Jersey 'Pike sets uniform speed of 55 miles an hour

A new maximum speed limit of 55 miles per hour for all vehicles on the New Jersey Turnpike has been put in effect, it was announced this week by the New Jersey Turnpike Authority.

The authority decided against increasing the differential speed limit of 50 and 55 MPH as to passenger cars and trucks and buses, as recommended by President Nixon.

The Turnpike action was taken in the interest of the overall safety of the traffic stream and particularly the safety of passenger vehicles, following the recommendation of the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association at its annual meeting in Miami Beach last week.

At the same time, the authority announced that service areas on the New Jersey Turnpike will remain open on Sundays to provide a limited fuel supply for motorists. Passenger cars will be allowed five gallons of gasoline and trucks and buses will be allowed 20 gallons of diesel fuel.

The small quantity of motor fuel that will be made available on Sunday is designed to avoid having motorists stranded on the Turnpike, particularly interstate travelers.

To prevent the sale of fuel on this basis, each purchase of gasoline or diesel will be stamped on the back of each full ticket. This is to discourage repeated purchases by motorists.

The authority also is changing the purpose of the fuel at minimum fuel dispensing stations. However, if mandated by law, the Turnpike Authority will comply with the statutory provisions that might go into effect.

A spokesman said President Nixon's energy recommendations were discussed by the membership of the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association at its annual meeting.

The authority reviewed the president's requests and voted to recommend the uniform speed limit for the full road industry.

The new speed limit of 55 MPH on the New Jersey Turnpike was recommended by the authority's traffic department. It explained that a higher speed limit for commercial vehicles would cause them to overdrive the traffic stream, causing hazardous conditions for passenger vehicles.

London gets blueberries from N.J.

The hundred and twenty tons of frozen blueberries grown in New Jersey were recently shipped from Philadelphia for delivery to London where they will be used by bakers and the food processing industry in the United Kingdom.

The berries were loaded into six containers each holding 40,000 pounds, and were shipped from Philadelphia to the port of Felixstowe, England, from where they will be trucked to London.

Commenting on the shipment, Secretary of Agriculture Philip Alampi said that there are about 11 million pounds of frozen blueberries in cold storage in the United States this year, the result of a bumper harvest and picking of the biggest crop in many years.

Alampi said that the U.S. Department of Agriculture, there were 42,000 pounds of frozen blueberries on hand as of Oct. 31, compared with 39,500,000 pounds on the same date the year before.

To market this year's big crop in an orderly manner, Alampi said all possible outlets are being utilized—and the newly developed markets overseas.

Also noted in the memorandum was the possibility that some schools might consider closing for periods during the winter and making up the days later on in the year.

Jersey colleges' enrollment increase almost 3 times that of national average

Final data released this week by the N.J. Department of Higher Education indicated an increase in New Jersey college enrollments of nearly 7 percent over last year. This is almost three times the enrollment increase of 2.5 percent estimated for all United States colleges.

The enrollment data show 1973 fall enrollment at New Jersey colleges and universities to be 1,137,810 full-time and 77,000 part-time and 10,276 graduate and professional students, (1,152,000 full-time and 26,771 part-time). This is an increase of more than 15,000 undergraduate and more than 1,000 graduate students over 1972 fall enrollments.

While the rate of growth of full-time undergraduate students over 1972 enrollments is about 7 percent, the part-time enrollment of 77,000 students represents a 14 percent increase over the part-time undergraduate enrollment in 1972.

Parochial schools to conserve energy

In a memorandum to the 275 elementary and secondary schools throughout the Archdiocese of Newark, Msgr. William J. Daly, Superintendent, this week urged all schools to take steps to conserve energy.

Giving the possibility of a 15 percent cutback in fuel supplies, Msgr. Daly recommended that each school lower thermostats, check heating systems, control hot water usage, shorten or eliminate bus routes, and take whatever steps may be necessary to keep the school building operating comfortably while at minimum fuel expenditures.

