minimum-maximum wage scales and grade levels and a minimum-hourly wage of $1.00 an hour, compares favorably with both the area industries and other area hospitals, he said.

The Overlook benefits program includes free Blue Cross - Blue Shield for employees and their dependents, vacation policy, paid holidays, pension plan and paid life insurance policy.

Mrs. M. Perlberg; former teacher, 59

Funeral services were held Friday for Mrs. Ruth Perlberg, 59, of 72 Troy rd., Springfield. Mrs. Perlberg, a former teacher, died June 13 in St. Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston.

Born in New York City, Mrs. Perlberg had lived in East Orange, before moving to Springfield 15 years ago. A graduate of Newark State College, she had taught in the Carlstadt school system for a number of years. She also taught retarded children in East Orange, and worked with several charitable organizations.

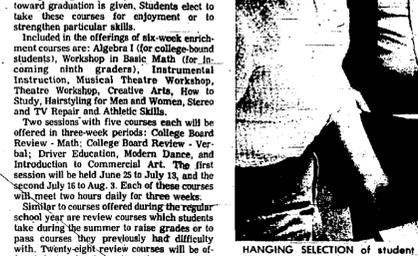

Surviving are her husband, Murray Perlberg, a broker, Dudley Gerard of West Orange, and a sister, Mrs. Maudie Klack of White Plains, N.Y.

Funeral arrangements were completed by Philip Appel & Son, 180 Springfield ave., Maplewood.

Two complete studies at Newark Academy

Two Springfield residents received diplomas at the 1973 commencement exercises held at Newark Academy in Livingston on June 13. The Rev. Dr. Carl Pfeifferman, president of Upjohn College, East Orange, was the commencement speaker.

The graduates and the colleges they will attend are: Alvaro Medeiros, 33 Highland ave., Tulane University, and Cindy Ivy Rotwein, 25 Sycamore ter., Antioch College.

Regional district hires teachers for curriculum review

Approximately 90 Union County Regional High School District teachers will be employed this summer to participate in the following 12 workshops: English, Business Education, Career Education, Physical Education, Probability and Statistics, Science, Cultural Anthropology, Geography, Individualization of Foreign Language Instruction, Physical Education, TV Production, and Title I.

Two objectives for summer workshops for members of the Regional Council of Education are to review and upgrade the curriculum and to provide in-service training for our teaching staff, stated Dr. Martin Siegel, the director of instruction.

Specific purposes of the workshops will vary. Personnel in the English workshop, for example, will evaluate the courses, offered during the 1972-73 school year, review the curriculum guide, prepare additional resource materials, suggest supplementary textbooks and recommend teaching techniques. In addition, there will be curriculum planning for the 1973-74 school year.

During the coming school year two in-service programs will be offered for teachers of English and science. Regional English teachers will be able to participate in an affiliation program on teaching basic skills. Science teachers may attend in-service classes on computer orientation.

Teachers in the Title I workshop will work with students during part of the program and will develop instructional strategies. The program will be offered for teachers of English and science. Democrats appoint Mrs. Schwartz as township chairman

Ruth Schwartz of 32 Warwick circle was elected chairman of the Springfield Democratic Municipal Committee at its annual reorganization meeting held by law, on the first Monday following the primary election. Mrs. Schwartz succeeds Yale Greenwood, who declined to seek reelection.

Differentials Stanley Kalsh, first vice-chairman; Mary Lou Morgan, second vice-chairman; Bernard Kotler, treasurer; Gertrude Spiegel, secretary; and Henry Wright, sergeant-at-arms.

As chairman, Mrs. Schwartz will coordinate the campaign of Nat Stokes and Bob Welch, Democratic candidates for Springfield Township Committee. Stokes and Welch expressed enthusiasm over the election of Mrs. Schwartz. They commented, "Ruth Schwartz is liked and respected by everyone with whom she works. We are most delighted to have her leadership and we know she will attract many new people to the Democratic Party. We also believe that Springfield is very fortunate to have such a committed individual participate in local affairs."

Mrs. Schwartz' activities in Springfield have extended over many years to the library building committee, two PTA presidencies, the Board of Dimes chairmanship, service on a Board of Adjustment, the Springfield Township Committee, Stokes and Welch expressed enthusiasm over the election of Mrs. Schwartz. Narcotics parley attended by three

Three members of the Springfield Police Department recently attended the fourth annual narcotics conference sponsored by the New Jersey Narcotics Enforcement Officers' Association.

In attendance at the seminar, held June 4-7 at the Hotel Shelburne in Atlantic City, were Lt. Samuel Calabrese, Det. Sgt. William Cieri and Det. Richard Bromberg. Topics discussed included education of school personnel and drug manufacturers on the increasing narcotics problem, and the newly-developed carbon dioxide treatment for addicts. The officers also received awarded certificates acknowledging their completion of the course.

Congressman Matthew J. Rinaldo

THE TIME - NOW... Timing can be all-important in determining the fate of legislation in Capitol Hill.

With its collective antennae pointed to pick up every available sign of public sentiment on current issues, Congress functions as a frequently sensitive barometer of public moods and concerns.

Perhaps more than ever before in recent history, Congress recognizes that the people generally have developed a deep distrust of politicians and public men.

Watergate scandals have exacerbated and dramatized the problem, the decline of people's confidence in the political process has paralleled the growing role of money in political campaigns.

Approximately a year ago I attended the high school graduation exercises in Honesdale, Penn. Though it is far from the sophisticated ways of the New York area Honesdale knows how to recognize scholastic achievement with dignity.

Last evening I shared in the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School graduation and was appalled by the behavior of the entire audience of interest, and never if the letter is of a political nature.

