Spring Brook landlord wins 'hardship' hike

Officials gathered for a meeting regarding the Spring Brook landlord's request for a hardship increase.

4 pct. boost authorized by officials
 Agreement near on creek project

The Township Committee Tuesday night granted a four percent hardship rent increase to the landlord of Spring Brook Village garden apartments. The unanimous vote came two weeks after the governing body heard from attorneys for the landlord and tenants in a recommendation by the Rent Leveling Board which would have raised rents 7 1/2 percent.

The figure was a 2 1/2 percent increase in addition to the annual 2 1/2 percent increase permitted under the local rent control ordinance. This was the first landlord hardship appeal heard by the governing body since rent control was instituted nearly three years ago.

The bulk of the town's rent leveling agenda consisted of a review of the ordinance which was devised to assist flood relief, including disclosure that final agreement is near on a long-sought legislative agreement for a $425,000 project along the Spring Brook.

Mayor Nat Stokes presided at the meeting. It is expected the four percent hardship rent increase will be implemented in the next few weeks.

The increase drew sharp criticism later in the evening from Joseph Buehrer, vice president of the Spring Brook Tenants Association. He said that the landlord Dr. Ferdinand Weisberg "made a bad investment" in the town's rent leveling program.

Buehrer said the committee "You have got a bad precedent. The landlord will continue his harassment of tenants, and he will come back for more."
