Health, Insurance commissioners balk at conditions of federal grant

State Health Commissioner Joanne E. Finley, M.D., and State Insurance Commissioner James J. Sheeran said this week that they would not agree to federally-imposed conditions under which the Hospital Research and Educational Trust, a subsidiary of the New Jersey Hospital Association, would receive a grant of $250,000 to evaluate and refine New Jersey's existing system of hospital budget review.

The conditions imposed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for final approval of the grant provided for the commission's acceptance of the current budget review process and their endorsement of it for at least the two years of the grant, 1975 and 1976.

160 youngsters getting in the swim as Springfield camp begins season

The Springfield Pool Day Camp opened on July 15 with 160 youngsters participating in all the activities planned for them. The day was warm and sunny; the weather helping to give the camp a "happiest" air. It was a busy week as the campers became acquainted with their counselors and made new friends in their groups.

The 3-year-olds with their counselors Mindy Gradenstein, Paul Kaufman, Marla Rubenstein and Stuart Starnus proved to be great participants in everything. Everyone enjoyed songs like "The People on the Bus" and "If You're Happy." Some of them even formed a marching band led by David Brooks and followed by Brenda Hockstein, Ellen-Glanck, Wendy Hodas, Marc Lemanski, Stacey Zimmerman, Allison Kaplan and Holly Koehn. All were anxious to jump into the pool to cool off. Joshua Waterman, Kenny Blumberg and James Bright were described as great swimmers.

Motorist named careless driver; pedestrian hurt

A 71-year-old Springfield woman required treatment at Overlook Hospital, Summit, for hand injuries suffered when she was struck by an auto while walking across Morris avenue Friday afternoon, township police reported. The motorist has been charged with careless driving, said Mrs. John Oranga of 222 Riverside dr., who was taken to the hospital by the Springfield First Aid Squad, was crossing the thoroughfare near Mountain avenue at 3:18 p.m. when she was hit by a westbound car, operated by Neelofa A. Setarch, 22, of Randolph Township. According to police, Setarch had failed to check for pedestrians before crossing the street. Police said the car was damaged, but the driver, Dieter G. Beattie, suffered only arm and leg abrasions and required medical attention.

Painting, music keep Bob Baxter busy

Water-colorist, host of classical radio show

The world of art and music has opened up new vistas to Bob Baxter. Baxter, who was paralyzed three summers ago in a swimming pool accident, maintains the artistic tastes of the doctors who have kept him in bed. Baxter said, "I started doing water color painting about a month ago. Of the 9 and 10-year-olds, Barry Tolanski's was the outstanding painter. These two boys have challenged the 3-year-olds to a kickball game. Even though they lost 17-5, the 2-year-olds tried hard. Among them were Barry Klinger, Greg Kromberger, John Simon and Dirk Scheibel. A week of activities highlighted July. We had checkers and softball games. There was a place for the 3-year-olds. Their counselors, Gary Sherrin and Alan Heston, were in charge. Judges for these events, winners and runners-up were: Brett Walsh and Mike Glescher for checkers, and Jeff and Fred for softball. Other winners were: Andrew Romano and Michael Friedman for the softball throws. Many of the boys were also in the program. Among them were: Monica Nenner and Sandra Matrick, became acquainted with their counselor, Maris Wohl as well as coloring the pool. On Friday all the girls celebrated Erika Bernstein's birthday with a special program. Although their group led, David Kadish, Wesley Peterson and Alan Heston acted as the pool for the boys.

State mini-grants awarded to two on Dayton faculty

Two mini-grants were awarded to members of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School faculty by the N.J. State Department of Education, Gerald Hettenger, Dayton Regional health education teacher was awarded a $27 mini-grant for his proposal, "Introduction to Medical Science." A $100 mini-grant was awarded to John Sorah for his proposal of "Development of an adaptive program in Physical Education and Recreation." "Introduction to Medical Science" will provide students with a greater understanding and awareness of health careers. Hettenger explained that the grant project will apply to the future physician, nurse, physical therapist, biochemical engineer, pharmacist, health consumer advocate and those planning many other medically-oriented careers. "Introduction to Medical Science" will acquaint students with the wide variety of medical careers, medical terminology, a historical review of the progress of medicine, the causes and pathophysiology of disease and some of the basic skills used in health care. The principal objective of the program designed by Sweeth is to provide physically retarded and handicapped students with an adaptive physical fitness program. "The DAPER program will offer special instruction and handicapped students with an adaptive program with physical disabilities," stated Sorah. Approximately 100 students are expected to benefit from this program.

