The New Jersey Flower and Garden Show will begin its traditional celebration in an early spring on Saturday, Feb. 25 and will continue through March 5 at the Morristown National Guard Armory.

Amateur and professional gardeners will be able to stroll through 30 gardens to view "Creative Gardening" exhibits reflecting the show's theme, "Gardening: A Creative Adventure." The Metropolitan Area's largest floral exposition will be held over two weekends, by popular demand, and will feature large, medium and small gardens with indoor and outdoor water effects, formal and natural landscaping and colorful spring blooms. For naturals, Lavette Farnes will feature a "Woodland Garden" whose natural setting will be highlighted by six-foot rhododendron hybrids, a 38-foot Virginia pine and an 11-foot Japanese maple.

Formal beds of tulips provide color in a double-stroll garden designed by Morris County Gardeners and Florist Society. The garden contains evergreen, clipped, azaleas and a grassy area and is accented by a natural waterfall trickling off rock.

At an added feature, Outdoor Advertising Association of New Jersey has constructed a miniature flower show poster made entirely of flowers and plants.

Prominent among the education exhibits is Somerset County High School's garden demonstrating how herbs can be incorporated into a household garden and Mercer County Community College's demonstration propagation techniques.

The New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs has created an education garden, "For the Birds," demonstrating the kinds of plants that attract birds.

Other exhibitors include Cook College, Montville Landscaping Design, Hammer Floral Co., Rose, Inc., New Jersey State Florists Association, C. J. Calwell Nursery and A. Lombardi.

Search for Health

A diuretic (furosemide) commonly used in treating heart and kidney patients, may be a mechanism that can control the amount of sticky mucus that accumulates in diseased lungs.

The mechanism, called the chloride ion pump, has never been associated with membranes along the air passages. The use of drugs to locate and manipulate the chloride pump may help researchers determine whether the malfunctioning of the pump is a fundamental defect of patients with cystic fibrosis or asthma.

Scientists, sponsored in part by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and NIH's National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute, used sections of canine tracheal epithelia to show that the diuretic may influence the movement of water across membranes into the lungs by its action on the chloride ion pump.

The drug appears to work just below the layer of cells lining air passages of the lung. At this site, water begins to move across the layer of cells into the passages. The amount of water that moves whether the mucus is easily removed or whether it becomes sticky and clogs the passages.

Scientists explain that cells use their energy to set-up gradients, or differences, in water. The water then flows into the cell, and the cell swells. When the water from the cell enters the air passages, it carries mucus with it. The water then flows into the cell, and the cell swells. # West Pointer disputes claims Pluckemin was 'first academy'

West Point Academy has disputed the claims of the Pluckemin Academy that it was the first military academy in the United States.

While praising the work of Staten Island scholar Christopher L. Pluckemin in his book "The Pluckemin Academy," Alan C. Ampson, a military historian at West Point, said the Pluckemin Academy was not the first military academy in the United States.

Almon maintains that Brig. Gen. Henry Knox—founder of the Pluckemin Academy and a moving force behind the establishment of "The Point"—had no intention of creating anything permanent at Pluckemin.

However, both men admit there's a complete lack of written evidence as to what Knox did actually have in mind, and archaeological work to be conducted at Pluckemin by Drew University, Madison, may provide illumination for one side or the other.

At the crux of the disagreement is the location of the academy. The fact of such an elegant structure with lots of glass-paned, plastered walls and arched ceilings is the most persuasive evidence that it was intended to be more than temporary," says Sekel, whose historical research at Wagner College has focused attention on the ways that Lupus treatment can damage eyesight.

The I.E. Foundation of New Jersey, dedicated to the welfare of Lupus patients, meets at 7:30 on the first Wednesday of the month at Hoffmann-La Roche, Kingfield St., Nutley.

DOT unveils new 78 plan

The N.J. Department of Transportation unveiled changes that will be incorporated into its final R.I. 78 environmental impact statement at an information meeting last Thursday at the Berkeley Heights Municipal Building.

If the statement is approved, DOT will then begin work on a design plan and construction will be begun.

