

Unusual rail display opens doors in Union

One of the largest and most unusual model railroads in the East is on display in Union, N.J. The Hudson, Delaware, and Ohio Railroad; the Trenton Northern Traction Co., and the Rahway River shortline are the result of nine years of planning and construction by the Model Railroad Club, Inc.

Because of the problems in building such a large layout, the benchwork, trackwork, equipment and the building to house it had to be specially designed, even a computer has been designed and built, and is undergoing tests. This computer will help operate and control the layout, but it cannot run the railroad by itself.

Jersey isn't tapping Europe for its blood

Dr. Harvey P. Einhorn, president of the New Jersey Blood Council, said this week that New Jersey is not dependent on European blood supply sources which now provide blood to the Greater New York Blood Program.

Dr. Einhorn, who is also president of the North Jersey Blood Center, the state's largest single voluntary donor program, issued the statement in the wake of recent public revelations by the New York program that it relies on European sources for more than one-third of its supply.

"The independent blood banks in northern and central New Jersey have long provided for nearly all of their own blood supply, relying entirely on New Jersey volunteer programs," he said.

Organizations which belong to the New Jersey Blood Council, besides the North Jersey Blood Center, include the Central Jersey Blood Bank, the Mercer Regional Blood Center and the Community Blood Bank of Southern New Jersey.

Dr. Einhorn said New York's continued reliance on blood from Europe is conjectural. "There is the possibility of a negative public reaction in some countries as it becomes known that blood given by their voluntary donors has been sold to the New York program," he said.

"We emphasize that we do not criticize the use of blood from Europe, but we believe it should be clearly recognized that New Jersey does not share New York's dependence on that source," he stated.

Springfield blood count nears 100 pints; today's last to donate

Donations are expected to top 100 pints before the Springfield-area midwinter blood drive closes with a makeup session from 2 to 6 p.m. today at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, according to Sue Kalern, chairman of the community blood program.

Mrs. Kalern said there were 37 eligible donors during the major midwinter blood drawing Feb. 23, in cluding 80 donors at the First Presbyterian Church parish house and 17 at the State Fifth Avenue store. She said eight other persons offered to give, but had to be turned away for weight or health reasons.

The midwinter blood drive is the first of two held each year in Springfield under auspices of the North Jersey Blood Center, East Orange, which supplies hospitals throughout the area. The autumn blood drive is scheduled Saturday, Oct. 28, at St. James Church, according to Mrs. Kalern.

Springfield donor groups take turns in providing volunteer workers and locations for the semi-annual blood drives.

Mrs. Kalern said the 1978 midwinter drive came at a time when the North Jersey Blood Center was running low on supplies because recent snowstorms and flu had kept prospective donors away in many areas.

The donations in Springfield were especially appreciated," said a spokesman for the blood center.

Two persons were fined $30 each, for speeding in the 25-mile-per-hour zone on Shunpike road at Eton place.

Annellee L. Daniel of Green Hill road, Springfield, was ticketed for driving 47 mph and John R. Fahy of Westfield, 44 mph.

High school board will hold meeting.

The Union County Regional High School District will hold its adjourned regular meeting on Tuesday, at 8 p.m. at the Gov. Livingston Regional High School Instructional Media Center, Berkeley Heights.

The meeting is open to the public.

Harmon has appeared in drama, operetta and on CBS-TV and has been a producer for the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences in New York. Winters' career in drama and production includes appearances in "Sabrina Fair," "The Unexpected Guest" and most recently with Harmon in the Montclair Dramatic Club's production of "Bell, Book and Candle."

A Starr goes to Washington for workshop

Dobbie Starr of Melrose avenue, Springfield, a sophomore at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, has been chosen to participate in the 1978 Washington Workshops Congressional Seminar in Washington, D.C. The seminars are conducted by the Washington Workshops Foundation, a nonprofit, nonpartisan association, founded in 1967. Now in its 11th annual series, the Congressional Seminar has been attended by thousands of students since its inception.

Throughout the year, nine one-week seminars have been scheduled, all held in cooperation with Marymount College of Virginia, where the students are housed.

Participants travel daily to Capitol Hill where they confer with government leaders. In dialogue sessions with members of Congress, Supreme Court justices, cabinet members and other officials, the students receive commentary on the operation of the federal government and in turn submit their questions and comments concerning government activities.

The students also spend time observing the workings of the national government during the House and Senate sessions of the House and Senate, as well as committee hearings and most individually with their own congressional senators.

