Board OKs budget for new school year

SARATON MEETINGS—Five members stand up for some time Saturday after one of many special sessions held by the Springfield Board of Education during the past two weeks to prepare for the annual budget hearing held Monday night. The board had to select three different budgets when the state first rejected, then partially granted, a request for a 'cap' waiver. From left are, seated, Lix Simpson, board president Laura Rosenbaum and Philip Fawcett; standing, John Westover, Paul Polito, Ellen Dehnen, Nancy Heller and Gregory Clarke. Not shown is manager Barbara Adler.

Tax levy will go up 9 points

Parents are urged to work for votes

By HELEN REYNOLDS
The Springfield Board of Education will ask local voters to raise their property taxes by 9 points, an increase of $48 on a $50,000 house, to maintain most kindergarten-to-eighth grade (K-8) programs in the face of state-aid cuts.

The board, acting before a sympathetic audience of about 70 Monday, adopted a budget calling for the 9-point increase in two levels.

—$3,053,528 toward current expenses, accounting for about 6 points of the projected increase. Ironically, the board pointed out, the projected current-expenses budget of $3,086,182 for 1979-80, would be $32,654 lower than this year's, but local taxes would have to rise from $2.8 to the $3 million to support it.

"By systematically depleting our reserve funds while cutting back its aid, the state has said, in effect, 'Our' program to raise your local taxes," said Gregory Clarke, chairman of the board's finance committee.

—$99,507 for "weatherproofing, heating, ventilating and other capital-outlay projects."

The budget adopted Monday totals $3,886,189, including the capital-outlay program and "aid" from the state.

Auditor Robert Steffany pointed out that this is a total increase over last year of $99,186. If K-8 taxes rise only because of budget hikes, he said, the projected tax rate would be going up 2 points, not 9.

"But I'm very concerned that the

Rt. 78 foes predict threat to local roads

A traffic analysis of the impact of the proposed link of Rt. 78 through the Watchung Reservation, made public this week, said the road will not adequately relieve traffic congestion in the area unless linkage roads with U.S. Rt. 22 and Rt. 78 are constructed.

Probable routes for linking the roads are Rt. 221 in North Plainfield and New Providence road-Diamond Hill road in Montclair and Berkeley Heights, the report said.

"Such linkages have not been discussed in the Final Environmental Impact Statement (FEIS) and would appear to impose significant burdens on local traffic arteries if 1-78 were to be built," according to Robert C. Barrett, an attorney with a firm hired by the town of Springfield.

The report was prepared by Alan Davis Associates, Inc., a transportation consultant in Connecticut. It was commissioned by the attorneys working for Springfield to fight the construction of the road.

The report stated, "Little of the traffic using 1-78 has destinations on U.S. 22 to the east of the present terminus. In order for a significant diversion of U.S. 22 traffic to 1-78 to occur, major highway linkages would be required between the two roadways to carry the flows. These would join U.S. 22 to the 1-78 interchanges."

"The such linkages, which would provide satisfactory for such heavy diversions, are presently in existence or proposed. Obvious linkages for diverted traffic from south of U.S. 22 to points east on 1-78 would be via State Rt. 231 in North Plainfield and New Providence road-Diamond Hill road in the study area."

"What we're saying is we pay for this road is not a solution to our traffic problems but a diversion of them onto our local streets," said June Leathrope of the Parkland Preservation Fund, a private group opposed to the highway. "We're paying a price tag of over $18 million per mile, and our precious Watchung Reservation for a road which will not even be adequate."

Police say 5 summonses follow driver leaving overturned car

Springfield police said the driver and three passengers just walked away from the wreckage on Rt. 22 early Sunday after riding in a car while it flipped, then skidded more than 200 feet on its roof.

Police identified the driver as Antal Stojka, 19 Irvington, and said he faces charges for his work: two counts of failing to make legally required accident reports. He also was charged with driving while his license was revoked, failing to have liability insurance and driving carelessly.

The car was still in the middle of the highway, near the Ballueral overpass, when Stojka was spotted fleeing on foot, according to police. Officers said his three former passengers were with him, and one of them apparently had been injured in the wreck. Police called for the First Aid Squad which took Theodore Drake, 18, of Newark to Overlook Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Police said the car apparently skidded at a bend, ran onto the grass median and hit concrete curbing before it flipped over shortly after 3 a.m.

Two other cars ran onto landscaping in separate accidents in Springfield during the past six days, according to police.

