Life Story told of Martin Luther King Sr.

Following are the reviews of some of the recently received books at the Springfield Public Library.

King was extremely dissatisfied with the "dehumanization" of Negroes and proposed to do something about it. He organized the voting rights march—a good beginning—but while cooperation was lacking, the reverend noted the development of the new militancy, the need for black leadership to weaken the walls of segregation.

OPINION

Is this Catch 22?

We listened with interest to a story last week about a Bergen County resident who has been bringing his clothes to a commercial laundromat to avoid using the water that passes through the water meter in his home.

The justification was that he did not want to chance a fine, as mandated by the governor's water conservation executive orders.

It is clear to us that such actions are a little less than intelligent for three reasons:

The water consumer is clearly not conserving water, as the executive orders mandate. He is simply not showing the water use through the meter at his home. That defeats the purpose of the conservation orders.

Laundromat owners, and ultimately patrons, are under restrictions, also. They must reduce consumption of water by 25 percent. While they may be able to restrict the amount of water a machine uses during its various cycles, that savings may well be surpassed in additional use by persons who do not normally use such facilities.

In turn, laundromat owners might opt to close for a day a week or be open fewer hours a day to cut down on the amount of water they use to avoid fines. The next thing we know, we could all be standing in line at a laundromat to be one of the fortunate few to have clean clothes.

Finally, it takes gas or diesel fuel to get a car from our home to the laundromat. The same goes for a visit to friends or relatives on Long Island, where a water crisis does not exist.

If we were to carry all this to some sort of a conclusion, we could be waiting in line to get gas for our car, so we could wait on line at a laundromat to do the weekly wash.

All this, in turn, would make us perspire, soiling our clothes even more, and finally, requiring more frequent trips to the laundromat and gas lines.

I was among 25 state legislators from across the country invited to the White House earlier this month for a briefing by President Reagan, Vice President George Bush and other high ranking government officials regarding the administration's economic plans.

The president sought input from the state officials and outlined his phase plan to revitalize the nation's economy.

It was extremely flattering to be invited to the White House and I was very impressed with the obvious sincerity and determination of the president and his staff regarding the proposed budget cuts and to bring inflation under control.

Williams, Bradley introduce bill to gain state VHF station

WASHINGTON—U.S. Senators Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D-NJ) and Bill Bradley (D-NJ), renewing their effort to gain a commercial VHF television station for New Jersey, have introduced legislation which would achieve that goal.

Williams and Bradley said the bill would mandate that the Federal Communications Commission assign a station to any state without commercial VHF television when a license for a station becomes available in a state which has several.

There are only two states in the country without commercial VHF television service—New Jersey and Delaware. Since the FCC last year denied the license renewal of one New York City television station, the effect of the Williams-Bradley bill would be to make that station available for licensing to New Jersey.

The commission is currently working on formal rulemaking which could transfer WOR-TV (Channel 9) to New Jersey, but Williams and Bradley said that the legislation they are introducing would "surely ease the difficult task of the commission by spelling out the intent of Congress and clearing a path for the commission's work."

The FCC rulemaking now in progress is the result of a petition filed with the commission last year by the two Senators. Williams and Bradley said that the text of their bill is identical to the measure they introduced in the last session of Congress. That bill received favorable comment from various congressional committees, but never moved beyond the stage of hearings.

The Senators said that they are confident the measure can be advanced this year since it has been discussed at length in previous sessions of Congress and since there will be a renewed effort to draft legislation which modifies the Federal Communications Act later this year.

Bradley said that the New Jersey measure could be incorporated into any overall legislation which moves towards final passage in Congress. Williams said, "New Jerseyans are clearly at a disadvantage because they must depend on the New York and Philadelphia stations or news of events and public affairs which are critical to their daily lives. Often, the New Jersey news offered by these outside stations amount to reports on a local fire or tragedy and there is little time for deeper, more critical reports on issues of concern to state residents. We need our own station and this looks like the year we might get it."

Bradley said, "Instead of seeing themselves through the eyes of television stations based on other states, New Jerseyans need and deserve their own source of news, public affairs and cultural information. Many citizens of New Jersey know more about the events and issues of New York and Pennsylvania than of New Jersey and the towns and cities in which they live. As an instrument for integrating and transferring the best of both worlds, a VHF station is indispensable."

Advice for beginning joggers

When a lot of us think of jogging, we think of exhaustion. We picture charley horses and blisters. We envision hours upon hours of glazed-eyed, red-faced clump-clump-clumping along, neck veins bulging, desperately gasping for air.

It doesn't have to be that. In fact, it shouldn't. According to the President's Council on Physical Fitness & Sports and the National Jogging Association, in a well-planned 12-week program of beginning jogging, all you'll do your first day is walk around for fifteen minutes. Throughout the program, you'll never have to breathe so hard that you can't carry on a normal conversation. For your first copy of "Successful Jogging," send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 874, Pueblo Colorado 81009.