Also noted in the memorandum was the possibility that some schools might consider closing for periods during the winter and making up the days later on in the year.

Seek boost in park size

WASHINGTON—U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D) and Clifford P. Case (R), N.J., introduced legislation to expand the Morrisiana N.J. National Historical Park.

The bill would authorize an additional 4,500 acres to the existing 1,200-acre park, located on the shore of the Continental Army camped during the winter of 1777 and 1778.

A similar measure has been introduced in the House of Representatives, sponsored by the entire New Jersey delegation.

"The rapid expansion of our national Bicentennial makes it imperative to expand the Morrisiana Park and appropriate," Williams said in remarks prepared for delivery on the Senate floor.

Regional board deplors Times story on scope of marijuana use at Dayton

The Regional High School Board of Education this week strongly asserted as exaggerated and inaccurate an article entitled "High in Marijuana" which appeared last Friday in the New York Times.

Written by Margo Krasoff of Mountaineer, a student at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, the article declared, "Marijuana is an integral part of my high school as its doors."

"The school is divided into groups," the article stated, "those who smoke and those who don't." It added, "Marijuana is being used all over the school."

The high school children drift through school in their euphoric state and don't give a damn about their grades. They don't care about politics or sports, only about where their next nickel is coming from and whether the stuff will be potent.

A spokesman for the Regional board school issued the following comment on the article: "The New York Times Friday, Dec. 1, published an article written by Margo Krasoff, a student at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, who reported an alleged drug abuse in high school. Although it is a known fact that there is drug abuse in every high school in the country, it is not accurate to report that the school is divided into groups, those who smoke and those who don't. It is also not accurate to report that marijuana is being used all over the school. The high school children drift through school in their euphoric state and don't give a damn about their grades. Avoid long journey for summer drills, Rinaldo bids Army

WASHINGTON—Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-N.J.) has called upon the Department of the Army to reschedule summer training sessions for Army Reservists and National Guardmen closer to home as a means of conserving energy.

"I know that many New Jersey residents have seen caravans of military vehicles making the long trek from their armies to far-away installations such as Camp Drum in western New York every summer," Rinaldo said. "In view of the energy shortage, I think the Army should take another look at its scheduling plans while there is still time."

"I am sure that several million gallons of gasoline could be saved by sending these citizen soldiers to Fort Dix instead of Camp Drum," Rinaldo declared.

In addition, Rinaldo said, a unit of the 10th Division from Edison, N.J., has been assigned to Fort Jackson, S.C., for its summer training next year. "This seems especially silly since the unit has been training in Fort Dix the past five years."

Other segments of our society are being asked to make sacrifices in the name of saving energy. I can see no justification for sending reserve and guard units hundreds of miles away when installations closer to home would serve the same purpose," he added.

Rinaldo said he would be introducing legislation that would change plans for the summer training facilities which necessitate adjustments in the training schedule. However, he added, "This is a small price to pay in light of the sacrifices others are being asked to make."

Yule services are announced by Holy Cross

The Rev. Joel R. Yoss, pastor of Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 69 Mountain Ave., Springfield, has announced the schedule for the Christmas weekend services. In preparation for the festival, the Altar Circle is decorating the church windows and doors with candles and wreath arrangements. The sanctuary will also have a display of poinsettias and a chancel Christmas tree decorated with ornaments fashioned into the basic symbols of the Christmas message.

Sunday morning the fourth Advent worship service will be held at 8:30 and celebrated with Holy Communion at 10:45 a.m. The Advent message will be "Are You Ready?" At 11 a.m. on Christmas Eve a traditional candlelight service with the singing of Christmas carols will be held. The children of the Family Growth Hour, directed by Beverly Compher, will present a special nativity pageant. "Do You Hear What I Hear?" will be the meditation delivered by Pastor Yoss. Supplementing the more familiar carols, the adult choir will sing "When Christ Was Born of a Mary Free," an English carol. Betty Becker, organist-choir director, will play "Nod Ensemble" by J.F. Denst, "To Shepherds" by They Watched by F. Minz as well as A.W. Leopold's "From Heaven Above."

