Grade-school pupils score high in basics

On the Iowa tests given to students in grades 3 through 8 in math and reading, students scored at least three months ahead of the national standards and an high as almost eight months ahead. A study of the performance of two classes over three years shows a consistent improvement over that time in mathematics, but a drop since last year in reading scores.

In other business, the board voted to add to its policy manual program for the evaluation of tenured teaching staff members, a process which is now mandated by the state. An evaluation system already exists in Springfield schools, according to Baruchin, who is responsible for the program.

The board also added to the policy manual the provision of programs for the gifted and talented, and of safety programs in vocational education classes. The safety instruction is required by the state.

Interpretation of the results, the report said, is done by comparing Springfield results with the results of other groups in the state with similar social, educational and economic backgrounds. Groupings of districts are called district factor groups (DFG).

The tests, which were administered to third- and sixth-graders, did show some areas of weakness, the report said. Sixth-graders need instruction in clarifying main ideas and distinguishing between fact and fiction in reading, and they need work on fractions, metrics and making change with money in mathematics. Third-graders showed no special needs in reading, but require some work in subtraction.

Masons install six as officers
Six Springfield residents were among those installed by George E. Moris, installing master, and Theodore R. Nanz, marshal, as officers of the local chapter of the Springfield Masonic Lodge No. 1288, which was installed on Dec. 17 through March 17 at $4.11 per hour. The board also appointed Jeff Krout, a Youth Community Conservation and Impulse Project employee-trainee at $3.50 per hour, beginning Dec. 18 and subject to the approval of the Union County Department of Human Resources.

Holiday deadline
Because printing schedules are disrupted by the holidays, the newspaper has set early deadlines for organizational, social and other items. All material intended for the Jan. 2 issue must be submitted by 5 p.m. next Wednesday, Dec. 26.

READY TO RIDE—A float carrying the city's largest Christmas tree, Santa Claus, and other holiday figures, is seen in a parade on Route 22 in Union to get it checked out by Jerry Bryson, while Rudolph and the rest of the reindeer, Santa's eight, the vehicle over the horizon.

Police still seek identity of man killed as he crossed Route 22

A pedestrian, killed last week when he was struck at night by a car on Route 22 in Springfield, remains unidentified, according to Detective Howard Thompson.

Fingerprints taken in the county morgue were sent to the FBI in Washington and to state police headquarters in Trenton, Thompson said, but no results have been returned.

The pedestrian ended up 140 feet from where the accident occurred and was pulled out of the roadway by Williams, police said. He was pronounced dead at 12:30 a.m. by Dr. John Rafis upon arrival at Overlook Hospital, Summit.

Thompson said the dead man carried no identification. He was described as white, between 40 and 50 years old, five-foot six-inches tall, very thin, weighing 130 to 135 pounds, with dark brown hair and brown eyes. He also wore a striped sweater, a light-colored jacket, and maroon shoes. Detective Edward Kiechel said the shoes may provide a clue as they were bought from Sears Roebuck and Co. and have numbers inside, which could indicate where they were bought.

The man also was wearing thermal underwear, Thompson said. His only possessions were a few scraps of blank paper, found in a shirt pocket, a Fall Mall cigarette pack containing three cigarettes, one partially smoked, and "a little cash," according to Thompson.

In another case, Edward Wasowski, 23, of Cranford, was fined $215 and had his driver's license revoked for 60 days for drunken driving. Wasowski also had pleaded guilty.

Stephen Klarfeld, 22, of Briar Hill Court, Springfield, received a $215 fine for driving while on the revoked list. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Tips for safety can help bring joyous holiday

Family physicians around the state listed eight safety tips to insure a safe holiday. These include:

- Keep lit candles out of children's reach and away from pinecones, paper or anything that can easily catch fire.
- Some Christmas plants can be poisonous, so be wary lest they be tasted by an adventurous toddler.
- Keep outdoor steps clear of ice and indoor stairs well lit and unobstructed.
- Before buying toys, read labels and pay attention to the manufacturer's suggestions about the appropriate use of each toy for different ages; look for good points, such as "non-toxic" or "flame resistant."
- Never burn a large amount of trash or Christmas wrapping in an open fireplace.
- Don't overload extension cords or use more than the recommended number of lights on one circuit.