There was a relative degree of attention during the introductory remarks and speeches, but guests gradually began to block the center aisle and position themselves to take pictures.

Having attended the April 3 meeting of the Planning Board in person and finding no members absent, I raised the question as to the absence of both Mayor Ruocco and Committee member Sino at this meeting after the March meeting when they absent themselves previously by registering "absentee" votes on the Edgewood Development matter.

Students and audience yelled and clapped for individual graduates, violating the basic rules of etiquette. It was difficult for me to gain the attention of the crowd ever to pronounce the Edgewood controversy.

Finally, despite the warning of the outgoing principal, graduates threw their caps and diplomas into the air, and the sharp corner of one of the projectiles I breathed a sigh of relief when the cap landed in the center of the room.

THE EAGLETON POLL Hospital care is rated high

What the poll asked

The questions on which this analysis is based are as follows: "Has it been necessary for you, or anyone in your family, to be hospitalized in the last five years?"

How would you rate the care you received by yourself or another member of your family while in the hospital? "Has it been necessary for you, or anyone in your family, to be hospitalized in the last five years?"

At the present time, hospital charges are being temporarily regulated by the Cost of Living Council, under Phase II of the President's Economic Stabilization Program.

Similar proposals for regulation of hospitals have been made in New Jersey two separate occasions by citizens' laborers.

Among Democrats, the figures were 47 percent indicating worse, 4 percent better, 49 percent indicating no change.

For And About Teenagers

IT DOESN'T SEEM LIKE IT, BUT THERE IS A WHOLE WORLD OF DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE WAY WE LIVE NOW AND THE WAY WE LIVED 15 YEARS AGO. THIS WEEK'S LITERATURE is 15 years old and there is this guy I like and he like me — we are good friends. He always tells me to call him, so when I do I end up talking to all his friends, but that really doesn't bother me. What I don't like is when he starts playing around with the phone and hangs up in my ear and then picks it back up and asks, "Liam, still there. This is what makes me mad. We are not going steady, but this is what bothers me. The other night he called while I was getting a haircut. He said to call him back later because he wanted to watch television. When I called him back he said he couldn't talk and to call him back tomorrow. I didn't call him back the next day and haven't called him for almost a week. Am I doing what's right? What would you do?"

Astronomers will depart on Sunday to Mauritania to witness solar eclipse

Two hundred members of Amateur Astronomers, Inc. Union College-based astronomical society, will depart Sunday for Mauritania to view the June 30 solar eclipse, called "the most significant solar eclipse of the century."

The AAJ group is expected to be the largest single contingent from the United States to make the trip. It will be joined by thousands of amateur and professional astronomers from throughout the world.

The AAJ contingent includes residents from 16 New Jersey counties, 28 states and three foreign countries: Bolivia, Canada, and Mexico. The group includes physicians, professional astronomers, college students, housewives, accountants, engineers, merchants, a priest and a minister.

The June 30 eclipse has been described by Prof. Patrick J. White, director of the Sperry Observatory at Union College and past president of AAJ, as "particularly significant because of its duration and timing."

In-person sign-up for summer study at UC slated tonight

In-person registration for Union College's annual summer session will be conducted tonight from 6 to 8 at the Cranford campus. Dr. Bernard Solon, director, said classes will begin Monday.

Some 70 credit and non-credit courses will be offered in the summer session which runs through Thursday, Aug. 5. Classes will be held Monday through Thursday, mornings and evenings at the Cranford campus and evenings only at the Elizabeth and Plainfield campuses.

Students attending the summer session have the opportunity to begin or continue their college education, make up failures, improve a grade or enrich their program of study. Current high school juniors and seniors may also enroll in the summer session, earning college credits while still in high school.

Credit courses parallel the freshman and sophomore years of four-year institutions and are offered in the fields of English, biology, fine arts, drama, business administration, chemistry, geology, mathematics, economics, education, government, history, psychology, sociology, physics, French and Spanish.

Non-credit courses are offered in communication skills, science, developmental reading and mathematics and are designed to meet the needs of students whose academic backgrounds have not prepared them for the college level.

In addition, both credit and non-credit courses are offered for those for whom English is not their native language. English as a second language is a three-credit college level course. English for speakers of other languages is a non-credit course with two proficiency levels. These courses will be offered in the evening only at the Elizabeth Campus.

A drama workshop, painting and drawing workshop and pre-college workshop will round out Union College's summer session offerings. Students registering in-person are asked to present a check or money order to cover tuition and fees. Union County residents should present a Certificate of Residency while those students who plan to have their credits transferred to the college or university are presently attending must have the permission of a college official.

CIRCUS COMING TO TOWN — One of the clowns of the Sells and Gray Circus, which will be in Union next week, is shown entertaining youngsters of a past performance. The circus, featuring trained horses and other traditional entertainment, will present two shows on June 27, at 4 and 8 p.m. Big top and side show will be located at Tucker Avenue and Francis court. The circus is being presented by the Union Joycece, and discount tickets may be obtained by calling the Joycece number, 687-7007. Prices are $1.25 for children; $2 for adults.

UCTI students eligible for federal assistance

Financial aid opportunities available to students attending Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, were sharply increased as a result of official recognition by the Bureau of Higher Education, Office of Education, of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, it was announced this week by Dr. George H. Baxel, president of UCTI.

Dr. Baxel said that UCTI was designated "an eligible institution" by HEW, offering college post-secondary programs and will now be able to participate in federal assistance programs, including the college work-study program, the educational opportunity grant program and the guaranteed student loan program. UCTI is also eligible to apply for participation in special programs for disadvantaged students, including Talent Search and Upward Bound.

