Crowd heckles, shouts at board of ed meeting

The late-night spectacle would have done anything but help the school board.

The crowd, unaccompanied, unmasked, shouting picket signs instead of banners and driving cars instead of riding bicycles, white horses. And what a performance they gave during the Monday night meeting of the Springfield Board of Education.

For more than 2 1/2 hours the board listened to Caldwell-area residents question and denounce its redistricting decision.

Suited police officers were among the standing-room-only crowd which lined the walls of Florence M. Gaudinier School.

The horde heckled, boomed, screamed and shouted down individuals such as Bernice Edelcrank, who commended the board for its "heroic decision."

"I'm not taking sides," she said. "I think that the board should listen to everything that everyone has to say," she said. "I don't want my board to be pressured by anyone." The comment caused an eruption of charges that that is how the vote originally came about.

During other outbursts, the crowd responded with applause and chants of "Keep Caldwell open." One man clanged a cymbal when board member John Arnold-Crest blamed voters apathy for the discontent with the redistricting decision. He said all board members ran unopposed during the last election.

Board member Barbara Adler suggested that the Caldwell residents put three of their own candidates up for the April election and vote them in if they want the million put back on the floor and re-voted.

Michael Wolfe was one of many residents who asked if the Caldwell residents could be put on the April ballot in the form of a public referendum.

In regular board business, conducted within the first 30 minutes of the meeting, the board formally accepted more than $34,000 in funds.

The majority of the funds, $20,640, was federal money for reading specialists at Caldwell and Walton schools. Title I funding for the elementary and secondary "remedial" instruction of 18 youngsters totaled $12,666.

Baruchin gives some answers to Caldwell parents' questions

Where are my kids going? How are they going to get there? And what will be awaiting them?

These are the primary concerns of many township residents since the Springfield Board of Education's decision to close James Caldwell School for the 1982-83 school year.

In particular, parents are concerned with safety, programming, flooding, realignment and busing.

According to Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, "Busing will protect the interest of the students involved. It may make things safer than walking to school."

Although the board voted to make a commitment to busing during that November meeting, Baruchin said it has not yet reached the stage where bus routes and the number of buses necessary have been determined.

The school transportation department will have the task of plotting the eventual schedule. "They will drive the distance to different homes and plot the schedule that way," Baruchin said.

Even though the board did not conduct a traffic study of the Meisel and Mountain avenue areas prior to the redistricting decision, Baruchin said "busing should, in a great many cases, be the more children who are bused, the fewer individual cars congesting the area."

According to Baruchin, the board voted on Nov. 4 to house kindergarten through first-grade youngsters in the Walton-Sandmeier PFA, said class sizes would not exceed 23.8 students per room based on 1982-83 enrollment projection figures and the number of available classrooms per school.

According to that study, the greatest number of children-per-class would be in the fourth and fifth grades—23.8. Caldwell School presently has a fifth grade class with 24 students in it, Zamarra said.

Class sizes should decrease with the continuance of declining enrollment, according to Zamarra. Baruchin agreed that the 1982-84 enrollment will decline to the point where everyone will be able to be accommodated and continue "regular" program characteristics.

As for now, however, Baruchin said special programs may have to be "re-designed," as opposed to discontinued, to assure accommodation.

"Music and art teachers may come to the classrooms, as one with the kindergartens, instead of the children leaving the classroom for music or art. This would free rooms for actual class use."

Baruchin added that Walton School no longer suffers the flooding problem it once did. The community corrected that problem by expanding the culvert in the Suburban Golf Course, he said. Replacement of gym floors and mending of boiler mechanisms due to flooding has not occurred within the last 10 years.

Troy tenants move to speed up appeal

The Troy Village Tenants Association voted unanimously during a meeting last Thursday night to retain a lawyer for the sole purpose of speeding up its tax reassessment appeal process.

Said Wolfe, the attorney who is handling the tenants' tax appeal, said, "A (state) statute exists that says all of the (third quarter) taxes that are due have to be paid in order for the (appeal) case to go to the tax court."

David Margolis, the Troy landlord, has paid the third quarter taxes on only 117 of the 340 Troy Village units, according to spokesmen for the association.

Leonard Zucker, counsel for the tenants, said, "We have to take some legal action to see that the taxes are paid. The case won't get thrown out of court."

The audience of about 200 tenants, who gathered in the Florence M. Gaudinier School cafeteria, voted to retain Richard I. Simon to take legal action to see that the taxes are paid. The firm of Hockberg & Simon of West Orange was retained at an hourly cost of $125 for a minimum of approximately 10 hours to an estimated maximum of 22 hours.

A tenant asked why steps could not be taken "to deep" Margolis from taking the money he already has collected from the tenants, but has not turned over to the township?

Said Zucker, association president, said, "Under law we have to pay rent and the surcharge—that is a pass through." He added, however, that the township can get only eight percent interest on late tax payments while the landlord can use the money for other purposes and gain perhaps 18 percent by loaning the money on the open market.

Another tenant asked why people in the association "with checks" could not speak with the Township Committee to see what it could do.

Zucker said the association has met with the committee on other occasions. He said the board would consider attending a private meeting with the committee on having the tenants attend a regular Township Committee meeting.

Other tenants suggested an amendment to the township rent leveling ordinance for apartment dwellers who may encounter similar problems in the future.

Zucker said the rent leveling ordinance should be changed to ensure that the tenant does not have to pay the tax surcharge if the landlord does not pay the taxes.

Zucker said Simon will be proceeding to the State Superior Court Chancery Division for payment of the taxes in order that Wolfe may proceed with the appeal.

Wolfe said the outlook was "not very good."

The Union County Board of Taxation last month took the easy way out and never heard the case," he said. According to Wolfe, the appeal filed by property owner Jack Silefman on behalf of all Troy tenants was not heard "because of an individual who filed a similar (tax) appeal on his own and went to court without a lawyer."

The Troy tenant's case was listed and heard by the board before the Silefman case.

Wolfe said Edward Rosenblum, attorney handling the case on behalf of the township, objected because the individual was not a taxpayer, (homeowner) within the meaning of the statute, even though he may have been paying taxes under the city ordinance.

The board later would not hear the Silefman case because it had already ruled that tenants in the complex are not taxpayers as listed by the statute.

Nevertheless, Wolfe said if the tenants are able to get their case into court, he believes that they are "due for a very, very substantial assessment reduction." According to Wolfe, who recently handled a similar case for tenants in Bergen County, the Troy tenants have been "outrageously over-assessed by the tax assessor."

He said he would be employing some unusual strategy to win the case and it would not be advantageous to reveal his tactics during a public meeting.

Regional test scores 'favorable'

A more detailed study done in New York, however, concluded that while a school system may save energy and money, the overall use of energy in the community would go up while children are out of school.

A New Jersey study reached the same conclusions and said, "It is best to use conservation measures and remain open."

A study from Pennsylvania showed that it was even possible to use more fuel during a school closure, since even though there are no students in the school, the building must be heated to prevent damage such as pipes breaking from water freezing within them.

"We've tried to research as best we could," Fredericks told the board, "but there isn't a great deal of information on the subject." He added, "One author quotes another and they swap tales back and forth."

He did, however, manage to get studies from six states on the subject. A Colorado study reported a saving of 23 percent in heating oil fuel to the school district. A Connecticut school district claimed it saved $8,021 in fuel costs by closing for two weeks in February.

"In general, I think the results should be looked upon as very favorable," said Kenny.

Not so favorable was the report from Lewis Fredericks, assistant superintendent for facilities and maintenance, on closing school for one month this winter.

"In the absence of strong evidence that meaningful amounts of energy are likely to be saved, we do not look with favor on any significant change in the school calendar," Fredericks said in his report.

"We've tried to research as best we could," Fredericks told the board, "but there isn't a great deal of information on the subject." He added, "One author quotes another and they swap tales back and forth."

Flue damper buyers are urged to be cautious

Adam K. Levin, director of the N.J. Division of Consumer Affairs, has issued a statewide alert to consumers who are considering buying flue dampers to cut down heating bills.

