

Robert Hardgrove Jr., 49; former mayor of Springfield

Funeral services were held Saturday for Robert D. Hardgrove Jr., former mayor of Springfield, who died Nov. 20 in the Veterans Hospital in the Bronx of complications following surgery. He was 49.

Born in Newark, Mr. Hardgrove had lived in Springfield for 22 years. He was a member of the Springfield Township Committee from 1961 to 1964 and from 1965 to 1966, serving two one-year terms as mayor in 1964 and 1966.

While a member of the governing body, he was chairman of the finance committee, the administrative committee and the public safety committee. He also served several terms as president of the Springfield Board of Health.

As a township committeeman, he aided in improving the municipality's financial bond rating, took part in the planning of the Springfield Municipal Pool, was instrumental in the construction of a new library and added to the writing and passage of the Springfield Master Plan.

Mayor Hardgrove also was instrumental in getting the State Highway Department to remove the hazardous trolley tracks from heavily-trafficked Morris avenue. In addition, he traveled to Trenton numerous times with his colleagues to protest and offer suggestions regarding construction plans of Rt. 78 and to discuss flooding problems in the township.

MR. HARDGROVE was a member and former trustee of the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield, a charter member of the Springfield Historical Society, auditor for the Springfield Fourth of July Committee, member of the Friends of the Springfield Free Public Library and a member of the Springfield Republican Club.

Mr. Hardgrove also was a member of the board of the Union County Tuberculosis and Health League, and of the engineering staff of the Essex-Union-Somerset Traffic-Safety Council. In 1964, he was the recipient of the Springfield Community Award of the Board of Realtors of the Oranges, Maplewood, Livingston, Millburn, Short Hills and Springfield.

He was a long-standing member of the American Legion Continental Post 226, Springfield, which held a special memorial service for him Friday evening at the Springfield Community Center. He is survived by his wife, Hazel; a son, Robert D. 3rd, and two daughters, Janice and Lucille, all at home; and a sister, Mrs. Florence Callahan of Rahway.

At the funeral, arranged by Smith & Smith Suburban, Springfield, relatives and friends were asked to donate to the Mayor Robert D. Hardgrove Jr. Scholarship Fund in lieu of flowers.

The fund is to be administered by the guidance department of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. The fund's principal will remain intact, with the accumulated interest being awarded annually to a qualified student who plans to pursue college studies in engineering or mathematics.

A-MUSING ... from the desk

Now is the time of year, as the children dust off their sleds with eternal hope and the last leaves float down from the trees, that many organizations start picking nominating committees and deciding on their officers for next year.

The officers are kind, they have enough willing workers to take on all the jobs to be done, but in any case the committee has the delicate job of fitting the right person to the right assignment.

The State We're In

By David F. Moore, North Jersey Conservation Foundation

Environmental impact statements are now widely recognized as an intelligent approach to planning the construction of major public works projects. The idea is to identify the bad side effects before they get going, and then to design to avoid them, and even in a few cases, to put up with them elsewhere.

A few municipalities already have ordinances requiring the use of such environmental assessments during the planning stage. Governor Cahill has provided such a rule for state projects, and the National Environmental Policy Act has done the same for federal actions — NEPA, as called.

Impact statements do a number of things for us — people. They help us to see the future to assess problems, point to damage changes can be made in plans to minimize damages and public costs, provide increased transparency and provide a vehicle to make the right things happen.

Another important opportunity was to spread out various segments of the project, time-wise so that the total impact on the community would be less severe. This would have been a good idea for a number of reasons.

It seems ironic to me that so many ultra-conservatives want the right to pollute, and so often turn out, the so-called liberal environmentalist is the fellow who wants everybody to internalize the environmental costs in a way that allows for a fair and equitable basis. It's strange.

Because immediate steps must be taken to avoid inequities and potential hardships, I supported additional emergency actions, such as the proposed to require anyone who drills a well to post a bond for the cost of the well.

As the bill was first introduced, it provided that all authority contained in the bill would be transferred to the executive branch and the President would have the final say on the bill.

Among other things, the emergency legislation authorizes the imposition of 30-mile-per-hour speed limits of gasoline rationing, of restrictions on non-essential use of energy for heating, lighting and air conditioning purposes.

There is an extensive anthology in which each of the 100 adult poems is discussed by Keesh, who then makes suggestions for teaching. The final portion includes an interesting group of poems by students from Swatland.

It was a little like consulting an insurance agent before your car was demolished. The author is only one among many commodities which are in short supply. In addition to all — the most conspicuous item for which demand exceeds supply — there has been a severe shortage of many other raw materials which we use in this traditional land of plenty.

While many of these shortages are by-products of the energy crisis and the inevitable effects of domestic price controls, which sometimes make it more profitable for producers to sell abroad at higher prices, the shortages are real and increasingly serious and they demand an effective strategy to prevent further unnecessary dislocations.

Why do so many of these shortages seem to emerge full-blown without apparent warning? Some shortages may be inescapable but more and better information on domestic resources and production — organized to respond and react — is needed.

