

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo

The federal government is becoming one of the world's largest customers for computers. In the last 30 years, the computer network has grown from only two rudimentary data-processing machines to more than 11,000 sophisticated computers that store 3.9 billion records on American citizens.

This giant information factory is operated by 150,000 personnel at a cost of about $10 billion a year, and it continues to grow in cost, personnel and the power to control decision making in America. The federal government is buying or leasing new systems at a rate of more than 1,500 a year, using the computers to keep records on everything from Social Security and welfare to military targets and tax records.

When the computer age dawned in the 1960s, it was confidently predicted that the technology would make man more creative and efficient and raise per capita income. In addition, the computers would eliminate drudgery and increase leisure time. They would be the servants of man.

But many former computer enthusiasts in government and business are having second thoughts. Though indispensable in many offices and government agencies, computers have proven highly vulnerable to sabotage and electronically stored information can be pirated almost as easily as paper files.

The most worrisome aspect of computers derives not from weakness but from their strength—their enormous capacity to store and retrieve information of all kinds. Civil libertarians warn that the United States is moving toward a "digital society" in which all important details of an individual's life—credit and police records, tax returns, scholastic scores and the like—will be stored in computer banks.

The problems and fears associated with computers are not the fault of the machines but the people who use them. The Federal Data Processing Reorganization Project, designed to study the impact of computers on the federal government, turned up a number of instances in which computers were either under-utilized or else fed the wrong information. The study pointed out that the federal agencies persist in regarding data as property.

Some steps to safeguard information kept in government computers and to make better use of computer equipment have been taken by Congress. They include enactment of the Privacy Act of 1974 under which every agency must file an annual report stating how many computers it has, how they are used, and how many personal records are stored.

The Freedom of Information Act also protects individuals by giving them the right to inspect, copy, correct or amend their records. There also are restrictions against government agencies sharing personal data.

Given the enormous power of the computer network, I favor establishing a permanent watchdog commission whose function would be to monitor the information gathering activities of government and business.

The commission would issue annual reports to Congress, along with recommendations for changes and safeguards. With new and smarter computers under development, the American people will have to be assured that we also have the means of controlling this potential Frankenstein.

processing as a glorified bookkeeping aid and fall to integrate it effectively into the operations of their agencies. In one instance, a computer system designed to help military commanders manage a world crisis worked correctly only 30 percent of the time. Yet, it linked 26 military command posts around the world.

Moreover, computer crime has become a growing problem. Computers are not only used to combat crime by cross-checking tax records, welfare payments, government contracts and various other bits of information, but for cheating the government by fraudulently issuing checks and payment records.

Improperly programmed computers also can make costly mistakes. About $3 million a year was wasted by the Department of Defense because a computer ordered the overhaul of naval aircraft prematurely. Even more wasteful in the millions of dollars' worth of computer equipment that is obsolete.

The House Government Operations Committee declared that many federal agencies still do not do a very competent job of utilizing their computer systems. A recent study claims that the taxpayers are losing more than half a billion dollars annually because essential data processing standards have not been developed and existing standards are not enforced.

The State We're In

What's a five-letter word meaning "that which shapes our lives and the lives of our descendants"? It's greed, one of the things that drives our economic system. So long as it's under control, it's not all bad. But when it gets out of control, it is all bad.

This is brought home to me by a pair of clippings from the New York Times which appeared just prior to the writing of this column. One tells how the U.S. Senate voted 48 to 46 to complete Tellico Dam on the Little Tennessee River, in Tennessee. The other tells us that the senators voted to, in effect, emasculate stringencies environmental safeguards against the ravages of strip-mining coal.

Remember Tellico Dam? It's one of the most important pieces of legislation that has ever been passed. It's the only one that has ever been vetoed by a president. It's the only one that has ever been overturned by a court.

It was silly, and an example of how public relations schemers can twist an issue to the advantage of special interests, but as you undoubtedly now recall, the small dam's probable extinction turned out to be the factor which stopped completion of the dam, thanks to the Endangered Species Act.

An issue like that should never have been allowed to hang on the fate of a little fish, which was an invitation to ridicule by assorted fat cats whose slogan became "people or fish?"