"With today's high cost of heating homes," the director said, "people are looking for ways to cut down their fuel bills. Consumers are particularly vulnerable right now to businesses that claim their products will save energy dollars."

Levin said the state Department of Consumer Affairs is investigating companies that are advertising by direct mail and in newspapers, he said. Companies that make false claims about their products are liable for penalties under the Consumer Fraud Act, Levin added.

"Today's high cost of heating homes," the director said, "people are looking for ways to cut down their fuel bills. Consumers are particularly vulnerable right now to businesses that claim their products will save energy dollars."

Levin said the state Department of Consumer Affairs is investigating companies that are advertising by direct mail and in newspapers, he said. Companies that make false claims about their products are liable for penalties under the Consumer Fraud Act, Levin added.

Energy is working with Consumer Affairs to investigate claims made for the flue dampers. According to Assistant DOE Commissioner Charles A. Richman, "The function of a flue damper is to close off the flue pipe which exhausts waste gases from a furnace to the outdoors so warm air from the house does not escape when the furnace is not working."

Richman said research at Brookhaven National Laboratory has found that a flue damper can lower fuel oil consumption from 2 to 14 percent, with an average fuel saving of 6.3 percent, depending on a number of factors. These factors include the type and size of the furnace, the design and operation of the damper, and the age and location of the furnace. For example, a furnace located in a heated space will show more savings than one located in a cool basement, crawl space or attic.

Richman said because of the narrow range of potential savings and the relatively high expense of most flue dampers, consumers should check alternative ways of lowering their heating bills. Typically, flue dampers cost $150 to $300. Levin said there are reports of dampers this year selling for as much as $695.

Levin said that anyone who does decide to add a flue damper to a heating system should buy only an approved device and should have it installed by a professional. A damper installed on a gas furnace should have the American Gas Association (AGA) seal of approval, and one installed on an oil unit should have the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) seal.

An improperly installed damper could lead to malfunction and to dangerous gases escaping into living areas.

Levin urged consumers who have questions about making their homes more energy efficient to call the Department of Energy's Information Line at 800-422-4342. He said consumers who have had a company falsely represent the energy-saving capability of a flue damper should call the Office of Consumer Protection of the Division of Consumer Affairs at 301-648-3622.

Station PA-2 open house draws about 50 guests

SPRINGFIELD—Communities on Cable recently sponsored an open house to introduce citizens to the television station.

About 50 guests used studio cameras, learned about editing, and looked at the network, the network news center, and edited for training classes.

Kate Miller, network president; Arnold Gerst, host of 30 Legal Minutes; Judy Gollust, commentator of TV Milliburn; Kathy Clingan, commentator of This Week in Summit; Lydia Stauderman, coordinator, and Beth Pincus, program developer and producer explained to guests the operation of the TV access center.

Communities on Cable, headquartered in the Central Presbyterian Church, Maple Street, Summit, broadcast over Channel PA.2, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Residents of Springfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights, New Providence and Millburn will be welcomed to be trained in the center. Volunteers are needed to write, produce, lend technical assistance and create new shows.

Those interested in signing up have been asked to call Lina Stauderman, coordinator, at 277-6310.

Cable channel lists November shows

SPRINGFIELD—Communities on Cable, the television access center which serves Springfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights, New Providence and Millburn, has scheduled the following evening programs for the month of November.

TV Milliburn, 7:30 tomorrow; 30 Medical Minutes, 8:30 Nov. 23; This Week in Summit, 8:30 Nov. 25; TV Millburn (repeat), 7:30 and This Week in Summit (repeat), 8:30 Nov. 26; and TV Millburn (repeat), 7:30 Nov. 27.

SPRINGFIELD—The B'nai B'rith Lodge and the Men's Club of Temple Beth Shalom will co-sponsor a breakfast meeting Sunday at the temple.

The guest speaker, Dr. Gavriel Ben-Ephraim, is a lecturer in English literature at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He has written articles and reviews on a variety of literary subjects and is the author of a book on D.H. Lawrence. Ben-Ephraim also has done extensive volunteer work for Israel bonds and other Israeli-related projects.

Born in West Germany, Ben-Ephraim immigrated to the United States in 1959 and then to Israel in 1970. He was educated at Queens College in N.Y., SUNY at Buffalo, and Hebrew University, Jerusalem.

Presently on leave from Hebrew University, Ben-Ephraim is functioning as a speaker for the Israeli consulate.

His topic at the breakfast will be "The Mideast, AWACS and the PLO." Members and guests have been invited to attend.

Harry Rice and Joseph Todros are co-chairmen of this meeting for the Lodge and the Men's Club.

Vocal groups to give concert

The Vocal Music Department of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will present its fall concert in the school auditorium, Saturday at 8 p.m. Participating in the concert will be "The Choral," Concert Choir and Vocal Workshop, all under the direction of Ed Shiley.

A variety of musical selections will be offered, including folk song arrangements by Bela Bartok and Johannes Brahms, selections from Broadway shows, and songs from "Fall in Love" and "Close to You."

The Dayton musical programs are supported by the community, and a fund-raising concert is one opportunity to repay the largesse of their supporters with a fun-filled and inspiring evening. Tickets will be available at the door: Adults, $2, and students, $1.

Summit YW plans trip

The Summit YWCA Youth Department will sponsor a trip to see "Seaside Street Live" at the Folk Forum in New York, Dec. 30, from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Jim Henson's Muppets will perform in a musical variety show.

Children under 10 must be accompanied by an adult.

Further information can be obtained by calling 278-2822.

Red Cross is offering three courses in CPR

Dagmar Finkle, chairman for First Aid Services at the Westfield-Mountainside Red Cross, has announced three Red Cross courses to be offered in CPR: "Race for Life," CPR (lecture/discussion), and Review Course in Advanced First Aid and Emergency Care.

Richard Lee of the Westfield Rescue Squad is currently conducting a special Red Cross program in CPR: "Race for Life" weekdays from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. at the Westfield Rescue Squad, 335 Waterson St., Westfield. "Race for Life" is an abbreviated version of the full CPR course offered by Red Cross. It covers only two units, including one rescuer CPR for an adult and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. This program is open to all high school students, and they can call Jim Hill at 232-7690 or Rick Lee at 232-2801 to pre-register.

A full course in CPR (Lecture/discussion) will be offered by the Red Cross at 321 Elm St., Westfield, on Dec. 1, 3, 8 and 10; Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. The course will be taught by Nan-Marie Hitchford, a volunteer Red Cross CPR instructor and Rescue Squad volunteer.

A Red Cross course in Advanced First Aid and Emergency Care Review will be taught by Robert Willard at the Westfield Rescue Squad, 335 Waterson St., Westfield. The classes are scheduled for Wednesday evenings, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. beginning December 2 to 23, skipping Dec. 30 and recommending Jan. 6 to 7.

BOUQUET PREVIEW—St. James School students and chairwomen show off some of the Christmas gifts that will be for sale at the third annual "Holiday Boutique" on Dec. 5 from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Dec. 6 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the school auditorium. This year's sale includes handmade holiday decorations as well as gifts for both personal and household use. Pictured left to right are John Azzoli, Co-chairman Grace O'Brien, Tara McGowan, Co-chairwoman Terry Stapleton, Peter Stapleton, David Bernowski, Robin O'Brien and Jamie Stalker.

Station PA-2 open house draws about 50 guests

SPRINGFIELD—Communities on Cable recently sponsored an open house to introduce citizens to the television station.

About 50 guests used studio cameras, learned about editing, and looked at the network, the network news center, and edited for training classes.

Kate Miller, network president; Arnold Gerst, host of 30 Legal Minutes; Judy Gollust, commentator of TV Milliburn; Kathy Clingan, commentator of This Week in Summit; Lydia Stauderman, coordinator, and Beth Pincus, program developer and producer explained to guests the operation of the TV access center.