Funds sought for Red Cross

The Westfield-Mountaineers Chapter of the Red Cross has been asked to raise $3,000 as part of a national effort to replenish the depleted disaster fund. "We do know that Red Cross must be prepared to meet the emergency needs of disaster victims," he said. Based on past experience, the Red Cross can expect to spend about $16 million on disasters in nine months between October and June. "For this reason, the American Red Cross is launching an unprecedented emergency campaign to raise $15 million. Ernest S. Winter, chairman of Members and Funds for the Westfield-Mountaineers Red Cross, urged local residents to join with others across the nation in this vital fundraising effort and send their contributions to the American Red Cross, Emergency Disaster Campaign, 321 Elm St., Westfield, N.J.

Seniors help pupils bring history 'to life'

The second grade pupils in the James Caldwell School, Springfield, are learning about Springfield's history from the people who lived it—its senior citizens. As part of their social studies unit on the community, the school's staff felt that history would "come alive" for the pupils if they could locate senior citizens who would be willing to come in and share their experiences. Working in cooperation with Diane DiPalma, parent coordinator of the project, the staff contacted the seniors through flyers sent home with the pupils, PTA contacts and personal phone calls. Resource people were located who could explore the topics of education, transportation, ways of making a living and recreation.

Franks asking for 'equal time' on Iranian TV

Assemblyman-elect Bob Franks of Berkeley Heights has called for an American spokesman to have "equal time" on Iranian television to tell the truth about this country. "I am incensed by the vitriolic lies about our country being spoonfed to the Iranian people by their leadership and by the venom being spread by Khomenei supporters using free TV time in this country," Franks said. "Although I'm certain the present leadership in Iran has the courage to allow its people to hear the truth, five minutes of facts regarding American principles and American freedoms might plant some seeds of doubt." Franks said an "editorial reply" by a spokesman of the Socialist Labor Party to a WGBS-TV editorial supporting President Carter's handling of the crisis was "sickening." He said the spokesman accused this country of racism and that America was seeking an excuse for war in the Middle East. "The spokesman took full advantage of free TV exposure to vilify this country," Franks said. "The Iranian leadership's appeal for justice would have some meaning if it would allow the same editorial reply opportunity on their state-owned television." Franks said "any real American," and preferably a "man on the street," could effectively display the enormous unity of our country on the Iranian crisis issue. "What disturbs me most is that Iranian spokesmen in this country are taking full advantage of our freedoms to advocate the denial of those same freedoms in Iran," Franks said. "The Ayatollah and most of his student followers are simply unaware about the American people's response to this issue," Franks said. "They say they hate the American government, but love the American people. What they don't realize is that the two are inseparable. The government is the people."

THE GAS PUMP
Avoid "jerkability" starts. That heavy foot on the accelerator can be replaced by a lighter touch. A quick start Gas Pump more gas than a gentle take-off. To get off smoothly, pretend you have an egg between the accelerator and dashboard. Press down gently and you'll glide along, saving expensive, often hard-to-get fuel.

Prime time Decade of the '70s emphasized importance of older citizens

by CV BRICKFIELD
When 1970 began, the Age of Aquarius was still triumphant, dawning, and the so-called culture was in full flower. Now, at the decade's end, to a close, America is gray, and the edges—and maybe in the middle—as it continues to find new life in aging. Observers of the contemporary aging scene generally agree that in the years since the 1971 White House Conference on Aging which served as the chief catalyst for this dramatic transformation. Even though the size of the nation's older population had been increasing for years and could be observed by anyone who cared to look, and even though the conference itself could have done a far better job of coming to grips with the problems and potentials of old age in

LETTERS "BAH-HUMBUB"

Springfield sure looks like a bah-humbub town. No Xmas tree lights to help celebrate the season. Let's turn off the lights at the tennis courts for a few days and light up the town. Sure may be planning by someone that money was not available for this. It's no wonder people go to the mall.