Step one in starting to jog is to see a doctor for a checkup. If you have any medical problems, your doctor will help you tailor your conditioning program around them. A doctor who runs may be able to provide more experienced advice.

Next you'll need some jogging shoes (ordinary sneakers or tennis shoes won't do). Look for a thick, layered sole running the full length of the shoe, with a soft inner layer for cushioning and a tough outer one to absorb shock. There should also be an elevated heel, to reduce strain to your Achilles tendon.

It may take you some time to develop a good stride. Jogging is different from, say, running to first base. Don't bounce on the balls of your feet. Roll your weight smoothly from the heel to the toe.

Expert chef to share culinary expertise

DR. JOSEPH ALPERT of Springfield has been elected to the executive committee of Newark Beth Israel Center. During his two-year term, he will represent the Department of Surgery.

One of America's most acclaimed experts and experimenters in cooking is Bert Greene, author of the best selling book, "Kitchen Bouquet." Greene will be sharing his culinary successes and talents with the Summit Area Community School's second program of the "Creative Mysteries of the Decade" on Monday in a presentation at 8 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church, 527 Springfield Ave., Summit.

"The Man in the Kitchen" will be the topic. Recognized by leading magazines, food critics and appreciative culinary artists, Greene will bring to his audience new mouth-watering treats and innovative uses of the familiar flavors of almond, anise, brandy, cheese and chocolate that will earn a reputation for "the hostess with the mostest" as "best of most."

Greene began his kitchen capers as a youngster in Queens when he assumed responsibility for the dinner hour for his working parents and delivered a lamb stew with fresh peas to replace the charred mess he created with the meat planned by his mother. His interest in food and cooking began at that time, and he went on to establish "The Store in Amagansett" at East Hampton, Long Island, which was heralded as a place "worth a trip of a hundred miles for a tablespoonful."

Greene is a talented writer as well as a master chef and has published "The Store Cookbook" and "Pity the Poor Rich." His interests extend beyond the kitchen as can be evidenced by four productions he authored that were produced off-Broadway.

Greene, in addition to being a contributor to magazines such as Vogue, Esquire, Travel and Leisure, Ladies Home Journal and Family Circle, is a restaurant critic and food editor for Gentlemen's Quarterly for which he writes "What's Cooking?" for the man in the kitchen. He also has been a contributing editor of Cuisine and has edited into the Cajon country of Louisiana as well as Italian cooking classes in Bologna, Italy. Currently, he is writing a compilation of this country's native cuisine, "Honest American Bert Greene."

Reservations for the program can be made through the mail to SACS, Box 532, Summit 07901 or by calling the director of the Summit Area Community School at 273-1141.

17th Science Seminar set Union College campus

Union College's 17th annual Science Seminar for academically talented high school students will be held at the college beginning Wednesday, according to Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, distinguished service professor emeritus and seminar coordinator.

The seminar is designed to attract outstanding students to careers in science, provide them with knowledge in areas not usually covered in traditional high school science programs and give them the opportunity to extend their talents into new disciplines, Iversen said. It will be offered Wednesday, March 18, April 1, 15 and 29, at Union College's Cranford Campus. Iversen said each secondary school in Union County will be invited to select three students to participate in the Science Seminar.

In a series of five lectures, the selected high school juniors and seniors will have an opportunity to view a variety of sciences through the eyes of professional scientists, each an authority in his own field, Iversen said.

Interested student should contact their high school principals for information and must be recommended by the principal if they wish to participate.

UC teams conduct fund-raiser for trips

Students at Union College have launched a campaign to raise $12,000 within the next three weeks to send two athletic teams to national tournaments of the National Junior College Athletic Association.

Two members of the women's basketball team, Debbie Raynor of Roselle and Angie Martin of Rahway, are serving as co-chairmen of the 50-member committee which is organizing the fund-raising effort. Their slogan is "Help the Owls to Fly."

The students elected to launch the campaign after they were told by college officials the $12,000 would be available from the college budget to support post-season tournament participation. College officials told the students $2,500 would be made available to send the women's basketball team and the wrestling team to Region XIX competition, but because of a cut in the college's appropriation from the county, the college budget could not support trips to the national tournaments in Hutchinson, Kans., for the women's cagers and in Worthington, Minn., for the wrestlers.

Raynor and Martin requested the first effort in the "one-night" campaign would be a "booster week" on campus. Every student, faculty member, and staff member will be asked to contribute at least a dollar toward the Post-Season Tournament Fund. The goal is to raise $10,000 during Booster Week.