Communities on Cable, headquartered in the Central Presbyterian Church, Maple Street, Summit, broadcast over Channel PA.2, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Residents of Springfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights, New Providence and Millburn will be welcomed to be trained in the center. Volunteers are needed to write, produce, lend technical assistance and create new shows.

Those interested in signing up have been asked to call Lina Stauderman, coordinator, at 277-6310.

Rotary Club to show battle scene Sunday

SPRINGFIELD—The first public showing of "The Battle of Springfield," a water color painting by the artist Frances McGinley of Dover Township, will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Springfield Free Public Library.

Sponsored by Springfield Rotary, the painting is the first in a series planned to raise funds for the club's scholarship and charity funds.

Township officials and local groups have been invited to attend the unveiling at the library. A copy will be presented each to Mayor William Cieri, the Presbyterian Church and the library.

Jewish groups schedule talk about Mideast

MV violations result in fines

SPRINGFIELD—Judge Malcolm N. Bohrod fined three Newark residents more than $200 each on motor vehicle violations when they were arraigned in Municipal Court on Monday.

Bohrod fined Harry T. Williams, 40, of 64 Ninth Ave., Newark, $300 plus $15 in court costs after he pleaded guilty to being involved in an automobile accident while his license and registration were suspended.

Williams also pleaded guilty to driving without insurance. He received a $50 fine plus $15 in costs on that charge. Bohrod also suspended Williams' driving privileges for six months.

George Danelson, 27, of 11 Hellen Place, Newark, also pleaded guilty to driving while his license was suspended. Bohrod fined Danelson a total of $211.

Walter Woodridge, 38, of 399 Leslie St., Newark, pleaded guilty to driving while on the revoked list. He was fined $200 plus $15 court costs on the charge. Springfield resident Gloria V. Scowen, 59, of 4 Christy Lane pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of alcohol. She was fined $300 and her license was suspended for 60 days.

Views On Dental Health

By SEAN T. FENTON, D.M.D.

FLUORIDE TOOTHPASTE

If you watch television, you've probably seen the commercials selling fluoride toothpaste to "Mommy. Mommy, my group had fewer cavities!" The best part about these commercials is that, hopefully, they may induce children to brush their teeth. It's the brushing, flossing and rinsing after eating that is the most effective preventive of tooth decay and gum disease. Toothpaste can help, but it's only a part of effective oral hygiene.

The mere presence of fluoride in a toothpaste does not give it therapeutic qualities. There are, however, several brands of toothpaste on the market which contain fluoride in an effective combination with other ingredients. They definitely possess therapeutic value and have been recommended by the American Dental Association's Council on Dental Therapeutics.

It should be emphasized, so there is no misunderstanding, that fluoride toothpastes are not a substitute for the combination of fluoridation of community drinking water and professional fluoride treatment; which have been shown to reduce dental decay by as much as 60 percent.

Matthew Rinaldo

In a radio address to the nation in 1980, President Franklin D. Roosevelt warned that "if we do not halt this process of building commissions and regulatory bodies and agencies, it is like like a large inverted pyramid over every one of the simple constitutional provisions, we shall soon be spending billions of dollars more than we can afford."

Roosevelt didn't know the half of it. Since the New Deal, federal regulations have grown to virtually every phase of human existence in America. They range from rules dealing with lawn mowers, hair dryers, cable television and the financing of political nominating conventions. Their estimated cost to American consumers is $100 billion a year.

The regulatory pyramids have not only added to the price of goods and services, but they have created a massive public and private bureaucracy of lawyers, accountants, clerks and researchers who devote their time and resources to either jamming up economic productivity or trying to unjam it. It has resulted in impairing to consumers, especially, a healthy business competition, endless red-tape and streams of consultants hired by government and industry to cope with the regulatory process.

Excess regulations are responsible for the growth of government spending and jobs. Not only does the bureaucracy create jobs, but it also spawns more bureaucracy in and out of government. In the last decade, the number of government employees has risen by 125 percent and the total outlays in constant dollars has gone up 141 percent.

Consider the amount of money wasted on commissions, consultants, lawyers and offices that no longer serve a useful purpose. It also has built mountains of paperwork. In education, for example, more than 200 million man-hours are devoted to filling out federal forms and reports.

A deplorable portion of these inefficiencies translate into wasted tax dollars which provide no services, help nobody, accomplish no good, but contribute to inflation, a loss of national productivity, and an increase in taxes.

One of the first actions the President took after being sworn into office was to freeze new major regulations. He also repealed a number of existing regulations and Budget to approve any new regulations and created a top level task force, headed by Vice President Bush, to examine the existing regulatory structure.

In the first four months of the new Administration, the OMB received 881 proposed and final regulations. Nearly 91 percent of the regulations submitted to the President's office were approved by the President's goals with only minor changes. The remaining nine percent were returned for further consideration by the federal agencies.

What is remarkable about this review process is that the average turnaround time has been nine days. It reflects a commitment by Vice President Bush and the OMB to respond quickly to agency actions without creating a bureaucracy of bureaucracy and red tape in the review process.

In one case, the Secretary of Education withdrew the proposed bilingual education rules which would have required all students to offer bilingual instruction to each child whose primary language is other than English. This rule would have cost up to $1 billion over the next five years.

The Secretary of Transportation proposed a one-year delay in regulations mandating the installation of passive auto restraints. This is saving consumers as much as $800 per vehicle.

The result of the regulatory crackdown is that the number of new rules being issued has been reduced by two-thirds.

In order to streamline the regulatory process even further, it is necessary to amend the laws covering federal independent government agencies. Congress must cooperate with the Administration to reduce regulatory costs and control of the economy, which the Council of Economic Advisors estimates cost the American people more than $100 billion annually. It is the responsibility of Congress to reduce the cost of the control of the economy, which the Council of Economic Advisors estimates cost the American people more than $100 billion annually. It is the responsibility of Congress to reduce the cost of the control of the economy, which the Council of Economic Advisors estimates cost the American people more than $100 billion annually.

BOARD'S DECISION QUESTIONED

Sine 1971, the Board of Education has been considering the reorganization of Springfield's public schools. Since the 1978-79 school year, the Board has been holding public hearings on the subject. The board each year to keep all schools open. The feeling was that to close a school, only to have to reopen it due to increased enrollment, would be unwise and costly.

Finally, since their course of such reversal proved incorrect, the board decided to provide the aid of a professional. The board voted to obtain the services of Dr. Henry Risseio, Risseio's reputation as an educational consultant is known both nationally and internationally. He would be more than familiar with the Springfield school district as this would be the second time he performed such a service for our town. His past excellent report made him the natural choice of the board.

Risseio's 140 page, in-depth, extensive, comprehensive report was presented to the board orally in June of this year, and in its final printed form this October. His recommendations are based on extensive research of the three buildings to be served: the district James Caldwell, K-5, serving the north portion of town; Thelma Sandmeier, K-5 serving the south portion of town; and Gaudinier, 6-8, plus administrative offices.

The Springfield Board of Education in its own wisdom has opted to disregard this recommendation. Their vote supported the closing of the James Caldwell School. This plan will totally eliminate an educational facility for the north end of Springfield. In making this decision to dislocate approximately 200 children, the board has failed to give any consideration to the following:

• What is the best possible arrangement for the children of Caldwell?

• What part of the above decision will be based on such safety factors as air conditioning, flood of traffic, traffic signals, lack of control over county roads?

• How is the initial distance measured? Is the distance determined by actual streets as the crow flies—the most often used and/or most safely used routes?

• What procedure will the busing follow? Will there be designated pick-up areas, street by street by street by routes, etc.?

• How is the cost of such a nebulous plan established, in view of the fact that the cost of fuel (which we have been extorting to conserve) has risen in recent years to the point of $1.50 per gallon?

• What is to prevent any succeeding board to vote against busing, since one of the reasons for the board's decision was the high cost of busing?

• How any decision to close the Caldwell School could have been reached without any hard facts to answer these questions in the realm of reasonableness and competency.