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D., Director, National Institute of Mental Health

SOCIAL SEMINAR

A new term is seeping into usage in a community throughout the country. The term is "social seminar."

In brief, the social seminar is an important new resource for drug abuse education. Its full title is "The Social Seminar: Drug, Education, and Society."

The National Institute of Mental Health and the Office of Education, two agencies of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, have cooperatively developed the social seminar, and are actively supporting its spreading use.

The program—which can be used by any community because of its flexibility—is designed for:

- Educators: teachers, administrators, trainers, school nurses, psychologists, counselors, and others.
- Community agencies and leaders in many fields.

Special components of the program such as films for special use, can be used with students (secondary and college), parents (PTA's and religious organizations), and civic, political, fraternal and similar groups.

The core of the social seminar consists of a multimedia package including films, discussion guides, learning and teaching materials, a programmed text covering factual and theoretical drug information, and other materials.

The social seminar has already been "showcased" in some 30 communities around the country, and will be demonstrated in 12 additional states this fall and winter. Its use to date illustrates by unique adaptability of the program and suggests ways in which social seminar can be used by groups with a wide variety of attitudes and in a variety of situations.

Anyone wishing information about the seminar may obtain it by writing to the Information Projects Coordination Office, Office of Communications, National Institute of Mental Health, Room 15-02, 500 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20852.

Editorial comment SHOPPING LIST

This year we have expanded our hypothetical Christmas shopping list to include books, theater tickets and games which are appropriate to a wide range of community leaders. For the precariously balanced Township Committee, we propose tickets to the hit show, "A Majority of One." For the Springfield Community Players: "There's No Business Like Show Business." For the First Aid Squad: "There's No Business Like Slow Business." For the N.J. Department of Transportation: "There's a Long, Long Road Ahead." For the Springfield League of Women Voters: "The Ride of the Valkyries." For the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School basketball coach, Ray Yancus: "Giants in the Earth." For all of the township's long-suffering commuters: "A Streetcar Named Desire." For all local barbers: a season ticket to "Hair." For the municipal ethics committee: "I've Got a Secret." For the Springfield Police Department: "The Long, Hot Summer." For recreation Director James Adams: "Games People Play." For all utility companies: "Oil for the Lamps of Springfield." For Ed Jasinski, Dayton varsity basketball coach: "The Man with the Golden Arm." For Ed Hall, perennial critic of loudspeakers at the municipal pool: "Silent Night." For the owners of the town's liquor licenses: a game of Monopoly. For the National Organization of Women: "Call Me Madam." For all the Rahway River flood relief organizations: "Long, Hot Summer." And for all the people of Springfield: A year in which the Christmas dreams of peace and brotherhood finally come true.

Christmas message

By REV. JAMES DEWART Springfield's Emmanuel United Methodist Church... Christmas is a time of year that breathes a bit of joy and hope into life... It is a time when we are reminded of the reality of the energy crisis... Travel will be restricted. Food is costly. Appropriate gifts are difficult to find. Our bells are being tightened, and none too profitably at that.

PAST TENSE

ONE YEAR AGO The Springfield Board of Education introduced a tentative budget of $33,600,000 for the 1973-74 school year, down more than $60,000 from the current figure of $33,660,000. The Union County Park Commission reports it anticipates a lengthy period of time will pass before the State Department of Transportation makes an offer for acquisition of lands in the Watchung Reservation for Interstate Rte. 78.

LIBRARY A saloon saga

By ROSE F. SIMON The Springfield Public Library lists the following titles among the recently received books: "FRAMOUS RESTAURATEUR" by Victor Vito. "Frankly Speaking" by Victor Vito. The loss of a leg of the age of six led little Victor Vito to a life of adventure. As a young boy he worked as a newspaper carrier and a street sweeper. He worked a variety of jobs, married and raised a family. To support them, he worked in his uncle's restaurant in Oakland, then built his own, Hinky Dinks.

