

HALEAKALA CRATER - Big enough to swallow Manhattan and its towers, the crater of Haleakala (House of the Sun) dominates Maui. It is a top sight-seeing attraction on Maui island.

A FEMINE LOOK... AT THE WORLD... AND THINGS

by TRUDINA HOWARD

SEVEN LITTLE JOYS OF HAWAII

There is an idyllic little island in Honolulu that will give you a flightseeing tour of the seven main islands of the Hawaiian Island chain that will make you an expert on 22,000 varieties of orchids, another with a mini-Grand Canyon, islands with volcanic slopes or volcanic peaks, others with jungle bushes or lava barrens, live volcanoes or extinct volcanoes, forests or fields, wilderness or cultivated plantations, all waterfalls, with perpetual rainbows, or dry waterfalls with boiling fire-filled craters, effluent concrete or concrete green, and they will do it all in a single day.

Hawaiian Air Tour Service, or HATS, will take you over one of the most scenic 300 miles-in-row that this world has to offer, and if your time is limited, it will be the only way you will be able to catch a glimpse of all the big seven Hawaiian islands and get some small idea of the abundant and varied beauty to be had. It is a shame to hurry it, as of course but it is far better than not seeing it at all.

LANA'I, the first island to be reached on the HATS all-day tour, is best described as an island that is a pineapple plantation. It is, as a matter of fact, known as the "Pineapple Island," and there seems to be no doubt about it. Three squares of the fruit, in all stages of growth, practically cover the island. There are 2,370 pineapple plants, most of the island is soft, rolling hills and slopes.

Where the great pineapple plantations are there seem to be no trees. It is a patchwork quilt. Row after row of pineapple grows, the plants stretch as far as the eye can see; all quite precise and beautifully done. From the air, it really does look like a great patchwork quilt, dotted up here and there by some single palm tree, but not a stitch of place anywhere. I don't suppose a weed or a wild flower would stand a chance here. It will be drier-outside.

The island was once used for cattle grazing, but now is owned entirely by one company for the raising of the fruit.

KAHOLAWE, the next island in pass under our eyes, is possibly the least known, and perhaps the least beautiful. It is known, unfortunately, as the "Isle of Death," which doesn't help matters, and is used as a practice bombing range for the Air Force, which certainly doesn't help the island, but it is, also, mostly a barren island with poor soil, and about the only other use ever made of it was as a cattle range. Now there are not even cattle there, nor people, just emptiness and a high spot of 1,444 feet. In its very barrenness, however, there is a certain beauty, but that does not appeal to many, and "flightseeing" is the only practical way to visit it.

HAWAII, the great island, comes next. It is known simply as the "Big Island" and for good reason. It is the biggest island in the Hawaiian group, containing more than half the total land area of all the islands, and is the place of the historic Hawaiian Kingdom. It is the place where there are such things as Hawaii as the

Med school project gives jobs to unskilled welfare mothers

Margaret D., mother of eight, is earning $5,800 a year. Marika K., mother of a three-year-old son, is earning $6,200 a year. Dolores M., mother of a boy, is earning $5,500 a year.

Ms. D., Ms. R. and Ms. M. are three of 32 formerly unskilled, uneducated and rarely employed welfare clients now holding full-time jobs at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ).

Ms. R., highest paid of the group, is an interpreter in the patient relations section of the college's Manhattan Hospital, Newark. Ms. M. is a physical therapy aide at Marlton, N.J., and a ward clerk. Others in the group hold jobs like admitting clerk, at $5,300 a year; nursing assistant, $5,300 a year; and food service worker, $5,300 a year.

Christine K., mother of eight, and Shirley G., mother of seven, were first enrolled as patient transporters. Because of their interest and concern for patient care, both were upgraded to nursing assistants, receiving a $100 a week pay raise. In their 10-week training, both had no absences. They intend to pursue a career in professional nursing.

All the women were trained, on the job, in a welfare demonstration project, financed through the Emergency Employment Act of 1971. One of the standards for eligibility was qualification for aid-to-dependent children. While in training, the women received regular weekly salaries, plus baby-sitter allowances where necessary.

The program is now being phased out, but it has made a mark. "It's hard to describe, but there's a feeling of exhilaration to see these women in a new and productive life style," said Alfred Tyson, who headed the training program for the college. "And you sense the difference it has made in them, too, in their manner, and attitudes and outlook."

