Pizazz, not pomp, key to band's work

Jonathan Dayton, 17, is the first of five selections for the 1980-81 season. The band, which is a constant flow with the music, Anderson says. "One thing that hasn't changed over the years is finances. Although the school board supplies uniforms and musical instruments for the band members, the band must raise its own money for trips. Although the band plays at football games, it doesn't receive a share of the money from gate receipts. So for years the main fund-raiser has been to sponsor a bond tournament. Jonathan Dayton's annual tournament will be this Sunday. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $2 for students. Gate receipts, program and concessions sales, will pay for more than $3,500 in costs for judges, trophies, and other expenses. What's left after the costs are paid will be put aside for the band's travel fund. This year Jonathan Dayton is planning a trip to Winchester, Va. for the Apple Blossom Festival. It won't be the band's first performance at Winchester. The last time they were there, Anderson says, Jonathan Dayton's showmanship didn't win a first place trophy, but "we got all the TV coverage." The reason is that the band competed in the Apple Blossom parade. Anderson is quick to point out that while parades are fun, Jonathan Dayton is a field show band.

Instructions for reading water meters are issued

To read a straight meter, simply take the previous day's reading and subtract from the present numbers. The difference shows the amount of water used during that period. A circular meter has either six or seven dials, depending on the brand. The dials are numbered from 0 to 9, with the highest-numbered dial and progressing to a number or is between two numbers, read the lower number. It also should be noted that some circular meter dials run clockwise while others run counterclockwise. Once the numbers are tabulated from the circular reading, subtract the previous day's reading from the present reading to find out how much water has been used.

Route 78 foes to meet with state officials over final environmental impact report

Representatives from Springfield and Berkeley Heights, opposed to construction of Interstate Route 78 through the Watchung Reservation, will meet Wednesday with federal highway and transportation officials in Washington, D.C. The reason for the meeting is that the state Department of Transportation's Final Environmental Impact Statement (FEIS) is being reviewed by federal transportation officials. If the FEIS is approved, DOT could complete the final sections of Route 78, extending from John E. Rummels Hospital in Berkeley Heights to the intersection of Route 78 and Route 22 in Springfield, a distance of 5.2 miles.

Presidential candidates regret invitation to Springfield debate

Samuel Kuperstein isn't eligible to vote in the Nov. 4 elections, but his non-voter status hasn't kept him from being invited to a presidential debate in Springfield. Kuperstein, who is a 17-year-old senior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, sent letters to John Anderson, Republican incumbent, and Jimmy Carter, Democrat, inviting each man to a debate in Springfield.

Anderson, who is president of the Jonathan Dayton Debate and Forensic Society, will be 18 years old in December. "If the candidate in the November elections, the young debater is keeping his presidential choice to himself — just in case Reagan, Carter and Anderson should visit Springfield."

It's so—September exceptionally warm

Union College's month's weather for the high temperature — 90 degrees on Sept. 22, according to reports that last gained a record-breaking 100 degrees of Peapack, head of the station.

The 90 degrees is the highest temperature ever recorded for September in the 20-year history of the college's station. The entire month, in fact, was exceptionally warm and nearly broke another record. Mean temperature for September was 61.8 degrees, which is 2.16 degrees warmer than is typical for the month. It was only 46 degrees from heating the record high set in September of 1971.

The high mercury readings are particularly striking when compared to low September temperatures. September of 1963 and 1974, for example, each had a record low reading of 33 degrees.

Precipitation was on the low side, with a total rain accumulation of only 2.34 inches, a departure of 1.73 inches from the norm. It was not, however, the driest September recorded. September, 1972 produced a mere 1.18 inches of rain.

The maximum relative humidity was 84 percent on the 29th.

Picon autobiography acquired by library

LEADERSHIP CITED—Dr. Charles Schwartz, center, director of special services in Springfield, receives a resolution for his leadership efforts to help children with learning disabilities from Freelandor Rose Marie Stenlund, right, and from Betty Lipper, president of Union County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. Oct. 12 to 18 is "Learning Disabilities Week."

ROSE P. SIMON, The Springfield Public Library lists the autobiography of the recently deceased Picon.

YIDDISH THEATER STARS—Molly Picon, by Molly Picon with Jean Grillo.

