All committeemen urging 'yes' vote

All five members of the Springfield Township Committee called on the small audience at the Feb. 15 meeting to support them on the referendum scheduled for next Tuesday. They asked the 20 or so persons attending to enlighten neighbors of their wish during the next 11 days.

Committeemen Jerry Cohen reiterated what Mayor Robert Woltchek said last week, emphasizing the fact that the referendum has full support from the committee. "I want the public to be aware this is a bipartisan thing. We want to pass it so that we do not have to set service or lay people off."

One service brought up during the public portion of the meeting was street lighting. Several residents of Sycamore Terrace complained of their poorly lit street and one woman told of a recent burglary.

Harriet Schwartz, representing residents of Sycamore, told of her home being broken into and ransacked three weeks ago. "After living here for 22 years it's not a pretty sight to come home to," she said.

She handed a petition, signed by about 20 residents, to Township Clerk Arthur Buchner. "We do not have enough lighting in our neighborhood. A detective, who came to the area, said there is not enough light," Schwartz said.

"Can you give us any answer tonight as to why we have to live in darkness?" she asked the committee.

Referring to the budget dilemma, Woltchek said that when we were faced with five percent caps, which the state imposed on us, "if a caring resident came in with a proposal we said go ahead and do it in practically every instance." The township budget exceeds the five percent cap by $115,000.

Schwartz's husband, Ed, suggested that the committee put a stipulation in the referendum for street lights to be installed if the referendum is passed. "Make it $50 and give the people something and they'll vote yes on it," he said.

Committeeman Stanley Kaish explained earlier in the meeting that the $115,000 exceeding the cap "would mean an extra $15 in taxes to the owner of a $50,000 home."

"People don't object to paying for their own properties. When 10 or 20 houses are broken into, something's wrong," Ed Schwartz said. Harriet Schwartz said she had gone to 20 homeowners of Sycamore Terrace and Cypress Avenue, and 10 of them told her they had been victims of burglaries.

Kelch Zepkin, also of Sycamore Terrace, said she wrote to the committee complaining of poor lighting in March of 1976. "For years it's been a problem," she said. She questioned if street lighting would be a service cut if the referendum fails.

She said the street is so dark that one cannot see the street from a front-door neighbors porch lights are not on.

Mayor Woltchek said he is aware of how dark the street is and said residents should not hesitate to call police if they see "anything the least bit suspicious."

He said that last year the committee authorized Jersey Central Power & Light Co. to do a complete re-lighting of township streets. The project will cost a total of $16,000 for upgrading lights or installing new ones. Woltchek could not tell Zepkin if Sycamore Terrace was included in the project area. He said he would find out from the company.

Woltchek said the project would be completed in the next three months. Some areas have already gotten new light bulbs installed on the street and it's great," a Brook Street resident said.

Support urged by fire officer for budget hike

Springfield Fire Capt. William Schmidt, on behalf of Local 57 of the Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association, urged a press release this week urging township residents to support the budget referendum to be held Tuesday.

"Our elected officials have unanimously adopted the resolution calling for this referendum," Schmidt said. "Their reason is simple—to preserve the high standards of living in a town that we all love and to afford the best protection for the ones we love."

"Everything is going up in price—materials, food, fuel—everything except the 5 percent cap," Schmidt said. "It remains the same, forcing us to make do with old equipment that's not working and just needed items like office equipment, road department equipment and many other items that are needed to make a town a safe place to live."

Police equipment—life-saving devices that are getting past the "make-it-do" point.

Raising the $115,500 by which the municipal budget exceeds the cap would cost owners of a house assessed at $30,000 about $16 per year. The excess would be paid for by the state out of assessed valuation.

A recently released statement from the Township Committee reads: "The proposal to lift the cap were defeated, services will have to be cut and employees fired. This may include the firing of police and firemen, cessation of part of all of our recreation program, curtailment of library services, cutting back on senior citizens' programs or school crossing guards."

If the proposal is passed, Schmidt concluded, "When I'm at work and my family is at home alone, I'll know that they have the best protection we can buy. It's a solid investment for all of us."

The board also addressed the problem of a cheerleading policy for the four high schools. It was decided that the board would meet the next day to discuss the policy. The board also discussed the possibility of setting the guidelines for its cheerleading teams.

