Candidates all in the ring—with kid gloves

By ABNER GOLD
"I am not here to minimize the efforts and the work put in by my opponents," Democrat Robert Weltchek said in his final remarks at the annual candidates' night debate Monday at the Florence Gaudin School, and that summed up the tone of the debate among the four contenders for two three-year terms on the Township Committee.

Speakers were Republicans Hal Dennis and Dr. Ray Constantian and Democrats Nat Stokes and Weltchek. The program opened with a 15-minute discussion by the two candidates for the State Senate seat in the 22nd

District, Democrat William Wright Jr. and Republican Peter J. McDonough. The meeting was sponsored by the Springfield League of Women Voters and was opened by Marge Halpin of the League. Ruth Thatcher of the Westfield L.W.V. served as moderator. The first raucous in a month limited attendance to perhaps 75 persons, including a large contingent of Guel Scout's, and may well have also put a damper on the tone of the discussion.

All local candidates emphasized issues and problems facing the community, with an absence of the personal charges and countercharges which had featured some debates in past years.

Dr. Constantian, the first of the local speakers, said his goal is to "keep Springfield the ideal residential community that it is."

Weltchek stressed what he has learned in his three years on the governing body. He said that he has led in preservation of the town's residential character through amendments to the zoning ordinance, and in passage of a pioneer rent control law.

Voters to pick 2 for Township Committee

Springfield voters will go to the polls Tuesday to elect officials on the local, county and state levels. In addition to the two township committee members, a governor, two state assemblymen, two state senators, three freeholders, a surrogate and a register. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

On the state level, seeking election to the four-year term as governor, are Republican Charles W. Sandman Jr. and Democrat Brendan T. Byrne.

On the township level, focus is on the race for two three-year terms on Township Committee. Seeking election are Republican Dr. Raymond A. Constantian and Harold Dennis, and Democrat Nicholas Stokes and Robert T. Weltchek.

On the county level, seeking election to the four-year term as assessor, are Republican Charles W. Sandman Jr. and Democrat Brendan T. Byrne.

Stokes, Weltchek assail 'one-party, one-man' rule

Nat Stokes and Bob Weltchek, Democratic candidates for Springfield Township Committee, this week declared that Republican Township Committee member Robert Wasserman's endorsement of their "last week" was probably given because of his concern last year for the Republican Party.

They assailed Wasserman's "courage" for speaking out and informing the people of Springfield of conditions within the "new Republican Party."

Also commenting on Menza's letter to the editor in last week's Springfield Leader in which he accused the Democrats of avoiding issues and attacking personalities, Stokes and Weltchek pointed out that in 1972, Menza's role in a major campaign issue, they called upon the voters to "avoid concentration of political power in one-party and one-man."

BUYING WISELY

"From Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York, Inc."

Dear Larrie:

I've been in business for two years now. I received a call last week that has me puzzled. The caller said his minority publication was interested in my publication, at the rate of $600 a half page. This is an excellent fee, I feel. The caller said that the proceeds would be going to many projects in the community, particularly involving activities of the minority area. He said that unless employers present their advertising in these publications, I was not fulfilling requirements of the equal opportunity law in making an effort to reach minority applicants. Now this just doesn't seem on the level.

DUBIOUS SOLICITATION

Since the inception of equal opportunity legislation many unscrupulous promoters have entered the advertising solicitation field. They successfully lured many advertisers concerned with civil rights to their own private gain by extorting money from them. I am sure you are familiar with the "information" for the phone number of the publication. Make a call directly to the newspaper, question the rate and determine whether this particular solicitor is actually an employee of the publication. Check with your Better Business Bureau and report your problems.

Larrie O'Farrell, Better Business Bureau

Dear Larrie:

It is a shame that a thing as commercial as "information" is being sold. My husband says there isn't. He doesn't believe the advertising of this particular store is "information" to sell "only commercial carpeting". In fact, the company claims to sell their carpeting to hotels, motels, schools and apartment buildings and to offer in the home at savings of 25 percent to 35 percent off the commercial price. The way to verify this matter is to contact the advertising manager of the company. If he is not a member of the carpeting industry, then the company is not a carpeting company. Check with your Better Business Bureau and report your problems.