The daughter of immigrant parents, Molly's talent for singing, dancing and songwriting was noticed by members of the Yiddish theater (in Philadelphia) when they came to have their costumes made by her mother. At the age of five she won first prize ($5) in an amateur show, and continued to perform until after her sophomore year in high school, when financial need ended her formal education.

There she met Jacob Koffich (Yonkers) in charge of a small group of actors. He hired her, promised her stardom and married her.

She writes of her triumphs and setbacks, her adoption of foster children, their home in Malabar, radio and nightclub appearances, their own theater on Second Avenue in New York, their visits to European D.P. camps, and their trip to Korea. Not only were they admired for their Yiddish produc-

"Jewish women, as those of other faiths; do not wish to be trivialized or stereotyped, but many claim they have been by male authors. They insist that they, too, are diverse in character and goals, although their thoughts and situations are influenced to a greater or lesser degree by their Jewishness—heritage of more than 5,000 years.

Dems' campaign official raps Roselle Park mayor

John Gillespie, campaign manager for the Herman Schreiber, said with showing the same "arrogance" by "blatant credit for the recent gross freeloading, this week freeloader," and criticized Mayor Virginia charging of the Roselle ding.

Gillespie also said that in GOP literature, McKenney "brags about her former status as an independent but hides the fact that she also ran as a Democrat."

The candidates, Frank Lehr of Summit, Virginia McKenney of Roselle Park and Peter Okrasinski of Union, pledged that if they are elected, giving the board a Republican majority, they will make "a definite decision" to resolve the matter during their first year in office.

In 1979, under the leadership of a Republican freeloader, the county hired a consultant to develop a comprehensive plan. Lehr said. But the Democrats "took no action," he charged. Today, he said, "they have a county plan that is no real plan at all" but is "dependent on the actions of others."

McKenney said solid waste from Elizabeth, Hillside, Roselle, Roselle Park, Winfield and Kenvilworth has to be diverted under state orders "because of the deplorable policies of the Democrats."

"Taking note of opposition in Linden to proposed construction of a solid waste recycling center there, she said, 'There is no law that says all of Union County's garbage has to be deposited in Linden. A waste-to-energy plant could be built elsewhere, and there are other possible alternatives.'

Okrasinski charged that "inaction" by the Democratic-controlled board "has needlessly caused our garbage costs to skyrocket and our county home rule to be violated."

Jensen lauds welfare board

David Jensen, independent candidate for Congress in the 12th District, praised the operation of the Union County Board of Social Services at a meeting in Plainfield.

Jensen said the agency's real problem is the lack of federal funding to increase the staff so it can handle the growing number of cases. The minimal expense of additional fund investigators would allow the staff to keep up with investigations and screen out fraudulent claims, he added.

GOP candidates pledge decision on solid waste

The three Republican candidates for Union County Board of Freeholders this week charged that the board has been "running away from a growing garbage crisis for 10 years."

$180,000 goal for United Way

A goal of $180,000 has been set for the 1980 fundraising campaign of the United Way of Eastern Union County, according to Clarence Bauknight, general campaign chairman.

The campaign began Sept. 29 for funds that will help support local human care agencies throughout Eastern Union County.

Bauknight said, "Over the years, the Eastern Union County community has given a great deal of support to our fundraising campaign. This responsiveness demonstrates the concern of Eastern Union County's private citizens, business, management, and labor, and industry for the needs of senior citizens, abused children, work-disabled and handicapped adults."

"In this time of economic trouble it is important to support Eastern Union County's United Way member agencies and the people they serve."

One builder's view of the joint venture

With greater and greater frequency these days, "home-seekers" are becoming aware of new home offerings developed as "joint ventures"—temporary partnerships of two (or more) organizations. And many are asking: What is the nature of this relationship? What does it mean to the purchasing public? Should a joint venture be a cause for concern about who is ultimately responsible for the buyer's satisfaction, or whether the developers' commitments will be met?

In a speech before several industry groups in Clark, recently, Robert Karmel, president of The Karmel Group, one of the nation's leading builders, shed some new light on these matters.

"Drawing on his own firm's experience in a variety of highly successful joint ventures (such as Starbridge in Piscataway and The Woodlands in Edgemoor), Karmel characterized the relationship as a "marriage" between a builder and a source of venture capital and expertise. He also identified some potential problems—and in counseling his audience on how to evaluate a joint venture, he offered advice on which the buying public could also profit.