Marijuana counts hold 3 persons

Springfield police reported the arrest this week of three persons for alleged possession of marijuana. Included was a 21-year-old township resident charged with controlling the delivery of a minor. The 19-year-old, Thomas J. Yarus, was arrested Sunday at 10:15 p.m. after the drug allegedly was found in his apartment at 31 Caldwell pl., where officers had been detailed to investigate a noise complaint. Police said a number of paraphernalia including a 15-year-old Springfield boy were on the premises at the time. Yarus was released and $800 bail pending a court appearance Aug. 5. On Friday, at 1:50 a.m., two Plainfield brothers, Joseph P. Esposito, 22, and Vincent Esposito, 18, were arrested for marijuana possession after the 15-year-old was found in their car. Officers made a routine motor vehicle check on RI-22. They were released on $100 bail each, pending a court appearance Tuesday.

ELKS IN ACTION—Jason Cook of Hackettstown, pasteurizer for the Northwest District of the Crippled Child's Committee, receives a PlayBoy T-shirt from "Bunny Cosby" of Sports. She is one of the bunnies from the PlayBoy Club. Great Gorge, who will take the field against all-star softball team from the 15-area Elks lodges July 28 at Sports High School. Proceeds will benefit the Elks' Camp Moore for crippled children. The program will also feature a band performance. Refreshments will be available. Looking on are Mike Della Vecchia, left, exalted ruler of the Sports Lodge, and Ronald S. Butto, committee chairman. Tickets, priced at $2 for adults and $1 for children, can be obtained by calling the Springfield Lodge after 5 p.m. 379-9766.

Impaired driving results in fines, loss of licenses

Two motorists, including one from Springfield, were fined $125 each at Springfield Municipal Court yesterday after being convicted of driving while their licenses were impaired by alcohol. The two, Robert E. Werner of 26 Maple ave. and George R. Moxley of 2807 Hillside, also had their driver's licenses suspended for six months. Werner had been apprehended on Springfield avenue, Morley, on RI-24. Moxley was arrested at the intersection of Springfield and Morris avenues. Both also had been taking time to write letters to many of his friends. Moxley is the holder of a "mechanical hand." The device, which is like a splint from elbow to hand, has springs for the thumb and fingers and permits Moxley to grasp a pen. The result is a scrawl which Bob admits is easier to read than the cursive hand-writing editors found on the back of his photographs before the "swimming pool" accident. Every other weekend Baxter visits his Union home. The Union Callmen provide the transportation between East Orange and Union.

INFLATION: THE NUMBING PROBLEM
The newspapers and magazines are filled with words of warning about the dangers of inflation. There is no question, however, that inflation is the subject of primary concern to most people here these days because the rising cost of living touches each of us in one way or another.

WHAT MUST BE DONE?
Although the outlook might appear bleak, there is some hope that Congress as an institution has not completely abandoned the idea of doing something to help.

TIME TO SEE THE DOCTOR. When your boss is crabby he may feel shabby.

Preventing decay of your teeth requires an unbroken chewing surface. This surface wears only a fifth of the tooth's crown. However, most decay starts here, often within the year that the tooth erupts.

Grinding surfaces are especially susceptible to decay because many have small irregularities. These pits and fissures make thin spots in the tooth enamel and trap food, bacteria, and enamel-dissolving acids derived from bacterial fermentation. Many of these cavities are 100% for free! Brushing with fluoride toothpaste helps to repair these toothbrush bristles to repair the tooth's surface. It has been successfully proven that fluoride, as for some time the National Institute of Dental Research has tried to persuade dentists to recommend children's tooth. Few substitutes can stick to impervious enamel—and withstand chewing pressures.

The most promising plastic so far is an acrylic which requires that teeth first be clean, then treated briefly with a solution of phosphoric acid. This creates microscopic "etchings" in the enamel and increases the bonding surfaces available to the sealant. The colorless liquid sealant is painted on the tooth with a fine camel's hair brush. It hardens only after a short exposure to ultraviolet light.

Investigators usually point selected teeth on one side of the mouth to have the outside untreated to test the effectiveness of the plastic. The painting of the sealant on biting surfaces of the teeth appears to provide a high degree of protection against tooth decay.

Two years after a single application of the sealant, only 40 percent of the treated teeth had apparently lost all plastic, or were missing, and 27 percent of the teeth were still completely covered, and 11 percent were partially covered. In matching pairs of permanent molars, when one tooth showed decay, the sealant provided 67 percent overall protection to chewing surfaces.

For unknown reasons, upper molars generally decay more readily than lower ones, yet upper first premolars retain the plastic best of all the teeth. In the lower jaw, first molars have the best retention.

Although cleaning does not remove all bacteria from pits and fissures, there is evidence that most bacteria die under the sealant. It is not known whether a sealant could arrest established decay in a cavity.

July heat wave doesn't faze Springfield playgrounders

The first week of real, pre-summer heat failed to dampen the enthusiasm for the first of the annual Springfield playgrounds. Programs moved into high gear as participants in netball, basketball, volleyball and water polo continued to enjoy the sun and fun.