A number of the women, who had no diplomas, are taking high school equivalency tests. Tyson said others are already in advanced job training. One has completed sociology courses at Essex County College.

Library closed Saturdays until end of summer

The Springfield Public Library will be closed on Saturdays from now to the end of August. The last day for return of overdue book material and photocopies, without payment of a fine, will be tomorrow.

The regular schedule of hours is still in effect: 9 a.m. through 9 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays, Friday closing at 5 p.m.

The children's department of the library will show free movies on July 2 at 11 a.m. and again at 2 p.m. The program will last for 40 minutes and be suitable for children aged 4-12. Films to be shown include "The Cat in the Hat," based on the book by Dr. Seuss. This animated film tells the story of four children at home on a rainy day and their activities with a surprise visitor.

The second film will be "Why We Need Each Other," a film adapted from Jim Wahl's book, "The Animals' Picnic Day," a story of two groups of animals who do not get along but soon discover they need each other.

Free tickets for either showing may be obtained at the circulation desk in the children's department, according to Cynthia A. Landauer, children's librarian.

Teachers picket Regional office to protest delay

Approximately 200 teachers, protesting delays in contract negotiations with the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education, picketed the board's Springfield headquarters Monday night during the opening of the school year.

Contract talks between the board and the teachers began last October, but officially met on August 6, with the former offering a 0.5 percent pay increase, and the teachers demanding a 9.2 percent hike. The Regional High School Teachers Association, which represents most of the 386 instructors at the district's four schools—Jonathan Dayton, Springfield, Gars Livingston, Berkeley Heights, David Brewster, Kenilworth, and Arthur J. Johnson, Clark—originally had sought a 15.5 percent increase, according to Dennis Fox, association president.

The teachers also are asking for changes in the grievance procedure to fully include non-tenured teachers; add a dental insurance plan; a change in working hours for librarians, guidance counselors and nurses; elimination of nonprofessional duties, such as patrolling halls and bathrooms; amendments to the sick-leave policy; and the establishment of an instructional council, which would involve teachers in research and proposals regarding education policy-making in the district.

Fox speaking before the mediation session Monday, charged "the board has really not accepted any of our proposed changes" and explained the demonstration was "to indicate we don't like stalling, and want to get a contract as soon as possible, certainly before September." The present two-year contract expires at the end of August.

His views were echoed by association vice-

The Springfield First Aid Squad will celebrate its silver anniversary Sunday with a parade through the center of town and a get-together afterwards at the squad headquarters.

Volunteer squads from 12 neighboring communities will participate in the parade, which will begin at 12:30 p.m. in front of the municipal building. The line of march will proceed north on Mountain avenue to Morris avenue, east on Morris to Meisel avenue, west on Meisel to Milltown road, west on Milltown to S. Springfield avenue, and then back to Mountain avenue. Following the parade, townships have been invited to the headquarters on N. Trivett street, where refreshments will be served.

The Springfield First Aid Squad was founded in March 1949 and began actual service in October of that year. At that time, the roster listed 13 members. At present there is an active corps of 42.

The original headquarters was in the Town Hall until its own building was constructed and dedicated in November 1956. The Eastern Auxiliary of the squad was founded in September 1954 to raise money for the new building and to assist in the work of the corps. The most active of the squad's 12 townships serve the community 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Food without additives

By ROSE P. SIMON
The Springfield Public Library has the following titles among the recently listed books:
COOKING WITH NATURAL INGREDIENTS "The Good Smells Cookbook," by Margie Winn Ford, Susan Hilliard and Mary Faulk Knock. Ervastian (Deaf) Smith was the only partially deaf as a prominent figure in the Texas Revolution in 1835, and for his participation in it, a county in Texas was named after him.
His particular ethnic is responsible for superior results in white grains, which have the full endorsement of the United States. He maintains that natural foods will eliminate the need for pills and the consumption of foods contaminated by questionable additives and pollution. They recommend organic gardening—even in a window-box.
There are recipes for every time of the day, for all occasions, with opportunities for creativity. They include breakfast, appetizers, soups, salad dressings, sauces, vegetables, main dishes, breads, desserts and first courses. There are special sections for children's food (including school lunches) and meals for camping and cookouts.
Deaf Smith County is noted for several well-known brands of natural foods used in these recipes. The authors list and describe the staple foods available—such as whole grains, beans, nuts, seeds, oils, fruits, vegetables, nuts, dried fruits and others.