OWNING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

"You, Inc.," by Peter Weaver. There are many reasons why you are hired for remaining in the position of an employee. They see the satisfaction of being creative and "in charge." Weaver, an employee of Forbes Magazine for 20 years, finally broke away, and is now president of Weaver Communications, Inc. He finds freedom and independence exhilarating. He also discovered that people running their own small businesses are not harder, more and drink less and generally tend to take good care of themselves. But it takes a great deal of courage, planning, and struggle to get it established on its own business and make a go of it.

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo

Nearly 5,000 Union County residents have responded to the first Congressional poll of participation and with strong agreement on some issues and sharp divisions on others. In descending order of desirability, here's what strong majorities among you told me: You oppose aid to North Vietnam (81 percent to 14 percent). You want the death penalty restored (80 percent to 17 percent). You do not favor the busing of school children (79 percent to 17 percent). You're against U.S. forces being sent into combat without congressional approval (75 percent to 21 percent). You want closer relations with Soviet Russia and Communist China (73 percent to 23 percent). You favor stronger gun control, preferably the licensing and registration of all weapons (61 percent to 31 percent). You believe strict limits on campaign contributions and expenditures would help restore integrity to politics (57 percent to 39 percent). You blame both the President and the Congress for any imbalance of executive-legislative authority (55 percent to 38 percent).

Teenager finds showering best way to spend his time

By ANN RUDY My newspaper recently carried a story about an 18-year-old boy, David Foreman, from Niagara University—appropriately enough—who took a shower that lasted seven days, seven hours and seven minutes. What's so unusual about that? He claims a record for continuous showering. Well, David, I hate to throw cold water on you, but my son has been in the shower for almost a year. Ever since he entered high school, the water's been running. Day and night he's in it.

Tots writing to Santa by registered reindeer express

By KAREN STOLL Has the credibility gap spread as far as the North Pole? It would seem that way from this year's jolt of Christmas mail sent to me by Santa. Nick this season are demanding a more personal contact. For instance, the team of David and Brian began their note by asking "What is your telephone number?" They requested only a charitable smile and a pencil pull, but probably will have more to say when they make contact by phone. Their parents also will have more to say when they get the N.J. toll bill.

OTHER YOUNGSTERS had other orders. Among them was one child who stated, "I was good all year around. It is time to pick your bag. And you're reindeer! Listen, now. NEW I WILL TELL YOU what I want." The letter, unsigned, included spaces for 15 items, but the writer ran out of ideas at No. 12, which was a request for something called "outgoing."

Dear Larrie: For many years I have been receiving magazines from an out-of-town nursery. Well, I'll tell you what I want. The letter, unsigned, included spaces for 15 items, but the writer ran out of ideas at No. 12, which was a request for something called "outgoing."

Best seller on energy

The New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce is doing more than just turning down the heat and shutting off the lights to help conserve energy in this era of critical shortages. It has already distributed through its business and industrial members, nearly 200,000 copies of a booklet, "What You Can Do at Work," at home, on the road, and in the car. Governor William F. Cahill, when he announced the state's own energy conservation program, released the State Chamber's folder as "a list of guidelines on energy conservation for private citizens and business" and "a booklet that news media and organizations 'publicize widely the suggestions contained in this document.'" minor scale of drugs should be stopped. The student author stated that her article was written to stimulate people in all communities to act for the welfare of young persons who are becoming involved in some fashion with drugs.

The article itself gave no reference to the author's high school or to the town communities it serves. However, the Times inadvertently selected the headline, "Getting High in Mountains" (the student's home community) and identified the author's school. Needless to say, the general perspective of the composition was lost to the glare of the headline.

"The reaction to the article and its headline was of disbelief and shock to the students, faculty members, administrators and parents of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School community. Even the student author was surprised and upset by the headlined context in which her article appeared.