Now, on the questionable rationale that Tellico Dam should be completed at the cost of untold millions because $115 million has already been spent on it, the Senate has voted for the dam and against the fish. That's a nice, simplistic way of dealing with a problem which is too subtle for vote-conscious senators to handle. The problem, of course, is that no any species is rendered extinct, even the little snail darter, the fragile balance of all life on earth (including ours) is imperiled a bit more. How much more can we take? We're not sure until it's too late.

Of course, President Carter can kill

Education unit endorses pair

The New Jersey Education Association's 70-member Political Action Committee (NJEA-PAC) has announced its endorsement of Democrat Walter Boright and Republican Bob Frank in the 22nd district state legislative races.

NJEA-PAC, which began supporting candidates in 1972, has endorsed 30 Democrats and 16 Republicans throughout the state. The number of endorsed candidates is the smallest since 1972.

Each group must show that it has liability insurance for at least $1 million, must agree to supervise all activities to avoid damage to the grounds and buildings and must consent not to hold the Board of Education responsible for any damage or injury that occurs during its use of the school.

Board member Ellen Dahmen mentioned that recent media reports of dangerous chemicals in school laboratory storerooms, and classrooms have prompted her to plan a meeting with other members of the policy committee and Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, to study the problem. The policy committee is made up of Dahmen, Barbara Adler, Paul Pottio and Gregory Clarke.

During the public discussion portion of the meeting, Roberta Park of Trooper Avenue read a short statement concerning her daughter Sarah, 3, who is a student at the school.

She praised the pre-school and kindergarten Dayes program that her daughter attends but asked that the board reconsider its decision not to provide transportation for the child because she lives within two miles of the school.

Park argued that it would be unrealistic to expect Sarah to walk the distance between her house and the Sandmeier School, and that transportation was a hardship for the family. While Park talked, Sarah, who had been brought along to the meeting, sat with her father and young brother, and scribbled in a coloring book.

Virginia Bain, a borough resident, thanked Park's request. Laura Rosenbaum, board president, promised to consider the matter.

Wetche and Stokes continued, "We are proud of our record in office. We want it scrutinized carefully and honestly and we are confident the people will be impressed. After all, Springfield is a good place in which to live. Families want to move here. Property values have risen more than in most neighboring communities. The town has a reputation for honest, open treatment of its citizens. Taxes are reasonable. People are content."

"We must have had something to do with this good state of affairs in this town," W. Eric "Bibi" Long on the township committee for nine years.

"Believe my eyes. Don't let them run down the image of our community through their whippers and their negativism. They are trying to do it and they will continue to try. Be aware of the local Republican Party will stand another election through deceit. If they govern the way they campaign, we'll all be in trouble," they concluded.

Effron named semifinalist in Merit program

Alas! Effron of Springfield, a senior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, has been named a semifinalist in the Merit Program of the National Merit Scholarship Corp. announced this week. He is planning to major in pre-law studies.

Effron was among 15,000 semifinalists chosen from among more than 1.1 million students in the nation who took the qualifying tests last year.

To be considered for Merit Scholarship, semifinalists must qualify by meeting further requirements: being endorsed by their secondary school principals, submitting records that confirm high academic standing substantiating their qualifying test scores with equivalent scores on another test.

More than 90 percent of the semifinalists are expected to become finalists next February. Merit Scholars, who will be chosen from this group, will be announced in April and May.

Winners of corporate-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships were announced April 10; winners of National Merit $1,000 scholarships will be announced April 24, and winners of college-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships will be announced May 1.

Cassidy plan: cut legislature

Patrick Cassidy, Democratic candidate for Assembly in the 22nd district, this week called for a reorganized legislature from two houses with 120 legislators to a single house of 60 members, each elected from a separate district.

"The increasingly complex and voluminous legislation being proposed in New Jersey is a burden on the legislature. Cassidy stated, 'I should if most of our legislators are seriously distracted by their full-time jobs and which they have to earn their living.'"

"There are several advantages to a full-time legislature," Cassidy continued. "First of all, with a reduced membership it will not cost more than the present arrangement, and may cost less. Second, members would be elected from smaller districts, and this would improve contact of legislators with their constituents and their closer contact with the voters. Third, a single house would eliminate the present wasteful duplication of bills introduced in both houses. Time needed for consideration of legislation."

