Republicans question recreation program

"What happened to our cultural programs and our teen recreation programs under the supervision of the recreation department?" asked Jerry Cohen and Ray Condon, Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee in the Nov. 6 election. "Several years ago Springfield had numerous cultural activities. Several years ago Springfield had several programs for our teenagers. These programs were virtually nonexistent at the present time, and there must be a good reason why."

"We attribute the decline in these programs directly to Democratic Committeeman Stokes, who is the township committeeman in charge of recreation and now a candidate for reelection. He has been a township committeeman for nine years and recreation commissioner for most of those years."

Cohen and Condon continued, "Several years ago Springfield had numerous cultural activities. There were band concerts during the summer, utilizing the Union County band shell, which is still available for use. There were block dances for teenagers. There were arts and crafts programs at the Sarah Bailey House. There was a youth council which formulated programs for teenagers in the community, which council now is virtually defunct."

"What have we left in Springfield for our teenagers? What programs have been initiated?"

"We reject that attitude. We reject the idea that cultural activities do not belong in a community such as Springfield and we reject the idea that Springfield can do nothing for its youth. It takes imagination and creativity and,

Regional board halts payment for field job

A motion to approve payment of nearly $10,000 for the construction firm renovating playing fields at David Reearly High School was withdrawn at the Union County Regional High School District meeting Tuesday night.

Clark board member Virginia Muskus withdrew the motion when she learned that a catch basin on a practice field had not been eliminated. She said she thought the removal of the basin, which she added, is a hazard, was the purpose of that particular renovation.

Lewis Fredericks, assistant superintendent for buildings and grounds, told the board that the basin had been installed on the authority of M. Diako Associates, consulting engineers. Fredericks said the firm deemed the basin necessary in case of flash-flood or hurricane conditions.

According to Fredericks, Dr. Michael Diako, hydraulics engineer, told him a piece of Astroruf could be placed over the basin for safety.

Charles Vitale, board president, asked Harold Budge, board secretary, to arrange a meeting with Diako at the field.

R. Jones, Inc., which is performing the work, had submitted a voucher for $9,900 to the board.

In other business, Vitale asked John Christiano, director of special services for the high school district, to study possible extra-curricular activities for handicapped students.

In a report to the board, Christiano

Police warn business offices about electric typewriter thieves

Springfield police have issued a warning to area businesses to beware of members of a typewriter theft ring posing as maintenance men or custodians.

According to Detective Sgt. Edward Kisch, the men usually enter office buildings between 6 and 8 a.m., and 4 and 6 p.m., when the office buildings are often open but virtually empty.

The thieves are interested in IBM Selectric and Sperry Rand typewriters, which have the interchangeable round platters.

Four IBM Selectric typewriters, valued at $800 each, were taken from a second-floor office on Springfield Avenue last week, police said. An IBM Selectric self-correcting typewriter, valued at $1,200, was taken from another office on the same floor, police said. Two other second-floor offices were broken into, but only an $80 calculator was reported missing.

A quartic-inch screwdriver was used to force the office doors open, police said.

The men sometimes case the office buildings two or three weeks before the theft, pretending to be looking for a job, Kisch said. As many as three men have been known to work together on the same theft.

Kisch said a "good percentage" of the perhaps 15 men in the ring has been identified by Maplewood police working with the Essex County Prosecutor's Office.

The group has an effective fencing ring out of Essex County, Kisch says. He also said businesses should be suspicious of persons selling the typewriters at a reduced cost.

The thieves also have taken the typewriters the companies have rented to replace the original machine until a new one arrives. The new replacements sometimes have been stolen, Kisch says.

had questioned the economic feasibility of creating extensive new programs for special students. Vitale asked for "some kind of recommendation for the first step" in increasing activities for these students.

Clark board member Stephen Marciniak, citing figures that show an expense of $1,000 per member of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School swim team, said that there should be money for programs for the handicapped.

Christiano also said that he feels once a program is implemented for one special group, to be fair, other programs must be provided for other special groups.

In another matter, Marciniak criticized the Middle Atlantic States Association evaluation report, calling its suggestions "redundant and superfluous."

Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of the regional board, noting the evaluations are necessary for the school's accreditation, said, "The value of the district will be what the staffs will do with the recommendations—whether they are good or not."