It was only after the fact that the board decided to form a committee to study all the ramifications of busing. This illogical reverse form of decision-making only further points out that the board did not base its decision on complete, rational, financial data.

GRASS JUSTICE CHARGED

We as parents and residents of Springfield, are very upset with the recent decision to close the James Caldwell School. It is a gross injustice to the children and homeowners in the north end of town. Our 226 children will have to travel on busy, unsafe thoroughfares unnecessarily to the other end of town, and the value of our homes will go down due to this illogical decision. We also need a school at this end of town. It doesn't make sense to displace 226 children when the alternative is to close Walton School and move 32 children one short block away and put them in the Sandmeier School.

When Dr. Henry Risseio, nationally recognized expert in school district reorganization, was called in by the school board to do a study of our township schools and was paid $10,000 for his services, his unbiased recommendation was to close the Walton School on the south end of town, leaving them with the Sandmeier School and to keep Caldwell School open on the north end of town to service its pupils. Did the board go along with this professional advice for which we, the taxpayers, paid so dearly? NO! They submitted to pressure put on them by the Walton-Sandmeier parents, thereby closing the wrong school.

To address the issue of busing the children clear across town, why should we spend thousands of dollars on busing when it could much better be spent on education. How about the children who don't qualify for busing under the state-mandated law of two miles—how do they get to school safely? It is easy to say to the working parents, "drive the kids to school," but the board members who voted to close Caldwell School don't have to spend time in a traffic jam when they should be on their way to work themselves. Also, what about the parents who don't drive? Their kids were never considered at all. We didn't want busing, we just want our school.

Someone on the board must recognize the fact that they made a bad decision in voting on this proposal. Please do something to reverse this decision; by doing so, you will be representing the views of the people who voted to put you on the board and had confidence in you to do the right thing for our children.

Watch out for tax surprises with insurance on businesses

By JUDITH G. RHOADES

If we are starting a small corporation, there are only three shareholders, including my spouse.

We have been talking about insurance coverage for one of our businesses, and the other parties want to buy us out. Do you see any problems with this?—A.F., Des Moines, Iowa.

A. No. In fact, insurance which is designed for the purpose should be a necessity to the business.

A common problem can arise, however, from changes of ownership of an insurance policy which is used to fund a stock buy-out. In such a case, each stockholder may own insurance on his own life at the time the buy-out agreement is entered into.

The stockholders may agree to exchange ownership of their policies in order to fund the buy-out arrangement. If each stockholder buys the other's policy for the cash value of the policy, names himself beneficiary and then pays the premiums for the policy as they become due, a tax surprise may occur on the first death. According to the Internal Revenue Service, the exchange of policies under these circumstances is a "transfer for value" with the result being that the proceeds of the policy, which are normally free of tax, will be treated as taxable income to the beneficiary when received upon the insured's death.

This problem can be avoided by funding the buy-out agreement with life insurance. Any investment in insurance you seek to purchase that may involve more than just a change in the ownership or benefit arrangement, you should seek legal counsel concerning the arrangements.

According to Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., if requested to do so, their company lawyers will work with the policyholder's counsel in making the best possible arrangement for the policyholder.

When contemplating any change in ownership of a policy which is involved or sophisticated, most insurance companies have their own staff of lawyers who can be of great help.

Q. What exactly is a bond swap? Why is it a good idea? We are very satisfied with the bonds we own, but our broker suggested a bond swap—D.R., Spokane, Wash.

A. A bond swap is a good idea if you need to purchase a higher interest rate bond in a higher interest rate environment. This is a transfer for value which is a very simplified explanation of what your broker will sell your bonds, and any other bonds which are similar, except they mature later than the bonds you presently own, and the new bonds should provide you with increased interest income.

For example, Mr. B. owns $5,000 face value of 10 percent bonds in 1985. The bonds are sold for $4,500, a $500 loss. Mr. B. then buys $5,000 face value, $4,500 worth of bonds with an 11.5 percent coupon, due in 1995. The maturity date is pushed back 10 years, and his interest income is increased by 1.5 percent. He has a short-term loss of paper, but when the new bonds mature, he will recoup the money he lost when he sold his original bonds.

At the present time you can do this whenever you want to establish a tax loss, although if you don't earn more interest through the swap, you really shouldn't consider it.

Caring about nursing home care

By CV BRICKFIELD

To the average older American, according to a recent report from the Senate Special Committee on Aging, "nursing homes have become almost synonymous with death and prolonged suffering before death."

Yet, despite such feelings of fear and guilt that generally accompany any consideration of placing someone in a nursing home, that decision can often be the best possible solution for the patient and his or her loved ones.

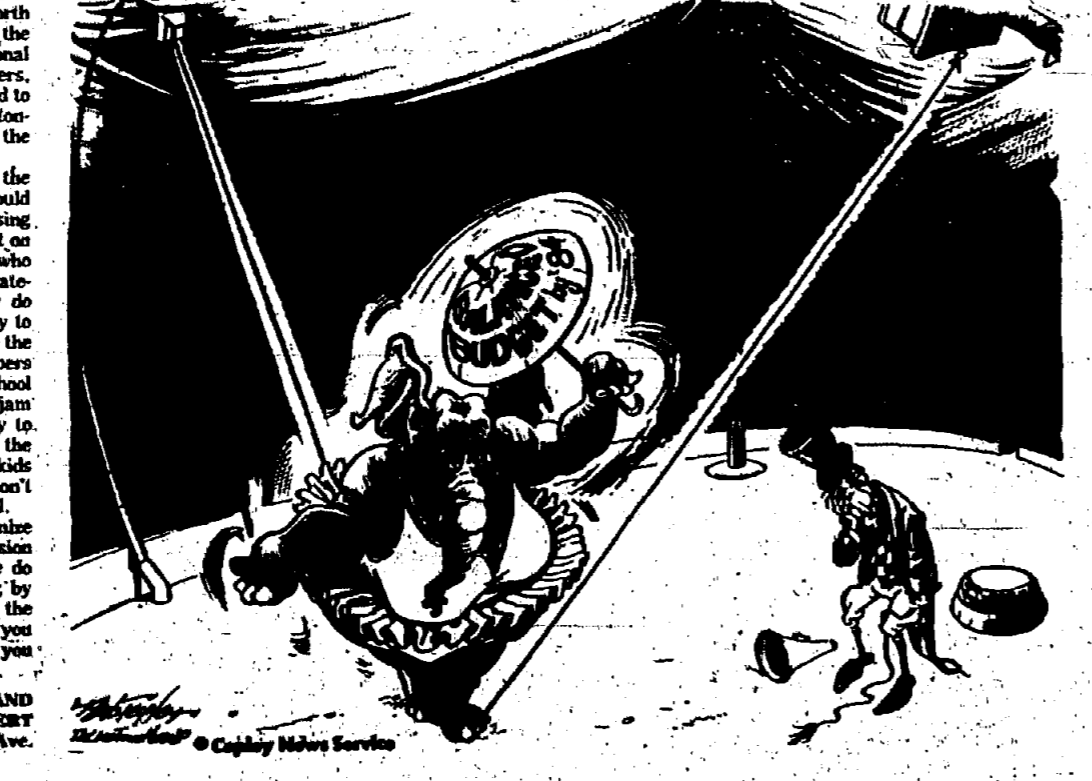

A nursing home need not be a dead end, however; with proper rehabilitative efforts, many of the residents of a proficient home can eventually go home to live independently again.

It is true that there have been and continue to be a number of substandard nursing homes with scandalous conditions, and homes like these should be either cleaned up or closed down. But it also is true that the majority of the nation's nursing homes try their best to provide competent, compassionate care for the patients under, what are at best, trying conditions and circumstances.

Experts agree that quality nursing home care can be found, if one knows where and how to look. The first major consideration is determining which type of home will best meet the needs of the patient.

There are four basic types:

- Residential homes, which provide general supervision and a protective, group living environment but no special medical or nursing services. These homes are not covered by Medicare or Medicaid.
- Intermediate care homes, which generally offer a minimum amount of medical care, primarily nursing. Too many of these homes will provide little more than custodial care, even though 24-hour care is expensed to be provided. These homes may receive Medicaid reimbursement.
- Skilled nursing homes, which provide 24-hour nursing services as well as preventive, rehabilitative, and social services.

