District board hears plea on job-training

By HELEN REYNOLDS
The Union County Regional High School District board is considering a comprehensive job-training program at every campus for the growing percentage of students who do not want a four-year college degree, a district Board of Education member said Tuesday.

"We don't require a kid to leave his 'home school' if he wants to take courses that will get him into a four-year college," according to board member Roland Hecker of Berkeley Heights. "Maybe it's time to take the same approach toward courses leading to an entry-level job."

Hecker pointed out that students from the Springfield-Mountside area must transfer away from their "home school." Jonathan Dayton High, if they want to take advantage of district offerings in cosmetology or auto mechanics. These two courses are offered at David Brearley High in Kenilworth and Arthur Johnson High in Clark, but not at the other Regional campuses: Dayton in Springfield and Gov. Livingston High in Berkeley Heights. Similarly, students from the other campuses must transfer to Dayton for graphic arts and to Gov. Livingston for electronics.

"This made sense when 90 percent of our kids planned to go to a four-year college, but it might not make any sense today," said Hecker. In his own area, Berkeley Heights, the 50-percent figure "has dropped to 20 percent in the last seven years," Hecker continued. "And I imagine the statistics are about the same in the rest of the district. I think we have to reexamine a lot of our goals."

HECKER'S FAR-RANGING PROPOSAL was an offshoot of a "home school" discussion sparked by parents demanding assurance that student musicians will not be thrown out of a district-wide orchestra unless they transfer from the other three schools to Gov. Livingston.

The school board approved plans Aug. 2 for a classroom orchestra at Gov. Livingston, including any students willing to transfer there from the other three schools on a half-time or a full-time basis.

George Schlenker of Kenilworth, father of a young musician, said students from all four schools last year proved their willingness to rehearse after class, to provide their own transportation and to perform in concert—all without receiving any extra credit toward graduation.

"You had a good thing started," said Schlenker about the extra-curricular orchestra, and students "deserve a clear assurance that it will be vigorously continued."

Cieri, Kaish stress better quality of life

Bill Cieri and Stanley Kaish, Democratic candidates for the Springfield Township Committee, this week outlined a "set of priorities" that they said "will govern our decisions as members of the Township Committee."

Cieri and Kaish stated, "Candidates for local office often promise the electorate that they will improve the quality of life for them. The Democratic Independents 200 years ago promised all men (and women) the right to 'the pursuit of happiness.' We feel that these two are one and the same. Improvement of our citizens' quality of life refers to their opportunity to gain pleasure and contentment from living in Springfield."

"In each instance," Cieri and Kaish continued, "we support steps that will provide relief: further flood control projects; laws restricting quarry activities; spending of necessary money to train and enhance our police force; continued equitable rent control legislation; strict enforcement of our (Continued on page 13)

Current issue: tennis lighting

The Union County Regional High School District board will keep "hands off" when citizens ask their municipal officials to donate lights for Regional tennis courts.

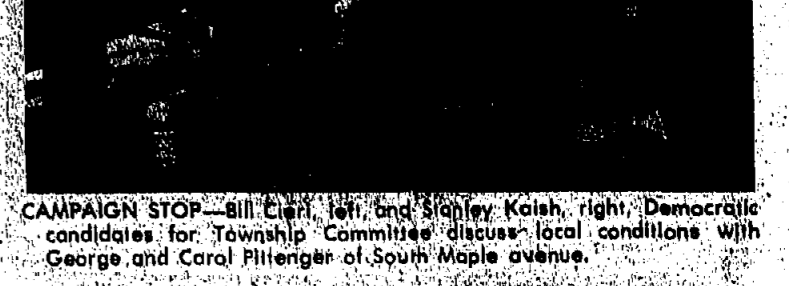

Marvin and Terry Strauss of Springfield are leading a petition campaign asking the Township Committee to donate lights for night tennis at Jonathan Dayton Regional High, where four courts will soon be constructed.

"I think it would behoove us to encourage towns to install lighting on all Regional tennis courts," board member Stephen Marsinak proposed Tuesday at a meeting in Arthur Johnson High at Clark. "It could (Continued on page 13)

Temple plans special events before holidays

Temple Sha'arey Shalom will observe Shabbat with activities starting at 7:30 p.m. on the evening of Sept. 11 at Springfield Avenue and Shunpike road in Springfield.
A temple spokesman explained that the shabbat service sets the mood for the coming Jewish holidays: Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur, a time for reflecting on events passed, setting new goals and evaluating hopes and accomplishments.
Dr. Sidney Wilkins, chairman of the temple's social action committee, said the guest speaker before the shabbat service will be David Sznay, a graduate of Rutgers University, who will discuss "Alternatives for an Arab-Israeli Peace Settlement." Sznay represents Breira, an organization founded in 1965 at Rutgers by a group of Jewish activists seeking an alternative to the Zionist point of view.
Breira believes that territory gained in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war should be open to negotiations with guaranteed borders, according to a temple spokesman. He said that American Jews should form their own opinions about Israel, not necessarily reflecting policies set forth by Israel.