Each seminar features the student-run Senate of the Seminar session at which students present resolutions on national priority issues using Congressional research sources as background. In this "model" Congressional session, debate follows the rules of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Further information on the program may be obtained from the Washington Workshops Foundation, 1111 Manassas Building, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20044; telephone: (202) 634-4307.

Firemen buy decals in 'tot finder' project

Springfield Local 87 of the Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association (FMBMA) has purchased more "tot finder" decals and will donate them to families with children at home.

In case of heavy smoke, the decals would instantly inform rescue workers where to look for children, firemen explained. They said the decals were popular during a previous give-away program.

An FMBMA spokesman said the town's professional firemen bought the decals with their own money and will give them away as long as the supply lasts. Firemen said anyone receiving decals will be asked, however, to remove them from doors and windows in the future, if children no longer live in the home.

The Fire Department also reported responding to the following calls during the nine-day period ending last Saturday.

Among the new additions to the Springfield Library's collection of books on the subject are: "Color Photography," a book published in accompany a major retrospective exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art "Portraits" by Richard Avedon; "America and Lewis Hine"; "Photographs of the South-west" by Ansel Adams; "The Fine Print," by Fred Picker, and Nancy Newhall's "P. IN PAST TENSE

ONE YEAR AGO
The Township Committee moves toward passage of its $4.1 million 1977 municipal budget with little discussion from the public, the Regional High School District approves a budget of $1.6 million and Township Committee members urge citizens to vote in favor of it. Sixty-Plus, an information service for the elderly, plans to open its doors at the Sarah Blye Civic Center March 22.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Citizens are surveyed of a phony telephone survey which questions people on their religious preferences. Religious leaders say they know nothing of the survey or the company which claims to be doing it. The Township Committee introduces an ordinance to prohibit parking at Mountain and Henshaw avenues. A local-business leader, LEONARD E. BEST of the Richard Best Pencil Co., suggests Springfield tool its future efforts into a single united charity campaign.

FORTY YEARS AGO
N.J. State Auditor DARBY orders part of its budget surplus revenue by $500,000, bringing the tax rate to 44.47. New York Times speaker JOHN W. DUFFY, FIELD tells the Springfield Lions Club not to worry about the "yellow peril" of Communism, but to say the U.S. should stay out of foreign affairs.

LETTERS
Letters to the editor must be received no later than noon on Monday of the week they are to appear. The writer's name will be withheld only in unusual circumstances, and at the editor's discretion. This newspaper reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

PRaise for TEACHER
After having a child in bed for two months and using the tutoring service of our high school, we feel great praise is due to the teacher in particular who is super.
Jonathan Dayton Regional High School has been most fortunate in having a teacher, David Van Hart in the math department, our son being the luckiest of all. He was most helpful, considerate and thoughtful in making our son's right night to date in his studies.

There was not a week that went by that he did not come two or three times, even on Saturdays and in adverse weather.
We really feel Mr. Van Hart deserves some sort of praise from the Board of Education. We hope that more teachers would emulate him, as his dedication to students and teaching is fantastic.

THIS A STRIKE HERE POSTER, J.B. A. APOLOGICAL ASTROLOGICAL DET COOKBOOK WRITTEN BY A NATURE GATE CO. CASAPALDO

LIBRARY

Artist turned author

By ROSE F. SIMON
The Springfield Public Library lists the following titles among the recently received books:

NEW YORK'S GENTLE ARTIST
by Ronald Sear. His second great-uncle was to write and so he wrote the diary of a Russian-born New York realist-artist, who gives us a well-written, beautifully illustrated book. In it are Sear's memories of his childhood in Russia and New York, his association with other artists and his comments about his visits to the great museums and art collections in the Western world. A portrait of Sear's man, also comes through—warrio, gentle, thoughtful.

During his trips to the continent (he calls himself a "museum pilgrim") he visited prominent artists. His observations of the great masters convinced him of his bias in favor of Rembrandt, Degas, Cezanne and others. The artist, who is a painter, a sculptor and a writer, is a true collector of those individuals who admired him—"Honage To Eckart."

Sear speaks fondly of his family and his wife who accompanied him on his travels. He proudly reports on his first gallery show in 1920, Joseph Hirschhorn's purchase of "Honage" and his Whitney exhibition. For him, painting has always been a matter of trial and error. One "cannot be taught to be an artist, but requires some professional guidance. His own art is called "autobiographical." It is withdrawn, restrained.

A MODERN MARCO POLO
by Lowell Thomas. "So Long Until To-morrow."