DOCTORS IN CHIMINAL CASES
"Post-Mortem," by David M. Spin, M.D., with Janet Kohn. A former medical inspector who is now a director of pathology at the Brookdale Medical Center in Brooklyn explores the many cases of unusual deaths in which high has been involved, the use of the autopsy as a truth-seeking tool of medicine and the law.
Each chapter deals with a different real-life case. All are concerned with the basic question of civil rights and liberties—the protection of the individual from a vested interest.
Dr. Spin explains the need for a medical examiner's use of X-rays, photographs, and reports that identify the cause of death. He discusses the use of microscopes and many new techniques of forensic medicine and the forensic (legal) sciences.
The author reports on his involvement in the case of the three civil rights workers in Mississippi (no official autopsy was ever made public), the trial of the Chicago Black Panthers, charges against them were dismissed, the Attica Prison riot (autopsies indicated the slaying of four by their own men) etc.
Another section deals with child abuse, including the cigarette smoking controversy, the multiform use of dangerous or untested drugs and the contradictory claims about their attacks.

PROPOSAL FOR ARMY REFORM
"The Best in the World," edited by John Hutchins and George Oppenheimer. This is an anthology of news stories, features, columns, reports, poems and editorials gleaned from New York's unusual newspaper, the New Yorker, from 1921 to 1929. During this period its executive editor was Herbert Bayard Swager, a jumpy man-about-town whose newspaper was an extension of his charismatic personality. He had a flair for gathering people of talent: Samuel Chotzinoff, Heywood Brown, Walter Jappanell, William Holtho, Rebecca West, James M. Cain, Alexander Woolcott.
Under Swager's reign the crusade against the Klu Klux Klan was launched. Other serious coverage included the Nevada lumber camp peyote, the Teapot Dome scandal, Darrow vs. Bryan and the Hui-Mills case. In sports there were reports on the Dempsey-Gilkey fight, the World Series (1922), the Dempsey-Tunney bout and the Langdon-Wills tennis match (1925).
Verses by Franklin P. Johnson, Dorot Parker, F.B. White, Elinor Wylie and Samuel Hopkins are examples of the wit and style of the '20s. Music and theater reviews reveal the fare and taste of the decade; editorials and portraits of prominent individuals reflect the mores and problems of the time.

Fishing companion offers conversation -- and advice

By JOHN SIMON
Whenever I am having a mental fuel shortage I get a lot of extra mileage by going fishing with the small girl who shares my breakfast bread.
And, at the risk of getting trapped for practicing medicine with a fishing hook, I hereby prescribe such advice for almost any variety of ills.
"We almost always catch something. Usually something we cannot identify. No matter. We throw them out between back away. That is, I throw them back."
"Let that be a lesson to you, fishy. Watch out what you eat."
"I think this makes her the ultimate conversationalist. She goes fishing. Catches a fish. Then gives it advice on how not to be caught by anybody else."
"Actually, I do most of the fishing. She spends most of her time scuttling around the rocks, looking for the little crabs that also are scuttling around the rocks trying to stay away from me."
"She sits a little piece of bait at the end of the string and tries to catch them with smelly preservative and sweet talk. 'Here, crabby, here, crabby.'"
"So far she has not caught one."
"I said: 'Maybe they don't like being called crabby. I have seen certain people I know go into a restaurant if somebody calls them crabby.'"
"She said: 'Yeah, but they're CRABS. What else could you call them?'"
"I said: 'Maybe you could make up names.'"
"She said: 'Here, Crabby, here, Crabby. We turn them back to the briny deep.'"
"Let that be a lesson to you, fishy. Watch out what you eat."
"I think this makes her the ultimate conversationalist. She goes fishing. Catches a fish. Then gives it advice on how not to be caught by anybody else."