"Throughout the school day, Anthony Firdalino, principal of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, met with many members of the school community: students, teachers, administrators and parents. Letters

When Mayor Ruocco said "You're in a flood plain and the entire area has been revealed," Halsey said, "I asked you a loaded question. My house has been revealed down 200 but my house can't be sold." Halsey added, "If my house can't be sold then I shouldn't have to pay the taxes on it."

Committee member Welckel said that the standards for appraisal of the area, houses have been sold. Welckel added that simple houses are appraised by checking old records to determine the prices at which similar homes have been selling.

Mayor Ruocco said he wanted to straighten out a matter that may have been misinterpreted at the last meeting. He said he did not want to be understood as saying that the Board of Education but rather with the voters of Springfield who he had said "I trust you in small numbers in Board of Education elections and then bring their school board grievances to the committee.

Ruocco also noted that this was his last meeting as chairman of the committee and said, "I have enjoyed working as chairman and I think the residents of Springfield are better off for having had me as chairman."

"use them." But when asked if he plans to limit auto transportation when he gets his license, he stated, "No way. A car is easier to get around in."

"We should all try to conserve energy," 16-year-old Larry Klein stated emphatically, "and we should do what the President and the Congress tell us to do." Larry, however, noted he has just two more months to go before he gets his license, and he plans to drive a car to school. "I've just been riding a bike too long," he said.

Steve Kirshbaum, 15, also looks forward to the day when he'll have his own car, but he said he'll limit its use if the crisis continues. "It depends on how far I'm going," he said. "If it's only a short distance, I'll use the bike. Then I'll be saving both gas and money."

ROBERT HANEY, 16, promoted the switch from cars to bikes, but also had a suggestion for township officials. "If I thought I could help save energy, I'd definitely ride a bike whenever I could," he said. "But it is kind of dangerous cycling in this traffic. I think it would be a good idea for the town to mark off bike lanes or trails, so riding would be safer."

John Buckel, 16, noted he lives fairly close to the school, so a bike is a more economical means of transportation. "Even when I get a car, I think I'll still ride the bike around town—or if I'm going somewhere nearby," he said. "I still have a few months left before he can drive, but said he is already considering what type of car to get. "At first I thought I would buy a big one, I thought the energy crisis might blow over," he commented. "But now I'm hearing about how so many things are being affected by the oil shortage—how the truckers' strike will raise food costs—things like that. I guess it will last a while, and I think I'll stick with a small car."

John also urged adults to aid energy in other ways, specifically by recycling paper, aluminum and glass. "If we could get a lot of raw materials," he noted.

While John was discussing the energy crisis, several older cyclists gathered around to this reporter that all of the students at the bike rack that afternoon were boys. When asked about this, one young man, who for his own protection shall remain unnamed, stated, "That's because the girls are lazier. They're chaffered to school."

Morris ave. site of five collisions

Five traffic accidents, all on Morris avenue, left six persons injured last week, Springfield police reported.

The first mishap, a two-car collision, occurred at 1:33 p.m., Dec. 19 at the intersection of Battle Hill avenue. Police said one eastbound motorist, Moses Torres of Summit, attempted a right turn from the left lane of Morris avenue and collided with a car in the inside lane, operated by Lawrence S. Kachries of Union.

Police said a passenger in Kachries' car, Mrs. J. Fiore, also of Union, suffered arm and shoulder injuries in the crash.

At 2:15 a.m., Dec. 11, Richard J. Glynn of Union was injured when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car, ran off the avenue near Cleveland place and sideswiped a telephone pole, police said. Glynn reportedly suffered a head injury in the accident, but police said he refused medical attention, stating he would see his own physician.

At 11 a.m. the same day, a three-car crash at the intersection of Maple avenue left two drivers hurt.

According to police, Stanley T. Kohal of Rahway and Esther M. Sibole of Newfield were northbound on Maple when Ms. Sibole's car collided with an auto operated by Agnes Shields of Shoreville traveling east on Morris. Ms. Sibole's vehicle then reportedly was pushed into Kachries' car and all three drivers claimed they had had the green light.