Larrie O'Farrell, Better Business Bureau, 130 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y., 10011.

Kiehn stresses vote records of GOP legislature hopefuls

Assemblyman Herbert H. Kiehn, Republican candidate for reelection in District 22, this week appealed to voters to consider the records of the candidates for office when casting votes in the general election on Tuesday.

"Candidates with excellent records should not be penalized because of the actions of individuals accused of wrongdoing or because voters are misled by national or state situations over which the candidates have no control," he said.

His assemblyman also appealed to voters to support the candidates of State Senator Peter A. McDonough and Assemblyman Arthur A. Manner, who are seeking reelection in District 22. Records of Senator McDonough and Assemblyman Manner during their terms in the Legislature were commented by Assemblyman Kiehn.

Major concerns of Assemblyman Kiehn are education, including school financing; economy in government; flood control; air and water pollution; and tax reform with reduction of the property tax as the goal.

Consumers' Corner

BUYER SERVICE UPS FOOD COSTS

One reason food costs more today than in Grandma's day is that shoppers are buying their way out of the kitchen by paying for built-in mid-range services in the foods they select. The convenience of food that saves time, but they are not always money savers.

Indeed, many consumers end up paying many times the value of a homemade item, just to get convenience.

We buy choose already shagged, onion pesto and dried, lean minced meat, pre-steamed cereal and pre-cut pizzas. All would cost less if we prepared them ourselves.

Ball-in-bag vegetables are more expensive than their plain frozen counterparts. Vegetables in sauce mix are more costly than if we made our own sauce. Frozen breaded chicken is more expensive than un-breaded ones. And cereals you cook yourself are nearly always less expensive than ready-prepared brands.

Buying "main dish" dinner mixes that lack only the meat may shorten cooking time, but you're paying someone else for a combination of sauce, seasoning and macaroni or rice you could prepare at lower cost.

Landslide victory for Byrne seen in UC poll of students

If a poll of 375 Union College government students is any indication, Democrat Brendan Byrne will win a landslide victory in his Nov. 6 gubernatorial race in New Jersey.

One of the questions asked whether a charter study commission should be created, and if the answer is "yes," it asks voters to select nine persons to serve on that commission.

The poll was conducted the week of Oct. 15 by Prof. Harold Damerow of Mountaineer, a member of Union College's Economics, Government and History Department.

Seventy-three percent of the students reported they are registered to vote.

About 47 percent of the students said they consider themselves to be moderate liberals.

The poll indicates that the Democratic Party is well positioned to win the gubernatorial election.

Charter study panel, Hall of Justice referenda facing voters on Tuesday

Union County residents will decide two questions of county-wide import when they go to the polls next Tuesday.

One of the questions asks whether a charter study commission should be created, and if the answer is "yes," it asks voters to select nine persons to serve on that commission.

The other question is a non-binding referendum on whether a Hall of Justice, costing $20 million, should be built to provide a new jail and additional courtroom and office space.

Following is background on the two questions which have been prepared by the Board of Freeholders.

Should a charter study commission be created to study the present governmental structure of Union County, to consider and make findings concerning the form of county government and to make recommendations thereon?

Should the County of Union construct a Hall of Justice to include a new jail, new courtrooms and new office facilities in the City of Elizabeth, New Jersey?

INTERSTATE PROBLEM — Union County Freeholder Thomas W. Long of Linden (left) and U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams of Westfield discuss the problem of the hazardous waste dumps in Union County.

Long asks U.S. probe of N.Y. waste dumping

Union County Freeholder Thomas W. Long of Linden this week called for a federal investigation of hazardous waste dumps in the health of New Jersey residents.

Long charges that the indiscriminate dumping — both legal and illegal — of untreated commercial and industrial waste water from neighboring New York City is resulting in a chemical and bacteriological hazard to New Jersey residents.

Long said he has outlined the aid of U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams of Westfield in getting the federal government to investigate and crack down on the situation.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

After lengthy study, tedious bureaucratic deliberation and widespread feeling of frustration among the environmental public, New Jersey is moving toward adoption of its own pesticide control law.