FLOYD C. HERBER

YULELIGHTS
I would like to bring your attention to the towns of Union, Millburn, Kenilworth and Westfield. It seems that Mayor Katsch hasn't driven through these towns at night recently.

If the mayor thinks that Springfield is the only town with budget problems, he is mistaken. All of the above towns have their Christmas decorations up and lit. Mayor Katsch's "bah-humbub" attitude doesn't seem to fit, since the town has the money for tennis lights to be lit nightly, but he can't find enough money in the budget to have the Christmas lights installed. The town doesn't even pay for the electric the merchants do.

If the mayor can't find the money for the Christmas decorations, I suggest he turn off the tennis lights at the high school until the Xmas find it.

Courses by newspapers Technology, change: the government's role

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 10th in a series of 15 articles exploring "Connections: Technology and Change." In this article, historian Hunter Dupree, author of "Science in the Federal Government," traces the growth of government involvement in technological development. This series was written for Courses by Newspapers, a program developed by the National Extension University of California, San Diego, funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

BY A HISTORIAN
Last year the U.S. government spent more than $22 billion on scientific research and technological development. Slightly less than half this amount was spent on defense research, generally recognized as a legitimate function of all governments. But what about the rest?

Why should the government of a nation that has traditionally been committed to the concept of free enterprise be pouring billions of dollars annually into "research and development?"

Until the 19th century, government involvement with technology grew very slowly. It then became increasingly modern science through technology could effect rapid—and, it was hoped, beneficial—social change.

The crisis of the 20th century, particularly World War II, stimulated an even closer relationship between government and technology.

Critics now charge that government is controlling the direction of scientific research and the course of technological development and that this influence is corrupting both.

Proponents, however, argue that even more government involvement is necessary to support the research and development required to maintain our standard of living and to help the poorer nations of the world.

THE NATION STATE AND TECHNOLOGY
In western Europe in the later Middle Ages, technologies arose capable not only of building Gothic cathedrals but also of maintaining cities and trading with Asia.

By the end of the 19th century, this combination of technology and nation states made possible the invention of steam and the atomic bomb and later, the hydrogen bomb.

The government of these nations did not create the technology of the sailing ship that made this expansion possible. But they were called upon to provide support to shipbuilders and sailors of a kind beyond the resources of private individuals.

As the support for the development of mapping and the astronomical observations necessary for a reliable worldwide navigation system was provided by the government.

This is the time of the year when the New Jersey Taxpayers Association reminds property owners to make plans to check their assessments early. Taxpayers can learn the value placed on their property for 1980 local tax purposes and then object, at a hearing, if the assessment is too high.

By Jan. 10, New Jersey municipal assessors are required by law to file a complete tax assessment list and duplicate list with the board of taxation in their county. Another taxpayer duty is to appear at an assessment hearing on or before the date set by the board.

While such increased awareness of taxing is a powerful political force, it is not the only one. The tax system is a complex one, and the board of taxation is a key part of it.

branch of technology was affected in some way. The National Science Foundation, the Atomic Energy Commission, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and much-expanded National Institutes of Health became the dominant research agencies of the U.S. Government.

This "new order" stimulated controversy. Opponents claimed that university scientists, in order to receive government grants, were forced to pursue research in specified areas.

Others charged that some programs were wasteful; the manned lunar landing program, for example, was criticized as being scientific and not justifiable on any scientific grounds.

Such criticisms resulted in a new emphasis on research concerned with presenting national needs, that is, projects that would visibly benefit the general public, such as cancer research.

THE NEED FOR REASSESSMENT
In the past 15 years, a whole new series of issues developed that increased government involvement with technology.

The very success of modern chemistry and physics in industry became a threat to the health and safety of people, and the accident at the nuclear plant at Three Mile Island consumed these fears.

The network of contracts that they set up carried government money out to the scientists and laboratories, resulting in such discoveries as medicine, electronics and atomic energy.

Such controversies will undoubtedly continue to long as the mastery of our citizens are committed to a society characterized by high technology, which the government can support.

The views expressed in Courses by Newspapers are those of the authors only and do not necessarily reflect those of the University of California, the National Endowment for the Humanities, or the participating colleges for this newspaper.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT
Assessment checking time for taxpayers. This is the time of the year when the New Jersey Taxpayers Association reminds property owners to make plans to check their assessments early.

