by TRUDINA HOWARD

It's a little pampering... AND OTHER NECESSITIES... Seven months in a series... If you are a man, and if a pretty girl gave you a long rubdown every day, and offered you long drafts of premium beer, and sweet-talked you into relaxing in a nice, cozy little bed, you'd think a thing or two, wouldn't you?

THE ANIMALS called "Kobe" are a cross between Japanese brown cattle and black Angus, and are dark brown in color. They are bred in a town called Matsusaka, midway on the southern coast of the biggest island of Japan, Honshu, not far from the better known city of Osaka.

BECAUSE THE ANIMALS are sold at Kobe, pronounced Ko-bee by the by, they have the name "Kobe beef." Why it is not "Matsusaka Beef" I do not know. Seems like more credit should go there.

Peerce will head roster of stars at Jewish festival

The second annual Jewish Festival of the Arts at the Garden State Arts Center will be presented on Sunday afternoon, June 16, with opera star Jon Peerce as one of the major attractions on the amphitheater stage.

Launching a campaign, Dr. Mark W. Hurwitz, executive director of the New Jersey School Boards Association, last week, warned of the "imminent danger of unionized control of education."

Dr. Hurwitz noted the lack of accountability in the "informal" power of the N.J.E.A. "It is the public and their elected officials and representatives who are accountable for actions taken, not the power that influences them," he said.

NJEA tactics criticized by school board director

Dr. Hurwitz noted the lack of accountability in the "informal" power of the N.J.E.A. "It is the public and their elected officials and representatives who are accountable for actions taken, not the power that influences them," he said.

The first graduate program of its kind in the United States, which will offer the master of business administration degree tailored toward the pharmaceutical and chemical industries, is being inaugurated at Fairleigh Dickinson University after consultation with industry representatives.

The initial N.J.E.A. movement was legitimate and had a majority of popular support in the profession and with the public. Lately, it is becoming apparent that the goals for teachers have become secondary to the need to broaden the power base of the N.J.E.A. leadership and to bring in new members.

Teachers, board note movement in pay talks

Difference on increase narrowed

Both agree on need for speedy settlement

Called for a speedy settlement of the protracted contract negotiations between the Springfield Board of Education and the Springfield Teachers' Association were issued by the presidents of the two bodies at a board meeting Monday night at the Raynold Clubhouse.

Both sides agreed that the pay package is the size of a cost-of-living raise to be awarded; the board had offered 5.5 percent, the teachers had asked for 6.5 percent. The board's offer was 1.5 percentage points higher than the teachers' offer.

Overlook drug program enrolled 195 first year

Eleven persons from the Springfield-Mountainville area enrolled for treatment and rehabilitation during the first full year of operation for Overlook Hospital's drug program, according to a report released by the Summit clinic this month.

During the period from Oct. 1, 1972, when the facility opened, to Sept. 30, 1973, 115 persons signed up for aid. Of that total, nine were Springfield residents and two were from Mountainville.

The program, which developed from a pilot project, is supported primarily by contributions from the participating community. Mountainville's 1973 municipal budget included a $2,800 allocation to the program, while Springfield contributed $2,000.

Other communities sharing in the effort—and their enrollments during the first year—are as follows: Linc. 46; Summit 42; Besley Heights 15; Chatham Borough, one; Chatham Township, three; Mudford, four; Milliner Short Hills, seven; New Providence, six; and Westfield, 16. The clinic also treated 30 persons from other areas.

The drug project began at the Summit hospital, with a staff of two full-time professional counselors, expanded into Hill House, where clinic services are centered, and a support group and family counseling unit day care as the year went on.

The program is based upon two broad concepts: treatment and prevention. The program report states that the program is similar to the rapidly shifting trends in patterns of substance abuse, and to ensure that the continuing development of the program is effective in dealing with them.

The report points to a "notable" decrease in heroin abuse and a corresponding rise in abuse of other substances. It describes as "particularly striking" the increased "alcohol abuse" among young people.