Officers said John Noco of Summit road, Springfield, was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving after his car caused lawn and tree damage at 28 Fox Hill road. Noco said a blowout in the left front tire caused the accident at 7:20 a.m. Sunday, according to police.

Margaret Curcio of Maplewood also blamed a front-tire blowout when her car damaged a lawn and curb in the 900 block of S. Springfield avenue at 3:25 a.m. last Friday, according to police.

Republicans to pick legislative hopefuls

A Union County Republican convention for District 22 will be held on Saturday at 10 a.m. at Perry II, Rt. 22, Springfield.

Delegates to the district convention will select Republican standard-bearer for the Senate and Assembly seats in the district.

Screening for the Senate seat will be Assemblyman Bill Maguire and Donald DiFrancesco. A spokesman predicted that the incumbent assemblyman who does not receive the Senate nomination will head the Assembly ticket.

Library show features crafts

Joseph Tartas, designer-craftsman specializing in jewelry made of silver and wood, will demonstrate his skills in the meeting room of the Springfield Public Library on Saturday.

This will be the fourth in a series of craft demonstrations being presented Wednesday afternoons at the library by members of the "Crafts" Ministry.

Other speakers include: Jim Falconer, Rahway; Robert Lee, Fairwood; and Joe Pozniak, Clark.

The county-wide convention will be held April 7 at the Italian American Club in Scotch Plains. It will also convene at 10 a.m. More than 700 delegates will select the three Republican freeholder standard-bearers.

Probable candidates include Frank Westfield, Jack Mosker, Westfield; Bruce Geiger, council president, Montclair; Henry Miller, Cranford; and Joe DeLoe, Union.

FMBA to fate chief at dinner

Local area of the Financial Mutual Bankers Association (FMBA) will have its annual dinner at the Springfield Fire Club on Friday night.

The dinner will be presented by the Springfield Fire Club.

Regional board

The Regional Board of Education will meet on Friday at the Springfield Fire Club.

Public will hear five candidates

The Springfield League of Women Voters and local PTAs will sponsor their annual school board candidates' night this evening at 7 at the Florence Church School House.

They are: Natalie Wald, unopposed for reelection to the Bogotus-High School Board of Education; and Daniel Maddling, Gregory Clarke, Laura Rosenbaum and Barbara Adler, competing for three seats on the local board. Clarke, Adler and Rosenbaum are incumbents.

College counts local students

Union College, Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield, served 300 Springfield residents 76 credit and non-credit programs in 1977-78, according to an annual report issued this week by Dr. Saul Orkin, president.

The need count for 1977-78 totaled 12,439 with Elizabeth providing the largest number of 1,754. In addition to those formally enrolling in some type of instruction, an estimated 10,685 persons took advantage of cultural, athletic, and educational programs conducted by the college, including art exhibits, dramatic productions, lectures and similar events.

Child is subject at library for state official

"Children Are Our Future" will be presented in the reading room of the Springfield Public Library at 1 p.m. next Thursday, March 22, by a representative of the N.J. Department of Human Services, Division of Youth and Family Services.

A library spokesman said, "There are many reasons why a child may become available for adoption or foster care other than the death of a parent... such problems as child-abusing parents, parents who are ill or financially unable to provide proper care, and families where drug abuse or alcoholism are problems. There are, too, many families who are anxious to care for children."

"The Division of Youth and Family Services was created to help bring together the prospective adoptive or foster parents with the children who need their care."

"The speaker will explain the differences between adoption and foster care. She will also speak about the needs of children at different ages and the kinds of homes they seek. Material listing various adoption agencies and their eligibility requirements will be available."

DESIGN NEW CAPACITOR—Robert Chickadee, left, and Peter Schmiedel, engineers in Western Electric's Purchased Products organization in Springfield, show ceramic capacitor encased on two-pin dual-in-line package. It saves circuit board space and can be mechanically assembled on printed wiring boards and used worldwide. The Springfield organization provides design and manufacturing engineering and assurance for products manufactured for the Bell System by outside suppliers, including many New Jersey firms.

League units to hold combined meeting

The Union and Springfield units of the League of Women Voters will hold a joint meeting in the Springfield Library on Mountain Avenue at 8 p.m. Monday to discuss the urban crisis and fiscal policy.

Federal aid available to states, counties and cities will be reviewed, according to Flo Lipman of Springfield and Judith Markovich and Fran Laczynski of Union, chairmen.