"Our newly-acquired 'eligibility' status means that a number of grants, loans and scholarship programs funded by the federal government are now available to our students," explained Dr. Baxel. "Prior to this time, most of our students were dependent upon private and industrial scholarships, or their own personal income."

Dr. Baxel noted that only students enrolled in accredited programs which are at least one year in length are eligible to receive benefits from the programs administered by the Bureau of Higher Education. Students enrolled in full-time occupational programs or continuing education courses will be assisted in finding other means of financing their education.

Under the auspices of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education and in cooperation with Union College, Union County Technical Institute is providing the programs and services of a community college in Union County. Through a contractual arrangement, graduates of UCTI's two-year programs receive associate degrees conferred by Union College.

Seton Hall to offer environment study

Seton Hall University will offer two new courses in its "Education Encompasses The Total Environment" program during the summer session starting June 27.

The courses, which are an effort by the School of Education to improve the quality of life in our world through school and community cooperation, are "Implementing Environmental Education Programs" and "Aesthetics, Education and Our Environment." Both courses are offered at undergraduate and graduate levels for three credits and at elementary and secondary levels.

Registration is June 25-27 from 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. For more information contact Dr. Helen B. Warrin, director, Environmental Education Project, at 782-2000, ext. 200A.

Playmakers Guild planning auditions

The Union County 4-H Playmakers Guild has announced that it is seeking actors between the ages of 15 and 22 for its next production, "Today a Flower."

Auditions will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. July 3 and 5 at the Union County 4-H Office, 300 North Ave., east, Westfield.

Those interested were asked to write to the acting director, Henry Lee Murdell, at Westfield of Fortune Productions, Union County Extension Service, 300 North Ave., east, Westfield, 08086.

G.I. Bill's benefits to expire for many Viet vets next year

The current G.I. Bill in seven years old and will expire for many Vietnam veterans on May 31, 1974, according to J.W. Hagan, Jr., director of Newark VA Regional Office.

Hagan said that the current bill, enacted by Congress in 1966, provides academic education benefits for eight years. Time is computed from the veteran's date of discharge, and from the date of the law. A man discharged this month, Hagan said, will still have eight years in which to pick up his educational gains.

Hagan added, however, that Donald E. Johnson, administrator of Veterans Affairs, had assured veterans that the VA would be able to continue its support of farm-cooperative, on-the-job training and flight training for a year longer. This is because these programs were not included in the 1966 legislation, but were added a year later, Hagan explained.

The administrator noted that 1.4 million, or 33 percent, of 4.1 million veterans made eligible by the 1966 law have used all or part of their education benefits.

The current G.I. Bill provided eligibility to all veterans discharged since Jan. 31, 1965, many of whom had been of service several years before they became eligible, the VA chief pointed out.

The overall participation rate for Vietnam veterans is about 48 percent.

VA says veterans with no dependents $200 monthly if they are full-time trainees, with higher rates for those with dependents. On-job trainees, with no dependents, are paid a starting allowance of $160 monthly—larger checks go to those with dependents. Employers also pay the veteran trainee wages, which are increased on a regular schedule during the training period.

Veterans whose benefits may soon expire, or any eligible veteran interested in G.I. Bill benefits, have been urged to contact any VA office or representatives of local veterans service organizations.

Arts Center shows Gary's sculptures

A one-man exhibition of sculpture with a distinctly bold-and-naïve influence will be presented on the Garden State Arts Center from Monday, June 25, through Saturday, June 30.

The display will show the creations of Jim Gary, a sculptor who works largely in metals, and will be sponsored by The Month Museum of Lincoln. It was announced by Joseph M. Weinstein Memorial Award will be presented. Dr. Gerald Staffin of Westfield, chairman of the awarding committee, will feature cocktails, dancing and election of officers and board members for the new Federation.

By combining our resources and our leadership," they explained "we can generate more funds, thus enabling us to provide better service to all Jews."

They further stated that other Federations and Councils throughout the country have been studying our growth pattern, and the process of area development is now the agenda of many other organized Jewish communities throughout the U.S.

Institute in physics offered to teachers

Harvard Project Physics, an in-service institute for secondary school teachers, will again be offered by Newark College of Engineering during the 1973-74 academic year.

The Foundation of NCE, the college's private affiliate, is sponsoring the tuition-free institute, which will carry six graduate credits.

Development of physical principles, teaching methods and the use of the laboratory in Harvard Project Physics differ considerably from conventional methods according to Leon Landman of NCE's Physics Department, director of the institute.

Classes meet on Wednesday evenings at NCE. Opening for 30 teachers are available. Information on the institute available from the Foundation at NCE, 323 High St., Newark.

Choral reading set next Wednesday

The next in a series of 12 Summer Singing, choral and choral readings sponsored by The Masterwork Music and Art Foundation, will be held on Wednesday, July 27, at 8 p.m. at the County College of Morris Student Center, County Grove road and Route 10, Dover.

The evening program will include Bach's "Ein Feste Burg" and "Christ Lag in Todesbanden."

David Randolph, conductor of the Masterwork Chorus and Orchestra, will conduct the singing. The singing is open to all who would like to participate or observe. There are no auditions or other special requirements; membership is unimportant. The charge is $4 per person, payable at the door.

Further information can be obtained by calling the foundation at (201) 386-1800 weekdays between 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Jewish groups to mark merger Sunday evening

The merging of the Union County Jewish Federation and the Jewish Community Council of the Plainfield and Elizabeth into the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey will be celebrated on Sunday evening at Temple Emanuel St., Westfield.