C. Louis Bassano

The 1980 census provided positive confirmation of a trend that demographers and sociologists and politicians have long been aware of in this state. What that census revealed is that New Jersey is rapidly growing old.

Since the last census in 1970, New Jersey has become second only to Florida as the oldest state. The median age of its citizens is now 32.2 years. What this means is that in New Jersey nearly half of the population is over 32.2 years old, higher than every other state but one; 11.7 percent of New Jersey's population is over the age of 65, a figure also above the national average.

This graying trend will have a profound effect on the future shape of New Jersey and the manner in which it is governed. It, therefore, becomes increasingly important for everyone to recognize this trend and begin to understand its implications and cope with its consequences now before the state finds itself in the midst of a new crisis.

The rise in New Jersey's median age is a combination of two factors. The first and most obvious one, is that people now live longer lives. The average American's life span now reaches into the 70s.

The second factor is one that has an even greater bearing on how the state will cope with this aging trend—the migration of the state's young people to other areas of the country. Obviously, as young people leave the state the median age rises because of the older people left behind.

Reversing this seemingly endless exodus of young people is essential to the future of New Jersey. It is they who provide the foundation on which a healthy economy is built, with all of its services and benefits. Without them New Jersey will be hard pressed to provide for its growing Senior Citizens community.

The challenge of providing the best and widest possible range of services to senior citizens and at the same time encouraging the birth and growth of new businesses, is a major challenge for the state.

999 impresses England's press

By NIELY HAMMER

Drummers led the Pick of the LPS—'Concrete' by 999 (Polydor PD-6321).

999 is the number you dial in an emergency in the United Kingdom, and it's also the name of one of the premier rock 'n' roll bands from England.

This is the group's third and latest studio LP, 'The Jumping Head-banging Rhythms Lead off the Turntable on such bounces as the first single, "Obsessed," "So Greedy," "Break It Up," "That's the Way It Goes" and "Tahoo." In addition, the band tackles a startling cover of Sam and Stan's immortal "Little Red Riding Hood" and the standard, "Fortune Teller," given a wild, up-to-date twist.

999 were first conceived in late 1976, when Nick "Cash and Guy Days," who happens to be an American, decided to form a rock group. Within a couple of months, they had teamed up with bassist John Watson and drummer Pablo Labratin, and 999 were hatched.

The frumpy of the band's early recordings captured perfectly on their debut single, "I'm Alive," on the band's own Labratin label, "The Second and Third Sings," "Nasty, Nasty" and the classic "Emergency," both making it to the top of the charts.

When the group's debut album, "999," was released it was greeted with impressive sales and praise from the normally cynical English music press.

The second album, "Separate," and the single, "Homicide," 999's signature song, immediately shot into the top 10.

Textured paint covers cracks, varying shades

By GENE GARY
 Q. I have a large living room which has been covered in textured paint. Some places the paint is heavy and other places it is thin. Can I put texture paint as I do with regular wall paint, and should I do a wall or ceiling completely before I take a break?
 A. There are many ways to fix cracks in plaster so you won't show up again about two weeks after you have repaired and repainted them? — Mrs. H. Canton, Ohio.
 A. I would apply an even coat of textured paint to the entire surface, since it covers irregularities and varying shades in the walls or ceiling. So far as taking a break, that should cause no trouble. The only caution I would advise is that in painting a vertical wall surface, apply the paint evenly from floor to ceiling before taking a break. Then pick up where you left off.
 The same applies to a ceiling. Paint a strip from wall to wall before starting again. A fast and easy way to repair plaster wall and ceiling cracks is now available at paint or building supply stores. The system utilizes a fibrous compound and mineral glass fabric and bridges cracks rather than filling them. With this crack bridging system, you simply brush and still present, apply oxalic acid solution — one ounce oxalic acid to one quart of water. Caution: Oxalic acid is poisonous, so use rubber gloves and handle with care. Let the solution stand one hour, then rinse with clear water. A second treatment may be helpful if the spot refuses to yield.

 If the second application of oxalic acid fails, sand the area with No. 60 sandpaper and apply a matching finish, feathering out into surrounding floor area. Let dry, buff lightly with No. 00 steel wool. Apply second coat finish, let dry and wax.
 If spot is still visible, the only remaining remedy is to replace the affected flooring. Also note that oxalic acid is a bleaching agent. Wherever it is used on the treated floor area will probably have to be stained and refinished to match.

change the color of the upholstery may be surface, in which case new necessary.
 Or apply a poultice of chlorinated lime with a equal part of white, made into a paste with warm water.
 You do not mention what kind of fabric your chair is upholstered with. In any case, we suggest you make a limited test first.

Important News For Smokers: New Merit Research Released!

New survey results prove MERIT delivers in key areas of taste, ease of switch, and long-term satisfaction.

Rigorous new MERIT research proves it. MERIT smokers confirm taste a major factor in completing a successful switch from higher tar cigarettes.

MERIT Switch Clicks. Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers are glad they switched from higher tar cigarettes. In fact, 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

2 Of 3 Smokers Prefer MERIT. In the second part of this study, new tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared with higher tar leaders.

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

ON EXHIBIT—Steven Ferar's outdoor sculpture designed for children will be an exhibit in front of the Green Lane YM-YWHA from Sunday through Dec. 31. It is the first of four rotating sculpture exhibits which will be on view at the Y. The program is partially funded through a grant from the New Jersey Council on the Arts.

Sculpture exhibit to open at Y

Outdoor sculpture designed for children will fill the front lawn of the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA on Green Lane, Union, when the Y opens the first of four rotating exhibits beginning at noon Sunday.

The exhibit is the first event in a year-long "rotating sculpture" celebration being held by the Y.

Residents of the area as well as Y members are being invited to attend, a spokesman said.

Partially funded through a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, the rotating sculpture exhibits will enable Union County residents to see monumental works of sculpture, the spokesman reported. At the same time, the exhibits will give state artists an opportunity to display large-scale works in the type of setting for which they were intended.

The exhibit starting Sunday will present nine works by Steven Ferar, who creates sculpture on which children can play. His works are part of the play areas of Franklin Gardens and University Towers Housing and Urban Development, both in New Brunswick.

The Y through Dec. 31. An informational booklet will be available to visitors at the receptionist's desk inside the Y.

Other social, educational, recreational, athletic and cultural events also will be held to mark the Y centennial, according to Herbert Cooper, president.

The present institution developed out of literary societies and citizenship classes formed by immigrants who eventually came together to form the Young Men's Literary Association, which later became the Young Men's Hebrew Association and Ladies Auxiliary.

Early meetings were at the United Hebrew Charity Building in Elizabethport. The first permanent home was a former Turkish bath at Livingston Street and New Point Road, Elizabeth, purchased in 1816; two years later, it was replaced by more spacious quarters in a Colonial-style mansion at East Jersey and Catherine Streets, Elizabeth.

Roast pork rich in vitamin B1, iron, protein

By WILLAWISE B. MCLENDON, Food and Nutrition Columnist

Roast pork is flavorful, juicy and nutritious. Tantalizing baked ham, plus other cuts, exemplifies some of the good eating provided by pork. Both fresh and cured pork appear on the table year-round. Pork is high in nutritive value.

Pork is especially rich in thiamin (vitamin B1). It also supplies other B vitamins and iron. It's a good source of protein, too. Variety meats, such as liver and kidneys, are rich in these nutrients. In addition, liver is a very good source of vitamin A.

Even calorie watchers may include pork in their meals. A three-ounce serving of roast Boston butt, with the fat trimmed off, contains approximately 265 calories; a three-ounce serving of corned ham, fat trimmed off, contains about 160 calories.

