Gifts can have 'built-in' threat

Toys caused approximately 7,700 eye injuries last year, and 80 percent of these were suffered by children 16 and younger, according to the New Jersey Society to Prevent Blindness. The eyes of another 12,900 youngsters under 15 were injured by sports and recreational equipment.

The New Jersey Society to Prevent Blindness, of the headquarters at 303 George St. New Brunswick, promotes eye health in children and adults.

"Accidents happen, but 80 percent of the injuries can be avoided," stressed Dr. Jordan Burke, program chairman of the New Jersey Society. Weapons and projectile toys have a built-in threat to eyes: buying them is literally purchasing "an accident waiting to happen." The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, on the basis of reports from hospitals and emergency rooms in 1977, illustrates the point: BB guns, air rifles and other air or spring-operated guns caused some 1,100 eye injuries.

As children get older and begin playing sports, it's still important to be concerned about eye safety. In games such as football, basketball or hockey, proper equipment is the obvious answer to injuries. Youngsters should wear protective headgear while playing in the back yard as well as on the field with their team. Hockey helmets featuring a face guard made of wire mesh or clear plastic will ward off pucks and sticks whether the game is played in the street or on ice.

Parents of children who wear glasses can have safety lenses mounted in a sturdy athletic frame which will withstand blows which might easily shatter ordinary street-wear eyeglasses.

Garden Show poster contest

High school students throughout the state will create colorful and imaginative posters to promote the 1979 New Jersey Flower and Garden Show in Morristown.

Students base their posters on the theme "Gardens to Reflect Today's Living" as they compete for savings bonds and cash awards.

The annual contest sponsored by the New Jersey Association of Nurserymen, is being run in conjunction with the show at the Morristown Army Saturday, March 3, through March 11.

Open to all New Jersey students in grades nine through 12 in both public and private schools, the contest is expected to draw more than 50 entries. Deadline for submission of the posters to the students' County Agricultural Agent is Friday, Feb. 24. A complete set of guidelines has been prepared for entrants and sent to all high school art departments. Students who wish to enter on an individual basis may obtain guidelines from their high school art teacher.

Entries must be on poster board, measuring 21 by 28 inches, must contain the name of the show, the dates and the site, and should illustrate some aspect of horticulture, such as trees, shrubs, flowers, turf or a garden scene.

Recruiting up at tech institute

Industrial recruiting of New Jersey Institute of Technology students hit new highs this fall with a 35 percent increase in the number of companies recruiting on campus.

NJTI Placement Director John Schmid reports the upward surge of corporate talent hunting has been the highest ever for any fall season, with more than half of them were offered jobs.

Although details are not available, he observed a broad demand for technically talented personnel. Starting salaries for the June graduates are expected to be higher than in recent years, but no established pattern has been set as yet.

Don't park to handicap the handicapped

Many communities in Union County have parking places in public and private lots that are set aside for the handicapped, but too many non-handicapped drivers are ignoring them.

That is the finding of the Senior Citizens Council of Union County, which has started an education campaign to make the public aware of the problems faced by a handicapped driver.

As part of the campaign, coordinated by Alice Dworkin of Cranford, members of senior citizens clubs monitored the special parking spaces, slipping "tickets" under the windshield wipers of cars parked there without identification as belonging to a handicapped person.

These unofficial "tickets" are green cards showing the international symbol of accessibility for the handicapped—a stick figure of a person in a wheelchair—and requesting: "When you see this symbol on a reserved space, be thoughtful of others. Please do not use this parking place."

Evelyn Frank of Union, council president, pointed out that parking around cars is difficult, the handicapped person needs a space near the entrance. And because manipulating the vehicle's wipers creates a "visual distraction" when opening a car door all the way, an extra wide space is required.

In checking on the spaces set aside for the handicapped in Union County communities, senior citizens club members found a few with signs on posts, at eye level, that were generally observed, Frank said. "But most areas had the yellow line drawing of a person in a wheelchair painted on the pavement," she said. "These were almost always overlooked and ignored. Most ground-painted signs were faint and, with snow on the ground, would be invisible."

The council is planning to get in touch with the county planning department.

Corps' statement details impact of flood control on environment

Statement (EIS), distributed recently, but at the same time conceded that excavation "would adversely affect the natural environment" of the existing channel, including plant and marine life.