Once we have demonstrated the support of fellow students and the faculty and staff, we'll seek funds from outside sources such as the College for Social Organizations and businesses and industries in Union County," Raynor said. "Our initial efforts have already

Benefits available for disabled worker

Workers in the Union County area suffering from a physical or mental impairment which prevents them from working should consider applying for Social Security disability benefits when it appears their condition will last 12 months or more, John H. McCutcheon, Social Security district manager in Elizabeth, has announced.

Social Security disability benefits can be paid to workers under 65, disabled widows and widowers 50 and over, and unmarried adults disabled before reaching 22.

Under Social Security, a person is considered disabled if he or she has a condition which prevents him or her from doing any substantial gainful work and which is expected to last for at least 12 months or to result in death.

No payments can be made to a disabled worker, widow, or widower for the first 5 months of disability.

SAGE's Visiting Homemaker Service also assists people for disability benefits. It will be helpful if he or she gathers certain information. This will help speed up the application process, McCutcheon said. This includes:

- The person's Social Security number.
- Date last worked.
- Date person became sick or was injured.
- Type of illness or injury.
- Date returned to work, if no longer disabled.
- Names, addresses, and telephone numbers of doctors, hospitals, institutions, or clinics that provided treatment for the disability and date of treatment.
- Military service serial number and VA claim number if available.
- List of kinds of jobs performed in previous 10 years.
- Names, Social Security numbers, and dates of birth of spouse and children.
- Worker's compensation number if any.
- A person should not delay applying if all this information is not available.

Available at the Elizabeth Social Security office can give more information about disability benefits. The office is located at 342 Westminister Ave. and the telephone number is 908-272-1111.

SAGE offers seniors a variety of services

Those who are alone, elderly, find it hard to care for themselves or cannot get out of their houses or apartment often have a United Way agency which may be assistance—SAGE.

SAGE provides a variety of services and programs for persons of all ages—home care, meals, employment, and social activities.

The Friendly Visitor Service's training of volunteers and visitation or elderly people to write letters, run errands, play games or just chat and listen.

SAGE's Tol-Assurance program is a free service which helps area residents to feel more secure if they live alone. Thanks to those who give to the United Way of Eastern Union County, agencies like SAGE will continue to serve area residents who need help. More information about SAGE is available at 225-5550.

Law Project to establish protections for elderly

The Community Mental Health Project and Union County Legal Services have announced the receipt of a Union County Division on Aging Grant to establish a protection services program for the elderly of Union County.

The program, through a grant of more than $30,000, runs from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31.

The program will have three components to provide legal and non-legal services for the elderly," according to managing attorney Neil Berger of the Law Project.

The first component is to provide counseling and other supportive social services to those elderly who are physically or psychologically abused by family or other persons. The program has already established a 24-hour phone number to receive complaints from abused senior citizens.

The second part of the program will attempt to contact and notify residents of licensed and unlicensed boarding homes of their rights under the new Boarding Home and Rooming House

Broil ham slice and fry apples

"Easy does it" is this entree that features a family-size ham slice and fried apple slices. Dinner is ready to serve in less than a half-hour when you panbroil a "fully-cooked" ham slice, then pan-fry apple slices sweetened with brown sugar.

A delicious addition is a simple sauce that's quickly made by stirring a can of evaporated milk into the pan used to cook the ham and apples.

HAM AND FRIED APPLES
1 "fully-cooked" smoked ham slice, cut 3/4 inch thick
3 medium-sized tart cooking apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons fat
Cooking fat
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 can (8 1/2 ounces) evaporated milk
Place ham slice in a lightly-greased large, heavy frying pan and cook slowly 14 to 16 minutes, turning occasionally. Place ham slice on a hot platter and keep warm. Core apples and cut thin slices from both ends. Cut each apple crosswise into 4 slices, dip cut surfaces in lemon juice and arrange in four. Add enough fat to frying pan to make 2 tablespoons. Pan-fry apple slices on one side and place on platter with ham. Add evaporated milk to pan dripping and cook slowly, stirring constantly for 3 to 5 minutes or until thickened. Four to six servings.

Writers conference to be held March 28

Turning Newsprint into Gold—Part III, the third annual writers conference sponsored by the New Jersey Press Women, will be held March 28 at the Woodrow Wilson School, Princeton University.

Featured speaker at the luncheon will be Flora Schreiber, the author of "Sybil." A speech and English teacher at John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York, she also has written a book entitled "Your Child's Speech" and has appeared on more than 100 talk shows, including those of Dick Cavett and Mike Douglas.

Flora Davis, a former editor and writer for Glamour and Vogue magazines, will open the conference at 10 a.m. with a talk on "How Can You Find Energy to Write a Book?" She is the author of "Living Alive: How to Tap Your Body's Natural Energy to Look Better, Feel Better and Do More—Every Day of Your Life," and has taught writing at Fordham University and the New School for Social Research.