"Rip-off" as you probably already know, is a term used by the young to indicate lack of value received. To be ripped off is about the worst thing that can happen to a kid who is spending his own money. Never mind if it's his father's dough, but if it's his!

By an arrangement, my teenage son has begun to read the small print on packaging to protect himself from rip-offs. I discovered this one day when he recomputed me into the supermarket against his will.

"You're kidding?" I replied, "that's not only game and bad for your skin, it's outrageous. You're hungry, I'll be happy to buy you a hand of bananas and six apples."

"OK! OK!" he said, "I'll buy the cake myself."

Few women check for breast cancer in self-examination

A recent Gallup Poll discovered that even though American women were more concerned about breast cancer than any other disease, only 16 percent performed monthly breast self-examination and only about half had an annual examination by a physician.

Discouraging as these findings may be, Jack Manning, education committee chairman of the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society, said this week "even more disturbing is the poll's revelation that 60 percent of the women polled said they thought a lump in the breast could be cancer."

Forty-three per cent believe that breast control pills cause breast cancer. There is no scientific evidence to sustain this belief, says Dr. Holleb. A majority of women said they thought that most lumps in the breast are cancers. Biopsies taken by Dr. Holleb find that from 60 to 80 percent are not.

Asked to estimate how many women develop breast cancer, only eight percent correctly placed the figure at 90 out of 1,000. Yet 60 percent estimated the figure as twice that high. Early detection remains the single most effective way to conquer cancer of the breast, according to Dr. Holleb. At evidence, he reports that in situ or small, localized breast cancers are 100 percent curable. Cancers confined to the breast, when removed, enabled 85 percent of patients to survive five years or greater level of non-recurrence. Only 35 percent breast cancer survivors does the survival rate decline to 45 percent, says Dr. Holleb.

Absence of breast self-examination by severely older women, the poorly educated and those with low incomes, were the Gallup study found. But in New Jersey, Manning pointed out, cost no longer need be a deterrent.

Manning noted the presence at United Hospitals in Newark of a free breast self-examination center where the latest apparatus and techniques for detecting breast cancer are employed. Any New Jersey woman who is over 40 and has not had a breast exam in the last 12 months is eligible for the free, painless screening.

Advanced flood warning system plan for Rahway watershed to be unveiled

A detailed plan for an advanced flood warning system for the Rahway River watershed will be presented publicly for the first time at the third watershed management seminar of the Union County Environmental Health Advisory Committee, it was announced last week by Chairman James J. Palumbo of Rahway. The seminar will be held Wednesday, Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the Cranford Municipal Building, Springfield Avenue.

Joseph Goldman of the National Weather Service's Eastern Region headquarters at Garden City, N.Y., and Lars Fosse, hydrologist of the River Forestry Center in Harrisburg, Pa., will present the details of their plans for the advanced flood warning system they developed in Trenton, which will also be present.

"Our committee has recommended that all Union County municipalities in flood-prone watersheds adopt a flood flood warning system to better safeguard the lives and property of residents from the ravages of floods. The advanced warning provided by such systems can be significant in evacuating people and advanced warning systems are invited to the public to attend our program and familiarize themselves with this and other proposals," Palumbo said.

SANE unit starts impeachment drive; meeting on Dec. 8

A drive to elect thousands of Union County residents in the move to impeach Richard M. Nixon was announced this week by the Union County chapter of New Jersey SANE.

Marjorie Rice of Elizabeth, recently appointed chairman of the drive, said, "A large delegation of citizens recently visited Congressman Matthew Rinaldo (E-12) and urged him to take a firm stand in Congress for impeachment. The delegation included broad sections of the Union County community, as well as women's groups, business people, religious groups and other Union County citizens well represented."

"These people as well as thousands of other concerned citizens are planning to attend a state-wide 'Impeach 'Nixon' rally in New York City on Saturday, Dec. 8, starting at 1:30 p.m. It is expected that Congressman Peter Rodino, of Newark, will appear at the 'Impeach 'Nixon' rally, and the group urges all interested people to attend."

In a letter to congressmen Rinaldo from Paul Malone of Cranford; publicity director for the event for SANE, the Congressman was invited to appear at the rally. Rodino was expected to attend, and that his appearance would not imply his support of the high school students who were invited to meet and discuss the topic with the people.

U.S. Sen. Clifford Case

The Senate in connection with the emergency bill, I supported an amendment that would have required the installation of a device to detect leaks in the gas lines.

As the bill was first introduced, it provided that all authority contained in the bill would be transferred to the executive branch and the President would have the final say on the bill.

Among other things, the emergency legislation authorizes the imposition of 30-mile-per-hour speed limits of gasoline rationing, of restrictions on non-essential use of energy for heating, lighting and air conditioning purposes.

There is an extensive anthology in which each of the 100 adult poems is discussed by Keesh, who then makes suggestions for teaching. The final portion includes an interesting group of poems by students from Swatland.