Now, fast by moving paper, New Jersey Secretary of Agriculture Philip Alampi has called for two-year delay in implementing the law.

Alampi says the delay is necessary because of the need for more information on the effects of pesticides on the state's environment.

Enrollment is up 5 percent for fall at Union College

Union College has enrolled 4,028 students for the fall semester at its campuses in Cranford, Elizabethtown and Plainfield. It was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Iverson, president. This represents an increase of about five percent over last year's enrollment of 3,844. "We not only have an overall enrollment increase, but we have a larger freshman class and more returning sophomores," Dr. Iverson said. "This is especially encouraging in an era when enrollments are dropping at many institutions and at a time when the number of high school graduates is declining."

UCTI HAS NEW COMPUTER — Electronics technology and electro-mechanical students at Union County Technical Institute. Scotch Plains find solving some problems easier these days thanks to the Dec Model PDP-5 computer that Esso Research and Engineering Co. has donated to the Institute.

Film in Westfield for cancer unit fund

The film "Finian's Rainbow," a musical starring Fred Astaire, Pertwee, Clark and Thelma Houston, will be shown at the Thomas Edison Junior High School, on Highway 54 Westfield, on Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. Proceeds from the movie showings will benefit the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society. The unit will be held at the George Wilcox Westfield in support of the cancer research fund. The unit will support the American Cancer Society's attack against cancer, which includes research, education, patient service, and rehabilitation.

Computer donated by Esso keeping UCTI students busy

Electronics and electro-mechanical students at Union County Technical Institute are finding their studies more challenging and, in some instances, simplified, thanks to Esso Research and Engineering Co.'s donation of a Dec Model PDP-5 computer to the Institute. The computer, which has been used by Esso Research and Engineering Co. for many years, is now being used by the students as a teaching tool in the design of chemical plants and in studying and analyzing existing chemical processes. It is now giving students a new means of solving engineering problems and performing mathematical engineering functions.

Commission approves project at planetarium

Approval was given this week by the Union County Planning Commission for a project to construct a small planetarium to permanently house the telescope at Tralalade Planetarium in Watchung Reservation. A large part of the donation for the planetarium will come from the Tralalade Museum Association of Union County, which provided the planetarium several years ago and which has aided the Tralalade Nature and Science Center for many years. Also participating in the project will be the Tralalade Astronomy Club and the Westfield Astronomy Club. Some other donations of material and assistance are expected. The planetarium will have a small part in provision of materials and work on the project. The planetarium dome will be constructed by members of the Tralalade Astronomy Club and will be a reinforced concrete pipe six feet high, eight inches in diameter, over a steel dome foundation, nine feet square, in back of the planetarium.

Twin-moms clubs to hold convention

The state convention of the New Jersey State Association of Twin Mothers Clubs will be held Saturday, Nov. 3, at the Coachman Inn, Cranford. The Saturday Mothers of Twins and Triplets Club, which draws its members primarily from Union and Middlesex Counties, is the sponsoring chapter. James T. Swenney, executive director of the Family and Children's Society, will discuss "The self-esteem of the child." The program will conclude with election of officers. General co-chairman of the convention are Mrs. Joseph Lauer and Mrs. William Koehn of Union. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Charles Bester of Kentwood.

CHRISTMAS PROJECT — Mrs. E. Alfred Herbach of Westfield, left, chairman of the Children's Specialized Hospital annual Christmas Card project, and Mrs. David Payne, right, also of Westfield and designer of the card, examine this year's design in front of the administration building of the hospital. The project, now in its fifth year, is sponsored by the Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountaintop, and the proceeds go directly to the hospital fund. Cards may be ordered by calling the hospital office on New Providence road.

Bonnell, Lee, McVey pledge county newsletter

Alarm that the average Union County citizen is unaware of functions of the Board of Freeholders was expressed this week by Republican Freeholder candidates Raymond Bonnell, Robert Lee and Jack McVey. "Yet these same people pay $15 million dollars in taxes to support this system," the state said, "with barely a murmur at public hearings on the county budget. When elected to the Board of Freeholders Tuesday, we hope to change this picture by instituting a county newsletter to local newspapers, by speaking in various civic and community groups and by 'upping the image' of the role of the county government."