Thousands of Union County residents in the 12th Congressional District are expected to participate in one of the largest public opinion polls conducted by any congressional office.
Every fifth consecutive year, I am sending a questionnaire to residents of the district. It should be delivered through the mails within a week or so.

IN PAST TENSE

ONE YEAR AGO — Three possible alignments for R. 78 in and around the Watchung Reservation are termed acceptable by the U.S. Department of Interior, which rejects the "no build" alternative. The anti-highway group called Impact 78 disputes whether the highway will relieve R. 22. TOM SANTIAGUA rejoins the staff at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School as athletic director. He had taught history and social sciences at the school from 1962 to 1967 and was assistant basketball coach. The Regional High School Board approves the introduction of a vocabulary unit as part of all English classes. Students will spend three weeks each year mastering lists of 300 words.

20 YEARS AGO — Springfield's DeVege-Discant Center on R. 22 doubles its size. The facility is the flagship store for the DeVege chain. Former Springfield police chief WILLIAM J. THOMPSON is hit by a car while crossing Morris avenue in front of the post office. He suffers two fractures of the right leg and lacerations of the left hand. Area grocery stores advertise apples at four pounds for 25 cents, sirloin steaks for 79 cents a pound and leg of lamb for 53 cents a pound.

40 YEARS AGO — Jonathan Dayton Regional High School opens its doors for the first time to 823 students. The Regional Board of Education prepares for the formal dedication next month. The Newark Bears baseball team signs RAY SCHMIDT of Springfield. He is to begin with the Yankees farm club in four years after he completes studies at Springfield College. Area theaters feature "Wee Willie Winkie" starring Shilby Temple and Ann Sothern.

LIBRARY A Russian giant

By ROSE P. SIMON
 The Springfield Public Library lists the following titles among the recently received books:
TURGENEV—LITERARY GENIUS
 "The Gentle Beast."
 By V.S. Prichet.
 Two women dominated the life of the Russian literary genius, Ivan Turgenev. The first was his tragically ugly mother, Yavara Petrovna, whose enormous estate at Spasskaya was her veritable kingdom. She controlled every aspect of the 5,000 souls in 20 villages. Her arrogant, capricious and cruel treatment of her serfs revolted the delicate sensibilities of her favorite son Ivan. After her husband's death, she turned to her son for the love she missed in her marriage. Ivan's other major attachment (there were more, not as important) was the celebrated Spanish operatic soprano, Pauline Viardot. He was devoted constantly to her; yet, there was never any sort of sexual fulfillment. He became a good friend of her husband, and throughout their lives he managed to be in close touch with them, living with them or close by, or writing frequently.

"Fathers and Sons," a novel limited for its literary aspirations (no free press, no personal freedom). Turgenev spent most of his life abroad, returning to his home only intermittently. His literary contemporaries included Daudet, Dostoevsky, Flaubert, Gogol, Tolstoy, Turgenev and Zola.

Prichet discusses many of Turgenev's publications: "Rudin," "The Fathers and Sons," "A Month in the Country" and "Virgin Soil."
"Sketches from a Deer Road"
 by Gregory Jaynes
 Since the spring of 1974, the Jaynes family has been living on a small Georgia farm in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

First chair-- By Peter Heumann

Sal whispered I should take a look at the guy in the next chair. Of course, I could only see his head as the sheet covered the rest of him. He seemed to be a pleasant young man, in his middle 20s or so. As usual, I felt a twinge of jealousy seeing another's full head of hair. Other than that, I saw nothing special. There were no visible scars, for instance.
 "One of the most famous people ever to attend Rutgers?" Sal said in a low voice. "Once was really a Big Man on Campus."
 I looked again. His size wasn't typical of an athlete in the football or basketball business, but one never knew.
 "Sports hero?" I asked. Sal wagged his head. I was willing to play 20 Questions with him as long as it didn't cost anything.
 "Big brain," I guessed. "A Rhodes scholar, just returned from England who is being groomed to become a chief justice in the Supreme Court?" Sal grinned appreciatively but let me know I was trying desperately to lay off the man.
 "A giant with the coeds," I tried next.
 "Was voted as the Most Likely to Succeed in your class?" I asked.
 "I was just filling in time. I had recently seen the daughter of Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds on television."
 "It's gonna give you a break," he said. "Perhaps, I should have said infamous, not famous."
 "Terribly sporting of you, Sal," I said with a bit of sarcasm. "I'll probably guess in a second now."
 "Infamous? Was the man a murderer or a molester of children?" If he was, what was he doing outside of jail?
 "Where and when did he become infamous, Sal?"
 "Some years back, right on the Rutgers campus."
 "You sure he didn't run the wrong way with the football in the Princeton game?" Sal shook his head. "Did it have anything to do with girls?" I asked.
 "Yes and no," I was progressing.
 "He was a cheer leader who made obscene gestures?"
 "No, but you're finally getting onto the main track." My god, the fellow raved a third look. His face did show a rebellious spirit. If one can read such things in a mere expression, that's something. A fun-loving, mischievous type, a guy who could lead college students in party raids. To be in the same shop with such an important figure was something to tell the grandchildren about.