In other business, the board discussed the responsibility of coaches in regional high schools to contribute to community sports programs and discussed the coach job description in general.

Most of the discussion centered on the permit for a cheerleading team that says a coach should promote his sport in the community and attempt to develop feeder systems and young teams to supply talented players to the high school squads.

Board member John Conlin of Garywood said that having coaches advise their elementary and junior high school-level teams helps the coaches work in the classrooms, training athletes in the younger grades should be left to the respective coaches at those levels, Conlin said.

William Keyes of Berkeley Heights said coaches should be urged to visit the permit description that says a coach should promote his sport in the community and attempt to develop feeder systems and young teams to supply talented players to the high school squads.

The candidates are: Robert W. Wassenman of Little Brook Road, Lovell Broad of Park Lane and Arnold Gerst of Henshaw Avenue. They will seek three-year terms on the board.

Incumbents John Westerfield and George Gones will seek re-election. While Paul Polito will not.

Profiles of all candidates will appear in future issues of the Leader.

Kids hunt down food for pets in trouble

Until last Friday, Philip Wertz of Springfield may have wondered whether he was the only one concerned with the welfare of his 28 pets, whose communal lifestyle recently has been threatened by the regional board of health.

At 3 p.m. that day, more than 200 pounds of pet food was delivered to his doorstep by representatives of People for Animals, a humane welfare organization. It was donated by students at Central Six-Jefferson School in Union.

More than 300 sixth-graders conducted a 14-day pet food drive to keep Wertz's family of 10 dogs and seven cats happy and healthy until they can be adopted by other animal lovers in the area. Wertz, 56, of South Springfield Avenue, has too many pets, according to a ruling by Union County Court Judge William Drer, who told Wertz last month that all but four of his 28 pets must go. Either Wertz moves from Springfield, or the dogs will be moved from his house and destroyed, the judge said. Wertz has until April 2 to make a decision.

In the meantime, humane organizations and town officials are struggling to help Wertz relocate his animals before the deadline.

Wertz said Thursday that he's being to appeal the court's ruling. The township dog ordinance requires each

Salt addiction may cause serious health problems

By CATE TUTTLE
The taste for salt, like the taste for sugar or cigarettes, is an acquired and not an inherited craving. Addiction begins when we're babies. Fed salt in processed baby foods (added by the manufacturer to make it taste good to Mom), we then grow up with a diet scandalously high in salt. From processed foods such as potato chips, hot dogs, and luncheon meats. Long before adulthood, we consider salt normal part of food, and unfortunately, it can predispose us to a number of serious health problems.

There's no question that salt is a major contributor to high blood pressure. Even moderate salt use increases the amount of liquid retained between cells. Called extracellular fluid, that liquid not only increases body weight but forces the heart to work harder, pushing blood through the kidneys. That effort is what can result in hypertension or high blood pressure.

The recent McGovern Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs stated that Americans must reduce their salt intake to help prevent cardiovascular diseases. In addition, doctors report that salt intake is related to migraines, painful menstrual periods and swollen ankles. A real beauty hazard: water retention caused by salt can aid in the formation of the unattractive female fatty tissue called cellulite.

Dr. Lot B. Page, professor of medicine at Tufts University in Boston, says that among 18 societies in the world that are free of high blood pressure, not one uses salt, whereas people whose traditional diet includes salt have very high rates of hypertension. Page says we should restrict our sodium to less than two grams daily. Unbelievably, American intake ranges from seven to 18 grams daily per person with many of us consuming as much as 30 grams.

Dr. Edward Fries in the April 1976 issue of "Circulation" says that if you already have high blood pressure, you must reduce your salt intake to about one gram to produce more than a minimal reduction of blood pressure. That means not only eliminating the salt shaker but almost all processed foods.

Double wrap rope belt for waist accent

It's easy to make a rope belt twice as long, and wrap it around the waist twice.

This year, when waists are "in," the double-wrapped rope is an exciting waist accent, especially when the ropes are colorful. In many fibers, in fact, the double-wrap is even dressy enough for evening fashions.