Ms. Shields, suffering a leg injury and Ms. Sibole, with a head injury, were taken to Overlook Hospital by the Springfield First Aid Squad.

A Union woman was taken to Overlook after her car was hit in the rear at the intersection of Metcalfe avenue at 10:38 p.m., Dec. 13.

Police said the motorist, Helen Gattalonia, reportedly was stopping for a red light when her car was struck by a taxicab, operated by John I. Cocozza of Parlin. Ms. Gattalonia complained of stomach pains following the crash, police said, and was taken to the hospital by the Springfield First Aid Squad.

At 6:15 p.m., Friday, police reported a two-car accident at the intersection of Alvin terrace. Police said one driver, Frank P. Kelly of Watchung, was waiting behind a car attempting a left turn, when his vehicle was hit in the rear by one operated by William C. Evensen of Irvington. Kelly reportedly complained of back pain following the mishap, but police said he refused medical aid.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

CHRISTMAS IS that time of year again. Christmas Day is near—a day of joy and peace and love. Christmas is a time for memories for young and old alike. Christmas is a time of friendship and fellowship, a time for giving and sharing, and a time to give praise to God.

But let us not forget during our Christmas celebration the true meaning of this joyous day. Let us also thank God for the goodness he has bestowed upon our lives and our homes. And let us also ask God to point us in the right direction—the one that leads to Him.

This great holiday of Christmas is a religious holiday first, and we should all keep this in mind. For God is the source of all the peace and joy that enfold our way this Christmas Day. And we must remember to give praise and thanks to our God on this very special day, and throughout the new year.

Health package is proposed for Newark's poor

An admittedly revolutionary, pre-paid health care plan for Newark's working poor that could serve as a model for the nation has been received by the state, which is expected to cost an estimated $50 million.

Details of the plan, which could eventually embrace the entire population of the city and most of the city's health services, were disclosed on the heels of the announcement that the Nixon Administration would soon reveal a new national health insurance scheme.

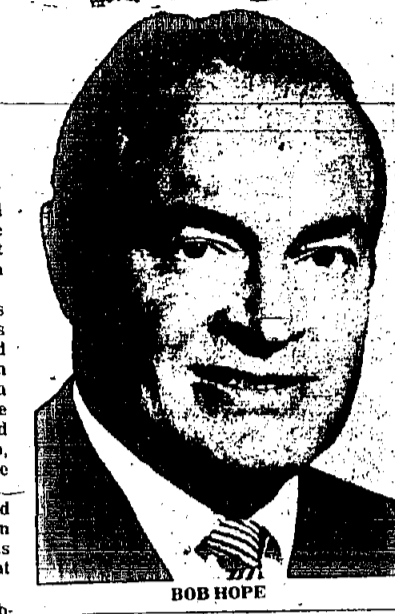

Submission of the plan—formally known as the Newark Comprehensive Health Services Plan and informally described as Medicaid Waiver because it requires relaxing certain Medicaid eligibility rules—came at a somewhat controversial time. Newark's health care system was being reorganized by acting project director Richard L. Durbin, who was on leave from the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

"We have presented a prevention-oriented system, rather than a crisis-oriented one," Durbin said. "And for the first time, the system is designed for a whole city, and a major city, at that."

Among other things, the plan would substitute yearly per-capita payments for the prevailing fee-for-service system of health care and would make it possible for every resident of Newark to participate, either through public support or his own contribution, depending on family size and income.

"The primary provider"—possibly, a hospital or a group of physicians joined in a so-called foundation—would retain control of patient management and direct the provision of comprehensive services for patients. Monetary incentives would be provided to provide this care on an ambulatory basis.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

We often hear the line, "Why worry about environmental laws when we've inadequately enforcing the ones we've got?" I can think of plenty of new laws that are urgently needed, but unfortunately there's some truth in that observation.