Profiles of candidates Republicans for freeholder

Ruocco

A William Ruocco, Republican township committeeman and former mayor of Springfield, believes the Democratic majority on the Union County Board of Freeholders is too eager to take over services performed better at the municipal level.
 "When elected freeholder, my top priority will be to coordinate municipal and county efforts so that savings can be passed back to the taxpayers," says Ruocco, making his second bid for a seat on the county board.
 Ruocco said his long experience in municipal government—as a Springfield committeeman since 1971, mayor in 1973, deputy mayor in 1975—has shown him that tax dollars spent at this level most directly address what the citizen wants. But county government is "growing at such an alarming rate" that it is equaling, or even surpassing, municipal government demand for tax dollars, Ruocco said.
 An electrical engineer, Ruocco was graduated from the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, N.Y., and is a resident for 16 years. He formerly lived in Union for five years. He and his wife, Jane, have three daughters—Kerissa, 16, and two younger ones.
 Ruocco's Township Committee assignments have included the areas of finance, administration, planning, welfare, recreation, industry and service as well as free commissions.
 "He has been a public library trustee and served on the municipal committee that established the Springfield swimming pool in 1964. He was named 'Citizen of the Year' in 1976 by the American-Italian Cultural Organization (AMICO)."

Heilmann

Herbert J. Heilmann, Jr., a Republican candidate for freeholder, held that position from 1973 to 1975 serving as the chairman of the purchasing department. Heilmann also served on the freeholder finance committee, the public and general welfare committees and the personnel committee.
 Heilmann has been active in local and county elections for 24 years, and campaigned actively for his father, former Assemblyman Herbert Heilmann Sr. He was an alternate delegate to the Republican national convention in 1976.
 The 50-year-old candidate is employed as secretary-treasurer of Local No. 152 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. He is a member of the Executive Board of the local and an administrator for the Federal Pension Plan. Heilmann is a member of the Knights of Columbus, past president of the Eagles organization and of the Union Park Chapter of the March of Dimes and the United Fund.
 Morgan is a veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps. He and his wife, Audrey, have three children.

Morgan

Robert Morgan, a Republican candidate for freeholder, feels reforms are needed in the juvenile court system. He said, "Neglect-of-care, important cultural resources—our young people is a continuing disgrace. Union County has made inadequate attempts to cope with this situation." He added, "The juvenile court system needs to be completely revamped."
 Morgan is serving his eighth year on the Roselle Park Borough Council. He served five years as the borough fire commissioner, two years as license-and-transportation commissioner and one year as the chairman of building and grounds. Morgan has been on several other local committees including six years on the finance committee.
 The 50-year-old candidate is employed by Public Service Electric and Gas Company as a supervisor in the electrical distribution department.
 He has participated in a number of Republican organizations including the Park Chapter of the March of Dimes and the United Fund.
 Morgan is a veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps. He and his wife, Audrey, have three children.

YOU AND YOUR MONEY Simple interest loans free of penalty fees

BY JUDITH G. BROADBENT
 A simple interest loan is one in which the borrower borrows only the exact amount of money needed.
 For example, if you wanted to borrow $5,000, that would be the amount. If the rate were 12 percent, your interest would be calculated on a day-to-day basis, rather than in advance. The interest you will be charged will be for the amount of money you are owing plus the number of days you keep the money.
 If you are late in making a payment, there wouldn't be the so-called "penalty fee." You would simply be charged additional interest on the number of extra days you had the money before making a payment. In a simple interest loan, the size of your interest payments will probably vary from month to month.

LETTERS OF THANKS
 Gary Fisher's great smile is missing now. Our family has made the adjustment superbly, realizing Gary won't be with us any more.
 We would have lost all else, too, if it had not been for Mildred Fisher; who gathered the churches, temples, schools, businesses and people of Mountaintop and surrounding towns together to have us, the money before financial disaster.