NETBALL
Ann Calanosa, Diane Verlander and other youngsters from the Fourth of July holiday netball team were playing netball on Tuesday. Keeping the game alive were Paul, Mark and Jimmy Steve, Sean McCabe, Eric Zora, Doug Calandra, Lori Smith, Kim Ondaan, Mary Pat Pardiucci, Doreen McCrossan, and Marianne Bracco. A mini-kickball game was organized late in the afternoon. Eric Zora, Larry Zora, and Jimmie Steve were the stars.

On Tuesday afternoon they defeated Chatham playground 48-36 with Doug Calandra, Eric Zora, and Jimmie Steve leading the team. The rest of the children made outrageous plays. Outstanding players were made by Sean McCabe, Doug Clark, Doug Calandra, Lynn, Jessamine and JoAnn Glassen, and Tina Difilippo.

ALVIN PLAYGROUND
Although last week at Alvin was a very hot one, the youngsters kept cool playing water tag making use of the fountain. This week started off with a friendly tournament. The winners were Steve Chaitano, with Pat Piccato, Pezzy Grassie, and Laura Policastro playing second, third and fourth.

On Monday there was a game held in the morning. Eric Zora won first place for finding the most pebbles. Mark Steve came in second and his brother Jimmy came in third. There was a golden pebble worth 25 cents hidden in the park, which Mark Steve found.

After the hunt everyone stayed at the park for a picnic lunch. Those participating included Doug Clark, Maggie and Sean McCabe, Lori Smith, Kathy, Thomas, and Don Mevener. Paul Calanosa and Mark Steve, Doreen McCrossan, Kim Ondaan and Noreen Holtzhaus. While the pebbles are being hunted, the youngsters were entertained by the staff of the park.

BEACH PLAYGROUND
Despite the heat, Beach playground was the most popular. The youngsters enjoyed the sand, the water, and the shade. The winners were Steve Chaitano, with Pat Piccato, Pezzy Grassie, and Laura Policastro playing second, third and fourth.

MR. & MRS. TAXPAYER of Union County BEWARE!

YOU ARE ABOUT TO BE RIPPED OFF! The Union County Board of Freeholders is about to take more tax dollars out of your pocket by increasing the county debt payment by over 50 percent. Their proposed purchase of the Pinyng School in Hillsdale will cost in excess of $15 million — including the purchase price, renovation costs and interest charges.

The space needs of the Freeholders are available for under $1 million right on Broad Street in Elizabeth, the county seat... where the continued presence of their hundreds of employees is sorely needed, and where public transportation makes their offices accessible to all county residents.

Tell the politicians you are fed up with higher and higher taxes. Don't let them spend your money recklessly. Voice your opposition by filling out and mailing this coupon immediately.

YOU MUST ACT NOW. The Freeholders say they can spend your money without a referendum — and might well do it within the next 10 days.

CLIP AND MAIL TODAY!

Hot? Drink more, eat less, slow down, watch out

"When the summer heat is on, young or old, healthy or unhealthy, your body works harder," warns Dr. Brian Collins, director of the Respiratory Care Center at Alton Brothers Hospital, Elizabeth.

"Summer time is the time to give it every day. Stay in the coolest place you can find. On as little as possible air conditioning."

How does the body work harder in the heat? Dr. Collins explains that in hot weather, heat must be dissipated. To accomplish this, blood vessels in the skin of the arms and legs open, which increases the flow of blood through the skin. Letting blood from deep inside the body come to the surface where it can escape to the outside air.

Specialists added at UC in reading

The appointment of two developmental reading specialists to the Union College Faculty was announced this week by Dr. Albert E. Meder Jr., acting president.

The specialists are Dr. Robert J. P. Padgett, Columbus, Ohio, Eastern Kentucky University, and Dr. Robert J. Padgett, Columbus, Ohio, Eastern Kentucky University.

Union College has found an increasing need for developmental courses in reading and mathematics. Dr. Meder said that the college has established special laboratories in these areas. Dr. Meder said that the college has found an increasing need for developmental courses in reading and mathematics.

College has pamphlet on repair tips

"Home Maintenance and Repair Tips," a new booklet published by the New Jersey Department of Transportation, is available at the State Office Building in Trenton.

The booklet contains tips on how to check your car, how to change a tire, and how to use a jack. It also contains tips on how to check your car's oil, how to check your car's brakes, and how to check your car's engine.

Medical grads choose to stay for internships, residencies

The College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ) reported that more physicians this year to New Jersey hospital internship and residency programs than ever before.

Eighty-two CMDNJ graduates have chosen to remain in the state, many more than the 66 who have chosen to go to other teaching hospitals in the United States to complete the next phase of their medical education, according to Dr. Stanley S. Bergen Jr., president of the college.

Their choices are part of a nationwide matching program for new medical graduates. Last year 41 CMDNJ graduates chose New Jersey hospitals, and in 1973, 33 remained in the state.

"Our students have more success every year in the matching program," Dr. Bergen said. "More than half of them were matched with the program they listed as their first choice. "But even more important, our graduates are remaining in the state, they are young, highly motivated physicians who will make meaningful contributions to the health care of the people of New Jersey."