Property valuation is one of three figures in the tax rate formula. The amount of property taxes required to finance municipal school and county budgets is the second, the tax rate, determined by dividing (taxes by valuation). The rate multiplied by the taxpayer's property valuation determines the total annual tax bill.

There is widespread evidence that most budgets will rise in 1980. The high inflation rate continues to be a problem, and the tax rate will be held before final budget adoption.

Concerned citizens should realize the importance of taxpayer scrutiny of local budgets in 1980 and avail themselves of the opportunity to present their views at public budget hearings, which must be held before final budget adoption.

AGONIZED MEMOIR
"When Memory Comes," by Saul Friedlander
Pavel Friedlander was born in Prague (1882) of assimilated Jewish parents. Writing in Jerusalem (1977), his earliest memories are of his church-going nanny, the legend of the Golden, the radio speeches of Hitler and others.

He began to combine all available materials (diaries, notebooks, letters) in organizing this book. "To the Prayers" is a review of Greg's early life "American Facts" describes the landscape, travelers, Indians, animals, New Mexicans. In "To Mexico," Greg speaks of his army experiences in the Mexican War and his service as a doctor. The last segment tells of his final exploratory venture in California.

AN UNTOLD WORLD WAR II STORY
"Return from the River Kwai," by Joan and Clay Blair Jr.
This is an account of what occurred to 2218 British and Australian POWs and one American, during World War II. Having helped build a 265-mile railway through the jungles and mountains under horrid conditions, they were now camped near one of the bridges over the River Kwai in Thailand. These were the remnants of the 61,000 Allied POWs who had been brutally tortured by Japanese and Korean guards, and some of whom had died of jungle diseases, malnutrition and starvation.

Now it was suddenly announced that these "fil" ones would be shipped to Japan for mine and factory work. At Singapore, wretched, vermin-infested huts, and fed starvation-level rations, the Australian and British contingents awaited their two 25-year-old transports: the Rakuyo Maru and the Kachi Toke Maru. With most of the men struck with dysentery, malaria, beriberi pellagra.

The rest of the story charts the fate of the POWs after their ships were torpedoed by American submarines, who never suspected the presence of their allies. How only a few hundred survived, how their erstwhile companions suffered and died, is a gruesome narrative.

LIFE ON THE PRAIRIE
"The Piles" by Peter Sewall
After World War II, affluence, status and image were words related to the United States. How only a few hundred survived, how their erstwhile companions suffered and died, is a gruesome narrative.

Life on the trail renewed Greg's literary, he endured an illness from the time he was 23. Since no cemetery could be found, he was sent off to the Palestine where the same and the reality of Israel emphasized his feelings of rootlessness. Father of three, Saul lives in Israel.

CardioRobics opens facilities

CardioRobics held its grand opening Nov. 30 as New Jersey's first medically-supervised facility for comprehensive cardiac conditioning. The professional staff includes a board-certified cardiologist, two cardiac nurses, a cardiovascular registered nutritionist and a clinical psychologist.

CardioRobics seeks to provide an individually-prescribed plan to increase the efficiency of the heart muscle and circulatory system. This plan emphasizes control of other factors which contribute to heart disease—smoking cessation, stress management, weight normalization and nutritional counseling.

A comprehensive program at CardioRobics evaluates the cardiovascular system at rest and in motion and provides a prescribed plan of exercise.

CardioRobics is conveniently located off Route 24, close to the Garden State Parkway, between Morris Ave. and Springfield. Parking is free. Hours begin at 7 a.m. Information is available at 487-3665.

Harrison Williams
U.S. Senate

For most people, the American Dream includes owning their own home. Whether living in the city or in the country, homeownership is a goal which many families work hard to achieve.

As part of the American Dream, the housing industry has become a cornerstone of our economy, providing thousands of jobs in construction and related businesses. Its success or failure has an impact on many other related industries. Economists, therefore, consider the housing industry a barometer of the national financial picture.