Mrs. Palin 'blasts' charter study slate

The concept of a "slate" of candidates for the County Charter Study Commission was criticized this week by Joan Palin of Linden, one of 19 candidates for the commission. She said that Walter Halpin, county clerk, had assembled a slate of eight candidates for the nine-member commission and noted that this "is contrary to the spirit of the law which specified that candidates appear on the ballot without party label or state designation." Mrs. Palin, a former director of the State League of Women Voters and a former president of the Linden VFW, urged county voters to approve the charter study question and "vote independently for people they know and 'vote responsibly' as concerned citizens interested in good government rather than rubber-stamp a pre-selected slate."

Rinaldo endorses GOP county ticket. The endorsement of Union County Republican Freeholder candidate Raymond Bonnell, Robert Lee and Jack McVey by Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo of Union (R-12th) was announced this week. "I am happy to give these three candidates my strong support," the congressman said.

The combined gross debt of New Jersey's municipalities and school districts last year climbed to nearly $2.8 billion, exceeding by more than one billion dollars the state's $1.7 billion in outstanding and authorized but unused debt.

The $1.8 billion gross debt incurred by school districts alone topped the state figure by more than $50 million and was twice the municipal gross debt total of $900 million.

The statewide total municipal gross debt among 660 of New Jersey's 587 municipalities rose 4.6 percent, to $280 million, to $954,569,000 in the period between 1969 and 1972.

In the same four-year span, New Jersey's school debt in 53 of 602 districts increased 20.3 percent, to $300 million, to $1,797,275,000.

Gross municipal debt on a county basis showed the largest percentage increase in the counties of Sussex, Ocean, Gloucester and Burlington. Decreases in gross debt of municipalities were registered in Hunterdon, Hudson, Salem, and Warren counties.

Greatest increases in gross school debt occurred in Sussex, Atlantic and Cape May counties while decreases in gross school debt were evident in Bergen, Mercer, Cumberland and Somerset counties.

Tabulations compiled from official records by the New Jersey Taxpayers' Association showed that in Union County municipal gross debt changed from $59,824,000 in 1968 to $68,069,000 in 1972, an increase of 13.6 percent.

Highlight of the evening was the breaking of Halloween pinatas made by the den mothers for their respective dens. Trick or treating started early with the breaking of the witches and pumpkin pinatas.

The meeting closed with Cubmaster Auer reminding the scouts to plan for the family bowling day at Echo Lanes on Nov. 11.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER. I have a problem that may not seem important to anyone else, but to me it's serious. I had a crush on this boy for about three weeks. He's very nice and kind of quiet. I'm very shy and find it hard to walk up to a boy and start a conversation. I told one of my friends that I liked this guy and she told this other girl that used to be my best friend. Now this other girl is flirting with the guy I like. If I don't hurry up and talk to him, he'll take him away from me for sure. The problem is I'm just too shy. How in the world can I get over it? Please help me because I've been feeling down about this whole situation.

OUR REPLY: You've got to have faith in yourself if you want to get over being shy. Remember, people like you for who you are and what you are right now, not for whatever standards you think you must live up to. You've got to get into the swing of things. When you are in a little while you are having a much fun you don't want to come out of the water. Try taking the "plunge" a few times by talking to this guy. You'll discover it's easier than you think.

Production aides are appointed for Overlook musical

A production designer who helped stage Lisa Minelli's concert in Puerto Rico and a choreographer now teaching at the New York Academy of Ballet have joined the staff of the Overlook Theatre for the staging of "Annie Get Your Gun" on Nov. 29 and 30 and Dec. 1 at Summit High School. Performances will be held at 8:30 each evening.

Jim Stewart, named as production designer, has worked with Miki Gaynor, Tom Jones and Eubank Humphreys in Las Vegas besides his lighting design experience with Miss Minelli. He has designed sets for the NBC television production of "Discovery of America" and has served as assistant director at the American Chamber Theatre and at Lincoln Center with productions of "The Merchant of Venice" and the revival of "The Women." He also served as the wardrobe department of NBC-TV in California, creating costumes for "The Dean Burger Show," the Andy Williams Show and Laugh-In.