Most of the physicians who elected to remain in the state attended CMDNJ's New Jersey Medical School, which took part in 80 percent of the 102 students who took part in the matching program received their first choice. Others were in the college's Fifth Channel program, a special accelerated training program that qualifies American graduates of foreign medical schools for internships in the U.S. This year the program yielded 10 graduates, four of whom chose CMDNJ affiliated hospitals for their internships.

Incidence of cancer may link to deficient immune system

The incidence of cancer may be higher among people with deficient immune systems, according to an article in Science, the weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Further, reports staff adviser Joan L. Marx, "many" researchers believe that an individual's immune response is involved in oncogenesis—the development of cancerous tumors.

It is already known that the immune responses of cancer patients are deficient. What is unknown is whether the deficiency of immune response is the cause or effect of the cancer. Deficient immune response may hinder or promote tumor growth.

Thurlow named to new position by conservation unit

The Somerset-Union Soil Conservation District has appointed Ernest Thurlow to the position of district manager of natural resources. As the two-county district configures to urbanize, increased demands are being placed on the area's natural resources. The district, established by state law and local government, is responsible for establishing and carrying out programs for the wise use of their resources.

Technical assistance on resource problems such as soil, water, wildlife and forestry is made available to local people and government through the district program.

In his new position, Thurlow will administer the district's program and coordinate the activities with the various technical agencies. The position is a result of cooperation between the New Jersey State Soil Conservation Committee, the Somerset and Union County Board of Freeholders, and the Somerset-Union Conservation District.

Thurlow is married and a native of Central New Jersey. He holds a bachelor's degree in soil from the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, Rutgers University. He recently completed his graduate work in soil chemistry at Rutgers and will receive his M.S. in October. Thurlow has worked in many jobs of soil and water research while employed with the Somerset-Union district.

Education program assists in prevention of lung disease

Professional, public and patient education are three methods in which the American Lung Association of New Jersey hopes to achieve its goal of the prevention and control of lung disease, according to the 1974 annual report of this Christmas Seal Association. The report, which points out that "it is only through the support and guidance of their volunteer leaders and contributors that the Christmas Seal Association is able to continue its work."

Deadline put back for student wage

WASHINGTON — Employers authorized to employ full-time students under the Fair Labor Standards Act at subminimum wages have been given an additional two months to file applications with the nearest regional office of the Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor.

These include retail and service establishments and institutions of higher education, Federal, State and local government, and labor-for employment standards, said the department, permitting employers to hire immediately without waiting to complete and submit the new forms, has been extended through April 31.

Museum offering N.J. history book

The changing history and "lifestyle" that characterized New Jersey in the mid-century provide a selective wealth of material for "A Royal Province: New Jersey 1726-1776," a new publication from the State Museum's Bureau of Cultural History.

Politics and people of the period are described in detail, and an informative chronology of key events in both North America and Europe is included. Photographs and related history of objects, documents, paintings, furniture, armor and miscellaneous household items that were shared at Sandy Hook and the Sandy Hook State Park and the beach, also featured will be included in the book.

TV to pay visit to Sandy Hook

A visit to Sandy Hook and a look at a clam bake will be among the topics featured during "Jersey Weekend" Wednesday, July 24, at 10 p.m. and Thursday, July 25 at 8 p.m. Viewers will see the "lightest of Navesink" in Sandy Hook and the Sandy Hook State Park and the beach, also featured will be included in the book.

Memorial's volunteers give $10,000 for new equipment

Memorial General Hospital has been able to purchase $10,000 in new equipment, thanks to the latest donation by the hospital's Volunteer Guild.

The support Memorial General has received from the Guild over the years has been outstanding, and we are most grateful to them for their latest efforts. The cost of equipment today is phenomenal, and it is through the recent donation that the Guild continues to aid us in providing the best possible care to our patients," executive director Murray J. Basso, said. Since its establishment in 1961, the Volunteer Guild has contributed more than $100,000 to the hospital.

Heading the purchase list is a $5,000 electrically-powered operating room table, used for positioning patients during surgery. Other purchases include a $3,000 cardiac monitor and defibrillator for the hospital's emergency room—used for cardiac patients; the machine checks the heart's beating and then monitors the heartbeats, heart rate and various other vital signs—$1,200 electrocardiograph machine which measures and records variations in action of the heart; and a $1,600 electrocardiograph chair, used for positioning and moving stroke patients.

According to Mrs. William Roberts, past president of the Guild, the money was raised through such projects as the Pedler's Fair, a popular annual event, which alone netted a total of $1,500 this year. Other projects which benefited the hospital's fund-raising efforts include the annual fund-raising dinner, the annual fund-raising luncheon, the annual fund-raising picnic, and the annual fund-raising golf tournament.

The check was presented to Basso at the Guild's annual installation meeting. The new officers are: Mrs. John Rousner of Union, president; Mrs. Edwin Hyman of Union, vice-president; Mrs. Herbert Butler of Union, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Madden of Union, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Marjorie of Elizabeth, treasurer.