THE EAGLETON POLL

Casino gambling is favored

If an election were held today, New Jersey voters would approve the amendment to the Constitution to permit casino gambling. According to the latest New Jersey Poll, conducted by the Eagleton Institute of Politics, 53 percent favor such an amendment with 41 percent against and 6 percent undecided. Dr. Stephen A. Salner, director of the New Jersey Poll, reported that "when asked who are still not sure but leaning for or against passage are added, in a margin in favor of casino gambling rises to 55 percent to 45 percent."
Democrats are also stronger supporters of the amendment than Republicans. Democrats favor it, 60 percent to 37 percent; Republicans oppose the amendment, 50 percent to 40 percent.
Salner also noted some feeling that gambling casinos should be confined to Atlantic City, which has pressed for the amendment as a way of revitalizing the resort area. "We found that 44 percent of the respondents favor gambling casinos only in Atlantic City with 37 percent favoring them elsewhere. Only 19 percent of the respondents favor casino gambling anywhere." Respondents who oppose the amendment to legalize casino gambling were particularly against permitting casinos outside of Atlantic City. Only 15 percent of this group favor permitting casinos, if located, in other areas of the state.
Support for legalizing casino gambling came from younger, more affluent voters. The poll found that 60 percent of those aged 18 to 29 favor the amendment to 32 percent; those 30 and over oppose it 48 percent to 47 percent. The margin in favor is greater for those with an income of less than $500 per year, 60 percent to 37 percent, than for those with an income of $500 to $999, 50 percent to 49 percent.
Men approve of legalizing casino gambling, 61 percent to 36 percent. Women favor it by a 50 to 46 percent margin. Support for the legalizing casino gambling is strongest in the south of the state, 62 percent to 34 percent; the north margin in favor is only 51 to 47 percent. Salner noted that opposition to the amendment is strongest in Hudson County where 60 percent oppose it and 39 percent favor it. "Perhaps," he concluded, "people in Hudson County are more concerned with the potential casino gambling may have for attracting the participation of organized crime."
A few years ago, at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the James Caldwell School would like to go on record as being in favor of the proposal made by the Caldwell staff for the use of the building of the Bednaruk house to "close the squeeze" at Caldwell for approximately three years.
We are fully opposed to the rationalization tactics being used by Dr. (Fred) Baruchin and Board of Education members. These people have given no valid reason for not using the Bednaruk house, they have even bothered to avail themselves, let alone the public, of comparative costs involved.
The proposal made by the staff and Mrs. (Elizabeth) Powers is the only solution to the five facets of the space problem.
We were promised no cuts in programs time and again, but Dr. Baruchin's solution is to cut down on space available for the learning lab, cut down on the number of children taking part, cut down on the amount of time they spend there and on the amount of staff.
Dr. Baruchin's solution is to take the virtual library program now housed in two rooms and to put it in the present art room closet, which floods, with the use of the learning lab.
It is the contention of our PTA that these "basement rooms" are neither large enough nor sound to use as a general classroom.

Letters -- Caldwell PTA objects

Letters to the editor must be received no later than Monday of the week they are to appear. They should not exceed 350 words in length and should be typed with double spacing between all lines (not all capital letters please). All letters must be signed. The writer's name will be withheld at the editor's discretion, and never if the letter is of a political nature. The editor reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.
Bob Wolkechek, this resolution, among other things, condemns the detention of political prisoners by the United States and the violation by the U.S. government of the Paris Peace agreement by supplying the Saigon government with military aid and supplies. He also calls for the end of the terrible hostilities there and for the establishment of peace and reconciliation.
Does the senator believe that the price index is the best barometer in raising rents at the present level to 10 percent and up?
The tenants will strongly oppose this move and will resist that their fathers assume the responsibility of protecting their citizen tenants from gouging landlords.
Does the senator believe that the price index is the best barometer in raising rents at the present level to 10 percent and up?
This is just a subterfuge on the part of the landlords and their lobby to squeeze more money out of tenants.
I'm certain that 1,500 tenants in this state will voice their opinions to their legislators.

This is merely a change in the spirit of that we will end our involvement in Vietnam, perhaps some day there will be peace in that ravaged land.

"ASPECIAL LESSON"
As parents of two children who walked in the Florence Caudin School Walkathon, may we personally congratulate all the children, teachers and parents for such an outstanding and tireless effort for a noble cause.
Peter Cascazo, Most of the great children participated didn't even know him--as the children as they who, who is, is.
Living on Mountain Avenue, as the Walkathon passed, we opened our doors for a drink and toilet facilities. We watched the patrol and the police who were just marvelous. We are sure that all the children were well and that everything was OK. When Mrs. Cascazo stopped by her car to thank you for the help us, our hearts went out to the children.
What a fantastic walk this would be for more than 100,000 people. We are sure that the children, Mr. Gelfman, Mr. Brown and Mr. Hanjish, will give you all your fellow educators for giving our children the cooling in their bodies. Because of me like our volunteer coaches, our son has had the opportunity to develop a healthy mind and body. This is a great first step.