The event will also mark the conclusion of the 1973 United Jewish Campaign which, according to Fred Sichel, president of the Union County Jewish Federation, "has been the most successful one in our history."

Campaign leaders of both communities will be honored at the celebration and the annual Joseph M. Weinstein Memorial Award will be presented. Dr. Gerald Staffin of Westfield, chairman of the awarding committee, will feature cocktails, dancing and election of officers and board members for the new Federation.

Periodical will feature astronomy

"Apogee and Perigee," a Greek term for "away-from-earth and near-earth," is the title of a new quarterly publication "of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., which is published by the Sperry Observatory at the Cranford Campus of Union College.

"Apogee and Perigee" will be AA's official newsletter and will be part of an organized effort to bring our members who are located throughout the world. Roberto Garcia, editor of the journal, said the publication will include news, reports, and articles of interest to the amateur astronomer.

The first issue of "Apogee and Perigee" includes a discussion of the activities of AA's members, including the upcoming expedition to Antarctica, West Africa, for a solar eclipse; Toledo-54, a fundraising campaign for the British reflector telescope; and the construction, and installation by AA's Technical Committee, of the recent presentation of a sundial to Union College and the Observatory; the role of "qualified observers" who conduct public viewings at the Observatory; and features on three AA's members are also included.

According to Garcia, the journal will include news of current or impending celestial events, activities of AA and other sky-scanning groups, features on research or other astronomically-related topics, and membership profiles. A "Market Place" section will also be included where members may list equipment or books that are wanted, for sale, or available to other members on a gift, loan, or rental basis.

Leadership of Ann Kent of Newark, is listed for Sunday. Meeting place is 8 a.m. in the Howard Johnson Restaurant, Rt. 21, North Plainfield. The hike is a wooded area east of Bucks County, and includes a view from a 300-foot cliff.

Pollution from human sewage hazard in drinking water, says LWV report

"Who's bogging your drinking water? Chances are that you are. For pollution from human sewage is the greatest known health hazard of drinking water," according to the League of Women Voters Education Fund. It was reported this week by the Springfield League.

In a new report, "The Water You Drink: How Safe It Is," the League pointed out that most of the dangerous bugs—bacteria and viruses—present in water come from people living in communities with inadequate sewage systems.

The report added, "Furthermore, if you think bottled water is the answer, you are wrong again. According to the report, an late in February 1971 only eight states had set minimum standards and labeling requirements for bottled water—and only in interstate commerce."

"Lack of public awareness, limited understanding of how viruses in water can be controlled, and no requirement that all public water systems measure up to federal minimum safe drinking water standards are the basic reasons," the report stated. "Rather than allow a health crisis to develop, communities need to improve existing drinking water systems now."

As our population multiplies, requiring ever more clean water, and as new pollutants appear, we will have to run harder, just to stand still," the report stated. "Rather than allow a health crisis to develop, communities need to improve existing drinking water systems now."

The report, which warned of increasing health hazards in drinking water systems, discussed water from sources to kitchen tap, describes purification and distribution systems, and analyzes local, state and federal regulations—of lack of them.

It pointed out that although minimum federal criteria exist, less than half the states have officially adopted them. Furthermore, only the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act requires that bottled water be purified and distributed under Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act regulations—of lack of them.

In its conclusion, the report stated that "to assure consistent quality, government must control over all drinking water supplies—public systems, individual systems, bottled water. To exercise this control, government needs legal authority to set standards and regulations; it also needs legal authority and sufficient funding to enforce those standards."

SUNDAY'S SERMON A great many people, unfortunately, leave their religious values on the church steps after Sunday morning worship services, only to pick them up again on their way into church a week or two later. God, however, means for our religious values to be an intrinsic part of our daily lives, like breathing and thinking. We have given in each minute of each day to live our lives according to his standards. Yes, how often we stray into the standards of our own world - a world that lacks God. 750 workers in U.S. agency collect eyeglasses for needy

The U.S. Defense Contract Administration Service District, Springfield, has collected over 1,000 pairs of used eyeglasses for the New Eyes for the Needy project within the Springfield District.

In Col. Donald E. Liles, commander of the district, promotes an active community action council within its organization of approximately 750 employees. He supported the committee of 12 civilians under Lt. Cmdr. B.S. Friday, chairman, chairman, domestic action program, in their efforts to attain the goal of collecting 1,000 used eyeglasses, metal frames, sunglasses, soft cases and precious metal scrapes such as old watches, jewelry, etc.

The DCASD, Springfield, personnel, recognized this campaign as a "particularly good service project." Friday reported. One committee member, Bob Penella, Quality Assurance Division, personally collected nearly 800 pairs of eyeglasses. Collection points were set up within the Springfield District and through personal contacts made by each of the 750 employees. Donations began coming in.

The committee contacted local bus companies, motels, hotels, contacts, friends and neighbors to solicit donations.

The Rev. Robert Babaloff, pastor of the International Reading Association, will be held in New Orleans.

Prof. Mayer heads the Reading and Study Skills Center at Union College's Elizabeth campus. She is responsible for coordinating the overall reading improvement program and remedial instruction for students who require it.

A member of the Union College staff since 1970, Prof. Mayer was graduated with honors from Ursula College, East Orange. She did graduate work at Columbia University and received a master of arts degree from Seton Hall University, South Orange, with a major in reading.

Prof. Mayer has been employed as a reading specialist by the East Orange Board of Education and St. Michael's Hospital, Newark. She served as a consultant for the Reading Improvement Association, South Orange, and the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology and is established in 34 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Following a honeymoon in Ireland, the couple will reside in Maplewood.

70 get Edison degrees First graduation tomorrow

Thomas A. Edison College has no classrooms, no library and no faculty. What's more, it doesn't intend to acquire them.