Social Security give benefits tips

Those who work in jobs where they receive cash tips may learn valuable Social Security benefits through these tips, according to John H. McCutcheon, Elizabeth Social Security District manager.

But, he noted, they can earn this protection only if they report these tips to their employer, as the law requires. Cash tips, when added to wages, can mean higher cash benefits for the worker and his or her family in the future, he added.

Cash tips amounting to $20 or more in a month in a person's work for one employer count for Social Security. Tips received in a form other than cash do not count.

A person who splits or shares tips should count only the amount actually received. If an employer adds a service charge to the bill and divides it among employees, the part received is not a tip; it is a part of regular wages and should not be reported.

A worker is required to furnish the employer with a written report of tips if they add up to $20 or more a month. The report is due within 10 days after the end of the month but an employer can require reports more often.

Form 408 (Employee's Report of Tips) is available at any Internal Revenue Service office. Booklet 5655, available at the same office, helps workers keep a record of tips and reports.

If the reports on tips are incomplete or late, a worker may have to pay a penalty amounting to one half of the Social Security taxes due. A worker who does not report full tips to his or her employer will have to report them directly to the Internal Revenue Service on Form 4137 when filing federal income tax returns.

More information about cash tips is available in a leaflet, "Social Security and Cash Tips," available through the Social Security Administration, 342 Westminister Ave., Elizabeth (800-272-1111).

Booters sharp in 3-0 W. Orange romp

By Robert A. Bruckner

Hungry for a victory, Dayton's varsity soccer team fought two tough battles last week, playing to a 0-0 draw with Verona and shutting out West Orange, 3-0.

Dayton was at its best against a strong Verona team, much to the delight of Coach Joe Cozza.

"Our skills were good," the coach explained, "and the players were aggressive as well as determined to win."

The combination worked, too, because the Bulldogs used their ball control to set-up a number of scoring chances.

In all, Dayton took 11 shots, with Kirk

Vogey getting off four. Jerry Cacaloni, Brian Lerner and Eddie MacDonald managed two pieces, and Peter Klaskin took the final blast.

Cozza was also impressed with his team's defensive play. Myron Waskin, in particular, played well, covering Verona's high-scoring striker, Nick Tamilli.

"Everyone played a good game," Cozza beamed, "and the entire bench was outstanding."

The Bulldogs must have remembered the many good things they did against Verona, because they came out and did it even better at West Orange, 3-0.

Dayton worked its ball around superbly, consistently hitting the open player. That teamwork was a big reason for Vogey's two goals and Cacaloni's sole score.

Defensively, the Bulldogs marked their West Orange counterparts closely, enabling Andrew Grett to pick up his third shutout of the season. Grett made several tough saves to preserve the victory.

"We played a solid game," Cozza observed. "Our man-to-man marking was very good."

Strong defense was also the name of the game for the junior varsity team, which was nipped, 2-1, by Verona but came back to defeat West Orange, 6-0.

Coach Mario Kawczycki was not pleased with the Verona outing, though. "The team gave a pitiful performance and lacked hustle as well as determination," he said. "They played with no heart to win."

Dayton's only goal came on Peter Herzlinger's shot.

The performance of the jays' against West Orange was far different from the match with Verona.

Scoring for Dayton were Tom Leam, Todd Leonard, Rob Sokol and Steven Maras. Maras also scored an own goal.

Kawczycki believes the Bulldogs were on par with any team in the Suburban Conference on that afternoon. If PERFECT BALANCE—Elizabeth Crabtree, of Mountainside, shows off her winning style to Kent Place School gymnastics coach Elizabeth Grunlich. Led by Crabtree, a 1979 member of the All-Union County gymnastics team, the Kent Place team has a 2-1 record to date this season. Grunlich is in her fourth year as Kent Place coach, reports that the team has improved from a 1977 average of 30 points per meet to a 1988 high of 70 points.

No. 17 Summit next Senese disappointed by defeat

By Ron Bramfoster

The way Angelo Senese figures it, there are two ways to lose a football game.

One is to believe there's a difference between playing well and losing a game, because the opposition has far superior athletes. "Senese observed in the aftermath of a 20-0 Dayton loss to Madison last Saturday afternoon before the home folks, "and losing because you didn't play well."

