Weltchek pledges progress, economy

In his state-of-the-township speech on Monday, Springfield's new mayor, Robert Weltchek, reviewed the accomplishments of the 11-year-old woman with whom he has served since he was first elected in 1971.

He pledged to continue and expand municipal services without violating the cap which the state has placed on municipal budgets. The new mayor also praised the contributions of township employees and of the men and women who serve on the township committee and commissions.

The full text of Weltchek's speech is listed below.

When I first took office on this Township Committee in 1971, little did I think that I would be commencing a new three-year term in 1980. I sincerely appreciate the confidence the people of Springfield have shown in me by continuing my office for these years, and I look forward to the next three years with the same enthusiasm that I had in 1971. Any success that I may have enjoyed in this office must be shared with the men and women who also served at various times during my years of service, and as the senior member I intend to exercise the privileges of that position by publicly thanking all of them.

In 1971, Nat Stokes, who served as our mayor, Roy Zacher, Bob Blumer and Art Caprio were my colleagues on the committee. This was my first experience as an elected official, and I was greatly impressed by the knowledge and determination of all of these men, from whom I learned a great deal.

Their dedication and concern for the township astounded me, and their eagerness to conduct the affairs of this town in a manner that would be beneficial to all of its inhabitants without compromising their personal integrity, maintaining at all times high

Calabrese suit set for Jan. 18

A Superior Court judge on Jan. 18 will hear the arguments of the Springfield Township attorney, Edward Fanning, and James Cavley, lawyer for Springfield Detective Lt. Samuel A. Calabrese, on whether the township is responsible for $150,000 in legal fees the lieutenant incurred in clearing his name in a six-week trial last spring.

Calabrese was acquitted in April of charges he defrauded part-time employees by receiving pay from more than one employer for the same work hour.

If Judge Milton A. Fetter rules that the township is responsible for the fees, the amount the township must pay will be decided at a later date.

Price is increased

Due to rising newspaper prices and energy-related production costs, the newsstand price of this newspaper has been increased from 25 cents to 30 cents, effective with this issue.

Town going to court in rent control cases

By DANIEL F. JONES

Township Attorney Edward Fanning will be extremely busy next week as he enters the 1980s. He will be in municipal court to prosecute landlords for alleged violations of a rent control ordinance.

Fanning, for the time being, is also on the other side of the courtroom. He must defend the township in two lawsuits, each prosecuting the landlords who have violated the ordinance.

The Springfield Township Committee last week unanimously passed two resolutions brought forth by the Rent Leveling Board. The resolutions authorized Fanning to file complaints against and prosecute the landlords of eight apartment developments.

The resolutions are the result of the rent board's annual review of the filing of rent information by landlords. A hearing was held Nov. 29, after which the board released its findings.

The first resolution alleges that landlords of three apartment houses—

Walker Apartments, 4553 Morris Ave., charged an extra $4.50 to $6 per month for improvements in 1978-79, and the charge is not authorized.

Leigh Manor, 700 Mountain Avenue, charged an extra $4 to $4 per month for improvements in both 1978 and 1979. The charge is not authorized.

Walker Apartments, 4553 Morris Ave., charged an extra $4.50 to $6 per month for improvements in 1978-79, and the charge is not authorized.

Mountain View Gardens, 785 S. Springfield Ave., increased rents by more than the permitted rate. The increases range from $15.00 to $21 per month.

The landlord of 400 Washington St. charged the tenant of one apartment for improvements in 1978. Rents for three apartments were raised by more than the permitted rate. The increases were between $11 and $18 per month.

On the defensive side of the courtroom, Fanning is involved in two cases. The township is being challenged on two of its ordinances.

One ordinance is the issue in the first case, Troy Lanthier, the owners of Troy Village Apartments, is challenging the township's rent control ordinance.

The owners maintain they should not have to go to the rent leveling board for increases for heating oil.

In the other case, Union Investments of Linden Avenue is challenging an amendment to the township's zoning ordinance.

The amendment, approved Oct. 23, decreased the depth of commercially zoned property along Morris Avenue. It was applauded by homeowners who wanted to maintain their neighborhoods as strong residential areas.

Two of the men who send persons to the courtroom were promoted at the last committee meeting of 1979.

Donald Schwerdt of the police department was promoted from sergeant to lieutenant. He began his new duties New Year's Day.

Keith Strom is now a sergeant. He was promoted from First Class patrolman effective Jan. 1.

Peter Davis and David Hartong were appointed Third Class patrolmen for a probationary period of one year.

Driver suffers facial injuries

An 18-year-old Summit man suffered facial cuts early Thursday in a multiple car accident on Morris Avenue. The accident occurred at the intersection of Morris Avenue and Morris Avenue. The driver was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where he was treated and released. A police spokesman said the investigation revealed Thomson was traveling east on Morris Avenue near Cleveland Place at midnight when the car he was driving struck a parked car on the north side of the road. The car struck the rear of a car parked on the south side. Thomson told police he was struck by an unidentified car, which forced him into the second and third vehicles. Police said.

SPRINGFIELD

Two recent letters in the Springfield Leader criticized the committee's own position that if there is not enough money in the budget to pay for installation of Christmas lights, that year it will be "Bah, Humbug" for Springfield.

The authors of these letters assert 1) Springfield's Christmas lights to celebrate the season, 2) we can afford the temporary lights we can afford Christmas lights, and 3) Our governing communities, also have public property problems and yet can afford beautiful decorations.

It turns out that all three of these criticisms are themselves "bah, humbug." Take them one at a time.

1) Springfield's downtown Christmas lights went on earlier this year than in any other year. They were installed several weeks ago at the request of our merchants. I also participated in the lighting of the town tree. We sang "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing" and "Silent Night" and drank hot chocolate with the Girl Scouts. More participants would have been welcome.

2) The temporary court lights have nothing to do with the town's current budget. They were financed by a bond issue which is exempt from our cap restrictions. The electricity to light them is paid for by the regional grid system and is also exempt from our municipal budget. Our budgetary problem is that the state has capped the amount we can spend on things such as salaries for town employees and retroactive pay for installation of Christmas lights.

3) It is true that neighboring communities have beautiful decorations. They don't pay for them. In Summit, Scotch Plains, Berkeley Heights, New Providence, Union and Millburn, to name a few, the decorations are bought by the local Chamber of Commerce or Business Association. Springfield is unique in that it is the only town in the county that has a citizens' committee to get the community involved in decorating the downtown area. I trust I can count on at least two volunteers.

Courses by newspaper Technology, change: seamless ethical web

Should freedom be limited? If one is to be free, should not all be free? This question turns out to be one of justice, namely, that we, fashion technology to make available real opportunities for all, not just more for the rich or the powerful.

Modern technology is responsible for the creation of mass society, a society of large-scale industry, massive transportation, worldwide communication, and a world of people never so closely tied together.

Modern technology is responsible for the creation of mass society, a society of large-scale industry, massive transportation, worldwide communication, and a world of people never so closely tied together.

PEACE AND POWER

Thus, our most far-reaching moral problem is the tragic dilemma of peace versus power. This was first clearly posed by the Greek poet, Aeschylus in the fifth century B.C. in his mythical tragedy, "Prometheus Bound."

Technology at its best today when it contributes to the arts of civilization. It does this through the advancement of the practical arts, such as food, justice, technology, purify air and water, rationalize transportation, employ solar energy and invent an architecture meaningful to the human dimension.