The DOT also has lowered the highway's profile, which officials say will reduce noise levels substantially. Reike said the three miles of noise barriers will be built within a five-mile roadway stretch which he said "will benefit the park and surrounding residential areas." The noise problem was the main reason for setting the highway into the ground.

The DOT also has made a change in the alignment to avoid the wetlands below the stables in the Watching Reservation.

The final statement will be sent to the Federal Highway Administration within two to three months, Reike said. Then, federal officials "will study it to see if we have enough documentation," a process that he said will probably take one year.

"Our engineers are supposed to give us information on the impact statement four weeks after it's completed," a Park Commission spokesman said.

He added that the commission will then meet to "make a determination on the DOT proposal based on its consultants' findings."

"We have been going over and watching the different changes," said the Park Commission president, Norman Hanson of Springfield, "but I can't speak until I get a completed study."

"DOT principal engineer Gary Toib said his department has no continuing plans should the statement fail to give federal and park commission approval," he said. DOT has never encountered similar situations with other road building before.

"We've pulled the roadway logway," said Reike who noted that the original center median has been narrowed from between 20 to 150 feet to the New Jersey standard road barrier width of 32 inches.

The median removal will mean a savings of land in the park," he added.

Sergeant injured in car chase

A Springfield police sergeant suffered head, neck and back injuries last Friday morning when his car collided with that of a larceny suspect he had chased from Springfield into Westfield.

Sgt. Donald O. Oliver is in traction at Overlook Hospital, Summit, where he is listed in satisfactory condition. Police said Oliver probably was hospitalized for two to three weeks.

Township police arrested Melissa Jacobs, 29, of Rodman Lane, Mountain Lake Park, a Knoxville, Tenn., resident who was a passenger in the car which had three police cars on a chase at speeds up to 100 mph. Jacobs was arrested in Springfield on Monday in connection with a hearing in Municipal Court. She is charged with larceny, assault, driving without a valid license, and driving without proper license and speeding.

Det. Lt. Sam Calabrese said Oliver was responding to a report of a disturbance behind the Center Barber Shop, 17 S. Springfield Ave., when he spotted the station wagon driven by Jacobs. When he flashed his red dome light, the suspect fled at a high speed, Calabrese said.

Oliver took up the chase, along with a patrol car driven by Paul George Slessel and William Sedak and an unmarked car driven by Calabrese and Det. Richard Brinsberg. Calabrese said he saw the suspect attempt to run Oliver's car off the road when the sergeant tried to pull alongside the fleeing station wagon.

Jacobs turned onto E. Broad street and continued into Westfield. The chase came to an abrupt halt when she tried to make a right turn into Woodland Avenue in Westfield and the car hit a curb. Moments later, Oliver's car "pulled into the rear of Jacobs' car." The woman was apprehended at the scene of the accident, but the juvenile managed to escape on foot. He was captured at 7:30 a.m. in Westfield police station. In the rear of the station wagon, police discovered a motorcycle stolen from the S. Springfield Avenue location.

AMICO adopts 10-year-old girl, orphaned by Italian earthquake

AMICO, the American-Italian Cultural Organization of Springfield, has adopted as its foster child an Italian girl who was orphaned by a recent earthquake in Italy.

The young girl, Pia de Donato, is a resident of the orphanage of the Oblate Sisters of Saint Francis Saverio, in Ariano Irpino, Avellino, Italy. Pia, 10, is in the fourth grade at school.

The AMICO adoption of Pia came about when four members of the organization, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Solla and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Del Vecchio, paid a social call to Solla's aunt, Rosina Bellotti, in Ariano.

Sigora Bellotti is a school teacher in the nearby city of Avellino and spends her summers at her home in Ariano, which is adjacent to the orphanage.

In addition, the Oblate Sisters are making handicrafts which they send to the United States for sale to supplement their income.

Girolamo Del Vecchio is also assembling packages of clothing to send to the orphanage. For use of the earthquake victims, the Solla and Del Vecchio brought the matter to the attention of their fellow club members, who decided to help the orphanage by adopting one of their charges.