Designed to provide flood protection along VanWinkles Brook and the Rahway River in Springfield and along the Rahway River in Union, the project was estimated at $7.47 million in 1974 cost levels. It would consist of:

- 14,800 feet of channel excavation along the Rahway from the confluence of the East and West Branches downstream to the Cranford line.
- 4,400 feet of channel excavation along VanWinkles Brook from the Wabeno avenue bridge to the Rahway River.
- 700 feet of levee and 300 feet of concrete wall averaging nine feet in height along the right bank of the Rahway from Springfield avenue to the vicinity of Linden avenue in Springfield.
- 1,600 feet of levee averaging eight feet high along the left bank of VanWinkles Brook from 300 feet downstream of Wabeno avenue to the vicinity of Berkeley road.
- Two ponding areas along the Rahway River, one between Springfield and Morris avenues and the other along Riverside drive between Washington and Squire Maple avenues.
- One ponding area along VanWinkles Brook in the vicinity of Berkeley road.
- About 125 acres of land would be required, 114.1 acres of that amount in Union County Park Commission land and 10.9 acres privately owned. The park land, a little more than half in percentage.

The Corps of Engineers said the plan "would provide full protection to the residential area between the Rahway River and VanWinkles Brook against a 200-year design flood... reduce flood damages that would occur as a result of floods occurring greater than the design flood... provide 160-year flood protection along the Rahway River in Union Township and 100-year flood protection in the residential reach between the confluence with VanWinkles Brook and the 200-year flood protection in an industrial park (Continued on page 12)

Easements offered to aid flood controls

By BARBARA WALGOFF

In the last meeting of 1978, the Township Administration members on Tuesday received a resolution from the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County directing county officials to execute an agreement with Springfield granting easements for completing flood control measures.

The lands involved, under the jurisdiction and control of the county Department of Parks and Recreation, are Riverside-drive-drive-way tract, Laurel-drive-site and Marion avenue tract.

"We waited a long time for this and we can see the light at the end of the tunnel," Nat Stokes, a committee member, said.

"This is the final stage which should lead to the completion of the project in the very near future," Art Buehrer, township clerk, said. "We're 98 percent (Continued on page 11)

No Yule yolk: clue scrambled

Somebody broke into the Florence Gaudinour School on Christmas Day, but Springfield police aren't having a hard time solving the case — because the burglars reportedly ate the evidence.

The intruders reportedly gained entry to the home economics classroom through a broken window. Police said there was no serious damage to the room, but the undisturbed goods made themselves at home by trying an egg and eating it.

Nothing was reported taken — or left — by the Christmas visitors.

Avoid hassles on exchange of Yule purchases

By CAROLYN V. HEALEY, Senior County Home Economist. "But I paid $25.00 for this just last week and now you tell me I only get $15.00 in exchange." Words to this effect will be repeated frequently in the last of returning or exchanging gifts, according to Mrs. Carolyn V. Healey, Extension Home Economist.

There are two important facts consumers should remember regarding Christmas gift returns or exchanges: 1. Without the sales slip there is little chance of proving the original purchase price unless a charge record is checked.

2. If returns are not made within the prescribed number of days after Christmas, the refund will be made at the sale price. This is often the steepest price.

The person giving any gift should always keep all the receipts for even as long as a year afterwards. All of this is just to make certain returns are not going to be made and/or performance of the garment has proven satisfactory.

The gift giver should include a note in the package as to the store at which the gift was purchased, the return policy, and if necessary, give the sales receipt.

It is a poor practice to remove all the tags from a garment. Yes, do cut off just the price amount, but leave the stock and identification numbers on the garment until you are certain the item will not be exchanged.

The practice of buying a gift at one store and putting it in a box from another store is often used to upgrade a gift. However, if frequently backfires in the return or exchange policy. And really, that is not the purpose of a gift in the first place.

Now pour this mixture into a 2-ounce container and let it freeze. During this time, you can prepare your other gifts. At this point, fold in 1/2 cup heavy cream whipped and fold into the frozen mixture. Freeze for 2 hours.

Decreased aesthetic appearance. Water quality also will be affected. During construction, there would be turbidity and siltation; and over the long term, "the depth of flow from normal runoff would be less than at present," the EIS said. with authorities to seek more eye-level parking spaces for the handicapped, particularly in public places. A barrier-free building can only be achieved if parking facility regulations are observed," the council president said.