COMMENTARY ON A trend for greater rapprochement between those involved in treating drug abuse and alcoholism, the report says: "In some centers there has been a merging of the two programs. The experience at Overlook appears to warrant investigation."

development in this direction. One step has already been taken to broaden the range of services available to the drug abuse patients, namely the establishment of a regular job program according to a program involving staff members participating in both programs.

In tracing the enrollment pattern, the report lists 150 males and 55 females, with the median age 27 and about half of all those enrolled being between the ages of 16 and 21. Heroin was the drug of principal abuse in 62 percent of the cases and methadone was second, representing 25 percent of the total.

But, the report adds, these figures are for the year ending last September and thus "do not reflect that a downturn has been observed in recent months in the extent of heroin abuse, along with a rise in number of new cases reported to those of abuse of other substances, including alcohol." The figures also fail to reflect that almost 50 percent of all those enrolled have abused a series of drugs, the report says, stating:

"Our own observation of an increasingly larger proportion of multiaxis abuse not involved with heroin and an increasing incidence of alcohol abuse among young people in the area, where clinic services are centered, and treatment programs, school officials and police."

Voluntary admissions accounted for 64 percent of all those enrolled, according to the report, explaining: "A large number were referred by physicians, and a stable proportion of referrals originated from the court system and law-enforcement or court referrals were relatively few."

Treatment, the report says, starts with an interview by a professional counselor, medical and social history and examination of the current life situation. A treatment plan is formulated and, after consultation with one of the medical directors, therapy is begun.

"Many of the patients are later discussed at the weekly team meeting where the combined system professional staff deals with ongoing problems encountered in helping the patient adjust to a drug-free lifestyle," the report says.

Those who enroll also receive a complete physical examination "to approximately two-thirds of the patients, some form of physical illness or abnormality was discovered," the report says. "Most prominent has been some degree of impaired liver function. A number of cases of general disease were detected, and numerous other individual health problems came to light. While all patients did not receive a full medical examination during the past year, it was the goal for the year ahead."

THE DETOXIFICATION procedure is described as follows: "The procedure is a gradual adjustment to a drug-free state. A person who is physically addicted to a particular substance can be given small amounts of that drug or a related medication in diminishing doses in order to prevent the withdrawal symptoms."

HEITZEL IS NAMED TO CONGRESSIONAL STUDY WORKSHOP

Donald P. Heitzel of Essex Hill, Springfield, who is a junior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, has been chosen to participate in the 1974 Congressional Seminar in Washington, D.C. The Montross Workshop Foundation, a nonprofit, nonpartisan association, founded in 1967, will conduct eight, one-week seminars during 1974 in cooperation with Mount Vernon College, where the students are housed.

Participants travel daily to Capitol Hill where they confer with government leaders, in dialogue sessions with members of Congress, Supreme Court justices and cabinet members. The students receive commentary on the operation of the government of the United States and in turn submit their questions and comments concerning government activities.

The students also spend much time observing the workings of the national government firsthand, as they attend sessions of the House and Senate, as well as "Committee hearings" and meet individually with their own Congressmen and Senators.

Even evening, special events are scheduled such as Embassy receptions and federal agency policy presentations. Also, the seminar students are invited to White House receptions held for visiting heads of state.

Mercedes-Benz has some good news about driving in Europe.

You've heard the rumors. There's no gas in Europe. It's crowded. It's expensive. Things have changed. Here are the facts. It's true things aren't the same in some ways they're better. Gas is available. Europe will probably be less crowded this year than in any other. And the value of your dollar has been climbing.

But you can still find a bargain too. Example: Buy your Mercedes-Benz here, pick it up at the factory in Stuttgart, and you can save from $800 to $1000. And that's after paying for shipping and duty.

Mail the coupon below for our free Mercedes-Benz Europe will probably be less crowded this year than in any other. And the value of your dollar has been climbing.

DAYTON DISPATCH

By Margo Krasnow

The address opened the 50th annual convention of the Columbus Scholastic Press Association. Nine Dayton students, attended the three-day convention, held at the Columbus Scholastic Press Association in Columbus, Ohio.