The Union County government campaign for the United Way of Union County kicked off its drive at the courthouse in Elizabethtown, with the appearance of New York Giants football player Beasley Reese as the guest celebrity and signed autographs for county employees.

Reese was graduated from North Texas State University in 1976 with a degree in Journalism. He was drafted by Dallas and played on the Cowboys team for a year. In 1977 he joined the Giants as a defensive back and return specialist.

About the United Way, Reese said: "Who does more good than the United Way? As one of the leading fund-raising organizations for human-care services, it touches the lives of so many people in so many ways. A lot of athletes are into helping the United Way, and I'm no exception."

With county officials in Elizabethtown, Berkeley Heights, Fanwood, Kenilworth, Linden, Plainfield, Scotch Plains and Westfield, the county government campaign is being led by Art Gatal, "comptroller" and Geoff Persley, director of intergovernmental relations. The campaign goal is $12,000.

George Albanese, county manager, was also present at the festivities. He remarked: "The United Way and the county government have a very similar social objective, we work together to accomplish the same goal, which is helping people."

Corpse-snatcher fined, put on 4 years probation

Stuart Anker, 21, of Springfield has been fined $1,000 and placed on probation for four years for snatching a corpse from Hollywood Cemetery in Union.

County Court Judge Edward Beglin Jr. pronounced sentence late last month. Anker, who originally had pleaded "not guilty," but later admitted he was guilty of breaking and entering, removing a body from a grave and defacing a memorial to the dead.

The body, buried for 33 years, was snatched in Union on May 18 and found floating in a Springfield pond the next day. According to police, it was snatched from a grave at a Springfield party.

Anker and Daria Nitto, 16, who still awaits trial, were charged with actually snatching the body. Four others were indicted for participating in unlawful disposal of a body.

Anker was the second of the six defendants to be fined and placed on probation. Keith Brink, 27, of Springfield was fined $500 for the body disposal count. Nitto and the other three defendants await trial.

Public hearing set Wednesday on storm basin

The county will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in the Cranford Municipal Building on the proposed Lemoor Park storm water retaining basin.

Kenneth B. Marsh, principal hydraulic engineer for the county Department of Planning, said the final plan will be presented for the project intended to alleviate flooding along the Rahway River in Cranford, Kenilworth, Springfield, Union, Westfield and Rahway.

Representatives of Diako-Lehr Associates, which designed the flood-control project, will be in attendance. The design contract was financed with $488,000 in county-community development revenue-sharing funds. The estimated $2.7 million construction cost would be shared equally by the county and the six communities, according to Marsh. He said floodholders already have committed the county's 50 percent share.

Construction is expected to begin in the spring, according to Marsh, who called this "probably the most important flood-control project in the county."

The Cranford Municipal Building is at Springfield ave.

Girl scout brochures offer new concepts

Washington Rock Girl Scout Council in Westfield announced a new summer camp brochure is now available. For the first time the council is featuring camp brochures. "Summer '78" highlights Washington Rock's day camps and resident Camp Lou Henry Hoover, while the second brochure, entitled "Girl Scout Camping 1978," marks the beginning of a statewide restructured camping system for Girl Scouts.

The statewide brochure is a joint venture of 10 state council units which have collaborated to offer both scouts and non-scouts a choice of 11 resident camps and a diversity of programs at begins-through advanced levels.

The system is designed to expand sections of camped activities and programs such as gymnastics or sailing which may not be available in Girl Scout camps within these state councils.

"Summer '78" opens with a description of the variety of day camps features available at Camp Sisseton and Forest Lodge, including art, craftwork, games, sports and horseback riding—the program is almost entirely in elementary school.

The larger portion of the brochure deals with Washington Rock Council's Camp Lou Henry Hoover, located on Seward Lake in Sussex County. It features waterfront events such as swimming, canoeing, sailing and waterball. Campers get a chance to ride a horse at least once. Hoover campers also learn gymnastics and outdoor skills like backpacking or hiking. Scouts and non-scouts from grades three through 12 may attend Camp Hoover.