ONE ROAD TO REHABILITATION
"Try God."
"Miracles, changes and tough love" is what this book is all about. It is chiefly the story of some of the residents of the Walker Home for the Blind in Garrison, New York—just fifteen miles from Peekskill. It has been described as a nonconformist, colorful, and often hilarious and seriously troubled girl, where, after a year of treatment, over 90 percent are permanently cured by accepting God into their lives.

The Home was co-founded by the Rev. David Wilkerson (who had organized Tom Chatterton and Walter Hoving, chairman of Tiffany and Company. Fortunately they were able to have as their directors, Rev. and Mrs. John Benson. They loving, personal care, wisdom, and religious direction affected the rehabilitation of most of the young delinquents, giving them a sense of purpose, dignity, and a faith to sustain them through several histories are described.

Mrs. Hobe also reports on the problems involved in locating suitable property, overcoming the objections of the community, and eliciting moral and financial support for the project. In order to raise much-needed money, a one-penny, Mr. Hoving, at a friend's suggestion, designed a pin using the words "Try God." Under his direction, Tiffany and Company took over the manufacture, advertising, and sale of the silver pin-penny. By March 1967, more than $300,000 had been produced with orders pouring in from all over the country.

MEICAL FIGHT FAN
"Fight Doctor"
With an introduction by Mohammed Ali in praise of the author, all must be right with the good doctor, who has been working with fighters, good and bad, for the last 35 years. A compassionate ghetto physician who never took a fee from a fighter, his work with them led him to the most famous physician in Miami Beach. There he met the youthful, handsome Cassius Clay, who arrived there housing of his determination to become the champion of the world. Trained by the champion Angelo Dundee and promoted by his brother Charlie, the great All-American, he won a fighting title and a shining popularity.

EAGLETON POLL

Byrne job rating rising

Broden Byrne's job rating as governor has continued to climb since his election, but New Jersey remains divided about the state income tax. The latest Eagleton Poll, conducted during the last week in January and the first week of February, found that 65 percent gave Byrne positive ratings of "excellent" or "good" while 33 percent gave him negative ratings of "only fair" or "poor."

In an earlier Eagleton Poll, conducted just prior to last year's election, Byrne's rating was 54 percent positive and 46 percent negative, up sharply from the low point in April, 1977, of 15 percent positive, 75 percent negative. "The improvement, we found, is due to an opinion in the state almost evenly divided about the December repeal of the 'self destruct' clause by the Legislature's action while 49 percent disapproved. A majority still saw the income tax as necessary. By a 51-49 percent margin, New Jerseyans felt that the state could not 'go along just as well without the state income tax.'"

Byrne's reelection has apparently changed the public's evaluation of very different from those of the past. The public's perception of Byrne was still strongly influenced by their feelings toward the income tax. Among those who approved of the income tax, positive marks for Byrne's job rose to 73 percent, up from 61 percent. Those who disapproved of the income tax were very critical of the Governor. Among this group negative ratings outnumbered positive ones by 73 percent to 27 percent.

The Eagleton Poll is conducted regularly throughout the year by the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University. The latest poll was conducted between Jan. 28 and Feb. 5, when a scientifically selected random sample of 1,205 adults, 18 and older, was interviewed by telephone.

First chair--

By Peter Heumann

Sil looked interested when I mentioned a letter I had seen printed in a hair newspaper. It was written by a barber, was that he, like Rodney Dangerfield, did not receive enough respect for his profession. "The man said he was abused and not appreciated. Sil can understand his feelings. "I can understand his feelings. "I sure do."

"Can't believe it Sil. You know how much I respect you. Without your respectable hair, I would stand over my mousetache. As it is, when I leave the shop, women pursue me for miles."

"You're pulling my leg."

"But I do think of you as an artist, a consummate one, if I may say so."

"You may say so, I thought Sil would be pleased by my kindly attitude. Instead, he seemed moored. "What else did this other barber say?"

"Among other things, he said that public doesn't realize that barbers spend long hours studying bone structure, skin, hair, scalp and skin care."

"He's right."

"God, Sil, you must know as much as someone who has long hair look long."

"Some do," I agreed. "But short hair is on the way back. Business will pick up. You gotta admit, Sil, I get a lot of haircuts."

"How long you been cutting hair, Sal?"

"Over 40 years."

It occurred to me for the hundredth time that Thoreau was right when he wrote that most people lived lives of quiet desperation. Not that I thought Sil felt that category. Still, dealing with the public could be demanding, nerve-racking, and worse.

"Maybe you're just tired of putting hair on my customers?"

"I don't think so."

"You're tired of your customers?"