Waste is cited by Kisseberth

"Millions of state tax dollars are being spent in consultations every year," Assembly candidate Marie Ann Kisseberth of Berkeley Heights declared this week. She announced a program to reduce state expenditures to "do something decisive about it."

"The State Office of Fiscal Affairs lists $42 million spent on consulting contracts without competitive bidding for the first seven months of this year. Many of these contracts are absolutely worthless and a waste of taxpayers' money," stated Mrs. Kisseberth.

"I propose that we save millions of dollars by adopting and enforcing legislation requiring competitive bidding for these contracts, making it illegal for politicians to create consulting jobs for political payoffs, eliminating duplication of consulting contracts in different departments and requiring bureaucrats and politicians to do the research for which they are capable and are paid instead of delegating their responsibilities to consultants," declared the Assembly candidate.

Asthma camp aids Einhorn

Evan Einhorn, son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Einhorn of Springfield, came to a deep breath after spending the summer at Camp Bronco Junction, the nation's only eight-week intensive care camp for children with asthma, in Red House, N. J.

A four-year camper, Einhorn learned how to control his asthma through environmental control, proper medication, special allergy diet and fluid balance and breathing exercises in conjunction with physical conditioning.

Asthma results from a spasm of the bronchial muscles, swelling of the lining or mucous membrane and thickening of the mucus within the bronchial tubes. An asthma attack may result from exposure to allergic, infectious or psychological stimuli, a camp spokesman commented.

Rajoppi challenges opponent to debates

Union County freeholder vice-chairperson Joanne Rajoppi, Democratic candidate for the State Senate in District 22, this week challenged her GOP opponent, Donald DiFrancesco, to a series of newspaper, radio and television debates on the issues for the November election.

Rajoppi, the former mayor of Springfield, issued her challenge in a registered letter to DiFrancesco informing him that she had requested newspaper editors, radio and television news directors as well as League of Women Voters representatives to extend their sponsorship and participation.

"The residents of this district must be given the opportunity to see and hear the candidates," Rajoppi stated. "A debate is one of the best ways for voters to evaluate, assess and become more familiar with individuals who are seeking office."

In her letter to DiFrancesco, Rajoppi emphasized that "...the voter has a right to be furnished with as much information about a candidate's platform and previous record as possible prior to Election Day."

She added that she was pleased that she and her opponent had been invited to participate in debates sponsored by the League of Women Voters in Chatham Township and Springfield and thanked those organizations for their efforts to promote responsible government, but she said she was dismayed that voters in the rest of the district may not have a chance to hear the candidates' views.

"I am sincere in my efforts," Rajoppi concluded, "to do what's best for the residents of Berkeley Heights, Chatham, Clark, Fanwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside, Plainfield, Rahway, Scotch Plains and Springfield, and I believe the debates will work toward providing people with answers and some definite opinions on whom they wish to have represent them."

"However, several counties will include non-binding resolutions on initiative and referendum measures before the legislature has been called in a committee and were not brought to the floor for a vote in time to present the issue on this year's ballot."

"DiFrancesco noted that the various initiative and referendum measures before the legislature have been called in a committee and were not brought to the floor for a vote in time to present the issue on this year's ballot."

DiFrancesco asks voter aid on referendum

Assemblyman Donald T. DiFrancesco (R-22), co-sponsor of an Assembly resolution that would allow the use of initiative and referendum in New Jersey, this week blasted the Democratic majority for delaying action on this ballot measure.

"It is not unusual for the party in power to be fearful of relinquishing any of that power," said DiFrancesco. "However, on an issue as important as allowing New Jersey citizens a direct say in the laws that govern them, we must not be motivated by political self-interest."

DiFrancesco noted that the various initiative and referendum measures before the legislature have been called in a committee and were not brought to the floor for a vote in time to present the issue on this year's ballot.

Actuary honor for Liebeskind

Chicago—Stuart L. Liebeskind, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Liebeskind of Springfield, N.J., has been named an associate of the Society of Actuaries. Liebeskind passed five examinations administered by the society on mathematics, probability, statistics, risk theory, compound interest, numerical analysis and life contingencies.