By 1980 or 1981, she added, the Union County Planning Department also is expected to provide wheelchair ramps at selected locations in municipalities throughout the county. Council representatives and mayors in the county were asked in 1977 to suggest locations for these ramps, which are "of great assistance to many elderly and handicapped who have difficulty in negotiating curbs," Frank said. Town meeting passed 21-14, the bare minimum according to Cerri, which he has interpreted as a good sign for opponents of the bill. Cerri said he is hopeful for a "grandfather clause" that will protect long-standing townships, of which Springfield is one. Springfield has been a township for all 164 years of its organized government, the mayor added. The bill has been proposed primarily because many towns began to change to townships so that they could enjoy the additional funds given to townships. If passed, Cerri said, the dis-point cut on the tax rate would be made up with money from local taxpayers.

The mayor also read a letter of resignation from Pat Minkewitz. Minkewitz resigned her seat on the Board of Health, which she has held for four years because of medical reasons. Stanley Kash, committee member, who the mayor as well as others hinted would be the next mayor, said that the next budget hearing would take place on January 3 and that the final hearings should be in early January. Kash noted that "the cap laws will present constraints." Commenting on hints that he would replace Cerri as head of the governing body, Kash said, "We'll have to wait until Jan. 1 and see." All appointments will be made at the Jan. 1 Township Committee reorganization meeting which will take place at 11 a.m. in the Municipal Building.

The Township Committee decided to reject all bids and readvertise for gasoline and police cars. The Powers-All gasoline bid, the lowest, was rejected because a high test fuel was desired and the bids came back on regular fuel. The bids for the police cars were turned down because of failure to comply with the specifications. Electrical bids, opened at Tuesday night's meeting, were deferred so that they could be reviewed further. A contract for janitorial services in the Municipal Building was also decided at the final meeting. The low bid, entered by Molley Shampooing of Elizabeth, was announced at a hearing on the fitness of the firm to maintain the premises. Five vendors to 30,000 towels, with a low bid of $1.00, were also reviewed.

Late rallies by Juniors defeat pair

By CRAIG CLICKENGER
Once again, the seventh and sixth-grade Junior Minutemen team had to fight into the fourth quarter to also not victories over Florham Park (58-57) and Boonton (58-54) last week. The Juniors go into 1979 with a 6-1 record. The Florham Park contest was neck-and-neck through three quarters, which ended with the Minutemen ahead, 38-37. In that quarter, Andy Rosenthal's eight points was the deciding factor for Springfield; Rosenthal and Michael Gattano each hit six points in the fourth quarter. The Junior defense held Florham Park to just three points, controlling the backcourt.

Extending from the Bay of Riscay to the Sierra Morena on the central plateau of Meseta at a height of nearly 1,000 feet, the Castle, Spain. The former kingdom of central and northern Spain, it is divided by the Sierra de Guadarrama and the Sierra de Grece to Old Castle and New Castle. The name Castle probably resulted from the number of castles erected against the Moors. Originally a county of the kingdom of Leon, it became virtually independent in the 10th century. The Kingdoms of Castile and Leon were united in 1290. The marriage of Ferdinand of Aragon and Isabella of Castile, in 1469, united the kingdoms of Aragon and Castile; thereafter the history of Castile is that of Spain.

6-1 Minutemen coast to two easy victories

By CRAIG CLICKENGER
The Springfield Senior Minutemen team coasted to two easy victories, coasting Florham Park and Boonton to make their record 6-1. The Seniors will return to action Jan. 3. Last Wednesday, the Springfield eighth-graders routed Florham Park, 66-22. The Seniors completely dominated the game from the start, finishing the first quarter with a 24-2 lead.

Saturday, the Minutemen trounced a team of Boonton all-stars, 73-30. The Seniors outscored, outdefended, out hustled and outscored their opponents. The outstanding performers for the Minutemen last week were Thomas Ard and Kyle Higgins. Ard led the scorers both games with 16 points and collected a total of 19 rebounds. Against Florham Park, he had a super floor game with six assists and three steals. Higgins had the most well-rounded week as he was a top player in every statistical field of the game. The senior collected combined totals of 21 points, 16 rebounds, seven assists and seven steals.

Tom Fusco, the steady senior guard, had 10 points during the two-game stint and turned in a sparkling five-assist, six-steal showing in Wednesday's game.

Matmen slam Hillside in opener

By MIKE MEIKNER
Dayton's rugged wrestlers began their dual meet season in high gear by clobbering Hillside 53-9. Coach Rick Jacson's boys grappled aggressively and neatly shut out the Hillside squad. Dayton continues its schedule tonight in the Union County Tournament, which will determine the area's top wrestlers in each weight class. Many of the Springfield participants are highly regarded as prospects. Jacson said he expects a successful position in the overall team standings as well.