Learning to identify pork cuts by their appearance and the way the same area indicates the section of the carcass from which the meat was cut is the best method of cooking. The flesh of pork should be firm and fine-textured. The color of the lean in fresh pork may range from grayish-pink to red. Lean cured pork has a typical deep-pink color. For menu variety, try the Creole idea next time you cook pork chops.

CREOLE PORK CHOPS

- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 2 lbs. butter or margarine
- 2 1/2 lbs. can tomatoes
- 2 lbs. sugar
- 4 tsp. salt
- dash of Cayenne pepper
- 1 lb. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 lb. Wadell's ruberie sauce
- 6 loin pork chops

Cook onion and green pepper in fat until soft, add remaining ingredients, except pork chops. Simmer until meat is browned. Brown chops lightly on both sides in heavy frypan; drain off fat. Pour tomato mixture over chops. Simmer for 45 minutes to one hour until chops are tender; remove fat from surface of sauce, if needed. Serve six at one chop per serving (about 275 calories per serving).

Six congregations plan annual holiday service

Members and clergy of six Springfield congregations will gather on the eve of Thanksgiving for the annual Community Thanksgiving service in an interfaith celebration Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Temple Beth Ahm, Baltusrol Way and Temple Drive, Springfield.

The service will last one hour and is open to everyone. Families are invited to bring their children.

The traditional service was started more than 20 years ago by the Rev. Bruce Evans and Rabbi Reuben Levine.

Participants will be the Presbyterians Church with Robert Cunningham, interim pastor; Emanuel Methodist Church, George Schlesinger, pastor; Temple She'aray Synagogue, Howard Shapiro, rabbi; St. James Roman Catholic Church, Magr. F. X. Coyle, the Rev. Paul Koch, the Rev. John Goldring and the Rev. Raymond Waldron, pastors; Temple Beth Ahm, Dr. Reuben R. Levine, rabbi, and Holy Cross Lutheran Church, the Rev. Joel Voss, pastor.

Pastor Schlesinger will deliver the sermon. Prayers will be led by all of the clergymen.

The Temple Beth Ahm choir, under the leadership of Cantor Richard Nadel, and the voices from the other congregations, will provide the musical aspects of worship.

Brunch slated by B'nai B'rith

In celebration of the 88th anniversary of the B'nai B'rith Women's Children's Home in Israel, the B'nai B'rith Women-Northern New Jersey Council will sponsor a brunch Sunday, Dec. 13, at 11:30 a.m. at the Holiday Inn, Rt. 10, Livingston.

Among the guests will be Beverly Davis, vice president of B'nai B'rith International. Dolly Gelvin, chairman and past president of the Northern New Jersey Council, will be assisted by Edith Ganz, Shirley Eytelson, Phyllis Goldberg and Jeanette Shafran.

The Children's Home is a residential treatment center for emotionally-disturbed boys.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 987-0787.

Annual supper slated Monday

The Ruth Estra Goldberg Memorial for Cancer Research (REGM) will hold a membership dinner Monday at 7:45 p.m. in Temple She'aray Synagogue, Springfield.

Suzie Kravetz of Springfield, membership vice president, will serve as chairman. Sandra Raibman, president, will conduct a brief business meeting.

A program on extra sensory perception is planned.

It was announced that more than 500 volunteers from Essex and Union counties have raised more than $75,000 for cancer research. Additional information about REGM can be obtained by writing to REGM, P.O. Box 194, Springfield, N.J. 07081.

Newcomers Club holds its elections

The Newcomers Club of Mountaintop recently elected its new board members for the fall-winter term. The board includes Sardi Aruti, president; Sigrid Patch, vice president; Arlene Kervel, recording secretary, and Ruth L. Prosser, treasurer.

It was announced that new residents of Mountaintop may call Angela Cannady, membership chairman, at 235-2450 for additional information.

Your Library: Memories of a public man

Following are the reviews of the recently popular books for fall reading at the Springfield Library.

By Hase P. Simon

THE WORKING-CLASS SENATOR
"Javits," by Jacob K. Javits.
From lawyer to New York State attorney general to Representative to the U.S. Congress to the U.S. Senator (four terms), Jacob K. Javits had a prestigious career, which ended when he was defeated for the Senate in 1980. He chooses to be remembered as a public man, which indeed he was, completely devoted to his work, even to the detriment of his personal life.

Javits tells of his early days on New York's Lower East Side as the son of Jewish immigrants, the influence of his elder brother, Ben, who directed him into the legal profession, who became partners, his contributions during World War II and his determination to return to the world of politics. His reminiscences reveal his pride in serving his constituents and the principles to which he was so devoted. As a liberal Republican, he worked assiduously for civil liberties, good labor-management relations, rent control, government support for the Arts and the Marshall Plan. He was a staunch supporter of Israel.

Among his outstanding portraits, he depicts such diverse personalities as Ben Gurion, Carter, Dewey, Eisenhower, Goldwater, Johnson, Kennedy, LaGuardia, Nixon, Roosevelt (F.D.), Rockefeller, Sadat, Truman and Wagner.

REVERSING THE AGING PROCESS
"The Life Extension Revolution," by Saul Kewit.
This source book—written by an activist in the life-extension movement—focuses primarily at delaying, retarding or reversing the aging process. It is laced with techniques as dietary intervention, immunological engineering, body temperature manipulation and drug therapy (already effective with some animals) can be applied to humans eventually. Since these are problematical, the author aims to assist the reader in living a better, healthier life through diet, exercise, lifestyle and experimental therapies.

Among the topics covered are: searching for the death hormone, reversing atherosclerosis, the safest day of the week, the vitamin that may retard aging, increased longevity of endurance skiers.

PRIME TIME TV
"Stay tuned" by Richard Levinson and William Link.
This is a fascinating, revelatory exposition of behind-the-scenes television, written by two of the best writers/producers of T.V. films. Among their best known creations were "My Sweet Charlie" (one of the first racially con-

IRS owes residents tax refund checks

Homeowner Loans Lower than Prime

Mr. Rizzuto, a spokesman for the Money Store, said that a homeowner's loan can be better credit risk than many commercial loans, because the home itself is collateral.

"We at the Money Store believe that a homeowner's loan is a better credit risk than many commercial loans, because the home itself is collateral," said Phil Rizzuto, Money Store spokesman.

The major portion of our operation is still involved with loans to homeowners for the purpose of debt consolidation, business investments, payment of taxes, medical expenses, college tuition, purchase of a car, furniture, or as a matter of fact, the prime rate offered by banks to their most credit-worthy corporate borrowers," said Rizzuto.

"The Money Store's rate is lower than prime rate," he said.

Free Loan Info
Mr. Rizzuto invites all homeowners who intend to borrow money for any reason to call the Money Store at any of the offices listed below.

Better Chance for Approval
"Most other lenders are restricted as to total amounts they may lend. In addition, these other lenders tend to be ultra-conservative in their criteria for loan approval. This is readily apparent in the large number of applications received by The Money Store and rejected by banks and other type lenders. We want to say yes and we want to say it, fast," he continued.

Rutgers preserves state's past

As curator of Rutgers University's Special Collections Department in Newark, Donald A. Sinclair is more than a mere caretaker of fragile relics from the past.

He and his team of four staff members keep the dust from settling on the state university's collection of historical manuscripts and New Jerseyana as they assist the varied professional and amateur researchers who bring scholarly problems to Sinclair's office door.

"Collecting and preserving antiquarian materials is pointless unless research and scholarship are effective," he explained.

The manuscript collection alone has blossomed from roughly 75,000 when he began to more than 3 million pieces today. However, Sinclair cautions against quantifying the material.

"No one can really count manuscripts," he says. "We deal with manuscripts in organic blocks, such as the papers of William Paterson, one of the early governors of New Jersey. Of course, the Paterson papers might contain 10,000 manuscripts."

Though reluctant to make value judgments on items in the collections, Sinclair believes that the "flashiest thing we have is the 'Original Constitution.'"

A copy of the first book ever printed in New Jersey is also in the collection. The book, published in 1723 at Perth Amboy, bears a rather weighty title, four lines long, but is a slender, 35-page pamphlet containing all of the laws, two pertaining to financial dealings and the third is an amendment to an act regulating ferries.

