Edward Lear—genius

The Springfield Public Library lists the following titles among the recently received books:

AMNESIAC GENIUS
"Edward Lear"
By John Lehmann

There is no better way to describe this extraordinary man except by quoting the author: "He is, in fact, seen at last as a many-sided genius, one of the most original of the Victorian age, and he was also a most lovable human being, loyal, affectionate, sensitive in his dealings with his many friends, an anchoress and a source of constant mirth."

Edward Lear, born in England in 1812 (the twelfth child), was entrusted to his eldest sister, who cared for the frail, sickly boy. He studied books of natural history and poetry, and acquired a love for painting. At 15 he earned a living as an artist, also a reputation as a "zoological draughtsman."

Later he was invited to live at Lord Stanley's home, where he made drawings of the menagerie. There he also amused the young people with comic drawings and absurd rhymes. In 1846, he published his first book, "A Book of Nonsense," which was a great success.

Despite failing health, he traveled to the remote parts of Europe and the East, adding landscape paintings to his busy career. His delightful, illustrated "Nonsense," especially "The Owl and the Pussycat," with his excellent paintings, have kept his memory alive since his death in 1888. More than 130 illustrations enhance this delightful book.

VICTIM OF STALINISM
"Leon Trotsky"
By Irving Howe

Since there already is a major biography available, Mr. Howe has written a political essay with a narrative foundation about the Marxist revolutionary, Leon Davidovich Bronstein (1879-1940), known to most as Leon Trotsky. From Judaism, the young had inherited the culture and socialism of the period, was converted to Marxism.

As a young man, he was exiled to Siberia for his dissent activities. During his imprisonment, he wrote essays on a wide range of literary, social, and political topics.

His name is coupled with Lenin's as co-founder of Soviet Russia. Although he was originally a believer in democratic processes, he was later "instrumental in constructing the Soviet state as a bureaucratic, one-party dictatorship in which all dissent, and even his own, was crushed."

Although an ardent supporter of the revolution, he was not a fan of Stalin.

When writing a resume you might best start with a few personal bits of information. Follow it by your employment history (indicated by years), just accounting in the basics. List your accomplishments briefly (local, state, national, international relations) and be sure of your references (notify them).

The author covers the problem of leads through newspaper ads which are usually ineffective, checking with former employers, breaking into an executive's office (sneak), writing several letters to a few companies using college placement services, and contacting former employers and acquaintances as executive who is himself job-hunting.

Berliner describes methods used by job agencies, the necessity for sending a cover letter, two weeks after the resume, how to interview with a good interviewer and discuss with a new employer concerning your salary.

Death and Dying: Challenge and Change

As the nation's population grows, the challenge of death and dying becomes more acute. The American Medical Association (AMA) has issued a report on the subject, "The Challenge of Death and Dying: A Report of the AMA Committee on Death and Dying." The report states that the AMA is concerned about the quality of life in the United States, particularly in the area of death and dying. It calls for a national commission to study the issue and make recommendations.

Union College lists new adult
spring courses

Seven courses in the arts are available in the spring semester of the Division of Special Services and Continuing Education at Union College, Cranford.

The non-credit courses and workshops are available for adults seeking mental stimulation, personal enrichment, or professional skills, according to the dean of the division. Each of the programs is a week or on Saturday mornings for six to ten weeks, depending upon the material to be presented and the depth to which it will be explored.

Beginning March 20, Creative Drawing will be offered by noon on Tuesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m.; by Natalie Becker, national award-winning landscape artist, as the instructor. The course will cover fundamentals of drawing, basic composition, proportion and perspective, drawing policies and procedures. The class is limited to 18 students and tuition is $48 for Union County residents.

A Vocal Techniques Workshop will run for eight consecutive Thursdays from 8:10 to 8:30 p.m., beginning March 22. This course is designed for the choir member who wishes to develop a singing voice. Tutoring is $40 for Union County residents. The class is led by Kathryn Evans Ferrara, soprano, who is the instructor.