Actuaries are mathematicians who study and evaluate contingencies which affect human beings, like birth, marriage, sickness, accidents, retirement and death. By mathematically calculating the chances of these contingencies occurring, actuaries then design and price insurance, pension and employee benefit programs which provide financial protection for people.

Liebeskind is an actuarial associate with the Prudential Insurance Company, Newark. He was graduated from Bucknell University.

Each group must show that it has liability insurance for at least $1 million, must agree to supervise all activities to avoid damage to the grounds and buildings and must consent not to hold the Board of Education responsible for any damage or injury that occurs during its use of the school.

Board member Ellen Dahmen mentioned that recent media reports of dangerous chemicals in school laboratory storerooms, and classrooms have prompted her to plan a meeting with other members of the policy committee and Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, to study the problem. The policy committee is made up of Dahmen, Barbara Adler, Paul Pottio and Gregory Clarke.

During the public discussion portion of the meeting, Roberta Park of Trooper Avenue read a short statement concerning her daughter Sarah, 3, who is a student at the school.

She praised the pre-school and kindergarten Dayes program that her daughter attends but asked that the board reconsider its decision not to provide transportation for the child because she lives within two miles of the school.

Park argued that it would be unrealistic to expect Sarah to walk the distance between her house and the Sandmeier School, and that transportation was a hardship for the family. While Park talked, Sarah, who had been brought along to the meeting, sat with her father and young brother, and scribbled in a coloring book.

Virginia Bain, a borough resident, thanked Park's request. Laura Rosenbaum, board president, promised to consider the matter.

Waste is cited by Kisseberth

"Millions of state tax dollars are being spent in consultations every year," Assembly candidate Marie Ann Kisseberth of Berkeley Heights declared this week. She announced a program to reduce state expenditures to "do something decisive about it."

"The State Office of Fiscal Affairs lists $42 million spent on consulting contracts without competitive bidding for the first seven months of this year. Many of these contracts are absolutely worthless and a waste of taxpayers' money," stated Mrs. Kisseberth.

"I propose that we save millions of dollars by adopting and enforcing legislation requiring competitive bidding for these contracts, making it illegal for politicians to create consulting jobs for political payoffs, eliminating duplication of consulting contracts in different departments and requiring bureaucrats and politicians to do the research for which they are capable and are paid instead of delegating their responsibilities to consultants," declared the Assembly candidate.

Prime Time Older athletes may add extra life to their years

By CV BRICKFIELD If you're the least bit interested in sports, you've probably noticed that the press and the television have paid considerable attention lately to the exploits of some famous "older" athletes. Earlier this year, for instance, NBC televised the "Legends of Golf" tournament which featured Julius Boros, Gene Sarazen and other stars of past years. At the same time, tennis greats, such as Frank Segman and Neale Fraser, are still playing in Masters Tournaments, some of which are being held in conjunction with professional tennis events.

State ready to open first area day school

State Education Commissioner Fred G. Burke has announced that the first of 11 regional day schools designed to provide services to severely handicapped children will open this month. Burke said site plans have been completed for three other regional schools and negotiations are under way for the seven remaining facilities.

The school, on a 4.5-acre site, is one of 11 regional day schools designed to provide services to some 1,300 children who are classified deaf, deaf and blind, multiply handicapped and severely emotionally disturbed.

The 11 facilities are expected to cost a total of $20 million and would be located in four regions throughout the 21 counties in the state. Funding for the schools was established in 1973 after the legislature implemented Chapter 140 and voters in the state approved the sale of bonds in the amount of $25 million.

The state-owned regional schools are being established because local districts do not have the resources to provide appropriate programs and facilities for children with very severe handicaps, Burke said.

Cancer grants made to Jersey hospitals

Development of tumor registries in four New Jersey hospitals was assisted by American Cancer Society (ACS) grants totaling $24,500 during the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, Raymond J. Donahue, president of the ACS New Jersey division, announced this week. Hospital tumor registries chart the admission, by code number, of each cancer patient, diagnosis as to type of disease, and treatment undertaken.