Toni Mendez, president of the Toni Mendez Literary Agency, will discuss the question, "Are Agents Really Necessary?" She is a director of the Newspaper Comics Council and the Museum of Cartoon Art and a member of the Society of Illustrators and National Cartoonist Society.

Courses slated on computers

Two courses for business persons with little knowledge of computers will be offered at Kean College's Center for Corporate Education next month, sponsored by the Union college and the Data Processing Management Association. A course focusing on the choice of systems and their most efficient use will be taught Saturdays, from 10 a.m. to noon starting March 21, by Luke T. Suppa, data processing manager, Reichhold Chemicals, Elizabeth. A course geared to those already working with computers will be presented for six Mondays, from 7:40 to 10:40 p.m., starting March 16. The instructor will be Donald Prior, director of information systems, Phelps-Dodge Copper Products, Elizabeth. Registration information is available by calling 527-2208.

WHAT ANIMALS PROVIDE
Animal products provide Americans with one-third of their food energy, two-thirds of their protein, two-thirds of their fat, four-fifths of their calcium, two-thirds of their phosphorus, 38 percent of their thiamine, 47 percent of their niacin, 60 percent of their vitamin B6 and virtually all of their vitamin B12.

bara McDowell, assistant managing editor of United Media Enterprises, who will discuss "How to Cash in on Syndication." She is the originator and co-editor of "Woman's Almanac," a joint venture with Good Housekeeping magazine.

Earl L'Abbe, science writer and health and science editor of WCBS-TV, will open the afternoon session. An Emmy award winner, he will speak on "How to Go from Print to Picture."

Gay Bryant and Biffie Dahl Estabrook will discuss "How to Sell the Working Woman." Bryant is editor of the magazine "Working Woman" and Estabrook is promotion manager.

Ruth Winter of Short Hills, health and science writer, will be the moderator. She and Virginia Stuart of Hoppewell, vice president of the New Jersey Press Women, are conference co-chairmen.

The program, for which the registration fee is $40, is open to the public. Registrations may be sent to Bonnie Hollis, 2497 Venezia Ave., Vineland 08360. The week of March 10 is the deadline for registration.

Lifeline credit deadline near

The deadline for filing for the $125 Lifeline utility credit for eligible persons on Social Security Disability has been extended to Saturday, according to Gerald J. Reilly, deputy commissioner for the state's Department of Human Services.

Last November, Reilly noted, applications were sent out to the nearly 110,000 persons on the Social Security disability rolls, including those who previously had qualified for Lifeline; to date, he stressed, only 20 percent of the applications have been returned.

"We are extending the filing deadline to allow those disabled persons who have not yet applied to take advantage of Lifeline, which includes credit against gas and electric bills," Reilly explained.

Disabled persons who are eligible for the benefit include those who received Social Security disability benefits between July and December 1980, whose annual income is less than $9,000 if single and $12,000 if married and who pay their own utility bills.

West Side '61 plans reunion

The January and June classes of 1961 of West Side High School in Newark have completed plans for a 20-year reunion, to be held Oct. 10 in the Birchwood Manor, Wippany. Classmates have been asked to contact Marilyn Berger Horn at 18 Lynn Drive, Springfield, for additional details about the affair and other classmates.

NATIONAL STATE BANK net income rose 15 percent in 1980 to $6,905,000, it was announced by W. Emlien Roosevelt, president and chief executive officer. This was the second straight year of record earnings for the bank, he said.

On a per-share basis, net income for 1980 represented earnings of $2.30, compared to $2 for 1979. Deposits increased 9.51 percent to a record $776,854,000; total resources were $877,229,000.

RALPH POLLARO of Linden has been promoted to assistant vice president, Controllers Department, by Summit and Elizabeth Trust Co. Pollaro is active in the Linden PAL.

YVETTE COHEN of Mountainside, director of the Yvette Dance Studio in Cranford, has announced that Broadway dancer, singer, choreographer Treva Hill will temporarily replace jazz dance instructor Debbi Prouty, who has been assigned as assistant choreographer of a new Broadway show.

Economy got boost

Lockheed Electronics Co., Plainfield, contributed nearly $50 million to the state's economy in 1980, according to an official of the Lockheed Corp. subsidiary. Harry N. Epple, vice president for finance, said wages, salaries and fringe benefits for the 1,560 employees in the Plainfield and Denville plants totaled $42 million.

Commitments for goods and services from New Jersey firms totaled some $6.4 million; state and local taxes amounted to another $1 million. The company's spending averaged more than $950,000 a week, Epple said.

In addition, Lockheed and its employees contributed some $45,000 in support of health, education and social services in New Jersey.