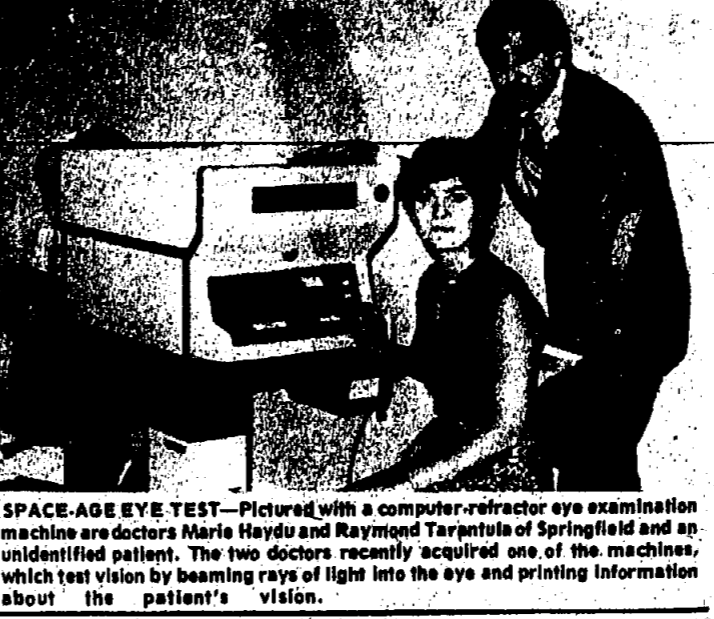

Consider, then, the importance of what has happened in our own state in recent months. In the northern part of the state, the price of new homes has jumped 15 percent over last year. This is the greatest increase anywhere in the nation. Mortgage money has pushed beyond 11 percent, exacerbating the downward slide facing the housing industry.

The problem is that most people, even moderate-income people, cannot qualify for loans under these conditions because their budgets cannot cover the high monthly payments. As it stands now, fewer than a quarter of American families could afford to buy a median-priced home. Several programs have been created to help make it possible for more people to buy a home. Perhaps the most innovative and far-reaching of all these programs is something called mortgage revenue bonds.

The bond programs, which have been operating successfully in 42 states and communities across the country, operate like traditional bonds which are sold to investors. The proceeds in this case, however, are used to provide mortgage money at below market rates to low and moderate income families.

In New Jersey, the funds are also used to make more rental housing available for people who seek affordable apartments. Important projects are targeted to low and moderate income families.

The measure would ensure that the funds are used only for worthwhile community projects or for families who do not have access to traditional mortgage money. In this way, we can help neighborhoods that are struggling to improve, and protect the working people of this country who have labored so hard for a chance to own a home.

Bill to improve Rt. 22 clears Assembly unit

A bill by State Senator Donald T. DiFrancesco (R-Union, Morris) to "relieve and rectify" unsafe conditions on Route 22 has been released from the Assembly Transportation and Communications Committee.

DiFrancesco's resolution (A-2018) urges the New Jersey Department of Transportation to repair these highway conditions, "both structural and design, which pose safety hazards and impede the effective and efficient flow of traffic on Route 22," most notably in Somerset and Union counties.

"Route 22 is an important artery that will continue to see high use, both private and commercial, even as the cost of gasoline continues to rise," said DiFrancesco. "As the most direct and efficient east-west route in this part of the state, Route 22 is one highway that must be maintained, now more than ever."

DiFrancesco, recently appointed to serve on the Senate Transportation and Communications Committee, said, "The longer we wait for redesign and improvements, the worse things will get, at a cost that will be intolerable to the commuter, the businessman and the taxpayer."

The 22nd District legislator noted that some funds for a study of Route 22 improvements might become available under the transportation bond issue approved by the voters last November.

A HOME IN YOUR RANGE—Wyncrest Farms, Stark River Road in Tison Falls offers this attractive two-story, the Lucas, featuring four bedrooms and two and a-half baths. Developer is Holly Building Corp. of Brielle, headed by Justin and Jim Segal. Prices at the new 28-home community start at $75,990.