Ralf Harner, choreographer for the Overlook Musical Theatre production, trained at the Martha Graham School and the Ballet Arts School. His performing experience includes "Boyz n' the City," "Hush! Man!" and "Follies Bergere" on Broadway and the Bell Telephone Hour, the Sammy Davis Jr. Show and the Ed Sullivan Show on television. He is permanent choreographer for Opera Miniatures of New York and has choreographed various summer stock musicals.

opposed by the three members appointed by the Democrats and favored by the two named by the Republicans.

Bob Welchek, Democrat, and Nat Stokes, Republican, debate the merits of a four-year term for a representative of District 9.

Another questioner asked where funds would be found for such projects as new tennis courts. Stokes said that all government is a matter of priorities. He added, "Are we willing to sacrifice for the many facilities which are needed? Ultimately, this is a decision for the people."

The meeting then split up into four smaller groups, and the candidates individually addressed the election with each group in turn. Constantine devoted much of his time to local control measures. He responded to a question as to whether stringent controls might lead to tax burdens on homeowners.

Stokes, Welchek assail 'one-party, one-man' rule

Homes at Laurel Woods are built on 'personal level'

Neil De Young, builder of custom homes in Forked River believes that a home reflects the person who lives in it, and he carries that philosophy into his business.

De Young maintains a complete design department with the intention of creating a truly customized job from the basic design to the finished home. He builds a home the old-fashioned way and has since 1957 been involved with building.

He stresses that it isn't worth the small amount of money saved by cutting corners in areas not readily seen by customers such as using hemlock framing rather than fir wood framing. In the long run, money is saved by not cutting corners.

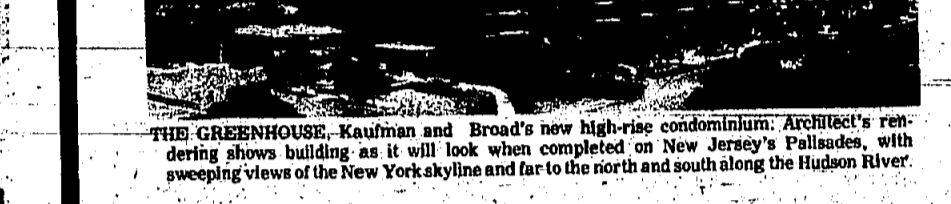

De Young began building residential homes, commercial buildings, offices and apartments in Haddonfield. He later accepted a position as production manager for the Mayer Construction Company. In 1969 he went back into business for himself because he "realized that there was a need in Ocean County for someone to build truly custom homes."

Today, Neil De Young, Builder, Inc. is responsible for building most of the homes in Oak Hill and Quail Hill in Lacey Township as well as many homes on lots privately owned by its customers. He also has built many offices, commercial buildings and alterations to existing homes as well as additions and alterations to existing buildings.

De Young is currently constructing homes in the "Laurel Woods at Warwick" subdivision which consists of 34 custom designed homes on large wooded lots. There will be dry sewer and water lines, curbs, sidewalks, black topped roads and underground electric and telephone service. The Laurel Woods project is convenient to Barnegat Bay marinas and recreational facilities in Ocean County.

The first homes are now under construction and those who are interested can visit a sample home at 604 Lacey rd. in Forked River off Parkway exit 74) weekdays and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

De Young said he believes in his religious convictions and "changes not to conduct business on Sunday."

'Greenhouse' sales open; condo has 4 penthouses

Sales have opened for apartments in the Greenhouse, a new high-rise condominium being built in Cliffside Park on the Palisades facing New York City.

The structure, 21 stories capped by a penthouse, is the first high-rise project for the Kaufman and Broad, a multinational residential builder, with a long-standing reputation in air-conditioned, walk-to-work single-family homes and townhome communities.

The Greenhouse represents the first step in a newly launched program by the company to provide homes for middle and upper income families in densely adjacent to the city's major cities.

"We found a marked shortage of such housing in the area," said Eugene S. Kaufman, president of the Greenhouse. "Our research showed specially designed, pre-arranged urbanfringes are the best way to meet the need. Last year Kaufman and Broad built three low-rise condominium communities on Long Island, and they were sold out in a matter of weeks. We suggest prospective buyers hear this in mind, for we believe the pattern of fast sell-out will be repeated at our new high-rise."