Job opportunities for college grads up from last year

WASHINGTON—Job opportunities for 1974 college graduates are expected to be 10 percent more than last year's level. This is the latest conclusion of several surveys summarized in an article in the latest issue of the U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Outlook Quarterly.

The College Placement Council survey, based on information from 607 employers, indicates that employment of new graduates in all disciplines and degree levels is expected to be 11 percent higher than overall hiring in 1973. A total of 90,000 job openings are anticipated this year, an increase of about 10,000 more than were reported in 1973 which was considered the last "good" year for recruiting.

While the survey indicates that employment increases will vary considerably from industry to industry, employers expect to hire 31 percent more graduates in the year ending in 1974. Employment of graduates in business administration is expected to increase by all degree levels. Only graduates from non-technical programs other than business administration are expected to decline in employment.

12-week course in tool, die skills

The New Jersey Tooling and Machining Institute in Irvington has begun recruitment of students for a 12-week full-time course in precision tooling training for future tool, die and moldmakers, which will begin in September. Twenty trainees will be accepted for the classes, with recruiting being done with the assistance of the New Jersey Employment Service, the Veterans Administration, high schools and community agencies.

The institute began its first such course June 24, with 24 enrollees. Upon completion of the program, each of the graduates will be placed in shops of members of the New Jersey Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association, which began a four-year on-the-job apprenticeship program in 1968. The U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, will be related courses at the institute in the coming months.

European beetle found in Bergen

The European Alfalfa beetle, a potentially destructive pest of alfalfa clover and carmelina has been discovered for the first time in the United States in a very small area of the meadows in Bergen County, according to William M. Crenshaw, director, Division of Plant Industry, New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

The insect was discovered by Dr. R. L. Jacques, a professor of biology at Fairleigh Dickinson University, while on a field trip with some of his students. The pest was subsequently identified by Dr. Robert Gordon of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Newark study finds automobile exhaust a reason for lead poisoning in children

Auto emissions—as well as eating paint chips—may be an important cause for lead poisoning in children, according to Dr. Morris J. Jaselew, who directs the Newark lead laboratory at the New Jersey Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

Dr. Jaselew, associate professor in the school's department of preventive medicine, has completed a study in collaboration with Rutgers University scientists that showed that blood lead concentrations in children were directly related to the distance of their dwellings from major traffic arteries.

"Children living within 100 feet of a major roadway were almost twice as likely to have blood lead levels in a dangerous range than those living more than 200 feet away," Dr. Jaselew said. "Furthermore, the traffic densities carried by the roadways were also found to be very significant in their effect on the occurrence of cases of lead poisoning."

Libraries to have Blue Shield data

EARTHBOUND

By JOSEPH TOBIN Director, Ecology and Conservation, Wove Hill Center for Environmental Studies, New York, N.Y.

One of the premises on which any sound environmental education endeavor might be based would be awareness of the antiquity of life and the evolution of the state of New Jersey.

Why is it that so many people who are concerned about the environment and who are interested in the history of the state of New Jersey do not know the history of the state of New Jersey?

Homeowners in flood plains focus of university research

Investigators from Temple University and the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business are conducting a major survey of why people choose to live in disaster-prone areas, in order to help the New Jersey communities under study. The survey is headed by Joseph J. Pignali Sr. of Temple and Robert B. Vanderwey of Pennsylvania State University. The survey is part of a larger study of why people choose to live in disaster-prone areas, in order to help the New Jersey communities under study. The survey is headed by Joseph J. Pignali Sr. of Temple and Robert B. Vanderwey of Pennsylvania State University.

Temple's Institute for Survey Research, in cooperation with the Wharton School, is conducting the survey of a random sample of homeowners living in coastal and inland areas of the United States susceptible to natural disasters. Interviews are also being conducted in California, Florida, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia.

Pilkington will conduct Trailside snake show

"Snakes (Fact and Fancy)" will be discussed on Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Trailside Plantarium in the Park County Building. The program is part of a series of educational talks on snakes. The Trailside Plantarium is located at the intersection of State and Park Streets.

Jazzmen to play at Echo Lake on Wednesday night

The Joe Gatto Jazz Combo will present a program in the Union County Park Center, Westfield and Mountainide, next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. The rain date is Monday, July 22, for the jazz concert. The group is a blend of talented musicians who have been featured as individuals in past years with some of the better known big show bands. All now live in the Union County area and play local engagements such as at the Plainfield Country Club.

The leader, Joe Gatto of Cranford, has featured for five years with the Herbie Pines Orchestra which appeared at major theaters such as the Paramount and the Strand in New York City. He recorded "Burdles" for RCA. On the saxophone is John Piazza, who played with the Charles Spivak orchestra among others. Nick Sabatelli on trumpet, played with the Sherry Sherrod Orchestra. Frank Marodi has been percussionist with the Balto Hoagie Symphony and many stage bands. A musical soloist will also participate in the program.