Take Chapter 129 of the Public Laws of 1973, for example. Somebody should fix a scary example of government's frequent tendency to let the foxes guard the chickens. Chapter 129 is optimistically named "The Healthy Improvement Sewerage and Facilities Act," and sets the rules for installing portable water supplies and sewerage systems for places like housing developments.

Anybody who lives in these houses are the chickens being guarded by the foxes. The foxes are an advisory committee called for in Chapter 129 to set construction standards for things like septic systems "to insure their safety, adequacy and propriety..."

Of the nine members, one each is named from the Department of Environmental Protection and Health. Five. But the other five are offered by the state Association of Real Estate Boards, Health Officers Association, Society of Professional Engineers, League of Municipalities, Hygiene Builders Association, Institute of Municipal Attorneys and Title Insurance Association. With the possible exception of the Health Officers Association, it would be hard to find a more self-serving group where housing developments are concerned, in so far as they are concerned with environmental effects.

They are people who suggest that a septic system can be from a stream, lake or water supply like a private or public well. These standards refer to the relationship to the realities of intelligent pollution control.

This bill also is now involved with the rules, but a year later Construction changes are going hard to come by even though some specific

Air pollution fight on TV

A half-hour full color film focusing on New Jersey's fight against air pollution will be shown on Dec. 27 at 6:30 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58.

"New Jersey Says Stop," produced by the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection, tells the story of the state's struggle to achieve cleaner air, despite its population and industry.

Situated between New York City and Philadelphia, New Jersey is frequently referred to as the "corridor state." More dense in people and automobile population than any other state, New Jersey is also the number one chemical producer in the nation and one of the top refiners of petroleum.

Thieves get cash, jewelry in entries, at business, home

The theft of $2,725 in jewelry from a Briar Hills circle home, and $1,700 in cash from a township business—were among the crimes reported this week by Springfield police.

Police said the report of the break and entry at the local residence was received Dec. 5. Officers Robert Hoessner and Vernon Pedersen reported that entry to the house had been gained by removing glass from a door. The burglars reportedly escaped with several rings, watches and other jewelry, $11 in cash, a check book and a bank book.

On Friday at 12:05 a.m., police received a phone alarm of a break and entry at Gen. Electronics, Rt. 22. Officers Edward Kisch and Richard Brumberg reported that thieves had entered the building through a window and had ransacked an office.

Cash, totaling $1,700, was reported taken. Police said three radios were found outside the building. They are awaiting a full report on other merchandise, which may have been stolen.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: There is this boy in college that I like very much, but I'm not sure if he likes me. He goes to college several hundred miles away from here and I write him and he writes me. But he is always teasing me about being his girlfriend. What should I do? Should I continue writing him?

OUR REPLY: Write to him as a friend. Try to keep your letters new and friendly. But don't write to him as if he were your boyfriend. He must like you or he wouldn't tease you about being his girlfriend. If he is several years older than you, he might just consider you a cute little girl that he likes as a friend, and he may just be teasing you in a friendly, "older-brother" type way. We think you should write to him, because it is always nice to hear from home, but don't overdo it in your letters. Most students away from home enjoy getting letters—so keep writing to him, but stay cool.

Board of Realtors
urges passage of credit legislation

Fast Congressional action on an emergency credit bill which would require a "massive commitment" to housing by the federal government was urged this week by the Eastern Union County Board of Realtors.

MARCH OF DIMES CRUSADE — U.S. Sen. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.) pictured here with little Peter Swick of Linden, this year's poster child for Union County, has named honorary chairman for the 1974 March of Dimes campaign in the county. It was announced this week by Christopher Dietsch, chairman of the county's credit legislation committee, and Sen. John Tower of Texas, the committee's ranking Republican member.

Scott explained, "This measure would enhance the ability of thrift institutions to attract depositors. It would permit federal insurance on 100 percent state, county and municipal government deposits, as well as increase federal deposit insurance from $20,000 to $50,000."