PROMISE MADE—Jerry Cohen, left, and Ray Condon, Republican candidates for township committee, meet in the West of Springfield Town Hall. Both promised that when elected as township committeemen they will "effectively and diligently" serve the people of Springfield.

Kraemer's art set for library

An artist's reception will be held in the meeting room of the Springfield Public Library from 3 to 4 p.m. Saturday to introduce an exhibit of the work of Honey Kraemer.

Kraemer's one-woman show, which will be on display at the library until Oct. 27, is a collection of original oils, pastels and watercolors.

The artist has a B.A. degree from Hunter College and has studied at Parsons School of Design and with Henry Gansser, John Grabach, Michael Lessner and Nicholas Tenio. She has had numerous one-woman and juried shows and is represented at the Craft Center in Chatham Township. She has won awards from the Westfield Art Association Members Oil Exhibition, the Art Gallery of South Orange and Maplewood, Kenilworth Art Association and the Art Center of New Jersey.

Gaudineer unit will be in parade

The Florence Gaudineer School File and Drum Corps and the corps front will march in Elizabeth on Sunday at 1 p.m. to help celebrate Columbus Day. The corps this year is under the direction of Mark Keldes.

The parade will start on 3rd street and Elizabeth avenue and end at Columbus Plaza.

Incumbents defend past committee acts

Bob Welchok and Nat Stokes, Democratic candidates for Springfield Township Committee, this week declared, "The people living in Springfield like the way it is. We wonder if they realize how different it might be today if some key questions in its recent history had been decided differently."

"All of us come to crossroads in our lives when choices irrevocably set us on one path or another. Springfield faced several such crossroads. Our decisions gave you the town you know and love. Think about how it might have been."

"We had to decide what to do about flooding in Springfield. At the time we came to office the Republican-dominated Township Committee then in control had sought aid from the federal Army Corps of Engineers. They were committed to having the federal government solve the problem."

"We saw an immediate need. People were suffering. They lived in fear last two inches of rain would drive them from their homes. We couldn't wait for the federal government to get around to help us. We decided to help ourselves. With state and county help and plenty of our own, we solved the flood problem in this town—years ahead of any other town in Union County."

"We avoided years of continuous misery for people in the flood areas. We must believe others in office would have continued to place their faith in the Army Corps for the solution. The flood districts in this town would still be disaster areas if not for our election and service on the township committee."

"Another decision concerned the building of a major shopping center in Springfield. At first, our Republican Township Committee favored the 100- to 150-store shopping center planned for RT 22. Haltable, they said. Business and commerce were the Republican priorities.

Movie slated on Wednesday

"Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner," a 105-minute black and white feature film, will be shown in the meeting rooms of the Springfield Public Library at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

It is the story of a British reformatory inmate who is a runner and is chosen to train for a long distance race.

The film, the second in the October Wednesday night series at the library, is free of charge.

THE WAY WE WERE—Local Democrats say flooding in Springfield was a common event before Township Committees under the leadership of Bob Welchok and Nat Stokes stopped counting on the Army Corps of Engineers for eventual relief and underook local flood control projects. Welchok and Stokes are seeking reelection in 1979.

Bloodmobile coming 2nd time on Oct. 27

Springfield's second community bloodmobile visit of 1979 is being planned for Oct. 27, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at St. James Church, Springfield Avenue. The drawing will be done by the North Jersey Blood Center, and is open to all healthy adults ages 17 to 66. Those 17 need written parental consent.
 St. James Church will act as the host group for the visit, with Helen Stickle, St. James Blood-Program chairman, in charge of the proceedings. Church members are urged to call Mrs. Stickle at 686-2747 to make donations, or obtain further information. Other prospective donors may also call her, or Sue Kalem at 296-0882. Any group of persons interested in forming a new donor group are also urged to call; group donations have an advantage over individual donations since the resources of the whole group are available to those members in need of blood.