In Norris, president of Kaufman and Broad Condominium Communities, Inc., a new subsidiary formed to carry out the high-rise program, notes the Greenhouse has special appeal because of its location, offering views of the New York skyline and a panorama stretching from Bear Mountain, far to the north, across Manhattan to Long Island Sound, and down to the entrance to New York Harbor. And while the Greenhouse will be situated in a small suburban town, with nearby parking facilities, it will be only 20 minutes by car or bus from midtown Manhattan.

"In addition to this," Norris said, "the Greenhouse has features we believe are unique on the national housing scene." Its apartments will be single-family homes, he explained, having individually designed central heating and air-conditioning, walk-to-work closets, fully equipped kitchens with self-cleaning ovens, "roads" of storage and closet space. Many will have separate dressing rooms, saunas and built-in bars. Other design features will include the atmosphere of individualized living, as well as the amenities of a luxury hotel.

"We are offering a special financing pre-arranged through the Chase Manhattan Bank, Norris said. Qualified applicants can get 2-year mortgage loans for up to 90 percent of the purchase price and in amounts up to $60,000, with buyers paying the premium for private mortgage insurance. Mortgage interest will be at the prevailing rate in New Jersey, which currently is eight percent.

The sales program is being conducted from models set up in a building adjacent to the site. The one-bedroom models are priced from $24,900. The two-bedroom models start at $35,000.

The four penthouses at the Greenhouse will have panoramic views of the New York skyline and a panorama stretching from Bear Mountain, far to the north, across Manhattan to Long Island Sound, and down to the entrance to New York Harbor. And while the Greenhouse will be situated in a small suburban town, with nearby parking facilities, it will be only 20 minutes by car or bus from midtown Manhattan.

West meets East as Texas admen, editors visit N.J.

Houstonian Enterprises, and Midwest of the 20and, Inc., one of the nation's largest privately-owned building firms, gave a group of Texas admen and editors a tour of the new developments in New Jersey recently, as editors and advertising people from the Houston area were guests of Kevin S. Horvath, president of the English-American firm, for a first-hand examination of its accomplishments and philosophy.

Horvath, one of the planners of condominium living in New Jersey, began the Garden State operations with Shadow Lake Village in Cliffside Park, and is now applying the same techniques in other areas. One of the most recent is in Teaneck, where Horvath is building a 224-unit Covered Bridge condominium complex.

"Our guests from Teaneck were actually touring our two New Jersey communities," Horvath explained. "I'm sure that the complete picture" he continued, "is that they would be a more positive appraisal of what we are doing in New Jersey."

"The architecture and other aspects of the building at Houston have been uniquely designed to meet the highest standards of quality."

The Hill complex features patios, terraces, balconies

The outdoor amenities included in condominium ownership at The Hill at High Point are attractive and an interesting mix at the Lakewood community.

According to High Point Development Corporation, "the area contains the best living, such as patios, terraces and balconies at The Hill, are playing an increasingly important role in today's home buyer's decision to buy."

Miller points out that every apartment-hunter and homebuyer at The Hill includes a balcony, terrace or patio which substantially increases the amount of living space in each unit.

In addition, the Hill has a completed clubhouse for residents' use and there's already an established social life enjoyed by the more than 30 homeowners.

Activities range around the pool and have included weekend parties such as barbecues, Sunday night buffets and other fun and neighbor-oriented events.

Situated at the highest point of Ocean County, the Hill at High Point on Prospect street is in the heart of New Jersey's sunbore playground, convenient to Manhattan and New York, and South Jersey business centers.