Crestwood maps out community services

Two new publications prepared by Crestwood Communities illustrate the "full-service active adult community" concept pioneered by Crestwood in its 15th Anniversary. The fifth edition of the Crestwood Street Map, printed in four colors like an oil company road map, emphasizes the self-contained nature of the community. Sited off the highway, in the South Jersey Pinebluffs, Crestwood is almost completely surrounded by virgin forest, state parks and game preserves. Yet within its boundaries, as shown on the map, are two major shopping plazas with 22 stores, soon to be expanded to double that number, three auto service stations, three banks, law and insurance offices. Ten clubhouses, together with their furnishings and equipment for social, entertainment and sports activities, valued at more than $4 million, are distributed throughout the neighborhoods. Residents become lifetime clubhouse members upon taking occupancy of their homes. Additionally, facilities for swimming and other recreation are provided by Harry Wright Lake, a 100-acre township park (for township residents only) less than one mile beyond Crestwood's borders. Woodland walkways, are a pleasurable stroll among nature's delights within the community. "In health-care facilities, Crestwood is virtually self-sufficient," pointed out the Crestwood founder and president, Mike Kokes. "We have a new $500,000 Medical Center, with 22 doctors representing general family practitioners and more than a dozen specialists including dentists and X-ray. That's right in the center of our town. Three equipped and staffed ambulances are maintained by the volunteer White Star Aid Squad on 24-hour alert, and there are four full-service hospitals within 20 minutes' drive. Seven houses of worship are found within the boundaries of the retirement complex, and a dozen ministers, representing Jewish, Catholic and Protestant denominations, are in the surrounding communities. All of these amenities of a full-service residential suburb are readily accessible to residents via a network of community buses that circulate Crestwood on a regular schedule and provide service also to nearby towns and religious services. In the background, but of prime importance, are various support services that make the whole thing work, Kokes noted. Crestwood has its own water company that draws from wells deep into the 15 trillion gallon supply that underlies South Jersey and is the largest aquifer in the Northeast.

62 units sold by Wellington in first 2 days

What happens when you offer home buyers a new condominium community with plenty of luxury, resort-type features, affordable prices and a location just 45 minutes from New York City? People appreciate it. And the case of Wellington Place, the new condominium by Warner Homes in Aberdeen Township, visitors at the preview demonstrated their appreciation in the most powerful manner possible: they bought 62 homes in the first three sections. During this inaugural weekend, more than 400 prospective homebuyers are also featured to provide substantial energy savings. Currently under construction are two tennis courts, a swim club, jogging trail and a large private clubhouse, full-service hospitals within 20 minutes' drive. "You have to realize that the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area contains some of the most sophisticated homebuyers anywhere," noted David Weiner, the firm's marketing director. "They've done their homework, they've seen what's available and they've concluded that they can get more home for their money at Wellington Place." Four one-bedroom and one-bedroom-plus-two-bedroom condominium models are available, with up to two full baths. According to the construction superintendent and vice president Joshua Weiner, "The extensive list of standard features includes a modern fireplace, wall-to-wall carpeting, separate dining area, central air conditioning, G.E. appliances, walk-in closets and more." All brick exteriors, York heat pumps and complete insulation are also featured to provide substantial energy savings. Current prices range from the low $60s to the mid-$60s. Carerret Savings Loan is providing 30-year mortgage financing for qualified purchasers anywhere. The sales center at Wellington Place is located about a mile south of Lloyd Road, on Route 34 in Aberdeen.

What to check before signing a contract

With increased energy costs and interest rates, homebuyers must check more and more homebuyers are checking to be sure improvements are made rather than move. Consequently, an increased number of complaints concerning home improvement contractors are being reported to the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs, and county and local consumer offices.

To help avoid potential problems with contractors, it is important to exercise caution in hiring a contractor. These tips may help you find a reputable and reliable contractor.

—Obtain at least three estimates, preferably from contractors who have been recommended to you. You can ask the Division of Consumer Affairs, Action Line at 201-262-3200 if you have lodged against the firms you are considering.

—Compare the contractors' estimates and the quality of materials offered. It often worth paying a higher price for higher quality materials and workmanship.