The hospitals that received American Cancer Society registry assistance grants in fiscal '79 are Riverside Hospital in Bonton (18,000), Newton Memorial Hospital in Newton (18,300), Middlesex General Hospital in New Brunswick (17,500) and Dover General Hospital in Dover (14,000).

Until cancer was made a reportable disease, as provided by legislation adopted in New Jersey last year, there was no precise way of measuring cancer incidence, or occurrence, in our state, Donahue explained.

A central registry, with data provided by every hospital in the state, not only will record the number of cancer cases by type but also will be able to show where clusters, or heavy incidence, of certain types of cancer occur, he continued.

Builders preserve harmony Fortune's Wood gets a quick start in sales

Indian Forest, located on Old Stage road in East Brunswick, is being preserved for its ecological sound style of community planning. The builders have taken an area of 122 acres and designated 33 as "open space" land. The open spaces have been carefully chosen to include areas that either are environmentally sensitive or contain woodlands of other natural greenery.

The Indian Forest site is actually an updated version of an old European pattern. Homes are grouped together in various clusters, leaving large amounts of untouched land between the groups. This allows the builders to plant trees and shrubs to individual homes so as to build around trees and vegetation instead of chopping them down and to leave the natural grades of the land untouched.

The result is not only an environmentally sound, but also provides a unique setting for the homeowner where the large expanses of woodland and greenery afford a private and relaxing atmosphere while avoiding the regimented look and feel of other housing developments.

Natural trails run through the rolling spaces have been left intact for the pleasure of residents. The effect is one of complete harmony between the developed area and a sprawling 600-acre county park located directly across Old Stage road.

The real beauty of "Indian Forest" is that this country-like setting has all the advantages of city living," said a spokesman for the developers. "We're only 40 minutes from New York, a few miles from Princeton, and we're close to shopping centers, schools and colleges everything anyone could want."

Hovnanian's Moved Florida to New Jersey.

If you've been wondering what all the excitement's about in the skies over Middletown, New Jersey, it's simple. Florida has arrived. Right here, in New Jersey. In the form of an actual Pine Ridge condominium home model that has been built right in Hovnanian's New Jersey office building on Route 35.

Naturally, bringing Florida north this way is extraordinary. But no more so than Hovnanian's unprecedented sales success. For months, New Jerseyans have been buying adult homes at Pine Ridge by the hundreds. Literally. And if that many smart people bought before the model was even here, you can imagine how fast these 1 and 2 bedroom homes are going to be snapped up now.

For the first time ever, you can get a taste of Florida's good life just by going to Middletown. Because this furnished model home gives you a first-hand sampling of why all five Pine Ridge models are so popular. You'll see the thoughtful layouts, the quality construction that have made Hovnanian famous up and down the East Coast. The included features. And best of all, the prices. Just $33,250 to $38,250 for some of the best looking homes under the sun. Believe it or not, that includes central air conditioning, carpeting, large private terraces and more, plus resort pleasures like a private swim club, shuffleboard courts, picnic groves and acres of nature, lakes and landscaping.

And here's another reason so many New Jerseyans are buying at Pine Ridge. Hovnanian guarantees — in writing — that your maintenance costs will stay at $29 a month for at least the next 5 years!

Meanwhile, in the balmy Palm Beaches, Hovnanian is ready to begin construction of Section IV (more than a year ahead of schedule). As fast as Hovnanian's good news travels, Section IV will probably disappear very quickly. Which isn't good news for some people. Because Section IV is the final section at Pine Ridge. So this is the beginning of the end, you might say, of the Pine Ridge success story.

Are you going to miss your chance at the very last Pine Ridge homes to be offered? Not if you're smart. After all, Hovnanian moved Florida to New Jersey for you! Our model is now open for your inspection in New Jersey.

Visit Florida today. Right here at 10 Route 35 in Middletown, New Jersey. To reach Hovnanian's furnished Florida model home, just take the Garden State Parkway south to Exit 117. Turn take Route 35 south for approximately 1/2 mile to the beautiful gold office building before Route 35 crosses the bridge into Red Bank. The model exhibit is on the second floor and it's open every day until 6pm. Or call (201) 842-9402.