The Hill presents a 1 1/2 bedroom model apartment-hunter's dream at $19,990. All homes have outdoor living areas and convenient access to the Hill at High Point. Garden State Parkway Exit 105 (northbound) and Exit 106 (southbound) are off of Prospect street. Paul Kimball Hospital, turn right, Model 1999. Group backs bond issue to educate handicapped

A statewide citizens committee has been formed to insure passage of a $25 million bond issue for facilities for the education of severely-handicapped children. The committee, made up of religious, educational, industrial and financial leaders in the state — points out that there is a serious shortage of facilities and that thousands of handicapped youngsters "who should and could be helped" are not included in present programs. Others have been sent to out-of-state institutions, separating them from their families and increasing the cost of the program. The State Board of Education, the New Jersey Jaycees, the Essex County Mental Health Association and many other organizations concerned about the existing conditions are urging a "yes" vote on the "Passage of the Bond Issue," the committee said, "will make it possible for many more people to overcome their handicaps and become self-sufficient, useful members of our society. Over the long range, the program will more than pay for itself." The severely-handicapped children are presently being served in private day schools, private residential schools and on homebound instruction. All such programs are makeshift and at best are marginally adequate in terms of providing a thorough and efficient educational program.

one set up Chip Mastor's short plunge into the end zone. The extra point attempt was good. Caldwell moved out to front 14-6, later in the second quarter on a 14-yard sweep. Like the first score, this touchdown was set up by a long pass, Frank Penkator's 30-yard run.

Tests will help cut down risk of heart attack

New Jersey legislators will learn first-hand in Trenton Nov. 12 of preventive medicine that works to cut down the risk of heart attacks. The testing phase of the program, which consists of blood sample, blood pressure and a history of smoking habits, will be available through the New Jersey Regional Medical Program.

Assembly Speaker Thomas H. Kean said the program's visit to Trenton should help let people know that heart attacks can be prevented. Legislators participating in the test will find hypertension simple, according to Dr. Alvin A. Florin, Regional Medical Program coordinator, talking about two minutes.

Dr. Florin said the demonstration, to be held in a room outside the legislative chambers, will be administered by Dr. Norman L. Lasser, director of RHM's Center for Coronary Risk Factor Control, and assistant professor of medicine and biochemistry at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey in Newark.

Information from the tests will be analyzed and processed by the Center for Coronary Risk Factor Control and results will be forwarded back to the legislators and their personal physicians, Dr. Florin said.

Dr. Florin described the preventive medicine technique as a major advancement in the partnership between medical research and new health care methods.

"In this case," he said, "we want the public to know there is an early warning system to prevent heart attacks, heart disease or hypertension which if undetected can kill or have crippling side effects."

The New Jersey Regional Medical Program was established in 1967 as part of a federally-funded network of 53 allied organizations nationwide to make the best in modern medical care available to all patients with heart and kidney diseases, cancer, stroke and related diseases.

Since that time, the program has been expanded to include new ways of improving the delivery of health care to the disadvantaged, using health manpower more effectively and reducing the cost of medical care.

Directory of social welfare, health resources released

A 200-page directory of more than 600 governmental and nonprofit social welfare and health resources in New Jersey was released this week by the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

The comprehensive guide, "Directory of Social Welfare and Health Services in New Jersey 1973," represents the first state-wide listing of New Jersey's health and welfare agencies, according to Community Affairs Commissioner Lawrence F. Kramer.

The publication was prepared through a departmental grant to the New Jersey Welfare Council, a private, nonprofit organization composed of volunteers and professionals advocating the coordination of public and private social services.

The two-year project was directed by Mildred C. Maloney, member and former officer of the Council, who has held various appointed and volunteer posts in the fields of health and social welfare services. The project was the result of a joint effort by the department and the Welfare Council through a board.

Education official named to council

Dr. Gordon Ascher, acting deputy assistant commissioner of the Division of Research, Planning and Evaluation, State Department of Education, has been named a director of the National Council for the Advancement of Educational Assessment.

The council has been established in cooperation with the education commissions of the states to consider educational problems in the field of educational assessment.

Dr. Ascher has been responsible for the design, development and implementation of the New Jersey Educational Assessment Program. The program is designed to develop information about schools which professional educators and the public can use to make decisions about the effectiveness of or changes in education in local districts and assess the degree to which local district objectives are being achieved by students. As part of the program, reading and mathematics tests were administered this month to students in grades 4, 5, and 10.

California prison officials have turned down an offer by Bert Straton to purchase the San Quentin gas chamber for $72,500. He planned to transport it to England as a tourist attraction.