Dayton was in full command during the Hillside match. Don Calabrese, at 101 pounds, started the onslaught by pinning his opponent in three minutes and 15 seconds. It is among the state's top lightweight wrestlers. Matt Appella, Dayton's 108-pound entry, needed but six seconds to flatten his foe. Matt put on a brilliant exhibition and broadened the Bulldog lead.

Rich Bantel drew with his opponent. Bantel, a Junior, exhibited fine tenacity throughout the grueling battle. He nearly earned the victory. Ben Scaturro, filling in for Dean

UC wrestling coach hoping to break even

Optimism—The dictionary defines it as "anticipating the best possible outcome," and for Union College's wrestling coach, Joe Placa of Roselle Park, it's the right word and definition to describe anticipations for the Oval's upcoming season. "I'm optimistic," says Placa, "I'm hoping for the best."

When asked what kind of record this optimism might yield, the four-year head coach responded by saying: "Right now, I'm envisioning a 500 season," he said. While a 500 record might not be considered a high goal for some, it could be a major accomplishment for Placa's squad after having suffered through a dismal 2-15 campaign last year. Last season's record was not attributable to any great lack of talented wrestlers, but rather, Union's team usually found itself trailing by 20 or more points before each match had begun due to weight class forfeitures.

Placa explained that his lack of wrestlers for all of the weight classes was usually caused by academic ineligibility. "Because the college focuses so heavily on academics—as it should—there are some talented wrestlers in the school who cannot compete because of their grades. For those who are already on the squad when training starts in the fall semester, bad grades can have them declared ineligible for the Spring Semester, which is when our regular season really begins," he said. This year the coach has 12 wrestlers on his roster, some of whom he is very "high" on and he's hoping all will remain when Union opens its regular season against Camden County College on Wednesday, at 6 p.m. at home.

Dayton pros to play stars

The Dayton Varsity Club is sponsoring a basketball game between members of the high school faculty and a New Jersey major league baseball all-star team. The game will be held in the Dayton gymnasium on Monday, Jan. 8 at 8 p.m. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Varsity Club for $2 at the door for $2.50.

The all-stars are headed by Cleveland Indians manager Jeff D'Amico, a resident of Mountaintop. The roster includes Willie Randolph, Chris Chambliss and Roy White of the Yankees, Lenzy Randle of the Mets, and Sunami resident Willie Wilson of the Kansas City Royals.

Troubled kids helped under new program

"I hate school. Who needs it? School doesn't have any relevance to my future. I'm going to split and get a job. Mom wants me home every night by 11. What a drag! All my friends stay out till 2. I can't hack it anymore. I'm leaving. I just want everyone to bug off."

These are just two examples of adolescent dialogue that may indicate difficulties in coping at home, school or social activities. A new approach to helping teenagers understand and deal with such problems has been implemented at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center (NBIMC) as part of a therapeutic day treatment program. Evelyn Mason, M.S.W., A.S.C.W., director of social services and administrative director of the Community Mental Health Center, has announced.

The program is geared to teach teenagers new social skills for appropriate interaction with their peers and adults. The new approach is to require the adolescent to assume full responsibility for his behavior. He is not asked to explain his past or to make excuses for his behavior, but to take a serious look at what he is doing now and work on making his future better. "This means the youngster has to become an observer of his behavior, analyze what he is doing and look at potentially more constructive alternatives," Michael Wiernasz with the design of the program and says its activities focus on helping the youngsters respond to structure and order and to delay gratification.

Participants in the program meet every day after school from 3:30 to 5 p.m. at the center. They are divided into therapy groups of seven, each headed by a qualified psychiatric social worker. What they talk about and how the young people respond to the discussions may go a long way toward making them better adjusted, more productive members of the community.

Discussion and planned activities promote interest in learning, hobbies and other constructive outside activities. Age-appropriate, independent behavior is encouraged along with a sense of pride and self-esteem. Medical center staff members meet once a month with the parents in the group for an open-ended discussion about the youngster's progress.

Referrals may be made by schools and social service agencies as well as NBIMC's pediatric inpatient and outpatient departments and the Community Mental Health Center.