A giant tribute for Hovnanian

The reason behind the explosion of the homes of covered bridge is now obvious: they were built by a giant. "Professional Builder," the leading trade magazine of the housing industry has designated Hovnanian's "Hovnanian Enterprises Inc." as one of the nation's "giants in housing" over the past year. The designation was further confirmation of the firm's stature in its profession.

Hovnanian Enterprises was one of only four New Jersey-based homebuilding firms on the roster of 36 "giants."

According to the magazine, the Red Bank headquarters firm was 5500 on the last with total volume of $9,722,000 and sales of 608 attached home units for the year ended Feb. 28, 1979.

Included in the reported sales volume were the heavy sales that resulted in the sell-out of Shadow Brook in the Garden State, and the brick pace at Covered Bridge, which is expected to be sold out within the year. Other Hovnanian Enterprises' communities are located in Florida, Georgia, Pennsylvania, and Texas, including recently introduced Condominium, Homes at Pine Ridge in Palm Beach County, Florida.

"While it is an honor to have achieved a high position within my industry, I get tremendous gratification from seeing how much enjoyment has resulted from our efforts at the communities we have created," Hovnanian stated.

At Covered Bridge, part of the enjoyment of residing in the fact that they now have more value than ever in their homes. As the most northerly of the state's planned residential-recreational environments for adults, the Covered Bridge homes are priced from $38,900 also are the most convenient to family, friends, jobs and entertainment in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area. And it now has become a near-impossibility for community developers to duplicate the level and extent of recreational and social facilities built at Covered Bridge earlier this decade.

Located off Rt. 9 in Manalapan Township, the garden state Parkway (Exit 123), Covered Bridge is already more than 90 per cent sold. Available to the final home purchasers are the last new homes, including the one and two-bedroom 600 series model. Each has a spacious living dining area, patio or balcony and spacious kitchen. And awaiting them are the swiftest of the Covered Bridge clubhouses.

More than 60 hobby clubs meet there day and night; it is the scene of card games, billiards, exercise, saunas, library reading or just getting together with friends. Outside are an Olympic-size swimming pool and sun decks, illuminated tennis courts, paths for jogging, cycling, and walking.

There is also community private bus service to nearby shopping centers— one of many services provided by the Residents' Association for a small monthly fee. Gardening, snow removal and exterior maintenance are also taken care of by experts.

New Jersey's famous beaches, Freehold Race Track and Monmouth Park, the Garden State Park, the Garden State Center and many hunting and fishing preserves are within a short drive from Covered Bridge.

All the amenities and, of course, model homes may be viewed seven days a week. To reach Covered Bridge, take the New Jersey Turnpike (Exit 11) to Garden State Parkway (Exit 123) and continue south on Rt. 9. Following signs to Covered Bridge, you'll see the Covered Bridge Gateway to the Homes on your right.

"NO BULL... IF I MOVED TO NEW JERSEY I'D LIVE AT PANTHER VALLEY."

"I guess you could say I've gotten used to the good life. I'm also used to having lots of open land around me. There's not a whole lot of places that could keep me tied down in the New York and New Jersey area... except for Panther Valley. And, from what I've been told, there aren't a whole lot of places anywhere like this community."

"Whenever I'd want to go into those concrete canyons of Manhattan, I'd be less than 60 miles away. And I'd be coming back to 1500 acres of rolling hill nature private tennis, swimming and even the platform tennis. And inside Panther Valley is the Panther Valley Golf & Country Club and its 18-hole championship course that was designed by Robert Trent Jones."

"You could say I'm also spoiled about not having to do the homestead chores that are handled by the Panther Valley residents, like exterior home maintenance, landscaping, road work and snow removal. The other thing the community has to offer is the 24-hour service, including the manned gatehouse."

"Right now, though, I don't have to make the decision. I don't think Panther Valley would take kindly to me bringing along 3500 head of cattle."