Yet, New Jersey's newest state college, in existence barely a year, is awarding associate in arts degrees to 70 graduates tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the New Jersey State Museum auditorium. Ralph A. Dungan, New Jersey's chancellor of higher education, will address Edison's first commencement exercises.

Among the graduates are Frank Joseph Wagner of 214 North 2nd St., Kenilworth, employed by Rickett Brothers in South Plainfield, and William Davis of 720 Woodland Ave., Roselle Park, a senior research technician at Esso Research, Linden.

Edison College is the first state college in the nation designed to award college degrees based entirely on learning done elsewhere. It is authorized to award both associate and bachelor's degrees on the basis of credits earned at other colleges or through testing programs and special evaluation from Edison. It is no accident that the college is named after the great New Jersey inventor.

Dr. James Douglas Brown Jr., the college's president, points out, "We recognize that there are many ways to gain an education. Edison, a man with a total of three months of traditional schooling who educated himself by reading and studying in his spare time, is the college's inspiration."

In Edison's first graduating class, men outnumber women, 59-10. President Brown attributes this to the greater pressure on men to obtain degrees as a condition of career advancement. One of the men graduates-to-be puts it this way, "Employers use college degrees as a yardstick in hiring and salary; I would like to play their game."

A career girl adds, "It wasn't possible for me to advance without my degree. Now I am bacteriologist and supervisor of my division in a Pennsylvania hospital."

Dr. Brown emphasized that there is no charge for continuing potential degree candidates, and that interested people should contact Edison College, 1750 North Olden Ave., Trenton, 08628.

Peterpaol elected Lions governor

Dominick F. Peterpaol of Hillside is the new leader of 67 Lions Clubs in Essex, Union, Morris and Warren counties.

Peterpaol was elected governor of District 16-0 at the 52nd annual New Jersey State Lions convention at Atlantic City. He succeeds William J. Piccione of Dover.

A former president of the Kenilworth Lions Club, Peterpaol served as cabinet secretary-treasurer in 1972. He has received a series of awards for assisting in the formation of new Lions Clubs.

Peterpaol is the president of a Hillside fuel oil company and formerly was a General Motors Corp. plant superintendent. He served with Air Force engineers in World War II and the Korean conflict.

Active in a broad band of civic and charitable organizations, he was Hillside commissioner of recreation and a member of the Mayor's YES Committee.

The new district governor will join four other New Jersey district chiefs at the International Lions convention in Miami Beach, Fla., June 27 to 30.

Home economist convention slated

Beatrice M. May, home economist-extension leader at Rutgers University, will preside as hostess-estate chairman at the annual convention of the American Home Economics Association beginning Monday in Atlantic City.

Miss May will coordinate the activities of more than 7,000 home economists from across the Nation during the week-long session.

The issues to be discussed will include national health insurance, nutrition, child care, family planning, aging, sex roles and housing.

Bell Labs develops tiny laser beams

Discovery facilitates optical communications

The size of a pinhead for thousands of miles, according to Bell Laboratories which announced this week it has developed tiny, long-lived lasers and low-loss, hair-thin glass fibers.

The achievements are steps toward a future optical communications system that will use pulses of light to speed voice, data and video signals through the Bell System network. Such a system would have a much greater signal-carrying capacity than any transmission system now in use.

A reliable, long-lived laser has long been sought after as an efficient and economical source of light for an optical communications system. Bell Labs has been continuously operating a battery-powered laser for more than three months. Bell Labs first announced in 1970 that it was able to operate this kind of laser continuously at room temperatures for short periods.

The light source, however, is only one component required for the variety of optical communications systems which may prove feasible. Also needed are multiplexers, to combine many telephone conversations into a single information stream; modulators, to impress information onto the light beam; transmission media, such as glass fibers, to carry the light beams; repeaters, to boost the power of the beams after they have traveled long distances; and detectors, to extract information at the receiving end so it can be sent to customers over ordinary telephone lines.

Bell Labs has already announced that it can send more than one billion "bits" of information over a laser beam in one second. That's the equivalent of sending, letter by letter, 200 average size books in a second.

To carry the pulses of light, Bell Labs is experimenting with glass fibers as thin as human hair. About 100 of these fibers packed together would fill a cable no thicker than a pencil. The message capacity of fibers would depend on the complexity of the modulation and multiplexing schemes used. It would be possible, in a long distance system, for one fiber to carry about 4,000 telephone conversations at once within metropolitan areas, where simpler equipment would be used, each fiber might carry only one conversation.

These optical fibers usually are made of two different materials—one for a very narrow inner region called the core, and the other for a surrounding outer cladding, which helps to keep the light in the fiber. Recently, Bell Labs scientists developed a fiber made of a single material which has light-carrying efficiency good enough to be used in an optical communication system.

Light could also be used to send communications signals through the atmosphere over short distances, such as between nearby buildings in a metropolitan area. Bell Labs scientists now are conducting tests on such a system in New York City.

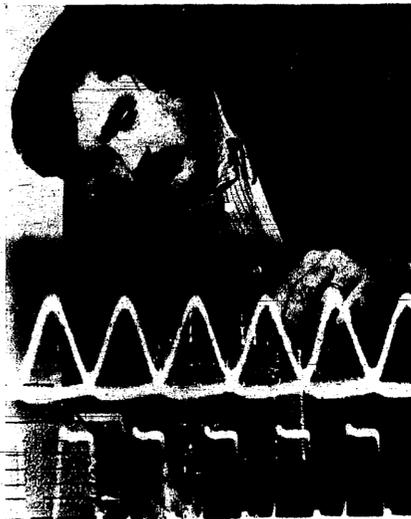

Just as signals sent over the Bell System network today must be amplified, or boosted, light pulses will have to be regenerated through devices called repeaters. Bell Labs has just completed work on what may be a prototype for an optical repeater—a miniature communication receiver-transmitter that can process in one second 6.3 million bits of information carried by laser light.