Growing Older

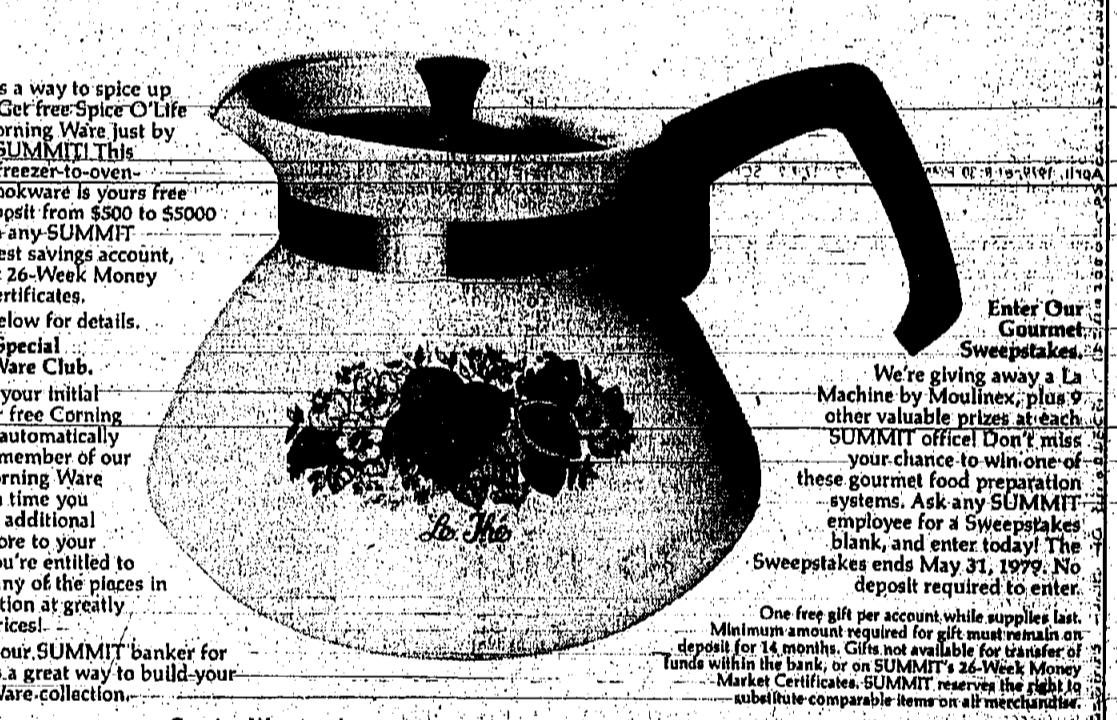

MEDICAL CARE—Medicare and Medicaid are two programs that help many older persons with medical bills. Nearly all persons 65 years and older are eligible for Medicare, while needy, low-income elderly persons may also be eligible for Medicaid.

Medicare is a federal program that is universal throughout the country. Medicaid, on the other hand, is a federal-state partnership under which benefits vary from state to state.

Anyone 65 or older and entitled to Social Security or railroad retirement or advanced retirement is automatically covered under Medicare's basic hospital insurance plan (Part A). The supplemental medical insurance plan (Part B) of Medicare is voluntary. To participate, eligible persons must enroll in the plan. Information on Medicare is available from your local Social Security Administration office.

For senior citizens not eligible under Medicare, Medicaid can help pay for a wide variety of hospital and other medical services. Information on Medicaid can be obtained from local social services or welfare offices or from state or local agencies on aging.

Regional board picks Burdge administrator

Harold R. Brudger of Mountairside was appointed to the position of board secretary-school business administrator for the Union County Regional High School District at a meeting of the Board of Education last week at the Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

An employee of the Regional District for more than 17 years, Brudger had worked in various capacities within the district, including teacher of history at Gov. Livingston administrative assistant to the superintendent for state and federal projects, administrative assistant to the assistant superintendent in charge of business, assistant board secretary and most recently as acting board secretary.

Burdge holds a bachelor's degree in history from Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H., a master of arts degree from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and educational certification as a school business administrator and assistant superintendent in charge of business.

As board secretary-school business administrator, he will be in charge of development, execution and supervision of the total business operation of the school district.