Red Cross has tips for winter

In the wake of two devastating snow storms that have hit the Eastern Unkon County area and with more snow possible, the Red Cross has taken beforehand for energy-related problems. Check fuel supplies before the snow arrives as delivery trucks may not be able to make deliveries if your area is snowed out.

"Make sure that you have a battery-powered radio, a flashlight with extra batteries and a supply of food on hand that does not require cooking, and can be easily prepared. If you encounter heating problems, to turn the heat on a delivery truck to prevent the pipes from freezing.

"Almost care should also be used in regard to portable heaters. One of the most important precautions that should be taken now is to eliminate fire hazards.

"Have your furnace checked and make sure that it doesn't overheat during a cold spell. If you have a fireplace, never leave it unattended. Remove all rubbish from the area of the heating unit.

"Listen to local radio and if it is at all possible, remain at home during major snow storms so that emergency vehicles may respond to emergencies and potential disasters.

"If it is necessary to drive during a storm, remember to check the gas gauge as cars use more fuel in winter and "warm". Leave the window open a crack and let the engine overheat it is a good idea to ride with two or three other people so that you can help each other if problems are encountered."

Why your next car should be a Volkswagen, and why that Volkswagen should come from the Jersey Pros.

Somebody tried to change the way people look at cars. Small started to mean cheap. And the lowest price started to mean the best buy. But Volkswagen isn't going to play that game. We still think the best car for the money means the best buy. And we're not ever going to change that.

Who would you rather have playing for your team? The cheapest hitter? Or the longest one?

So Volkswagen is staying solid. Engineering is still more important than decorating. And service is where sales are made and where customer loyalty is built.

Give your Jersey Pro a sporting chance.

Come prepared to drive our cars. Rabbit, Dasher, Scrooge. Because that's when you can really see and feel what makes a Volkswagen a Volkswagen. And what makes it the best value instead of the cheapest price.

But don't think we can't offer you some great price deals, too. Because every Volkswagen dealer is definitely going to be a good sport.

We're the Jersey Pros. We're in a league all our own.

Window glass poor insulator, wastes energy

By CAROLYN V. HEALEY.

Sealor County Home Economist "Windows and doors can affect the energy consumption of a home. Glass is a poor insulator; therefore, large picture windows, glass walls or many small windows are not energy efficient. If you are planning to build a home or make alterations, look carefully at the number, size and location of windows. Consider the type of window and whether the window is a double-pane window. If house plans are being drawn up, the north-south principle is important. Locate more windows on the south side to take advantage of the sun. Plan for no windows on the north side. . . .

Evergreen Estates draws great interest

A great deal of interest was evident at the recent grand opening of Evergreen Estates, a new and exclusive community of prestigious homes in Branchburg. According to Brounell & Kramer, sales agents, only 28 colonial homes are being built on full-acre lots, nestled in the picturesque countryside of Somerset County.

Evergreen Estates offers four models, priced from $88,500; each gives special attention to thoughtful design, dignified grace and hungry detailing—yet offers distinctive features to satisfy individual tastes.

The Cambridge Colonial is a handsome two-story shuttered colonial—designed with room to spare—on two separate levels. The large center foyer leads into an expansive 25-foot living room on the left and a formal dining room on the right. Behind a balconied stairway in the foyer is an oversized family room with an optional brick fireplace. The kitchen, with a built-in pantry, is convenient to the dining

Home sellers benefit from tax knowledge

Particularly for home owners who are moving out of a large, conventional home some knowledge of the basic tax laws involving home sales may save sellers enough to get settled in their new residences.

Jordan Baris, president of Jordan Baris, Inc., an Irvington-based real estate brokerage firm, explains: "Many people fail to familiarize themselves with the tax laws relative to what is often the most substantial property transaction of their lives. As a result, they might overpay the taxes and not make the most of their money."

Baris says that the sale of a home is a long-term capital gain. "If you don't know the rules, you could be paying more taxes than you need to," he says. "It's important to understand the tax implications of selling a home, especially if you're looking for a new one."