"Most of them I like. I don't mind talking. It would be better if they stood here, working, with nobody saying a word."

"So what do you want?"

"Well, I would like more respect, more dough, but if you really want to know, your barber's biggest enemy is laughter. He despises it. If he has a happy business hasn't been the same. Would you believe I have customers who only get two haircuts a year?"

Limit on IRA income, 'rollovers' explained

By JUDITH G. RHODES
In this column on taxes, I will discuss individual retirement account (IRA) limits on capital income that can be contributed, rollover contributions and IRA distributions.

Earned income for the purpose of an IRA is defined as wages and other compensation plus net earnings from self-employment. It is important to remember in use not, and not gross, self-employment income when computing the contribution limit, since penalties apply if too much is contributed. Only the IRA participant's earnings are included, not the spouse's.

Pensions, interest, and other unearned or passive income must not be used in calculating the contribution limit.

If the IRA takes the form of annuity, part of the premium that applies to life insurance will be deemed part of the IRA contribution and is not deductible.

Example: David Jones has wages of $16,000, his only earned income. He contributed $1,000 to his IRA, which is set up as an annuity with a life insurance policy. Of the $1,000, 95 is a premium toward the life insurance. David's IRA adjustment for the year is $805.

Rollover contributions—When an IRA participant receives a lump-sum distribution from a qualified pension, profit sharing, stock bonus, or annuity plan (most contributions are rollovers), the participant may elect to have the sum deposited in another qualified employer's plan or in an IRA. The rollover must be made by the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date the distribution is received from the first plan. The rollover must be made by the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date the distribution is received from the first plan. The rollover must be made by the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date the distribution is received from the first plan.

Sales soar, income down
Village Super Market, Inc. (OTC), owner-operator of Springfield markets in northern New Jersey and Pennsylvania, experienced substantial increases in sales for the company's six and three-month periods ended Jan. 21, 1978, but net income was down primarily as a result of the expenses on the opening of two stores during the quarterly period.

Perry Simas, president, reported that sales for the six months ended Jan. 21 rose to $94,094,000 from the $71,600,000 recorded during the previous first-half ended Jan. 22, 1977. Net income for the respective six-month periods was $123,000 or 21 cents per share in the current year.

Mary Kanane won't run again for surrogate

Mary C. Kanane, Union County surrogate for the Superior Court, will not run for the office again in 1982. She is a clerk at the end of this year. A Union Township resident and the first woman surrogate in the county, she was born in Union County, she would have been considered an easy victor if she had chosen to run for a fourth term this year.

Mary Kanane has been Miss Republican of Union County, and she'll certainly run for the office with GOP County Chairman Barbara Glaman. "However, we look forward to many more years of close association with her."

In announcing her retirement, Miss Kanane said she plans to devote more time to the region, civic and political activities with which she is associated. Born in Keightown and graduated from Roselle Park High School, Miss Kanane came to work for surrogate George H. Johnson, then GOP county chairman, as secretary in 1952. She became probable clerk, chief clerk and special deputy surrogate, remaining on the staff when Charles Otto succeeded Johnson.

A different kind of used car from a different kind of dealer.

The used cars listed here aren't ordinary used cars. Because they don't come from an ordinary dealership. At Pace, a customer is respected as the owner of a fine automobile, not dismissed as a troublesome accessory to it.

Because of our service, we're selling more and more new Buicks. And taking in more and more fine used cars as trade-ins. The cars listed here are the best of them.

Before we put a used car up for sale, we inspect it inside and out. We fix what needs fixing—and if we can't we simply don't sell the car to you.

Then, we protect every used car we sell with Pace Buick's own double warranty: 3 months or 3,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the entire car plus 6 months/6,000 miles (whichever comes first) limited to the engine and drive train.

Best of all, when you buy a used car from Pace, you receive the same attentive service that's winning us more and more new-car customers.

So, if you're tired of looking at the same old kind of used cars, come to Pace. You'll find the kind of used car you can trust—because you can also trust the dealership they come from.

A woman works to ease dying

Doctors say a man is suffering from inoperable, terminal cancer. He hasn't been told yet, but his wife may be most upset. She is with him at the hospital each day, but she speaks very little. The man doesn't talk of suffering or dying, but when his time comes, he will be there.

The wife of the dying cancer patient feels close to Hirsch and goes her as the only person she has to turn to. She appreciates Hirsch's understanding and is glad Hirsch is not forcing her to see a doctor.

"Every person has a right to hope," the woman said. "The least I can do for him is to talk about death."