Investing-investors, none has been more powerful or more changeable than the rate in interest rates. Less than one month ago, the principal difference, again, is that we are somewhat less optimistic about the prospects for inflation and, therefore, less optimistic for low long term and low far interest rates are likely to come down.
Nevertheless, we still are optimistic about the outlook for stock prices. All-a double-digit gain is still possible. The rate of inflation, however, is still believed this target is attainable, assuming 94 percent are the uncertainties surrounding the "Three P's" (Inflation, Interest Rates and Impairment) are resolved along the line we have predicted. After all, at 115, the S & P 500 would be selling for only 11.5 times earnings, a very reasonable P/E ratio by historical standards. Not since 1955 has the high multiple for any year been so low, and it has exceeded 11.5 times earnings in 20 of the 39 years from 1955 through 1972.
What are the risks in this forecast? There are at least three: (1) that the rate of inflation will not decelerate; (2) that the Federal Reserve will push too far and tip the system into a full-scale liquidity crisis; and (3) that the question concerning the stability of and continuity of the Administration will be with us six months from now.
These risks are real, but, in our opinion, they are less than the risk of staying away from stocks. For some time, we have recommended that a substantial portion of most portfolios be carried in cash or short-term certificates or obligations—commercial paper, Treasury bills, and the like.

Building drive by hospital tops $1 million mark

The Children's Specialized Hospital Building has reached the $1 million mark, it was announced this week by H.M. Poole Jr., general chairman.
The goal of the campaign is $3.5 million for the expansion of the rehabilitation hospital and renovation of existing facilities to meet the demand of outpatient and inpatient services for physically handicapped children.
In addition to the present building on New Providence Road, Mountlake, would include a 60-80 unit, almost doubling the capacity of the hospital.
"The funds are now sufficient to enable the board of managers to proceed with these expansion plans with confidence," Poole said. The campaign will continue and it is anticipated that more funds will be realized through appeals, mainly made to foundations and individuals or firms will be perpetuated by the Children's Specialized Hospital. Some 50 donors have taken advantage of memorial gift opportunities and names of individuals or firms will be perpetuated by the Children's Specialized Hospital. Memorial opportunities are described in a campaign brochure. The brochure and pledge cards may be obtained by calling the hospital.

These 3 packages (to each) South African rock lobster tails. Using kitchen shears, cut down both edges of membrane and remove. Grasp tail in both hands and bend backward toward shell side to crack in several places. (Inserting skewers through meat close to shell also prevents curling). Melt 1/2 pound butter in saucepan, add the juice of two lemons and a few dashes of aromatic butters. Grease shells lightly and place flesh side down over grill. Barbecue for 3 minutes. Brush flesh side liberally with lemon-butter sauce and turn shell side down over coals. Grill 6 minutes, broiling once or twice more with butter. Rock lobster is done when meat is creamy white and opaque. Serve with plenty of remaining lemon-butter sauce for dunking.

FOR THE BIRDS
By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER,
Professor, Union Junior College

The other evening I picked up a copy of Roger Barton's "Confessions of a Bird Watcher" and browsed through it. So many of his anecdotes reminded me of things that had happened to me in the field.

Quite a few years ago, Dave Fabling, widely known in the state for his birding and later professor of biology at Union College, asked me to join his group for the Christmas Bird Count. We started out before dawn, on a bitter cold morning. Other members of the group met us in Lakewood and from there another chap and I proceeded to the shore of the ocean and boy to tally birds found enough to be out on a day like that.

The morning brought a couple of gannets and some herring gulls. Over coffee in a lunch wagon that I had to use, we decided to take a look at the bay in hopes of finding ducks. We drove around peering through the fog but no luck. Finally, just as we were about to give up, we spotted a raft of various kinds of ducks feeding the gentle swells. We carefully tallied them and were delighted to find a fairly or two among them.

Near the spot where we were standing, some boys tossed an outboard into life and set out in the direction of the ducks. If we'd been a few minutes later, the ducks would have been scared off by the boat. But strangely, the ducks continued to ride the swells as the boat approached. Finally, the boat was in the middle of the raft, gathering up the "ducks" one by one. They were decoys, just hidden, except for the tail to look real on a sea. We scragged our best list and went on.