The association lists its five aims as: "To make good writing the basis of student journalism; to maintain the school press as an instrument of education and containing news of student activities . . . to contribute to the educational development of youth; and to stimulate greater efforts on the part of students and advisers to better their publications . . . to play the game for the fun of the game."

Dayton's official correspondents included juniors Marc Bloom, Teri Bloom and Mitchell Scott, and seniors Stephen Cohen, Alan Filvick, Bruce Frank, Michele Seelick, Alan Geier and Margo Krasnow, staff editor.

The newspaper's faculty advisor, accompanied the group on the convention, which followed a weekend seminar-workshop program which began on Thursday morning and terminated on Saturday morning. Sectional meetings were 30-minute seminars, each conducted by a teacher or a knowledgeable adult involved in journalism.

The topics varied from "Perceptual Psychology in Media" by Steve Kravitz of the High School Press, to "How to Operate Your Publication in an Age of Bicycles, Cars, Trucks and Patsies," and Dean Bauer of Seventeen magazine spoke on "The Magazine Field—Wide Open."

The convention concluded at the New York Hilton Hotel, where Walter Krenke, correspondent of CBS news, addressed the banquet of delegates. Last year's guest speaker was Sen. Edward Kennedy. The convention was adjourned until March 1975.

Board opposed to fluoridation

Dr. Allen J. Spiegel, chairman of the Springfield Board of Health, this week issued a statement asserting: "The opinions expressed by Dr. Henry H. H. regional health officer, in the March 7 issue of the Springfield Leader regarding fluoridation of water are his own, and not those of the Springfield Board of Health."

"At the February meeting of the board, a resolution was unanimously passed which opposed the mandatory fluoridation of water and further suggested that the issue may be the subject of a referendum," the statement continued. "The secretary of the board has been instructed to transmit this resolution to the Department of Environmental Protection in Trenton in order to place the board's position on record."

Break-and-entry, two thefts listed by police this week

A break and entry at a local home and thefts from a private residence and a township meeting were among the crimes reported this week by Springfield police.

On Saturday, police were called to a Pitt road home after the residents discovered two rooms had been ransacked. Police, who suggested the burglar was frightened of when the owners returned, noted entry had been gained by breaking a glass pane in a door. They said a woman's jewelry was taken.

A Walsen avenue family, on vacation since March 1, returned Monday to discover a diamond bracelet and pin, worth a total of $1,000, missing. According to police, there was no sign of forced entry at that home.

Three portable video television sets, worth $1,200, were reported stolen from the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge on Rt. 22. One of the appliances apparently was taken over the telephone by the other two had been stolen either Thursday or Friday, according to police.

A TIME TO STOP

A recurrent issue and one which has become ever more pressing in recent months is the dispute over whether or not the State of New Jersey should license or operate gambling casinos in resort areas and other communities which might be receptive.

The major argument in favor of the proposal is that it would raise funds badly needed for governmental activities, as well as stimulate the tourist trade.

We are strongly opposed to this form of legalized crime, on practical as well as moral grounds.

Certainly, the state and the various municipalities need money, and the way to obtain revenue more efficiently is to revise the tax structure.

New Jersey now depends on a sales tax, which traditionally weighs most heavily on those least able to pay, and on local property taxes, which vary widely in their equity from one community to another.

In addition, the state is under a court mandate to equalize support for local schools, for reasons that have long been evident and are now undeniable.

An equitable, broad-based tax system, meaning a graduated income tax, is the only ultimate solution. Everything else is window dressing.

And we urgently do not want to dress our windows with a network of gambling halls—at best an esthetic nuisance and at worst an open invitation to corruption of government and private lives.

Gambling in any form is most attractive to those who can least equally manage their own lives and can least afford to lose.

The state lottery, sold to the voters as an antidote to the numbers racket, has failed to wipe out that lucrative form of organized crime.

The next step could well be a chair of state-operated houses of prostitution. We are not sure which would be most objectionable.

We don't need and don't want either.