It was a little like consulting an insurance agent before your car was demolished. The author is only one among many commodities which are in short supply. In addition to all — the most conspicuous item for which demand exceeds supply — there has been a severe shortage of many other raw materials which we use in this traditional land of plenty.

While many of these shortages are by-products of the energy crisis and the inevitable effects of domestic price controls, which sometimes make it more profitable for producers to sell abroad at higher prices, the shortages are real and increasingly serious and they demand an effective strategy to prevent further unnecessary dislocations.

Why do so many of these shortages seem to emerge full-blown without apparent warning? Some shortages may be inescapable but more and better information on domestic resources and production — organized to respond and react — is needed.

"Rip-off" as you probably already know, is a term used by the young to indicate lack of value received. To be ripped off is about the worst thing that can happen to a kid who is spending his own money. Never mind if it's his father's dough, but if it's his!

By an arrangement, my teenage son has begun to read the small print on packaging to protect himself from rip-offs. I discovered this one day when he recomputed me into the supermarket against his will.

"You're kidding?" I replied, "that's not only game and bad for your skin, it's outrageous. You're hungry, I'll be happy to buy you a hand of bananas and six apples."

"OK! OK!" he said, "I'll buy the cake myself."

Thursday — Hot Lunch: Juice, pizza, green bean salad, bread, butter, jelly or fruit milk. Cold Platter: Juice, egg salad platter with marinated bean salad, bread-mayonnaise, tuna, and cheese.

Friday — Hot Lunch: Juice, tuna-noodle casserole, mixed vegetables, French bread-butter, cake or fruit milk. Cold Platter: Juice, hero sandwich, mixed vegetables, cake or fruit milk.

Men's subject to change in case of emergency.

Some precautions listed for Christmas shoppers

The holidays are fast approaching and Springfield residents will soon be caught up in the Christmas shopping rush. It's a time when many, with other things on their minds, may forget the shopping "safety precautions" they usually practice — and there is usually someone around to take advantage of that forgetfulness.

In an effort to reduce crime, and to protect the shopper, Chief George Parsell of the Springfield Police Department offers these precautions:

1. Always lock your car. 2. Never put packages in the car where they can be seen; always lock them in the trunk. 3. Women should keep a close watch on their pocketbooks, carrying them with the latch facing in, towards the body. 4. If possible, keep your wallet in a zipper compartment in the pocketbook. If there is no compartment, keep it on the bottom of the bag, beneath everything else. 5. The safest place for men to carry their wallets is in the front pants pocket; second best is inside the jacket. The worst place is in the rear pants pocket. 6. Never hang clothing in the car. If you must pick up dry cleaning and have other stops to make, pick up the cleaning last. Parsell also had advice for persons who will be away from home during the holidays: 7. Stop all deliveries, mail, newspapers, etc.; put your electric lights on a timer; notify police of the dates that your home will be unoccupied.

To some, movies are only popcorn and bloodshot eyes. Since individual teachers decide whether or not to allow their classes to view the films, all students do not see them. The English teachers also determine which films to show. A common treatment is the range of interest. A common treatment is the range of interest. A common treatment is the range of interest.

December's films will include "The Season" and "The 1973 'Clio Awards'". The films are selected by the Dayton Dispatch. The films are selected by the Dayton Dispatch.

Students enjoy the program only because it means a change from the daily classroom situation, but because they see appropriate movies they see outside of school as an art form. One boy remarked, "I never knew a film could mean so much." On the other hand, students have expressed the desire to avoid dissecting the film into an organ of analysis.

Since film is a unique reflection of human consciousness through words, pictures and music, students are not expected to understand it, but to experience it. Responding to a film, one girl said, "I've never heard that I felt as if I was skimming over the waves." Although many of the films have no words, students have little trouble interpreting the mood from the music and photography. The meaning is more elusive.

Ad hoc committee being organized to impeach President

An ad hoc committee of Independents, Democrats and Republicans is being formed in Springfield to seek the impeachment of President Nixon. It was announced this week, a spokesman declared. "This effort is being carried out as part of a statewide campaign supported by such organizations as the Ripon Society, a liberal Republican organization, the American Civil Liberties Union—SARIE—an citizens' committee for a same word, the AF-CIO and individuals interested in maintaining the concept of democracy on which America was founded.

"The committee believes that no man is above the law and the doctrine of executive privilege has been stretched to the point of abuse by President Nixon.

"The chief executive cannot be allowed to interpret it to serve as a screen to conceal his actions from the Congress and the American people. We call upon President Nixon to resign immediately by reason of his acts and those of his administration in subversion of the Constitution.

"Following his resignation the committee urges Congress to initiate and carry out impeachment proceedings for his participation in crimes and misdemeanors which violate the civil liberties of the people and the U.S. Constitution.

"The committee hopes to collect signatures on a petition urging Congress to act. The petition will be presented to Congressman Peter Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, which is concerned with the impeachment process. On Saturday, Dec. 8 at 1:30 p.m., Congressman Rodino will speak at an approach in at Upsala College. To prepare for this event, all citizens are urged to sign the