Education unit endorses pair

The New Jersey Education Association's 70-member Political Action Committee (NJEA-PAC) has announced its endorsement of Democrat Walter Boright and Republican Bob Franks in the 22nd district state legislative races. NJEA-PAC, which began supporting candidates in 1978 as a means to avoiding the municipal spending limitation. The taxpayer receives no tax break, in fact, he may pay more because a service such as garbage collection, is removed from the regular budget and municipal purpose tax rate is financed from a special district property tax levied to finance that service. Since the cost is outside the regular municipal budget, it is not subject to caps, and so neither the other services in the municipal budget, nor garbage collection service, will be adversely affected by the financing shift.

Know Your Government

FIRE DISTRICTS COME UNDER SCRUTINY
Special districts, a little known level of local government, have recently attracted the attention of the New Jersey legislature, reports the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. State law authorizes a variety of single purpose districts financed by local property taxes such as fire, garbage, lighting, and water. In most New Jersey communities, fire fighting is a major government expense. The amount of fire district fees levied on property owners is determined by the fire district board. Some municipalities, however, have elected to create special fire districts, which are governed by elected commissioners who annually submit a budget for voter approval at election time. The State Division of Local Government Services reviews and approves municipal and county budgets under local law and regulation originating in the 1950s; however, the division has no financial authority over special districts. Two legislative committees have recently focused attention on special districts. First, the Joint Committee on Tax Policy recommended in its recent report that the legislature immediately initiate a study of special districts with a view to severely restricting the circumstances under which any special districts are created. As an interim measure the committee recommended adoption of legislation to prevent further establishment of special districts until study of the problem can be completed. This proposal is the result of a number of municipalities creating special districts for purposes such as garbage collection, in violation of the municipal spending limitation. The taxpayer receives no tax break, in fact, he may pay more because a service such as garbage collection, is removed from the regular budget and municipal purpose tax rate is financed from a special district property tax levied to finance that service. Since the cost is outside the regular municipal budget, it is not subject to caps, and so neither the other services in the municipal budget, nor garbage collection service, will be adversely affected by the financing shift.

'Magic Show' at Mill, a fascinating evening

By BEA SMITH
 Various magic acts, and it seemed that everyone was trying to figure out how Abadio did this trick or that. It was an impressive moment for the young man—who should have been in that lobby listening to his audience.
 "The Magic Show" has music and dancing, too. At least, the music is uneventful, and the story line, weak and dull. The performers, however, are a hard-working crew, particularly the women, and assistants in half, tears newpapers into tiny strips, "only to make them again with such ease he has audiences sighing and panting in the palm of his quicker-than-the-eye-can-see" hand.
 His disappearing lion act is one of the outstanding highlights of the production. But wait, the best is yet to come.
 Abadio is one final trick up his sleeve—over his head, he does it—it is as overwhelming as anything this reviewer has seen on stage screens. "metamorphosis" trick—a heavy packaged truck. During intermission on opening night at the Paper Mill, the lobby was filled with people discussing the

Proposals on teacher training become subject of heated debate

Are teachers adequately prepared? Is there a need to alter traditional methods of teacher training and preparation in our modern society? What changes in training programs would improve the quality of instruction offered in public schools today?
 Teacher training is one of the hottest issues emerging on the educational scene. In fact, within the next few months the public and official debate now taking shape will come to a head, as a special commission of the State Legislature shapes its final report on teacher preparation programs.
 The commission's preliminary recommendations—ranging from establishment of a two-tiered program of teacher certification to creating a one-year residency program for beginning teachers—have caused an uproar in educational circles, according to the New Jersey State Board of Education (NJSEB).
 Public hearings are planned for this fall. However, the commission already has held hearings "by invitation only" of educational organizations.
 One preliminary recommendation which received nearly universal applause was a proposal that undergraduate education majors start receiving extensive student teaching and observation experience early in their college careers.
 Other recommendations, however, received mixed reviews.
 Recommendation: Creation of a two-level certification program, with an initial certificate to be awarded upon completion of a bachelor's degree and a professional certificate to be awarded upon completion of a two-year program of post-bachelor's study.
 Reactions: Elimination of permanent certification upon graduation is strongly supported by the school boards association, which feels that the two-tiered certification program is a step in the right direction. The school administrators association also has responded favorably to the certification proposal. However, the teachers' group does not favor requiring completion of a