Democrats call for moves against crime

Three candidates running for Union County freholder and four candidates for seats in legislative district in the county have been fined or reprimanded by the state Election Law Enforcement Commission (ELEC) for late filings of campaign finance reports.
 The candidates were: William Maguire, Jr., all running for reelection; Joanne Rajoppi, state senate candidate in the 22nd District; William Maguire, assembly candidate in the 22nd District; and Raymond Lesniak and Frank Mazzeo, assembly candidates in the 21st District. Maguire and Mazzeo are Republicans; the others are Democrats.

2 Democrats call for moves against crime

Rajoppi and her campaign treasurer, Robert Weltchek, were fined $20 jointly for being six days late with the R-1 report due seven days before the primary. ELEC report said. An ELEC spokesman, Herbert Wolf, said the steepest fines went for the seven-day violations because the commission found that the "most critical" information was not reported.
 Another $20 fine was levied on Lesniak and his campaign treasurer, Tanya B. Gonich, for being 13 days late with the R-1 report due seven days before the primary.
 Fines of $25 each for being 19 days late with R-1 reports due 15 days after the primary were imposed on Lesniak, Long and Seymour, in each case jointly with Edward Toy, campaign treasurer.
 Mazzeo received a $25 fine for being 25 days late with the A-1 affidavit, which is due seven days before the primary. ELEC report said. Maguire and his campaign treasurer, George B. Ebbe, received a reprimand for being two days late with the R-1 report due seven days before the primary.

State offers aid plan for waste disposal

Union County is starting a fiscal analysis of solid waste disposal under an interjurisdictional agreement with Middlesex County as a basis for possible future state aid.
 The prospect of funds from the state to help meet additional costs county municipalities that are being shut out from the Hackensack Meadowslands was described as a "major breakthrough" by Freholder Thomas Long of Linden. He met Friday with state Environmental Commissioner Jerry English.
 At that meeting, English unveiled a proposed interdistrict solid waste disposal plan drafted by the Department of Environmental Protection.
 It would direct solid waste from 16 municipalities to Middlesex County landfills on a short-term basis, and to Middlesex resource recovery facilities as a long-term solution. The facilities are Roselle Park, Kenilworth, Cranford, Winfield, Elizabeth, Hillside, Berkeley Heights, Plainfield, Fairwood, Scotch Plains, Mountaineer, Westfield, Clark, Rahway and Linden; Linden, however, will turn to Middlesex only after its own city facility is exhausted.
 Under the plan, Union Township and Springfield will continue to have access to the Hackensack Meadowslands for both a short-range and long-range waste disposal.
 At the same time, Long announced that a Sept. 30 termination date which had been set for the Meadowslands had been extended to Dec. 31. Also facing a Dec. 31 deadline are Roselle, Hillside, Kenilworth and Winfield.
 During the meeting, Long said, Middlesex and Union Counties to work on an interjurisdictional agreement "which, if coupled with state financial relief, would solve the solid waste problems for the citizens of Union County."
 County Manager George Albanese, who also attended the meeting, immediately directed the county's waste staff to begin the fiscal analysis.

 The board also approved reclassification of Maureen Doornick from secretary to confidential secretary in the office of the superintendent of schools, and adjusted her salary from step 8; of the 1979-80 secretarial grade, ($8,252), to $9,500, effective Oct. 18. She will replace Barbara Lillie, who has resigned.
 Weltchek and Stokes continued, when we came to office the town had just been rezoned to make it easier for commercial and office uses to push into residential neighborhoods. Evidence of this is abundant in Springfield at Hillside and S. Springfield Avenues, at Morris and Short Hills, Morris and Maple, Morris and Colonial. Neighborhoods were being ruined. Others had made this happen.
 "We could have gone along and Springfield would have been further chopped up into a town of parking lots and office buildings eating deeper and deeper into residential areas. Instead we stopped it. We changed the zoning and appointed boards that would be reluctant to grant zoning variances. This month we are making another zoning change to cement this protection of neighborhoods even more."
 "These are just three instances of pivotal decisions we've made to shape the character in Springfield."
 "Look around Springfield today, and picture what might have been. We think we have earned the right to be re-elected to office."

Driver draws fine of $215

An 18-year-old Springfield woman was fined $215 for drunk driving and had her driver's license suspended for 60 days Monday by Judge Robert C. Thomson Jr. in Springfield Municipal Court.
 Cynthia Milton of Henshaw Avenue pleaded guilty to the charge.
 In another case, Richard 35, of South Plainfield, was fined $20 for operating an unregistered vehicle and $40 for driving without a license. Yurek pleaded guilty to both charges.