For a long time I wanted to get a picture of a Louisiana heron in a bay. I had heard that a heron was a fairly rare sight in the bay. When we went out socially, I put the camera and long lens in the car's trunk just in case. The evening we were dressed in our best, going to Wildwood to dinner at a very special place. As we drove across the salt marsh on the causeway, there was a Louisiana heron feeding not far from the road. Despite the admonitions of my wife, I went going to take a picture. I was in the middle of the shot when the heron flew. I was so far from the bird that I was unable to get a picture. I was so disappointed that I turned to the car. The tide had come in just enough to cut me off. Balancing on the foot, holding the camera high, I removed my shoes and socks and waded back to dry land. My wife was laughing hard to be sure. All there was in the car to dry off with was last Sunday's newspapers. We finally drove off and had our dinner without any further events. P.S. The pictures didn't come out; the light level was too low.

When I lead field trips as part of a course in ornithology. Usually I scout the area the day before the trip to see what to expect. I went through the procedure one Friday in preparation for a Saturday morning trip. Full migration was at its height. The next morning, I went with the group but it was a disappointment. We tallied three starlings and a crow. You just never know in birding.

Bride must give new name to SS
An estimated two million women will be married this year—about 200,000 of them in June—and one thing they should all remember is to change their names with social security. Robert E. Willwerth, social security district manager in Elizabeth, said this week.

"A bride should give us her new married name to keep her records current and her earnings record accurate and up to date," Willwerth said. "Then earnings she had both before and after her marriage can be correctly credited to the same record."

A woman's earnings in jobs covered by social security will determine the amount of her cash benefits—and not just when she retires. During her working years, she also builds disability, survivors and Medicare protection for herself and her family.

A new bride can call, write or visit any social security office to get the change forms. She should also check with her employer's personnel office. Willwerth said.

The Union County social security office is at 342 Westminster Ave., Elizabeth. The phone number is 654-5200.

Levin for congressional plan to set priorities on spending

Democratic Congressional candidate Adam K. Levin has called for broad-based support of a budget reform proposal that would increase spending and revenues and empower it to set spending priorities.

"We are ever going to restore confidence in government. Congress must take the initiative by reasserting its constitutional powers," Levin said this week. "One of the most important of these powers is the responsibility for controlling government spending."

The 12th District, Union County Democrat said that Senate and House conferees approved legislation last week that would create two new budget committees, one in each house, and a new Congressional Budget Office to provide Congress with its own independent team of fiscal experts.

Under the proposal, the President's budget would be sent to the two congressional committees for analysis. They would then formulate their own program budgets, authorizing overall spending goals and estimating receipts in each category. These budgets would then be passed by Congress in the form of concurrent resolutions, which have the force of law and, most significantly, do not require Presidential approval. Congress, in effect, would be able to establish an order of priority within a total budget.

Each House would then adopt its own appropriation bills, and after the final bill is voted on, the budget committees would take another look at expected revenues and spending. Congress could then pass legislation, this time requiring the President's approval.

Institute slated for B'nai B'rith

The 21st annual leadership training institute for 1974-1975 officers and committee chairmen of 40 local B'nai B'rith men's lodges, will be conducted by the Northern New Jersey Council, B'nai B'rith, at Temple Emanuel, 23, 756 East Broad St., Westfield, Sunday at 10 a.m.

The institute's program, announced by Herbert Reas of seminars for presidents, council presidents and board of president will include governance.

"Until now, Congress has lacked the machinery for offering intelligent alternatives to presidential budgetary requests," Levin continued. "As a result, Congress has been forced to react to presidential proposals and deal with the budget only in piecemeal appropriation bills."

The trip involved paddling four hours down the Wading River and camping overnight at the Bodine Campsite near Batsto, in the pine tree section of South Jersey. The canoe trip covered the distance between "Thinking's" bridge to Bowline, "quite a feat even without the rain," added Duffy.

Ballet scholarships available from Garden State School

Ballet scholarships for 75 to 100 students in Northern New Jersey will be awarded by the School of the Garden State Ballet this summer as part of an expanded scholarship program made possible through the National Endowment for the Arts and the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

The ballet school's summer course will be held from Monday through Aug. 5. Fred Daniels, founder and director of the non-profit ballet school, has announced that summer scholarships will provide free introductory classes to boys and girls who live within traveling distance of the Newark or South Orange studios. The ballet school will continue to maintain its policy: under which "no child having the talent to pursue a professional career shall be deprived of the opportunity to train because of a lack of means."

Daniels has taught students who went on to such major dance companies as New York City Ballet, American Ballet Theatre, Joffrey Ballet and the Alvin Ailey Company.