An advanced Vocal Techniques Workshop for singers with previous training will also be presented by Ferrara on Thursdays beginning March 22, from 8:10 to 10:15 p.m. This course will not be offered for this special workshop. Enrollment is limited to 12 students. Tuition for more individual attention, tuition for Union County residents is $65.

Also beginning on March 22 is a 10-session Working in Oil and Acrylics Painting Technique, which will run on Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Demonstrations and live instruction in tone, color and composition will be given by the instructor, Natalie Becker. Tuition is $48 for Union County residents.

Watercolor Painting will be conducted on 10 consecutive Fridays from 7 to 9:30 p.m., beginning March 22, for beginning and advanced students. Betty Shropell, professional artist and member of the New York Watercolor Society, will be the instructor. Class limit is 18 and tuition is $48 for Union County residents.

Two Stained Glass Workshops will be offered beginning March 24, both taught by Kay Weiner, author of stained glass magazine articles. The basic workshop will be conducted on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon for eight sessions. It is designed to teach the basic techniques of leaded glass and copper foil. Students may create items of their own choice with material that they supply themselves. Classes are limited to 20 and tuition is $48 for Union County residents. The advanced workshop will be offered on eight Saturdays, will meet from 1 to 3 p.m. This workshop will present techniques for designing intricate lamps and banners, glass painting, and lamp mold making. Tuition for Union County residents is $38.

Additional information on these and other courses offered by the Division of Special Services and Continuing Education may be obtained by calling Union College, 278-2600, Extension 208 or 238.

Agency, union unite for counsellor course

The annual Union County Counsellor Course, sponsored by the Union County AFL-CIO and the Union County Way of Union County, will begin March 7. The class will meet for eight consecutive Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at 604 Bayview ave., Elizabeth.

Frank Conway, coordinator of the course for the past 20 years, relates a case where help was secured as a result of someone having taken the course. "Help was found for an employee's elderly parents, who resided in an isolated area out of Union County. The mother was bedridden. A serious problem arose when the father was suddenly hospitalized and could no longer care for his ailing wife. Thanks to a Union counsellor, the employee learned of two different services that would provide the care that his mother so badly needed. They were the Visiting Homecare Service and Meals on Wheels," he said.

Watercolor Painting will be conducted on 10 consecutive Fridays from 7 to 9:30 p.m., beginning March 22, for beginning and advanced students. Betty Shropell, professional artist and member of the New York Watercolor Society, will be the instructor. Class limit is 18 and tuition is $48 for Union County residents.

Dem unit backs
internship plan

The Union County Young Democrats have called upon the State Legislature to approve a bill sponsored by Senator Anthony Russo to establish a legislative internship program for high school students.

SEN. Russo, which has been referred to the Senate education committee, would establish a program in which high school officials, in conjunction with individual legislators, would select students to assist the legislator in the performance of his duties in Trenton. Joseph Kosciuszko, the Young Democrats' president, said, "At a time when many young people feel alienated and left out of public decision making, this internship program is a great step in the right direction. We hope the educational community will join us in support of this legislation."

Secretaries to hold fashion show, lunch

Union County Chapter, National Secretaries Association, will sponsor a "Shower of Secretaries" luncheon and fashion show Saturday, March 17, at 11:30 a.m. at the Chamber of Commerce, 278-2600. Information may be obtained from Marion Kevigert 792-600, Ext. 252.

This January
a wet blanket

A total of 9.26 inches of rain fell during January, topping the 8.28-inch record for January of last year, according to Raymond D. Day of Union County's weather office.

More than half the days of the month—a total of 16—saw some measurable rain. The lowest recorded January temperature was minus 2 degrees in 1961. The high for the month was 62 degrees in 1962.

The average relative humidity for the month was 67 percent, with a maximum of 88 percent occurring on the 11th and a minimum of 29 percent on the 11th.

The mean temperature was 29.68 degrees, compared to 28.99 degrees last year. There were 1.09 degree days in the month, which is an average of 38.36 per day and a total of 67.07 since September 1. The average for the past 30-day year was 31.28.