To convert the pulses of light back into electrical signals, Bell Labs is developing light-sensitive devices called photodetectors. These detectors pick up the pulses of light and change them into electrical signals that are conveyed into sound by a telephone.

Warren County still largely rural, led the state in the number of such improvements (493), while Essex County, predominantly urban, was second with 396, indicating that both farmers and the business community are recognizing their importance for multi-consumption purposes. The rundown on ponds and lakes in other counties is as follows: Morris, 390; Morris, 346; Sussex, 222; Hunterdon, 200; Mercer, 123; Burlington, 109; Salem, 114; Gloucester, 104; Camden, 84; Cumberland, 73; Bergen, 69; Ocean and Passaic, each 62; Somerset, 51; Middlesex, Atlantic, 34; Cape May, 21; Union, 4; and Hudson, none.

In addition to this total of 3,066, there are many other ponds constructed by private landowners which are not included in the listing.

Alampi said that a man-made pond has many advantages to the landowner and the general public. In addition to retaining excess water which would normally run off the land, ground water levels are supplemented. Areas where use of such ponds is widespread suffer less from flooding of downstream farms and towns. On the farm, of course, ponds provide drinking water for livestock and impound water for irrigation and spraying. They also provide a convenient source of water for fire protection.

LIGHT BOOSTER — Willis Musko of Bell Laboratories, Crawford Hill, inspects an experimental prototype of a repeater for an optical communications system of the future. Superimposed on the photograph is an oscilloscope reading of signals received through the repeater—a miniature communication receiver-transmitter that amplifies or boosts the pulses of light. This repeater can process 6.3 million bits of information carried on the light pulses. That's enough information to send letter by letter the content of an average size book in one second.

N.J. will receive $3 million in U.S. funds for children

New Jersey has been allocated $3,050,340 in U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) funds to operate this year's summer feeding program for children.

According to the USDA's Northeast Region Food and Nutrition Service office in Princeton, 60 program sponsors have thus far been approved in the state. They expect to serve a total of 90,470.

During 1972, New Jersey received $1,750,290 in federal money to fund 42 sponsors with a peak participation of 64,000 youngsters.

Nationally, USDA is allocating $69.8 million for this summer's program. Last year $28.4 million was expended on the program.

In March, USDA announced preliminary planning fund allotments totaling $43 million so that states and regional offices would be able to move ahead quickly to set upon submitted applications, assess the minimum funding requirements for those approved sponsors and report the levels of commitment as of May 15 and June 1. The funding announced today represents adjustments made due to program expansion in some states.

The summer feeding program provides meals to children during the summer months that are similar to those available under the National School Lunch Program during the regular school year. The program is intended to improve the nutritional level of children in non-school and non-residential situations and to reach youngsters from low-income areas and in areas with high concentrations of mothers working outside the home.

TV technician to show adjustments for UHF

Carmen Colucci, technical operations coordinator of New Jersey Public Television, will show viewers how to adjust the TV antenna to receive UHF stations on "Jerseyville" next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday, June 30 at 5:30 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58.

Additional "Jerseyville" guests include Paul Barry, artistic director, New Jersey Shakespeare Festival; "Jerseyville" will preview the Garden State Art Center's Heritage Festival.

The old swimmin' hole is back with the construction of ponds

New Jersey now has more than 3,000 ponds and lakes on grounds of industrial and research establishments, and in other areas which have been constructed with assistance from the state's 15 soil conservation districts and in accordance with standards established by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, according to Secretary of Agriculture Phillip Alampi, who is chairman of the State Soil Conservation Committee.

Executive shifts for Rickel listed

Milton Furimutter, president of Supermarkets General Corp., announced this week a new executive alignment at the company's Rickel division.

Stanley Abramson, a vice-president of the parent organization and, for the last eight years, the senior vice-president of the Rickel division, will serve as chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee of Rickel.

Permitter also announced that Robert Rickel, formerly the executive vice president, will serve as president with Irving Aplet, formerly a vice-president, becoming executive vice-president. Earlier this week Supermarkets General Corp. had announced the retirement of Alvin M. Rickel as president of the division.

Abramson has been associated with Supermarkets General Corp. since 1966. Rickel, a founder of the Rickel division, and Aplet have been senior executives of the division for many years.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

There seems to be an almost total lack of responsibility on the part of those advocates of senseless land use in what they seem to be making the "Garbage War." The highway trust funds are still to protect their special interests from the dangers of mass transit at the expense of the rest of us.

Furthermore, a recent vote in Washington shows that the highway trust funds are still to protect their special interests from the dangers of mass transit at the expense of the rest of us.

Both House and Senate have passed their own, very different, versions of the Federal Highway Act. The differences are now being resolved in the Joint Conference Committee. New Jersey, unfortunately, is not represented on that committee. The closest relative on it is James Buckley, Senator from New York.

The key issue in both House and Senate versions is whether highway trust money is to be used to build facilities for alternative modes of transportation. In the case of the Senate bill, there is a special assistance for the construction of mass transit facilities. The House bill would also exempt a highway in San Antonio from environmental responsibility. The house bill has a few more provisions that would remove highway billboards and the skeleton of a future interstate program.