ABC violation results in fine

The State Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control has fined the Smuggler's Cove bar and restaurant $1,500 for employing a band that included a Mapped-out policeman and a Medicaid investigator with the state Division of Criminal Justice.
 The investigator was not named in the case. According to ABC Director Joseph Lerner.
 According to reports, the Springfield bar employed the band, known as "The Smuggler's Cove," which is operated by the relationship of a band to a tavern was an independent contractor and not subject to the state regulation barring law enforcement personnel from working in ABC-regulated businesses.
 The division rejected the plea, replying that the regulation must encompass all persons whose services are used by the tavern.

Ludlow named director of mental clinic

Thomas W. Ludlow has been appointed the executive director of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic according to Faith Schindler, president of the board of trustees.
 Ludlow will succeed Benjamin H. Haddock, who will retire following 30 years with the clinic and 22 years as its executive director.
 Ludlow is director of the community mental health center, Christ Hospital, Jersey City. He is also the president of the New Jersey Association of Mental Health Agencies.
 Ludlow was the Union County Mental Health Board administrator from August 1972 to December 1976. He has held positions in New York City following his graduation from the Columbia-University School of Social Work in 1965. His undergraduate degree was from the University of Pennsylvania and he attended Denison University for two years.
 Ludlow was raised in Summit, and his family maintains a home there. He lives with his wife, Bonnie Burke Ludlow, and their son at their home in Morganville.

Dr. Strulowitz to be speaker

Dr. Leonard Strulowitz of Springfield will be the featured speaker at a contact lens seminar sponsored by the Essex County Optometric Society. The lecture, which will be attended by New Jersey optometrists, will be given at the Claremont Diner, Verona, on October 16, 1979 at 8 p.m.
 Much of the lecture will be devoted to the advanced fitting procedures of the new types of contact lenses and those lenses expected to be released soon, included will be soft contact lenses, gas permeable and permanent wear. Also included will be a report on future lenses.

The facilities are Roselle Park, Kenilworth, Cranford, Winfield, Elizabeth, Hillside, Berkeley Heights, Plainfield, Fairwood, Scotch Plains, Mountaineer, Westfield, Clark, Rahway and Linden; Linden, however, will turn to Middlesex only after its own city facility is exhausted.
 Under the plan, Union Township and Springfield will continue to have access to the Hackensack Meadowslands for both a short-range and long-range waste disposal.
 At the same time, Long announced that a Sept. 30 termination date which had been set for the Meadowslands had been extended to Dec. 31. Also facing a Dec. 31 deadline are Roselle, Hillside, Kenilworth and Winfield.
 During the meeting, Long said, Middlesex and Union Counties to work on an interjurisdictional agreement "which, if coupled with state financial relief, would solve the solid waste problems for the citizens of Union County."
 County Manager George Albanese, who also attended the meeting, immediately directed the county's waste staff to begin the fiscal analysis.

ABC violation results in fine

The State Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control has fined the Smuggler's Cove bar and restaurant $1,500 for employing a band that included a Mapped-out policeman and a Medicaid investigator with the state Division of Criminal Justice.
 The investigator was not named in the case. According to ABC Director Joseph Lerner.
 According to reports, the Springfield bar employed the band, known as "The Smuggler's Cove," which is operated by the relationship of a band to a tavern was an independent contractor and not subject to the state regulation barring law enforcement personnel from working in ABC-regulated businesses.
 The division rejected the plea, replying that the regulation must encompass all persons whose services are used by the tavern.

Ludlow named director of mental clinic

'Fear, deceit' claims rejected by Ruocco

Bill Ruocco, the lone Republican on the Springfield Township Committee, today issued a statement regarding the Democrats' charges of "fear and deceit" in Republican campaign tactics.
 "I usually do not answer any charges that charge them with being coerced that is now in order," said Ruocco.
 "I have more regard for the intelligence of the voters of Springfield than to charge them with being coerced by fear and deceit. The people of Springfield wanted two-party representation in the Township Committee and they voted for that, where it is impossible for either a Democrat or a Republican to attend a meeting. It is considered a legitimate excuse."
 "I also charge me with being conspicuously absent from a visit to Troy Village, to investigate the crisis but when any of my Democrat colleagues are absent from any meeting, it is considered a legitimate excuse."
 "Finally, they charge, there is no crisis situation. If you don't know, you can't go. This is another of their decisions to do things their way because we are treated fairly and equitably in this matter. I am and always will be an advocate of Home Rule. I was elected because the people of Springfield believe in me."