The federal emergency credit legislation favored by the Eastern Union County Board of Realtors was recently introduced in the Senate by Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), chairman of the Senate Housing Subcommittee, and Sen. John Tower of Texas, the committee's ranking Republican member.

SOCCER SCENE

By BILL WILD

Last Sunday's U.S. Open Challenge Cup match between the Elizabeth Lancers and Paterson Roma was postponed because of the snow. The Lancers are now looking forward to playing at Madison Square Garden in the Indoor Soccer America New York Invitational Saturday at 11:30 a.m. They will play as the Union Altstars.

Three of the mighty midgets will play on a German American League all-star team against the Long Island Soccer League all-stars in a midget preliminary match before the finals. The boys will all be 10 and under and will put on a good show for the Garden fans. The tournament is expected to be over at 3 p.m.

The Elizabeth SC had its traditional Christmas party for the children of its members last Sunday and thanks to the mighty midgets we had a few more laughs this year. Put a team of 18 boys in one corner of the room and you get a lot of noise.

When Santa came the fun began. After all, Santa is for kids, not for soccer players, but when he handed out the gifts they were there for him. After listening to several children sing "Single Bells," they decided to sing their own song, "Single Bells, Batsman smells, Robin song" from the back corner of the ball. This is how the boys and two fathers jumped up and told their sons; that was not a Christmas song they were singing.

Wesleyan's Steel wins soccer honor

BUCKLIANON, W. Va.—Sophomore Ronald Alan Steel of Mountaineer, N.J., has been named the fourth team of the All-Central All-America for the skillful playing he has provided West Virginia Wesleyan College's soccer team.

His aggressive, quick play resulted in the scoring of 17 of Wesleyan's 38 goals for the 1972 season. Last year, Steel led his 19 goals to give him a total of 36 in his two seasons at Wesleyan.

Steel also received national recognition when he was ranked eighth in the NCAA and was named to the second All-Conference team in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Steel is a physical education major at Wesleyan and a member of Chi Phi social fraternity. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Steel, 1132 Iris Dr., Mountaineer.

Reinhardt, a two-letterman, recorded his best time of the year against Rutgers and Montclair State when he ran the five-mile Army cross-country course in 25:07, good for third place.

Army's cross-country team finished the season with a 7-4 record, including victories over Central Connecticut State, Fairleigh Dickinson, St. John's, Albany State, NYU, Rutgers and Montclair State. The losses were to Syracuse, Manhattan, Cornell and Navy. Reinhardt, a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Reinhardt, 42 Golfway, Springfield.

Dayton overpowers Clark, 72-58; faces St. Mary's at home tomorrow

By CLIFF ROSS

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School basketball team opened the season in impressive fashion last Friday night, beating Clark, 72-58. The Bulldogs meet St. Mary's of Newark tomorrow night in their first home game of the new season. The junior varsity will play in the 6:30 game with the varsity following at 8 p.m. Saturday. Dayton jumped ahead, 6-0, in the first period and never trailed. Joe Pepe controlled the basket of the season Bill Polazzi and Howie Drew also scored in the opening moments. Clark finally got on the board and played.

Dayton evened for the remainder of the first quarter which ended with Dayton ahead, 20-14. The margin was never that close again. Dayton outscored Clark, 18-11, in the second period. The Bulldogs ran well, rebounded on both boards, blocked shots, played excellent defense and, in effect, proved their court superiority to the Crusaders in that period as they boosted their halftime lead to 38-20.

The Bulldogs opened the second half with a string of nine points—seven by high scorer Gavin Widom, who finished with 22 points. After Clark countered with a basket, the Bulldogs ran off another eight points in three minutes to lead 55-27, the largest of the game. The period closed with Dayton in front, 59-34.

Overall, the Bulldogs played a fine game.

To advance to the final round, Ted Johnson, last year's champion, knocked the track by beating Ed Scarille, 20-6, and Dan Treasore, 20-14.