Shadow Lake Luftman home

The name Luftman will soon mean "home" to 120 households in the state. Shadow Lake Luftman Towers, a senior citizens complex in Middletown Township, is the first of a series of similar projects created by Homannian Enterprises, Inc., the state's largest real estate developer. Luftman Towers is a 120-unit, two-story apartment building located on the site of the former Shadow Lake Village, the private retirement community created by Luftman Towers. The project is being developed by Luftman Towers, a subsidiary of Homannian Enterprises, Inc., which Luftman was most proud of the achievement to be represented by Luftman Towers. At the grand opening ceremonies in 1977, he was quoted as saying, "Four years, four projects, and a new chapter in the history of New Jersey can match that." He was referring to the fact that the project was the first public housing complex developed through the Lincoln Senior Citizens Housing Corporation, which Luftman was the president.

Today, having retired from his Housing Corporation post, as well as from his eight-year chairmanship of the Middletown Housing Authority, which he founded, Col. Luftman devotes more of his time to his continuing career in the real estate industry as a Realtor. It's his present extension of a long and dignified professional life that enabled him quickly to appreciate the quality of Shadow Lake Village and its surroundings.

At Shadow Lake Village, where less than 100 homes remain available for sale at the community that was formerly the site of a multi-millionaire, Col. Luftman participates in social events, plays golf on the community's private nine-hole course, swims in the Olympic-sized pool during summers and continues to enjoy the community's wooded and lake-side setting.

The remaining homes are priced from $40,000. Other Shadow Lake Village facilities include illuminated tennis courts, sailing and fishing on Shadow Lake, a barbeque area and shaded paths for walking and jogging.

Manitou units are fee simple town houses

There's nothing like it anywhere. In an apartment building in North Jersey's unique, fee-simple town house community, Manitou, which overlooks Pleasant Lake in Wayne. The first phase of 30 homes is sold out and deliveries will begin in June. With complete occupancy by fall, now the prestigious community of Indian Road and Rt. 202 is opening its first section of Phase 2, about 30 homes for delivery beginning in the fall and complete occupancy by the spring of 1980.

The 30-acre community is unique in that the homes are town houses sold on a fee simple basis, in which purchasers own their homes and the land beneath them. Moreover, buyers become members of a homeowners' association, which will assume control over maintenance and operation of the common areas. It is a completely different lifestyle, Manitou reveals about life in the respective societies. In the United States, no organization is more aware of American residential interests than U.S. Home Corp., the nation's leading home builder. The New York Stock Exchange-listed firm last year reached a milestone. The 100,000th U.S. Home Corp. home was purchased, in New Jersey, where the firm began operations 25 years before.

"The American demand for single-family homes is reflected in at least one dramatic way by the popularity of our Greenbriar, adult community," said Frank reported. As planned residential-recreational communities, single-family homes on individual lots, the original Greenbriar is sold out. More than 1,600 residents, while newly-unsettled Greenbriar II is carrying on the tradition of attached town houses who are either used as a home-in-standard or who now wait it for themselves, despite the absence from their daily lives of their children."

Homes at Greenbriar II are priced from $23,900 to $55,900. The common aspects it might share with a Chinese commune are the community's own social and recreational facilities. But then, it would be difficult to expect a Chinese community to have a clubhouse with a closed circuit television studio, billiard rooms or a private swimming pool.

"Without question, the traditional Colonial single-family home styles offered by U.S. Home Corp. are the most sought-after residences of the American family," Frank stated. In New Jersey, U.S. Home Corp. is currently marketing such homes as the state's largest and most successful individual community development. The orchestra will play works by Beethoven, Haydn, Paganini and Mendelssohn. Ray Fowler of Highland Park will conduct.

Focus on health care at Seton Hall's fair

The main purpose of the Health Fair, which will present a positive view of health care, is to provide information related to the maintenance of good health and prevention of disease. At the university's previous fairs, more than 2,000 people attended and more than 5,300 screenings of various types were administered. In addition to making people aware of the state of their health and good health practices, the fair offers an opportunity for free checks and screenings. The Health Fair also will provide information on social and health-related issues affecting people, facilities and agencies that are available and the variety of career opportunities in health and social service fields. The fair is directed by planning a group of students and two faculty advisors and involves all sectors of the university—including both faculty and students—as well as more than 10 agencies and organizations in the health field. Exhibits and test procedures will be staffed by students as well as licensed professionals. Faculty advisers for the fair are: Ruth Hutchison of Fairfield, a registered nurse who also holds a master's degree in public health and is assistant professor in the College of Nursing and Dr. Ema Quarlaro of West Orange, assistant professor of social work and director of the Center for Social Work.