Coalition asks to ban winter utility shutoffs

The New Jersey Federation of Senior Citizens in cooperation with the New Jersey and North Jersey Coalitions on Utilities and Energy are filing a petition with the Board of Public Utilities (BPU) to issue a ban on winter utility shutoffs of electric and gas service because of inability to pay.

The petition asks that the BPU issue orders to the various utility companies to stop shutoffs between the months of November and April.

In a letter attached to the petition, Tom Carney, chairman of the federation's Utility Task Force, praises BPU President George Barbour for having "altruistically begun to investigate the possibility of taking such an action."

Other states, such as Maryland and Wisconsin who have had shut-off bans in the past, have found little or no abuse of the program. Coalition members believe the same would be true in New Jersey while making sure that no one freezes to death this winter because of a shut-off. More information can be obtained from Tom Carney, (201)-758-3032; Allen Goldberg, (609)-585-5828; New Jersey Federation, (609)-994-0001.

For all of those who give a hoot

A comprehensive guide to owl scientific literature pertaining to owls has been published by the National Wildlife Federation's Raptor Information Center. "A Working Bibliography of Owls of the World" took 11 years to prepare. It contains more than 6,500 entries and includes sections on the literature searched, common names of owls in foreign languages, locally endangered owls, and available computerized search services and data banks.

According to Richard J. Clark, associate professor of biology at York College of Pennsylvania and one of the bibliography's authors, owls were selected for this project because they are at the top of their food chain and accumulate environmental contaminants resulting from pollution.

"This makes owls valuable indicators of environmental quality," Clark noted. "And because owls are nocturnal creatures," he added, "man knows less about owls than he does about other birds."

NWF established the Raptor Information Center in 1976 to serve as a clearinghouse for information about bald eagles and other birds of prey. The center is now preparing a similar bibliography on the bald eagle.

Further, research is underway to determine whether other inherited retinal degenerations, such as retinitis pigmentosa, may also result from metabolic defects. Such investigations are part of a nationwide effort to learn how to prevent and cure the many diseases of the retina which cause visual loss, suffering, and economic hardship to so many people.

Group opposes a smoking ban

Co-chairmen have been named for the New Jerseyans for Free Choice Committee that is opposing proposals to limit smoking in public places in the state.

Gary Shaw, president of the New Jersey Hotel/Motel Association, and Fred Schneeweis, a member of the board of directors of the New Jersey Restaurant Association, agreed to lead the drive.

"Tourism in New Jersey has declined in recent years and bans on smoking will reduce further this significant source of revenue," Shaw says. "Fully 90 percent of the hotels and motels in the state operate restaurants whose income is vital to their business and employees."

The "prohibitive cost" of remodeling ventilation systems to conform with the proposed regulations is noted by Schneeweis. "None of the older restaurants can meet the rules without enormous expenditures for new construction," he declared.

Lupus victims get rap session

Wednesday's meeting of the Lupus Erythematosus Foundation of New Jersey will be an open rap session among members about the ways they have learned to cope with Lupus, the ways they have had to change their lives to deal with the disease and in general, what they have discovered from personal experience is the best way to live with the various kinds of Lupus.

General discussion augmented by a slide presentation will be presented. The foundation meetings are held monthly at Hoffman LaRoche of Kingsland street, Nutley, at 7:30 a.m. Further information is available from the foundation at 791-7980 or L.E. of New Jersey, P.O. RETINA RESEARCH
Disorders of the retina, the light-sensitive tissue at the back of the eye, are the cause of more visual loss and blindness in the United States than any other eye condition. Unfortunately, for many retinal diseases, particularly those which are inherited or linked to aging, there is no known cure or method of prevention.

For this reason, the National Eye Institute (NEI) has placed a high priority on research on the healthy and diseased retina. Congress authorized the establishment of NEI as part of the National Institutes of Health ten years ago to encourage and support research on the eye and disorders of vision.

As the initial step in the visual process, light entering the eye is focused on the retina by the cornea and the lens. The photoreceptor cells of the retina convert this visual input into electrical impulses. These are processed further by the retina and transmitted via the optic nerve to the brain where vision takes place. The extreme complexity and fragility of the retina has made it very difficult to study. However, in recent years, new techniques have been developed which enable scientists to study the retina in ways never before possible. Photography of the retinal blood vessels using injected fluorescent dyes, recordings of the electrical activity from single retinal cells, use of the electron microscope to study retinal structure and function at the molecular level, and tissue culture of retinal cells are some of the important discoveries in