Rinaldo raps EPA plan to control transportation

WASHINGTON — Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-22-N.J.) this week sharply criticized the Environmental Protection Agency's proposal for "drastic" new transportation control measures in the New Jersey-New York area.

The Union County congressman challenged both the need for and the practicality of the proposal. He specifically took issue with the federal agency's plan to reduce automobile use in the state approximately 60 percent by 1977.

In a letter to EPA, Rinaldo urged the agency to study his recommendations and to review the plan submitted to EPA by New Jersey's Environmental Protection Department, which, he said, "would achieve the same air quality standards by the same date with much less disruptive results."

EPA's proposal, Rinaldo said, includes a freeze on the amount of gasoline available to dealers based on sales during the fiscal year ending June 30.

"Severe restrictions on gasoline supplies, parking facilities, deliveries and similar EPA proposals for reducing the use of automotive vehicles could have a devastating effect on the economic and social health of New Jersey," Rinaldo wrote. "and unless they are proved to be absolutely essential to the physical health of our people, more practicable alternatives should be sought."

Noting that the family car "is no longer a luxury but a necessity," the congressman said that "the suburban housewife needs the automobile to shop, to take her children to and from school and to make regular visits to the family doctor and dentist."

Rinaldo emphasized his long-time support of strong environmental protection legislation, both at the federal and state levels, but he added that "environmental control measures must be constant with equally pressing social and economic needs."

He said that "positive steps may be more desirable than negative ones," he urged that automotive manufacturers be required to produce virtually pollution-free cars at the earliest possible time and that Congress act favorably on legislation he has introduced to reduce the number of cars on the road, more widely available to urban and suburban residents.

Disclosure is made by Mrs. Wilson on personal finances

Betty Wilson, a Democratic candidate for the Assembly in District 22, this week released a statement of her personal finances. Mrs. Wilson said, "In order to promote open government and an informed citizenry, I believe every candidate for public office should make a report to the public of all personal assets and liabilities."

Mrs. Wilson reported joint assets with her husband, James, totaling $78,500. These assets include a home valued at $65,000, two cars, two motorcycles, and two boats. Her husband's assets include a home valued at $65,000, two cars, two motorcycles, and two boats.

Mrs. Wilson also reported joint liabilities with her husband, including a $10,000 mortgage on their home, and outstanding loans of $7,300. She has a net worth of $39,500.

Mrs. Wilson noted that as the Democratic candidate in the 22nd Assembly District, "I believe every candidate for public office should make a report to the public of all personal assets and liabilities."

Pediatrics group names physicians from local hospital

Two members of the medical staff of Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountaineer, have been elected to membership in the American Academy of Pediatrics. They are Dr. Margaret E. Symonds of Pleasantville and Dr. Vernon R. and Dr. Lewis J. Sank of 250 Ashland rd., Summit.

Dr. Sank, a past president of the medical staff at Children's Hospital, is an associate professor at the Brookdale Hospital and Medical Center where he served his internship. He is a graduate of Westfield High School and Johns Hopkins University Medical School in Baltimore. He maintains offices in Summit.

Dr. Symonds is a native Englisher, where she trained and interned as a physician. She has been associated with Children's Specialized Hospital since 1962. She took a leave of absence from 1968 through 1970 for postgraduate work in pediatrics at Mountsinberg Hospital, Plainfield; Overlook Hospital, Summit; and Columbia Presbyterian Hospital in New York City.

Jayne faces Crestmont in playoff finals for Majors title

Unbeaten Jayne Motor Freight was its 15th game in the Springfield Youth Major League by taking two playoff games last week to run its playoff record to 4-0.

Monday evening Jayne avenged Crestmont's triumph by picking off the top of the 17th, behind the pitching of Dave Itron and a tremendous hitting exhibition by Kenny Fingerhut. Kenny had a perfect night at the plate with five hits including three home runs—two with the bases loaded—for 10 RBI. Itron, winning his seventh game of the year—all complete games—scattered four hits and struck out nine, leaving only two walks.

Regional frosh, JV baseballers show promise

The Jonathan Dayton Regional freshman baseball team compiled a respectable 6-6 record in the 1973 season. Coach Bill Kessler's squad could easily have had an 8-6 record—two games were cancelled because of rain with the Bulldogs back in the first inning of the season. The Bulldogs' season was cut short by the second half of the season but ran into bad luck the second half of the year. The frequent rains cancelled many practices, hindering the pitchers and infielders who needed the work to stay sharp.

EARTHBOUND

By JOSEPH TOBIN Director, Ecology and Conservation, Wave Hill Center for Environmental Studies, New York, N.Y.

Often we forget that which is most apparent and which appears before us as daily principle. It's important to recall that one of the most significant premises controlling the world's ecology has been well known to physicists for many generations. It is rather bluntly stated in these words: "There's no such thing as a free lunch."

Unemployment rate increases to 6 pct. of May work force

It has been a recent contention that technology and the impact it has had in the development of industrialized agriculture has made it possible to circumvent energy transfer laws through the use of sophisticated fertilization, irrigation and harvesting techniques on the farm. In the area of food production this has been true and rapid transport of farm goods to major urban areas has made laws related to per capita population distribution based on acreage obsolete.

Another key factor in some parts of the state was the building trades work stoppages, which prevented the seasonal hiring of construction workers that normally occurs in May and also caused layoffs of some striking workers.

Among the state's nine major labor areas the unemployment rate increased by half a point or more in eight areas and was significantly changed in one — the Atlantic City area. Compared with a year ago the rates were higher in five areas, lower in three areas, and unchanged in the Newark area.