The appearance of the Joe Gatto Combo in Echo Lake Park will be in cooperation with the American Federation of Musicians, Local 151. The program is part of a series of educational talks on snakes. The Trailside Plantarium is located at the intersection of State and Park Streets.

TELLING TREE TALES—Richard West, professor of forestry, demonstrates the use of an increment borer to Cook College students Edward Gilman, left, of West Orange and Virginia Bukowski of West Hill, N.Y. The instrument extracts a small section of a tree which can be used to determine the tree's age, growth rate and history.

Forest as classroom Collegians learn in trees

How to take a forest inventory—and how not to get lost in the woods. These are two of the areas covered in a field-practice program for forestry majors at Cook College of Rutgers University.

During the three-week session students live at Beermerville, a Rutgers-owned outdoor educational facility adjacent to Stokes State Forest.

Participants take a deer census, visit a sawmill, study tree growth, learn to use forestry instruments and draw topographic maps. They also examine Rutgers' research plots and learn how to set up plots of their own.

Richard West, professor of forestry at Cook College, who has headed the annual sessions since 1962, says that so important as anything the students learn as individuals is how to work in crews the way most professional foresters do.

"Some students think forest service is essentially a lone's job. It is this way someone wants to go into it, field practice gives him a chance to see that he may have made the wrong choice."

In actual fact, according to Prof. West, very few students react to the session with anything but enthusiasm, and they usually complain that they wish they had participated sooner.

"I've done a great deal of individual research," one student explains. "Now, I've learned some practical field technique. I realize that I could have done the work in a much more efficient manner."

By the time forestry students graduate, they'll learn everything from the management of land to the utilization of wood products, explained Prof. West, who notes that the young people are preparing for a variety of careers.

Among the 45 students doing field work this summer is a young woman who hopes to become a naturalist for a state park. In this capacity, she would conduct tours, advise local schools on matters of ecology and conservation and do research.

Other students hope for positions in park, timber, and/or wildlife management. Some would like to work for recreational agencies and some hope to find jobs with paper and lumber companies that hire foresters to manage their lands. Still others would like to teach.

Forestry and wildlife is the second largest department at environmentally oriented Cook College. At one time, almost all forestry majors had rural backgrounds. Today it is much easier to find a student from Newark or anywhere than from Bellmets' Milk or Myrtle Grove.

Prof. West attributes this trend to the fact that young people in general are more aware of the environment. A student from Camden sums up the overall feeling of the group.

"Once a city dweller is lucky enough to discover the natural world, I don't see how he could ever go back to ignoring it."

Towing a trailer—without a hitch

Summertime travel finds many cars on our highways with a variety of attached conveyances—camping trailers, boat trailers, house trailers and the like. This annual surge in towed vehicles by a relatively large number of drivers makes it doubly important to set forth some safety rules. Here are some tips that can help drivers keep their trailers in their proper place safely and easily:

1. Make sure that the trailer you choose is not more than half the weight of the car that will pull it. Otherwise, you will not only put undue strain on your car's engine, you will also be at a dangerous disadvantage should a stabilizing motion occur on the highway—such as abrupt tug-of-war, you don't want your car overloaded.
2. When loading the trailer, use the 60-40 principle—60 percent of the weight on the front half of the trailer, and 40 percent on the back. If too much weight is at the rearward portion of the trailer, it interferes (by a "seesaw" action over the trailer wheels) with your car's rear-wheel traction. A badly rear-weighted trailer can—in extreme situations—even lift your car off its wheels.
3. Have an hitch checked by a professional, using little control over the two moving vehicles.
4. For increased safety (and, in most areas, for traffic legality) be sure that, if the size of the trailer obscures vision in your interior rearview mirror, you have an outside mounted rearview mirror to check following traffic in case of stops or lane change maneuvers.
5. Make sure all lights and turn signals work before starting. If the trailer is rested, ask the attendant to demonstrate how they work. Trailers with their own braking system—ones which work automatically in conjunction with the car's braking—are preferable. Be sure they must be checked by the dealer before leaving the car lot.
6. For best support and control of the two vehicles, make sure tire pressure is correct on both car and trailer before you start, and check pressure whenever you stop for the night. Cold pressures (check before road-tensioning heat brings them higher) for the car are not too high up to 32 pounds. But be sure you know the proper pressure for the trailer tires—they often require 45 pounds, and boat-trailer tires sometimes as much as 65 pounds.
7. The trailer hitch and safety chains should be inspected at each stop.
8. Make sure you have complete insurance protection. Your car insurance alone may not cover completely any mishaps involved with an attached trailer. Insurance protection is available in short-term form to cover the entire trip.
9. Always keep in mind that driving will be different with the trailer's extra weight and extra length following you down the road. Be sure to allow plenty of room when passing; be careful to overtake the brakes or you could cause a dangerous backing-up of car and trailer without warning.
10. Finally, especially if the trip is an extended one, keep that trailer in good functional mechanical condition—and never, under any circumstances, allow any person or persons to ride it.