Youth audition set in October

Edward Brown, supervisor of music for the Union County Regional High School District, was among the public school music educators who attended a Sept. 18 luncheon meeting at the formation of the New Jersey Youth Symphony, Union County, was announced.

Technology and Change: society's ambivalence

By JOHN G. BURKE
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles exploring "Connections: Technology and Change." In this article, historian John G. Burke of the University of California, Los Angeles discusses our ambivalence toward technology today and raises some of the questions that will be answered in subsequent articles. This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

human control. Technology, the precision says, has become an independent entity, a thing apart from humans who gave it birth. We have become cogs in a huge system of production and consumption, a machine having no human purpose. Certainly, modern technology gives most of us a means of livelihood, food, shelter, and leisure to watch TV. But the price we pay for these material satisfactions, it is said, is our freedom. Technology, critics declare, not only shapes and directs every aspect of our lives, but threatens the very existence of the human species. Our increasing love affair with rationality and efficiency—that in science and engineering—is responsible for creating this technological monstrosity. We are thus caught in a web of our own making. One possible escape route may be open, declare the anti-technologists, lethal food additives! Radioactive wastes! Genetic manipulation! Dehumanization! These are the results, critics charge, of our blind faith in technological progress. Rebutals calling attention to our high standard of living, improved health, longer life spans, better working conditions and increased educational opportunities do not still the critics' voices. Technology is on trial. The most ominous assertion is that technology is now completely out of

The author describes the first step in the development of the adoptive parent names are substituted on the birth certificate, the sealed records and the effects on the emotional development of the child. She discusses the "Oshon" child" story, the fantasies of the adoptive parent who dreams about their roots and their emotional reactions when their goals are reached. She also gives us an inside view of the present process of adoption as it affects parents, the adoptive mother's reaction during pregnancy and the legal decisions to be made, the birth-mother's search for her offspring and the question of "the right to know."

SEWING DECLINE

Over 2.2 million sewing machines were purchased each year during their peak sales.

However, the "blue jean era," the rising cost of the machine and the fact that American women no longer have the time has contributed to sales now being below two million machines each year.

Holy Spirit students elect council leaders

Holy Spirit School students, voting nearly six weeks before their parents are due to go to the polls, last week elected a slate of Student Council officers headed by Jennifer Drozd. Others elected were Cathy Limma, vice-president; Joe Skrec, secretary; and Timmy Ambacher, treasurer. The balloting last Thursday climaxed a Student Council election week in which candidates put up posters on school walls and, accompanied by their managers, canvassed classrooms, halls, lunchroom and playground in the hunt for votes. On the day before the election, candidates spoke at an assembly and answered questions from the audience. The students seeking office were: Drozd, John O'Boyle, Tom Faughnan and Joe Della Sala, running for president; Marybeth Czarnik and Limma, vice-president; Lucille Carpinano, Heidi Rastetter, Sloban

Classes announced by temples for combined adult education

Temples Beth Ahm and Sha'arey Shalom of Springfield have announced plans for their combined adult education program. The joint education committee, under the co-chairmanship of Dr. and Mrs. Barry Louton of Temple Beth Ahm and John Schlager of Temple Sha'arey Shalom, has arranged a series of seminars, language courses and symposiums to provide a better understanding and appreciation of Jewish life and tradition. Rabbi Reuben R. Levine of Temple Beth Ahm, Rabbi Howard Shapiro of Sha'arey Shalom and Benjamin Margolis, director of education at Temple Beth Ahm, have worked with the committee in planning and implementing the program. The sixth annual combined education institute, which will be held from October to April, offers the following courses: "Jewish Book of the Month," presented by Rabbi Levine and Rabbi Shapiro and Margolis on a rotating basis, on four Monday evenings, during the fall and spring semesters. Books to be discussed will be "The Slave," by Isaac Bashevis Singer; "As a Driven Leaf" by Milton Steinberg; "The Last of the Just" by Andre Schwarz-Bart and "Fragments of Isabella" by Isabella Lettier. "Language Study," Hebrew will be taught Wednesday evenings in fall and spring semesters by Margolis. No previous knowledge of Hebrew is required. Hebrew II classes, requiring some previous knowledge, will be taught on Wednesday evenings, fall and spring, by Margolis. If desired, preparation may be continued for Bar or Bat Mitzvah in either congregation. "Office and Controversy," led on a rotating basis by Rabbi Levine, Rabbi