Now's the time to buy, top economists agree

During the National Association of Homebuilders' annual convention at Dallas in January, Mike Kokos, a founder and president of Crestwood Communities, focused attention upon inflation, highlighting the situation on the nation's older homeowners during a conference with economists at the University of Virginia.

House proves top investment

Home ownership is the best hedge against inflation in today's investment market, according to Martin Newman of American Dream Builders Group, who quotes U.S. News & World Report of Jan. 16. "Among major forms of investment only the value of a house kept pace with inflation," he says.

Duffy elected FLI member

Realtor Fred Duffy, president of Duffy Realty in Brant Beach, has been elected to membership in the Farm and Land Institute (FLI). The announcement was made by Duke Young, AFIM, NABJA, Idaho, president of the institute which is affiliated with the National Association of Realtors.

Members of the institute are realtors who specialize in selling, buying, managing, appraising and developing land for others. They are involved in farm, ranch, grove, orchard, timber, range and recreational land, as well as in suburban and urban land for development and redevelopment.

Soccer Scene

By BILL WILD

We have been talking so much of the mighty Wildcats these past few weeks that we forgot the Lancers also have a soccer team in action around the metropolitan area. As of last week both the Lancers A and B teams are in second place in their division in the Paterson Indoor Tournament, which is held Sunday afternoons at the armory.

The Union Lancers A team, is scheduled to play tonight against the G. H. Metro in the Metropolitan Indoor Tournament in New York.

The mighty Wildcats played in the preliminary game at the Paterson armory the past two Sundays and came out on top each time. Two weeks ago they defeated Olympic of Paterson, 3-0, with Stephan - Schmidt, John Pellegrino and Karl - Schellachke scoring for the Union midfielders.

Last week they went against the PAL team from Wayne and won, 7-3. John Kempton hit the net three times in that game with Schellachke adding two more. Schmidt, and Zeno Lonsch each chipped in with one goal. Coach Manny Schellachke said both teams played well, and that the Wayne team was one of the better teams the midfielders faced, but they didn't have the luck in front of the goal.

Channel 13 had just "Soccer Made in Germany" backdrop on the air. It should be at 4:45 Saturday. "Soccer Power" is starting to be on the air.

The first time the Juniors played Wayne they won, 52-34. The score proved kept the players on their toes and their opponents frustrated. Ard had 15 points, 13 rebounds and four assists while Pasco added 14 points and four steals.

David Johnson had 10 points and four assists. Gutierrez and Higgins, both with seven eight rebounds in the contest. Gutierrez added six points and Higgins four.

Others scoring were Michael Bertines (two), and Dave Kahan (one).

Friday's night team from Westfield came into Springfield without three of their top scorers. The Minutemen played well, and the Lancers were able to get in the collar of their opponents. The Wildcats will also set up a soccer game against the Jets at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Actress Fonda talks about role in 'Julia'

Jane Fonda, who was nominated for the Oscar for Best Actress in "Julia," which was nominated for best picture, and which is being held over for another week at the Meadowbrook Theater, portrays playwright Lillian Hellman in the film. The movie, taken from Miss Hellman's second volume of memoirs, "Pentimento," also stars Vanessa Redgrave in the title role and Jason Robards, Hal Holbrook, Rosemary Murphy and Maximilian Schell.

It traces a phase in the life of Miss Hellman as a writer, being money into Berlin, to the escape of political and religious refugees from Nazi Germany prior to the outbreak of the Second World War.

"First of all," says Miss Fonda, "let me tell you a little about Lillian Hellman. She is one of our leading playwrights and has been also the middle. She wrote very successful plays, such as 'The Children's Hour,' 'The Little Foxes' and 'Tape on the Wall.' She also wrote several books.

"It was a challenge to play a woman who is an intellectual, a woman who is stimulated more by ideas than by romantic events."

"I once met Lillian Hellman, like smoke, very briefly. We passed in the midst of waiting for a hurricane. The two of us came together hammering windows about cutting noses back. We said goodbye, and I went to England to another kind of hurricane—the hurricane of trying to put her poetry of prose on the screen."