Path across edge of Reservation suggested for Rt. 78

By BOB LINDEN
"Heavy public response" was the reason cited in May by N.J. Transportation Commissioner Alan Sagner for the preparation of a second R.I. 78 Environmental Impact Statement draft.

More than 20 letters were received by the transportation department, most objecting to the highway link between Springfield and Berkeley Heights through the Watchung Reservation. A factor not mentioned in the draft statement, it is suggested that the highway be built through the Watchung Reservation, and a portion of the road from Springfield Avenue in Union was recently opened in conjunction with the new R.I. 24 Kennedy Parkway of the Summit-Shore Hills boundary, although the R.I. 78 link between Union and Newark International Airport is being built through the Watchung Reservation.

Sagner's statement on May 30, however, was the objections raised by various government agencies, including the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, which questioned technical measurement procedures of air, water and noise pollution.

This week it was learned that the U.S. Department of the Interior suggested further study of a possible alignment which would gradually reduce the acreage required for building the highway through the Watchung Reservation.

Rt. 78 is under construction through Union and Springfield, and a portion of the road from Springfield Avenue in Union was recently opened in conjunction with the new R.I. 24 Kennedy Parkway of the Summit-Shore Hills boundary, although the R.I. 78 link between Union and Newark International Airport is being built through the Watchung Reservation.

progressing rapidly; the through link to the already completed section from Berkeley Heights west to Harrisonburg, Pa., depends upon the construction of the road's 5.2 mile section between Springfield and Berkeley Heights, instead of through the Watchung Reservation.

"It is responsive to the first Environmental Impact Statement (E.I.S.) draft. The Interior Department found that an unusually rigid, inflexible situation exists because the highway was already under construction in Springfield and bridges were built not far from the western end of the Watchung Reservation. The interior report observed that 70 percent of the land needed for construction had already been condemned."

"This project and adjacent portions of R.78 are sufficiently far along in their development that alternatives are virtually ruled out," said the Interior Department. "We believe this is a very satisfactory situation because the highway was already under construction in Springfield and bridges were built not far from the western end of the Watchung Reservation. The interior report observed that 70 percent of the land needed for construction had already been condemned."

The main concern of the Interior Department, said an official in that agency's environmental review office, is the preservation of park land and other green spaces, particularly in an urban environment. The department's comments on the E.I.S. stated: "We believe that the Reservation's protection or replacement should be a primary interest in the decision-making process for R.78, an environmental review officer for the department said.

YOUR DOG DOESN'T EAT CANS. SO WHY PAY FOR THEM?

Meal for meaty Gaines-burgers give your dog as much great taste and solid food as the leading national canned dog food. And Gaines-burgers cost less, too.

As much as or more than the leading canned food, Gaines-burgers cost less, too.

What Gaines-burgers don't have is a can. Which is one of the reasons they're less expensive.

TWO BURGERS EQUAL ONE CAN.

Instead of opening a can, you unwrap two Gaines-burgers.

They're the same in solid food content as a 16-ounce can of dog food—without the water. (Canned food is up to 74% water.)

One 12-ounce box of Gaines-burgers gives your dog six meaty meals—or as much as six cans. Yet 12 Gaines-burgers cost less than six cans of the leading dog food. Compare prices for yourself in your own supermarket, and you'll see.

So when you buy Gaines-burgers, you buy your dog food by the week instead of the can—and save.

WE'LL PAY YOU TO PROVE YOUR DOG WILL LIKE THEM.

You may have seen our TV commercials where we show that dogs who eat canned food love Gaines-burgers.

That's the only way to prove your dog will love them to love your dog. Try them. Which is why we've provided the coupon below.

Take it to the supermarket tomorrow. It's good for 10¢ toward a box of Gaines-burgers.

Tenant association aide renews call for changes in town rent control law

By ANNE GOLD
Delay in updating the local rent control ordinance was assailed by Joseph Brador, vice-president of the Springfield Tenant's Association, at the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night at Town Hall.

Speaking to the committee and 35 members of the audience, Brador noted that for 10 months he had been calling on the township to have landlords file lists of all rents and charges with the township clerk so tenants can check all the facts.

The tenant leader also stated that he had urged, more than six weeks ago, an amendment concerning tax surcharges. He noted that a landlord can pass tax increases on to the tenants, but there is no provision to reduce rent if taxes are reduced. With the town facing a continuing challenge of the tax provisions in the ordinance, Brador urged that the governing body delete all references to tax surcharges from the rent control ordinance.

A student speaker from the audience was Harold Jones, chairman of the First District Citizens for Action. He noted that the N. J. Department of Transportation had cleared all sedimentation from the Rahway River, but only within the Rt. 78 right-of-way. Jones stressed that the increased flow would simply spill over to aggravate flooding when it ran into the silted portions created by the highway construction.