Sickle cell anemia, symptoms

Sickle cell anemia, a hereditary ailment which primarily affects black Americans, is a ravaging disease causing frequent illness and death by the age of 50 in its severest form, according to Dr. Murray Nusbaum, professor of medicine and director of the Hematology Division at the College Hospital, New Jersey Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry. The history of sickle cell anemia—so named because the red cells at certain times become rigid, assuming a "Punch" shape—has gone back thousands of years. An area in Africa was riddled with malaria and those persons with this cellular defect were protected from the malaria parasite. But too much of a good thing is not good either and those suffering with the severe form of the disease have inherited it from both parents. Those with the "sickle cell trait" have inherited it from only one parent. To understand how the disease affects its victims, one must understand that the red blood cell transports oxygen to various tissues and removes the waste product (carbon dioxide) from those tissues. Red blood cells are uniquely adapted to this function because they are pliable and can squeeze into the very smallest blood vessels. The transportation of the bound gases is done by hemoglobin, molecules contained within the red cell. Although the red cell differs in size, shape, adults and children, the "norm" is some five million red blood cells per cubic millimeter. In the case of sickle cell anemia, the inherited defect in the hemoglobin involves a minute change in the protein part of the molecule. This change involves the substitution of a single amino acid (valine) for glutamic acid. Building blocks of protein at a critical position. When an adult changes form when under zero temperature, sickle hemoglobin becomes rigid and crystalline, rigid and insoluble under physical conditions which deprive the red cell of oxygen. Thus the cell cannot traverse narrow blood vessels, depriving some tissues of oxygen. Pain is the result, usually triggered by infections or stress. When this happens, it is called a "crisis." Any area of the body may be affected. A patient may feel a joint, simulating

"In the routine operation of a nuclear generating station, the release of radioactivity is negligible, far less than the normal levels around us all the time. In fact, the granite in Grand Central Station releases far more radiation than a nuclear plant is allowed to under current regulations." The American Medical Society also tells us that an equivalent number of coal-burning plants release more natural radioactivity in smoke than do nuclear plants. "One unit of measure to indicate the effect of radiation on man is the millirem (1/1000 of a rem). New Jerseyans get about 125 millirems of natural radiation a year from food, buildings, air and cosmic rays. During the Three Mile Island plant accident in Pennsylvania, which was far from routine, the population living within 50 miles of the plant got an average individual dose of 1.5 millirems. That's less than you get from the food you eat, or from watching TV, or taking a coast to coast airplane flight. "The nuclear industry is seriously concerned about the Three Mile Island accident, but it wants you to know that the radiation risks there were minuscule, especially if you compare them with the risks of smoking or driving a car. "I think we should keep these facts in mind in order to view nuclear energy in proper perspective." Allyson von Fraunberg

Pioneer: Better than an apple a day.
A new group health care plan that encourages you to stay healthy. One of the most important factors in prevention is early health care. That's why we're so pleased to introduce PIONEER in Union and Middlesex Counties—a group health plan that actually encourages prevention by providing paid-in-full benefits for office care. At the same time, PIONEER covers your medical-surgical needs in one basic package. Each member of your family selects his or her own personal physician—one person to coordinate all treatment covered under the PIONEER benefit package including specialists, surgeons, hospital and nursing care, assuring effective, complete health care. PIONEER is a breakthrough in health care coverage. There is, quite simply, nothing else like it available today. Ask your group employee benefits manager about this package of prevention today. Blue Cross. Blue Shield.