"Walking Tall" is held over at the Elmora Theater. The show is a double bill with "Your Three Minutes" and "Walking Tall" also is the attraction at the East Picture Show.

The picture, which tells a story of a young man who would surrender to the system and the girl who always stands beside him, is based on the extraordinary life of Buford Pusser.

Pusser was a Tennessee sheriff who never stopped walking tall in determination to clean up a town that had become corrupt with gambling and vice.

The sheriff is portrayed by Joe Don Baker, and Elizabeth Hartman plays his wife, Pauline. Her supporting roles are assumed by Rosemary Murphy, John Breyer, Beverly Baret, Fulton Perry and Lauren Tuttle.

The movie, rated R, was filmed on location in Montgomery County, Tenn. where it actually happened with Pusser as the main character. It was directed by Phil Karlson. Merit Briskin produced "Walking Tall" from information made available by calling the tax office at 675-1881.

Open casting for all parts in Joe Orton's "What the Butler Saw" will be held Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The show is scheduled to run from Aug. 9 through Sept. 7.

The original production of Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana," will be featured at the New Jersey Ballet Company's benefit gala performance Monday evening at 8:15 at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn.

The dramatic hour-long version will be presented in cooperation with the Masterwork Chorus, conducted by David Randolph. The New Jersey Ballet presentation was produced by company director Carolyn Clark and choreographed by associate director Joseph Carow and resident choreographer George Tonal.

"Carmina Burana" derives its title from the Bavarian Benedictine Monastery, where the original text was discovered in 1903. The collection of 13 century poems by students and monks was set to music by Orff in 1935.

Graduates at UC cite the other side at awards night

Union College graduates turned the tables on the faculty and administration at this year's Class Night ceremonies.

The annual academic and service awards presentation for members of the graduating class included the Student Government Association's first special service awards to members of the faculty and administrative staff.

In recognition of service to students "above and beyond the call of duty," plaques were presented to Prof. Farris S. Swackhamer of Cranford, a member of the Chemistry Department and advisor to the SGA, and Michael Villano of Linden, director of the Campus Center. An honorary award went to Prof. Elmer Wolf, dean of the college, and a certificate of appreciation to Mrs. Mary Scholt of Cranford, secretary to the Campus Center director.

Special service awards were also presented to two students for their work in developing Union College's student radio station, WUCR. Kurt Fredrichsen of Linden received a plaque for the engineering work he did to expand the station's coverage area. Frank McGee of Newark was cited for his efforts in expanding program offerings in his capacity as station manager.

"These awards are long overdue," said Jay-Avelino of Elizabeth, SGA president, "and we hope this will now become an annual affair." The award recipients, he said, were selected by a special committee and were based on a campus-wide poll that included students, faculty members and administrators.

This year's graduating class also made gifts to the college totaling $13,700. These included a $10,000 gift from the Union County Board of Education, which is the donor of the Kenneth Campbell Mackay Library and $3,000 for library books. The library will be equipped with a stage, lights and sound system and will have seating capacity for 150.

Push-buttons do work Traffic signals

Those pedestrian pushbuttons on the signals located next to crosswalks on highways really do work. And the Department of Transportation says that pedestrians can use them.

When the button is pressed, a message to the traffic signal. It says, in effect, "pedestrian, not a vehicle. Stop traffic longer time, so that I can get across."

And the traffic signal, adjusted to pedestrians sufficient time to walk across just that.

How do Department engineers decide how much time is needed for pedestrians to walk across a highway at a normal pace? Before making a determination, they must consider such factors as the width of the roadway, amount of traffic, existence of safety islands and the presence of schools or shopping centers nearby.

Of the more than 1,000 traffic signals maintained by the state on its 2,150 miles of state roadways, 85 percent are demand-actuated signals which can be made to respond both to vehicles passing over sensors in the road and to pedestrian pushbuttons. The other 15 percent are the less complicated, fixed-time type, often used in high-traffic areas.

Most of the traffic-actuated signals are equipped with pushbuttons for pedestrians. Signs placed next to the pushbutton read: "To Cross Street—Push Button—Wait For Green Light."

When vehicles approach a signalized intersection on side streets the light will change after a predetermined interval. If pedestrians wait for a vehicle to change the light instead of using the pushbutton, they lose the extra time to cross the road that the pushbutton offers.

If there are no vehicles to activate the signal, the pushbutton will stop traffic after a fixed interval and give the pedestrian sufficient walking time to cross safely.