You can make a rope belt trimmer, no matter what the length. Attractive ropes are available—nowadays—in sewing, craft, and fiber shops all over the country. For the ends, tassels are an easy-to-make, professional-looking finish.

The double-wrapped rope, like any wide belt, has an extra advantage: it makes the waist look slimmer. Even though waist sizes don't change with the addition of a belt, the waist shrinks in appearance nonetheless.

The appearance of a wrap belt is also beautiful—over dresses, blouses, and even jeans. Here are the directions:

MATERIALS: You'll need two-and-one-half yards of shiny rope. Rayons and rayon blends are usually the shiniest and most attractive belt fibers. For the tassels choose several shiny, relatively thin yarns and cords.

In addition, you'll also need a six-inch cardboard square and scissors.

CUTTING: 1. The rope around your-waist twice. 2. Trim ends to desired length.

STARTING TASSELS: 1. Wind tassels yarns and threads around the cardboard square. Keep winding on yarn until you have a thick yarn ball the length of the rope. 2. Cut a one-foot loop in the top of the cardboard. 3. Push the one-foot loop to the top of the cardboard. 4. The one-foot loop is now a bow. 5. Carefully cut through the yarns at the cardboard's bottom edge (a).

TYING THE TASSELS: 1. Carefully untie the bow. 2. Tie it around one end of the rope. 3. Slide yarns around the rope to distribute the yarns more evenly. 4. Cut a one-yard length of yarn. 5. Wrap it around the tassels yarns as follows:

1. Loop one end of the new yarn.
2. Wrap the other end around the loop and all other yarns.
3. As you near the top of the loop, thread the wrapping end through the loop (b).
4. Pull the "knot" end to secure the loop under the wrapping.
5. Make the second loop for the other rope end. To do so, follow directions for "Starting Tassels" and "Tying the Tassels."

5-county plan urges care of terminally ill

A five-year plan for Essex, Union, Morris, Sussex, and Warren counties that sets goals for providing hospice care for the terminally ill and rehabilitation for the developmentally disabled was announced this week by the Regional Health Planning Council. The Council is the official Health Systems Agency (HSA) for the five-county region and its approximately two-million residents.

The Health Systems Plan is a detailed statement of goals for the region for 1980-85. It recommends actions and changes for health care environment and health services which are available, accessible, offer quality services and assure continuity of care at reasonable cost.

John J. Daly, council president, said the plan was adopted by the agency's 50-member volunteer board of trustees after extensive public hearings and community input. It has been submitted to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services for review and approval. As do all HSA's, the council develops a plan for its region which is reviewed annually.

Acting Executive Director William Primus said sections on care of the terminally ill and developmentally disabled are new "high priority" goals in this year's plan.

Primus said hospice programs give the terminally ill patient the opportunity to maintain an independent and full life before death occurs and attempt to minimize the effects of bereavement on family members.

The plan calls for the establishment by 1982 of three additional hospice programs in the region which should: —Emphasize conversion of existing excess facilities for in-patient hospice care.

—Emphasize home care, family and volunteer involvement.

—Serve areas geographically inaccessible to existing programs.

The plan recommends programs "to eliminate ignorance and negative attitudes about the hospice concept by training health personnel, advancing public awareness and encouraging community involvement."

Another recommendation was that existing or "new" hospice programs should emphasize home care services whenever feasible because the cost is far less than nursing homes or hospitals.

The council's staff would assist those interested in starting hospice programs with feasibility studies to assess needs for their community. The plan also recommends that "Big C" Cross-City Councils be formed in each county to coordinate hospice services by 1981.

The section on rehabilitation estimates that there are about 30,000 developmentally disabled people in the region. The goal is to provide services for them in the "least restrictive setting to foster a maximum degree of independence." The recommendations include: —By 1984, comprehensive training, counseling and support services should be available to help maintain the developmentally disabled individual in the family setting as far as possible.

—The establishment by 1982 of a network of residential settings, such as group homes, to meet the needs of the developmentally disabled.

Other sections of the plan cover mental health, alcoholism and drug abuse; primary care and health manpower; acute care services; emergency medical services; maternal, infant and child care services; preventive health services and dental health. Copies of the plan are available at the council's office, 6 Park Place, Newark.