During the past 3½ decades, Sinclair has developed the special collections department into the treasure trove of the state university of New Jersey's literary system.

Housed primarily in the Alexander Library and the New Jersey Room, the department is open to the public as well as scholars.

The vast mine of literary and historical genes includes one of the largest bodies of New Jerseyana in existence. Formerly known as the Newark Collection, it now bears Sinclair's name, an honor bestowed by noted record of 1,359 books, pamphlets, periodicals and broadsides relating to every aspect of the state's Civil War history.

Completed in 1968, the work took Sinclair seven years to research, write, edit, design and proofread. The research required a good deal of travel to numerous libraries throughout the Middle Atlantic region.

A Kansas native, Sinclair cultivated a penchant for history as a boy. He vividly recalls questioning his grandparents about his genealogy as well as making daily detours to the Rutgers Library on route home from New Brunswick High School.

By 1935, as a Rutgers freshman, Sinclair was working in the library as a volunteer assistant. Following his graduation in 1938, he studied at Columbia, Cornell and American universities.

During World War II, he served in the Army for three years, chiefly in military intelligence. During that period, the University Library, under Donald Cameron, was busy organizing the Special Collections.

On Sinclair's return to Rutgers in 1946, he was appointed curator of New Jerseyana; the following year he assumed the present position of director of the Special Collections Department.

When asked to assess his 35-year career, Sinclair is characteristically modest.

"I'm fortunate to have lived long enough to have accomplished what I have," he said. "It's very serious and very pleasant work."

Christmas Seal sale now in its 74th year

The 74th annual Christmas Seal Campaign—the traditional herald of the holiday season—is under way in Central New Jersey. Lung Association has launched its appeal for funds to combat and control childhood and adult lung disease.

Expansive E. Rodgers of Mountainside, association president and employee relations coordinator of Exxon Company, U.S.A., Linden, said more than half a million sheets of seals are being delivered by postmen to homes and businesses in the region served by the local group.

The 1981 Seals feature a warm and humorous painting by the late Norman Rockwell, which is designed for the cover of the Dec. 16, 1983, Saturday

"Christmas Seals have been an American tradition for 74 years," Rodgers noted. "They were the catalyst in the nation's conquest of tuberculosis and in recent years the source of funds to develop programs and services for children and adults with asthma, emphysema and chronic bronchitis."

Rodgers said that for the second consecutive year the nationwide campaign is being directed by Bob Hope, Jr. Jill Durbin of Linden is the 1981 Youth Ambassador for the Central New Jersey Lung Association.

Who has asthma, participated with her child during emergency situations at home.

Rodgers also noted that the association's "Freedom From Smoking Program" is a step-by-step way to help smokers quit on their own within a 28-day period, during the "holiday" season.

Rodgers stated, "It is traditional for us to think of others and to exchange gifts in the spirit of the occasion. Christmas is the best time to give the gift that helps individuals with lung disease to breathe easier."

"Christmas Seals," Rodgers concluded, "represent one of the greatest gifts man can give to help combat and control lung disease, because they represent the gift of good health."

If you do not receive your package of Christmas Seals, contact the Central New Jersey Lung Association, 1457 Raritan Rd., Clark 07066.

Everybody's just crazy about them 6-2 Dawgs

By RON BRANDENBERGER

Well, how 'bout them Dawgs? From the biggest job in Union County and parts north, south, east and west to all too serious topic of discussion in the dimly-lit backrooms where their opponents' football decisions are made. From the proverbial 86-pound weakling to the reservation at muscle beach. And from a 16-game winless streak to a six-game winning streak and a place in the state football playoffs. It's one year. The original Cinderella story should be a good one.

"Keep an eye out for the Bulldogs," warns fourth-year coach Angelo Senese. "This may be a team of destiny."

Who are the Mets in '81?

"We're feeling pretty good," Senese smiled after the Bulldogs polished off Spotswood, 13-7, last Saturday at Metel Field to improve to 6-2, earn their sixth straight victory and, most importantly, grab the fourth playoff spot in North Jersey, Section II, Group II action. "The kids are really excited. This is a tremendous, tremendous feeling. Which means they're not just Dawgs. I can't wait until Saturday to prove they belong with the state's best Group II teams. Their opponent will be the Warren Hills Blue Streaks, a big, tough football team that rolled into the state playoffs with a 7-1 record. But before thinking Warren Hills, Senese and his Dawgs would like to see the victory over Spotswood a bit. After all, it was a long, long time coming. And it proved that The Senese Four-Year Football Plan has worked just as miraculously, thank-you.

"Let's face it," Senese began. "Other than the people around here, who also believe that we'd be where we are today? You can't show me anyone connected with the game that would've bet their house that we'd be in the state playoffs."

Could Senese have taken that wild guess?

At the first staff meeting of the season," he responded, "I told my coaches that we would either be conference champions or finish second or win the state playoffs with a big, strong team we had coming back. They looked at me as if I were crazy. They wondered if I knew how hard it is to reach that stage. Or that maybe we were a year away."

Sports this week

As it turned out, Senese's prediction was perfect. The Bulldogs still have a shot at half the Mountain Valley Conference title if unbeaten Brearley loses to winless Gov. Livingston on Thanksgiving Day. And if not, the Bulldogs finish second.

As for the playoffs, the Dawgs are right there, along with Clifford Scott, Hackettstown and Warren Hills.

"We—the coaches, the kids and me—believe that all the things that we did in the last three years to build a solid football program were necessary to get us where we are today," Senese said. "We told kids to play two sports, to get into weight training and to make sacrifices for football. You build a football program with good kids, and we've got great kids."

And they're outstanding football players. Just ask Metuchen, Warren Regional, Ridge, North Plainfield, Gov. Livingston and Spotswood. They all found out the hard way.

"The Dawgs would like to add Warren Hills to the list of believers. "Anything can happen Saturday," Senese stressed. "You can lose the coin on this one. If we play our brand of football and if our defense continues to play

Going to the game?

If you're planning to pack a picnic basket, grab a blanket and head over to the Bulldogs' state playoff game at 1 p.m. at Warren Hills, here are the directions to the field.

Take Route 22 West to Route 78 West. Follow 78 West to Route 31 North and get on Route 31 North. At the intersection of Routes 31 and 78, make a left. Follow that road down to the center of town. When you get to Belevvedere Ave., make a right. Go four or five blocks to Carlton Ave. and make a left. Go another two blocks and Warren Hills Jr. High, the site of the field, is right there.

"Ticket prices for the ballgame are $3.50 for adults, $2 for students in grades 7-12 and $1 for elementary school students. The Bulldogs were in the state football playoffs.

"Our chances of becoming state champions are very good taken from the standpoint of the team we are playing and we're coming off a tremendous pressure victory," he said. "We've been there. Every win has been a must win for us."

And the fun—make that the real fun—is just beginning.

Now how do you like them Dawgs?

McNeece to bring bit of Dayton to new position at Roselle Park

By WAYNE TILLMAN

When Bill McNeece stepped onto the basketball court at Roselle Park High on Sunday to officially open practice, he felt a sense of excitement.

McNeece, the former Dayton assistant and veteran Bulldog coach Ray Yanchi, couldn't wait for Dayton, Ohio, since it had been selected to head the Panthers' cage fortunes. And this position was his first head coaching assignment.

"I spent nine years working with Ray, and he taught me a lot," said McNeece, a Social Studies teacher at Gaudin School. "He is a tremendous coach, knows strategy well and works the fundamentals. What he practiced at Springfield will use at Roselle Park."

Since the Panthers will not be a very big team, McNeece will likely rely on a controlled running game to win games. "We'll run when we go to the basket, but we will run and play and pattern offense," he says. "Our objective every time we get the ball is to get a high percentage shot."

Will he welcome most about the upcoming campaign is the chance to show what he can do as the head of a varsity program.