Hirsch says cancer patients go through stages of denial and acknowledgment of their illness and fluctuate between the two. "Some people use denial of their disease as a defense," Hirsch said. "I accept this as their protective device."

Most terminal ill cancer patients are more concerned with suffering and becoming a financial and emotional burden on their families than with dying. "I don't think death is as paramount to the terminally ill patient's mind as society believes it is," Hirsch said.

Hirsch acts as a liaison between the cancer patient and his family and helping agencies such as the Pro Oken Cancer Relief organization, Cancer Care and the American Cancer Society or nursing facility. She helps the families of cancer patients organize their plans when the patient is ready to be released from the hospital.

Sometimes perfectly intelligent people go in all directions at once," Hirsch said.

By taking on the burden of dealing with patients' feelings, the Oncology social worker leaves the physician more time to deal with their physical treatment. In some cases, Hirsch sees the patient from the time he discovers he has cancer to hospitalization and later, to placement back into the home.

Rossmoor simplicity understates elegance

Adult community living has taken on a new look at Rossmoor, the distinguished township community for adults over 40. The new floor plans embody all the features which have made Rossmoor one of the east's best known and most beautiful resort-oriented communities. Resembling an exclusive New England village with its charming "Williamsburg" atmosphere of major houses, white steepled meeting house and Colonial clubhouse, set amidst lush green lawns and wooded areas, Rossmoor offers all the rewards of a distinguished home with none of its demands. The new models, some of which are named after the founding states (The Virginia II, Massachusetts II, and the New York II), complement the existing eight models. Each of these new models features at least two bedrooms, two full baths, dining room, large living room, a full kitchen, and an oversized attached garage with automatic door opener. Some models feature a den, solarium, or covered patio.

Cash sale facilitated

Weston Arms, a garden apartment building located at 204 Westfield Ave., Elizabeth, has been purchased for more than $150,000 in cash alone, an existing six percent mortgage. Stuart R. Falkin, Gebro-Hammer Union County Sales Representative, handled the transaction. He said Elizabeth continues to be a strong rental market. The area is especially attractive to investors who seek the tax advantages of apartment complex ownership in a market where an appreciation of value offsets the effects of increases in utility costs.

Weston Arms is a 12-year-old, 2 1/2-story building with 21 air-conditioned apartments. The building consists of a mixture of one-bedroom, 2 1/2 and 3 1/2 rooms, with two-bedroom suites with 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 rooms. Marvin H. Tower Hill complex nets architect award

For the second straight year a Land Corporation community condominium community has earned the Honor Award of the New Jersey Society of Architects. A jury of nationally known architects staged out Land's Tower Hill community in Red Bank as the society's only multi-family award winner for 1977.

Leisure homes offers savings for new owners

Leisure Technology Corp.'s sales during 1977 now jump up to $4,000,000 for homes. A home purchase at any of the communities provides the adult resident with a full schedule of social and recreational activities. There are hobby activities, entertainment and parties at the community. Because we begin construction on clusters of homes as the first sales in the community are recorded, invariably there are scattered homes within each section not sold when construction is completed. Lynn Joseph, vice-president of sale of the New Jersey Division of Leisure Technology Corp., said.

Offered for immediate occupancy on a first-come, first-served basis are Summerhill homes at Leisure Knoll in Manalapan, and Leisure Village West in Manalapan. Leisure Knoll is in Manalapan, Leisure Village West is in Manalapan. Leisure Knoll is a 40-unit community. Leisure Village West is a 100-unit community. Leisure Knoll is a 40-unit community. Leisure Village West is a 100-unit community.

AWARD—H. Charles (Bud) McNally, president of Land Corporation; and Daniel Cahill, architect and partner in the firm of Khaschadourian and Cahill, admire a model of Tower Hill Village for design and land use excellence. This award was won two years in a row by both men.

Neighborhoods do change.

For a variety of reasons. Long-time neighbors move away. Familiar smiles no longer greet you when you walk down the street. There are new faces in the local stores, in the police department and the fire company.

If almost everything around you seems to have changed in the last few years, perhaps it's time for you to make a change, too. Time to start a new neighborhood. In a place where you'll find new friends with similar interests, yet still be an easy ride-away from where your roots are.

Perhaps you should take a look at Rossmoor. And Clearbrook. They're two of the most prestigious communities in this area, and you can see both in one visit. Both are located in the gentle rolling country of the Garden State. Clearbrook is off Exit 8A of the New Jersey Turnpike, just 45 miles from Manhattan. Close enough for easy commuting and for staying in touch with close friends and family.