ELECTRON EMITTER—This thin filament is at the heart of one of the mass spectrometers employed by BFGoodrich Chemical Group. When heated, the filament emits electrons into a vacuum chamber containing a sample of a material to be analyzed. Based on the sample's capacity to deflect magnetically the ions produced by the electrons, the sample's molecular structure revealed—providing the scientist a data base with which he can improve product quality and confirm that the substance presents no environmental concerns.

Price index up by 1.6%

Higher prices for housing, transportation, food and clothing increased the Consumer Price Index for the Northeast last month, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Over the past year, consumer prices in the Northeast have risen 11.8 percent, up from 7.9 percent in the preceding year.

The over-the-year rise for the Northeast was the smallest among the four regions. The index rose 1.6 percent in the Northeast, 1.4 percent in the South, 1.3 percent in the West, and 1.2 percent in the Midwest.

The over-the-year increase in prices for the Northeast reflected some diversity among the different population size areas of the region. Major metropolitan areas had the smallest rise (0.8 percent) since December 1978. Sharper increases ranging from 12.6 percent to 14.4 percent were reported for the other three size groups.

The CPI for Urban Wage Earners and Nonfarm Workers in the Northeast rose 1.5 percent between October and December. Since December 1978, the index has risen 11.1 percent.

DESIGNER SHOWCASE — The living room of 'The Manor' was decorated by Fran Murphy Interiors, West Palm Beach, Fla. The room expands outward through the brass-levered windows which look out on the terrace and pool.

Design ideas pooled in a showcase home

Wellington, a 10,000-acre residential community in West Palm Beach, Fla., has announced the opening of 'The Manor', a $400,000 designer-showcase home. The home features a baby grand piano, brass cloth walls, soft upholstery in tones of white, beige and tan, and travertine marble floors. The marble floor is matched by two oriental paintings which hang above the sofa.

Down the hall from the library are the children's bedrooms which are set away from the rest of the house. Double pocket doors between the two rooms open to reveal a disco dance floor for entertaining. These rooms are the work of Anne Houle and Barbara Veltman. Both are set on platforms and the room features suede walls with peach and beige Formica.

Essex Green Villas adds exclusive club

The most exclusive court and its clubhouse, which includes card, billiard and lounge areas, is only in household memberships. Each home, from the one-bedroom to the three-bedroom model, has an additional basement bedroom or den area with its own separate full bathroom, as well as an attached garage with a radio-controlled door opener, extra-heavy insulation in walls and ceiling, and thermal insulated windows, wood-burning fireplace, beamed cathedral ceilings, roof-wood balconies, and patio. Each home is heated by two gas furnaces and cooled by two central air-conditioning compressors. And the extra luxuries at no extra cost include all lighting fixtures, which have a retail value of more than $2,500, a Burd County vacuum system, full-sized washer and dryer, micro-wave oven, refrigerator-freezer-garage compactor and individual burglar and fire alarm systems.

Manufactured home has permanent look

Some 60 percent of manufactured homes now being sold are being permanently sited on privately owned building lots. This trend in affordable housing, which has been sweeping the country, seems to have finally come to the Northeast. The New Jersey Manufactured Housing Association reports that the greatest developer interest in mobilehomes today is for the building of mobilehome subdivisions. The mobilehome boom is long overdue in New Jersey, stated Hans A. Dyer, president of the Trenton-based trade organization. 'A two-bedroom, ranch style manufactured home costs about $25,000. It offers all the style and comfort of a home built on acre, more than twice that amount. It's just more efficient and economical than outside, at the mercy of the weather.'

Lakes of Sherbrooke: bright step out of condo

To condo or not to condo... Many of our buyers have already lived in a condominium environment, and have decided it's just not for them. Englestein said they want their own piece of land. The Lakes of Sherbrooke is a new development of single-family homes. The Lakes of Sherbrooke is divided into two distinct neighborhoods. One is devoted to active adult living, complete with recreation facilities, swimming pool, tennis courts, and a clubhouse. The other is a mixed age-group environment. The adult community has a clubhouse, a pool, sun deck, shuffleboard courts and bocce greens. Those who feel that life would not be complete without a regularly scheduled golf game quickly discover the close proximity to the challenging course at Sherbrooke Country Club.