A TIME TO STOP

A recurrent issue and one which has become even more pressing in recent months is the dispute over whether or not the State of New Jersey should license or operate gambling casinos in resort areas and other communities which might be receptive.

Copley News Service

New Jersey now depends on a sales tax, which traditionally weighs most heavily on those least able to pay, and on local property taxes, which vary widely in their equity from one community to another.

Alexandrovich to be featured in Temple Beth Ahm concert

Martin Shindler, president of Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, this week announced plans for the appearance on Sunday, May 12 at 8 p.m. of the Russian Jewish tenor, Mikhail Alexandrovich, in concert at the temple.

Shindler explained that in honor of the celebration of Mother's Day, Alexandrovich, who now lives in Israel, will present a program especially for the "Yiddish moment" of the temple member family.

A versatile artist whose repertoire includes folk songs of all nations and cantorial music, Alexandrovich made his concert debut at the age of nine. At 13 he became the cantor of the Central Synagogue in Manchester, England, and during that period appeared in concert in France, Austria and Poland. World War 2 forced him to return to the Soviet Union, where he sang for the Red Army and performed in concert.

Shindler said that he is the holder of the highest honors ever accorded a performing artist by the Soviet Union, including the Stalin Prize, and has over a billion records sold annually in the USSR. Though he had received many invitations to appear abroad, permission to perform outside the Soviet Union was denied because of his desire to emigrate to Israel. Finally he was granted an exit visa and made his first appearances in Israel in 1952. He is cantor at the synagogue of Ramat Gan in Israel.

Tickets for the concert are available at the temple office or by mail, Temple Beth Ahm, Temple drive, Springfield, 376-6339. Sponsor tickets for the first section of the sanctuary are $10 each. General admission tickets are $5 each.

Mideast is topic at temple Sunday

Dr. Eugene Korn, adjunct professor of philosophy at Yeshiva University, will host a discussion on "The Arab-Israel Conflict" at a breakfast meeting of Temple Shalom, Springfield, on Sunday at 10 a.m.

Dr. Korn, formerly associated with the faculties of both Columbia and Yeshiva University, has recently returned from a recent "scholarship" trip sponsored by the American Jewish Committee. As part of the trip he visited the Arab states and met with key intellectuals and politicians. He will discuss the conditions of the Palestinian refugees and visited the Golan Heights occupied area in the days just prior to the Yom Kippur war cease fire.

Sunday morning's program will focus on "Separating fact from fiction" with regard to Israel's present situation. Position papers have been mailed to Temple Shalom members to give added dimension to the discussion.

Topics for two meetings Wednesday announced by Women Voters League

LESLIE ZUCKER, spokeswoman for the presidential committee of the Springfield L.V.W. this week announced that an election reform bill designed to end disparities in the election process has been introduced in both houses of the New Jersey Legislature through the efforts of the League of Women Voters of New Jersey.

"Can a community solve its problems with intelligent planning if its neighbors do not act with the same responsibility? With New Jersey unemployment climbing can we justify support for any policies that discourage economic growth?"

These are some of the questions to be discussed by members of the Springfield League of Women Voters next Wednesday in preparation for their April convening on the subject of "Lead Use." Members and their guests can attend either the morning meeting at the home of Judy Markstein, 112 High Point rd., beginning at 10 or the evening meeting at the home of Bernice Simon, 34 Springbrook rd., beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Complaints drop, earnings increase in 1973, New Jersey Bell reports

Significant improvements in service and earnings were highlighted in the annual report of New Jersey Bell, released last week by Robert W. Klemer, company president. "Our most important accomplishment was our service improvements. Bell's service was measurably better during 1973. At the same time we moved forward with plans for even better performance in the years to come," Klemer said.

Kean students share views with adults on key issues in Rinaldo questionnaire

Nearly 500 Kean College students responded to Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo's (R-12) first questionnaire, and their views were basically the same as those of adult residents of the district.