—Ask for the names and addresses of other customers to see the contractor's work. Legitimate contractors should not hesitate to give you such references. When visiting these homes, check work and quality of materials.

—Check all advertising claims—such as energy savings and price per square foot.

—Check the contractor's reputation with the local building department, chamber of commerce, the National Home Improvement Association or another contractor's association.

—Do not rely on verbal promises—insist that all claims be incorporated into the contract.

—Ask contractors for their permit numbers and business addresses.

—Beware of contractor who offer discounts to use your home as a model—often no savings results.

—Avoid those who attempt to coerce you into buying work that you don't want or need.

—Review your signed contract, be certain there are no blank spaces and that the following information is included in the contract:

- Plans and specifications including brand names of materials and equipment, and a statement that subcontractors are not permitted.
- Itemization of the costs of labor and materials.
- Certification that the contractor has the required license and worker's compensation coverage.
- Starting and completion dates.
- A clause that the contractor will remove all waste materials after completion of the job.
- A guarantee of the contractor's work for a reasonable period.
- Clearly stated payment terms based on the satisfactory completion of the work.
- When the work has been completed, hold back the last payment until the building inspector has approved the work, and the contractor has given you a notarized waiver of lien certifying all subcontractors and suppliers have been paid. Also confirm that all work is completed.

75 hours of signing the contract. Notice of cancellation must be given by return receipt mail and mailed no later than 5 p.m. on the third day after the contract has signed.

Crestwood maps out community services

Two new publications prepared by Crestwood Communities illustrate the "full-service active adult community" concept pioneered by the Crestwood law and insurance offices. The first edition of the Crestwood Street Map, printed in four colors like an oil company road map, emphasizes the shopping plazas with 22 stores open to be expanded to double that number, three auto service stations, three Crestwood Plaza, a Crestwood law and insurance offices, a completely surrounded by virgin forest, state fish and game preserves. 62 units sold by Wellington in first 2 days

What happens when you offer home buyers a new condominium community with plenty of luxury, resort-type features at affordable prices and a location just 45 minutes from New York City? People appreciate it. And in the case of Wellington Place, the new condominium by Weiner Homes in Aberdeen Township, visitors at the preview demonstrated their appreciation in the most powerful manner possible: they bought 62 homes in the first three sections. During this inaugural weekend, more than 400 prospective homebuyers crowded Wellington Place's sales trailer. In addition to the 62 purchasers, 21 "back-up" deposits were taken in the event any of the first 82 condominiums becomes a cancellation. "You have to realize that the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area contains some of the most sophisticated homebuyers anywhere," noted David Weiner, the firm's marketing director. What to check before signing a contract

With increased energy costs and interest rates on loans, more and more homeowners are seeking to get the most out of their money. Consequently, an increased number of complaints concerning home improvement contractors are being reported to the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs, and local consumer offices.

To help avoid potential problems, it is important to exercise caution in hiring a contractor. These tips may help you find a reputable and reliable contractor:

- Obtain at least three estimates, preferably from contractors who have been recommended to you. You can ask the Division of Consumer Affairs, Action Line at 201-660-5066 if complaints have been lodged against the firms you are considering.
- Compare the contractor's estimates and the quality of materials offered. It is often worth paying a higher price for higher quality materials and workmanship.
- Ask for the names and addresses of other customers to see the contractor's work. Legitimate contractors should not hesitate to give you such references. When visiting these homes, check workmanship and sale prices for accuracy.
- Check the contractor's reputation with the local building department, chamber of commerce, the National Home Improvement Association or another contractor's association.
- Do not rely on verbal promises—insist that all claims be incorporated into the contract.
- Ask contractors for their permanent business address.
- Beware of contractors who offer discounts to use your home as a model—often, no savings result.
- Avoid those who attempt to coerce you into having work done that you don't want or need.
- Before you sign a contract, be certain that there are no blank spaces and that the following information is included in the contract:
 - Plans and specifications including brand names of materials and equipment, and a statement that substitutes are not permitted.
 - Specification of the costs of labor and materials.
 - Certification that the contractor has the required insurance and worker's compensation coverage.
 - Starting and completion dates.
 - A clause that the contractor will remove all waste materials and complete the job.
 - A guarantee of the contractor's work for a reasonable period.
 - Clearly stated payment terms based on the satisfactory completion of the work.
 - When the work has been completed, hold back the last payment until the building inspector has approved the work, and the contractor has given you a notarized waiver of lien certifying all subcontractors and suppliers have been paid. Also confirm that all work is complete.