Traffic signal installations, including those with pedestrian pushbuttons, may cost from $1,500 to $3,000 depending on their complexity. Some have as many as eight pushbuttons to direct eight movements of traffic, with a computer as a guide.

Teachers and school board $2,100 apart Tax bills out... and protests in

By HILL GARNETT

What can I do about my taxes? was the question which took up more than two hours of the three-hour Township Committee meeting held before a standing-room only crowd of approximately 100 aggrieved citizens Tuesday night at Town Hall.

The question was prompted by the receipt earlier Tuesday of formal notice of the taxes this year on property throughout the township. And the answer, according to the governing body, appeared to be not very much.

Mayor Edward N. Silco Jr. reported that taxes on the average home in Springfield are going up about $160. The increase followed a revaluation of all property in the township in an official 61 percent of market value in 1973 to an actual 100 percent this year.

Silco said that the average valuation for a one-family home in Springfield went from $24,275 in 1973 to $26,659 in 1974. He presented a listing of 64 homes sold since the beginning of the revaluation process—and with the exception of several in the flood plain—valuation came close to actual sale price in almost all cases. For the entire group, valuation came to 99 percent of the actual sale price.

The major tax issue those homeowners who feel their assessments are out of line have two possible lines of action. The homeowner can first go to the tax assessor and make his grievance known and if the tax assessor finds that the assessment is too high he can change it. If that doesn't work the next place to go is the Union County Board of Taxation where an appeal may be made.

Unlisted changes in total assessed valuations for 1974 were: farm land from $1,867,400 or 1.2 percent in 1973 to $1,859,100 or 1.4 percent in 1974; residential from $91,242,000 or 56.2 percent to $92,870,700 or 57.4 percent; farm land from $23,700 or 2 percent to $25,300 or 1 percent; commercial from $35,290,400 or 22.4 percent to $36,352,000 or 16.1 percent; industrial from $16,352,000 or 10.1 percent to $17,165,000 or 9.9 percent; apartment from $4,835,000 or 3.1 percent to $4,668,000 or 2.2 percent; public utility from $1,473,275 or 8 percent to $1,418,222 or 7 percent.

The total of assessed valuation rose from $102,528,175 to $103,549,622. The tax rate went up as a result of the revaluation from $4.88 per $100 of assessed valuation, which would have been $2.36 at the new valuation rate, to $5.27.

The mayor presented a breakdown of the five slices into which the municipal tax pie is divided. Total taxes went up from $7,618,625 in 1973 to $8,377,553 this year. Percentages for major tax recipients changed as follows from 1973 to 1974:

Baruchin lists activities over last 30 months

Dr. Fred Baruchin, Springfield superintendent of schools, reported to the Board of Education last week on happenings during the 2 1/2 years since he came to the local school district. Highlights of his summary included the phase-out of the Raymond Chisholm School because of declining enrollment, expansion of many items in the curriculum and development of many innovations.

The superintendent commented, "We are most gratified to have had the support of a community and Board of Education which view expenditures for education in terms of investment rather than consumption."

Both sides ask N.J. for fact-finder Transfer of teacher draws parent protest

By AMBER GOLD

The Springfield Teachers' Association and the local Board of Education are headed into state-sponsored fact-finding as the last step in their deadlocked salary negotiations for next year. They are $2,100 apart on a contract coming to more than $1 million. All-LaMonte, association president, declared Tuesday night.

He spoke of a special board meeting at the Raymond Chisholm School before an audience of approximately 150 persons—most of them teachers who had come to applaud his comments. Other speakers from the audience continued previous objections to plans for basement classrooms next year at the James Caldwell School and voiced strong opposition to the last-minute transfer of a teacher from the Thelma Sandmeyer School.

Michael McIntyre, board president, said that "we are indeed at an impasse" in the salary talks, "but that $2,100 is not the real difference. We have offered several thousand dollars over what was appropriated for the 120 teachers. He stressed that the board's latest offer is equal to salaries negotiated by other districts. "Springfield has been No. 1 in Union County," he added. "We provide sabbaticals, full tuition for advanced study and other benefits. We have the full summer to negotiate in, and I hope we have an agreement by September."

Both sides and teachers agreed after the meeting that the cost of fact-finding, with a fact-finder named by the N.J. Public Employee Relations Commission (PERC), may be almost as large as the $2,100 at issue.