In descending order of decisiveness, this is what the students said:

- They believe strict limits on campaign contributions and expenditures would restore integrity to politics 14 percent.
- They favor the establishment of an independent Federal Election Commission with power to enforce election laws (83 percent to 17 percent).
- They oppose complete Federal financing of all Federal elections with no private contributions (57 percent to 33 percent).
- They believe Congress should limit the President's power to appoint judges as proposed by Congress (78 percent to 22 percent).

They favor closer relations with the Soviet Union and Communist China (78 percent to 22 percent).

- They do not believe draft evaders who left the country should be allowed to return and spend the time they use the government in an appropriate alternative service capacity (68 percent to 32 percent).
- They favor reduction of U.S. forces in Western Europe (76 percent to 24 percent).
- They want the defense budget cut by at least 10 percent (74 percent to 26 percent).
- They favor the Supreme Court decision permitting abortion (74 percent to 26 percent).
- They do not favor the banning of school children (70 percent to 30 percent).
- They favor stronger gun control, preferably the licensing and registration of all weapons (70 percent to 30 percent).
- They believe parents should be allowed to deduct part of private and parochial school tuition from income taxes (69 percent to 31 percent).
- They favor merging all railroads into a few big systems (62 percent to 38 percent) and oppose greater freedom for railroads to raise rates and abandon unprofitable service (62 percent to 38 percent).
- They oppose restriction of the death penalty for certain crimes (60 percent to 40 percent).
- The final question—the rating of the President's performance in office, the vote went this way: 18 percent rated him good, 33 percent fair and 49 percent poor.

Eighty percent of the adults favored restoration of the death penalty—sharply disagreeing with Kean College respondents.

3 ordered held for grand jury in break and entry

Three men accused of break and entry and possession of burglary tools were ordered held for the Union County Grand Jury after their appearance in Springfield Municipal Court Monday night.

The three men—Patrick (Patsy) Cantalupo of Sirling, William B. Baker Jr. of Gillette and Joseph Sabo of New Providence—were arrested Feb. 21 at the Raymond Richards Advertising Agency, S. Springfield Ave. Cantalupo will also face charges of shoplifting filed against him March 4 after an alleged theft at Federated Electronics, H. 22, Springfield.

In other court action, Richard J. Nichols was held for the grand jury on charges of driving while intoxicated and driving on a suspended license.

City motorists paid fines for speeding. Charged with exceeding the 50 mph limit on Rt. 22 were Edwin B. Burton of Westfield, James T. Summitt, 527 1/2 St. Patrick, and James T. Scannella of Bloomfield, 239 for 79 mph.

Other motorists receiving penalties were: Robert H. Hart of Plainfield, 515, unlicensed driver; Joseph L. Miller, 420 for 47 mph in a 25-mph zone; and Edward J. Hester, 225 for 47 mph in a 25-mph zone.

Town outlines planning to redevelop

The purpose of the feasibility study for redevelopment of the CBD is to compare the existing physical and economic conditions with the physical and economic feasibility of undertaking a redevelopment project. The study will include the following determinations:

1. How and why the area qualifies for redevelopment treatment.
2. Definition of the redevelopment area.
3. Appropriate re-use determination: This assessment will investigate alternative approaches to limiting and controlling types of uses to be included in the redevelopment.

4. Assessment of building conditions. This examination will include an assessment of the structural integrity of the existing physical structures and their potential for rehabilitation as well as an assessment of the required alterations for a re-use/redevelopment scheme.

5. Architectural treatment. Collaborating a variety of architectural themes to determine a viable and attractive approach including the contrasting of modern or colonial motifs and their expected effects on the marketability of the CBD.

6. Amenities. An assessment of the value to the project of possible increased amenities such as parking, public or other pedestrian rights-of-way.

7. Evaluation of existing rights-of-way. This evaluation will include an assessment of the present and potential future use of the existing rights-of-way and the need for additional parking areas.

8. Recommendations for improving the traffic and pedestrian circulation of the CBD area will be proposed as needed, including recommended road widening, intersection layout, and other improvements.

9. Having assessed the type and character of existing land uses and the traffic patterns affecting them, the study will recommend a series of assessments and determinations which will generate the redevelopment plan.