Parents told sledding tips

Every Christmas, thousands of children and active sleds, a gift guaranteed to make a child's face beam with pleasure. Many parents consider sledding a safe and harmless activity.

But today's environment is changing, suburbs and subdivisions are encroaching on open land perfect for carefree sledding; busier roads with more vehicles are an added danger; shorter days reduce visibility.

Last winter season there were about 60,000 injuries requiring hospital emergency room attention as a result of accidents involving sleds, toboggans, and sled disks.

To help parents coach their children in safe sledding procedures, the New Jersey State Safety Council has put together the following suggestions:

- Keep sleds in top operating condition. Check for broken parts, split wood or sharp edges.
- The most serious sledding accidents involve automobiles. Sledding anywhere near a road is asking for trouble unless the road has been closed to all traffic. Drivers have difficulty seeing sleds, and icy roads may make stopping in time impossible.
- Help your children find a safe place to sled. The ideal sledding site is a broad, gently sloping hill far removed from streets or roadways. The hill should have a long flat area at the bottom so children can coast to a stop.
- Caution children about sledding on frozen ponds or lakes. Ice that appears frozen solid could give way under the weight of sled and rider.
- Teach children that the proper position for sledding is with both arms and with both legs on the sled.

Regional frosh defeat 3 teams in scrimmages

Twenty-two candidates turned out for the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School boys' (freshman) basketball team's first practice Nov. 15. Since then, the squad has been practicing five (6-1) at center, Jim Price (6-9) and days a week and opened its season against Kawarons Junior High School on Tuesday.

The starters appear to be Kyle Hudgins (6-1) at center, Jim Price (6-9) and Glen Delany (6-9) at the forwards, Ron Pace (6-6) and Pat Koenig (6-5) at the guards. The sixth and seventh men off the bench are Michael Berliner and Dave Johnson. Others on the team are Carlos Rivera, Lew Jenkins, Ken Dietz, Timmy Walker, Dave Kishish, Charles Logan, Charles Rodriguez, and Victor Guerrero.

At Union Catholic, the Bulldogs played six 10-minute quarters. They won two, lost two and tied two, compiling 51 points to the opponents' 41. Hudgins scored 10 points, Price 14, Pace and Koenig six each and Delany four.

At Clark Dayton won four of five eight-minute quarters, scoring 60 points to Clark's 37. Hudgins had 21 points, Delany 11, Price 8, Berliner 6, Pace 6, Rivera 7, Johnson 5, Jenkins 5, Escampré 2, Walker 2 and Cohen 2.

Facing Kentworth at home the frosh compiled 10-9-4, winning all five eight-minute quarters. Price 15 points, Escampré 13, Jenkins 13, Hudgins 12, Johnson 12 and Kishish 10. Berliner added 8, Pace 6, Walker 4, Delany 4, Rivera 4, Dietz 2 and Cohen 2.

The freshmen employ several defensive patterns — tight man to man, 2-3 and 2-1-2 zone.

Soccer Scene

Did you ever try to be in three places at the same time? Well, that is what I did last Sunday. Luckily the three places were all at Farcher's Grove. The Elizabeth Sports Club Women's Auxiliary was presenting its Christmas Party for the children and grandchildren of the club members in the main ballroom. This included just starting to warm up, so I went back outside for the second half of the soccer game. The game ended at 1:1 with Union County in control, but the ball just would not go into the net for the locals.

I went back in, and found out that I was not missing much on the TV. The Giants were back in their 1979 form. The football Giants were on the TV in the main ballroom, and out on the field, the Union County Sport Club Junior team was playing the Wayne Sportsfriends in a league game.

"It was a learning experience," commented coach Ruth Townsend. "We're young and inexperienced and made mistakes. This might be the toughest team Dayton will face all year."