"We were disappointed in our performance, although we knew Madison would be a very tough football team," he added. "However, our disappointment stems from the fact that we did not play well."

But Senese is sure the Bulldogs will be better prepared this weekend when they travel to Summit for another 7-0 victory.

"There aren't many breaks in the Suburban Conference," explained

Senese, realizing his team went from 11-0 to 10-1. "The team is still the longest winning streak (66 games), to Summit, a 2-1 team ranked 17th in the state."

"I would say for a non-Group IV conference, this is the best in the state. And Summit proved they can compete with the best of Group IV by beating West Orange in the first week of the season," he added.

That may be great for the conference's reputation, but it only means more hard work and dedication. There were a few errors behind, especially since Senese would like his team to put all those errors behind, especially since he has a hard work and dedication. There were a few errors behind, especially since he has a hard work and dedication. There were a few errors behind, especially since he has a hard work and dedication.

"My estimation is that they're still one of the best teams in the state, despite the loss to Caldwell," Senese said. "The key to the game will be our ability to stop Robert Askew, one of the best backs in the state, from a breakthrough."

"The Bulldogs managed to hold down Summit's high-powered offense last year, dropping a 14-6 decision. That game was really a 7-6 battle until the final minute, when Summit broke a long touchdown."

"We've always played well against them," Senese pointed out. "They have both our entire team returning, and we have about 75 percent of ours. That will be a well-played, exciting football game."

"As far as emotion," he concluded, "this week will be the test of our maturity. If we are a mature football team, as I believe we are, then I think we will recover from the loss to Madison and play a good football game against Summit."

Dayton girls boost harrier mark to 8-0

Dayton's undefeated girls' cross country team won its eighth meet last Tuesday, but not without a major scare.

After beating Madison easily last Tuesday and rolling by New Providence in the first half of a tri-meet, the Dayton runners came up against Caldwell. The challenges must have been primed for an upset, because they won the top two positions.

But then Dayton's depth, which has been the key factor in the team's early-season success, came through again. The local harriers spent the next four places and put their fifth runner in ninth place, one spot ahead of Caldwell's fifth girl. And that was the difference.

"I'm very proud of the team," beamed Coach William Jones. "The girls' dedication has really paid off."

It certainly did against Caldwell. Dayton didn't give up in after dropping the first two spots, instead, Kathy Kelly and her sister Margaret took three-four followed by Dana Levinson and Janice Levine. But when Caldwell took seven and eight, it meant the next finisher would decide the race.

That was Alice Barry, who came sprinting in just ahead of a Caldwell runner to give Dayton's 27-28 victory.

Dayton ran the race without Beth Mortimer, who pulled up with a cramp, but Shirley Salerni, Amy Kiell, Kathy Rogers, Candy Lesofski, Traci Spivack and Joelle Haughey did manage to complete the course in solid times.

"Things were much easier" for Dayton earlier in the week, especially against Madison. The local girls improved their record to 8-0 with an easy 19-0 victory.

Kathy Kelly finished first for Dayton while Levinson, Maureen Kelly, Barry and Levine accomplished a three-four, five-six sweep. Salerni placed eighth, followed by Mortimer, Rogers, Lesofski, Kiell, Spivack and Haughey.

Dayton dominated New Providence two days later in the first half of the Caldwell tri-meet. Kathy and Maureen Kelly finished one-two while Levinson, Levine and Barry swept five through seven. Other finishers were Salerni, Kiell, Rogers, Spivack and Haughey.

Dayton will try to pick up two more victories Tuesday afternoon when the harriers host Millburn and Verona at 4:45 p.m.

Russo: Giants slowed by Maras

Concerned that the Giants, New Jersey's professional football team, are giving the state a bad image, State Sen. Anthony E. Russo has urged the Garden State Sports and Exposition Authority to explore ways in which the team can be persuaded to sell the team to new owners.

"I don't even know if you can effect a change in ownership," the Union County Democrat said in a letter to Robert Mulcahy, chairman of the authority, "but something obviously must be done to give the Giant fans a change in the dismal fortunes they have experienced over the past 18 years. Additionally, we can't let the team's profits go to the state to suffer because of the Giants' ineptness."