Township Attorney Jay Bloom disclosed that he had written about the increased flood hazard to Transportation Commissioner Alan Sagner and added that he would pursue the matter further.

Discussing another problem related to the highway, Brador noted that the township had been advised to have a 42 AFS visitors stop here before ending U.S. year.

Swim pool dance is called success; registration starts for August classes

The first dance of the year sponsored by the Springfield Community Pool last weekend was a "huge success," according to a pool spokesman. The next dance is scheduled for Aug. 31.

Registration for the August swimming classes will be held today and Friday. Swimming lessons will be given to all children who have reached their seventh birthday or are older. Classes will begin on Monday. Readers may contact the pool staff for any further information.

Second place went to Karen Apicella, Haley Arnold, Cheryl Pittenger, Valerie Liccausi, Betha Sanchez, Marie Apicella, Clara Harvill, Steven Terenbaum, Joseph Loverde, and Steve Loverde.

Third place went to Sandy Brenner, Theresa Saracino, AnnMarie Cook, Melissa Zandoli, Beverly Diland, Sharon Rothman, Marisa Apicella, Sam Kasperstein, Mark Miller, and Nick D'Arrile.

The hobby show was held on July 17. Winners in the category of most original were Sharon Rothman and Donna Alberti for their comic book collection. Lisa Cook's collection was awarded a ribbon as the cutest and Scott Edelman received a ribbon for his artistic ability.

In the sack races, first place went to Lisa Cook, Tina Apicella, Theresa Pittenger, Melissa Monticello, Vicky Saracino, Susan Vargas, Bettyann Brenner, David Grollnik, Matt Kasperstein, and Jeff Esposito.

Second place went to Karen Apicella, Haley Arnold, Cheryl Pittenger, Valerie Liccausi, Betha Sanchez, Marie Apicella, Clara Harvill, Steven Terenbaum, Joseph Loverde, and Steve Loverde.

42 AFS visitors stop here before ending U.S. year

Springfield and Mountaineer families who have done duty through 1974 to 42 American Field Service students on their final "bus stop" before returning home. The students, from 23 countries, departed the globe had spent the year living in and attending high schools in towns throughout western New York.

Next year, their local counterpart will be George Andreas Broch of Norway, who will spend the year as a member of the Donald Lee family and will attend Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, as a senior. Jackie Bonamico of Yugoslavia is returning to his AFS student for the summer.

The July bus stop was directed by Mrs. Sidney Reichler, the local chapter president, serving on the committee with her were Julie Stahlin, Lisa Newton, Judy Tobin, Sidney Kruger, Mrs. Paul Wiseman, Mrs. Richard Platoff and Mrs. Neal Blumenthal.

The activities for the farthest aim of July, and their host families included a trip to New York City, a day at the beach, a family picnic at Seely's Pond in the Watchung Reservation, and the annual pool picnic and talent show.

Mayor Edward Sileo, of Springfield spoke to the students at the picnic. The bus for the shore trip was provided by the Springfield Recreation Department. There were also parties held at night with the local teenagers.

Students' achievements cited by director of summer school

"A rewarding and enjoyable experience" are the words used by Blanche N. Trehan, director of the 1974 Springfield summer school program, in describing her reaction to participating in the project, which holds its final classes tomorrow.

"Students have acquired knowledge in many areas of academic pursuit, as well as new skills in the arts and sciences," (Continued on page 4)

Firemen first in state to take heart attack prevention tests

Members of the Springfield Fire Department took part in the first cardiovascular tests for a heart attack prevention program sponsored by the New Jersey Medical School at the National Heart and Lung Institute.

The project, known as "Mr. Fit," is part of a nationwide effort to lower the incidence of heart attack, the greatest cause of American death, through initial testing of blood pressure and cholesterol levels and an optional follow-up treatment program. If the participant proves to be a "high risk potential" for heart failure, in addition to the testing, questions are asked regarding general health and smoking habits.

Firemen were chosen as the first participants in the pilot project, a department spokesman noted, since their type of job requires straight up the heart. Members of the FEMA throughout New Jersey have been invited to take part in the effort.

Four cars crash at Maple-Morris

Four motorists, including a Springfield teenager, escaped injury early Tuesday when their autos were involved in an accident at one of the township's most hazardous intersections—Morris and Maple avenues.

According to township police, James W. Luedeker, 18, of 586 Warren Ave., Springfield, was stopped on Morris at 12:51 a.m. when his auto collided with a car northbound on Maple, operated by John J. Olock, 23, of Kenilworth.

They said Olock's car spun around and hit up against Stewart P. Lane, 23, of Great Neck, N.Y., which was westbound on Morris, forcing Lane's vehicle into one ledge it, operated by Michael J. Cardone, 42, of Short Hills.

Police said there were no injuries and Luedeker's Olock's and Lane's cars all had to be towed from the scene. Luedeker and Olock signed official complaints against each other for alleged reckless driving.