Enlistment has $2,500 Army bonus

The United States Army now offers two new enlistment options for service in the Regular Army which pay cash bonuses of $2,500 in four-year enlistment. Titled the U.S. Army Cash Bonus Payment Plan, the new U.S. Army Training and Cash Enlistment Option, both are available to young men who qualify.

Prospective enlistees must meet normal physical, mental and moral standards for enlistment and be high school graduates. Those still in school may apply before they graduate if school officials certify they will graduate at the end of the school term.

Under the Cash Bonus Enlistment Option, young men without previous service may volunteer for service with the artillery, armor or infantry. The offer also applies to former enlistees if they have served less than three years and have been out of service for more than three months.

The bonus is payable upon successful completion of basic combat training, advanced individual training, and the award of a military occupational specialty which certifies the soldier is qualified to perform in his military job. The bonus, of course, is subject to normal tax deductions.

CLOWNING AROUND—Happy the Clown, who will make a special appearance at Springfield's Fourth of July fireworks program, leads Johnny J. and the Roaches. In one of the selections they will present at the event, the band, which specializes in the music of the '50s, is comprised of township residents (from left) Larry-Zeller, Rick Salsky, Jim Weinberg, Bill VanRiper, Don Stearns, and Charles VanRiper. (Mike Scop, also a member of the group, is not pictured). Happy the Clown, also known as Harry Gregory, will greet the kiddies at Meisel Field and hand out toys and candy.

'Biggest' fireworks display to climax holiday program

The biggest and best fireworks display ever to be seen in Springfield has been promised for next Wednesday evening by Alfred E. Bowman, president of the Springfield Fourth of July Committee. The band, which specializes in the music of the '50s, is comprised of township residents (from left) Larry-Zeller, Rick Salsky, Jim Weinberg, Bill VanRiper, Don Stearns, and Charles VanRiper. Community Pool to offer special July 4th events

A special series of July 4th events will be held at the Springfield Community Pool. For children 8 and 7 there will be a "run in the pool." For 8 and 9-year-old children, the pool will offer a 50-yard dash. For 10-year-old boys, there will be a softball throwing contest. For the 10 and 11-year-old girls and for boys 11 and 12 there will be 40-yard dashes. Boys who are 11 will compete in a softball hitting contest. In the pool, boys 13-15 will have a swim race while girls 12 and older will participate in their own swimming event. For adults there will be a Bocce tournament and for the ladies a rolling pin throwing contest. Men may participate in the hole-in-one contest and the ladies in a croquet tournament.

Youngsters to learn about real—not reel—policemen

The television adjectives and the movie screens have been filled in recent seasons with programs and films dealing with police officers, but, according to the Springfield Police Department, the image presented is often a distorted one. In an effort to counteract these distortions, which are frequently viewed by impressionable youngsters, the local force has initiated a program designed to educate children on the "real" role of policemen. It will also teach them how to work with the police in certain areas and how to report emergency situations. Sgt. William Cleri, who developed the training program, explained, "My main motivation in setting up this project is because of the image presented by television, which is probably the greatest 'educator' of the very young. TV programs are the only means youngsters have of viewing a policeman at work, and they usually see officers fighting or shooting. This is not what being a policeman is all about. It's the aim of our program to teach youngsters about our real work, in hopes of creating a better regard with them."

Evening office hours called off for summer

Arthur H. Becher, Springfield police chief, has announced that his office will have evening hours during July and August. Persons unable to utilize the office during daytime hours may call the chief's office at 376-2400 for an appointment. It is possible, arrangements for an evening appointment. Community moves to create wing for museum at library

The Springfield Township Committee has taken the first formal step leading to the construction of a museum wing on the Springfield Public Library by introducing a $75,000 bond ordinance for that purpose at its meeting Tuesday night. The ordinance is expected to be given at the next committee session.

Approximately 50 township residents were in attendance at the session in Town Hall, and heard Committee member Robert Weisbach question the delay in obtaining a playground in that area. Residents had petitioned the Committee on that matter last year, and were told state approval would have to be granted for use of a state-owned parcel of land.

Another COMMUNITY PROBLEM, namely the use of private property as a public toilet for dogs, was raised by a resident of "It's just that the matter hasn't gotten through Trenton." Russo stated, noting that the project would not cost the state "one red cent." Committee member Wasserman urged the residents to "keep badgering" the committee, which would in turn "badger" Trenton. Wasserman expressed the feeling that all state officials should be required to serve in a municipal capacity first, in order to see how bureaucracy hinders operations on the local level.

3 mailmen called 'legs'

Springfield's male population has for some time been treated to views of women letter carriers in "mini-skirts," but now the district residents of the town have a treat courtesy of the Postal Service: male carriers stepping out in "official" walking shorts.

All three postmen said the only kidding they've received is from fellow workers. Although legs, who lives at 28 Warren Ave., said a friend saw him on the street the other day "and almost fell over laughing." "This didn't deter him, though. In fact, he thinks the shorts are too long, and suggested the workers be allowed to wear "hot pants."

Historical unit to conduct sale

The greatest variety ever of new and used items will be available at the annual book and garage sale of the Springfield Historical Society. Mrs. George W. Lancaster, chairman, said this week. The sale will take place at the historic Cannon Ball House, 125 Morris Ave., on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Special displays have been set up to show antique, bric-a-brac, books in all categories, furniture, garden, tools, mechanical tools, sporting equipment, kitchen utensils, small appliances, household accessories, picture frames, and many other items.

Counteracting 'aggressive' image of Springfield Police Department

The Springfield Police Department is counteracting an "aggressive" image of the department and the way it views the community. The youngsters have shown that the police and the equipment are not primarily for public order and discipline, but for accident investigations. The session is expected to be held at the Meisel Field on Wednesday evening.