Claiming "leadership starts at the top," Russo pointed out that citizens dissatisfied with their governmental leaders can effect a change through the electoral process. Similarly, he said, the hold companies, the board of directors can bring in new blood if it's obvious that the incumbent management is not doing the job. Because the Mara family owns the team, stock and bonds, they're accountable to the state.

And if losing seasons, five coaching changes, as well as switches in general managers, make it abundantly clear that the Giants' top leadership has failed miserably to fulfill his responsibility to customers and fans," the Union lawmaker declared. "If the Giants are an ordinary commercial endeavor, the management might be called on the carpet for consumer fraud. The product they're selling under the label of professional football is anything but that."

Russo said he wonders whether the Mara family, which owns the team, is sincerely interested in producing a winner.

"Let's look at the bottom line," he continued. "Here we have one of the most profitable franchises in all of professional sports. They couldn't sell another ticket if they wanted to because

Jets' defense paces two shutout verdicts

Leading the defense were Council, Slotter, Michael Barsonick, Frank Tennaro, Eric Incandena, Rogers and Costello.

The Jets made it two in a row a week later with a 24-0 victory over Springfield.

Martignetti was the big gun, personally providing a 12-0 lead by tackling a Springfield runner in the endzone for a two-point safety and throwing a TD pass to Council for six more points.

Steve Saunders got excellent blocking from Bart Barro, Slotter, Crowley, Straka, Ventura and Garappa and scampered 50 yards for a touchdown.

The second half was dominated by both defenses. The jets managed a final score when Costello plunged over from four yards out, thanks to big blocks from Andrew Solomon, Steven Heckel and Pat Altomasi.

That's when the Jets' defense took over, halting Berkeley Heights of the scoreboard with some tough defense.

The trick behind Halloween is to avoid the overly sweet treats and a "Halloween hangover," according to a national treatment center specializing in child behavior.

"Many children simply cannot handle the extra-large doses of sugar in Halloween candy," declares Dr. Jerome Vogel, medical consultant for the New York Institute for Child Development (NYICD). "Too much sugar can cause irritability, disruptive behavior, decreased attention span and loss of concentration in school the next day."

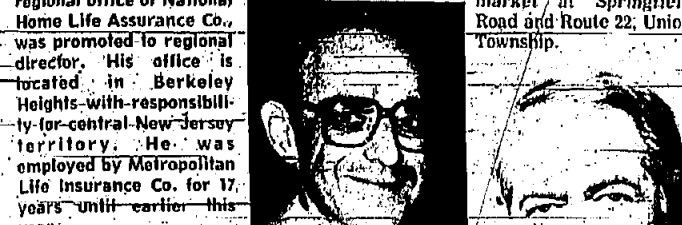

"Parents and teachers have reported that head aches and stomach aches are common in children the day after Halloween. They dread the post-Halloween hangover as much as the Halloween itself."

Research studies conducted by NYICD, a non-profit center specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of hyperactive and learning-disabled children, have shown that diets high in carbohydrates and sweets inversely affect behavior and learning patterns in these children.

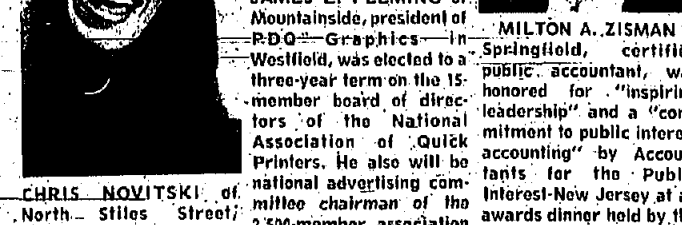

"There is no doubt that our diet affects our learning performance," notes Dr. Vogel. "Of the 500 children tested in our study, 106 were unable to tolerate refined carbohydrates (such as those found in most Halloween candy). These children had such symptoms as restlessness and nervous behavior, an inability to sit still for long instructions and even bed-wetting."

The NYICD suggests less risky treats that are not so sweet: popcorn, nuts or homemade foods such as oatmeal cookies or peanut butter balls, all of which are easy and can be made from readily available, inexpensive foods.