Marriage topic for theologian

A first-ever program to assist Catholics married without church authorization will be presented at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 23, at Immaculate Heart of Mary Hall, 260 Parker Ave., Maplewood.
 Sponsored by the Newark Archdiocese's Ministry to Divorced Catholics (MDC), the presentation is open to the public. The main speaker will be the Rev. Frank J. McNulty, nationally known theologian and author, and a faculty member of Immaculate Conception Seminary, Mahwah.
 "We're rolling up our sleeves on this timely matter of conscience," said the Rev. Edgar Holden, MDC's director. "It's been swept under the rug too long." Noting that more than three million U.S. Catholics are in unauthorized marriages, Fr. Holden quoted the Vatican's Cardinal Franjo Seper who, several years ago, urged the world's bishops "to exercise special care to seek out those who are in an irregular union."
 "So," Fr. Holden stated, "we are seeking them out. In fact, we feel we can offer some comfort and help to all of them."
 Additional information is available from the Ministry to Divorced Catholics, 300 Broadway, Newark.

Museum to present Irania, Cuban films

Two recently-released foreign-language films that played to enthusiastic audiences in New York City this summer have been booked by the New Jersey State Museum for free showings.
 "The Sealed Sol," an Iranian film which won major awards at the San Remo and London film festivals, will be shown in the museum auditorium at 3 p.m. Sunday. "Death of a Bureaucrat," a Cuban satire that has been compared with the classic American comedies of Buster Keaton, Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd and the Marx Brothers, will be shown at the same time on Sunday, Sept. 30.
 Dialogue of "The Sealed Sol" is in Farsi, "Death of a Bureaucrat" in Spanish. Both have English subtitles.
 "The Sealed Sol," the best feature-length production by talented young director Marvay Nabil, is set in a poor Iranian village on the edge of a new town. It is the story of the emotional and psychological dilemma of an 18-year-old girl as she encounters the pressures of modern and western influences.
 The State Museum, a division of the New Jersey Department of Education, is open free from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 11 to 5 p.m. weekends and most holidays.

Seminar to tell how to sell

A day-long seminar on doing business with the federal government will be sponsored by Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-N.J.) and the Area Chambers of Commerce at the Town & Campus, Union, Sept. 26.

Rinaldo is sponsoring the event in cooperation with the Chambers of Commerce of Eastern Union County: Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights; Westfield Area Central Jersey and Union.

Experts from the Department of Defense and various other federal agencies will be available for questions and counseling. Representatives of major prime contractors also will attend.

Rinaldo said federal agencies award thousands of contracts worth billions of dollars a year. "The record shows," he said, "that many businesses miss out on sales because they lack information about the federal procurement process. The seminar will give them the ability to cash in on available opportunities."

The Union County Chamber of Commerce said surveys have shown that it could take a business several months and thousands of dollars to obtain the information being made available at the seminar. The seminar will include sessions:

- How to do business with the federal government
- How to write proposals
- How to get contracts
- How to do business with the state
- How to do business with the local government

GOP trio cites 'improper' use of tax dollars

Blanche Banastak of Elizabeth, Jack Mesker of Westfield and Frank H. Lohr of Summit, Republican candidates for Union County Board of Freeholders, rapped the use of county manhours and materials by Democratic opponents in the Sunday closing petitions as "highly improper."

"While we have no objection to a vote of the people on ending the Sunday closing requirements in Union County and believe such votes on public questions have great merit, we strenuously object to the use of the tax dollars to promote this initiative," Banastak said.

"We think that it would be more ethical for our opponents to set up a non-governmental committee of volunteers and to use only a checking account with monetary sources from strictly voluntary contributions to finance this initiative," Mesker added.

Tests also will be given at the Elizabeth Urban Educational Center, 10 Butler St., from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays.

The high school equivalency (GED) tests are offered on a walk-in basis and counseling is available for those who have questions about the program.

Dayton takes cross-country 3-way meet

By DAVID GOLD
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School cross-country team is the first varsity team in the school this year to go off a winning note, beating Caldwell and Madison 25 to 29, and defeated Caldwell in a tie-breaker.

"We didn't run a smart race," commented coach Martin Taglienti. "The first mile was too slow. The home course advantage was definitely a factor, as Regional seemed to be stronger earlier on in the race."