"I'm glad they (Roselle Park) are giving me the chance," he said. "And I intend on making the most of it. There's a big difference being a head coach than an assistant. You're the one who makes the decisions and determines what the philosophies will be. In the past, others have made those decisions and had to live and die with them."

McNeece's basketball background is not limited to the post he held at Springfield. He played high school ball at

Minutemen roll, Jets fall in youth football action

The Springfield Minutemen and the Mountaineers Jets took different routes last weekend.

Eric Storch, making his debut at quarterback, led the Springfield Minutemen "B" team to a 51-0 victory over South Orange. Storch rushed for 50 yards and scored two touchdowns in an excellent relief job for injured Anthony Graziano.

The offense rolled up 310 yards, led by 110 yards on the ground from Gregg Walsh. Fullback Jon Coria added 96, with Walsh adding two TDs and Coria one. Chuck Sala added the other score.

Helping with the victory were Darren Marcantonio, John Lynch, Glenn Baituch, Mike Gallaro, Jimmy Roberts, Ken Gargallo, Tony DiNorscio and Kenny James.

The Minutemen, now 4-1, finish the season Sunday against Mountaineers at Metel Field at 1:45 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Mountaineers Jets middleweights lost their first game of the year, 8-0, to Summit in a clash of unbeaten sets to decide first place.

Both teams' defenses dominated the game, but Summit broke through with four minutes left on an 11-yard touchdown pass. Outstanding for the Jets on defense were Jeff Carter, Enzo Pallitta, Mike Barisonek, Duane Connell, Kevin Rogers, Mike Wood, Joe Castello, Louis Calais, Steve Souders, Tom Jackson, Todd Lischin and David Martignetti.

SPOTSWOOD SANDWICH—Dayton's Chris Martignetti (90) and Ben Mirto (54) team up to put the squeeze on a Spotswood runner in the Bulldogs' oh so important 13-7 victory last Saturday at Metel Field. The win, the Dawgs' sixth straight, moved Coach Angelo Senese's team into the state playoffs and a big battle with Warren Hills in North Jersey, Section II, Group II action. (Ed Kisch Photo)

Hard work pays big dividends for Dayton cross country teams

By ROBERT A. BRUCKNER

QUESTION: How do you get a legal head race in a cross country running race?

ANSWER: Hard practice, according to Dayton captain Scott Connolly.

Dayton girls and boys' cross country teams have been doing well in the cross country season's hard practice really paid off as the boys finished with a 12-3 mark and the girls closed at 8-1. And that included some bonuses in the cross country season's aftermath.

As for the boys, the Bulldogs' might was shown several times this season. On a highlight was a ninth place showing in a meet at Highland Park earlier this month. Dan Connolly placed ninth while brother Scott, running with an injured ankle, finished 12th. Also showing well were Mitch Cutler, Matt Eick and Jim and Joe Melkowitz.

Connolly took eighth in the state sectional meet, while the team was sixth. But it was a small portion of the long and tough schedule the team endured this fall.

Every meet played an important role in developing the Bulldogs' strong points as well as learning about their weaknesses.

For example, when Dayton met Kenilworth and won, they learned a valuable lesson in pacing themselves. The same thing occurred in a close two-point win over Mendham. But in the end, hard practice was the only solution to insure success.

"Every meet was special in its own way," remarked Connolly. "We enjoyed competing with every team."

And with him, Dayton also sees a promising winter track team as well as a fine cross country unit next year.

But what also made this year special is that Coach Martin Taglienti won his 400th meet on Sept. 27 in the victory over Spotswood. Dayton also had its best meet in a 23-31 win over a strong Ridge team.

"I am very proud of that team win. It was quite an accomplishment," he said. "But I am also pleased with the outcome of the season. The boys worked very hard and team spirit was high throughout the entire season. I commend the team on their outstanding effort."

"I am very pleased with the team's performance considering that Scott was the only returning letterman," he continued. "We had five new athletes who did not compete in cross country.

Gymnasts finish second to qualify for state meet

Winning the Suburban Conference and Union County championships a year ago were nice. Finishing second in the county this past season was nearly as nice. But the nicest of all, as far as the state championships are concerned, was that Dayton's girls had qualified for the state championships by finishing first or second in their section. What's more, Dayton is one of just 12 teams in state competition.

"Since the eighth first or second place finish in the state championships, then we're at least in the top eight in the state," Cusnir beamed. "I'm very pleased and proud about that."

The girls will get an opportunity to prove just how good they are when they head to Middletown South High School on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Cusnir doesn't know what to expect in that meet, but he does know his girls performed superbly in the sectionals.

"We scored 96.3 points in some tough championship meets at Butler High," he said. "I've got to be pleased with the kids."

Randolph took the team title with 98.2 points, followed by Dayton, Montclair (85.7), Scotch Plains (84.85), Columbia (83.7) and Montville (83.6).

In terms of individual performances, Union County champion Paige Carter continued her success with sixth place finishes in all-around competition (33.35) and the balance beam (7.8), while sophomore Gina Pashalan and Karen Rose each finished above 31 points in all-around competition.

Increase under way in VA compensation

Approximately 2.3 million veterans, 240,000 surviving spouses and 82,000 children of deceased veterans will receive larger Veterans Administration compensations beginning this month, as a result of a law signed by President Reagan Oct. 17.

The new law provides for an average 11.2 percent increase in VA compensation rates for service-disabled veterans, and dependency and indemnity compensation rates for surviving spouses and children of veterans.

VA officials said the new amounts were not reflected in the regular November checks but were provided by means of supplemental checks issued shortly after the first of the month. The full amount of the increase will be included in the single monthly check beginning in December.

The rate boost means an increase from $54 to $58 per month for a veteran with a disability rated at 10 percent. A veteran with a 20 percent disability will receive $328 monthly, up from $291, and one with a 100 percent disability will receive $1,130 a month, up from the current $1,016.

The legislation also increases annual allowances made to veterans whose ar-

Winter driving hints save

With the price of winter weather gasoline today, motorists should avoid extended warm-ups when starting a cold engine. Depress the accelerator gently and drive slowly for a mile or so. Your engine will warm up faster and you'll save fuel. If your car is equipped with a manual choke, push it all the way in as soon as the car is safely drivable. Often automatic chokes stay on longer than necessary. Tap the accelerator pedal to release it and to save more gas. Avoid unnecessary idling which can consume gas at the rate of a half-gallon per hour. Idling more than one minute will waste more gas than it takes to restart the engine.

Reading, writing, and freedom.

There are three keys to your children's education.

First, that we keep our schools free—so that your children can get a good education without paying extra for it. We must keep them academically free as well—so they can continue to offer stimulating courses your children deserve.

Second, that we keep our schools strong—so they continue to be diverse, exciting places to learn... free from the suffocation of needless restrictions.

Third, that we keep them public, under full control of all citizens, bubbling with the mixture of many people—all religions, races, and nationalities in one system.

As long as all of us protect and build upon these basic American ideals, our schools, our children, and our nation will continue to flourish.

THE Livingston Little Mall
HOLIDAY GIFT IDEAS FOR OUR SHOPPERS

THE LITTLE MALL

'Twas the month before Christmas
And all through the mall,
Little children were shopping
And having a ball!
There were hundreds of gifts,
All chosen to suit,
Both a kid's list of presents
And a wallet, to boot!
But just as important,
As every child knows,
They came nicely wrapped
In bright paper and bows.
But the real fun of shopping
In the Little Mall store,
Comes from knowing each purchase
Buys oh so much more.

For the money that's raised
Goes to Saint Barnabas, where
Sick boys and girls
Will get special care.
For the holiday spirit
Means sharing with others...
With mommies and daddies,
With sisters and brothers...
And with some little children,
Maybe just like yourself,
Whose lives you may touch
With the gift of good health.

Why Frye?

FRYE Frye boots have been benchcrafted since 1863, which makes them America's oldest boots. Yet Frye's Classic, Western, and Casual styles look anything but old. In fact, boots like this are the very latest look in fashion. Probably because Frye boots wear their heritage so well.