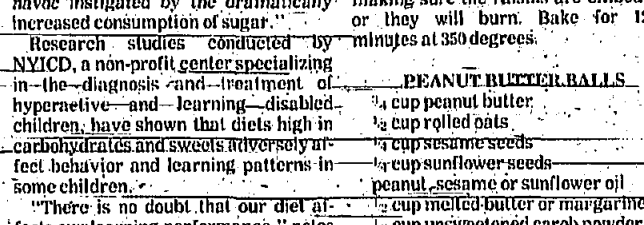

Make sure your child is being treated this Halloween, and not unknowingly tricked.

Protective eyewear could avert injuries

As the nation's boom in racquet sports participation grows, so does the threat of eye damage among players. More than 4,000 tennis, squash and racquetball enthusiasts suffered eye injuries last year—almost 50 percent more than in the previous year—according to the New Jersey Society to Prevent Blindness, an affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness.

"Unguarded eyes are open to injury and possible vision impairment from balls that can travel 100 miles per hour, plus flying racquets and clubs," explained Al DeFogalis, Prevention and Blindness Ambassador. "Give your eyes a sporting chance. Protect them when you play. Nine out of 10 eye injuries can be prevented by protective eyewear."

Electrophysiology: key to off-beat heart

An irregular heartbeat is an elusive threat—it can briefly incapacitate and in some cases lead to sudden cardiac arrest and death. Until recently, no precise method of determining the most effective treatment for the arrhythmia (irregular heartbeat) has existed, according to Simeon Saksena, M.D., of Florham Park, director of the electrophysiology laboratory at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center (NBIMC). His appointment was announced by Marvin A. Kirschnor, M.D., director of the Department of Medicine and Lester M. Bornstein, executive director of NBIMC.

Electrophysiology, a relatively new subspecialty of cardiology, Dr. Saksena explained, NBIMC has the only electrophysiology laboratory in New Jersey and it is estimated that there are only a dozen in the world.

"In simplest terms, we recreate and control the arrhythmia in the laboratory while the patient is lightly sedated. Then we counteract the arrhythmia with drugs or an external pacemaker to determine which is the most effective treatment," said Dr. Saksena. He noted that a third option for some patients is cardiac surgery to remove the diseased portion of the heart which is responsible for the arrhythmia. Dr. Saksena, 27, is a graduate of the All-India Institute of Medical Sciences. He completed his residency in internal medicine at Long Island Jewish Hillside Medical Center and his fellowship in cardiology at the University of Miami School of Medicine, a center pioneering in the field of cardiac electrophysiology.

Dr. Saksena emphasized that the electrophysiology laboratory test is painless and relatively safe. In difficult-to-control arrhythmias, cardiac catheterization is done and electrodes induce the irregularity in the heart, which is immediately treated with drugs or pacemakers.

"The electrophysiology study recreates and then legitimizes the arrhythmia," said Dr. Saksena. "There is no way of accurately assessing treatment, particularly of long-term arrhythmias, unless you can recreate the irregularity. The technique represents a major advance in the control of resistant arrhythmias and can shorten hospitalization by eliminating a trial and error approach to treatment, he explained.

Certain types of arrhythmias are a great threat to the patient who has already suffered a cardiac arrest, according to the physician. "The patient is likely to have another such attack. That's why finding the most effective method of treatment is so essential."

Campus ministries plan fall retreat for students

A fall retreat sponsored by the campus ministries of Union College and Kean College will be conducted for students, faculty and staff tomorrow through Sunday at the Sisters of the Good Shepherd Retreat House in Matawan.

All members of the Union College community, including students at Union County Technical Institute and the Schools of Nursing of Elizabeth General and Muhlenberg hospitals, as well as Kean College, are invited to join the retreat regardless of age or faith, according to Marian Henderson of Newark, coordinator of the campus ministry.

Special entertainment has been planned for the weekend ending, Henderson said. Betsy Beckman, a lay church worker in Washington, D.C., and a member of the recently formed "Clown Ministry," will interpret the Scripture through mime and dance. Beckman, a pantomime and liturgical dancer, will perform in clown's costume as she tells the story of the Christian tradition.

Dr. Frank Forrage, a professor of physics at Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, and an expert in liturgical music, will coordinate the music for the retreat. Sister Ellen Kelly of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd in Brooklyn, will explore prayer forms, both traditional and non-traditional, explaining what prayer is and what it isn't.

A waiver fee of $20 to cover food and transportation costs is required from each person participating. Union College personnel will use the college van, with Kean College individuals utilizing carpooling.
